HISTORY

Sam! Miller

REDEMPTION,

O F

ON A PLAN ENTIRELY ORIGINAL:

EXHIBITING THE

GRADUAL DISCOVERY AND ACCOMPLISHMENT OF THE

DIVINE PURPOSES

IN THE

SALVATION OF MAN;

INCLUDING A COMPREHENSIVE VIEW OF

CHURCH HISTORY,

AND THE FULFILMENT OF

SCRIPTURE PROPHECIES.

BY THE LATE REVEREND

JONATHAN EDWARDS,

PRESIDENT OF THE COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY.

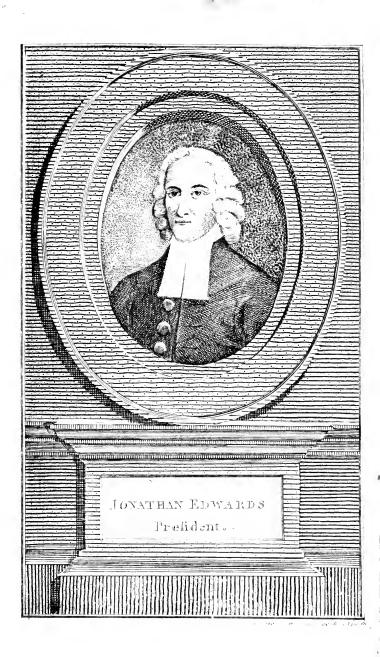

TO WHICH ARE HOW ADDED

N O T E S,

HISTORICAL, CRITICAL, AND THEOLOGICAL, WITH THE LIFE AND EXPERIENCE OF THE AUTHOR.

Whofo is wife, and will confider thefe things, even they fhall underfland the loving kindnefs of the LORD. Pfa. cvii.

> N E W- - Y O R K: Printed by T. and J. Swords, for the Editor, M,DCC,XCIII.

ADVERTISEMENT

To the first American Edition of EDWARDS's

HISTORY of REDEMPTION, with Notes.

THE following edition of this invaluable work is humbly dedicated to the patronage of the Minifters and Churches of every Christian denomination throughout these United States, and throughout the world:—

And the Editor cannot think of any thing better calculated to give energy to the reputation which this work has already acquired; or to quicken the attention of the Christian world to the careful perufal and study of it; than to fay—In this volume the reader will find a full and well authenticated Journal of the Ark of God; of that Ark in which we now fail, and on which we depend for a fafe and speedy passage to glory.

The Ark, by Noah, is confidered as a ftriking emblem—a lively figure of our Lord Jefus Chrift, whilf he bears, in fafety, from generation to generation, through the tempefts of time, his myftical body, the CHURCH.

Perufing this Hiftory of Redemption—this Journal of the Ark of God, who can fail to admire the wifdom of the GREAT MASTER-BUILDER in the A 2 original iv A D V E R T I S E M E N T.

original defign—the fteadinefs of his hand—the ftability of the purpofes of Heaven in the regular courfe of this MIGHTY FABRIC !—Who, but muft be aftonifhed at the power of that arm, which, notwithftanding the tempeftuous weather with which the Ark has been affailed—the rocks and fhoals to which fhe has been often expofed—the ignorance, contradiction and mutiny of thofe to whom, under God, its navigation has been committed;—and laft of all, notwithftanding the unceafing machinations of the Prince of the Power of the Air, who, I fay, but muft be aftonifhed, and admire that the Ark ftill fails; that ftill fhe makes good her courfe;—ftill, fhe receives paffengers for the HAVEN of Celeftial Glory!

Though, to the eye of unbelief, the Ark may feem, now, to be involved in tempeftuous weather, and foon to be foundered through the probable failure of borrowed itrength;* yet, to the joy of the paffengers there are thofe, who, looking through the mifts of human or infernal jars, do hail the approach of MILLENNIAL DAY!

On the Ocean of the Millennium—the foon approaching feventh-thoufand years, it is predicted, that * It is a remark, not unworthy of obfervation, that the Chriftian religion has never had opportunity to fhew what its effects would be, unfupported, or unoppofed by human power—that now, beginning with the Civil and Religious liberty of thefe United Stues, trial is to be had; whether, depending on its own bafis, it will fland or fall—whether it be of God, or whether it will come to nought.

The i.lea, no doubt, may be of ufe to those who are filed coorkers together with God. that the Ark fhall fafely and uninterruptedly fail; and, in her courfe around the globe, receive a thoufand-fold more paffengers, for the port of her deftiny, than have ever, before this period, lived upon the earth:—that, after thefe profperous gales, tempefts fhall arife, as the laft efforts of expiring Hell: but through the fkilful management of him who fits at helm, no danger fhall be fuftained; but fafety to the Ark, and victory to the Zion of God, fhall welcome the invaluable treafure into the HAVEN of Eternal Reft !—

To fupport the faith of the called of God, and to quicken the exertions of thofe, through whofe management, under God, the Ark now fails, is the defign of the publication of this first American edition of Edwards's Hiftory of Redemption, with Notes.

That the defign may meet the good wifhes of all friends to Zion, and, efpecially, that it may receive the patronage of Heaven, is the ardent prayer of one, whofe profeffed ambition it is, to approve himfelf as an induftrious hewer of wood, and drawer of water, for the Church of God.

DAVID AUSTIN.

Elizabeth-Town, Dec. 1, 1793.

PREFACE

P R E F A C E

To the FIRST EDITION.

IT has long been defired by the friends of Mr. Edwards, that a number of his manufcripts fhould be published; but the difadvantages under which all pofthumous publications muft neceffarily appear, and the difficulty of getting any confiderable work printed in this infant country hitherto, have proved fufficient obstacles to the execution of fuch a proposal. The first of these obstacles made me doubt, for a confiderable time after these manufcripts came into my hands, whether I could, confiftently with that regard which I owe to the honour of fo worthy a parent, fuffer any of them to appear in the world. However, being diffident of my own fentiments, and doubtful whether I were not over-jealous in this matter, I determined to fubmit to the opinion of gentlemen who are friends both to the character of Mr. Edwards and to the caufe of truth. The confequence was, that they gave their advice for publishing them.

The other obftacle was removed by a gentleman in the church of Scotland, who was formerly a correipondent of Mr. Edwards.* He engaged a bookfeller to undertake the work, and alfo fignified his defire that thefe following difcourfes in particular might be made public.

* Dr. ERSKINE, of Edinburgh.

Mr.

Mr. Edwards had planned a body of divinity, in a new method, and in the form of a hiftory; in which he was first to shew, how the most remarkable events in all ages, from the fall to the prefent times, recorded in facred and profane history, were adapted to promote the work of redemption; and then to trace, by the light of fcripture-prophecy, how the fame work should be yet farther carried on even to the end of the world. His heart was fo much fet on executing this plan, that he was confiderably averse to accept the prefidentship of Prince-town college, left the duties of that office should put it out of his power.

The outlines of that work are now offered to the public, as contained in a feries of fermons preached at Northampton in 1739,* without any view to publication. On that account, the reader cannot reafonably expect all that from them, which he might juftly have expected, had they been written with fuch a view, and prepared by the Author's own hand for the prefs.

As to elegance of composition, which is now effected to effectial to all publications, it is well known that the Author did not make that his chief fludy. However, his other writings, though deftitute of the ornaments of fine language, have, it feems, that folid merit which has procured, both to themfelves and to him, a confiderable reputation in the world, and with many an high effeem. It is hoped that that the reader will find in thefe difcourfes many traces of plain good fenfe, found reafoning, and thorough knowledge of the facred oracles, and real unfeigned piety: and that as the plan is new, and unmy of the fentiments uncommon, they may afford entertainment and improvement to the ingenious, the inquifitive, and the pious reader; may confirm their feith in God's government of the world, in our holy Christian religion in general, and in many of its peculiar doctrines; may affift in fludying with greater pleafure and advantage the hiftorical and prophetical books of fcripture; and excite to a converfation becoming the gofpel.

* This is neceffary to be remembered by the reader, in order to underftand fome chronological obfervations in the following work.

That this volume may produce these happy effects in all who shall peruse it, is the hearty defire and prayer of

The reader's most humble fervant,

JONATHAN EDWARDS.

New Haven, Feb. 25, 1773.

ADVER-

ADVERTISEMENT

TO THIS EDITION.

HE preceding Preface, by Dr. JONATHAN ED-WARDS of New Haven, (fon of PRESIDENT EDWARDS, and Member of the Connecticut Society of Arts and Sciences) has fufficiently apprized the reader of the nature of the following Work; we have only to add, that the original papers, being remitted to Dr. ER-SKINE, were by him reduced from the form of Sermons to that of a Treatife, and published at Edinburgb.

Two material defects were, however, complained of in that edition : Firft, that only mere hints were fometimes dropt of an important idea, which the Author would doubtlefs have enlarged on, had he prepared the work for publication : and fecondly, that many of the hiftorical and critical obfervations were not fupported with proper authorities, which in pulpit difcourfes would have been impertinent, but became highly neceffary in a publication.

For thefe defects there appeared no remedy, but fupplying, in the form of notes, what, probably the Author would for the most part have inferted in the body of the work.

The celebrity of the Author, from whom many of the notes are felected, will ftamp them with fufficient credit : for the others, the publisher has to confefs his obligations to Gentlemen, whose names he would be proud to mention if permitted.

The Life and Experience of the Author, the Syllabus, General Index, Table of Texts explained, and other improvements of this Edition, will, it is hoped, alfo contribute to render it more generally acceptable and ufeful.

LONDON, DFC. 27, 1788.

AUTHORS

AUTHORS cited in the following Work.

Addifon. Ainfworth. Allen, Dr. Allix, Dr. Bacon, Lord. Barnabas, St. Baxter, R. Bede. Bennett, B. Bingham. Blackwell. Blair, Dr. Burnett, Dr. Calvin. Cave, Dr. Celfus. Claude. Clemens Roman. Cofins, Bp. Cruden. De Laune. De Lolme. Diodorus. Dryden. Dupin. Edwards, Pref. Eliezer. Eufebius. Ferguion. Findlay. Flavel. Fox. Faulke, Dr. Fuller, Dr. Geddes, Dr

Gerundenfis. Geffner. Gibbon, E. Gill, Dr. Glynn, Dr. Gruterus. Guife, Dr. Hammond, Dr. Heidegger. Harris, Dr. Helvicus. Henry, M. Herodotus. Hervey. Homer. Howe. Hurd, Bp. Hunter, Dr. H. Hutchinfon, J. Jamblicus. Jarchi. Jenyns, Soame. Ignatius, St. Jofephus. Juftin Martyr. Kennett. Kimchi. Lactantius. Lardner. Le Pluche, Abbé. Le Clerc. Levi. Lightfoot, Dr. Lipfius. Locke.

( xii )

Lowman. Lowth, Bp. M'Ewen. Maimonides. M. ther. Mede. Menachem. Michælis. Middleton, Dr. Milton. Moore, Dr. Newcome, Bp. Newton, Sir Ifaac. _____ Bp. ------ Mr. Owen, Dr. Parkhurft. Patrick, Bp. Pearfon, Bp. Pike. Platina. Pliny. Plutarch. Pope, A. Prideaux, Dr. Poole. Potter, Abp. Rapin. Reader. Reinerus. Robinfon, R. Rollin.

Rouffeau. Rowe, Mrs. Saurin. Schindler. Scott, Dr. Serces. Shakefpeare. Sherlock, Bp. Shuckford, Dr. South, Dr. Stackhoufe. Tacitus. Targums. Taylor, J. Tertullian. Thuanus. Tacitus. Tennifon, Abp, Toplady. Turner, D. Tertullian. Virgil. Universal Hift. Watts, Dr. Warburton, Bp. Ward, Dr. Whitby, Dr. Whitfield. Winter, R. Wolfius. Young, A. ----- Dr. E.

тпе

ТНЕ

LIFE AND EXPERIENCE

OF THE REVEREND

JONATHAN EDWARDS.

 ${f B}$ IOGRAPHY is confeffedly a very agreeable fludy, and when eminent and good men are the fubjects of it, no lefs inftructive and improving. We contemplate with pleafure those who have attained degrees of virtue or knowledge which ourfelves are feeking; and there is a voice in acts of piety and benevolence, like that of the Redeemer, ' Go thou and do likewife :' but CHRISTIAN BIOGRAPHY has another end in view; we are taught to confider believers as ' The workmanship of Christ Jesus, ' created anew unto good works:' and certainly the freenefs and power of divine grace are no lefs confpicuous in thefe, than are the other attributes of Deity in the works of nature and providence. Or, to borrow another metaphor of infpiration, they are the living Epiftles of Jefus Chrift, and have thefe particular advantages over those inferibed with ink and pen, that they are both more durable and more legible --- they are living and as durable as eternal life; they are ' feen and read of all men :' for the most illiterate can read the language of a holy life, though they may not be able to read a line or a letter of the infpired volume.

PRESIDENT EDWARDS, the author of the enfuing Hiftory, was one of the wifeft, beft, and moft ufeful preachers this this age has produced; his writings exhibit a remarkable firength of intellect; the perfpicuity of thought and depth of penetration difcovered in his vindication of the great doctrines of Christianity, prove him to be a good fcholar, a bright genius, and a great divine.

This learned and moft excellent man was born at Windfor, in the province of Connecticut, October 5th, 1703; was entered at Yale College in 1716, and made bachelor of arts in 1720, before he was feventeen years of age. His mental powers opened themfelves fo early and fo vigoroufly, that he read Locke's Effay upon Human Understanding with uncommon delight at thirteen years of age: even at that period difcovering a depth, folidity, and penetration of mind, which found nothing fo pleafant to itfelf as the exercise of its own powers.

He lived at college near two years after taking this first degree, preparing himfelf, principally, for the facred function. After passing the usual trials, he was licensed, according to the custom of the college and the form of religion in the province, to preach the gospel as a candidate.

In August 1722, he received a call to preach to the English Prefbyterians at New York, where he continued with approbation above eight months. This fociety was then too fmall to maintain a minister; and therefore, in the fpring of the year 1723, he returned to his father's house in Connecticut, where, during the following fummer, he followed his studies with the closest application. It appears, however, that he had a deep fense of the christian and ministerial profession upon his mind during his abode at New York, that the people he watched over became very dear to him, and that he left them at last with great regret.

In the fpring of the year 1724, having taken his mafter's degree in the year before, he was chofen tutor of Yale College, and he followed this duty above two years. It must be owned, that this was an engagement of great confequence for a young man of twenty-one, who, by his early introduction into the ministry, and other avecations, could not have found too many opportunities tunities for his own improvement; but the ftrength of his mind overcame what are ufually infuperable difficulties in the way of the generality; and perhaps his genius acted more forcibly from its not being confined with academical fetters, which elevated geniufes can feldom endure.

In September, 1726, he refigned his tutorfhip, in confequence of the invitation of the people at Northampton, in Connecticut, for affiftance to his mother's father, Mr. Stoddard, who was the fettled minister of the town. He was ordained colleague on the 15th of February, 1727, in the twenty-fourth year of his age, and continued in the ministerial fervice there till the 22d of June, 1750, when he was difficient for attempting to reform the church.

What feems at first to have rendered Mr. Edwards an object of hatred, was a circumstance, which should have made him, and certainly would, among perfons truly religious, an object of love. Some young perfons of his flock had procured fome obfcene publications, which they commented upon among themfelves for their own proficiency in lasciviousness, and propagated, with the ufual decency of fuch perfons, for the infection of others. This came in a flort time to Mr. Edwards's ears; and therefore taking occasion after a fermon upon Heb. xii. 15, 16. preached for the purpofe, to call the leading members of his charge together, he informed them of what he had heard, and procured a confent that the matter should be examined. A committee was appointed for this purpofe, and to affift the paftor. When this was done, Mr. Edwards appointed a time of meeting; and then read a lift of the names of young perfons, accufing and accufed, without fpecifying under which predicament they flood, who were defired to come together at his houfe.

Upon the declaration of names, it appeared that almost all the families in the town had fome relation or other concerned in the matter: and therefore a great number of the heads of families not only altered their mind. minds about examination, but declared, that their children, &c. fhould not be called to account for fuch things as thefe. The town was immediately in a blaze: and this fo ftrengthened the hands, or hardened the faces of the guilty, that they fet their Paftor at defiance with the greateft infolence and contempt.

Thus Mr. Edwards's hands were weakened; and we are told, that he afterwards had but little fuccefs in his miniftry; but, on the contrary, that fecurity and carnality much increafed among his people, and the youth in particular became more wanton and diffolute.

All this paved the way for fomething more. It had been a ftanding opinion among this people for fome time, countenanced alfo by their late paftor, "That unconverted perfons," known to be fuch by the ungodlinefs of their lives, or their ignorance of divine truth, "had notwithstanding a right in the fight of God to the facrament of the Lord's fupper; and that, therefore, it was their duty to partake of it, even though they had no appearance of the grace and holinefs, which the gofpel flates to be infeparable from true believers. It was fufficient if they were outward and visible members; fo that they, who really rejected Jefus Chrift, and difliked the gofpel-way of falvation in their hearts, and knew that this was true of themfelves, might (inconceivable as it appears) make the profession without lying and hypocrify."

To the common inconveniences always attending a national church, where it is impoffible to examine every man's profeffion, or to keep him from difgracing it, here is an addition becoming the difciples of Ignatius of Loyola, by which men may be hypocrites without the guilt of hypocrify, and Iyars without the imputation of fin. A convenient fort of principle indeed to men of a certain caft; but by no means to thofe, who are never to forget, that ' Fornication and all uncleannefs, filthinefs, or foolith ' talking, thould not be even named amongit them, as be-' cometh faints.' [See Eph. v. 3---7.]

6

Mr. Edwards had long been uneafy upon the prevalence of this principle, (one of the most strange that ever any church of Chrift avowed) and upon his own yielding to the example of his predeceffor and to a practice fettled before he came thither. His doubts and uncafinefs, as might be expected from fo good a man, increased upon him, and drove him at length to a thorough investigation of the fubject; the refult of which was a clear conviction of the error, and a firm determination to expofe it. He was convinced, that " To be a vilible Chriftian was to put on the appearance of a real one; that the profession of christianity was a profession of that, in which real christianity confists;" and that, therefore, as the Lord's fupper was intended for real Christians, none ought to come to it, who were not at least professors of real chriftianity, and to whom no imputation of allowed ungodlinefs could justly be made.

The declaration of his mind upon this head, among fuch a kind of men, raifed an immediate clamour, and put the town into as great a ferment as the preaching of an holy apoftle had long before occafioned at Ephefus. They were all in an uproar: and ' Difinifs him, difinifs ' him,' was the univerfal cry of men, women, and elders. He had touched a favourite fin, and a favourite principle which protected it: and (what was a very great truth, though not in their fenfe of it) he was no longer fit to be their paftor. He attempted to reafon with them calmly; but it was oppofing his breath to the winds, the general cry was to have him difiniffed.

Mr. Edwards, when they would not hear him, withed to refer the matter to fome neighbouring miniflers; bur this being rejected, he attempted to difcufs the matter in a courfe of lectures, which he began for the purpofe; but although numbers came from the adjoining parts, very few of his own congregation would attend. So intoxicating is the nature of human prejudice, when once indulged, that men will rather renounce their reafon than refume their temper. He ufed all means in his power to reduce them at leaft to a calm, if not a charitable, temper; to hear and weigh, with a little attention, what he had to fay for himfelf; and not to condemn him, were it only for their own fakes, without fome fluadow of a reafon! But his meeknefs and modefly were treated as conceffions againft himfelf, and only raifed the infolence and fury of his adverfaries, inftead of foftening them into peace. Nothing would ferve their turn (how plainly foever againft their fpiritual and real intereft) but an abfolute feparation.

Mr. Edwards, finding all methods ineffectual to reftrain the torrent of virulence, flander, and falfhood rolling upon him, at length yielded to the artifice of thefe men in packing a council, compofed chiefly of their own friends; thefe, after fome unavailing attempts for a reconciliation, paffed a refolve, by the majority of one voice only, to this effect, That it was expedient that the paftoral relation between Mr. Edwards and his church fhould be diffolved, if they perfifted in requiring it. This being reported to the people, they immediately voted his difmiffion by a majority of two hundred againft twenty, and he was accordingly difmiffed June 22, 1750.

Thus had these people the infamy of endeavouring to ruin the most able and celebrated divine, who hath as yet been born in America. But they knew not their own mercies; fuch a man as Mr. Edwards would impart honour to any country or profession, and be readily embraced by the wife and good in all. The few abhorrers of this atrocious act entered an unavailing proteft against it. The good man, shocked rather for his enemies than for himfelf, preached a most folemn and affecting farewell difcourfe, which was afterwards publifhed, on 2 Cor. i. 4. on which he raifed this doctrine, " That minifters, and the people who have been under their care, must meet one another at the tribunal of Christ." The malice of his enemies did not ftop here; for when at times there was no preacher to fupply the pulpit, he cheerfully gave them his fervice, rather than it should be empty.

This kindnefs, which would have conciliated empty. more ingenuous minds, only increased the unhappy flame kindled in theirs, infomuch that they called the town together and voted that he should preach among them no more. And fo they frequently went without preaching, rather than have the free ministrations of a man, of whom the world itfelf was not worthy.

Thus ended his fervice of near four-and-twenty years to an undifcerning and ungrateful people, who had been much upon his heart, and for whom he had always expreffed a very tender concern. " For their good he was always writing, contriving, and labouring; for them he had poured out ten thousand fervent prayers; and in their welfare he had rejoiced as one that findeth great fpoil." Yet all their detestable conduct did not alter the frame of his mind. "He was calm, fedate and humble under the most injurious treatment; his resolution and conduct in the whole affair were wonderful, and cannot be fet in fo beautiful and affecting a light by any defcription, as they appeared in to his friends who were eyewitneffes."

This incomparable man was now in the decline of life, with little or no income befides his flipend : and this throws the greatest light upon his faithfulness and fincerity: nor had he any view of fupport from another appointment; for he knew not how far the malice of his people might extend to prevent it, or the prejudice of his difmiffion operate against him elfewhere: neither was he capable (alas, what pity he fhould be driven to think of it !) to take up any other bufinels for a support. Thus poverty and difgrace were before him. But he knew that he had a good Mafter. He had divine comfort in his foul ; and in a fhort time Providence provided for both him and his family.

Afhamed of this unparalleled bafeness to so excellent a man, his friends, or rather the friends of godlinefs, administered to his relief: and he was foon after appointed to the miffion at Stockbridge; but not before fome fome other infolent and bitter attempts had been made to ruin his reputation, as well as to deprive him of bread.

9

It may not be improper here to add, that one of the ringleaders in this iniquitous bufinefs was fo ftung with his concluct towards Mr. Edwards, that he afterwards made a public confession of his guilt, in a letter to the Rev. Mr. Hall, of Sutton, which letter, after having enumerated the particulars of his opposition to that good man, concludes thus, " In thefe inftances, Sir, of my conduct, and others (to which you was not prive) in the courfe of that most melancholy contention with Mr. Edwards, wherein I now fee that I was very much influenced by vast pride, felf-fusiciency, ambition, and vanity, I appear to myfelf vile; and doubtlefs much more fo to others who are more impartial; and do, in the review thereof, abhor myfelf, and repent forely: and if my own heart condemns me, it behoves me folemnly to remember, that God is greater, and knoweth all things; and I hereby own, Sir, that fuch treatment of Mr. Edwards, as is herein before mentioned, wherein I was fo deeply concerned and active, was particularly and very aggravatedly finful and ungrateful in me, becaufe I was not only under the common obligations of each individual of the fociety to him, as a most able, diligent, and faithful paflor; but I had alfo received many inftances of his tendernefs, goodnefs, and generofity to me, as a young kinfinan, whom he was difposed to treat in a most friendly manner. Indeed, Sir, I muft own, that by my conduct in confulting and acting against Mr. Edwards, within the time of our most unhappy difputes with him, and efpecially in and about that abominable remonstrance, I have so far symbolized with Balaam, Ahithophel, and Judas. that I am confounded and filled with terror oftentimes when I attend to the most painful fimilitude. And I freely confers, that on account of my conduct above mentioned, I have the greatest reason to tremble at those most folemin and awful words of our Saviour, Matt. xviii. 6. and thofe thofe in Luke xth, at the 16th: And I am most forely fenfible that nothing but that infinite grace and mercy, which faved fome of the betrayers and murderers of our bleffed Lord and the perfections of his martyrs, can pardon me: in which alone I hope for pardon, for the fake of Chrift, whofe blood (bleffed be God) cleanfeth from all fin. And I moft heartily with and pray, that the town and church of Northampton would ferioufly and carefully examine whether they have not abundant caufe to judge, that they are now lying under great guilt in the fight of God: and whether those of us, who were concerned in that most awful contention with Mr. Edwards, can ever more reasonably expect God's favour and bleffing, until our eyes are opened, and we become thoroughly convinced that we have greatly provoked the most High, and been injurious to one of the best of men; and until we shall be thoroughly convinced that we have dreadfully perfecuted Christ by perfecuting and vexing that just man and fervant of Christ; until we shall be humble as in the dust therefore, and till we openly in full terms, and without baulking the matter, confets the tame before the world, and most humbly and earnestly feek forgiveness of God, and do what we can to honour the memory of Mr. Edwards, and clear it of all the afperfions which are unjufily caft upon him; fince God has been pleafed to put it beyond our power to afk his forgivenefs. Such terms I am perfuaded the great and righteous God will hold us to, and that it will be in vain for us to hope to escape with impunity in any other way. This I am convinced of with regard to myfelf, and this way I most folemnly propose to take to myself (if God in his mercy shall give me opportunity) that to by making free confession to God and man of my fin and guilt, and publickly taking thame to my-felf therefore, I may give glory to the God of Ifrael, and do what in me lies, to clear the memory of that venerable man from the wrongs and injuries I was to active in bringing on his reputation and character; and I thank thank God that he has been pleafed to fpare my life and opportunity therefore to this time, and am forry that I have delayed the affair fo long."

Mr. Edwards, who was able to fliine in the feats of learning, and fome time hence was called to prefide over one, was now delegated to the inftruction of favage Indians at Stockbridge. This place is in the weftern part of Maffachufetts Bay, and about fix miles from Mr. Edwards's former refidence at Northampton. He was fixed here on the 8th of August, 1751; and here he continued his labours, in more peace and quietnefs than he had ever known before, for fix years. In this interval, though much in years, he made greater attainments in knowledge, and wrote more for the church of God, than he had ever been able to do, within the fame fpace of time, during the former part of his life. In this retirement, he composed his deepest and most valuable works; so that when, in his own judgment, as well as that of others, his ufefulnefs feemed to be cut off, he found greater opportunities of fervice than ever. A pleafing calm, after fo grievous a ftorm, to his troubled mind!

On the death of Mr. Aaron Burr, prefident of New Jerfey College, which was on the 24th of September, 1757, the truftees of that feminary unfolicited chofe Mr. Edwards to fucceed him: but our excellent author was with difficulty prevailed upon to accept it; modeftly alledging his own infufficiency, ill health, and difufe to that kind of life. At length, upon the arguments and perfuations of his brethren in the ministry, he accepted of this prefidency, and went from Stockbridge to Prince Town in January, 1758. But the end of his labours was approaching; he had only preached two or three fermons, and had not entered fully upon the dutics of his new office, when he was called to glory. The finall pox, which has always been unufually fatal in America, had infected Prince Town, which induced the phyfician of the place to advife him to be inoculated, with the confent of the corporation. Accordingly he was inoculated lated on the 13th of February, and his diforder at first feemed to be favourable; but a fever coming on, and the pufules laying much in his throat, no proper medicines could be administered, and therefore the violence of it raged, till it put an end to his useful life, on the 22d of March, 1758, in the fifty-fifth year of his age.

When he was fenfible that death was approaching, he called his daughter (who was the only part of his family which had yet removed with him,) and addreffed her in the following words: ' Dear Lucy, it feems to me to be ' the will of God, that I must shortly leave you : there-' fore, give my kindeft love to my dear wife, and tell her, ' that the uncommon union, which has fo long fublifted ' between us, has been of fuch a nature, as I truft is fpi-' ritual, and therefore will continue for ever. I hope ' fhe will be fupported under fo great a trial, and fubmit ' cheerfully to the will of God. And as to my children, ' you are now like to be left fatherlefs, which I hope will ' be an inducement to you all to feek a father, who will ' never fail you.' He defired that his funeral might not be attended with parade (as is ufual in America,) but rather fomething be given to the poor. He could fay but little in his fickness, owing to the nature and feat of his diforder; but just at the last, when furrounded by friends lamenting their own lofs and that of the church and college, he faid, to their great furprize, as they did not imagine he heard them or was able to fpeak, ' Truit in God, ' and ye need not fear :' and then, almost literally, fell afleep in Jefus.

We are perfuaded our readers will be abundantly gratified with the account of our author's experience as written by himfelf; and therefore fhall make no apology for fubjoining almost the whole of it.

In this narrative we find our great and celebrated metaphylician relating the manner of God's dealings with his foul, in a ftile that breathes all the humility and fimplicity of a little child. "It is peculiarly fweet to obferve," fays an evangelical writer, "that in matters of fpiritual fpiritual concern, the philofopher and the ploughman, if truly regenerated, have the fame feelings, and fpeak the fame language: they all 'eat of the fame fpiritual meat, and drink of the fame fpiritual rock, which follows them, and that rock is Chrift.' Hence that fimilitude of experience or (to fpeak figuratively) that flrong and flriking family likenefs, which obtains among the converted people of God, in every period of time, and in every nation under heaven. They all without exception feel themfelves totally ruined by original fin; they all without exception take refuge in the righteoufnefs and crofs of Chrift; and unite in afcribing the whole praife of their falvation to the alone free grace and fovereign mercy of Father, Son, and Spirit.''

" I had," fays Mr. Edwards, " a variety of concerns and exercises about my foul from my childhood; but had two more remarkable feafons of awakening, before I met with that change by which I was brought to those new dispositions, and that new sense of things, that I have fince had. The first time was when I was a boy, fome years before I went to college, at a time of remarkable awakening in my father's congregation. I was then very much affected for many months, and concerned about the things of religion, and my foul's falvation; and was abundant in duties. I used to pray five times a day in fecret, and to fpend much time in religious talk with other boys; and ufed to meet with them to pray together. I experienced I know not what kind of delight in religion; my mind was much engaged in it, and had much felf-righteous pleafure; and it was my delight to abound in religious duties. I, with fome of my fchoolmates, joined together and built a booth in a fwamp, in a very fecret and retired place, for a place of prayer. And, befides, I had particular fecret places of my own in the woods, where I used to retire by myfelf, and used to be, from time to time, much affected. My affections feemed to be lively and eafily moved, and I feemed to be in my element, when I engaged in religious duties : and I am ready to think, many are deceived with fuch affections, tions, and fuch a kind of delight, as I then had in religion, and mittake it for grace.

"But in process of time, my convictions and affections wore off, and I entirely loft all those affections and delights, and left off fecret prayer, at least as to any constant performance of it: and returned like a dog to his vomit, and went on in ways of fin.

"Indeed I was at fome times very uneafy, efpecially towards the latter part of the time of my being at college. Till it pleafed God, in my laft year at college, at a time when I was in the midft of many uneafy thoughts about the ftate of my foul, to feize me with a pleurify; in which he brought me nigh to the grave, and fhook me over the pit of hell.

" But yet, it was not long after my recovery, before I fell again into my old ways of fin. But God would not fuffer me to go on with any quietnefs; for I had great and violent inward ftruggles: till after many conflicts with wicked inclinations, and repeated refolutions, and bonds that I laid myfelf under by a kind of vows to God, I was brought wholly to break off all former wicked ways, and all ways of known outward fin, and to apply myfelf to feek my falvation and practife the duties of religion; but without that kind of affection and delight that I had formerly experienced. My concern now wrought more by inward ftruggles and conflicts, and felf-reflections: I made feeking my falvation the main business of my life; but yet it feems to me, I fought after a miferable manner; which has made me fometimes fince to queftion, whether ever it iffued in that which was faving; being ready to doubt, whether fuch miferable feeking was ever fucceeded. But yet I was brought to feek falvation in a manner that I never was before; I felt a fpirit to part with all things in the world for an intereft in Chrift. My concern continued and prevailed, with many exercifing thoughts and inward ftruggles; but yet it never feemed to be proper to express my concern that I had, by the name of terror.

"From my childhood up, my mind had been wont to be full of objections against the doctrine of God's D fovefovereignty, in choosing whom he would to eternal life, and rejecting whom he pleafed; leaving them eternally to perifh. . . . It used to appear like a horrible doctrine to me; but I remember the time very well, when I feemed to be convinced, and fully fatisfied, as to this fovereignty of God, and his juftice in thus eternally difpofing of men according to his fovereign pleafure; but never could give an account how, or by what means, I was thus convinced; not in the least imagining, in the time of it, nor a long time after, that there was any extraordinary influence of God's Spirit in it; but only that now I faw farther, and my reason apprehended the justice and reafonableness of it. However, my mind refted in it; and it put an end to all those cavils and objections that had till then abode with me all the preceding part of my life. But I have oftentimes, fince that first conviction, had quite another kind of fense of God's fovereignty than I had then. I have often fince, not only had a conviction, but a delightful con-The doctrine of God's fovereignty has very viction. often appeared an exceeding pleafant, bright, and fweet doctrine to me; and abfolute fovereignty is what I love to afcribe to God. But my first conviction was not with this."

This part of our excellent Author's experience reminds us of the feventeeth Article of the Church of England, which afferts, that " The godly confideration of predeftination, and of our election in Chrift, is full of fweet, pleafant, and unfpeakable comfort to godly perfors." Such indeed have many found it; but let it be remembered, it is only the godly confideration of predefination that is thus confortable; that this muft be connected with the evidence of our election in Chrift, and that to godly perfors only is this contemplation fweet and profitable; to others it may be dangerous, and it muft be painful. An amiable divine has obferved, " That none fhould go to the univerfity of Predefination, until they have been at the grammar fchool of Faith and Repentance."

16

" The first that I remember that ever I found any thing of that fort of inward fweet delight in God and divine things, that I have lived much in fince, was on reading those words, [I Tim. i. 17.] ' Now unto the King eter-' nal, immortal, invifible, the only wife God, be honour ' and glory for ever and ever, Amen.' As I read the words, there came into my foul, and was as it were diffufed through it, a fenfe of the glory of the Divine Being; . . . quite different from any thing I ever experienced before. Never any words of fcripture feemed to me as these words did. I thought with myself, how excellent a Being that was, and how happy I should be, if I might enjoy that God, and be wrapt up to God in heaven, and be as it were fwallowed up in him. I kept faying, and as it were finging over thefe words of feripture to myself; and went to prayer, to pray to God that I might enjoy him; and prayed in a manner quite different from what I used to do; with a new fort of affection; but it never came into my thought that there was any thing fpiritual or of a faving nature in this.

" From about that time, I began to have a new kind of apprehenfions and ideas of Chrift, and the work of redemption, and the glorious way of falvation by him. I had an inward fweet fense of these things, that at times came into my heart, and my foul was led away in pleafant views and contemplations of them; and my mind was greatly engaged to spend my time in reading and meditating on Chrift, and the beauty and excellency of his perfon, and the lovely way of falvation by free grace in him. I found no books fo delightful to me, as those that treated of these subjects. Those words, [Cant. ii. 1.] ' ufed to be abundantly with me, ' I am the role of Sharon, ' and the lily of the vallies.' The words feemed to me fweetly to reprefent the loveliness and beauty of Jefus Chrint. And the whole book of Canticles used to be pleafant to me, and I used to be much in reading it about that time; and found, from time to time, an inward fweetnefs that used, as it were, to carry me away in my contemplations. The fenfe I had of divine things, Do would would often of a fudden, as it were, kindle up a fweet burning in my heart, an ardour of my foul, that I know not how to express.

" After this my fenfe of divine things gradually increafed, and became more and more lively, and had more of that inward fweetnefs. The appearance of every thing was altered; there feemed to be, as it were, a calm, fweet caft or appearance of divine glory, in almost every thing. God's excellency, his wifdom, his purity and love, feemed to appear in every thing; in the fun, moon, and ftars; in the clouds, and blue fky; in the grafs, flowers, trees; in the water, and all nature; which used greatly to fix my mind. I often ufed to fit and view the moon for a long time: and fo in the day-time fpent much time in viewing the clouds and fky, to behold the fweet glory of God in these things; in the mean time finging forth, with a low voice, my contemplations of the Creator and Redeemer: and fcarce any thing, among all the works of nature, was fo fweet to me as thunder and lightning; formerly, nothing had been fo terrible to me. I ufed to be a perfon uncommonly terrified with thunder, and it ufed to ftrike me with terror when I faw a thunder-ftorm rifing: but now, on the contrary, it rejoiced me. I felt God at the first appearance of a thunder-storm, and used to take the opportunity, at fuch times, to fix myfelf to view the clouds, and fee the lightnings play, and hear the majeftic and awful voice of God's thunder, which oftentimes was exceedingly entertaining, leading me to fweet contemplations of my great and glorious God; and while I viewed, used to spend my time, as it always seemed natural to me, to fing or chant forth my meditations; to fpeak my thoughts in foliloquies, and fpeak with a finging voice.

" I felt then a great fatisfaction as to my good effate; but that did not content me. I had vehement longings of foul after God and Chrift, and after more holinefs, wherewith my heart feemed to be full, and ready to break; which often brought to my mind the words of the Pfalmift, [Pfa. cxix. 28.] 'My foul breaketh for the ' longing <sup>4</sup> longing it hath.' I often felt a mourning and lamenting in my heart, that I had not turned to God fooner, that I might have had more time to grow in grace. My mind was greatly fixed on divine things; I was almost perpetually in the contemplation of them: fpent most of my time in thinking of divine things, year after year; and ufed to fpend abundance of my time in walking alone in the woods and folitary places for meditation, foliloquy, and prayer, and converfe with God: and it was always my manner, at fuch times, to fing forth my contemplations; and was almost constantly in ejaculatory prayer wherever I was. Prayer feemed to be natural to me, as the breath by which the inward burnings of my heart had vent.

"The delights which I now felt in things of religion were of an exceeding different kind from those fore-mentioned, that I had when I was a boy; they were totally of another kind; and what I then had no more notion or idea of, than one born blind has of pleafant and beautiful colours: they were of a more inward, pure, foulanimating and refreshing nature. Those former delights never reached the heart; and did not arise from any fight of the divine excellency of the things of God; or any tafte of the foul-fatisfying, and life-giving good, there is in them."

Mr. Edwards muft certainly be the beft judge of his own feelings; but we have fometimes queried whether our author and fome other excellent men have not erred in imputing their firft conviction and early experience in religion to fome other caufe, which ought rather to be attributed to the agency of the Divine Spirit. It certainly does not follow, that becaufe our firft views of divine things are lefs clear, and our firft religious affections lefs lipiritual, than afterwards, that they do not proceed from the fame caufe. The early beamings of the dawn, and the noon-tide fun beams, though they differ immenfely in their degree of light and heat, are certainly of the fame nature, and proceed from the fame caufe. When our Lord firft anointed the eyes of the blind man. [Mark viii. 24.] he faw ' Men as trees walking ;' but when he put his hands on him again, ' he faw every man clearly ;' yet by the fame hands were both effects produced, and to the fame Redeemer was the glory of both due.

" My fenfe of divine things feemed gradually to increafe, till I went to preach at New York, which was about a year and a half after they began. While I was there, I felt them, very fenfibly, in a much higher degree than I had done before: my longings after God and holinefs were much increafed; pure and humble, holy and heavenly christianity, appeared exceeding amiable to me. I felt in me a burning defire to be in every thing a complete Chriftian; and conformed to the bleffed image of Chrift; and that I might live in all things according to the pure, fweet, and bleffed rules of the gofpel. I had an eager thirsting after progress in these things; my longings after it put me upon purfuing and preffing after them. It was my continual ftrife day and night, and conftant inquiry, how I should be more holy, and live more holily, and more becoming a child of God, and difciple of Chrift. I fought an increase of grace and holinefs, and that I might live an holy life, with vaftly more earnestnefs than ever I fought grace, before I had it. I ufed to be continually examining myfelf, and ftudying and contriving for likely ways and means how I fhould live holily, with far greater diligence and earneftnefs than ever I purfued any thing in my life; but with too great a dependence on my own ftrength, which afterwards proved a great damage to me. My experience had not then taught me, as it has done fince, my extreme feeblenefs and impotence, every manner of way; and the innumerable and bottomlefs depths of fecret corruption and deceit that there were in my heart. However, I went on with my eager purfuit after more holinefs, and fwect conformity to Chrift.

"The heaven 1 defired was a heaven of holinefs; to be with God, and to fpend my eternity in divine love, and holy communion with Chrift. My mind was very much taken up with contemplations on heaven, and the enjoyments ments of those there; and living there in perfect holines, humility, and love. And it used at that time to appear a great part of the happines of heaven, that there the faints could express their love to Chrift. It appeared to me a great clog and hindrance, and burden to me that what J felt within, I could not express to God, and give vent to, as I defired: the inward ardour of my foul seemed to be hindered and pent up, and could not freely flame out as it would. I used often to think how in heaven this fweet principle should freely and fully vent and express itself. Heaven appeared to me exceeding delightful as a world of love. It appeared to me that all happiness confisted in living in pure, humble, heavenly, divine love.

"I remember the thoughts I ufed then to have of holinefs. I remember I then faid fometimes to myfelf, I do certainly know that I love holinefs, fuch as the gofpel preferibes; it appeared to me, there was nothing in it but what was ravifhingly lovely: it appeared to me to be the higheft beauty and amiablenefs, above all other beauties, that it was a divine beauty, far purer than any thing here upon earth; and that every thing elfe was like mire, filth, and defilement, in comparison of it.

" Holinefs, as I then wrote down fome of my contemplations on it, appeared to me to be of a fweet, pleafant, charming, ferene, calm nature ; it feemed to me, it brought an inexpreffible purity, brightnefs, peacefulnefs, and ravifhment, to the foul; and that it made the foul like a field or garden of God, with all manner of pleafant flowers, that is all pleafant, delightful, and undiffurbed; enjoying a fweet calm, and the gentle vivifying beams of the fun. The foul of a true Christian, as I then wrote my meditations, appeared like fuch a little white flower as we fee in the fpring of the year, low and humble on the ground, opening its bofom to receive the pleafant beams of the fun's glory; rejoicing, as it were, in a calm rapture, diffufing around a fweet fragrancy, flanding peacefully and lovingly in the midft of other flowers round about; all in like manner opening their bofoms to drink in the light of the fun.

" There

"There was no part of creature-holinefs that I then, and at other times, had fo great a fenfe of the lovelinets of, as humility, brokennefs of heart, and poverty of fpirit; and there was nothing that I had fuch a fpirit to long for. My heart, as it were, panted after this, to lie low before God, and in the duft, that I might be nothing, and that God might be all; that I might become as a little child.

"While I was there, at New York, I fometimes was much affected with reflections on my paft life, confidering how late it was before I began to be truly religious, and how wickedly I had lived till then; and once fo, as to weep abundantly, and for a confiderable time together.

"On January 12, 1722-3, I made a folemn dedication of myfelf to God; and wrote it down; giving up myfelf and all that I had to God; to be for the future in no refpect my own; to act as one that had no right to himfelf in any refpect; and folemnly vowed to take God for my whole portion and felicity; looking on nothing elfe as any part of my happinefs, nor acting as if it were; and his law for the conftant rule of my obedience, engaging to fight with all my might againft the world, the flefh, and the devil, to the end of my life. But have reafon to be infinitely humbled, when I confider how much I have failed of anfwering my obligation.

" I had then abundance of fweet religious convertation in the family where I lived, with Mr. John Smith, and his pious mother. My heart was knit in affection to thole, in whom were appearances of true picty; and I could bear the thoughts of no other companions, but fuch as were holy, and the difciples of the bleffed Jefus.

" I had great longings for the advancement of Chrift's kingdom in the world; my fecret prayer ufed to be in great part taken up in praying for it. If I heard the leaft hint of any thing that happened in any part of the world, that appeared to me, in fome refpect or other, to have a favourable afpect on the interest of Chrift's kingdom, my foul eagerly catched at it, and it would much animate animate and refresh me. I used to be earnest to read public news letters, mainly for that end, to see if I could not find some news favourable to the interest of religion in the world.

" I very frequently ufed to retire into a folitary place on the banks of Hudfon's River, at fome diffance from the city, for contemplation on divine things, and fecret converfe with God; and had many fweet hours there. Sometimes Mr. Smith and I walked there together, to converfe of the things of God; and our converfation ufed much to turn on the advancement of Chrift's kingdom in the world, and the glorious things that God would accomplifh for his church in the latter days.

" I had then, and at other times, the greateft delight in the holy fcriptures of any book whatfoever; oftentimes in reading it, every word feemed to touch my heart. I felt a harmony between fomething in my heart, and those fweet and powerful words: I feemed often to fee fo much light exhibited by every fentence, and fuch a refrething ravifhing food communicated, that I could not get along in reading: ufed oftentimes to dwell long on one fentence, to fee the wonders contained in it; and yet almost every fentence feemed to be full of wonders.

" I came away from New York in the month of April 1723, and had a most bitter parting with Madam Smith and her fon : my heart feemed to fink within me, at leaving the family and city, where I had enjoyed fo many fweet and pleafant days. I went from New York to Weathersfield by water. As I failed away, I kept fight of the city as long as I could, and when I was out of fight of it, it would affect me much to look that way, with a kind of melancholly mixed with fweetnefs. However that night, after this forrowful parting, I was greatly comforted in God at Westchester, where we went ashore to lodge, and had a pleafant time of it all the voyage to Saybrook. It was fweet to me to think of meeting dear Christians in heaven, where we should never part more. At Saybrook went afhore to lodge on Saturday, and there E kept kept Sabbath; where I had a fweet and refreshing feason, walking alone in the fields.

" After I came home to Windfor, remained much in a like frame of mind as I had been in at New York, but only fometimes felt my heart ready to fink, with the thoughts of my friends at New York ; and my refuge and fupport was in contemplations on the heavenly state, as I find in my Diary, of May 1, 1723. It was my comfort to think of that state, where there is fulnels of joy; where reigns heavenly, fweet, calm, and delightful love, without alloy; where there are continually the dearest expressions of this love; where is the enjoyment of the perfons loved, without ever parting; where thefe perfons that appear fo lovely in this world, will really be inexpreffibly more lovely, and full of love to us. And how fweetly will the mutual lovers join together to fing the praifes of God and the Lamb! How full will it fill us with joy to think that this enjoyment, these fweet exercifes, will never ceafe or come to an end, but will laft to all eternity !

"Continued much in the fame frame in the general, that I had been in at New York, till I went to New Haven, to live there as tutor of the college; having one fpecial feafon of uncommon fweetnefs, particularly once at Bolton, in a journey from Bofton, walking out alone in the fields. After I went to New Haven I funk in religion, my mind being diverted from my eager and violent purfuits after holinefs, by fome affairs that greatly perplexed and diftracted my mind.

" In September 1725, was taken ill at New Haven, and endeavouring to go home to Windfor, was fo ill at the North Village, that I could go no further; where I lay fick for about a quarter of a year. And, in this ficknefs, God was pleafed to vifit me again with the fweet influences of his Spirit. My mind was greatly engaged there on divine, pleafant contemplations, and longings of foul. I obferved, that thofe who watched with me would often be looking out for the morning, and feemed to wifh for it; which brought to my mind thofe words of the Pfalmift, which my foul with fweetnefs made its own language, ' My foul waiteth for the Lord, more than ' they that watch for the morning, I fay, more than they ' that watch for the morning.' And when the light of the morning came, and the beams of the fun came in at the windows, it refreshed my foul from one morning to another : it feemed to me to be fome image of the fweet light of God's glory.

" I remember, about that time, I used greatly to long for the conversion of some that I was concerned with. It feemed to me I could gladly honour them, and with delight be a fervant to them, and lie at their feet, if they were but truly holy.

" But fome time after this, I was again greatly diverted in my mind with fome temporal concerns, that exceedingly took up my thoughts, greatly to the wounding of my foul; and went on through various exercises, that it would be tedious to relate; that gave me much more experience of my own heart than ever I had before.

" Since I came to this town," I have often had fweet complacency in God, in views of his glorious perfections, and the excellency of Jefus Chrift. God has appeared to me, a glorious and lovely being, chiefly on the account of his holinefs. The holinefs of God has always appeared to me the most lovely of all his attributes. The doctrines of God's absolute fovereignty and free grace, in shewing mercy to whom he would thew mercy, and man's abfolute dependence on the operations of God's Holy Spirit, have very often appeared to me as fweet and glorious doctrines. These doctrines have been much my delight : God's fovereignty has ever appeared to me as great part of his glory; it has often been fweet to me to go to God, and adore him as a fovereign God, and afk fovereign mercy of him.

" I have loved the doctrines of the gofpel; they have been to my foul like green pastures : the gospel has seemed to me to be the richeft treasure; the treasure that I have moft molt defired, and longed that it might dwell richly in me. The way of falvation by Chrift has appeared in a general way, glorious and excellent, and moft pleafant and moft beautiful. It has often feemed to me that it would, in a great meafure, fpoil heaven, to receive it in any other way. That text has often been affecting and delightful to me, [Ifa. xxxii. 2.] ' A man fhall be an hiding place from the ' wind, and a covert from the tempeft,' &c.

" It has often appeared fweet to me to be united to Chrift; to have him for my head, and to be a member of his body; and also to have Chrift for my teacher and prophet. I very often think, with fweetnefs and longings, and pantings of foul, of being a little child, taking hold of Chrift, to be led by him through the wildernefs of this world. That text, [Matt. xviii.] at the beginning, has often been fweet to me, ' Except ye be converted, and ' become as little children,' &c. I love to think of coming to Chrift to receive falvation of him, poor in fpirit, and quite empty of felf; humbly exalting him alone; cut entirely off from my own root, and to grow into, and out of Chrift : to have God in Chrift to be all in all; and to live by faith on the Son of God, a life of humble, unfeigned confidence in him. That feripture has often been sweet to me, [Pfa. cxv. 1.] ' Not unto us, O Lord, ' not unto us, but unto thy name give glory, for thy mercy ' and for thy truth's fake.' And those words of Christ, [Luke x. 21.] ' In that hour Jefus rejoiced in fpirit, and ' faid, 1 thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, · that thou haft hid thefe things from the wife and pru-' dent, and haft revealed them unto babes : even fo, Fa-' ther, for fo it feemed good in thy fight.' That fovereignty of God that Chrift rejoiced in, feemed to me to be worthy to be rejoiced in; and that rejoicing of Chrift feemed to me to fhew the excellency of Chrift, and the fpirit that he was of.

"The fweeteft joys and delights I have experienced, have not been those that have arifen from a hope of my own good effate, but in a direct view of the glorious things of the gospel. When I enjoy this fweetness, it feems feems to carry me above the thoughts of my own fafe effate: it feems at fuch times a lofs that I cannot bear to take off my eye from the glorious, pleafant object I behold without me, to turn my eye in upon myfelf, and my own good effate."

Such remarks abound in the writings of the New England divines; and we have no right to deny what they affert upon their own experience. But when this attainment is made the teft of Christianity, and the criterion of true grace, we must oppose it. It is ' the love of God thed ' abroad in our hearts' that must enkindle our first affections to him. And the most dear and affectionate apostle afferts, that ' We love him because he first loved us.' [I John iv. 19.]

" My heart has been much on the advancement of Chrift's kingdom in the world; the hiftories of the paft advancement of Chrift's kingdom have been fweet to me. When I have read hiftories of paft ages, the pleafanteft thing in all my reading has been, to read of the kingdom of Chrift being promoted: and when I have expected in my reading to come to any fuch thing, I have lotted upon it all the way as I read; and my mind has been much entertained and delighted with the foripture promifes and prophecies of the future glorious advancement of Chrift's kingdom on earth.

" I have fometimes had a fenfe of the excellent fulnefs of Chrift, and his meetnefs and fuitablenefs as a Saviour, whereby he has appeared to me, far above all, the chief of ten thoufands: and his blood and atonement has appeared fweet, and his righteoufnefs fweet; which is always accompanied with an ardency of fpirit, and inward ftrugglings, and breathings, and groanings, that cannot be uttered, to be emptied of myfelf, and fwallowed up in Chrift.

"Once, as I rode out in the woods for my health, Anno 1737, and having lighted from my horfe in a retired place, as my manner commonly has been, to walk for divine contemplation and prayer, I had a view, that for me was extraordinary, of the glory of the Son of God. God, as mediator between God and man; and his wonderful, great, full, pure, and fweet grace and love, and meek and gentle condefcenfion. This grace, that appeared to me fo calm and fweet, appeared great above the heavens: the perfon of Christ appeared ineffably excellent, with an excellency great enough to fwallow up all thought and conception, which continued, as near as I can judge, about an hour, which kept me the bigger part of the time in a flood of tears, and weeping aloud. I felt withal an ardency of foul to be, what I know not otherwife how to express, than to be emptied and annihilated, to lie in the duft, and to be full of Christ alone; to love him with a holy and pure love; to truft in him; to live upon him; to ferve and follow him; and to be totally wrapt up in the fulnefs of Christ; and to be perfectly fanctified and made pure, with a divine and heavenly purity. I have feveral other times had views very much of the fame nature, and that have had the fame effects.

" I have many times had a fenfe of the glory of the third perfon in the Trinity, in his office of Sanchifier, in his holy operations communicating divine light and life to the foul. God, in the communications of his Holy Spirit, has appeared as an infinite fountain of divine glory and fweetnefs; being full and fufficient to fill and fatisfy the foul; pouring forth itfelf in fweet communications, like the fun in its glory, fweetly and pleafantly diffufing light and life.

" I have fometimes had an affecting fenfe of the excellency of the word of God, as a word of life; as the light of life; a fweet, excellent, life-giving word; accompanied with a thirfting after that word, that it might dwell richly in my heart.

" I have often, fince I lived in this town, had very affecting views of my own finfulnefs and vilenefs; very frequently fo as to hold me in a kind of loud weeping, fometimes for a confiderable time together: fo that I have often been forced to fhut myfelf up. I have had a vaftly greater fenfe of my own wickednefs, and the badnefs of my heart, fince my conversion, than ever I had before.

28

It has often appeared to me, that if God should mark iniquity against me, I should appear the very worst of all mankind, of all that have been since the beginning of the world to this time; and that I should have by far the lowest place in hell.

"And yet I am not in the leaft inclined to think, that I have a greater conviction of fin than ordinary : 1 know certainly, that I have very little fenfe of my finfulnefs; that my fins appear to me fo great, don't feem to me to be, becaufe I have fo much more conviction of fin than other Chriftians, but becaufe I am fo much worfe, and have fo much more wickednefs to be convinced of.

" I have greatly longed of late for a broken heart, and to lie low before God. And when I afk for humility of God, I can't bear the thoughts of being no more humble than other Chriftians. It feems to me, that though their degrees of humility may be fuitable for them, yet it would be a vile felf-exaltation in me, not to be the loweft in humility of all mankind. Others fpeak of their longing to be humbled to the duft: though that may be a proper expreffion of them, I always think for myfelf, that I ought to be humbled down below hell. It is an expreffion that it has long been natural for me to ufe in prayer to God. I ought to lie infinitely low before God."

On this fubject Mr. Edwards feems to delight in hyperboles; and may teach us this remark, that true grace is exceedingly humbling. It taught the great apoftle to effeem himfelf the 'chief of finners,' and 'lefs than the leaft of ' all faints.' It is poffible, however, to ufe extravagant expressions on any fubject, and "to be humbled below hell," or "infinitely low," may be thought fuch. The humble and amiable Dr. Watts defined humility to confift in a man's having "a just opinion of himfelf," not a degrading one. We are all fo much indebted to divine mercy, that there feems little danger of hyperboles on that fubject; there is no occasion however to fink our language below the poffibility of a meaning.

" I have vaftly a greater fenfe of my univerfal exceeding dependence on God's grace and ftrengtth, and mere good good pleafure, of late, than I ufed formerly to have; and have experienced more of an abhorence of my own righteoufnefs. The thought of any comfort or joy arifing in me, on any confideration, or reflection on my own amiablenefs, or any of my performances or experiences, or any goodnefs of heart or life, is naufeous and deteftable to me; and yet I am greatly afflicted with a proud and felf-righteous fpirit, much more fenfibly than I ufed to be formerly: I fee that ferpent rifing and putting forth its head continually, everywhere, all around me.

" Though it feems to me, that in fome refpects, I was a far better Christian for two or three years after my first conversion than I am now, and lived in a more constant delight and pleafure ; yet of late years I have had a more full and conftant fenfe of the abfolute fovereignty of God, and a delight in that fovereignty; and have had more of a fenfe of the glory of Chrift, as a mediator, as revealed in the gospel. On one Saturday night, in particular, had a peculiar difcovery of the excellency of the gofpel of Chrift, above all other doctrines, fo that I could not but fay to myfelf, ' This is my chofen light, my chofen doc-' trine :' and of Chrift, ' This is my chofen prophet.' . . . . Another Saturday night . . . . had fuch a fenfe how fweet and bleffed a thing it was, to walk in the way of duty, that it caufed me to cry out, ' How happy are ' they which do that which is right in the fight of God ! ' They are bleffed indeed, they are the happy ones !' I had at the fame time a very affecting fenfe, how meet and fuitable it was that God fhould govern the world, and order all things according to his own pleafure; and I rejoiced in it, that God reigned, and that his will was done."

Thus clofes the extraordinary experience of our Author, and by way of caution to fincere but inferior Chriftians, we beg it be confidered that it was extraordinary; that few Chriftians have arrived to equal attainments in the divine life, particularly as to a fettled acquiefcence in the divine will, and a devotednefs of heart to the Redeemer. But let us not confider his, or any man's experience, as an abfolute criterion to try the fafety of our flate, or the truth of our conversion. The word of God is our rule, and the only one on which we can rely with certainty. There are as many degrees of growth in grace, as in nature; the beloved apoftle wrote to children, young men, and fathers in Chrift. And there is no lefs variety in the manner of the Holy Spirit's operation. ' The wind bloweth where it lifteth,' faith our divine teacher, [John iii. 8.] ' and thou hearest the found ' thereof, but canft not tell whence it cometh, and whi-' ther it goeth : fo is every one that is born of the Spirit.' So free, fo fovereign, fo multiform and incomprehenfible, are the operations of divine grace; but this remark is not intended to induce any to reft fatisfied in their prefent attainments. It is not only the duty but one of the beft criteria, of a true Christian, ' to go on unto perfection.' [Heb. vi. 1.]

to

We shall detain the reader with only one other remark. on the preceding narrative, viz. That the fubject of the fubfequent work [the Hiftory of Redemption] was long one of our author's most favourite topic's of reflection, "When I have read," faith he, "histories of past ages, the pleafantest thing in all my reading has been, to read of the kingdom of Chrift being promoted, . . . and my mind has been much entertained and delighted with the fcripture promifes and prophecies of the future glorious advancement of Chrift's kingdom on earth." And, what is very observable, he even objected at first to accept the prefidentilip of New Jerfey College for this among other reafons --- " I have had on my mind and heart, which I long ago began, not with any view to publication, a great work, which I call, a Hiftory of the Work of Redemption," &c. [See his letter to the truftees of the above college, dated Oct. 19, 1757, in the life prefixed to his fermons, p. 95.] which circumftance is alfo remarked in a letter of his fon, the Rev. Jonathan Edwards, of New Haven, Feb. 25, 1773.

We shall close our account of President Edwards with the following particulars of his habit of life, and character:

Though he was of a tender and delicate conftitution, yet few students were capable of more close application than he was. He commonly fpent thirteen hours every day in his fludy. His most usual diversions in the fummer were riding on horfeback and walking; he would commonly, unlefs diverted by company, ride two or three miles after dinner to fome lonely grove, where he would difmount and walk a while. At which times he generally carried his pen and ink with him, to note any thought that fhould be fuggested, which he chose to retain and purfue. In the winter he was wont, almost daily, to take an axe and chop wood moderately for the fpace of half an hour or more. He had an uncommon thirst for knowledge, in the purfuit of which he fpared neither coft nor pains. He read all the books, efpecially books of divinity, that he could come at, from which he could hope to get any help in his purfuit of knowledge. And, in this, he confined not himfelf to authors of any particular fect or denomination; but took much pains to come at the books of the most celebrated writers whose scheme of divinity was most contrary to his own principles: but he fludied the Bible more than all other books, and more than most other divines do. His uncommon acquintance with it appears in his fermons, and in most of his publications: and his great pains in fludying it are manifeft in his manufcript notes upon it. He was thought by fonie, who had but a flight acquaintance with him, to be fliff and unfociable; but this was owing to want of better acquaintance. He was not a man of many words indeed, and was fomewhat referved among ftrangers; but among fuch whofe candour and friendflip he had experienced, he threw off that referve, and was most open and free; and remarkably patient of contradiction. He was not used to fpend his time in fcandal, evil fpeaking, and backbiting, or in foolifh jefting and idle chat; but his mouth was that that of the juft, which bringeth forth wifdom, and his lips difperfed knowledge; fo that none of his friends could enjoy his company without inftruction and profit, unlefs it was by their own fault: he kept himfelf quite free from worldly cares; and left the direction of the temporal concerns of his family almost entirely to Mrs. Edwards; who was better able than most of her fex, to take the whole care of them on her hands.

+

Ϋ́,

Thus ornamental to the chriftian name and character lived the excellent fubject of thefe memoirs; and his death perfectly harmonized with the tenor of his life: "Never did any mortal man," fays his phyfician, in a letter to Mrs. Edwards, "more fully and clearly evidence the fincerity of his profeffion, by one continued, univerfal calm, cheerful refignation, and patient fubmiffion, to the divine will, through every ftage of his difeafe, than he: not fo much as one difcontented exprefion, nor the leaft appearance of murinuring through the whole."

Prefident Edwards left the following works, befides fundry MSS. yet unpublished, which will doubtless perpetuate his memory to remote ages of the church.

I. A Narrative of the furprifing Work of God in the Conversion of feveral hundred Souls in Northampton, New England. 1737.

II. Five Sermons---on Juftification by Faith alone: ---Preffing into the Kingdom of God---Ruth's Refolution---The Juftice of God in the Damnation of Sinners ---and the Excellency of Jefus Chrift. 1738.

III. Thoughts on the Revival of Religion in New England. 1742.

IV. A Treatife on religious Affection. 1746.

V. An Attempt to promote the Union of God's People in extraordinary Prayer for the Revival of Religion. 17.47.

VI. The Life of Mr. David Brainerd, Miffionary. 1749.

VII. An Inquiry into the Qualification for full Communion, &c. 1749.

F 2

VIII. A

+

+

+

+

VIII. A Reply to the Rev. Mr. William's Answer to this Inquiry. 1752.

IX. An Inquiry into the Freedom of the Will. 1754.

X. A Number of fingle Sermons, on various Subjects and different Occafions.

XI. The Christian Doctrine of original Sin. 1758.

N. B. This was in the prefs when he died; the following works were pofthumous.

XII. A Hiftory of Redemption. [The fubfequent work] 1774.

XIII. His Life and eighteen Sermons. 1785.

+

+

SYLLABUS

[ 35 ]

SYLLLABU S

ΟF ТНЕ

HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

GENERAL INTRODUCTION.

TEXT [Ifa. li. 8.] explained.

Obferve, 1. How fhort the profperity of the church's enemies.

> 2. The happy and eternal portion of God's people.

DOCTRINE. The work of REDEMPTION is a work which God carries on from the fall of man to the end of the world.

Premise, 1. An explanation of the terms.

2. God's defigns in this work, were

To triumph over his enemies;

To reftore the ruins of the fall;

To gather all the elect in Chrift;

To complete their happines;

To glorify the bleffed Trinity.

The subject divided into three PERIODS.

PERIOD I.

From the FALL to the INCARNATION.

§ I. From the FALL to the FLOOD.

- - The first promise.
     The origin of facrifices.
    - 4. Salvation of Abel.
    - 5. Revival of Religion.
    - 6. Holy life of Enoch.
    - 7. His prophecy.
    - 8. His translation.
    - 8. His translation.
       9. Prefervation of religion in Noah's family.
       § II.

From the FLOOD to the Call of ABRAHAM.

- 1. The Flood.
- 2. Noah's prefervation in the ark.
- 3. New grant to Noah.
- 4. Renewal of the covenant with him.
- 5. Deftruction of Babel.
- 6. The confequent differion.

§ III. From the Call of ABRAHAM to Moses.

- The Call of Abraham. Ŧ
- 2. Farther difcovery of the covenant of grace.
- 3. Prefervation of the ancient Patriarchs.
- 4. Deftruction of Sodom.
- 5. Covenant renewed with Ifaac and Jacob.
- 6. Hiftory of Jofeph.
- 7. Jacob's prophecy.
- § IV. From Moses to DAVID.
  - 1. Ifrael's redemption from Egypt.
  - 2. Other nations given up to heathenism.
  - 3. The law given at Sinai.
  - The Jewish typical law. 4..
  - The Pentateuch written by Mofes.
  - 5. The Pentateuen written by moles. 6. Ifrael's paffage through the wildernefs, typical.
  - 7. Human life thortened.
  - 8. Miracles in the wildernefs.
  - 9. Prophecies of Balaam and Mofes.
  - 10. God's Spirit poured out on the rifing generation.
  - 11. Ifrael brought into Canaan.
  - 12. The tabernacle pitched at Shiloh.
  - The land preferved while Ifrael went up to 13. Jerufalem.
  - 14. Ifrael preferved during their frequent apoltafies.
  - 15 Their repeated deliverances from captivity.
  - 16. The appearances of Chrift under the Old Teftament.
  - 17. The fchool of the prophets inftituted by Samuel.
- § V. From DAVID to the Babylonifh CAPTIVITY.
  - 1. David anointed.
  - 2. His life wonderfully preferved.
  - 3. Samuel's writings.
  - 4. David's infpiration.
  - 5. David crowned.
  - 6. Jerufalem chofen by God.
  - 7. God's covenant renewed with David.
  - 8. Ifrael first possible whole promifed land.

9. Jewith

- 9. Jewish worship perfected.
- 10. Writings of Nathan and Gad.
- 11. Kingdom of Judah preferved in David's family.
- 12. The building of Solomon's temple.
- 13. The Jewish church at its highest glory in his time.
- 14. God's Work carried on during the fublequent decline.

Observe, this prepared the way for Christ's coming.

- 15. The canon of Scripture enlarged.16. The church kept in times of general apoftafy.17. The book of the law wonderfully preferved.
- 18. The tribe of Judah preferved.
- 19. A fucceffion of Prophets from Samuel.
- VI. From the Babylonifh CAPTIVITY to the INCARNA-3 TION.
  - Premife, (1.) This period more the fubject of Prophecy than Hiftory.
    - (2.) Full of remarkable revolutions.
    - (3.) The church preferved in the midft of them all.
    - 1. The captivity in Babylon---its use to the Jews
    - 2. Additions to the canon of Scripture.
    - 3. Babylon deftroyed by Cyrus.
    - 4. The Jews return.
    - The prophecies of Haggai and Zachariah. 5.
    - 6. The Spirit of God remarkably with Ezra.
    - The book of Ezra written. 7.
    - The canon of Scripture compiled. 8.
    - 9. The public reading of the law.
    - The Jews preferved from Haman's cruelty. 10.
    - 11. The books of Nehemiah and Effher written.
    - 12. Malachi's prophecy.
    - 13. The Spirit of Prophecy ceafed.
    - The Perfian Empire deflroyed, 14.
    - The Septuagint translation. 15.
    - 16. The church preferved during the Greek Empire.
    - 17. The erection of the Roman Empire. -
    - 18. Learning and philotophy at their height.
    - 19. Roman Empire in peace and glory.

IMPROVEMENT, I. Jefus the true Meffiah.

- 2. The Old Testament inspired.
- 3. An objection anfwered.

4. God's

SYLLABUS.

- 4. God's wifdom difplayed in divine revelation.
- 5. Chrift the grand fubject of the Bible.
- 6. The usefulness of the Old Testament.
- 7. Folly of neglecting the Bible.
- 8. Grandeur of Christ's character and mission.

PERIOD II.

From CHRIST'S INCARNATION to his RESURRECTION.

- § I. The INCARNATION---why neceffary.
  - 1. Included Chrift's conception and birth.
  - 2. Accomplished in the fulness of time.
  - 3. The greatness of this event.
  - 4. Poverty of Chrift.
  - 5. Several concomitants of this event ; as
    - The return of God's Spirit;
    - Notice taken of the Incarnation both in heaven and earth;
    - Circumcifion of Chrift;
    - Chrift's appearance in the fecond temple ;
    - The fceptre's departing from Judah.
- § II. The PURCHASE of Redemption.
  - 1. The term explained.
  - 2. General Obfervations; viz.
    - (1.) Chrift's fatisfaction confifted in his fufferings,
    - (2.) During the whole of his humiliation.
    - (3.) By the fame things Chrift fatisfied for fin, and purchafed eternal happinefs.
  - 3. Confider Chrift's obedience, as to
    - (1.) The laws he obeyed---as a Man, a Jew, and as a Mediator.
  - N. B. Obferve the excellency of this obedience.
    - (2.) The different periods of his obedience ;
      - In his private life ;
  - In his public miniftry; concerning which, Observe, Chrift's forerunner;
    - His baptifm;
      - His public works; preaching, working miracles, and calling his-difciples;
      - His ministry finished, by counfelling his difciples, instituting his supper, and offering himself a facrifice.

(3.) The

<ul> <li>(3.) The virtues he exercifed; with refpect to God, himfelf, and other men.</li> <li>4. Confider Chrift's fufferings: <ul> <li>(1.) In his infancy;</li> <li>(2.) private life;</li> <li>(3.) public miniftry;</li> <li>(4.) death.</li> </ul> </li> <li>IMPROVEMENT, I. Reproof, <ul> <li>Of unbelief;</li> <li>Self righteoufnefs;</li> <li>Neglect of falvation.</li> </ul> </li> <li>2. Encouragement; <ul> <li>Completenefs of Chrift's purchafe;</li> <li>Chrift rejects none who come to him.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>
PERIOD III.
INTRODUCTION. I. The times of this period called the latter days.
end of the world.
3defcribed as a creation of a new heaven and earth 4called the kingdom of God. Obferve, God's defign to exhibit his wifdom and victories over Satan.
§ I. Those things wHEREBY CHRIST WAS CAPACITATED for this work.
1. His refurrection.
2. His afcenfion. II. DISPENSATION of PROVIDENCE, by which the means of the fuccels of it were established, viz-
<ol> <li>The end of the Jewish dispensation.</li> <li>The Christian Sabbath.</li> <li>The inftitution of a gospel ministry.</li> <li>The gift of the Holy Ghost.</li> <li>The full revelation of gospel truth.</li> <li>The appointment of deacons.</li> <li>The mission of St. Paul.</li> <li>The inftitution of ecclessifical councils.</li> <li>Committing the New Testament to writing.</li> <li>G</li> </ol>

§ III. This success CARRIED ON in a SUFFERING state.

- 1. From Christ's refurrection to the destruction of Jerusalem.
  - (1.) Its fuccefs among the Jews, Samaritans, and Gentiles.
  - (2.) Opposition made to it.
  - (3.) God's judgments on the oppofers.
- 2. From the deftruction of Jerufalem to Constantine.
  - (1.) Oppofition made by writing and perfecution.
  - (2.) Succefs of the gofpel notwithftanding.
  - (3.) Particular circumstances of distress just before Constantine.
  - (4.) Revolution in Conftantine's time. Chriftians delivered from perfecution. Terrible judgments on their enemies. Heathenifm in a great measure abolished. Peace of the church.

IMPROVEMENT .--- The truth of Christianity.

The gofpel the only means of bringing men to the knowledge of God.

The hand of God vifible in this work. No other caufe fufficient to account for it. The event agreeable to Chrift's predictions.

- 3. From Constantine to the rife of Antichrift.
  - (1.) Opposition made by herefies and paganism.
  - (2.) Succefs of the gofpel notwithftanding.
- 4. From the rife of Antichrift to the reformation.
  - (1.) The devil's oppofition by Popery and Mahometanifm.
  - (2.) The church wonderfully preferved. Some nations late in fubmitting to popery. Some in every age oppofed it, Particularly the Waldenfes, Alfo Wickliffe and his difciples.
- 5. From the reformation to the prefent time.
  - (1.) The reformation itself confidered.
    - (2.) The opposition made to it,
      - By the Council of Trent,
      - By private confpiracies,
      - By open wars,
      - By bloody perfecutions,
      - By erroneous opinions.

(3.) The

(3.) The fuccefs of the gofpel lately, In reformation of doctrine; In the fpread of the gofpel; particularly in America, Muscovy, and the East Indies. Revivals of religion of late, especially in Saxony and New England. (4.) The prefent state of religion; In fome respects better, In others worfe. IMPROVEMENT .--- Evidences of Christianity,

From the oppofition of wicked men,

_____ prefervation of the church, _____ fulfilment of prophecies,

- _____ fpirit of Chriftianity.

The credibility of remaining prophecies.

- 6. From the prefent time to the fall of Antichrift.
  - (1.) A dark time will precede this event.
  - (2.) The fall of Antichrift will be gradual, though fwift.
  - (3.) It will be accomplifhed by the out-pouring of God's Spirit.
  - (4.) Great opposition will be made.
  - (5.) Chrift will obtain complete victory.
  - (6.) Satan's vitible kingdom be univerfally deftroyed.
  - (7.) This event compared to the day of judgment.

§ IV. This Success carried on in a prosperous flate for the most part.

- 1. Its prosperity through the greater part of this period.
  - (1.) This most properly the kingdom of heaven on earth.
  - (2.) This the grand period for the fulfilment of prophecy.
  - (3.) The duration of this period.
- 2. The grand apoflafy which will immediately precede Chrift's coming.

& V. COMPLETION of this work in GLORY.

- Premife, (1.) How great the fuccess of Christ's purchase.
  - (2.) All preceding deliverances preparatory and typical of this.

To accomplifh this work,

1. Chrift will appear in the clouds ;

2. The

- 2. The dead fhall be raifed ;
- The faints shall meet the Lord in the air; 3.
- 4. The righteoufnefs of the church and wickednefs of her enemies shall be manifest;
- Final fentence pass on all men;
- 6. Chrift and his church afcend to glory;
- This world be burnt; 7.
- 8. The church made completely and eternally happy.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT.

- I. How great the work of redemption !
- 2. God the Alpha and Omega in it.
- 3. Chrift in all things hath the pre-eminence.
- 4. The harmony of divine Providence.
- The narmony of divine Prov
   The truth of the Scriptures.
   Difplay of the divisor Difplay of the divine power and glory.
- 7. 8. — wifdom.
- mercy and faithfulnefs.
- 9. Happiness of the church.
- 10. Mifery of wicked men.

:

H T S Т 0 R Y O F R E D E M Р T T O N.

ISAIAH. li 8.

FOR THE MOTH SHALL EAT THEM UP LIKE A GAR-MENT, AND THE WORM SHALL EAT THEM LIKE WOOL: BUT MY RIGHTEOUSNESS SHALL BE FOR EVER, AND MY SALVATION FROM GENERATION TO GENERATION.

HE defign of this chapter is to comfort the church under her fufferings, and the perfecutions of her enemies; and the argument of confolation infifted on, is, the conftancy and perpetuity of God's mercy and faithfulnefs, which fhall be manifeft in continuing to work falvation; protecting her against all affaults of her enemies, and carrying her through all the changes of the world, and finally crowning her with victory and deliverance.

In the text, this happiness of the church of God is fet forth by comparing it with the contrary fate of her enemiss that oppress her. And therein we may observe,

1. How fhort-lived the power and profperity of the church's enemies is: ' The moth fhall eat them up like ' a garment, and the worm fhall eat them like wool;' (A) i.e.

(A) The MOTH—and the WORM fhall eat them.] There is a flight inaccuracy in this rendering which is worth correcting, becaufe it i.c. however great their profperity, and however great their prefent glory, they thall by degrees confume and vanifh away by a fecret curfe of God, till they come to nothing; and their power and glory, and confequently their perfecutions, eternally ceafe; and themfelves be finally and irrecoverably ruined : as the fineft and most glorious apparel will in time wear away, and be confumed by moth and rottennefs. We learn who those are that thall thus confume away, by the foregoing verse, viz. those that are the enemies of God's people : ' Hearken unto me, ye that ' know righteoutnefs, the people in whose heart is my law, ' fear ye not the reproach of MEN, (B) neither be ye afraid ' of THEIR revilings.

Observe, 2. The contrary happy lot and portion of God's church, expressed in these words, ' My righteousness thall ' be it will throw a farther beauty on the text. It flould feem that the word [Dy] gnafh, rendered moth, firictly fignifies, not the moth-fly, but the moth-worm, or caterpillar, and receives its name from its corroding and diffroging the texture of cloth. [PARKHURST Lex. Heb. in Verb. and Scorr in Job.] " The young moth," [or moth-worm] fays the ingenious Abbe LE PLUCHE, " upon leaving the egg, which a papilio [or moth] has lodged upon a piece of fluff . . . . commodious for her purpole, finds a habitation and food . . . . it grows and lives upon the nap, and likewife builds with it its apartment. . . . The whole is well fastened to the ground of the ftuff with feveral cords and a little glue. The moth [worm]... devours and demolifies all about her; ... and when the has cleared the place .... fhe draws out all the ftakes of this tent, after which the carries it to fome little diffance, and then fixes it with flender cords in a new fituation. In this manner fle continues to live at our expense till the is fatiated with her food, at which period five is first transformed into a nymph, and then changed into a papilio, or moth. [Nature Difplayed, vol. i. p. 35.] And this is what is intended to be expressed by the latter word [DD] fas, which is the proper name of the moth itfelf, from its agility. [So the LXX render it Entry, and the Vulgate, Tinca. And hence is derived Due, ufed in the Greek and Syriac of Matt. vi. 20.] We would read the text thus, " The MOTH-WORM fhall eat them like a garment, and the MOTH fhall devour them like wool.' So fecret, rapid, and complete fhall be the deftruction of the church's enemies !

(B) ' Reproach of men.'] Bifhop LowTH [in loc.] renders the latter word [UNN] fomewhat more elegantly and literally, " Reproach of WRETCHED MAN."

' be for ever, and my falvation from generation to gene' ration.' Allo who thole are that thall have the benefit of this, by the preceding verfe, namely, ' They that know
' rightcoufnefs, and the people in whole heart is God's ' law ;' or, in one word, the church of God. And concerning this their happinefs we may obferve two things, wherein its confifts, and its continuance.

(1.) Wherein it contifts, viz. In God's righteoufnefs and falvation towards them. By God's righteoufnefs here, is meant his faithfulnefs and fulfilling his covenant promifes to his church, or his faithfulnefs towards his church and people, in beflowing the benefits of the covenant of grace upon them; (c) which benefits, though they are bettowed of free and fovereign grace, and are altogether undeferved; yet as God has been pleafed, by the promifes of the covenant of grace, to bind himfelf to befrow them, fo they are beltowed in the exercise of God's righteoufnefs or juffice. And therefore the apofile favs [Heb. vi. 10.] "God is not unrighteous, to forget your work and labour ' of love.' And the Evangelift [1 John i. 9.] ' If we ' confess our fins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our ' fins, and to cleanfe us from all unrighteoufness.' So the word righteoufnefs is very often ufed in foripture for God's covenant faithfulnefs; as in Nehem. ix. 8. ' Thou haft performed thy words, for thou art righteous.' So we are often to underftand righteoufnefs and covenant mercy for the fame, as [Pfa. xxiv. 5.] ' He fhall receive the bleffing ' from the Lord, and righteoufnefs from the God of his ' falvation.' [Pfa. xxxvi. 10.] ' Continue thy loving ' kindnefs to them that know thee, and thy righteoufnefs ' to the upright in heart.' [Pfa. li. 14.] ' Deliver me ' from blood guiltinefs, O God, thou God of my falva-' tion, and my tongue shall fing aloud of thy righteoufnefs.' [Dan. ix. 16.] ' O Lord, according to thy righ-· teoufnels,

(c) God's righteoufnefs.] " The word [vv] righteoufnefs is ufed in fuch a great latitude of fignification ... that it is not eafy fometimes to give the precife meaning of it; ... it means here the faithful completion of God's promifes to deliver his people." [Bp. LOWTH, in ver. 5.] 46

teoufnefs, I befeech thee, let thine anger and thy furybe turned away.'---And fo in innumerable other places.

The other word here used is falvation. Of these, God's righteousness and his falvation, the one is the cause, of which the other is the effect. God's righteousness, or covenant mercy, is the root, of which his falvation is the fruit. Both of them relate to the covenant of grace. The one is God's covenant mercy and faithfulness, the other intends that work by which this covenant mercy is accomplished. For falvation is the fum of all those works of God, by which the benefits of the covenant of grace are procured and bestowed.

(2.) We may observe its continuance, fignified here by two expressions; for ever, and from generation to generation. The latter feems to be explanatory of the former. The phrase for ever, is variously used in foripture. (D) Sometimes thereby is meant as long as a man lives.

(D) The phrafe FOR EVER is varioufly used in fcripture.] The meaning of this and the like expression intimately connected with feveral controversies, particularly the perpetuity of the law of Moses, the duration of future torments, and the divinity of Christ, that it is of confiderable confequence to afcertain it. SCHIND-LERUS fays of the original term in Hebrew, "Evum, feculum, certum temporis spacium : longum tempus prætéritum aut futurum : tempus, cujus duratio eit abscondita : duratio finita juxta subjectam materiam, de qui agitur." PARKHURST [Lex. in  $\Box \gamma y$ ] whose words perfectly correspond, interprets it of "Time, bidden or concealed from man, as well indefinite and eternal, as finite ; as well past as future. It feems to be much more frequently used for an indefinite than for an infinite time." And even Mr. Levi explains it by "Perpetual ; everlasting ; figuratively, a certain number of years.' [Heb. Dict. in  $\Box \gamma y$ .]

We think the most accurate method of explaining the different meanings of this phrafe would be, to reduce them to a general term, and none feems to promife fo fair, or has been fo generally applied to it, as AGE (ævum, feculum) which we fhall therefore try, and apply to the inflances quoted by our author.

1. For ever, everlafting, and the like terms, are fonctimes applied to the age of human life, as in 1 Sam. xxviii. 2. 'And Achifh 'faid to David, I will make thee keeper of mine head for ever;' i.e. as long as I live. So our author understands Exod. xxi. 6. as above cited; but many refer this to the next fende.

2. For lives. Thus it is faid, [Exod. xxi. 6.] The fervant that had his ear bored through with an awl to the door of his mafter fhould ferve him for ever .--- Sometimes thereby is meant during the continuance of the Jewish state. So of many of the ceremonial and Livitical laws it is faid, that they should be statutes for ever.---Sometimes it means as long as the world shall stand, or to the end of the generations of men. Thus [Ecclef. i. 4.] ' Oue generation · paffeth away and another cometh; but the earth abideth · for

H

2. For ever means to the year of jubilee, as LEVI [ut fupra] and others. The fact is, if no jubilee intervened, the fervant whofe ear was bored was to ferve as long as he lived, but the jubilee releafed him. And the term age might be applied to the period of the jubilee, which was fifty years, with as much propriety as to that of a century. Seculum has been differently explained of periods of thirty, one hundred, and even a thoufand years.

3. We frequently reftrict the term for ever to the Jewish age, or difpenfation, and thus account for the abolition of those flatutes which, as above observed, were commanded to be kept for ever. The time of the Jewish difpensation may be with as much propriety called an age, as are the periods of other difpenfations :--thus we fay, the Antideluvian age, the Patriarchal age, the Millennial age. So the heathens divided the different periods of the world into the Golden age, the Silver age, the Iron age, &c.

4. The fame term may be extended to the period of the Gofpel difpenfation, or the Gofpel age, the last which the fcripture warrants us to expect, the termination of which therefore will be coeval with the end of the world; and in this view, it will be the fame thing whether we refer the term for ever to the end of the gospel dispensation, or of the world, as our author does.

5. The expression for ever must certainly be fometimes taken in its utmost extent, as reaching to eternity, i.e. the age of God and fpiritual beings; and we may obferve, that when the term is repeated (for ever and ever) it is generally fo to be underflood.

6. The term for ever is frequently taken in a figurative view, as above hinted, for any long period, past or future. [See in the Heb. Ecclef. i. 10 .- xii. 5.] Thus we use the term age when we fay, fuch a thing has been an age in doing-fuch a perfon is an age in coming-or fuch an event happened an age ago.

But the moft important thing is to eathblifh a criterion to determine its full import in any text required. The remark of Schindlerus above cited is certainly just, namely, that the fubject must determine it; may we not venture then to fay, that the terms for ever, everlafting, &c. are always to be taken in the utmost latitude the firjed will admit of, and therefore to be extended to a proper eternity, when there is nothing decifive to forbid it ?--[I. N.]

" for ever.' Sometimes thereby is meant to all eternity. So it is faid, ' God is bleffed for ever.' [Rom. i. 25.] And [John vi. 51.] ' If any man cat of this bread he shall "live for ever.' Now which of these fenses is here intended the next word determines, ' and my falvation from: " generation to generation;' that is, to the end of the world. Indeed the fruits of God's falvation shall remain afterwards, as appears by the 6th verfe; ' Lift up your ' eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath : ' for the heavens shall vanish away like smoak, and the · earth fhall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell · therein shall die in like manner, but my falvation shall · be for ever, and my righteoufnefs shall not be abolished.' But the work of the falvation of the church shall continue to be wrought till then. Till the end of the world God will go on to accomplish deliverance and falvation for the church, from all her enemies; for that is what the prophet is here fpeaking of. Till the end of the world; till her enemies ceafe to be, or to have any power to moleft the church. And this expression, from generation to generation, may determine us, as to the time which God continues to carry on the work of falvation for his church, both with refpect to the beginning and end. It is from generation to generation, i. c. throughout all generations; beginning with the first generation of men upon the earth, and not ending till thefe generations end, with the world itfelf. And therefore we deduce from thefe words this

DOCTRINE.

THE WORK OF REDEMPTION IS A WORK WHICH GOD CARRIES ON FROM THE FALL OF MAN TO THE END , OF THE WORLD.

THE beginning of the pofterity of our first parents was after the fall; for all their posterity, by ordinary generation, are partakers of the fall, and of the corruption of nature nature that followed from it; and thefe generations, by which the human race is propagated, fhall continue to the end of the world; fo thefe two are the limits of the generation of men on the earth; the f.dl of man, and the end of the world. There are the fame limits to the work of redemption, as to those progressive works of God, by which that redemption is accomplished; though not as to the fruits of it; for they, as was faid before, shall be eternal.

48

The work of redemption and the work of falvation are the fame thing. What is fometimes in feripture called God's faving his people, is in other places called his redeeming them. Chrift is called both the Saviour and Redeemer of his people.

BEFORE entering on the proposed History of the Work of Redemption, I would,

1. Explain the terms made use of in the doctrine ;--- and,

2. Shew what are those things which are defigned to be accomplished by this great work.

1. I am to show in what fence the terms of the doctrine are used.---And, (1.) I shall point out how I would be understood when I use the word redemption ;---and, (2.) When I say, the work is carried on from the fall of man to the end of the world.

(1.) I muft flow how I would be underftood when I use the word redemption.---And here it may be observed, that the work of redemption is fometimes to be taken in a limited fonfe, for the purchase of falvation; (for so the word strictly signifies, a purchase of deliverance;) and if we take it in this fense, the work of redemption was not to long in doing: but it was begun and finiss and for the With Christ's humiliation. It was begun with Christ's incarnation, carried on through his life, and finished with his death, or the time of his remaining under the power of death, which ended in his refurection: and so we fay, that the day of Christ's refurection is the day when he finished the work of redemption, i.e. then the purchase H 2 was was finished: and the work itself, and all that appertained to it, was virtually done, but not a Elually.

But fometimes the work of redemption is taken more largely, as including all that God doth tending to this end; not only the purchase itself, but also all God's works that were properly preparatory to, or applicatory of, the purchase, and accomplishing the fuccefs of it : fo then the whole difpenfation, as it includes the preparation, the purchase, and the application and fuccefs of Chrift's redemption, may be called the work of redemption. All that Chrift does in this great affair as mediator, in any of his offices, either of prophet, prieft, or king; either when he was in this world in his human nature, or before, or fince : and not only what Chrift the mediator has done, but also what the Father, or the Holy Ghost, have done, as covenanted in this defign of redeeming finful men; or, in one word, all that is wrought in execution of the eternal covenant of redemption; this is what I call the work of redemption in the doctrine; for it is all but one work, one defign. The various difpenfations or works that belong to it, are but the feveral parts of one feheme. It is but one defign that is formed, to which all the offices of Chrift directly tend; in which all the Perfons of the Trinity confpire; and all the various difpenfations that belong to it are united. The feveral wheels are one machine, to answer one end, and produce one effect.

(2.) When I fay, this work is carried on from the fall of man to the end of the world; in order to the full underftanding of my meaning in it, I would defire two or three things to be obferved.

[1.] That it is not meant, that nothing was done in order to it before the fall of man. Some things were done before the world was created, yea, from all eternity. The perfons of the Trinity were, as it were, confederated in a defign, and a covenant of redemption; (E) in which covenant

(E) The PERSONS of the TRINITY.] Some ferious perfons have been offended at thefe terms as unferiptural and unwarrantable.

50

venant the Father had appointed the Son, and the Son had undertaken the work: and all things to be accomplifhed in the work were ftipulated and agreed: and befides thefe, there were things done at the creation of the world, in order to that work, before man fell; for the world itfelf feems to have been created in order to it. The work of creation was in order to God's works of providence; fo that if it be inquired, which of thefe are the greateft, the works of creation, or the works of providence? I anfwer, the works of providence; becaufe God's works of providence are the end of his works of creation; as the building able. It is acknowledged well to keep as much as may be to the phrafeology, as well as doctrines of revelation; but it is not always poffible; unlefs, at leaft, we will talk Greek and Hebrew. As to the word TRINITY, fince it implies no more than the union of Three in One, without leaning to any particular fcheme of explication, thofe who believe the divine and myfterious union of Father, Son, and Spirit, in one Godhead, need hardly feruple it, however averfe to human fyftems.

The term PERSON when applied to Deity is certainly used in a fense formewhat different from that in which we apply it to one another; but when it is confidered that the Greek words [ $\Im \pi \sigma_5 \alpha \sigma_{15} \ll \Pi_f \nu \sigma \omega \pi \sigma_0$ ] to which it answers, are in the New Testament applied to the Father and Son, [Heb. i. 3.—2 Cor. iv. 6.] and that no fingle term, at least, can be found more fuitable, it can hardly be condemned as unferiptural or improper.

The Perfons of the Trinity are confederated in a CONNANT, &c. It would lead us far beyond the compais of a note to enter here on the doctrine of the covenants; we shall therefore only subjoin a few of the texts on which it is founded.

2 Sam. xxiii. 5. 'He hath made with me an everlafting cove-'nant, ordered in all things and fure; for this is all my falvation ' and all my defire.'

Pf. xl. 6-8. 'Sacrifice and offering thou didft not defire-' then faid I, Lo, I come; in the volume of the book it is written ' of me.' Compare Heb. x. 5-9.

Pf. lxxxix. throughout. 'I have made a covenant with my cho-'fen-then thou fpakeft in vifion to the holy one and faid, I have

- ' laid help on one that is mighty,'-&c. Compare Hof. iii. 5.
- Pf. cx. throughout. 'The Lord faid unto my Lord, fit thou 'at my right haud-the Lord hath fworn and will not repent, thou - art a prielt for ever,' &c. Comp. Matt. xxii. 24. Dan. ix. 27. 'He fhall confirm the covenant with many.' Heb. viii. 6. 'He is the mediator of a better covenant.' xiii. 20. 'The blood of the everlafting covenant.'

ing an house, or the forming an engine or machine, is for its future use. But God's main work of providence is this great work of redemption, as will more fully appear hereafter.

The creation of heaven was in order to the work of redemption; it was to be an habitation for the redeemed: [Matt. xxv. 34.] ' Then shall the King fay unto them on ' his right hand, Come, ye bleffed of my Father, inherit " the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the " world." Even the angels were created to be employed in this work. (F) And therefore the apostle calls them, ' ministering spirits, fent forth to minister for them who ' shall be heirs of falvation.' [Heb. i. 14.] As to this lower world, it was doubtlefs created to be a ftage upon which this great and wonderful work of redemption should be transacted; and therefore, as might be shewn, in many refpects this world is wifely fitted, in the formation, for fuch a flate of man as he is in fince the fall, under a poffibility of redemption; fo that when it is faid, that the work of redemption is carried on from the fall of man to the end of the world, it is not meant, that all that ever was done in order to redemption has been done fince the fall.

Nor, [2.] Is it meant that there will be no remaining fruits of this work after the end of the world. That glory and bleffednefs, which will be the fum of them all, will remain to the faints for ever. The work of redemption is not a work always doing and never accomplified; the

(r) HEAVEN (and the ANGELS) created in order to the work of Redemption. That is, this was one of the ends God had then in view, but the fupreme end was his own glory. See Prov. xvi. 4.

THIS WORLD created to be a flage for the work of Redemption. This thought is certainly just and beautiful. Those who have confidered the world as defigned for only perfect creatures, have had many difficulties which this idea at once removes. What would have become of our first parents, had they continued in a state of innocency? How the world would have contained all its fucceffive generations at once? And the like inquiries are as impertinent as perplexing. God foreknew the fall-fore-ordained the mediatorand previoufly fitted the world to his own magnificent defigns.

the work has an iffue: but in the iffue the end will be obtained; which end will never terminate. As those things that were in order to this work before the beginning of the world,  $\forall iz$ . God's electing love, and the covenant of redemption, never had a beginning; fo the fruits of this work, which thall be after the end of the world, will never have an end. And therefore,

(3.) When it is faid in the doctrine, that this is a work that God is carrying on from the fall of man to the end of the world, what 1 mean, is, that those things which belong to the work itself, and are parts of this feheme, are all this while accomplithing. There were fome things done preparatory to its beginning, and the fruits of it will remain after it is finished. But the work itself was begun immediately upon the fall, and will continue to the end of the world, and then be finished: the various dispensations of God in this space belong to the fame work, and to the fame defign, and have all one iffue; and therefore are all to be reckoned but as feveral parts of one work, as it were, feveral fucceffive motions of one machine, to bring about, in the conclusion, one great event.

And here also we must diffinguish between the parts of redemption itfelf, and the parts of that work by which redemption is wrought out. There is a difference between the parts of the benefits procured and bestowed, and the parts of that work of God by which those benefits were procured and bestowed. As, for example, there is a difference between the parts of the benefit that the children of Ifrael received, in their redemption out of Egypt, and the parts of that work of God by which this was wrought. The redemption of the children of lirael out of Egypt, confidered as the benefit which they enjoyed, confifted of two parts, viz. their deliverance from their former Egyptian bondage and mifery, and their being brought into a more happy flate, as the fervants of God, and heirs of Canaan. But there are many more things which are parts of that work of God which is called his work of redeeming Ifrael out of Egypt. To this this belong his calling of Mofes, his fending him to Pharaoh, the figns and wonders he wrought in Egypt, and his bringing fuch terrible judgments on the Egyptians, and many other things.

Such is the work by which God effects the redemption we are fpeaking of: and it is carried on from the fall of man to the end of the world, in two refpects.

(1.) With refpect to the effect wrought on the fouls of the redeemed, which is common to all ages. This effect is the application of redemption with refpect to the fouls of particular perfons, in converting, justifying, fauctifying, and glorifying them. Thus finners are actually redeemed; and receive the benefit of the work of redemption in its effect upon their fouls. And in this fenfe the work of redemption is carried on from the fall of man to the end of the world. The work of God in converting fouls, opening blind eyes, unftopping deaf ears, raifing the fpiritually dead to life, and refcuing miferable captives out of the hands of Satan, was begun foon after the fall of man, has been carried on ever fince, and will be to the end. God has always, ever fince the first erection of the church of the redeemed after the fall, had fuch a church in the world. Though oftentimes it has been reduced to a very narrow compass, and to low circumstances; yet it has never wholly failed.

And as God carries on the work of converting the fouls of fallen men through all ages, fo he goes on to juftify them, to blot out their fins, to accept them as righteous in his fight, through the righteoufnefs of Chrift, and adopt and receive them from being the children of Satan, to be his own children ; thus alfo he goes on to fanctify, and complete the work of his grace, begun in them, to comfort them with the confolations of his Spirit, and to befow upon them, when their bodies die, that eternal glory which is the fruit of the purchafe of Chrift. What is faid, [Rom. viii. 30.] ' Whom he did predefinate, ' them he alfo called ; and whom he called, them he alfo ' juftified ; and whom he juftified, them he alfo glorified ;' is applicable to all ages, from the fall, to the end of the world.

The way that the work of redemption, with refpect to thefe effects of it on the fouls of the redeemed, is thus carried on, is by repeating and continually effecting the fame work over again, though in different perfons, from age to age. But,

[2.] The work of redemption with respect to the grand defign in general, as it respects the universal subject and end, is carried on in a different manner, not merely by repeating or renewing the fame effect in the different subjects of it, but by many successive works and difpenfations of God, all tending to one great end, all united as the feveral parts of one scheme, and all together making up one great work. Like as when an house or temple is being built; first, the workmen are engaged. then the materials are collected, the ground prepared, the foundation laid, the superstructure erected, one part after another, till at length the top-ftone is laid, and all is finished. Now the work of redemption in that extenfive fenfe which has been explained, may be compared to fuch a building. God began it immediately after the fall, as may be shown hereafter, and has proceeded, as it were, collecting materials, and building, ever fince; and fo will continue to the end of the world; and then shall the topftone be brought forth, and the whole appear complete and glorious.

This work is carried on in the former refpect, as to the effect on the fouls of particular perfons, by its being an effect that is common to all ages: the work is carried in this latter refpect, as it concerns the church of God, and the grand detign in general, not only by that which is common to all ages, but by fucceflive works wrought in different ages, all parts of one great feheme. It is this earrying on of the work of redemption that I fhall chiefly infift upon, though not exclusively of the former; for one neceffarily fuppofes the other.

Having thus explained what I mean by the terms of the doctrine; that you may the more clearly fee how the great defign and work of redemption is carried on from the fall of man to the end of the world,

Ι

(2.) I now proceed, to flow what is the defign of this great work, or what things are intended to be accomplithed by it. In order to fee how a defign is carried on, we must first know what it is : to know how a workman proceeds, and to underftand the various fleps he takes in order to accomplifh a piece of work, we mult be informed what he is about, and what it is he intends to do; otherwife we may fland by, and fee him do one thing after another, and be quite puzzled and in the dark; fee nothing of his fcheme, and understand nothing of what he means by it. If an architect, with a great number of hands, were building fome great palace, and one that was a ftranger to fuch things fhould ftand by, and fee fome men digging in the earth, others bringing timber, others hewing flones, and the like, he might fee that there was a great deal done; but if he knew not the defign, it would all appear to him confusion. And therefore, that the great works and difpenfations of God which belong to this great affair of redemption may not appear like confusion to you, I shall fet before you briefly the main things defigned to be accomplished in this great work, to accomplifh which God began to work fo early after the fall, and will continue working until the whole shall be completely finished. Now the main things defigned are thefe that follow.

(1.) To put all God's enemies under his feet, and that the goodnefs of God may finally triumph over all evil. Soon after the world was created, evil entered into the world in the fall of the angels and man. Prefently after God had made rational creatures, there were enemies who rofe up againft him from among them; and in the fall of man evil entered into this world, and God's enemies rofe up againft him here. Satan rofe up againft God, endeavouring to fruftrate his defign in the creation of this world, to deftroy his workmanship here, to wreft the government out of his hands, to 'ufurp the throne, and tet up himfelf as god of this world, inftead of the God that that made it. For thefe ends he introduced fin into it, and having made man God's enemy, he brought guilt, death, and the most extreme and dreadful misery, into the world.

56

Now one grand delign of God in the affair of redemption was, to reduce and fubdue those his enemies till they thould all be put under his feet; [I Cor. xv. 25.] ' He " must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet." Things were originally fo planned, that he might difappoint, confound, and triumph over Satan, and that he might be bruifed under Chrift's fcet. [Gen. iii. 15.] The promife was given, that the feed of the woman should bruite the ferpent's head. It was a part of God's original defign in this work, to deftroy the work of the devil, and confound him in all his purpofes : [1 John iii. 8.] ' For ' this purp fe was the Son of God manifested, that he ' might deftroy the works of the devil.' It was a part of his defign, to triumph over fin, and over the corruptions of men, and to root them out of the hearts of his people, by conforming them to himfelf. He defigned alfo, that his grace fhould triumph over man's guilt, and the infinite demerit which is in fin. (G) Again, it was a part of his defign to triumph over death; and however this is the laft enemy that shall be overcome, yet that shall finally be vanquished and deftroyed.

Thus God will appear glorious above all evil, and triumphant over all his enemies, which was one grand thing intended by the work of redemption.

(2.) God's defign was perfectly to reftore the ruins of the fall, fo far as concerns the elect part of the world, I  $_2$  by

(G) God defigned that his grace flould triumph over man's GUILT.] "Though the guilt of man was like the great mountains, whole heads are lifted up to the heavens; yet his [Chrift's] dying love, and his merits in this, appeared as a mighty deluge that overflowed the higheft mountains; or, like a boundlefs ocean that fwallows them up; or, like an immenfe fountain of light, that with the fulnefs and redundance of its brightnefs, fwallows up men's greateft tins, as little motes are fwallowed up and hidden in the difk of the fun." [Pref. EDWARDS's Pofthumous Serm. p. 138.] by his Son; (H) and therefore we read of the reflitution of all things, [Acts iii. 21.] ' Whom the heaven muft ' receive, until the times of the reflitution of all things;' and of the times of refreshing from the prefeuce of the Lord Jefus. [Acts iii. 19.] ' Repent ye therefore and be ' converted, that your fins may be blotted out, when the ' time of refreshing shall come from the prefence of the ' Lord.'

Man's foul was ruined by the fall; the image of God was defaced; man's nature was corrupted, and he became dead in fin. The defign of God was, to reftore the foul of man; to reftore life, and the image of God, in converfion; and to carry on this work in fanclification, until he should perfect it in glory. Man's body was ruined; by the fall it became fubject to death. The defign of God was to reftore it from this ruin, and not only to deliver it from death, by the refurrection, but to deliver it from mortality itfelf, in making it like unto Chrift's glorious body. The world was ruined, as to man, as effectually as if it had been reduced to chaos again; all heaven and earth were overthrown. But the defign of God was, to reftore all, and as it were to create a new heaven and a new earth : [Ifa. 1xv. 17.] ' Behold I create new heavens, and a new ' earth; and the former shall not be remembered, nor ' come into mind.' [2 Pet. iii. 13.] ' Neverthelefs we, ' according to his promife, look for new heavens, and a ' new earth, wherein dwelleth righteoufnefs.'

The work by which this was to be done, was begun immediately after the fall, and fo is carried on till all is finished at the end, when the whole world, heaven and earth, shall be reftored; and there shall be, as it were, new

(H) God's defigu was to reflore the ruins of the fall as far as coneerns the ELECT.] Some have carried the proposition farther, and extended it to not only all mankind, but even the fallen angels; and have fuppofed that the very being of moral and penal evil will ceafe. But it will appear in the fequel of this work, that God's plan does not extend fo far: 'the reflictution,' or rather 'regulation of all things,' feems to refer to the general judgment. [See PARKHURST, Lex. in Amozaragasis, and DoddRidge in loc.] [N. N.] new heavens, and a new carth, in a fpiritual and fublime fenfe, at the end of the world. Thus it is reprefented, [Rev. xxi. 1.] ' And I faw a new heaven and a new earth; ' for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away.'

(3.) Another great defign of God in the work of redemption was to gather together in one, all things in Chrift, both in heaven and in earth, i. e. all elect creatures, (1) in heaven and in earth, to an union in one body, under one head; and to unite all together in one body to God the Father. This was begun foon after the fall, and is carried on throughout all ages, and fhall be finished at the end of the world.

(4.) God defigns by this work to perfect and complete the glory of all the elect of Chrift. To advance them to an exceeding pitch of glory, 'fuch as eye hath not feen, ' nor ear heard, nor has ever entered into the heart of ' man.' He intends to bring them to perfect excellency and beauty in his image, and in holinefs, which is the proper beauty of fpiritual beings; and to advance them to a glorious degree of honour, an ineffable height of pleafure

(1) Another defign of God was to gather together in Chrift all elect creatures ; i. e. ANGELS as well as men, ' That in the difpenfa-' tion of the fulnefs of times, he might gather together all things ' in Chrift, both which are in heaven and which are in earth, even ' in him, .... who is the head of all principality and power.' [Eph. i. 10.-Col. ii. 10.] " That Chrift, God-man, fhould be made the head of the angels, is greatly to their benefit. 1. Becaufe they thereby become more nearly related to fo glorious a perfon. . . . He is theirs : though not their faviour, yet he is their head of government and head of influence .-- 2. They, here. by, are under advantages for a far more intimate converse with God. The divine nature is at an infinite diftance from the nature of angels, as well as from the nature of man. It is therefore a great advantage to the angels that God is come down to them in a created nature, and in that nature is become their head. 3. Men are brought in to join with angels . . . in their work of praifing God. The angels greatly rejoice at this. [Luke xv. 10.] The vacancy by the fall of angels is filled up. 4. It tends to make the angels the more to prize their happines, when they see how much it cost to purchase the same happiness for man." [Pref. EDWARDS's Polthumous Sermons, p. 320.]

pleafure and joy, and thus to glorify the whole church of elect men in foul and body; and with them to bring the glory of the elect angels to its highest elevation under one head.

(5.) In all this God defigned to accomplish the glory of the bleffed Trinity in an eminent degree. God had a defign from eternity to glorify each perfon in the Godhead. The end must be confidered as first in order of nature, and then the means; and therefore we muft conceive, that God having profeffed this end, had then, as it were, the means to chufe; and the principal mean that he pitched upon was this great work of redemption which we are fpeaking of. It was his defign in this work to glorify his only begotten fon, Jefus Chrift; (K) and by the Son to glorify the Father; [John xiii. 31, 32.] ' Now is the · Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him. If "God be glorified in him, God alfo fhall glorify him ' in himfelf, and shall straightway glorify him.' It was his defign that the Son fhould thus be glorified, and fhould glorify the Father by what fhould be accomplifhed by the Spirit, to the glory of the Spirit; that the whole Trinity conjunctly, and each perfon dictincily, might be exceedingly glorified. The work which was the appointed mean of this was begun immediately after the fall, and is carried on till, and finished at, the end of the world, when all this intended glory shall be fully accomplifhed.

HAVING thus explained the terms made use of in the doctrine, and shown what things are to be accomplished by this great work of God, I proceed now to the propofed History; that is, to show how the defigns of God by the ( $\kappa$ ) It was God's defign to glorify bis Son.] "Look round on the fhifting feenes of glory, which have been exhibited in the theatre of this world; and fee the fuccels of mighty conquerors, the policy of flates, the defliny of empires, depend on the fecret purpofe of God in his Son Jefus; before whom all the atchievements and imaginations of men mult bow down; and to whole honour, all the myfterious workings of his providence are now, have hitherto been, and will for ever be, directed." [Bp. HURD's Sermbefore Society for the Propagation of the Gofpel.] the work of redemption have been and fhall be accomplithed, in the various fteps of this work, from the fall of man to the end of the world.

In order to this, I shall divide this whole space of time into three periods :--- The

1. Reaching from the fall of Man to the incarnation of Chrift ;--- The

II. From Chrift's incarnation till his refurrection ;---The

III. From thence to the end of the world.

Some may be ready to think this a very unequal divifion; and it is fo indeed in fome refpects. It is fo, becaufe the fecond period is fo much the greateft: for although it be much fhorter than either of the other, (being but between thirty and forty years, whereas both the other contain thoufands;) yet in the affair we are now upon, it is more than both the others; I would therefore proceed to fhew diffinctly how the work of redemption is carried on from the fall of man to the end of the world, through each of thefe periods in their order; which I fhall do under three propositions; one concerning each period:

- 1. From the fall of man to the incarnation of christ, god was doing those things which were preparatory to his coming, and earnests of his redemption.
- II. THAT THE TIME FROM CHRIST'S INCARNATION, TO HIS RESURFECTION, WAS EMPLOYED IN FRO-CURING AND PURCHASING REDEMPTION.
- UII. THAT THE SPACE OF FIME FROM THE RESUR-RECTION OF CHRIST TO THE END OF THE WORLD IS ALL ENGAGED IN BRINGING ABOUT THE GREAT EFFECT, OR SUCCESS, OF THAT PURCHASE.

In a particular confideration of thefe three propositions, the great truth contained in the doctrine may perhaps appear in a clear light, and we may fee how the work of redemption is carried on from the fall of man to the end of the world.

PERIOD

6z

PERIODI.

FROM THE FALL TO THE INCARNATION.

MY first task is, to show how the work of redemption is carried on from the fall of man to the incarnation of Chrift under the first proposition, viz.

THAT FROM THE FALL OF MAN TO THE INCARNA-TION OF CHRIST, GOD WAS DOING THOSE THINGS WHICH WERE PREPARATORY TO HIS COMING, AND EARNESTS OF HIS REDEMPTION.

The great works of God in the world, during this whole fpace of time, were all preparatory to this. There were many great changes and revolutions in the world, but they were only the turning of the wheels of providence in order to make way for the coming of Chrift, and what he was to do in the world. They were all pointed hither, and all iffued here. Hither tended, efpecially, all God's great works towards his church. The church was under various difpenfations and in various circumftances, before Chrift came; but all thefe difpenfations were to prepare the way for his coming. God wrought falvation for the fouls of men through all that fpace of time, though the number was very fmall to what it was afterwards; (L) and all his falvation was, as

(L) The number of fouls faved before Chrift's coming, comparatively, very FEW.] There is no fubject on which our fpeculations have lefs certainty than that of the comparative number of the faved. Among angels fome have fuppofed those who fell to form at least one third of the whole; and other confign over a great majority of mankind to the fame awful condemnation. But ' God's thoughts are not our thoughts, neither his ways as our ways.'

As to the antient Jews, although their difpenfation was comparatively dark, and their temper naturally rebellious, we have reafon to believe an innunerable multitude was faved from among them. If in times of general idolatry and licentioufnefs, when a holy It were, by way of anticipation. All the fouls that were faved before Chrift came, were only, as it were, the earneft of the future harvest.

God wrought many leffer falvations and deliverances for his church and people before Christ came. Thefe falvations were all but fo many images and forerunners of the great falvation Chrift was to work out when he should come. God revealed himfelf of old, from time to time, from the fall of man to the coming of Chrift. The church during that space of time enjoyed the light of divine revelation, and, in a degree, the light of the gospel. But all these revelations were only earnests of the great light that he should bring who came to be ' the light ' of the world ;' that whole space of time was, as it were, the time of night, wherein the church of God was not indeed wholly in darknefs, but it was like the light of the moon and ftars, and not to be compared with the light of the fun. It ' had no glory, by reason of the glory that excelleth.' [2. Cor. iii. 10.] The church had indeed the light of the fun, but it was only as reflected from the moon and stars. The church all that while may be confidered as a minor; this the apofile evidently teaches [ in Gal. iv. 1, 2. 3.] ' Now I fay, that the heir as long as ' he is a child, differed nothing from a fervant, though " he be lord of all; but is under lutors and governors, <sup>4</sup> until the time appointed of the Father. Even fo we, holy prophet bewailed himfelf as the only fervant of the true God left: if, in fuch a time God had referved to himfelf feven thoufand faithful worfhippers, [1. Kings xix. 10.] doubtlefs at other times, when religion flourished, their number must be confiderably greater.
<sup>5</sup> when we were children, were in bondage under the ele-' ments of the world.'

Κ

Вит

<sup>6</sup> But the Heathen nations are by many totally given up, except here and there a perfon faved by miracle, 'God's ways, however, ' are not as our ways,' and it was as pollible for God to fave them without the utual means of grace, as to fave infants without any cuternal means at all.

After all, had God fuffered our whole world to perifh, what is it to the innumerable globes that float in his prefence? Probably not more than the deftruction of an ant hill, or a bee hive, to the whole species of ants or bees.—[N. U.]

64 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

But here, for the greater clearnefs and diffinctnefs, I thall fubdivide this period from the fall of man to the coming of Chrift, into fix leffer periods.

- I. From the fall to the flood ;---
- II. From the flood to the calling of Abraham ;---
- III. From the calling of Abraham to Mofes ;---
- IV. From Mofes to David ;---
- V. From David to the Babylonish captivity ;--- and the
- VI. From thence to the Incarnation of Chrift.

§ I. From the FALL to the FLOOD.

THIS was a period fartheft of all diftant from Chrift's incarnation; yet then was this great work begun, this glorious building which will not be finished till the end of the world; and this is what I am now to shew you: to this purpose I would observe,

1. As foon as man fell, Chrift entered on his mediatorial work. Then it was that he first began to execute the work and office of a mediator. He had undertaken it before the world was made. He flood engaged with the Father from eternity to appear as man's mediator, when there fhould be occasion: and now the time was come. When man fell, Chrift immediately entered on his work, and actually took upon him that office. Then Chrift, the eternal Son of God, cloathed himfelf with the mediatorial character, and therein prefented himfelf before the Father. He immediately flepped in between an holy, infinite, offended majefty, and offending mankind; and was accepted in his interpofition; and thus wrath was prevented from going forth in the full execution of that curfe which man had brought upon himfelf.

It is manifest that Christ began to exercise the office of mediator between God and man as soon as man fell, because mercy began to be exercised towards man immediately.

ately. There was mercy in the forbearance of God, (M) that he did not deftroy him, as he did the angels when they fell:-but there is no mercy exercised toward fallen man, but through a mediator. If God had not in mercy reftrained Satan, he would have immediately feized on his prey. Chrift began to do the part of an interceffor for man, as foon as he fell. There is no mercy exercifed towards man, but what is obtained through Christ's interceflion; fo that now Chrift entered on that work which he was to continue throughout all ages of the world. From that day forward Chrift took upon him the care of the church, in the exercise of all his offices; from thence he undertook to teach mankind in the exercife of his prophetical office; to intercede for them, in his prieftly office; alfo he took upon him the government of the church, and of the world. He from that time took upon him the defence of his elect from all their enemies. When Satan, the grand enemy, had conquered and overthrown man, the bufinefs of refifting and conquering him was committed to Chrift: and he undertook to manage that fubtle powerful adverfary. He was then appointed the captain of the Lord's hofts, and the captain of their falvation, and ever after acted, and will continue to act, as fuch to the end of the world. Theneeforward this world. with all its concerns, was, as it were, devolved upon the Son of God: for when man had finned, God the Father would have no more to do with man immediatel; , but K 2 ouly

(M) There was mercy in the FORBEARANCE of God.] MILTON, with whom our author frequently coincides, puts this fentiment into the mouth of Adam, in his confolatory addrefs to Eve.

......" Remember with what mild And gracious temper he both heard and judg'd, Without wrath or reviling : we expected Immediate diffolution, which we thought Was meant by death that day ; when lo, to thee Pains only in child bearing were foretold, And bringing forth, foon recompens'd with joy, Fruit of thy womb: on me the curfe aflope Glanc'd on the ground" ... [Par. Loft. Book x.]

Glanc'd on the ground" ... [Par. Loft, Book x.] This fubject, and Milton's beautiful illuftration of it, we fhall have occasion to refume in the fequel of this fection.

65

only through a mediator; either in teaching, in governing, or in beflowing any benefits upon him.

And therefore, when we read in facred hiftory what God did from time to time for his church and people, and how he revealed himfelf to them, we are to underftand it effective of the fecond perfon of the Trinity. When we read of God's appearing after the fall, frequently in fome vifible form, or outward fymbol of his prefence, we are ordinarily, if not univerfally, to underftand it of the Son of God. (N) This may be argued from John i. 18. 'No man hath feen God at any time; the only begotten 'Son, which is in the bofom of the Father, he hath de-' clared him.' He is therefore called ' the image of the ' invifible God,' [Col. i. 15.] intimating, that though God the Father be invifible, yet Chrift is his image, or reprefentation, by which he is feen.

Yea, not only this world devolved on Chrift, that he might have the care and government of it, and order it agreeably to his defign of redemption, but alfo in fome refpect, the whole univerfe. The angels from that time were given unto him, to be miniftering fpirits in this grand bufinefs; and accordingly were fo from this time, as is manifeft by the foripture hiftory, wherein we have accounts of their acting as fuch in the affairs of the church of Chrift, from time to time.

And therefore we may fuppofe, that immediately on the fall, it was made known in heaven (0) that God had a defign

(N) When we read of God's APPEARING after the fall, we are to underfland it of the Son of God.] The principal appearances here alluded to, and the perfon thus appearing, will be confidered under  $\delta$  VI. of this period.

(o) God's defign of mercy made known in HEAVEN immediately on the fall.] MILTON, with, at leafl, equal beauty and probability, fuppofes this difference to have preceded the fail. He reprefents the eternal Father as viewing Satan flying towards this world, and foretelling his fuccefs, and his own purpofes of grace in the iffue. The paffage, as it is extremely beautiful and will illuftrate not only this, but feveral other of our author's obfervations under this fection, we fhall in part transcribe:

* Hin.

66

a defign of redemption with refpect to man; that Chrift had now taken upon him the office and work of a mediator between " Him [Satan] God beholding from his profpect high, Wherein paft, prefent, future, he beholds, Thus to his only Son forefeeing fpake :

" Only begotten Son, feelt thou what rage Transports our adversary ? . . . . . . Through all reftraints broke loofe, he wings his way Not far off heaven, in the precincts of light, Directly towards the new-created world; And man there plac'd, with purpofe to effay, If him by force he can deftroy, or worfe, By fome falle guile pervert : and fhall pervert, For man will hearken to his glozing lies, And eafily tranfgrefs the fole command, Sole pledge of his obedience; fo will fall He and his faithlefs progeny. Man falls, deceiv'd By th'other first : man therefore shall find grace, The other none : in mercy and juffice both, Through heav'n and earth, fo fhall my glory excell; But mercy, first and last, shall brightest fline. " Thus while God fpake, ambrolial fragrance fill'd All heav'n, and in the bleffed fpirits elect Senfe of new joy ineffable diffus'd : Beyond compare the Son of God was feen Moft glorious; in him all his Father fhone Subftantially express'd; and in his face Divine compaffion vifibly appear'd, Love without end, and without measure, grace ; Which uttering, thus he to his Father fpake :

" O Father, gracious was that word which clos'd Thy fov'reign fentence, that man fhould find grace; For which both heaven and earth fhall high extoll Thy praifes. . . . - . . . . . . . . . . .

"To whom the great Creator thus reply'd; O Son, in whom my foul hath chief delight,

But all is not yet done; man difobeying,

He, with his whole pofterity, muft die ; Die he or juftice muft ; unlefs for him Some able, and as willing, pay The rigid fatisfaction, death for death between God and man; and that the angels were henceforward to be fubfervient to him in that office : and as Chrift has been, fince that time, as God-man, exalted King of heaven; and is thenceforward a Mediator, the Light, and the Sun of heaven, (agreeable to Rev. xxi. 23. ' And the ' city had no need of the fun, neither of the moon, to fhine ' in it; for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb ' is the light thereof;') fo the revelation now made in heaven among the angels, was, as it were, the first dawning of this light there. When Chrift afcended into glory after his paffion, and was folemnly enthroned, then this fun arofe in heaven; but the light began to dawn immediately after the fall.

2. Pre-

Say, heav'nly pow'rs, where fhell we find fuch love? He afk'd; but all the heav'nly choir flood mute, And filence was in heav'n : on man's behalf Patron or interceffor none appear'd. .... Had not the Son of God, In whom the fulnefs dwells of love divine, His deareft mediation thus renew'd.

"Father, thy word is pait, man shall find grace; And shall not grace find means? Behold Me then; Me for him, life for life I offer; on me let all thine anger fall.

. . . . . . . . Admiration feiz'd

All heav'n, what this might mean, and whither tend,

Wond'ring." . . . . . . . . . . [Par. Loft, b. iii.]

But the idea of Mr. GESSNER exactly coincides with our author's. He introduces an angel addreffing our first parents in the following elegant language :

"Know then, Adam ! on thy transgreffing the divine command, God faid to the happy fpivits who worship before him, 'Man hath 'disobeyed me; he shall die.' A dense cloud fuddenly encompassed the external throne, and a deep filence reigned through the whole expanse of heaven. . . The adoring angels were in eager expectation of what was to follow this unufual pomp, when the majestic voice of God founded . . . these words of benignity and grace—'I will not withdraw my favour from the finner. To my 'infinite mercy the earth shall bear witness. Of the woman shall 'be born an avenger, who shall bruise the head of the ferpent. 'Hell shall not rejoice in this victory ; death shall lofe its prey ; ye 'heavens, shew forth your gladnels!--Thus spake the Eternal.'' [Death of Abel, b. ii.]---[N. U.] 2. Prefently upon this the gofpel was firft revealed on earth, in thefe words, [Gen. iii. 15.] 'And I will put 'enmity between thee [the ferpent] and the woman, and 'between thy feed and her feed: it fhall bruife thy head, 'and thou fhalt bruife his heel.' We may fuppofe, that God's intention of redeeming fallen man was firft fignified in heaven before it was fignified on earth, becaufe the bufinefs of the angels as miniftering fpirits required it that they might be ready immediately to ferve him in that office: fo that the light firft dawned in heaven ; but very foon after was feen on earth. In thefe words of God there was an intimation of another furety to be appointed for man, after the firft had failed. This was the firft revelation of the covenant of grace, the firft dawn of light of the gofpel upon earth.

This world before the fall enjoyed noon-day light; the light of the knowledge of God, of his glory, and of his favour : but when man fell, all this light was at once extinguished, and the world reduced again to total darknefs; a darknefs worfe than that which was in the beginning of the world. [Gen. i. 2.] Neither men nor angels could find out any way whereby this might be feattered. The blacknefs of this darknefs appeared when Adam and his wife knew that they were naked, and fewed fig leaves; when they heard the voice of God walking in the garden, and hid themfelves among the trees, when God first called them to an account, and faid to Adam. • What is this that thou haft done ? Haft thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not ' eat?' Then we may suppose that their hearts were filled with fhame and terror. (P) But those words of God.

(P) Adam and his wife knew that they where NAKED,  $\Im$ .] A variety of queries have been flated from the paffage here alluded to, [Gen. iii. 8-11.] and a number of folutions given; fome of thefe we fhall review, as they connect closely with our fubject.

We shall begin with the immediate confequence of the fin of one first parents—' And the eyes of them both were opened, and they ' knew that they were naked.' The celebrated Le Clerc, and iome other ingenious commentators, have supposed the nakedels here

- 69

Ged, [Gen. iii. 15.] were the first dawning of the light of the gospel after this darkness. Now first appeared fome here alluded to was moral, viz. a lofs of innocence; and it muft be confelled, in a few inflances the Scripture uses the term in this metaphorical fenfe, [See STACKHOUSE's Hift. of the Bible, vol. i. p. 74.] but two circumflances politively forbid our fo taking it in this place-one is, that the laft verfe of the preceding chapter affures us that they were naked before the fall, which muft certainly intend a literal nakednefs; the other, that in confequence of this nakednefs they made themfelves coverings, which certainly were for their bodies, and not their minds. But why should they who never had worn any cloathing, be ashamed of appearing in the state in which God created them; especially when we confider, that themfelves were the only perfons in the world, and they were man and wife? The anfwer to this involves a very delicate, and as it fhould feem, from the ill fuccefs of commentators, a very difficult fubject. We must return to the previous affertion of our infpired writer, that 'they were' in a flate of innocence, 'both ' naked, and not afhamed ;' which certainly implies, not only that their nakedness was no just cause of shame, but that they would never have known it, had their innocency continued. But when they finned, then, as the Tempter had predicted, their eyes were opened. To open the eyes is, literally, to give fight to the blind; but figuratively, to communicate to any perfon a new kind or degree of knowledge. [See Num. xxii. 31. 2. Kings vi. 17. Acts xxvi. 18.7

And the following phrafe, which we render ' they knew that ' they were naked,' implies fomething more than a bare fpeculative knowledge, it means to feel as well as to know, [See PARK-HURST in y 77] and might be here perhaps more accurately and expressively rendered, 'they were fenfible that they were naked.' Before the fall they doubtlefs knew that they had no cloathing; but now their eyes were opened, and they had acquired a criminal knowledge, and become featible of a paffiou, to which they had ever before been ftrangers, namely, fhame. The origin of this will be easier to account for, if we suppose with some [Univerfal Hift. vol. i. p. 132.] that the juice of this tree was in a degree incbriating ; fince we know from common obfervation, that juices of fuch a quality will excite debauchery, produce ftrange commotions in the animal frame, and give a ftrong predominancy to the animal appetites. Under these circumstances we need not wonder at the fubterfuges to which they ran, fince it is never expected that the conduct of perfons under the power of intoxication, or the oppression of guilt, should be perfectly consistent with the rules of cool reflection.

There is one circumflance which has not been perhaps fufficiently attended to, namely, that they were ufed to expect the divine fome glimmering of light; but it was an obscure revelation of the gospel; and was not made to Adam or Eve directly, but vine Prefence, and that probably in a glorious human form; this might be one reafon of their covering their nakednefs now, as it was immediately after, of their feeking to hide their perfons among the trees of the garden. However, it is remarkable, that the cuftom of covering the private parts fhould fo generally obtain, even among barbarous nations; an entire difufe of cloathing in both fexes, is, perhaps, no where practifed, except where promifcuous intercourfe is also allowed, and men and women couple like the brutes.

The materials of which thefe coverings, which we call 'aprons,' and fome, ludicroufly, breeches, but which ought to be, according to the general ufage of the Hebrew word, and the tranflations of the LXX and Vulgate, girdles ;—the materials of thefe, and the manner of manufacture, have afforded plentiful diversion for infidels, but without the least fhadow of reafon, fince we know that fuitable materials are produced in foreign countries, and manufactured with a fimplicity analogous to that or thefe primitive girdles. We allude to the fewed leaves, which cover our tea as it comes in chefts from the East Indies.—But to proceed,

And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the "garden in the cool [Heb. wind ] of the day." We have little doubt but that the voice they first heard was that of thunder, frequently called the voice of God, [See Pf. xxix.] firft murmuring at a diftance, afterward approaching nearer, and growing louder; for it is remarkable, that the fame word [walking] is applied [Ex. xix. & 19. in the Heb.] by a beautiful figure, to the found of the celeftial trumpet at the delivery of the law. Hearing this, which had never founded to them fo awfully before, it was extremely natural for them, in their prefent flate of guilty confusion, to feek to hide themselves among the trees; a method that many of their children practife to this day; for nothing is more common (though dangerous) than for perfons to run among the trees in a thunder ftorm. This happened, as the original expreffes it, in the 'wind of the day,' i.e. the evening breeze; and now might that powerful element first put on its terrors, and double the folemnity of the divine appearance.

But the voice of the Lord, a voice from the Shechinah, [compare John xii. 28, 29.] called to him, 'Adam, where art thou? 'And he faid, I heard thy voice in the garden; and I was

'And he faid, I heard thy voice in the garden; and I was 'afraid, becaufe I was naked, and I hid myfelf.' Here is a remarkable inflance of that confusion which commonly attends, and often betrays a guilty confeience: this confeffion of his fear and nakednefs was a virtual acknowledgment of his crime; as we fee by the following reply of God:

And

HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

but in what God faid to the ferpent. It was however very comprehenfive, as might be eafily fhown, would it not take up too much time. (Q)

Here

as

<sup>6</sup> And he faid, Who told thee that thou wast naked ? Hast thou <sup>6</sup> eaten of the tree whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldst <sup>6</sup> not eat?' or as the late Dr. KENNICOTT [Differt. on the Tree of Life, p. 50.] translates the words with more spirit and exactness, <sup>6</sup> What! of the tree which I commanded thee not to eat, of THAT hast thou eaten?' This brings Adam to a farther, but not a free, confession, and is followed by a fentence on them both. A fentence, however, accompanied by the promise of mercy, which will form the subject of the following note. [G. E.]

(a) The first PROMISE was very comprehensive. To comprehend more fully the nature of this promise, we must review the whole of the fentence passed upon the ferpent, in which, as our author observes, this promise is included.

The punifhment of the ferpent was exactly fuited to the nature of the safe, and the matter of fact. Satan had made a tool of the ferpent; this therefore was degraded to the duft, and to be treated in a peculiar manner as the enemy of mankind. Many conjectures have been indulged as to the original nature of the ferpent; fome of which are ridiculous as well as groundlefs : but the text itfelf implies, that in confequence of the divine curfe it underwent a change, if not in its form, at leaft in its manner of life; poffibly it was originally an inhabitant of the trees, for which its flructure feems very convenient, and might have a privilege, which feems to have been denied most other animals, [Gen. i. 30.] of living upon the fruits : but now, faith God, 'Thou art curfed above all cattle, and above every beaft of the field; upon thy belly fhalt "thou go, and duit that thou eat all the days of thy life. And I <sup>6</sup> will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy <sup>4</sup> feed and her feed ; it shall bruife thy head, and thou shalt bruife ' his heel.' The whole of this has been literally fulfilled : ferpents are confined to the ground-eating the duft-and being peculiarly the fubjects of human averfion. [See PLINY's Nat. Hift. vn. 2.]

If any fhould queftion (and fuch is the temerity of man) the equity of God's thus punifhing a creature in itfelf incapable of funing, we may fuppofe, with Mr. STACKHOUSE, [Hift. of the Bible, B. I. ch. iii.] that "God intended this debafement of it [the ferpent] not fo much to express his indignation against it, as to make it a monument of man's apostafy, a testimony of his displeasure against fin, and an instructive emblem to deter all future ages from the commission of that which brought fuch vengeauce along with it. In the Levitical law, [Lev. xx. 15.] we find, that if a man committed any abomination with a beast, the beast was to be flain as well as the man; and, by parity of reason, the serpent is here punifhed; if not to .... allay the triumph of the devil, by feeing the inftrument of his fuccefs fo fhamefully degraded, at leaft to remind the delinquents themfelves of the foulnefs of their crime .---But God might have a farther defign in this degradation of the ferpent : he forefaw, that in future ages Satan would have a pride in abufing this very creature to .... eftablish the vilet idolatry."

72

Here was an intimation of a merciful defign by ' the feed of the woman,' which was like the first glimmerings

But to confine this paffage to a literal fenfe would be, as Dean SHERLOCK has shewn, [Ufe and Intent of Prophecy, Differ. III.] exceedingly ridiculous; it would contain but cold comfort to our first parents in their diftrefs, and exhibit the paffage in a light not only unworthy of God, but of Mofes, or, indeed, as Bishop NEWTON observes, of "any fensible writer." [Differ. I. on the Prophefies.] We shall therefore proceed to the figurative and more fublime fenfe in which it is above explained.

And obferve, 1. that under the ferpent's name the curfe is here levelled at the grand enemy of mankind, 'That old ferpent, called ' the Devil and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world.' [Rev. xii. 9.] And very early was he worshipped under that fimilitude. Dr. GILL [on Gen. iii. 1.] fays, "Tazutus, or the Egyptian Thoth, [or Hermes, who, by the bye, is fuppofed to have lived before the flood] was the first that attributed deity to the nature of the dragon and of ferpents, and after him the Egyptians and Phænicians; the Egyptian god Cneph was a ferpent with a hawk's head ; and a ferpent with the Phœnicians was a good damon .... Herodotus makes mention of facred ferpents about Thebes; and Alianus, of facred dragons; and Juftin Martyr favs, the ferpent with the heathens was a fymbol of all that were reckoned gods by them, and they were painted as fuch ; and wherever ferpents were painted, according to Perfius, it was a plain indication that it was a facred place. Serpents were facred to many of the heathen deities, who were worshipped either in the form of one, or in a real one ; all which feem to take their rife from the use the devil made of the ferpent in feducing our first parents." And to this day the ferpent is a favourite divinity among many of the Indian In the close of the laft century, a hog which had by nations. fome means killed and fwallowed one of these favourite reptiles, in the country of the Widahs, fo provoked them, that the marbuts (or priefts) procured a general flaughter of the fwine, and if the King had not loved pork, a hog had not been left in Widah. [See Hift. of Jamaica, Vol. ii. p. 379.]

2. If the ferpent be underflood of the devil, bis feed or offspring will very properly be underflood of that 'generation of vipers,' [Matt. iii. 7.] who our Lord himielf declared to be of their f father ings of light in the east when the day dawns. This intimation of mercy was given before fentence was pronounced <sup>c</sup> father the devil,' [John viii. 44.] and who fhewed their enmity in all the periods of his life, and wounded his heel in nailing him to the crofs, who was, doubtlefs, in a most remarkable manner,

3. The feed of the woman. Here we may adopt the Apoille Paul's exposition of another passage, in which the fame expression is used: 'He faith not feeds, as of many, but as of one—which is Chrift.' [Gal. iii. 16.] And it is observable, that not only the generality of Christian writers, but even the ancient Jews, both the Jerusalem Targum and that of Jonathan, besides many other famous rabbies, apply the passage to the times and perfon of the Messiah. [See HELVICUS in Protevang. n. 64, and, from him, POOLE, Synop. crit. in loc.] If it be necessary to understand the 'feed of the woman' in a more extensive fense, to correspond with the former member of the fentence, it may be observed, that the disciples of Christ owe the fame enmity to Satan as their massage.

4. The meaning of the conflict, here expressed by bruising the ferpent's bead and the Saviour's heel.

To understand this metaphorical language it should be observed that the head is the vulnerable part of ferpents, and that a blow there is fatal to them; whereas a wound in the heel is to a man of comparatively fmall confequence. "Bruifing the ferpent's head, fays Dr. BURNETT [Ser. at Boyle's Lect. Vol. iii. p. 516.] implies the defeating his contrivances against mankind. For (1.) as he thought by feducing the pair, to have brought on their death, and fo have made an end of the whole fpecies at once, God promifes that the woman should live to have feed. (2.) As he feduced the woman under the specious pretence of friendship, while he intended her ruin, a war is declared against the devil and his party, which fhould end in the ruin of them and their devices. And (3.) as the devil thought by drawing them into fin and under the wrath of God, to bring them under a certainty of death, and deprive of the happiness they were made for, God declares that the devil's policy fhould be defeated by the feed of the woman, in which is implied a politive promife-that mankind, though by the envy of the devil become finful and therefore mortal, fhould receive through the feed of the woman, forgiveness of fin, the refurrection of the body, and life everlafting."

"So fpake this oracle, then verified When JESUS, fon of Mary, fecond Eve, Saw Satan fall like lightning down from heaven, Prince of the air; then rifing from his grave Spoil'd principalities and powers, triumph'd In open fhow, and with afcenfion bright, nounced on either Adam or Eve, from tendernefs to them, to whom God defigned mercy, left they fhould be overborne with a feutence of condemnation, without having any thing held forth whence they could gather any hope.

Captivit,

One of those great things that were intended to be done by the work of redemption, is more plainly intimated here than the reft, viz. God's fubduing his enemies under the feet of his Son. This was threatened now, and God's defign of it now firft declared. This was the work Chrift had now undertaken, which he foon began, has carried on, and will accomplish at the end of the world. Satan probably triumphed greatly in the fall of man, as though he had defeated God's defigns : but in these words God gives him a plain intimation, that he should not finally triumph, but that a complete victory should be obtained over him by the feed of the woman.

This

Captivity led captive through the air, The realm itfelf of Satan long ufurp'd, Whom he fhall tread at laft under our feet."

[Par. Loft. Book x.]

It is not to be fuppofed however that our parents underftood the first promife to the extent that we now do with the help of the gofpel revelation. MILTON introduces them as reafoning upon it in this manner: Eve, having hinted the desperate measure of destroying themselves, Adam replies,

Some fafer refolution, which methinks I have in view, calling to mind with heed Part of our fentence, that thy feed shall bruife The ferpent's head ; piteous amends, unlefs Be meant, whom I conjecture, our grand foe, Satan, who in the ferpent hath contriv'd Against us this deceit : to crush his head Will be revenge indeed ; which will be loft By death brought on ourfelves, or childlefs days Refolv'd, as thou propofeft ; fo our foe Shall fcape his punifhment ordain'd, and we Inftead fhall double ours upon our heads. . . . . . . Remember with what mild And gracious temper he both heard and judg'd "Without wrath or reviling." . . . Par. Loft. Book x. [G.E.]

75

This revelation of the gofpel was the first thing that Christ did in his prophetical office. You may remember, that it was faid in the first of our three propositions that from the fall of man to the incarnation of Christ, God was doing those things which were preparatory to Christ's coming and working out redemption, and forerunners and earnests of it. And one of those things which God did in this time to prepare the way for Christ's coming into the world, was to foretel and promise it, as he did from time to time, from age to age, till Christ came. This was the first promise given, the first prediction made of it upon the earth.

3. Soon after this, the cuftom of facrificing was appointed, to be a ftanding type of the facrifice of Chrift till he fhould come, and offer up himfelf to God. (R) Sacrificing was not a cuftom first established by the Levitical

(R) SACRIFICES originally appointed by God. Our author's arguments in fupport of this proposition, though concife, are certainly forcible; but in an article of this importance, it may not be improper to ftrengthen them with the following observations from another author of confiderable respectability in the learned world:

"That animal facrifices were not inftituted by man feems extremely evident—from the acknowledged univerfality of the practice—from the wonderful famenefs of the manner, in which the whole world offered thefe facrifices; and from that merit and expiation, which were conftantly fuppofed in, and to be effected by them.

"Now human reafon, even among the moit firenuous opponents of the divine infitutions, is allowed to be incapable of pointing out the leaft natural fitnefs or congruity between Blood and Atonement; between killing of God's creatures, and the receiving a pardon for the violation of God's laws. This confequence of facrifices when properly offered, was the invariable opinion of the Heathens; but not the whole of their opinion in this matter : for they had alfo a traditionary belief among them, that thefe animal facrifices were not only explations but vicarious commutations and fubfituted fatisfactions, and they called the animals fo offered, [their  $\alpha rrifuga$  or] the ranfoms of their fouls.

"But if thefe notions are fo remote from, uay fo contrary to, any leffon that nature teaches, as they confeffedly are; how came the whole world to practife the rites founded upon them? It is certain that the wifeft heathens—Pythagoras, Plato, Porphyry, and others, flighted the religion of fuch facrifices; and wondered, how an iuflighted the religion of fuch facrifices. tical law; for it had been a part of God's inftituted worfhip long before, even from the beginning of God's visible fitution fo difinal (as it appeared to them) and fo big with abfurdity, could diffufe itfelf through the world.

"An advocate for the fufficiency of reafon [Tindal] fuppofes the abfurdity prevailed by degrees; and the priefts, who fhared with their gods, and referved the belt bits for themfelves, had the chief hand in this gainful fuperflition. But it may well be afked; who were the priefts in the days of Cain and Abel? Or what gain could this fuperflition be to them, when the one gave away his fruits, and the other his animal facrifice, without being at liberty to tafte the leaft part of it? And .... it is worth remarking, that what this author wittily calls the bcft bits, and appropriates to the priefts, appear to have been the fkin of the burnt offering among the Jews, and the fkin and fect among the Heathens.

"Dr. SPENCER obferves [De Leg. Heb. Lib. iii. § 2.] that facrifices were looked upon as gifts, and that the general opinion was-that gifts would have the fame effect with God as with man; would appeale wrath, conciliate favour with the Deity, and teftify the gratitude and affection of the facrificer; and that from this principle proceeded explatory, precatory, and euchariftical offerings. This is all that is pretended from natural light to countenance this practice. But how well foever the comparison may be thought to hold between facrifices and gifts, yet the opinion that facrifices would prevail with God, must proceed from an observation that gifts had prevailed with men; an obfervation this which Cain and Abel had little opportunity of making. And, if the coats of fkin, which God directed Adam to make, were the remains of facrifices, fure Adam could not facrifice from this obfervation, when there were no fubjects in the world upon which he could make thefe obfervations." [KENNICOTT's 2d Differt. on the Offerings of Cain and Abel. p. 201, &c.]

But the grand objection to the divine origin of facrifices is drawn from the icriptures themfelves, particularly the following, [Jer. vii. 22, 23.] ' I fpake not to your fathers, nor commanded ' them, at the time that I brought them out of the land of · Egypt, concerning the matters of burnt offering or facrifice; ' but only this very thing commanded I them, faving, Obey my " voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people.' The ingenious writer above referred to accounts for this paffage [pages 153 and 209] by referring to the transaction at Marah, [Exod. xv. 23-26] at which time God fpake nothing concerning facrifices : it certainly cannot be intended to contradict the whole book of Leviticus, which is full of fach appointments. Another learned author, to account for the above and other funihe paffages, obferves, " The Jews were diligent in performing the external fervices of religion; in offering provers, incenfe, falerideer.

visible church on earth. We read of the patriarchs, Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob, offering facrifice, and even before them Noah and Abel: and this was by divine appointment; for it was part of God's worthip in his church, and that which he accepted, when offered up in faith; which proves it was by his inftitution, for facri-ficing is no part of natural worfhip. The light of nature doth not teach men to offer beafts in facrifice to God ; and feeing it was not enjoined by the law of nature, if it was acceptable to God, it muft be by fome pofitive command or inftitution : for God has declared his abhorrence of fuch worship as is taught by the precept of men without his appointment; [Ifa. xxix. 13.] ' Wherefore the Lord faith, Forafmuch as this people ' draw near me with their mouth, and with their lips do ' honour me, but have removed their heart far from me, ' and their fear towards me is taught by the precepts ' of men, therefore behold I will proceed to do a mar-' vellous work,' &c. And fuch worfhip as hath not a warrant from divine inflitution, cannot be offered up in faith ;

crifices, oblations : but these prayers were not offered with faith ; and their oblations were made more frequently to their idols, than to the God of their fathers. The Hebrew idiom excludes with a general negative, in a comparative fenfe, one of two objects oppofed to one another : thus, ' I will have mercy and not facrifice.' [Hof. vi. 6.] 'For I fpake not to your fathers, nor commanded ' them-----concerning burnt offerings or facrifices; but this thing · I commanded them, faying, Obey my voice." [LOWTH in Ifa. xliii. 22-24.] The ingenious Dr. DODDRIDGE remarks, that according to the genius of the Hebrew language, one thing feems to be forbidden, and another commanded, when the meaning only is, that the latter is greatly to be preferred to the former. The text before us is a remarkable inftance of this; as likewife Joel ii. 13.-Matt. vi. 19, 20.-John vi. 27.-Luke xii. 4, 5.-and Col. iii. 2. And it is evident that Gen. xlv. 8.-Ex. xvi. 8.-John v. 30-vii. 19, and many other paffages are to be expounded in the fame comparative fenfe. [Paraph. on New Teft. § xlix.] So that the whole may be refolved into the apothegm of the wife man, [Prov. xxi. 3.] 'To do juffice and judgment is more accept ' able to the Lord than facrifice.'----Sacrificing appointed to be a flanding type of Chrift. This will partly appear in the two following notes on the first facifices, and more fully when we come to confider the Mofaic inflitutions. FI. N.7

faith; becaufe faith has no foundation where there is no divine appointment. It cannot be offered up in faith of God's acceptance; for man hath no warrant to hope for God's acceptance in that which is not of his appointment, and to which he hath not promifed his acceptance; and therefore it follows, that the cultom of offering facrifices to God was inflituted foon after the fall; for the feripture teaches us, that Abel offered ' the firfilings of his flock, and of the fat thereof,' [Gen. iv. 4.] and that he was accepted of God in this offering, [Heb. xi. 4.] And there is nothing in the ftory that looks as though the inftitution was first given when Abel offered up that facrifice to God; but it appears as though he only therein complied with a cuttom already eftablished. (s)

(s) ABEL OFFERED the firflings of his flocks, &c.] As this is the first instance of facrifice, and even of religious worship, recorded in fcripture, and was attended with confequences fo fingular and important, we cannot pass it over without examination; and as a learned author above cited, [Dr. KENNICOTT] has be-Rowed uncommon pains on this subject, we flatter ourlelves our readers will be gratified by being prefented with the fubftance of his excellent differtation.

Dr. Kennicott introduces his hypothelis with obferving the different characters and employments of the two brothers: 'Abel ' was a keeper of theep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground ;' the one, as Lord BACON expresses it, devoted to the adive, the other to the contemplative, fcenes of life.

"And in process of time;' Heb. at the end of days; that is, as our author endeavours at large to prove, at the end of the week, on the fabbath day, poffibly the first after they had become the heads of families, and entitled to offer facrifices, as was the patriarchal manner, each as the priefl of his own family-" It came to " pals that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground, an offering to ' the Lord.' It is of importance to be observed, that the Hebrew word rendered an offering, is mincha, which Dr. K. explains from divine authority to be an offering of fine flour mingled with oil and frankincenfe, [Lev. ii. 1, &c.] This our translators commonly call a meat, but might more properly be called a bread, offering. Here our author obferves a very fingular mode of expreflion, which he apprehends eliptical, and supplying the needfary words, translates the passage literally thus, " Cain brought of ' the fruit of the ground a mincha to Jehovah; and Abel brought ' [a mincha] he alfo [brought] of the firftlings of his flocks, and M · of

It

It is very probable that facrifice was inflituted immediately after God had revealed the covenant of grace; [in Gen. iii. 15.] which covenant and promife was the foun-

<sup>6</sup> of their fat,' or rather, 'of the fatteft of them.'—Then it follows—' And Jehovah had refpect to Abel, and to his mincha; but ' to Cain and his mincha he had no refpect.' Now if this translation be juft, or the word mincha be rightly explained, it neceffarily follows that Abel offered a mincha, or meat offering, as well as Cain, together with a facrifice, which Cain did not offer.

The matter, in fhort, feems to be this, Cain came, like a felfrighteous Pharifee, with a 'God, I thank thee,' to the Author of Nature, and the God of Providence; Abel was no lefs fenfible of thefe obligations, and therefore brought his mincha as well as Cain; but being humbled under a conviction of his own frailty and unworthinefs, he alfo brings an animal facrifice, fmites upon his breaft, and cries, 'God be merciful to me a finner.' Not only fo, but Abel looked by faith through the bleeding type to the great atonement it prefigured : Cain rejected this; and being ignorant of God's rightcoufnefs, went about to eflablifh his own.

This reprefentation (which as we faid is Dr. KENNICOTT'S) appears to us not only ingenious and juft, but has the advantage of being beautifully confiltent with the New Teflament. Here we fee how it was that 'by faith' in the promifed feed, 'Abel of-' fered to God,' not only 'a more excellent,' but as the Greek imports, a fuller, a more complete facifice than Cain; and it was on this account that God had refpect, first to Abel, and fecondly, to his offering. We also learn from this review of the fubject, what was the error of Cain, which the apostle Jude alludes to, namely, an enmity against God's method of falvation.

This leads us to remark the different conduct of the two brothers fubfequent to their offering. Mofes informs us, that 'Cain ' was very wrath, and his countenance fell,' the ufual fign of a bafe and malicious heart. 'And the Lord faid unto Cain,'-condefcended to reafon with him, probably by means of the divine Shekinab-' Why art thou wrath, and why is thy countenance ' fallen ? If thou doft well, fhalt thou not be accepted ?' Or rather, if thou hadft done well, fhouldeft thou not have been accepted in the fame manner (whatever that might be) as Abel thy brother? ' And if thou doft not well,' or haft not done well-' fin lieth at the door,' the fault is thine.

But KENNICOTT, PARKHURST, and many other critics, render the laft phrafe, 'a fin-offering lieth (couched) at the door.' In this view they point out, not only the reafon of his non-acceptance, but also the remedy—namely, to take a facrifice, and offer it in faith, as his bother had before done. foundation on which the cuftom of facrificing was built. That promife was the first ftone that was laid toward this glorious building, the work of redemption, which will be finished at the end of the world. And the next stone which was laid upon that, was the institution of facrifices, to be a type of the great atonement.

The next thing that we have an account of, after God had pronounced fentence on the ferpent, on the woman, and on the man, was, that God made them coats of fkins, and cloathed them; which, by the generality of divines, are thought to be the fkins of beafts flain in facrificc; for we have no account of any thing elfe that fhould be the occafion of men flaying beafts, but only to offer them in facrifices, till after the flood. Men were not till then allowed to eat the flefh of beafts. The food of man before the fall, was the fruit of the trees of paradife; and when he was turned out of paradife after the fall, his food was the herb of the field : [Gen. iii. 18.] 'And ' thou shalt eat of the herb of the field.' The first grant that he had to eat fleth as his common food was after the flood: [Gen. xi. 3.] ' Every moving thing that liveth 6 fhall be meat for you; even as the green herb have I 6 given you all things.' So that it is likely that thefe fkins that Adam and Eve were cloathed with, were the fkins of their facrifices. God's cloathing them with thefe was a lively figure of their being cloathed with the righteoufnefs of Chrift. This cloathing was not of their own obtaining; but it was God that gave it them. It is faid, 'God made them coats of fkins, and cloathed them,' [Gen. xiii. 21.] as the righteoufnefs our naked fouls are cloathed with, is not our righteoufness but the righteoulnels which is of God. It is he alone that cloaths the naked foul. (T) ( $\tau$ ) God made them coats of SKINS, and cloathed them. "God himfelf furnifhes them with apparel. Animals are flain, not for food, but facrifice; and the naked criminals are arrayed with the fkins of those flaughtered beafts. The victums figured the explation M 2 82. HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

Our

Our first parents, who were naked, were cloathed at the expence of life. Beails were flain to afford them cloathing. So Christ died to afford cloathing to our naked fouls. Thus our first parents were covered with fkins of facrifices, as the tabernacle in the wildernefs, which fignified the church, was, when it was covered with rams fkins died red, as though they were dipped in blood, to fignify that Christ's righteoufnefs was wrought out through the pains of death, under which he thed his precious blood.

We obferved before, that the light which the church enjoyed from the fall of man till Chrift came, was like the light which we enjoy in the night; not the light of the fun directly, but as reflecting from the moon and planets; which light did forefhow Chrift, the Sun of righteoufnefs which was afterwards to arife. This light they had chiefly two ways: one was by predictions of Chrift, wherein his coming was foretold and promited ; the other by types and fhadows, in which his coming and redemption were prefigured. The first thing that was done to prepare the way for Chrift in the former of these ways, was in the promife above confidered; and the first thing of the latter kind, viz. of types, was the inflitution of facrifices. As that promife [Gen. iii. 15.] was the first dawn of gospel light after the fall in prophecy; fo this inflitution was the first hint of it in types. The giving of that promife was the first thing done after the fall in this work, in Christ's prophetical office ; the inftitution of facrifices was the first thing that we read of after the fall, by which Chrift exhibited himfelf in his prieftly office.

The

tion of Christ's death; the cloathing typised the imputation of his righteousnels, which is upon all them who believe." [Rom. ii]. 22.]—[HERVEY'S'Theron and Afpasio, vol. ii. lett. 4.]

"Nor he their outward only, with the fkins Of beafts, but inward nakednefs (much more Opprobrious!) with his robe of rightcoufnefs Arraying, cover'd from his Father's fight."

[MILTON's Par. Loft. Book x.]

The inflitution of facrifices was a great thing done towards preparing the way for Chrift's coming, and working out redemption. For the facrifices of the Old Teftament were the principal of all the Old Teftament types of Chrift and his redemption; and it tended to establish in the minds of God's visible church the neceffity of a propitiatory facrifice, in order to the Deity's being fatisfied for tin; and fo prepared the way for the reception of the glorious gospel that reveals the great facrifice, not only in the vilible church, but, through the world of mankind. For from this institution of facrifices after the fall, all nations derived the fame cuftom. No nation, however barbarous, has been found without it any where This is a great evidence of the truth of revealed religion; for no nation, but only the Jews, could tell how they came by this cuftom, or to what purpofe it was to offer facrifices to their deities. The light of nature did not teach them any fuch thing. That did not teach them that the gods were hungry, and fed upon the flefh which they burnt in facrifice; and yet they all had this cuftom; of which no other account can be given, but that they derived it from Noah, who had it from his anceftors, on whom God had enjoined it as a type of the great facrifice of Chrift. However, by this means all nations of the world had their minds poffeffed with this notion, that an atonement or facrifice for fin was neceffary; and a way was made for their more readily receiving that great doctrine of the gospel, which teaches us the atonement and facrifice of Chrift.

4. God foon after the fall actually began to fave the fouls of men through Chrift's redemption. In this, Chrift' who had lately taken upon him the work of Mediator between God and man, did first begin to exercise his kingly office. In the first prediction the light of Chrift's redemption first began to dawn in the prophecies of it; in the inflitution of facrifices it first began to dawn in the types of it; in his beginning actually to fave men, it first began to dawn in the fruit of it.

83

Ŀ

It is probable, therefore, that Adam and Eve were the first fruits of Christ's redemption; (U) it is probable by God's manner of treating them; by his comforting them as

(U) Adam and Eve the FIRST FRUITS of Chrift's redemption. MILTON has fo beautifully and evangelically illustrated this fupposition, that we cannot result the temptation of again introducing our favourite commentator.

. . . "They forthwith to the place Repairing where he judg'd them, proftrate fell Before him reverent, and both confefs'd Humbly their faults. and pardon begg'd, with tears Watering the ground, and with their fighs the air Frequenting, fent from hearts contrite, and fign Of forrow unfeign'd, and humiliation meek.

" Thus they in lowlieft plight repentant flood Praying ; for from the mercy-feat above Prevenient grace defcending had remov'd The flony from their hearts, and made new flefh Regenerate grow inflead, that fighs now breath'd Unutterable, which the Spirit of prayer Infpir'd, and wing'd for heav'n with fpeedier flight Than loudeft oratory : . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . To heav'n their pray'rs Flew up, nor mifs'd the way, by envious winds Blown vagabond or fruftrate; in they pafs'd Dimenfionlefs thro' heav'nly doors ; then clad With incenfe, where the golden altar fum'd, By their great Interceffor, came in fight Before the Father's throne : them the glad Son Prefenting, thus to intercede began :

"See, Father, what first fruits on earth are fprung From thy implanted grace in man, thefe fighs And pray'rs, which in this golden cenfor, mix'd With incenfe, I thy prieft before thee bring; Fruits of more pleafing favour from thy feed Sown with contrition in his heart, than thofe Which his own hand mannring all the trees Of Paradife could have produe'd, ere fall'n From innocence. Now therefore bend thine ear To fupplication; hear his fighs though mute, Unfkilful with what words to pray, let me Interpret for him, me his advocate And propitation; all his works on me, Good or not good, ingraft; my merit thofe Shall perfect, and for thefe my death pay."

as he did, after their awakenings and terrors. They were awakened, and afhamed with a fenfe of their guilt, after their fall, when their eves were opened, and they faw that they were naked and fewed fig-leaves to cover their nakednefs; like the finner who under his first conviction endeavours to hide the nakedness of his foul by a righteoufnefs of his own. Then they were farther awakened and terrified by hearing the voice of God, as he was coming to judge them. Their coverings of fig-leaves would not answer their purpose; for notwithstanding thefe, they ran to hide themfelves among the trees of the garden, not daring to truft to their fig-leaves to hide their nakedness from God. Then they were farther awakened by God's calling them to a ftrict account. But while their terrors were raifed to fuch a height, and they flood, as we may fuppofe, trembling and aftonifhed before their judge, without any thing to catch hold of, whence they could gather hope ; then God condefcended to hold forth fome encouragement to them, to keep them from the dreadful effects of defpair under their awakenings, by giving a hint of a defign of mercy by a Saviour, even before he pronounced fentence against them. And when, after this, he proceeded to pronounce fentence, whereby we may fuppoie their terrors were farther raifed, God was pleafed to encourage them, and to let them fee that he had not wholly caft them off, by taking a fatherly care of them, making them coats of fkins and cloathing them. This also manifetted an acceptance of those facrifices offered to God, (of which these were the fkins) which were types of what God had promifed. when he faid, ' the feed of the woman thall bruife the ' ferpent's head ;' which promife, there is reafon to think, they believed and embraced. Eve feems plainly to express her hopes in, and dependence on, that promife, in what the fays at the birth of Cain, [Gen. iv. 1.] ' I have gotten a man from the Lord ;' i. e. as God has promifed, that my feed thould bruife the ferpent's head; fo now has God given me this pledge and token of it, that I have a feed born. She plainly owns, that that this her child was from God, and hoped that her promifed feed was to be this her eldeft fon; though the was miftaken, as Abraham was with respect to Ishmael, as Jacob with respect to Esau, and as Samuel with respect to the first-born of Jeffe. (w) Allo what the faid at the birth of Seth, expresses her hope and dependence 011

(w) I have gotien a man FROM the Lord.] The uncertain import of the Hebrew particle eth, here translated from, has occafioned this text to receive a great variety of interpretations, molt of which may be feen in Mr. POOLE's elaborate work. [Syn. Crit. in loc.] But when we fee twenty or thirty meanings, many of them inconfiftent with each other, applied to one particle, as the lexicographers have done to this, [See TAYLOR's Heb. Concord.] we cannot help fulpecting that they are unneceffarily and improperly multiplied.

The root whence this particle is evidently derived, fignifies to approach, come unio; and if the fame idea should be preferved in all the fenfes of the particle, as we apprehend in fome degree it fhould, the common translation must be given up. And after examining a great number of paffages in the original foriptures, particularly those which were most pertinent to our purpose, we are fatisfied, that, if it is not to be taken as merely an article of the accufative cafe (which we much doubt whether the language will admit) that it may be refolved into fome or other of the following fenfes :

1. According to the vadical idea, to, unto, belonging to, towards, near, with, upon, and the like.

Or, 2. It may be rendered as an emphatic article, the, the very fubflance e a thing, (according to the Latin proverb, Proximus Jum egomet mili :) in which cafe it may often be translated even, or us a pronoun, the this, S.c. If these remarks are just, the words may then be rendered;

1. 'A (or The) man, even Jehovah.'-So Fagius, Helvicus, Forfter, Schindler, Luther, Pellican, Cocceius, Schmit, Marinus, Avenarius, Parkhurft, Gill, &c .- fuppoling Eve to have taken her first-born to be the Messiah, God incarnate : but as it may admit of difpute, whether E se at this very early period was fo clearly acquainted with this divine mystery, especially as she appears not to have fufpected any thing of the immaculate conception, it might be better to render the words, as they will certainly bear, with rather more latitude.

2. ' The man of . i. e. belonging to, Jehovah.' The Targum of fonathan favours this reading, 'the angel of the Lord ;' and fo Chrift was afterwards called, as well as-the fervant of the Lordthe man of his right hand, and the word that was with God.

" Some

on the promife of God; [fee ver. 25.] ' For God hath ' appointed me another feed inftead of Abel, whom Cain ' flew.'

Thus it is exceedingly probable, if not demonstrable, that, as Chrift took on him the work of mediator when man fell, fo he now actually began his work of redemption, encountered his great enemy the devil, whom he had undertaken to conquer, and refeued those two first captives out of his hands; therein baffling him foon after his triumph in the victory he had obtained over our first parents. And though he might be fure of them and all their posterity, Christ the Redeemer foon convinced him of his miftake, and that he was able to fubdue him, and deliver fallen man. He let him fee it. in delivering those first captives of his; and fo gave him an instance of his fulfilment of that threatening, ' The ' feed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head ;' and a prefage of the fulfilment of one great thing he had undertaken, viz. his fubduing all his enemics under his feet.

After this we have another inftance of redemption in one of their children, viz. ' in righteous Abel,' as the feripture calls him, [Mark xiii. 35.] whofe foul perhaps was the first that went to heaven through Christ's redemption. In him we have at least the first instance recorded N in " Some interpreters, and not without reason, suppose that she confidered the fon given her, as the promifed feed ..... And how foothing to the maternal heart must have been the hope of deliverance and relief for herfelf, and triumph over her bitter encmies, by means of the fon of her own bowels! How fondly does the dream of repairing the ruin which her frailty had brought upon her hufband and family, by this first-born of many brethren ! The name the gives him fignifies . . . . a poffeffion. She flatters herfelf the has now got fomething the can call her own : and even the lofs of Paradife feems compenfated by a dearer inheritance ..... But, O blind to futurity! with how many forrows was this pyfffion, fo exultingly triumphed in, about to pierce the fond maternal breatt ! How unlike are the forebodings and wifnes of parental tendernefs and partiality, to the deftinations of Providence, and the difcoveries which time brings to light !"----[HUNTER's Saered Biog. Lect. iv.7

in foripture of the death of a redeemed perfon. (x) If he was the fift, then, as the redemption of Chrift began to dawn before in the fouls of men in their conversion and juftification, in him it first began to dawn in glorification, and at his death the angels began first to act as ministering spirits to Chrift, in conducting the fouls of the redeemed to glory. (x) And in him others in heaven had the

(x) In Abel we have the first inflance of death.] Many and abfund are the traditions and conjectures refpecting this event; but the feripture account of it is fimply this, 'And Cain talked with 'Abel his brother,' or, as the Samaritan, LXX, and Vulgate read it, 'Cain faid unto Abel his brother, Let us go into the field— ' and it came to pass when they were in the field that Cain role up ' against Abel his brother, and flew him.'

" Cain, it would appear . . . . decoyed his brother into folitude under the mafk of familiarity and friendship, 'he talked with him ;' ' they were in the field.' What a horid aggravation of his guilt! A deed of violence! Murder! A good man's, a brother's murder! Deliberately refolved on, craftily conducted, remorfelefsly executed . . . . . Now was the death for the first time feen ; and feen in its ghafllieft form. Death before the time, the death of piety and goodnefs! Death inflicted by violence, and preceded by pain! Death imbittered to the fufferer by reflecting on the hand from which it came; the hand of a brother, the hand which should have supported and protected him. At length the feeble eyes clofe in peace; and the pain of bleeding wounds, and the pangs of fraternal cruelty, are felt no more. . The duft returns to the earth as it was, and the fpirit returns unto God who gave it." The fpirit returns to God to fee his unclouded face, formerly feen through the medium of natural objects and religious fervices-Happy Abel! thus early delivered from the fins and forrows of a vain world ! . . . . . . The materials of which life is composed, are not fo much, days, and months, and years, as works of piety, and mercy, and justice, or their opposites; he dies in full maturity, who has lived to God . . . . at whatever period, and in whatever manner he is cut off: that life is fhort, though extended to a thousand years, which is disfigured with vice, devoted to the purfuit of time merely, and at the close of which the unhappy man is found un econciled to God." [Dr. H. Hunter's Sacred Biography, Lect. vi.]

(v) At Abd's death the ANGELS first began to all as minifering spirits.] "The angel of death called forth the foul of Abel from the enlanguined duft. It advanced with a finile of joy . . . I falute thee, faid the celeftial fpirit, while benignity and joy beamed in his eyes : I falute thee, O happy for ! now difengaged from thy the first opportunity of feeing fo wonderful a thing, as a human foul, that had been funk into an abyfs of fin and mifery, brought to heaven and glory; which was a much greater thing, than if they had feen man return to the earthly Paradife. Thus they by this faw the glorious effect of Christ's redemption, in the great honour and happiness that was procured for finful, miserable creatures by it.

88

5. The next remarkable thing that God did in the farther carrying on this great affair of redemption, that I fhall take notice of, was the first out-pouring of the Spirit through Christ, which was in the days of Enos. We read, [Gen. iv. 26.] ' Then began men to call upon ' the name of the Lord.' The meaning of these words has been confiderably controverted among divines. (z) We thy encumbering duft. . . . It is to me an increafe of felicity, that I am chofen by the Molt High to introduce thee into the realms of light and blifs, where myriads of angels wait to hail thee. Conceive, if thou canft, beloved foul! Conceive what it is to behold God face to face, to have communion with him for ever.' [Death of Abel, Book iv.]

(z) Then BEGAN men to CALL UPON the name of the Lord. "Not but that Adam and Abel and all good men had called upon the name of the Lord, and prayed to him, or worfhipped him before this time perfonally and in their families ; but now the families of good men being larger, and more numerous, they joined together in focial and public worthip : or fince it may be thought there were public affemblies for religious worthip before this time, it may be they had been neglected, and now were revived with more zeal and vigour ; feeing the Cainites incorporating themfelves, and joining families together and building cities, and carrying on their civil and religious affairs among themfelves, they also formed themselves into diffinct bodies; and not only feparated from them, but called themfelves by a different name; for fo the words may be rendered, "Then began men to call " themfelves,' or, ' to be called by the name of the Lord ;' the Sons of God as diffinet from the fons of men; which diffinetion may be observed in Ch. vi. 2. and has been retained more or lefs ever fince. Some chufe to translate the words, 'then began men ' to call in the name of the Lord;' that is, to call upon God i. the name of the Mefliah, the Mediator between God and Man; having now fince the birth of Seth, and efpecially of Enos, clearer notions of the promifed feed and of the use of him and his name,

N 2

in

We cannot fupp fe the meaning is, that then men firft performed the duty of prayer. Prayer is a duty of natural religion, and a duty to which a fpirit of piety does most naturally lead men. Prayer is, as it were, the very breath of a pions spirit, and we cannot suppose therefore, that holy men had lived for above two hundred years, without prayer. Therefore fome divines think, that the meaning is, that then men first began to perform public worthip, or to call upon the name of the Lord in public affemblies. Whether it be fo to be understood or not, yet certainly there was now fomething new in the visible church of God with respect to the duty of prayer, or calling upon the name of the Lord, which was the confequence of the out-pouring of the Spirit of God.

If it was now first that men were stirred up to meet together in assemblies, to assist one another in seeking God to as they had never done before, it argues something extra-in their addreffes to God ; [See John xiv. 13, 14.-xvi. 23, 24.] The Jews [many of them] give a very different fenfe of thefe words; the Targum of Onkelos is, "Then in his days the children of men cealed from praying in the name of the Lord;" and the Targum of Jonathan is, "This was the age, in the days of which they began to err, and they made themfelves idols, and furnamed their idols by the name of the word of the Lord ;" with which agrees the note of Jarchi, " Then they began to call the nomes of men, and the names of herbs, by the name of the bleffel God, to make idols of them ;" and fome of them fay, particularly Maimonides, that Enos himfelf erred and fell into idolatry, and was the first inventor of images, by the mediation of which men prayed unto God: but all this feems to be without foundation and injurious to the character of this antidiluvian patriarch ; nor does it appear that idolatry obtained in the pofferity of Seth, or among the people of God fo early; nor is fuch an account agreeable to the hiltory which Mofes is giving of the family of Seth, in opposition to that of Cain; wherefore one or other of the former fenfes is beil." [GILL in loc.]

If our author's exposition is preferred, which nearly corresponds with what is observed in the former part of this note, it may receive fome illustration from comparing it with Mal. iii. 16. • Then they that feared the Lord fpake often one to another, the • Lord hearkened and heard, and a book of remembrance was • written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that • thought upon his name.' extraordinary as the caufe; and could be from nothing but the uncommon influences of God's Spirit. We may obferve, that a remarkable out-pouring of God's Spirit always produces a great increafe of prayer. When the Spirit of God begins a work on men's hearts, it immediately fets them to calling on the name of the Lord. As it was with Paul after the Spirit of God had laid hold of him, then it is faid, [Acts ix. 11.] ' Eehold he prayeth!' fo it was in all the inflances which we have any account of in fcripture; and fo it will be at the great effufion of the Spirit in the latter days. It is foretold, that it will be poured out as a fpirit of grace and fupplication, [Zech. xii. 10. See alfo Zeph. iii. 9.] ' For then will I turn ' to the people a pure language, that they may all call ' upon the name of the Lord, to ferve him with one ' confent.'

And when it is faid, 'Then began men to call upon 'the name of the Lord,' no more can be intended by it, than that this was the first remarkable feason of this nature that ever was. It was the beginning, or the first, of fuch a kind of work of God, fuch an out-pouring of the Spirit of God. After this manner fuch an expression is commonly used in fcripture: [I Sam. xiv. 35.] 'And 'Saul built an altar unto the Lord; the fame was the 'first altar that he built unto the Lord.' In the Hebrew it is, as you may fee in the margin, 'that altar he began 'to build unto the Lord.' [Heb. ii. 3.] 'How thall we 'escape if we neglect fo great falvation, which first began 'to be fpoken by the Lord?'

It may here be obferved, that from the fall of man to this day, the work of redemption in its effect has been carried on by the fame means. Though there be a more conflant influence of God's Spirit always in fome degree attending his ordinances; yet the way in which the greateft things have been done towards carrying on this work, always has been by remarkable effutions of the Spirit at fpecial feafons of mercy, as will fully appear hereafter. And this, in the days of Enos, was the first remarkable effusion of the Spirit of God recorded. There had had been a faving work of God on the hearts of fome before; but now God was pleafed to grant a larger portion of his Spirit; fo that here we fee that great building which God laid the foundation of immediately after the fall, carried on farther, and built higher, than ever it had been before.

6. The next thing I shall take notice of, is the eminently holy life of Enoch, who we have reafon to think was a faint of greater eminency than any that had been before him; to that in this respect the work of redemption was carried on to a ftill greater height. With refpect to its effect in the vilible church in general, we observed above that it was carried higher in the days of Enos than ever before. Probably Enoch was one of the faints of that harvest; for he lived all the days that he did live on earth, in the days of Enos. And with respect to the degree to which this work was carried in the foul of a particular perfon, it was raifed to a greater height in Enoch than ever before. His foul, 2s it was built on Chrift, was built up in holinefs to a greater height than any of his predeceffors. He was a wonderful inftance of Chrift's redemption, and of the efficacy of his grace. (A) 7. In

(A) Enoch WALKED with God.] Infinite pains have been taken to decorate the characters of ancient philosophers and heroes, and too frequently their own vanity, the adulation of their dependents, or the partiality of their heirs, has purchased eulogiums, where eternal infamy was merited. But what is the praise of men to the praise of God ! How mean are the splendid epithets of great, wife, and learned—puissant, brave, and magnanimous—compared with the character of our holy prophet, as drawn by the inspired historian, 'He walked with God.'

The phrafe is metaphorical, after the eaftern manner, and is explained by an infallible expositor to mean—'He pleafed God :' but the metaphorical term is, perhaps, more expressive than any purely literal, even in the fublime language of the Greeks.

To walk with God implies, first, a state of reconciliation with him; 'Can two walk together unless they are agreed?' Certainly not, with any degree of pleasure. But Enoch (any more than Abram) was not born the 'friend of God';' but rather at ennity with him, a 'child of wrath, even as others;' and it was doubtless the fame atoning blood, the fame divine grace, that reconciled him

<sup>11111</sup>

7. In Enoch's time God more expressly revealed the coming of Chrift than he had before done. We have an account of the prophecy of Enoch in the 14th and 15th verfes of Jude: 'And Enoch also the feventh from Adam, ' prophesied of these, faying, Behold, the Lord cometh ' with ten thousand of his faints, to execute judgment ' upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among ' them, for their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly ' committed, and of all their hard speeches which ungod-' ly finners have spoken against him.' (B) This prophecy does him to God, which has in all ages brought near ' them that were ' afar off.' Then being reconciled, he enjoyed peace and communion with God.

His name implies dedication, and perhaps, like Samuel, he might be early devoted to the Lord, and initiated betimes into his fervice. But he refled not in this; unfatisfied with any prefent attainments, he fludied, as the term implies, to make a progrefs in religion, he svalked with God.'

Tradition, very ancient and extensive, has celebrated his attainments in altronomy, the mathematics, and other fciences, [See Univ. Hift. Vol. i. p. 162.] and it is not improbable that the fludy of nature might be a favourite employment to one who could contemplate the divine glory in all its objects; nor is it unlikely that iuch exemplary piety was rewarded with confiderable diffeoveries in natural, as well as divine things : but this was the fmalleft part of his character : his mind, doubtlefs, foared above the flars, and fought an acquaintance with eternal objects—fought the felicity of angels—the image of God. And he fought not in vain ; prefling towards the mark, he gained the prize, he received his crown, at an age when many, in that period of longevity, had not paffed half their mortal pilgrimage.

--- " Him the most High,

Wrapt in a balmy cloud with winged fleeds,

. . . . Receiv'd to walk with God,

High in falvation and the climes of blifs,

Exempt from death." [Par. Loft. Book xi.] [U. U.] (B) The PROPHECY of Enoch]—Is more correctly rendered thus; 'And Eaoch alfo, the feventh from Adam, prophefied 'against them, when he faid, Echo'd, the Lord comes with my-'riads of his holy ones, to execute judgment up on all, and to 'convirt all the ungodly among them of their impious works 'which they have impiously committed; and of all the hard things 'which impious finnels have fpohen ag doit him.'

"A precious fragment of antidilavian hiltory is here [in the Upifile of Jude; preferved to us, as it from by the fperial providence does not feem to be confined to any particular coming of Chrift; but it has refpect in general to his coming in his kingdom, and is fulfilled, in a degree, in every remarkable manifestation Chrift has made of himfelf in the world, for the falvation of his people, and the destruction of his enemies. It is very parallel in this refpect with many other prophecies given under the Old Teftament; and, in particular, with that in the 7th chapter of Daniel, whence the Jews principally took their notion of the kingdom of heaven, [ver. 10.] 'A fiery ftream iffued, ' and came forth from before him: thoufand thoufands ' ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thou-' fand flood before him; the judgment was fet, and the 'books were opened.' And [ver. 13, 14.] 'I faw in the ' night-vision, and behold one like the fon of man came ' with the clouds of heaven, and came to the antient of ' days, and they brought him near before him. And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a king-' dom, that all people, nations, and languages should ' ferve him : his dominion is an everlafting dominion, ' which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which ' shall not be deftroyed.' And though it is not unlikely that Enoch might have a more immediate refpect, in this prophecy, to the approaching deftruction of the old world by the flood, which was a remarkable refemblance of Chrift's destruction of all his enemies at his fecond coming, yet it doubtlefs looked beyond the type to the antitype.

And as this prophecy of Chrift's coming is more expreffed than any preceding it; fo it is an inftance of the increase of that gospel-light which began to dawn prefently after the fall, or of that building which is the fubject dence of God, who taught the apofile Jude to diffinguish between what was genuine and fpurious in the tradition. It can by no means be proved that this is a quotation from that foolish book called Enoch's Prophecy, as Bp. SHERLOCK has very rightly urged; nor would it prove the infpiration of the book from whence it was taken, but only that perticular paffage."—[DODDRIDGE's Fam. Expof. in loc.]

94

tubject of our prefent difcourfe, being farther carried on, and built up higher than it had been before.

And here, by the way, I would obferve, that the increafe of gofpel light, and the progrefs of the work of redemption, as it refpects the church in general, from its erection to the end of the world, is very fimilar to the progrefs of the fame work, and the fame light, in a particular foul, from the time of its converfion, till it is perfected and crowned in glory. Sometimes the light thines brighter, and at others more obfcurely; fometimes grace prevails, and at other times it feems to languifh for a great while together. But in general, grace is growing: from its first erection till it is completed in glory, the kingdom of Christ is building up in the foul. So it is with refpect to the great affair in general, as it relates to the univerfal fubject of it, and as it is carried on from its first beginning to the end of the world.

8. The next remarkable thing in carrying on this work, was the traaflation of Enoch into heaven. [Gen. v. 24.] 'And Enoch wall ed with God, and he was not; 'for God took him.' Moles, in giving an account of the genealogy of thefe that were of the line of Noah, does not fay concerning Enoch, he lived to long and he died, as he does of the reft; but, 'he was not, for God 'took him;' i. e. he tranflated him; in body and foul carried him to heaven without dying, as it is explained, [in Heb. ix 5.] 'By faith Enoch was tranflated, that he 'fhould not fee death.' (c) By this wonderful work of God, the work of redemption was carried to a greater height in feveral refpects, than it had been before.

You may remember, that when I flewed you what were the great things that God intended in the work of redemp-

(c) Enoch was TRANSLATED.] For this we have divine authority, as above flewn, and need not much regard uncertain traditions. They will, however, in this cafe furnish us with an inflructive observation, viz. that human traditions generally either oppose divine truths, or deprave them. In this inflance, many of the Jews, those mafters of tradition, will not believe but that Enoch died like other men; and others, who admit his transla-O tion, redemption; among other things I mentioned (p. 57) the perfect reftoration of the ruins of the fall, with refpect to the elect, both in foul and body. Now this translation of Enoch, was the first instance of this restoration with respect to the body. There had been many instances of restoring the foul of man by Christ's redemption, but none of the body, until now. At the end of the world, all the bodies of the faints shall actually be redeemed; the dead in Christ by a refurrection; and them that shall remain alive by a glorious change. A number of the bodies of the faints were raifed at the refurrection of Christ; and before then there was an instance of a body glorised in Elijah: but the first instance was this of Enoch, of which we are now speaking.

Now the work of redemption in this inftance was carried on still farther; as thereby was a great increase of gofpel light, and the church had a clearer manifestation of a future state, and of the glorious reward of the faints in heaven. We are told, [2 Tim. i. 10.] ' That life and ' immortality are brought to light by the gofpel.' And the more of this gofpel is revealed, the more clearly does the light of life and immortality appear. What was faid in the Old Testament of a future state, is very obscure, in comparison with the more full, plain, and abundant revelation given of it in the New. But yet even in those early days, the church of God, in this inftance, was favoured with an evidence of it fet before their eyes, in that one of their brethren was actually taken up to heaven without dying; which we have reafon to think the church of God knew then, as they afterwards knew Elijah's tranflation. And as this was a clearer manifestation of a future state than the church had had before; fo it was a pledge or earnest of that future glorification of all the faints, which God intended through the redemption of Jefus Chrift.

9. The

tion, add to it, that he was taken by a whirlwind to the terreffrial Paradife, where God fhewed him the tree of life in the midlt of it. [See Univ. Hift. Vol. i. p. 163, and Ainfworth's Ann. in loc.] [N. U.]

9. The next thing that I shall observe, was the upholding the church of God in that family of which Chrift was to come, in the time of the great and general defection before the flood. The church, in all probability, was fmall, in comparison with the reft of the world, from the time that mankind first began to multiply on the face of the earth, or from the time of Cain's defection, and departing from among the people of God; [Gen. iv. 16.] ' When Cain went out from the prefence ' of the Lord, (D) and dwelt in the land of Nod;' (E) which being interpreted, is the land of banifhment; I fay, from this time of Cain's departure and feparation from the church of God, it is probable that the church of God was fmall in comparison with the reft of the world. The  $O_2$ church

(D) The PRESENCE of the Lord.] "Lightfoot, Heidegger, and Le Clerc [to whom many more might be added] feem to be of opinion, that what we render 'the prefince of the Lord,' was the proper name of that particular place where Adam, after his expulfion from Paradife, dwelt; and accordingly we find that part of the country which lies contiguous to the fuppofed fituation of Paradife, [i. e. near Tripoli, in Syria] called by Strabo, 'the prefence of God.' However this be, it is agreed by all interpreters, that there was a divine glory, called by the Jews SCHECHINAH, which appeared from the beginning, and from which Cain, being now banifhed, never enjoyed the fight of it again."—[PATRICK'S Comment. and GILL'S Expof.]

(E) Cain dwelt in the land of NOD. ] " It is the fame word which is rendered in the twelfth and fourteenth verfe a vagabond. Why our translators in the two former verfes give the meaning of the word, and in the fixteenth verfe the letters of it merely, is not eafily comprehensible. Let it be translated throughout, the fenfe is perfectly clear, and all ground of idle inquiry taken away. In the twelfth verfe, God denounces his punifhment, ' thou fhalt " not die, but be NoD, a vagabond in the earth.' In the fourteenth verfe, Cain recognizes the juffice of the fentence, and bewails it, " I shall be Non, a vagabond in the earth :' and in the fixteenth, Mofes gives us the hiftory of its being put in execution ; ' he went ' from the prefence of the Lord, and dwelt in the land,' NOD, a vagabond, flying from place to place, skulking in corners, shunning the haunts of men, purfued inceffantly by the remorfclefs pangs and tormenting apprehensions of an ill confcience. Remove all external danger, 'and the wicked is as the troubled fea, which ' cannot reft, whofe waters caft up mire and dirt."-[HUNTER's Sac. Biog. Lect. v. 7 church feems to have been kept up chiefly in the pofterity of Seth; for this was the feed that God appointed inftead of Abel, whom Cain flew. But we cannot reafonably fuppofe, that Seth's pofterity was one fiftieth part of the world: " for Adam was one hundred and thirty years old when Seth was born." But Cain, who feems to have been the leader of those that were not of the church, was Adam's eldeft child, and probably was born foon after the fall, which doubtlefs was foon after Adam's creation; fo that there was time for Cain to have many fons before Seth was born : befides other children that probably Adam and Eve had before this time, (agreeable to God's bleffing. ' Be fruitful, and multiply, and reple-' nifh the earth ;') and many of thefe children might alfo have children. The hiftory of Cain, before Seth's birth, feems to imply that there were great numbers of men (r)

(F) Great NUMBERS of men on the earth at this time.] It is generally conjectured [from Gen. iv. 25.] that Abel was murdered a year or two before Seth was born, which was in the year 130.

" Now though we should suppose that Adam and Eve had no other fons in the year of the world one hundred and twenty-eight, but Cain and Abel, it must be allowed that they had daughters, who might early marry with those two fons. I require no more than the defcendants of thefe two, to make a very confiderable number of men upon the earth in the faid year one hundred and twenty-eight; for, fuppoling them to have been married in the nineteenth year of the world, they might eafily have had each of them eight children in the twenty-fifth year. In twenty-five years more, the fiftieth of the world, their descendants in a direct line would be fixty-four perfons. In the feventy-fifth year, at the fame rate, they would amount to five hundred and twelve. In the hundredth year, to four thousand and nincty-fix ; and in the hundred and twenty-fifth year, to thirty-two thousand feven hundred and fixty-eight."-[Differt, Chronol. Gcog. Critiq. fur la Journal de Paris, Tom. li. p. 6.]

"Now if to this calculation we add the high degree of probability that Adam had many more fons befides those mentioned in the record; that families were generally more numerous than the fuppofition flates; that fimple manners, rural employments, temperature of climate, and largeness of room, are circumflances inconceiveably more favourable to population, than modern facts, and European cuffoms, give us any idea of, we fhall not think it frange that Cain, under the preflure of confeious guilt, and harrowed on the earth: [Gen. iv. 14, 15.] 'Behold, thou haft 'driven me out this day from the face of the earth; and 'from thy face fhall I be hid, and I thall be a fugitive and 'a vagabond in the earth; and it fhall come to pafs, that 'every one that findeth me fhall flay me. And the Lord faid unto him, Therefore whofoever flayeth Cain, ven-'geance fhall be taken on him feven-fold. And the Lord fet a mark upon Cain, left any finding him flould 'kill him.' (G) And thofe that were in being when Seth was born, muft be fuppofed to ftand in equal capacity of multiplying their pofferity with him; and therefore, as I faid, Seth's pofferity were but a finall part of the inhabitants of the world.

But after the days of Enos and Enoch, (for Enoch was tranflated before Enos died; I fay, after their days) the church of God greatly diminifhed, in proportion as multitudes that were of the line of Seth, and had been born in the church of God, fell away, and joined with the wicked world, principally by means of intermarriages with rowed with fear, which always both multiplies and magnifies objects far beyond their real number and fize, flould be alarmed and intimidated at the numbers of mankind, who he fuppofed were ready, and were concerned, to execute vengeance upon him." — [HUNTER'S Sac. Biog. Vol. i. left. 5.]

" "Almost all the ver-(G) The Lord fet a MARK upon Cain.] fions have committed a miflake in translating ver. 15, that God had 'put a mark upon Cain,' left any fuddenly fhould kill him. The original fays no fuch thing ; and the LXX have very well rendered it thus- God fet a fign before Cain, to purfuade him that whoever found find him found not kill him.' This is almost the fame with what is faid in Exod. x. 1. that ' God did fet ' figns before the Egyptians ;' and Ifa. lxvi. 19. that 'he would fet ' a fign before the heathen ;' where it is evident that God did not mean any particular mark which flould be fet on their bodies, but only those figns and wonders which he wrought in Egypt, to oblige Pharaoh to let his people go ; and the miraculous manner wherein he delivered them from the Babylonish captivity. This expofition is natural and agreeable to the methods of Divine Providence, which is wont to convince the incredulous by figns and wonders ; nor could any thing elfe convince Cain, in the fear he was under, that the first who met him should not kill him, after what God had faid to him in exprobration of his crime."-----[PATRICK'S Comment. and SAURIN'S Differt.]

100 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

with them; [as Gen. vi. 1, 2, and 4.] 'And it came to 'pafs, when men began to multiply on the face of the 'earth, and daughters were born unto them, that the fons 'of God faw the daughters of men, that they were fair; 'and they took them wives of all which they chofe.---'There were giants in the earth in those days; and alfo 'after that, when the fons of God came in unto the 'daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the 'fame became mighty men, which were of old, men of 'renown.' (H) By the fons of God here, are doubtlefs meant the children of the church: it is a denomination often given them in the feripture. They intermarried with

(H) There were GIANTS on the carth in those days.] Here are two inquiries which prefent themfelves; I. What is meant by the fons of God intermarrying with the daughters of men? And what were these giants here mentioned?

As to the former, the exposition of our author is generally acquiefced in, and there is but little doubt that is the true one. There is another, however, espoused by some of the best Jewish writers, as Ben Uzziel, S. Jarchi, Aben Ezra, and the Targums, and which therefore may deferve mentioning, viz. that the fons of God were princes, magistrates, and great-men; and daughters of men, those of the inferior and poor people, which they took by violence, as the word fometimes means, and debauched.—[See Univ. Hift. Vol. i. p. 175.]

As to the other inquiry, there is no doubt, if we credit hiftory, either facred or prophane, but there were formerly men of extraordinary flature, as, indeed, to this day we meet with fome accidental inftances; not to mention the Patagonians, a nation of fuch men, if we may credit the relations in Mr. Pennant's tract. [See the Analytical Review, No. 1.]—But however fome critics have thought that the paffage before us does not refer to fuch. Some translate the Hebrew word nephilim, apoflates, thofe who have fell from the truth; fo Jofephus: but Symmachus and Aquila underftand it more literally of ruffians, men of violence, men vebo attack, who fall upon others.—.[See CRUDEN's Concord, in Giant.]

The abfurd notion that the fons of God were angels, either fallen or guardian, is too abfurd to deferve refutation. It is fuppofed, however, that this notion originated from an error in fome old copies of the LXX, which read, the angels, inflead of the fons of God; and it was in great meafure propagated by the book of the pretended prophecies of Enoch.—.[See Univ. Hift. Vol. i, p. 172, and feq.]

with the wicked world, and fo their hearts were led away from God; and there was a great and continual defection : and the church of God, which used to be a restraint on the wicked world, diminifhed exceedingly, and fo wickednefs went on uncontrolled. Satan, that old ferpent, the devil, that tempted our first parents, and fet up himfelf as God of this world, raged exceedingly; and every imagination of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil continually, (1) and the earth was filled with violence. It feems to be deluged with wickednefs now, as it was with water afterwards: and mankind in general were fwallowed up in this deluge. And now Satan made a most violent and potent attempt to deftroy the church of God; and had almost done it : but God restored it in the midst of all this flood of wickedness and violence. He kept it up in the line of which Chrift was to proceed. He would not fuffer it to be deftroyed, for a bleffing was in it. There was a particular family, a root whence ' the branch ' of righteoufnels' was afterwards to fhoot forth. And therefore, however the branches were lopped off, and the tree feemed to be deftroyed; yet God, in the midft of all, kept alive this root, by his wonderful redeeming power and grace.

Thus I have fhewn how God carried on the great affair of redemption; how the building went on during the first period of the Old Testament, viz. from the fall of man, till God brought the flood upon the earth. And I would here remark, that though the history which Moses gives us of the great works of God during that space be very fhort; ( $\kappa$ ) yet it is exceedingly comprehenfive

(1) Mau's heart only EVIL.] "The original [text] is very exact in its flructure, as well as very emphatical in its meaning.— The heart, or the grand principle, the thoughts of the heart, or the various actings of that principle, the imaginaticns of the thoughts, or the produce and refult of those actings; namely, defires and affections, counfels and purposes: of which, not one, not a few only, or the greatest part, but all these are evil." [HERVEY'S Ther. and Afp. vol. ii. dial. II.]

(K) The hiftory of this period very SHORT.] How few chapters contain the hittory of our world before the flood, although a period five and inftructive. And it may also be profitable to obferve, the efficacy of that purchase of redemption that had fuch great effects, even many ages before Christ appeared to purchase redemption, by the shedding of his blood.

102 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

§ II. From the FLOOD to the calling of ABRAHAM.

I PROCEED now to fhew how the fame work was carried on through the fecond part of this period, from the beginning of the flood till the calling of Abraham: for though that universal deluge of waters overthrew the world; yet it did not overthrow this building of God, the work of redemption. This went on yet, and continued to be built up to a farther preparation for the great Saviour's coming into the world, and working out redemption for his people. And here observe,

1. The flood itfelf was a work of God that belonged to this great affair, and tended to promote it. All the great works of God, from the fall to the end of the world, rightly viewed, will appear as parts of this grand work; and as fo many fleps that God has taken in order to its being carried on: and doubtlets fo great a work, fo remarkable a cataftrophe, as the deluge was, cannot be excepted. It was wrought in order to remove out of the way, enemies that were ready to overthrow it.

Satan feems to have been in a dreadful rage juft before the flood; and his rage then doubtlefs was, as it always has been, chiefly against the church of God. He had drawn almost all the world to be enlisted under his banner.

riod of near feventeen hundred years; and including no lefs events than the creation of the world—the fall of man—and bringing us to the eve of the world's deftruction. What are the memoirs of the oldeft patriarchs, but that they were born—propagated their fpecies—and then died ?—Sic transfit gloria mundi. 'Thus the 'fashion of this world passfeth away.' [1 Cor. vii. 31.] [I. N.] ner. 'We read that the earth was filled with violence;' and doubtlefs that violence was chiefly againft the church, in fulfilment of what was foretold, 'I will put enmity 'between thy feed and her feed.' And their enmity and violence was fo great, and the enemies of the church fo numerous, the whole world being againft it, that it was come to the laft extremity. Noah's reproofs and his preaching of righteoufnefs were utterly difregarded. God's fpirit had ftriven with them an hundred and twenty years, but in vain; (L) the church was reduced to fuch narrow limits, as to be confined to one family. Neither was there a profpect of any thing elfe but of their totally fwallowing it up in a very little time; and fo wholly deftroying that fmall root that had the bleffing in it, from whence the Redeemer was to proceed.

And therefore, God's deftroying those enemies of the church by the flood, belongs to this affair of redemption; for it was one thing that was done in fulfilment of the covenant of grace, as it was revealed to Adam: 'I ' will put enmity between thee and the woman, and be-' tween thy feed and her feed; it fhall bruife thy head.' P Thus

(L) God's fpirit had STRIVEN with them in vain.] "The word here translated to ftrive, fignifies to litigate a point or reafon in a caufe, before it is ripe for judgment  $\ldots$ .

" It is now eafy to difcern in what fenfe the Spirit of God may be oppofed and refilted, and ftrive to no purpofe, and in what fenfe not. The things of the Spirit of God are difagreeable to a natural man : it is no wonder that the external ministry of the word and ordinances are despifed, opposed, and resisted. The external caufe may be rejected; yea, fome inward motions and convictions may be over-ruled, fliffed, and come to nothing ; nay, it will be granted, that there may be, and is an opposition and re-listance to the work of the Spirit of God in conversion; but then the Spirit cannot be fo refifted in the operations of his grace as to be obliged to ceafe from his work, or to be overcome or hindered in it; for he acts with a defign which cannot be fruftrated, and with a power which is uncontroulable ; were it otherwife, the regeneration and conversion of every one must be precarious; and where the grace of the Spirit is effectual, according to the doctime of free-will, it would be more owing to the will of man than to the Spirit of God." [GILL's Caufe of God and Truth, Part I. No. 2.7

HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

Thus was the feed of the ferpent, in the midft of their most violent rage, difappointed, and the church delivered when in the utmost peril.

We read of fcarce any great deftruction of nations in the Scripture, but one grand reafon given for it is, their enmity and injuries against God's people; and doubtlets this was one main reafon of the deftruction of all nations by the flood. The giants that were in those days, in all likelihood, got themfelves their renown by their great exploits against Heaven, and the remaining fons of God that had not corrupted themfelves.

We read that just before the world thall be deftroyed by fire, ' the nations that are in the four quarters of the ' earth, thall gather together against the church as the fand ' of the sea, and shall go up on the breadth of the earth. · and compass the camp of the faints about, and the be-· loved city; and then fire shall come down from God out ' of heaven, and devour them.' [Rev. xx. 8, 9.] And it feems there was that which was very parallel to it, just before the world was destroyed by water. And therefore their deftruction was a work of God that did as much belong to the work of redemption, as the deftruction of the Egyptians belonged to the redemption of the children of Ifrael out of Egypt; or as the deftruction of Sennacherib's mighty army, that had compafied about Jerufalem to deftroy it, belonged to God's redemption of that city from them.

By means of this flood, all the enemies of God's church, againft whom that little handful had no ftrength, were fwept off at once. (M) God took their part, and appeared for them againft their enemies, drowned those of whom they had been afraid in this flood, as he drowned the enemies of Ifrael that purfued them in the Red Sea.

Indeed

(M) The enemies of the church all freept off at once by the FLOOD.] Well, faith the apofile, [Heb. x. 31.] 'It is a fearful thing to fall 'into the hands of the living God.' Dreadful judgments follow abufed mercies. One hundred and twenty years had the divine patience waited—one hundred and twenty years had the holy prophet

FROM THE FLOOD TO ABRAHAM's CALL. 105

Indeed God could have taken other methods to deliver his church: he could have converted all the world, inftead of drowning it; and fo he could have taken another method than drowning the Egyptians in the Red Sea. But that is no argument, that the method that he did take, was not a method to flow his redeeming mercy to his people.

By the deluge the enemies of God's people were difpoffeffed, and the whole earth given to Noah and his family to enjoy in quiet; as God made room for the Ifraelites in Canaan, by caffing out their enemies from before them. And God's thus taking the poffeffion of the enemies of the church, and giving it all to his church, was agreeable to that promife of the covenant of grace: [Pfal. xxxvii. 9, 10, 11.] 'For evil doers fhall be cut ' off; but those that wait upon the Lord, they fhall inherit ' the earth. For yet a little while and the wicked shall ' not be: yea, thou shalt diligently consider his place. ' and it shall not be. But the meek shall inherit the ' earth, and shall delight themselves in the abundance of ' peace.'

2. Another thing belonging to the fame work, was God's fo wonderfully preferving that family of which  $P_2$  the phet warned that perverfe generation; but in vain. Imagination is too weak to conceive, as well as language to paint, the awful event which follows—while

..... With black wings Wide hovering, all the clouds together drove From under heaven . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . And now the thicken'd fky Like a dark ceiling flood ; down rufh'd the rain Impetuous, and continued, till the earth No more was feen ; the floating veffel fwam Uplifted, and fecure with beaked prow Rode tilting o'er the waves ; all dwellings elfe Flood overwhelm'd, and them, with all their pomp, Deep under water roll'd ; fea cover'd fea, Sea without fhore; and in their palaces, Where luxury late reign'd, fea monfters whelp'd And ftabled ; of mankind, fo numerous late, All left, in one fmall bottom fwam embark'd."---[Par. Loft. Book xi.] ____ [U. U.] the Redeemer was to proceed, when all the reft of the world was drowned. God's drowning the world, and faving Noah and his family, were both, reducible to this great work. The faving Noah and his family belonged to it two ways; as that was the family of which the Redeemer was to proceed, and as it was the church that he had redeemed. It was the myftical body of Chrift that was there faved. The manner of God's faving those perfons, when all the world befides was fo overthrown, was very wonderful and remarkable. It was a wonderful and remarkable type of the redemption of Chrift, of that redemption that is fealed by the baptifm of water, and is fo fpoken of in the New Teltament, [as I Pet. iii. 20, 21.] ' Which fometimes were difobedient, when ' once the long-fuffering of God waited in the days of ' Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, ' that is, eight fouls, were faved by water. The like ' figure whereunto, even baptifin, doth alfo now fave us, ' (not the putting away the filth of the flefh, but the 'anfwer of a good confcience towards God,) by the " refurrection of Jefus Chrift.' (N) That water which wafhed

(N) Which fonctime were difficult,  $\mathfrak{C}c.$ ] At prefent we fhall only fubjoin the translation and paraphrafe of this text (including part of the context) from Dr. DODDRIDGE, which perfectly coincides with the fenfe of our author, and we think with the truth. But as many have fuppofed it to refer to another period, viz. to Chrift's preaching in the invisible world, we fhall in the proper place reconfider the text with that interpretation of it.

1. Peter iii. 18-22. "I have already obferved, that if it be the will of God you fhould fuffer, it is better it fhould be for doing well than for doing evil; and it is very evidently fo, becaufe hereby we are made conformable to Chrift our head and leader, whom it cannot but be our glory and happinefs to refemble; for he alfo once fuffered for fins; he, who was fo eminently and perfectly the juft, fuffered for the unjuft, for our benefit, and in our flead, that he might introduce us to God, and fix us in a flate of acceptance and favourable intercourfe with him, being indeed put to death in the fleft, by thofe enemies whom God permitted for a while to triumph over him; but quickened by the Spirit of God, which foon re-animated his body, and raifed it to an immortal life: even that Spirit by the infpiration of which granted to his faithful fervant washed away the filth of the world, and cleared the world of wicked men, was a type of the blood of Christ which takes away our fins. That water which delivered Noah and his fons from their enemies, is a type of the blood that delivers God's church from their spiritual enemies. That water which was so plentiful, that it filled the world, and reached above the tops of the highest mountains, was a type of that blood, the efficacy of which is so abundant, that it is fufficient for the whole world; fufficient to bury the highest mountains of fin. The ark, that was the refuge and hiding-place of the church in this time of storm and flood, was a type of Christ, the true hiding-fervant Noali, going forth as it were, in that progrefs in which he employed him, he preached to those notorious finners, who for their difobedience, have fince experienced the just feverity of the divine vengeance, and are now in the condition of feparate spirits, referved as it were in prifon, to the feverer judgment at the great day. I fpeak of those, who were long fince difobedient, when once the abufed and infulted long-fuffering of a compaffionate God waited upon them, in the days of the patriarch Noah, during the fucceffion of one hundred and twenty years, while the ark was preparing : in which few, that is, eight fauls, of Noah and his wife, his three fons and their wives, were carried fafely through the water, in which the relidue of mankind perifhed. The antitype to which, (or that which corresponds to, and was figured by it, that it, by the prefervation of Noah's family in the ark,) does now fave us, or is the inftrument of our fafety and prefervation, as the ark was of theirs; [I mean] baptifm, whereby we are received into the Christian church, and numbered amongst the heirs of falvation; but then it is to be remembered, that it is not merely the putting away the pollution of the flefb by the use of material water, for that would be very infignificant; but the answer of a good confeience, the reply that it makes when interrogated in the prefence of God, and fpoken in fuch a language as he only is capable of hearing and understanding; and when this likewife is found, when we attain falvation, by that great event in which at baptifm we declare ourfelves believers; I mean the refurrection of our Lord Jefus Chrift from the dead; who is now fet down at the right hand of God, being gone into heaven, there to take poffeffion of the glory prepared for him, where he reigns fupreme over all worlds, all the angels and authorities and powers, which are there enthroned, leing made fubjed to him, and humbly bowing before his superior dignity and authority. [Fam. Expol.]

[I. N.]

hiding-place of the church from the ftorms and floods of God's wrath.

2. The next thing observable is, the new grant of the earth made to Noah and his family immediately after the flood, as founded on the covenant of grace. The facrifice of Chrift was reprefented by Noah's building an altar to the Lord, and offering a facrifice of every clean beaft, and every clean fowl. And we have an account of God's accepting this facrifice, and thereupon bleffing Noah, and eftablishing his covenant with him, and with his feed, promifing to deftroy the earth in like manner no more; this fignifying that, by the facrifice of Chrift, God's people are in fafety from his deftroying judgments, and obtain the bleffing of the Lord. And God now, on occation of this facrifice that Noah offered, gives him and his posterity a new grant of the earth ; a new power of dominion over the creatures, as founded on that facrifice, and fo on the covenant of grace. And thus it is to be looked upon as a diffinct grant from that which was made to Adam, [Gen. i. 28.] ' And God bleffed them, and ' God faid unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenith the earth, and fubdue it; and have dominion " over the fith of the fea, and over the fowl of the air, ' and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.' Which grant was not founded on the covenant of grace; for it was given to Adam while he was under the covenant of works, and therefore was rendered void when that covenant ceafed. The first grant of the earth to Adam was founded on the first covenant; and therefore, when that first covenant was broken, the right conveyed to him by it was forfeited and loft. Hence it came to pafs, that the earth was taken away from mankind by the flood; for the first grant was forseited; and God had never made another after that, till after the flood. If the first covenant had not been broken, God never would have drowned the world. and fo have taken it away from mankind: for then the first grant would have flood good. But that being broken, God, after a while, deftroyed the earth, when the wickednefs of man was great upon ir.

FROM THE FLOOD TO ABRAHAM's CALL. 109

But after the flood, on Noah's offering a facrifice that represented the facrifice of Christ, God, in finelling a fweet favour, or accepting that facrifice (as it was a reprefentation of the true facrifice of Chrift, which is a fweet favour indeed to God) gives Noah a new grant of the earth, founded thereon; or on that covenant of grace which is by the facrifice of Chrift, with a promife annexed, that now the earth should no more be destroyed, till the confummation of all things; as you may fee in Gen. viii. 20, 21, 22. and chap. ix. 1, 2, 3, 7. The reafon why fuch a promife was added to this grant made to Noah, and not to that made to Adam, was becaufe this was founded on the covenant of grace, of which Chrift was the furety, and therefore could not be broken. And therefore it comes to pass now, that though the wickednefs of man has dreadfully raged, and the earth has been filled with violence and wickednefs a thoufand times. one age after another, and more dreadful and aggravated wickedness than the world was full of before the flood, being against fo much greater light and mercy, especially in these days of the gospel ; yet God's patience holds out : he does not deftroy the earth; his mercy and forbearance abides according to his promife ; and his grant eftablithed with Noah and his fons remains firm and good, being founded on the covenant of grace.

4. On this God renews with Noah and his fons the covenant of grace, Geu. ix. 9, 10. 'And I, behold, 'I eftablith my covenant with you, and with your feed 'after you, and with every living creature that is with 'you,' &c.; which even the brute creation have this benefit of, that it fhall never be dettroyed again until the confummation of all things. When we have this expreffion in fcripture, my covenant, it commonly is to be underftood of the covenant of grace. (o) The manner of exprefion,

(0) MY COVENANT is generally to be underflood of the covenant of grace.] The learned are by no means agreed, either as to the derivation, or radical meaning of the original term berith. It is well known that Mr. HUTCHINSON infifted on its meaning the expreffion, 'I will establish my covenant with you, and ' with your feed after you,' (P) shews plainly, that it was a cove-the purifier, or a purification-facrifice, and fo conftantly translated it : and without entering into all the reveries of that ingenious man on this fubject, we think it very probable that the word might originally have fome fuch import; and if it was not immediately derived from the verb in the fenfe of purifying, it might leaft have a collateral relation to it. There is no doubt but facrifices were obferved at the inflitution of human covenants, or compacts; as an appeal to heaven for the purity and fincerity of the parties who formed them. Nor can there be any doubt, but that in the facrifices with which the covenant of grace was ratified with Abraham and others (of which hereafter) the offerer looked forward to that great facrifice which was to purify from fin. In this view God's covenant might very properly fignify the covenant of grace, not only as fealed by typical purifications, but as the conditions of it were fulfilled by that pure and fpotlefs atonement, which cleanfcs from all fin.

[But fee Dr. SHARP's, Mr. BEDFORD's, and Mr. MOODY'S Differtations on this word; alfo Mr. CATCOTT'S Sermon on the Elahim; and Mr. ROMAINE'S new edition of Calafio's Heb. Concordance.] [G. E.]

(P) I will eflablif my covenant.] As our author has here omitted a circumflance of fome importance, and clofely connected with the Hiftory of Redemption, namely, Noah's Prophecy, we fhall take the liberty to fupply it from Bp. NEWTON'S excellent differtation on this fubject.

" It is an excellent character that is given of Noah, [Gen. vi. 9.] 'Noah was a juft man, and perfect in his generations, and ' Noah walked with God.' But the beft of men are not without their infirmities; and Noah [Gen. ix. 20, &c.] having ' planted ' a vineyaid, and drank of the wine,' became inebriated, not knowing, perhaps, the nature and ftrength of the liquor, or being through age incapable of bearing it; and Moles is fo faithful an hiftorian, that he records the failings and imperfections of the moft venerable patriarchs, as well as their merits and virtues. Noah in this condition lay 'uncovered within his tent : and Ham, ' the father of Canaan, faw the nakedne's of his father;' and inflead of concealing his weaknefs, as a good-natured man, or, at leaft, a dutiful fon, would have done, he cruelly expofed it to his two brethren without : but Shem and Japheth, more compaffionate to the infirmities of their aged father, took a garment, and went backward with fuch decency and refpect, that they faw not the nakednefs of their father at the fame time that they covered it. When Noah awoke from his wine, he was informed of what his younger fon had done unto him. The word in the original fignifies his little fon : and fome commentators, therefore, on account a covenant already in being, that had been made, and that Noah would by that denomination understand what covenant it was, viz. the covenant of grace.

5. God's count of what follows, have imagined that Canaan joined with his father Ham in this mockery and infult upon Noah ; and the Jewifh rabbins have a tradition, that Canaan was the first who faw Noah in this posture, and then went and called his father Ham, and concurred with him in ridiculing and exposing the old man. But this is a very arbitrary method of interpretation; no mention was made before of Canaan and of what he had done, but only of Ham the father of Canaan; and of him therefore must the phrase of little fon or youngeft fon be naturally or neceffarily underflood.

" In confequence of this different behaviour of the three fons, Noah, as a patriarch, was enlightened, and as the father of a family, who is to reward or punish his children, was imporvered to foretel the different fortunes of their families ; for this prophecy relates not fo much to themfelves, as to their posterity, the people and nations defcended from them. He was not prompted by wine or refentment; for neither the one nor the other could infuse the knowledge of futurity, or infpire him with the prefcience of events, which happened hundreds, nay thousands of years afterwards : but God, willing to manifest his fuperintendance and government of the world, indued Noah with the fpirit of prophecy, and enabled him in fome measure to disclose the purposes of his providence towards the future race of mankind. At the fame time it was fome comfort and reward to Shem and Japheth, for their reverence and tendernefs to their father, to hear of the bleffing and enlargement of their posterity; and it was fome mortification and punithment to Ham, for his mockery and cruelty to his father, to hear of the malediction and fervitude of fome of his children, and that as he was a wicked fon himfelf, fo a wicked race fhould fpring from him.

" This, then, was Nonh's prophecy : and it was delivered, as most of the ancient prophecies were delivered, [Locuth's Prelection, xviii.] in metre, for the help of the memory. [Gen. ix. 25, 26, 27.7

- Curfed be Canaan.
- · A fervant of fervants shall he be unto his brethren.
- · Bleffed be Jehovah, the God of Shem;
- · And Canaan thall be their fervant.
- . God fhall enlarge Japheth,
- · And shall dwell in the tents of Shem;
- " And Canaan fliall be their fervant."

Canaan was the fourth fon of Ham, according to the order wherein they are mentioned in the enfuing chapter. And for what reafon can you believe that Canaan was fo particularly marked out for 5. God's difappointing the defign of building the city and tower of Babel belongs also to the great work of redemption.

for the curfe, for his father Ham's trangreffion? But where would be the justice or equity to pafs by Ham himfelf, with the reft of his children, and to punish only Canaan for what Ham had committed? Such arbitrary proceedings are contrary to all our ideas of the divine perfections; and we may fay in this cafe what was faid in another, [Gen. xviii. 25.] 'Shall not the judge of all ' the earth do right?' The curfe was fo far from being pronounced upon Canaan for his father Ham's tranfgreffion, that we do not read that it was pronounced for his own, nor was executed till feveral hundred years after his death. The truth is, the curfe is to be underflood not fo properly of Canaan, as of his defcendents to the latest generations. It is thinking meanly of the ancient prophecies of feripture, and having very imperfect, very unworthy conceptions of them, to limit their intention to particular perfons . . . . . We must affix a larger meaning to them, and underftand them not of fingle perfons, but of whole nations; and thereby a nobler fcene of things, and a more extensive profpect, will be opened to us of the divine difpenfations. The curfe of fervitude pronounced upon Canaan, and fo likewife the promife of bleffing and enlargement made to Shem and Japheth, are by no means to be confined to their own perfons, but extend to their whole race . . . . The cuife, therefore, upon Canaan was properly a curfe upon the Canaanites. God forefeeing the wickednefs of this people, (which began in their father Ham, and greatly increafed in this branch of his family) commissioned Noah to pronounce a curfe upon them, and to devote them to the fervitude and mifery which their more common vices and iniquities would deferve. And this account was plainly written by Mofes, for the encouragement of the Ifraelites, to fupport and animate them in their expedition against a people, who by their fins had forfeited the divine protection, and were defined to flavery from the days of Noah.

"We fee the purport and meaning of the prophecy, and now let us attend to the completion of it. 'Curfed be Canaan;' and the Canaanites appear to have been an abominably wicked people. The fin and punifhment of the inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities of the plain, are too well known to be particularly fpecified; and for the other inhabitants of the land, which was promifed to Abraham and his feed, God bore with them 'till ' their iniquity was full.' [Gen. xv. 16.] They were not only addicted to idolatry, which was then the cafe of the greater part of the world, but were guilty of the worlf fort of idolatry; 'for ' every abomination to the Lord, which he hateth, have they ' done unto their gods; for even their fons and their daughters ' they have burnt in the fire to their Gods.' [Deut. xii. 31.] And was redemption. For that was undertaken in opposition to this great building of God which we are fpeaking of. Men's was it not a curfe in the nature of things, as well as in the juft judgment of God, defervedly entailed upon fuch a people and nation as this? It was not ' for their own righteoufnels that the " Lord brought the Ifraelites in to poffefs the land; but for the ' wiekednefs of thefe nations did the Lord drive them out:' [Deut. ix. 4.7 and he would have driven out the Ifraelites in like manner for the very fame abominations. [See Lev. xviii. 25, &c.]

" But the eurfe particularly implies fervitude and fubjection, " Curfed be Canaan; a fervant of fervants shall he be unto his ' brethren.' It is very well known that the word brethren in Hebrew comprehends more diffant relations. The defcendents therefore of Canaan were to be fubject to the defeendents of both Shem and Japheth : and the natural confequence of vice, in communities as well as in fingle perfons, is flavery. The fame thing is repeated again and again in the two following verfes, ' and ' Canaan shall be fervant to them, or their fervant;' fo that this is as it were the burden of the prophecy. Some critics take the phrafe of ' fervant of fervants' flrictly and literally, and fay that the prediction was exactly fulfilled, when the Canaanites became fervants to the Ifraelites, who had been fervants to the Egyptians. But this is refining too much ; the phrafe of fervant of fervants is of the fame turn and caft as holy of holies, king of kings, fong of fongs, and the like expressions in scripture; and imports that they should be the lowest and baseft of servants.

" It was feveral centuries after the delivery of this prophecy, when the Ifraelites, who were defeendents of Shem, under the command of Jofhua invaded the Canaanites, fmote above thirty of their kings, took possefion of their land, slew feveral of the inhabitants, made the Gibeonites and others fervants and tributaries, and Solomon afterwards fubdued the reft. [2. Chron.viii. 7, 8, 9.] The Greeks and Romans too, who were defcendents of Japheth, not only fubdued Syria and Paleftine, but alfo purfued and conquered fuch of the Canaanites as were any where remaining, as for inftance, the Tyrians and Carthaginians, the former of whom were ruined by Alexander and the Greeians, and the latter by Scipio and the Romans. " This fate," fays Mr. Mede, " was it that made Hanibal, a child of Canaan, cry out with amazement of his foul, Agnofeo fortunam Carthaginis, I acknowledge the fortune of Carthage." And ever fince the miferable remainder of his people have been flaves to a foreign yoke, first to the Saracens, who defeended from Shem, and afterwards to the Turks, who defeended from Japheth; and they groan under their dominion at this day.

"Hitherto we have explained the prophecy according to the prefent copies of our bible : but if we were to correct the text, as 111 Men's going about to build fuch a city and tower was an effect of the corruption that mankind were now again fallen we should any ancient classic author in a like cafe, the whole perhaps might be made eafier and plainer. Ham the father of Canaan is mentioned in the preceding part of the flory; and how then came the perfon of a fudden to be changed into Canaan? The Arabic verfion in thefe three verfes hath the father of Canaan inflead of Canaan. Some copies of the Septuagint likewife have Ham inflead of Canaan, as if Canaan was a corruption of the text. Vatablus and others by Canaan understand the father of Canaan, which was expressed twice before. And if we regard the metre, this line, Curfed be Canaan, is much florter than the reft, as if fomething was deficient. May we not suppose therefore, (without taking fuch liberties as Father Houbigant hath with the Hebrew text) that the copyift by millake wrote only Canaan, initead of Ham the father of Canaan, and that the whole paffage was originally thus ? ' and Ham the father of Canaan faw ' the nakedness of his father, and told his two brethren without. " And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger ' fon had done unto him. And he faid, curfed be Ham the father ' of Canaan, a fervant of fervants shall he be unto his brethren. · And he faid, Bleffed be the Lord God of Shem; and Ham the · fether of Canaan shall be fervant to them. God shall enlarge ' Japheth ; and he shall dwell in the tents of Shem ; and Ham " the father of Canaan shall be fervant to them."

" By this reading all the three fons of Noah are included in the prophecy, whereas otherwife Ham, who was the offender, is excluded, or is only punifhed in one of his children. Ham is characterized as the father of Canaan particularly, for the greater encouragement of the Ifraelites, who were going to invade the land of Canaan : and when it is faid, ' Curfed be Ham the father " of Canaan; a fervant of fervants shall he be unto his brethren;" it is implied that his whole race was devoted to fervitude, but particularly the Canaanites. Not that this was to take effect immediately, but was to be fulfilled in process of time, when they should forfeit their liberties by their wickednefs. Ham at firlt fubdued fome of the posterity of Shem, as Canaan fometimes conquered Japheth ; the Carthaginians, who were originally Canaanites, did particularly in Spain and Italy : but in time they were to be fubdued, and to become fervants to Shem and Japheth; and the change of their fortune from good to bad would render the curfe ftill more visible. Egypt was the land of Ham, as it is often called in fcripture ; and for many years it was a great and flourishing kingdom: but it was fubdued by the Perhans, who defcended from Shem, and afterwards by the Grecians, who defeended from Japheth ; and from that time to this it hath conflantly been in fubjection to some or other of the posterity of Shem or Japheth. The whole fallen into. This city and tower was fet up in oppofition to the city of God, as the god that they built it to was whole continent of Africa was peopled principally by the children of Ham; and for how many ages have the better parts of that country laid under the dominion of the Romans, and then of the Saracens, and now of the Turks? In what wickednefs, ignorance, barbarity, flavery, mifery, live most of the inhabitants; and of the poor negroes how many hundreds every year are fold and bought like beafts in the market, and are conveyed from one quater of the world to do the work of beafts in another ?"

"Nothing can be more complete than the execution of the fentence upon Ham as well as upon Canaan : and now let us confider the promifes made to Shem and Japheth. And he faid (ver. 26.) Bleffed be the Lord God of Shem : and Canaan fhall be his fervant :' or rather, ' and Canaan fhall be fervant to them, or their fervant,' that is, to his brethren; for that, as we obferved before, is the main part of the prophecy, and therefore is fo frequently repeated. A learned critic in the Hebrew language, who hath lately published fome remarks on the printed Hebrew text, [Ken. p. 561.] faith, that "if it should be thought preferable to refer the word bleffed directly to Shem, as the word curfed is to Canaan; the words may be (and perhaps more pertinently) rendered, 'Bleffed of Jehovah, my God, be Shem !' [See Gen. xxiv. 31."]

[So Mr. Hervey (remarks on Lord Bolingbroke, p. 58.) "I would not translate the words, 'Bleffed be the Lord God of Shem;' but 'bleffed of the Lord God is Shem.' (As before he reads, not 'curfed be Canaan,' but 'curfed is Canaan.') This will put a firiking contrast between the doom of the religions fcoffer, and the reward of filial piety. . . . . This fenfe the original language will very commodionfly bear, and the event feems to require." We would just add to this digreffion, that the interpretation of this ingenious writer nearly coincides with that of his Lordfhip, above cited, except in his correction of the original text.]

"Or if we choose (as most perhaps will choose) to follow our own as well as all the ancient versions, we may observe, that the old patriarch doth not fay, Blessed be Shem, as he faid, Cursed be Canaan; for mens' evil springeth of themselves, but their good from God: and therefore in a strain of devotion breaking forth into thankfgiving to God as the author of all good to Shem: neither doth he fay the same to Japheth: for God certainly may difpense his particular favours according to his good pleasure, and falvation was to be derived to mankind through Shem and his posterity. God prefers Shem to his elder brother Japheth, as Jacob was afterwards preferred to Esau, and David to his elder brothers, to show that the order of grace is not always the fame as the order of nature. The Lord being called the God of Shem particularly, was their pride. Being funk into a difposition to forfake the true God, the first idol they fet up in his room, was it is plainly intimated that the Lord would be his God in a particular manner. And accordingly the church of God was among the pofterity of Shem for feveral generations; and of them [Rom. ix. 5.] 'As concerning the flefh Chrift came.'

it

" But still Japheth was not difmiffed without a promife, (ver. 47.) 'God thall enlarge Japheth, and he thall dwell in the tents of Shem ; and Canaan Ihall be fervant to them, or their fervant.' God shall enlarge Japheth. Some render the word, (it is fo rendered in the margin of our bibles) God shall perfuade or allure Iapheth, fo that he shall come over to the true religion, and dwell in the tents of Shem. But the best critics in the language have remarked, befides other reafons, that they who translate the word by perfuade or allure, did not confider, that when it is fo taken, it is used in a bad fense, and governs an accusative cafe, and not a dative, as in this place. God fhall enlarge Japheth, or unto Japheth, is the beft rendering ; and in the original there is a manifeft allufion to Japheth's name, fuch as is familiar to the Hebrew writers. As it was faid of Noah, [Gen. v. 29.] this fame fhall comfort us, the name of Noah being thought to fignify comfort : So it is faid here God shall enlarge Japheth, and the name of Japheth fignifies enlargement. Was Japheth then more enlarged than the reft ? Yes, he was, both in territory and children : the territories of Japheth's pofterity were indeed very large; for, befides all Europe, great and extensive as it is, they pollefied the Leffer Afia, Media, and part of Armenia, Iberia, Albania, and thofe vaft regions towards the north, which anciently the Scythians inhabited, and now the Tartars inhabit ; and it is not improbable, that the new world was peopled by fome of his northern defcendents paffing thither by the straits of Anian. The enlargement of Japheth may alfo denote a numerous progeny as well as ample territory : and if you confult the genealogies of the three brothers comprifed in the following chapter, you will find that Japheth had feven fons, whereas Ham had only four, and Sheni only five : and the northern hive (as Sir William Temple denominates it) was always remarkable for its fecundity, and hath been continually pouring forth fwarms, and fending out colonies into the more fouthern parts, both in Europe and in Afia, both in former and in later times.

 was themfelves, their own glory and fame. And as this city and tower had its foundation laid in the pride and vanity of men; fo it was built on a foundation exceedingly contrary to the nature of the foundation of the kingdom of Chrift, and his redeemed city, which has its foundation laid in humility.

Therefore God faw that it tended to fruftrate the defign of that great building which was founded, not in the haughtinefs of men but in the purpofes of God: thus the thing that they did difpleafed the Lord, and he confounded the defign, not fuffering them to bring it to perfection; as he will fruftrate all other defigns fet up in opposition to the great building of the work of redemption.

noun to govern the verbs in the period, but God ; there is no pronoun in the Hebrew, anfwering to the he which is inferted in our Englifh tranflation : and the whole fentence would run thus, ' God will enlarge Japheth, and will dwell in the tents of Shem :' and the Chaldee of Onkelos alfo thus paraphrafeth it, ' and will make * his glory to dwell in the tabernacles of Shem.' Those who prefer the latter conftruction, feem to have done it, that they might refer this 27th verfe wholly to Japheth, as they refer the 26th wholly to Shem; but the other appears to me the more natural and eafy conftruction. Taken in either fenfe, the prophecy hath been most punctually fulfilled. In the former fenfe it was fulfilled literally, when the Shechinah, or divine prefence, refted in the ark, and dwelt in the tabernacle and temple of the Jews; and when ' the Word who was with God and was God, [ John i. 1. " EGENVEGEV, ] pitched his tent, and dwelt among us.' [ver. 14.] In the latter fenfe it was fulfilled firft, when the Greeks and Romans, who fprung originally from Japheth, fubdued and poffeffed Judea, and other countries of Afia, belonging to Shem; and again fpiritually, when they were profelyted to the true religion, and they who were not Ifraelites by birth, became Ifraelites by faith, and lived, as we and many other of Japheth's pofferity do at this day, within the pale of the church of Chrift.

"What think you now? Is not this a moft extraordinary prophecy? A prophecy that was delivered near four thoufand years ago, and yet hath been fulfilling through the feveral periods of time to this day! It is both wonderful and inftructive. It is the hiftory of the world as it were in epitome."—[Differt. on the Prophecies, vol. i. Dif. 1.]

[The last remark will, we hope, sufficiently apologize for the length of this quotation.] [G. E.]

In

115 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

In the fecond chapter of Ifaiah, where the prophet is defcribing God's fetting up the kingdom of Chrift in the world, he foretells that he will, in order to it, bring down the haughtinefs of men, and how the day of the Lord fhall be on every high tower, and upon every fenced wall, &c. Chrift's kingdom is eftablished by bringing down every high thing to make way for it, [2 Cor. x. 4, 5.] ' For the weapons of our warfare are ' mighty through God to the pulling down of ftrong ' holds, caffing down imaginations, and every high thing ' that exalteth itfelf against the knowledge of God.' What is done in a particular foul, to make way for the fetting up of Chrift's kingdom, is to deftroy Babel in that foul.

They intended to have built Babel up to heaven. That building which is the fubject we are now upon, is intended to be built fo high, that its top fhall reach to heaven indeed, as it will to the higheft heavens at the end of the world, when it fhall be finithed: and therefore God would not fuffer the building of his enemies, that they defigned to build up to heaven in oppofition to it, to profper. (2) If they had gone on and profpered in building that city and tower, it might have kept the world of wicked men, the enemies of the church, together, as was their defign. They might have remained united in one vaft, powerful city, and fo have been too powerful for the city of God, and quite fwallowed it up.

This city of Babel is the fame with the city of Babylon; for Babylon in the original is Babel: but Babylon was a city that is always fpoken of in fcripture as chiefly oppofite to the city of God. Babylon and Jerufalem, or Zion, are often oppofed to each other, both in the Old and New Teflament. This city was a powerful and terrible

( Q) God fruftrated their defign in building BABEL.] Their defign and the method in which God fruftrated it are two very important fubjects of inquiry, and for brevity fake we fhall confider them in connection; first flating the principal hypothefis of the learned, and then, comparing them with the feripture account, attempt to throw fome new light on this very complicated fubject. terrible enemy to the city of God afterwards, notwithflanding this great check put to the building of it in the begin

We have not only the authority of Mofes for the exiftence of this tower, but (which unhappily is of more weight with fome) the concurrent teffimonies of feveral heathen writers, particularly Herodotus, who deferibes the remains of it in his time; and even fome modern travellers, as Rauwolf and Della Valle, have feen immenfe heaps of ruins which they conceived to be those of Babel, though they are not well agreed in its fituation. [See Univ. Hift. vol. i. p. 334-337.]

It is however not fo evident, what induced ' the children of men' to erect this edifice. Mofes has indeed mentioned their motive, but then the learned are not well agreed as to the import of his, or ratheir of their words; [Gen. xi. 4.] ' And they faid, Go to, let ' us build a city and a tower whole top may reach unto heaven, " [i. c. very high] and let us make us a NAME, left we be feattered ' abroad upon the face of the whole earth.' But how should the making them a name prevent their being fcattered? The answer to this is not, perhaps, fo difficult as fome have thought. The erection of a city and a tower, and forming themfelves into a compact body, a powerful corporation, as we fhould fay, was the moft natural means to preferve themfelves together, as well as to perpetuate their memory to posterity. Nor is this all; their making themfelves a name, implies the atchievement of fomething deferving one; and certainly the more firm, powerful, and great they were, the lefs danger remained of their being fcattered. Not to fay, that in fuch a body, men might enjoy many conveniences and advantages, which a flate of folitary wandering would not admit.

Some learned men, however, not aware of this, or not feeing it in the fame point of view, have, to avoid the difficulty, rendered the words in a different manner. Dr. G. SHARP [Origin of Lang. p. 29.] takes the word  $[\Box w]$  for a particle of place, and tranflates it—' Let us prepare—work,  $\mathfrak{Sc}$ . for ourfelves THERE;' and it cannot be denied that the words (without regarding the vowel points) may be fo tranflated; but then, as the phrafe to make onefelf a name is perfectly feriptural [fee 2 Sam. viii. 13.—If. lxiii. 12, 14.—Jer. xxxii. 20.—Dan. ix. 15.] and familiar, and we hope has been explained in a rational and intelligible fenfe, there feems to be no necessity for departing from it.

Some critics, perticularly Dr. TENNISON and Mr. HUTCHIN-SON, from the circumflance of the tower being in after times ufed for idolatrous purpofes, have conceived that fuch was its original defign: and therefore have fuppofed this word to be the name of the idol to which it was crected: but as this is mere conjecture, little fitefs can be laid on it. Nor does the erection of an idol give uny reafon why they flould not be featured. This, however, is a beginning. But it might, and probably would have been vally more powerful, and able to vex and deftroy the church of God, if it had not been thus checked.

verv

Thus

very ancient tradition, being found in the Targums both of Jonathan and Jerufalem, befides a Samaritan one; and if it could be proved to be well founded, would perfectly agree with the expontion above given, and give the cleareft reafon of the divine interposition, which is the next circumflance to be confidered.

'And the LORD came down to fee the city and the tower which 'the children of men builded. And the LORD faid [or 'had faid'] 'Behold, the people is one, [united in one defign] and they have 'all one language; and this they begin to do; and now nothing 'will be reftrained from them, which they have imagined to do,' that is, without a divine interference. 'Go to, let us go down '[Comp. Gen. i. 26.] and there confound their language, that they 'may not underftand one another's fpeech. So the Lord fcattered 'them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth; and they 'left off to build the city, and [as the Samaritan adds] the tower. 'Therefore is the name of it called Babel, [i. e. Confufion] becaufe 'the Lord did there confound the language of all the earth.'

The common hypothesis supposes that, on this occasion, God caufed the builders to forget their former language, and each family to speak a new tongue, whence originated the various languages at prefent in the world. [See GILL in loc.]

To this, however, it has been objected, that to confound a language, and to form new ones, are very diffinct and different ideas. Nor is there any fimilar phrafeology to countenance this in other parts of feripture.

Mr. HUTCHINSON, who feems to have been fond of novel and fingular ideas, will have the univerfality of language, or rather lip, as the Hebrew is, to denote a univerfality of religion and religious rites, and that the variety afterward introduced was not of tongues, but of religious principles and confeffions; but this, befide that it wants fupport, has the misfortune to intimate, that God was the author of the different religions extant, the falfe as well as the true—which be far from the Moft High!

Dr. G. SHARP, unfatisfied with either of thefe explications, conceives, that neither a division of tongues or religions is intended; but only that in fome visible and extraordinary manner the Deity came down to earth, and confounded their purpose, fcattering them over the face of the earth; and that the different languages were rather the effed, than the caufe, of this differentian. [See Origin of Lang. p. 24-30.]

A full inveffigation of this fubject would lead us back to the origin of the first language, and to a variety of inquiries, which would Thus it was in kindnefs to his church in the world, and in profecution of the great defign of redemption, that God would fwell this note to a volume; but we will to be as concile as poffible, and fhall therefore only drop hints to be purfued and improved by the reflections of our readers.

And, I. It appears that God not only created man with a capacity of fpeech, and acquainted him with his powers; but called them into exercise by bringing the animals to him, that he might name them.

2. Yet, that there is no neceffity for fuppoling that God furnifhed our first parent miraculously with all the words he had occasion for, at once; a thousand circumstances would daily occur for giving him opportunity and occasion, to enlarge his stock of words, as his ideas increased.

3. We conceive, that while mankind continued to refide in one elimate, and to have communication together, there would be little diverfity in their language, and this was probably the cafe before the flood, and for fome time afterwards, till the period we are now confidering.

4. Though we should not be able exactly to afcertain the motives on which this building was erected; yet, as we find it offenfive to God, it was certainly finful; if not in the  $a\overline{a}$  itself, at least in the motive, which, doubtlefs, originated in vanity and ambition.

5. From the expression ' the Lord came down,' it should feem there was fome visible appearance of the divine Majesty; the earhiest heathen writers who mention this event, unanimously afcribe the destruction of Babel to the winds, and as the Lord ' rides ' upon the whirlwind,' there feems no absurdity in supposing that the tempest which attended his prefence, might overthrow it, and thus confound and terrify the builders.

6. But as the language was confounded, it does not feem fufficient to confine the text to this: may we not therefore fuppole, that God affected the organs of their fpeech in fome fuch extraordinary manner, as to render certain founds extremely difficult (if not impoffible) to certain perfons, and confequently to occafion a material difference in pronunciation? As we fee to this day, how feldom foreigners can attain the true found of TH—how varioufly, even in England, (as formerly in Judea) different countries pronounce the fame letter. And this, taken in connection with the terror occafioned by the divine prefence, was, certainly, abundantly fufficient to create a mifunderflanding, and make thefe builders defift from their enterprize. [See Stackhoufe's Hift. cf the Bible, vol. i. b. 2.]

God put a stop to the building of the city and tower of Babel.

6. The difperfion of the nations, and dividing the earth among its inhabitants, immediately after God had caufed the building of Babel to ceafe. This was done fo as moft to fuit that great defign of redemption; and particularly, God therein had an eye to the future propagation of the gofpel among the nations. [Deut. xxxii. 8.] ' When the Moft High divided to the nations their inhe-' ritance, when he feparated the fons of Adam, he fet the ' bounds of the people according to the number of the ' children of Ifrael.' (R) ' And hath made of one blood ' all new words; and the learned and ingenious modify them to their own tafte: and we fhould not defpair being able to fnew, did the occasion fuit, the poffibility of all languages being in this manner derived from one original.

8. The inquiry, whether among all thefe changes any one nation preferved the primitive dialect, is more curious than ufeful, and chiefly depends on one circumftance, whether Shem and his family had any concern in building of Babel, a circumftance that is not eafily demonstrated either way. The learned authors of the Universal Hiftory think nothing can be plainer, than that he was confederated with the reft of mankind. [Vol. i. p. 327, &c.]

But Dr. GILL, [in loc.] and the Jewifh expositors in general, will by no means admit this; but suppose the phrase children of men, muft be here taken, as a similar one in a preceding chapter, [vi. 4]. for the reft of the world, exclusive of God's people. If this notion be right, (as we think it might be juftified) in all probability the original language might be preferved in the family of Shem, and be effentially the fame which was afterward denominated Hebrew. But this controverfy we must wave. [G. E.]

(R.) He fet the bounds of the people according to the number of the CHILDREN of ISRAEL.] "The fenfe is, that fuch a country was meafured out and bounded, as would be fufficient to hold the twelve tribes of Ifrael, when numerous, and their time was come to inhabit it; and which, in the meanwhile, was put into the hands of Canaan and his eleven fons to poffefs, not as their proper inheritance, but as tenants at will, until the proper heirs exifted, and were at an age, and of fufficient number to inherit. In which may be obferved the wife difpofition of Divine Providence, to put it into the hands of a people curfed of God, fo that to take it from them at any time could have no appearance of any injuffice in it; and their enjoying it to long as they did was a mercy to them,

FROM THE FLOOD TO ABRAHAM'S CALL. 123

<sup>c</sup> all nations of men, for to dwell on all the face of the <sup>e</sup> earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, <sup>e</sup> and the bounds of their habitations; that they fhould <sup>e</sup> feek the Lord if haply they might feel after him, and <sup>e</sup> find him.' [Acts xvii. 26, 27.] The land of Canaan was the most conveniently fituated of any place in the world for the purpose of spreading the light of the gospel thence

them, for fo long they had a reprieve. Now here was an early inftance of the goodnels of God to Ifrael, that he fhould make fuch an early provifion of the land flowing with milk and honey for them.—[GILL in loc.]

"For ' Children of Ifrael,' the Greek translation reads ' Angels ' of God;' to the LXX translated this place purpofely, left the heathens should here take offence, that Ifrael should be matched with the feventy nations, that is, with all the people of the world : and the Jews suppofed, there were feventy angels, rulers of the feventy nations; and therefore they fay, according to the number of the angels of God, whereby they mean feventy. Their opinion is to be feen in Rab. Menachem [on Gen. xlvi.] where he faith, ' It is generally a rule that there is one [degree of] glory above ' another, and they that are beneath are a fecret fignification of ' thofe that are above; and the feventy fouls [Gen. xlvi. 27.] ' fignify the feventy angels that are round about the throne of ' [God's] glory, which are fet over the nations.' But we are warned to beware how we intrude ourfelves into the things which we have not feen.'' [Col. ii. 18.]—[AINSWORTH in loc.]

Now if we fhould allow the conjecture of our author, that Satan might induce fome individuals to emigrate to the dark corners of the earth (though perhaps this were better referred folely to the divine Providence) yet muft we admit the fuperior wildom, power and goodnefs which over-ruled even this event for good; and will in the end 'cover the earth as the waters do the fea.' [N. U.] thence among the nations in general. In the times immediately after Chrift, the Roman empire included moft of the known world, particularly the countries round about Jerufalem, which was therefore properly fituated for the purpofe of diffufing the light of the gofpel among them from that place. The devil feeing the advantage of this fituation of the nations for promoting the great work of redemption, and the difadvantage of it with refpect to the intereft of his kingdom, might perhaps lead away many into the remoteft parts of the world, to get them out of the way of the gofpel. Thus fome were led into America; and others into cold northern regions, almoft inacceffible.

7. Another thing I would mention in this period, was God's preferving the true religion in the line of which Chrift was to proceed, when the world in general apostatized to idolatry, and the church was in imminent danger of being fwallowed up in the general corruption. Although God had lately wrought fo wonderfully for the deliverance of his church, and had flewed fo great mercy towards it, as for its fake even to deftroy all the reft of the world; and although he had lately renewed and established his eovenant of grace with Noah and his fons; yet fo prone is the corrupt heart of man to depart from God, and to fink into the depths of wickedness; and so prone to darknefs, delufion, and error, that the world foon after the flood fell into grofs idolatry ; fo that before Abraham, the diftemper was become almost universal. The earth was become very corrupt at the time of the building of Babel : and even God's people themfelves, even that line of which Chrift was to come, were corrupted in a meafure with idolatry : [ Jofh. xxiv. 2.] ' Your fathers dwelt ' on the other fide of the flood in old time, even Terah · the father of Abraham, and the father of Nahor; and ' they ferved other gods.' The other fide of the flood means beyond the river Euphrates, where the anceftors of Abraham lived.

We are not to underftand that they were wholly drawn off to idolatry, to forfake the true God. For God is faid faid to be the God of Terah: [Gen. xxxi. 53.] ' The ' God of Abraham, and the God of Nahor, the God of ' their father, judge betwixt us.' (s) But they only partook in fome meafure of the general and almost univerfal corruption of the times; as Solomon was in a meafure infected with idolatrous corruption; and as the children of Ifrael in Egypt are faid to ferve other gods, though yet there was the true church of God among them; and as there were images kept for a confiderable time in the family of Jacob; the corruption being brought from Padan-Aram, whence he fetched his wives.

This was the fecond time that the church was almost brought to nothing by the corruption and general defection of the world from true religion. But fill the true religion was kept up in the family from which Chrift was to proceed. Which is another inflance of God's remarkably preferving the church in a time of a general deluge of wickednefs; and wherein, although the god of this world raged, and had almost fwallowed up God's church, yet he did not fuffer the gates of hell to prevail against it.

§ 111. From the calling of ABRAHAM to Moses.

I PROCEED now to flow how the work of redemption was carried on through the third part of this period, beginning with the calling of Abraham, and extending to Mofes. And,

1. It

(s) The God of THEIR father.] Terah was their father, and he was certainly an idolater, as appears from the text above cited. So it is commonly fuppofed that the true God was not here intended; "but the god or gods of Terah, Nahor, and Abraham, worfhipped whilft idolaters, and Laban ftill continued to do, though perhaps not in fo grofs a manner as fome did." [GILL in loc. See alfo Ainfw. and Poli. Syn.] 1. It pleafed God now to feparate that perfon of whom Chrift was to come, from the reft of the world, that his church might be upheld in his family and pofterity till that time. This he did in calling Abraham out of his own country, and from his kindred, to go into a diftant one, that God fhould fhow him, and bringing him firft out of Ur of the Chaldees to Haran, and then to the land of Canaan.  $(\tau)$ ( $\tau$ ) A learned Jew, now living, hath obliged the world with the following curious fragment of Jewish traditions from the book Medrafh Berefhith, which we infert as a fpecimen of the reft; and cannot but confider the grave manner in which he introduces it, as an awful proof that the children of Ifrael have yet the 'vail 'upon their hearts;' for certainly Mr. LEVI himfelf, who appears to be uncommonly threwd, would have highly ridiculed fo abfurd a legend, had it originated from the Christians.——The ftory is this:

" Terach, the father of Abraham, was an idolater, and likewife a dealer and maker of idols. It chanced one time that Terach went on a journey, and left Abraham to take care of, and difpofe of the idols during his abfence.

"When any man came to purchafe an idol, Abraham afked him his age. When the man had anfwered him, Abraham replied, Can it be poffible, that a perfon of your years can be fo flupid as worfhip that that was made but yefterday! The man being quite overwhelmed with fhame, hung down his head, and departed. In this manner he ferved feveral. At length there came an old woman, with a meafure of fine flour in her hand, which the told him the had brought as an offering to all the idols. Abraham at this was exceedingly wrath, and took a large flick, and broke all the idols except the largeft, which he left whole, and put the flick in his hand.

"When Terach returned, and perceived all the idols broken, he afked Abraham how that came to pafs? Abraham informed him, that there came an old woman and brought an offering of fine flour to the idols; upon which they immediately fell together by the ears for the prize, when the large one killed them all with the flick which he then held in his hand.

" Terach feeling the full force of the fatire, was greatly exafperated, and immediately had Abraham before Nimrod, in order to have him punifhed for the contempt flewn to his gods.

"Nimrod commanded him to worfhip the fire; but Abraham anfwered him, that it would be more proper to worfhip the water, which extinguifhes the fire. Why, then, fays Nimrod, worfhip the water. No, fays Abraham, it were better to worfhip the clouds

It

It was before obferved, that the corruption of the world with idolatry was now become general; mankind were almost over-run with it : God therefore faw it neceffary, in order to uphold true religion, that there should be a family feparated from the reft of the world; for even Abraham's own country and kindred had most of them fallen, and, without fome extraordinary interpofition of Providence, in all likelihood, in a generation or two more, the true religion would have been extinct. And therefore God faw it to be time to call Abraham, the perfon in whofe family he intended to uphold religion, out of his own country, and from his kindred, to a far diftant country, that his posterity might there remain a people separate from all the reft of the world; fo that the true religion might be upheld there, while all mankind befides were fwallowed up in heathenifm.

S

The

clouds which fuftain the water. Nimrod bid him worfhip them; but he told him it would be better to worfhip the wind which difperfes the clouds. Nimrod then bid him worfhip the wind. Abraham anfwered, it would be preferable to worfhip man, who was able to endure the wind. Well, fays Nimrod, I fee it is your intention to deride me; I muſt therefore tell you briefly, that I worfhip nothing but the fire, and if thou doft not do the fame, my intention is to throw you therein; and then I fhall fee, whether the God you worfhip will come to your relief; and immediately had him thrown into the fiery furnace.

In the interim, they quefiloned his brother Haran concerning his faith, who anfwered, If Abraham fucceeds, I will be of his, but if not, of Nimrod's. Upon which, Nimrod ordered him to be immediately thrown into the furnace likewife; where he was prefently confumed, but Abraham came out of the furnace without receiving the leaft injury.

This agrees with the 28th verfe of the eleventh chapter of Genefis.

• And Haran died in the prefence of his father Terah, in the • land of his nativity, in the fire of the Chaldeans; '[we read • UR of the Chaldeans,' as a proper name] for it was by means of the accufation which Terah exhibited againft Abraham, that Haran fuffered death; fo that he may jultly be faid to have died in the prefence of his father. Here is an admirable leffon for mankind: and which clearly points out the difference between thofe which ferve the Lord in truth and funcerity, and thofe which are hukewarm, and eafily turn to that which feems moft profitable in this world. This tranfaction, the author of Shalfbeleth Hakkabala fays, happened in the feventieth year of Abreham. [Heb. Dict.]

HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

The land of Chaldees, that Abraham was called to go out of, was the country about Babel; Babel or Babylon, was the chief city of the land of Chaldea. Learned men fuppofe that it was in this land that idolatry firft began; that Babel and Chaldea were the original and chief feat of the worthip of idols, whence it fpread into other nations. (U) And therefore the land of Chaldeans, or

(U) IDOLATRY BEGAN in Chaldea.] " The rife of idolatry after the flood is generally attributed by learned men to the Babylonians or Chaldeans; and what confirms this opinion is, Babylon's being called ' the mother of harlots,' [Rev. xvii. 5.] i. e. as Mr. Mede explains it, the first parent of idols. There is no doubt, but the first introducers of it were bred up in the worfhip of the true God, agreeably to the revelation he had made of his will to mankind, in that religion which was profeffed by the true church from Adam to Mofes, and which led those who lived up to it to evenlafting hoppinefs. But the 'worfhipping God in " fpirit and in truth," was too refined a principle, a religion too angelical, for fuch as feem to have been more delighted with the ritual and ceremonial, than with the fpiritual and more effential part of it. The outward and visible observances, in the then true church, feem to have been but very few, and those orderly and decent; but, it may be, they were multiplied before idolatry was brought in, as it is certain they afterwards were by the introducers of it, to an exceffive degree; and from being too much delighted with the externals of religion, they were infenfibly led to join visible and material objects of worship with the infinity of God's majefty, which transcended the capacity of their natures; and fo gratilied their fenfes and imaginations with a visible object of worfhip. And then being naturally invited by the ferenity of their climate, (the weather being generally fair, and the air clear, without either clouds or rain) to the contemplation of the heavenly bodies, which they were forced to make use of in their geoponics, [agriculture] having no calender by which to know the feafons, they were foon furprized with their admirable ftructure, beauty, and regular motion; and obferving what influence those celettial bodies had, and what benefits were communicated to mankind by them, from being ravifhed into an admiration of their regularity and harmony of order, they concluded, that God made use of them as his miniflers, and that, as fuch, he was as defirous that regard fhould be paid them, as earthly princes are, that their ministers sliould be reverenced and Maimonides, who .... fixes this to the time efteemed. of Enos, [See above, Note (z) p. 89.] tells us, [In Halacoth] that ' in his days the fons of men grievouily erred, and the wife * men became brutish, even Enos himfelf being in their number. · Their or the country of Babylon, is in feripture called the land of graven images: [Jer. l. 35, 38.] 'A foord is upon • the

FROM ABRAHAM's CALL TO MOSES. 12G

" Their error was this, that God having created the flars and ' fpheres, placed them on high to govern the world, and beftowed this honour upon them, that they (hould be his miniflers and ' fubfervient inftruments, and that therefore men ought to praife, ' honour and worfhip them: this being the pleafure of the blef-' fed God, that men should magnify and honour those whom · himfelf had magnified and honoured, as a king would have his ' minifters to be reverenced, this honour redounding to himfelf.' From worfhipping them as God's minifters, they were foon led to confider them as mediators between him and them; ' For being · confcious of their own meannels, vilenefs, and impurity, they · could not conceive how it was pollible for them of themfelves " alone to have any accefs to the All-Holy, All-Glorious, and Su-' preme Governor of all Things-and therefore concluded, that " there must be a mediator, by whose means alone they could ' make any addrefs unto him.' [Prideaux, vol. i. b. 3.] But having no knowledge of the true Mediator ; it may be, having forgot what had been revealed to Adam concerning him . . . they had recourfe to mediators of their own chufing, by means of whom they might address themselves to the Supreme God. ' They ' thought thefe the propereft beings to become the mediators be-' tween God and them.' This, probably, might be their opi-nion; though I make no doubt but that idolatry came infenfibly and by degrees, and that they who first introduced it, did not carry the impiety to the height it afterwards arrived at ; they had no fyflem of theology that was either well put together or well underftood, but fuch an one as was neither the work of a wife nor intelligent people. And therefore we find, that as they worfhipped the heavenly hoft as God's minifters, and as mediators between him and them, fo they did give them the name of gods; [Wifdom xiii. 2, 3.] ' Being delighted with their beauty, they took ' them to be the gods which govern the world :' foolithly coneluding the kind influence of the heavenly bodies to be the infinite goodnefs of the divine nature. Thus Plato [Apud Eufeb. Præp. Ev. l. i. c. 9. & l. iii. c. 2.] affures us of the first inhabitants of Greece, that they had no other gods than the fun, moon, &c. and Diodorus, [Lib. i, c. 1.] fpeaking of 'the first generation of men,' who were fuppofed to be Egyptians, fays, that ' contemplating ' the beauty of the faperior world, and admiring with aftonifi-' ment the frame and order of the universe, they judged that there ' were two chief goods that were eternal, that is to fay, the fun ' and the moon, the first of which was called Ofiris, and the other · This.'

" The worfhip of the heavenly bodies was, without doubt, the first idolatry. There was neither good nor evil dæmons wor-S 2 fhipped the Chaldeans, faith the Lord, and upon the inhabitants of Babylon, and upon her princes, and upon her wife men.

shipped by them,' fays Eusebius, speaking of the most ancient heathens. [Præp. Ev. l. i. c. 9.] . . . Thus we find Job, who is the ancientest author we have, [unlefs it may be the lxxxviiith and lxxxixth Pfalms ] vindicating himfelf from it ; [ Job xxxi. 26, 27.] ' If I beheld,' fays he, ' the fun when it fhined, or the moon " walking in brightnefs, and my heart has been fecretly enticed, ' or my mouth has kiffed my hand,' (which was, as St. Jerom and Pliny tell us, the ancient way of paying worfhip and refpect) ... · I fhould have denied the God that is above.' And hence it is that the Egyptians when they came to corrupt their hiftory with the falfe antiquity they affected, having defied the heavenly bodies, reprefented them as having reigned in their country before they were governed by heroes and kings. . . . There are a great many places in foripture where this idolatry is mentioned; I fhall take notice but of one of them, [2. Kings xxiii. 5.] where the objects of this worship are particularly diffinguished, ' They that " burnt incenfe to the fun, and to the moon, and to the planets, [or " confletations, as in the margin] and to all the hoft of heaven .----[A. Young, on Idolatrous Corruptions, vol. i. p. 22-30.]

It is highly probable, however, that in different countries, and at various periods, idolatry originated from other caufes. So in after 'imes, mankind "having a falle notion of gratitude for fuch as had founded commonwealths, led out colonies, rendered themfelves famous by their actions, or by their uleful inventions, gained a general love and effeem; they proceeded to rank them likewife in the number of their gods. The refpect which was paid them while alive, followed them to their graves; and they were no fooner interred, than an extravagant effeem of their high qualities, confpiring with the people's gratitude, and a grofs ignorance of the divine nature, effected their deification. The Arabian writers [See Dr Pocock's notes on his fpecimen, Hift. Arab. p. 94.] are generally agreed that this was the original of their idolatry. And Diodorus tells us of the Egyptians, [L. i. c. 1.] that befides the heavenly gods, they fay there ' are others ' that are terreftrial, who were begotten by them, and were " originally mortal men, but by reafon of their wildom, and bene-· ficence to all mankind, have obtained immortality : of which ' fome have been kings of Egypt.' Tully [De Nat. Deor.] and Pliny [L. ii. c. 7.] both of them affure us, that this was the ancient manner of rewarding fuch as had deferved well. And it .... fuited the ambition and vanity of princes, as well as the intereft of fubjects. . . . . And when they loft their children, it was fome comfort to them to fee them ranked in the number of their gods . . . . Thus, [fays the book of Wifdom, ch. xiv. 15.] A father afflicted with untimely mourning, when he has made 6 213

f men.---A drought is upon her waters, and they fhall be f dried up; for it is the land of graven images, and they are mad upon their idols.' God calls Abraham out of this idolatrous country, to a great diffance from it. And when he came there, he gave him no inheritance in it, no not fo much as to fet his foot on; but he remained a ftranger and a fojourner, that he and his family might be kept feparate from all the world. (v)

This

* an image of his child foon taken away, now honoured him as * a god, who was then a dead man, and delivered to thofe who * were under him, ceremonies and facrifices.'—[Idol. Cor. vol. i. p. 73-75.]

" Thefe two different objects of idolatrous worfhip, the hoft of heaven, and their dead princes and heroes, were generally confounded together. This proceeded from their giving the fouls of the great perfonages they had confecrated and made their fovereign and celeftial gods, the fun, moon, and ftars for their habitation, in which they fuppofed them to dwell, as in fo many flately palaces or temples. The believing the heavenly bodies to have intelligent and rational beings prefiding in them, diffipated, as they thought, fome abfurdities attending their theology, and made it more reasonable than it would otherwise have been. Thus Jamblicus, [Sect. 1. c. 17.] in answer to those who objected to the divinity of the fun, moon, &c. becaufe they were corporeal, fays from the old books of the Egyptians, that they worthipped them indeed as visible gods, but that they were compounded of foul and body, and to be effeemed the feats of fuch celeftial fpirits as take care of human affairs. And the philosophers, Pythagoras, Plato, &c. who travelled into the east in fearch of knowledge, were not fo abfurd as to believe that the hoft of heaven were really and abfolutely gods." [Idol. Cor. p. 107, 108.]

We might here add the origin of images and image worship, but left we should be tedious, will referve it for a future Note.

(v) Abraham remained a STRANGER and a SOJOURNER.] So the apofile, Heb. xi. 13, 14. And on this paffage our author has effewhere raifed the following proposition; "This life ought to be fo fpent by us, as to be only a journey towards heaven." Here our author observes among other things, "That we ought not to refl in the world and its enjoyments, but fhould defire heaven. This our hearts should be chiefly upon and engaged about. We should 'feek first the kingdom of God.' He that is on a journey, feeks the place that he is journeying to. We ought above all things to defire a heavenly happines: to go to heaven and there be with God; and dwell with Jefus Chrift. If we are furtounded with many

132 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

This was a new thing: God had never taken fuch a method before. His church had not in this manner been feparated many outward enjoyments, and things that are very comfortable to us; if we are fettled in families, and have those good friends and relations that are very defirable : if we have companions whofe fociety is delightful to us: if we have children that are pleafant and hopeful, and in whom we fee many promifing qualifications: if we live by good neighbours; have much of the refpect of others; have a good name; are generally beloved where we are known: and have comfortable and pleafant accommodations; yet we ought not to take our reft in these things. We fhould not be willing to have thefe things for our portion, but fhould feek a higher happinefs in another world. We fhould not merely feek fomething elfe in addition to thefe things; but fhould be fo far from refling in them, that we should chufe and defire to leave thefe things for heaven; to go to God and Chrift there. We fhould not be willing to live here always, if we could, in the fame ftrength and vigour of body and mind as when in youth, or in the midft of our days; and always enjoy the fame pleafure, and dear friends, and other earthly comforts. We should chuse and defire to leave them all in God's due time, that we might go to heaven, and there have the enjoyment of God. We ought to poffeis them, enjoy and make use of them, with no other view or aim, but readily to quit them, whenever we are called to it, and to change them for heaven. And when we are called away from them, we fhould go cheerfully and willingly.

"He that is going a journey, is not wont to reft in what he meets with that is comfortable and pleafing on the road. If he paffes along through pleafant places, flowery meadows, or fhady groves, he does not take up his content in these things. He is content only to take a transient view of these pleasant objects as he goes along. He is not enticed by thefe fine appearances to put an end to his journey, and leave off the thought of proceeding. No, but his journey's end is in his mind; that is the great thing that he aims at. So if he meets with comfortable and pleafant accommodations on the road, at an inn; yet he does not reft there : he entertains no thoughts of fettling there. He confiders that thefe things are not his own, and that he is but a ftranger; that that is not allotted for kis home. And when he has refreshed himself, or tarried but for a night, he is for leaving thefe accommodations, and going forward, and getting onward towards his journey's end. And the thoughts of coming to his journey's end are not at all grievous to him. He does not defire to be travelling always and never come to his journey's end: the thoughts of that would be difcouraging to him. But it is pleafant to him to think that fo much of the way is gone, that he is now nearer home; and that hc feparated from the reft of the world till now; but were wont to dwell . . them, without any bar or fence to keep them feparate; the mifchievous confequence of which had been found repeatedly. The effect before the flood of God's people living intermingled with the wicked world, without any remarkable wall of feparation, was, that the fons of God joined in marriage with others, and thereby foon became infected, and the church was almoft brought to nothing. The method that God then took was to drown the wicked world, and fave the church in the ark. And now the world, before Abraham was called, was become corrupt again. But here God took another methed. He did not deftroy the world, and fave Abraham, and his wife, and Lot in an ark; but he calls thefe perfons to go and live feparate from the reft.

This was a new and a great thing, that God did toward the work of redemption. It was about the middle of the fpace of time between the fall of man and the coming of Chrift; about two thoufand years before his incarnation. But by this calling of Abraham, the anceftor of Chrift, he shall prefently be there ; and the toil and fatigue of his journey will be over.

"So fhould we thus defire heaven fo much more than the comforts and enjoyments of this life, that we fhould long to change thefe things for heaven. We fhould wait with an earneft defire for the time, when we fhall arrive at our journey's end. The apofle mentions it as an encouraging, comfortable confideration to Chriftians, when they draw nigh their happinefs. "Now is our falvation nearer than when we believed." [Rom. xiii. 11.]

"Our hearts ought to be loofe to thefe things, as it is with a man that is on a journey. However comfortable enjoyments are, yet we ought to keep our hearts fo loofe from them, as cheerfully to part with them whenever God calls. 'But this I fay, brethren, 'the time is fhoit, it remaineth, that both they that have wives, 'be as though they had none; and they that weep, as though they 'wept not; and they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not; and they that buy, as though they poffeffed not; and they that 'ufe this world, as not abufing it; for the fashion of this world 'paffeth away.' [1. Cor. vii. 29, 30.]

"We ought to look upon thele things, as only lent to us for a little while, to ferve a prefent turn; but we should fet our hearts on heaven as our inheritance for ever." [Pref. EDWARD's Posth. Sermon. p. 371.] Chrift, a foundation was laid for the upholding the church in the world, till Chrift fhould come. For the world having become idolatrous, there was a neceffity that the feed of the woman fhould be thus feparated from the idolatrous world in order thereunto.

It was also needful that there should be a particular nation feparated from the reft of the world, to receive the types and prophecies that were to be given of Chrift, to prepare the way for his coming : that to them might be committed the oracles of God; that by them the hiftory of God's great work of creation and providence might be preferved; that fo Christ might be born of this nation; and from hence the light of the gofpel thine forth to the reft of the world. These ends could not well be obtained, if God's people, through all thefe two thousand years, had lived intermixed with the heathen world. So that this calling of Abraham may be looked upon as a kind of a new foundation laid for the vifible church of God, in a more diffinct and regular flate, to be built on this foundation from henceforward, till Chrift fhould actually come, and then through him to be propagated to all nations. So that Abraham being the perfon in whom this foundation is laid, is reprefented in feripture as though he were the father of all the church, the father of all them that believe; as it were a root whence the vifible church refe as a tree diffinct from all others; of which tree Chrift was the branch of righteoufnefs; and from which, after Chrift came, the natural branches were broken off, and the Gentiles were grafted in. So that Abraham still remains (through Christ) the father of the church. It is the fame tree which from that fmall beginning in Abraham's time, has in thefe days of the gofpel fpread its branches over a great part of the earth, and will fill the whole in due time, and at the end of the world be transplanted from an earthly foil into the Paradife of God.

2. There accompanied this a more particular and full revelation and confirmation of the covenant of grace than ever before had been. There were before this two particular ticular and folemn editions or confirmations of this covenant; one whereby it was revealed to our first parents, foon after the fall; the other whereby God folemnly renewed the fame covenant with Noah and his family foon after the flood; and now a third, at the calling of Abraham, which being much nearer the time of the coming of Chrift than either of the former, it was much more full and particular. It was now revealed, not only that Chrift should come, but that he should be Abraham's feed; and that all the families of the earth flould be bleffed in him. God repeatedly promifed this to Abraham. Firft, when he first called him, [Gen. xii. 2.] ' And I will " make of thee a great nation, and I will blefs thee, and ' make thy name great : and thou shalt be a bleffing.' The fame promife was renewed after he came into the land of Canaan, [chap. xiii. 14, &c.] Again after Abraham returned from the flaughter of the kings, [chap. xv. 5. 6.] And a fourth time, after his offering up Ifaac, [ch. xxii. 16, 17, 18.]

In this renewal of the covenant of grace with Abraham, feveral particulars concerning it were revealed more fully than before; not only that Chrift was to be of Abraham's feed; but alfo, the calling of the Gentiles, and the bringing all nations into the church, that all the families of the earth might be bleffed, was now made known. And the great condition of the covenant of grace, which is faith, was now more fully revealed. [Gen. xv. 5, 6.] And he faid unto him, So thall thy feed be. And Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteoufnefs.' Which is much taken notice of in the New Teflament, and from thence Abraham was called the father of them that believe.' [Rom. iv. 2---11.]

And as there was now a farther revelation of the covenant of grace, fo there was a farther confirmation of it by feals and pledges, than ever had been before; as, particularly, God did now inflitute a certain factament, to be a ftanding feal of this covenant in the vifible church, till Chrift fhould come, viz. circumcifion. Circumcition was a feal of this covenant of grace, as appears by its its first institution, in the xviith chapter of Genefis. (w) It there appears to be a feal of that covenant by which God

(w) GOD NOW inflituted circumcifion.] "This was the first inflitution of circumcilion, and it was an inflitution of God, and not of man. Indeed Herodotus fays, that 'the Colchi, Egyptians 4 and Ethiopians only of all men circumcifed from the beginning; ' and the Phœnicians and Syrians, which are in Paleftine, learnt it ' of the Egyptians, as they themfelves confels.' So Diodorus Siculus fpeaks of circumcifion as an Egyptian rite, and fays there are fome who make the nation of the Colchi, and of the Jews, to come from the Egyptians; hence he obferves, that with thefe nations there is an ancient tradition to circumcife their new-born infants, which rite was derived from the Egyptians: but as the original of the Jewish nation is mistaken, fo likewife the original of this rite. And they may as well be thought to be miltaken in the one as in the other. Those in Palestine that were circumcifed were the Jews only, as Jofephus obferves; but they did not learn this rite from the Egyptians, nor do they ever confess it, but on the contrary fuggest, that the Egyptians learnt it from them in the times of Joseph; for their principal lexicographer fays, the Egyptians were circumcifed in the times of Jofeph, and when Jofeph died they drew over the forefkin of the flefh. The Colchi indeed, who were a colony of the Egyptians, might learn it from them; And fo the Ethiopians, who were their neighbours likewife, and agreed with them in many things. Artapanus, an heathen writer, fays indeed, that the Ethiopians, though enemies, had fuch a regard for Mofes, that they learned from him the rite of circumcition ; and not only they, but all the priefts, that is, in Egypt ; and indeed the Egyptian priefts only, and not the people, were circumcifed. It is not very difficult to account for it, how other nations befides the Jews fhould receive circumcifion, which was first enjoined Abraham and his feed; the Ishmaelites had it from Ishmael the Son of Abraham; from them the old Arabs; from the Arabs, the Saracens; and from the Saracens, the Turks to this day: other Arabian nations, as the Midianites, and others, had it from the fons of Abraham by Keturah; and perhaps the Egyptians and Ethiopians from them, if the former had it not from the Ifraelites; and the Edomites had it from Edom or Efan, the fon of Ifaac, the fon of Abraham; fo that all originally had it from Abraham, and he by a divine command. It is not fo much to be wondered at, that Herodotus and Diodorus Siculus, men either impofed upon by the Egyptian priefts, as the former, or wrote in favour of that nation, as the latter, and wholly ignorant of divine revelation, flould affert what they have done; but that Christian writers, who have the advantage of divine revelation, and have read the hiltory of the Bible, fuch as Marfbam, Spencer, and Le Clere, fhould incline to the fame fentiment, is amazing ; and efpecially

God promifed to make Abraham a father of many nations, compare the 5th with the 9th and 10th verfes. And we are expressly taught, that it was a feal of the righteoufnels of faith, [Rom iv. 11.] Speaking of Abraham, the apoftle fays, 'He received the fign of circum-' cifion, a feal of the righteoufnels of faith.' And this facrament chiefly diftinguished Abraham's feed from the world, and kept up a feparation between them more than any other particular obfervance whatever.

And befides this, there were other occafional feals, and confirmations, that Abraham had of this covenant; as, particularly, (1.) God gave Abraham a remarkable pledge of the fulfilment of the promife he had made him, in his victory over Chedorlaomer and the kings that were with him. Chedorlaomer feems to have reigned over a great part of the world at that day: and though he had his feat at Elam, which was not much if any thing thort of a thousand miles from the land of Canaan, yet he extended his empire fo as to reign over many parts of that land, as appears by chap. xiv. 4---7. It is fuppofed by learned men, that he was a king of the Affyrian empire, which had been begun by Nimrod at Babel.* And as it was the honour of kings in those days to build new cites to be made the feats of empire, [Gen. x. 10---12.] fo it is conjectured, that he had built him a city in Elam, and made that his feat; and that the other kings, who came with him, were his deputies in the feveral cities and countries where they reigned. But yet as mighty an empire as Τ2 he cially when our bleffed Lord has expressly faid, that circumcifion is of the fathers, [John vii. 22.] Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob; first given to them, and practifed by them. Even Theodotus, an heathen writer, agrees with this facred testimony of Mofes, when speaking of the circumcifion of Shechem, in the times of Jacob, he traces this rite to its original, and obferves, that when Abraham was brought out of his own country, he was ordered from heaven to circumcife every man in his house. It may indeed feem strange how it should obtain in the islands of the West Indies, as in Jucatana, Sancta Crux, and others, where the Spaniards found in the beginning of the fixteenth century those isles inhabited by idolaters, who were circumcifed." [G1LL on Gen. xvii. 10.]

* See Shuckford's Connex. vol. ii. b. 6.

<sup>137</sup>

he had, and as great an army as he now came with, Abraham, only with his trained fervants that were born in his own houfe, conquered and fubdued them all. This victory he received of God as a pledge of the victory that Chrift, his feed, fhould obtain over the nations of the earth, whereby he fhould poffels the gates of his enemies. It is plainly fpoken of as fuch in the xlift Ifaiah. In that chapter is foretold the future glorious victory the church fhall obtain over the nations of the world; as you may fee in verfes 1, 10, 15, &c. But in verfes 2, and 3, this victory of Abraham is spoken of as a pledge and earnest of the victory of the church. ' Who raifed ' up the righteous man from the east, called him to his · foot, gave the nations before him, and made him rule • over kings ? He gave them as the duft to the fword, and as driven flubble to his bow. He purfued them, and ' paffed fafely; even by the way that he had not gone • with his feet.' (x)

(2.) Another remarkable confirmation Abraham received of the covenant of grace, was when he returned from the flaughter of the kings; when Melchifedec the king of Salem, the prieft of the most high God, that great type of Chrift, met him, and bleffed bim, and brought forth bread and wine. (v) The bread and wine figni-

(x) The righteous man from the EAST.] Some explain this of Abraham, others of Cyrus; "I rather think (fays an eminent prelate) that the former is meant, because the character of the righteous man... agrees better with Abraham than with Cyrus. Befides, immediately after the description of the fuccess given by God to Abraham and his posserity, (who, I prefume, are to be taken into the account) the idolaters are introduced, as greatly alarmed at this event. Abraham was called out of the east; and his posserity were introduced into the land of Canaan, in order to deftroy the idolaters of that country; and they were established there on purpose to fland as a barrier against idolatry then prevailing, and threatening to over-run the whole face of the earth. Cyrus, though not properly an idolater, or worshipper of images, yet had nothing in his character to caule such an alarm among the idolaters," ver. 5-7.—[Bp. LGWTH on ver. 2.]

(Y) MELCHISEDEC, priefl of the mult high God.] Many and opposite have been the opinious, both of Jewish and Christian writer?, fignifieth the fame bleffings of the covenant of grace, that the bread and wine does in the facrament of the Lord's fupper.

writers, on this extraordinary character; but we shall only recite the three principal:

I. Moft of the Jews, and many very learned Chriftians, underfland it of SHEM, who it fhould feem by the faceed chronology, was ftill living.—But to this it has been replied, that Melchifedee was not of that family, 'His defeent is not counted from them;' [Heb. vii. 6.]—nor could Shem be faid to be 'without father and 'mother,' [Heb. vii. 3.] when we have his genealogy from Adam —nor could Levi be faid with any more propriety to pay tithes in Abraham, than to receive them in Shem, fince he was as truly in the loins of Shem, as in those of Abraham—not to fay, that Abraham could hardly be faid to fojourn there, 'as in a ftrange coun-'try,' if his anceftor Shem were king of it.

2. Many expositors, to avoid these difficulties, have supposed that Melchifedee and Christ were the same person, and that this appearance must be accounted for in the same manner as several others under the Old Testament. ——But the apolle several dently to diffinguish the persons, in making the former a type of the latter, [Heb. vii. throughout] and in afferting [ver. 6.] that Christ was a priest ' after the order of Melchifedee.'

3. We therefore think it fafeft, with our author, and many other very refpectable divines, to underfland the paffage literally, of a great prince, perhaps a defeendant of Canaan, who reigned in Salem, [not Jerufalem, as fome think, but rather a town in the neighbourhood of Sodom, perhaps the fame called Shalem, in Gen. xxxiii. 18.—See GILL on Gen. xiv. 18.] and who was both a king and prieft, as was not unufual under the patriarchal difpenfation; and yet more diffinguished by his picty than his rank.

• Now' faith the apofle, [Heb. vii. 1-5.] • confider how great • this man was,'--• for this Melchifedee [was] king of Salem, • [and] prieft of the moft high God... Without father, without • mother, without defeent, having neither beginning of days nor • end of life, but made like unto the Son of God, [who] abideth • a prieft for ever; i.e. • Of whofe father, mother, or pedigree, there is no mention .... (which notes him to be no prieft by defeent, as the Levitical priefts were, and accordingly their geneaologies were preferved exactly) as neither of his birth nor death ... and fo flands in the flory as a kind of immortal prieft without any fucceffor ... (perhaps the lait prieft of the true God in Pheenicia) this Melchifedee, I fay, was in all this an emblem of Chrift .... the King of Rightcoulnefs, and Prince of Peace." [HAMMOND in loc. See allo Daddridge.]

The fact feems to be, that Melehifedec is in the hiltory introduced in fo abrupt and august a manner, that he might be the more fuitable type, and in many respects prefigure our Lord Jesus Christ,

140 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

fupper. So that as Abraham had a feal of the covenant in circumcifion that was equivalent to baptifm, fo now he had a feal of it equivalent to the Lord's fupper. And Melchifedec's coming to meet him with fuch a feal of the covenant of grace, on the occation of this victory, evinces that it was a pledge of God's fulfilment of the fame covenant; for that is the mercy which Melchifedec takes notice of. [Gen. xiv. 19, 20.]

(3.) Another was, the vision that he had in the deep fleep that fell upon Abraham, of the fmoaking furnace and burning lamp, that paffed between the parts of the facrifice, Gen. xv. That facrifice, as all facrifices do, figni-

Chrift, of whom thefe things were true, in a fenfe far more grand and important.—Infinite Redeemer! How numberlefs are the rays of glory that form thy mediatorial crown! How are all the excellencies of the moft illuftrious characters blended to fhadow thy fuperior dignity! [U.S.]

(z) The vision of the fmoaking furnace.] "The order and form of Abram's facrifice defcribed in the ninth and tenth verfes is a full illustration of the meaning of the words; ' And he faid ' unto him, Take me a heifer of three years old, and a fhe goat 6 of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle " dove and a young pigeon. And he took unto him all thefe, and · divided them in the midft, and laid each piece one against ano-' ther : but the birds divided he not.' And ' the Lord made a " covenant," i. e. he cut afunder or divided a purifying victim. [See Note (o) p. 109.7 Abram according to God's command took an heifer, a fhe goat, and a ram, each of three years old, flew them; divided each into equal parts; placed the feparated limbs oppofite to each other, leaving a paffage between ; paffed between the parts himfelf, according to the cuftom of the facrifice; and when the fun was down, that the appearance might be more visible and striking, the fhechinah, or visible taken of God's prefence, passed alfo between the divided limbs of the victims, as a fmoaking furnace, and a burning lamp; the final ratification of this new treaty between God and Abram; whereby God gracioufly became bound to give Abram a fon of his own bowels, who should become the father of a great nation, and the progenitor, after the flefh, of the great Saviour and deliverer of the human race; and Abram on his part bound himfelf to a firm reliance upon all God's promifes, and cheerful obedience to all his commands. Such were the awful folemnitics of this important transaction. . . . They were evidently of divine inflitution, for God honoured them with his prefence.

fignified the facrifice of Chrift. The fmoaking furnace that paffed through the midft of that facrifice fignified the fence, approbation, and acceptance: they apparently had been long in use before this period, for Abram, without any particular inftruction, prepares and performs the facrifice; and they certainly continued long in the church of God after this: for we find the practice as far down as the times of Jeremiah, that is, about the period of the diffolution of the Jewish monarchy. The passage ftrikingly illustrates and fupports the history of Abram's covenant and facrifice. . . . . . . [Jer. xxxiv. 18-20.] ' And ' I will give the men that have tranfgreffed my covenant, which 6 have not performed the words of the covenant which they had ' made before me, when they cut the calf in twain, and paffed be-' tween the parts thereof, the princes of Judah, and the princes of ' Jerufalem, the eunuchs, and the priests, and all the people of ' the land, which paffeth between the parts of the calf; I will even ' give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of ' them that feek their life; and their dead bodies shall be for meat ' unto the fowls of the heaven, and the beafts of the earth.' Now the expressions here employed, of ' polluting .God's name, trans-' greffing his covenant, and not performing it,' [fee the preceding context, ] and the threatened punishment of this violation, ' their ' dead bodies shall be for meat unto the fowls of the heaven, and ' to the beafts of the earth,' explain to us in fome meafure, the meaning of those folemn ceremonies with which covenants were executed. And here furely it is not unlawful to employ the lights which are thrown on this fubject, by the practice of the Gentile nations, and the writings of profane authors. From them we learn, that on fuch occasions the cuftom was, that the contracting party or parties, having paffed between the divided limbs of the facrifice, and expressed their full affent to the stipulated terms of the agreement or covenant, in folemn words, pronounced with an audible voice, imprecated upon themfelves a bitter curfe, if they ever should break it. 'As I strike down this heifer, or ram, fo ' may God ftrike me with death, if I tranfgrefs my word and oath.' " As the limbs of this animal are divided afunder, fo may my body ' be torn in pieces, if I prove perfidious.' To give one inftance of many, from the two nations alluded to. The Greeks and the Trojans, according to Homer, having agreed to determine the great quarrel between them, by the iffue of a fingle combat between the two rivals, Menelaus and Paris, the terms being folemuly adjusted and confented to on both fides, the ratification of the covenant is thus deferibed, [Ilian, lib. iii. 268.] ' The Grecian ' prince drew the facred knife, cut off a lock of wool from each of "the heads of the devoted lambs, which being diffributed among " the princes of the contending parties, he thus, with hands lifted " and in a loud voice prayed, the fufferings of Chrift; but the burning lamp that followed, which thone with a clear bright light, fignifies the glory

"O first and greatest Pow'r! whom all obey,

- " Who high on Ida's holy mountain fway,
- ' Eternal Jove ! and you bright orb that roll
- ' From east to weft, and view from pole to pole ;
- ' Thou mother earth ! and all ye living floods !
- ' Infernal furies, and Tartarean gods,
- " Who rule the dead, and horrid woes prepare
- ' For perjur'd kings, and all who falfely fwear !
- 'Hear and be witnefs. If, . . . . . [POPE.]

"Then, having repeated the words of it [the covenant] in the audience of all, he cleft afunder the heads of the confecrated lambs, placed their palpitating limbs oppolite to each other on the ground, poured facred wine upon them, and again prayed, or rather imprecated:

' Hear, mighty Jove! and hear, ye gods on high!

- ' And may their blood, who first the league confound,
- · Shed like this wine, diftain the thirfty ground :
- " May all their conforts ferve promifcuous luft,
- And all their race be feattered as the duft !' [POPE.]

"Thus when it was agreed to fettle the conteft for empire between Rome and Alba by the combat of three youths, brothers, on either fide; after the interposition of ceremonies fimilar to those which have been defcribed, the Roman prieft who prefided, addrefied a prayer to heaven to this effect; 'Hear, Father Jupiter, 'hear, Prince of Alba, and ye whole Alban nation. Whatever 'has been read from that waxen tablet, from first to last, according 'to the plain meaning of the words, without any refervation what-'ever, the Roman people engage to fland to, and will not be the first to violate. If with a fraudulent intention, and by an act of 'the flate, they shall first transgress, that very day, O Jupiter, flrike 'the Roman people, as I to-day shall thrike this hog, and fo much 'the more heavily, as you are more mighty and more powerful 'than me.' And having thus spoken, with a sharp flint, he dashed out the brains of the animal.

"Thus in the three moit illuftrious nations that ever exifted, we find the origin of their greatnefs, in fimilar ceremonies; empire founded in religion, and good faith fecured by the fanction of folemn facred rites. And is it not pleafing to find the living and true God, as in refpect of majefty and dignity, fo in priority of time, taking the lead in all that is great and venerable among men? We find Mores, the prince of facred writers, deferibing a religious facrifice, performed by Abram one thoufand nine hundred and thirteen years before Chrift, which the prince of heathen poets fo exactly deferibes as the practice of his own country upwards of one glory that followed Chrift's fufferings, and was procured by them.

(4.) Another pledge that God gave Abraham of the fulfilment of the covenant of grace, was his gift of that child of whom Chrift was to come, in his old age. This is fpoken of as fuch in fcripture; Heb. xi. 11, 12. and alfo Rom. iy 18, &c.

(5.) Again, in his delivering Ifaac, after he was laid upon the wood of the facrifice to be flain, (A) God gave Abraham one thousand years later : and which the great Roman historian relates as in use among his countrymen, in the time of Tullus Hostilius, the third king of Rome, before Christ about fix hundred and fixty-eight years." [HUNTER'S Sac. Biogr. vol. i. lec. xiii.]

(A) Ifaac laid upon the wood . . . . to be SLAIN.] "Abraham (fays Mr. HERVEY) was an eminent and diffinguished fervant of the Most High God. Favoured with peculiar manifestations of the divine will, and dignified with the honourable title of his Maker's friend. Yet even this man is harrassed with a long fucceffion of troubles; and, which was reckoned in those ages the most deplorable calamity, goes childlefs. Long he waits, worshipping God with the most patient refignation. At length, an oracle from the Lord gives him . . . affurance of a fon. Joyfully he receives the promife, and refts in humble expectation of its accomplishment. . . . At last the bandmaid becomes pregnant. But . . . this is the fon of the bondwoman, not of the free.

"How afflicting the cafe of this excellent perfon! His kinsfolk and acquaintance fee their olive branches flourifhing round about their tables. Even his ungodly neighbours have children at their defire, and leave the refidue of their fubilance for their babes. But Abrabam, the worfhipper of Jehovah, the favourite of heaven this Abraham is deflitute of an heir, to fupport his name, to propagate his family, or to inherit the bleffing. . . God is pleafed to renew the grant, and affure him more explicitly, that Sarab fhall have a fon. But this notice comes at a very late period in hife; when Sarah is advanced in years, and too old, according to the courfe of nature, to conceive. However, the pious patriarch ' flaggers not through unbelief; but hopes even against hope.' [Rom. iv. 18—20.]

"At last, the gift, fo earneftly defired, is vouchfafed. Sarah has a child—a fon—an Ifaac. One who fhould be a fource of confolation and delight to his parents; 'thould fill their mouth with 'laughter, and their tongue with joy.' With tender care, doubtlefs, this pleafant plant is reared. Many prayers are put up, for his long life and great happinefs. The fond parents watch over U Abraham another confirmation of his faith in the promile him, as over the apple of their own eye. Their life is bound up in the life of the lad. He grows in grace, as he grows in flature. . . . . Now, methinks, we are ready to congratulate the happy Sire; and flatter ourfelves, that his tribulations have an end . . . . But ' let not him that girdeth on his harnefs, boaft himfelf, as he ' that putteth it off.' Our warfare on earth is never accomplifhed, till we bow our head, and give up the ghoft. The fharpeft, the fevereft trial is ftill behind.

"Abraham; fays God—Abraham knows the voice. It is the voice of condefcending goodnefs. He had often heard it with a rapture of delight. Inftantly he replies, 'Here I am. Speak, ' Lord; for thy fervant is all attention.' Hoping, no doubt, to receive fome fresh manifestation of the divine good-will to himself and his family; or fome new discovery of the method, in which the divine Wisdom would accomplish the promises—'I will mul-' tiply thy feed—I will make thy feed as the dust of the earth.— ' In thy feed shall all the families of the earth be bleffed.'

"Take thy fon; adds God. And might not Abraham reafonably expect, that, fince his fon was arrived to years of maturity, he fhould be directed now to fettle him in the world with honour and advantage? ... He is commanded, not barely to take his fon, but his only fon; his fon Ifoac, whom he love.l... Muit not fuch an introduction, fo remarkably endearing, heighten his expectation of fome fignal mercy to be conferred on the beloved youth? And would it not render the bleffing ... more than doubly welcome?

"Was he not then flartled? Was he not horribly amazed? When, inflead of fome renewed expression of the Divine favour, he received the following orders: 'Take now thy fon, thy only fon, 'Ifaae, whom thou lovelt, and get thee into the land of Moriah, ' and offer him there for a burnt effering, upon one of the moun-' tains which I will tell thee of.' Was ever defeription fo affecting, or meffage fo alarming !.... Every word in this injunction foftens and entenders the parent's heart, and at the fame time fharpens the arrow, that mult pierce it through and through.

"Abraham, take thy fon,"—Who, but Abraham, could have forborn remonftrating and pleading on fuch an occation ?—Ananias, being charged with a commission to Saul the perfecutor, takes upon him to argue the case with his Ahmighty Sovereige.— 'Lord, I have heard by many concerning this man, how much ' cuil he hath done to thy faints at Jerufalem ; and here he hath ' authority from the chief priefla to bind all that call upon thy ' name.' [Acts ix. 13, 14.] Thus Ananias. With how much greater appearance of reason might Abraham have replied ?

· Lord, have I not already left my country; left my kindred, ' and, at thy command, left my father's houfe? And wilt thou ' now mife that God had made of Chrift, that he fhould be of Ifaac's now bereave me of my child? Muft I part, not with fome admired folly or darling vanity, but with the moft worthy object of a rational affection; indeed with my only remaining confolation?—Shall I be deprived of my child, almoft as foon as I have received him? Didft thou give him only to tantalize thy fervant? Remember, gracions God! the name he bears. How fhall he anfwer its cheering import? How fhall he be a fource of fatisfaction to his parents, or the father of many nations, if thou takeft him away in his unmarried flate, and the very prime of his years?

If fin lies at the door, let me explate the guilt. Let thoufands of rams, let every bullock in my falls bleed at thy altar.
My wealth, moft mighty Lord, and all my goods, are nothing in comparison of my Ifaac. Command me to be firipped of my poffeffions; command me to roam as a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth, and I will blefs thy holy name. Only let my child, my dear child, be fpared.

• Or, if nothing will appeafe thy indignation but human blood, • let my death be the facrifice : upon me be the vengeance. I am • old and grey-headed. The beft of my days are part, and the beit • of my fervices done. If this tottering wall tumbles, there will • be little, or no caufe for regret. But, if the pillar of my houfe, • and the fupport of my family—if he be fnatched from me, what • good will my life do me? • O my Son ! my Son ! would G at I • might die for thee? [2 Sam. xviii. 33.]

• If it must be a blooming youth, in the flower of his days, he • pleafed, most merciful God, to felect the victim from fome fruit-• ful family. 'There are those, who abound in Children. Chil-• dren are multiplied unto them ; and though many were removed, • yet would their table be full. 'There are those, who have facts • and herds; whereas, I have only this one little lamb; the very • folace of my foul, and the flay of my declining years. And fhall • this be taken away, while all listfe are keft? [2 Sam, xii, 3.] • Yet if he werd dis and there is no removed a part of the flat of the sector.

• Yet, if he muft die, and there is no remedy; may be not at • leaft expire by a natural diffolution? May not fome common dif-• temper unloofe the cords of life, and lay him down gently in • the tomb? May not his fond mother and myfelf feal his clothing • eyes, and foften his dying pangs by our tender offices?

No, Abraham. Thy fon muft be flaughtered on the altar.... The facrificing knife, and not any common difeafe, fhall bring him to his end. . . . It is the Lord's will, that he be cut in pieces : confumed to afhes; and made a burnt offering. . . . . <sup>6</sup> But if <sup>6</sup> all muft be executed; God forbid, that I fhould behold the dif-<sup>6</sup> mal tragedy ! . . . O! let it be far, far from the fight of thefe <sup>6</sup> eyes !<sup>2</sup>

" Even

Ifaac's pofferity; and was a reprefentation of the refurection

" Even this mitigation cannot be granted. Thou, Abraham, must fee him flain.—Nay; thou must be the executioner of thy Ifaac. Is not the wretched father flunned and thunderflruck?...

"Nature recoils at the very thought ! How then can the beft of fathers perform the deed ?—How thall he anfwer it to the wife of his bofom, the mother of the lovely youth ? . . . Will fhe not have reafon to reproach Abraham, and fay in the anguish of her fpirit, 'A bloody husband haft thou been to me.—[Exod. iv. 25.] How can be juffify it to the world? They will never be perfunded that the God of goodnefs can delight in cruelty, or authorize fo horrid an action. . . . . Might not thousands of fuch confiderations crowd into his thoughts, and rack his very foul?

" But God is unchangeable. Positive is his word, and must be obeyed. Obeyed immediately too. Take now thy fon. The Lord's command requireth speed. . . This the patriarch knew. Therefore he waits not for a second injunction. He confults not with shefth and blood. . . . But, without a murmuring word, without a moment's delay, fets forward on his journey.

"And canft thou, Abraham, canft thou perfift in thy purpofe? .... Is not this child the heir of the promifes, both temporal, and fpiritual, and eternal?—Is not the great Meffiah, whofe day thou haft fo paffionately defined to fee; whofe perfon is the hope of all the cuds of the earth; is not that great Meffiah to fpring from his loins? From bis loins, whom thou art about to kill;—The bleffing, thou knoweft, is appropriated to him. The graud entail is fettled upon him—upon Ifaac by name—upon Ifaac alone, if he perifh, all is loft.—Cauft thou, then, at one blow, deftroy the life of thy fon; facrifice all thy earthly joys; and cut off the hopes of the whole world?—Will none of thefe confiderations difcourage, diffuade, deter thee?

"Moft triumphant faith indeed! defervedly art thou flyled, The Father of the Faithful. Thy faith is flrouger than all the ties of affection; flronger than all the pleas of nature; flronger than all the terrors of death—of a death, in its circumflances and in its confequences, incomparably more dreadful than the own.

"Now muft he travel during three tedious, and, one would think, moft melancholy days. . . 'On the third day, Abraham 'lift up his eyes, and faw the place afar off !'—Doleful fight ! . . . Does not the profpect alarm all his tender paffions ? No, it only awakens his circumfpection. The fervants are commanded to advance no farther . . . . He himfelf, with the fire and the knife in his hands; and his fon, with the burden of wood on his fhoulders, went both of them together.—Who does not pity the dear devoted youth, toiling under that load which muft foon reek with his blood, and ioon reduce him to athes ?—Mean while the intended viction, wondering to fee all these preparations made, and no preper animal

FROM ABRAHAM's CALL TO MOSES. 147

rection of Chrift; [fee Heb. xi. 17---19.] And becaufe this was given as a confirmation of the covenant of grace, therefore mal near, afks this pertinent quefilion; 'My father, behold the 'fire and the wood! but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering?' Nothing could be more tender and moving than this fpeech; which difcovered fuch a knowledge of religion, and fuch a concern for its duties. Will not this roufe the father's anguifh, and fhake his determination? How can he be the death of fo much innocence, and fo much piety?

"Faith overcomes all difficulties. Unmoved and inflexible the Patriarch replies, 'God will provide himfelf a lamb for a burnt-'offering, my fon.' He hides the awful tidings from the inquilitive youth, left they should be too heavy and afflictive for him to bear. . .

'And they came to the place which God had told him of.'—'Tis a mountain.' Far from the refort of men. A doleful folitude indeed!....' Abraham builds an altar there'.... and ... that every thing may be transfacted with the utmost decorum, he lays the wood in order....

"Every thing is now ready for the most aftonishing and dreadful act of obedience that men or angels ever beheld. And now Abraham difelofes the startling feeret—' Didft thou inquire con-'cerning the lamb? Thou thyfelf, my dear child, art the lamb 'provided for the burnt-offering. Be not amazed. Let not thy 'heart fail. The God who bestowed thee on my longing defires, 'is pleafed to require thee again at my hand—the Lord gave, and 'the Lord taketh away; let us both adore the name of the Lord. 'Let us confide in his promifed goodnefs, and unanimously profefs, "Though he flay me, yet will I truft in him."

"It does not appear that the aniable youth refifted or gainfayed. He had firength enough to oppofe, and fpeed enough to efcape, the attempts of an aged father. [According to Jofephus, Haac was, when he fubmitted himfelf to the flaughter, about twenty-five years old.] Either, or both of which, the law of felf-prefervation might feem to dictate, and the light of reafon to julify. But Ifaac knew that his father was a prophet. In this prophetical character, he fees and acknowledges the warrant of heaven; and fince his Creator calls, he is content to go. . . .

"Neverthelefs, that the work of defliny may be fure, and no one particular relating to a facrifice omitted, Abraham binds Ifaac his fon . . . Having bound him—furprifing refolation! bound him for the fword and for the flame, he lays him upon the altar on the wood.—There, now, lies Ifaac; the dear, the dutiful, the religious Ifaac! Abraham's joy; Sarah's delight; the heir of the promifes! There he lies, all meck and refigned, expecting, every moment, the flroke of death to fall . . . . See! the father

148 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

therefore God renewed that covenant with Abraham on this occation. Gen. xxii. 15, &c. (B) father . . . 'ftretches forth his hand;' he lifts the fharpened fleel; and determined to finifh at a blow, is even now aiming—when rejoice, O ye worfhippers of a gracious God! . . . the Angel of the covenant fpeaks from heaven, and withholds the Patriarch's hand, in the very act to itrike. God, who only intended to manifeft his faith, and make it honourable, bids him do no harm to the lad. Yea, God applauds his obedience, and fubfitutes another facrifice in Ifaac's flead; renews his covenant with the father, and not only reprieves the life of the fon, but promifes him a numerous and illuftrious iffue—Promifes to make him the progenitor of the Mefliah, and thereby a bleffing to all the nations of the earth. [Ther. and Afp. vel. iii. lett. 2.]

Thus

(B) Ifaac was a TYPE of Chrift, raifed from the dead.] - So faith the apoftle, [Heb. xi. 19.] Abraham received his fon Ifaac "from the dead ' in a figure,' [xai & majobohn] ' even in a parable,' type, or myflical reprefentation. [See WOLFIUS, Curæ Philolog. vol. iv. p. 762. & Com. Heb. ix. 5.7 A farther illustration of this may be taken from the hiltory of this event in Genefis [xxii. 14.] where Abraham calls the name of the place where he attempted to offer his fon, Jehovah Jireh. One thing muft be premiled, that the Hebrew word there uled, if we wave the zuthority of the points, may be taken either actively or peffively. Abraham, when his fon had inquired for the burnt-offering, replied, ' God ' will provide himfelf,' or rather will fee, look out, for himfelf a burnt-offering--Now, in ver. 14. Abraham uses the fame word, and God having wouderfully provided a burnt-offering, inftead of Ifaac, he names the place as it fould feem with a reference both to this event, and a future one reprefented by it, ' The Lord ' will fee,' as our translators render it in the margin; i.e. will provide for his people, in whatever flraight they may be, as he had done for Abraham in this fore trial. So it is faid to this day, is become a proverb, 'In the mount the Lord will fee;' the fame word as before. But the words may be taken paffively; ' The " Lord will appear," i. e. vilibly, he will be feen. Thus Ifaac inquiring for the facrifice, Abraham replice, 'God will appear for " it," i. e. to point it out in fuch a manner as fhall leave us in no doubt or difficulty to feek it.— Then he calls the name of the place 'The Lord will appear,' or Le fcen; and from this a tradition arofe, that in that mount the Lord would appear, (or be feen) which had the most literal and exact accomplishment in Solomon's temple being erected, and afterwards the Son of God erucified thereon. Taken either way, the words are beautifully fignificant; and as they run uniformly ambiguous, we conceive ourfelves warranted to include both fenfes, though we new not be able to prove that

FROM ABRAHAM'S CALL TO MOSES. 149

Thus you fee how much more fully the covenant of grace was revealed and confirmed in Al-raham's time than it had been before; by means of which Abraham feems to have had a clearer underflunding and fight of Chrift, the great Redeemer, and the future things that were to be accomplifted by him, than any of the faints preceding him; and therefore Chrift informs us, that 'Abraham rejoiced to fee ' his day, and he faw it, and was glad.' [John viii, 56.] So great an advance did it pleafe God now to make in this huilding, which he had been carrying on from the beginning of the world.

3. The next thing that 1 would take notice of here, is God's preferving the patriarchs fo long in the midfe of the wicked inhabitants of Canaan, and from all other enemies. The patriarchs Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob, were those of whom Chrift was to proceed; and they were now feparated from the world, that in them the church might be upheld: therefore, in preferving them, the great defign of redemption was carried on. He preferved that Abraham fo intended them; fince often things were fpoken by a prophetic fpirit, which even the fpeaker did not at the time fully understand. [See John xi. 51.] Thus explained, the words will afford the following remarks:

1. That the fame truths which are now taught us in plain literal terms, were formerly revealed to the Old Teftament believers in figures and types. Thus were they enabled to look forward to a promifed Redeemer by the fame faith with which we view him already come and crucified.

2. There is a close connection between the works of Providence and Redemption. The one often (as our author has in many inflances flown) prefiguring the other. Ifaac must have been in Abraham's view as dead, and he probably entertained no hope of his being faved by a refurrection; and this event was carried to the latt extremity, not merely for the trial of Abraham's faith, but alfo to be the fitter type of Christ raifed from the dead. Let us learn to view every providence in this connection, as fubordinate to the great ends of redemption : and reit affured, that fince God has provided a factifice in the perfon of ' his own fon,' he will ' with ' him slip freely give us all things.' [Rom. viii, 32.]

3. What flying confolation may a believer derive from this hiftory to confirm and enimate his faith? Though the Lord fhould fuffer us to be tried to the utmost, yet in the point of extremity he will appear and fave."

ferved them, and kept the inhabitants of the land where they fojourned from deftroying them; which was a remarkable difpenfation of Providence: for the inhabitants of the land were at that day exceedingly wicked, though they grew more wicked afterwards. This appears by Gen. xv. 16. ' In the fourth generation they shall come ' hither again; for the iniquity of the Canaanites is not · yet full:' as much as to fay, Though it be very great, it is not yet full. And their great wickedness also appears by Abraham and Ifaae's averfion to their children marrying any of the daughters of the land. Abraham, when he was old, could not be content till he had made his fervant fwear that he would not take a wife for his fon of the daughters of the land. And Ifaac and Rebecca were content to fend away Jacob to fo great a distance as Padan-Aram, to take him a wife thence. And when Efau married fome of the daughters of the land, we are told, that they were a grief of mind to Ifaac and Rebecca. [Gen. xxvi. 35.]

Another argument of their great wickednefs, was the inflances we have in Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, which were fome of the cities of Canaan though they were probably more eminently wicked.

And they being thus wicked, were likely to have the most bitter enmity against these holy men; agreeable to what was declared at first. 'I will put enmity between 'thee and the woman, and between thy feed and her feed.' Their holy lives were a continual condemnation of their wickedness. And betides, it could not be otherwise, but that they must be much in reproving their wickedness, as we find Lot was in Sodom; who, we are told, vexed his righteous foul with their unlawful deeds, and was a preacher of righteoufness to them.

And they were the more expected to them, being ftrangers and fojourners in the land, and having no inheritance there as yet. Men are more apt to find fault with ftrangers, and to be irritated by any thing in them, as they were with Lot in Sodom. He very gently reproved their wickednefs; and they fay upon it, " This fellow came in ' to ' to fojourn, and he will needs be a ruler and a judge,' and threatened what they would do to him.

But God wonderfully preferved Abraham and Lot, and Ifaac and Jacob, and their families, amongh them, though they were few in number, and they might quickly have deftroyed them; which is taken notice of as a wonderful inftance of God's preferving mercy toward his church, [Pf. cv. 12, &cc.] ' When they were but a few men in ' number; yea, very few, and ftrangers in it. When ' they went from one nation to another, from one king-' dom to another people; he fuffered no man to do them ' wrong; yea, he reproved kings for their fakes, faying, ' Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no ' harm.'

This prefervation was in fome inflances very remarkable; those inflances that we have an account of, wherein the people of the land were greatly irritated and provoked; as they were by Simeon and Levi's treatment of the Sechemites, [Gen. xxxiv. 30, &c.] God then ftrangely preferved Jacob and his family, restraining the provoked people by an unufual terror on their minds, [Gen. xxxv. 5.] ' And the terror of God was upon the ' cities that were round about them, and they did not ' purfue after the fons of Jacob.'

And God's preferving them, not only from the Canaanites, is here to be taken notice of, but his preferving them from all others that intended mifchief to them: thus his preferving Jacob and his campany, when purfued by Laban, full of rage, and a difpolition to overtake him as an enemy; God met him, and rebuked him, and faid to him, ' Take heed that thou fpeak not to Jacob either good ' or bad.' [Gen. xxxi. 24.] How wonderfully did he alfo preferve him from Efau his brother, when he came forth with an army, with a full defign to cut him off! How did God, in anfwer to his prayer, when he wreftled with Chrift at Penuel, wonderfully turn Efau's heart, and make him, inftead of meeting him as an enemy, with flaughter and deftruction, to meet him as a friend and brother, doing him no harm '

And

And thus were this handful, this little root that had the bleffing of the Redeemer in it, preferved in the midft of enemies and dangers; which was not unlike to the preferving the ark in the midft of the tempeftuous deluge.

4. The next thing I would mention is, the awful destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, and the neighbouring cities. This tended to promote the great defign and work that is the fubject of my prefent undertaking, two ways. It did fo, as it tended powerfully to reftrain the inhabitants of the land from injuring those holy ftrangers that God had brought to fojourn amongft them. Lot was one of those ftrangers; he came into the land with Abraham; and Sodom was deftroyed through their difregard of Lot, the preacher of righteoufness that God had fent among them. And their destruction came just upon their committing a most injurious and abominable infult on Lot, and the ftrangers that were come into his houfe, even those angels, whom they probably took to be some of Lot's former acquaintance, come from his own country to vifit him. They in a most outrageous manner befet Lot's house, intending a monthrous abuse of those strangers that were come thither, and threatening to ferve Lot worfe than them.

But in the midft of this God fmote them with blindnefs, and the next morning the city and the country about it was overthrown in a most terrible ftorm of fire and brimftone; which dreadful deftruction, as it was in the fight of the reft of the inhabitants of the land, and therefore greatly tended to reftrain them from hurting those holy ftrangers any more; it doubtlets ftruck a dread and terror on their minds, and made them afraid to hurt them, and probably was one principal means to reftrain them, and preferve the patriarchs. And when that reason is given why the inhabitants of the land did not purfue after Jacob, when they were to provoked by the deftruction of the Shechemites, viz. 4 that the terror of the Lord was ' upon them,' it is very probable that this was the terror referred to. They remembered the amazing deftruction of Sodom, and the cities of the plain, that came upon them.

them, upon their abufive treatment of Lot, and fo durft not hurt Jacob and his family, though they were fo much provoked to it.

Another way that this awful deftruction tended to promote this great affair of redemption, was, that hereby God did remarkably exhibit the terrors of his law, to make men fenfible of their need of redeeming mercy. The work of redemption never was carried on without this. The law, from the beginning, is made ufe of as a fchoolmafter to bring men to Chrift. [Gal. iii. 24.]

But under the Old Teflament there was much more need of fome extraordinary, visible, and fensible manifestation of God's wrath against fin, than in the days of the gofpel; fince a future flate, and the eternal mifery of hell, is more clearly revealed, and fince the awful justice of God against the fins of men has been fo wonderfully difplayed in the fufferings of Christ. And therefore the revelation that God gave of himfelf in those days, ufed to be accompanied with much more terror than it is in thefe of the gofpel. So when God appeared at Mount Sinai to give the law, it was with thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud, and the voice of the trumper exceeding loud. But some external, awful manifestations of God's wrath against fin were on fome accounts especially neceifary before the giving of the law: and therefore, before the flood, the terrors of the law handed down by tradition from Adam ferved. Adam lived nine hundred and thirty years himfelf, to tell the church of God's awful threatenings denounced in the covenant made with him, and how dreadful the confequences of the fall were, of which he was an eye-witnefs and fubject; and others that converted with Adam, lived till the flood. And the deftruction of the world by the flood ferved to exhibit the terrors of the law, and manifest the wrath of God against fin; and to to make men fenfible of the absolute neceffity of redeeming merey. And fome that faw the flood were alive in Abraham's time.

But this was now in a great measure forgotten; now therefore God was pleafed again, in a most amazing  $\tilde{X}$  2 manuage.

manner, to flow his wrath against fin, in the defiruction of thefe cities: which was after fuch a manner as to be the livelieft image of hell of any thing that ever had been; and therefore the apostle Jude fays, 'They fuffer the 'vengeance of eternal fire.' [Jude 7.] God rained (c) ftorms

(c) Sodom deflroyed by LIGHTNING.] "This perfectly agrees with fcripture account, which commonly denominates lightning, 'the fire of God.' [See Lev. ix. 24. 2 Kings i. 10—12.] And lightning is always attended with a fulphurous finell; and from this circumflance, its coming from God, the Greeks call brimflone  $[\Theta_{4407}, i. e.]$  divine. [See Le Clerc's Differt.] But there are two circumflances of more importance to be obferved; God's feverity to his enemies, and his mercy and kindnefs to his people: of each of thefe we have two remarkable inflances.

"To begin with God's judgment againft Sodom, which, as our author has obferved, affords the moft ftriking figure of hell that ever was exhibited. In vain fhould we firetch our imaginations to conceive the horror of a deluge of fire poured down from heaven. Human nature fhrinks from it, as too terrific a fubject for contemplation.—But let us turn to the caufe of this fin, which 'Brought death into the world and all our woe!' This winged the dreadful lightning, and pointed the fatal thunderbolt—and we may obferve, that God often fends a punishment correspondent to the nature of our fins; as in the inflance before us, they who burned with unnatural luft perished in the flames of divine difplessfure. 'For our God is a confuming fire.' [Heb. xii. 29.]

"But, if not more dreadful, there is fomething peculiarly firking, in the death of Lot's wife—fhe had efcaped the pollution and deftruction of the city;—fhe had obcyed the angel's voice, and fled for fafety;—but, alas! her heart was wedded to the world. She fled, indeed, but with lingering fleps, and a heavy heart. She would gladly return, it fhould feem, to live in cafe and luxury in Sodom, notwithflanding fhe could not be affected with its characterific fin, rather than enjoy a flate of holy, but obfcure, retirement. Alas! how many that have bidden fair (as we fay) for the kingdom of heaven, have fallen flort, from the fame principles of covetoufnefs and pride! Let us 'remember Lot's wife.' [Luke xvii. 32.]

"But this Providence has two voices; a voice of mercy as well as of terror; to impenitent finners it fpeaks in rattling thunder, like that at Sinai; to believing penitents, with a fmall, flill, but articulate accent.

• Shall I hide from Abraham, faith God, that thing which I do?' [Gen. xviii. 17, &c.] Bleffed Abraham, the friend of God, the advocate of men!—• The fecret of the Lord is with them that fear • him, ftorms of fire and brinftone upon them. The way that they were deftroyed probably was by thick flathes of lightning. The ftreams of brimftone were to thick as to burn up all thefe cities; fo that they perifhed in the flames. By this might be feen the dreadful wrath of God againfi the ungodlinefs and unrightcoufnets of men; which tended to fhow men the neceffity of redemption, and fo to promote that great work.

5. God again renewed and confirmed the covenant of grace to Ifaac and to Jacob. He did fo to Ifaac, [Gen. xxvi. 3, 4.] ' And I will perform the oath which I fware ' unto Abraham thy father; and I will make thy feed to ' multiply as the ftars of heaven, and will give unto thy ' feed all thefe countries; and in thy feed fhall all the ' nations

' him, and he will fhew them his covenant.' [Pf. xxv. 14.] The Lord comes to Abraham, and acquaints him with his defign of inflicting exemplary juffice; but, fays Abraham, 'Will God deftroy ' the rightcous with the wicked ?' No, ' that be far from the ' Lord !' The whole converfation between Abraham and God, is left on record, and difplays the fineft fentiments of reverence, piety and humanity in the patriarch; and on the part of Deity an harmonious combination of juffice, mercy, and other attributes worthy the divine nature.

"But before the judgment can be executed, Lot must be delivered; 'I can do nothing,' fays the commiffioned angel, [Gen. xix. 22.] 'till thou art gone hence.' Thus, 'In the midit of 'judgment, he remembers mercy;' and five righteous perfons would have faved the deftruction of five citics. Little do the world conceive the bleffings they enjoy through God's people being mingled with them; but experience will flew them. When God has 'gathered his wheat into his garner, then fhall the chaff 'be burnt with unquenchable fire.' [Matt. iii. 12.] When all his elect people are faved; the reprobate fhall perifh with a diffolying world;

O everlafting King! To thee I kneel; O everlafting King! To thee I kneel; To thee I lift my voice. With fervent heat Melt, all ye elements! And thou, high heav'n, Shrink like a fhrivell'd feroll. But think, O Lord! Think on the beft and nobleft of thy works; Think on thine own bright image; think on him Who dy'd to fave us from thy righteous wrath, And, midit the wreck of worlds, remember man!" [Geven.]

[U. U.]

156 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

"nations of the earth be bleffed.' And afterwards it was renewed and confirmed to Jacob; firft, in Ifaac's bleffing of him, wherein he acted and fpoke by extraordinary and divine direction. In that bleffing the bleffings of the covenant of grace were eftablifhed with Jacob and his feed; [as Gen. xxvii. 29.] ' Let people ferve thee; and nations ' bow down to thee; be lord over thy brethren, and let ' thy mother's fons bow down to thee: Curfed be every ' one that curfeth thee, and bleffed be he that bleffeth ' thee.' And therefore Efau, in miffing of this bleffing, miffed of being bleffed as an heir of the benefits of the covenant of grace.

This covenant was again renewed and confirmed to Jacob at Bethel, by his vifion of the ladder that reached to heaven; which ladder was a fymbol of the way of falvation by Chrift. (D) For the frome that Jacob refted on was a type of Chrift, the ftone of Ifrael, which the fpiritual Ifrael or Jacob refts upon ; as is evident, becaufe this frone was, on this occasion, anointed, and was made use of as an altar. But we know that Chrift is the anointed of God, and is the only true altar. While Jacob was refting on this ftone, and faw this ladder, God appears to him as his covenant God, and renews the covenant of grace with him; [Gen. xxviii. 14.] ' And thy feed thall be as the " dust of the earth; and thou shalt spread abroad to the " weft, and to the eaft, and to the north, and to the fouth ; ' and in thee and in thy feed shall all the families of the « carth be bleffed.'

And

(D) Jacob's ladder TYPICAL.] This vision, in whatever particular point of view we confider it, was a most beautiful display of the communication opened between heaven and earth, through the medium of a Redeemer. Its extending from earth to heaven, points out a way of access to God for fallen man. The various iteps mark the progress of the divine life, and the walk of a believer, every flep of which approaches nearer heaven and glory. The angel's ascending and deteending thews the office of those ministering fpirits, in performing emballies of kindnels for us. And the Lord flanding above, and renewing his covenant, may teach us, that all its bleffings are beflowed in that means of communication, namely, through the mediation of the Son of God. [U.S.]

And Jacob had another remarkable confirmation of this covenant at Penuel, where he wrefiled with God, and prevailed; (E) where Chrift appeared to him in a human form; in the form of that nature which he was afterwards to receive into a perfonal union with his divine nature.

And God renewed his covenant with him again, after he was come out of Padan-aram, and was come up to Bethel, and the flone that he had refled on ; and where he had the vision of the ladder. [Gen. xxxv. 10. &c.]

Thus the covenant of grace was now often renewed, much oftener than it had been before. The light of the gofpel now began to thine much brighter, as the time drew nearer that Chrift thould come.

6. The next thing I would obferve, is God's remarkably preferving the family of which Chrift was to proceed from perifhing by famine, by the inftrumentality of Jofeph. (F) When there was a feven-years famine approaching, God was pleafed by a wonderful providence, to fend Jofeph into Egypt, there to provide for, and feed Jacob and his family, and to keep the holy feed alive, which otherwife would have perifhed. Jofeph was fent into Egypt

(E) Jacob WRESTLED with the angel.] "Jacob was now paffing with his whole family into the land of Canaan, to take feizure of it, by virtue of the promife on the behalf of his pofterity. At the very entrance of it, he is met by his greateft adverfary, with whom he had a fevere conteft about the promife and the inheritance itfelf. This was his brother Efau, who, coming againft him with a power which he was no ways able to withftand, he feared that he would utterly deftroy both his perfon and pofterity. ... Wherefore to fettle Jacob's right, to preferve him with his title and intereft, he who was principally concerned in the whole matter, doth here appear unto him." [Dr. OWEN'S Exercitations on the Hebrews, vol. i. p. 118.] But this and the other extraordinary appearances of a divine perfon under the Old Teftament, will be collectively confidered under a future fection.

( $\mathbf{r}$ ) Joftph's hijlory remarkable.] Few lives in the Old Teftament hillory are for interefting as that of Jofeph; in which the most observable feature is its frequent, fudden, and important viciffitudes. And we may truly fay, his life was of as many colours as his ceat. In youth the dailing of his parents :-- but the envy of Egypt for that end, as he obferves, [Gen. 1. 20.] 'But ' as for you, ye thought evil againft me; but God meant ' it unto good to five much people alive.' How often had this holy root, that had the future branch of righteoufnefs, the glorious Redeemer, in it, been in danger of being deftroyed ! But God wonderfully preferved it.

This falvation of the houfe of Ifrael by the hand of Joseph, was upon some accounts very much a refemblance of his brethren. Sold into Egypt for a flave; made fleward of his mafter's houfe; thrown into prifon on a falfe but criminal accufation; raifed from a prifon to a throne; honoured as the father even of Pharaoh, the faviour of Egypt, and the favourite of heaven; he faves the lives and raifes the fortunes of his father, and of thofe very brethren who hated and fold him; and clofes his life with honour, happinefs, and tranquility.

But among the many incidents of his life, no one is more remarkable or inftructive than that of his temptation to inchaftity, and the manner in which he relifted it. On this our author has elfewhere the following obfervations :

"We may obferve, how great the temptation was, that he was under. It is to be confidered, Jofeph was now in his youth; a feafon of life, when perfons are most liable to be overcome by temptations of this nature. And he was in a flate of unexpected profperity in Potiphar's houfe; which has a tendency to lift perfons up, effectially young ones, whereby commonly they more eafily fall before temptations.

" And then the fuperiority of the perfon that laid the temptation before him, rendered it much the greater. She was his miftrefs, and he a fervant under her. And the manner of her tempting him. She did not only carry herfelf fo to Jofeph, as to give him caufe to fufpect that he might be admitted to fuch criminal converse with her, that yet might be accompanied with fome apprchenfion, that poflibly he might be miftaken, and fo deter him from adventuring on fuch a propofal; but fhe directly propofed it to him; plainly manifesting her disposition to it. . . . Yea, she appeared greatly engaged in the matter. And there was not only her defire manifelted to entice him, but her authority over him to enforce the temptation. She was his nuffrefs, and he might well imagine, that if he utterly refufed a compliance, he flould incur her difpleafure ; and fhe, being his mafter's wife, had power to do much to his difadvantage, and to render his circumftances more uncomfortable in the family. And the temptation was the greater, in that the did not only tempt him once, but frequently, day by day, [Gen. xxxix. 10.] And at last became more violent with blance of the falvation of Chrift. The children of Ifrael were faved by Jofeph their kinfman and brother, from with him. She caught him by his garment, faying, 'Lie with me :' as in the verfe of the text. [Gen. xxxix. 12.]

"His behaviour was very remarkable under thefe temptations. He complied in no degree, either to the grofs act fhe propofed, or any thing tending towards it, or that fhould in a leffer degree be gratifying to her wicked inclination. And he perfifted refolute and unfhaken under her continual folicitations. "And it came to ' pafs as the fpake to Jofeph day by day, that he hearkened not ' unto her, to lie by her, or to be with her.' He, to his utmoft, avoided fo much as being where the was. And the motives and principles from which he acted, manifeited by his reply to her folicitations, are remarkable.

"He first fets before her, how injuriously he should act against his mafter, if he should comply with her proposal: Behold my matter—hath committed all that he hath in my hand: there is none greater in this house than I; neither hath he kept back any thing from me, but thee, because thou art his wife.' But he then proceeded to inform her of that, which above all things, deterred him from a compliance, viz. that it would be great wickedness, and fin against God.—' How shall I do this, and fin ' against God!' He would not do any such thing, as he would not injure his mafter; but that which influenced more than all on this occasion, was the fear of finning against God.

"In the text we have an account of his behaviour under the last and greatest temptation that he had from her. This temptation was great, as we are told it was at a time when there was no body in the house, but he and his mistrefs, [ver. 11.] there was an opportunity to commit the fact with the greatest fecrecy. And at this time it feems that she was more violent than ever before. She ' caught him by the garment'—she laid hold on him, as though the were resolute to attain her purpose of him.

"Under these circumftances he not only refused her, but fied from her, as he would have done from one that was going to affaffinate or murder him; he escaped, as for his life. He not only would not be guilty of such a fact, but neither would he by any means be in the house with her, where he should be in the way of her temptation.

"This behaviour of Jofeph is doubtlefs recorded for the inflruction of all. Therefore from the words I shall observe this doctrine—' It is our duty, not only to avoid these things that are ' themselves sinful, but also, as far as may be, those things that ' lead and expose to sin.'

"Thus did Jofeph : he not only refufed actually to commit uncleannefs with his millrefs, who inticed him; but refufed . . . to lie by her, or be with her. And in the text we are told, 'he from perifhing by famine; as he that faves the fouls of the fpiritual Ifrael from fpiritual famine is their near kinfman, and one that is not afhamed to call them brethren. Joseph was a brother, that they had hated, and fold, and as it were killed; for they had defigned to kill him: So Chrift is one that we naturally hate, and by our wicked lives, have fold for the vain things of the world, and that we have flain by our fins. Jofeph was first in a state of humiliation; he was a fervant, as Christ appeared in the form of a fervant; and then was caft into a dungeon, as Chrift defcended into the grave; and then when he rofe out of the dungeon, he was in a flate of great exaltation, at the kings right hand as his deputy, to reign over all his kingdom, to provide food, to preferve life; as Chrift was exalted at God's right hand to be a prince and faviour to his brethren, and received gifts for men, even for the rebellious, and them that hated and had fold him.

7. After this there was a prophecy given forth of Chrift, on fome accounts, more particular than ever any had been before, even that which was in Jacob's bleffing his fon Judah, this was more particular in fhewing of whofe pofterity he was to be. When God called Abraham, it was revealed that he was to be of Abraham's pofterity. Before we have no account of any revelation concerning Chrift's pedigree confined to narrower limits than the pofterity of Noah: after this it was confined to limits limits still more narrow; for though Abraham had many fons, yet it was to be revealed that Chrift was to be of Ifaac's pofterity. And then it was limited more ftill: for when Ifaac had two fons, it was revealed that Chrift was to be of Ifrael's posterity. And now, though Ifrael had twelve fons, yet it is revealed that Chrift was to be of Judah's pofterity: Chrift is ' the lion of the tribe of Judah.' Refpect is chiefly had to his great acts, when it is faid, [Gen. xlix. 8, 9.] 'Judah, thou art he whom thy brethren 'fhall praife; thine hand fhall be in the neck of thine enemies; thy father's children thall bow down before ' thee. Judah is a lion's whelp; from the prey, my fon. ' thou art gone up: he flooped down, he couclied as a lion, ' and as an old lion; who shall roufe him up?' And then this prediction is more particularly concerning the time of Chrift's coming, [verfe 10.] . The fceptre shall not de-' part from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, ' until Shiloh come ; and unto him thall the gathering of ' the people be.' The prophecy here, of the calling of the Gentiles confequent on Chrift's coming, feems to be more plain than had yet been, in the expression, ' to him shall the gathering of the people be.' (G)

<sup>6</sup> fied and got him out;' would by no means be in her company. Though it was no fin in itfelf, for Jofeph to be in the house where his miltrefs was; but under these circumitances it would expose him to fin. Joseph was sensible he had naturally a corrupt heart, that tended to betray him to fin; and therefore he would by no means be in the way of temptation; but with haste he fled, he ran from the dangerous place. Inasmuch as he was exposed to fin in that house where he was, he fled out of it with as much haste as if the house had been all a light of fire; or full of enemies, who flood ready with drawn fwords to flab him to the very heart. When she took him by the garment, he left his garment in her hands: he had rather lose his garment than flay a moment where he was in such danger of losing his chaftity." [Pref. Edwards's Posth. Serm. p. 150, &c.]

Thus

(G) Jacob's prophecy of SHILOH.] "This remarkable paffage (fays Mr. TOPLADY) is a link of that grand chain of prophecy, which was delivered by the patriarch Jacob, on his dying bed. Such are the faithfulnefs and the condefcending grace of God, that he frequently brightens the laft hours of his people, with the richeft difplays of his power and prefence: nor does any thing, fhort of heaven itfelf, afford a nobler fight, than that of a believer ftanding on the verge of eternity, filled with the faith which cafts out fear, happy in the affured poffeffion of grace, and longing for the completion of that grace in glory.

"For we find him [chap. xlviii. 21.] fpeaking of his own ap-proaching death, with as much eafe and complacency, as if he was only fetting out on a journey of pleafure : ' Ifrael faid unto ' Jofeph, Behold, I die.' He perceived the fymptoms of advanc-ing diffolution : and the profpect conduced, not to alarm his fears, not to rivet him clofer to the world; but operated like the fhining of the fun, or the breathings of zephyr, on a flower. It expanded his hope ; enlarged his defire for heaven ; and dif-V 2 fuled fufed the fragrance of his faith, on all within the fphere of his conversation.

Thus you fee how that gofpel-light which dawned immediately after the fall of man, gradually increafed.

8. The

"As greatly as this eminent faint longed to be diffolved, and to be with Chrift; he would not die, until he had taken a folemn leave of his family, by bleffing them in the name of the Lord, and by predicting the fate of their pofterities. At prefent, I fhall only confider his laft addrefs to Judah, his fourth fon. 'Judah, thou art 'he, whom thy brethren fhall praife:' i. c. thy tribe fhall be the moft confpicuous and diftinguifhed, on various accounts. In that portion of Canaan, which fhall fall to thy defcendants and to thofe of Benjamin, the city of Jerufalem fhall be built, and the temple of God fhall fland. But chiefly fhalt thou be celebrated, as the progenitor of that fpotlefs mother, from whom the Son of God fhall derive his inferior nature: and, within the near neighbourhood of thy territory fhall he fuffer and expire, for the falvation of his people.

"But the molt valuable part of the prophecy is that which relates to the incarnation of Jefus Chrift: 'The fceptre thall not 'depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh came; and to him thall the gathering of the people be.'

" Of all regal ornaments, the fceptre is faid to be the moft ancient. And, probably, its origin was extremely fimple. It feems to have taken its rife from the crook, wielded, in earlieft times, by the harmlefs hand of a fhepherd. The Greek word  $[\Sigma en \pi^2]_{evo}$ ] (from whence the Latin fceptrum, and the Englifh fceptre,) properly denotes a ftaff, or wand, of fufficient length for a perfon to lean upon : and the Hebrew  $[\Box \Box \Box \Box']$  is in ftrictnefs a ftaff made of a fhoot or ftrait bough of a tree. Such as were the flaves of the primitive fhepherds and herdfmen.

"By that fceptre, which, for a given time, was not to depart from Judah, is undoubtedly meant, the administration of temporal power. Hence the Septuagint render the passage, A supreme governor shall not fail out of Judah; . . . till the Messiah's advent. The words, sceptre, and lawgiver, are here explicatory of each other; and mutually denote, a feries of native governors, who should rule the Jewish nation according to its own law. And the fense of the whole is, that Judah should continue a distinct tribe by itself; and that its civil jurifdiction should, under fome form or other, and with a greater or less degree of authority, remain in Jewish hands, till the incarnation of God the Son. . . .

"On this illuftrious prophecy, uttered almost eighteen hundred years before the birth of Christ, prophene history may be confidered as the best commentary. We there find, that the fceptre did (not actually depart, but) begin to depart from Judah, or yerge towards a departure, within little more than half a century prior 8. The work of redemption was carried on in this period, in God's wonderfully preferving the children of Ifrael prior to our Lord's nativity, when Jerufalem was befieged and taken by Pompey; and Ariftobulus II. then king of Judea, was fent prifoner to Rome.

"As the manifestation of God in human flesh drew nearer, the fymptoms of the departing fceptre grew still more visible. The fucceffive expeditions of Gabinius, of Crassus, and of Casilius, against this devoted people, contributed to prepare the way for the fulfilment of Jacob's prediction; and, in fact, proclaimed, that Shiloh would foon appear.

"The fceptre, however, was not, hitherto, departed from Judah: their civil power and independency, though checked, were not extinguished. They were still governed by magisfrates of their own; and were even treated, on various occasions, not as dependents, but as friends and allies of the Roman state.

"A few years lower, when Herod (flatteringly furnamed, the great,) a native of Edom, was appointed Tetrarch, and (foon after King) of Judea, chiefly by his intereft with Mark Antony; the prophecy drew nearer to its accomplifhment. But though the throne was now, for the first time, filled by a foreigner; ftill, that foreigner was a profeffor of Judaifm. Herod revered, or at leaft affected to revere, the Mofaic inflitutions; and even rebuilt [or rather repaired] the temple, at a vaft expence. The fut-ordinate magiftracy, alfo, confisted of Jews: as did the fanhedrim, which was their higheft court of judicature. The fceptre, therefore, though departing faft, was not entirely gone from Judah, cre Shiloh came. Chrift was born towards the clofe of this Herod's reign; i.e. while the political and ecclefiaftical conflitution of Judea were fubfifting. Herod, indeed, was in fome fenfe tributary to the Roman empire: but the Jews themfelves were, for the moft part, in full poffeffion of their civil and religious rights.

"When our bleffed Saviour was about twelve years of age, the feeptre totally departed from Judah. For, Herod (who died while our Lord was yet an infant) was fucceeded by his fon Archelaüs; which Archelaüs, after reigning about ten years, was depofed and banifhed by the emperor Auguftus. From thenceforward, the tribe of Judah, which had fo long been diftinguifhed by its dignity and pre-eminence, was reduced to a Roman province, and became an appendage to the empire. Quirinius, prefect of Syria, was commiffioned to take poffeffion of the country in the emperor's name; and Coponius, a Roman knight, was fent to prefide over it, as lieutenant governor.

"Thus did the feeptre, at length, depart from Judah, and a lawgiver from between his feet. Auguftus drove the nail to the head; and Titus clenched it, within forty years after our Lord's «rucifixion; when the city and temple were utterly deflroyed, and those Ifrael in Egypt, when the power of Egypt was engaged utterly to deftroy them. They feemed to be wholly in the thofe of the Jews, who efcaped immediate death, were fold for flaves into every part of the known world.

" It is certain, therefore, that the promifed Shiloh is come : and Jefus Chrift the rightcous, in whofe childhood the fceptre departed, is both the Son of the moft high God, and likewife the true Mefliah, of whom Mofes in the law, and the prophets, did write.

"Shiloh, may be rendered the Son; alfo the Saviour; likewife, the peaceable, and the profperous one. The Septuagint tranflates, or rather paraphrafes it, by, 'He for whom [all] things are laid up, or kept in flore.' In his adorable perfon, and molt wonderful offices and transactions, Jefus exhaufts every one of those fignifications. He is, the Son of God; the only Saviour, the peace-maker between God and men. He profpered and prevailed, to the uttermost, in the whole and in every branch of his mediatorial undertaking. And, for him, all things are referved.

"To him fhall the gathering of the people be. It is plain, from this claufe of the text before us, that redemption by Chrift is not a 1 andom and precarious thing.... He was born, and fhed his blood, ' for a peculiar people, whom his own fanctifying grace ' was to make zealons of good works;' [Tit. ii. 14.] and that he might ' gather together into one glorified company, all the chil-' dren of God that were feattered abroad.' [John xi. 52.] [Gofpel Mag. Dec. 1776.]

The latter might be rendered, with a flight variation, ' until ' Shiloh come, and the people be gathered unto him,' which fill more exactly corresponded with the event; for great multitudes, both of Jews and Gentiles, were actually gathered to Chrift, before the fceptre totally departed, by the defluction of the Jewish flate; and this indeed our Lord himfelf predicted. [Matt. xxiv. 14.]

But it fhould not be concealed, that a learned Jew of the prefent age (Mr. LEV1) has offered another translation of part of this verfe, which, if admitted, would overturn the whole of this expofition, and turn the tables on us completely: 'The feeptre fhall 'not depart from Judah, nor the lawgiver from between his feet 'for ever, becaufe Shiloh [i.e. Meffiah] fhall come,'  $\mathfrak{Se}$ . And in fupport of this translation he add<sup>o</sup>, ''I fhall juit mention, that according to the common translation, which all the Christian writers feem to have adopted, the adverb, becaufe, flands for a cypher in the text, as no word is given for it; and which, I think, is a demonftration of the truth of my exposition, and the fality of the common translation; whether defignedly or not, is not now before me.'' But fuppofe for a moment that his interpretation were the Christian one, and favourable to our caufe, would he not have faid, ' What the hands of the Egyptians; they were their fervants, and were fubject to the power of Pharaoh, who fet himfelf to weaken them by hard bondage. And when he faw that did not do, he fet himfelf to extirpate the race of them, by commanding that every male child fhould be drowned. But after all that Pharaoh could do, God wonderfully preferved them; and not only fo, but increafed them exceedingly; fo that inftead of being extirpated, they greatly multiplied.

9. Here is to be obferved, not only the prefervation of the nation, but God's wonderfully preferving and upholding his invifible church in that nation, when in danger of being overwhelmed in the idolatry of Egypt. The children of Ifrael being long among the Egyptians, and being fervants

"What a gross combination is here of ignorance, prevarication, and fallhood?" At least he might have faid fo with more appearance of reason than the confure he has above infinuated; for in printing the Hebrew text he has artfully divided the words, or rather word, in dispute, not only by omitting the makkaph [a kind of hyphen] but by inferting feveral lines of English between. But to this evaluon we reply,

1. Though the adverb  $[\neg y]$  fonctimes fignifies for ever, yet it doth not, when joined with the particle  $[\neg y]$  as in the text. Compare Gen. xxvi. 13.—xli. 49 — 2 Sam. xxiii. 10.—2 Chron. xxvi. 15. All which are omitted in Levi's dictionary. [See Taylor's Concordance in  $\neg y$  p. 65.] Some, indeed, (as R. Bechari) pretend that the accent jethib feparates the words, and makes a paufe upon the former; "But this they can give no inflance of, efpecially when it hath athnac immediately preceding it as in this place." [OWEN's Exercit. on the Heb. vol. i. p. 149. and Poli Syn. in loc. To which may be added, that the adverb does not fignify for ever, abfolutely put without fome antecedent nonn or particle. [Gill in loc.]

2. We have on our fide the three Targums and the molt ancient and learned rabbies. So the Chaldee paraphrafe faith, 'He that ' hath dominion fhall not be taken away ..... UNTIL Meffiah ' come.' The Jerufalem Targum, 'Kings fhall not ceafe UNTIL ' Meffiah come.' The other Targum, D. Kimchi, Aben Ezia, and R. Sol. Jarchi to the fame effect. [See the authorities referred to in the authors above cited; alfo Jinfw. in loc.]

3. If we mult give two words infread of one in the English trauflation, (which is a childish notion) the most exact will be UNTIL WHEN [fo the LXX mag and ] Shiloh shall come.

fervants under them, and fo not having the advantage of keeping God's ordinances among themfelves, or maintaining any public worfhip or inftruction, whereby the true religion might be upheld; and there being now no written word of God, they, by degrees, in a great meafure loft the true religion, and borrowed the idolatry of Egypt; and the greater part of the people fell away to the worfhip of their gods. [See Ezek. xx. 6, 8.---xxiii. 8.]

This now was the third time that God's church was almost fwallowed up and carried away with the wickednefs of the world; once before the flood; a fecond time before the calling of Abraham; and now in Egypt. But yet God did not fuffer his church to be quite overwhelmed; he still faved it, like the ark in the flood, and as he faved Mofes in the midft of the waters, in an ark of bulrufhes, where he was in the utmost danger of being fwallowed up. The true religion was still kept up with fome; and God had still a people among them, even in this miferable, corrupt, and dark time. The parents of Mofes were true fervants of God, [Heb. xi. 23.] ' By faith Mofes, when he ' was born, was hid three months of his parents, becaufe ' they faw that he was a proper child, and they were not ' afraid of the king's commandment.'

I have now gone through the third part of the Old Teftament period ; and have flown how the work of redemption was carried on from the calling of Abraham to Mofes ; in which we have feen many great things done towards this work, and a great advancement of this building, beyond what had been before.

§ IV. From Moses to DAVID.

1 PROCEED to the fourth period, which reaches from Mofes to David.--- To flow how the work of redemption was carried on through this alfo.

The first thing that offers itself to be confidered is the redemption of the church of God out of Egypt; the most remark-remarkable of all the Old Teftament deliverances, and that which was the greatest pledge and type of the future redemption of Chrift; and is much more infifted on in fcripture than any other. This was by Jefus Chrift, who appeared to Mofes in the bufh; fent him to redeem that people; as is evident, becaufe he is called the angel of the Lord; [Exod. iii. 2, 3.] The bufh reprefented the human nature of Chrift, who is called the branch. This bufh grew on mount Sinai or Horeb, (H) which laft name fignifies a dry place, as the human nature of Chrift was a 'root out of dry ground.' The bufh burning with fire represented the fufferings of Chrift, in the fire of God's wrath, (1) It burned, and was not confumed; fo Chrift, though he fulfered extremely, yet perified not; but overcame at last, and role from his fufferings. Becaufe this great myftery of the incarnation and fufferings of Chrift was here reprefented, therefore Moles fays, 'I ' will turn afide, and behold this great fight.' A great fight he might well call it, when there was reprefented, God manifest in the fiesh, suffering a dreadful death, and rifing from the dead.

It was this glorious perfon that redeemed Ifrael out of Egypt from under the hand of Pharaoh; as afterward, by his death and fufferings, he redeemed his elect from Satan, Z the

(H) Horeb or Sinai.] "Horeb is a mountain in Arabia Petræa, at fo fmall a diftance from mount Sinai, that they feem to be no more than two tops belonging to the fame mountain. Sinai lies to the eaft, and Horeb to the weft; but we find them frequently in foripture ufed promifcuoufly." [STACKHOUSE's Hint. of the Bible, vol. I. b. iii. chap. 5. note.]

(1) The burning bufb typified Chrift's SUFFERINGS.] That fomething typical was intended by this vision, we have no doubt; but rather apprehend that the then flate of the Jewish church was the object intended; fo the Heb. doctors, "God dwelt" (fays R. ELIEZER) "in the bramble bush, and the bramble bush was [i. e. fignified] affliction and anguish, and all thorns and briars. And why dwelt he in the middle of affliction and anguish? but because he faw Ifrael in great affliction, he also dwelt with them in the middle of afflictions he was afflicted." [See Ainfroorth in loc.] the fpiritual Pharaoh.---Thofe, he delivered them from hard fervice and cruel drudgery; thefe, from the cruel flavery of fin and Satan.---Thofe he redeemed from the iron furnace; thefe from everlafting burnings.---Thofe he redeemed with a firong hand and out-firetched arm, and great and terrible judgments on their enemies; thefe with mighty grace triumphing over principalities, and powers, and executing terrible judgments on their enemies.---Thofe he faved when others were deftroyed, by the fprinkling of the blood of the pafchal lamb; thefe from death and hell by the fprinkling of his own blood. Thofe he brought forth forely againft the will of the Egyptians, when they could not bear to let them go; thefe he refcues out of the hands of the devil, when his proud heart cannot bear to be overcome.

In that redemption, Chrift did not only deliver the people from the Egyptians, but he redeemed them from the devils, their gods; for before, they had been in a flate of fervitude to the gods of Egypt, as well as to the Egyptians. And Chrift, the feed of the woman, did now, in a very remarkable manner, fulfil the curfe on the ferpent, in bruifing his head: [Exod. xii. 12.] ' For " I will pass through the land of Egypt this night, and · will finite all the firft-born in the land of Egypt, · both man and beaft, and against all the gods of Egypt · will I execute judgment.' Hell was as much, and more, engaged in that affair, than Egypt was. The pride and cruelty of Satan, that old ferpent, was more concerned in it than Pharaoh's. He did his worft against the people, and to his utmost opposed their redemption. But it is faid that when God redeemed his people out of Egypt, he broke the heads of the dragons in the waters, and broke the head of leviathan in pieces, and gave him to be meat for the people inhabiting the wildernefs, [Pfal. lxxiv. 12---14.] God forced their enemies to let them go, that they might ferve him; as alfo Zacharias observes with respect to the church under the gospel. [Luke i. 74, 75.]

The people of Ifrael went out with an high hand, and Chrift went before them in a pillar of cloud and fire. (K) There was a glorious triumph over earth and hell in that deliverance. And when Pharaoh and his hoft, and Satan by them, purfued the people, Chrift overthrew them in the Red Sea; ' the Lord triumphed glorioufly; the horfe ' and his rider he caft into the fea,' and there they flept their last fleep, and never followed the children of Ifrael any more; as all Chrift's enemies are overthrown in his blood, Z 2 which ( $\kappa$ ) The pillar of cloud and fire.] There is no doubt but the grand defign of this phanomenon was to be a guide to the camp of Ifrael in their journies both by night and day; it was alfo a fhade from the burning fun-beams in the defert they were to pafs : and the vehicle of the divine prefence the Shechinah from which oracles were delivered. A fancy, but moderately lively, will recollect a multitude of objects of which, if this might be typical, Chrift himfelf, the holy fcriptures, but above all the mylleries of divine Providence, are therein beautifully reprefented. Was it alternately luminous and opaque? fo are the providences of God, at out time bright and promifing; at another dark and inferutable. Was it dark to the purfuing Egyptians while it illumined the flecing Ifraelites? So often has the fame event that has brought falvation and glory to God's people, been confusion and destruction to their enemies. Was this cloud the guide of Ifrael through all their pilgrimage in the defert? Thus doth God lead his people through all the viciffitudes of this mortal life, and every providence, whether light or dark, whether profperous or adverfe, will infallibly forward his people to the heavenly Canaan. But above all be it re-membered that God was in the cloud; yes, believer, and in thy every trial, as well as comfort, may God be found. He inhabits and directs all the clouds that attend this way; and though, like Ifrael, ye may be baptifed in the cloud or in the fea, ye shall not be overwhelmed.

"Ye fearful faints fresh courage take;

The clouds ye fo much dread,

Are big with mercy, and shall break

[COOPER.]

In bleffings on your heads." Some learned men have conjectured that this appearance was not altogether new; but that the fame Shechinah had guided Abraham [and doubtlefs then, others,] in his travels to the promifed land, and had directed him to Mount Moriah; that this appearance fatisfied Ifaac, as well as Abraham, of the divine will; and that therefrom, the angel of the covenant who inhabited it, called to Abraham. This is certainly no more than a conjecture, but it is a conjecture that will account for many difficulties, and feems no way inconfiltent with revelation. [See Biblioth. Biblica, vol. i.]

which by its abundant fufficiency, and the greatnefs of the fufferings with which it was fhed, may well be reprefented by a fea. The Red Sea might reprefent Christ's blood, as is evident, becaufe the apostle compares the children of Ifrael's passage through it, to baptifun, [1 Cor. x. 1, 2.] and we know that the water of baptism reprefents the blood of Christ.

Thus Chrift, the angel of God's prefence, in his love and in his pity, redeemed his people, and carried them in the days of old as on eagle's wings, fo that none of their proud and malicious enemies could touch them.

This was another new thing that God did towards this great work of redemption. God never had done any thing like it before. [Deut. iv. 32---34.] This was the greateft advancement of the work of redemption, that had been begun and carried on from the fall of man; a great ftep taken in divine providence towards a preparation for Chrift's coming into the world, and working out his great and eternal redemption : for this was the people of whom Chrift was to come. And now we may fee how that plant flourished that God had planted in Abraham. Though the family of which Chrift was to come, had been in a degree feparated from the reft of the world before, in the calling of Abraham, yet that feparation appeared not to be fufficient. For though by that they were kept as ftrangers and fojourners, and from being united with other people in the fame political focieties; yet they remained mixed among them, by which means, as it had proved, they were in danger of wholly lofing the true religion, and of being over-run with the idolatry of their neighbours. God now, therefore, by his redemption, feparated them as a nation from all other nations, to fubfift by themfelves in their own political and ecclefiaftical ftate, without having any concern with the heathen nations, that they might to be kept feparate till Chrift should come; and so that the church of Christ might be upheld, and might keep the oracles of God, till that time; that in them might be exhibited those types and prophecies of Chrift, and thefe hiftories, and other divine inftruc~ inftructions, that were neceffary to prepare the way for Chrift's coming.

2. As this people were feparated to be God's peculiar people, fo all other people upon the face of the whole earth were wholly rejected and given over to heathenifm. This, fo far as the providence of God was concerned in it, belongs to the great affair we are now upon, and was one thing that God ordered in his providence to prepare the way for Chrift's coming, and the great falvation he was to accomplish : it was to prepare the way for the more glorious and fignal victory and triumph of Chrift's power and grace over the wicked and miferable world, and that Chrift's falvation of the world of mankind might become the more fenfible. This is the account the feripture itfelf gives us of the matter. [Rom. xi. 30---32.] The apoftle there fpeaking to the Gentiles that had formerly been heathens, fays, ' As ye in times past have not believed "God, yet have now obtained mercy through their un-' belief; even fo have thefe alfo now not believed, that ' through your mercy they may alfo obtain mercy. For 6 God hath concluded them all in unbelief that he might " have mercy upon all." i. e. It was the will of God, that the whole world, Jews and Gentiles, should be concluded in vitible and profested unbelief, that fo God's mercy and Chrift's falvation towards them all might be visible and fenfible. For the apoftle is not speaking only of that unbelief which is natural to all God's profeffing people as well as others, but of that which is apparent and visible; fuch as the Jews fell into, when they openly rejected Chrift. The apostle observes, how that first the Gentile nations were included in a professed unbelief and open opposition to the true religion, before Chrift came, to prepare the way for the calling of the Gentiles, which was foon after. that God's mercy might be the more confpicuous to them ; and that the Jews were rejected from the vifible church, to prepare the way for the calling of the Jews, which shall be in the latter days: fo that it may be feen of all nations, Jews and Gentiles, that they are evidently redeemed by Chrift, from their being visibly aliens from the

172 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

the commonwealth of Ifrael, without hope, and without God in the world.

We cannot with certainty precifely determine at what time the apostafy of the Gentile nations became universal. It was a gradual thing, as we have already observed. It was general in Abraham's time, but not universal : for then we find Melchizedec, one of the kings of Canaan, was prieft of the most high God. [See note (Y) p. 138.] And after this the true religion was kept up for a while among fome of the reft of Abraham's posterity, befides the family of Jacob and also in some of the posterity of Nahor, of which we have inftances in Job, his three friends, and Elihu. The land of Uz, where Job lived, was a land posseffed by the posterity of Uz, or Huz the ion of Nahor, Abraham's brother, of whom we read, [Gen. xxii. 21.] Bildad the Shuhite was of the offspring of Shuah, Abraham's fon by Keturah, [Gen. xxv. 1, 2.] and Elihu the Buzite, was of Buz, the fon of Nahor, the brother of Abraham. So the true religion lasted among fome other people, besides the Ifraelites, fome time after Abraham, but not long: and it is probable that the time of their rejection, and being given up to idolatry, was about the time when God feparated the children of Ifrael from Egypt to ferve him; for they are often put in mind on that occasion, that God had now feparated them to be his peculiar people; or to be diftinguithed from all other people upon earth, to be his people alone; to be his portion, when others were rejec-This feems to imply that God now chofe them in ted. fuch a manner, that his visible choice of them was accompanied with a vifible rejection of all other nations in the world; that God came, and took up his refidence with them, as it were, forfaking all other nations.

And as the first calling of the Gentiles after Christ came, was accompanied with a rejection of the Jews; fo the first calling of the Jews to be God's people, when they were called out of Egypt, was accompanied with a rejection of the Gentiles.

Thus all the nations throughout the whole world, cxcept the Ifraelites, and those that embodied themselves with them, them, were left to idolatry; and fo continued a great many ages, even from this time till Chrift came, which was about fifteen hundred years. They were concluded fo long a time in unbelief, that they might be a thorough proof of the neceffity of a faviour; that it might evidently appear by fo long a trial, that mankind were utterly infufficient to deliver themfelves from that grofs darknefs and mifery, and fubjection to the devil, that they had fallen under; that it might appear that all the wifdom of the philosophers, and the fages that the heathen had among them, could not deliver them from their darkness, for the greater glory to Jefus Chrift, who when he came, enlightened and delivered them by his glorious gospel. Herein the wonderful wifdom of God appeared, in thus preparing the way for Chrift's redemption. This the fcripture teaches us, [as in I Cor. i. 21 ] ' For after that, in the wildom of God, ' the world by wifdom knew not God, it pleafed God " by the foolifhnefs of preaching to fave them that be-' lieve.'

3. The next thing done towards the work of redemption is God's giving the moral law in fo awful a manner at mount Sinai. This was another new thing that God did, a new flep taken in this great affair. [Deut. iv. 33.] ' Did ever a people hear the voice of God fpeaking out ' of the midth of fire, as thou haft heard, and live ?' And it was a great thing, whether we confider it as a new exhibition of the covenant of works, or given as a rule of life.

The covenant of works was here exhibited to be as a fchoolmafter to lead to Chrift, not only for the ufe of that nation in the ages of the Old Teftament, but for the ufe of God's church throughout all ages of the world, as an inftrument that the great Redeemer makes ufe of to convince men of their fin and mifery, and helplefs ftate, and of God's awful and tremendous majefty and juffice as a lawgiver, and to make men fentible of the neceffity of Chrift as a faviour. The work of redemption, in its faving effect on men's fouls, in all the progrefs of it, is not carried on without the ufe of this law.

It

174 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

It was given in an awful manner, with a terrible voice, fo exceedingly loud, that all the people which were in the camp trembled; and Mofes himfelf, though fo intimate a friend of God, yet faid, 'I exceedingly fear and quake;' [Heb. xii. 21.] the voice being accompanied with thunders and lightnings, the mountain burning with fire and the earth itfelf fhaking and trembling; (L) to make all fenfible how great that authority, power, and juffice was, that flood engaged to exact the fulfilment of this law, and how terrible his wrath will be againft every breaker of it; that men, being fenfible of thefe things, might have a thorough trial of themfelves; prove their own hearts, know how impoffible it is for them to have falvation by the

(L) The law accompanied with THUNDERS.]

" Thus while the labouring angel fwell'd the found, And rent the fkies, and fhook the ground,

Up rofe th' Almighty ; round his fapphire feat Adoring thrones in order fell ;

The leffer powers at diftance dwell,

And caft their glories down fucceffive at his feet : Gabriel the great prepares his way,

Lift up your heads, eternal doors,' he cries;
 Th' eternal doors his word obey,

Open and fhoot celeftial day

Upon the lower skies.

Heav'n's mighty pillars bow'd their head, -As their Creator bid,

And down Jehovah rode from the fuperior fphere, A thoufand guards before, and myriads in the rear.

His chariot was a pitchy cloud, The wheels befet with burning gems; The winds in harnefs with the flames

Flew o'er th' ethereal road : Down thro' his magazines he paft Of hail, and ice, and fleecy fnow, Swift roll'd the triumph, and as faft

Did hail, and ice, in melted rivers flow.

The day was mingled with the night, His feet on folid darknefs trod,

His radiant eyes proclaim'd the God,

And fcatter'd dreadful light;

He breath'd, and fulphur ran, a fiery ftream : He fpoke, and (tho' with unknown fpeed he came) Chid the flow tempest, and the lagging flame."

[WATTS' Hore Lyr. p. 35.]

175

the works of the law, and fee the abfolute necessity they flood in of a mediator.

If we regard this law not as the covenant of works, but as a rule of life; fo it is made use of by the Redeemer, from that time to the end of the world, as a directory to his people, to shew them the way in which they must walk, if they would go to heaven: for a way of fucere and universal obedience to this law is the narrow way that leads to life. (M)

4. The next thing observable in this period, was God's giving the typical law, in which I fuppose to be included most of those precepts which were given by Moses, that did not properly belong to the moral: not only those laws that are commonly called ceremonial, which are the laws preferibing the ceremonies and circumstances of the Jewith worship, and their ecclessifical flate; but also many, if not all those divine laws that were political, and for regulating the Jewish commonwealth, commonly called judicial; these were many of them typical. The giving this typical law was another great thing that God did in this period, tending to build up this glorious flructure of redemption that he had been carrying on from the beginning of the world. There A a had

(M) The law not a COVENANT of WORKS.] "The decalogue or ten commandments uttered by the voice of God himfelf, is an abstract of that original law under which man was created, but published in a prohibitory form, the Israelites, like the reft of mankind, being depraved by fin, and ftrongly inclined to the commiffion of every evil. This law could not be defigned as a cove-nant, by obedience to which man fhould be juftified, for long before this the gofpel had been preached to Abraham, [Gal. iii. 8.] ' but the law entered that fin might abound,' [Rom. v. 20.] that the extent, evil, and the defert of fin might be known; for it reaches to the moft hidden thoughts of the heart, requires abfolute and perpetual obedience, and denounces a curfe upon all who continue not therein . . . . Believers of old were relieved from the moral law by the facrifices which pointed to Chrift; believers under the gofpel are relieved by a direct application of ' the blood of ' the covenant.' Both renounce any dependance on the moral law for justification, and both accept it as a rule of life, in the hands of a Mediator, and are enabled to yield a fincere, though not a perfect obedience." [VIGIL.]

had been many typical events of providence before, that reprefented Chrift and his redemption; and fome typical ordinances, as particularly those two of facrifices and circumcifion: but now, inflead of reprefenting the great Redeemer in a few inftitutions, God gives forth a law full of nothing elfe but various and innumerable typical reprefentations of good things to come, by which that nation were directed how, every year, month, and day, in their religious actions, and in their conduct of themfelves, in all that appertained to their ecclefiaftical and civil ftate, to fhow forth fomething of Chrift; one obfervance flowing one thing, exhibiting one doctrine, or one benefit, another, another: fo that the whole nation by this law was, as it were, conftituted in a typical flate. Thus the gofpel was abundantly held forth to that nation; fo that there is fcarce any doctrine of it, but is particularly taught and exhibited by fome obfervance of this law; though it was in thadows, and under a vail, as Mofes put a vail on his face when it fhone. (N)

To

(N) The solpel revealed in the TYPES.] We have already confidered feveral of the types, and fhall confider others as they occur. This note is intended to prove that the ancient Jews themfelves confidered them in the fame point of view.

1. It muft occur to every thinking perfon, that mere ceremonies could not of themfelves ever form any very acceptable fervices to that 'God who is a fpirit, and who loves to be worfhipped in fpirit ' and in truth;' and that, unlefs fomething farther was defigned, many parts of the Jewifh ritual muft appear very childifh, others very ridiculous, and fome very crucl. There feems nothing in the wearing of fringes or ringing of bells; in waters of purification or perfumes of incenfe; much lefs in the flaughtering of hundreds or thoufands of harmlefs animals; I fay, there feems nothing in thefe, in themfelves confidered, that appears worthy the appointment of a wife and holy God, or the obfervation of great and good men. Thefe reflections would naturally lead them to fufpect fomething typical muft be intended.

2. This idea would be confirmed by confidering the particular exactnefs required in thefe fervices; with the penalties inflicted on tranfgreffion. Upon any other hypothesis it would be difficult, if not impoffible to account for fo many being flain for looking into the ark, afpiring to the priesthood, &c. or for Moses being fo fluctly To this typical law belong all the precepts that relate to building the tabernacle, which was fet up in the wildernefs, and all the form, circumftances, and utenfils of it.

5. About this time was given to the church the first written word of God for the regulation of the faith, worship, and practice of his church in all ages, which was increated from time to time till it was finished, and the canon of fcripture completed, by the apostle John. It is A a 2 not frictly charged to make 'all things according to the pattern exhi-'bited in the mount.' [Heb. viii. 5.]

3. We have already feen in fome inflances, as in Abraham's offering up his fon Ifaac, and long before, in the facrifice of Abel, that the Old Teftament faints really had fuch views; and other inflances will occur in the profecution of our fubject.

4. Agreeable to this idea we find the prophets commonly fpoke in figurative language, and accompanied it by typical and fymbolical actions; as we fee in Ifaiah [xx.] Jeremiah [xiii. 1-11.]Ezekiel [iii. 1-4.] and others. This mult encourage and confirm fuch a method of interpretation.

5. We Christians have the most unequivocal affertions of this in the New Testament. The law is called a 'fhadow of good things 'to come.' [Heb. x. 1.] And the whole Epistle to the Hebrews, and great part of that to the Galatians, is written to prove and illustrate this very point.

6. We are particularly told that the law was 'a fchoolmafter to 'lead unto,' to point out the neceffity, excellency, and fuitablenefs of 'Chrift,' [Gal. iii. 24.] And that the Jewifh church under this difpenfation, is to be confidered as a minor under tutors and governors. [Gal. iv. 2.] We have a method of teaching our children their letters by the ufe of certain pictures affixed to them, the more flrongly to imprefs them on their minds : [as A, an Apple, B, a Book, &c. So probably the old Hebrews N an Ox,  $\neg$  a Houfe, &c. See Sharp's Origin of Languages.] A method fomewhat fimilar to this the Lord feems to have taken with his ancient people. Now, as he would not be thought a wife inflructor who taught his hittle pupils the pictures without the letters, how fhall we juffify the wifdom of God in teaching the Jews thefe ceremonies, without their meaning and defign ?

7. Some even of the modern Jews have dropt hints of fuch a defign, particularly Rab. Alena, hem on the pafehal lamb, though they acknowledge their ignorance of the myflery, "until the fpirit from above fhall be poured out upon them." [Ainfw. in Lev. i. 2.]

The typical import of the tabernacle and its furniture, and how far believers might fee the fufferings of Chrift in the ancient facrifices, will be confidered in a fubfequent note. [I. N.] not very material whether the first written word was the ten commandments written on the tables of stone with the finger of God, or the book of Job; nor whether the book of Job was written by Moses, as some suppose, or by Elihu, as others. (o) If it was written by Elihu, it was written before this period; but yet could not be far from it, as appears by confidering whose posterity the perfons were that are spoken of in it, [see above, p. 172.] together with Job's great age, which was pass before this was written.

The written word of God is the main inftrument Chrift has made use of to carry on this work of redemption in all ages fince it was given. There was a neceffity now for the word of God being committed to writing as a flanding rule to his church. Before this, the church had the word of God by tradition, either immediately from eminent men that were infpired, who were then living, or elfe by tradition from former generations, which might be had with tolerable certainty in ages preceding this, by reafon of the long lives of men. Noah might converfe with Adam, and receive traditions from Lim; and Noah lived till about Abraham's time: and the fons of Jacob lived a confiderable time to deliver the revelations made to Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob, to their posterity in Egypt. (P) But the distance from the beginning

(0) Whether the book of JOB was written by MOSES.] The learned feem now pretty well fatisfied that the book of Job is an Hebrew poem, written in a dramatic or colloquial form, (as is Solomon's fong) and generally give it to Mofes, as the molt probable author: but whether he wrote it from a fact within his obfervation during his exile from Egypt, whether from traditional records, or had the facts, as well as affiftance to record them, immediately from God, is not fo generally agreed. [See Bp. Lowth's Prelect. de Sacra Poefi Heb. prelect. xix. Poli. Syn. Crit. in ch. i.—Theolog. Repof. vol. i. page 70.] [U. S.]

(P) The LONGEVITY of the patriarchs.] Our author's general remark of the few hands that might convey traditions through a great number of years is certainly juft: but here is a fmall miftake in the chronology, which in all probability would never have been printed, had our author lived to have been his own editor. He

FROM MOSES TO DAVID.

ning was now become fo great, and the lives of men fo fhortened, (being brought down to the prefent ftandard about

He afferts that ' Noah might converfe with Adam; but it appears from the following table, and the authorities there referred to, that Adam died above an hundred years before Noah was born.

Years of the world.

1, Adam created.

130,	G en.	v. 3.	at	130	years old	Adam begat Seth.
235,		6.	at	105		Seth begat Enos.
325,		9.	at	- 90		Enos begat Cainan.
395,		12.	at	70		Cainan begat Mahalaleel.
460,		15.	at	65		Mahalaleel begat Jared.
622,		18.	at	162		Jared begat Enoch.
687,		21.	at	65		Enoch begat Methufelah.
874,		25.	at	187		Methufelah begat Lameeh.
930,		5.	А	dam	died.
10-6		28	at	182	vere old	Lamech begat Noah.

1056, — 28. at 182 years old Lamech begat Noah. The above calculation is according to the Hebrew text : if, indeed, we admit the Samaritan readings, the fact may be granted, [fee Univ. Hift. vol. i. page 146.] but as our author has every where elfe followed the Hebrew copies, it is very unlikely he meant here to deviate from them, without giving any intimation of it.

Let us now indulge a reflection or two on the fact thus flated. Though not with Noah, yet Adam might converfe with Lamech, Noah's father,—Lamech, with Shem, his own grandfon,—and Shem, (though not Noah) with his defcendant Abram, and even Ifaac. Thus four perfors might by tradition convey the fubflance of divine revelation through more than two thoufand years, which would, at the prefent flandard of human life, on a moderate computation, require forty. Now as the lives of men decreafed, tradition would naturally become more corrupted and uncertain, the more hands it paffed through; therefore to prevent the confequences of this, God was pleafed by Mofes to give a written revelation. In this we may admire the wifdom and goodnefs of God, who fuits his favours to our circumflances and neceffities.

There is fomething venerable in age, and the grey hairs of fourfcore or an hundred years command refpect and attention. And in the few inflances in which mankind exceed that age, with the prefervation of their memory and other faculties, how influctive is their converfation! With what pleafure, then, might Lamech hear from Adam the flory of his early life, the hiftory of his firft fons, and the varions revolutions of almost a thousand years; and with no lefs fatisfaction, possibly, might Abraham receive from Shem the wonderful hiftory of the flood and re-peopling of the earth :

179

130 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

about Mofes's time,) that God having now feparated a nation to be a peculiar people, partly for that end to be the keepers of his oracles, faw it to be a needful and convenient time now to commit his word to writing, to remain throughout all ages.  $(c_i)$  And therefore, befides the book of Job, God wrote the ten commandments on tables of flone, with his own inger; and after this the whole law, as containing the fubfrance of the five books of Mofes, was by his fpecial command committed to writing, which was called the book of the law, and was laid up in the tabernacle, to be kept there for the ufe of the church. [Deut. xxxi. 24---26.]

6. God was pleafed now wonderfully to reprefent the progrefs of his redeemed church through the world to their eternal inheritance, by the journey of the children of Ifrael through the wildernefs, from Egypt to Canaan. Here earth : but the grand fubject of their inquiry would doubtlefs be, the gradual and increasing difcoveries of the divine will : the facred visions, predictions, and types; the investigation of which must afford, to fanctified minds, peculiar delight and comfort.

One of the most barren parts of facred writ, (if we may fo fpeak) feems to be the lift of lives and deaths in fome of the first chapters of Genefis; but this is owing to our own inattention and fupineness; as appears from the following anecdote, mentioned by Mr. HERVEY:

" A certain libertine, of a moft abandoned character, happened accidentally to ftroll into a church, where he heard the 5th chapter of Genefis, importing that fo long lived fuch and fuch perfors. and yet the conclution was they died—' Enos lived 905 years, and ' he died—Seth, 912, and he died—Methufelah, 969, and he died.' The frequent repetition of the words, he died, notwithftanding the great length of years they had lived, ftruck him fo deeply with the thought of death and eternity, that (through divine grace) he became of an infamous libertine, a moft exemplary Christian." [Hervey's Letters, No. 147.] [N. U.]

(Q) God's word committed to working.] Our author alludes here to the pentateuch, or five first books of the Old Testament, which are now universally afcribed to Mofes on the most fatisfactory evidence. The enemies of revelation have indeed objected to fome passages which speak of the death and character of Mofes, but these may easily be supposed the supplement of a later prophet (perhaps Ezra) without affecting the general question. [U. S.]

Here all the various fteps of the redemption of the church by Chrift were reprefented, from the beginning to its confummation in glory .--- The flate they are redeemed from, is reprefented by Egypt, and their bondage there. which they left .--- The purchase of their redemption, was reprefented by the facrifice of the pafchal lamb, which was offered up the night that God flew all the first-born of Egypt .--- The beginning of the application of the redemption of Chrift's church in their conversion, was reprefented by Ifrael's going out of Egypt, and paffing through the Red Sea in fo extraordinary and miraculous a manner.---The travel of the church through this evil world, and the various changes through which the church paffes, in the different flages of it, was reprefented by the journey of the Ifraelites through the wildernefs .---The manner of their being conducted by Chrift, was reprefented by the Ifraelites being led by the pillar of cloud by day, and the pillar of fire by night .--- The manner of the church's being fupported in their progrefs, and fupplied from the beginning to the end of it, with fpiritual food, and continual daily communications from God, was reprefented by God's fupplying the children of Ifrael with bread, or manna, from heaven, and water out of the rock .--- The dangers that the faints must meet with in their courfe through the world, were reprefented by the fiery flying ferpents which the children of Ifrael met with in the wildernefs .--- The conflicts the church has with her enemies, were reprefented by their battle with the Amalekites, and others they met with there .--- And fo innumerable other things might be mentioned, wherein the things they met with were lively images of things which the church and faints meet with in all ages of the world. That these were typical of things that pertain to the Christian church, is manifest from I Cor. x. 11. ' Now all thefe things happened unto them for enfamples, ' and they were written for our admonition, upon whom ' the ends of the world are come.' Here the apoftle is fpeaking of those very things which we have now confidered.

fidered, and he fays exprefily, that they happened unto them for types; fo it is in the original.

7. Another thing must not be omitted, which was a great and remarkable difpenfation of Providence, viz. the thortening the days of man's life, whereby it was brought down from being between nine hundred and a thoufand years, to but about feventy or eighty. The life of man began to be flortened immediately after the flood : it was brought down the first generation to fix hundred years, and the next to between four and five hundred years; and fo the life of man gradually grew fhorter and fhorter, till about the time of the great mortality that was in the congregation of Ifrael, after they had murmured at the report of the fpies, and their carcafes fell in the wildernefs, whereby all the men of war died: and then the life of man was reduced to its prefent ftandard, as Mofes obferves in that pfalm that he wrote on occasion of that mortality : [Pfalm. xc. 10.] ' The days of our years are threefcore ' vears and ten; and if by reafon of ftrength they be four-' fcore years, yet is their ftrength labour and forrow : for ' it is foon cut off, and we fly away.'

This great difpenfation of God tended to promote the grand defign of the redemption of Chrift. Man's life being cut to very thort in this world, prepared the way for poor, mortal, fliort-lived men, the more joyfully to entertain the glad tidings of everlafting life in another world, and more readily to embrace a Saviour, who purchafes and offers fuch a bleffing. If men's lives were ftill commonly about nine hundred years, how much lefs would they have to move them to regard the proffers of a future life; how much greater temptations would they have to reft in the things of this world, they being of fuch long continuance, and to neglect any other life but this? This probably contributed greatly to the wickednefs of the antediluvians. But now how much greater motives have men to feek redemption, and a better life than this, by the great Redeemer, fince the life of man is not one twelfth part of what it used to be, and men now now univerfally die at the age when men formerly ufed to be but, as it were, fetting out in the world?

8. The fame work was carried on in preferving that people, of whom Chrift was to come, from totally perifhing in the wildernefs, by a conftant miracle of forty years continuance. I observed before many times, how God preferved those of whom the Redeemer was to proceed in a very wonderful manner; but this prefervation of the children of Ifrael for fo long a time in the wildernefs was, on fome accounts, more remarkable than any of them. There was, as may be fairly computed, at first two millions of fouls in that congregation, which must have perished in lefs than one month's time, had they not been miraculoully fupplied. But yet this vaft multitude fubfisted for forty years together, in a dry barren wildernefs, without fowing or reaping, or tilling any land, having their bread daily rained down to them out of heaven, and being furnished with water to fatisfy them all, out of a rock; and the fame cloaths with which they came out of Egypt, lafting, without wearing out all that time. [Deut. viii. iv.] Never was an inftance like this of a nation heing thus fupported and fupplied. (R)

Вb

9. God

(R) Never was an inflance like this.] Wonderful providence indeed ! But not lefs wonderful is the gracious provision that the Lord has made for all his people. Had they manna rained from the fkies ? We have the true bread which came down from heaven. Were they also miraculoufly supplied with flefb? The Son of God feeds us with his own, infinitely more precious, flefh and blood. Did the rock fupply their drink ? So doth the rock of ages ours. Did not their raiment wear old? Behold, the best, the everlasting robe of righteoufnefs with which the Lord cloaths his elect people! Finally, did not their feet fwell, fo as to impede their journey? The Lord has provided us with fandals which the thorns of the wildernefs cannot penetrate; and prepared with the gofpel of peace, we need not fear our journey being impeded. But, to defcend to temporal concerns; doth not the Lord still feed and cloath his people, and afford them every neceffary fupply? And is not the promife still faithful and true, ' They that feek the Lord shall ' not want any good thing?' [Pf. xxxiv. 10.] Let the timorous believer be then encouraged and joyfully fing on his way :

"Guide me, O thou great Jehovah,

" Pilgrim, through this barren land," &c. [U.U.]

184 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

9. God was pleafed during this time, to give a farther revelation of Chrift the Redeemer in the predictions of him, than had been before. Here are three prophecies given at this time that I would take notice of. The first is that of Balaam. [Numb. xxiv. 17---19.] 'I shall fee ' him, but not now; I shall behold him, but not nigh; ' there shall come a ftar out of Jacob, and a sceptre shall ' rife out of Israel, and shall smite the corners of Moab, ' and destroy all the children of Sheth. And Edom shall ' be a posses, and Israel shall do valiantly. Out of Jacob ' shall come he that shall have dominion, and shall de-' firoy him that remaineth of the city.' (s) This is a plainer

(s) The prophecy of BALAAN.] "Wonderful as the gift of prophecy is, it was not always (as Bp. NEWTON obferves) confined to the chofen feed, nor yet always imparted to the beft of men." Balaam is a proof of this, who was neither an Ifraelite nor a good man; however, he acknowledged the God of Ifrael, and profeffed to be his fervant; [Numb. xxii. 8—18.] his worfhip was debafed with fuperflition and enchantments; [Numb. xxiv. 1. xxxii. 12.] and his heart loved ' the wages of unrighteoufnefs.' [2 Pet. ii. 15.] And when the Lord would not fuffer him to curfe his people, he contrived to pervert them to idolatry and uncleannefs. [Rev. ii. 14.]

It is obfervable, that it was a cuftom among the heathens to devote their enemies to deftruction at the commencément of their wars; and Balaam being a prophet of great note, Balak fuppofed him to have peculiar intereft with heaven.—'I wot that he whom ' thou bleffeit is bleffed, and he whom thou curfeft is curfed.' [Numb. xxii. 6.]

But the ftrangeft part of the hiftory is that of Balaam's afs fpeaking with a man's voice. Stories of this kind have been current among the heathen, and might probably originate from a tradition of this event. But however extraordinary the fact, the fcripture attributes it to a fufficient caufe: 'The Lord opened the mouth ' of the afs.' [Numb. xxii. 28.] There is no neceffity, however, to give the animal a human underftanding, without that he might utter the found of words (as parrots may be taught to do,) and this is all the facered hiftorian afferts.

But we are to contemplate a greater miracle than this: the animal fpake unconfcioufly, but Balaam was over-ruled to blefs where he gladly would have curfed. And the preceding miracle was probably defigned to teach how much the mouth and tongue were under Ged's direction, and the folly of oppofing the divine will. But plainer prophecy of Chrift, effectially with regard to his kingly office, than any that had been before. But we B b 2 have

But to advert to the prophecy itfelf; of which we fhall only confider the paffage quoted by our author : 'I fhall fee him, but not 'now; I fhall behold him, but not nigh.' This Bp. NEWTON translates in the prefent tenfe, and refers to Moab; but with deference to fo great an authority, we fhould rather adhere to the prefent translation, which is more literal, and refer it, with the following claufes, to the Meffiah, (as Ainfworth and Dr. Gill do) whom at his fecond coming 'every eye fhall fee.' [Rev. i. 7. Compare Job xix. 26.]

'There shall come a star out of Jacob, and a sceptre shall arise 'out of Israel.' The star and sceptre were probably hieroglyphics of a prince and of a god, as we shall see prefently. 'And shall 'fmite the corners (or princes) of Moab.' This was subsiled by David, who 'fmote Moab . . . . and the Moabites became 'David's fervants.' [2 Sam. viii. 2.]

• And deftroy all the children of Sheth :' If by Sheth is here intended the fon of Adam, it includes all mankind, this being the only line preferved at the flood; and thofe who fo underftand it, tranflate the words 'he fhall uncoall, fubdue, or rule over all the 'children of Sheth.' But the conftruction of the paffage, and the rules of Hebrew poetry, which abounds in parallel fentences, [fee Bp. LOWTH's Prelim. Dif. to his Tranf. of Ifaiah] itrongly incline us to believe, that Sheth might be the name of fome town or prince of Moab, whofe memory is now loft. This was the opinion of Mr. Poole, and is defended by Bp. Newton.

" And Edom shall be a possefition." " David put garrifons . . . . " throughout all Edom,' [2 Sam. viii. 14.] ' Seir [the mountains ' of Edom ] also shall be a possession for his enemies;' that is, for the Ifraelites. 'And Ifrael shall do valiantly,' as in the instances juft hinted. 'Out of Jacob shall come he that shall have dominion, ' and fhall deftroy him that remaineth of the city ;' not only defeat them in the field, but purfue and deftroy them in their ftrongeft holds: ' Joab finote every male in Edom.' [1 Kings xi. 15, 16.] Thus was the prophecy fulfilled in David : but most Jewish as well as Chriftian expositors, ancient and modern, refer these predictions, in a more fublime and exalted fenfe, to the Meffiah, David's Son and Lord. And Bp. WARBURTON [Divine Leg. book iv. § 4.] observes, that as the fceptre was a popular emblem of a king, fo a flar was a more mysterious hieroglyphic of the divinity, [fee Amos v. 25, 26.] and doubtlefs pointed to him who was both ' the mighty ' God and Prince of Peace;' [Ifa. ix. 6.] who bore the feeptre of Judah, [fee page 161, note G] ' and is the bright and morning flar.' [Rev. xxii. 16.]—[See Bp. NEWTON on the Prophecies, vol. i. dif. 5. from whom the above is chiefly taken. 7 [G. E.]

185

186 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

have another, that God gave by Mofes, which is plainer fill, efpecially with regard to his prophetical office, [Deut. xviii. 18, &c.] ' I will raife up a prophet from among ' their brethren, like unto thee, and will put my words ' in his mouth, and he shall speak unto them all that I ' command him,' &c. This is a plainer prophecy of Chrift than any that had been before, in this respect, that all the former prophecies were in figurative, mystical language. The first, ' That the feed of the woman should break the ' ferpent's head.'--- The promifes made to Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob, ' That in their feed all the families of the earth ' should be bleffed.'--- The prophecy of Jacob in bleffing Judah;--- and that of Balaam, which speaks of Chrift under the figurative expression of a flar,--- were all mystical. But this is a plain literal prophecy.

There are feveral things contained in this prophecy of Chrift, and his mediatorial office, [ver. 16.]---Here it is revealed that he should be a middle perfon between them and God, a being of fuch awful majefty, holinefs, and juffice, that they could not come to him, and enjoy intercourfe with him immediately, without a mediator to fland between them; becaufe, if they came to fuch a dreadful fin-revenging God immediately, they fhould die; God would prove ' a confuming fire' to them. And here is also a particular revelation of Christ with refpect to his prophetical office: ' I will raife them up a ' prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee,' &c. And farther, it is revealed what kind of a prophet he should be, a prophet like Mofes, who was the head and leader of all the people, and who, under God, had been their redeemer, to bring them out of the houfe of bondage, who was, as it were, their shepherd by whom God led them through the Red Sea and wildernefs, and was an interceffor for them with God, and both a prophet and a king in the congregation: for Mofes had the power of a king among them. [Deut. xxxiii. 5.] He was alfo the prophet by whom God built up his church, and delivered his instructions of worthip. Thus Christ was to be a prophet like unto Mofes; fo that this is both the plaineft and and fulleft prophecy of Chrift that ever had been from the beginning of the world to this time.  $(\tau)$

The next prophecy that I shall take notice of, respects only the calling of the Gentiles, which should be after Chrift's coming, of which God gave a very plain prophecy by Mofes in the wildernefs, [Deut. xxxii. 21.] They moved God to jealoufy, by that which was not a god, by cafting him off, and taking other gods, that were no gods, in his room. So God declares that he will move them to jealoufy in the like manner, by cafting them off, and taking other people, that had not been his people, in their room. The apofile Paul takes notice of this prophecy, as foretelling the calling of the Gentiles, [in Rom. x. 19, 20.] 6 But I fay, did not Ifrael know? Firft, Mofes faith, I ' will provoke you to jealoufy by them that are no peo-' ple, and by a foolifh nation I will anger you. But ' Efaias is very bold, and faith, I was found of them that ' fought me not ; I was made manifest to them that asked ' not after me.'

Thus you fee how the light of the gofpel, which first began to dawn immediately after the fall, gradually increafes the nearer we come to Christ's time.

10. Another thing by which God carried on his work at this time, was a remarkable pouring out of his fpirit on the young generation in the wildernefs. The generation which was grown up when they came out of Egypt, from twenty years old and upward, was very froward and perverfe. They were tainted with the idolatry and wickednefs

( $\tau$ ) A prophet like unto MOSES.] Some Jewish writers have referred this to Joshua, but though we are told Joshua was full of the spirit of wisdom, yet the same text [Deut. xxxiv. 9.] informs us, 'there arose not a prophet since in Israel like unto Moses, 'whom the Lord knew sace to face;' consequently Joshua was not fo. And in another passage [Numb. xii. 2.] The Lord puts a firiking difference between Moses, and all other prophets: The Jews themselves very strongly confirm this idea; and in the New Testament, this prophecy is expressly applied to the Son of God. [Acts iii. 22, 23.] 'For Moses truly faid, a prophet will the 'Lord your God raise up,' &c. [See Newton on the Propheyol. i. dif. 6.]

ednefs of Egypt, and were not weaned from it, as the prophet takes notice, [Ezek. xx. 6---8.] Hence they made the golden calf in imitation of the idolatry of Egypt, that was wont to worthip a bull or an ox; and therefore cattle are called ' the abomination of the Egyptians,' i. e. their idol. [Exod. viii. 26.] This generation God was exceed. ing angry with, and fwore in his wrath, that they fhould not enter into his reft. But the younger generations were not fo ; those who were under twenty years old when they came out of Egypt, and those born in the wilderness, the generation spoken of, [Numb. xiv. 31.] ' But your little ' ones, whom ye faid flould be a prey, them will I bring ' in ; and they shall know the land that ye have despifed.' This was the generation with whom the covenant was renewed, (of which we have an account in Deuteronomy,) and that entered into the land of Canaan. These God was pleafed to make a generation to his praife, and they were eminent for piety; as appears by many things faid in fcripture about them; as, particularly, [Jer. ii. 2, 3.] ' I remember thee, the kindnefs of thy youth, the love ' of thine efpoulals, when thou wenteft after me in the ' wildernefs, in a land that was not fown. Ifrael was 6 holinefs to the Lord, and the first fruits of his increase." Here the generation that went after God in the wildernefs is fpoken of with very high commendations, as eminent for holinefs : ' Ifrael was holinefs to the Lord, and " the first fruits of his increase.' And their love to God is fpoken of as diffinguished like the love of a bride at her espoufals. The going after God in the wilderness here spoken of, is not the going of the children of Israel out of Egypt into the wilderness of Sinai, but their following God through that dreadful wildernefs, that the congregation long wandered in, after they went back from Kadeth-Barnea, [Dcut. viii. 15.] ' Who led thee through · the great and terrible wildernefs, wherein were fiery fer-' pents and fcorpions, and drought, where there was no " water.' Though this generation had a much greater trial, than their fathers had before they came to Kadefh-Barnea, yet they never murmured against God in any wife, as their fathers fathers had done: but their trials had a contrary effect upon them, to awaken, convince, and humble them, and fit them for great mercy. They were awakened by the awful judgments of God inflicted on their fathers, whereby their carcafes fell in the wildernefs. And God poured out his fpirit with those awakening providences towards their fathers, and their own travel in the wildernefs, and the word preached to them by Mofes; whereby they were made to fee the badnefs of their own hearts, and were humbled, and at length multitudes of them favingly converted; [as Deut. viii. 2, 3.] ' And thou ' fhalt remember the way which the Lord thy God led ' thee thefe forty years in the wilderness, to humble thee ' and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, ' whether thou wouldft keep his commandments or no.' And [ver. 15.] ' Who led thee through that great and ' terrible wildernefs, --- that he might humble thee, and ' that he might prove thee, to do thee good at the latter ' end.' (U) And therefore it is faid, Hof. xiii. 5. ' I · did

(v) Ifrael led through the wildernefs to do them good.] Here is the great fecret of Divine Providence. Infinite wifdom and goodnefs is the fource of all the vicifitudes and trials believers are called to experience. Ifrael was led through the wildernefs, and had many bitter trials there, but it was 'to do them good.'

Obferve, 1. That pride is natural to the human heart; and no degree of meannefs, wretchednefs, or dependence, can exclude it. Like fome difgufting animals, who extract poifon from the moit harmlefs vegetables; pride inflates itfelf from circumftances the moft humiliating. Would one fuppofe that a people, after forty years flavery at the brick kilns—after being treated as the offfcouring of the earth, and degraded to the very loweft degree hould need the thorns of the wildernefs to humble them ?—... But fuch is man !

2. The beft things are not always the pleafanteft ; but the moft efficacious medicines are often the moft unpalatable. Ifrael, as we have obferved, met with many painful and mortifying circumftances in the defert, but it was to do them good. Humbling providences are often our greateft mercies.

3. Mercies are doubly fweet when intermingled with trials. Contrafts produce great effects in nature : and it is by comparifon with other objects we form our most correct ideas of the excellent and beautiful. So pain and fickness teach the value of health and eafe : <sup>6</sup> did know thee in the wildernefs, in the land of great <sup>6</sup> drought.<sup>7</sup> God allured them, and brought them into the wildernefs, and fpake comfortably to them, as it was forctold that he would do afterwards. [Hof. ii. 14.]

Those terrible judgments that were executed in the congregation after their turning back from Kadesh-Barnea, in the matter of Korah, and Peor, were chiefly on the old generation, whom God confumed in the wilderness. Those rebellions were chiefly among the elders of the congregation, that God had given up to their hearts luft; and they walked in their own counfels, and God was grieved with their manners forty years in the wilderness.

But that this younger congregation were eminent for piety, appears by all their hiftory. The former generation were wicked, and were followed with curfes; but this was holy, and wonderful bleffings followed them. God did great things for them ; he fought for them, and gave them the poffeffion of Canaan. And it is God's manner, when he hath any fpecial mercy to beftow on a vifible people, first, to fit them for, and then to bestow it on them. So here, they believed in God, and by faith overcame Sihon and Og, and the giants of Canaan; and are commended for cleaving to the Lord : [ Joth. xxiii. 8. ] Jothua fays unto them, ' Cleave unto the Lord, as ye have done unto ' this day.' And fo Ifrael did all the while that generation lived. But when Jofhua and all that generation were dead, there arofe another that knew not the Lord. This pious generation flowed a laudable and fervent zeal for God in feveral inflances; as on occasion of Achan's fin; but efpecially when they fufpected the two tribes and a half had fet up an altar in opposition to the altar of burnt-offering. There never was any generation of Ifrael of which fo much good and fo little evil is mentioned as eafe; and to hunger and thirft we principally owe our relifh for food. Therefore it is, that the Lord mingled the cup of his people with a contrariety of ingredients. Let us then receive it thankfully, with this confolation, that the fweetnefs of our comforts will remain when every talke of bitternels is loft and forgot for ever.

[U.U.]

as this. It is farther obfervable, that in the time of this generation was the fecond general circumcifion, whereby the reproach of Ifrael was fully rolled away, and they became pure; and when afterwards they were polluted by Achan, they purged themfelves again. [Joth. vii. 19---26.] (w)

The men of the former generation being dead, and God having fanctified this to himfelf, he folemnly renewed his covenant with them, [Deut. xxix.] We find that fuch renovations of the covenant commonly accompanied any remarkable pouring-out of the Spirit, which caufed a general reformation; fo we find it was in Hezekiah's and Jofiah's times. But it is queftionable whether there ever was a time when religion fo flourithed in the Ifraclitish church, as in that generation; and as, in the Chriftian church, religion was in its most flourithing circumstances in the day of its espoulals, in the apolle's time, fo it feems to have been with the Jewish church in the days of its first establishment in Moses and Joshua's.

Thus God at this time did glorioufly advance the work of redemption, both by his word and Spirit. By this out-pouring of the Spirit of God, the work of redemption was promoted, not only as it was in itfelf a glorious inftance of the application of it, but as this was what God made ufe of as a means of eftablishing the church of Ifrael at its first beginning, when it was fettled in the regular obfervance of God's ordinances in Canaan: even as the out-pouring of the fpirit, in the beginning of the Chriftian church, was a great means God made ufe of for the well eftablishing it in the world in all fucceeding ages.

C c II. The

(w) They avere polluted by ACHAN.] Observe here the dangerous nature of fin, which not only brings deftruction on individuals, but on whole nations and communities; and no fin has produced more awful confequences than this of covetoulnels, which, indeed, is the parent of most others. Whence flowed the blood that has flained families—encrimfoned towns—and deluged nations? From this curfed principle, which brings mifery on the possefier, and ruin on all around him. [U.S.]

11. The next thing I would obferve, was God's bringing the people of Ifrael under the hand of Jofhua, and fettling them in that land where Chrift was to be born, and which was the great type of the heavenly Canaan, which Chrift has purchased. This was done by Joshua, who was of Joleph's pofterity, and was an eminent type of Chrift, and is therefore called ' the fhepherd, the ftone ' of Ifrael,' in Jacob's bleffing of Jofeph. [Gen. xlix. 24.] (x) Being fuch a type of Chrift, he bore the name of Christ. Joshua and Jesus are the fame name, only the one is Hebrew, the other Greek ; and therefore, in the New Teftament, which was originally written in Greek, Jothua is called Jefus. [Acts vii. 45.] ' Which alfo our fathers ' brought in with Jefus,' i.e. Jofnua; [Heb. iv. 8.] ' If ' Jefus, i. e. if Joshua had given them reft, he would not ' have fpoken of another day.'

God wonderfully poffeffed his people of this land, conquering the former inhabitants of it, and the mighty giants, as Chrift conquered the devil; firft fubduing the great kings of that part of the land that was on the eaftern tide of Jordan, Sihon king of the Amorites, and Og king of Bafhan; and then dividing the river Jordan, as before he had done the Red Sea; caufing the walls of Jericho to fall down at the found of the trumpets of the priefts; (that typifying the found of the gofpel by the preaching of gofpel minifters, and the walls of the accurfed city Jericho, the walls of Satan's kingdom;) and after thus wonderfully deftroying the mighty hoft of the Amorites under the five kings, caufing the fun and moon to ftand ftill, to help the people againft their enemies, at the prayer of the typical Jefus;

(x) Shepherd, the flone of Ifrael,] i. e. From Jacob defcended Jofeph; or, from the God of Jacob it was that Jofeph, through Divine Providence, was fent into Egypt, to be a thepherd to feed his father's family, and as a flone to uphold and fupport it; in which he was a type of Chrift, the great and good fhepherd of the flock, and the flone that is laid in Zion, on which the whole fpiritual Ifrael of God is built; the foundation flone on which they are laid and are fafe, and the corner flone which knits them together. [Pf. cxviii. 22.]-[GILL in loc.]

Jefus; [Jof. x. 12.] plainly fignifying this, that God would make the whole courfe of nature to be fubfervient to the affair of redemption; fo that every thing should yield to the purposes of that work, and give place to the welfare of God's redeemed people.

Thus did Chrift flow his great love to his elect, that he would make the courfe of nature to give place to their happinefs and profperity; and showed that the fun and moon, and all things visible and invisible, were theirs by his purchafe. (Y) At the fame time, Chrift fought as the captain of their hoft, and caft down great hailftones upon their enemies, by which more were flain than by the fword of the children of Israel. And after this he gave

(Y) All things are OURS.] "Christians, God has created all things in the world of nature with this defign, that you should derive fome benefit from them, as far as they can come within your reach or notice, your fervice or use. He appointed all things in the counfels of his providence, to bear fome bleffing for you. He has ordained all things in his kingdom of grace for your advantage; and there are unknown regions of light and glory which he has provided for you. His elect were ever nearest to his heart, next to the man Chrift Jefus, next to 'his only begotten Son;' for they were all ' chofen in him before the foundation of the world.' [Eph. i. 4.] Whether creation or providence, whether nature, grace, or glory, 'all things are for your fakes.' [2 Cor. iv. 15.]

"I would caution you . . . . not to understand it in fuch an incredible fenfe, as though God made every particular creature in the upper and the lower worlds, only to give the poffeffion of them to the faints; or that he manages all his providential kingdom merely for the fake of his own people, without any other view. No, this is ftretching the words into an extent too large and unreafonable; for there are millions of creatures, millions of plants and animals in earth and fea, that are born, and grow, and live, and die again, which the faints of God never faw, nor knew, nor fhall know; nor can they receive any immediate benefit from But the meaning is this, that all things whatfoever the them. faints can or shall have to do within this or other worlds, were intended to yield fome profit to them; and efpecially while they maintain their character as the children of God, and walk as becomes their dignity and their profession. In all God's general counfels of creation, and providence, and grace, he kept his eye (as I may fay) still upon his faints; he defigned their good in ten thousand instances, in his great and glorious works, and refolved that gave the people a mighty victory over a yet greater army in the northern part of the land, that were gathered together that nothing in all his kingdoms flould interfere with their laft and beft intereft.

"Though what he has written down in the book of his decrees, is read only at large by his Son Jefus Chrift, yet he has written out a fweet abftract of it in the book of his promifes, that the faints on earth might read and know it. [Rom. viii. 28.] 'And we know ' that all things work together for good to them that love God; ' to them, who are the called according to his purpofe.' It was for their fakes the promifes were written, that they might not only have a prefent relifh of divine bleffings, but a fweet foretafte of joys long to come.

"The bleffings of the children of God were numbered up, and written down originally for them, in the book of God's everlafting counfels: and in the book of his word has he copied out of them; ' the bleffings of heaven from above, and of the deep from beneath; ' the precious things brought forth by the fun,' and under the influence of the moon; ' the chief things of the ancient mountains' on earth, fo far as is needful for them here; ' and the precious ' things of the everlafting hills' of paradife hereafter. [Deut. xxxiii. 13, 14.]

"Does the great Creator and Lord of all keep the wheels of nature in their fettled courfes? It is for the people's good; 'The 'flars in their courfes fhall fight for Ifrael:' or does he countermand nature in any of its motions, and bid the 'fun fland ftill in Gibeon, ' and the moon in the valley of Ajalon?' It is, that the armies of his people may have long day-light to fubdue their enemies. Hailftones and thunder fhall break out of the clouds to deftroy the Canaanites, when Ifrael is at war with them: but if Ifrael want bread in the wildernefs, the clouds fhall drop down manna, and give them bread from heaven." [WATTS'S Sermons, vol. iii. fer. 38.]

With refpect to the miracle wrought by Joshua, we beg leave to add, there is no neceffity, from the text, to suppose any real effect wrought on the bodies of the fun or moon, nor perhaps of the earth itself; the most natural interpretation feems to be, that the light of the fun, and perhaps also of the moon blended with it, was miraculoufly protracted, not, it may be, on the whole hemilphere, but from Gibeon to Ajalon, and on the adjacent coun-This is confirmed by the obfervation of fome learned men, try. that the Hebrew words [מוש and ממש are never ufed ftrictly for the orbs themfelves, (the language having other words for thefe) but for the light emitted from them. So that, in fact, the light might be continued all night, and thus two days blended together, or, as the fon of Sirach expresses it, [Ecclef. xlvi. 4.] ' one day ' as long as two.' [See PIKE's Phil. Sac. p. 47. and GILL on Jofh. x. 13.7 [I. N.]

gether at the waters of Merom, as the fand of the fea fhore, [Jofh. xi. 4.]

12. Another thing that God did towards carrying on this affair, was his actually fetting up his flated worthip among the people, as it had been before inflituted in the wildernefs. This worthip was appointed at Mount Sinai, wholly in fubferviency to this great affair of redemption. It was to make way for the coming of Chrift; and the innumerable ceremonial observances of it were typical of him and his redemption. This worfhip was chiefly inftituted at Mount Sinai; but it was gradually put in practice. It was partly fet up in the wildernefs, where the tabernacle and its veffels were made; but there were many parts of this inflituted worfhip that could not be observed in the wilderness, by reason of their unfettled, itinerant flate there: and then there were many precepts that respected the land of Canaan, and their cities and places of habitation there; which therefore could not be put in practice, till they came into the land. But now, when this was brought to pass, God fet up his tabernacle in the midst of his people, as he had before promifed them, [Lev. xxiv. 11.] ' I will fet my taber-' nacle amongft you.' The tabernacle was fet up at Shiloh, [Joth. xviii. 1.] and the priefts and Levites had their offices appointed them, and the cities of refuge were alfo appointed; and now the people were in condition to observe their feasts of the first fruits, and their feast of ingathering, and to bring all the tithes and offerings to the Lord; and most parts of God's worship were now observed, though there were some things that were not till afterwards.

13. The next thing I would take notice of, is God's wonderfully preferving the people, from this time forward, when all the males went up, three times in the year, to the place where the ark was. The people of Ifrael were generally furrounded with enemies, that fought all opportunities to deftroy, and difpoffefs them of their land; and till David's time there were great numbers in the land of the remains of the Canaanites, and the other former 196 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

former inhabitants, that were bitter enemies to the people of Ifrael : and these had from year to year, three times in the year, a fair opportunity of over-running their country, and getting pofferfion of their cities, when all the males were gone, and only the women and those who were not able to go up, were left behind : yet they were remarkably preferved throughout all generations at fuch feafons, agreeable to the promife that God had made, [Exod. xxxiv. 24.] ' Neither fhall any man defire thy · land, when thou shalt go up to appear before the Lord • thy God thrice in the year.' So wonderfully did God order affairs, and influence the hearts of their enemies, that though they were fo full of enmity against Ifrael, and defired to difpoffefs them of their land, and had frequently fo fair an opportunity; yet we never read, in all their hiftory, of any of their enemies taking these opportunities against them. This was furely a wonderful difpensation of divine Providence; to maintain and promote God's great defign of redemption.

14. God's preferving his church and the true religion from being wholly extinct in the frequent apoftafies of the Ifraelites in the time of the Judges. How prone was that people to forfake the true God, who had done fuch wonderful things for them, and to fall into idolatry ! And how did the land, from time to time, feem to be almoft over-run with it ! But yet God never fuffered his true worfhip to be totally rooted out: his tabernacle flood, the ark was preferved, the book of the law was kept from being deftroyed, God's priefthood was upheld, and God fill had a church among the people; and time after time, when religion was come to the laft extremity, then God granted a revival, and fent fome angel, or raifed up fome eminent perfon, to be an inftrument of their reformation.

15. God's preferving that nation from being deflroyed, and delivering them from time to time, although they were fo often fubdued and brought under the dominion of their enemies. It is a wonder, not only that the true religion was not wholly rooted out, and fo the church deftroyed that that way; but also that the very nation in which that church was, was not utterly deftroyed. One while they were fubdued by Chuthan-rithataim king of Mesopotamia, another while under the Moabites; they were fold into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan; they were brought under the dominion of the Midianites; were forely diftreffed by the children of Ammon; and afterward by the Philistines. But yet God, in all these dangers, preferved them from being wholly overthrown; and from time to time, when it was come to extremity, and they were upon the very brink of ruin, God raifed up a deliverer, [Deut. xxxii. 36.] ' For the Lord thall judge his people, and ' repent himfelf for his fervants; when he feeth their ' power is gone, and there is none shut up or left.'

These remarkable difpensations of Providence are set forth in a lively and elegant manner in the cvith Psalm.

Thefe deliverers that God raifed up from time to time were all types of Chrift, the great Redeemer of his church; and fome of them very remarkably fo; as, particularly, Barak, Jephthah, Gideon, Samfon, in many particulars; efpecially in the acts of Samfon, as might be flown, were it not that this would take up too much time. (z)

16. It

(z) Inflead of running through the various particulars in which thefe worthies may be fuppofed to have typified the Redeemer, it may be more ufeful to fubjoin the following remarks on typical characters in general:

" 1. In order to conflitute a proper type it is by no means neceffary, that the perfon who anfwers this important purpofe fhould poffefs perfect moral qualities; were this requifite, who ever was worthy to reprefent the Son of God?... It will follow,

" 2. That the comparison is not to be flated and purfued through every particular incident of the life, and every feature of the perfon typifying. . . .

" 3. Scripture by direct application, or by fair unftrained analogy, ought therefore to lead, to regulate, and to correct all our inquiries of this fort. . . .

"4. . . It is of importance to inquire, whether or not the refemblance we mean to purfue, has a tendency to promote fome moral, practical, pious purpofe." [HUNTER's Sac. Biog. vol. ii. lect. 5.]

16. It is observable, that when Chrift came to manage the affairs of his church in this period, he often appeared in the form of that nature that he took upon him in his incarnation. So he feems to have appeared to Mofes from time to time, and particularly at that time when God fpake to him face to face, as a man speaketh to his friend, and he beheld the fimilitude of the Lord [Numb. xii. 8.] after he had befought him to show him his glory; which was the most remarkable vision that ever he had of Christ. There was a twofold difcovery that Mofes had of Chrift : one was fpiritual, when he proclaimed his name, ' The · Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-fuf-· fering, and abundant in goodnefs and truth, keeping ' mercy for thoufands, forgiving iniquity and transgression ' and fin, and that will by no means clear the guilty ; vi-' fiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and ' upon the childrens children, unto the third and to the ' fourth generation.' [Exod. xxxiv. 6, &c.] Another was external ; which was that which Mofes faw, when Chrift paffed by, and put him in a cleft of the rock, and covered him with his hand, fo that Mofes faw his back-parts. What he faw was doubtlefs the back-parts of a glorious human form, in which Chrift appeared to him, and in all likelihood the form of his glorified human nature, in which he should afterwards appear. He faw not his face; for it is not to be fuppofed that any man could fubfift under a fight of the glory of Chrift's human nature as it now appears.

So it was an human form in which Chrift appeared to the feventy elders. [Exod. xxiv. 9---11.] ' Then went ' up Mofes and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and feventy ' of the elders of Ifrael. And they faw the God of If-' rael: and there was under his feet, as it were a paved ' work of a fapphire-ftone, and as it were the body of ' heaven in his clearnefs. And upon the nobles of the ' children of Ifrael he laid not his hand: alfo they ' faw God, and did eat and drink.' So Chrift appeared afterwards to Jofhua in the form of the human nature, [Jofh. v, 13, 14.] ' And it came to pafs when Jofhua ' was

· was by Jericho, he lift up his eyes, and looked, and be-' hold, there flood a man over against him, with a fword " drawn in his hand: and Jothua went unto him, and ' faid unto him, Art thou for us, or for our adverfaries ? · And he faid, Nay, but as captain of the hoft of the ' Lord am I now come.' And fo he appeared to Gideon, [ [udg. vi. 11, &c.] and fo alfo to Manoah, [chap. xiii. 17---21.] Here Chrift appeared to Manoah in a reprefentation both of his incarnation and death; of his incarnation, in that he appeared in a human form; and of his death and fufferings, reprefented by his afcending up in the flame of the facrifice; intimating thereby, that he was to be the great facrifice, that must be offered up to God for a fweet favour, in the fire of his wrath, as that kid was burned and afcended up in the flame. Chrift thus appeared, time after time, in the form of that nature he was afterwards to affume, becaufe he now came on the fame defign, and to carry on the fame work, that he was to finith in that nature. (A) Another thing I would mention,

(A) CHRIST appeared in the human form.] Having repeatedly intimated an intention of confidering thefe appearances in a collected view, we shall now attempt it. But to fave repetition, we muft beg the reader to review our author's obfervations on the Divine appearance to Jacob, (p. 157) and to Mofes, (p. 167) as well as those mentioned under this head, and then he will be prepared to accompany us in the following remarks:

1. The divine Perfon who appears, is frequently called by the august names of Jehovah and Elohim, Lord and God. This is particularly obfervable in the appearances to Jacob and Mofes; we fhall only inflance in the former. We are told, [Gen. xxxii. 24, &c.] ' Jacob was left alone, and there wrellled a man with him until ' the breaking of the day:' whatever is the meaning of this extraordinary circumflance, it is certain that Jacob was aware of his vifitor, by his fo earnefly entreating his bleffing, but more efpecially by his calling the name of that place Pennel, (i. e. the face of God) because he had ' feen God face to face.' Jacob feems to advert to this circumflance in the last flage of his life, for, bleffing the fons of Jofeph, he fays, "The angel that re-' deemed me blefs the lads.' But most remarkable is a passage in the Prophet Hofea, [ch. xii. 4.] relating to this circumilance; . He had power over the angel, and prevailed:' this refers to his wrettling, which was doubtlefs a fumbolical action: "He wept, ( and tion, done in this period towards the work of redemption, is the beginning of the fucceffion of prophets, and erecting

199

" and made fupplication unto him;" when he would not let him go without a bleffing; 'He found him in Bethel; there he fpake ' with us. Even the Lord God [ Jehovah Elohim] of hofts; the " Lord [Jebovah] is his memorial;" i. e. the name by which he will be known. [See Ocven on the Hebrews, vol. i. p. 118.] And it is obfervable, that the perfon appearing in most of these visions feems to be called promifcuoufly both the Lord and the angel of the Lord.

2. The manner in which this angel fpeaks is very obfervable, and fuch as no created being ought to affume. The angel that appeared to Hagar faid, ' I will multiply thy feed exceedingly;' [Gen. xvi. 10.] To Abraham, ' Thou haft not withheld thy fon ' from me;' [Gen. xxii. 12.] And to Mofes, [Exod. iii. 4.] ' I ' am the God of Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob,' &c.

3. The perfon thus appearing receives divine honours-' Put ' the floes from off thy feet,' faid he to Mofes and Jofhua, ' for ' the place whereon thou flandeft is holy ground.' The latter, we are expressly told, did worfbip the captain of the Lord's hoft. [See Dr. Allix, Judgment of the Jewish Church, p. 234. and Bp. Patrick on Jofh. v. 14, 15.] Though we do not conceive, (as fome have done) that Gideon's prefent was a facrifice, yet the reafon of the angel refuting a facrifice from Manoah is very fingular, and pertinent to our point, viz. that Manoah knew him not. [Judges xiii. 16.7

4. It is very remarkable that God has fo repeatedly revealed himfelf as a jealous God, and declared that he will not give his glory to another. [Exod. xx. 5. Ifa. xlii. 8.] It therefore follows,

7. That this could not be a created angel.-In the angelic appearances in the New Teftament we find no fuch language; none of the names of God are applied to them, nor do they assume any of his prerogatives; and when the apolle John offered to worfhip one of thefe, though, it is probable, he did not intend fupreme adoration, yet the angel refused and forbad him. [Rev. xix. 10.] Or if we fuppofe the apoftle meant to adore him, it must be on a fuppofition, that he was the Son of God, which, if it could be proved, would very much ftrengthen our hypothefis.

Nor, 6. By the angel of the Lord muft we underftand any mere external form in which the Deity refided, and fpake as a cloud or flame, &c. becaufe he is called ' the captain of falvation,' and generally appeared in a human form.

Neither, 7. Muft we underftand God the Father himfelf, for our Lord expressly tells the Jews, that they had not at any time either 'heard his voice, or feen his fhape.' [John v. 37.] And hecaufe erecting a fchool of the prophets, in Samuel's time. There was fomething of this fpirit of prophecy in liracl after Moles.

200

becaufe the foriptures never reprefent the Father in any delegated or inferior character.

But, 8. Thefe reprefentations perfectly agree with the account given in fcripture of the Son of God, who is called the 'angel ' of the covenant,' [Mal. iii. 1. in the Hebrew,] and perhaps the ' angel of God's prefence.' [Ifa. lxiii. 9.]

9. It appears, that of the patriarchs and others to whom this angel appeared, fome knew him immediately to be God himfelf, and in general all were convinced of it after he was departed; hence many of them faid, ' We shall die, for we have seen God.'

10. This was the univerfal opinion of the Christian fathers, as has been fhewn at large by Bp. Bull, Dr. Waterland, and others; a fingle paffage therefore, full to our purpole, shall fuffice. " It was Chrift who defcended into communion with men, from Adam unto the patriarchs and prophets in vifions, dreams and appearances or reprefentations of himfelf, inftructing them in his future condition from the beginning: and God who converfed with men on earth, was no other than the Word who was to be made flefh." TTER-TULLIAN. See Owen on the Heb. vol. i. p. 121.]

11. Even fome of the most eminent Jewish writers have made confessions to this purpose. So Rab. M. N. GERUNDENSIS, of the 13th century; "This angel, if we fpeak exactly, is the angel the redeemer, concerning whom it is written, ' My name is in him,' that angel who faid to Jacob, 'I am the God of Bethel,' &c. [Owen on the Heb. vol. i. p. 122.]

12. Moft of thefe remarks, as they go to prove that thefe appearances were of the Son of God, they no lefs prove the divinity of his perfon and character; which is the principal reafon of our infifting fo largely on this fubject.

13. We are not however from any of these propositions to infer, that in all the inflances of God's fpeaking under the Old Teftament, the Son only, as diffinguished from the Father, was intended: this notion would involve almost as great difficulties as the opposite one of there being a created angel, as will appear from the following remarkable text, [Exod. xxiii. 20, 21.] 'Behold, I fend an angel ' before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the ' place which I have prepared. Beware of him, and obey his voice; ' provoke him not; for he will not pardon your tranfgreffions: for ' my name is in him.' Thefe are evidently the words of the Father promifing that the angel of the covenant fhould go before to be the guide of Ifrael; in which we cannot but obferve, that this angel has the peculiar attributes and prerogatives of Deity aferibed to him.

14. To this it may be objected, [from Exod. xxxiii. 2-4.] That when God promifed to fend an angel before them, the Lord threatened Mofes, before Samuel. Jofhua and many of the judges had a degree of it. Deborah was a prophetefs: and fome of the high priefts were infpired with this fpirit; particularly Eli: and that fpace of time was not wholly without inflances of thole that were fet apart of God efpecially to this office, and fo were called prophets. Such an one we read of, [Judg. vi. 8.] ' The Lord fent a prophet unto the chil-' dren of Ifrael, which faid unto them,' &c. Such an one he feems to have been that we read of, [1 Sam. ii. 27.] ' And there came a man of God to Eli,' &c.

But there was no fuch order of men upheld in Ifrael for any conflancy, before Samuel; the want of it is taken notice of, [I Sam. iii. I.] 'And the word of the 'Lord was precious in those days; there was no open 'vition.' (E) But in Samuel there was begun a fucceffion threatened that he would not go up himfelf, on which occafion the people mourned: but the Jewish doctors will furnish us with an easy folution of this difficulty; for ABEN EZRA observes, [fee Gull in loc.] that this was not the angel promifed before, [chap. xxiii.] but an inferior one, which the Lord threatened to fend with them instead of the former; though afterwards he relented and promifed his own prefence, which seems to be the fame as intended in Ifaiah by the 'angel of his prefence.' So Rab. MENA-CHEM faith, "This angel is not the angel of the covenant, of whom he spake in the time of favourable acceptance, 'My prefence shall 'go:' for now the holy bleffed God had taken away his divine prefence from among them, and would have led them by the hand of another angel." [Ansf. in Ex. xxxii, 34-]

15. Upon the whole, whenever we read of a divine appearance under the Old Teflament, in which a human or angelic form was exhibited, or fome delegated and inferior character fultained, and yet combined with fome circumflances that forbid our underflanding it of a mere angel, we may fafely interpret it of the Son of God, who thus anticipated his future humiliation, and ' whofe delights f from the beginning were with the fons of men.' [G. E.]

(B) The word of the Lord was PRECIOUS in thefe days.] "That is, a word from the Lord in a dream or vision directing, informing, influcting, or reproving, this was very rarely had; of late there had been but very few inflances, and which accounts for it, why not only the child Samuel knew not it was the voice of the Lord that called to him, but Eli himfelf thought nothing of it until he had called a third time, fo rare and fearce was any inflance of this kind; and fion of prophets, that was maintained continually from that time, at least with very little interruption, till the fpirit of prophecy ceafed, about Malachi's time; and therefore Samuel is spoken of in the New Testament as the beginning of the fucceffion of prophets, [Acts iii. 24.] · And all the prophets from Samuel, and those that follow ' after, as many have fpoken, have foretold of thefe days.' After Samuel was Nathan, and Gad, and Iddo, and Heman, and Afaph, and others. And in the latter end of Solomon's reign, we read of Ahijth; and in Jeroboam and Rehoboain's time we read of prophets; and fo continually one prophet fucceeding another till the captivity. We read of prophets as being a conitant order of men upheld in the land in those days: and in the time of the captivity there were Ezekiel and Daniel; and after the captivity there were Zechariah, Haggai, and Malachi.

And becaufe God intended a conftant fucceffion of prophets from Samuel's time, therefore now was begun a fchool of the prophets; that is, a fchool of young men, that were trained up under fome great prophet, who was their mafter and teacher in the ftudy of divine things, and the practice of holinefs, to fit them for this office, as God fhould call them to it. Thofe young men that belonged to thefe fchools, were called the fons of the prophets; and oftentimes they are called prophets. Thefe at firft were under the tuition of Samuel. [Sam. xix. 20.] ' And

... and as every thing that is fearce and rare, is generally precious, fo the word of God in this way alfo was; and fo it is confidered in every view of it, as the written word of God: when there was but little of it penned, as at this time, and few or none to teach and inftruct in it. Eli being old and his fons fo vile; or when it is forbidden to be read, or the copies of it deflroyed and become fearce, as it was in the times of Dioclefian: or when there are but very few faithful evangelical minifters of the word; which though it is always precious to them that have precious faith in it, the promifes of it being exceeding great and precious, and the truths of it more precious than fine gold, and the grand fubject of it, a precious Saviour, who is fo in his perfon, offices, blood, righteoufnefs and facrifice: yet it is generally more precious when there is a fearcity of it, when God makes a man, a gofpel minifter, more precious than fine gold. [See Ifa. xiii. 12.] [G1LL in loc.]

" And when they faw the company of prophets prophe-' fying, and Samuel flanding as appointed over them.' The company of the prophets that we read of I Sam. x. 5. were the fame. Afterwards we read of their being under Elijah. Elisha was one of his sons; but he defired to have a double portion of his fpirit, as his fucceffor, as his first born : as the eldest fon was wont to have a double portion of the effate of his father; and therefore the other fons of the prophets, when they perceived that the fpirit of Elijah refled on Elifha, fubmitted themfelves to him, and owned him for their mafter, as they had done Elijah before; [2 Kings ii. 15.] ' And when the fons of the · prophets which were to view at Jericho, faw him, they ' faid, the fpirit of Elijah doth reft on Elifha. And they ' bowed themfelves to the ground before him.' [See alfo 2 Kings iv. 38.]

In Elijah's and Elifha's time, there were feveral places where there refided companies of thefe fons of the prophets; as there was one at Bethel, another at Jericho, and another at Gilgal, unlefs that at Gilgal and Jericho were the fame; and poffibly that which is called the college, where the prophetefs Huldah refided, was another at Jerufalem; [fee 2 Kings xxii. 14.] It is there faid of Huldah the prophetefs, that ' fhe dwelt in Jerufalem, in the col-' lege.' (c) They had houfes built, where they ufed to dwell together; and therefore thofe at Jericho being multiplied, and finding their houfe too little for them, defired leave of their mafter Elifha, that they might go and hew timber to build a larger. [2 King vi. 1, 2.]

At fome times there were numbers of thefe fons of the prophets in Ifrael; for when Jezebel cut off the prophets of the Lord, it is faid that Obadiah took an hundred of them, and hid them by fifty in a cave. [I Kings xviii. 4.]

Thefe fehools of the prophets being fet up by Samuel, and afterwards kept up by fuch prophets as Elijah and Elijah.

Elitha, muft be of divine appointment: and accordingly we find, that those fons of the prophets were often favoured with a degree of infpiration, while they continued under tuition in the schools of the prophets; and God commonly, when he called any prophet to the conftant exercife of the prophetical office, and to fome extraordinary fervice, took them out of thefe fchools ;---though not univerfally. Hence the prophet Amos, fpeaking of his being called to the prophetical office, fays, that he was one that had not been educated in the fchools of the prophets, and was not one of the fons of the prophets. [Amos vii. 15.7 But Amos's taking notice of it as remarkable, that he flould be called to be a prophet that had not been educated at the fchools of the prophets, fhows that it was God's ordinary manner to take his prophets out of these schools; for therein he did but bless his own institution.

Now this remarkable difpenfation of Providence, viz. God's beginning a conftant fucceffion of prophets in Samuel's time, that was to laft for many ages; and to that end, eftablifhing a fchool of the prophets under Samuel, thenceforward to be continued in Ifrael, was in order to promote that great affair of redemption which we are upon. For the main bufinefs of this fucceffion of prophets was to forefhow Chrift, and the glorious redemption that he was to accomplifh, and fo prepare the way for his coming. [Acts iii. 18, 24.--x. 43.]

As I obferved before, [tee p. 82.] the Old Terlament time was like a time of night, wherein the church was not wholly without light, but had not the light of the fun directly, but as reflected from the flars. Now thefe prophets were the flars that reflected the light of the fun; and accordingly they fpoke abundantly of Jefus Chrift, as appears by what we have of their prophecies in writing. And they made it very much their bufinefs, when they fludied in their fchools or colleges, and elfewhere, to fearch out the work of redemption; agreeable to what the apoftle Peter fays of them, [1 Pet. i. 10, 11.] • Of • which falvation the prophets have inquired, and fearch-• ed

206 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

<sup>6</sup> ed diligently, who prophefied of the grace that flould <sup>6</sup> come unto you; fearching what, or what manner of <sup>6</sup> time the Spirit of Chrift that was in them did fignify, <sup>6</sup> when it teftified beforehand the fufferings of Chrift, and <sup>6</sup> the glory that flould follow.<sup>7</sup> (D) We are told that the church of the Redeemer is <sup>6</sup> built on the foundation <sup>6</sup> of the prophets and apottles, himfelf being the chief cor-<sup>6</sup> ner-ftone.<sup>7</sup> [Eph. ii. 20.]

This was the first thing of the nature that ever was done in the world; and it was a great thing that God did towards farther advancing this great building of redemption. There had been before occasional prophecies of Christ, as was shown; but now the time drawing nearer when the Redeemer should come, it pleased God to appoint a certain order of men, in constant fuccession, whose main business it should be, to foression Christ and his redemption, and as his forerunners to prepare the way for his coming; and God established schools, wherein multitudes were instructed and trained up to that end. [Rev. xix. 10.] ' I am thy ' fellow fervant, and of thy brethren that have the testi-' mony of Jesus; for the testimony of Jesus is the spirit ' of prophecy.'

(D) Of which falvation the PROPHETS have inquired, Sc.] This paffage prefents us with the following important truths:

1. That the fpirit which infpired the antient prophets was the fpirit of Chrift; an irrefragable argument of his pre-existence and divinity.

2. That as Chrift was the author, fo was he the grand fubject of their predictions; the alpha and omega of the Bible, 'The tef-'timony of Jefus is the fpirit of prophecy', or, as fome invert the words, 'The fpirit of prophecy is the teltimony of Jefus;' [fo Doddridge and Bp. Hurd.] 'To him give all the prophets witnefs,' [Acts x. 43.] ' both as to his fufferings and the glory that fhould 'follow.'

3. That the prophets had only & partial acquaintance with the meaning of their own predictions. It was not neceffary, nor in many cafes expedient, that they should fully comprehend them, especially as to the time of their accomplishment.

4. That they effected the fubject worthy their inquiry and ardent fludy: • Prophets and Kings defired' to fee and hear the things revealed to us, [Luke x. 2.4.] How highly then flould we effected to us, effected are our eyes, if they fee-and our ears, if • they fuitably attend to them.'

[ 207 ]

§ V. From DAVID to the Babylonish CAPTIVITY.

I COME now to the fifth period of the times of the Old Teftament, beginning with David, and extending to the Babylonish captivity; and would now proceed to show how the work of redemption was therein carried on.---And here,

The first thing to be taken notice of, is God's anointing that perfon who was to be the anceftor of Chrift, to be king over his people. The difpenfations of Providence which have been taken notice of through the last period, from Mofes to this time, respect the nation, but now the feripture-hiftory leads us to confider God's providence towards that particular per/in whence Chrift was to proceed, viz. David. It pleafed God at this time remarkably to felect out this perfon from all the thoufands of Ifrael, and to put a most honourable mark of distinction upon him, by anointing him to be king over his people. It was only God that could find him out. His father's house is spoken of as being little in Israel, and he was the voungeft of all the fons of his father, and was leaft expected to be the man that God had chofen, by Samuel. (E) God had before, in the former ages of the world, remarkably diffinguished the perfons from whom Chrift was to come; as Seth, Noah, Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob. The laft inftance of this was in Jacob's bleffing his fon Judah; unlefs we reckon Nahfhon's advancement in the wildernels to be the head of the tribe of Judah. [Numb. i. 7.] But this diffinction in the perfon of David was very ho-F.e nourable:

(E) DAVID the leaft likely to be God's chofen.] "God feeth not ' as ' man feeth.'-Samuel was fent to choofe a king among the fons of Jeffe. [I Sam. xvi. 6.] When he faw Eliab, he faid, ' Surely the ' Lord's anointed is before him;' but the Lord faid to Samuel, [ver. 7.] ' Look not on his countenance, nor on the height of his ' flature, becaufe I have refufed him.' Old Jeffe, it may be, was ready to look on his cldeft fon too, being pleafed with his tall and comely figure, and to fay within himfelf, ' It is a pity that Eliab ' was not made a king !' But David was God's beloved.''---[WATTS'S Sermons, vol. i. fer. 7.] nourable: for it was God's anointing him to be king over his people. And thereby was fomething farther denoted than in the anointing of Saul. God anointed Saul to be king perfonally; but God intended fomething farther by fending Samuel to anoint David, viz. to eftablifh the crown of Ifrael in him and in his family, as long as Ifrael continued to be a kingdom; and not only fo, but what was infinitely more, eftablifhing the crown of his univerfal church, his fpiritual Ifrael, in his feed, to the end of the world, and throughout eternity.

This was a great difpenfation of God, and a great ftep taken towards a farther advancing of the work of redemption, according as the time grew near wherein Chrift was to come. David, as he was the anceftor of Chrift, fo he was the greatest perional type of Christ under the Old Teftament. The types of Chrift were of three forts; inftituted, providential, and perfonal. (F) The ordinance of facrificing was the greatest of the inflituted types; the redemption out of Egypt was the greatest of the providential; and David the greateft of the perfonal ones. Hence Christ is often called David in the prophecies of fcripture ; [Ezek. xxxiv. 23, 24.] ' And I will fet up one fhepherd over them, ' and he fliall feed them, even my fervant David; my " fervant David a prince among them;" and fo in many other places : and he is very often fpoken of as the feed or fon of David.

David being the anceftor and great type of Chrift, his being folemnly anointed by God to be king over his people, that the kingdom of his church might be continued in

(F) The TYPES of Chrift of three forts.] So. Dt. Owen diffinguithes types into, 1. Such as were directly appointed for that end, (which our author calls inflituted) as the facrifices; 2. Such as had only a providential ordination to that end, as the flory of Jacob and Efau; and, 3. Things that fell out of old, fo as to illuftrate prefent things from a fimilitude between them, as the allegory of Hagar and Sarah. Others diffinguifh them into real and perfonal; by the former, intending the tabernacle, temples, and religious inflitutions; and under the latter, including what our author calls providential and perfonal types. [Mather on the Types, p. 63.]—Thefe latter we have noticed as they occurred, and the former will be confidered in a proper place. [N. V.] in his family for ever, may in fome refpects be looked on as an anointing of Chrift himfelf. Chrift was as it were anointed in him; and therefore Chrift's anointing and David's anointing are fpoken of under one in fcripture, [Pfal. lxxxix. 20.] ' I have found David my fervant; ' with my holy oil have I anointed him.' And David's throne and Chrift's are fpoken of as one: [Luke i. 32.] ' And the Lord fhall give him the throne of his father ' David.' [Acts ii. 30.] ' David---knowing that God ' had fworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his ' loins, according to the fleth, he would raife up Chrift to ' fit on his throne.'

Thus God's beginning of the kingdom of his church in the houfe of David, was a new eftablifhing of the kingdom of Chrift; the beginning of it in a flate of fuch vifibility as it thenceforward continued in. It was God's planting the root, whence that branch of rightcoulnefs was afterwards to fpring up, which was to be the everlafting king of his church; and therefore this everlafting king is called the branch from the flem of Jeffe. [Ifa. xi. 1.] 'And there thall come forth a rod out of the flem of 'Jeffe, and a branch fhall grow out of his roots.' (G) [Jer. xxiii. 5.] 'Behold, the days come, faith the Lord, ' that I will raife up unto David a righteous branch, and E e 2 ' a king

(G) A rod from the flem of JESSE.] In the preceding chapter " the prophet had deferibed the Alfyrian army under the image of a mighty forest . . . cut down to the ground, by the ax weilded by the hand of fome powerful and illustrious agent : in oppofition to this image he reprefents the great perfon, who makes the fubject of this chapter, as a flender twig, fhooting out from the trunk of an old tree, cut down, lopped to the very root, and decayed; which tender plant, fo weak in appearance, should neverthelefs become fruitful and profper, . . . . We have here a remarkable inflance of that method fo common with the prophets, and particularly with Ifaiah, of taking oceasion from the mention of some great temporal deliverance, to launch out into the difplay of the fpiritual deliverance of God's people by the Meffiah; for that this prophecy relates to the Meffiah, we have the express authority of St. Paul, Rom. xv. 12." [Bp. LOWTH in Ifa. xi. 1 .- His Lordship adds a paffage from KIMCHI, who also applies this text to the Meffiah, as other eminent Rabbins have done, as may be feen in Poli Syn. Crit. in loc.]

<sup>6</sup> a king fhall reign and profper.' [Chap. xxxiii. 15.] <sup>6</sup> In <sup>6</sup> thofe days, and at that time, I will caufe the branch of <sup>6</sup> righteoufnefs to grow up unto David, and he fhall exe-<sup>6</sup> cute judgment and righteoufnefs in the land.' So Chrift, in the New Teftament, is called the root and offspring of David. [Rev. xxii. 16.]

It is observable, that God anointed David after Saul to reign in his room. He took away the crown from him, who was higher in stature than any of his people, and was in their eyes fitteft to bear rule, to give it to David, who was low of stature, and in comparison, of despicable appearance: fo God was pleafed to fhow how Chrift, who appeared without form or comelinefs, and was defpifed and rejected of men, should take the kingdom from the great ones of the earth. And alfo it is observable, that David was the youngeft of Jeffe's fons, as Jacob the younger brother fupplanted Efau, and got birthright and bleffing from him: and as Pharez, brother of Chrift's anceftor, fupplanted Zarah in his birth; and as Ifaac, another of the anceftors of Chrift, caft out his elder brother Ishmael: thus was that frequent faying of Chrift fulfilled, ' The laft ' fhall be first, and the first last.'

2. The next thing I would obferve, is God's preferving David's life, by a feries of wonderful providences till Saul's death. I have above taken notice of the wonderful prefervation of other anceftors of Chrift; as Noah, Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob; and have obferved how, in that Chrift the great Redeemer was to proceed from them, that in their prefervation, the work of redemption itfelf may be looked upon as preferved from being defeated, and the whole church, which is redeemed through him, from being overthrown. But the prefervation of David was not lefs remarkable than that of any others already taken notice of. How often was there but a ftep between him and death? The firft inftance of it we have in his encountering a lion and a bear, (11) which, without miraculous

(H) His encountering a LION and a BEAR.] Or-" a lion OK ? a bear;' the meaning can only be, that at different times they would raculous affiftance, could at once have rent this young Aripling in pieces, as eafly as they could the lamb which he delivered from them: fo afterwards the root and offfpring of David was preferved from the roaring lion that goes about feeking whom he may devour; who was conquered, and the fouls of men refcued as lambs out of the month of this lion. Another remarkable deliverance was from that mighty giant Goliath, who was strong enough to have given his flesh to the beasts of the field, and to the fowls of the air, as he threatened : but God preferved David and gave him the victory, fo that he cut off his head with his own fword. Chrift flew the fpiritual Goliath with his own weapon, the crofs, and fo delivered his people. And how remarkably did God preferve him from being flain by Saul, when he first fought his life, by giving his daughter to be a fnare to him, that the hand of the Philistines might be upon him : and afterwards, when Saul spake to Jonathan, and to all his fervants, to kill him; alfo in inclining Jonathan, inftead of murdering, to love him as his own foul, and to be a great inftrument of his prefervation, even at the hazard of his own life, though one would have thought that none would have been more willing to have David killed than Jonathan, feeing that he was competitor with him for the crown. Again the Lord wonderfully preferved him, when Saul threw a javelin to finite him to the wall; and when he fent meffengers to his houfe, to watch for and to kill him, when Michal, Saul's daughter, let him down through a window ; likewife when he afterwards fent meffengers once and again, to Naioth in Ramah, to take him, and they were remarkably prevented by being feized with miraculous impreffions of the fpirit of God ; and even when Saul being refolute in the affair, went himfelf, he alto was among the prophets. Again after this, how wonderfally was David's life preferved at Gath among the Phillithing, when he went to Achifh, the king of Gath, and was dista would come and take a lamb, a lion at one time, and a bear at another." [Gill in I Sam, xvii, 34.]

there in the hands of the Philiftines, who one would have thought, would have difpatched him at once, he having fo much provoked them by his exploits against them. How wonderfully did God deliver them at Keilah, when he had entered into a fenced town, where Saul thought he was fure of him !---- When he purfued and hunted him in the mountains; when the army encompassed him in the wilderneis of Maon !---- How was he delivered in the cave of Engedi, when inftead of Saul's killing David, God delivered Saul into his hands in the cave, and cut off his fkirt, and might as eafily have cut off his head; and afterwards also in the wilderness of Ziph; and again a fecond time in the land of the Philiftines, though David had conquered them at Keilah, fince he was laft among them ! which, one would think, would have been fufficient warning to them not to truft him, or let him efcape a fecond time; but yet now, God wonderfully turned their hearts to him to befriend and protect, inftead of deftroying him.

Thus was the precious feed that virtually contained the Redeemer, and all the bleffings of his redemption, wonderfully preferved, when hell and earth were confpired against it to deftroy it. How often does David himfelf take notice of this, with praife and admiration, in the book of Pfalms?

3 About this time, the written word of God was enlarged by Samuel. I have before obferved that the canon of feripture was begun, and the first written word of God was given to the church about Mofes's time: and many, and I know not but most divines, think it was added to by Joshua, and that he wrote the last chapter of Deuteronomy, and most of the book of Joshua. (1) Others

(1) JOSHUA verote most of the book of JOSHUA.] "This book bears the name of Joshua, either becaufe it is concerning him, his actions and exploits in the land of Canaan, or becaufe it was written by him, or both; though fome aferibe it to Ezra, and others to Ifaiah : but it must have been written before the times of Ahab, as appears from 1 Kings xvi. 34. and even before the times of David, as is clear from chap. xv. 69. compared with 2 Sam. v. 6. for Others think that Jofhua, Judges, Ruth, and part of the firft book of Samuel, were written by Samuel. However that was, this we have good evidence of, that Samuel made an addition to the canon of feripture; for he is manifeftly mentioned in the New Teftament, as one of the prophets whofe writings we have in the feriptures, [Acts iii. 24.] 'Yea and all the prophets from Samuel, ' and thofe that follow after, as many as have fpoken, have ' likewife forefold of thefe days.' By that exprefiion, ' as many as have fpoken,' cannot be meant, as many as have fpoken by word of mouth; for every prophet did that: but the meaning muft be, as many as have fpoken by writing, fo that what they have fpoken has come down to us.

And the way that Samuel fpoke of thefe times of Chrift and the gofpel, was by giving the hiftory of the things that typified and pointed to them, particularly thofe concerning David. The Spirit of God moved him to commit thofe things to writing, chiefly for that reafon, and, as was faid before, this was the main bufinefs of all that fucceffion of prophets, that began in Samuel.

That

for though mention is made in it of the mountains of Judah and of Ifrael, from whence fome have concluded, that the writer muft have lived after the times of Rehoboam, in whole days the kingdom was divided ; yet we find the diffinction of Ifrael and Judah took place before, even in the times of David and Afaph, [Pfalm Ixxvi. 1.] It is most likely that this book was written by Joshua himfelf, as the Jews in their Talmud affert ; and, indeed, who more fit for it than himfelf? And if written or put together by another, it is most probable that it was taken out of his diary, anuals, or memoirs : and though there are fome things recorded in it which were done after his death, thefe might be inferted under a divine direction and influence by Eleazar, or Phinehas, or Samuel . . . . just as Joshua is supposed to add some verses concerning Mofes at the end of the Pentateuch ; however, be it wrote by whom it may, there is no doubt to be made or the divine infpiration and authenticity of it by us Christians, fince fome histories recorded in it are taken from it, or referred to in Heb. xi. 30, 31. and the promife made to Joshua is quoted, and applied to every believer, chap. xiii. 5. and the apottle James refers to the caufe of Rahab, her character and conduct in it." [Jam. ii. 25.]-[GILL's Comment.7

That Samuel added to the canon of the fcriptures feems farther to appear from 1 Chron. xxix. 29. 'Now the acts ' of David the king, first and last, behold, they are writ-' ten in the book of Samuel the feer.'

Whether the book of Joshua was written by Samuel or not, yet it is the general opinion of divines, that the books of Judges, and Ruth, and part of the first book of Samuel, were penned by him. ( $\kappa$ ) The book of Ruth was penned for that reason, because though it feemed to treat

(K) SAMUEL wrote the books of JUDGES, RUTH, and part of I SAMUEL.] The book of JUDGES—" This book is called Judges, becaufe it treats principally of the great things done by those illuftrious perfons who were raifed up by God, upon special occafions, after the death of Joshua till the time of making a King, to judge, that is, to rule the people of Israel, and to deliver them from their opprefilions.

" It is but conjectured who was the writer of it; fome think Ezra; but it is more probable the prophet Samuel, who was the laft of the judges, and by the direction of God brought down their hiftory unto his own days; when they defired a king to be fet over them. The Talmudifts (in Bava Bathra, cap. 1.) are of this opinion; which Kimchi, Abarbinel, and other great authors follow. And indeed there is reafon to think, that he who wrote the concluion of the book of Jofhua, was the writer of this book alfo; in the fecond chapter of which he inferts part of that which is written there. Certain it is, it was written before David's reign; for the Jebufites were poffeffed of Jerufalem, when this author lived, [ver. 21. of this firlt chapter] who were driven out of it by David, [2 Sam. v. 6.] and therefore this book was written before." [Bp. PATRICK's Comment.]

The book of RUTH—" This book is a kind of appendix to the book of Judges, and a manuduction to the book of Samuel; and there fitly placed between them. It has its title from the perfon whole flory is here principally related, which indeed is wonderful.

" It is very probable, the fame perfon who wrote the book of Judges, was the anthor of this alfo, viz. Samuel; who, by adding this to the end of that book, brought down the hiltory unto his own times; and gave us withal the genealogy of David from Pharez, the fon of Judah, that it might evidently appear, Chrift fprang out of that tribe, according to Jacob's prophecy, [Gen. xlix. 10.] but by a Gentile woman (that all nations might hope in his mercy) full of faith, and of earneit defire to enter into that family; which made her defpife the pride of her own nation, and chufe to live defpicably among the people of Ged." [Ibid.]

The

treat of private affairs, yet the perfons chiefly fpoken of in it were of the family whence David and Chrift proceeded, and fo pointed to what the apoftle Peter obferved of Samuel and the other prophets, in the iiid chapter of Acts. Thefe additions to the canon of fcripture, the great and main influment of the application of redemption, are to be confidered as a farther continuation of that work, and an addition made to that great building.

4. Another thing God did towards this work, at that time, was his infpiring David to flow forth Chrift and his redemption, in divine fongs; which thould be for the ufe of the church, in public worthip, throughout all ages. David was himfelf endued with the fpirit of prophecy. [Acts ii. 26, 30.] ' Let me freely fpeak to you of the patriarch · David, that he is both dead and buried, and his fepulchre ' is with us unto this day: therefore being a prophet, and ' knowing that God had fworn with an oath,' &c. So that herein he was a type of Chrift, that he was both a prophet and a king. The oil that was used in anointing David was a type of the Spirit of God; and the type and the antitype were given together; [I Sam. xvi. 13.] ' Then " Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the 6 midft of his brethren; and the Spirit of the Lord came " upon David from that day forward."

One way that this Spirit influenced him was, by infpiring him to thow forth Chrift, and the glorious things of his redemption in divine fongs, fiveetly expressing the breathings of a pious foul, full of admiration of the glorious things of the Redeemer, inflamed with divine love, and elevated with praife; and therefore he is called the fweet pfalmift of Ifrael. [2 Sam. xxiii. 1.] ' Now thefe ' be the laft words of David; David the fon of Jeffe faid, F f ' and

The FIRST book of SAMUEL—" This book . . . has the name of Samuel, becaufe it contains the hiftory of his life and times; and therefore the Jews fay it was written by him; and as it may well enough be thought to be to the end of the xxivth chapter; and the reft might be written by Nathan and Gad, [I Chron. xxix. 29.] as also the following book that bears his name." [GILL's Comment.] <sup>6</sup> and the man who was raifed up on high, the anointed of <sup>6</sup> the God of Jacob, and the fweet pfalmift of Ifrael.' The main fubjects of thefe fweet fongs were the glorious things of the gofpel; as is evident by the interpretation given and the ufe made of them in the New Teftament: for there is no one book of the Old Teftament that is fo often quoted in the New, as the book of Pfalms. (L) Joyfully did this holy man fing of thofe great things of Chrift's redemption, that had been the hope and expectation of God's church and people from the beginning, and as joyfully did others follow him in it, viz. Afaph, Heman, Ethan, and others; for the book of Pfalms was not all penned by David, though the greater part of it was. Hereby the canon of fcripture was farther increafed, and an excellent portion of divine writ added to it

This was a great advancement that God made in this building; and the light of the gofpel, which had been gradually brightening ever fince the fall, was now exceedingly increased by it; for whereas before there was but here and there a prophecy given of Chrift in feveral ages, now David, in a variety of fongs, fpeaks of his incarnation, life, death, refurrection, afcenfion into heaven, fatisfaction, and interceffion : his prophetical, kingly, and prieftly office; his glorious benefits in this life and that which is to come; his union with the church, and the bleffednefs of the church in him; the calling of the Gentiles, the future glory of the church near the end of the world, and Chrift coming to the final judgment. All thefe things, and many more, concerning Chrift and his redemption, are abundantly spoken of in the book of Pfalms.

This was also a glorious advancement of the affair of redemption, as God hereby gave his church a book of divine fongs for their use in that part of their public worship, viz. finging his praifes, throughout all ages to the end end of the world. It is manifest the book of Pfalms was given of God for this end. It was used in the church of Ifrael by God's appointment ; as appears by the title of many of them, in which they are inferibed ' to the chief " mufician," i.e. to the man that was appointed to be the leader of divine fongs in the temple, in the public worthip of Ifrael. So David is called the fweet pfalmift of Ifrael, becaufe he penned pfalms for the ufe of the church of Ifrael; and accordingly we have an account that they were fung in the church for that end ages after David was dead; [2 Chron. xxix. 30.] ' Moreover Hezekiah the . king, and the princes, commanded the Levites to fing " praifes unto the Lord, with the words of David, and of ' Afaph the feer.' And we find that the fame were ap-pointed in the New Teftament to be made use of in the Christian church, in their worship : [Ephef. v. 19.] " Speaking to yourfelves in pfalms, hymns, and fpiritual ' fongs.' [Col. iii. 16.] ' Admonithing one another in " pfalms, hymns, and fpiritual fongs.' And fo they have been, and will, to the end of the world, be used in the church to celebrate the praifes of God. The people of God before this were wont to worthip him by finging fongs to his praife, as they did at the Red Sea; and they had Mofes's fong [Deuteronomy xxxii.] committed to them for that end; and Deborah, and Barak, and Hannah fung praifes to God: but now first did God commit to his church a book of divine fongs for their confant nfe.

(L) The PSALMS often QUOTED in the New Testament.] About eighty times in the whole, and the greater part of those quotations is applied to Chrift and the things of the gospel. [J.N.]

5. The next thing I would take notice of, is God's actually exalting David to the throne of Ifrael, netwithflanding all the opposition made to it. God was determined to do it, and he made every thing give place that flood in the way of it. He removed Saul and his fons out of the way; and first fet David over the tribe of Judah; and then, having removed Ithbosheth, fet him over all Ifrael. Thus did God fulfil his word to David. He took him from the theep-cote, and made him king over his people Ifrael. [Pfalm 1xxviii. 70. 71.] And now the throne of Ifrael was established in that fa-Ff 2 mily mily in which he was to continue for ever, even for ever and ever.

6. Now God first chose a particular city of all the tribes of Ifrael to place his name in it. There is feveral times mention made in the law of Moles, of the children of Ifrael's bringing their oblations to the place which God fhould chufe; [as in Deut. xii. 5---7. and other places;] but God had never proceeded to do it till now. The tabernacle and ark were never fixed, but removed fometimes to one place and fometimes to another. The city of Jerufalem was never thoroughly conquered, or taken out of the hands of the Jebusites, till David's time. It is faid in Jofhua, [xv. 63.] ' As for the Jebufites, the inhabitants ' of Jerusalem, the children of Judah could not drive them out: but the Jebufites dwell with the children of ' Judah at Jerufalem unto this day.' But now David wholly fubdued it, [2 Sam. v.] and God chofe that city to place his name there, as appears by David's bringing up the ark thither foon after; and therefore this is mentioned afterwards, as the first time God chose a city to place his name therein. [2 Chron. vi. 5, 6. and chap. xii. 13.] Afterwards God showed David the very place where he would have his temple built, viz. in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebufite.

The city of Jerulalem is therefore called the holy city; and it was the greateft type of the church of Chrift in all the Old Testament. It was redeemed by David, the captain of the hofts of Ifrael, out of the hands of the Jebufites, to be God's city, the holy place of his reft for ever, where he would dwell; as Chrift, the captain of his pcople's falvation, redeems his church out of the hands of devils, to be his holy and beloved city. And therefore how often does the feripture, when fpeaking of Chrift's redemption of his church, call it by the names of Zion and Jernfalem? This was the city that God had appointed to be the place of the first gathering of converts after Chrift's refurrection, of that remarkable effusion of the Spirit of God on the apoftles and primitive Christians, and the place whence the golpel was to found forth into all the world; the place of the first Christian church, that that was to be, as it were, the mother of all other churches through the world; agreeable to that prophecy, [If. ii. 3, 4.] 'Out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word ' of the Lord from Jerufalem; and he shall judge among ' the nations, and shall rebuke many people,' &c.

Thus God chofe Mount Sion, whence the gofpel was to be published, as the law had been from Mount Sinai.

7. The next thing to be observed here, is God's folemnly renewing the covenant of grace with David, and promifing that the Meffiah fhould be of his feed. We have an account of it in the viith chapter of the fecond book of Samuel. It was on occafion of the thoughts David entertained of building God an houfe, that God fent Nathan the prophet to him, with the glorious promifes of the covenant of grace. It is efpecially contained in thefe words, Iver. 16.] ' And thy houfe and thy kingdom thall be eftablithed " for ever before thee; thy throne shall be established for ' ever.' Which promife has refpect to Chrift, the feed of David, and is fulfilled in him only; for the kingdom of David has long fince ceafed, any otherwife than as it is upheld in Chrift. The temporal kingdom of the houfe of David has now ceafed for a great many ages; even more than ever it ftood.

That this covenant that God now effablished with David by Nathan the prophet, was the covenant of grace, is evident by the plain testimony of fcripture, in Ifa. lv. 1---3. There we have Christ inviting finners to come to the waters, &c. And in the third verse, he says, 'Incline your 'ear, come unto me; hear, and your fouls shall live; and 'I will make with you an everlasting covenant, even the 'fure mercies of David.' Here Christ offers to convinced finners, an interest in the same everlasting covenant that he made with David, conveying to them the same fure mercies. But what is that covenant that finners obtain an interest in, when they come to Christ, but the covenant of grace?

This was the fifth folemn ratification of the covenant of grace with the church after the fall. The first was with Adam; the fecond with Noah; the third with the patriarchs, Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob; the fourth-was in the the wildernefs by Mofes, and now the fifth is this made to David.

This eftablishment of the covenant of grace with David, he always efteemed the greatest favour of God to him, the greatest honour that God had conferred upon him; he prized and rejoiced in it above all the other bleffings of his reign. You may fee how joyfully and thankfully he received it, when Nathan came to him with the glorious meffage, in 2 Sam. vii. 18, &cc. And fo David, in his last words, declares this to be all his falvation, and all his defire; [2 Sam. xxiii. 5.] ' He hath ' made with me an everlatting covenant, ordered in all ' things and fure: for this is all my falvation, and all my ' defire.' (M)

8. It was by David that God firft gave his people Ifrael the poffeffion of the whole promifed land. I have before fhown, how God's giving the poffeffion of the promifed land belonged to the covenant of grace. This was done in a great measure by Joshua, but not fully. Joshua did not wholly fubdue that part of the promifed land that was ftrictly called the land of Canaan, and that was divided by lot to the feveral tribes; but there were great numbers of the old inhabitants left unfubdued, as we read in the books of Joshua and Judges; and there were many left to prove Ifrael, and to be ' thorns in their fides, and ' pricks in their cyes.' There were the Jebusties in Jerufalem, and many of the Canaanites, and the whole nation of

(M) David prized the COVENANT.] The leading trait in David's character feems to have been piety, which we apprehend to be the exact import of that expression, [1 Sam. xiii. 14.] 'A ' man after God's own heart,' i. c. a man eminently devoted to God, and full of zeal for his glory. And it is observable, that notwithstanding his many and great fins (and far be it from us, to diffemble that many and great they were) he never appears to have countenanced idolatry, the befetting fin of Hrael. The book of Pfalms, which were written at many different times, and in a great variety of circumstances, evinces a mind conversat with the divine attributes, and much engaged in contemplation on the bloffings of the covenant of redemption, and the glories of the Messia, of whom he was both a type and anceftor. [N. U.]

of the Philiftines, who all dwelt in that part of the land that was divided by lot, and chiefly in that which belonged to the tribes of Judah and Ephraim.

And thus thefe remains of the old inhabitants of Canaan continued till David's time; but he wholly fubdued them. This is agreeable to what St. Stephen obferves, [Acls vii. 45.] 'Which alfo our fathers brought in with Jefus (i. e. 'Jofhua) into the poffeffion of the Gentiles, whom God 'drove out before the face of our fathers, unto the days 'of David.' They were till the days of David in driving them out; but David entirely brought them under. He fubdued the Jebufites, the whole nation of the Philiftines, and all the remains of the feven nations of Canaan; [I Chron. xviii. 1.] 'Now after this it came to pafs, ' that David fmote the Philiftines, and fubdued them, ' and took Gath and her towns out of the hands of the ' Philiftines.'

After this, all the remains of the former inhabitants of Canaan were made bond-fervants to the Ifraelites. Before this the pofterity of the Gibconites were hewers of wood, and drawers of water, for the houfe of God. But Solomon, David's fon and fucceffor, put all the remains of the other feven nations of Canaan to bond-fervice, or at leaft made them pay a tribute of bond-fervice. [I Kings ix. 20--22.] And hence we read of the children of Solomon's fervants, after the return from the Babylonifh captivity, [Ezra ii. 55. and Neh. xi. 3.] They were the children or pofterity of the feven nations of Canaan, that Solomon had fubjected to bond-fervice.

Thus David fubdued the whole land of Canaan, ftrictly fo called. But then that was not one half, nor quarter, of what God had promifed to their fathers. The land promifed to their fathers included all the countries from the river of Egypt to the river Euphrates. Thefe were the bounds of the land promifed to Abraham, [Gen. xv. 18.] ' In that fame day the Lord made a covenant ' with Abram, faying, Unto thy feed have I given this ' land, from the river of Egypt, unto the great river, the ' river Euphrates.' So again God promifed at Mount Sinai, nai, [Exod. xxiii. 31.] ' And I will fet thy bounds from ' the Red Sea even unto the fea of the Philiftines, and <sup>6</sup> from the defert unto the river: for I will deliver the in-' habitants of the land into your hand; and thou shalt ' drive them out before thee.' So again, [Deut. xi. 24.] " Every place whereon the foles of your feet shall tread, " fhall be yours : from the wildernefs and Lebanon, from · the river, the river Euphrates, even unto the uttermost ' fea, shall your coast be.' Again, the fame promise is made to Jofhua : [Jofh. i. 3, 4.] ' Every place that the ' fole of your feet shall tread upon, have I given unto · you, as I faid unto Mofes; from the wildernefs and this · Lebanon, even unto the great river, the river Euphra-• tes, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great fea, · towards the going down of the fun, shall be your coast.' But what Joshua gave the people the possession of, was but a fmall part of this land. And the people never had had the poffeffion of it, till God gave it them by David.

This large country not only included that Canaan which was divided by lot to those who came in with Joshua, but the land of the Moabites and Ammonites, the land of the Amalekites, and the reft of the Edomites, and the country of Zobah. All thefe nations were fubdued and brought under the children of Ifrael by David. And he put garrifons into the feveral countries, and they became David's fervants, as we have a particular account in the viiith chapter of the fecond book of Samuel; and David extended their border to the river Euphrates, as was promifed; [fee the 3d verfe; ] ' and David fmote alfo Hadadezer the fon ' of Rehob, king of Zobah, as he went to recover his ' border at the river Euphrates.' And accordingly we read, that Solomon his fon [I Kings iv. 24.] ' had domi-' nion over all the region on this fide the river, from ' Tiphfah even unto Azzah, over all the kings on this ' fide the river.' This Artaxerxes, king of Perfia, takes notice of long after : [Ezra iv. 20.] ' There have been 6 mighty Eings alfo over Jerufalem, which have ruled over < all liiid. chap. of his prophecy. (u) There is fcarce a chapter in the New Teffament itfelf more full of it. And how much, and in what a ftrain, does the fame prophet fpeak from (u) Ifaiab predicted Chrift's SUFFERINGS.] The glorious prophecy here referred to commences with the 13th verfe of chap. lii. and includes the whole of chap. liii. It is fo important and excellent a prophecy, that we are perfuaded our readers will admit the propriety of reviewing at leaft the principal verfes in it.

We begin, for brevity fake, with chap. liii. 4. 'Surely he hath 'borne our griefs, and carried our forrows,' not only by fympathy in, fupport under, and a miraculous deliverance from them; [Matt. viii. 16, 17.] but as flanding in our place, he bare our fins in his own body, [1 Pet. ii. 24.] 'Yet we effeemed him [judi-'cially] flricken, fmitten of God and afflicted.' He was treated by his own people, the Jews, as an impoftor, a blafphemer, and accurfed of God.

Ver. v. 'But he was wounded for our tranfgreffions; he was 'bruifed for our iniquities: the chaftifement of our peace (by 'which our peace is effected) was laid upon him; and with his 'ftripes (or by his bruifes) are we healed.' Wonderful Redeemer! by what extraordinary methods of love and grace doft thou effect the falvation of thy people!

Ver. 6. 'All we, like fheep have gone aftray; we have turned ' every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid (hath made ' to light) upon him the iniquity of us all.' As the fins of Ifrael were laid on the fcape-goat, and fent into the land of oblivion; fo were our fins, in all their aggravated and complicated heinoufnefs, made to meet by imputation upon him; and he fuffered ' the just ' for the unjuft,' to bring us unto God! [I Peter iii. 18.]

Ver. 7. 'He was oppreffed, and he was afflicted'—Bp. Lowth's translation is more elegant and pointed; 'It [i. e. the punishment of fin] was exacted, and he was made answerable,' just as a furety when a debtor becomes infolvent: but whether this version be more exact and defensible, we must not now stop to inquire. —The prophet goes on, 'Yet he opened not his mouth; he is 'brought as a lamb to the flaughter, and as a stop before her 'fhearers is dumb, fo he opened not his mouth.' How literally was this fulfilled in the behaviour of the lamb of God!

Ver. 8. 'He was taken from prifon and from judgment :' but the word [vgr] does not appear to fignify a prifon, nor was our Lord ever confined in one; we therefore here again prefer the rendering of Bp. Lowth, "By an opprefive judgment was he taken off, and who fhall declare his generation?" i. e. as his Loddhip has largely and fatisfactorily proved, 'Who would de-' clare his manner of life?' who fhall witnefs the purity of his K k conduct from time to time of the glorious benefits of Chrift, the unfpeakable bleffings which shall redound to his church through his redemption! Jefus Chrift, the perfon that this conduct and character ?-- Peter, where art thou ?-- Alas! he has denied his Mafter, and the reft of his difciples have all forfaken him and fled. Nor would his enemies have admitted evidence, had it appeared, ' For he was cut off from the land of the living ; ' for the tranfgreffion of my people was he ftricken.'

Ver. 9. ' And he made his grave,'-or rather, ' His grave was " appointed with the wicked, and with the rich,'-not ' in his ' death,' but ' with the rich man was his tomb;'-So Schindler, Drusius, Drs. Hunt, Gr. Sharp, Jubb, Bp. Lowth, &c. which exactly corresponds with the event recorded by the evangelist. [Matt. xxvii. 57-60.]- ' Becaufe (or although) he had done no violence, neither was guile found in his mouth; [ver. 10.] yet s it pleafed the Lord to bruife him, he hath put [him] to grief.' - When thou shalt make his foul an offering for fin,' i. e. as Bp. Lowth, ' a propitiatory facrifice,'- ' He fhall fee (his) feed, ' he fhall prolong (his) days,'-or, ' which fhall prolong their ' days,-and the pleafure of the Lord fhall profper in his hand.' This and the following verfes plainly predicted not only the fufferings of Chrift, and the caufe and nature of them, as an atonement for our fins, but alfo the glory that was to follow, when he fhould fee of the travail of his foul and be fatisfied, which was accomplished when Jefus arofe from the dead, afcended up on high, and bestowed that copious effusion of the Spirit, by which thousands were converted at a fermon.

But what fay the Jews to this prophecy? Some refer it to Jeremiah, others to the people of Ifrael; it is hard to fay which of thefe is moft abfurd, but fome have honeftly confeffed, "The Rabbins of bleffed memory with one lip, according to received tradition, declare that thefe words are fpoken of Meffiah the King."—And when the Spirit fhall be poured out again from on high, then fhall they behold him whom they have pierced, and mourn, and believe in him.

We fhall only add, that by this remarkable prophecy the eunuch was converted to Chriftianity in the apoftolic age, [Acts viii. 27—10.] and near our own times, a noble, but profligate earl, [Lord Rochefler] owed his convertion to the fame means. His lordfhip confeffed, that as he heard this chapter read, "He felt an inward force upon him, which did fo enlighten his mind, and convince him, that he could refift it no longer; for the words had an authority, which did fhoot like rays into his mind, .... which did fo effectually conftrain him, that he did ever after as firmly believe in his Saviour, as if he had feen him in the clouds." [See Bp. Lowth's Ifaiah, and Dr. Gr. Sharp's Arg. from the Prophecies, p. 222, &c. from whom the fubftance of the above is chiefly taken.] this prophet fpoke fo much of, once appeared to Ifaiah in the form of the human nature, the nature that he fhould afterwards take upon him. [Ch. vi. 1.] ' I faw alfo the Lord ' fitting on a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled ' the temple,' &c. It was Chrift that Ifaiah now faw, as we are expressly told in the New Teftament. [John xii. 39---41.]

And if we confider the abundant prophecies of this and the other prophets, what a great increafe was there of the light of the gofpel? How plentiful are the revelations and prophecies of Chrift now, to what they were in the firft period of the Old Teftament, from Adam to Noah? or in the fecond, from Noah to Abraham? or to what they were before Mofes, or in the time of Mofes, Jofhua and the Judges? Great part of the Old Teftament was written now from the days of Uzziah to the captivity into Babylon. And how excellent are thofe portions of it ! What a precious treafure have thofe prophets committed to the church of God, tending greatly to confirm the gofpel of Chrift ! and which has been of great comfort and benefit to God's church in all ages fince, and doubtlefs will be to the end of the world.

§ VI. From the BABYLONISH CAPTIVITY to the COMING of CHRIST.

I COME now to the laft period of the Old Tettament, viz. that which begins with the Babylonifh captivity, and extends to the coming of Chrift, being the greateft part of fix hundred years, to flow how the work of redemption was carried on through this time.---But before I enter upon particulars, I would obferve three things wherein this is diffinguithed from the preceding.

(1.) Though we have no account of a great part of this period in the fcripture hiftory, yet the events of it are more the fubject of fcripture prophecy, than any of the preceding. There are two ways wherein the fcriptures give account of the events by which the work of redemp-K k 2 tion tion is carried on, viz. hiftory, and prophecy: and in one or the other of thefe ways, we have, in the fcriptures, an account how the work of redemption is carried on from the beginning. Although they are not a proper hiftory of the whole, yet therein is contained the chain of all the great events by which this affair hath been carried on from the fall to the end of the world, either in hiftory or prophecy. And it is to be obferved, that where the fcripture is wanting in one of thefe ways, it is made up in the other. Where fcripture hiftory fails, there prophecy takes place; fo that the account is ftill carried on, and the chain is not broken, till we come to the very laft link of it in the confummation of all things.

And accordingly it is obfervable of the period or fpace of time that we are upon, that though it is fo much lefs the fubject of fcripture hiftory, than moft of the preceding, fo that there is above four hundred years of which the fcripture gives us no hiftory, yet the events of this period are more the fubject of prophecy than all the preceding together. Moft of thofe remarkable prophecies of the book of Daniel; alfo moft of thofe in Ifaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel, againft Babylon, Tyrus, Egypt, and many other nations, were fulfilled in this period.

Thus the reafon why the fcriptures give us no hiftory of fo great a part of this period, is not becaufe the events of this period were not fo important, or lefs worthy to be taken notice of, than the events of the foregoing; but there are feveral other reafons which may be given of it. One is, that it was the will of God that the fpirit of prophecy should cease in this period, (for reasons that may be given hereafter); fo that there were no prophets to write the hiftory of these times; and therefore God defigning this, took care that the great events of this period should not be without mention in his word. It is obfervable, that that fet of writing prophets that God raifed up in Ifrael, were raifed up at the latter end of the foregoing period, and at the beginning of this; which it is likely was partly for that reafon, that the time was now approaching, of which, the fpirit of prophecy having ceafed, ceafed, there was to be no foripture hiftory, and therefore no other foripture account than what was given in prophecy.

Another reafon that may be given why there was fo great a part of this period left without an hiftorical account in fcripture, is, that God in his providence took care, that there fhould be authentic and full accounts of the events of this period preferved in profane hiftory. It is remarkable, that with refpect to the events of the five preceding periods, of which the fcriptures give the hiftory, profane hiftory gives us no account, or at leaft of but very few of them. There are many fabulous and uncertain accounts of things that happened before; but the beginning of the times of authentic profane hiftory is judged to be but little more than an hundred years before Nebuchadnezzar's time. The learned men among the Greeks and Romans ufed to call the ages before that the fabulous age; but the times after that they called the hiflorical age. And from about that time to the coming of Chrift, we have undoubted accounts in profane hiftory of the principal events; accounts that wonderfully agree with the many prophecies that we have in fcripture of thofe times.

Thus did the great God, that difpofes all things, take care to give an hiftorical account of things from the beginning of the world, through all thofe former ages which profane hiftory does not reach, and ceafed not till he came to thofe later ages in which profane hiftory related things with fome certainty : and concerning thofe times, he gives us abundant account in prophecy, that by comparing profane hiftory with thofe prophecies, we might fee their agreement.

(2.) This being the last period of the Old Testament, and the next to the coming of Chrift, feems to have been remarkably distinguished from all others in the great revolutions that were among the nations of the earth, to make way for his kingdom. The time now drawing nigh, wherein Chrift, the great King and Saviour of the world, twas to come, great and mighty were the changes that were brought brought to pafs in order to it. The way had been preparing for his coming, from the fall of man, through all the foregoing periods; but now the time drawing nigh, things began to ripen apace, and Divine Providence wrought wonderfully now. The greatest revolutions that any hiftory whatfoever gives an account of, fell out in this period. Almost all the then known world, i. e. all the nations that were round about the land of Canaan, far and near, that were within the reach of their knowledge, were overturned again and again. All lands were in their turns fubdued, captivated, and as it were, emptied, and turned upfide down, and that most of them repeatedly, in this period; agreeable to that prophecy, [Ifa. xxiv. 1.] ' Behold, the Lord maketh the earth empty; he maketh it waile, and turneth it upfide down, and feattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof.

This emptying, and turning upfide down, began with God's visible church, in their captivity by the king of Babylon. And then the cup from them went round to all other nations, agreeable to what God revealed to the prophet Jeremiah, [xxv. 15---27.] Here special respect feems to be had to the great revolutions that there were on the face of the earth in the times of the Babylonish empire. But, after that, there were three general overturnings of the world before Chrift came, in the fucceffion of the three great monarchies of the world that arofe after the Babylonith empire. The king of Babylon is reprefented in fcripture as overturning the world ; but after that the Babylonith empire was overthrown by Cyrus, who founded the Persian empire in the room of it; which was of much greater extent than the Babylonish empire in its greateft glory. Thus the world was overturned the fecond time. And then, after that, the Perfian empire was overthrown by Alexander, and the Greeian fet up upon the ruins of it; which was still of much greater extent than the Perfian : and thus there was a general overturning of the world a third time. And then, after that, the Grecian empire was overthrown by the Romans, and the Roman on it established; which vafily exceeded all all the foregoing empires in power and extent of dominion. And fo the world was overturned the fourth time.

Thefe feveral monarchies, and the great revolutions of the world under them, are abundantly fpoken of in the prophecies of Daniel. They are reprefented in Nebuchadnezzar's image of gold, filver, brafs, and iron, and Daniel's interpretation of it in the fecond chapter, and the vifion of the four beafts, and the angel's interpretation of it in chap. vii. And the fucceffion of the Perfian and Grecian monarchies is more particularly reprefented in the viith chap. in the vition of the ram and the he-goat, and again in chap. xi.

And befide thefe four general overturnings of the world, the world was kept in a conftant tumult between whiles; and indeed was as it were in a continual convultion through this whole period till Chrift came. But before this period, the face of the earth was comparatively in quietnefs: though there were many great wars, yet we read of no fuch mighty and univerfal convultions as there were in this period. The nations of the world, most of them, had long remained on their lees, as it were, without being emptied from veffel to veffel, as is faid of Moab, [Jer. xlviii. 11.] Now thefe great overturnings were becaufe the time of the great Meffiah drew nigh. [Ezek. xxi. 27.] ' I will overturn, overturn, overturn it, and it shall be no more, until he come whofe right it is, and I will ' give it him.' The prophet, by repeating the word overturn three times, has refpect to three overturnings, as in the Revelation, [viii. 13.] The repetition of the word woe three times, fignifies three diffinet woes; as appears by what follows, [ix. 12.] ' One woe is past ;' and again [xi. 14.] ' The fecond woe is paft, and behold the third ' woe cometh quickly.'

It must be noted, that Ezckiel prophefied in the time of the Babylonish captivity; and therefore there were three great and general overturnings of the world to come after this prophecy, before Christ came; the first by the Persians, the second by the Greecians, the third by the Romans:

..

Romans; and then after that, Chrift, whofe right it was to take the diadem and reign, fhould come. Here thefe great revolutions are evidently fpoken of as preparatory to the coming and kingdom of Chrift. But to understand the words right, we must note the particular expression, ' I " will overturn, overturn, overturn it,' i. e. the diadem and crown of Ifrael, or the fupreme temporal dominion over God's vifible people. This God faid fhould be no more, i. e. the crown flould be taken off, and the diadem removed, as it is faid in the foregoing verfe. The fupreme power over Ifrael should be no more in the royal line of David, to which it properly belonged, but fhould be removed away, and given to others, and overturned from one to another : first the supreme power over Israel should be in the hands of the Persians; and then it should be overturned again, and come into the hands of the Grecians; and then it fhould be overturned again, and come into the hands of the Romans, and thould be no more in the line of David, till that very perfon fhould come, that was the fon of David, whofe proper right it was, and to whom God would give it. (w)

That those great revolutions were all to prepare the way for Chrift's coming, and erecting his kingdom in the world, is farther manifest by Haggai, [ii. 6, 7.] ' For ' thus faid the Lord of hosts, Yet once it is a little while, ' and I will shake the heavens, and the earth, and the ' fea,

(w) The CROWN of Ifrael overturned.] In a preceding Note, (c, p. 161.) we have fhewn, that the fceptre was not to depart until Shiloh came; here we fee the crown was to be taken away, and not reflored till the Mefliah's coming. Thefe affertions may appear at first fight inconfishent; but are to be reconciled by a very obvious difficition between the fceptre of the tribe, and the diadem of the kingdom. It is certain, as our author has fhewn, that long before Christ's incarnation the Jews became fubject to the heathen empires, and yet were not wholly flript of temporal power till afterward. They preferved a form of civil, as well as ecclefiablical government of their own; yet were in a flate of vaffalage and fubjection to other crowns. In a word, they had a power, but not the fupreme power, among themfelves.— This makes the accomplishment of thefe prophecies much more remarkable. [I. N.] * all countries beyond the river; and toll, tribute and cuf-* tom was paid unto them.'

So that Jofhua, that type of Chrift, did but begin the work of giving Ifrael the poffeffion of the promifed land; and left it to be finished by that much greater type and anceftor of Chrift, even David, who subdued far more of that land than ever Joshua had done. And in this extent of his and Solomon's dominion was some refemblance of the great extent of Chrift's kingdom, and therefore the extent of Chrift's kingdom is thus expressed, [Pfal. lxxii. 8.] 'He shall have dominion also from sea ' to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth.' [See also I Kings viii. 56.]

9. God by David perfected the Jewifh worfhip, and added to it feveral new inftitutions. The law was given by Mofes, but yet all the inftitutions of the Jewifh worfhip were not; fome were afterwards added by divine direction. So this great type of Chrift did not only perfect Jofhua's work, in giving Ifrael the poffeffion of the promifed land, but he alfo finifhed Mofes's work, in perfecting the inftituted worfhip of Ifrael. Thus there muft be a number of typical prophets, priefts, and princes, to complete one figure or fhadow of Chrift the antitype, he being the fubftance of all the types and fhadows. Of fo much more glory was Chrift accounted worthy, than Mofes, Jofhua, David, Solomon, and all the prophets, priefts. and princes, judges, and faviours of the Old Teframent.

The ordinances of David are mentioned as of equal validity with those of Moses, [2 Chron. xxiii. 18.] <sup>6</sup> Alfo Jehoiada appointed the offices of the house of the <sup>6</sup> Lord by the hand of the priefts the Levites, whom Da-<sup>6</sup> vid had diffributed in the house of the Lord, to offer <sup>6</sup> the burnt-offerings of the Lord, as it is written in the <sup>6</sup> law of Moses, with rejoicing and with finging, as it was <sup>6</sup> ordained by David.<sup>7</sup> The worship of Israel was perfected by David, by the addition that he made to the ceremonial law, which we have an account of from the xxiiid to the xxvith chapters of the first book of Chronicles, confisting in the feveral orders and courses into G g which which David divided the Levites, and the work and bufinefs to which he appointed them, different from what Mofes had done; and alfo in the divisions of the priests the fons of Aaron into four and twenty courfes, affigning to every courfe their bufinefs in the houfe of the Lord, and their particular flated times of attendance there; and appointing fome of the Levites to a new office, which was that of fingers; and particularly ordering and regulating them in that office, as you may fee in the xxvth chapter of the Ift of Chronicles; and appointing others of the Levites by law to the feveral fervices of porters, treafurers, officers, and judges: and thefe ordinances of David were kept up henceforth in the church of Ifrael, as long as it remained. Thus we find the feveral orders of priefts, and the Levites, the porters, and fingers, after the captivity. So we find the courfes of the priefls appointed by David ftill continuing in the Tew Teftament; Zacharias the father of John the Baptift was a prieft of the course of Abia; which is the fame with the courfe of Abijah appointed by David. Γı Chron. xxiv. 10.7

Thus David as well as Mofes was like Chrift in this refpect, that by him God gave in fome degree a new ecclefiastical establishment, and new institution of worship. Not only fo, but by those additions David abolished fome of the old inftitutions of Mofes that had been in force till that time; particularly those laws that appointed the bufinefs of the Levites, which we have in the iiid and ivth chapters of Numbers, which very much confifted in their charges of the feveral parts and utenfils of the tabernacle there affigned to them, and in carrying those feveral parts of the tabernacle. But those laws were now abolified by David;' and they were no more to carry thofe things, as they had been ufed to do. But David appointed them to other work inftead of it; [1 Chron. xxiii. 26.] ' And ' alfo unto the Levites, they shall no more carry the taber-' nacle, nor any veffels of it for the fervice thereof :' a fure evidence that the ceremonial law given by Mofes is not perpetual, as the Jews fuppofe; but might be wholly abolithed by Chrift: for if David, a type of the Meffiah, might abolifh abolish the law of Moses in part, much more might the Meffiah himfelf abolifh the whole.

David, by God's appointment, abolished all use of the tabernacle that was built by Mofes, and of which he had the pattern from God: for God now revealed it to David to be his will, that a temple fhould be built, that fhould be inftead of the tabernacle. A prefage of what Chrift, the fon of David, would do, when he should come, viz. abolish the whole Jewish ecclefiaffical conftitution, which was but as a moveable tabernacle, to fet up the fpiritual gofpel-temple, which was to be far more glorious, and of greater extent, and was to laft for ever. David had the pattern of all things pertaining to the temple flown him, even in like manner as Mofes had the pattern of the tabernacle : and Solomon built the temple according to that pattern which he had from his father David, which he received from God. [ 1 Chron. xxviii. 11, 12, 19.] ' Then David gave to So-' lomon his fon the pattern of the porch, and of the ' houses thereof, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the ' upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours there-' of, and of the place of the mercy-feat, and the pattern 6 of all that he had by the Spirit, of the courts of all the · house of the Lord, and of all the chambers round about, ' of the treafuries of the houfe of God, and of the trea-' furies of the dedicated things. . . . . . . . All this, ' (faid David,) the Lord made me underfland in writing by his hand upon me, even all the works of this • pattern.'

10. The canon of fcripture feems about the clofe of David's reign to have been farther enlarged by the prophets Nathan and Gad. It appears probable by the feriptures, that they carried on the hitlory of the two books of Samuel from the place where Samuel first left it, and finished them. These feem to be the book that in fcripture is called the book of Samuel the feer, and Nathan the prophet, and Gad the feer. [I Chron. xxix. 29.] ' Now " the acts of David the king, first and last, behold they ' are are written in the book of Nathan the prophet, and in the book of Gad the feer.'*

11. The next thing I would take notice of, is God's wonderfully continuing the kingdom of his vifible people in the line of Chrift's legal anceftors, as long as they remained an independent kingdom. Thus it was without any interruption worth notice. Indeed, the kingdom of all the tribes was not kept in that line; but the dominion of that part of Ifrael in which the true worship of God was upheld, and which were God's visible people, was always kept in the family of David, as long as there was any fuch thing as an independent king of Ifrael, according to his promife to David: and not only in the family of David, but always in that part of David's posterity that was the line whence Chrift legally defcended; fo that the very perfon that was Chrift's legal anceftor, was always in the throne, excepting Jehoahaz, who reigned three months, and Zedekiah; as you may fee in Matthew's genealogy of Chrift.

Chrift was legally defcended from the kings of Judah, though not naturally. He was both legally and naturally defcended from David. He was naturally defcended from Nathan the fon of David; for Mary his mother was one of the pofterity of David by Nathan, as you may fee in Luke's genealogy: (N) but Joseph, the reputed and legal father of Chrift, was naturally defcended of Solomon and his

* See Note (K) p. 215.

(N) MARY defended from Nathan.] "I am aware that Mr. Le Clerc, and many other learned men, have thought that Jofeph was begotten by Heli, and adopted by Jacob: but I much rather conclude, that he was adopted by Heli, or rather taken by him for his fou upon the marriage of his daughter, and that Heli was the father of Mary; becaule an ancient Jewith rabbi expressly calls her 'the daughter of Heli,' and chiefly becaufe elfe we have indeed no true genealogy of Chrift at all, but only two different views of the line of Jofeph, his reputed father, which would by no means prove that Chrift, who was only by adoption his fon, was of the feed of Abraham, and of the houfe of David. Yet the apoftle fipeaks of it as evident, that Chrift was defeended from Judah, [Heb. vii. 14.] in which, if this gofpel were (as antiquity affures us) written by the direction of Paul, perhaps he may refer to this very table before us."—[DODDRIDGE's Fam. Expof. § 9.]

his fucceffors, as we have an account in Matthew's genealogy. Jefus Chrift, though he was not the natural fon of Jofeph, yet, by the law and conftitution of the Jews, he was Jofeph's heir, becaufe he was the lawful fon of Jofeph's lawful wife, conceived while fhe was his legally efpoufed wife. The Holy Ghoft raifed up feed to him. A perfon, by the law of Mofes, might be the legal fon and heir of another, whofe natural fon he was not; as fometimes a man raifed up feed to his brother: a brother, in fome cafes, was to build up a brother's houfe; fo the Holy Ghoft built up Jofeph's houfe.

And Jofeph being in the direct line of the kings of Judah, of the houfe of David, he was the legal heir of the crown of David; and Chrift being legally his first-born fon, he was his heir; and fo Chrift, by the law, was the proper heir of the crown of David, and is therefore faid to fit upon the throne of his father David.

The crown of God's people was wonderfully kept in the line of Chrift's legal anceftors. When David was old, and not able any longer to manage the affairs of the kingdom, Adonijah, one of his fons, fet up to be king, and feemed to have obtained his purpefe: but Adonijah was not that fon of David which was the anceftor of Jofeph, the legal father of Chrift; and therefore how wonderfully did Providence work here ! what a firange and fudden revolution ! All Adonijah's kingdom and glory vanifhed away as foon as it was begun, and Solomon, the legal anceftor of Chrift, was eftablifhed in the throne.

And after Solomon's death, when Jeroboam had confpired againft the family, and Rehoboam carried himfelf fo that it was a wonder all lfrael was not provoked to forfake him, and ten tribes did actually forfake him, and fet up Jeroboam in oppofition to him; and though Rehoboam was a wicked man, and deferved to have been rejected altogether from being king, yet he being the legal anceftor of Chrift, God kept the kingdom of the two tribes, in which the true religion was upheld, in his pofferfion; and notwithftanding his fon Abijam was another wicked prince, yet they being legal anceftors of Chrift, God ftill continued the the crown in the family, and gave it to Abijam's fon Afa. And afterwards, though many of the kings of Judah were very wicked, and horridly provoked God, as particularly Jehoram, Ahaziah, Ahaz, Manaffeh, and Amon; yet God did not take away the crown from their family, but gave it to their fons for the fame reafon. So fpeaking of Abijam, it is faid, [1 Kings xv. 4.] ' Neverthe-' lefs, for David's fake did the Lord his God give him ' a lamp in Jerufalem, to fet up his fon after him, and ' to eftablifh Jerufalem :' alfo, [2 Chron. xxi. 7.] fpeaking of Jehoram's great wickednefs, it is faid, ' Howbeit ' the Lord would not deftroy the houfe of David, becaufe ' of the covenant that he had made with David, and as he ' had promifed to give a light unto him, and to his fons ' for ever.'

The crown of the ten tribes was changed from one family to another continually. First, Jeroboam took it ; but the crown remained in his family only one generation after his death, it only defcended to his fon Nadab; and then Baasha, who was of another family, took it, and it remained in his posterity but one generation also after his death; and then Zimri, who was his fervant, took it; and then, without defcending at all to his posterity, Omri took it, and the crown continued in his family for three fucceffions; next Jehu, that was of another family, took it, and the crown continued in his family for three or four fucceffions; and then Shallum, who was of another family, took it; and the crown did not defcend at all to his pofterity, but Menahem took it, and it remained in his family but one generation after him ; and then Pekah, of another family, took it, and after him Hofhea, who was of still another family; --- fo great a difference was there between the crown of Ifiael, and the crown of Judah; the one was continued evermore in the fame family, and with very little interruption, in one right line; the other was continually toffed about from one family to another, as if it were the sport of fortune. The reason was not, becaufe the kings of Judah, many of them, were better than the kings of Ifrael, but the one had the bleffing in in them; they were the anceftors of Chrift, whofe right it was to fit on the throne of Ifrael: but with the kings of Ifrael it was not fo; and therefore Divine Providence exercifed a continual care, through all the changes that happened in fo many generations, and fuch a long fpace of time, to keep the crown of Judah in one direct line, in fulfilment of the everlafting covenant he had made with David, the mercies of which covenant were fure mercies: but in the other cafe, there was no fuch covenant, and fo no fuch care of Providence.

FROM DAVID TO THE CAPTIVITY.

And here it must not be omitted, that there was once a very ftrong confpiracy of the kings of Syria and Ifrael, in the time of that wicked king of Judah, Ahaz, to difpos-fefs him and his family of the throne of Judah, and to fet one of another family, even the fon of Tabeal on it; [Ifa. vii. 6.] ' Let us go up against Judah, and vex it, ' and let us make a breach therein for us, and fet a king ' in the midft of it, even the fon of Tabeal.' And they feemed very likely to accomplifh their purpofe; infomuch that it is faid, [ver. 2.] . The heart of Ahaz and his ' people was moved as the trees of the wood are moved ' with the wind.' On this occasion God fent the prophet Ifaiah to encourage the people, and tell them that it thould not come to pafs. And becaufe the cafe feemed fo defperate that Ahaz and the people would very hardly believe, therefore God directs the prophet to give them this fign, viz. that Chrift should be born of the legal feed of Ahaz; [as Ifa. vii. 14.] ' Therefore the Lord himfeld ' shall give you a fign : Behold, a virgin shall conceive, ' and bear a fon, and thall call his name Immanuel.' (0) This

(0) A VIRGIN foull conceive, S.] That this text referred to Jefus Chrift might be flown from a variety of arguments; as, that this child was to be born of a virgin—that he was to be Immanuel, Lord of Judea, [Ifa. viii. 8.]—that this chcumftance is introduced as a wonderful event, Behold !—that it was confiftent with previous intimations in earlier prophecies, [as Gen. iii. 15.]—that it was fo underflood by a cotemporary prophet, [Micah v. 3.] and is expressly applied to this event in the New Teitament, where the fact is afcertained. [Matt. i. 18—22.]

This was a good fign, and a great confirmation of the truth of what God promifed by Ifaiah, viz. that the kings of Syria and Ifrael fhould never accomplish their purpose of disposseffing the family of Ahaz of the crown of Judah, for Chrift the Immanuel was to be of them.

I have mentioned this difpensation of Providence in this place, because though it was continued for so long a time, yet it began in Solomon's fuccession to the throne of his father David.

12. The next thing I would take notice of is, the building of the temple : a great type of three things, viz. of the human nature of Christ, of the church, and of heaven. (P) The tabernacle feemed rather to reprefent the church in its moveable, changeable state, here in this world. But that beautiful, glorious, costly structure of the temple that succeeded the tabernacle, and was immoveably fixed, feems especially to represent the church in its glorified state in heaven. This temple was built according to the pattern shewn by the Holy Ghost to David, and by divine direction given to David, in the place

But the confideration of thefe would lead us beyond the limits of a note, we fhall therefore only obferve that the principal objection to this interpretation (which is formed from the context) might be obviated by a flight variation in rendering the following words, 'Butter and honey will he eat that knoweth to refufe the ' evil and to chufe the good; but before this child'—not Immanuel, but Sheer-Jafhub, whom the prophet had in his hand, [ver. 3.] before this child—' fhall know,' &c. 'This however we fubmit to the confideration of the learned.

Our author has very happily flewn how the birth of the Meffiah was a fign of Ifrael's deliverance in Ahaz's time; to confirm this and obviate any objection drawn therefrom it might be added, I. That this fign was not given to Ahaz perfonally, but to the houfe of David, [ver. 13.] and, 2. That we have feveral other inflances in fcripture of diftant events being mentioned as the fign of prefent deliverance, one of which occurs in this very prophet. [Ch. xxxvii. 30.] And, 3. That it is cuftomary for the prophets, and in particular Ifaiah, to connect with the prediction of temporal deliverance the promifes of the fpiritual redemption to be effected by the Meffiah. [See Note G. p. 209.]

(P) The TEMPLE a type of the human nature of CHRIST.] This our author has fhown. [See alfo John i. 14.—Col. ii. 7.] But this temple place where was the threfhing-floor of Ornan the Jebufite, in Mount Moriah, [2 Chron. iii. 1.] in the fame mountain, and doubtlefs in the very fame place, where Abraham offered up his fon Ifaac; for that is faid to be a mountemple, (as formerly the tabernacle) was divided into two parts, the Holy and Moft Holy place; the former pointing at what Chrift was and did in his flate of incarnation below, the latter at what he is and does in his prefent flate of exalted glory; as will appear by an induction of particulars:

(1.) The candleftick reprefents him as "the true light which, coming into the world, enlighteneth every man;" [John i. 9.— See Doddridge] and the feven lamps of it reprefent "the feven fpirits, or the fulnefs of the fpirit with which he was endued." [Ifa. xi. 2, 3. Rev. i. 4.]

(2.) The flewbread alfo prefigured Chrift as ' the true bread ' which came down from heaven,' [John vi. 5.] and its division might point out his having a fufficiency of bleffing for all the tribes of Ifrael, to whom in a particular manner he was fent. [Matt. xv. 24.]

(3.) The vail itfelf was a type of his mortal flefh, [Heb. x. 20.] which was rent, to admit us to a flate of communion with him in his flate of exalted glory.

We now come to the fecond part of the tabernacle, prefiguring the human nature alfo, or at leaft the complex perfon, of Chrift, in his prefent exalted flate.

(1.) Herein was contained the golden cenfer, which by an eafy figure may reprefent the incenfe therein offered; and that his powerful and acceptable interceffion at God's right hand, wherein he pleads the atonement once offered, the memorial of which is to God his Father as a fweet finelling favour. [Eph. v. 2. Rev. viii. 3.]

(2.) The ark of the covenant, which has been confidered as a type of the Redeemer, from the incorruptibility of its materials, and the glory of its ornaments; those circumstances (to omit others) pointing to his prefent state of immortality and glory.

(3.) The cover of this ark was the mercy-feat or propitiatory, which term is exprefsly applied to Jcfus Chrift, [Rom. iii. 25.-1 John ii. 2.] becaufe Jehovah beheld the blood hereon fprinkled with fatisfaction and favour to the Ifraelites. Thus the lamb, as if it had been flain, (in the language of St. John) with the bloody memorial of his factifice, appears continually in the Divine Prefence on our behalf. [Rev. v. 6.]

(4.) To omit Aaron's rod, the pot of manna, &c. as not the proper furniture of the ark, though therein deposited: the tables of the law being placed within the ark, has been confidered by divines as reprefering the moral law written in the heart of the Redeemer; mountain in the land of Moriah, [Gen. xxii. 2.] which mountain was called the mountain of the Lord, as this mountain of the temple was, [Gen. xxii. 14.] ' And ' Abraham called the name of that place Jehovah-jireh; ' as it is faid to this day, In the mount of the Lord it thall ' be feen.'

233

and

That the human nature of Chrift was the antitype of this temple, appears, becaufe Chrift being flown the temple of Jerufalem, fays, 'Deftroy this temple, and in ' three days I will raife it up,' fpeaking of the temple of his body. [John ii. 19, 20.] This houfe, or an houfe built in this place, continued to be the houfe of God, where his church worthipped till Chrift came. Here was the place that God chofe, where all their facrifices were offered up till the great facrifice came, and all others ceafed. (Q) Into this temple, or rather the temple afterwards built and the mercy-feat upon them, as indicating that our tranfgreffions of that law are covered by the true propitiatory.

(5.) The cherubims, whether they reprefented the complacency and fatisfaction with which the Deity beheld the blood of fprinkling, or rather the pleafure and earneftnefs with which angels contemplate the work of redemption, as St. Peter feems to intimate, [1 Pet. i. 12, gr.] were certainly a glorious part of the furniture of the moft holy place; but thefe inquiries would lead us too far: all, however, within the vail reprefented what paffed in heaven, when our great High Prieft entered there with his own moft precious blood. [Heb. ix. 24.]

(Q) Sacrifices offered till the great SACRIFICE came.] We have already fhewn that the facrifices and other ceremonial inflitutions were typical, and muft have been fo underflood by the Old Teftament believers themfelves; [p. 176, note  $\aleph$ ] but fome who have acknowledged this, have doubted whether they had any knowledge that the Meffiah was to offer himfelf a facrifice for fin. That they had, we infer from the following arguments:

1. That it appears to have been the current doctrine of the Old Teftament, that without fhedding of blood was no remiffion of fin. The apoftle reprefents it as a very abfurd notion, that the blood of bulls and goats could take away fin; then what other facrifice could avail but human? And what may but the Mefliah himfelf? [See Heb. ix. throughout.]

2. The prophetic writings frequently introduce the Divine Being as centuring the legal lacrifices, and those who offered them; -not, as fome have miltakenly supposed, as not of his own appointment, built in this place, the Lord came, 'even the meffenger of ' the covenant.' Here he often delivered his heavenly doctrine, and wrought miracles; here his church was gathered by the pouring out of the Spirit, after his afcenfion. [Luke xxiv. 53.] Speaking of the difeiples, after Chrift's afcenfion, it is faid, ' And they were continually in the ' temple, praifing and bleffing God.' And, [Acts ii. 46.] fpeaking of the multitude that were converted by that great out-pouring of the Spirit that was on the day of Pentecoft, it is faid, ' And they continued daily with one accord in ' the temple.' Alfo, [Acts v. 42.] fpeaking of the apoftles, ' And daily in the temple, and in every houfe, they ceafed ' not to teach and preach Jefus Chrift.' And hence the found of the doctrine went forth, and the church fpread, anto all the world.

13. It is here worthy to be obferved, that at this time, in Solomon's reign, after the temple was finished, the Jewish church was raifed to its highest external glory. The Jewish church (or the ordinances and constitution of it) is compared to the moon, [Rev. xii. 1.] 'And there ap-' peared a great wonder in heaven, a woman cloathed with H h 2 ' the pointment, but becaufe the carnal fews refted and confided in them without looking forward to their great antitype.

It is particularly foretold, that in the days of the Meffiah fome more efficacious facrifice fhould be offered. [Pf. li. 19.] It is in other paffages exprefsly declared that he fhould fuffer many things. [See Luke xxiv. 26, 27, 45, 46.] Even in the first promife this was hinted, the ferpent fhould bruife his heel. The 22d Pfalm is a clear and exprefs prophecy of these fufferings, which however is exceeded by the 53d of Ifaiah, and Daniel ix. 24-27. where it is exprefsly added, that under these circumstances he should bear the fin of many-our iniquities should meet on him (as on the fcape goat;) nay, that he should make his foul, (or himself) an offering for fin, [Ifa. liii. 10.] yet that after this he should profper in his hand.

3. So express are these paffages, that our Lord calls some of his disciples ' fools, and flow of heart to believe' the law and the prophets, because they did not understand them; and many of the modern Jews can find no way to account for them, but by invention of two Messians; the fon of Joseph to fusier and die, and the fon of David to reign. [G. E.]

<sup>6</sup> the fun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head <sup>6</sup> a crown of twelve ftars.' As this church was like the moon in many other refpects, fo it was in this, that it wexed and wanned like it. From the first foundation of it, in the covenant made with Abraham, when this moon was now beginning to appear, it had to this time been gradually increasing in its glory. This time, wherein the temple was finished and dedicated, was about the middle between the calling of Abraham and the coming of Christ, and now it was full moon. After this the glory of the Jewish church gradually decreased, till Christ came; as I shall have occasion more particularly to observe prefently.

Now the church of Ifrael was in its higheft external glory: Now Ifrael was multiplied exceedingly, fo that they feemed to have become like the fand on the fea fhore, [ I Kings iv. 20.] Now the kingdom of Ifrael was firmly established in the family of which Christ was to come: Now God had chofen the city where he would place his name: Now God had fully given his people the poffeffion of the promifed land, in quietness and peace, even from the river of Egypt, to the great river Euphrates; and all those nations that had formerly been their enemies, quietly fubmitted to them; none pretended to rebel against them :--- Now the Jewish worship in all its ordinances was fully fettled :--- Now, inftead of a moveable tent and tabernacle, they had a glorious temple; the most magnificent, beautiful, and coffly flructure, that then was, ever had been, or has been fince .--- Now the people enjoyed peace and plenty, and fat every man under his vine and fig-tree, eating and drinking, and making merry. [I Kings iv. 20.]---Now they were in the higheft pitch of earthly profperity, filver being as plenty as stones, and the land full of gold and precious stones, and other precious foreign commodities, which were brought by Solomon's thips from Ophir, and which came from other parts of the world: Now they had a king reigning over them who was the wifeft of men, and probably the greatest earthly prince that ever was :--- Now their their fame went abroad into all the earth, fo that many came from the utmost parts of the earth to fee their glory and their happiness.

Thus God was pleafed, in one of the ancestors of Chrift, remarkably to fhadow forth the kingdom of Chrift reigning in his glory. David, who was the man of war, a man who had fhed much blood, and whofe life was full of troubles and conflicts, was more of a reprefentation of Chrift in his state of humiliation, his militant flate, wherein he was conflicting with his enemies. But Solomon, who was a man of peace, was a reprefentation more especially of Christ exalted, triumphing, and reigning in his kingdom of peace. And the happy glorious state of the Jewish church at that time did remarkably reprefent two things; 1. That glorious flate of the church on earth, that shall be in the latter ages of the world; those days of peace, when nation shall not lift fword against nation, nor learn war any more. 2. The future glorified state of the church in heaven: the earthly Canaan was never fo lively a type of the heavenly Canaan as it was then, when the happy people of Ifrael did indeed enjoy it as a land flowing with milk and honey.

14. After this the glory of the Jewish church gradually declined more and more till Chrift came; yet not fo but that the work of redemption ftill went on. Whatfoever failed or declined, God still carried on this work from age to age; this building was still advancing higher and higher. It still went on during the decline of the Jewith church, towards a further preparation for the coming of Chrift, as well as during its increase ; for fo wonderfully were things ordered by the infinitely wife governor of the world, that whatever happened was ordered for good to this general defign, and made a means of promoting it. When the people of the Jews flourished, and were in profperity, he made that to contribute to the promoting this defign ; and when they were in adverfity, God made this alfo to contribute to the carrying on of the fame. While the Jewish church was in its increasing state, the work of of redemption was carried on by their increafe; and when they came to their declining flate, (which they were in from Solomon's time till Chrift,) God carried on the work of redemption by that. Which decline itfelf was one thing that God made use of as a farther preparation for Chrift's coming.

As the moon, from the time of its full, is approaching nearer and nearer to her conjunction with the fun; to her light is still more and more decreasing, till at length, when the conjunction comes, it is wholly fwallowed up in the light thereof. So it was with the Jewith church from the time of its higheft glory in Solemon's time. In the latter end of Solomon's reign, the flate of things began to darken, by Solomon's corrupting himfelf with idolatry, which much obfcured the glory of this mighty and wife prince; now it was, troubles began to arife in his kingdom; and after his death it was divided, and the ten tribes withdrew from the true worthip of God, and fet up the golden calves at Bethel and Dan. Prefently after this the number of the ten tribes was greatly diminished in the battle of Jeroboam with Abijah, wherein there fell down flain of Ifrael five hundred thousand chofen men; which lofs the kingdom of Ifrael never entirely recovered.

Now also the kingdom of Judah was greatly corrupted. In Ahab's time the kingdom of Ifrael did not only worfhip the calves of Bethel and Dan, but the worfhip of Baal was introduced. Before, they pretended to worfhip the true God by these images, the calves of Jeroboam; but now Ahab introduced gross idolatry, and the direct worfhip of false gods in the room of the true God; (R) and and foon after the worfhip of Baal was introduced into the kingdom of Judah, viz. in Jehoram's reign, by his marrying Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab. After this God began to cut Ifrael fhort, by finally deftroying and fending into captivity that part of the people that dwelt beyond Jordan. [2 Kings x. 32, &c.] And then Tiglath-Pilezer fubdued and captivated all those of the northern parts of the land; [2 Kings xv. 29.] at last all the ten tribes were fubdued by Salmanefer, and finally carried captive out of their own land. After this alfo the kingdom of Judah was carried captive into Babylon, and a great part of the nation never returned. Those that returned were but a fmall number, compared with what had been carried captive; and for the most part after this they were dependent on the power of other states, being subject one while to the kings of Perfia, then to the monarchy of the Grecians. afterwards to the Romans. And before Chrift's time, the church of the Jews was become exceeding corrupt. over-run with fuperflition and felf-righteoufnefs. How fmall a flock was the church of Chrift in the days of his incarnation !

(R) Many learned men have conjectured (as perhaps our author) that the golden calves originated from the cherubic figures, one animal in which was a calf or young bull; fome have even fuppofed, that this part of the Egyptian idolatry fprang from the fame fource; and that at first they were only used as the medium of worship and emblems of the Deity: [Stackhoufe, Book vi. ch. 1.] But as the nature of fin is progreffive, fo one degree of idolatry leads to another; and when men once conceived the Deity to refemble calves, it was but one ftep farther to worship thefe calves themfelves.

God, by his gradual decline of the Jewish state and church from Solomon's time, prepared the way for the coming of Christ feveral ways.

(1.) The decline of the glory of this legal difpenfation made way for the introduction of the more glorious difpenfation of the gofpel. The ancient difpenfation, fuch as it was in Solomon's time, had no glory, when compared with the fpiritual difpenfation introduced by Chrift. The church, under the Old Teftament, was a child under tutors and governors, and God dealt with it as a child. Thofe pompous externals are called by the apoftle, weak and beggarly elements. It was fit that thofe things fhould be diminified as Chrift approached; as John the Baptift, his forerunner, fpeaking of him fays, ' He muft increafe, but I muft decreafe.' [John iii. 30.] It is fit that the twinkling ftars fhould gradually withdraw their glory, when the fun is approaching towards his rifing.

239

(2.) This

(2.) This gradual decline alfo tended to prepare for Chrift's coming, as it difplayed the glory of God's power, in the great effects of his redemption. God's people being fo diminished and weakened by one step after another, till Chrift came, was very much like the diminishing Gideon's army. God told Gideon, that the people that was with him, was too many for him to deliver the Midianites into their hands, left Ifrael thould vaunt themfelves againft him, faying, ' My own hand hath faved me.' And therefore all that were fearful were commanded to return ; and there returned twenty and two thousand, and there remained ten thoufand. But still they were too many; and then, by trying the people at the water, they were reduced to three hundred men. So the people in Solomon's time were too many, and mighty, and glorious for Chrift; therefore he diminished them; first, by fending off the ten tribes, and then by the captivity into Babylon; afterward they were farther diminifhed by the great and general corruption that there was when Chrift came; fo that Chrift found very few gcdly perfons among them: and with a fmall handful of difciples, he conquered the world. Thus high things were brought down, that Chrift might be exalted.

(3.) This prepared the way for Chrift's coming, as it made the falvation of those Jews that were faved by him more confpicuous: though the greater part of the nation of the Jews was rejected, and the Gentiles called in their room, yet there were a great many thousands of the Jews that were faved by Chrift after his refurrection. [Acts xxi. 20.] They being taken from fo low a flate under temporal calamity in their bondage to the Romans, and from a flate of great superfliition and wickedness, it made their redemption the more visibly glorious.

I have taken notice of this difpentation of Providence in the gradual decline of the Jewith church in this place, becaufe it began in the reign of Solomon.

15. I would here take notice of the additions that were made to the canon of Scripture in or foon after the reign of Solomon; fome of them by Solomon himfelf, who wrote wrote the books of Proverbs and Ecclefiaftes, probably near the close of his reign. But his writing the Song of Songs, as it is called, is what is cfpecially here to be taken notice of, which is wholly on the fubject that we are upon, viz. Chrift and his redemption, reprefenting the high and glorious relation, union, and love, which is between Chrift and his redeemed church. (s) And the hiftory

(s) The SONG of SONGS curitten by Solomon.] As many ferious minds have doubted the divine authority of this book, and fome critics and divines have too haftily given it up, we prefume it may be an acceptable fervice to our readers, in as concife a manner as poffible, to collect the evidences in its favour :

1. That Solomon composed many fongs or poems is certain, [1 Kings iv. 32.] and fince the title of this book (which is confeffedly very ancient) ascribes it to him, it seems very easy to believe, that as the book of Proverbs was compiled from his wife fayings, this book might be preferved as the most excellent of his fongs. To Solomon, therefore, it has conftantly been referred, and fo far have its enemies generally been from denying it, that this circumftance has been made a principal argument against its authority. This opinion is very much firengthened from feveral paffages in the Song itfelf; [Chap. iii. 11.] ' Go forth, and be-' hold King Solomon;'-[viii. 12.] ' My vineyard is before thee. " O Solomon !' Alfo feveral of the comparisons used, as the tent curtains of Solomon, and Pharaoh's chariot horfes, would hardly have been ufed by a later author.

2. Should it be afked, at what period of his life Solomon wrote it ? If we may form any judgment from the flile and images made ufe of, it was most probably in the early part of it, before his heart was drawn afide from virtue and religion; fo most Christian and many Jewish writers; for that it was not written during the time of his apoftafy, is clear

From, 3. Its early admiffion into the Jewish canon, and the conftant veneration it has received in the Christian church. Among the Hebrews it was ranked in the fame clafs with Daniel and Ezekiel, and forbid to be read by their young men till they arrived at mature age, on account of its mysterious contents. [Preface to Patrick's Paraph.] Josephus, though he does not diffinctly name the facred books, enumerates them in fuch a manner as now be fairly fuppofed to include this. And in the Chriflian church. Melito, Bp. of Sardis, expressly mentions it as early as A. D. 16... [Bp. Cofins' Schoolaftic Hift. p. 15 and 32.]

4. Another argument in favour of this book may be derived from comparing it with other paflages of feripture, particularly Pfalm

242 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

hiltory of the foriptures feems. in Solomon's reign, and fome of the next fucceeding ones, to have been increafed by Pfalm xlv. and Ifa. v. 1, &c. where many of the fame images are applied to divine objects : and if David was the author of the former, as is extremely likely, it is not to be fuppofed that his fon would have taken the fame figures, and burlefqued the piety of his father by applying them to the object of a carnal love.

5. It has indeed been alledged, that the name of God does not occur in this book-that the name of David is differently fpelt in the Hebrew from what it is in other books written prior to the captivity-that it contains no precepts of piety or religion -that its ilie is loofe and immodelt, and that it is neither quoted nor referred to by any other of the facred writers .- The two first have been shewn to be founded on mistake. [Findlay's Vind. of the Sac. Books, p. 452, and the Hebrew of cap. viii. 6.] If the book be allegorical, as we shall endeavour to shew, it must confequently be full of piety and religion. The stile of the original has been proved to be perfectly modelt and delicate, [Michaelis's Notes on Lowth's Prœlect. p. 160.] as well as elegant and beautiful, [fee New Tranflation, 8vo. 1764.] and if fo much cannot be faid for our vertion, fome apology may at leaft be made for the time in which it was made .- As to the last objection, our difficulty arifes from the number of parallel phrafes used in both the Old and New Teitament, which makes it not eafy to afcertain, whether the texts in queflion be or be not quotations of this book; this very objection, however, forms a powerful argument in its favour.

6. A modern Jew, of confiderable learning and ingenuity, has given his opition of the book as follows: "This poem is an entire allegory, as Aben Ezra obferves. . . . It commences, according to his opinion, at the time of Abraham, and extends to the times of the Meffish; and which deferibes (if I may be allowed the exprefilion) the conjugal union of God with the Jewifh church. . . . This is the folemin compact fo frequently celebrated by almost all the Jewish writers under the fame image." [Levi's Dict. in  $\Box \Box \Box$ .] The fentiments of the other Jewifh Rabbins correspondent herewith may be feen in the Preface to Patrick's Paraphrafe. [Gill's Comment. and Peli Syn. Crit.]

It would be leading us too far to review the fentiments of Chriftian expositors—in the general they are agreed, that this Song expressions and fair tual love, which subside the Redeemer and his church, and though we have not been thoroughly pleased with any of the allegorieal commentaries we have seen, it is hoped, the hints given by Bp. Lowth, Profession Michaelin. Mr. Harmer, and the author of the New Translation, on the one hand; and Dp. Patrick, Dr. Gill, and Mr. Henry, on the other, may feme day produce this defideratum. [G. E.]

FROM DAVID TO THE CAPTIVITY. 123

by the prophets Nathan. Ahijah. Shemalah, and Idio. It is probable that part of the history which we have in the first of Kings was written by them, by what is field 2 Chron. ix. 29.---xiii. 15.---xiii. 22.

16. God's upholding his church and tellgion through this period was truly wonderful, confidering the pronentiof that people to idolatry. When the ten tribes had generally and finally forfaken the worfflip of God, he kept up the true religion in the kingdom of Judah a and when ster corrupted themfalves, as they very often did exceedingly, and idolatry was ready totally to extinguish it, yet God kept the lamp alive, and was often pleafed when things feemed to be come to an extremity, and religion at its laft golp, to grant bleffed revivals by temathtble put-pourings of his Spirit, particularly in Hezeklah and Juliah's time.

17. God kept the book of the law from being lok in times of general and long continued hegledt the and earning against it. The most remarkable initance of this kind was the prefervation of the book of the law in the time of the long apoltary of Manalith, and then afterwards in the reign of Amos his fort. Thus while the book of the law was for much neglected, and fuch a carelets and profene management of the affairs of the temple prevailed, that the copy of the law, which used to be laid up by the dde of the ark in the Holy of Holles, was obtifer a long time no body knew where it was. But yet God preferved it from being family for. In Johah's time, when they came to repair the temple, it was found buried in rubbilk, after it had been lost for long that Johah hintelf feems to have been much a stranger to it the now. Jo Kings xxii, S. &c.] T

13. Godis

( $\tau$ ) The book of she have h(h). The enemies of revelation would be glad to prove, and time of them have attempted it, that the book now found was the only remaining copy of the law, and have even inducated, that this might be in great measure fabricated by the priods. But the iscred hiltorian gives no ground for fuch implicions: for, improdug that many copies might have  $1 \pm 2$  been

18. God's preferving the tribe of which Chrift was to proceed, from being ruined through the many and great dangers of this period. The visible church of Christ from Solomon's reign was chiefly in the ten tribes of Judah, The tribe of Benjamin, which was annexed to them, was but very fmall, and that of Judah exceeding large; as Judah took Benjamin under his covert when he went into Egypt to bring corn, fo the tribe of Benjamin feemed to be under the covert of Judah ever after : and though, on occafion of Jeroboam's fetting up the calves at Bethel and Dan, the Levites reforted to Judah out of all the tribes of Ifrael, [2 Chron. xi. 13.]; yet they were also finall, and not reckoned among the tribes; and though many of the ten tribes did alfo on that occasion, for the fake of the worship of God in the temple, leave their inheritances in their feveral tribes, and removed and fettled in Judah, and fo were incorporated with them, as [2] Chron. xi. 16.] yet the tribe of Judah was fo much the prevailing part, that they were all called by one name, they were called Judah; therefore God faid to Solomon, [1 Kings xi. 12.] ' I will not rend away all the kingdom ; 6 but will give one tribe to thy fon, for David my fer-' vant's fake and for Jerufalem's fake, which I have cho-' fen ;' [alfo ver. 32, 36.] So when the ten tribes were carried captive, it is faid, there was none left but the tribe of Judah only : [2 Kings xvii. 18.] Whence they were called Jews.

This was the tribe of which Chrift was to come: and of this chiefly did God's vifible church confift, from Solomon's been deftroyed or loft in the preceding apoftafy, yet the Lord always referved himfelf a people to whom his word was precious, and who would never part from it, but with their lives. The fact here feems to be, that the fludy of the Bible had been miferably neglected; and that the king who was commanded to write out a copy himfelf, [Deut. xvii. 18.] had been brought up in ignorance of it—that the copy now found was a very ancient and valuable manufcript—perhaps, (as the Hebrew phrafe is, in or by the hand of Mofes) the very original itfelf—the difference of which might well be fuppofed to occafion great joy among them. [2 Chron. XXXIV. 14.] [See Gill's Comment.] [U. S.]

lomon's time: this was the people over whom the Kings which were legal anceftors of Chrift, and of the house of David, reigned. The people were wonderfully pre-ferved from deftruction during this period, when they often feemed to be upon the brink of it, and just ready to be fwallowed up. So it was in Rehoboam's time, when Shifhak, king of Egypt, came againft Judah with fuch a vaft force; yet then God manifeftly preferved them from being deftroyed. [2 Chron. xii. 2, &c.] So again in Abijah's time, when Jeroboam fet the battle in array againft him with eight hundred thousand chosen men; a mighty army indeed! [2 Chron. xiii. 3.] Then God wrought deliverances to Judah, out of regard to the co-venant of grace eftablished with David, as is evident by ver. 4, 5; and the victory they obtained was becaufe the Lord was on their fide, [ver. 12.] Again in Afa's time, when Zerah the Ethiopian came againft him with a yet larger army of a thousand thousand and three hundred chariots. [2 Chron. xiv. 9.] On this occasion Afa cried to the Lord and trufted in him; being fensible that it was nothing with him to help those that had no power: [ver. 11.] 'And Afa cried unto the Lord his God, and faid, Lord, it is nothing with thee to help, whether " with many, or with those that have no power.' And accordingly God gave them a glorious victory over this mighty hoft.

So again it was in Jehofhaphat's time, when the children of Moab, of Ammon, and the inhabitants of Mount Seir, combined together againft Judah, with a mighty army, a force vaftly fuperior to any that Jehofhaphat could raife; who, with his people, was greatly afraid; yet they fet themfelves to feek God on this occafion; trufted in him, and were told by one of his prophets, that they need not fear, nor fhould they have any occafion to fight in this battle, but only to ftand ftill and fee the falvation of the Lord. Accordingly they only ftood ftill, and fang praifes to God, who made their enemies do the work themfelves, by killing one another; while the children of Judah had nothing to do, but to gather the fpoil, fpoil, which was more than they could carry away. [2 Chron. xx.]

246 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

So it was in Ahaz's time, of which we have fpoken already. Again in Hezekiah's, when Sennacherib, king of Affyria, the greatest monarchy that was then in the world, came up against all the fenced cities of Judah, after he had conquered most of the neighbouring countries, and fent Rabshakeh, the captain of his hoft, against Jerusalem, who in a very proud and fcornful manner infulted Hezekiah and his people, as being fure of victory; and the people were trembling for fear, like lambs before a lion. Then God fent Isaiah the prophet to comfort them, and affure them that they should not prevail; as a token of which he gave them this fign, viz. that the earth, for two years fucceffively, fhould bring forth food of itfelf, from the roots of the old stalks, without their plowing or fowing; and then the third year they fhould fow and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them, and live on the fruits of their labours, as they were wont to do before. [See 2 Kings xix. 29.] This is mentioned as a type of what is promifed in verfes 30, 31. ' And the ' remnant that is escaped of the house of Judah, shall ' yet again take root downward, and bear fruit upward. . For out of Jerufalem shall go forth a remnant, and they ' that efcape out of Mount Zion: the zeal of the Lord ' of hofts fhall do this.' The corn's fpringing again after it had been cut off with the fickle, and bringing forth another crop from roots that feemed to be dead, reprefents the church's reviving again, as it were out of its own afhes, and flourishing like a plant after it had been cut down feemingly paft recovery. When the enemies of the church have done their utmost, and seemed to have gained their point, and to have overthrown the church, fo that the being of it is fearcely visible, yet there is a fecret life in it that will caufe it to flourith again, and to take root downward, and bear fruit upward. This was now fulfilled; for the king of Affyria had already taken and carried captive the ten tribes; and Sennacherib had alfo taken all the fenced cities of Judah, and ranged the country round round about; Jerufalem only remained, and Rabshakeh had in his own imagination already swallowed that up; as he had also in the fearful apprehensions of the Jews themfelves. But God wrought a wonderful deliverance. He fent an angel, that in one night smote an hundred source and five thousand in the enemy's camp.

10. In the reign of Uzziah, and the following reigns, God was pleafed to raife up a fet of eminent prophets, who fhould commit their prophecies to writing, and leave them for the ufe of his church in all ages. We before observed, that God began a succession of prophets in Ifrael in Samuel's time ; but none of them are supposed to have written books of prophecies till now. Several of them indeed wrote hiftories of the wonderful difpenfations of God towards his church, as we have observed already of Samuel, Nathan, and Gad, Ahijah, and Iddo. The hiftory of Ifrael feems to have been farther carried on by Iddo and Shemaiah : [2 Chronicles xii. 15.] ' Now the acts of Rehoboam, first and last, are they not ' written in the book of Shemaiah the prophet, and Iddo ' the feer, concerning genealogies?' And after that [2 Chron. xx. 34.] ' Jehu the fon of Hanani, who is men-' tioned in the book of the kings of Ifrael.' [See I Kings xvi. 1---7.] And then it was continued by the prophet Ifaiah: [2 Chronicles xxvi. 22.] ' Now the reft of the ' acts of Uzziah, first and last, did Isaiah the prophet, the ' fon of Amos, write.' He probably did it as well in the fecond book of Kings, as in the book of his prophecy. And the history was carried on and finished by other prophets after him. But now did God first raife up a fet of great prophets, not only to write hillories, but prophecies. The first of these is thought to be Hofea the fon of Beeri, and therefore his prophecy, the word of the Lord by him, is called [Hofea i. 2.] ' The beginning ' of the word of the Lord by H fea;' that is, the first part of the written word of that kind. He prophefied in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam, the fon of Joaih,

248 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

Joafh, king of Ifrael. There were many other witneffes, for God raifed up about this time, to commit their prophecies to writing, viz. Ifaiah, Amos. Jonah, Micah, Nahum, and probably fome others; and fo from that time forward God continued a fucceffion of writing prophets.

This was a great advance in the affair of redemption, as will appear, if we confider that the main bufinefs of the prophets was to point out Chrift and his redemption. The great end of the fpirit of prophecy being given them was, that they might give teftimony to Jefus Chrift, [Rev. xix. 10.] 'For the teftimony of Jefus is the Spirit ' of prophecy.' And therefore we find, that the main thing that most of the prophets in their writings infift upon, is, Chrift and his redemption, and the glorious times of the gospel, which should be in the latter days; and though many other things were spoken of by them, yet they feem to be only introductory to their prophecy of these things. Whatever they predict, here their prophecies commonly terminate.

These prophets wrote chiefly to prepare the way for the coming of Chrift, and the glory that should follow. And in what an exalted ftrain do they all fpeak of those things ! Other things they fpeak of as other men. But when they come upon this fubject, what a heavenly fublimity is there in their language ! Some of them are very particular and full in their predictions of these things, and above all, the prophet Ifaiah, (who is therefore defervedly called the evangelical prophet) feems to teach the glorious doctrine of the gofpel almost as plainly as the apofiles, who preached after Chrift was actually come. The apostle Paul therefore takes notice, that the prophet Efaias is very bold, [Ron1. x. 20.] i. e. as the word is ufed in the New Testament, very plain, fo [2 Cor. iii. 12.] ' we use great plainnels of speech,' i. c. ' boldnels,' as in the margin. How plainly and fully does the prophet Ifaiah deferibe the manner and circumftances, the nature and end, of the fufferings and factifice of Chrift, in the liiid.

6, 5

<sup>6</sup>, fea, and the dry land; and I will fhake all nations, and <sup>6</sup> the defire of all nations fhall come, and I will fill this <sup>6</sup> houfe with glory, faith the Lord of hofts.' [See alfo ver. 21--23.] It is evident by this, that thefe commotions, whereby the thrones of kingdoms and armies were overthrown, and every one came down by the fword of his brother, were to prepare the way for the coming of him who is 6 the defire of all nations.' (x)

The great changes and troubles that have fometimes been in the vifible church of Chrift, are [in Rev. xii. 2.] compared to the church's being in travail to bring forth Chrift: fo thefe great troubles and mighty revolutions before Chrift was born, were, as it were, the world's being in travail to bring forth the Son of God. The L 1 apofle,

(x) The DESIRE of all nations.] That this prophecy refpected the Meffiah, we have the clearest proof by comparing this text with Mal. iii. 1, 2. where ' the defire of all nations' is explained of 'the Lord whom ye (Jews) feek, even the meffenger (or an-' gel) of the covenant.' And the house to be filled with glory is called the temple; nor can the Jews in their prefent state of apoltafy any way account (as will be hereafter fhewn) for the glory of the latter temple being faid to exceed that of the former, namely, Solomon's. But why is Chrift called ' the defire of all ' nations ?' Were they indeed fenfible of their guilt and mifery, and ready to embrace the Saviour? Alas! no. But they all groaned beneath the weight of temporal calamity--they were oppreffed with tyranny and fuperflition ; they had alfo fome general expectation of a great deliverer, which they had gathered from tradition, and fome partial knowledge of revelation .--- Thus far they were prepared for his coming; and as Chrift came to deliver them eventually from thefe evils, as well as others of which they had little conception, he might well be called ' the defire of all ' nations.' Farther, he might well be fo called, as uniting in his perfon every attribute and excellence worthy the effeem and veneration of mankind. Riches, honour, peace, and whatever we call good and great, if they have any luftre, derive it from him; and in him, as the grand focus of every ray of bleffednefs which the Deity has emitted, they all unite and complete their glory : " It pleafed the Father, that in him thould all fullnefs dwell.

This prophecy has been ably defended against the objections, and supported by the concessions of Jewish writers, as well as other arguments, by the late Dr. Overn on the Hebrews, vol. i. Exercit. 13. [N. U.]

apofile, in the viiith. of Romans, reprefents the whole creation as groaning and travailing in pain together until now, to bring forth the liberty and manifeftation of the children of God. Thereto the world being fo long a time kept in a flate of war and bloodfhed, prepared the way for the coming of the Prince of peace, as it flowed the great need the world flood in of fuch a prince.

It pleafed God to order it in his providence, that earthly power and dominion fhould be raifed to its greatest height, and appear in its utmost glory, in those four great monarchies that fucceeded one another, and that every one fhould be greater and more glorious than the preceding, before he fet up the kingdom of his Son. By this it appeared how much his fpiritual kingdom exceeded the most glorious temporal ones. The strength and glory of Satan's kingdom in thefe four mighty monarchies, appeared in its greatest height : for those were the monarchies of the heathen world, and fo the ftrength of them was the ftrength of Satan's kingdom. God fuffered the latter to rife to fo great a height of power and magnificence before his Son came to overthrow it, to prepare the way for his more glorious triumph. Goliath must have on all his armour when the stripling David comes against him with a fling and a stone, for the greater glory of David's victory. God fuffered one of those great monarchies to fubdue another, and erect itself on the other's ruins, appearing ftill in greater ftrength, and the last to be the strongest and mightiest of all; that fo Chrift, in overthrowing that, might, as it were, overthrow them all at once; as the ftone cut out of the mountain without hands, is reprefented as deftroying the whole image, the gold, the filver, the brafs, the iron, and the clay; to that all became as the chaff of the fummer threshing-floor.

These mighty empires were fuffered thus to convulte the world, and defiroy one another: and though their power was fo great, yet they could not uphold themselves, but fell one after another, and came' to nothing, even the last of them, which was the strongest, and had swallowed up the earth. It pleafed God thus to fhow in them the inftability and vanity of all earthly power and greatnefs ; which ferved as a foil to fet forth the glory of the kingdom of his Son, which never shall be destroyed, [Dan. ii. 44.] ' In the days of thefe kings shall the God of heaven fet up a kingdom, which shall never be de-· ftroyed: and the kingdom fhall not be left to other · people, but it shall break in pieces, and confume all • thefe kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.' So greatly does this differ from all those kingdoms : they vanish away, and are left to other people; but this shall stand for ever. God fuffered the devil to do his utmost, and to establish his intereft, by fetting up the greateft, ftrongeft, and moft glorious kingdoms in the world, before the defpifed Jefus overthrew him in his empire. Chrift came into the world to bring down the high things of Satan's kingdom, that the hand of the Lord might be on every one that is proud and lofty, and every high tower, and every lofty mountain; [lfaiah ii. 12, &c.] And therefore thefe things were fuffered to rife very high, that Chrift might appear fo much the more glorious in being above them .--- Thus wonderfully did the great and wife governor of the world prepare the way for the erection of the glorious kingdom of his beloved fon Jefus.

up

(3.) Another thing for which this last period or space of time before Chrift was particularly remarkable, was the wonderful prefervation of the church through all those overturnings. This was, on fome accounts, more remarkable through this period, than through any of the foregoing. It was very wonderful that the church, which now was fo weak, and in fo low a flate, and mostly fubject to the dominion of heathen monarchies, should be preferved for five or fix hundred years together, while the world was fo often overturned, and the earth was rent in pieces, and made to often empty and wafte, and the inhabitants of it came down fo often every one by the fword of his brother. I fay it was wonderful that the church in its weak and low state, being but a little handful of men, should be preferved in all these great LÍ2 con-convultions; efpecially confidering that the land of Judea, the chief place of the church's refidence, lay in the midft of them, as it were in the middle between the contending parties, and was very much the feat of war amongft them, and was often over-run and fubdued, and fometimes in the hands of one people, and fometimes another, and very much the object of the envy and hatred of all heathen nations, and often almost ruined by them, great multitudes of its inhabitants being flain, and the land in a great meafure depopulated; and those who had them in their power, often intended the utter destruction of the whole nation. Yct they were upheld; they were preferved in their captivity in Babylon, and they were upheld again under all the dangers they paffed through, under the kings of Persia, and the much greater dangers they were liable to under the empire of the Greeks, and afterwards when the world was trodden down by the Romans.

Their prefervation through this period was alfo peculiarly remarkable, in that we never read of the church's fuffering perfecution in any former period in any meature to fuch a degree as they did in this, under Antiochus Epiphanes, of which more afterwards. This wonderful prefervation of the church through all thefe overturnings of the world, gives light and confirmation to what we read in the xlvith. Pfalm, ' God is our refuge and ftrength, a ' very prefent help in trouble. Therefore will not we ' fear, though the earth be removed, and though the moun-' tains be carried into the midft of the fea; though the ' waters thereof roar, and be troubled; though the moun-' tains fhake with the fwelling thereof.'

THUS I have taken notice of fome general things wherein this laft period of the Old Teflament times was diffinguithed. I come now to confider how the work of redemption was carried on in particulars.---And,

1. The first thing that here offers is the captivity of the Jews into Babylon. This was a great dispensation of providence, and such as never was before. The children dren of Ifrael in the time of the judges, had often been brought under their enemies; and many particular perfons were carried captive at other times. But never had there been any fuch thing as deflroying the whole land, the fanctuary, and the city of Jerufalem, and all the cities and villages of the land, and carrying the whole body of the people out of their own land into a country many hundred miles diffant, and leaving the land of Canaan empty of God's visible people. The ark had once forfaken the tabernacle of Shilo, and was carried captive into the land of the Philiftines: but never had there been any fuch thing as the burning the fanctuary, and utterly deftroying the ark, and carrying away all the facred veffels and utenfils, and breaking up all their stated worthip in the land, and the land's lying watte and empty for fo many years together. How lively are those things fet forth in the Lamentations of Jeremiah! (Y)---The work of redemption was promoted by this remarkable difpenfation in thefe following ways.

(1.) It finally cured that nation of their idolatry. The prophet Ifaiah, fpeaking of the fetting up of the kingdom of Chrift, [ii. 18.] fays, 'The idols he fhall utterly abo-' lith.' When the time was drawing near, that God would abolith heathen idolatry, through the greater part of the known world, it pleafed him firft to aboli n heathenifm among his own people, by their captivity in Babylon.

This

(v) The LAMENTATIONS of Jeremiah.] "There is nothing in all the tragedians, not in Euripedes himfeif, (fo mafterly in his mourning flrokes) that is equally moving and tender with the Lamentations of the Prophet Jeremiah—' O that my head were ' waters, and mine eyes fountains of tears !—O, all ye that pafs ' by, behold and fee if there be any forrow like unto my forrow!' .... It is a piece of fuperlative beauty, and .... comprise all the eloquence of mourning. ' Did we ever find (fays the eloquent ' Dr. South) forrow flowing in feeh a natural prevailing pathos ? .... One would think that every letter was wrote with a tear: ' every word was the noife of a breaking heart : that the authot ' was a man compacted of forrows, diffeiplined to grief from his ' infancy ; one who never breathed but in fighs, nor fpoke but in ' a groan.'' [BLACKWALL's Sac, Claffics, vol. i.]

262 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

This nation, which was addicted to idolatry for fo many ages, and not reformed by all the reproofs, warnings, corrections, and judgments inflicted on them for it, were now finally cured; fo that however fome might fall into this fin afterwards, as they did about the time of Antiochus's perfecution, yet the nation, as a nation, never thewed any hankering after this fin any more. This was a remarkable and wonderful change in that people, and what directly promoted the work of redemption, as it was a great advancement of the intereft of religion.

(2.) It was one thing that prepared the way for Chrift's coming, and fetting up the glorious difpenfation of the gofpel, as it took away many of thofe things, wherein confifted the glory of the Jewith difpenfation. Firft, it removed the temporal diadem of the houfe of David away from them, i. c. the fupreme and independent government of themfelves. The time now approaching, when Chrift, the great and everlafting king of his church, was to reign, it was time for the typical kings to withdraw. The Jews henceforward were always dependent on other nations, until Chrift came, for near fix hundred years, except about ninety under the Maccabees and their pofterity, during which fpace they maintained a fort of independence by continuel wars.

Again, by the captivity, the glory and magnificence of the temple was taken away, and the temple that was built afterwards was nothing in comparifon with it. Thus it was meet, when the time drew nigh that the glorious antitype of the temple fhould appear.

Another thing that they loft by the captivity, was the two tables of the teffimony delivered to Mofes, on which God with his own finger wrote the ten commandments on Mount Sinui. Thefe feem to have been preferved in the ark till the captivity, and were there when Solomon placed the ark in the temple. [I Kings viii, 9.] 'There was no-' thing in the ark, fave the two tables of fione, which ' Moles put there at Horeb.'

Another thing that the Jews now loft, was the Urim and Thummim. [Ezra ii. 63.] 'And the Titshatha faid

• unto

<sup>4</sup> unto them, that they fhould not eat of the moft holy <sup>4</sup> things, till there fhould ftand up a prieft with Urim and <sup>4</sup> Thummin.' And we have no account that this was ever reftored; but the ancient writings of the Jews fay the contrary. What this Urim and Thummim was, I fhall not now inquire; but only obferve, that it was fomething by which the high prieft inquired of God, and received immediate anfwers from him, or by which God gave forth immediate oracles on particular occafions. This was now withdrawn, the time approaching when Chrift, the antitype of the Urim and Thummim, the great word and oracle of God, was to come. (z)

Another thing that the ancient Jews fay was wanting in the fecond temple, was the Shechinah, or cloud of glory over the mercy-feat. This was promifed to be in the tabernacle. [Levit. xvi. 2.] 'For I will appear in the ' cloud

(z) The URIM and THUMMIM.] To enumerate all the different opinions of the learned on this fubject would be tedious rather than edifying. The following are the most generally received:

1. Most Christian writers take the Urim and Thummim to mean the precious stones in the breast-plate of the high priest; but the rabbins will have it that the ineffable name (Jehovah) was inferted between the folds, not by the workmen, as the stones were, but by Moses himself under Divine direction. [Exod. xxviii. xxix.]

2. The anfwer of this oracle muft either have been collected by the peculiar radiancy of certain letters of the names of the cribes engraved on thefe flones; or rather be delivered by a voice from the Shechinah, as at other times, Numb. vii. 8, 9. See 1 Sam. xxiii. 11, 12.—xxx. 8.—2 Sam. ii. 1.—Judges i. 1, 2.—xx. 18. All are agreed that this method was only lawful for the moft eminent perfons, and on the moft important occafions. The Jews add, that it was never ufed after the building of Solomon's temple; and give this reafon, that the tribes were foon after divided, and it could only be lawfully confulted in cafes in which they were all concerned.

If the anfwer was given by a voice from the molt holy, then the only use of the breaft-plate teems to have been as a memorial of the twelve tribes before God, herein typifying him who bears all the names of his chosen people on his heart, and thus conflantly appears in the prefence of God for us.

[For farther fatisfaction on this very difficult fubject, fee Prideaux's Connection, Part II. Book 3. Lever's Dictionary, and Parkhurfl's Lexicon in 78.] [G.E.]

cloud upon the mercy-feat.' And we read of the cloud of glory defeending into the tabernacle; [Exod. xl. 35.] and fo likewife with refpect to Solomon's temple. But we have no account that this cloud of glory was in the fecond temple; and the ancient accounts of the Jews fay, that there was no fuch thing there. This, indeed, was needlefs in the fecond temple, confidering that God had promifed to fill it with glory another way, viz. by Chrift's coming into it; which was afterwards fulfilled, [Haggai ii. 7.] ' I will thake all nations, and the defire of all nations ' fhall come, and I will fill this houfe with glory, faith the ' Lord of hofts.'

Another thing that the Jews in their ancient writings mention as being now withdrawn, was the fire from heaven on the altar. When Mofes built the tabernacle and altar in the wilderness, and the first facrifices were offered on it, fire came down from heaven, and confumed the burnt-offering, [Leviticus ix. 24.] and again, when Solomon built the temple, and offered the firft facrifices, [2 Chronicles vii. 1.] This fire was never to go out. but with the greatest care to be kept alive. [Leviticus vi. 13.] " The fire shall ever be burning upon the altar; it shall ' never go out.' And there is no reafon to fuppofe the fire in Solomon's time ever went out till the temple was deftroyed by the Babylonians; but then it was extinguished, and never reftored. And the Jews, after their return, were forced to make use of their common fire instead of it, according to the ancient tradition of the Jews. Thus the lights of the Old Teftament go out on the approach of the glorious Sun of righteoufnefs.

(3.) The captivity in Babylon was the occasion of another thing, which afterwards promoted the fetting up of Christ's kingdom in the world, viz. the dispersion of the Jews through the greater part of the known world, for the whole nation being carried away far out of their own land, and continuing in a flate of captivity for to long a time, they got them possessions, built houses, and tettled themselves in the land of their captivity, agreeable to the direction that Jeremiah gave in the letter he wrote to them. [Chap. xxix.] And therefore, when Cyrus gave them liberty to return to the land where they had formerly dwelt, many of them never returned; they were not willing to leave their fettlements and poffeffions there to go into a defolate country, many hundred miles diftant, which none but the old men among them had ever feen; and therefore they were but few, but a fmall number that returned. Great numbers tarried behind, though they ftill retained the fame religion with thofe that returned, fo far as it could be practifed in a foreign land. Thofe meffengers [Zechariah vii.] that came to inquire of the priefts and prophets in Jerufalem, Sherezer and Regem-melech, are fuppofed to have been fent from the Jews that remained ftill in Babylon.

to

Those Jews that remained still in that country were foon, by the great changes that happened in the world, difperfed thence into all the adjacent countries. And hence we find, that in Efther's time, which was after the return from the captivity, the Jews were difperfed throughout all the vaft Perfian empire, which extended from India to Ethiopia. [Efther iii. 8.] ' And Haman faid ' unto King Ahafuerus, There is a certain people feat-' tered abroad, and difperfed among the people in all ' the provinces of thy kingdom,' &c. And fo they continued difperfed till Chrift came, and till the apoffles went forth to preach the gofpel. But yet thefe difperfed Jews retained their religion in this difpersion. Their captivity, as I faid before, thoroughly cured them of their idolatry, and it was their manner, for as many of them as could from time to time, to go up to the land of Judea to Jerufalem at their great feast. Hence we read, [AEts ii.] that at the time of the great feast of Pentecost, there were Jews then at Jerusalem out of every nation under heaven. Thefe were come up from all countries whither they had been difperfed, to worship at that feast. And hence we find, in the hiftory of the Acts, that wherever the apothles went preaching through the world, they found Jews.

Antiochus

266 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

Antiochus the Great, about two hundred years beforc Chrift, on a certain occafion, transplanted two thousand families of Jews from the country about Babylon into Afia the Lefs: and fo they and their posterity, many of them, fettled in Pontus, Galatia, Phrygia, Pamphylia, and in Ephefus; and from thence fettled in Athens, and Corinth, and Rome. (A) Hence the fynagogues in those places where the Apostle Paul preached.---This dispersion of the Jews through the world before Chrift came, did many ways prepare the way for his coming, and fetting up his kingdom in the world.

One was, that this was a means of raifing a general expectation of the Meffiah through the world about the time that he actually came. For the Jews, wherever they were difperfed, carried the holy fcriptures with them, and fo the prophecies of the Meifiah; and being converfant with the nations among whom they lived, they, by that means, became acquainted with these prophecies, and with the expectations of the Jews, of their glorious Meffiah; and by this means, the birth of fuch a glorious perfon in Judea about that time began to be the general expectation of the nations of the world, as appears by the writings of the learned men of the heathen that lived about that time, which are still extant; particularly Virgil, the famous poet that lived in Italy a little before Chrift was born, has a poem about the expectation of a great prince that was to be born, and the happy times of righteoufnefs and peace that he was to introduce; fome of it very like the language of the prophet Haiah. (B)

Another

(A) Antiochus transplanted izwo thousand Jezuish families.] "Antiochus had received io many fervices from the Jews . . . and depended io much on their fidelity, that when a fedition broke out in Phrygia and Lydia, he fent two thousand Jewish families to quell it, and keep the country in peace, and was exceedingly liberal to them. It was from these Jews . . . that defcended many of those who were dispersed or feattered abroad—whom we shall afterwards find fo numerous. James i. 1.—I Peter i. 1." [ROL-LIN'S Ancient History, Book xviii. Art. i. § 2.]

(B) VIRGIL refembles Ifaiah.] This alludes to Virgil's Pollio, written about forty years before the birth of Chrift. Mr. Pope's cele-

FROM THE CAPTIVITY TO CHRIST.

267

Another way that this differfed flate of the Jews prepared the way for Chrift was, that it flowed the neceffity of abolifhing the Jewifh diffenfation, and of introducing the new one of the covenant of grace. It flowed the neceffity of abolifhing the ceremonial law, and the old Jewifh worfhip: for, by this means, the obfervance of M m 2 that celebrated Meffiah is written on the correfpondent paffages between the claffic and infpired poets; and their remarkable coincidence is pointed out in the notes; also the fuperior beauty of the latter.

The following is Mr. Dryden's translation of the most celebrated lines in the pastoral of Virgil alluded to, except that the words in Italics are inferted to render it more literal.

" The virgin now returns, Saturnian times Roll round again. . . . . . . . . . . The bafe, degenerate iron offspring ends, A golden progeny from heaven defeends.

Thou ev'ry banish'd virtue shalt reftore, And crimes shall terrify the world no more. The jarring nations he in peace shall bind, And with paternal virtues rule mankind. Unbidden earth shall wreathing ivy bring, And fragrant herbs (the promifes of spring) As her first off'rings to her infant king. – The goats with strutting dugs shall homeward speed, And lowing herds secure with lions seed. His cradle shall with rising flowers be crown'd; The ferpent's brood shall die; the sacred ground Shall weeds and pois'nous plants refuse to bear.

Unlabour'd harvefts fhall the fields adorn, And clufter'd grapes fhall blufh on ev'ry thorn; The knotted oaks fhall fhow'rs of honey weep.''

0, Son of mighty Jove! from heav'n appear; Come to thine honours—lo, the time draws near! The barren hills proclaim the Deity; A God! a God! the woral rocks reply.

Not only Virgil, but Tacitus and Suctonius both fay, an opinion univerfally prevailed all over the eaft, that about this time one out of Judea (hould obtain the empire of the world. This opinion is fuppofed to have originated from the Sybilline books; but whether it came from them, from Balaam's famous predictions, or from the facred prophets of the Jews, is of no immediate confequence, as the fact itfelf is indifputable. [G. E.] that ceremonial law became impracticable even by the lews themfelves, for the ceremonial law was adapted to the flate of a people dwelling together in the fame land, where was the city that God had chofen; where was the temple, the only place where they might offer facrifices; where it was lawful for their priefts and Levites to officiate; where they were to bring their first fruits, and where their cities of refuge were, and the like. But the Jews, by this difperfion, lived, many of them, in other lands, more than a thoufand miles diftant, when Chrift came : which made the observation of their laws of facrifices, and the like, impracticable. And though their forefathers might be to blame in not going up to the land of Judea when they were permitted by Cyrus, yet the cafe was now, as to many of them at least, become impracticable; which thowed the neceffity of introducing a new dispensation, that should be fitted, not only to one particular land, but to the general circumftances and ufe of all nations.

Again, another way that this difperfion of the Jews prepared the way for the fetting up of the kingdom of Chrift in the world, was, that it contributed to the making the facts concerning Jefus Chrift publicly known through the world. For, as I obferved before, the Jews that lived in other countries used frequently to go up to Jerufalem at their three great feafts, which were from year to year; and fo, by this means, they could not but become acquainted with the news of the wonderful things that Chrift did in that land. We find that they were prefent at, and took great notice of, that great miracle of raifing Lazarus, which excited the curiofity of those foreign Jews that came up to the feast of the passover to fee Jefus: [John xii. 20, 21.] Thefe Greeks were foreign Jews and profelytes, as is evident by their coming to worthip at the feast of the passover. The Jews that lived abroad among the Greeks, and fpoke their language, were called Greeks, or Hellenists : fo they are called Grecians. [Acts vi. 1.] Thefe Grecians here spoken of were were not Gentile Christians; for this was before the calling of the Gentiles. (c)

By the fame means, the Jews that came up from other countries became acquainted with Chrift's crucifixion. Thus the difciples, going to Emmaus, fay to Chrift, when they did not know him, [Luke xxiv. 18.] 'Art thou only 'a franger in Jerufalem, and haft not known the things 'which have come to pafs there in thefe days?' Plainly intimating, that the things concerning Jefus were fo publicly known to all men, that it was wonderful to find any man unacquainted with them. And fo afterwards they became acquainted with the news of his refurrection; and when they went home again into their own countries, they carried the news with them, and fo made thefe facts public through the world, as they had made the prophecies of them public before.

After this, those foreign Jews that came to Jerufalem, took great notice of the pouring out of the Spirit of Pentecoft, and the wonderful effects of it; and many of them were converted by it, viz. Parthians, Medes, Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesapotamia, and in Egypt, and the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and the ftrangers of Rome, Jews and profelytes, Cretes and Arabians. And fo they did not only carry back the news of the facts of Chriftianity, but Chriftianity itself, into their own countries with them; which contributed much to the fpreading of it through the world.

Again, another way that the difperfion of the Jews contributed to the fetting up of the gofpel kingdom in the world was, that it opened a door for the introduction of the apoftles in all places where they came to preach the gofpel. For almoft in all places where they came to preach the gofpel, they found fynagogues of the Jews, where the holy fcriptures were wont to be read, and the true true God worshipped; which was a great advantage to the apoftles in fpreading the gofpel. For their way was, into whatever city they came, first to go into the fynagogue of the Jews, (they being people of the fame nation,) and there to preach the gospel unto them. And hereby their coming, and their new doctrine, was taken notice of by their Gentile neighbours, whofe curiofity excited them to hear what they had to fay; which became a fair occasion to the apostles to preach the gospel to them. It appears that it was thus, by the account we have in the Acts of the Apoftles. And these Gentiles having been before, many of them, prepared in fome meafure, by the knowledge they had of the Jews religion, and of their worthip of one God, and of their prophecies, and expectation of a Meffiah ; which knowledge they derived from the Jews, who had long been their neighbours; this opened the door for the gofpel to have accefs to them. And the work of the apoftles with them was doubtlefs much eafier than if they never had any expectation of fuch a perfon as the apofiles preached, or heard about the worfhip of one only true God. So many ways did the Babylonifh captivity greatly prepare the way for Chrift's coming.

(c) GRECIANS—foreign Jews.] "This, for reafons which may be feen at large in Dr. Benfon's Hiltory, appears to me far the most probable opinion . . . as well as that which is generally allowed by all the best commentators." [DODDRIDGE, Fam. Expos. in Acts vi. 1.]

2. The next particular that I would take notice of is, the addition made to the canon of fcripture in the time of the captivity, in those two remarkable portions of feripture, the prophecies of Ezekiel and Daniel. Chrift appeared to each of these prophets in the form of that nature which he was afterwards to take upon him. The prophet Ezekiel gives an account of his thus appearing to him repeatedly, [chap. i. 26] ' And above the firmament that was over their heads, was the likeness of a throne, as the appearance of a fapphire flone, and upon the <sup>s</sup> likenefs of the throne was the likenefs as the appear-' ance of a man above upon it;' [alfo chap. viii. 1, 2.] So Chrift appeared to the prophet Daniel : [chap. viii. 15, 16.] ' There flood before me as the appearance of a • man. And I heard a man's voice between the banks of "Ulai, which called, and faid, Gabriel, make this man · 10

' to underftand the vision.' There are feveral things that make it evident, that this was Chrift, which I cannot now mention particularly.* So Chrift appeared again as a man to this prophet, [chap. x. 5, 6.] ' Then I lift up ' mine eyes and looked, and behold a certain man clothed in linen, whofe loins were girded with fine gold of " Uphaz: his body alfo was like the beryl, and his face ' as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of · fire; and his arms and his feet like in colour to po-· lifthed brafs, and the voice of his words like the voice ' of a multitude.' Comparing this vision with that of the apoftle John, [Rev. i. 13.] makes it manifest that it was Chrift. And the prophet Daniel, in the historical part of his book, gives an account of a very remarkable appearance of Chrift in Nebuchadnezzar's furnace, with Shadrach, Methach, and Abednego, [chap. iii. 25.] ' Lo J ' fee four men loofe,---and the form of the fourth is like ' the Son of God.'

Chrift did not only here appear in the form of the human nature, but he appeared in a furnace, faving those perfons who believed on him from that furnace : by which is reprefented to us, how Chrift, by coming himself into the furnace of God's wrath, faves those that believe in him therefrom, and the wrath of God never reaches or touches them, fo much as to finge the hair of their head.

Thefe two prophets, in many refpects, were more particular concerning the coming of Chrift, and his glorious gofpel kingdom, than any of the prophets had been before. They both of them mention thofe three great revolutions of the world that fhould be before he came. Ezekiel is particular in feveral places concerning the coming of Chrift. The prophet Daniel is more fo in foretelling the time of the coming of Chrift than any prophet had been before, in the ixth chapter of his prophecy; who foretold, that it fhould be feventy weeks, i. c. feventy weeks of years, or feventy times feven, that is, four hundred and ninety years, from the decree to rebuild and reftore

* See Note (1) p. 199.

272 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

reftore the ftate of the Jews, till the Meffiah fhould be crucified; which must be reckoned from the commiffion given to Ezra by Artaxerxes, [Ezra vii.] whereby the very time of Chrift's crucifixion was pointed out, which never had been before. (D)

The prophet Ezekiel is very particular in the myftical defcription of the gofpel church, in his account of his vifion of the temple and city, in the latter part of his prophecy. The prophet Daniel points out the order of particular events that should come to pafs relating to the Chriftian church after Chrift was come, as the rife of antichrift, and the continuance of his reign, and his fall, and

(D) Daniel's SEVENTY WEEKS reckoned from the commiffion given to EZRA by ARTAXERXES.] So Dean Prideaux, Dr. J. Owen, and others, in this manner :

The decree given in the year 457 before the Chriftian æra, from thence to the year Anno Dom. 33, when Chrift was crucified, was 490 years. Now the text fays, ' feventy weeks (i. e. of ' years) are determined upon thy people, and upon thy holy city, ' to finish the transgression, and to make an end of fins, and to " make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlafting ' righteoufnels, and to feal up, (i. e. complete and confirm) the ' vition and prophecy :'--all which were accomplished in the death of Chrift--- ' and to anoint the moft holy.' We have obferved in a preceding note, that the most Holy (Holy of Holies in the Heb.) was typical of Chrift in his flate of exaltation; the term here used may perhaps be in allusion to this event, in connection with his death; by anointing the moft Holy, may be intended his execution of his prieftly office, in offering himfelf upon the crofs, and afterwards entering into the immediate prefence of God, as the high prieft into the most holy place on the great day of atonement.

<sup>6</sup> Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of <sup>6</sup> the commandment to reftore and build Jerufalem, unto Meffiah, <sup>6</sup> the Prince, shall be feven weeks and threefcore and two weeks, <sup>7</sup> i. c. fixty-nine weeks, or 483 years (for fo the words should be pointed and diffributed) and thefe bring us to the time of Jefus Christ, and very near his baptifun.—<sup>6</sup> And the flreet <sup>6</sup> shall be built again, and the wall;<sup>7</sup> i. e. the Jewish state, civil and ecchifatic, established, as well as Jerufalem itself rebuilt, <sup>6</sup> in troublefome times.<sup>7</sup> This fills the first week, or fortynine years. <sup>6</sup> And (then) after (i. e. in the week after) threefcore and two weeks,<sup>7</sup> from the first feven, <sup>6</sup> shall Meffiah be cut <sup>6</sup> off,<sup>7</sup> by death, <sup>6</sup> but not for himself. And the people of that <sup>6</sup> prince and the glory that should follow .--- Thus does gofpel light still increase, the nearer we come to the time of Christ's birth.

3. The next particular I would mention is, the deftruction of Babylon, and the overthrow of the Chaldean empire by Cyrus. The deftruction of Babylon was in that night in which Belthazzar the king, and the city in general, was drowned in a drunken feftival which they kept to their gods, when Daniel was called to read the hand writing on the wall, [Dan. v. 30.] and it was brought about in fuch a manner, as wonderfully to fhow the hand of God, and remarkably to fulfil his word by his prophets, which I cannot now fland particularly to relate. (E) Now that great city,

' prince shall come,' namely, Titus, ' and shall destroy the city and ' the fanctuary, and the end thereof fhall be with a flood; and ' unto the end of the war, defolations are determined.' This refers to the deftruction of Jerufalem, of which in its proper place.

' And he (Meffiah) shall confirm the covenant with many for (or in) one week, and in the midft (or in the courfe) of the ' week,' namely, the feventieth and laft, ' he fhall caufe the fa-" crifice to ceafe,' by the greater facrifice and richer oblation of himfelf. [See Prideaux's Connect. Part I. Book 5. Dr. Owen on the Hebrews, vol. i. Exer. 14, 15. and Mr. R. Winter's Sermons on Daniel's feventy weeks.]

(E) The deftruction of Babylon FORETOLD.] Mr. ROLLIN has collected and arranged the feveral prophecies which referred to this period, and thewn how exactly they were accomplithed. We thall abridge his obfervations, and refer to the texts with which they are fupported.

1. God predicted the Jewish captivity at Babylon, and the time of its continuance to be feventy years. Jer. xxv. 11.

2. The caufes of God's wrath against Babylon were, her pridecruelty to the Jews-and facrilegious impiety. Ifa. xlvii. 6-11.

3. The decree pronounced. The calamities that were to fail upon her, utter and irreparable deftruction. Pf. exxxvii. 8, 9. Ifa. xiii. xiv. Jer. li.

4. Cyrus called to deftroy Babylon, and to deliver the Jews. Ifa. xlv. 1—4.

5. God gives fignal to the commanders and to the troops to march against Babylon. Ifa. xiii. 2-5. xxi. 2.

6. Particular circumftances relative to the fiege and taking of Babylon. The army to confift of Medes and Perfians. If a. xxi. 2. Jer. li. 11.- The city to be attacked fuddenly. Ifa. xlvii. 11. Jer. 1. 24.-Euphrates to be dried up. Jer. 1. 38, 39. 1. 36.-Babylon city, which had long been an enemy to the city of God, viz. Jerufalem, was deftroyed, after it had ftood from the firft building of Babel, which was about feventeen hundred years. If the check that was put to the building this city at its beginning, whereby they were prevented from carrying it to that extent and magnificence that they intended; I fay, if this promoted the work of redemption, as I have before fhown it did, much more did this deftruction of it.

274 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

It was a remarkable inftance of God's vengeance on the enemies of his redeemed church; for he brought this deftruction on Babylon for the injuries they did to his children, as is often fet forth in the prophets. It alfo promoted the work of redemption, as thereby God's people, that were held captive by them, were fet at liberty to return to their own land to rebuild Jerufalem; and therefore Cyrus, who did it, is called God's fhepherd. [Ifa. xliv. latter end; and xlv. 1.] And thefe are over and above thofe ways wherein the fetting up and overthrowing the four monarchies of the world did promote the work of redemption, which have been before obferved.

4. What next followed this was, the return of the Jews into their own land, and rebuilding Jerufalem and the temple. Cyrus, as foon as he had deftroyed the Babylonith empire, and erected the Perfian on its ruins, made a decree in favour of the Jews, that they might return to their own land, and rebuild their city and temple, Babylon to be taken in the midft of rioting and debauchery. Jer. li. 39, 57.—The king feized with inflant terror. Ifa. xxi. 3, 4. Comp. Dan. v. 6.—That he fhould return to his debauchery. Ifa. xxi. 5. Comp. Dan. v. 10.—That the Babylonifh troops, which fhould be chiefly foreigners, fhould be feattered and flee home. Ifa. xii. 4.—That the king fhould not be buried with his anceftors. Ifa. xiv. 19, 20.—The flaughter of his children. Ifa. xiv. 21, 22.

Every one of these circumstances was literally and minutely fulfilled; one of the most remarkable of which was, that Cyrus contrived to render the Euphrates fordable, and introduced his troops by the channel of it, in a night of debauchery and riot, when through the providence of God the guards had neglected to shut the gates. [See ROLLIN'S Ancient Hift. Book iv. art. 2.] temple. This return of the Jews out of the Babylonith captivity is, next to the redemption out of Egypt, the most remarkable of all the Old Teftament redemptions, and most infifted on in fcripture, as a type of the great redemption of Jefus Chrift. (F) It was under the hand of one of the legal anceftors of Chrift, viz. Zerubbabel, the fon of Shealtiel, whofe Babylonith name was Shefhbazzar. He was the governor of the Jews, and their leader in their first return out of captivity; and, together with Jothua the fon of Jofedek the high prieft, had the chief hand in rebuilding the temple. This redemption was brought about by the hand of Zerubbabel and Jofhua the prieft, as the redemption out of Egypt was brought about by the hand of Mofes and Aaron.

The return out of the captivity was a remarkable difpenfation of Providence. It was remarkable, that the heart of an heathen prince, as Cyrus was, should be fo inclined to favour fuch a defign as he did, not only in giving the people liberty to return, and rebuild the city and temple, but in giving charge that they fhould be helped with filver and gold, and with goods, and with beafls. [Ezra i. 4.] And afterwards God wonderfully inclined the heart of Darius to further the building of the houfe of God with his own tribute-money, and by commanding their bitter enemies, the Samaritans, who had been flriving to hinder them, to furnish them with all that they needed in order to it, and to fupply them day by day; making a decree, that whofoever failed of it, timber should be pulled down out of his house, and he hanged thereon, and his houfe made a dunghill. [Ezra vith.] And after this God inclined the heart of Artaxerxes, another king of Persia, to promote the work of preferving the flate of the Jews, by his ample commission to Ezra, Nn 2 f Ezra

(F) The return from Babylon TYPICAL.] "The return of the Jews from their captivity in Babylon was only a fhadow of that deliverance, which the Meffiah was to bring into the world: and the mighty acts which God wrought in the first period, were only faint images of what he would operate in the fecond." [SAURIN'S Sermons, vol. i. fer. 4. Robinfon's Translat.] [Ezra viith.] helping them abundantly with filver and gold of his own bounty, and offering more, as should be needful, out of the King's treasure-house, and commanding his treafurers beyond the river Euphrates to give more, as should be needed, unto an hundred talents of filver, and an hundred measures of wheat, and an hundred baths of wine, and an hundred baths of oil, and falt, without prefcribing how much; and giving leave to eftablish magistrates in the land; and freeing the priests of toll, tribute, and cuftom, and other things, which rendered the decree and commission by Artaxerxes the most full and ample in the Jews favour of any that, at any time, had been given for the reftoring of Jerufalem : and therefore in Daniel's prophecy, this is called the decree for the reftoring and building Jerufalem; and hence the feventy weeks are dated.

And after this, another favourable commiffion was granted by the king of Perfia to Nehemiah. [Nehem. ii.] It was remarkable, that the hearts of heathen princes fhould be fo inclined. It was the effect of his power, who hath the hearts of Kings in his hands, and turneth them whitherfoever he will; and it was a remarkable inftance of his favour to his people.

Another remarkable circumfrance of this reflitution of the flate of the Jews to their own land was, that it was accomplifhed againft fo much oppofition of their bitter indefatigable enemies the Samaritans, who, for a long time together, with all the malice and craft they could exercife, oppofed the Jews in this affair, and fought their deftruction; one while by Bifhlam, Mithridath, Tabeel, Rahum, and Shimfhai, [Ezra iv.] and then by Tatnai, Shetharboznai, and their companions, [chap. v.] and afterwards by Sanballat and Tobiah, as we read in the book of Nehemiah.

We have fnewed before how the fettlement of the people in the land in Jofhua's time promoted the work of redemption. On the fame account does their reltitution belong to the fame work. The re-fettlement of the Jews in the land of Canaan belongs to this work, as it was a neceffary means of preferving the Jewifli church and difpenfation in being, till Chrift thould come. If it had not been for this reftoration of the Jewish church, temple, and worthip, the people had remained without any temple, and land of their own, that should be as it were their head-quarters, a place of worship, habitation, and refort; the whole conflitution, which God had done fo much to eftablish, would have been in danger of utterly failing, long before that fix hundred years had been out, which was from about the time of the captivity till Chrift. And fo all that preparation which God had been making for the coming of Chrift, from the time of Abraham, would have been in vain. Now that very temple was built that God would fill with glory by Chrift's coming into it, as the prophets Haggai and Zechariah told the Jews, to encourage them in building it.

it

5. The next particular I would obferve, is the addition made to the canon of the fcriptures foon after the captivity by the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, who were fent to encourage the people in their work of rebuilding the city and temple; and the main argument they make use of to that end, is the approach of the time of the coming of Chrift. Haggai foretold, that Chrift should be of Zerubbabel's legal posterity, [chap. ii. 23.] This feems to be one of the last and most particular revelations of the defect of Chrift, till the angel Gabriel was fent to reveal it to his mother Mary. (G)

6. The next thing I would take notice of, was the pouring out of the Spirit of God that accompanied the ministry of Ezra the priest after the captivity. Prefently after Ezra came up from Babylon, with the ample commission which Artaxerxes gave him, whence Daniel's feventy weeks began, he fet himself to reform the vices and corruptions he found among the Jews; and his great fuccefs

(G) HAGGAI prophefied of Christ.] "Non dubium est Christum hic defignari, quia hoc nunquam impletum fuit in perfona Zorobabel." i. e. There is no doubt but Christ is here intended, becaufe the promife never was fulfilled in Zorobabel perfonally, [CALVINUS. Poli Syn. Crit. in loc.] fuccefs in it we have an account of in the xth chapter of Ezra; fo that there appeared a very general and great mourning of the congregation of Ifrael for their fins, which was accompanied with a folemn covenant that the people entered into with God, and followed with a great and general reformation. And the people about the fame time, with great zeal, earneftnefs, and reverence, gathered themfelves together to hear the word of God read by Ezra, and gave diligent attention, while Ezra and the other priefts preached to them, by reading and expounding the law, and were greatly affected in the hearing of it. (H) They wept when they heard the words of the law,

(H) EZRA expounded the law. ] "We have a flort, but beautiful description of the manner of Ezra's first preaching. Upwards of fifty thousand people affembled in a ftreet, or large fquare, near the Water-gate. It was early in the morning of a fabbath day. A pulpit of wood, in the fathion of a fmall tower, was placed there on purpose for the preacher, and this turret was supported by a fcaffold, or temporary gallery, where, in a wing on the right hand of the pulpit, fat fix of the principal preachers, and in another on the left feven. Thirteen other principal teachers, and many Levites were prefent alfo, on fcaffolds crected for the purpofe, alternately to officiate. When Ezra afcended the pulpit, he produced and opened the book of the law, and the whole congregation inftantly role up from their feats, and flood. Then he offered up prayer and praife to God, the people bowing their heads, and worfhipping the Lord with their faces to the ground; and at the clofe of the prayer, with uplifted hands, they folemnly pronounced Amen, Amen. Then, all flanding, Ezra, affifted at times by the Levites, read the law diffinctly, gave the fenfe, and caufed them to understand the reading. The fermons delivered to affected the hearers, that they wept exceffively, and about noon the forrow became fo exuberant and immeasuable, that it was thought neceffary by the governor, the preacher, and the Levites to reftrain it. They, therefore, reminded the congregation-that a just grief might run into excels-that there was an incongruity between a fellival and a lamentation-and that on this fellival, there were fingular caufes of extraordinary joy, they were deli-vered from captivity, the law was reflored, and they, the very pooreft of them, had been made by the preachers to underftand it. Go your way, faid they, eat the fat-drink the fweet-fend portions unto them, for whom nothing is prepared. Be not difcouraged--religious joy is a people's ftrength. The wife and benevolent fentiments of thefe noble fouls were imbibed by the whole haw, and fet themfelves to obferve the law, and kept the feaft of tabernacles, as the feripture obferves, after fuch a manner as it had not been kept fince the days of Jofhua the fon of Nun. [Nehem. viii.] And after this, having feparated themfelves from all ftrangers, they folemnly obferved a faft, by hearing the word of God, confeffing their tins, and renewing their covenant with God; and manifefted their fincerity in that tranfaction, by actually reforming many abufes in religion and morals. [See Nehem. ixth and following chapters.]

It is obfervable, that it has been God's manner, in every new eftablishment of the state of his visible church. to give a remarkable out-pouring of his Spirit. So it was on the first establishment of the church of the Jews at their coming into Canaan under Jofhua, as has been obferved; and fo it was now in this fecond fettlement of the church in the fame land in the time of Ezra; and fo it was on the first establishment of the Christian church after Chrift's refurrection ; God wifely and gracioufly laying the foundation of those establishments in a work of his Holy Spirit, for the lafting benefit of the ftate of his church, thenceforward continued in those eftablifhments. And this pouring out of the Spirit of God was a final cure to that nation of that particular fin, which just before they especially run into, viz. intermatrying with the Gentiles; for however inclined to it they were before, they ever after shewed an aversion to it.

7. Ezra added to the canon of fcriptures. He wrote the book of Ezra; and he is fuppofed to have written the two books of Chronicles, at leaft to have compiled them, whole congregation, and fifty thoufand troubled hearts were calmed in an inflant. Home they returned to eat, to drink, to fend portions, and to make mirth, becaufe they had underflood the words that were declared unto them. Plato was alive at this time, teaching dull philofophy to cold academicks: but what was he, and what was Xenophon, or Demofthenes, or any of the pagan orators, in comparifon with thefe men?" [ROBINSON'S Effay on Preaching, prefixed to his tranflation of Claude's Effay, vol. j. page xxii—xxiv.]

them, if he was not the author of the materials. That thefe books were written, or compiled or completed, after the captivity, the things therein contained manifest; for the genealogies are brought down below the captivity; [ 1 Chron. iii. 17, &c.] We have there an account of the posterity of Jehoiachin for feveral fucceffive generations. And there is mention in these books of this captivity into Babylon, as of a thing paft, and of things that were done on the return of the Jews after the captivity; as you may fee in the ixth chapter. The chapter is mostly filled up with an account of things that came to pafs after the captivity into Babylon, as you may fee by comparing it with what is faid in the books of Ezra and Nehemiah. And that Ezra was the perfon that compiled thefe books, is probable by this, becaufe they conclude with words that we know are the words of Ezra's hiftory. The two laft verfes of 2 Chron, are the two first verfes of the book of Ezra.

8. Ezra is fuppofed to have collected all the books of which the holy fcriptures did then confift, and difpofed them in their proper order. Ezra is often fpoken of as a noted and eminent fcribe of the law of God, and the canon of fcripture in his time was manifeftly under his fpecial care; and the Jews, from the firft accounts we have from them, have always held, that the canon of fcripture, to much of it as was then extaut, was collected, and orderly difpofed and fettled by Ezra; and that from him they have delivered it down in the order in which he difpofed it, till Chrift's time; when the Chriftian church received it from them, and have delivered it down to our times. And the truth of this is allowed as undoubted by divines in general. (1)

9. The

(1) The CANON of fcripture compiled by Ezra.] " It is generally received, that after the return of the Jews from their captivity in Babylon, all the books of fcripture having been revifed by Ezra (then their prieft and leader) who digefted them . . . were by him and the prophets of God that lived with him, configned and delivered over to all pofterity." [Bp. Cosin's Scholattic. Hift. of the Canon of Scripture.]

q. The work of redemption was carried on and promoted in this period, by greatly multiplying the copies of the law, and appointing the conftant public reading of them in all the cities of Ifrael in their fynagogues. It is evident, that before the captivity there were but few of them. There was, indeed, the original, laid up befide the ark; and the kings were required to write out a copy of it for their own ufe, and it was commanded to he read to the whole congregation of Ifrael once every feventh year. And we have no account of any other ftated public reading of the law before the captivity but this. It is manifest, by feveral things that might be mentioned, that copies of the law were then exceedingly rare; but after the captivity, the conftant reading of it was fet up in every fynagogue throughout thel and. First, they began with reading the law, and then they proceeded to effablish the constant reading of the other books of the Old Teftament. Leffons were read out of the Old Teftament, both from the law and the other parts of the feripture then extant, in all the fynagogues which were fet up in every city and place where the Jews in any confiderable number dwelt. Thus we find it was in Chrift and the apoftles' time. [Acts xv. 21.] ' Mofes of ' old time hath in every city them that preach him, be-' ing read in the fynagogues every fabbath day.' This cuftom is univerfally fuppofed, both by Jews and Chriftians, to be begun by Ezra. There were, doubtlefs, public affemblies before the captivity. They used to affemble at the temple at their great feafts, and were directed, when they were at a lofs about any thing in the law, to go to the prieft of inftruction ; and they used also to refort to the prophets houfes; and we read of fynagogues in the land before, [Pfalm lxxiv. 8.] but it is not fuppofed that they then had copies of the law for conftant public reading and expounding through the land as afterwards. This was one great means of their being preferved from idolatry. (K)

10. The

(K) The origin of SYNAGOGUES.] "We read of fynagogues, indeed, in the Pfalms; but Dean Prideaux was of opinion that O o the

282 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

10. The next thing I would mention, is God's remarkably preferving the church and nation of the Jews, when they were in imminent danger of being univerfally deflroyed by Haman. We have the flory in the book of Effher, with which you are acquainted. This feries of providences was very wonderful in preventing this deftruction. Effher was doubtlefs born for this end to be the inftrument of this remarkable prefervation. (L)

11. After this the canon of fcripture was farther enlarged in the books of Nchemiah and Effher; the one by Nchemiah himfelf; and whether the other was written by Nchemiah, or Mordecai, or Malachi, is not of importance for us to know, fo long as it is one of thofe books that were always admitted and received as a part of their canon by the Jews, and was among thofe that the Jews called their fcriptures in Chrift's time, and fuch as was approved by him. For Chrift does often, in his fpeeches to the Jews, manifeftly approve and confirm thofe books, which amongft them went by the name of the fcriptures, as might eafily be flown, if there were time for it. (M) the word [מועדי] which fignifies any affemblies, there intends rather the profeucha, open courts where the people met to pray, each for himfelf, than proper fynagogues.

12. After

"The fervice of the fynagogues confiled of prayers, reading, and expounding or preaching, and it is thought that their whole fervice was conducted in a manner fimilar to that of our parifh churches.—And this inflitution feems to be preferved among them, with little variation, to the prefent day." [See Prideaux's Connect. part 1. book 6.]

(L) The Jews delivered from HAMAN's cruelty.] "There is hardly any hiftory of the Old Teftament, (except the life of Joieph) that more difplays the myfteries of divine Providence, than the book of Effher; particularly, we may obferve the extremity to which God fuffered his people to be driven; and the wonderful manner in which he delivered them by bringing all the cruelties of wicked Haman on his own head. The Jews effected this book in value next to the Pentateuch, and in memory of the falvation herein recorded, keep the feaft of Purim to this day." [See Stackboufe's Hift. of the Bible, book vii. chap. 2.]

(M) CHRIST confirmed the Old Testament.] ' Search the fcrip-' tures,'—i. e. of the Old Testament, for no part of the New was

12. After this the canon of the Old Testament was compleated and fealed by Malachi. The manner of concluding this prophecy feems to imply, that they were to expect no more prophecies, nor any more written revelations from God, till Chrift thould come. For in the last chapter he prophesies of Christ's coming ; [ver. 2, 3.] " But unto you that fear my name, shall the Sun of ' righteoufnels arife with healing in his wings; and ye " shall go forth and grow up as calves of the stall. And · he shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be as · ashes under the foles of your feet, in the day that I " fhall do this, faith the Lord of hofts." Then we read in ver. 4. ' Remember ye the law of Mofes my fervant ' which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Ifrael, ' with the ftatutes and judgments,' i. e. Remember and improve what ye have; keep close to that written rule you have, as expecting no more additions to it, till the Old Testament is over, and the Sun of righteousness shall at length arife.

13. Soon after this, the fpirit of prophecy ceafed among that people till the time of the New Teftament. Thus the Old Teftament lights, the ftars of the long night, began a pace to hide their heads, the time of the Sun of righteoufnefs now drawing nigh. We before obferved, how the Kings of the houfe of David ceafed before the true king and head of the church came; and how the cloud of glory withdrew, before Chrift, the brightnefs of the Father's glory, appeared; and fo as to feveral other things. And now at laft the fpirit of prophecy ceafed. The time of the great Prophet of God was now fo nigh, it was time for their typical prophets to be filent.

WE have now gone through with the time that we have any hiftorical account of in the writings of the Old  $O \circ 2$  Tefta-was written till fome time after our Lord's death,—" for in them " ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they that tettify of " me." [John v. 39. fee alfo ver. 46, and Luke xvi. 29.]

283

Testament, and the last thing that was mentioned, by which the work of redemption was promoted, was the ceasing of the spirit of prophecy.

I now proceed to flow how the work of redemption was carried on through the remaining times that were before Chrift: in which we have not that thread of fcripture hiftory to guide us which we have had hitherto; but we have thefe three things to direct us, viz. the prophecies of the Old Teftament, human hiftories of thofe times, and fome occafional mention made of things which then happened, in the books of the New Teftament. Therefore,

14. The next particular that I fhall mention under this period, is the deftruction of the Perfian empire, and fetting up of the Grecian empire by Alexander. This came to pafs about fixty or feventy years after the times wherein the prophet Malachi is fuppofed to have prophefied, and about three hundred and thirty years before Chrift. This was the third overturning of the world that came to pafs in this period, and was greater and more remarkable than either of the foregoing. It was very remarkable on account of the fuddennefs of that conqueft of the world which Alexander made, and the greatnefs of the empire which he fet up, which much exceeded all the foregoing in its extent.

This event is much fpoken of in the prophecies of Daniel. This empire is reprefented by the third kingdom of brafs in Daniel's interpretation of Nebuchadnezzar's dream, [Dan. ii.] and in Daniel's vifion of the four beafts is intended by the third beaft that was like a leopard, that had on his back four wings of a fowl, to reprefent the fwiftnefs of its conqueft, [chap. vii.] and is more particularly reprefented by the he-goat, [chap. viii.] ' that came from the weft on the face of the whole ' earth, and touched not the ground,' to reprefent how fwiftly Alexander over-ran the world. The angel himfelf does exprefsly interpret this he-goat to fignify the king of Grecia, [ver. 21.] ' The rough goat is the king of Grecia; and and the great horn that is between his eyes is the first king,' i.e. Alexander himfelf. (N)

After

(N) The vision of the GOAT and of the LEOPARD.] " A goat is very properly made the type of the Grecian or Macedonian empire, becaufe . . . Caranus, their first king, going with a great multitude of Greeks to feek new habitations in Macedonia, was commanded by the oracle to take the goats for his guides to empire: and afterwards feeing a herd of goats flying from a violent ftorm, he followed them to Edeffa, and there fixed his feat of empire, made the goats his enfigns or flandards, and called the city Egex or the goat's town, and the people Egeadæ or the goat's people. And to this may be added that the city Egeæ or Egæ was the ufual buryingplace of the Macedonian kings. It is also very remarkable, that Alexander's fon by Roxana was named Alexander Ægus, or the fon of the goat; and fome of Alexander's fucceffors are reprefented in their coins with goat's horns. This 'he-goat came from the weft;' and who is ignorant that Europe lieth weftward of Afia? He came on the face of the whole earth, carrying every thing before him in all the three parts of the world then known; 'and he touched not ' the ground,' his marches were fo fwift and his conquefts fo rapid, that he might be faid in a manner to fly over the ground without touching it. For the fame reafon the fame empire in the former vifion was likened to a leopard, which is a fwift, nimble animal, and to denote the greater quickness and impetuolity, to a leopard with four wings. 'And the goat had a notable horn between his eyes:' this horn, faith the angel, is the first king, or kingdom of the Greeks in Afia, which was erected by Alexander the Great, and continued for fome years in his brother Philip Aridæus, and his two young fons.

" In the two next verfes (6, 7.) we have an account of the Grecians overthrowing the Perfian empire. 'And he came to ' the ram that had two horns, which I had feen flanding before the " river, and ran unto him in the fury of his power." One can hardly read thefe words without having fome image of Darius's army flanding and guarding the river Granicus, and of Alexander on the other fide with his forces plunging in, fwimming across the ftream, and rushing on the enemy with all the fire and fury that can be imagined. . . . ' And I faw him come clofe unto the ram:' he had feveral clofe engagements with the king of Perfia. 'And ' he was moved with choler against him,' for the cruelties which the Perfians had exercifed towards the Grecians: and for Darius's attempting to corrupt fometimes his foldiers to betray him, and fometimes his friends to destroy him ; fo that he would not listen to the moft advantageous offers of peace. ' And he fmote the ' ram, and brake his two horns :' he fubdued Perfia and Media, with the other provinces and kingdoms of the Perfian empire: . . . and in Media, Darius was feized and made a prifoner by fome of his own

285

286 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

After Alexander had conquered the world, he foon died, and his dominion did not defcend to his posterity, but four of his principal captains divided his empire between them, as it there follows. Now that being broken, whereas four flood up for it, ' four kingdoms ' shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power;' fo you may fee in the xith chapter of Daniel. The angel, after foretelling of the Perfian empire, then proceeds to foretell of Alexander, [ver. 3.] ' And a mighty ' king shall stand up, that shall rule with great domi-' nion, and do according to his will.' And then he foretells, [ver. 4th.] of the dividing of his kingdom, between his four captains; ' And when he shall stand ' up, his kingdom thall be broken, and thall be divided ' toward the four winds of heaven; and not to his pof-' terity, nor according to his dominion which he ruled : for ' his kingdom shall be plucked up, even for others besides ' thofe.' Two of thefe four captains, whole kingdoms were next to Judea, the one had Egypt and the neighbouring countries on the fouth of Judea, and the other had Syria and the neighbouring countries north of Judea; and thefe two are thofe that are called the kings of the north and of the fouth in the xith chapter of Daniel. (o) own traitor fubjects, who not long after bafely murdered him. ' And ' there was no power in the ram to fland before him, but he caft " him down to the ground, and ftamped upon him;" he conquered wherever he came, routed all the forces, took all the cities and caftles, and entirely fubverted and ruined the Perfian empire. ' And " there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand;" not even his numerous armies could defend the king of Perfia, though his forces in the battle of Iffus amounted to 600,000 men, and in that of Arbela to ten or eleven hundred thousand, whereas the whole number of Alexander's was not more than 47,000 in either engagement. So true is the observation of the Pfalmist, (xxxiii. 16.) ' There is no king faved by the multitude of an hoft:' and especially when God hath decreed the fall of empires, then even the greateft must fall. The fortune of Alexander, of which fo much hath been faid, .... was nothing but the providence of God." [Bp. NEWTON on the prophecies, vol. ii. differt 15.]

Now,

(0) Alexander's cmpire DIVIDED.] "The empire of the goat was in its full flrength when Alexander died of a fever at Babylon.

He

Now, this fetting up of the Grecian empire did greatly prepare the way for Chrift's coming, and erecting his kingdom in the world. Befides thefe ways common to the other overturnings of the world in this period, that have been already mentioned, there is one peculiar to this revolution which I would take notice of, which did remarkably promote the work of redemption; and that was, that it made the Greek language common in the world. To have one common language understood and ufed through the greater part of the world, was a thing that did greatly prepare the way for the fetting up of Chrift's kingdom. This gave advantage for fpreading the gofpel from one nation to another, and fo through all nations, with vaftly greater eafe, than if every nation had a diffinct language, and did not understand any other. For though fome of the first preachers of the gospel had the gift of languages, fo that they could preach in any language; yet all had not this particular gift; and they that had, could not exercife it when they would, but only at fpecial

He was fucceeded in the throne by his natural brother Philip Aridæus, and by his own two fons, Alexander Ægus and Hercules: but in the fpace of about fifteen years they were all murdered, and then the first horn or kingdom was entirely broken. The royal family being thus extinct, the governors of provinces, who had usurped the power, affumed the title of kings; and by the defeat and death of Antigonus in the battle of Ipfus, they were reduced to four, Caffander, Lyfimachus, Ptolemy, and Seleucus, who parted Alexander's dominions between them, and divided and fettled them into four kingdoms. These four kingdoms are the four notable horns which came up in the room of the first great horn; and are the fame as the four heads of the leopard in the former vision. . . Four king-" doms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power;" they were to be kingdoms of Greeks, not of Alexander's own family, but only of his nation; and neither were they to be equal to him in power and dominion, as an empire united is certainly more powerful than the fame empire divided, and the whole is greater than any of the parts. They were likewife to extend 'toward the ' four winds of heaven :' and in the partition of the empire, Caifander held Macedon, and Greece, and the western parts; Lysimachus had Thrace, Bithynia, and the northern regions; Ptolemy poffeffed Egypt, and the fouthern countries; and Seleucus obtained Syria, and the eaftern provinces." [Bp. NEWTON on the Prophecies, vol. ii. differt. 15.]

287

fpecial feafons, when the Spirit of God was pleafed to infpire them in this way. And the church in different parts of the world, as the churches of Jerufalem, Antioch, Galatia, Corinth, and others, which were in countries diftant one from another, could not have had that communication one with another, which we have an account of in the book of Acts, if they had had no common language. So it was before the Grecian empire was fet up. But after this, many in all these countries well underftood the fame language, viz. the Greek; which wonderfully opened the door for mutual communication between those churches, so far separated one from another. And again, the making the Greek language common through fo great a part of the world, did wonderfully make way for the fetting up of the kingdom of Chrift, becaufe it was the language in which the New Teftament was to be originally written. The apofiles propagated the gofpel through many fcores of nations; and if they could not have underftood the Bible any otherwife than as it was translated into fo many languages, it would have rendered the fpreading of the gofpel vaftly more difficult. But by the Greek language being made common to all, they all underftood the New Teftament of Jefus Chrift in the language in which the apoftles and evangelists originally wrote it : fo that as foon as ever it was written by its original penmen, it immediately lay open to the world in a language that was commonly underftood.

15. The next thing I fhall take notice of, is the tranflation of the fcriptures of the Old Teftament into the Greek language, which is commonly called the Septuagint, or the tranflation of the Seventy. This is fuppoted to have been made about fifty or fixty years after Alexander's conquering the world. This is the firft tranflation that ever was made of the fcriptures that we have any credible account of. The canon of the Old Teftament had been completed by the prophet Malachi but about an hundred and twenty years before in its original; and hitherto the fcriptures had remained locked up up from all other nations but the Jews, in the Hebrew tongue, which was underftood by no other nation. But now it was tranflated into the Greek language, which, as we obferved before, was a language commonly underftood by the nations of the world.

This translation of the Old Testament is still extant, and is commonly in the hands of learned men in these days, and is made great use of by them. The Jews have many fables about the occafion and manner of this tranflation ; but the truth of the cafe is fuppofed to be this, that multitudes of the Jews living in other parts of the world befides Judea, and being born and bred among the Greeks, the Greek became their common language, and they did not understand the original Hebrew; and therefore they procured the feriptures to be translated for their use into the Greek language : and fo henceforward the Jews, in all countries, except Judca, were wont in their fynagogues to make use of this translation instead of the Hebrew. (P)

This translation of the fcriptures into a language commonly underftood through the world, prepared the way for Chrift's coming, and fetting up his kingdom in the world, and afterwards did greatly promote it. For as the apofiles went preaching through the world, they made Ρp great

(P) The SEPTUAGINT translation.] It is " almost unanimously admitted, that about 300 years before the advent of Jefus Chrift, a Greek tranflation of the Old Tellament was made at Alexandria, for the use of the ... Jews ... fettled there .... the far greater part of whom had loft their native language-That at firft the five books of Mofes only were translated, because they were the only books which were then read in the fynagogues-That after the tyrannics of Antiochus Epiphanes, the reading of the prophecies being then introduced, the prophecies were also tranilated-That this version was fpread through all those parts of the world where the Greek language was used, or where Jews dwelt -And that the apollics, preaching the golpelin the known parts of the world, made use of [this] version-and that this version was one of the preparations which Providence had employed for the call of the Gentiles." SAURIN's Sermons, translated by Robinfon, vol. iii. p. 147, 8. For a fuller account of this version fee Prideaux's Connect. part 2. book 1.7

great use of the fcriptures of the Old Testament, and especially of the prophecies concerning Chrift contained in them. And by means of this translation, and by the Jews being fcattered every where, they had the fcriptures at hand in a language that was underflood by the Gentiles: and they principally made use of this translation in their preaching and writings wherever they went ; as is evident by this, that in all the quotations that are made out of the Old Teftament in their writings, they are almost every where in the very words of the Septuagint; they being both written in the fame language. This makes it evident, that the apofiles, in their preaching and writings, commonly made use of this translation. So this very translation was that which was principally used in Christian churches through most nations of the world for feveral hundred years after Chrift.

16. The next thing is the wonderful prefervation of the church when it was imminently threatened and perfecuted under the Grecian empire.

The first time they were threatened was by Alexander himfelf. When he was befieging the city of Tyre, fending to the Jews for affiftance and fupplies for his army, and they refusing, out of a confeientious regard to their oath to the king of Perfia, he being a man of very furious fpirit, agreeable to the feripture reprefentation of the rough he-goat, marched against them, with a defign to cut them off. But the priests going out to meet him in priestly garments, when he met them, God wonderfully turned his heart to fpare and favour them, much as he did the heart of Efau when he met Jacob. (9)

After

(Q) ALEXANDER fpared the Jews.] " The high prieft in this imminent danger had recourfe to God by facrifices and fupplications; and as he was directed in a vision in the night, he went forth the next day in his pontifical robes, with all the priefts in their habits, and the people in white apparel, to meet the conqueror, and to make their fubmiflions to him. As foon as the king faw the high prieft coming to him in this folemn proceffion, he advanced eagerly to meet him, and bowing down himfelf before him, received him with religious awe and veneration. All prefert After this, one of the kings of Egypt, a fucceffor of one of Alexander's four captains, entertained a defign of deftroying the nations of the Jews; but was remarkably and wonderfully prevented by a ftrong interpolition of Heaven for their prefervation.

But the most wonderful prefervation of them all in this period, was under the cruel perfecution of Antiochus Epiphanes, king of Syria, and fucceffor of another of Alexander's four captains. The Jews were at that time fubject to the power of Antiochus; and he being enraged against them, long strove to his utmost utterly to deftroy them, and root them out; at least all of them that would not forfake their religion, and worthip his idols: and he did indeed in a great measure waste the country, and depopulate the city of Jerufalem; and profaned the temple, by fetting up his idols in fome parts of it; and perfecuted the people with infatiable cruelty; fo that we have no account of any perfecution like this before. Many of the particular circumftances of this perfecution would be very affecting, if I had time to infift on them. This cruel perfecution began about an hundred and seventy years before Christ. It is much spoken of Pp 2 in prefent were altonished at this behaviour of the king, fo contrary to their expectation; and Parmenio in particular demanded the reafon of it, why he, whom all others adored, fhould pay fuch adoration to the Jewish high prieft. Alexander replied, That he paid not this adoration to him, but to that God whofe priest he was; for while he was at Dio in Macedonia, and was meditating upon his expedition against the king of Persia, there appeared unto him in a dream this very man, and in this very habit, inviting him to come over into Afia, and promifing him fuccefs in the conquest of it : and now he was affured that he had fet out upon this expedition under the conduct of God, to whom therefore he paid this adoration in the perfon of his high prieft. Hereupon he entered Jerufalem in peace, and went up and offered facrifices to God in the temple, where the high prieft produced and laid before him the prophecies of Daniel, wherein it was written, that a king of Grecia fhould overthrow the Perfian empire, which he interpreted of himfelf. After this he granted peculiar privileges to the Jews, and proceeded in his expedition with full confidence and affurance of fuccels. [Bp. NEWTON (from Josephus) on the Prophecies, vol. ii. difc. 15.]

in the prophecy of Daniel, [Dan. viii. 9---25; xi. 31---38.] and referred to in the New Teftament, [Heb. xi. 36---38.] (R)

Antiochus intended not only to extirpate the Jewish religion, but as far as in him lay, the very nation; and particularly laboured to the utmost to deftroy all copies of the law. And confidering how weak they were, in comparison with a king of fuch vaft dominion, the providence of God appears very wonderful in defeating his defign. Many times the Jews feemed to be on the very brink of ruin, and just ready to be wholly fwallowed up : their enemies often thought themfelves fure of obtaining their purpofe. They once came against the people with a mighty army, and with a defign of killing all, except the women and children, and of felling thefe for flaves; and they were fo confident of obtaining their purpofe, and others of purchasing, that above a thousand merchants came with the army, with money in their hands, to buy the flaves that thould be fold. But God wonderfully ftirred up and affilted one Judas, and others his fucceffors, that were called the Maccabees, who, with a fmall handful in comparison, vanquithed their enemies time after time, and delivered their nation; which was foretold by Daniel. [xi. 32.] Speaking of Antiochus's perfecution, he fays, ' And fuch as do wickedly · against the covenant, shall he corrupt by flatteries : but " the people that do know their God, shall be strong, and · do exploits.' (s)

God

(R) PERSECUTION under Antiochus.] The particulars of this perfecution are recited at length in the vth, vith, and viith chapters of the 2d book of Maccabees, and the most material parts of it are confirmed by Polybius and Jofephus; and copied into Rollin's Ancient Hiftory, book xviii. art. 2. and the Universal Hift. vol. x. book ii. chap. 11.

(s) Bravery of JUDAS MACCABEUS.] "We have here a fenfible image of the feeble oppolition which the human arm is able to make against that of the Almighty, on whom alone the fate of battle depends. It is evident that Judas himfelf was fully fensible of his own weakness: 'How can we,' fays he to the Almighty before the battle, 'fland before them, nules thou thyfelf affift  $\xi$  us?' And it is as evident, that he was no lefs firmly perfuaded

of

God afterwards brought this Antiochus to a fearful, miferable end, by a loathfome difeafe, under dreadful torments of body, and horrors of mind; which was foretold [Dan xi. 45.] in thefe words; 'Yet he shall come to this ' end and none shall help him.' ( $\tau$ ) After his death, there were attempts shill to deftroy the church of God; but God baffled them all.

17. The next thing to be taken notice of is the defiruction of the Grecian empire, and fetting up of the Roman. This was the fourth overturning of the world in this period. And though it was brought to pafs more gradually than the fetting up of the Grecian empire, yet it far exceeded that, and was much the greateft and largeft temporal monarchy that ever was in the world; fo that the Roman empire was commonly called all the world; [Luke ii. 1.] 'And there went out a decree from ' before Cæfar Auguftus, that all the world fhould be ' taxed;' i. e. all the Roman empire. This empire is fpoken of the fuccefs of his arms: 'The victory (he had faid before) 'does not depend on the number of foldiers, but it is from heaven 'that all our thrength comes.' But although Judas had fo entire a confidence in God, he employs all thofe expedients, which the most experienced and bravest general could use, in order to obtain the victory. How excellent a pattern have we here for generals! To pray with humility, because all things depend on God; and to act with vigour, as if all things depended on man!'' [See t Macc. iii. and iv.]—[ROLLIN's Ancient History, book xviii. art. 2.]

(T) Antiochus DIED milerably.] " News was brought him of the defeat of Nicanor and Timotheus in Judea, .... fresh expresses came of Lyfias's defeat, and alfo that the Jews had retaken the temple, thrown down the altars and idols he had fet up, and reeftablished their ancient worship; this news increased his fury: immediately he commanded his coachman to drive with the utmoft fpeed, in order that he might have an opportunity fully to fatiate his vengeance; threatening to make Jerufalem the burying-place of the whole Jewish nation, and not to leave one fingle inhabitant in it. He had fearce uttered that blafphemous expression, but he was ftruck by the hand of God. He was feized with incredible pains in his bowels, and the most excettive pangs of the colic. ' Thus the murderer and blafphemer, (fays the author of the " Maccabees, 2d book, chap. ix. 12.) having fuffered moft grie-" voufly, as he treated other men, fo he died a miferable death in a " ftrange country in the mountain." [ROLLIN's Ancient Hiftory. book xviii. art. 2.]

fpoken of as much the ftrongeft and greateft of any of the four; [Dan. ii. 40.] 'And the fourth kingdom thall be 'ftrong as iton: forafmuch as iron breaketh in pieces, and 'fubdueth all things; and as iron that breaketh all thefe, 'fhall it break in pieces, and bruife.' [So alfo Dan. vii. 7, 19, 23.] The time that the Romans first conquered and brought under the land of Judea, was between fixty and feventy years before Chrift was born : and foon after this, the Roman empire was established in its greateft extent; and the world continued fubject to it till Chrift came, and many hundred years afterwards.

The nations being thus united under one monarchy when Chrift came, and when the apoftles went forth to preach the gospel, did greatly prepare the way for the fpreading the gofpel, and the fetting up of Chrift's kingdom in the world: for the world being thus fubject to one government, it opened a communication from nation to nation, and fo opportunity was given for the more fwiftly propagating the gospel through it. Thus we find it is in the British nation, the communication from one part of its dominions to another, is much eafier and quicker than to foreign nations. There are innumerable difficulties in travelling through nations under different independent governments, which are not in travelling through different parts of the fame realm, or different dominions of the fame prince. So the world being under one government, that of the Romans, in Christ's and the apofiles times, facilitated the apofiles travelling, and the gofpel's fpreading through the world.

18. About the fame time learning and philofophy were rifen to their greateft height in the heathen world. Almost all the famous philofophers that we have an account of among the heathen, went after the captivity into Babylon. Almost all the wife men of Greece and Rome flourished in this time. Many of them were, indeed, men of great temporal wisdom: and that which they in general chiefly professed to make their butinefs, was to inquire wherein man's chief happinefs lay, and the way in which men might obtain it. They feemed carnestly to bufy themthemfelves in this inquiry, and wrote multitudes of books about it, many of which are still extant. There have been reckoned up feveral hundreds of their different opinions concerning it. Thus they wearied themfelves in vain, wandering in the dark, not having the glorious gofpel to guide them. God was pleafed to fuffer men to do the utmost they could with human wisdom, and to try the extent of their own understandings to find out the way to happinefs, before the true light came to enlighten the world: before he fent the great Prophet to lead men in the right way to happinefs. God fuffered thefe great philosophers to try what they could do for fix hundred vears together; and then it proved, by the events of fo long a time, that all they could do was in vain; the world not becoming wifer, better, or happier under their inftructions, but growing more and more foolish, wicked, and miferable. (v) He fuffered their wifdom and philosophy to

(v) The flate of Pagan PHILOSOPHY.] The corrupt flate of the heathen morals, during the most flourishing times of their philofophy, is deferibed by a learned prelate of the prefent age in the following pointed language—" The fports of the gladiators, unnatural luft, the licentioufnefs of divorce, the exposing of infants and flaves, the procuring abortions, the public ettablishment of flews; all fublished at Rome, and not one of them [was] condemned, or hinted at, in Tully's Offices.—The most indecent revelling, drunkennefs, and lewdnefs, [were] practified at the feaths of Bacehus, Ceres, and Cybele; and their greatest philofophers never remonstrated against it.

"The heathen philofophers, though they have advanced fine fayings and fublime precepts, in fome points of morality, have grofsly failed in others: fuch as the toleration or encouragement of revenge, flavery, unnatural luft, fornication, fuicide, &c. For example: Plato exprefsly allowed of exceffive drinking at the feftivals of Bacchus.—Maximus Tyrius forbad to pray.—Socrates directs his hearers to confider the Greeks as brethren; but barbarians [i. e. all who were of any other country] as natural enemies.— Ariflotle maintained, that nature intended barbarians [i. e. all who were not Greeians] to be flaves.—The Stoics held, that all crimes were equal.—Plato, Cicero, Epidetus, all allow and advife men to continue the idolatry of their ancellors.—Ariflotle, and Cicero, both fpeak of the forgivenefs of injuries, as meannefs and publlaminity.—Thefe were trides, to what follows.—

295

" Arifiotle

to come to the greatest height before Christ came, that it might be feen how far reason and philosophy could go in their highest ascent, that the necessary of a divine teacher might appear before Christ came. And God was pleased to make " Ariftotle and Plato both direct, that means fhould be ufed to prevent weak children being brought up.—Cato commends a young man for frequenting the flews.—Cicero expressly fpeaks of fornication as a thing never found fault with.—Plato recommends a community of women; and advifes, that foldiers fhould not be reftrained from fenfual indulgence, even the most unnatural species of it.—Xenophon relates, without any marks of reprobation, that unnatural luft was encouraged by the laws of feveral Grecian flates.—Solon, their great lawgiver, forbad it only to flaves.—*Dio*genes inculcated, and openly practifed the most brutal luft.—Zeno and Cato both killed themfelves." [Bp. of CARLISLE's Reflect. on the Life and Character of Chrift, Appendix.]

Another elegant writer of the prefent day thus paints the fituation of the heathen world at Chrift's coming :

" They all worfhipped a multiplicity of gods and dæmous, whofe favour they courted by impious, obfcene, and ridiculous ceremonies; and whofe anger they endeavoured to appeale, by the most abominable crucities. In the politest ages of the politest nations in the world, at a time when Greece and Rome had carried the arts of oratory, poetry, hiftory, architecture, and fculpture, to the higheft perfection, and made no inconfiderable advances in those of mathematics, natural, and even moral philosophy, in religious knowledge they had made none at all : a ftrong prefumption, that the nobleft efforts of the mind of man, unaffifted by revelation, were unequal to the talk. Some few, indeed, of their philofophers, were wife enough to reject thefe general abfurdities, and dared to attempt a loftier flight. Plato introduced many fublime ideas of nature, and its first eaufe, and of the immortality of the foul; which, being above his own and all human difcovery, he probably acquired from the books of Mofes, or the converfation of fome Jewish rabbies, whom he might have met with in Egypt ; where he refided, and fludied, for feveral years. From him Ariflotle, and from both Cicero, and fome few others, drew moft amazing flores of philofophical feience; and carried their refearches into divine truths, as far as human genius alone could penetrate. But thefe, with all this knowledge, were very deficient in true theology.

"At this time, Chriftianity broke forth from the eaft, like a rifing fun, and difpelled this univerfal darknefs, which obfeured every part of the globe; and which, even at this day, prevails in all those remoter regions, to which its falutary influence has not as yet extended." [Soame Jenvis, Efq. Internal Evidence of the Chriftian Religion.] make foolifh the wifdom of this world, to fhew men the folly of their beft wifdom, by the doctrines of his glorious gofpel which were above the reach of all their philofophy. [See I Cor. i.  $19^{--21}$ .]

And after God had thewn the vanity of human learning, he was pleafed to make it fubfervient to the purpofes of Chrift's kingdom, as an handmaid to divine revelation: and fo the prevalence of learning in the world before Chrift came, made way for his coming both thefe ways, viz. as thereby the vanity of human wildom was flown, and the neceffity of the gofpel appeared; and alfo as hereby an handmaid was prepared to the gofpel: for fo it was made use of by the apostle Paul, who was famed for his much learning, [Acts xxvi. 24.] and was skilled not only in that of the Jews, but alfo of the philosophers; and improved it to the purpofes of the gofpel; as you may fee he did in difputing with the philosophers at Athens. [Acts xvii. 22, &c.] He by his learning knew well how to improve what he had read in their writings; and even cites their own poets. (w) And now Dionyfius, who was a philosopher, was converted by him, and, as ecclefiaftical history gives us an account, made a great inftrument of promoting the gofpel. (x) And there were many others in that and the following ages, who were eminently ufeful by their human learning in promoting the interefts of Chrift's kingdom.

19. Juft

(w) Paul quotes the Greek POETS.] "Thofe words, 'For in 'him we live,' &c. have been fuppofed by fome an allufion to an old Greek poet; but be this as it may, the following words, 'For 'we are allo his offspring;' or as Doddridge more properly renders them, preferving their poetic air,

' For we his offspring are'- Thefe words are unquestionably those of Aratus, a poet of Cicilia, Paul's own country, who wrote three hundred years before his time." So t Cor. xv. 33, is fupposed to be a quotation from Menander, another Greek Poet. [See Fam. Expos. in loc.]

(x) DIONYSIUS the Areopagite.] "This Dionyfius was bred at Athens in all the learned arts, and was one of the fenators and judges of the great court of Areopagus; at twenty-five years old he is faid to have travelled to Egypt, to perfect himfelf in the fludy of aftrology, for which that nation was famous: here be-Q q holding

298 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

19. Just before Chrift was born, the Roman empire was not only raifed to its greateft height, but alfo fettled in pcace. About four and twenty years before this, Auguftus Cæfar, the firft Roman Emperor, afcended the throne: till then the Roman empire had of a long time been a commonwealth under the government of the fenate: but now it became an abfolute monarchy. This Auguftus Cæfar, as he was the firft, fo he was the greateft of all the Roman Emperors. Thus the power of the heathen world, which was Satan's vifible kingdom, was raifed to its greateft height, after it had been rifing gradually and ftrengthening itfelf more and more from the days of Solomon to this day, which was about a thoufand years. Now the heathen world was in its greateft glory for ftrength, wealth, and learning.

Gcd did two things to prepare the way for Chrift's coming, wherein he took a contrary method from that which human wifdom would have taken. He brought his own vifible people very low, and made them weak; but the heathen, who were his enemies, he exalted to the greateft height, for the more glorious triumph of the erofs of Chrift. With a fmall number in their greateft weaknefs, he conquered his enemies in their greateft glory. Thus Chrift triumphed over principalities and powers in his crofs.

Auguftus Cæfar had been for many years eftablifhing the ftate of the Roman Empire, fubduing his enemies in one part and another, till the very year that Chrift was born; when all his enemies being fubdued, his dominion over the world feemed to be fettled in its greateft glory. All was eftablifhed in peace: in token whereof the Romans fhut the temple of Janus, which was an eftablifhed fymbol among them of there being univerfal peace holding the miraculous eclipfe that was at the time of our Lord's crucifixion, he concluded that fome great affair was happening to the world. Returning to Athens, he became one of the judges of the Areopagus, difputed with St. Paul, and was by him converted from his errors and idolatry, and being thoroughly inftructed, made the first bishop of Athens." [Dr. CAVE.]

peace throughout the Roman empire. (Y) And this univerfal peace, which was begun the year that Chrift was born, lasted twelve years, till the year that Chrift disputed with the doctors in the temple.

Thus the world, after it had been, as it were, in a continual convultion for fo many hundred years together, like the four winds ftriving together on the tumultuous raging ocean, whence arofe those four great monarchies; being now established in the greatest height of the fourth and last monarchy, and fettled in quietness — all things are ready for the birth of Christ. This remarkable universal peace, after fo many ages of tumult and war, was a fit prelude for the ushering of the glorious Prince of Peace into the world.

Thus I have gone through our first grand period, that from the fall to the time of the incarnation of Christ: and have shown the truth of the first proposition, viz. That ' from the fall of man to the incarnation of Christ,' God was doing those things that were preparatory to Christ's coming, and forerunners of it.

IMPROVEMENT OF PERIOD I.

BEFORE I proceed to the next proposition, I would make fome few remarks, by way of improvement, upon what has been faid under this.

1. We may firongly argue, that Jefus of Nazareth is indeed the Son of God, and the Saviour of the world; and that the Chriftian is the true religion, feeing Chrift is the very perfon fo evidently pointed at, in all the great dif-Qq 2 penfations

(Y) The TEMPLE of JANUS.] This was a fquare building, (fome fay of entire brafs) which contained a flatue of Janus five feet high; with brazen gates always kept open in time of war, but flut in time of peace; which however feldom happened. Hiftorians mention eight times of its being flut up, three of which were in the reign of Augustus, and one of them in the time of our Lord's birth. [See Kennet's Antiq. part 2. book i.] penfations of Divine Providence from the fall of man, and was fo undoubtedly in many inftances foretold from, age to age, and shadowed forth in a vast variety of types and figures. If we ferioufly confider the courfe of things from the beginning, and observe the motions of all the great wheels of Providence from one age to another, we shall difcern that they all tend hither. They are all as to many lines, whole courfe, if accurately followed, will be found to centre here. This perfon came into the world with a commission and authority from God to do his work, and to declare his mind. It cannot be any vain imagination, but a plain and evident truth, that that perfon who was born at Bethlehem, and dwelt at Nazareth and at Capernaum, and was crucified without the gates of Jerufalem, must be the great Messiah, or anointed of God. And bleffed are all they that believe in and confefs him, and miferable are all that deny him. This shows the unreafonablencis of the Deifts, who deny revealed religion; and of the Jews, who deny that this Jefus is the Meffiah foretold and promifed to their fathers.

Here fome perfons may be ready to object, that it may be, fome fubtle, cunning men contrived to forge this hiftory, and thefe prophecies, fo that they fhould all point to Jefus Chrift on purpose to prove him to be the Meffiah. To fuch it may be replied, how could their craft and fubtilty help them to forefee and point at an event that was to come to pass many ages afterwards; for no fact can be more evident, than that the Jews had those writings long before Chrift was born; as they have them ftill in great veneration, wherever they are throughout the world; and they would never have received fuch a contrivance from Christians, to point to and confirm Jefus to be the Meffiah, who they always denied to be fo; and much lefs would they have been made to believe that they always had thefe books in their hands, if they had been an impolition.

2. What has been faid, affords a ftrong argument for the divine authority of the books of the Old Tetlament, from that admirable harmony there is in them, whereby they all

all point to the fame object. For we may fee from what has been faid, how all the parts of the Old Teftament, though written by fo many different penmen, and in ages diftant one from another, do all beautifully harmonize: all agree in one teftimony, and all center in the fame event; an event which it was impoffible any one of them fhould foreknow, but by a divine revelation, even the future coming of Chrift. This is evident from what has been faid above.

Now, if the Old Teftament was not infpired by God, what account can be given of fuch an agreement? For if thefe books were only human writings, written without any divine direction, then none of thefe penmen knew that there would come fuch a perfon as Jefus Chrift into the world; his coming was only a mere figment of their own brain: and if fo, how happened it, that this imagination of theirs, which they forefold without any manner of ground for their prediction, was fo exactly fulfilled? and efpecially how did they come all to agree in it, all pointing exactly to the fame thing, though they lived fo many hundred years diftant one from another? This admirable agreement in a future event, is therefore a clear and certain evidence of the divine authority of thofe writings.

3. Hence we may learn what a weak and ignorant objection it is which fome make against fome parts of the Old Teftament, that they confift to much of the hiftories of their kings and rulers, of their wars with the neighbouring nations, and of the changes that happened from time to time in their flate and government. Other na-# tions fay they used to keep hiftories of their public affairs as well as the Jews, why then flould we think that thefe histories are the word of God, more than those of other people? But what has been faid, thows the folly and vanity of fuch an objection. For hereby it appears, that the cafe of these histories is very different from that of all others. This alone gives us an account of the original of all things; and deduces them down in a regular feries from that original, giving a view of the whole fcheme of of Divine Providence, from the beginning to the confummation of all things: with an account of the wife and holy defigns of the governor of the world in all.---By thefe hiftories it appears how God has been carrying on the glorious work of redemption from age to age. And though hiftories, yet are they full of divine inftruction, and fhow forth Chrift, and his glorious gofpel, no lefs than other parts of the holy foriptures which are not fo.

302 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

The objection, that it is a common thing for nations and kingdoms to write hiftories and keep records of their wars, and the revolutions that come to pass in their territories, is fo far from being a weighty objection against the hiftorical part of fcripture, as though it were not the word of God, that it is a ftrong argument in favour of it. For if reafon and the light of nature teaches all civilized nations to keep fuch records, and to publish them for the information of others; how much more may we expect that God would give the world a record of the difpenfations of his divine government, which doubtless is infinitely more worthy of an hiftory for our information? If wife kings have taken care that there fhould be good hiftories written of the nations over which they have reigned, shall we think it incredible that Jefus Chrift fhould take care that his church, which is his kingdom, his peculiar people, fhould have in their hands a hiftory of their nation, and of his government over them?

If it had not been for the hiftory of the Old Teftament, how ignorant fhould we have been of God's dealings towards mankind, and efpecially his church, from the beginning? We thould have been wholly in the dark about the creation of the world, the fall of man, the first rife and continued progrefs of the difpenfation of grace towards fallen mankind; how the light of the gofpel first began to dawn in the world; how it increafed; and how things were preparing for the coming of Chrift.

If we are Chriftians, we belong to that-divine building of God that has been the fubject of our difcourfe. but if it had not been for the hiftory of the Old Teftaanent, we thould never have known what was the firft cocafion occafion of God's going about this building, and how the foundation of it was laid, or how it has gone on with from the beginning. The times of the hiftory of the Old Teftament are moftly fuch as no other hiftory reaches up to; and therefore if God had not preferved an account of thefe things in his word, we fhould have been wholly without them.

Those that object against the authority of the Old Testament history of the nation of the Jews, may as well make it an objection against Mofes's account of the creation that it is historical; for, in the former, we have an hiftory of a work no lefs important, viz. the work of redemption. Nay, this is a far greater and more glorious work, as we observed before; and if it were inquired which of the two works, the work of creation, or the work of providence, is greateft? it must be anfwered, the work of providence; but the work of redemption is the greatest of the works of providence. And let those who make this objection confider what part of the Old Teftament hiftory can be fpared, without making a great breach in that thread or feries of events by which this glorious work has been carried on .--- This leads me to obferve,

4. That from what has been faid we may fee much of the wifdom of God in the composition of the fcriptures of the Old Testament. Let us briefly take a view of the feveral parts of it, and of the need there was of them.

First it was necessary that we should have some account of the creation of the world, of our first parents and their primitive state; of the fall, of the old world and the degeneracy of it, and of the universal deluge; allo of the origin of nations after this destruction of mankind.

It feems proper that there flould be fome account of the fucceffion of the church of God from the beginning; and feeing God fuffered all the world to degenerate, and only took one nation to be his people, to preferve the true worfhip and religion till the Saviour flould come, that that in them the world might gradually be prepared for that great light, and those wonderful things that he was to be the author of; and that they might be a typical nation, in whom God might shadow forth the future glorious things of the gospel---it was therefore necessary that we should have some account of this, how it was first done by the calling of Abraham, by their being bondslaves in Egypt, and by their being brought thence to Canaan. It was necessary that we should have some account of the revelation which God made of himself to that people, in giving their law, in the appointment of their typical worship, and of the formation of their civil and ecclesiastical flate.

It feems neceffary that we fhould have fome account of their being actually brought to Canaan, their promifed land----That we fhould have an hiftory of the fucceffions of the church of Ifrael, and of those providences of God towards them, which were most confiderable and fulleft of gospel mystery; that we thould have fome account of the higheft external glory of that nation under David and Solomon, and more particularly of the former, whofe history is fo full of the gospel, and in whom began the race of their kings; and that we fhould have fome account of the building of the temple, which was moreover fo full of mystery.

It was alfo a matter of confequence, that we fhould have fome account of Ifrael's dividing from Judah, and of the ten tribes' captivity and utter rejection; of the fucceffion of the kings of Judah and of the church, till their captivity into Babylon; of their return from their captivity, and re-fettlement in their own land; and of the origin of the laft flate that the church was in before Chrift came.

A little confideration will convince every one, that all theie things were neceffary, and that none of them could well be fpared; and in the general, that it was neceffary that we fhould have an hiftory of God's church till fuch times as are within the reach of human hiftories; and it was of importance that we fhould have an infpired infpired hiftory of those times of the Jewish church, wherein there was kept up a more extraordinary intercourse between God and them, and while he used to dwell among them, as it were visibly, revealing himself by the Shechinah, by Urim and Thummim, and by prophecy, and so more immediately to order their affairs: that we should have some account of the great dispensations of God in prophecy, which were to be after the finishing of inspired history. So it was exceeding needful that there should be a number of prophets raised, who should foretell the coming of the Son of God, and the nature and glory of his kingdom, to be as so many harbingers to make way for him, and that their prophecies should remain in the church.

It was alfor defirable that the church flould have a book of divine fongs given by infpiration from God, wherein there thould be a lively reprefentation of the true spirit of devotion, of faith, hope, and divine love, joy, refignation, humility, obedience, repentance, &c. Again, that we should have fuch books of moral instructions as those of Proverbs and Ecclesiastes, relating to the affairs and ftate of mankind, and the concerns of human life, containing rules of true wildom and prudence for our conduct in all circumftances : likewife that we fhould have fuch a reprefentation of the great love between Chrift and his fpoufe, the church, particularly adapted to the difposition and holy affections of a true believer, as we have in Solomon's Song: alfo that we should have a book to teach us how to conduct ourselves under affliction, feeing the church of God is here in a militant state, and his people through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of heaven; therefore God has given us a book moit proper in these circumstances, even that of Job, written upon occasion of the afflictions of a particular faint, and which was, probably, given to the church in Egypt under her afflictions there ; and is made use of by the apostle to comfort Christians under perfecutions. [James v. 11.] ' Ye have heard of the patience · of Joh, and have feen the end of the Lord; that the Lord Кr

' Lord is very pitiful and of tender mercy.' God was also pleafed, in this book of Job, to give fome view of the ancient divinity before the giving of the law.

- Thus, from this brief review, I think it appears, that every part of the fcriptures of the Old Teftament is very ufeful and neceffary, and no part of it can be fpared, without lofs to the church; and therefore the wifdom of God is confpicuous in ordering that the fcriptures of the Old Teftament fhould confift of those very books of which they do confift.

Before I difmifs this particular, I would add, that it is very obfervable, that the hiftory of the Old Teftament is large and particular where the great affair of redemption required it; as where there was most done towards this work, and most to typify Christ, and to prepare the way for him. Thus it is very large and particular in the hiftory of Abraham and the other patriarchs; but very short in the account of the time which the children of Ifrael fpent in Egypt. So it is large in the account of the redemption out of Egypt, and the first fettling of the affairs of the Jewish church and nation in Moses and Jofhua's time; but much shorter in the account of the times of the judges. So again, it is large and particular in the account of David and Solomon's times, and very fhort in the hiftory of the enfuing reigns. Thus the accounts are long or fhort, just as there is more or lefs of the affair of redemption to be feen in them.

5. From what has been faid, we may fee that Chrift and his redemption are the great fubject of the whole Bible. Concerning the New Teftament the matter is plain; and by what has been faid on this fubject hitherto, it appears to be fo alfo with refpect to the Old Teftament. Chrift and his redemption is the great fubject of the prophecies, as well as the fongs of the Old Teftament; and the moral rules and precepts are all given in fubordination to him; and Chrift and his redemption are alfo the great fubject of the hiftory of the Old Teftament, from the beginning all along; and even the hiftory of the creation is brought in as an introduction tion to the hiftory of redemption which immediately follows it. The whole book, both the Old Teftament and New, is filled with the gofpel; only with this difference, that the Old Teftament contains the gofpel under a vail, but the New contains it unvailed, fo that we may fay the glory of the Lord with open face.

6. By what has been faid, we may fee the ufefulnefs and excellency of the Old Teftament. Some are ready to look on it as being out of date, and as if we, in thefe days of the gospel, had but little to do with it; which is a very great mistake, arising from want of observing its nature and defign, which, if it were obferved, would appear full of the gofpel of Christ, and would in an excellent manner illustrate and confirm the glorious doctrines and promifes of the New Teftament. Those parts of the Old Teftament which are commonly looked upon as containing the least divine instruction, are, as it were, mines and treafures of gofpel knowledge; and the reafon why they are thought to contain fo little, is, becaufe perfons do but fuperficially read them. The treafures which are hidden underneath are not observed. They only look on the top of the ground, and fo fuddenly pafs a judgment that there is nothing there; but they never dig into the mine; if they did, they would find it richly fored with filver and gold, and would be abundantly requited for their pains.

What has been faid, may flow us what a precious treafure God has committed into our hands, in that he has given us the Bible. How little do moft perfons confider how much they enjoy, in that they have the pofferfion of that holy book, and may converfe with it as they pleafe? What an excellent book is this, and how far exceeding all human writings, wherein God reveals to us, and gives us a view of the grand defign and glorious fcheme ef Providence from the beginning of the world, either in hiftory or prophecy! that reveals the great Redeemer and his glorious redemption, and the various fteps by which God accomplifies it from the first foundation to the top flome! Shall we prize an hiftory which R t 2 gives us a clear account of fome great earthly prince, or mighty warrior, as of Alexander the Great, or Julius Cæfar, or the Duke of Marlborough? and fhall we not prize the hiftory that God gives us of the glorious kingdom of his Son Jefus Chrift, the Prince and Saviour; and of the wars and other great transactions of that King of kings and Lord of armies, the Lord mighty in battle? the hiftory of the things which he has wrought for the redemption of his chofen people?

307

7. What has been faid, may make us fenfible how much most perfons are to blame for their inattentive way of reading the feriptures. How much do the feriptures contain, if it were but observed? The Bible is the most comprehenfive book in the world. But what will all this fignify to us, if we read it without observing what is the drift of the Holy Ghoft in it? The pfalmift [Pfal. cxix. 18.] begs of God, ' That he would enlighten his eyes, that he might · behold wondrous things out of his law.' The fcriptures are full of wondrous things. Those histories which are commonly read as if they were only histories of the private concerns of fuch and fuch particular perfons, fuch as the histories of Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob, and Joseph; alfo the hiftory of Ruth; and the hiftories of particular lawgivers and princes, as the hiftory of Jothua and the Judges, and David and the Ifraclitish princes, are accounts of much greater things, things of far more importance and extenfive concernment, than those that read them are commonly aware of.

The hiftories of foripture are commonly read as if they were flories written only to entertain men's fancies and to amufe their leifure hours, when the infinitely great things contained or pointed at in them are paffed over, and never taken notice of. Whatever treafures the foriptures contain, we fhall be never the better for them, if we do not obferve them. He that has a Bible, and does not obferve what is contained in it, is like a man who has a box full of filver and gold, and does not know it, does not obferve that it is any thing more than a veffel tel filled with common ftones. As long as it is thus with him, he will be never the better for his treafure; for he that knows not that he has a treafure, will never make ufe of what he has, and fo might as well be without it. He who has a plenty of the choiceft food ftored up in his houfe, and does not know it, will never tafte what he has, and will be as likely to ftarve as if his houfe were empty.

8. What has been faid, may fhow us how great a perfon Jefus Chrift is, and how great an errand he came into the world upon, feeing there was fo much done to prepare the way for his coming. God had been doing nothing elfe but preparing the way for his coming, through all ages, from the beginning. If we had notice of a certain ftranger's being about to come into a country, and should observe that a great preparation was made for his coming, that many months were taken up in it, and great things done; and that many great alterations were made in the ftate of the whole country, and that many hands were employed, and perfons of great note were engaged in making preparation for the coming of this perfon, and the whole country was overturned, and all the affairs and concerns of the country were ordered to as to be fubfervient to the defign of entertaining that perfon when he should come; it would be natural for us to think with ourfelves, why, furely, this is fome extraordinary perfon indeed, and it is fome very great bufinefs that he is coming upon !

How great a perfon then muft he be, for whofe coming into the world the great God of heaven and earth, and governor of all things, fpent four thoufand years in preparing the way,---bringing mighty events to pafs, accomplifting wonders without number, often overturning the world in order to it, and caufing all the revolutions and changes in the habitable world from generation to generation to be fubfervient to this great defign? Surely this muft be fome very great and extraordinary perfon, and a great work indeed it muft needs be that he is coming about !

309

We read, [Matth. xxi. 8---10.] that when Chrift was coming into Jerufalem, and the multitudes ran before him, and cut down branches of palm-trees, and ftrewed them in the way, and others fpread their garments in the way, and cried, 'Hofanna to the fon of David,' that the whole city was moved, faying, Who is this? They wondeted who that extraordinary perfon thould be, that there fhould be fuch au ado made on occasion of his coming into the city, and to prepare the way before him. But if we confider what has been faid on this fubject, what great things were done in all ages to prepare the way for Chrift's advent, and how the world was often overturned to make way for it, much more may we cry out, Who is this? What great perfon is this? And fay, [as in Pfalm xxiv. 8---10.] ' Who is the King of glory,' that God fhould flow fuch respect, and put fuch vast honour upon him? Surely this perfon is honourable indeed in God's eyes, and greatly beloved of him; and furely it is a great errand upon which he is fent into the world !

PERIOD

[ 311 ]

PERIOD II.

FROM CHRIST'S INCARNATION TO HIS RESURRECTION.

AVING flown how the work of redemption was carried on through the first period, from the fall of man to the incarnation of Christ, I come now to the fecond, viz. the time of Christ's humiliation, or the space from his incarnation to his refurrection. And this is the most remarkable period that ever was or ever will be. Though it was but between thirty and forty years, yet more was done in it than had been from the beginning of the world to that time. We have observed, that all events from the fall to the incarnation were only preparatory for what was now done. And it may also be observed, that what was done before the commencement of time, in the eternal counfels of God, and between the perfons of the Trinity, chiefly respected this period. We therefore now proceed to confider the fecond proposition, viz.

THAT THE TIME FROM CHRIST'S INCARNATION TO HIS RESURRECTION WAS EMPLOYED IN PROCURING AND PURCHASING REDEMPTION.

Though there were many things done preparatory to our redemption from the fall of man to this time, and millions of facrifices had been offered up; yet none of them could purchafe our redemption. But as foon as Chrift was incarnate, the purchafe immediately began; and the whole time of Chrift's humiliation, from his becoming incarnate, till the morning that he arofe from the dead, was taken up in this purchafe, and then it was completely finished. As nothing was done before Chrift's incarnation, fo nothing was done after his refurrection, to purchafe redemption for men. Nor will there ever be any any thing more done to all eternity: but that very moment that the human nature of Chrift ceafed to remain under the power of death, the utmost farthing of the price of the falvation was paid for every one of the elect.

But for the more orderly and regular confideration of the great things done by our Redeemer to purchase redemption for us,

1. I would fpeak of Chrift becoming incarnate to capacitate himfelf for his purchafe ;---and,

2. Of the purchase itself.

§ I. Of CHRIST'S INCARNATION.

FIRST, I would confider Chrift's taking upon him our nature to put himfelf in a capacity to purchase redemption for us .--- This was abfolutely neceffary, for though Chrift, as God, was infinitely fufficient for the work, yet to his being in an immediate capacity for it, it was needful that he should not only be God but man. If Chrift had remained only in the divine nature, he could not have purchased our falvation ; not from any imperfection of the divine nature, but by reason of its absolute and infinite perfection: for Chrift, merely as God, was not capable either of obedience or fuffering. And it was neceffary not only that Chrift should take upon him a created-nature, but that he should take upon him our nature. It would not have fufficed for him to have become an angel, and to have obeyed and fuffered in the angelic nature. But it was neceffary that he should become a man, and that upon three accounts.

(1.) It was needful to answer the law, that that nature fhould obey, to which the law was given. Man's law could not be answered, but by being obeyed by man. God's juffice infifted upon it, that the law which he had given to man should be honoured and submitted to, and fulfilled by the human nature, otherwise the law could not be answered for men. The words, Thou fhalt, or Thou Thou fhalt not do thus or thus, were fpoken to mankind, and therefore the human nature must fulfil them.

(2.) It was needful to anfwer the law that the nature that finned fhould die. Thefe words, 'Thou fhalt furely 'die,' refpect the human nature: the fame nature to which the command was given, was the nature to which the threatening was directed.

(3.) God faw meet, that the fame world which was the ftage of man's fall and ruin, fhould alfo be the ftage of his redemption. We read often of his coming into the world to fave finners, and of God's fending him into the world for this purpofe. It was needful that he fhould come into this finful, miferable world to reftore and fave it, and that he fhould tabernacle with us: [John i. 14.] ' The Word was made flefh, and dwelt among us.'

CONCERNING the INCARNATION of Chrift, I would obferve the following things :

The incarnation itfelf; in which efpecially two things are to be confidered, viz.

(1.) His conception, which was in the womb of Mary, whereby he became truly the fon of man, as he was often called. He was one of the pofterity of Adam, a child of Abraham, and a fon of David according to God's promife. But his conception was not in the way of ordinary generation, but by the power of the Holy Ghoft. Chrift was formed in the womb of the Virgin, of the fubftance of her body, by the power of the Spirit of God. So that he was the immediate fon of the woman, but not the immediate fon of any male whatfoever; and fo was the feed of the woman, and the fon of a virgin. ( $\tau$ )

S s (2.) His

(2) Chrift born of a VIRGIN.] Some learned men have cited a tradition from the Talmud, that feems very remarkably to allude to this, viz, 'That when Meffiah fhould come, no man 'fhould know whence he was, and that his birth fhould be like 'the dew of the Lord, as drops upon the grafs, expecting not 'the labour of man.' [STACKHOUSE'S Hift. of the Bible, book viii. chap. 1. and compare John vii. 27. 'When Chrift cometh no 'man knoweth whence he is;' alfo Note o, page 231, above.]

313

314 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

(2.) His birth.---Though the conception of Chrift was fupernatural, yet after he was conceived, his human nature was gradually perfected in the womb as others are, and his birth was in the natural way of nature. But his conception being fupernatural, by the power of the Holy Ghoft, he was both conceived and born without fin.

2. The fecond thing I would obferve concerning the incarnation of Chrift, is the fulnefs of the time in which it was accomplifhed. It was after things had been preparing for it from the fall, and when all things were ready. It came to pafs at a time, which in infinite wifdom was the moft fit and proper: [Gal. iv. 4.] 'When the fulnefs ' of time was come, God fent forth his Son, made of a ' woman, made under the law.'

It was now the most proper time on every account. Any time before the flood would not have been fo fit a time. For then the mischief and ruin that the fall brought on mankind, was not fo fully feen. The curfe did not fo fully come on the earth before the flood, as it did afterwards : for though the ground was curfed in a great measure before, yet it pleased God that the curse fhould once, before the reftoration of Chrift, be executed in an universal destruction, as it were, of the very form of the earth ; that the dire effects of the fall might once in fuch a way be feen before the recovery by Chrift. Though mankind were mortal before the flood, yet their lives were continued the greater part of a thousand years; a kind of immortality in comparison with what the life of man is now. It pleafed God, that the curfe, ' Duft thou art and ' to dust thou shalt return,' should have its full accomplishment, before the Redeemer came to purchase a never-ending life for man.

It would not have been fo fit a time for Chrift to come, after the flood, before Mofes's time; for till then mankind were not fo univerfally apoftatized from the true God; they were not fallen univerfally into heathenifh darknefs; and fo the need of Chrift, the light of the world was not fo evident: and the woful confequence of the fall with refpect to man's mortality, was not fo fully fully manifest till then ; for man's life was not fo shortened as to be reduced to the present standard till about Mofes's time.

It was most fit that the time of the Meffiah's coming should not be till many ages after Moses's time; till all nations but the children of Israel, had lain long in heathenish darkness; that the remediless of their difease might by long experience be seen, and so the absolute necessfity of the heavenly Physician, before he came.

Another reafon why Chrift did not come foon after the flood probably was, that the earth might be full of people, that Chrift might have the more extensive kingdom, and that the effects of his light, and power, and grace, might be glorified, and that his victory over Satan might be attended with the greater multitude of conquefts. It was alfo needful that the coming of Chrift fhould be many ages after Mofes, that the church might be prepared, by the Meffiah's being many ways prefigured and foretold, and by his being long expected. It was not proper that Chrift should come before the Babylonish captivity, becaufe Satan's kingdom was not then come to the height. The heathen world before that confifted of leffer kingdoms. But God faw meet that the Meffiah thould come in the time of one of the four great monarchies of the world. Nor was it proper that he should come in the time of the Babylonish monarchy; for it was God's will, that feveral general monarchies should follow one another, and that the coming of the Meffial fhould be in the time of the laft, which appeared above them all. The Perfian monarchy, by overcoming the Babylonian, appeared above it; and fo the Greeian, by overcoming the Perfian, appeared above that ; and for the fame reafon, the Roman above the Grecian. Now it was the will of God, that his Son fhould make his appearance in the world in the time of this greatefi and frongeft monarchy, which was Satan's visible kingdom in the world; that by overcoming this, he might vifibly overcome Satan's kingdom in its greatest strength S s 2 and and glory, and fo obtain the more complete triumph over Satan himfelf.

316 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

It was not proper that Chrift fhould come before the Babylonifh captivity. For, before that, we have no hiftories of the flate of the heathen world, to give us fo full proof of the need of a Saviour. And besides, before that learning did not much flourish, and fo there had not been opportunity to show the infufficiency of human learning and wildom to reform and fave mankind. Again, before that, the Jews were not difperfed over the world, as they were afterwards; and fo things were not prepared in this respect for the coming of Christ. The necessity of abolifhing the Jewish difpensation, was not then fo apparent as it was afterwards made, by the difperfion of the Jews; neither was the way prepared for the propagation of the gospel, as it was afterwards, by the fame disperfion. Many other things might be mentioned, by which it would appear, that no other time before that very time in which Chrift did come, would have been proper for his appearing in the world to purchase the redemption of men. (A)

3. The next thing that I would observe, is the greatnets of this event. Chrift's incarnation was more wonderful than any thing that had ever come to pafs; and there has been but one greater event that has ever come to pafs fince, and that was his death. The creation of the world was a very great thing, but not fo great as the incarnation of Chrift. It was a great thing for God to make the creature, but not fo much as for the Creator himfelf to become one. We have fpoken of many great things that were accomplifhed from one age to another, in in the ages between the fall of man and the incarnation of Chrift: but this was a much greater event than any of them. Then was the greateft perfon born that ever was or ever will be.

4. Next observe the remarkable circumstances of it; fuch as his being born of a virgin, pious and holy indeed, but poor, as appeared by her offering at her purification: [Luke ii. 24.] ' And to offer a facrifice according to that which is faid in the law of the Lord, A pair of turtle ' doves, or two young pigeons.' Which refers to Lev. v. 7. ' And if she be not able to bring a lamb, then she ' fhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons.' And this poor virgin was espoused to an husband who was a poor man. Though they were both of the royal family of David, the most honourable family, and Joseph was the rightful heir to the crown; yet the family was reduced to a very low ftate; which is reprefeuted by the tabernacle of David being fallen or broken down. [Amos ix. 11.] ' In that day will I raife up the tabernacle of David that ' is fallen, and clofe up the breaches thereof, and I will ' raife up his ruins, and I will build it as in the days of 6 old.'

He was born in the town of Bethlehem as was foretold: (B) and there was a very remarkable providence of God

(B) Chrift to be born in BETHLEHEM.] This was predicted by the Prophet Micah, [chap. v. 2.] and his words are quoted with fome variation by the Evangelift Matthew, [chap. ii. 3-6.] "In St. Matthew it is faid, ' Thou, Bethlehem IN the land of Judah, ' art not the least :' whereas in the Hebrew it is, ' though thou ' art the leaft :' the fenfe in both is clear and confiftent, for this city, though far from being the most considerable in extent of all those belonging to the princes of Judah, is nevertheless, on account of the governor or ruler that was to come out of it, not the leaft among the thousands of Judah. The learned Pococke on this paffage has shewn, that the original word may signify either great or little. If it is read as in the translation from the Syriac, in the English Polyglot, with an interrogation, it will have the force of a negative, and then may well be rendered, as in the Arabic and Perfic verfions, and in the goipel by St. Matthew; but if without any interrogation, it will be as it is in the other verfions.

317

" Who

God to bring about the fulfilment of this prophecy, the tiking of all the world by Augustus Cæfar, [Luke ii. 1.] He was born in a very low condition, even in a stable, and laid in a manger. (c)

5. I would observe the concomitants of this great event,---And,

(1.) First the return of the Spirit; which indeed began a little before the incarnation of Christ; but yet was

"Who this ruler, or prince, or king is, that fhould come from Bethlehem, is determined by the defcription that immediately follows, 'whofe goings forth have been from of old, from ever-'latting.'

" It is he who fo often went forth in the name of the Lord, who converfed with Abraham and Mofes, who was before the foundation of the earth was laid, and who at laft was made manifeft in the flefh, and came forth from Bethlehem, the King of the Jews." [Dr. SHARP'S Argument from the Prophecies in Defence of Christianity, p. 153-155.]

(c) This Prophecy WONDERFULLY fulfilled.] "The Emperor of Rome iffues a royal edict, that all his large dominion shall be taxed. He meant to fill his coffers with money; but a greater Sovereign than he intended the fulfilling of his promifes. While every man repairs to his city to be taxed, in obedience to the imperial mandate, Jofeph his father, as was fuppofed, repairs among the reft to Bethlehem, the city of his family, being of the houfe and lineage of David. And now he is arrived with Mary, his efpoufed wife; who being near the time of her delivery, had been directed by Providence, or fpecial inftinct, to accompany her hufband on this occafion. No coffly palace receives our weary travellers. A common inn is the place of his nativity : perhaps a filent intimation, that he himfelf fhould be a common faviour. Nor even in the inn could a commodious apartment be fpared to the Lord of heaven and earth. Ye men of Bethlehem, what a gueft did ye exclude! The coarfe accommodation of a manger was all his mother could obtain for her tender infant. Lo! there he lies wrapt in fwaddling cloaths, whom the heaven of heavens cannot contain . . . for this is be-believe it, ye children of menwhofe name is Immanuel, which by interpretation is, God with us! This is he, who from all everlasting was the brightness of the Father's glory, the express image of the origination, who rejoiced al-ways before him, and was daily his thight .... O ye beautiful feenes of the creation, they glorious fun, thou filver moon, and all ye glittering flars, in you the invilible things of God are clearly feen; but now you are eclipfed by the more excellent glory, Cod manifested in the flesh !" [M'EWEN's Effays, vol. ii. page 7----10.]

was given on occafion of that, as it was to reveal either his birth, or that of his forerunner John the Baptift. I have before obferved how the fpirit of prophecy ceafed not long after the book of Malachi was written. From about the fame time visions and immediate revelations ceased alfo: But now, on this occafion, they are granted anew, and the Spirit in these operations returns again. The first instance of its restoration that we have an account of is in the vision of Zacharias, the father of John the Baptist. [Luke i.] The next is in the vision which the virgin Mary had. The third in the vision of Joseph. [Matt. i.] In the next place, the Spirit was given to Elizabeth. [Luke i. 41.] Next, to Mary, as appears by her fong. [Luke i. 46, &c.] Then to Zacharias again, [ver. 64.] alfo to Simeon, [Luke ii. 25.] to Anna, [ver. 36.] Afterwards to the wife men in the east. Then to Joseph again, directing him to flee into Egypt, and after that directing his return.

(2.) I would next obferve the great notice that was taken of the incarnation both in heaven, and on earth. How it was noticed by the glorious inhabitants of the heavenly world, appears by their joyful fongs on this occafion, heard by the fhepherds in the night. This was the greateft event of Providence that ever the angels had beheld. We read of their finging praifes when they faw the formation of the lower world: [Job xxxviii. 7.] 'When the morning-flars fang together, and all the fons ' of God fhouted for joy.' So now they fang praifes on this much greater occafion of the birth of the Son of God, who is the creator of the world.

The glorious angels had all along expected this event: they had taken great notice of the prophecies and promifes of thefe things all along: for we are told, that the angels defire to look into the affairs of redemption. [1 Pet. i. 12.] They had all along been the minifters of Chrift in this affair of redemption, in all the feveral fleps of it down from the very fall of man. So we read, that they were employed in God's dealings with his ancient people from time to time. And doubtlefs they had long joyfully joyfully expected the coming of Chrift; but now they fee it accomplished, and therefore greatly rejoice on this occasion.

Notice was taken of it by fome among the Jews: as particularly by Elizabeth and the Virgin Mary before the birth of Chrift; not to fay by John the Baptift before he was born, when he leaped in his mother's womb as it were for joy, at the voice of the falutation of Mary. But Elizabeth and Mary do moft joyfully praife God together, when they meet, with Chrift and his forerunner in their wombs, and the Holy Spirit in their fouls. And afterwards what joyful notice is taken of this event by the fhepherds and by those holy perfons Zacharias, Simeon, and Anna ! How do they praife God on this occafion !---Thus the church in heaven, and on earth, unite in their joy and praife.

Great part of the universe takes joyful notice of the incarnation of Chrift: heaven takes notice of it, and the inhabitants fing for joy. This lower world, the world of mankind, does always take notice of it, even Gentiles as well as Jews; for it pleafed God to put honour on his Son, by wonderfully ftirring up fome of the wifeft of the Gentiles to come a long journey to fee and worship the Son of God at his birth, being led by a miraculous ftar, fignifying the birth of that glorious perfon, who is the bright and morning flar, going before, and leading them to the very place where the young child was. Some think they were inftructed by the prophecy of Balaam, who dwelt in the eastern parts, and foretold Chrift's coming as a ftar that fhould rife out of Jacob: or they might be excited by that general expectation there was of the Meffiah's coming about that time, before fpoken of, from the notice they had of it by the prophecies the Jews had with them in their difperfions in all parts of the world.*

(3.) The next concomitant of the birth of Chrift was his circumcifion.---But this may more properly be fpoken of under another head.

(4.) Ano-

* See Note B, page 266.

(4.) Another concomitant circumftance was his coming into the fecond temple, being first brought thither when an infant, on occasion of the purification of the bleffed Virgin. We read, [Hagg. ii. 7.] ' The defire of all nations ' shall come, and I will fill this house (or temple) with ' glory.' And in [Mal. iii. 1.] ' The Lord, whom ye ' feek, shall fuddenly come to his temple, even the messen-' ger of the covenant.' And now was the first instance of the fulfilment of these prophecies.

(5.) The last thing I shall here mention is the sceptre's departing from Judah, in the death of Herod the Great. The fceptre had never totally departed from Judah till Judah's fceptre was greatly diminished in the now. revolt of the ten tribes in Jeroboam's time; and the fceptre departed from Ifrael or Ephraim, at the time of the captivity of the ten tribes by Shalmanefer. But yet the fceptre remained in the tribe of Judah, under the kings of the houfe of David. And when the tribes of Judah and Benjamin were carried captive by Nebuchadnezzar, the sceptre of Judah ceased for a little while, till the return from the captivity under Cyrus, and then, though they were not an independent government, as they had been before, but owed fealty to the kings of Perfia; yet their governor was of themfelves, who had the power of life and death, and they were governed by their own laws; and fo Judah had 'a lawgiver from between his feet' during the Persian and Grecian monarchies. Towards the latter parts of the Grecian monarchy, the people were governed by kings of their own, of the race of the Maccabees, for the greater part of an hundred years. After that they were fubdued by the Romans. But the Romans fuffered them to be governed by their own laws, and to have a king of their own, Herod the Great, who reigned about forty years, and governed with kingly authority, only paying homage to the Romans. But prefently after Chrift was born he died, [as we have an account, Matt. ii. 19.] and Archelaus fucceeded him; but was foon put down by the Roman empire; and then the fceptre fully departed from Judah. There were no more Τt temtemporal kings of Judah after that, neither had that people their governors henceforth from among themfelves but were ruled by a Roman governor fent among them; and they ceafed to have any more the power of life and death. Hence the Jews fay to Pilate, 'It is not lawful ' for us to put any man to death.' [John xviii. 31.] Thus the fceptre departed from Judah when Shiloh came.*

§ II. The purchase of REDEMPTION.

HAVING thus confidered Chrift's coming into the world, and his taking on him our nature, to put himfelf in a capacity for the purchafe of redemption, I come now to fpeak of the purchafe itfelf.---And in fpeaking of this, I would, I. Show what is intended by the purchafe of redemption.---2. Make fome general obfervations concerning those things by which this purchafe was made.---3. Confider what Chrift did; and, 4. What he fuffered, to make that purchafe.

1. Chrift purchafed our redemption both by his *fatisfac*tion, and his merit. The price that Chrift lays down, pays our debt, and fo it fatisfies : by its intrinfic value, and by the agreement between the Father and the Son, it procures our title for happinefs, and fo it merits. The fatisfation of Chrift is to free us from mifery, and the merit of Chrift is to purchafe happinefs for us. (D)

The word purchafe, as it is ufed with refpect to the purchafe of Chrift, is taken either ftrictly, or more largely. It is ufed ftrictly, to fignify only the merit of Chrift; and more largely, to include both his fatisfaction and merit. Indeed

* See Note G, p. 161.

(D) Chrift's fatisfaction and merit to be diffinguished.] In like manner fome divines diffinguish between Chrift's active and paffive obedience, referring our pardon to the latter, and to the former our title to glory. The subject is ably and at large discussed by Mr. Hervey, Theron and Aspasio, vol. i. Dial. 2. and vol. ii. Dial. 10.; also Aspasio vind. Let. i.

Indeed many of the words used in this affair have various acceptations. Thus divines fometimes use the term merit for the whole price that Chrift offered. So the word fatiffaction is also fometimes used, to include not only propitiation, but also for his meritorious obedience. For, in some fenfe, not only fuffering the penalty, but obedience, is needful to fatisfy the law The reason of the various use of these terms seems to be, that they do not differ so much really as relatively. They both confift in paying a price of infinite value; but that price, as it respects a debt to be paid, is called fatisfaction; and as it respects a benefit to be obtained, is called merit. (E) He who lays down a price to pay a debt, does in some fense make a purchase; he purchafes liberty from the obligation. And he who lays down a price to purchase a good, does as it were make fatisfaction: he fatisfies the conditional demands of him to whom he pays it. This may fuffice concerning what is meant by the purchase of Christ.

2. I proceed to fome general obfervations concerning those things by which this purchase was made --- And,

(1.) I observe, that whatever in Christ's work had the nature of fatisfaction, was by virtue of his fuffering or humiliation. But whatever had the nature of merit, Tt<sub>2</sub> it

(E) The PRICE of our redemption. ] "Now, what is a price? A price is a valuable compensation of one thing for another. A flave is redeemed from captivity, a debtor from prifon, when fome gracious redeemer procures their liberty, by giving fome equivalent to the perfon by whom they are detained. We are debtors; we cannot pay unto God what we are owing. We are captives, and we cannot haften to be loofed. Jefus Chrift is the merciful Redeemer, who pays the fum we were owing, and fays to the prifoner, 'Go forth.' Will we not believe an apoftle, when he tells us, 'Ye are not your own; ye are bought with a ' price ;' [1 Cor. vi. 20.] Would you know what this price is ? Another apofile will tell, 'Ye are not redeemed with corruptible ' things, as filver and gold, but with the precious blood of ' Chrift. [1 Pet. i. 18.] [M'EwEN's Effays, vol. i. p. 35.] " The ranfom was paid down. The fund of heav'n

All price beyond. Though curious to compute,

Archangels fail'd to caft the mighty fum."

[Young's Night Thoughts, IV.]

it was by virtue of the excellency of his obedience.---The fatisfaction of Chrift confifts in his anfwering the demands of the law on man, which were confequent on the breach of it. Thefe were anfwered by fuffering its penalty. The merit of Chrift confifts in what he did to fulfil what the law demanded before man finned, which was obedience.

The fatisfaction or propitiation of Chrift confifts either in his fuffering pain, or being fubject to abfement. For he not only made fatisfaction by proper fuffering, but by whatever had the nature of humiliation and abafement; as his continuance under the power of death, while he lay in the grave, though neither his body nor his foul ftrictly endured fuffering after he was dead. So all the obedience of Chrift in his flate of humiliation, in one refpect or another, had the nature of merit in it, and was part of the price with which he purchafed happinefs for the elect.

(2.) Both Christ's fatisfaction for fin, and alfo his meriting happines by his righteousness, were carried on through the whole time of his humiliation. Christ's fatiffaction for fin was not only by his last fufferings, though it was principally by them; but all his fufferings, and all the humiliation that he was subject to from the first moment of his incarnation to his refurrection, were propitiatory or fatisfactory.---So also the purchase of happiness by his righteousness was also carried on through the whole time of his humiliation; not only in the course of his life, but in laying down his life at the end.

(3.) It was by the fame things that Chrift both fatiffied God's juffice, and also purchased eternal happines. He did not make fatisfaction by fome things that he did, and then work out a righteousness by others, but in the fame acts by which he wrought out righteousness, he also made fatisfaction, only taken in a different relation. Those fame acts of obedience wherein the righteousness of Chrift confisted, and which purchased heaven for us, confidered with respect to the felf-denial, pain, and humiliation which was in them, had the nature of fatisfaction. tion and procured our pardon. Thus his going about doing good, preaching the gofpel, and teaching his difciples, was a part of his righteoufnefs, as it was done in obedience to the Father: and a part of his fatisfaction, as he did it with great labour, trouble, and wearinefs, and under great temptations, expofing himfelf hereby to reproach and contempt. So his laying down his life had the nature of fatisfaction, confidered as his bearing our punifhment in our flead; but confidered as an act of obedience to God, who had given him this command, that he fhould lay down his life for finners, it was a part of his righteoufnefs, (F) as truly as of his fatisfaction.---Thefe things may fuffice to be obferved in general concerning the purchafe of redemption.

3. I now proceed to fpeak more particularly of those things which Christ did, and was the fubject of, during his humiliation, whereby this purchase was made.-----And the nature of the purchase of Christ, as it has been explained, leads us to confider these things under a twofold view, viz, (1.) With respect to this righteouss for so which appeared in them;---and, (2.) With respect to the sufferings and humiliation, which he was subject to in our stead.

(1.) I will confider the things that paffed during the time of Chrift's humiliation, with refpect to the obedience that he exercifed in them. And this is fubject to a threefold diftribution. With refpect to the laws which he obeyed.---With refpect to the various flages of life in which which he performed it,---and with refpect to the feveral virtues he exercifed.

(F) Chrift's DEATH an all of obedience.] "This part of our Lord's meritorious humiliation [viz. his death] is [fometimes] by a very ufual figure, put for the whole. The death of Chrift includes not only his fufferings, but his obedience. The fhedding of his precious blood was at once the grand inflance of his fuffering, and the finishing alt of his obedience. In this view it is confidered, and thus it is interpreted by his own ambassiador; who, speaking of his divine Master, fays, 'He was obedient unto death, ' even the death of the cross,' [Phil. ii. 8.] In like manner, when the feripture ascribes our justification to the death of Chrift, we are not to think that it would fet aside, but imply his obedisence. [HERVEY, Theron and Asp. vol. ii. Dial. 10.]

The first distribution of the acts of Christ's righteoufnefs is with refpect to the laws which he obeyed. But all the precepts which Chrift obeyed may be reduced to one law which the apoftle calls ' the law of works.' [Rom. iii. 27.] And this indeed includes all the laws which God ever gave to mankind; for it is a general rule of the law of works, and indeed of the law of nature, that God is to be obeyed, and that he muft be fubmitted to in whatever positive precept he is pleafed to give. But, more particularly, the commands which Chrift obeyed, were of three kinds; they were either fuch as he was fubject to merely as man, as a Jew, or purely as Mediator. As man he obeyed the moral law, which was the fame with that which was given at Mount Sinai, which is obligatory on all mankind in all ages of the world .--- As a Jew, he was fubjest to the ceremonial law, and was conformed to it in being circumcifed the eighth day; and he ftrictly obeyed it in going up to Jerusalem to the temple three times a year; at least after he was come to the age of twelve years, which feems to have been the age when the males began to go up to the temple : Chrift alfo conftantly attended the fervice of the temple, and of the fynagogues. To this head may be reduced, his fubmiffion to John's baptifm; for it was a fpecial command to the Jews, to go forth to John the Baptift, and be baptized of him, and therefore when Chrift came to be baptized of John, and John objected, that he had more need to be baptized of him, he gives this reafon in reply, that it was needful that he should do it, that he might ' fulfil all righteousness.' [Matt iii. 13---15.] --- Again, Chrift was fubject to the mediatorial law, which contained those commands of God to which he was fubject, not merely as man, nor yet as a Jew, but which related purely to his mediatorial office. Such were the commands which the Father gave him, to teach fuch doctrines, to preach the gofpel, to work fuch miracles, to call fuch difciples, to appoint fuch ordinances, and finally to lay down his life: for he did all thefe things in obedience to comcommands he had received of the Father, as he often tells us. [John x. 18.---xiv. 31.]

And it is to be obferved, that Chrift's righteoufnefs, by which he merited heaven for himfelf, and all who believe in him, confifts principally in his obedience to this mediatorial law; for in fulfilling this law confifted his chief work and bufinefs in the world. What Chrift had to do in the world as Mediator, was infinitely more difficult than what he had to do merely as a man, or as a Jew. To his obedience to this mediatorial law belongs his going through his laft fufferings, beginning with his agony in the garden, and ending with his refurrection. As the obedience of the first Adam, wherein his righteoufness would have confifted, if he had flood, would have principally confifted, not in his obedience to the moral law, to which he was fubject merely as man, but in his obedience to that fpecial law that he was fubject to as moral head and furety of mankind, even the command of abftaining from the tree of knowledge of good and evil; fo the obedience of the fecond Adam, wherein his righteoufnefs confifts, lies principally, not in his obedience to the law that he was fubject to merely as man, but that special law to which he was subject in his office as Mediator and furety for man.

BEFORE I proceed to the next diffribution of Chrift's righteoufnefs, I would obferve three things concerning his obedience to thefe laws.

[1.] He performed that obedience to them, which was in every refpect perfect; it was univerfal as to the laws that he was fubject to, and every individual precept contained in them. It was perfect with refpect to the principle from which he obeyed: this was wholly right: there was no corruption in his heart. It was perfect with refpect to the ends he acted for; for he never had any by-ends, but aimed perfectly at fuch as the law of God required. And it was perfect with refpect to the conflancy of his obedience: he held out to the end, through all the changes he paffed through, and all the trials that he underwent.---The meritoriouïnels of Chrift's obedience depends depends on the perfection of it. If it had failed in any inflance, it could not have been meritorious: for that is not accepted as an obedience to a law, that does not fully anfwer it.

[2.] The next thing I would observe of Christ's obedience is, that it was performed through the greatest trials and temptations that ever any obedience was: which was another thing that rendered it more meritorious and thank-worthy. To obey another when his commands are easy, is not fo worthy, as it is to obey when it cannot be done without great difficulty.

[3.] He performed this odedience with infinite respect to God, and the honour of his law. The obedience he performed was with infinitely greater love to God, and regard to his authority, than the angels poffefs. The angels perform their obedience with that love which is perfect, with finless perfection: but Christ performed his obedience with much greater love than the angels do /theirs, even infinite love; for though the human nature of Chrift was not capable of love abfolutely infinite, yet Christ's obedience, which was performed in that human nature, is not to be looked upon as merely the obedience of the human nature, but the obedience of his perfon, as God-man; and there was infinite love of the perfor of Chrift manifest in that obedience. And this, together with the infinite dignity of the perfon that obeyed, rendered his obedience infinitely meritorious.

THE fecond diffribution of the acts of Chrift's obedience, is with refpect to the different parts of his life, wherein they were performed. And in this refpect they may be divided into those which were performed in private life, and those which were performed in his public ministry.

Those acts he performed during his private life: he was perfectly obedient in his childhood. (G) He infinitely differed

(G) The CHILDHOOD of Jefus.] "We cannot reafonably doubt, but the young Redeemer gave early proofs of his divine origidiffered from other children, who, as foon as they begin to act, begin to fin and rebel. He was fubject to his earthly parents, though he was Lord of all. [Luke ii. 51.] He was found about his Father's butinefs at twelve years of age in the temple. [Luke ii. 42.] He then began that work that he had to do in fulfilment of the mediatorial law, which the Father had given him. He continued his private life for about thirty years, dwelling at Nazareth in the houfe of his reputed father Jofeph, where he ferved God in a private capacity, and in following a mechanical trade, the bufinefs of a carpenter.

Those acts which he performed during his public minifiry, which began when he was about thirty years of age, and continued for the three last years and an half of his life. Most of the history of the evangelists is taken up in giving an account of what passed during these three years and an half. Christ's first appearing in his public ministry, is what is often called his coming in foripture. Thus John speaks of Christ's coming as what is yet to be, though he had been born long before.---Concerning the public ministry of Christ, observe the following things.

[1.] The forerunner of Chrift's coming in his public miniftry was John the Baptift : he came preaching repentance for the remiffion of fins, to make way for Chrift's coming, agreeable to the prophecies of him. [If. xl. 3---5. and Matt. iv. 5, 6.] It is fuppofed that John the Baptift began his miniftry about three years and an half before Chrift; fo that John's miniftry and Chrift's put together, made feven years, which was the laft of Daniel's weeks; [Dan ix. 27.] 'He will confirm the co-U u 'yenant original. It was, no doubt, a very pleafing employment to the highly-favoured parents, to rear up this tender plant by a thoufand endearing offices; to mark the first buddings of his genius more than mortal; and to observe the bloffoms of every heavenly grace that adorned his holy foul. But as it hath feemed good to the wifdom of the Holy Ghost, to be very fparing in the history of his private life, after he called his Son out of Egypt, we mult be contented to remain in ignorance of what is not revealed."

[M'Ewen's Effays, vol. ii. p. 13, 14.]

' venant with many for one week.' Chrift came in the midft of the week, viz. in the beginning of the laft half of it, or the laft three years and an half, as Daniel fore-told, as in the verfe juft now quoted : ' And in the midft ' of the week he fhall caufe the facrifice and the oblation ' to ceafe.'*

John Baptift's ministry confifted principally in preaching the law, to awaken men and convince them of fin; to prepare men for the coming of Chrift, to comfort them; as the law is to prepare the heart for the entertainment of the gofpel.--- A very remarkable out-pouring of the Spirit of God attended John's ministry; and the effect of it was, that Jerufalem, and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan, were awakened, convinced, and fubmitted to his baptifm, confeffing their fins. John is fpoken of as the greatest of all the prophets who came before Christ : [Matt. xi. 11.] ' Among those that are born of women, ' there hath not rifen a greater than John the Baptift ;' i. e. he had the most honourable office. (H) He was as the morning flar, which is the harbinger of the approaching day, and forerunner of the rifing fun. The other prophets were flars that were to give light in the night; but we have heard how those flars went out on the approach of the gofpel day. But now the coming of Chrift being very nigh, the morning flar comes before him, the brighteft of all the ftars, as John the Baptift was the greateft of all the prophets.

And when Chrift came in his public miniftry, the light of the morning ftar decreafed too; as ye fee, when the fun rifes,

* Compare Note D, p. 272.

(H) John's office HONOURABLE.] "It was great preferment to John above all the prophets, that he was Chrift's harbinger. ... His bufinefs was to prepare Chrift's way, to difpofe people to receive the Saviour, by difcovering to them their fin and mifery, and their need of a Saviour. ... Note, Much of the beauty of God's difpenfations lies in their mutual connection and coherence, and the reference they have one to another. That which advanced John above the Old Teftament prophets was, that he went immediately before Chrift. Note, The nearer any are to Chrift, the more truly honourable they are." [HENRY in loc.] rifes, it diminifhes the light of the morning flar. So John the Baptift fays of himfelf, [John iii. 30.] ' He muft in-' creafe, but I muft decreafe.' And foon after Chrift began his public miniftry, John the Baptift was put to death ; as the morning flar is vitible a little while after the fun is rifen, yet foon goes out.

[2.] The next thing to be taken notice of is Chrift's entrance on his public miniftry, which was by baptifm, followed with the temptation in the wildernefs. His baptifm was, as it were, his folemn inauguration, by which he entered on his miniftry, and was attended with his being anointed with the Holy Ghoft, in a folemn and vifible manner, the Holy Ghoft defeending upon him in a vifible fhape like a dove, attended with a voice from heaven, faying, ' This is my beloved Son in whom I am well ' pleafed.' [Matt. iii. 16, 17.]

After this he was led by the devil into the wildernefs. Satan made a violent onfet upon him at his first entrance on his work; and now he had a remarkable trial of his obedience; but he got the victory. He who had fuch fuccefs with the first Adam, had none with the fecond.

[3.] The work in which Chrift was employed during his miniftry. And here are three things chiefly to be taken notice of, viz. his preaching, his working of miracles, and his calling and appointing difciples and minifters of his kingdom.

His preaching the gofpel. Great part of the work of his public miniftry confifted in this; and much of that obedience by which he purchafed falvation for us, was in his fpeaking thofe things which the Father commanded him. He more clearly and abundantly revealed the mind and will of God, than ever it had been before. He came from the bofom of the Father, and perfectly knew his mind, and was in the beft capacity to reveal it. As the fun, as foon as it is rifen, begins to thine; fo Chrift, as foon as he came into his public miniftry, began to enlighten the world with his doctrine. As the law was given at Mount Sinai, fo Chrift delivered his evangelical doctrine, full of bleflings, and not curfes, to a multitude U u 2 on a mountain. [Matt. v. vi. and vii.] When he preached he did not teach as the feribes, but he taught as one having authority; fo that his hearers were aftonifhed at his doctrine. (1) He did not reveal the mind and will of God in the ftyle of the prophets, ' Thus faith the Lord;' but,

(1) Chrift taught NOT as the SCRIBES.] "Our Lord Jefus Chrift had been long expected to appear in the Jewift church, as a prophet like unto Mofes. . . . The people therefore formed the higheft expectations of his æconomy, and he framed it fo as to exceed all defeription. He taught . . . not as the foribes.

" Inftead of deriving his doctrine from popular notions, human paffions, the interests of princes, or the traditions of priests, he took it immediately from the holy fcriptures, to which he conflantly appealed. The truths of natural religion he explained and eltablished; the doctrines of revelation he expounded, elucidated, and enforced, and thus brought life and immortality to light by the gofpel .- The motives which he employed to give his doctrine energy, were not taken from finful fecular things; but it was urged home in its truth and importance. The fact is true, and THEREFORE you ought to believe it, whether the world admit it or not. That duty is important, ... and THEREFORE you ought to perform it, whether the world perform it or not .- The tempers in which he executed his ministry were the noblest that can be conceived. He was humble, compaffionate, firm, difinterefted, and generous .- Add to thefe the fimplicity and majefty of his flyle, the beauty of his images, the alternate foftnels and feverity of his addrefs, the choice of his fubjects, the gracefulnefs of his deportment, the indefatigablenefs of his zeal, ... where shall I put the period? His perfections are inexhauslible, and our admiration is everlafting. The character of Chrift is the beft book a preacher can fludy.

" The fuccefs that accompanied the ministry of our Emanuel, was truly allonishing. My foul overflows with joy, my eyes with tears of pleafure, while I transcribe it. When this Sun of righteoufnels arofe with healing under his wings, the difintercified populace, who lay all neglected and forlorn, benighted with ignorance, and benumbed with vice, faw the light, and hailed the brightnels of its rifing. Up they fprang, and after him in multitudes, men, women, and children went. Was he to pais a road, they climbed the trees to fee him, yea the blind fat by the way fide to hear him go by. Was he in a houfe, they unroofed the building to come at him. As if they could never get near enough to hear the foft accents of his voice, they preffed, they crowded, they trod upon one another to furround him. When he retired into the wildernefs, they thought him another Mofes, and would have made him a king. It was the fineft thing they could think of. but, 'Verily, verily, I fay unto you.' He delivered his doctrines, not only as the doctrines of the Father, but as his own. He gave forth his commands, not as the prophets were wont to do, increly as God's commands, but as his own, 'This is my commandment,'---' Ye are my friends if ye do whatfoever I command you.' [John xv. 12, 14.]

Another thing that Chrift was employed in during the courfe of his miniftry, was working miracles. Concerning which we may obferve feveral things.

Their multitude. Befides particular inftances, we often have an account of multitudes coming at once with difeafes, and his healing them .--- They were works of mercy. He went about doing good, healing the fick, reforing fight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, and the proper use of their limbs to the lame and halt; feeding the hungry, cleanfing the leprous, and raifing the dead. --- They were almost all of them fuch as had been spoken of as the peculiar works of God, in the Old Testament. Such were ftilling the waves of the fea. [Pfal. cvii. 20.] Walking on the fea in a ftorm : [ Job ix. 8.] Cafting out devils: [Pfal. lxxiv. 14.] Feeding a multitude in a wildernefs : [Deut. viii. 16.] Difcerning men's thoughts: [Amos iv. 13.] Railing the dead: [Pfal. lxviii. 20.] Opening the eves of the blind : [Pfal. exlvi. 8.] Healing the fick : [Pfal. ciii. 2.] And lifting up those who are bowed together : [ Pial. cxlvi. 8.]--- They were in general fuch works as were images of the great work which he came to work on men's hearts; reprefenting that inward, fpiritual cleanfing, healing, renovation, and refurrection, which all his redeemed are the fubjects of .---He wrought them in fuch a manner to show that he did them of. He, greater than the greatest monarch, defpifed worldly grandeur; but to fulfil prophecy, fitting upon a borrowed als's colt, rode into Jerufalem the Son of the Higheft, and allowed the tranfported multitude to firew the way with garments and branches, and to aroufe the infenfible metropolis with acclamations, the very children fhouting, 'Hofannah! Hofannah in the Higheft ! Hofan-' nah to the fon of David ! Bleffed be he that cometh in the name ' of the Lord !" [ROBINSON's Diff. prefixed to Claude, p. xxvii.] them by his own power, and not by the power of another, as the other prophets did. They were wont to work all their miracles in the name of the Lord; but Chrift wrought in his own name. Mofes was forbidden to enter into Canaan, becaufe he feemed by his fpeech to affume the honour of working only one miracle to himfelf. [See Numbers xx. 8---13.] Nor did Chrift work miracles as the apoftles did, who wrought them all in the name of Chrift; but he wrought them in his own name, and by his own authority and will: Thus, faith he, ' I will, be ' thou clean.' [Matt. viii. 3.] And in the fame ftrain he put the queftion, ' Believe ye that I am able to do this?' [Matt. ix. 28.]

Another thing that Chrift did in the courfe of his miniftry, was to call his difciples. He called many difciples, whom he employed as minifters; he fent feventy at one time into his work: but there were twelve that he fet apart as apoftles, who were the grand minifters of his kingdom, and, as it were, the twelve foundations of his church. [See Rev. xxi. 14.] Thefe were the main inftruments of fetting up his kingdom in the world, and therefore fhall fit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Ifrael. [Matt. xix. 28.]

[4.] I would obferve how he finished his ministry. And this was---In giving his dying counsel to his disciples, which we have recorded in the xivth, xvth, and xvith chapters of John's gospel.---In instituting a folemn memorial of his death, namely, the facrament of the Lord's supper, wherein we have a representation of his body broken, and of his blood shed. ( $\kappa$ )---In ordering up himself, without blemish,

 $(\kappa)$  How Chrift finifked his minifley.] " The feaft of the paffover drew nigh, at which he knew that he was to fuffer. The night was arrived, wherein he was to be delivered into the hands of his enemies. He had fpent the evening in conference with his difciples; like a dying father in the midft of his family, mingling confolations with his laft inftructions." When he had ended his difcourfe to them, he 'lifted up his eyes to heaven,' and . . . . began that folemn prayer of interceffion for the church, which clofed his miniftry. Immediately after he went forth with his difciples blemifh, a facrifice to God, which he did in his laft fufferings, as God's anointed prieft : and it was the greateft act of his public miniftry, and indeed of his obedience. The priefts of old ufed to do many other things as God's minifters : but were then in the higheft execution of their office, when they were offering facrifices on the altar. So the greateft thing that Chrift did in the execution of his prieftly office, and indeed the greateft thing that ever was done, was the offering up himfelf a facrifice to God. Herein he was the antitype of all that had been done by all the priefts, in all their facrifices and offerings, from the beginning of the world.

(3.) The third diffribution of the acts by which Chrift purchafed redemption, regards the virtues that he exercifed and manifefted in them, which were every pollible virtue and grace. Indeed there are fome particular virtues that finful man may have, that were not in Chrift; not from any want or defect of virtue, but becaufe his virtue was perfect and without defect. Such are repentance, brokennefs of heart for fin, and mortification of luft. Thofe virtues were not in Chrift, becaufe he had no fin of his own to repent of, nor any luft to deny. But all virtues which do not pre-fuppofe fin, were in him, and that in a higher degree than ever they were in difciples into the garden of Gethfemane, and furrendered himfelf to thofe who came to apprehend him.

" Such was the fituation of our Lord.... He faw his miffion on the point of being accomplished. He had the prospect full before him of all that he was about to fuffer. ' Father ! the ' hour is come.' What hour ? An hour the most critical, the most pregnant with great events, fince hours had begun to be numbered, fince time had begun to run. It was the hour in which the Son of God was to terminate the labours of his important life, by a death ftill more important and illustrious; the hour of atoning, by his fufferings, for the guilt of mankind; the hour of accomplifhing prophecies, types, and fymbols, which had been carried on through a feries of ages; the hour of concluding the old, and of introducing to the world the new difpenfation of religion; the hour of his triumphing over the world, and death, and hell ; the hour of his creeting that fpiritual king-dom which is to Iafl for ever. Such is the hour, fuch are the events, which you are to commemorate in the facrament of our Lord's fupper." [Dr. BLAIR's Sermons, vol. i. Ser. 5.]

<sup>335</sup>

in any other man, or any mere creature; every virtue in him was perfect, virtue itfelf was greater in him than in any other; and it was under greater advantages to fhine in him than in any other. Strict virtue fhines most when most tried; but never any virtue had fuch trials as Christ's had.---The virtues that Christ exercised may be divided into three forts, those which more immediately respect God, him/clf, and other men.

Those virtues which more immediately respect God, appeared in the work which Chrift did for our redemption. There appeared in him an holy fear and reverence towards God the Father. Chrift had a greater trial of his virtue in this respect than any other had, from the honourableness of his person. This was the temptation of the angels that fell, to caft off their worthip of God, and reverence of his majefty, that they were beings of fuch exalted dignity and worthinefs themfelves. [See I Tim. iii. 6.] But Chrift was infinitely more worthy and honourable than they; for he was the eternal Son of God, and his perfon was equal to the perfon of God the Father : and yet, as he had taken on him the office of mediator, and the nature of man, he was full of reverence towards God. He adored him in the most reverential manner time after time. So he manifested a wonderful love towards God. The angels give great testimony of their love towards God, in their constancy and agility in doing the will of God; and many faints have given great teftimonies of their love to God, by having endured great labours and fufferings: but none ever gave fuch testimonies of love to God as Chrift has; none ever performed fuch a labour of love as he did, or fuffered fo much from love to God. So also he manifested the most wonderful fubmitfion to the will of God. Never was any one's fubmiffion fo tried as he was.

In this work he most wonderfully manifested those virtues which more immediately respected himself; as particularly humility, patience, contempt of the world. Christ, though he was the most excellent and honourable of all men, yet was the most humble; yea, he was the most most humble of all creatures. No angel or man ever equalled him in humility, though he was the highest of all creatures in dignity and honour. Chrift would have been under the greatest temptation to pride, if it had been poffible for any thing to have tempted him. The temptation of the angels that fell was the dignity of their nature, and the honourableness of their circumstances; but Chrift was infinitely more honourable than they. The human nature of Chrift was fo honoured as to be in the fame perfon with the eternal Son of God, who was equal with God; and yet that human nature was not at all lifted up with pride. Nor was the man Chrift Jefus at all lifted up with pride, with all those wonderful works which he wrought, of healing the fick, curing the blind, lame, and maimed, and raifing the dead. And though he knew that God had appointed him to be the king over heaven and earth, angels and men, as he fays, [Matt. ix. 27.] ' All things are deliver-' ed unto me of my Father;' though he knew he was fuch an infinitely honourable perfon, and ' thought it not ' robbery to be equal with God;' and though he knew he was the heir of God the Father's kingdom ; yet such was his humility that he did not difdain to be abafed and depreffed down into lower and viler circumftances and fufferings than ever any other elect creature was; fo that he became least and lowest of all. The proper trial and evidence of humility is flooping or complying with those acts or circumstances, when called to it, which are very low, and contain great abafement. But none ever ftooped to low as Chrift, if we confider either the infinite height that he ftooped from, or great depth to which he flooped. Such was his humility, that though he knew himfelf to be infinitely worthy of being honoured ten thousand times more than the highest prince on earth, or angel in heaven; yet he did not think it too much when called to it, to be bound as a curfed malefactor, to become the laughing-flock of the vileft of men, to be crowned with thorns, to have a mock robe put on him, and to be crucified like a flave or malefactor, as one of the meaneft Χ., and and worft of vagabonds and milcreants, and an accurled enemy of God and men, who was not fit to live on the earth; and this not for himfelf, but for fome of the meaneft and vileft of creatures, fome of those accurfed wretches that crucified him. Was not this a wonderful manifestation of humility, when he cheerfully and most freely fubmitted to this abafement ?--- And how did his patience fhine forth under all the terrible fufferings which he endured, when he was dumb, and opened not his mouth, but went as a lamb to the flaughter, and was patient under all the fufferings he endured from first to last.---And what contempt of the glory of the world was there, when he rather chofe this meanned, and fuffering, than to wear a temporal crown, and be invefted with the external glories of an earthly prince, as the multitude often folicited him? Chrift, in the work which he wrought out, in a wonderful manner exercifed those virtues which more immediately refpect other men. And thefe may be fummoned up under two heads, viz. meeknefs, and love. Chrift's meekne/s was his humble calmnefs of fpirit under the provocations he met with. None ever met with fo great provocations as he did. The greatness of provocation lies in two things, the degree of opposition by which the provocation is given; and, in the degree of the unreafonablenefs of that oppofition, or in its being not only without reafon, against the greatest degree of obligation to the contrary. Now, if we confider both thefe things, no man ever met with a thoufandth part of the provocation that Chrift met with from men; and yet how meek was he under all! how composed and quiet his fpirit! how far from being in a ruffle and tumult! When he was reviled, he reviled not again; and f as a theep before ' her flearers is dumb, fo he opened not his mouth.' No appearance was there of a revengeful fpirit: on the contrary, what a spirit of forgiveness did he exhibit! fo that he fervently and effectually prayed for the forgiveness of his enemies when they were in the higheft act of provocation that ever they perpetrated, viz. nailing him to the crofs: [Luke xxiii. 34.] ' Father, forgive them, for they know • not

•

• not what they do.'---And never did there appear fuch an inflance of love to men, as he thowed when on earth, efpecially in going through his laft fufferings, and offering up his life and foul for them. There had been very remarkable manifeftations of love in fome of the faints, as in the Apoftles Paul, John, and others; but the love that Chrift flowed them on earth, as much exceeded the love of all other men, as the ocean exceeds a fmall ftream-(L)

(L) The excellency of Chrift's CHARACTER.] " He fets an example of the most perfect piety to God, and of the most extenfive benevolence and the most tender compassion to men. He does not merely exhibit a life of ftrict justice, but of overflowing benignity. His temperance has not the dark flades of aufterity; his meeknels does not degenerate into apathy. His humility is fignal, amidst a splendour of qualities more than human. His fortitude is eminent and exemplary, in enduring the most formidable external evils and the fharpeft actual fufferings : his patience is invincible; his refignation entire and abfolute. Truth and fincerity fhine throughout his whole conduct. Though of heavenly decent, he fhews obedience and affection to his earthly parents. He approves, loves, and attaches himfelf to amiable qualities in the human race. He respects authority, religious and civil; and he evidences regard for his country by promoting its most effential good in a painful ministry dedicated to its fervice, by deploring its calamities, and by laying down his life for its benefit. Every one of his eminent virtues is regulated by confummate prudence; and he both wins the love of his friends, and extorts the approbation and wonder of his enemies.

" Never was a character at the fame time fo commanding and natural, fo refplendent and pleafing, fo amiable and venerable. There is a peculiar contrast in it between an awful greatnefs, dignity and majefly, and the most conciliating loveliness, tendernefs, and foftnefs. He now converfes with prophets, lawgivers, and angels; and the next inftant he meekly endures the dulnefs of his difciples and the blafphemies and rage of the multitude. He now calls himfelf greater than Solomon, one who can command legions of angels, the giver of life to whomfoever he pleafeth, the Son of God, who shall sit on his glorious throne to judge the world. At other times we find him embracing young children, not lifting up his voice in the flreets, not breaking the bruifed reed, nor quenching the fmoaking flax; calling his difciples, not fervants, but friends and brethren, and comforting them with an exuberant and parental affection. Let us paufe an juftant, and fill our minds with the idea of one who knew all Xx2 things

339

And it is to be obferved, that all the virtues which appeared in Chrift fhone brighteft in the clofe of his life, under the trials he then met with. Eminent virtue always fhows brighteft in the fire. Pure gold fhows its purity chiefly in the furnace. It was chiefly under thofe trials which Chrift underwent in the clofe of his life, that his love to God, and his regard to the honour of his law; his fpirit of obedience, humility, and contempt of the world; his patience, meeknefs, forgivenefs towards men, appeared. Indeed every thing that Chrift did to work out redemption for us appears chiefly in the clofe of his life. Here chiefly appears the merit of his fatisfaction, and the brightnefs of his example.

Thus we have taken a brief view of the things whereby the purchase of redemption was made with respect to his righteousnels that appeared in them.---I proceed now,

4. To take a view of them with refpect to the *fatisfac*tion that he thereby made for fin, or the fufferings and humiliation that he was the fubject of in them, on our account. And here,

(1.) He was fubject to uncommon humiliation and fuffering in his infancy. He was born to that end that he might die; and therefore he did, as it were, begin to die as foon as he was born. His mother fuffered in an uncommon manner in bearing him. When her travail came upon her, it is faid, ' there was no room in the inn.' [Luke ii. 7.] She was forced to betake herfelf to a ftable; and things heavenly and earthly, fearched and laid open the inmoft recelles of the heart, rectified every prejudice, and removed every miftake of a moral and religious kind; by a word exercifed a fovereignty over all nature, penetrated the hidden events of futurity, gave promifes of admiffion into a happy immortality, had the keys of life and death, claimed an union with the Father; and yet was pious, mild, gentle, humble, affable, focial, benevolent, friendly, affectionate. Such a character is fairer than the morning flar. Each feparate virtue is made flronger by oppofition and contraft; and the union of fo many svirtues forms a brightnefs, which fitly reprefents the glory of that God, 'who inhabiteth ' light inacceflible." [Bp. NEWCOME's Obfervat. on our Lord's Conduct, &c.] and therefore Chrift was born in the place of the bringing forth of beafts. Thus he fuffered in his birth, as though he had been meaner and viler than a man, and not poffeffed of the dignity of the human nature, but had been of the rank of the brute creatures. And we may conclude, that his mother's circumftances in other refpects were proportionably ftrait and difficult, and that the was defititute of the conveniences neceffary for fo young an infant which others were wont to have; for want of which the new-born babc without doubt fuffered much.---

And befides, he was perfecuted in his infancy: they began to feek his life as foon as he was born. Herod was fo defirous to kill him, that in order to it, he killed all the children in Bethlehem, and in all the coafts thereof, from two years old and under. [Matt. ii. 16.] And Chrift fuffered banithment in his infancy, was driven out of his native country into Egypt, and without doubt fuffered much by being carried fo long a journey, when he was fo young, into a ftrange country.

(2.) Chrift was fubject to great humiliation in his private life at Nazareth: he there led a fervile obfcure life, in a mean laborious occupation; for he is called not only the carpenter's fon, but the carpenter: [Mark vi. 3.] ' Is ' not this the carpenter, the brother of James and Jofes, ' and Juda, and Simeon i' (M) He, by hard labour, earned his bread before he ate it, and fo fuffered that curfe which God pronounced on Adam, [Gen. iii. 13.] ' In the ' fweat of thy face thalt thou cat bread.' Let us confider how great a degree of humiliation the glorious Son of God

(M) "It is no uncommon thing, in the difpenfations of the only wife God, to keep thofe perfons long hidden under the vail of obfcurity, whom he intends fhall make the most illustrious appearances on earth; and that thofe whom infinite Wifdom hath appointed for the emancipation or redemption of others, as preparatory to that, fhall themfelves experience the hardfhips of bondage, toil, and labour; fo that, like the rifing fun, they may more vitibly thed their light upon, and fentibly communicate their ufefulnels to, a benighted world. Thus Mofes, Jofeph, Gideon, and . . . he who was laughed to feorn, and contemptuoufly fliled, 'The carpenter, the fon of Mary."

God, the creator of heaven and earth, was fubject to in this, that for about thirty years he should live a private obfcure life, and all this while be overlooked, and not more regarded than other labouring men. Christ's humiliation in this respect was greater in his private life, than in the time of his public ministry. There were many manifestations of his glory in the word he preached, and the great miracles he wrought: but the first thirty years of his life he spent among mean, ordinary men, as it were in filence, without those manifestations of his glory, or any thing to distinguish him except the spotles purity and eminent holines of his life; and that was in a great measure hid in obfcurity; fo that he was little taken notice of till after his baptism.

(3.) Chrift was the fubject of great humiliation and fuffering during his public life, from his baptifm till the night wherein he was betrayed. (N) As particularly,

He fuffered great poverty, fo that he had not ' where to ' lay his head,' [Matt. viii. 20.] and commonly ufed to lodge abroad in the open air, for want of a fhelter to betake himfelf to; [compare the following places together, Matt. viii. 20.: John xviii. 1, 2.; Luke xxi. 37.---xxii. 39.] So that what was fpoken of Chrift in Canticles, [v. 2.] ' My head is filled with dew, and my locks with the ' drops of the night,' was literally fulfilled. And through this poverty he was doubtlefs often pinched with hunger, and thirft, and cold. [See Matt. iv. 2.--xxi. 18.] His mother and natural relations were poor, and not able to help

(N) JESUS SUFFERED.] "The Gentiles acknowledged it, the Jews triumphed at it... If hunger and thirft, if revilings and contempt, if forrows and agonies, if ftripes and buffettings, if condemnation and crucifixion, be fuffering, Jefus fuffered. If the infirmities of our nature, if the weight of our fins, if the malice of man, if the machinations of Satan, if the hand of God, could make him fuffer, our Saviour fuffered. If the annals of times, if the writings of his apolles, if the death of his martyrs, if the confeilion of Gentiles, if the fcoffs of the Jews be teltimonics, Jefus fuffered. Nor was there ever any which thought he did not really and truly fuffer, but fuch as withal irrationally pretended that he was not really and truly man." [Bp. PEARSON, on the Creed, Art. 4.] help him; and he was maintained by the charity of fome of his difciples while he lived. So we read [Luke viii. 2, 3.] of 'certain women that followed him, and minif-'tered to him of their fubftance.' He was fo poor, that he was not able to pay the tribute that was demanded of him, without miracle. [Matt. xvii. 27.] And when he ate his laft paffover, it was not at his own charge, but at the charge of another. [Luke xxii. 7, &c.] Alfo from his poverty he had no grave of his own to be buried in. It was the manner of the Jews, unlefs they were very poor, to prepare themfelves a fepulchre while they lived; but Chrift had no land of his own, though he was poffeffor of heaven and earth; and therefore was buried by Jofeph of Arimathea's charity, and in his tomb, which he had prepared for himfelf.

He fuffered great hatred and reproach. ' He was def-· pifed and rejected of men.' He was by most esteemed a poor infignificant perfon; one of little account, flighted for his low parentage, and his mean city, Nazareth. He was reproached as a glutton and drunkard, a friend of publicans and finners; was called a deceiver of the people; fometimes a madman, a Samaritan, and one poffeffed with a devil. [John vii. 20.---viii. 48.---x. 20.] He was called a blafphemer, and accounted by many a wizzard, or one that wrought miracles by the black art, and by communication with Beelzebub. They excommunicated him, and agreed to excommunicate any man that fhould own him. [John ix. 22.] They withed him dead, and were continually feeking to murder him; fometimes by force, and fometimes by craft. They often took up ftones to ftone him, and once led him to the brow of a hill, intending to throw him down the precipice, to dash him to pieces against the rocks. [Luke iv. 20.]---He was thus hated and reproached by his own visible people : [ John i. 11.] ' He ' came to his own, and his own received him not.' And he was principally defpifed and hated by those who were in chief repute, and were the greatest men. But into whatever part of the land he went, he met with hatred and contempt. He met with thefe in Capernaum, and when when he went to Jericho: at Jerufalem, which was the holy city, when he went to the temple to worfhip; alfo in Nazareth, his own city, and among his own relations, and neighbours.

He fuffered the buffetings of Satan in an uncommon manner. We read [Matt. iv. 1---11.] of one time in particular, when he had a long conflict with the devil, when he was in the wildernefs forty days, with nothing but wild beafts and devils; and was fo exposed to the devil's power, that he was bodily carried about by him from place to place, while he was otherwife in a very fuffering flate. (0)

(4.) I come now to the evening of the night wherein he was betrayed. And from this time was his greateft humiliation and fuffering, by which principally he made fatisfaction to the juffice of God for the fins of men. Firft, his life was fold by one of his own difciples for thirty pieces of filver, which was the price of the life of a fervant. [Exod. xxii. 32.] Then he was in fuch a dreadful agony in the garden,

(0) Chrift TEMPTED of the Devil.] This extraordinary event has been much the fubject of infidel ridicule; and fome ingenious writers, to avoid the difficulties of a literal interpretation, have reduced the whole to vision and allegory; and thus involved it, as we apprehend, in far more and greater. We humbly conceive, that the best way to avoid difficulties on this, and many other parts of facred writ, is to adhere as close as pollible to the language of infpiration, fince the additions of puzzled commentators often add abfurdity to remove doubts. That when our Lord retired to the interior part of the wildernefs, the enemy of mankind fhould affume a difguife, (whether human or angelic, is not important) and present the most plausible temptation to our Redeemer under these trying circumflances, is perfectly confistent with the malevolence of his character; but how far he was permitted to exert his power in forming them, is not necessary to be inquired. The grand objection is, why was Satan fuffered thus to infult the Son of God? Wherefore did the Redeemer fuffer his state of retirement to be thus disturbed, with the malicious fuggestions of the fiend? The great apostle furnishes an aufwer, equally pertinent and confolatory-' He was tempted in all points · like as we are-that he might be touched with the feeling of our ' infirmities-and himfelf having fuffered being tempted, he is able ' to faccour them that are tempted.' [See Heb. ii. 18-iv. 15.] [I. N.]

garden, that there came fuch a horror upon his foul, that he began to be forrowful and very heavy, and faid, [Mark xiv. 23, 34.] his ' foul was exceeding forrowful, 'even unto death, and was fore amazed.' (P) So violent was the agony of his foul, as to force the blood through the pores of his fkin; fo that he was overwhelmed with amazing forrow, his body was covered with blood. The difciples, who used to be his friends and family, now appear cold, and unconcerned for him at the time his Father's face is hid from him. Judas, whom he had treated as one of his family, or familiar friends, comes and betrays him in the most deceitful, treacherous manner. The officers and foldiers apprehend and bind him. His disciples forfake him and flee, instead of comforting him in his diffrefs. He is led as a malefactor before the priefts and feribes, his mortal enemies, that they might fet as his judges; and they fet up all night, to enjoy the pleafure of infulting him, now they had got him into their hands. But becaufe they aimed at nothing thort of his life, they fet themfelves to find fome colour to put him to death, and feek for witneffes against him. (Q) When none Υv appeared,

(P) Chrift EXCELDING forrowful.] " To heighten our idea of this diffrefs, the evangelifts make ufe of the most forcible words, 'He was feized with the most alarming aftonifbment. He was 'overwhelmed with infupportable dejection. He was befieged on all 'fides, as it were with an army of invading forrows. He worefiled, 'amidit ftrong cries and tears, not only with the malice of men 'and rage of devils, but with the infinitely more dreadful indig-'nation of God: He wreftled even unto an agony of fpirit.' All thefe circumflances of horror and anguish conflitute what a celebrated poet very juftly ftiles,

"A weight of woe, more than ten worlds can bear."

[HERVEY, Theron and Afp. vol. i. Dial. 4.]

(Q) The Jews fought a PRETENCE for the death of Chrift.] It is faid in the Mijhna, that before any one was punished for a capital crime, proclamation was made by the public crier, "That if any perfon could testify the innocence of the prifoner, they might come forward and declare it." On which the Gemara of Babylon adds, that "at the death of Jefus this proclamation was made for 40 days, but no defence could be found." But we know this latter affertion to be falfe, and perhaps the injustice of this appeared, they employed fome to bear falfe witnefs; and when their witnefs did not agree together, then they examined him, to catch fomething out of his own mouth. They hoped he would fay, that he was the Son of God, and then they thought they fhould have enough. And when he was filent they adjured him in the name of God, to fay whether he was or not. When he confeffed this, they fuppofed they had enough; then it was a time of rejoicing with them, which they flow, by infulting him, fpitting in his face, blindfolding and buffetting him, and then bidding him prophefy who it was that ftruck him; thus ridiculing him for pretending to be a prophet. And the very fervants have a hand in the cruel fport : [Mark xiv. 65.] ' And the fervants did ftrike him with the palms of their hands.'

During the fufferings of that night, Peter, one of the chief of his own disciples, appears ashamed to own him, and denies and renounces him with oaths and curfes. And after the chief priefts and elders had finished the night in fo fhamefully abufing him, when the morning was come, which was the morning of the most wonderful day that ever was, they led him away to Pilate, to be condemned to death by him, becaufe they had not the power of life and death in their own hands. He is brought before Pilate's judgment feat, and there the priefts and elders accufe him as a traitor. And when Pilate, upon examining into the matter, declared he found no fault in him, the Jews were but the more fierce and violent to have him condemned. Upon which Pilate, after clearing him, very unjustly brings him to a fecond trial; and then not finding any thing against him, acquits him again. Pilate treats him as a poor worthlefs fellow; but is afhamed on fo little pretence to condemn him as a traitor.

And

this ufual privilege being denied him, is alluded to by our Lord himfelf. [John xviii. 20. 21.] 'I fpake openly to the world .... 'Why afkeft thou me ? afk them which heard me, what I faid 'unto them; behold, they know what I faid.'] LOWTH'S Ifaish, p. 241. Compare Note U, p. 249.] And then he was fent to Herod to be tried by him, and was brought before his judgment feat; his enemies following, and virulently accufing him as a traitor, or one that would fet up for a king; but he confiders him as Pilate did, as a poor creature, not worthy to be taken notice of, and does but make a mere jeft of the Jews, accufing him as a dangerous perfon to Cæfar, as one that was in danger of fetting up to be a king against him; and therefore, in derifion, dreffes him in a mock robe, makes fport of him, and fends him back through the streets of Jerufalem, to Pilate, with it on.

Then the Jews prefer Barabbas before him, and are infant and violent with loud voices to Pilate, to crucify him. So Pilate after he had cleared him twice, and Herod once, very unrighteoufly brings him on trial the third time. Chrift was stripped and scourged : thus he gave his ' back ' to the fmiters.' [Ifa. l. 6.] After that, though Pilate still declared that he found no fault in him ; yet so unjust was he, that for fear of the Jews he delivered him to be crucified. But before they execute the fentence, his fpiteful and cruel enemies again infult and torture him. They ftripped him, and put on him a fcarlet robe, place a reed in his hand, and a crown of thorns on his head. Both Jews and Roman foldiers were united in the transaction ; they bow their knees before him, and in derifion cry, ' Hail ' King of the Jews.' They fpit upon him alfo, and took the reed out of his hand, and fmote him on the head. After this they led him away to crucify him, and made him carry his own crofs, till he funk under it, his ftrength being fpent; and then they laid it on one Simon a Cyrenian. [Mat. xxvii. 32.]

At length, being come to Mount Calvary, they execute the fentence which Pilate had fo unrighteoufly pronounced. They nailed him to the crofs by his hands and feet, then raife it erect, and fix one end in the ground, he being ftill fufpended on it by the nails which pierced his hands and feet. And now Chrift's fufferings are come to the extremity; now the cup which he fo earneftly Y y 2 prayed, prayed that it might pass from him, (R) is come, and he must, he does drink it. [Isa. xxvi. 39.] In those days crucifixion was the most tormenting death by which any were executed. There was no death wherein the perfon expired fo much of mere torment : and hence the Roman word,* which fignifies torment, is taken from this kind of death .--- And befides what our Lord endured in this excruciating death in his body, he endured vaftly more in his foul. Now was that travail of his foul, of which we read in the prophet; now it pleased God to bruise him, and to put him to grief; now 'he poured out his foul unto ' death.' [Ifa. liii. 10.] And if the mere forethought of this cup made him fweat blood, how much more dreadful and excruciating muft the drinking of it have been ! Many martyrs have endured much in their bodies, while their fouls have been joyful, and have fung for joy, whereby they have been supported under the fufferings of their outward man, and have triumphed over them. But this was not the cafe with Chrift; he had no fuch fupport: but his fufferings were chiefly those of the mind, though the others were extremely great.

Now under all thefe fufferings the Jews fiill mock him; and wagging their heads fay, [Matt. xxvii. 40.] ' Thou ' that deftroyeft the temple and buildeft it in three days, ' fave thyfelf: if thou be the Son of God, come down ' from the crofs.' Even the chief priefts, fcribes, and elders, joined in the cry, faying, ' He faved others, him-' felf

(R) Let this cup pafs FROM me.] "This was the voice not only of refignation, but of acquiefcence and complacency. Such a deprecatory requeft, put up with fo much earneftnefs, yet with fo much fubmiffion, betrayed not any weaknefs of mind; it only fhewed the reality of our Lord's manhood; that his fenfations were exactly like ours; that he affected no floical apathy, but willingly endured, not proudly difpifed, tribulation and anguift. It demonstrated likewife, beyond the power of defcription, the extreme feverity and almost infupportable weight of our Redeemer's afflictions." [HERVEY, Theron and Afpasio, vol. i. Dial. 4.]

* Cruciatus.

<sup>6</sup> felf he cannot fave.' (s) And probably the devil at the fame time tormented him to the utmost of his power; and hence it is faid, [Luke xxii. 33.] ' This is your hour, and ' the power of darknefs.'

Under these fufferings, Christ having cried out once and again with a loud voice, at last he faid, ' It is finished, ' [John xix. 20.] and bowed the head, and gave up the ' ghost.' (T) And thus was finished the greatest work that

(s) HIMSELF he cannot fave.] So CELSUS, that bitter enemy of Chriftianity, tauntingly cries, "Why, in the name of wonder, does he not on this occasion, at leaft, act the God? Why does he not deliver himfelf from this flocking ignominy, or execute fome fignal vengeance on the author of fuch impious and abufive infults, both of himfelf and his Father?"---Why, Celfus? Becaufe on his death depends the falvation of mankind, and thereby is purchafed that pardon which the gofpel proclaims to finners, fuch as Celfus.

" There hangs all human hope, that nail fupports

The falling univerfe"_____

Young.

"You indeed, (continues the heathen) take upon you to deride the images of our deities; but if Bacebus himfelf, or Hercules had been prefent, you would not have dared to offer fuch an affront; or, if you had been fo prefumptuous, would have feverely fmarted for your infolence." Yes, Celfus; fuch is the revengeful fpirit of your gods; but Jefus exhibits an inflance of patience, meeknefs, and compatition equally oppofite to your temper and that of your fanguinary idols. [Vide Orig. contra. Celf. 81.404.] [P.]

( $\tau$ ) He gave up the ghoft.] The late ingenious Mr. FERGUson has flown, from accurate aftronomical obfervations, that the day on which our Lord was crucified, was "the 14th of the month Nifan, anfwering (in that year) to the 3d of April, .... in the 33d year of his age," fince that was the only year in which the paffover fell on a Friday, "between the 20th and 40th year of the vulgar æra of Chrift's birth."

The fame philofopher has obferved, that the darknefs which covered the land at this time, could not be a natural one, becaufe the fun can never be eclipfed in a natural way but at the time of new moon, and our Saviour was crucified at the time of the pafiover, when the moon was full; we have another proof of this from the continuance of that darknefs for three hours; for the fun can never be eclipfed totally in a natural way for more than five minutes of time to any one place of the earth.—How dreadfully folemn was this fcene!

" The fun beheld it -- No, the flocking feene

Drove

that ever was done; now the angels beheld the moft wonderful fight that ever was feen: now was accomplifhed the main thing that had been pointed at by the various inftitutions of the ceremonial law, and by all the typical difpenfations and by all the facrifices from the beginning of the world. (U)

Chrift being thus brought under the power of death, continued under it till the morning of the next day but one: (w) and then was finished that great work, the purchafe

Drove back his chariot ; midnight veil'd his face : .... Not fuch as nature makes ; A midnight, nature fhudder'd to behold ; A midnight new, a dread eclipfe (without Oppofing fpheres) from her Creator's frown ! Sun, didit thou fly thy Maker's pain ? or flart At that enormous load of human guilt, Which bow'd his bleffed head ; o'erwhelm'd his crofs ; Made groan the creature ; burft earth's marble womb With pangs, ftrange pangs ! deliver'd of her dead ? Hell howl'd ; and hcav'n that hour let fall a tear ; Heav'n wept that man might fmile ! heav'n bled that man Might never die !"——

[Young's Night Thoughts, IV.]

(U) The TYPES now all accomplified. ] "In this hour, the long feries of prophecies, visions, types, and figures was accomplifhed; this was the center in which they all met; this the point towards which they had tended and verged throughout the courfe of fo many generations. You behold the law and the prophets standing, if we may speak fo, at the foot of the cross, and doing homage. You behold Mofes and Aaron bearing the ark of the covenant; David and Elijah prefenting the oracle of tellimony. You behold all the priefts and facrifices, all the rites and ordinances, all the types and fymbols, affembled together to receive their confummation. Without the death of Chrift, the worfhip and ceremonies of the law would have remained a pompous, but unmeaning inflitution. In the hour when he was crucified, ' the <sup>4</sup> book with the feven feals' was opened. Every rite affumed its fignificancy, every prediction met its event, every fymbol difplayed its correspondence." [BLAIR's Sermons, vol. i. Ser. 5.]

(w) Chrift CONTINUED under the power of death.] During this period, fome have fuppofed our Lord defeended below the grave. and ' preached to the fpirits,'-either in limbus patrum, purgatory, or even hell itfelf. The two former of thefe opinions have been maintained by Popifh writers, and fufficiently anfwered by Protestants: but the latter notion fuppofes that Chrift after his death went chafe of our redemption; for which fuch great preparation had been made from the beginning of the world. Then was went down among the damned, preached falvation there, and actually converted and delivered many of the unhappy fpirits therein confined. The text here alluded to [1 Pet. iii. 19, 20.] has been already cited, with Dr. Doddridge's ingenious paraphrafe, Note N, page 106, where we promifed to confider this extraordinary opinion, againft which the following objections appear to us important and decifive.

1. The fpirit ' by which he went and preached,' was not Chrift's human foul, but a divine nature, or rather the Holy Spirit, ' by which' he was quickened, and raifed from the dead.

2. Christ when on the cross promifed the penitent thief his prefence that day in Paradife, and accordingly when he died committed his foul into his heavenly Father's hand; in heaven, therefore, and not in hell, we are to feek the feparate fpirit of our Redeemer in this period. [Luke xxiii. 43, 46.]

3. Had our Lord defcended to preach falvation to the damned, there is no fuppofeable reafon why the unbelievers in Noah's time only fhould be mentioned, rather than those of Sodom, and the unhappy multitude who died in fin.

4. Granting the fact, that our Saviour defeended into hell, (of which in a fubfequent note) we have no intimation of his preaching being attended with any more fuccefs than that of his fervant Noah. Some, indeed, were raifed from the dead at this time, and no doubt these would have been taken for fome of the unhappy fpirits released, and permitted to return to earth, had not the feripture expressly told us that they were the bodies of feints. [Matt. xxvii. 52.]

5. So far from any intimation of fuch deliverance, St. Jude, fubfequent to this, mentions the finners of Sodom fuffering the vengeance of eternal fire: and both the apoftles Jude and Peter mention the Sodomites, the Ifraelites that perifhed for their rebellion in the wildernets, the fallen angels, and impenitent finners in general, as involved in one common ruin, and referved to the 'day 'of judgment to be punifhed;' and the latter includes the inhabitants of the old world among the reft. [See Jude 5-8. 2 Pet. ii. 4-9.]

6. Our Lord is express, that, 'he that believeth shall never 'come into condemnation—shall never perifh;' and 'he that be-'lieveth not, shall not fee life.'—not come where he is. [John iii. 36.—v. 24.—viii. 21.] This we shall have occasion to notice farther near the close of this work.

Is it faid that the proposed featiment exceedingly glorifies the Redeemer, and greatly adds to the triumph of his refurrection? Far be it from us to leffen the Redeemer's honour : but let us not drefs up the pageants of our imagination to grace his vierory. The was finished all that was required in order to fulfill the threatenings of the law, and all that was neceffary in order to fatisfy divine justice; then the utmost that vindictive justice demanded, even the whole debt, was paid. Then was finished the whole of the purchase of eternal life.

IMPROVEMENT OF PERIOD II.

IN furveying the hiftory of redemption, we have now fhown how this work was carried on through the two firft periods into which we divided it, from the fall to the incarnation of Chrift, and from thence to the end of the time of Chrift's humiliation; and have particularly explained how in the firft of thefe periods God prepared the way for Chrift's appearing and purchafing redemption; and how, in the fecond period, that purchafe was made and finified. I would now add fome improvement of what has been faid on both thefe fubjects in conjunction.

1. I begin with an use of reproof; a reproof of three things; of unbelief, felf-righteoufnefs, and a careles neglect of the falvation of Chrift.

(1.) If the things above particularly recited be true, how greatly do they reprove those who do not believe in, and heartily receive the Lord Jefus Christ! Perfons may receive him in profession, and may with that they had fome of those benefits that Christ has purchased, and yet their hearts not receive him; they may be fincere in nothing that they do towards him; they may have no high esteem of him, nor any real respect to him. Though their hearts have been opened wide to others, yet Christ has always been shut out, and they have been deaf to all his imitations. They never found an inclination of heart to receive him, nor would they ever trust in him.

Lct

The apofile deferibing the magnificence of this event, fays, [Col. ii. 15.] that 'he fpoiled principalities and powers—made a flow 'of them openly :' but adds nothing of the fouls delivered from hell, though he would hardly have omitted fuch a fact. [G. E.]

Let me now call upon you, to confider how great your fin, in thus rejecting Jelus Christ, appears to be from those things that have been faid. You flight the glorious perfon, for whofe coming God made fuch great preparations in fuch a feries of wonderful providences from the beginning of the world, and who, after all things were made ready, God fent into the world, bringing to pais a thing before unknown, viz. the union of the divine nature with the human in one perfon. You have been guilty of flighting that great Saviour, who, after fuch preparation, actually accomplithed the purchase of redemption; and who, after he had fpent three or four and thirty years in poverty, labour, and contempt, in purchasing redemption, at last finished the purchase by clofing his life under fuch extreme fufferings as you have heard; (r) and fo by his death, and continuing for a time under the power of death, completed the whole. This is the Saviour you reject and defpife. You make light of all the glory of his perfon, and all the love of a Father, in fending him into the world, and the Son's compaffion in the whole of this affair. That precious stone that God hath laid in Zion for a foundation in fuch a manner, and by fuch wonderful works as you have heard, is a ftone fet at nought by you.

Sinners fometimes are ready to wonder why unbelief fhould be looked upon as fuch a great fin: but if you confider what you have heard, how can you wonder? If it be fo, that this is fo great a Saviour, and his work fo Z z great, great, and that fuch great things have been done in order to it, truly there is no caufe of wonder that the rejection of this Chrift is fpoken of in fcripture as a fin, fo provoking to God, and attended with greater aggravations than the worft fins of the heathen, who never heard of thofe things, nor have had this Saviour offered to them.

(Y) Chrift DIED under extreme fufferings.] Some have ventured to compare the death of Socrates with that of JESUS: but "What an infinite difproportion is there between them! The death of Socrates, peaceably philosophifing with his friends, appears the most agreeable that could be wished for; that of JESUS; infulted and accused by a whole nation, is the most horrible that could be feared. Socrates, in receiving the cup of poison, bleffed, indeed, the weeping executioner that administered it; but JESUS, in the midft of excruciating tortures, prayed for his merciles tormentors.—Yes, if the life and death of Socrates were those of a fage, the life and death of JESUS were those of a GOD. [ROSSEAU'S Letter to the Abp. of Paris.]

(2.) What has been faid, affords matter of reproof to those who, instead of believing in Christ, trust in themfelves for falvation. It is a common thing with men to trust in their prayers, their good conversations, the pains they take in religion, the reformations of their lives, and in their felf-denial, to make fome atonement for their fins, and to recommend themselves to God.

Confider three things :

[1.] How great a thing that is which you take upon you: though you are poor, worthlefs, polluted worms of the duft; yet fo arrogant are you, that you take upon you that work which the only begotten Son of God became man to capacitate himfelf for; and in order to which God made fo great preparation. Confider how vain is the thought which you entertain of yourfelf; how mult fuch arrogance appear in the fight of Chrift, whom it coft fo much to make a purchafe of falvation, when it was not to be obtained even by him, fo great and glorious a perfon, at a cheaper rate than his wading through a fea of blood, and paffing through the midft of the furnace of God's wrath.

[2.] If there be ground for you to truft, as you do, in your own righteoufnefs, then all that Chrift did to purchafe falvation when on earth, and all that God did from the fall of man to that time to prepare the way for it, is in vain. Your felf-righteoufnefs charges God with the greateft folly, in that he has done all this to bring about an accomplifhment of what you alone, a little worm, with your poor polluted fervices, are fufficient to accomplifh. For if you can appeafe God's anger, and can commend yourfelf to him by thefe means, then you have no need of Chrift; but he is dead in vain: [Gal. ii. 21.] ' If righteoufnefs come by the law, then Chrift is dead in ' vain.' <sup>4</sup> vain.'---Alas! how blind are uatural men! How vain are the thoughts they have of themfelves! How ignorant of their own littlenefs and pollution! How do they exalt themfelves up to heaven! What great things do they affume to themfelves!

[3.] You that truft to your own righteoufnefs, arro-gate to yourfelves the honour of the greateft thing that ever God himfelf did; not only as if you were fufficient to perform divine works, and to accomplifh fome of the great works of God; but fuch is your pride and vanity, that you are not content without taking upon you to do the greatest work that ever God himfelf wrought, even the work of redemption. To work out redemption is a greater thing than to create a world. Confider what a figure you would make, if you should attempt to deck yourfelf with majesty, pretend to speak the word of power, and call an universe out of nothing; yet in pretending to work out redemption, you attempt a greater thing.---You take upon you to do the moft difficult part of this work, viz. to purchase redemption. Christ could accomplish other parts of this work without coft, or difficulty : but this part coft him his life, as well as innumerable pains and labours, very great ignominy and contempt. If all the angels in heaven had been fufficient for this work, would God have fent his own Son, the Creator of angels, into the world, to have done and fuffered fuch things ?---What felf-righteous perfons take to themfelves, is the fame work that Chrift was engaged in when he was in his agony and bloody fweat, and when he died on the crofs. Their felf-righteoufnets does, in effect, charge Christ's offering up himfelf in thefe fufferings, as the greateft inftance of folly that ever men or angels faw, inflead of being the most glorious display of the divine willom and grace. Yea, felf-righteoufnets makes all that Chrift did and fuffered through the whole courfe of his life, with all that God did in the difpenfations of his providence from the beginning, nothing, but a fcene of the most wild, extreme, and transcendent folly.---Is it any wonder, then, that a felf-righteous fpirit is fo reprefented in fcrip-720 ture, ture, and fpoken of, as that which is most fatal to the fouls of men? Or that Christ was fo provoked with the Pharifees and others, who trusted in themfelves that they were righteous, and were proud of their goodness, and thought that their own performances were a valuable price of God's favour and love?

355

Let perfons hence be warned againft a felf-righteous fpirit. You that are feeking falvation, and taking pains in religion, take heed that you do not truft in what you do; that you do not harbour any thoughts, that God ought to accept of what you do, fo as to be inclined by it in fome meafure to forgive you, and have mercy on you; or that he does not act juftly, if he refufe to regard you prayers and pains. Such complaining of God, and quarrelling with him, for not taking more notice of your righteoufnefs, plainly fhows that you are guilty of all that arrogance that has been fpoken of, thinking yourfelf fufficient to offer the price of your own falvation.

(3.) What has been faid on this fubject affords matter of reproof to those who carelessly neglect the falvation of Christ: fuch as live a fensual life, neglecting the business of religion, and the falvation of their own fouls, having their minds taken up about the gains, the vanities, and pleafures of the world. Let me here apply myself to you in fome expostulatory interrogations.

[1.] Shall fo many prophets, kings, and righteous men, have their minds taken up with the profpect, that the purchafe of Salvation was to be wrought out in ages long after their death; and will you neglect it when actually accomplifhed? You have heard what great account the church in all ages made of the future redemption of Chrift; how joyfully they expected and fpoke of it. How much did Ifaiah, Daniel, and other prophets, fpeak concerning this redemption! How did David employ his voice and harp in celebrating it, and the glorious difplay of divine grace therein exhibited! How did Abraham and the other patriarchs rejoice in the profpect of Chrift's day, and the redemption which he was to purchafe! And even the faints before the flood were clated in the expecexpectation of this glorious event, though it was then fo long future, fo faintly and obfcurely revealed to them. Now thefe things are declared to you as actually fulfilled. The church has feen accomplifhed all thofe great things which they fo joyfully prophetied of. And yet, when thefe things are fet before you as already accomplifhed, how light do you make of them ! How unconcerned are you about them, following other things, not fo much as feeling any intereft in them ! Indeed your fin is extremely aggravated in the fight of God. God has put you under a more glorious difpenfation; has given you a more clear revelation of Chrift and his falvation; and yet you neglect all thefe advantages, and go on in a carelefs courfe of life, as though nothing had been done, no fuch difcovery had been made you.

[2.] Have the angels been fo engaged about this falvation ever fince the fall of man, though they are not immediately concerned in it, and will you who need it, and have it offered to you, be fo careles about it? You have heard how the angels at first were fubjected to Christ as mediator, and how they have all along been ministering fpirits to him in this affair. And when Chrift came, how engaged were their minds! They came to Zacharias, to inform him of the coming of Chrift's forerunner; to the Virgin Mary, to inform her of the approaching birth of Chrift; to Jofeph, to warn him of the danger which threatened the new-born Saviour, and to point out the means of fafety : and at the birth of Chrift, the whole multitude of the heavenly hofts fang praifes upon the occation, faying, ' Glory to God in the higheft, and on ' earth, peace and good will towards men.' Afterwards, from time to time, they miniftered to Chrift when on earth; they did fo at the time of his temptation, at the time of his agony in the garden, at his refurrection, and at his afcenfion. All thefe things flow, that they were greatly engaged in this affair; and the foripture in Grms us, that they pry into thefe things: [I Pet. i. 12.] ' Which " things the angels defire to look into." And how are they reprefented in the Revelation, as being employed in heaven ven in finging praifes to him that fitteth on the throne, and to the Lamb!---Now, fhall thefe take fo much notice of his redemption, and of the purchafer, who need it not for themfelves, and have no immediate intereft in it; and will you, who are in fuch extreme neceffity, neglect and take no notice of it?

[3.] Did Chrift labour fo hard and fuffer fo much, to procure this falvation, and is it not worth the while for you to be at fome labour in feeking it? Did our falvation lie with fuch weight on the mind of Chrift, as to induce him to become man, and to fuffer even death itfelf, in order to procure it for us, and is it not worth the while for you, who need this falvation, and muft perifh eternally without it, to take earneft pains to obtain an intereft in it after it is procured, and all things are ready?

[4.] Shall the great God be fo concerned about this falvation, as fo often to overturn the world to make way for it: and when all was done, is it not worth your feeking after ? What great, what wonderful things has the Lord of heaven and earth done from one age to another, eafting down and fetting up kings, raifing up a great number of prophets, feperating a diffinct nation from the reft of the world, overturning one kingdom and another, and often the flate of the world; and fo has continued bringing about one change and revolution after another, for forty centuries in fucceffion, to make way for the procuring of this falvation ! And when he has done all, is it not worthy of your being concerned about it, but that it fhould be thrown by, and made nothing of, in comparifon of worldly gain, youthful diversions, and other fuch trifling things?---O ! that you who live negligent of this falvation, would confider what you do ! What you have heard from this fubject, may flow you what reafon there is in that exclamation of the Apoftle, [Heb. ii. 3.] ' How " firal we escape if we neglect fo great falvation?" and in that, [Acts xiii. 41.] ' Behold, ye defpifers, and wonder and perifh: for 1 work a work in your days, a work " which you fhall in no wife believe, though a man de-" clare it unto you." God looks on fuch as you as great enemies enemies of the crofs of Chrift, and adverfaries and defpifers of all the glory of this great work. And if God has made fuch account of the glory of falvation as to deflroy many nations, and fo often overturn all nations, to prepare the way for the glory of his Son in this affair : how little account will he make of the lives and fouls of ten thoufand fuch oppofers and defpifers as you that continue impenitent, in competition with his glory! Why furely you fhall be dafhed in pieces as a potter's veffel, and trodden down as the mire of the ftreets. God may, through wonderful patience, bear with heardened carelefs finners for a while; but he will not always bear with fuch defpifers of his dear Son, and his great falvation, the glory of which he has had fo much at heart, but will utterly confume them without remedy or mercy.

2. I conclude, fecondly, with a ufe of encouragement to burdened fouls, to put their truft in Chrift for falvation. To all fuch as are not carelefs and negligent, but fenfible in fome meafure of their neceffity of an intereft in Chrift, and afraid of the wrath to come; to fuch, what has been faid on this fubject holds forth great matter of encouragement, to venture their fouls on the Lord Jefus Chrift; and as motives proper to excite you fo to do, let me lead you to confider two things in particular.

(1.) The completeness of the purchase which has been made; as you have heard, this work of purchasing falvation was wholly finished during the time of Christ's humiliation. When Christ role from the dead, and was exalted from that abasement to which he submitted for our falvation, the purchase of eternal life was completely made, so that there was no need of any thing more to be done in order to it. But now the fervants were fent forth with this message, [Matt. xxii. iv.] 'Behold I have ' prepared my dinner: my oxen and my fattlings are kil-' led, and all things are ready, come unto the marriage.' Therefore all things being ready, are your fins many and great? Here is enough done by Christ to procure their pardon; there is no need of any righteouss of yours to obtain your justification: no, you may come freely. without without money and without price: fince therefore theref is fuch a free and gracious invitation given you, come; come naked as you are; come as a poor condemned criminal; come and caft yourfelf down at Chrift's feet, as one juftly condemned, and utterly helplefs in yourfelf. Here is a complete falvation wrought out by Chrift, and through him offered to you; come, therefore, accept of it, and be faved.

(2.) For Chrift to reject one that thus comes to him, would be to fruftrate all those great things which you have heard that God brought to pass from the fall of man to the incarnation of Chrift. It would also frustrate all that Chrift did and fuffered while on earth; yea, it would fruftrate the incarnation of Chrift itfelf, for all thefe things were for that end, that those might be faved who should come to Christ. Therefore you may be fure Chrift will not be backward in faving those who come to him, and truft in him; for he has no defire to fruftrate himfelf in his own work; neither will God the Father refuse you; for he has no defire to frustrate himfelf in all that he did for fo many hundred years, to prepare the way for the falvation of finners by Chrift. Come, therefore, hearken to the fweet and earnest call of Christ. [Matt. xi. 28--- 30.] ' Come unto me, all ye that labour, ' and are heavy laden, and I will give you reft; take my ' yoke upon you, and learn of me; and ye shall find ' reft unto your fouls : for my yoke is eafy, and my bur-" den is light."

PERIOD.

[ 361 ]*

PERIOD III.

IN difcourfing on this fubject, we have already flown how the work of redemption was carried on through the two first of the three periods into which we divided the whole fpace of time from the fall to the end of the world; and we are now come to the third and last period, beginning with Chrift's refurrection, and reaching to the end of the world; and are now to fhow how this work was alfo carried on through this period, from the following propolition ---

THAT THE SPACE OF TIME FROM THE RESURREC-TION OF CHRIST TO THE END OF THE WORLD IS ALL ENGAGED IN BRINGING ABOUT THE GREAT EFFECT, OR SUCCESS, OF CHRIST'S PURCHASE.

Not but that there were great effects and glorious fuccefs of Christ's purchase of redemption before, even from the beginning. But all that fuccefs was only preparatory, and by way of anticipation; as fome few fruits are gathered before the harvest. There was no more fuccels before Chrift came than God faw needful to prepare the way for his coming. The proper time of the fuccels or effect of Chrift's purchase of redemption is after the purchase has been made; as the proper time for the world to enjoy the light of the fun is the day time, after the fun is rifen, though we may have fome fmall matter of it reflected from the moon and planets before. And even the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption, while he himfelf was on earth, was very finall, in comparison of what it was after the conclusion of his humiliation.

But Chrift having finished that greatest and most difficult of all works, the work of the purchase of redemption, now is the time for him to obtain the joy that was fet before him. Having made his foul an offering for fin, now is the time for him to fee his feed, and to have 'a portion divided divided to him with the great, and to divide the fpoilwith the ftrong.' [Ifa. liii.]

One defign of Christ's humiliation was, to lay a foundation for the overthrow of Satan's kingdom; and now is come the time to effect it; as Chrift a little before his crucifixion faid, [John xii. 31.] ' Now is the judgment of ' this world; now fhall the prince of this world be caft ' out.' Another defign was, to gather together in one all things in Chrift. [John xii. 32.] ' And I, if I be lifted ' up, will draw all men unto me;' which is agreeable to Jacob's prophecy of Chrift, that ' when Shiloh should ' come, to him should the gathering of the people be.' [Gen. xlix. 10.]---A third defign is the falvation of the elect. Now when his fufferings are finished, and his humiliation is perfected, the time is come for that alfo. [Heb. v. 8, 9.7 ' Though he were a Son, yet learned he obe-' dience by the things which he fuffered; and being made e perfect, he became the author of eternal falvation unto ' all them that obey him.' --- Another defign was, to accomplish by these things great glory to the persons of the Trinity. Now alfo is come the time for that; [ John xvii. 1.] ' Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that ' thy Son alfo may glorify thee.'---Laftly, another defign was the glory of the faints. [ John xvii. 2 ] ' As thou ' haft given him power over all flesh, that he should give ' cternal life to as many as thou haft given him.'---And all the difpenfations of God's providence henceforward, even to the final confummation of all things, are to give Chrift his reward, and to fulfil the joy that was fet before him.

INTRODUCTION.

BEFORE I enter on the confideration of the particular things accomplifhed in this period, I would briefly obferve, how the times of this period are reprefented in foripture.

I. The

1. The times of this period, for the most part, are those which in the Old Testament are called the latter days. We often, in the prophets of the Old Testament, read of fuch and fuch things that should come to pass in the latter days, and fometimes in the last days. Now thefe expressions of the prophets are most commonly to be underftood of the times of this period. They are called the latter days, and the last days; because this is the last period of the feries of God's providences on earth, the laft period of that great work of Providence, the work of redemption, which is, as it were, the fum of God's works of providence, the time wherein the church is under the last dispensation that ever will be given on earth. (A)

2. The whole time of this period is fometimes in fcripture called ' the end of the world.' [ I Cor. x. 11.] ' Now ' all thefe things happened unto them for enfamples; and * they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come.' And the apoftle, [Heb. ix. 26.] in this expression of the end of the world, means the whole of the gofpel day, from the birth of Chrift to the finishing of the day of judgment: " But now once in the end of the world hath he appeared, to put away ' fin by the facrifice of himfelf.' This fpace of time may well be called ' the end of the world;' for this whole time is taken up in bringing things to that great iffue that God had been preparing the way for, in all the great difpensations of providence, from the first fall of man to this time. Before, things were in a kind of preparatory state, but now they are in a finishing state : it is the winding up of things which is all this while accomplishing. Heaven and earth began to flake in order to

3 A 2

(A) The LATTER DAYS.] Rabbi D. Kimchi [in Ifa. ii.] Aben Ezra [in Hofea iii.] and Manoffe, [lib. iii. De Refur.] all underfland by this phrafe, ' the days of the Meffiah ;' and Dr. Owen fuppofes them to called, not to much in reference to the gofpel, as the last difpensation, or the end of the world, as fome have Supposed, but " the last days of the Judaical church and state." [Owen in Heb. i. 2.]

to a diffolution, according to the prophecy of Haggai, before Chrift came, that fo only 'thofe things that cannot ' be fhaken may remain;' [Heb. xii. 2.] i. c. that thofe things that are to come to an end, may come to an end, and that only thofe things may remain, which are to remain eternally.

So, in the first place, the carnal ordinances of the Jewish worfhip came to an end, to make way for the eftablifhment of that fpiritual worship, the worship of the heart, which is to endure to eternity. [ ]ohn iv. 21, 23.] ' Jefus ' faith unto the woman, Believe me, the hour cometh, " when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Je-' rufalem, worship the Father .--- But the hour cometh, ' and now is, when the true worfhippers shall worship the <sup>6</sup> Father in fpirit and truth; for the Father feeketh fuch " to worfhip him." This is one inftance of the temporary world's coming to an end, and the eternal world's beginning. Another inflance that the outward temple, and the city of Jerufalem, came to an end, to give place to the fetting up of the fpiritual temple and the city, which are to endure for ever, which is also another instance of removing those things which are ready to vanish away, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain. Again, the old heathen empire comes to an end, to make way for the everlasting empire of Christ. Upon the fall of antichrift, an end will be put to Satan's vifible kingdom on earth, to establish Christ's eternal kingdom; [Dan. vii. 27.] ' And the kingdom and dominion, and the greatnefs ' of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given 4 to the faints of the Molt High, whole kingdom is an " everlafting kingdom, and all dominions shall ferve and " obey him :' which is another inftance of the ending of the temporary world, and the beginning of the eternal one. And then, lastly, the very frame of this corruptible world thall come to an end, to make way for the church to dwell in another dwelling place, which shall last to eternity; which is the concluding inftance.

Becaufe the world is thus coming to an end by various fteps and degrees, the apoftle perhaps uses this expression, that not the end, but the ends of the world are come on us; as though the world has feveral endings one after another. --- The gofpel difpenfation is the laft flate of things in the world; and this flate is a finithing flate: it is all fpent in finifhing things off which before had been preparing, or abolifhing things which before had flood. It is all fpent as it were in fumming things up, and bringing them to their iffues, and their proper fulfilment. Now all the old types are fulfilled, and the predictions of all the prophets from the beginning of the world fhall be accomplifhed in this period.

2. That flate of things which is attained in the events of this period is called ' a new heaven and a new earth ;' [Ifa. 1xv. 17, 18.] ' For behold, I create a new heaven and a new earth : and the former shall not be remembered, 6 nor come into mind. But be you glad and rejoice for ' ever in that which I create ; for behold, I create Jerufa-' lem a rejoicing, and her people a joy. And [ch. lxvi. 22.] ' For as the new heavens and new earth which I ' make, shall remain before me; fo shall your feed and " your name remain.' [See alfo ch. li. 16.] As the former ftate of things, or the old world, by one ftep after another, is through this period coming to an end; fo the new frate of things, or the new world, which is a fpiritual world, is beginning and fetting up. In confequence of each of thefe finishings of the old state of things, there is the beginning of a new and eternal one. So that which accompanied the deftruction of the literal Jerufalem, was an eftablishing of the spiritual. So with respect to the deftruction of the old heathen empire, and all the other endings of the old state of things, till at length the very outward frame of the old world itfelf thall come to an end; and the church shall dwell in a world new to it, or to a great part of it, even heaven, which will be a new habitation : and then shall the utmost be accomplifhed that is meant of the new heavens and new earth. [See Rev. xxi. 1.]

The end of God's creating the world was to prepare a kingdom for his Son, (for he is appointed heir of the world)

world,) and that he might have the pofferfion of it, and a kingdom in it, which fhould remain to all eternity. So far as the kingdom of Chrift is fet up in the world, fo far is the world brought to its end, and the eternal flate of things fet up. So far are all the great changes and revolutions of the world brought to their ultimate iffue. So far are the waters of the long channel of divine Providence, which has fo many branches, and fo many windings and turnings, emptied out into their proper ocean, which they have been feeking from the beginning and head of their courfe, and fo are come to their reft. So far as Chrift's kingdom is eftablished in the world, fo far are things wound up and fettled in their everlafting flate, and a period put to the courfe of things in this changeable world; fo far are the fift heavens and the fift earth come to an end, and the new heavens and the new earth established in their This leads me to obferve, room.

4. That the flate of things which is attained by the events of this period, is what is fo often called the kingdom of heaven, or the kingdom of God. We very often read in the New Testament of the kingdom of heaven. John the Baptift preached that the kingdom of heaven was at hand, and fo did Chrift, and his difciples after him ; referring to fomething that the Jews in those days expected, by that They feem to have taken their expectation and name. the name chiefly from that prophecy of Daniel in Nebuchadnezzar's dream. [Dan. ii. 44.] ' And in the days of " thefe kings shall the God of heaven fet up a kingdom." [See alfo chap. vii. 13, 14.] Now this kingdom of heaven is that evangelical flate of things in his church, and in the world, wherein confitts the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption in this period. There had been often great kingdoms fet up before .--- But Chrift came to fet up the last kingdom, which is not an earthly kingdom, but an heavenly, and fo is properly called the kingdom of heaven, [ John xviii. 36.] ' My kingdom is not of the world.' [Luke sxii. 20.] · My Father hath appointed me a kingdom.'---Under this head I would obferve feveral things particularly, for the cleares clearer understanding of what the feriptures fay concerning this period.

(1.) The fetting up of the kingdom of Chrift is chiefly accomplished by four fucceffive great events, each of which is in fcripture called Chirift's coming in his kingdom. The first is Christ's appearing in those wonderful dispenfations of providence in the apoftles days, in erecting his kingdom, and deftroying his enemies, which ended in the destruction of Jerufalem. This is called Christ's coming in his kingdom. [Matt. xvi. 28.] ' Verily I fay unto you. ' there be fome ftanding here, which shall not taste of · death till they fee the Son of man coming in his king-' dom.' The fecond was accomplished in Constantine's time, in the destruction of the heathen Roman empire. This also is reprefented as Chrift's coming, and is compared to the last judgment. [Rev. vi. 13---17.] The third is to be accomplished at the destruction of antichrist; which is reprefented as Chrift's coming in his kingdom in the prophecy of Daniel, and in other places, as I may poffibly flow hereafter. The fourth and laft is his coming to judgment in the end of time, which is the event principally fignified in fcripture by Chrift's coming in his kingdom.

(2.) I would observe, that each of the three former of thefe is a lively image of the laft, viz. Chrift's coming to the final judgment; as the principal difpenfations of providence before Chrift's first coming were types of that event .--- As Chrift's laft coming to judgment is accompanied with a refurrection of the dead, fo is each of the three foregoing with a fpiritual refurrection. The coming of Chrift to the deftruction of Jerufalem was preceded by a glorious spiritual refurrection of fouls in the calling of the Gentiles, and bringing multitudes to him by the preaching of the gofpel. Chrift's coming in Conftantine's time was accompanied with a fpiritual refurrection of the greater part of the known world, in a reftoration of it to a visible church state, from a state of heathenifm. So Christ's coming at the destruction of antichrift will be attended with a spiritual refurrection of the church church after it had been long as it were dead, in the times of antichrift. This is called the first refurrection in the Revelation, [chap. xx. 5.]

Again, as Chrift in the last judgment will manifest himfelf in the glory of his Father, fo in each of the three foregoing events Chrift glorioufly manifests himfelf in judgments upon his enemies, and in grace and favour to his church. As the laft coming of Chrift will be attended with a literal gathering together of the elect from the four winds of heaven, fo were each of the preceding attended with a fpiritual in-gathering. As this gathering together of the elect will be effected by the angels with a great found of a trumpet, [Matt. xxiv. 31.] To are each of the preceding by the trumpet of the gofpel, founded by the ministers of Christ: as there shall precede the last appearance of Chrift, a time of great degeneracy and wickednefs, fo this has been, or will be, the cafe with each of the other appearances. Before each of them is a time of great opposition to the church : before the first, by the Jews; before the fecond, by the heathen; before the third, by antichrift; and before the laft, by Gog and Magog, as defcribed in the Revelation.

By each of these comings of Christ, God works a glorious deliverance for his church ; each of them is accompanied with a glorious advancement of the ftate of it .--- The first, which ended in the destruction of Jerufalem, was attended with bringing the church into the glorious flate of the gofpel; the fecond, in Conflantine's time, with an advancement of the church into a state of liberty from perfecution, and the countenance of civil authority, and triumph over their heathen perfecutors. The third, which shall be at the downfall of antichrift, will be accompanied with an advancement of the church into that flate of the glorious prevalence of truth, liberty, peace, and joy, that we fo often read of in the prophetical parts of fcripture; the laft will be attended with the advancement of the church to confummate glory in heaven.---Each of thefe is accompanied with a terrible de-Aruction of the wicked, and the enemies of the church . the the first, with the terrible destruction of the perfecuting Jews; the fecond, with dreadful judgments on the heathen; the third, with the awful destruction of antichrist, the most cruel and bitter enemy that ever the church had; the fourth, with divine wrath and vengeance on all the ungodly.---Farther, there is in each of these appearances of Christ an ending of the old heavens and the old earth, and a beginning of new heavens and a new earth; or an end of a temporal state of things, and a beginning of an eternal one.

(3.) I would observe, that each of those four great difpenfations which are reprefented as Chrift's coming in his kingdom, are but fo many fteps and degrees of the accomplishment of one event. They are not the fetting up of fo many diffinct kingdoms of Chrift; they are all of them only feveral degrees of the accomplishment of one event. [Dan. vii, 13, 14.] ' And I faw in the night ' vifions, and behold, one like the Son of man, came ' with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of ' days, and they brought him near before him. And ' there was given him dominion, and glory, and a king-' dom, that all people, nations, and languages, should ' ferve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, ' and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.' This is what the Jews expected, and called ' the coming ' of the kingdom of heaven ;' and what John the Baptift and Chrift had respect to, when they faid, ' The king-' dom of heaven is at hand.'

(4.) I would obferve, that as there are feveral fteps of the accomplithment of the kingdom of Chrift, fo in each one of them the event is accomplithed in a farther degree than in the foregoing. That in the time of Conftantine was a greater and farther accomplithment of the kingdom of Chrift, than that which ended in the deftruction of Jerufalem; that which thall be at the fall of antichrift, will be a ftill farther accomplithment of the fame thing, and fo on with regard to each; fo that the kingdom of Chrift is gradually prevailing and growing by 3 B thefe thefe feveral great fteps of its fulfilment, from the time of Chrift's refurrection to the end of the world.

And becaufe thefe four great events are but images one of another, and the three former but types of the laft, and fince they are all only feveral fteps of the accomplifhment of the fame thing; hence we find them all from time to time prophefied of under one, as they are in the prophecies of Daniel, and likewife in the xxivth. chapter of Matthew, where fome things feem more applicable to one of them, and others to another.

(5.) And laftly, It may be observed, that the providences of God between thefe four great events are to make way for the kingdom and glory of Chrift in the great event following. Those dispensations of providence which were towards the church of God and the world, before the deflruction of the heathen empire in the time of Constantine, feem all to have been to make way for the glory of Chrift, and the happinefs of the church in that event. And fo the gracious providences of God fince that, till the deftruction of antichrift, and the beginning of the glorious times of the church which follow, feem all to be to prepare the way for the greater glory of Chrift and his church in that event; and the providences of God which shall be after that to the end of the world, feem to be for the greater manifestation of Chrift's glory at the end of the world, and in the confummation of all things.

I thought it needful to obferve thofe things in general concerning this laft period of the feries of God's providence, before I take notice of the particular providences by which the work of redemption is carried on through this period; and before I proceed, I will alfo briefly anfwer to an inquiry, viz. Why the fetting up of Chrift's kingdom after his humiliation fhould be fo gradual, by fo many fteps, and fo long in accomplifhing, fince God could eafily have finifhed it at once? Though it would be prefumption in us to pretend to declare all the ends of God in this, yet doubtlefs much of the wifdom dom of God may be feen in it by us; and particularly in thefe two things:

[1.] In this refpect God's wifdom is more vifible: if it had been done at once, or in a very flort time, there would not have been fuch opportunities to perceive and obferve it, as when the work is gradually accomplifhed, and one effect of his wifdom is held forth to obfervation after another. It is wifely determined of God, to accomplifh this great defign by a wonderful and long feries of events, that the glory of his wifdom may be difplayed in the whole feries; and that the glory of his perfections may be feen, appearing, as it were, by parts, and in particular fucceffive manifeftations; for if all that glory which appears in all thefe events had been manifefted at once, it would have been too much for us, and more than we at once could take notice of; it would have dazzled our eyes and overpowered our fight.

[2.] Satan is more glorioufly triumphed over. God could eafily, by an act of almighty power, at once have crufhed Satan. But by giving him time to ufe his utmoft fubtility to hinder the fuccefs of what Chrift had done and fuffered, he is not defeated merely by furprife, but has large opportunity to ufe his utmoft power and fubtility again and again, to ftrengthen his own intereft all that he can by the work of many ages. Thus God deftroys and confounds him, and fets up Chrift's kingdom time after time, in fpite of all his fubtle machinations and great works, and by every ftep advances it ftill higher and higher, till at length it is fully fet up, and Satan perfectly and eternally vanquifhed.

I now proceed to take notice of the particular events, whereby, from the end of Christ's humiliation to the end of the world, the fuccess of Christ's purchase has been or thall be accomplished.

3 B 2 § I. THOSE

٨

§ I. THOSE THINGS WHEREBY CHRIST WAS CAPACI-TATED FOR THIS WORK.

I WOULD take notice, first, of those things by which Christ was put into a capacity for accomplishing the end of his purchase. And they are two things, viz. his refurrection and his ascension. As we observed before, the incarnation of Christ was necessary in order to Christ's being in a capacity for the purchase of redemption, so the refurrection and ascension of Christ were requisite in order to his accomplishing the success of his purchase.

1. His refurrection. It was necessary in order to Christ's obtaining the end and effect of his purchase of redemption, that he should rife from the dead. For God the Father had committed the whole affair of redemption, not only the purchafing of it, but the beftowment of the bleffings purchafed, to his Son, that he should not only purchafe it as prieft, but actually accomplish it as king of Zion; and in his complex perfon as God-man. For the Father would have nothing to do with fallen man in a way of mercy but by a mediator. But in order that Chrift might carry on the work of redemption, and accomplish thus the fuccels of his own purchase, it was necelfary that he fhould be alive, and fo that he fhould rife from the dead. Therefore Chrift, after he had finished this purchase by death, (B) and by continuing for a time under

(B) Chriff finifbed his purchafe by his death.] Our author properly omits the defeent of Chrift to hell, and his fuppofed work there. But it may be faid, Do not both the Old and New Teftament, [Pfalm xvi. 10.—Acts ii. 31.] (as well as the apoflle's creed) intimate that Chrift defeended into hell, in thofe wellknown words, 'Thou wilt not leave my foul in hell?—We anfwer, that this is explained (as is the manuer of the Heb. poetry) in the following words, 'Neither wilt thou fuffer thine Holy one ' to fee corruption;' fo the fame words are ufed, [Pfalm lxxxix. 48.] 'What man is he that liveth, and fhall not fee death ? Shall ' he deliver his foul from the hand of the grave?—In the Heb. [<code>>uwu</code>] the word commonly rendered Hell, but which, indeed, properly fignifies ' the invihible flate,' (as our word bell originally did)

CHRIST CAPACITATED FOR HIS WORK. 373

under the power of death, rifes from the dead, to fulfill the end of his purchafe, and himfelf to bring about that for which he died: for this matter God the Father had committed unto him, that he might, as Lord of all, manage all to his own purpofes: [Rom. xiv. 9.] 'For to ' this end Chrift both died, and rofe, and revived, that he ' might be Lord both of the dead and of the living.'

Indeed, both Christ's refurrection and his ascension. were part of the fuccefs of what he did and fuffered in his humiliation. For though Chrift did not properly purchafe redemption for himself, yet he purchased eternal life and glory for himfelf, (as man and Mediator) and thefe were given him as a reward of what he did and ' fuffered. [Phil. ii. 8, 9.] ' He humbled himfelf, and be-· came obedient unto death, even the death of the crofs: " wherefore hath God highly exalted him." And it may be looked upon as part of the fuccels of Chrift's purchafe, if it be confidered, that he did not rife as a private perfon, but as the head of his elect church; fo that they did, as it were, all rife with him. Chrift was justified in his refur, rection, i. e. God acquitted and difcharged him hereby, as having done and fuffered enough for the fins of all the elect. [Rom. iv. 25.] ' Who was delivered for our offences, and raifed again for our justification.' And God put him in poffeifion of eternal life, as the head of the church, as a fure earneft that they should follow. For when Chrift rofe from the dead, it was the beginning of eternal life in him. His life before his death was a mortal life, a temporal life; but his life after his refurrection was an eternal life. [Rom. vi. 9.] ' Knowing that Chrift · being raifed from the dead, dieth no more; death hath • no more dominion over him.' [Rev. i. 18.] • I am he that * liveth and was dead; and behold I am alive for evermore, did) and the other word [@D1] fignifies not always the immortal foul, but the animal frame in general, either living or dead. As to the creed, Bp. Pearfon has fhewn, that this article was first inferted to express the burial of Christ, although afterwards, when that clause was added, this was explained of his foul. [See Bp. Pearfon on the Creed, and Faulke on the Rhemish Testament, chap. vii.] [G. E.]

' more, Amen.'---But he was put in poffeffion of this eternal life, as the head of the body; and took poffeffion of it, not only to enjoy it himfelf, but beftow the fame on all who believe in him; fo that the whole church, as it were, rifes in him.

The refurrection of Chrift is the most joyful event that ever came to pafs; becaufe hereby Chrift refted from the great and difficult work of purchasing redemption, and received God's teftimony, that it was finished. (c) The death of Chrift was full of pain and forrow; by his refurrection that forrow is turned into joy. The head of the church, in that great event, enters on the poffeffion of eternal life; and the whole church is, as it were, ' begotten again to a lively hope.' [I Pet. i. 3.] Weeping had continued for a night, but now joy cometh in the morning, the most joyful morning that ever was. This is the day of the reigning of the head of the church, and all the church reigns with him. This is fpoken of as a day which was worthy to be commemorated with the greatest joy of all days. [Pfal. cxviii. 24.] ' This is the day which the Lord hath made, we will re-· joice

(c) Chrifl's Refurrection JOYFUL.] "Was ever joy more rational? Was ever triumph more glorious? The triumphant entries of conquerors, the fongs that rend the air in praile of their victories, the pyramids on which their exploits are transmitted to posterity, when they have fubdued an enemy, routed an army, humbled the pride, and repreffed the rage of a foe; ought not all thefe to yield to the joys that are occasioned by the event which we celebrate to-day? Ought not all thefe to yield to the victories of our incomparable Lord, and to his people's expression of praife? One part of the gratitude which is due to beneficial events, is to know their value, and to be affected with the benefits they procure. Let us celebrate the praife of the author of our redemption, my brethren; let us call heaven and earth to witnels our gratitude. Let an increase of zeal accompany this part of our engagements. Let a double portion of fire from heaven kindle our facrifices, and, with a heart penetrated with the liveliest gratitude and with the most ardent love, let each Christian exclaim, 'Bleffed be the God and Father of my Lord ' Jefus Chrift, who, according to his abundant mercy, hath be-gotten' me again to a lively hope by the refurretion of Jefus · Chrift from the dead." [SAURIN's Sermons, vol. ii. Ser. 8.]

<sup>6</sup> joice and be glad in it.' And, therefore, this is appointed for the day of the church's fpiritual rejoicing to the end of the world, to be weekly fanctified, as their day of holy reft and joy, that the church therein may reft and rejoice with her head. And as the iiid. chap. of Genefis is the moft forrowful chapter in the Bible, fo those chapters in the evangelifts that give an account of the refurrection of Christ, may be looked upon as the most joyful; for they give an account of the finishing of the purchase of redemption, and the beginning of the glory of the head of the church, as a feal and earnest of the eternal glory of all the members.

It is farther to be obferved, that the day of the gofpel most properly begins with the refurrection of Christ.---Till Chrift arofe from the dead, the Old Teftament difpenfation remained: but now it ceafes, all being fulfilled that was shadowed forth in the typical ordinances of that difpenfation: fo that here most properly is the end of the Old Teftament night, and Chrift rifing from the grave with joy and glory, as the joyful bridegroom of the church. as a glorious conqueror to fubdue their enemies under their feet, was like the fun rifing as it were from under the earth, after a long night of darknefs, and coming forth as a bridegroom, prepared as a ftrong man to run his race, appearing in joyful light to enlighten the world. [Pfal. xix.] Now that glorious difpenfation begins, which the prophets fo long foretold, now the gofpel fun is rifen in glory, ' and with healing in his wings, that those who fear ' God's name may go forth, and grow up as calves of ' the stall.' [Mal. iv. 2.]

2. Chrift's afcenfion into heaven. In this I would include his fitting at the right hand of God. For Chrift's afcenfion, and fitting at the right hand of God, can fearcely be looked upon as two diftinct things: for his afcenfion was nothing elfe but afcending to God's right hand; it was his coming to fit down at his Father's right hand in glory. This was another thing whereby Chrift was put into a capacity for the accomplifting the effect of his purchafe; as one that comes to deliver a people as their king, in order to it, and that he might be under the best capacity for it, is first enthroned. We are told, that Christ was exalted for this end, that he might accomplish the fuccess of his redemption. [Acts v. 31.] ' Him hath God ' exalted with his right hand, for to give repentance unto ' Israel, and the remission of fins.'

Chrift's afcenfion into heaven was, as it were, his folemn coronation, whereby the Father did fet him upon the throne, and invest him with the glory of his kingdom which he had purchased for himself, that he might thereby obtain the fuccefs of his redemption in conquering all his enemies: [Pfal. cx. 1.] ' Sit thou at my right hand, ' until I make thine enemies thy footftool.' Chrift entered into heaven, in order to obtain the fuccefs of his purchafe, as the high pricft of old, after he had offered facrifice, entered into the holy of holies with the blood of the facrifice, in order to obtain the fuccefs of the facrifice which he had offered. [See Heb. ix 12.] He entered into heaven, there to make interceffion for his people, to plead the facrifice which he had made in order to the fuccefs of it. [Heb. vii. 25.]---And as he afcended into heaven. God the Father did in a visible manner fet him on the throne as king of the universe. He then put the angels all under him, and fubjected heaven and earth under him, that he might govern them for the good of the people for whom he had died. [Eph-i. 20---22.]---And as Chrift rofe from the dead, fo he afcended into heaven as the head of the body and forerunner of all the church; and fo they, as it were, afcend with him, as well as rife with him; fo that we are both raifed up together, and made to fit together in heavenly places in Chrift. [Eph. ii. 6 ]

The day of Chrift's afcention into heaven was doubtlefs a joyful glorious day in heaven; and as heaven received Chrift, God-man, as its king, fo doubtlefs it received a great acceffion of glory and happinefs, far beyond what it had before: fo that the times in both parts of the church, both that part which is in heaven, and alfo that which is on earth, are become more glorious fince Chrift's humiliation liation than before.---So much for those things whereby Christ was put into the best capacity for obtaining the fuccess of redemption.

§ II. DISPENSATIONS OF PROVIDENCE BY WHICH THIS SUCCESS WAS ESTABLISHED.

I WOULD confider those dispensations of Providence, by which the means of this fucces were established after Christ's refurrection. And these were,

I. The abolishing of the Jewish dispensation. This indeed was gradually done, but it began from the time of Chrift's refurrection, in which the abolition of it is founded. This was the first thing done towards bringing the former state of the world to an end. This is to be looked upon as the great means of the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption. For the Jewish difpensation was not fitted for more than that one nation; nor would it have been in any wife practicable by them in all parts of the world to go to Jerufalem three times a year, as was prefcribed in that conflitution. When therefore God had a defign of enlarging his church, as he did after Christ's refurrection, it was neceffary that this difpenfation should be abolished. If it had been continued, it would have been a great hindrance to the enlargement of the church. And belides, their ceremonial law, by reafon of its burdenfomenefs, and the great peculiarity of fome of its rites, was as it were a wall of partition, and was the ground of enmity between the Jews and Gentiles, and would have kept the Gentiles from complying with the true religion. This wall therefore was broken down to make way for the more extensive fuccefs of the gospel. [Eph. ii. 14, 15.]

2. The next thing in order of time feems to be the appointment of the Chriftian fabbath. For though this was gradually eftablished in the Chriftian church, yet those things by which the revelation of God's mind and will was made, begau on the day of Chrift's refurrection, by his appearing then to his difciples, [John xx. 19.] and was afterwards confirmed by his appearing from time to time on that day rather than any other, [John xx. 26.] and by his fending down the Holy Spirit fo remarkably on that day, [Acts ii. 1.] and afterwards in directing that public affemblies and the public worthip of Chriftians fhould be on that day, which may be concluded from Acts xx. 7. I Cor. xvi. 1, 2. and Rev. i. 10. And fo the day of the week on which Chrift rofe from the dead, that joyful day, is appointed to be the day of the church's holy rejoicing to the end of the world, and the day of their ftated public worthip. (D) And this is a very great and principal means of the fuccefs which the gofpel has had in the world.

3 C

on

3. The next thing was Chrift's appointment of the gofpel miniftry, and commiffioning and fending forth his apoftles to teach and baptize all nations. [Matt. xxviii. 19, 20.] ' Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptiz-' ing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and ' of the Holy Ghoft ; teaching them to obferve all things ' whatfoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with ' you alway, even unto the end of the world.'---There were three things done by this one inftruction and commiffion of Chrift to his apoftles, viz.

(1.) The appointment of the office of the gofpel miniftry. For this commiffion which Chrift gives to his apoftles, in the most effential parts of it, belongs to all ministers; and the apoftles, by virtue of it, were ministers or elders of the universal church.

(2.) Here is fomething peculiar in this commiffion of the apoftles, viz. to go forth from one nation to another, preaching

(D) Chrift changed the SABBATH.] " If the day on which he role from the dead, be the day which is called the Lord's; if on the first day of the week the primitive Christians, even in the apostolic times, did affemble for religious purpose; did hear the word; did celebrate the fupper; did lay by them in flore, as God had prospered them; shall we not conclude, that it is the will of God that now the feventh day shall give place unto the first? Hereby is intimated to you, Christians, that ye are not first to work, and then to reft, as under the ancient covenant of works, but that, in the order of the new covenant, your privilege precedes your duty, and your labour follows after your reft." [M'EWEN'S Effays, vol. i. p. 295.]

preaching the gofpel in all the world. The apoftles had fomething above what belonged to their ordinary character as minifters; they had an extraordinary power in teaching and ruling, which extended to all the churches in the end of the world. And fo the apoftles were, in fubordination to Chrift, made foundations of the Chriftian church. [See Eph. ii. 20. and Rev. xxi. 14.]

(3.) Here is an appointment of Christian baptism. This ordinance indeed had a beginning before : John the Baptist and Christ both baptized. But now especially by this institution it is established as an ordinance to be upheld in the Christian church to the end of the world.---The ordinance of the Lord's supper was established just before Christ's crucifixion.

4. The next thing to be obferved, is the enduing the apoftles, and others, with the extraordinary and miraculous gifts of the Holy Ghoft; fuch as the gift of tongues, the gift of healing, of prophecy, &c. The Spirit of God was poured out in great abundance in this refpect: fo that not only minifters, but a great number of Chriftians through the world, were endued with them, both old and young; not only officers, and more honourable perfons, but the meaner fort of people, fervants and handmaids, agreeable to Joel's prophecy, [ch. ii. 28, 29.] of which the apoftle Peter takes notice, that it is accomplified in this diffen-fation. [Acts ii. 11.]

How wonderful a difpenfation was this ! Under the Old Teitament, but few had fuch honours put upon them by God. Mofes withed that all the Lord's people were prophets, [Numb. xi. 27---29.] whereas Joihua thought it much that Eldad and Medad prophetied : but now we find the with of Mofes fulfilled. And this continued in a very confiderable degree to the end of the apoftolic age, or the first hundred years after the birth of Christ, which is therefore called the age of miracles.

This was a great means of the fuccefs of the gofpel in that age, and of eftablithing the Christian church in all parts of the world; and not only in that age, but in all ages to the end of the world: (E) for Chriftianity being by this means eftablifhed through fo great a part of the known world by miracles, it was after that more eafily continued by tradition; and then, by means of thefe extraordinary gifts of the Holy Ghoft, the apoftles, and others, were enabled to write the New Teftament, to be an infallible rule of faith and manners to the church to the end of the world. Furthermore, thefe miracles ftand recorded in thofe writings as a ftanding proof and evidence of the truth of the Chriftian religion to all ages.

ages

5. The next thing I would obferve is the revealing thofe glorious dottrines of the gofpel more fully and plainly, which had under the Old Teftament been obfcurely revealed. The doctrine of Chrift's fatisfaction and righteoufnets, his afcenfion and glory, and the way of falvation, under the Old Teftament, were in a great meafure hid under the vail of types and thadows, and more obfcure revelations, as Mofes put a vail on his face to hide the fhining of it: but now the vail of the temple is rent from the top to the bottom; and Chrift, the antitype of Mofes, thines: the fhining of his face is without a vail; [2 Cor. iii. 12, 13, and 18.] Now the glorious myfteries are plainly revealed, which were in a great meafure kept fecret from

(E) Chriftianity effablished by MIRACLES.] "Imagine thefe venerable men addreffing their adverfaries on the day of the Chriftian pentecost in this language, ' Ye refuse to believe us on our depofitions; five hundred of us ye think are enthulialts; .... or per-• haps ye think us impoftors, or take us for madmen. . . . . But ' bring out your fick ; prefent your demoniacs ; fetch hither your ' dead. . . . . Let all nations fend us fome of their inhabitants; " we will reftore hearing to the deaf, and fight to the blind; we ' will make the lame walk; we will caft out devils, and raife the ' dead. We, we publicans, we illiterate men, we tent-makers. ' we fifhermen, we will difcourfe with all the people of the world ' in their own languages. We will explain prophecies, ..... · develop the most fublime mysteries, teach you notions of God, ' precepts for the conduct of life, plans of morality and religion, ' more extensive, more fublime, and more advantageous, than " thofe of your priefls and philotophers, yea, than thofe of Mofes . himfelf. We will do more ftill ; we will communicate those gifts ' to you." [SAURIN's Sermons, vol. ii. Sei. 8.7

from the foundation of the world. [Eph. iii. 3---5. Rom. xvi. 25.] 'According to the revelations of the myftery 'which was kept fecret fince the world began, but is now 'made manifeft.' [Col. i. 26.] 'Even the myftery which 'hath been hid from ages, and generations, but now is 'made manifeft to his faints.'

Thus the Sun of righteoufnefs, after it is rifen from under the earth, begins to fhine forth clearly, and not only by a dim reflection as it did before. Chrift before his death revealed many things more clearly than ever they had been difcovered in the Old Testament; but the great mysteries of Christ's redemption, reconciliation by his death, and justification by his righteoufness, were not fo plainly revealed before Christ's refurrection. Christ gave this reafon for it, that he would not put new wine into old bottles: and it was gradually done after his re-In all likelihood, Chrift much more clearly furrection. inftructed them perfonally after his refurrection, and before his afcenfion; as we read that he continued with them forty days, fpeaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom, [Acts i. 3.] and that ' he opened their underftand-' ing, that they might underftand the fcriptures.' [Luke xxiv. 45.] But the clear revelation of thefe things was principally after the pouring out of the Spirit on the day of Pentecoft, agreeable to Chrift's promife. [ John xvi. 12, 13.] ' I have yet many things to fay unto you, but ye ' cannot bear them now. Howbeit, when the Spirit of ' truth is come, he shall guide you into all truth.' This clear revelation of the myfteries of the gofpel, as they are delivered, we have chiefly through the hands of the apoftle Paul, by whofe writings a child may come to know more of the doctrines of the gofpel, in many refpects, than the greatest prophets knew under the darkness of the Old Testament .--- Thus you fee how the light of the gospel, which began to dawn immediately after the fall, and gradually grew and increafed through all the ages of the Old Testament, is now come to the light of perfect day, and the brightness of the fun thining forth in his unvailed glory.

381

6. The

6. The next thing that I would observe, is the appointment of the office of deacons in the Christian church, which we have an account of in the vith chap. of the Acts, to take care for the outward supply of the members of Christ's church; and the exercise of that great christian virtue, charity. (F)

7. The calling, qualifying, and fending the apoftle Paul. This was begun in his convertion as he was going to Damafcus, and was one of the greateft means of the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption that followed; for this fuccefs was more by the labours, preaching, and writings of this apoftle, than all the others put together. For, as he fays, [1 Cor. xv. 10.] he ' laboured more abundantly than they ' all;' fo alfo his fuccefs was more abundant. As he was the apoftle of the Gentiles, fo it was principally by his miniftry that the Gentiles were called, and the gofpel fpread throughout the world; and the nations of Europe have the gofpel among them chiefly through his means; and he was more employed by the Holy Ghoft in revealing its

(F) DEACONS appointed.] " It is generally allowed by inqui-rers into thefe fubjects, that in the primitive church there were deaconeffes, i. e. pious women, whose particular business it was to affift in the entertainment and care of the itinerant preachers; visit the fick and imprisoned, instruct female catechumens, and affift at their baptifm; then more particularly neceffary from the peculiar cuftoms of those countries, the perfecuted flate of the church, and the fpeedier fpreading of the gofpel .--- Such a one it is reafonable to think Phebe was, [mentioned Rom. xvi. 1.] who is exprefsly called a deaconefs, or flated fervant, as Dr. Doddridge renders it .--- They were usually widows, and to prevent fcandal, generally in years. [1 Tim. v. 9. See alfo Spanhem. Hift. Chrift Secul. i. p. 554.] The apostolic constitutions (as they are called) mention the ordination of a deaconefs, and the form of prayer used on that occasion; [lib. viii. ch. 19, 20.] Pliny alfo, in his celebrated epiftle [xcvii.] to Trajan, is thought to refer to them, when fpeaking of two female Christians, whom he put to the torture, he fays, que minifire dicebantur, i. e. who were called deaconeffes .--- But as the primitive Chriftians feem to be led to this practice from the peculiarity of their circumftances, and the feripture is entirely filent as to any appointment to this fuppofed office, or any rules about it, it is, I think, very juftly laid afide, at leaft as an office." [D. TURNER's Social Religion, p. 85, 86.]

IN THE APOSTOLIC AGE.

its glorious doctrines in his writings, for the use of the church in all ages, than all the other apostles.

8. The next thing I would observe, is the inflitution of ecclesiaftical councils, for deciding controversies, and ordering the affairs of the church of Christ, of which we have an account in the xvth chap. of the Acts. (G)

9. The laft thing I fhall mention under this head, is the committing the New Teftament to writing. This was all written after the refurrection of Chrift; and all written, either by the apoftles, or by the evangelifts Mark and Luke, who were companions of the apoftles. The gofpel of Mark is fuppofed to be written by that Mark whofe mother was Mary, in whofe houfe they were praying for Peter, when he, (brought out of prifon by the angel,) came and knocked at the door; [Acts xii. 12.] ' And when he had confidered the thing, he came to the ' houfe

(G) The origin of COUNCILS.] Who can help admiring the primitive inflitution of councils, and at the fame time deploring the abufe of them in after ages? While they were affemblies of excellent and apoftolical men, who met to confult and advife with one another on the common interests of Christianity, we venerate and efteem them ; but when they degenerated to be tools of flate, and were composed of men heated by a spirit of party, and warped by fecular interests, who showed their piety only in aspiring to feats of temporal power, and their zeal in excommunicating and perfecuting each other ;--then they became objects only of pity and contempt. Yet (fuch is the course of human affairs) as they funk in value, they role in authority, and when they grew carnal and vicious, were judged infallible and divine ! It would be tedious to enumerate the multitude of councils which affembled as fuon as the hand of perfecution permitted; and to point out their contradictions and absurdities would feem a fatire on the Chriftian faith. "But the four first general councils are received by all's Protestants, &c. Received, how? Not by any in their wits, as the rule of faith, or part of it. They have in them fome things true, fome things probable only, and no queftion, fome things falfe ; and whether they be true or falle, (in points of faith, I mean) fcripture must determine. Well, this is the Christian's, the Protelfant's rule of faith ! . . . . It was departing from this rule, and fetting up an exorbitant power in the church, and the paltors of it, .... that led on the great apoftafy, and helped up antichrift to his throne." [BENNET's Mem. of the Reform. p. 8.]

383

' houfe of the mother of John, whofe firname was Mark, " where many were gathered together praying." He was the companion of the apoftles Barnabas and Saul. [Acts xv. 37.7 ' And Barnabas determined to take with them ' John, whofe firname was Mark.' He was Barnabas's fifter's fon, and feems fometime to have been a companion of the apoftle Paul. [Col. iv. 10.] ' Aristarchus, ' my fellow prifoner, faluteth you, and Marcus, fifter's fon ' to Barnabas; touching whom ye received commandment: ' if he come unto you receive him.' The apoftles feem to have made great account of him, as appears by those places, and alfo by Acts xii. 25. ' And Barnabas and Saul ' returned from Jerufalem, and took with them John, ' whofe firname was Mark;' and [Acts xii. 5.] ' When ' they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in ' the fynagogues of the Jews; and they had alfo John to ' their minifter ;' again [Tim. iv. 11.] ' Only Luke is ' with me: take Mark and bring him with thee; for he is · profitable to me for the miniftry.

Luke, who wrote the golpel of Luke and the book of Acts, was a companion of the apoftle Paul. He is fpoken of as being with him in the laft-mentioned place, and fpeaks of himfelf as accompanying him in his travels in the hiftory of the Acts; and therefore he fpeaks in the firft perfon plural, We went to fuch and fuch a place. He was greatly beloved by the apoftle Paul: he is that beloved phyfician fpoken of, Col. iv. 14. The apoftle ranks Mark and Luke among his fellow labourers. [Philemon, 24.] ' Marcus, Ariftarchus, Demas, Lucas, my fellow ' labourers.'

The reft of the books were all written by the apoftles themfelves. The books of the New Teftament are either hiftorical, doctrinal, or prophetical. The hiftorical books are the writings of the four evangelifts, giving us the hiftory of Chrift, and his purchafe of redemption, with his refurrection and afcention: and the Acts of the Apoftles, giving an account of the great things by which the Chriftian church was first established and propagated. The Acttrinal books are the epiftles. Thefe, most of them, we have from the great apoftle Paul. And we have one prophetical book, which takes place after the end of the hiftory of the whole Bible, and gives an account of the great events by which the work of redemption was to be carried on to the end of the world

we

All these books are supposed to have been written before the deftruction of Jerufalem, excepting those of John, who lived the longest of all the apostles, and wrote, as is supposed after the destruction of Jerusalem. And to this beloved disciple it was that Chrift revealed those wonderful things which were to come to pass in his church to the end of time; and he put the finishing hand to the canon of the fcriptures, and fealed the whole of it. So that now that great and flanding written rule, which was begun about Mofes's time, was completed and fettled, and a curfe denounced against him that adds any thing to it, or diminishes any thing from it. All the stated means of grace were finished in the apostolical age, and are to remain unaltered to the day of judgment. (H)---Thus far we have confidered those things by which the means of grace were given and established in the Christian church.

§ III. The

(H) The New TESTAMENT curitten.] It may not be unacceptable to our readers to prefent them with the following fcheme, from the best authorities, of the order in which the New Testament was written, with the authors and dates of each book.

THE GOSPELS-according to Dr. OWEN.

St. Matthew's,		at Jerufalem,	about A. I	). 38.
St. Luke's,		at Corinth,		53.
St. Mark's,	_	at Rome,	Contraction Contraction	63.
St. John's,		at Ephefus,		6ğ.
		THE ACTS.		-
By St. Luke,	-	at Rome or Alex	andria,	63.
St. PAUL'S EPISTLES-according to Dr. LARDNER.
I. Theffalonians,		at Corinth,		52.
II. Theffalonian	з,	Ditto,	·	52.
Galatians,		at Corinth,	·	52.
I. Corinthians,	-	at Ephefus,		56.
I. Timothy,		at Macedonia,		56.
Titus,		Ditto,		56.
II. Corinthians,		Ditto,		57.
Romans,		at Corinth,		58.
		3 D		Éphe-

385

§ III. THE SUCCESS OF CHRIST'S REDEMPTION DUR-ING THE SUFFERING STATE OF THE CHURCH.

WE now come to confider the fuccess of Christ's redemption during the church's fuffering perfecuted flate, from the refurrection of Chrift to the fall of antichrift. This fpace of time, for the most part, is a state of the church's fufferings, and is fo reprefented in fcripture. deed God is pleafed, out of love and pity to his elect, to grant many intermiffions during this time, whereby the days of tribulation are as it were shortened. But from Chrift's refurrection till the fall of antichrift, is the appointed day of Zion's troubles. For the first three hundred years after Chrift, the church was for the most part in a flate of great affliction, the object of reproach and perfecution; first by the Jews, and then by the heathen. After this, from the beginning of Conftantine's time, the church had reft and profperity for a little while ; which is reprefented [Rev. vii. 1.] by the angel's holding the four winds for a little while. But prefently after, the church again fuffered perfecution from the Arians; then antichrift rofe, and the church was driven away into the wildernefs, and was kept down in obfcurity, and contempt, and fuffering, for a long time, before the reformation by Luther

a	I	1	4

Ephefians,		at Rome,	about A. D.	61.
II. Timothy,		Ditto,		61.
Philippians,		Ditto,	8	62.
Coloffians,	_	Ditto,		62.
Philemon,		Ditto,		62.
Hebrews,		at Rome or in I	Italy,	63.
GENERAL EPISTLES-according to LARDNER.
St. James,		at Judea,		61 or 62.
1. Peter,		at Rome,		64.
II. Peter,		Ditto,	Production of the second second	64.
Jude,		Unknown,	·····	64 or 65.
f. II. and III.	John,	at Ephefus,	between	80 & 90
		REVELATION.

By St. John, — at Patmos or Ephefus, 95 or 96. [See Dr. Owen's Obferv. on the Gofpel's; and Lardner's Credibility, vol. i. & fup.] and others. And fince the reformation, the church's perfecutions have been, in fome refpects, beyond all that ever were before. And though fome parts of God's church have had reft, yet to this day, for the moft part, the true church is very much kept under by its enemics, and fo we may expect it will continue till the fall of antichrift; and then will come the appointed day of the church's profperity on earth, the fet time in which God will favour Zion, the time when the faints fhall not be kept under by wicked men, as hitherto; but wherein they fhall be uppermoft, and fhall reign on earth, as it is faid, [Dan. vii. 27.] 'And ' the kingdom fhall be given to the people of the faints of ' the moft High.'

This fuffering flate is in fcripture [Rev. xii. 1, 2.] represented as a time of the church's travail, to bring forth that glory and profperity of the church which shall be after the fall of antichrift. This is a long time though it be spoken of as being but for a little seafon, in comparifon of the eternal profperity of the church. Hence the church, under the long continuance of this affliction, cries out, [Rev. vi. 10.] 'How long, O Lord, holy and ' true, doft thou not judge and avenge our blood on them ' that dwell on the earth?' And we are told, that ' white ' robes were given unto every one of them; and it was ' faid unto them, that they fhould reft yet for a little fea-' fon, until their fellow fervants alfo, and their brethren, ' that fhould be killed as they were, fhould be fulfilled.' So, Daniel [xii. 6.] ' How long fhall it be to the end of • thefe wonders?

It is to be observed, that during this time the main inftrument of the church's fufferings has been the Roman government: Rome is therefore, in the New Testament, [Rev. xvii. 5.] called Babylon; because, as of old the troubles of Jerusalem were chiefly from that adverse eity; so the troubles of the Christian church, the spiritual Jerufalem, are principally from Rome. Before the time of Constantine, the troubles of the Christian church were from heathen Rome; fince that time, from antichristian Rome. And as of old, the captivity of the Jews ceased on the deftruction of Babylon, fo the time of the trouble of the Christian church will ceafe with the deftruction of the church of Rome, that fpiritual Babylon.

In confidering the fuccels of Chrift's redemption during this time of the church's tribulation, I would flow, I. How it was carried on till the deftruction of Jerufalem,--2. From thence to the deftruction of the heathen empire in the time of Conftantine,---and, 3. From that time to the deftruction of antichrift, with which the days of the church's tribulation and travail end.

1. I would flow how the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption was carried on from his refurrection to the deftruction of Jerufalem. In fpeaking of this, I fhall, (1.) take notice of the fuccefs itfelf; (2.) the oppofition made against its enemies; and, (3.) the terrible judgments of God on those enemies.

(1.) I would observe the fuccess itself. Soon after Chrift had finished the purchase of redemption, and had entered into the holy of holies above with his own blood, there began a glorious fuccefs of what he had done and fuffered. Having undermined the foundation of Satan's kingdom, it began to fall apace. Swiftly did it haften to ruin; and Satan might now well be faid to fall, like lightning from heaven. Satan before had exalted his throne very high, even to the stars of heaven, reigning with great glory in his heathen Roman empire : but never before had he fuch a downfal as he had foon after Chrift's afcention. We may fuppole him to have been very lately triumphing in having brought about the death of Chrift, as the greateft victory that ever he had; and poffibly imagined he had gained God's defign by him. But he was quickly made fenfible, that he had only been ruining his own kingdom, when he faw it falling fo fast foon after. For Chrift, having alcended, and received the Holy Spirit, poured it forth abundantly for the conversion of thousands and millions of fouls.

Never had Chrift's kingdom been fo advanced in the world. There probably were more fouls converted in

the

TO THE DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM. 389

the age of the apoftles than had been before from the beginning of the world. Thus God fo foon began glorioufly to accomplifh his promife to his Son, viz. that he fhould ' fee his feed, and that the pleafure of the Lord fhould ' profper in his hand, if he would make his foul an offer-' ing for fin.' [Ifa. liii. 10.] And,

[1.] Here is to be observed the fuccess which the gospel had among the Jews; for God first began with them. He being about to reject the main body of that people, first calls in his elect from among them. It was fo in former great and dreadful judgments of God on that nation ; the bulk of them were deftroyed, and only a remnant faved, or reformed. In the rejection of the ten tribes, the bulk of them were caft off, when they left the true worship of God in Jeroboam's time, and afterwards more fully in Ahab's; but yet God had referved a remnant. Many left their poffeffions in these tribes, and went and fettled in those of Judah and Benjamin. And afterwards there were feven thousand in Ahab's time, who had not bowed the knee to Baal. In the captivity into Babylon, only a remnant of them ever returned to their own land. So now far the greater part of the people were rejected entirely, but fome few were faved. And therefore the Holy Ghost compares this refervation of a number that were converted by the preaching of the apoftles, to those former remnants : [Rom. xi. 27.] ' Efaias ' also crieth concerning Ifrael, though the number of the ' children be as the fand of the fea, a remnant shall be ' faved.' [See Ifa x. 22.]

The glorious fuccefs of the gofpel among the Jews after Chrift's afcenfion, began by the pouring out of the Spirit on the day of Pentecoft. So wonderful was this pouring out of the Spirit, and fo remarkable and fwift the effect of it, that we read of three thoufand who were converted to the Chriftian faith in one day, [Acts ii. 41.] and probably the greater part of them were favingly converted. We read [ver. 47.] of God's adding to the church daily fuch as fhould be faved. And foon after, we are told, that the number of them was about five thoufand. thousand. Not only was there a multitude converted, but the church was then eminent in piety, as appears by Acts ii. 46, 47.; iv. 32.

Thus the Christian church was first formed of the nation of Ifrael, and therefore, when the Gentiles were called, they were but, as it were, added to Ifrael, to the feed of Abraham. They were added to the Christian church of Ifrael, as the profelytes of old were to the Mofaic church; and fo were grafted on the flock of Abraham, and not a distinct tree; for they are all still the feed of Abraham and Ifrael; as Ruth the Moabitefs, and Uriah the Hittite, and other profelytes of old, were the fame people, and ranked as the feed of Ifrael.

The Christian church at first begun at Jerufalem, and from thence was propagated to all nations; fo that this church of Jerufalem was as it were the mother of all other churches in the world; agreeable to the prophecy, [Ifa. ii. 3, 4.] 'Out of Zion shall go forth the law, ' and the word of the Lord from Jerufalem: and he ' shall judge among the nations, and rebuke many people.' So that the whole church is still spiritually God's Jerufalem.

After this, we read of many thousand of Jews that believed in Jerufalem, [Acts xxi. 20.] in other cities of Judea, and different parts of the world. For wherever the apostles went, if they found any Jews, their manner was, first to go into the fynagogues and preach the gospel to them, and many in one place and another believed; as in Damafeus, Antioch, &c.

In this out-pouring of the Spirit begun the first great dispendation which is called Christ's coming in his kingdom. Christ's coming thus in a spiritual manner for the glorious erection of his kingdom in the world, is reprefented as his coming down from heaven, whither he had afcended. [John xiv. 18.] 'I will not leave you comfortlefs; I will come unto you,' speaking of his coming by the Comforter, the Spirit of truth. And, [ver. 28.] 'Ye have heard how I fay unto you, I go away, and ' come again unto you.' And thus the apostles began to for fee the kingdom of heaven come with power, as he had promifed. [Mark ix. 1.]

[2.] After the fuccefs of the gofpel had been to glo-rioufly begun among the Jews, the fpirit of God was next wonderfully poured out on the Samaritans, who were not Jews by nation, but the pofterity of those whom the king of Affyria removed from different parts of his dominions, and fettled in the land that was inhabited by the ten tribes, whom he carried captive. But yet they had received the five books of Mofes and practifed moft of the rites of the law, and fo were a fort of mongrel Jews. We do not find them reckoned as Gentiles in the New Teftament: for the calling of the Gentiles is fpoken of as a new thing after this, beginning with the conversion of Cornelius. But yet it was an inftance of making that a people which were no people: for they had corrupted the religion which Mofes commanded, and did not go up to Jerufalem to worthip, but had another temple of their own in Mount Gerizzim; which is the mountain of which the woman of Samaria fpeaks, when the fays, [ John iv. 20.] 'Our fathers worshipped in this mountain.' Chrift there does not approve of their feparation from the fews, but tells the woman of Samaria, that they worthipped they knew not what, and that falvation is of the Jews. But now falvation is brought from the Jews to them by the preaching of Philip, (excepting that before Chrift had fome fuccefs among them), with whofe preaching there was a glorious effution of the Spirit of God in the city of Samaria; where we are told, that ' the people believed ' Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of ' Chrift, and were baptized, both men and women; and ' that there was great joy in that city.' [Acts viii. 8---12.]

Thus Chrift had a glorious harveft in Samaria; which is what he feems to have refpect to, in what he faid to his difciples at Jacob's well three or four years before, on occasion of the people of Samaria's appearing at a diffance in the fields coming to the place where he was, at the infligation of the woman of Samaria. On that occasion he bids his difciples lift up their eyes to the fields, for that they they were white to the harveft. [John iv. 35, 36.] The difpofition which the people of Samaria fhowed towards Chrift and his gofpel, evidenced that they were ripe for the harveft. And now harveft is come by Philip's preaching. There ufed to be a most bitter enmity between the Jews and Samaritans; but now, by their conversion, the Chriftian Jews and Samaritans are all happily united; for in Chrift Jefus is neither Jew nor Samaritan, but Chrift is all in all. This was a glorious inflance of the wolf's dwelling with the lamb, and the leopard's lying down with the kid. [Ifa. xi. 6.]

[3.] The next thing to be obferved, is the calling of the Gentiles. This was a great and glorious difpenfation much fpoken of in the Old Teftament, and by the apoftles time after time, as a moft glorious event of Chrift's redemption. This was begun in the conversion of Cornelius and his family, greatly to the admiration of Peter, and of those who were with him or were informed of it; [Acts x. & xi.] And the next inftance of it that we have any account of, was in the conversion of great numbers of Gentiles in Cyprus, and Syrene, and Antioch, by the difciples that were fcattered abroad through the perfecution which arose about Stephen. [Acts xi. 19--21.] And prefently upon this the disciples began to be called Chriftians first at Antioch. [ver. 26.]

After this, vaft multitudes of Gentiles were converted in many different parts of the world, chiefly by the miniftry of the apoftle Paul, the Spirit wonderfully accompanying his preaching in one place and another. Multitudes flocked into the church of Chrift in a great numder of cities where the apoftle came. So the number of the members of the Chriftian church that were Gentiles, foon far exceeded the number of its Jewiſh members; infomuch that in leſs than ten years time after Paul was fent forth from Antioch to preach to the Gentiles, it was faid of him and his companions, that they had turned the world upſide down. [Acts xvii. 16.] ' Theſe that have ' turned the world upſide down are come hither alſo.' But the moſt remarkable out-pouring of the Spirit in a particular particular city that we have an account of in the New Teftament, feems to be that in the great city of Ephefus. [Acts xix.] There was also a very extraordinary ingathering of fouls at Corinth, one of the greateft cities of Greece. And after this many were converted in Rome, then the chief city of the known world; and the gofpel was propagated into all parts of the Roman empire. Thus the gofpel fun, which had lately rifen on the Jews, now rofe upon, and began to enlighten, the heathen world after they had continued in groß darkness for fo many ages.

This was a great thing, and fuch as never had been before. All nations but the Jews, and a few who had at one time and another joined with them, had been rejected from about Mofes's time. The Gentile world had been covered over with the thick darknefs of idolatry : but now, at the joyful found of the gofpel, they began in all parts to forfake their old idols, to abhor and caft them to the moles and to the bats, and to learn to worfhip the true God, and truft in his Son Jefus Chrift : and God owned them for his people ; those who had to long been afar off, were made nigh by the blood of Christ. Men were changed from being heathenish and brutish, to be the children of God; were called out of Satan's kingdom of darknefs, and brought into God's marvellous light; and in almost all countries throughout the known world were affemblies of the people of God; joyful praifes were fung to the true God, and Jefus Chrift the Redeemer. Now that great building which God began foon after the fall of man, rifes glorioufly, not as it had done in former ages, but in quite a new manner; now Daniel's prophecies concerning the laft kingdom, which should fucceed the four heathenith monarchies, begin to be fulfilled; now the ftone cut out of the mountains without hands, began to fmite the image on its feet, to break it in pieces, to grow great, and to make great advances towards filling the earth; and now God gathers together the elect from the four winds of heaven, by the preaching of the apoftles and other ministers, the angels of the Christian church 3 E fent fent forth with the great found of the gofpel trumpet, before the deftruction of Jerufalem, agreeable to what Chrift had foretold. [Matt. xxiv. 31.]---This was the fuccefs of Chrift's purchase during the first period of the Chriftian church, which terminated in the deftruction of Jerufalem.

(2.) I would proceed now to take notice of the oppofition which was made to this fuccefs by the enemies of it. Satan, who lately was to ready to triumph and exult, as though he had gained the victory in putting Chrift to death, now finding himfelf falling into the pit which he had digged, and feeing Chrift's kingdom make fuch amazing progrefs, as never had been before, we may conclude he was filled with the greatest confusion and aftonishment, and hell feemed to be effectually alarmed by it to make the most violent opposition. And, first, the devil stirred up the Jews, who had before crucified Chrift, to perfecute the church: for it is observeable, that the perfecution which the church fuffered during this period, was mostly from the Jews. Thus we read in the Acts, when, at Jerufalem, the Holy Ghoft was poured out at Pentecoft, how the Jews mocked, and faid, ' Thefe men are full of new ' wine ;' and the Scribes and Pharifees, with the captain of the temple, were alarmed, and bestirred themselves to oppose and perfecute the apostles; they first apprehended and threatened them, and afterwards imprifoned and beat them; breathing out threatenings and flaughter against the difciples of the Lord, they ftoned Stephen in a tumultuous rage; and were not content to perfecute those that they could find in Judea, but fent abroad to Damafcus and other places, to perfecute all that they could find every where. Herod, who was chief among them, ftretched forth his hand to vex the church, killed James with the fword, and proceeded to take Peter alfo, and caft him into prifon. [Acts xii. 1---3.]

So in other countries, almost wherever the apostles came, the Jews opposed the gospel in a most malignant manner, contradicting and blasphenning. How many things did the blessed apostle Paul suffer at their hands in one place or another ! How violent and blood-thirity did they fhew themfelves towards him, when he came to bring mercy to his nation ! In this perfecution and cruelty was fulfilled that of Chrift, [Matt. xxiii. 34.] ' Behold, ' I fend you prophets, and wife men, and fcribes; and ' fome of them ye fhall kill and crucify, and fome of them ' fhall ye fcourge in your fynagogues, and perfecute them ' from city to city.'

in

(3.) I proceed to take notice of the judgments which were executed on those enemies of Christ, the perfecuting Jews.

[1.] The bulk of the people were given up to judicial blindnefs of mind and hardnefs of heart. Chrift denounced fuch a woe upon them in the days of his flefth; [Matt. xiii. 14, 15.] and the apoftle Paul repeated it, [Acts xxviii. 25---27.] and under this curfe, this judicial blindnefs and hardnefs, they remain to this very day, having been fubject to it for about 1700 years, being the moft awful inftance of fuch a judgment, and monuments of God's terrible vengeance, of any people that ever were. That they fhould continue from generation to generation fo obfinately to reject Chrift, fo that it is a very rare thing that any one of them is converted to the Chriftian faith, though their own feriptures of the Old Teftament, which they acknowledge, are fo full of plain tethimonies againft them, is a remarkable evidence of their being dreadfully left of God.

[2.] They were rejected and caft off from being any longer God's vifible people. They were broken off from the flock of Abraham, and fince that have no more been reputed his feed, than the Ifhmaelites or Edomites, who are as much his natural feed as they are. The greater part of the two tribes were now caft off, as the ten tribes had been before, and another people were taken in their room, agreeable to the predictions of their own prophets : as of Mofes, [Deut. xxxii. 21.] ' They have moved me to jea-' loufy with that which is uot God ; they have provoked ' me to anger with their vanities ; and I will move them ' to jealoufy with those which are not a people, I will 3 E 2 ' provoke ' provoke them to anger with a foolifh nation;' and of Ifaiah, [lxv. 1.] ' I am fought of them that afked not ' for me; I am found of them that fought me not.'---They were vifibly rejected and caft off, by God's directing his apoftles to turn away from them, and let them alone; [Acts xiii. 46, 47.] ' Then Paul and Barnabas waxed ' bold, and faid, It was neceffary that the word of God ' fhould firft have been fpoken to you: but feeing ye put ' it from you, and judge yourfelves unworthy of everlaft- ' ing life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles; for fo hath the ' Lord commanded us.' [See alfo Acts xviii. 6. and xxviii. 28.]

Thus far we have had the fcripture hiftory to guide us; henceforward we fhall have the guidance only of two things, fcripture prophecy, and human hiftory.

(3.) The third and laft judgment of God on those enemies of the fuccefs of the gofpel which I shall mention is the terrible deftruction of their city and country by the Romans. They had great warning, and many means were used with them before this destruction. First, John the Baptift warned them, and told them, that the axc was laid at the root of the tree; and that every tree which should not bring forth good fruit, should be hewn down and cast into the fire. [Matt. iii. 10.] Then Christ warned them very particularly, and told thein of their approaching deftruction, and at the thoughts of it wept over them. After Christ's ascension the apostles abundantly warned them. But they obstinately went on in their opposition to Chrift and his church, and in their bitter perfecuting practices. Their malignant perfecution of the apoftle Paul, of which we have an account towards the end of the Acts of the apoftles, is fuppofed to have been not more than feven or eight years before their deftruction.

After this God was pleafed to give them another remarkable warning by the apoftle Paul, in his epiftle to the Hebrews, which was written, as is fuppofed, about four years before their deftruction: wherein the plaineft and cleareft arguments are fet before them from their own law. law, and from their prophets, for whom they profeffed fuch a regard, to prove that Chrift Jefus muft be the Son of God, and that all their law pointed to him and typified him, and that their Jewith difpenfation muft needs have now ceafed. For though the epiftle was more immediately directed to the Chriftian Hebrews, yet the matter of the epiftle plainly flows that the apoftle intended it for the ufe and conviction of the unbelieving Jews. And in this epiftle he mentions particularly the approaching deftruction and fiery indignation which flould devour the adverfaries. [Chap. x. 25--27.]

But the generality of them refufing to receive conviction, God foon deftroyed them with fuch terrible circumftances, as the deftruction of no country or city fince the foundation of the world can parallel; agreeable to what Chrift foretold. [ Matt. xxiv. 21.] ' For then shall be tribulation, ' fuch as was not from the beginning of the world to this ' time, no, nor ever fhall be.' The deftruction of Jerufalem by the Babylonians was very terrible, as it is in a most affecting manner deferibed by the prophet Jeremiah, in his Lamentations; but this was nothing to the dreadful mifery and wrath which they fuffered in this deftruction : God, according as Chrift foretold, bringing on them all the righteous blood that had been thed from the foundation of the world. Thus the enemies of Chrift are made his footftool after his afcenfion, agreeable to God's promife, [Pfal. cx. 1.] and Chrift rules them with a rod of iron. They had been kicking against Christ, but they did but kick against the pricks. The briars and thorns fet themfelves against him in battle; but he went through them; he burnt them up together. [Ifa. xxvii. 4.]

The deftruction of Jerusalem was in all refpects agreeable to what Christ had foretold, [Matt. xxiv.] by the account which Josephus gives of it, who was then present, and was one of the Jews who had a share in the calamity, and wrote the history of their destruction. (1) Many circumstances

(1) Jerufalem deflroyed, as Chrift had FORETOLD.] A comparifon of our Lord's predictions, with the narrative of the Jewifh hiftorian, Jofephus, forms the most striking correspondence of prophecy cumftances of this deftruction refembled the deftruction of the wicked at the day of judgment, by his account, being accompanied with many fearful fights in the heavens, and prophecy and hiftory that was perhaps ever exhibited, as is fhewn at large by Bp. Newton [on the Prophecies, vol. ii. dif. 18.] from whom we fhall felect the few following circumftances :

1. Many falfe Chrifts were to precede this event.—Such were Simon Magus. [Acts viii. 9, 10.] Theudas, Judas of Galilee. [Acts v. 36, 37.] The Egyptian impostor. [Acts xxi. 38.] And many others mentioned by Josephus.

2. Wars, famines, peftilence, and earthquakes !--Jofephus, [de Bello Jud. lib. ii.] is full of the wars and rumours of wars in the reigns of Caligula, Claudius, and Nero, during which numbers were deftroyed.—Famines, particularly one in the days of Claudius, mentioned by St. Luke, [Acts xi. 28.] Jofephus, and Suetonius. 'Earthquakes in divers places,' as in Crete, Smyrna, Miletus, Chios, Samos, Laodicea, Hierapolis, Coloffe, Campania, and Rome, mentioned by Philoftratus, Tacitus, Suetonius, and Jofephus.

3. 'Fearful fights and great figus,'--Jofephus mentions a flar in fhape like a fword, hanging over Jerufalem for a long time together---armies fighting in the clouds, a miraculous light in the night for half an hour; a cow which brought forth a lamb; the maffy brazen gate of the temple opening of itfelf; a voice in the temple, 'Arife, let us go hence;' and what he reckons worfe than all, the extraordinary conduct of one Jefus, (an apparent lunatic) who for more than feven years went about the city proclaiming ' woe to Jerufalem--woe to the city, and to the people, and to ' the temple,' and could by no means be reftrained.

4. 'When ye fee the abomination of defolation,' (i.e. Jerufa-'lem compafied with armies, Luke xxi. 20.)—fiee into the moun-'tains.' So when Ceftius Gallus came with his army, after his retreat, and efpecially when Vefpafian brought his forces againft Jerufalem,—numbers of Jews fled into the mountainous country, and the Chriftians in particular to Pella, on the other fide Jordan; fo that it does not appear that one Chriftian perifhed in the defiruction of Jerufalem.

5. • Not one frome to be left upon another.'- This was fulfilled by the foldiers of Titus burning the temple, and then digging, and afterwards Terentius Rufus ploughing up its foundation.

6. Then fhall be great tribulation, fuch as had not been ' from ' the beginning of the world; they fhall be flain, and led captive ' into all nations.'—So Jofephus, '' If the misfortunes of all from the beginning of the world were compared with those of the Jews, they would appear much inferior upon the comparison.'' [Procm.  $\S 4$ .] To evince the truth of this remark, we shall fubjoin a lift.

of

and with a feparation of the righteous from the wicked. Their city and temple were burnt, and rafed to the ground, and the ground on which the city flood, was ploughed; and fo one flone was not left upon another. [Matt. xxiv. 2.]

The people had ceated for the most part to be an independent government after the Babylonith captivity: but the fceptre entirely departed from Judea, on the death of Archelaus; and then Judea was made a Roman province: after of the unhappy Jews that perifhed in this deftruction, in Judea and the neighbouring countries, as collected by Lipfus and others, from various parts of Jofephus's hiftory.

At Jerufalem, by Florus's orders,	. (
Re the inhebitents of Caferra	3,600
By the inhabitants of Cæfarea,	20,000
At Scythopolis in Syria,	13,000
At Afcalon,	2,500
At Ptolemais,	2,000
At Alexandria,	50,000
At Damafcus,	10,000
At the taking of Joppa by Ceftius Gallus,	8,400
In the mountain of Afamon,	2,000
In a fight at Afcalon,	10,000
In an ambufh,	8,000
At Japha,	15,000
Upon mount Gerizzim,	11,600
At Joppa, when taken by Vefpafian,
Slain at Tarichæ,	4,200
Slain, or killed themfelves, at Gamala,	7,700
Killed in their flight from Gifchala,	9,000
At the fiege of Jotapa,	6,000
Of the Codeward (h.f. large 1 1 1)	40,000
Of the Gadarenes (befides numbers drowned)	15,000
In the villages of Idumea,	10,000
At Gerafa,	1,000
At Machærus,	1,700
Slew themfelves at Mafada,	960
In the defert of Jardes,	3,000
In Cyrene, by the Governor Catulus,	3,000
At Jerufalem, during the fiege,	1,100,000
Total,	1,357,660

Add to thefe 97,000 prifoners doomed to flavery, befides 11,000 flaved to death through neglect or otherwife, and an innumerable multitude which perifhed in woods, caves, deferts, &c. of whom no computation could be made. [G. E.]

400 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

after this they were rejected from being the people of God; but now their very city and land are utterly deftroyed, and themfelves carried away; and fo have continued in their difperfions through the world for now 1700 years.

Thus there was a final end to the Old Teftament world: all was finished with a kind of day of judgment, in which the people of God were faved, and his enemies terribly deftroyed.---Thus does he who was so lately mocked, defpifed, and spit upon by these Jews, and whose followers they so malignantly perfecuted, appear gloriously exalted over his enemies.

HAVING thus shown how the fuccess of Christ's purchafe was carried on till the destruction of Jerusalem, I come now,

2. To flow how it was carried on from that time till the deftruction of the heathen empire in the time of Conflantine the Great, which is the fecond great event compared to Chrift's coming to judgment.

Jerufalem was deftroyed about the year of our Lord 68, ( $\kappa$ ) and fo before that generation paffed away which was contemporary with Chrift; and it was about thirty-five years after Chrift's death. The deftruction of the heathen empire under Conftantine, was about 260 years after this. In flowing how the fuccefs of the gofpel was carried on through this time, I would, (1.) Take notice of the oppofition made againft it by the Roman empire. (2.) How the work of the gofpel went on notwithftanding that oppofition. (3.) The peculiar circumftances of tribulation and diftrefs the church was in juft before their deliverance by Conftantine. The great revolution of Conftantine's time.

(1.) I

( $\kappa$ ) Jerufalem deflroyed ABOUT A. D. 68.] We would take this opportunity to obferve, that, probably, our author's dates, were often taken from memory, with an intent to revife them before publication, had his life been fpared. They differ, however, but very little from the best authorities, and this difference we shall carefully obferve. The destruction of Jerufalem is commonly placed in A. D. 70. [G. E.] (1.) I would briefly flow what oppofition was made againft the gofpel, and the kingdom of Chrift, by the Roman empire. The oppofition that was made to the gofpel by the heathen Roman empire, was chiefly after the deftruction of Jerufalem though the oppofition began bcfore; but the oppofition that was before the deftruction of Jerufalem, was principally by the Jews. But when Jerufalem was deftroyed, the Jews were put out of a capacity of troubling the church. Now therefore the devil turns his head elfewhere, and ufes other inftruments. The oppofition which was made in the Roman empire againft the kingdom of Chrift, was of two kinds.

[1.] They employed all their learning, philosophy, and wit, in oppofing it. Chrift, as we have observed, came into the world when learning and philosophy were at their height. This was employed to the utmost against the kingdom of Chrift. The gofpel, which held forth a crucified Saviour, was not at all agreeable to the notions of the philosophers. The Christian scheme of trusting in such a crucified Redeemer appeared foolifh and ridiculous to them. Greece was a country the most famous for learning of any in the Roman empire : but the apoftle obferves. that the doctrine of Chrift crucified appeared foolifhnefs to the Greeks, [ 1 Cor. i. 23.] and therefore the wife men and philosophers opposed the gospel with all their wit. We have a fpecimen of their oppofition in their treatment of the apostle Paul at Athens, which had been for many ages the chief feat of philosophy. We read, [Acts xvii. 18.] that the philosophers of the Epicureans and Stoicks encountered him, faying, 'What will this babbler fay? 'He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods.' So they were wont to deride and ridicule Christianity. And after the destruction of Jerufalem, feveral philosophers published books against it; the chief of whom were Celfus and Porphyry, (L) who wrote against the Christian religion

(L) CELSUS and PORPHYRY.] Celfus, not the phyfician, but the Epicurean philofopher, flourifhed about A. D. 150; and  $\frac{1}{3}$  F Porligion with a great deal of virulence and contempt, much after the manner of the Deifls of the prefent age. Some of their writings yet remain. As great enemies and defpifers as they were of the Chriftian religion, yet they never denied the facts recorded of Chrift and his apoftles in the New Teftament, particularly the miracles which they wrought, but allowed them. They lived too near the times wherein thefe miracles were wrought to deny them; for they were fo publicly done, and fo lately, that neither Jews nor heathens in thofe days could deny them; but they afcribed them to the power of magic.

402 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

[2.] The Roman emperors employed all their fitrength and policy, time after time, to perfecute, and if poffible to root out Chriftianity. This they did in ten general fucceffive perfecutions. We have before obferved, that Chrift came into the world when the heathen dominion and authority was at its greateft height, during the Roman empire, the moft powerful human monarchy that ever was on earth. All the fitrength of this monarchy was employed for a long time to oppofe and perfecute the Chriftian church, and if poffible to deftroy it, in ten fucceffive attempts, which are called the ten heathen perfecutions, which are before Conftantine.

The first of these, which was the perfecution under Nero, was a little before the destruction of Jerufalem, in which the apostle Peter was crucified, and the apostle Paul beheaded, soon after he wrote the Second Epistle to Timothy. When he wrote that epistle he was a prisoner at Rome under Nero, and expected soon to die, [2 Tim. iv. 6. 7.] 'I am now ready to be offered, and the time ' of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, 'I have Porphyry, a Platonic philofopher, in the third Century. They were both violent oppofers of Chriftianity; but their works are perifhed, except the fragments of them preferved in the Chriftian Fathers. The latter was one of the most respectable adversaries Chriftianity ever had; and, from his intimate acquaintance with the feriptures, fome have supposed he was once a Chriftian.

[G. E.]

 $\epsilon$  I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.'-----And there were many thousands of other Christians flain in that perfecution. (M) The other nine perfecutions were all after the dethruction of Jerufalem. Some of these were very terrible indeed, and far exceeded the first perfecution under Nero. One emperor after another fet himself with the utmost rage to root out the Christian church from the earth, that there should not be for much as the name of Christian left in the world. And thoufands and millions were put to cruel deaths in these perfecutions: for they spared neither fex nor age, but killed them as fast as they could.

Under the fecond general perfecution, that which was next after the deftruction of Jerufalem, the apoflle John was banifhed to the ifle of Patmos, where he had those visions of which he has given an account in the Revelation. Under that perfecution it has been supposed that above 40.000 fuffered martyrdom; which yet was nothing to what were put to death under fome fucceeding perfecu- $_3 F 2$  tions

(M) The FIRST perfecution under NERO.] Of this TACITUS, an heathen hiltorian, and therefore the more unexceptionable anthority, gives the following account : " Nero, to fupprefs the prevailing rumour, that he was the author of the conflagration [of Rome] transferred the guilt upon fuppofed criminals, fubjecting to most exquisite tortures those people . . . . known to the vulgar by the name of Chriftians. . . . First, therefore, were apprehended those who openly owned themselves to be of that fect, then by them was difcovered an immenfe multitude, and all were convicted. Their death and torture were aggravated with cruel derifion and fport; for they were either covered with the fkins of wild beafts, and torn in pieces by devouring dogs, or fastened to croffes, or wrapped up in combustible garments, that when the day-light failed, they might, like torches, ferve to difpel the darknefs of the night. For this tragical fpectacle Nero lent his own gardens, and exhibited at the fame time the public diverfions of the circus, fometimes driving a chariot in perfon, and fometimes standing as a spectator. . . . Hence, towards the fufferers, however guilty and deferving the molt exemplary punifi-ment, [fo fpeaks the heathen] compafiion arole, feeing they were doomed to perifh . . . . to gratify the cruelty of one man."

[Ann. lib. xv. cap. 44.]

403

tions. (N) Many thousands fuffered cruel deaths in the third perfecution under the Emperor Adrian. (0) The fourth perfecution began about the year of Christ, 162, as

(N) The SECOND general PERSECUTION.] This was raifed by Domitian, and though flort (not lafting above a year) was fevere for the time, the tyrant not fparing his own relations, fome of whom he flew, and banifhed others. This wretch was as blafphemous as he was cruel; and when he had transformed himfelf completely into the image of the devil, affumed the honours of Deity, and would be called nothing lefs than Lord and God. Most historians, ancient and modern, agree with our author as to St. John's banishment to Patmos in this reign; but the flory of his being put into boiling oil is justly rejected. [See Eufeb. Hist. Ecclef. lib. iii. cap. 18.]

(0) The THIRD perfecution.] Before the reign of Trajan, though he is not commonly reckoned among the perfecutors, as making no new edicts against the Christians, yet was highly prejudiced against them, and even himself condemned fome; a remarkable instance of which occurs in the martyrdom of Ignatius, (fupposed to have been a disciple of St. John) of which we have the following interesting account, preferved in the epistle faid to have been written by eye-witness, and published by Abp. User, Dr. Grabe, and other learned men.

The holy man being brought before the emperor was interrogated in the following manner :

Trajan. What a wicked wretch art thou, thus to tranfgrefs our commands, and to teach others to do the fame, to their deftruction ?

Ignat. No one ought thus to call Theophorus, [i. e. the bearer of God, for fo Ignatius was called] forafmuch as all wicked fpirits are far from the fervants of God. But if, becaufe I am a trouble to those evil fpirits, you call me wicked, with reference to them I confess the charge; for posseffing Christ, the heavenly King, I diffolve all the fnares of the devil.

Trajan. And who is Theophorus?

Ignat. He who has Chrift in his bofom.

Trajan. And do we not then appear to have the gods within us, who fight for us against our enemies?

Ignat. You err, in that you call the evil fpirits of the heathen, goals; for there is but one God, who made heaven and earth, and the fea, and all that are in them, and one Jefus Chrift, his onlybegotten Son, whofe kingdom may I enjoy!

Trajan. His kingdom, you mean, who was crucified under Pontius Pilate.

Ignat. His, who crucified my fin, ... and has put all the deceit and malice of the devil under their feet, who carry him in their heart.

Trajan. Doft thou carry him that was crucified within thee?

Ignat.

as fome reckon, and was felt even in England, the land of our forefathers, where Chriftianity had been planted very early, and, as is fuppofed, in the days of the apoftles. (P) And in the later perfecutions, the Roman emperors being vexed at the fruftration of their predeceffors, who were not able to extirpate Chriftianity, or hinder its progrefs, were enraged to be the more violent in their attempts.

Thus a great part of the first 300 years after Christ was spent in violent and cruel perfecutions of the church by the Roman powers. Satan was very unwilling to quit his

 $I_{gnat}$ . I do; for it is written, 'I will dwell in them, and walk in them.'

Then Trajan pronounced this fentence—Forafmuch as Ignatius hath confeffed that he carries about within himfelf Him that was crucified, we command, that he be carried bound to the great Rome by foldiers, there to be thrown to the beafts for the diversion of the people.—This fentence was soon after executed; and we may judge of the temper in which he fuffered, from the following paffage in one of his episles written on his journey: "Now I begin to be a difciple; nor shall any thing move me, whether visible or invisible, that I may attain to Christ Jefus. Let fire and the cross—let the rage of wild beafts—let breaking of bones and tearing of members—let the shattering in pieces of the whole body—yea, all the wicked torment: of the devil come upon me—only may I enjoy Jefus Christ!" [Epist. ad Rom. § 5.]

(P) The FOURTH perfection.] Under this perfecution or a little before, as fome think, fuffered another difciple of St. John, Polycarp, who was called doctor of Afia and father of the Chriftians. When urged by the proconful to reproach and deny Chrift to procure his liberty, he only replied, "Eighty and fix years have I now ferved Chrift, and he has never done me the leaft wrong; how then can I blafpheme my King and Saviour?" When the proconful continued, "I have wild beafts ready, to thofe I will give thee;"—" Call for them," replied Polycarp, "for we Chriftians are fixed in our minds, not to change from good to evil." The magiftrate added, "If thou defpifeft the beafts, thou fhalt be devoured by fire." The martyr rejoined. "Thou threateneft me with fire which burns but for a time, and is extinguithed; but knoweft not the fire of the future judgement, that eternal punifhment which is referved for the ungody. — 'at why tarrieft thon ? bring forth what thou wilt."

Accordingly this venerable man being, as is fuppofed, above at a heard years old, was burnt at a ftake, praifing and bleffing Cost that he honour of martyrdom. [Martyrdom of Polycarp, particular Other, Cottelerus, and others.]

405

his hold of fo great a part of the world, as the Roman empire was, of which he had had the quiet pofferfion for fo many ages: and therefore when he faw it going fo faft out of his hands, he beftirred himfelf to his utmoft: all hell was, as it were, raifed to oppofe it with its utmoft power.

Satan thus exerting himfelf by the power of the heathen Roman empire, is called the great red dragon in fcripture, having feven heads and ten horns, fighting againft the woman cloathed with the fun. [Rev. xii. 3.] And the terrible conflict there was between the church of Chrift, and the powers of the heathen empire before Conftantine's time, is there reprefented [ver. 7.] by the war between Michael and his angels, and the dragon and his angels: 'And ' there was war in heaven; Michael and his angels fought, ' and the dragon fought and his angels.

(2) I would take notice what fuccefs the gofpel had in the world before the time of Constantine, notwithftanding all this oppofition .--- Though the learning and power of the Roman empire were fo great, and both were employed to the utmost against Christianity to root it out, for fo long a time, and in fo many repeated attempts; yet all was in vain: ftill, in fpite of all they could do, the kingdom of Chrift wonderfully prevailed, and Satan's kingdom mouldered and confumed away before it, agreeable to the words of our text: ' The ' moth shall eat them up like a garment, and the worm ' fhall eat them like wool.' And it was very obfervable, that for the most part, the more they perfecuted the church, the more it encreased : infomuch that it became a common faying, 'The blood of the martyrs is the feed of the ' church.' Herein the church of Chrift proved to be like a palm tree; of which it is remarked, that the greater weight is laid upon it, or hung to its branches, the more it grows and flourishes: on which account probably the church is compared to a palm tree. [Cant. vii. 7.] ' This ' thy flature is like to a palm tree.' Justin Martyr, an eminent father in the Christian church, who lived in the age next after the apofiles, in fome writings of his, which are are yet extant, fays, that in his days there was no part of mankind, whether Greeks or barbarians, or by what name foever they were called, even the most rude and unpolished nations, where prayers and thankfgivings were not made to the great Creator of the world, through the name of the crucified Jefus.* Tertullian, another eminent father in the Chriftian church, who lived in the beginning of the following age, in fome of his writings which are yet extant, + fets forth, that in his day the Christian religion had extended itfelf to the utmost bounds of the then known world, in which he reckons Britain, the country of our forefathers; and thence demonstrates, that the kingdom of Chrift was then more extensive than any of the four great monarchies; and moreover fays, that though the Christians were as ftrangers of no long standing, yet they had filled all places of the Roman dominions, their cities, islands, castles, corporations, councils, armies, tribes, the palace, fenate, and courts of judicature; only they had left to the heathen their temples; and that if they should all agree to retire out of the Roman empire, the world would be amazed at the folitude and defolation that would enfue upon it, there would be fo few left; and that the Chriftians were enough to be able eafily to defend themfelves, if they were difpofed to rife up in arms against the heathen magistrates. Alfo Pliny, ‡ a heathen who lived in those days, fays, multitudes of each fex, every age and quality, were become Christians. This fuperstition, fays he, having infected and over run not the city only, but towns and countries, the temples and facrifices are generally defolate and forfaken. (0)

And

- * Dial. cum Tyrph.
- † Adverfus Judæos, cap. 7.
- ‡ Lib. x. Ep. 97.

(Q) The EXTENT of the golpel.] Even "before the defiruction of Jerufalem, the golpel was not only preached in the Leffer Afia, and Greece and Italy, the great theatres of action then in the world; but was likewife propagated as far northward as Scythia, as far fouthward as Ethiopia, as far eaftward as Parthia and India, as far weftward as Spain and Britain. Our anceftors of this ifland feem to have lain as remote from the fcene of our Saviour's

+07

408 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

And it was remarked by both heathen and Chriftian writers in those days, that the famous heathen oracles in their temples, where princes and others for many paft ages had been wont to inquire and receive anfwers with an audible voice from their gods, which were indeed anfwers from the devil; I fay, those oracles were now filenced and ftruck dumb, and gave no more anfwers: and particularly the oracle at Delphos, which was the most famous heathen oracle in the whole world, which both Greeks and Romans used to confult, began to cease to give any answers, even from the birth of Christ: and the false deity. who was worfhipped, and ufed to give anfwers from his oracle in that temple, being once inquired of, why he did not now give answers as he was wont to do? made this reply, as feveral heathen hiftorians who lived about those times relate, " There is an Hebrew boy, who is king of the gods, who has commanded me to leave this house, and be gone to hell, and therefore you are to expect no more answers." And many of the heathen writers who lived about that time, fpake much of the oracles being filenced, as a thing at which they wondered, not knowing what the caufe should be. (R) Plutarch, a heathen viour's actions as almost any nation, and were a rough, inhospitable people, as unlikely to receive fo civilized an inflitution as any people whatever. But yet there is fome probability, that the gospel was preached here by St. Simon the apostle; there is much greater probability that it was preached here by St. Paul; and there is abfolute certainty that Christianity was planted in this country in the days of the apostles, before the destruction of Jerusalcem !" [Bp. NEWTON on the Prophecies, vol. ii. p. 237.]

(R) The beathen ORACLES.] Learned men are much divided as to the fource of thefe oracles. The famous Van Dale wrote a treatife to prove that they were only the invention of priefts, but our Abp. Potter, [Greek Antiq. vol. i. book ii. ch. 7.] and many others, conceive that there was a diabolical agency employed in the bufinefs. There are indeed feveral circumftances leading to the former hypothefis; fuch as the gloomy folemnity with which many of them were delivered, in caves and fubterraneous caverns; the numerous and difagreeable ceremonies enjoined, as fometimes fleeping in the fkins of bealts, bathing, and expensive facrifices; the ambiguous and unfatisfactory anfwers frequently returned; heathen writer of those times, wrote a particular treatife about it, which is still extant.* And Porphyry, one of the heathen writers before mentioned, has thefe words: " It is no wonder if the city for thefe fo many years has been over ran with fickness; Esculapius, and the rest of the gods, having withdrawn their converse with men: for fince Jefus began to be worfhipped, no man hath received any public help or benefit by the gods."

400

Thus did the kingdom of Chrift prevail against the kingdom of Satan.

(3.) I now proceed to take notice of the peculiar circunistances of tribulation and distress just before Conftantine the Great came to the throne. This diffrefs they fuffered under the tenth perfecution, which as it was the last, fo it was by far the heaviest and most fevere. The church before this, after the ceafing of the ninth perfecution, had enjoyed a time of quietness for about forty years together; but, abufing their liberty, began to grow cold and lifelefs in religion, and contentions prevailed among them; by which they offended God to fuffer this dreadful trial to come upon them. And Satan having loft ground fo much, notwithstanding all his attempts, now feemed to beftir himfelf with more than ordinary rage. Those who were then in authority let themselves with the utmost violence to root out Christianity, by burning all Bibles, and deftroying all Chriftians; and therefore they did not fland to try or convict them in a for-mal process, but fell upon them wherever they could; fometimes 2 G returned : these look very much like the contrivances of artful priefts to difguife their villany ; the medium of priefts, speaking images, vocal groves, &c. feem much to confirm it. On the other hand, if we may credit the relation of ancient writers, either among the heathens or Christians, this hypothefis will hardly ac-count for many of the inflances they mention. And fince it can-not be proved either impossible or unferiptural, is it not probable that God might fometimes permit an intercourfe with infernal fpirits, with a defign in the end to turn this and every other circumflance to his own glory, as our author has above obferved? We are however fatisfied, from the reafons above hinted, that the whole was often but a gainful cheat. * Plut. de defect. Orac. [G. E.]

410 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

fometimes fetting fire to houfes where multitudes of them were affembled, and burning them therein, and at other times flaughtering multitudes together: fo that fometimes their perfecutors were quite fpent with the labour of killing and tormenting them; and in fome populous places fo many were flain together, that the blood ran like torrents. It is related, that feventeen thoufand martyrs were flain in one month's time; and that during the continuance of this perfecution, in the province of Egypt alone, no lefs than 144,000 Chriftians died by the violence of their perfecutors, befides, 700,000 that died through the fatigues of banifhment, or the public works to which they were condemned.*

This perfecution lafted for ten years together; and as it exceeded all foregoing perfecutions in the number of martyrs, fo it exceeded them in the variety and multitude of inventions of torture and cruelty. Some authors who lived at that time, fay, they were innumerable, and exceeded all account and exprefion.†

This perfecution in particular was very fevere in England; (s) and this is that perfecution which was forefold [Rev. vi. 9, 10.] ' And when he had opened the fifth feal, ' I faw under the altar the fouls of them that were flain ' for the word of God, and for the teftimony which they ' held. And they cried with a loud voice, faying, How ' long,

* Buffieres in flofculis Hiftor.

† Vid. Euseb. Eccl. Hift. lib. viii. cum fupp. & Lactant. de Mort. Perf.

(s) The TENTH perfecution fevere in ENGLAND.] "In the perfecution under Dioelefian, the Britif Christians fuffered fo much, that the very name of Christianity was loss in this island, except among the Cornish and Welfh. . . . . Our proto-martyr St. Alban, Amphibolus, Julian, and Aaron were martyred at St. Alban's, then called Verulam. The priefts who wrote of St. Alban's martyrdom, could not be content with the courage, patience and piety of the martyr, but have corrupted his history with lies: even venerable Bede cannot help telling us, that he dried up a river as he went to the place of execution, . . . . that his head spoke after it was cut off, &c." [Critical History of England, rol. i. p. 64.]

• long, O Lord, holy and true, doft thou not judge and • avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth ??*

At the end of the ten years during which this perfecution continued, the heathen perfecutors thought they had finished their work, and boasted that they had utterly deftroyed the name and superstition of the Christians, and propagated the worship of the gods. (T)

Thus it was the darkeft time with the Chriftian church just before the break of day. They were brought to the greatest extremity just before God appeared for their glorious deliverance; as the bondage of the Israelites in Egypt was the most fevere and cruel just before their deliverance by the hand of Moses. Their enemies thought they had swallowed them up just before their destruction, as it was with Pharaoh and his host when they had hemmed in the children of Israel at the Red Sea.

(4.) I come now, in the fourth place, to the great revolution which was in the world in the days of Conftantine, which was in many respects like Chrift's appearing in the clouds of heaven to fave his people, and judge the world. The people of Rome being weary of the government of those tyrants to whom they had lately been subject, sent to Constantine, who was then in the city of York in England, to come and take the throne. And he being encouraged, as is faid, by a vision of a pillar of light in the heavens, in the form of a crofs, in the fight of his whole army, with this infeription, By this conquer; and the night following, by Christ's appearing to him in a dream with the fame crofs in his hand, who directed him to make a crofs like that to be his royal standard, that his army might fight under that banner, 3 G 2 and

* See Bp. Newton on the Prophecies, vol. iii. p. 65.

( $\tau$ ) The heathens boaffed having DESTROYED Chriftianity.] A column is faid to be ftill remaining at Cluny in Spain with this infeription—"To Dioelefian, Jovius, and Maximinus, Cæfars, for having enlarged the bounds of the empire, and for having exterminated the name of CHRISTIANS, those diffurbers of the public repose." [Gruteri corpus Infeript. tom. i. p. 280.]—And yet, (infolent blafphemers!) the name of Chrift is still adored by millions; but for Jupiter, Mars, Apollo, &c. where are they ?

[I. N.]

and affured him that he fhould overcome. (U) Accordingly he did, and overcame his enemies, took poffeffion of the imperial throne, embraced the Chriftian religion, and was the first Chriftian emperor that ever reigned: he came to the throne about 320 years after Chrift. There are feveral things which I would take notice of which attended or immediately followed Constantine's coming to the throne.

[1.] The Chriftian church was thereby wholly delivered from perfecution. Now the day of her deliverance came after fuch a dark night of affliction; weeping had continued for a night, but now deliverance and joy came in the morning. Now God appeared to judge his people and repented himfelf for his fervants, when he faw their power was gone, and that there was none flut up or left. Chriftians had no perfecutions now to fear. Their perfecutors now were all put down, and their rulers were fome of them Chriftians like themfelves.

[2.] God now appeared to execute terrible judgments on their enemies. Remarkable are the accounts which hiftory gives us of the fearful ends to which the heathen emperors, princes, generals, captains, and other great men came, who had exerted themfelves in perfecuting the Chriftians; dying miferably, one after another, under exquifite torments of the body, and horrors of confcience; with a most visible hand of God upon them.* So that what now came to pass might very fitly be compared to their hiding themfelves in the dens and rocks of the mountains. [Rev. vi. 15, 17.]

[3.] Heathenifm now was in a great meafure abolished throughout the Roman empire. Images were now deftroyed, and heathen temples pulled down. Images of gold and filver were melted down, and coined into money. Some

(u) Conflantine's VISION.] Whatever fabulous eircumflances may have been added to this flory, or abfurd inferences drawn from it, it fhould feem there was fome truth in it, fince Eufebius [de Vita Conflant. lib. i. cap. 27--31.] affures us, that he had it from the emperor's own mouth. [See Univerfal Hiftory, vol. xv. p. 555.]

* Lactust. de Mort. Perf.

Some of the chief of their idols, which were curioufly wrought, were brought to Conftantinople, and there drawn with ropes up and down the freets for the people to behold and laugh at. The heathen priefts were difperfed and banifhed.

[4.] The Chriftian church was brought into a ftate of great peace and profperity. Now all heathen magistrates were put down, and only Chriftians were advanced to places of authority all over the empire. They had now Chriftian prefidents, Chriftian governors, Chriftian judges and officers, inflead of their old heathenifh ones. Conftantine fet himfelf to honour the Chriftian bifhops or minifters, and to build and adorn churches; and now large and beautiful Chriftian churches were erected in all parts of the world, inflead of the old heathen temples.

This was the greatest revolution in the face of things that ever came to pass fince the flood. Satan, the prince of darknefs, that king and god of the heathen world, was caft out. The roaring lion was conquered by the lamb of God, in the strongest dominion that ever he had, even the Roman empire. This was a remarkable accomplishment of that prophecy, [Jer. x. 11.] ' The gods that have not ' made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish ' from the earth, and from under thefe heavens.' The chief part of the world was now brought utterly to caft off their old gods and their old religion, to which they had been accuftomed much longer than any of their hiftories gives an account of; fo long that they could not trace the beginning of it. It was formerly spoken of as a thing unknown for a nation to change their gods, [Jer. ii. 10, 11.] but now the greater parts of the nations of the known world were brought to caft off all their former gods. Thoufands of them were cash away for the worthip of the true God, and Chrift the only Saviour : and there was a most remarkable fulfilment of that promife, [Ifa. ii. 17, 18.] ' And the loftiness of man shall be bowed down, and the haughtinefs of men shall be made low : ' and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day. And 6 the idols he shall utterly abolish.' And fince that, it has has come to país, that those gods that were once fo famous in the world, as Jupiter, and Saturn, and Minerva, and Juno, &c. are only heard of as things which were of old: they have no temples, no altars, no worfhippers, and have not had for many hundred years.

413

414 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

Now is come the end of the old heathen world in the principal part of it, the Roman empire. And this great revolution and change of the flate of the world, with that terrible deftruction of the great men who had been perfecutors, is compared, [Rev. vi.] to the end of the world, and Chrift coming to judgment; and is what is most immediately fignified under the fixth feal, which followed upon the fouls under the altar crying, ' How 6 long, O Lord, holy and true, doft thou not avenge our ' blood on them that dwell on the earth ?' This vision of the fixth feal, by the general confent of divines and expofitors. has respect to this downfal of the heathen Roman empire; though it may have a more remote refpect to the day of judgment, but that cannot be what is immediately intended ; becaufe we have an account of many events which were to come to pass afterwards, yet before the end of the world.

This revolution is also represented by the devil's being caft out of heaven to the earth. In his great ftrength and glory, in that mighty Roman empire, he had as it were exalted his throne up to heaven. But now he fell like lightning from heaven, and was confined to the earth. His kingdom was confined to the meaner and more barbarous nations, or to the lower parts of the world of mankind. [Rev. xii. 9, &c.] ' And the great dragon ' was caft out, that old ferpent, called the devil and Satan. · which deceiveth the whole world : he was caft out into ' the earth, and his angels were call out with him,' &c. Satan tempted Chrift, and promifed to give him the glory of the kingdoms of the world; but now he is obliged to give it to him even against his will. This was a glorious fulfilment of that promife which God made to his Son. [Ifa. liii. 12.] ' Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the ftrong ;

<sup>6</sup> ftrong; becaufe he hath poured out his foul unto death; <sup>6</sup> and he was numbered with the tranfgreffors, and he <sup>6</sup> bare the fin of many, and made interceffion for the <sup>6</sup> tranfgreffors.' This was a great fulfilment of the prophecies of the Old Teftament concerning the glorious time of the gofpel, and particularly of the prophecies of Daniel. Now the kingdom of heaven is come in a glorious degree. It pleafed the Lord God of heaven to fet up a kingdom on the ruins of that of Satan. And fuch fuccefs is there of the purchafe of Chrift's redemption, and fuch honour does the Father put upon Chrift for the difgrace he fuffered when on earth. And now fee to what a height that glorious building is raifed, which had been erecting ever fince the fall.

INFERENCE.

FROM what has been faid of the fuccefs of the gofpel from Chrift's afcention to the time of Conftantine, we may deduce a ftrong argument of the truth of the Chriftian religion, and that the gofpel of Jefus Chrift is really from God. This wonderful fuccefs which has been fpoken of, and the circumftances of it which have been mentioned, are a ftrong argument of it feveral ways.

(1.) We may obferve that it is the gofpel, and that only, which has actually been the means of bringing the world to the knowledge of the true God. That thofe are no gods whom the heathen worthipped, and that there is but one only God, is what, now fince the gofpel has fo taught us, we can fee to be truth by our own reafon. it is plainly agreeable to the light of nature; it can be eafily flown by reafon to be demonftrably true. The very Deifts themfelves acknowledge that it can be demonflrated, that there is one God, and but one, who has made and governs the world. But now it is evident that it is the gofpel, and that only, which has actually been the means of bringing men to the knowledge of this truth; it was not the inftructions of philosophers. They tried in vain: 'The world by wisdom knew not God.' [I Cor. i. 21.] Till the gospel and the holy foriptures came abroad in the world, all the world lay in ignorance of the true God, and in the greatest darkness with respect to the things of religion, embracing the absurdest opinions and practices, by all civilized nations now acknowledged to be childish fooleries. And fo they lay one age after another, and nothing proved effectual to enlighten them. The light of nature, and their own reason, and all the wisdom of learned men, availed nothing; but the foriptures brought the world to an acknowledgement of the one only true God, and to worship and ferve him.

415

And hence it was, that all who now own the one true God, Chriftians, Jews, Mahometans, and even Deifts, originally came by the knowledge of him. It is owing to this that they are not in general at this day left in heathenish darkness. They have it either immediately from the fcriptures, or by tradition from their fathers. who had it at first therefrom. Doubtless those who now defpise the scriptures, and boast of the strength of their own reafon, as being fufficient to lead them to the knowledge of the one true God, if the gofpel had never come abroad in the world to enlighten their forefathers, would have been as brutish idolaters as the world in general was before the gospel came abroad. The Mahometans, who own but one true God, at first borrowed the notion from the Bible; for the first Mahometans had been educated in the Chriftian religion, and apoftatized from it. --- And this thews, that the fcriptures were defigned of God to be the means to bring the world to the knowledge of himfelf; rather than human reason, or any thing elfe. For it is unreasonable to suppose, that the gofpel, and that only, which God never defigned to this end, should actually effect it, and that after human reafon, which he defigned as the proper mean, had been tried for a great many ages in vain .--- If the fcriptures be not the word of God, then they are the greatest delusion that ever was. Now, is it reafonable to fuppofe, that God

God in his providence would make use of falfehood and delution, and that only, to bring the world to the knowledge of himfelf?

(2.) The fuccets of the gofpel against fuch powerful opposition plainly shows the hand of God. The Roman government, which fo violently fet itfelf to hinder the fuccefs of the gofpel, and to fubdue the church of Chrift, was the most powerful human government that ever exifted; and they feemed to have the church in their hands. The Chriftians were mostly their fubjects, and never took up arms to ftand in their own defence; they armed themfelves with nothing but patience, and fuch like spiritual weapons: and yet this mighty power could not conquer them; but on the contrary, Christianity conquered that. The Romans had fubdued many mighty and potent kingdoms; they fubdued the Grecian monarchy, when they were not their fubjects, and made the utmost refistance; and yet they could not conquer the church which was in their hands; but on the contrary, were finally triumphed over by it.

(3.) No other fufficient caufe can poffibly be affigned of this propagation of the gospel, but God's own power. Here was a great and wonderful effect, the most remarkable change that ever was in the face of the world of mankind fince the flood; and this effect was not without fome caufe. Now, what other caufe can be devifed but only the divine power? It was not the outward ftrength of the inftruments which were employed in it. At first the gospel was preached only by a few fishermen, who were without power and worldly interest to support them. It was not their craft and policy that produced this wonderful effect: for they were but poor illiterate men. It was not the agreeableness of the story they had to tell to the notions and principles of mankind. This was no pleafant fable: A crucified God and Saviour was to the Jews a flumbling block, and to the Greeks foolifhnefs. It was not the agreeablenefs of their doctrines to men's difpofitions; for nothing is more contrary to the corruptions of men than the pure doctrines of the gospel. This 3 H effect therefore can have proceeded from no other caufe than the power and agency of God: and if the power of God was what was exercised to caufe the gospel to prevail, then the gospel is his word: for furely God does not use his almighty power to promote an imposfure and delusion.

effect

417

418 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

(4.) This fuccefs is agreeable to what Chrift and his apoffles foretold.---[Matt. xvi. 18] ' Upon this rock ' will I build my church; and the gates of hell thall not ' prevail againft it.' [John xii. 24.] ' Verily, verily I ' fay unto you, Except a corn of wheat fall into the ' ground, and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bring-' eth forth much fruit.' [ver. 31, 32.] ' Now is the judg-' ment of this world: now thall the prince of this world ' be caft out. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, ' will draw all men unto me.' [John xvi. 8.] ' When ' he (the comforter) is come, he will reprove the world ' of fin, of righteoufnefs, and of judgment,---becaufe the ' prince of this world is judged.'

So the apoftle Paul [I Cor. i. 21---28.] declares, that after the world by wifdom knew not God, 'It pleafed 'God by the foolifhnefs of preaching, to fave them that 'believe;' and that God chofe the foolifh things of the world to confound the wife; and weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty; and bafe things, yea and things that are not, to bring to nought things that are.---If any man foretells a thing, very likely in itfelf to come to pafs, from caufes which can be forefeen, it is no argument of a revelation from God: but when a thing is foretold which is very unlikely ever to come to pafs, which is entirely contrary to the common courfe of things, yet it comes to pafs juft as foretold, this is a ftrong argument that the prediction was from God.

Thus the confideration of the manner of the propagation and fuccefs of the gofpel during the time which has been fpoken of, affords great evidence that the feriptures are the word of God.

3. I am now to show how the fuccess of Christ's redemption is carried on from the time of the overthrow of the heathen Roman empire by Conftantine the Great, till the fall of antichrift, and the deftruction of Satan's vifible kingdom on earth, which is the third great difpenfation that is in feripture compared to Chrift's coming to judgment. This is a period wherein is contained many wonderful providences towards the Chriftian church. The greater part of the book of the Revelation is taken up in predicting the events of this period.

the

The fuccels of Chrift's purchale of redemption in this period appears chiefly at the clofe of it, when Antichrift comes to fall, when there will be a far more glorious fuccels of the golpel than ever yet has been: and the feries of events preceding, feems to be only to prepare the way for it. And in order to a more clear view of this period. I fhall fubdivide it into thele four parts: from the deftruction of the heathen empire to the rile of antichrift; from the rile of antichrift to the reformation in Luther's time; from thence to the prefent time; from the prefent time, till the fall of antichrift. But under this head I fhall confider only the former, reaching from the deftruction of the heathen empire to the rife of antichrift. And here, (1.) I would take notice of the opposition Satan made in this fpace of time to the church: and, (2.) The fuccels that the golpel had in it.

(1.) The oppofition. Satan being caft out of his old heathen empire, the great red dragon after fo fore a conflict with Michael and his angels for the greater part of three hundred years, being at laft entirely routed and vanquifhed, fo that no place was found any more in heaven for him, but he was caft down, as it were, from heaven to earth; yet does not give over his oppofition to the woman, the church of Chrift, concerning which all this conflict had been. But he is fill in a great rage, renews his attempts, and has recourfe to freth devices againft the church. The ferpent, after he is caft out of heaven to the earth, cafts out of his mouth water as a flood, to caufe the woman to be carried away of the flood. [Rev. xii. 15.] The oppofition that he made to the church of Chrift before the rife of antichrift, was prin-3 H 2 cipally of two forts. It was either by corrupting the church of Chrift with herefies, or by new endeavours to reftore Paganifin.

[1.] I would obferve, that after the deftruction of the heathen Roman empire, Satan infefted the church with herefies. Though there had been fo glorious a work of God in delivering the church from her heathen perfecutors, and overthrowing the heathen empire; yet the days of the church's travail were not ended; and the fet time of her profperity which the church enjoyed in Conflantine's time, was but very flort: it was a refpite, which gave the church a time of peace and filence, as it were, for half an hour, wherein the four angels held the four winds from blowing, till the fervants of God flould be fealed in their foreheads. [Rev. viii. 1.] But the church foon began to be greatly infefted with herefics; the two principal, and thofe that did moft infeft the church, were the Arian and Pelagian herefics.

The Arians began foon after Conftantine came to the throne. They denied the doctrine of the Trinity, and the divinity of Chrift and the Holy Ghoft, and maintained, that they were but mere creatures. (x) This herefy increafed more and more in the church, and prevailed like a flood, which threatened to overthrow all, and entirely to carry away the church, infomuch that before that

(x) The ARIANS.] Thefe were fo called from Arius, a pricft of the church of Alexandria, and a native of Lybia: afterwards they were fplit into a great number of fects, partly from the degree of refinement in which the notions of Arius were received; fome approaching very near the language of the orthodox, as they were called, and others degrading the Son of God far more than Arius had done: and partly from other ftrange and erroneous opinions added to his; commonly however, they bore the name of fome favourite leader, as the Photinians, Neflorians, Eutychians, Timotheaus, &c. The grand champion of the orthodox was Athanofius, who would have better defended their caufe, had he adhered to the implicity of fcripture and not fettered Chriftianity with his own additions and refinements. To him we are indebted for the Athanafion Creed, though few liberal minds think highly of the obligation, and fewer can endure the curfes he has introduced into the religious worfhip of the greater part of Chriftendom.

[G. E.]

that age was out, that is, before the end of the fourth century, the greater part of the Christian church were become Arians. There were fome emperors, the fucceffors of Conftantine, who were Arians;* fo that the Arians being the prevailing party, and having the civil authority on their fide, raifed a great perfecution againft the true church of Christ; fo that this herefy might well be compared to a flood out of the mouth of the ferpent, which threatened to carry away the woman.

The Pelagian herefy arofe in the beginning of the next century. It began by one Pelagius, who was born in Britain: his Britifh name was Morgan. He denied original fin, and the influence of the Spirit of God in conversion, and held the power of free will, and many other things of like tendency: and this herefy for a while greatly infested the church. Pelagius's principal antagonis, who wrote in defence of the orthodox faith, was St. Augustin. (y)

[2.] The other kind of opposition which Satan made against the church, was in his endeavours to reftore Paganifm. And his first attempt to reftore it in the Roman empire, was by Juliau the apostate. Julian was nephew to Constantine the Great. When Constantine died he left his empire to his three fons: and when they were dead, Julian reigned in their stead. He had been a pro feffed Christian; but he fell from Christianity, and turned Pagan; and therefore is called the apostate. When he came to the throne, he used his utmost endeavours to over-

* Conftantius Valeus, &c. See Dupin's Ecclef. Hift Cent. iv. (Y) PELAGIANISM.] Pelagias was very much affifted by Celeftius, a much more fubtil and ingenius man. In Britain this fyftem was fupported not by the authors of it, but by Agricola, a difciple of Pelagius; this produced, as ufual, an excommunication; for the ecclefiaftical furgeons of those days feem to have underflood no part of their business for well as amputation. Our author has observed, that the principal antagonist of Pelagius was St. Augustin. This eminent father was brought up a Manichean, but converted by the preaching of St. Ambrofe, and the reading of St. Paul's Epilles. His works which are in Latin, make ten folio volumes, the last of which contains his numerous writings against the Pelagians. [G. E.] overthrow the Chriftian church, and fet up Paganifm again in the empire. He put down the Chriftian Magiftrates, and placed heathens in their room; he rebuilt the heathen temples, and became a most notorious perfecutor of the Chriftians, and, as is thought, against his own light: he used to call Chrift, by way of reproach, the Galilean. He was killed with a lance in his wars with the Persians. When he faw that he was mortally wounded, he took a handful of his blood, and threw it up towards heaven, crying out, "O Galilean, thou hast conquered." (z) And he is commonly thought by divines to have committed the unpardonable fin. (A)

Another way that Satan attempted to reftore Paganifm in the Roman empire, was by the invafions and conqueft of heathen nations. For in this period the Goths and Vandais, and other heathen barbarous nations that dwelt in the north of the Roman empire, invaded it, and obtained great conquefts, and even over-ran the empire; in the fifth century they took the city of Rome, and finally fubdued and took pofferfion of the Weftern empire, as it was called, and divided it into ten kingdoms, which were the ten horns of the beaft; for we are told, that the ten horns are ten kings, who fhould rife in the latter part of the

(z) JULIAN the Apostrate.] Among the inftances of Julian's oppolition to Christianity, historians mention his attempt to rebuild Jerufalem and reftore Judaifm, which was miraculoufly defeated, fubterraneous fire repeatedly confuming both the work and workmen. This is acknowledged by his biographer Ammianus Marcellinus, [Lib. xxiii. cap. 4.] who however fays nothing, though prefent at the time, of his blafphemous exclamation when mortally wounded, as above related; but greatly applauds the composure, fortitude, and refignation with which he died. This therefore refts on Christian authority; as that of Theodoret, [Lib. iii. cap. 20.] and Sozomen, [Lib. vi. cap. 2.] whether therefore it was defignedly omitted by the heathen, or invented by Christian historians, has been doubted. [See Univ. Hift. vol. xvi. p. 267.] [G. E.] (A) The UNPARDONABLE Sin.] That is, the fin against the Holy Ghoff; [Matt. xii. 21, 22.] This is supposed to be a complication of knowledge and inveterate malice; had Peter denied his mafter with the malicious heart of Saul the perfecutor-or Saul perfecuted Jefus with the light that Peter poffeffed-either would have [N. U.] committed this fin.

the Roman empire: (B) thefe are alfo reprefented by the ten toes of Nebuchadnezzar's image. The invafion and conqueft of the heathen nations are fuppofed to be foretold in the viiith chapter of Revelation, in what came to pass under the founding of the four first trumpets. (c) Now these nations were chiefly heathens; and by their means heathenism was again for a while in part reftored after it had been overthrown.

(2.) I proceed to flow what fuccefs there was of the gofpel in this fpace, notwithstanding this opposition.

[1.] I observe, that the opposition of Satan was baffled. Though the dragon cast out of his mouth such a stood after the woman to carry her away, yet he could not obtain his defign; but the carth helped the woman, and opened her mouth and swallowed up the flood which the

(B) TEN horns of the beaff.] Sir If. Newton reckons them thus: I. The Vandals and Alans in Spain and Africa; 2. The Suevians in Spain; 3. The Vifigoths; 4. The Allans in Gallia; 5. The Burgundians; 6. The Franks; 7. The Britons; 8. The Hunns; 9. The Lombards; 10. The kindom of Ravenna. Mr. Mede and other writers differ a little in the names of thefe kingdoms, according to the date at which they reckon them; but all, even Machiavel, [See Bp. Chandler's Vindication, book i. ch. ii. § 3.] who little thought of fulfiling prophecy, adheres to the fame number; "for though they might be afterwards fometimes more and at others fewer, yet (fays Sir If. Newton) they are ftill called the ten kings." [Obferv. on Dan. ch. vi. p. 47, 73.]

(c) The FOUR first TRUMPETS.] The first trumpet produces a ftorm of fire, of hail mingled with fire, and very fitly reprefents the Goths under Alaric, who are compared to a ftorm of hail by Claudian. And Philostorgius reprefents this period as remarkable for lightning and hail.-At the fecond trumpet a burning mountain is caft into the fea, which was Attila and his Hunns, a few years after the former. He called himfelf the ' fcourge of God and the terror of men.'-At the founding of the third trumpet the flar wormwood falls from heaven, supposed to predict Genseric, a perfecuting Arian, king of the Vandals .- By the fourth trumpet, the political luminaries of the empire were terribly eclipfed, which was effected by Odoacer king of the Heruli, who put an end to the very name of the western empire, and was proclaimed king of Ita-ly; but was foon removed by Theodoric king of the Ostrogoths, who refumed his place. The bloodshed and other calamities, which attended thefe revolutions, are beyond conception. [See Bp. Newton on the Prophecies, vol. iii. dif. 24.] [G. E.]

the dragon caft out of his mouth, [Rev. xii. 16.] Thefe harefies which fo much prevailed, yet after a while dwindle away and truth was again reftored. (D) As for Julian's attempt, it was difappointed by his death.

[2.] The

(D) HERESIES prevailed.] We cannot difmils the fubject of the ancient herefies without two or three remarks, which naturally arile from the perufal of their hiltory.

1. We obferve, that every new opinion that was flarted, which could not be found in the eftablified creeds, was deemed a herefy, though fometimes perfectly harmlefs, and even true. Such were the opinions that unbaptifed children might be faved—that the Virgin Mary had children after our Lord—and the doctrine of the Millenium. This method foon increafed the number of herefies almost beyond belief.

2. That most of the herefies of those days which deferved that opprobrious name, arofe from mixing the principles of the philofophers with the pure truths of revelation. This idea would fill a volume; we shall therefore only illustrate it by two or three inflances.

The Gnoflics, or knowing ones, as the term implies, whether they forang from Simon Magus or not, formed their fyftem of a mixture of Christianity and the oriental philosophy, personifying I know not what attributes, and forming a generation of Æons, one of whom they supposed to be Jesus and another Chrift. Valentinus, a great admirer of the Platonic philosophy, is faid to have much refined this fyftem, and founded the Valentinians. Origen, and many of the orthodox, in feveral particulars alfo Platonized; and herein was laid the foundation of fcholastic theology, fo much cultivated in the fucceeding ages .- Manes was a Persian, and upon the fame principle endcavoured to unite the Magian fystem (which he had formerly professed) with that of Christianity, and in this scheme allotted to Jesus Christ the place of Mithras, the Perfian Deity. Somewhat like that Roman emperor, who propofed to place Jefus Chrift among the heathen idols in the pantheon. Manes adopted the Perfian notion of two first principles, and founded the fect of Manicheans, who, among other impleties, took the God of the Jews for the evil principle, the devil.- But the plan of Ammonius Saccas is faid to have been more liberal and extensive, he proposed to harmonize all the difcordant fyftems of religion and philosophy in the world, which he attempted by allegorizing the Pagan fystem, and refined upon others, thus melting them down, as it were, into one mals of heterogeneous abfurdity .- It fhould be added, that others, who had been originally Jews, were no lefs zealous in uniting the laws of Mofes with the doctrines of Chrift, of which we have inftances even in the New Teltament.

[2.] The gofpel, during this fpace of time, was farther propagated amongst many barbarous heathen nations in the confines of the heathen Roman empire. In the time of Conftantine there was a confiderable propagation of the gospel in the East Indies, chiefly by the ministry of one Frumentius. Great numbers of the Iberians, an heathen people, were converted to Christianity by a Christian woman of eminent piety, whom they had taken captive. And among feveral other barbarous nations who were not within the Roman empire, great numbers were brought to receive the gofpel by the teaching and example of captives whom they had taken in war. After this, about the year of Chrift 372, the gofpel was propagated in Arabia; as it was alfo among fome of the northern nations; particularly a prince of the country of the Goths about this time became Christian, and a great number of his people with him. Towards the latter end of this century, the gofpel was preached among the Perfians; alfo among the Scythians, a barbarous people, whom the apoftle mentions [Col. iii. 11.] ' Barbarian, Scythian, bond ' or free.' About the year 430, there was a remarkable convertion of the Burgundians to the Christian faith. In this age Ireland, which till now had been heathen, received Chriftianity. About the fame time it was farther propagated in Scotland and other places. In the next century, one Zathus, king of the Colchians, renounced 3 I heathenifm.

3. We may obferve, that whatever party prevailed conflantly fuppofed themfelves to poffefs a right of vilifying and perfecuting all others. Calumny, excommunication, impriforment, and banifhment, were the potent arguments with which they attacked their adverfaries. And when fome ecclefiaftical revolution turned the feales and raifed the fufferers to power, they were fure to retaliate upon their oppreffors. It is faid the great Conflantine faw and bewailed this antichriftian fpirit, conjuring the oppofite parties to peace and unity, but all in vain. Thefe domeftic perfecutions very much increafed the number of herefies and fchifm; for oppofition is the parent of division, and the more men are fcttered in matters of religious opinion, the more perverfe and obflinate will they be. It has been well obferved, that the great fecret of fubduing fecturies is to tolerate them; a fecret which unhappily was not diffeovered in thofe times. [I. N.] heathenism, and embraced the Christian religion, as did feveral other barbarous nations which I cannot particularize. (E)

Thus I have briefly confidered the principal events of Providence which concerns the fuccefs of the golpel from Conflantine to the rife of antichrift.

4. I

(E) The gospel farther PROPAGATED.] On this narrative we observe, that the principal facts are unquefionable, being related by Sozomen, Socrates, and other historians of that period, and inierted into most later ecclesiallical histories; it is not necessary, therefore, to eite diffinct authorities for each, we shall only remark,

1. The means by which the gofpel was thus propagated, which were various; (1.) Preaching. Frumentius, a native of Egypt, mentioned above, preached the gofpel alio in Abyflinia, and having converted fome of the princes, and many of the inhabitants, was made bifhop of Axuma by Athanafius .- Origen, at the invitation of an Arabian prince, is faid to have converted a numerous tribe of Arabs .- Patrick, a Scotfman, whole original name is thought to have been Succoth, is faid to have converted the Irifh; and though Anatolus and Palladius preached there before him, yet is he honoured as their tutelar faint, as having had most fuccefs. [Rapin's Hilt. of England, vol. i. book 2.] (2.) Several nations were converted by means of Chriftian capives. Thus many of the Goths first listened to Christianity in the third century by means of Eutyches, and were excited to fend for Christian preachers, though fome give a later date and the following means. (3.) The prosperity of the Christian empire, and the manner in which Providence appeared for Conftantine, induced others to embrace Chriftianity; this is related particularly of the Burgundians and fome of the Goths, as just observed. And others changed their religion to flatter the Roman emperor, as one Phritergenes, a king of the Goths, to pleafe Valens. [Univer. Hift. vol. xvi. 131. ; xviii. 325. ; xix. 279, 434--8. ; xx. 106, 390, &e.]

2. This however does not appear to be the first convertion of many of them. Most of the then known world received the gofpel in the days of the apostles. [See above, Note Q, page 407.] And when Pantænas preached among the Indians, he found a copy of St. Matthew's gospel, which, they faid, had been left among them by one of the apostles. Some also deferted the truth foon after they had received it : the Burgundians, for inflance, who within fifty years turned perfecuting Arians.

3. As to the gofpel thus preached, it is to be feared it was feldom very pure. Phritergenes and his people received their Chriftianity by means of Arian preachers. And the orthodox, as they called themfelves, were, by the third and fourth centuries, con-

4. I come now to the fecond part of the time from Conftantine to the deflruction of antichrift, viz that which reaches from the rife of antichrift to the reformation by Luther and others. And this is the darkeft and most difmal day that ever the Christian church faw, and probably the darkeft that ever it will fee. The time of the church's affliction, as was observed before, is from Christ's refurrection till the deftruction of antichrift, excepting what the day is, as it were, fhortened by fome intermiffions and times of respite, which God gives for the elect's fake. [See Matt. xxiv. 22.] But during this time, from the rife of antichrift till the reformation, was a fpace wherein the Chriftian church was in its depreffion, and darknefs. The church in this fpace was for many hundred years in a flate of great obfcurity, like the woman in the wildernefs; [Rev. xii. 6.] indeed the was almost hid from fight and observation .--- In speaking of the events of this space of time, I would, (1.) Take notice of the machinations of the devil against the kingdom of Christ in this time; (2.) How the church of Chrift was upheld during it.

(1.) I would take notice of the machinations of the devil against the kingdom of Christ during this time. Satan had confiderably corrupted both in doctrine and manners. Many alfo received the gofpel but in part, mixing fome particulars of it with their native fuperflitions, whence fprang those numerous fects of Semi-Chriftians, as we may call them, ftill found in many parts of the eaft.

4. We may add, that early in the following century (the fifth) France became nominally Christian, on the following occasion: Colvis I. a pagan prince, fell in love with Clotilda, a Christian princefs, and in order to obtain her, promifed to receive her religion; this, however, he had like to have forgotten, had he not a few years after been in danger of losing an important battle; then he renewed his vow of turning Christian, if he might gain the victory, which accordingly happening, he was baptized, with his filter, and 3000 of his fubjects. [Robinfon's Mem. of Reform. in France, prefixed to Saurin's Sermons, vol. i.] A few years after Pope Gregory, in wonderful charity, fent Auflin, and a tribe of other monks, to convert our Saxon anceftors, (the napives having fied to Wales) and had fuch fuccefs as to found the 3 I 2 had done great things against the Christian church before, but had been baffled again and again. Michael and his angels had obtained a glorious victory. How terrible was his opposition during the continuance of the heathen empire; and how glorious was Chrift's victory and triumph over him in the time of Conftantine! It pleafed God now to prepare the way for a yet greater victory over him, to fuffer him to renew his ftrength, and to do the utmost that his power and fubtility could do; and therefore he fuffers him to have a long time to form his fchemes, and to establish his interest; and permits him to carry his defigns a great length, almost to the fwallowing up of his church; and to exercife a proud, and almost uncontrouled dominion, a long time before Chrift finally conquers, and utterly ruins his visible kingdom on earth, as he will do in the time of the deftruction of antichrift; and fhow himfelf fuperior to all his power and fubtilty. The two grand works of the devil which he wrought in this fpace against the kingdom of Christ, are his Antichriftian and Mahometan kingdoms, which have been, and ftill are, of great extent and ftrength, both together fwallowing up the ancient Roman empire; that of Antichrift the Weftern, and Mahomet's the Eastern empire. It is in the deftruction of these that the victory of Christ, at the introduction of the glorious times of the church, will chiefly confift. And here let us briefly obferve how Satan has erected and maintains thefe two great kingdoms in opposition to that of Chrift.

428 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

[1.] With refpect to the kingdom of antichrift. This feems to be the mafter piece of all the devil's contrivances, and therefore antichrift is called emphatically the or that ' man of fin,' [2 Theff. ii. 3.] as though he were fo eminently.

fee of Canterbury, of which he was the first arehbishop. But it is to be feared, that the grand aim of the Roman pontiff was to enlarge his power, and the zeal of Austin and his fellow labourers to propagate the trumpery of popery, rather than the doctrines of the gospel. [Rapin, vol. i. book 3.] There is no doubt but Providence over-ruled all these events for good, and among the superstition of the times, there were always fome who would not bow the knee to Baal. [G. E.] eminently. He is also called antichrift, which fignifies the adversary of Chrift. Not that he is the only opponent of Chrift; for the apostle John observes, that in his days there were many antichrifts. [1 John ii. 18, 22.] But yet this is called the antichrift, as though there were none other, because he was so eminently, and above all others. So this contrivance of the devil is called the mystery of iniquity. [2 Theff. ii. 7.] And we find no enemy of Chrift half to much spoken of in the prophecies of Revelation as this; or his destruction spoken of as so happy for the church. (F)

This is a contrivance of the devil to turn the miniftry of the Chriftian church into his fervice, and change thefe angels of the churches into fallen angels. And in the tyranny, fuperfition, idolatry, and perfecution, which he fets up, he contrives to make an image of ancient paganifm, and more than to reftore what was loft in the empire by the overthrow of heathenifm in the time of Conftantine: fo that by thefe means the head of the beaft, which was wounded unto death in Conftantine, has his deadly wound healed in antichrift; [Rev. xiii. 3.] and the dragon, that formerly reigned in the heathen Roman empire, being calt out thence, after the beaft with feven heads and ten horns rifes up out of the fea, gives him his power, and feat, and great authority: and all the world wonders after the beaft. (G)

I am

(F) ANTICHRIST.] That antichrift intends the Pape or rather the papal power, is now generally agreed by proteftant writers, and is largely flewn by Bp. Newton from the text above referred to and fome others [as Dan. vii. 20, 21.-1 Tim. iv. 1. &c.-1 John iv. 3.-2 John vii. 8.] His Lordfhip has likewife effectually demolifhed every other hypothesis on this fubject. [On the Proph. vol. ii. Dif. 22.]

(G) The Image of the Beast.] The Pagan Dragon. | His Popish Image. Its Head.

The Roman Emperor, called alfo Pontifex maximus, (or high prieft) attended with his princes in royal purple. The Pope, alfo Pontifex maximus, with his college of cardinals cloathed in purple.

I am far from pretending to determine the time when the reign of antichrift began, which is a point that has been fo much controverted among divines and expositors. It is certain that the 1260 days, or years, which is fo often in feripture mentioned as the time of the continuance of antichrift's reign, did not commence before the year of Chrift 479; becaufe if they did, they would have ended, and

Its Members.

The Roman provinces.

The catholic flates.

Its Gods.

Befides Jupiter the fupreme, Diva Vefta, (Juno or Luna) and a multitude of deities of different ranks, mediators and interceffors; prefiding over different countries, profeffions, difeafes, days, &c.

Befide the bleffed Trinity, Sancta Maria, (the Virgin Mary) mother of God and queen of heaven, with innumerable faints worfhipped as mediators and interceffors; prefiding over various countries, profeffions, difeafes, days, &c.

PLACES of Worthip.

Temples built caft and weft dedicated to their feveral gods; and one in particular to them all, and therefore called the Pantheon.

The fame temples, confecrated anew, with others built upon the fame plan, and dedicated to their different faints; and the fame Pantheon dedicated to all faints.

MANNER of Worship.

Through the medium of rich images, with great fplendour and innumerable ccremonies, magpificent garments, many mufical inftruments, torches at noon day, &c. By the fame, or fimilar images with equal fplendour, many of the fame ceremonies, the like garments, many mufical inflruments, torches at noon day, &c.

See De Laune's plea [book 3.] where the parallel is purfued through feveral other heads and properly illuftrated with particular inflances: also the late Dr. Middleton's Letter from Rome, who has carried the fubject ftill farther, and obferves, when we fee "the prefent people of Rome worfhipping at this day in the fame temples—at the fame allars—fometimes the fame images—and always with the fame ceremonies, as the old Romans; they mult have more charity as well as fkill in diffinguifhing, than I pretend to, who can abfolve them from the fame erime of fuperfittion and idolatry with their pagan anceftors." [U.S.]

TO THE FALL OF ANTICHRIST. 431

and antichrift would have fallen before now. (H) But the rife of antichrift was gradual. The Chriftian church corrupted itfelf in many things prefently after Conftantine's time, growing more and more fuperfitious in its worfhip, by degrees bringing in many ceremonies into the worfhip of God, till at length they brought in the worfhip of faints, and fet up images in their churches. and the clergy in general, and effectially the bifhop of Rome, affumed more and more authority to himfelf. (t) In the primitive times he was only a minifer of a congregation; then a ftanding moderator of a prefbytery----a diocefan

(H) The BEGINNING of the reign of Antichrift.] The beft interpreters (as Mr. Fleming, Sir I. Newton, Mr. Lowman, Dr. Doddridge, Bp. Newton, and Mr. Reader) are pretty well agreed that this reign is to be dated from about A. D. 756, when the Pope began to be a temporal power, (that is, in prophetic language, a beafl) by affuming temporal dominion; 1260 years from this period will bring us to about A. D. 2000, and about the 6000th year of the world, which agrees with a tradition at leaft as ancient as the epiftle afcribed to the apoftle Barnabas [§ 15.] which fave, that " in fix thousand years fhall all things be accomplished." [See Daddr. in loc. and Bp. Newton on the Prop. vol. i. Diff. 14.]

(1) Popifk fuperflition GRADUALLY introduced.] The following chronological lift of Popifh peculiarities is taken from the late Mr. Toplady.

CENTURY.

1

II. Marriage and eating flefh forbid ; Lent enjoined ; the keeping of Eafter, and excommunication began to be abufed.

III. Keeping of Chriftmas and Whitfunday enjoined; commemoration of martyrs; facred veftments; oblations for the dead; facraments corrupted; new orders of clergymen inftituted; and a monaftic life applauded.

IV. Relics venerated ; pilgrimages recommended ; Friday made a fail day ; and the clergy forbad to marry.

V. Pictures, images, and altars crected in churches; tapers burnt at noon day; penances and prayers for the dead practifed; monafterics crected for nuns.

VI. Sacrifice of the mafs; the elergy exempted from the civil jurifdiction; indulgencies established; herefy made death.

VII. Pope made univerfal bishop; pantheon dedicated to all the faints; prayers to faints, and the Latin language enjoined.

VIII. Pope made a temporal prince, and began to depofe kings; image worthip enjoined.

IX. Saints

diocefan bifhop---a metropolitan, which is equivalent to an archbishop---a patriarch; then he claimed the power of univerfal bifhop over the whole Christian church, wherein he was oppofed for a while, but confirmed in it by the civil power of the emperor in the year 606. After that he claimed the power of a temporal prince; and fo was wont to carry two fwords, to fignify both his temporal and spiritual power, and affumed more and more authority, till at length he, as Chrift's vicegerant on earth, claimed the very fame power that Chrift would have, if he was present on earth, and reigned on his throne, or the fame power that belongs to God; he even used to be called God on earth, and fubmitted to by all the princes of Chriftendom. (K) He claimed power to crown princes, and to degrade them at his pleafure; and brought kings and emperors to kifs his feet. Emperors were wont to receive their crowns at his hands, and princes dreaded the difpleafure of the Pope, as they would have done a thunderbolt from heaven; for if the Pope was pleafed to excommunicate a prince, all his fubjects were at once freed from their allegiance, yea, and obliged to renounce it on pain of excommunication; and not only fo, but any man might kill him wherever he found him. Further, the Pope was believed to have power to damn men at pleafure; for whofoever died under his excommunication. was looked upon as certainly loft. Several emperors were actually deposed, and died miferably by his means; and if the people of any flate

IX. Saints canonized; and tranfubftantiation maintained; cellege of cardinals inftituted.

X. Agnus Dei's invented and bells baptized.

XI. Purgatory and beads invented.

XII. The fcholastic writers arofe.

XIII. Cup refufed to the laity ; auricular confession enjoined ; jubilee appointed ; friars inflituted.

XIV. Indulgences fold.

XV. Seven facraments eftablished.

[Gof. Mag. Dec. 1775, and Sup.] (K) The Pope a GOD.] So he was flied, "Our Lord God the Pope—a God on earth—the power of the Pope (fay they) exceeds all created power, and extends to things celeftial, terreflial and infernal." [Newton on the Proph. vol. ii. p. 366.] state or kingdom did not please him, he could lay that state or kingdom under an interdict, whereby all facred administrations among them could have no validity. There could be no valid facraments, prayers, preaching, or pardons, till that interdict was taken off; fo that people remained, in their apprehension, in a damnable ftate, and therefore dreaded it as they would a florm of fire and brimftone from heaven. And in order to execute his wrath on a prince or people with whom the Pope was difpleafed, other princes must also be put to a great deal of trouble and expence. (L)

As the Pope with his clergy robbed the people of their ecclefiaftical and civil liberties and privileges, fo he alfo robbed them of their eftates, and drained all Chriftendom of their money, ingroffing their riches into his own cotfers, by revenues of the clergy, pardons, indulgencies, baptifms and extreme unctions, deliverance out of purgatory, and an hundred other things. (M)---See how well this agrees

1. Pope Zachary I. depofed Childerick, King of France.

- 3. Urban II. Henry IV. Emperor. 4. Adrian IV. William, King of Sicily. 5. Innocent III. Philip, Emperor. 6. Gregory, Frederick II

- 7. Innocent IV. 8. Urban IV. ----- Mamphred, King of Sicily. ----- Charles, King of Sicily.
- 9. Nicholas III.
- ----- Peter, King of Arragon. 10. — Martin IV.
- 11. —— BonifaceVIII. deprived Philip the Fair.
- depofed Henry V. Emperor. 12. —— Clement V.
- deprived Lodovick, Emperor. 13. ---- John XXII.
- depofed Wenceflaus, Emperor. 14. —— Gregory IX.

deprived Henry VIII. King of England. 15. --- Paul III.

[Bennet's Memorial, p. 30.]

For the fentiments of the popish decrees and doctors on this subject, fee ' Spirit of Popery,' ch. viii. and Sir R. Steele, Rom. Ecclef. Hitt. No. III. and IV. where may be feen a famous oration of Pope Sixtus V. 1589, applauding the murder of Henry III. of France, by a Jacobine friar, as both admirable and meritorious.

(M) The POPE DRAINED Chriftendom.] This he did by the following ingenious methods :

Some

(L) Princes DEPOSED or deprived by POPES.]

434 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

agrees with the prophecies above referred to, viz. [Thef. ii. 3, 4. Dan. vii. 20, 21. Rev. xiii. 6, 7. and xvii. 3, 4.] During

- Some Account of the Fees of the Pope's Chancery for Abfolutions, Licences, Indulgencies, Sc.

control, intergences, Oc.
A BSOLUTIONS. Groffos. +
For lying with a woman in the church 6
For wilful perjury 6
A prieft for fimony • • • • • • • 7
For killing father, mother, wife, fifter, or other relative - 7
For a prieft that keeps a concubine 7
For defiling a virgin 6
For lying with mother, or fifter, &c 5
For robbery, or burning a neighbour's houfe 8
For forging letters apoftolical 17 or 18
For a king going to the holy fepulchre without licence 100
LICENCES.
To change a vow of going to Rome 12
That a king on Chriftman day morning may have a usked fword borne before him, as the Pope has 150
To have a portable altar 10
To eat field in Lent, &c
That one who preaches before a king, may give indulgence to all his hearers 12
For a town that hath used green wax in its feal, to use red 50
For a layman to chufe his confessor 10
INDULGENCIES.
For an holpital or chapel for feven years 50
That a layman may remove the relics of faints to his own chapel 16
For a remiffion of the third part of one's fins 100
+ A Groffo is fomewhat more than our groat.
The above account is correctly taken from Taxa S. Cancellaria Ap flolica edid. L. Blanch. Fran. 1651. where p. 79, (fpeaking of matrimonial difpenfations) are these remarkable words-" N. B. Thefe benefits cannot be given to the poor; becaufe they have not, therefore they cannot be comforted.
Of this famous book there were no lefs than fifteen editions at different places abroad between A. D. 1514 and 1700.
 Indulgencies were often granted to whole fraternities, and fometimes for a 1000 years or more.

"'Tis almost incredible what fums of money are drawn into the Pope's coffer, by thefe and other little devices that depend upon them; as maffes, requiems, trentals, obits; as also by Peter-pence, tenths, During this time alfo fuperfittion and ignorance more and more prevailed. The holy fcriptures by degrees were taken out of the hands of the laity, the better to promote the unferiptural and wicked defigns of the Pope and his  $_3 K_2$  clergy;

tenths, first fruits, appeals, investitures; by the fale of Agnus Dei's, confecrated beads, and fuch like ware fent from Rome every year; by difpenfations, mortuaries, pilgrimages to the apoftolic fee, efpecially at the jubilee. Some have computed that the tenths and first fruits in this nation amounted to above f. 20,000 per annum, which was no fmall fum in those times, nay, one archbishop's pall (Walter Grey's of York) cost £. 10,000 sterling, fays Matthew Paris. In our Henry the Third's time it was reckoned that the Pope's revenue out of this nation exceeded the king's; and fome that have endeavoured to make the effimate tell us, that there went 60,000 marks yearly out of this land to Rome; in collecting which fums, the frauds and cruchties of their agents were fuch, that a great bigot of the Pope's, and a hot flickler in Becket's caufe, Johan. Sarifb. affures us, " That the legates of the apoftolical feat did tyrannize over the provinces, as if the devil was gone out from the prefence of the Lord to fcourge the church."

"Nor had our neighbours much better treatment; the fame trade was carried on in other countries, witnefs the complaint of the Germans in their hundred grievances; and that of the couneil of Spain, mentioned by Sandys in his Europæ Speculum, viz. that Pope Pius V. had got 14 millions out of that kingdom in a fhort fpace. And Ciracella affirms, that Pope Sixtus V. in five years time collected five millions of crowns; four millions of which Gregory XIV. his fucceffor, wafted in pomp and riot in lefs than ten months.

" Now need we wonder at this, confidering how many hands were employed? The grand fifherman at Rome had a multitude in every country to angle partly for him, and partly for themfelves. Alflead reekons above a hundred years ago, that there were then at least 225,044 monasteries in Christendom; and if you allow forty perfons to a houfe, the number will be more than nine million. Now all thefe, and the reft of the ccclefiaftics, which, like locufts had overfpread the face of the earth, lived upon the plunder of the people; and befides, they had a thoufand little tricks and devifes in getting money; they could fell a dead man's bones at a vaft fum; Auftin's particularly (that were translated from Hippo to Sardina) were purchased at an hundred talents of filver, and a talent of gold : and having almost an infinite variety of ware, which they put off at no fmall rate, taking advantage of the fuperflition and credulity of their filly chapmen." [BENNET's Mcm. of the Reform. p. 27-29. See also Fuller's Church Hift. book v.]

435 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

clergy; and inftead of promoting knowledge among the people, they industrioufly promoted ignorance. (N) It was a received maxim among them, that ignorance is the mother of devotion : and fo great was the darkness of those times, that learning was almost extinct in the world. Most of the priefts themfelves were barbaroufly ignorant as to any other knowledge than their infernal craft in oppreffing and tyranuizing over the fouls of the people. The fuperstition and wickedness of the church of Rome kept growing worfe and worfe till the very time of the Reformation; and the whole Chriftian world were led away into this grand defection; except the Greek church and fome others which were funk into equal darknefs and fuperftition; with a few that were the people of God, who are reprefented by the woman in the wildernefs, and God's two witneffes, of which more hereafter.

This is the chief of those two great kingdoms which the devil in this period erected in opposition to the kingdom of Chrift. I come now,

[2.] To fpeak of the other, which is in many refpects like unto it, viz. his Mahometan kingdom, which is alfo of mighty power and vaft extant, fet up by Satan againft the kingdom of Chrift: this was fet up in the eaftern empire, as that of antichrift in the weftern.

Mahomet was born in the year of Chrift 571, in Arabia. When he was about forty years of age, he began to give out that he was the great prophet of God, and to teach his

(N) PAPISTS inimical to SCRIPTURE.] The proofs of this are endlefs; we can only refer to a tract called "Popery an Enemy to fcripture," by the Rev. J. Serces, (1736) who has thewn that papits prohibit the laity to read the fcriptures—that the principles of popery annul its authority—that their divines fpeak of them with great contempt—that they madedcerees in oppolition to them—that they falfify them in their translations.—Memorable is the flory of Fulgentius, the friend of Father Paul, who preaching on Pilate's queftion, 'What is truth?' told the addience, that after many refearches he had found it out, and holding out a New Teflament faid, it was there in his hand, but added, putting it again into his pocket—"The book is prohibited." [Letter to Bp. of Carlifle quoted Mon. Rev. Jan. 1778.] his new religion, of which he was to be confidered as the head next under God. He published his Koran, which he pretended to have received from the angel Gabriel; (0) and being a crafty man, posseful of confiderable wealth, and living among a people who were very ignorant, and greatly divided in their opinions of religious matters, by

(0) The KORAN.] This celebrated book (called in Arabic, Alkoran) is the bible of the Turks, and very different characters are given of it by Mahometans and Chriftians: the following hints are defigned to give an impartial, though concile, view of it, and balance the opposite accounts.

1. It mult be confelled to contain many fublime ideas; and for the elegance and correctness of its flyle, is confidered as the flandard of the Arabian language. It also contains a number of fine moral observations and excellent precepts, particularly on the articles of juffice and alms-deeds.

2. On the other hand it is equally true, the Koran contains a great number of abfurdities and fallehoods; tales too abfurd for fuperannuation to relate, or infancy to believe: nay, a variety of injunctions the moft tyrannical and fanguinary that ever were delivered; witnefs his laws concerning women, infidels, revenge, &c.

3. In reply to our first remark, Christian writers have observed that the sublimest of his ideas and the best of his precepts were probably borrowed from his conversation with Jews and Christians; not to mention the current story of his being affilted by a Jew and a Monk, which Mr. Gibbon will not admit.

4. In anfwer to our fecond obfervation, many of the Mahometan doctors pretend that the reveries we defpife are mere allegories, and capable of a mythical explication, neither carnal nor ridiculous. The precepts which we condemn, they also juilify as perfectly confiftent with the ideas of eathern nations, though they appear itrange and arbitrary to the weftern world.

5. Practifing the grand Chriftian precept of doing as we would be done by, and making all reafonable allowances; ftill nothing can reafon away the importure of feigned revelations; nothing juftifies the tyranny of many of his laws; nothing palliate the cruelty and bloodfied that frequently marked his conquefts.

6. Lafily, in one view, however, we may contemplate Mahometanifm with pleafure and inftruction, as it affords a powerful argument in defence of Chriftianity, and contains, even in the Koran, its own refutation, Mahomet allows the miffion both of Mofes and of Chrift, and thus confirms both the Old Teffament and the New; and yet (wonderful inconfiftency!) with neither of thefe can his doctrines in any manner be reconciled. He admits that both the Jewifh legitlator and the Meffiah of the gofpels were commiffioned from above, and yet if either be admitted, Mahomet muft certainly be rejected as an enthuliaft or an impoftor. [G. E.] by fublilty, and fair promifes of a fenfual paradife, he gained a number to be his followers, fet up for their prince, propagated his religion by the fword, and made it meritorious of paradife to fight for him. By which means his party grew, and went on fighting till they conquered and brought over the neighbouring countries: and fo his party gradually increafed till they over-ran a great part of the world. (P) Firft, the Saracens, who were fome

(P) The Character of MAHOMET.] Many will, we hope, be gratified by the following extract from Mahomet's character, drawn by the matterly hand of Mr. GIBBON; in which, however, it is but juffice to hint to the juvenile part of our readers, that this elegant hiltorian appears too much inclined to admire any fyftem inimical to Chriftianity.

" According to the tradition of his companions, Mahomet was diftinguished by the beauty of his perfor. . . . They applauded his commanding prefence, his majeftic afpect, his piercing eye, his gracious fmile, his flowing beard, his countenance that painted every fenfation of the foul, and his geftures that enforced each expression of the tongue. In the familiar offices of life he forupuloufly adhered to the grave and ceremonious politenefs of his country; his refpectful attention to the rich and powerful was dignified by his condefcention and affability to the pooreft citizens of Mecca; the franknefs of his manner concealed the artifice of his views; and the habits of courtefy were imputed to perfonal friendship or universal benevolence. His memory was capacious and retentive, his wit eafy and focial, his imagination fublime, his judgment clear, rapid, and decifive. He poffeffed the courage both of thought and action ; and, although his defigns might gradually expand with his fuccefs, the first idea which he entertained of his divine miffion bears the ftamp of an original and fuperior genius. The fon of Abdallah was educated in the bofom of the nobleft race, in the ufe of the pureft dialect of Arabia; and the fluency of his fpeech was corrected and enhanced by the practice of difcreet and feafonable filence. With these powers of eloguence, Mahomet was an illiterate barbarian : his youth had never been inftructed in the arts of reading and writing ; the common ignorance exempted him from fhame and reproach; but he was reduced to a narrow circle of exiltence, and deprived of those faithful mirrors, which reflect to our mind, the minds of fages and heroes. Yet the book of nature and of man was open to his view. .... From his earlieft youth, Mahomet was addicted to religious contemplation : each year, during the month of Ramadau, he withdrew from the world, and from the arms of Cadijah; in the cave of Hera, three miles from Meeca, he confulted the ipirit of trand fome of his followers, and were a people of the country of Arabia, where Mahomet lived, about the year 700, began dreadfully to wafte the Roman empire. They conquered a great many countries belonging to the empire, and continued their victories for a long time. Thefe are fuppofed to be meant by the locufts that we read of in the ixth chap. of Revelation. (Q) After fraud or enthuliafin, whole abode is not in the heavens, but in the mind of the prophet. The faith which, under the name of Iflam, he preached to his family and nation, is compounded of an eternal truth and a neceffary fiction, That there is only one God, and that Mahomet is the apofile of God.

Charity may believe that the original motives of Mahomet were those of pure and genuine benevolence; but a human millionary is incapable of cherifhing the obflinate unbelievers who reject his claims, defpife his arguments, and perfecute his life; he might forgive his perfonal adverfaries, he may lawfully hate the enemies of God; the ftern paffions of pride and revenge were kindled in the bofom of Mahomet, and he fighed, like the prophet of Nineveh, for the deftruction of the rebels whom he had condemned. The injuffice of Mecca and the choice of Medina tranfformed the citizen into a prince; the humble preacher into the leader of armies; but his fword was confecrated by the example of the faints; and the fame God who afflicts a finful world with peftilence and earthquakes, might infpire, for their conversion or chaftilement, the valour of his fervants. In the exercise of political government, he was compelled to abate the ftern rigour of fanaticifin, to comply in fome meafure with the prejudices and paffions of his followers, and to employ even the vices of man-kind as the inftruments of their falvation. The ufe of fraud and perfidy, of cruelty and injuffice, were often fubfervient to the propagation of the faith; and Mahomet commanded or appro-ved the affafination of the Jews and idolaters who had efcaped from the field of battle. By the repetition of fuch acts, the character of Mahomet must have been gradually stained; and the influence of fuch pernicious habits would be poorly compenfated by the practice of the perfonal and focial virtues which are neceffary to maintain the reputation of a prophet among his fecturies and friends. Of his laft years, ambition was the ruling paffion ; and a politician will fufpeet, that he fecretly finiled (the victorious impoftor!) at the enthusiafm of his youth and the credulity of his profelytes." [GIBBON'S Decline of the Roman Emp. vol. v. ch. 50. N. B. Compare Prideaux's Life of Mahomet, ch. i. with Sale's preliminary Difcourfe, or Mo/beim's Eccl. Hitt. vol. i. p. 313.

(Q) SARACENS compared to LOCUSTS.] This they may be, I. From their fwarms, as the Saracens were almost innumerable; 2. Arabia. 440 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

After this the Turks, who were originally another people, different from the Saracens, but were followers of Mahomet, conquered all the eaftern empire. Their empire commenced about the year of Chrift 1206, and about 1300 they began to invade Europe, took Conftantinople, and fo became mafter of all the eaftern empire in the year 1453, which is near three hundred years ago. And thus all those cities, where the famous churches of Jerufalem, Antioch, Ephefus, Corinth, &c. were, now became fubject to the Turks. And they took peffeffion of Conftantinople, which was named after Conftantine the Great, and made by him the city of the Roman empire. Thefe Turks are fuppofed to be prophefied of by the horfemen in the ixth chap. of Revelation, [ver. 15, &c.] (R) And the remains of the Chriftians in those parts of the world, who are mostly of the Greek church, are in miferable flavery under thefe Turks, and treated with a great deal of barbarity and cruelty, and are become generally very ignorant and fuperftitious.

Thus I have shown what great works of Satan were wrought during this space of time in opposition to the kingdom of Christ.

(2.) I come now to show how the church of Christ was upheld through this dark time.---And here,

[1.] It is to be observed, that towards the former part of this space, fome of the nations of Christendom held out a long time before they complied with the corruptions and usurpations of the church of Rome. Though all

2. Arabia, their country, frequently abounds with locufts; 3. Locufts are bred in pits, they in the infernal one; 4. In the year A. D. 620, when Mahomet was training his difciples, an Arabian hiftorian mentions half the fun being eclipfed from October to June; 5. They fpared the trees, corn fields, and cattle; 6. They hurt only those Chriftians which were corrupted by idolatry and fuperflition. [See Bp. Necoton on the Prophecies, who has adduced feveral other flriking particulars, and shown Mahomet to be the flar, ver. 1.--vol. iii. Diff. 24.]

(R) TURKS deferibed as horfemen.] For this they were remarkable—confilted of four fultanies or kingdoms—their flandards ied, yellow, and blue, and about this time invented great guns and gunpowder, [Newton on the Proph. vol. iii. Diff. 24.]

all the world wondered after the beaft, yet all nations did not fall in at once. Many of the principal corruptions of the church of Rome were brought in with a great deal of ftruggle and opposition; and particularly, when the Pope gave out, that he was univerfal bifhop, many churches greatly oppofed him in it; and it was a long time before they would yield to his exorbitant claims.* And fo, when the worship of images was first brought into the churches, there were many who greatly oppofed it. † And the fame with refpect to other corruptions of the church of Rome. Those people that dwelt near to the city of Rome complied fooner, but fome that were more remote, were a long time before they could be induced to put their necks under the yoke: and particularly ecclefiaftical hiftory gives an account, that it was fo with great part of the churches in England, and Scotland, and France, who retained the ancient purity of doctrine and worthip much longer than many others, who were nearer the chief feat of antichrift.t

[2.] In every age of this dark time, there appeared particular perfons in all parts of Chriftendom, who bore a teftimony against the corruptions and tyranny of the church of Rome. There is no one age of antichrift, even in the darkest times, but ecclesiastical historians mention many who manifelted an abhorrence of the Pope, and his idolatrous worthip, and pleaded for the ancient purity of doctrine and worflip. God was pleafed to maintain an uninterrupted fucceffion of witneffes, through the whole time, in Germany, France, Britain, and other countries. Many of them were private perfons, many minifters, and fome magistrates, and perfons of distinction. (s) And there

* Bingham's Antiq. book ix. chap. 1. 6 11. and Barrow on the Supremacy.

† Dupin's Eccl. Hift. Cent. viii. chap. 1.

† See the following Note.

(s) God bad WITNESSES in every age. ] This is largely proved by a learned prelate, to whom these notes have often been indebted. the late Bp. of Briflol [on the Prophecies, Dif. xxiv. Part 1.] and the late ingenious Mr. Toplady, [Hiftoric Proof of the Calv. of the

there were numbers in every age who were perfecuted and put to death for this testimony.

[3.] Befides particular perfons difperfed here and there, there was a certain people, called the Waldenfes, who lived the Ch. of Eng. vol. i. p. 149-212.] from whom the following names are felected under the different centuries :

Cent. VII. In this age the doctrine of the Roman church began to be effentially and generally corrupt; yet, however, the Pope had not commenced a temporal prince, and the illustrious names that hiftory preferves, are too many to be particularized.

Cent. VIII. Several councils in this century were held in oppofition to the growing errors of popery, particularly transfubftantiation, and the worship of faints and images. The beginning of this century the famous Alcuin, an Englishman, wrote in the name of the British bishops, and others, to Charles the Great, protesting against these errors. At this time also flourished the venerable Bede, who with his dying breath finished his Translation of St. John's Gospel.

Cent. IX. Not to mention the exertions of feveral princes, both in the eaft and weft, againft the increafing tyranny of the Popes, and the vices and herefies of his clergy: among the divincs who boldly oppofed popery, were Agobard, Abp. of Lyons, who wrote againft pictures and images, and maintained the doctrine of one mediator. Maurus, Abp. of Mentz, and the celebrated Bertram, (or Ratramnus, as fome call him) and even Scotus, wrote againft transfubstantiation. Angilbertus, Abp. of Milan, relifted the Pope's fupremacy; Claude, bifhop of Turin, afferted the principal articles of the protestant faith; and Gottefchalus, a pious monk, not only preached, but fuffered in their defence.

Cent. X. Which even Baronivs calls an iron and even a leaden age, produced fome councils and writers in oppofition to various branches of popery; among the latter, Alfric, Abp. of Canterbury, was one of the moft eminent; and Gerbert, Abp. of Rheims, went fo far as to call the Pope anticbrift, although afterwards (fo frail is human nature !) himfelf afcended the papal chair.

Cent. XI. Some pretended heretics at Orleans in France denied many of the popifh errors; and, as Dupin fays, found fault with most of the ceremonies of the church. Berengarius wrote professional transful function and the church of Rome.

Cent. XII. Many now began to effeem the Pope, antichrift. Peter and Henry de Bruis, and Arnold, of Brefeia, fuffered martyrdom for the like opinions. The Waldenfes now arofe to general notice, and from thence may be dated the dawn of the reformation.

Cent. XIII. To leave the Waldenfes for a following note, and those leffer flars which now began to be pretty numerous in most parts

lived feparate from all the reft of the world, who kept themfelves pure, and conftantly bore a teftimony against the church of Rome through all this dark time. The place where they dwelt was the Vaudois, or the five valleys of Piedmont, a very mountainous country, between Italy and France. The place where they lived was compaffed about with those exceeding high mountains called the Alps, which were almost impassable. The passage over these mountainous desert countries was fo difficult, that the valleys where this people dwelt were almost inacceffible. There this people lived for many ages, as it were, alone, in a flate of feparation from all the world, having very little to do with any other people; and there they ferved God in the ancient purity of his worfhip, and never fubmitted to the church of Rome. This place, in this defert mountainous country, probably was the place effecially alluded to in the xiith chapter of Revelation, [verte 6.] as the place prepared of God for the woman, that they thould feed her there during the reign of antichrift.

• Some of the popifh writers therafelves own, that this people never fubmitted to the church of Rome. One of the popifh writers, fpeaking of the Waldenfes, fays, The herefy of the Waldenfes is the oldeft herefy in the world.* It is fuppoied that this people first betook themfelves to this defert fecret place among the mountains, to hide themfelves from the feverity of the heathen perfecutions which were before Constantine the Great : and thus the woman fled into the wildernefs from the face of the ferpent. [Rev. xii. 6.] And fo, [verfe 14.] ' And to the woman were ' given two wings of a great eagle, that the might fly into ' the wildernefs, into her place ; where the is nourifhed 3 L 2 ' for parts of Europe, our own country in this age produced two very illustrious characters, Großhead, bishop of Lincolu, and Bradwar- _ dine, Abp. of Canterbury.

Cent. XIV. Produced Wickliff and the Lollards; and from that time God has raifed up a numerous and illuftrious company of witneffes in every fueceeding age, which, though they have been perfecuted and opprefied in every possible fhape, have never been tilenced or fubdued. [I. N.]

* Reinerius cont. Hæret. cap. 4.

444 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

' for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of ' the ferpent.' And the people being there fettled, their pofterity continued there from age to age afterwards: and being, as it were, by natural walls, as well as by God's grace, feparated from the reft of the world, never partook of the overflowing corruption.

Thefe, efpecially, were those virgins who were not defiled with women; nor when other women profituted themfelves and were defiled; but they kept themfelves pure for Chrift alone; they followed the Lamb, their fpiritual hufband, whetherfoever he went; they followed him into this hideous wildernefs. [Rev. xiv. 4, 5.] Their doctrine and their worfhip, by the accounts which remain of them, appear to be the fame with the proteftant doctrine and worfhip; and by the confeffion of popifh writers, they were a people remarkable for the ftrictnefs of their lives, for charity, and other chriftian virtues. (T) They lived in external poverty in this hideous country; but they chofe this rather than to comply with the great corruptions of the reft of the world.

They living in fo fecret a place, it was a long time before they feem to have been much taken notice of by the Romanifls; but at laft falling under obfervation, they went out

(r) The DOCTRINE of the ANCIENT WALDENSES.] "According to Pilichdorffius the Waldenfes themfelves carried up the date of their commencement, as a body, to about the year 637. For my own part, (fays Mr. TOPLADY) I agree with fome of our oldelt and belt proteftant divines . . . that the uninterrupted fucceffion of the apoflolic doctrine continued with them from the primitive times, quite down to the reformation; foon after which period, they feem to have been melted down in the common mafs of proteflants." [Hiltoric Proof, vol. i. p. 149, &c.]

From an ancient confession of their faith, and other authentic tellimonies, it appears that they acknowledged the aposlies creed, believed the doctrines of the trinity, original fin, falvation by Christ alone, the fufficiency of the foriptures, of which they received the fame books that we do; and that they rejected the Pope's fupremacy, purgatory, five factaments, prayers for the dead, malles, vows of celibacy, monkery, pilgrimages, the worshipping of faints, and other popish tenets.

[See Hift. Ecclef. Magdeburg, vol. iii. Cent. XII. cap. 8. and Verrin's Hiftory, vol. i. cap. 8.] out in mighty armies againft them, and fell upon them with infatiable cruelty, barbaroufly maffacring and putting to death, men, women, and children, with all imaginable tortures; and to continued perfecuting them with but little intermiffion for feveral hundred years; by which means many of them were driven out of their old habitations in the vallies of Piedmont, and fled into all parts of Europe, carrying with them their doctrine, to which many were converted. (U) But their perfecutors could not by all their crueltics extirpate the church of God; fo fulfilling his word, ' that the gates of hell thould not prevail againft it.'

[4.] Towards the latter part of this dark time, feveral eminent divines openly appeared to defend the truth, and bear teftimony against the corruptions of the church of Rome, and had many followers. The first and principal of these was a certain English divine, whose name was John Wickliff, who appeared about 140 years before the Reformation, and strenuously opposing the popish religion, taught the same doctrine that the Reformers afterwards did, and had many followers in England. He was hotly perfecuted in his lifetime, yet died in peace; and

(v) Waldenfes greatly PERSECUTED.] "Against the Waldenfes, (faith a candid popish historian) when exquisite punishments availed little, and the evil was exasperated by the remedy which had been unfeasonably applied, and their number increased daily, at length complete armies were raifed, and a war of no lefs weight than what our people had before waged against the Saracens, was decreed against them : the event of which was, that they were rather flain, put to flight, spoiled every where of their goods and dignities, than that convinced of their error they repeated. So that .... they fled into Provence and the neighbouring Alps of the French territory .... Part withdrew into Calabria, and continued there a long while ... part passed into Germany, and fixed their abode among the Bohemians, and in Poland and Livonia; others turning to the west, obtained refuge in Britain."

[THUANUS in Præf. ad Hen. IV.]

It is related, that in thefe wars when the papifls took the city of Beziers, they put to the fword above 60,000 perfons, among whom were many of their own profession; the Pope's legate crying, "Kill them all, for the Lord knoweth them that are his."

[Pet. Hill. Alb. c. 1-, 18, & feq.]

and after he was buried, his bones were dug up by his perfecutors and burnt. His followers remained in confiderable numbers in England till the Reformation, and were cruelly perfecuted, and multitudes put to death for their religion.

Wickliff had many difciples and followers, not only in England, but in other parts of Europe, whither his books were carried; and particularly in Bohemia, among whom were two eminent divines,  $\mathcal{J}ohn$  Hufs, and  $\mathcal{J}erom$  a divine of Prague, the chief city of Bohemia. These ftrenuoufly opposed the church of Rome, and had many who adhered to them. They were both burnt by the papifts, for their doctrine; (w) and their followers in Bohemia were cruelly perfecuted, but never extirpated till the Reformation. ---Thus having gone through this dark time of the church, which is the second part of the space from Constantine the Great to the destruction of antichrift, I come now,

5. To the third part, viz. that which begins with the Reformation, and reaches to the prefent time. And here I would, (1.) Speak of the Reformation itfelf; (2.) The oppofition that the devil has made to the Reformed church; (3.) What fuccefs the gofpel has lately had in one place and another; (4) The prefent flate of things in the church of Chrift.

(1.) Here the first thing to be taken notice of is the Reformation. This was begun about 220 years ago: first in Saxony in Germany, by the preaching of Martin Luther, who, being stirred in his spirit to see the horrid practices of

(w) Huss burned.] A very remarkable expression is attributed to this martyr in the article of death. Addreffing himfelf to the popsific lergy then prefent, he faid, Ye shall answer for this an bundred years hence both to God and me. And some tell us that he added, "You roast the Goose now, but a Swan shall arise whom you shall not be able to burn as you do the poor weak Goose." Now Huss in the Bohemia language signifies a Goose, as Luther does a Swan; and just an hundred years after Luther rifes up, and gives them a deeper wound than ever they had yet received, as it were, requiring the blood of Huss and Jerom of them; and we know that the Swan could never be taken, but dies in her neft." [BENNET'S Mem. p. 38.]

of the popifh clergy, and having fet himfelf diligently to inquire after truth, by the fludy of the holy fcriptures, and the writings of the ancient fathers of the church, openly and boldly decried the corruptions and ufurpations of the Romith church in his preaching and writings, and had foon a great number that fell in with his doctrines; among whom was the Elector of Saxony, his fovereign prince. This greatly alarmed the church of Rome; which did as it were rally all its forces to oppose him and his doctrine, and fierce wars and perfecutions were raifed against it : but yet it went on by the labours of Luther, and Melancthon in Germany, Zuinglius in Switzerland, and other eminent divines, who were contemporary with Luther, and fell in with him; and particularly Calvin, who appeared fomewhat after the beginning of the Reformation, but was one of the most eminent Reformers.

Many of the princes of Germany foon fell in with the reformed religion, as did feveral other flates and kingdoms in Europe, as England, Scotland, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, great part of France, Poland, Lithuania, Switzerland, and the Low Countries. So that it is thought, that heretofore about half Chriftendom were of the Proteflant religion; though, fince that time the Papifts perhaps have gained ground; fo that the Proteflants now have not fo great a proportion.

Thus God began glorioufly to revive his church and advance the kingdom of his Son, after fuch a difmal night as had been from the rife of antichrift to that time. There had been many endeavours ufed before by the witneffes of the truth for a reformation before. But now, when God's appointed time was come, his work was begun, and went on with a fwift and wonderful progrefs; and antichrift, who had been rifing higher and higher from his very firft beginning till that time, was fwiftly and fuddenly brought down, and fell half way towards utter ruin, and never has been able to rife again to his former height. A late expositor, Mr. Lozoman (who explains the five firft vials in the xvith chapter of the Revelation, with greater probability perhaps than any who went before him.)

him,) underftands the fifth vial, which was poured out of the feat of the beast, of what came to pass in the reformation ; as he had done the four preceding vials of certain great judgments God brought on the popifh dominions before the reformation. It is faid, [ver. 10.] that ' the ' fifth angel poured out his vial on the feat of the beaft ;' in the original, it is the throne of the beaft ;* ' and his ' kingdom was full of darknefs, and they gnawed their ' tongues for pain, and blasphemed the God of heaven ' becaufe of their pains and their fores, and repented not ' of their deeds.' He poured out his vial upon the throne of the beaft, i.c. on the authority and dominion of the Pope: thus the word throne is often used in fcripture; fo (I Kings, i. 37.) ' As the Lord hath been with my lord ' the king, even fo be he with Solomon, and make his ' throne greater than the throne of my Lord King David :' i. c. make his dominion and authority greater, and his kingdom more glorious.

But now, in the reformation, the vials of God's wrath were poured out on the throne of the beaft. His throne was terribly fliaken and diminished. The Pope's authority and dominion were greatly diminished, both as to the extent and degree. He loft, as was faid before, about half his dominions. And fince the Reformation, the Pope has loft great part of that authority, even in the popifh dominions, which he had before. He is not regarded, and his power is dreaded in no measure as it was wont to be. The powers of Europe have learned not to put their necks under the Pope's feet, as formerly they were wont to do. So that he is as a lion that has loft his teeth, in comparison of what he was once. And when the Pope and his clergy, enraged to fee their authority fo diminished at the Reformation, laid their heads together, and joined their forces to deftroy the Reformation; their policy, which was wont to ferve them fo well. failed, and they found their kingdom full of darknefs, fo that they could do nothing, any more than the Egyptians, who who role not from their feats for three days. The Reformed church was defended as Lot and the angels were in Sodom, by fmiting their enemies with blindnefs, that they could not find the door. God then fulfilled that word [Job. v. 11, &c.] ' To fet up on high those that be low ; ' that those which mourn may be exalted to fafety. He ' difappointeth the devices of the crafty, to that their ' hands cannot perform their enterprife. He taketh the ' wife in their own craftinefs : and the council of the fro-' ward is carried headlong. They meet with darkness in ' the day time, and grope in the noon day as in the night. · But he faveth the poor from the fword, from their mouth, ' and from the hand of the mighty.'---Thefe proud enemies of God's people being fo difappointed, and finding themselves fo unable to uphold their own dominion and authority, this made them as it were to gnaw their tongues for pain and rage.

* Erre rov Spores Sufere.

(2.) I proceed, therefore, to flow what opposition has been made to the fuccefs of Christ's purchase in the Reformation by Satan and his adherents; obferving, as we go along, how far they have been baffled, and how far they have been fuccefsful.

[1.] The first opposition that I shall take notice of, is that which was made by the clergy of the church of Rome uniting together in a general council. This was the famous council of Trent, which the Pope called alittle while after the Reformation. In that council, there met together fix cardinals, thirty-two arehbishops, two hundred and twenty-eight bishops, besides innumerable others of the Romifh elergy. This council, in all their fittings, including the times of intermiflion between, was held for eighteen years together. Their main business all this while was to concert measures for establishing the church of Rome against the Reformers, and for destroying the Reformation.* But it proved that they were not able to perform their enterprife. The Reformed church, notwithstanding that council, still remains. So that the council of

* See Father Paul's Hift, of this Council, of the froward is carried headlong, their kingdom is full of darknefs, and they weary themfelves in vain.

450 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

Thus the church of Rome, inftead of repenting of their deeds when fuch clear light was held forth to them by Luther and other Reformers, does, by general agreement in council, perfift in their vile corruptions and wickednefs, and obfinate oppofition to the kingdom of Chrift. The doctrines and practices of the church of Rome, which were chiefly condemned by the Reformed, were confirmed by the decrees of this council : and the corruptions, in many refpects, were carried higher than ever before; and they uttered blafphemous reproaches and curfes againft the reformed religion, and all the Reformed church was excommunicated and anathematized by them; and fo according to the prophecy, ' they blaf-' phemed God.' Thus God heardened their hearts, intending to deftroy them.

[2.] The Papifts have often endeavoured to overthrow the Reformation by fecret plots and confpiracies. So there were many plots against the life of Luther. The Papifts were engaged in contriving to difpatch him, and to put him out of the way; and he, as he was a very bold man, often very much exposed himfelf in the caufe of Chrift; but yet they were wonderfully prevented from hurting him, and he at last died in his bed in peace. And fo there have been from time to time innumerable fchemes fecretly laid for the overthrow of the Protestant religion; among which, that which feems to be most confiderable, and which feemed to be the most likely to have taken effect, was that in the time of King James II. of England, which is within the memory of many of us. There was at that time a ftrong confpiracy between the King of England and Louis XIV. of France, who were both Papifts, to extirpate the Northern herefy, as they called the Protestant religion, not only out of England, but out of all Europe ; and had laid their fchemes fo, that they feemed to be almost fure of their purpose.* They looked looked upon it, that if the Reformed religion were fuppreffed in the Britith realms, and in the Netherlands, which were the ftrongest part, and the chief defence of the Protestant interest, they should have easy work with the reft. And just as their matters seemed to be come to a head, and their enterprife ripe for execution, God, in his providence, fuddenly dathed all thefe fehemes in pieces by the Revolution, at the coming in of King William and Queen Mary: by which all thefe defigns were at an end; and the Protestant interest was more strongly established, by the crown of England's being established in the Proteftant House of Hanover, and a Papist, by the constitution of the nation, for ever rendered incapable of wearing the crown of England. Thus they groped in darkness at noon day as in the night, and their hands could not perform their enterprife; their kingdom was full of darknefs, and they gnawed their tongues for pain.

* See Rapin's Hift. of Eng. v. xv, p. 162, &c.

After this, there was a deep defign laid to bring the fame thing to pass in the latter end of Queen Anne's reign, by the bringing in of the Popish pretender; which was no less fuddenly and totally baffled by divine Providence; as the plots against the Reformation, by bringing in the pretender, have been from time to time.*

[3.] The Reformation has often been opposed by open wars and invations. So in the beginning of the Reformation, the emperor of Germany, to suppress the Reformation declared war with the duke of Saxony, and the principal men who favoured and received Luther's doctrine. But they could not obtain their end; they could not fuppress the Reformation. For the fame end, the King of Spain maintained a long war with Holland and the Low Countries in the century before laft. But those cruel wars iffued greatly to the difadvantage of the Romish church, as they occasioned the fetting up of one of the most powerful Protestant states in Europe, which, next to Great Britain, are the chief barrier of the Protestant religion. † And the defign of the Spanith invation 3 M 2

* BENNET's Memorial 370, &c. + Viz. Holland.

vation of England in Queen Elizabeth's time, was to fupprefs and root out the Reformed religion; and therefore they brought in their fleet all manner of inflruments of cruelty wherewith to torture the Proteftants who would not renounce their religion. But their defign was totally baffled, and their mighty fleet in a great measure ruined. (x)

[4.] Satan has oppofed the Reformation with cruel perfecution. The perfecutions with which the Proteftants in one kingdom and another have been tormented by the church of Rome, have been in many refpects beyond any that were before. So that antichrift has proved the greateft and moft cruel enemy the church of Chrift ever had, agreeable to the defcription given of the church of Rome, [Rev. xvii. 6.] ' And I faw the woman drunken with the ' blood of the faints, and with the blood of the martyrs ' of Jefus.' And [chap. xviii. 24.] ' And in her was ' found the blood of prophets, and of faints, and of all them ' that were flain upon the earth.'

The

(x) The Spanifb ARMADA.] "There was fo much of Providence (our enemies themfelves being judges) in it [the defeat of this flect] that the Spanifh admiral, the Duke of Medina Sidonia, blafphemonfly fwore that he feared Jefus Chrift was turned Lutheran; nay, the king of Spain himfelf hearing of this ftrange defeat of his fleet, faw fo evidently the finger of God in this difappointment, that he is reported to have faid, He did not fend his fleet to fight againft God, but againft men." [Bennet's Mem. 122.]

Don Pedro, one of the Spanish captains taken by Sir F. Drake, being examined before the Lords of the privy council what was their defign of invading us, replied, "To fubdue the nation and root it out." And what meant you, faid the Lords, to do with the Catholics? "To fend them, good men, faid he, directly to heaven, as all you heretics to hell." For what end were your whips of cord and wire? "To whip you heretics to death." What would you have done with the young children? "They above feven years old fhould have gone the way their fathers went; the reft fhould have lived in perpetual bondage, branded in the forehead with the letter L for Lutherans." [Account of the Span. Invafion, published 1739.]

N. B. The infimments of torture above alluded to, as thumbforews, whips, &c. are flill flewn among other curiofities in the Tower of London. The heathen perfecutions had been very dreadful; but now perfecution by the church of Rome was improved, and fludied, and cultivated as an art or fcience. Such methods of tormenting were found out that were beyond the invention of former ages. And, that perfecution might be managed more effectually, there were certain focieties eftablished in various parts of the Popish dominions, whose business it should be to fludy, improve, and practife perfecution in its highest perfection, (v) which are

(Y) Courts of INQUISITION.] These infernal tribunals were first erected in the twelfth century by the infamous Father Dominic, under the patronage of Pope Innocent III. in order more completely to extirpate the Waldenfes, and other pretended heretics. It is difficult to conceive, that if God had delivered the world entirely into the devil's hands (as Satan once pretended) that his ingenuity and malice could have invented any thing more deteftable and flocking. In fact, there is fearcely a method that could delay or pervert justice, but they have adopted it in their forms; nor does there feem a poffible method of torture but they have invented and repeatedly exercifed. The reader whofe nerves can bear fuch reiterated fcenes of cruelty, may read Baker's Hift. of the Inquisition-the History of the Inquif. at Goa, written by a Papift-and fimilar works : but to fhew how far it is poffible for human nature to go, let him read the following extract from a fermon preached at Evora, on occasion of one of the most horrid feenes the fun ever beheld, an auto de fe, when they burn or rather roaft heretics (as they call them) alive, from a principle of religion. " Beloved Portuguefe," faid the inhuman wretch, " let us return thanks to heaven, for his great goodnefs in giving us this holy tribunal, [the Inquifition.] Had it not been for this tribunal, our kingdom would have become a tree without flowers or fruits, fit only to be committed to the fiames. What progrefs has herefy made for want of an inquisition in England, France, Germany, and the Netherlands ! It is evident, had it not been for fo great a bleffing our country would have been like to those above mentioned." [Sermans de Padro Frey, Antonio Continho, impressio em Lefboa, anno 1638.] If it be poffible to add any thing more fhocking to this impious harangue, it is, that one of our own judges, Sir J. Hovel, recorder of London, wished for the like inflitution here in England : " Till now," faid he, on the trial of Penn and Mead, two Quakers, " I never underftood the prudence and policy of the Spaniards in fuffering the inquifition among them. And certainly it will never be well with us till fomething like the Spanish inquisition be in Ergland." [Gen. Dia. vol. viii. Art. Penn, W.]

454 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

are called the courts of inquifition. A perufal of the hiftories of the Romith perfecution, and their courts of inquifition, will give that idea which a few words cannot exprefs.

When the Reformation began, the beaft with feven heads and ten horns began to rage in a dreadful manner. After the Reformation, the church of Rome renewed its perfecution of the poor Waldenies, and great multitudes of them were cruelly tortured and put to death. Soon after the Reformation, there were alfo terrible perfecutions in various parts of Germany: and efpecially in Bohemia, which lafted for thirty years together; in which fo much blood was fhed for the fake of religion, that a certain writer compares it to the plenty of waters of the great rivers of Germany. The countries of Poland, Lithuania, and Hungary, were in like manner deluged with Proteftant blood. (z)

By means of thefe and other crucl perfecutions, the Proteftant religion was in a great meafure fuppreffed in Bohemia, and the Palatinate and Hungary, which before were Proteftant countries. Thus was fulfilled what was foretold of the little horn, [Dan. vii. 20, 21.] '--- and of ' the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other ' which came up, and before whom three fell, even of ' that horn that had eyes, and a mouth that fpake very ' great things, whofe look was more flout than his fellows, ' I beheid, and the fame horn made war with the faints, ' and prevailed againit them.' And what was foretold of the beaft having feven heads and ten horns, [Rev. xiii. 7.] ' And it was given unto him to make war with the faints, ' and

(2) POPERY MORE CRUEL than Paganifin.] "If Rome pagan hath flain her thoufands of innocent Christians, Rome Christian hath flain her ten thoufands. For, not to mention other outrageous flaughters and barbarities, the croifades against the Waldenfes and Albigenfes, the murders committed by the Duke of Alva in the Netherlands, the maffacters in France and Iriland, will probably amount to above ten times the number of all the Christians flain in all the ten perfecutions of the Roman emperors put together." [Bp. NEWTON on the Proph. vol. iii. p. 282.] " and to overcome them: and power was given him over " all kindreds, and tongues, and nations."

Alfo Holland and the other Low Countries were for many years a fcene of nothing but the moft affecting and amazing cruelties, being deluged with the blood of Proteftants, under the mercilefs hands of the Spaniards, to whom they were then in fubjection. But in this perfecution, the devil in a great meafure failed of his purpofe; as it iffued in a great part of the Netherlands caffing off the Spanish yoke, and fetting up a wealthy and powerful Proteftant ftate, to the great defence of the Proteftant caufe ever fince.

France also is another country, which, fince the Reformation, in fome respects, perhaps more than any other, has been a fcene of dreadful cruelties fuffered by the Protestants there. After many cruelties had been exercised towards the Protestants in that kingdom, there was begun a perfecution of them in the year 1571, in the reign of Charles IX. king of France. It began with a cruel maffacre, wherein 70.000 Protestants were flain in a few days time, as the king boasted : and in all this perfecution, he flew, as is supposed, 300,000 martyrs. And it is reckoned, that about this time, within thirty years there were martyred in this kingdom for the Protestant religion, 39 princes, 148 counts, 234 barons, 147,518 gentlemen, and 760,000 of the common people. (A)

But all these perfecutions were, for exquisite cruelty, far exceeded by those which followed in the reign of Louis XIV. which indeed are supposed to exceed all others

(A) The PARISIAN maffacre.] This maffacre was aggravated with feveral circumflances of wantonnefs and treachery; but we hope that the above numbers are exaggerated. Thuanus, their own hiftorian, reckons 30,000 lives deftroyed in this flaughter; but proteftant authors feem to have reafon for fuppofing them not lefs than 100,000 in the whole. But the most horrid circumflance in the hiftory is, that when the news of this event reached Rome, Pope Gregory XIII. inftituted the most folemn rejoicings, giving thanks to almighty God for this glorious victory !!! An inftance that has no parallel, even in hell. [I. N.] others that ever have been; and being long continued, by reafon of the long reign of that king, almost wholly extirpated the Protestant religion out of that kingdom, where had been before a multitude of famous Protestant churches all over the country. (B) Thus it was given to the beast to make war with the faints, and to overcome them.

There

(B) The PERSECUTION under Louis XIV.] This followed the revocation of the edict of Nantes, A. D. 1685. The following extract is taken from a French work of reputation:

"The toopers, foldiers, and dragoons went into the Proteflants houfes, where they marred and defaced their houfhold-fluff, broke their looking-glaffes, and other utenfils and ornaments; let their wine run about their cellars, and threw about their corn, and fpoiled it. And as to those things which they could not deftroy in this manner, such as furniture of beds, linen, wearing-apparel, plate, &c. they carried them to the market-place, and fold them to the Jefuits, and other Roman catholics. By these means the Protestants in Montaubon alone were, in four or five days, flripped of above a million of money. But this was not the worft.

"They turned the dining-rooms of gentlemen into ftables for their horfes. And treated the owners of the houfes where they quartered with the higheft indignity and cruelty, lafhing them about from one to another, day and night, without intermiffion, not fuffering them to eat or drink; and when they began to fink under the fatigue and pains they had undergone, they laid them on a bed, and when they thought them fomewhat recovered, made them rife, and repeated the fame tortures. When they faw the blood and fweat run down their faces and other parts of their bodies, they fluiced them with water, and putting over their heads kettle-drums, turned upfide down, they made a continual din upon them till thefe unhappy creatures loft their fenfes. When one party of thefe tormenters were weary, they were relieved by another, who practifed the fame cruelties with freth vigodr.

"At Negrepliffe, a town near Montaubon, they hung up Ifaae Favin, a Proteftant citizen of that place, by his arm-pits, and tormented him a whole night by pinching and tearing off his flefh with pincers. They made a great fire round a boy of about twelve years old, who, with hands and cycs lifted up to heaven, cried out, "My God, help me !" And when they found the youth refolved to die rather than to renounce his religion, they fnatched him from the fire juft as he was on the point of being burnt.

" In feveral places the foldiers applied red hot irons to the hands and feet of men, and the breafts of women. At Nantes they hung up feveral women and maids by their feet, and others by their arm-pits, and thus exposed them to public view flark naked. They There was also a terrible perfecution in England, in Queen Mary's time, wherein great numbers in all parts of the kingdom were burnt alive.* And after this, though the Proteftant religion has been for the most part establisted by law in England, yet there have been very fevere perfecutions by the high-churchmen, who fymbolize in many things with the papists. Such a perfecution was that which occasioned our forefathers to flee from their native country, and to come and fettle in this land, which 3 N was

They bound mothers that gave fuck to pofts, and let their fucking infants lie languishing in their fight for feveral days and nights, crying, mourning, and gafping for life. Some they bound before a great fire, and being half roafted, let them go; a punifhment worfe than death. Amidit a thoufand hideous cries, and a thoufand blafphemies, they hung up men and women by the hair; and fome by their feet, on hooks in chimnies, and finoaked them with whifps of wet hay till they were fuffocated. They tied fome under the arms with ropes and plunged them again and again into wells; they bound others like criminals, put them to the torture, and with a funnel filled them with wine, till the fumes of it took away their reafon, when they made them fay they confented to be catholics. They ftripped them naked, and after a thousand indignities, fluck them with pins and needles from head to foot. They cut and flashed them with knives ; and fometimes with red hot pineers took hold of them by the nofe, and other parts of the body, and dragged them about the rooms till they made them promife to be catholics, or till the cries of thefe miferable wretches, calling upon God for help, forced them to let them go. They beat them with flaves, and thus bruifed, and with broken bones, dragged them to church, where their forced prefence was taken for an abjuration. In fome places they tied fathers and hufbands to their bed-pofts, and before their eyes ravifhed their wives and daughters with impunity. They blew up men and women with bellows till they burfl them. If any to escape these barbarities endeavoured to fave themfelves by flight, they purfued them into the fields and woods, where they fhot at them like wild beafts, and prohibited them from departing the kingdom (a cruelty never practifed by Nero or Dioclefian) upon pain of confifcation of effects, the gallies, the lash, and perpetual imprisonment; infomuch that the prifons of the fea-port towns were crammed with men, women, and children, who endeavoured to fave themfelves by flight from this dreadful perfecution. With these scenes of defolation and horror, the popific lergy feafted their eyes, and made only a matter of laughter and fport of them. [SECKEND Hift. Luth. II. p. 116.]

* See Fox's Martyrs, vol. iii.

875

was then an hideous howling wildernefs. And thefe perfecutions were continued with little intermiffion till King William came to the throne. (c)

Scotland

(c) Perfecutions of the HIGH-CHURCHMEN.] Luther used a vulgar faying, ' that every man is born with a Pope in his belly ;' meaning that a fpirit of tyranny is natural to the prefent depraved ftate of man. Nor will the mere profession of any religion, however excellent and benign, remedy this propenfity, unlefs men enter into the fpirit of it. We need not wonder therefore at animofities and even perfecutions among nominal profeffors, who often affume Christianity only as a cloak for their vicious tempers and conduct. The perfecutions and oppreffions in the times of the Stuarts feem to have arifen folely from a luft of power and impatience of contradiction. Even that miftaken zeal for God and religion which fometimes kindled the flames of perfecution, feems to have had but little fhare in caufing thefe, fince the bittereft enemies of the Puritans did not charge them with effential errors of either faith or manners. Abfolute monarchy and arbitrary power were the grand objects of Laud and his furious affociates. And it is to be feared, that they would not have thought the deftruction of half their mafter's fubjects too dear a purchase for the power of completely tyrannizing over the reft. It would be foreign to the defign of these notes to enter into the particulars of thefe enormities; thofe who can bear fuch relations, may find abundance of them in Baxter's Hiftory of his Life and Times; Neal's Hiftory of the Puritans, and Palmer's edition of the Nonconformists Memorial, or Memoirs of the Nonconformist Minifters; 2000 of whom were expelled, on the fame fatal day (St. Bartholomew's) on which the Parifian maffacre began. But, unhappily, perfecution has not been confined to fuch men: every fect, and fome of the beft men in each have engaged in the diabolical bufinefs. We have already obferved inftances of this in the primitive church, [page 424, Note D] and the fame may be obferved early in the reformation; with what bitternefs did the Lutherans, Zuinglians, and Calvinifts, and other parties of the reformers, abufe, imprifon, and banifh each other, is too well attefted by ecclesiastical historians of the 16th century. Not to mention the blood of fectaries unjufily fhed both at home and abroad. Not only did the epifcopalians in England perfecute the differters; but in Scotland, and during the commonwealth in England, thefe perfecuted the epifcopalians. And what is perhaps more extraordinary, even in New England, where the first colonists fled from the iron hand of oppreffion at home, they perfecuted the quakers and others who diffented from their effablishment. How then shall we account for thefe enormities, but upon the principle we first mentioned, that it proceeds from the general depravity of human Scotland has also been the scene, for many years together, of cruelties and blood by the hand of high-churchmen, fuch as came very little short of the popish perfecution in Queen Mary's days, and in many things much exceeded it, which continued till they were delivered by King William.

Ireland also has been as it were overwhelmed with protestant blood. In the days of King Charles I. of England, above 100,000 Protestants were cruelly murdered in that kingdom in a few days; the papifts, by a fecret agreement, rifing all over the kingdom at an appointed time, intending to kill every Protestant in the kingdom at once. (D)

Befides thefe, there have been very cruel perfecutions in Italy, and Spain, and other places, which I shall not stand to relate. (E) human nature, which, though in a degree rectified and fubdued in good men, is not eradicated, but often difcovers itfelf in the tempers and actions of the belt. [G. E.]

Thus

(b) The Maffacre in IRELAND.] It appears that the Irifh proteftants had been marked out for deftruction in Queen Mary's reign, but Providence delivered them in the following remarkable manner: Dr. Cole being fent with a commiffion for that purpofe, boafted of it by the way, and a Proteftant at Chefter, where he ftopt, found means to fteal it. When the Doctor came to Ireland, and was about to produce his commiffion to the proper perfons, on opening the box which had contained it, to his great mortification he only found a pack of cards, with the knave of clubs uppermoft ! He returned to obtain a new commiffion, but the queen died before it could be procured. [N. U.]

(E) OTHER cruelties.] Befide the proteftant blood fhed in thefe perfecutions, popery has to anfwer for the lives of millions of Jews, Mahometans, and Barbarians. When the Moors conquered Spain in the eighth century, they allowed the Chriftians the free exercife of their religion. But in the 15th century, when the tables were turned, and Ferdinand fubdued the Morifcoes (the defeendants of the above Moors) many hundred thoulands of them were forced to be baptized, or burnt, maffacred, or banifhed, and their children fold for flaves; befides an innumerable multitude of Jews who fnared the fame cruelties; chiefly by means of the infernal inquifition. [Gedder's Mife. Tracts, vol. i. p. 1, and fequel.] A worfe flaughter, if poffible, was made among the natives of Spanifh America, where 15 millions are faid to have been facrificed to the genus of popery in the courfe of about 40 years. 3 N 2 Thus did the devil, and his great minifter antichrift, rage with violence and cruelty against the church of Chrift! And thus did the whore of Babylon make herfelf drunk with the blood of the faints and martyrs of Jefus! and thus, by these perfecutions, the Protestant church has been much diminished! Yet with all have they not been able to prevail; but still the church is upheld, and Chrift fulfills his promife that ' the gates of hell shall not prevail ' against it.'

[5.] The laft kind of oppofition that Satan has made to the Reformation is by corrupt opinions. Satan has oppofed the light of the gofpel which fhone forth in the Reformation with many corrupt opinions, which he has propagated in the world.

And here, in the first place, the first opposition of this kind was by the fect of the Anabaptifls, which began about four or five years after the Reformation itself began. This fect, as it first appeared in Germany, were vastly more extravagant than the prefent anabaptifts are in England. (F) They held a great many corrupt opinions: one was, that there ought to be no civil authority, and fo that it was lawful to rebel against civil authority. And on this principle, they refused to submit to magistrates, or any human laws; and gathered together in vast armies to defend themfelves, and having put all Germany into an uproar, so kept it for some time.

The next opposition of this kind to the Reformation was that which was made by enthusiafts. (G) Those are rightly called [Bar. de las Cafas's Narrative.] Well therefore might the infpired apolle fay, that at Myflic Babylon's deflruction, 'In her was 'found the blood of prophets and of faints, and of all that were 'flain upon the earth.' [Rev. xviii. 24.] [I. N.]

(F) The ANABAPTISTS in England.] It is but juffice to obferve that the prefent anabaptifts, anti-pædobaptifts or baptifts (as they are now called) differ in nothing from other differters, but in the article of baptifm, which they administer by immersion and to adults only. But the anabaptifts of the fixteenth century were what our author reprefents them. [U. S.]

(G) ENTHUSIASTS opposed the Reformation.] Of these fome rejected all outward religion, and acknowledged none but internal; 2. fome called enthulialts who fallely pretend to be infpired by the Holy Ghoft as the prophets were. These appeared in Germany about ten years after Luther began the Reformation; and many of them were exceeding wild and extravagant. The followers of these are the Quakers in England, and other parts of the Britith dominions.

The next were the Socinians, who had their beginning chiefly in Poland, by the teaching of Lælius and Fauftus Socinus. They held, that Chrift was a mere man, and denied his fatisfaction, and many of the fundamental doctrines of the Chriftian religion. Their herefy has fince been greatly propagated among Protestants in Poland, Germany, Holland, England, and other places.

After thefe arofe the Arminians. They first appeared in Holland about 130 years ago. They are fo called from a Dutchman, whofe name was Jacob Van Harmin, in Latin, Jacobus Arminius. This Arminius was first a minister at Amsterdam, and then a profession of divinity in the university of Leyden. He had many followers in Holland. There was upon this a fynod of all the Reformed churches called together, who met at Dort in Holland. The fynod of Dort condemned them; but yet they spread and prevailed. (H) They began to prevail in

2. fome pretended to extraordinary vifions and revelations; and, 3. others expected the corporeal prefence of Chrift to fubdue all other governments. The fects were too numerous to be too particularized; and too contemptible to deferve it : but most of them have dwindled into oblivion. [G. E.]

(H) The Synod of DORT.] This famous affembly met 1618. Betides a number of Dutch divines, and feveral from other proteftant countries, England fent 4, viz. Bps. Carlton, Hall, and Davenant, and Dr. Ward; and Scotland 1, Dr. Balconquel. And for the Arminians, the three principal were Epifcopius, Corvinus, and Dwinglon. After much altercation, (as is general the cafe) without any approach to agreement, the affembly confirmed the famous 5 points, viz. Election, limited Redemption, Original Sin, invincibility of Grace, and final Perfeverance. And the Arminian remonftrants being the weaker party were depofed from their miniftry.

We take the liberty of adding, that our author's excellent treatifes on Free-will, Original Sin, &c. have perhaps done more than twenty Synods could have done to refute thefe errors. [G. E.] 462 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

in England in the reign of Charles I. efpecially in the church of England. The church of England divines before that time were almost univerfally Calvinist; but fince then Arminianism has gradually more and more prevailed, both in the establishment and among the Diffenters, and has spread greatly in New England, as well as Old.

Since this, Arianifm has been revived. I have already obferved Arianifm, a little after Conftantine's time almost fwallowed up the Christian world, like a flood out of the mouth of the dragon, which threatened to fwallow up the woman. And of late years, this herefy alfo has been revived in England, and greatly prevails there, both in the church and among Differences.

Another thing which has of late exceedingly prevailed among Proteftants, and efpecially in England, is Deifm. The Deifts wholly calt off the Chriftian religion, and are profeffed infidels. They are not like the heretics, Arians, Socinians, and others, who own the feriptures to be the word of God, and the Chriftian religion to be true, but only deny certain doctrines of it, for they deny the whole Chriftian religion. Indeed they own the being of God; but deny that Chrift was the Son of God; and fay he was an impoftor, as they do of all the prophets and apoftles. They deny the Bible, all revealed religion, and believe that God has given mankind no other light to walk by but their own reafon.---Thus much concerning the oppofition that Satan has made againft the Reformation.

(3.) I proceed now to flow what fuccefs the gofpel has had in thefe later times of the Reformed church. This fuccefs may be reduced to three heads; [1.] Reformation in doctrine and worfhip in countries called Chriftian; [2.] Propagation of the gofpel among the heathens; [3.] Revival of religion in the power and practice of it.

[1.] As to the first, viz. Reformation in doctrine, the most confiderable fuccess of the gospel of this kind lately, has been in the empire of Muscovy, which is a country of vast extent. The Muscovites, as many of them as call themselves Christians, professed to be of the Greek church; church; but were barbaroufly ignorant, and very fuperflitious, till of late years. Their late Emperor Peter the Great, who reigned till within these twenty years, fet himfelf to reform the people of his dominions, and took great pains to bring them out of their darkness, and to have them instructed in religion. To that end, he fet up fchools of learning, ordered the Bible to be printed in their own language, and made a law that every family fhould keep the holy feriptures in their houfes, and that no perfon should be allowed to marry till they were able to read them. He also reformed his churches of many of their fuperstitions, whereby the religion professed and practifed in Muscovy became much nearer to that of the Protestants than formerly it used to be. This emperor gave great encouragement to the exercise of the Protestant religion in his dominions. And fince that Mulcovy is become a land of light, in comparison of what it was before (1).

[2.] As to the fecond kind of fuccess which the gospel has lately had, viz. its propagation among the heathen, I would take notice of three inflances.

The propagation of the gofpel among the heathen here in America. This continent on which we live, which is a very great part of the world, and together with its neighbouring feas adjoining, takes up one fide of the globe, was wholly unknown to all Christian nations till thefe latter times, though it was very full of people. and therefore here the devil had the inhabitants, as it were, fecure to himfelf, out of the reach of the light of the gofpel, and fo out of the way of molestation in his dominion over them. And here the many nations of Indians worfhipped

(1) PROTESTANTS in RUSSIA.] We are forry to be informed by a gentleman who very lately vifited Ruffia, that the Proteftant interest there is exceedingly low. Even at Petersburgh, the capital of the empire, the congregation of British Protestants is very fmall and poor, the merchants, to their shame be it spoken, thinking it beneath them to profess religion; the communicants at this place, (strange to tell!) were only three beside the minister.—The Greeks are also very superstitious, though perhaps less to than formerly. [N. U.]

shipped him as God from age to age, while the gospel was confined to the opposite fide of the globe. It is a fuppofition which, if I remember right, I have fome where met with, that the occasion of the first peopling of America was this, that the devil being alarmed and furprifed by the wonderful fuccess of the gospel during the first three hundred years after Christ, and by the downfall of the heathen empire in the time of Constantine; and fearing that his kingdom would be utterly overthrown through the world, led away a people from the other continent into America, that they might be quite out of the reach of the gospel, that here he might quietly poffers them, and reign over them as their god. And it is faid, that fome of the Indians, when the Europeans first came into America, had a tradition among them, that their god first led them into this continent, and went before them in an ark. (K)

Whether this was fo or not, it is certain that the devil did quietly enjoy his dominion over the poor Indians for many ages. But in later times God has fent the gofpel into thefe parts of the world, and now the Chriftian church is fet up among us in New England, and in other parts of America, where before had been nothing but the groffeft

( $\kappa$ ) The PEOPLING of AMERICA.] The above notion, to which our author feems pretty much inclined, we cannot perfuade our-felves to admit for the following reafons:

1. Becaufe it appears to us extremely probable, from a fimilarity of manners and even language, not to mention other circumflances, that a part of America was peopled long before this by fome Phenicians; and not totally unknown to the ancient Greeks. [See Univ. Hift. vol. xx. p. 158, 159.] This will agree perfectly with the tradition mentioned by our author, fince it appears that other nations had an imitation of the facred ark of the Hebrews. [Tacitus De Mor. Germ. cap. 40.] And fuch have been actually difcovered in South America and fome of the South Sea islands. Picart's religious Ceremonies, &c. vol. iii. p. 146. and Hawkef-worth's Voy. vol. ii. p. 252, 257.]

2. We think it more confittent and to the divine glory to refer this event to the providence of God than to the agency of the devil. It was unqueftionably the work of heaven to featter the inhabitants of the earth after the confusion of Babel, in order to the peopling groffest heathenish darkness. Great part of America is now full of Bibles, and has at least the form of the worthip of the true God and Jefus Chrift, where the name of Chrift before had not been heard of for many ages, if at all. And though there has been but a fmall propagation of the gofpel among the heathen here, in comparison of what is to be withed for; yet there has been fomething worthy to be taken notice of. There was fomething remarkable in the first times of New England; and even of late in this and feveral other parts of America, many Indians have shown an inclination to be instructed in the Christian religion. (L) peopling of our hemifphere, and it is inconceivable why the peopling of the other should be referred to so opposite a cause. It is granted however that America might owe a great part of its inhabitants to thefe countries of Afia, as Tartary, Siberia, and Kamfchatka, which approach it neareft, and as fome fuppole, may polfibly have once joined the oppofite continent. And perhaps fome might emigrate from China, and even Wales. [See Univ. Hift. vol. xx. p. 163, 174, 190.] Whether, however, the first inhabitants of America fled thither from the hand of tyranny-emigrated from a principle of commerce-or were driven there by unruly elements, there feems no reafon for aferibing an event of fuch importance to diabolical agency or contrivance. [G. E.]

And

(L) Gofpel propagated among the INDIANS in AMERICA. ] One of the most eminent and fuccefsful missionaries among these was Mr. David Brainerd, whofe life Pref. Edwards published. In reading the account of Mr. B. and other miffionaries, two ideas ftrike us with peculiar force.

1. The difficulty of their work : the variety of the Indian languages, and the length of time it takes to acquire a tolerable acquaintance with any of them, is very difcouraging. It is alfo fiequently difficult to procure an audience, and then every thing in Chriftianity appears to perfectly ftrange to them, and the evidences of it lay fo much out of their way, that few give any credit to it. Their grand queflion, what has become of their forefathers? is not eafily answered to their fatisfaction. . . They were good men, fay " they, and we will follow them; we doubt not but they were happy " without this new religion, why then fhould we embrace it ?" But their most important objection is drawn from the vicious lives of nominal Chriftians. " Chriftian religion! Devil religion! (fay they) Chriftian much drunk; Chriftian much do wrong, much beat, much abuse others."-" Truly it is a fad fight, fays one, to behold a 30 drunken

And however fmall the propagation of the gofpel among the heathen in America has hitherto been, yet I think we may well look upon the difcovery of fo great a part of the world, and bringing the gofpel into it, as one drunken Chriftian, and a fober Indian—an Indian just in his dealings, and a Chriftian not fo; a laborious Indian, and an idle Chriftian, &c. O what a fad thing it is for Chriftians to come fhort of heathens even in moralities !" [Voyage to East India, added to the Travels of Pietro della Valle, printed in Eng. 1665.]

2. We are led to admire the beauty and fimplicity with which thefe barbarians when converted express themfelves, and to adore the power of divine grace in their conversion.

"After public worthip was done, numbers came to my houfe, fays Mr. Brainerd, and while we were finging, the woman mentioned Feb. 9. I may venture to fay, if I may be allowed to fay fo of any perfon I ever faw, was filled with joy unfpeakable and full of glory, and could not but burft forth in prayer and praife to God, crying, fometimes in English and sometimes in Indian-"O bleffed Lord! do come, do come! O do take me away! do ' let me die and go to Jefus Chrift. O dear Jefus do come! I ' can't flay, I can't flay! O how can I live in this world! do take ' my foul away from this finful place !' with much more to the fame purpofe. In this ecflacy fhe continued fome time, and when fhe had a little recovered herfelf, I afked her, if Chrift was not now fweet to her foul? Whereupon, turning to me with tears in her eyes, and with all the tokens of deep humility, fhe faid, ' I have ' many times heard you fpeak of the goodnefs and fweetnefs of ' Chrift, but I knew nothing what you meant; I never believed ' vou; but now I know he is better than all the world.' I afked, and do you fee enough in Chrift for the greatest of finners? She replied, 'O enough, enough for all the finners in the world if ' they would but come.' And turning, at my defire, to fome poor Chriftlefs fouls who flood by much affected, the faid, 'O there's enough in Chrift for you all, if you would but come. O ftrive, ' ftrive to give up your hearts to him.' Then hearing fomewhat of the glory of heaven mentioned, the again fell into an ecilacy of joy, and cried out as before, 'O dear Lord, do let me go ! 0 ' what fhall I do ? I want to go to Chrift,' &c. In this fweet frame fhe continued more than two hours.

"When I have fometimes afked her why file appeared fo forrowful? Was the afraid of hell? She would andwer, 'No, I ben't fo 'much diffreffed about that, but my heart is fo wicked I can't love 'Chrift,' and thereupon burft out into tears. She feemed to view divine truths as living realities, and could fay, 'I know their things 'are fo; I feel them to be true.' Now her foul was refigned to the divine will. Being afked, what if God thould take your hufband one thing by which divine Providence is preparing the way for the future glorious times of the church; when Satan's kingdom fhall be overthrown, not only throughout the Roman empire, but throughout the whole habitable globe, on every fide, and on all its continents. When those times come, then doubtlefs the gofpel, which is already brought over into America, fhall have glorious fuccefs, and all the inhabitants of this new difcovered world fhall become fubjects of the kingdom of Chrift, as well as the  $_3 O 2$  other band from you (who was then very fick) how could you bear that ? She replied, 'He belongs to God, and not me, he may do with him jult what he pleafes.' Now fhe could freely truft her all with God for time and eternity. Being afked, how fhe could be willing to die, and leave her little infant, what did fhe think would become of it ? She anfwered, 'God will take care of it; it belongs to him; he will take care of it.'

[Brainerd's Journal, Mar. 1746.] Mr. Brainerd's labours in America were crowned with much fuccefs, and to fhow that God ftill carries on his work, and at the fame time give a fpecimen of the beautiful fimplicity of the Indian ftile, we fubjoin the following letter from certain Indians to the Rev. Mr. J. Caldwell, fecretary to the board of commiffioners at New-Jerfey.

Oneida, Dec. 10, 1770.

Father,

We have not much to fay, but are very thankful that our belt has arrived after fo long a time, and its language founds agreeably in our ears, which at the fame time reaches the heart with peculiar joy as we are poor. We return thanks to our fathers beyond the Great Waters, for the confideration they made us of  $\mathcal{L}$ . 10 fterling. We thank them from our very hearts, and alfo blefs God who put it into their hearts to fhew us this kindnefs. The holy word of Jefus has got place among us, and advances; many have lately forfaken their former fins to appearance, and turned to God; there are fome among us who are very flubborn and flrong; but Jefus is Almighty, and his word is very flubborn too; therefore we hope he will conquer and fucceed more and more.

We fay no more, only afk our fathers to pray for us. Although they are at a great diffance, perhaps by and by, through the ftrength and mercy of Jefus, we fhall meet in his kingdom above. Farewell.

Tagewaren, chief of the bear tribe. Suchnageat, ______ well tribe. Ojecketa, ______ turkle tribe. [G. E.] other parts of the earth : and in all probability Providence has fo ordered it, that the mariner's compafs, which is an invention of latter times,* (whereby men are enabled to fail over the wideft ocean, when before they durft not venture far from land) fhould prove a preparation for what God intends to bring to pafs in the glorious times of the church, viz. the fending forth the gofpel wherever any of the children of men dwell, how far off foever, and however feparated by wide oceans from thofe parts of the world which are already Chriftianized.

There has of late years been alfo a very confiderable propagation of the gofpel in the dominions of Mu/covy. I have already obferved the reformation which there has lately been among those who are called Christians there; but I now speak of the heathen. Great part of the vast dominions of the Emperor of Muscovy are grossly heathen. The greater part of Great Tartary, a heathen country, has in later times been brought into the Muscovite government; and of late great numbers of those heathen have embraced the Christian religion.

There has lately been likewife a very confiderable propagation of the Chriftian religion among the heathen in the Eaft Indies, particularly at Malabar, many have been brought over to the Chriftian and Proteftant religion; chiefly by the labours of miffionaries fent thither by the king of Denmark; who have fet up fchools among them, and a printing prefs to print Bibles and other books for their inftruction, in their own language, with great fuccefs. (M)

[3.] The

* About A. D. 1302. Gen. Dict.

(M) Succefs of the gofpel in the EAST INDIES.] The principal inftruments in this work appear to have been Meffrs. Ziegenbalgh and Plutfebo, both German protestants and Danish miffionaries, to whom others were afterwards added. The fuccefs of their ministry appears to be not merely civilization, nor a profession of the external ceremonies of religion, as is to be feared is generally the cafe with the boasted conversions of the Jesuits and other Popish missionaries; but many poor Indians were favingly brought to Jesus Chrift, in fpite of difficulties which an European can hardly conceive.

One

TO THE FALL OF ANTICHRIST. 469

[3.] The laft kind of fuccefs which there has lately been of the gotpel, which I fhall take notice of, is the revivals of the power and practice of religion which have lately been. And here I fhall take notice of but two inflances.

First, there has been not long fince a remarkable revival of the power and practice of religion in Saxony in German, through the endeavours of Augustus Hermannus Frank, profeffor of divinity at Hall in Saxony, who being a perfon of eminent charity, the great work that God wrought by him, began by his fetting on foot a charitable defign. It began only with his placing an alms box at his fludy door, into which fome poor mites were thrown, whereby books were bought for the inftruction of the poor. And God was pleafed fo wonderfully to finile on his defign, and fo to pour out a spirit of charity on people there on that occasion, that with their charity he was enabled in a little time to erect public fchools for the instruction of poor children, and an orphan house for the supply and instruction of the poor; so that at last near five hundred children were maintained and inftructed in learning and piety by the charity of others; and the number increafed more and more for many years, and till the laft account I have feen. This was accompanied with a wonderful reformation and revival of religion, and a fpirit of piety in the city and univerfity of Hall; and thus it continued.

One of the miffionaries letters, dated December 11, 1713, mentions, that they had then baptifed and joined in Chriftian communion 246 perfons (of both fexes). And another letter mentions the whole number of children in their charity fchool to be 78, of which 56 were lodged in the houfe.—In translating the first principles of Chriftianity into the language of the natives, the Malabrian fchool-mafter who affilted was particularly flartled at the boldnefs of an expression, intimating our becoming the children and friends of God, and proposed faying instead of it, that God might allow us to kifs his feet.

> [See Propagation of the Gofpel in the Eaft by the Danish Miffionaries, &c. printed at London 1718.]

470 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

continued. Which also had great influence in many other places in Germany. (N)

Another thing which it would be ungrateful in us not to take notice of, is that remarkable out-pouring of the Spirit of God which has been of late in this part of New England, of which we, in this town, have had fuch a fhare. But it is needlefs for me particularly to defcribe what you have fo lately been eye witheffes to, and I hope multitudes

(N) Orphan Houfe, &c. at Glauca.] In the year 1706, the flate of this wonderful undertaking was as follows:

I. An hofpital (the building of which coft 20,000 rix dollars) for the maintenance of poor orphans of both fexes; with an apothecary's fhop, printing office, bookfeller's fhop, and other offices, with proper perfons to fuperintend them.

2. Ten fehools for boys and girls in different claffes.

3. A provision for widows, poor fludents, flrangers, and other neceffitous perfons.

4. A college of divinity.

5. A collegiate fchool for the education of young gentlemen at the expence of their parents.

This work was begun and carried on by a fucceffion of providences, the molt fingular that modern times have feen; all the fupplies for a long time being communicated in a manner little flort of miraculous. One may give an idea of the reft:

"Another time, fays Professor Frank, I flood in need of a great fum of money, infomuch that an hundred crowns would not have ferved my turn, and yet I faw not the least appearance how I might be fupplied with an hundred groats. The fleward came and fet forth the want we were in. I bid him to come again after dinner, and I refolved to put up my prayers to the Lord for his affiftance. When he came again after dinner, I was still in the fame want, and fo appointed him again to come in the evening. In the mean time a friend of mine came to fee me, and with him I joined in prayers, and found myfelf much moved to praife and magnify the Lord for all his admirable dealings towards mankind, even from the beginning of the world, and the most remarkable instances came readily to my remembrance whilft I was praying. I was fo elevated in praifing and magnifying God, that I infifted only on that exercife of my prefent devotion, and found no inclination to put up many anxious petitions to be delivered out of the prefent neceffity. At length my friend taking his leave, I accompanied him to the door, where I found the fleward waiting on one fide for the money he wanted, and on the other a perfon who brought an hundred and fifty crowns for the fupport of the hofpital."

[Pietas Hallenfis, or an Abstract of Divine Prov. &c. p. 15-17.]

titudes of you fentible of the benefit of. (0)---Thus I have mentioned the more remarkable inflances of the fuccefs which the gofpel has lately had in the world.

(4.) I

(0) Remarkable CONVERSIONS in NEW ENGLAND.] We have already mentioned in the lift of our author's works, (p. 33.) a narrative of this extraordinary event, from which we fhall give a fhort extract, for the gratification of fuch of our readers as have never feen that tract.

" In the latter end of the year 1733, the young people of Northampton in New England fhewed a peculiar readinefs of receiving instruction; soon after this, a number of persons appeared to be converted at a fmall village about three miles from the town : in the following year fome remarkable deaths awakened the attention of many to religious concerns. About the clofe of this year feveral perfons were fuddenly, and it appears, truly converted, particularly a young woman who had been remarkably gay; the news of which flew like lightning, and produced a general and almost instantaneous alarm. There was fearcely, fays Mr. Edwards, a fingle perfon in the town, either old or young, that was left unconcerned about the great things of the eternal world. . . . . From day to day, for many months together, might be feen evident inftances of finners brought out of darknefs into marvellous light. This foon made a glorious alteration in the town; fo that in the fpring and fummer following, 1735, the town feemed to be full of the prefence of God. It was a time of joy in families on account of falvation's being brought unto them; parents rejoicing over their children as new-born, and husbands over their wives, and wives over their hufbands. The goings of God were then feen in his fanctuary, God's day was a delight, and his tabernacles were amiable. Our public affemblies were then beautiful; the congregation was alive in God's fervice, every one earneftly intent on the public worfhip, every hearer eager to drink in the words of the minister as they came from his month; the affembly in general were, from time to time, in tears while the word was preached; fome weeping with forrow and diltrefs, others with joy and love, others with pity and concern for the fouls of their neighbours. In all companies, on whatever occasion perfons met together, Christ was to be heard of, and feen in the midfl of them; even at weddings, which formerly were merely occasions of mirth and jollity. there was now no difcourfe of any thing but the things of religion, and no appearance of any, but fpiritual mirth.

"Thofe among it us that had been formerly converted, were greatly enlivened and renewed with fresh and extraordinary incomes of the Spirit of God . . . . Many that before had laboured under difficulties about their own state, had now their doubts removed by more fatisfying experience, and more clear diffeoveries of God's love. And there were many inflances of perfors that came from abroad.

471

(4.) I proceed now to the laft thing propofed relating to the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption during this fpace, viz. what the flate of things is now in the world with regard abroad, on vifits, or on bufinefs, that had not been long here before, to all appearance they were favingly wrought upon, and partook of that flower of divine blefling that God rained down here, and went home rejoicing; till at length the fame work began evidently to appear and prevail in feveral other towns in the county."

Mr. Edwards particularly inftances South Hadley, Suffield, Deerfield, Hattield, Weft Springfield, Long Meadow, Enfield, Weftfield, Hadley Old Town, Northfield, Windfor, Coventry, Lebanon, Durham, Stratford, Ripton, Guildford, Mansfield, Hebron, Bolton, Prefton, and even in fome parts of the Jerfeys: fome of the minifters who were peculiarly bleffed in the above places were, befides our author, Meffrs. Bull, Marfh, Meachum, Wheelock, Chancey, Gould, Noyes, Williams, Lord, Owen, W. and G. Tennant, Crofs, Freelinghaufa, &c.

" I am far from pretending (continues our author) to be able to determine how many have lately been the fubjects of fuch mercy; but if I may be allowed to declare any thing that appears to me probable in a thing of this nature, I hope that more than 300 fouls were favingly brought home to Chrift in this town, in the fpace of half a year, (how many more I don't guefs) and about the fame number of males as females . . . . And I hope that by far the greater part of perfons in this town, above 16 years of age, are fuch as have the faving knowledge of Jefus Chrift; and fo by what I have heard, I suppose it is in some other places, particularly at Sunderland and South Hadley. . . . I suppose there were upwards of fifty perfons in this town above 40 years of age; and more than twenty of them above 50, and about 10 of them above 60, and two of them above 70 years of age. . . . I fuppofe, near thirty were to appearance fo wrought upon between 10 and 14 years of age, and two between 9 and 10, and one of about 4 years of age.

"The work of God's fpirit feemed to be at its greateft height in this town, in the former part of the fpring; at which time God's work in the conversion of fouls was carried on amongft us in fo wonderful a manner, that fo far as I, by looking back, can judge from the particular acquaintance I have had with fouls in this work, it appears to me probable, to have been at the rate, at least, of four perfons in a day, or near thirty in a week, take one with another, for five or fix weeks together : when God in fo remarkable a manner took the work into his own hands, there was as much done in a day or two, as at ordinary times, with all endeavours that men can ufe, and with fuch a bleffing as we commonly have, is done in a year. [Narrative, p. 14-29.]

While

gard to the church of Chrift, and the fuccels of Chrift's purchafe. And this I would do, by thowing how things now are, compared with the first times of the Reformation. And, t. Wherein the flate of things is changed for the worfe; and, 2. How it is altered for the better.

[1.] I would flow wherein the flate of things is altered from what it was in the beginning of the Reformation, for the worfe, and it is fo effectially in thefe three refpects.

First, The Reformed church is much diminished. The Reformation formerly, as was observed before, was fuppofed to take place through one half of Christendom, excepting the Greek church; but now the Protestant church is much diminished. Heretofore there have been many famous Protestant churches in different parts of France who ufed to meet together in fynods, and maintain a regular difcipline; and great part of that kingdom were Protestants; the Protestant church of France was a great part of the glory of the Reformation. But now it is far otherwife : this church is all broken to pieces and fcattered. The Protestant Religion is almost wholly rooted out of that kingdom by the cruel perfecutions which have been there, and there are now but very few Protestant affemblies in all that kingdom .--- The Protestant interest is also greatly diminished in Germany. There were several fove-2 P reign

While we are confidering the wonderful works of God in America, we cannot perfuade ourfelves to omit the remarkable fuccefs which attended the miniftry of the excellent Mr. Whitefield in different parts of America, in the years 1738, 1740, and 1770, where incredible numbers attended his miniftry, and much good was done; it may be needlefs to mention, that in Georgia he founded an orphan house on a plan fimilar to that of Profeffor Franck, above mentioned.

Prolix as this note may appear, we cannot deny ourfelves the pleafine of adding, that in the year 1764, the gofpel was remarkably fucceeded in Long Ifland. At East Hampton only, where a Mr. Bull was minifter, nearly 200 appeared to be truly converted, with circumflances nearly finilar to the great work mentioned by Mr. Edwards. At Huntingdon, Smith Town, Bridge Hampton, and Southold alfo, the like work was carried on, to the glory of divine grace, and falvation of multitudes. [1. N.]

473

reign princes formerly who were Proteftants, whofe fucceffors are now Papifts; as, particularly the Elector Palatine, and the Elector of Saxony. The kingdom of Bohemia was formerly a Proteftant kingdom, but is now in the hands of the Papifts: Hungary was alfo formerly a Proteftant country; but the Proteftants there have been greatly reduced, in a great measure fubdued, by the perfecutions there. And the Proteftant intereft has no way remarkably gained ground of late of the church of Rome.

Another thing wherein the flate of things is altered for the worfe from what was in the former times of the Reformation, is the prevailing of licentionfnefs in principles and opinions. There is not now that fpirit of orthodoxy which there was then: there is very little appearance of zeal for the myflerious and fpiritual doctrines of Chriftianity; and they never were for ridiculed, and had in contempt, as they are in the prefent age; and efpecially in England, the principal kingdom of the Reformation. In this kingdom, those principles, on which the power of godlinefs depends, are in a great measure exploded, and Arianifm, Socinianifm, Arminianifm and Deifm, prevail, and carry almost all before them. (P) And particularly history gives no account of any age wherein there was fo great

(P) DEISM prevails.] This note will prefent the reader with the dying words of two of the most celebrated infidels the age has produced. Rouffeau, in the article of death, faid to his wife, 'Ah! my dear, how happy a thing is it to die, when one has no reafon for remorfe or felf-reproach.—Eternal Being! the foul that I am now going to give thee back, is as pure, at this moment, as it was when it proceeded from thee :—render it partaker of thy felicity!' After a few more fentences he dropt gently on the floor, fighed and expired.

[See Pallifot's Eulogium. Mon. Rev. Feb. 1779.]

The other inflance is the celebrated VOLTAIRE, who when he drew near his end, in order to die in piece, and have Chriftian burial, pretended to turn catholic; the curate of St. Sulpice having, with fome difficulty, gained admittance to his chamber, afks him in a flammering voice,—' Sir, do you acknowledge the divinity of Jefus Chrift?—Voltaire exclaimed, extending his arms— ' In the name of God, Sir, do not mention that man's name to me !'—Thefe were his laft words.

[See Voltaire's Life, Mon. Rev. Feb. 1788.]

great an apoftafy of those who had been brought up under the light of the gospel, to infidelity; never was there such a rejection of all revealed religion: never was any age wherein was so much scoffing at and ridiculing the gospel of Christ, by those who have been brought up under gospel light, as at this day.

Another thing wherein things are altered for the worfe, is, that there is much lefs of the prevalency of the power of godlinefs, than there was at the beginning of the Reformation. A glorious out-pouring of the Spirit of God accompanied the first reformation, not only to convert multitudes in fo fhort a time from popery to the true religion, but to turn many to God and true godlinefs. Religion glorioufly flourished in one country and another, as most remarkably appeared in those times of terrible perfecution, which have already been fpoken of. But now there is an exceeding great decay of vital piety; yea, it feems to be defpifed, called enthufiafm, whimfy, and fanaticifm. Those who are truly religious, are commonly looked upon to be crack-brained, and befide their right mind; and vice and profaneness dreadfully prevail, like a flood which threatens to bear down all before it.

But I proceed to flow, [2.] in what refpect things are altered for the better; first, the power and influence of the Pope is much diminified. Although, fince the former times of the Reformation, he has gained ground in extent of dominion; yet he has loft in degree of influence. The vial which in the beginning of the Reformation was poured out on the throne of the beaft, to the great diminishing of his power and authority in the world has continued running over fince. The Pope, foon after the Reformation, became lefs regarded by the princes of Europe than he had been before. Many of the popifh princes themfelves feem to regard him very little more than they think will ferve their own defigns; of which there have been feveral remarkable proofs and inflances of late. (Q) There

(Q) The PRESENT flate of popery.] On this fubject we take the liberty to add—1. That the temporal power of the Pope feems 3 P 2 nearly There is far lefs perfecution now than there was in the first times of the Reformation. You have heard already how dreadfully perfecution raged in the former times of the Reformation; and there is fomething of it some parts of the protestant church are at this day under perfecution, nearly at an end: the Emperor of Germany, King of France, and other catholic princes, while they pay a ceremonial refpect to the perfon of his Holinefs, take every opportunity to weaken his authority. "The infallibility of the Pope, fays Voltaire, is a chimera not believed even at Rome, and yet maintained; and the Pope a facred perfon whole feet are to be killed, and his hands bound."

2. Yet the fpiritual authority of the Pope is ftill regarded, at leaft by the vulgar. A popifh tract, publifhed within thefe few years, flates the principles of popery thus, "All and every catholic, throughout the whole world, does believe as the council of Trent has decreed, whether they know the words of the decree or not; becaufe all catholics have an implicit faith in the church, that is, they all believe as the church believes, whether they examine into the matter itfelf or not, and that purely on her unerring authority; an explicit faith being not required; for if an explicit faith was required, there is few would be catholics, becaufe there is not perhaps one prieft in twenty that can give a plain and pofitive account of all the articles of faith which the church has ordained." [Old Fashioned Farmer's Reafons for turning Catholic. &c.]

In France indeed, and fome other countries, the principles of popery are fomewhat refined; many of its fuperflitions dropped, and monafteries grow into general difrepute: but in Portugal the fame religious farces are acted in Paffion Week as formerly, and the blood of St. Januarius is shill pretended to be liquified annually with the fame ridiculous circumflances as aforctime.

5. We fhall couclude this note with the character of the prefent Pope, from a celebrated Modern Traveller—" Pius VI. (formerly Cardinal Beofchi) performs all the religious functions of his office in the moft folemn manner.—I lately happened to be at St. Peter's church when there was fearcely any body there;... the Pope entered with a very few attendants; when he came to the flatue of St. Peter .... he bowed, he kneeled, he kiffed the foot, and then rubbed his brow and his whole head with every mark of humility, fervour, and adoration, upon the facered flump. ... It is no more, ene half of the foot having been long fince worn by the lips of the pious.... This uncommon appearance of zeal in the Pope, is not imputed to hypoerify, or to policy; but is fuppofed to proceed entirely from a conviction of the efficacy of thefe holy frictions; an opinion which has given people a much higher idea of the ftrength of his faith than his underflanding."

[Dr. MOORE's View of Soc. and Mann. in Italy. Let. 64.]

fecution, and fome probably will be fo until the church's fuffering and travail is at an end, which will not be till the fall of antichrift. But it is now in no meafure as it was heretofore. There does not feem to be the fame fpirit of perfecution prevailing; it is become more out of fashion even among the popish princes. The wickedness of the enemies of Christ, and the opposition against his caufe, feem to run in another channel. The humour now is, to defpife and laugh at all religion; and there feems to be a spirit of indifferency about it. However, fo far the state of things is better than it has been, that there is fo much lefs of perfecution.

There is a great increase of learning : in the dark times of popery before the Reformation, learning was to far decayed, that the world feem to be over-run with barbarous ignorance. Their very priefts were many of them grofsly ignorant. Learning began to revive with the Reformation, which was owing very much to the art of printing, which was invented a little before the Reformation; and fince that, learning has increafed more and more, and at this day is undoubtedly raifed to a greater height than ever it was before : and though little good ufe is made of it by the greater part of learned men, yet the increase of learning in itself is a thing to be rejoiced in, becaufe it is, if duly used, an excellent handmaid to divinity, and is a talent which, if God gives men an heart, affords them an opportunity to do great things for the advancement of the kingdom of Chrift, and the good of fouls. That learning and knowledge fhould greatly increase before the glorious times, feems to be foretold. [Dan. xii. 4.] ' But ' thou, O Daniel, thut up the words, and feal the book, · even to the time of the end : many shall run to and fro, ' and knowledge thall be increafed.' And however little now learning is applied to the advancement of religion; yet we may hope that the days are approaching wherein God will make great use of it for the advancement of the kingdom of Chrift.

God in his providence now feems to be acting over again the fame part which he did a little before Chrift came.

In the age wherein Chrift came into the world, came. learning greatly prevailed and was at a greater height than ever it had been before; and yet wickednefs never prevailed more than then. God was pleafed to fuffer human learning to come to fuch a height before he fent the gofpel into the world, that they might fee the infufficiency of their own wifdom for obtaining the knowledge of God : when the golpel had prevailed first without the help of man's wifdom, then God was pleafed to make use of learning as an handmaid. So now learning is at a height beyond what it was in the age when Chrift appeared; and yet men trufting to their learning, they grope in the day time as in the night. Learned men are exceedingly divided in their opinions concerning matters of religion, and run into all manner of pernicious errors. They form to fubmit their reason to divine revelation, to believe any thing that is above their comprehension; and so being wife in their own eyes, they become fools, and even vain in their imaginations, and turn the truth of God into a lie, and their foolifh hearts are darkened. [See Rom. i. 21, &c.]

But yet, when God has fufficiently flown men the infufficiency of human wifdom and learning for the purpofes of religion, and when the appointed time comes for that glorious out-pouring of the Spirit of God, when he will himfelf by his own immediate influence enlighten mens' minds; then may we hope that God will make use of the great increase of learning, as a means of a glorious advancement of the kingdom of his Son. Then thall human learning be fubfervient to the understanding of the fcriptures, and to a clear explanation and a glorious defence of the doctrines of Christianity. And there is no doubt to be made of it, that God in his providence has of late given the world the art of printing, and fuch a great increase of learning, to prepare for what he defigns to accomplith for his church in the approaching days of its profperity.

HAVING

HAVING now fhown how the work of redemption has been carried on from the fall of man to the prefent time, before I proceed any further, I would make fome AP-PLICATION.

From what has been faid, we may fee great evidence of the truth of the Christian religion, and that the feriptures are the word of God. There are three arguments of this, which I shall take notice of, which may be drawn from what has been faid.

(1.) It may be argued from that violent and inveterate opposition there has always appeared of the wickedness of the world against this religion. The religion that the church of God has profeffed from the first, has always been the fame as to its effentials. The church of God from the beginning, one fociety. The Christian church which has been fince Chrift's afcenfion, is manifeftly the fame fociety with the church before Chrift came : they are built on the fame foundation. The revelation on which both have depended, is effentially the fame; only the fubjects of it are now more clearly revealed in the New Teftament than they were in the Old. The church before the flood was built on the foundation of those revelations of Chrift which were given to Adam, Abel, and Enoch, and others of that period. The church after the flood was built on the revelations made to Noah, Abraham, Melchifedek, Ifaac, Jacob, Jofeph, Job, and other holy men. After this the church depended on the fcriptures themfelves as they gradually increafed; fo that the church of God has always been built on the foundation of divine revelations which were effentially the fame, and are fummarily comprehended in the holy fcriptures.

So that the opposition which has been made to the church of God in all ages, has always been against the fame religion, and the fame revelation. Now therefore the violent and perpetual opposition that has ever been made by the corruption and wickedness of mankind against the church, is a strong argument of the truth of this religion, and the revelation upon which the church has always been been built. Contraries are well argued one from another. We may well and fafely argue, that a thing is good, according to the degree in which evil oppofes it. Now it is evident, that the wicked world has had a perpetual hatred to the church and her religion, and has made most violent opposition against it.

479

That the church of God has always met with great opposition in the world, none can deny. This is plain by profane hiftory fo high as that reaches; and before that, divine hiftory gives us the fame account. The church of God, and its religion and worfhip, began to be oppofed in Cain's and Abel's time, and was fo when the earth was filled with violence in Noah's days. And after this the church was oppofed in Egypt; and Ifrael always hated by the nations round about, agreeable to that text [ Jer. xii. 9. ] ' Mine heritage is unto me a fpeck-' led bird, the birds round about are against her.' After the Babylonith captivity, the church was perfecuted by Antiochus Epiphanes, and others. And how was Chrift perfecuted when on earth ! and the apoftles and other Chriftians by the Jews, before the destruction of Jerufalem ! and dreadful was the oppofition of the heathen world against the Christian church before Constantine! And fince that, yet more violent, and fpiteful, and cruel has been the opposition of antichrift .--- There is no fuch inflance of opposition to any other religion. Other profeftions have enjoyed their religions in peace and quietnefs, however they have differed from their neighbours. One nation has worshipped one fet of gods, and others another, without molefting or diffurbing one another about it. All the fpite and oppofition has been against the religion of the church of Chrift as though they could never fatisfy their cruelty. (R) They put their inventions upon the rack

(R) No religion perfecuied like the CHRISTIAN.] Should this fact be controverted, we beg leave to obferve,

1. That though the profeffors of other religions have pleaded the inffering of perfecution; yet it has feldom been with the fame truth. The jefuits were fome years fince expelled Japan and called rack to find out torments that fhould be cruel enough ; and yet their thirst has never been fatisfied with blood.

So that it is out of doubt, that this religion, and the fcriptures, have always been malignantly opposed in the world. The only queftion is, whether it be the wickednefs and corruption of the world, or not, that has done this? But of this there can be no more doubt than of the other, if we confider how caufelefs this cruelty has always been, who were the oppofers, and the manner in which they acted. The opposition has chiefly been from heathenifm and popery; which are both of them very evil, and the fruits of the blindnefs, corruption, and wickednefs of men, as the very Deifts themfelves confefs. The light of nature flows, that the religion of Heathens, confifting in the worship of idols, and facrificing their children to them, and in obscene and abominable rites and ceremonies, is wickednefs. And the fuperflitious idolatries and ufurpations, of the cliurch of Rome, are now lefs contrary to the light of reafon. By which it appears, that the opposition against the church of God has been made by wikced men. And with regard to the opposition of the Jews in Christ's and the apostles times, it was when the people were generally become exceedingly wicked, as Foscphus and other Jewish writers who lived about that time acknowledge. And that it has been mere wickedness that has made this opposition is manifest from the 3 Q manner led it perfecution for the gofpel; but it is well known that, not their religion, but their treafonable practices, procured their ruin.

2. That though the papifts have gone fo much beyond their pagan predeceffors as to perfecute all religions but their own, Pagan, Jewish and Mahometan, as well as Protestant; yet thefe have never yet been fo general, nor fo long continued. History, as our author rightly observes, can produce no other instance of perfecution being continued with fo little intermission for fo many centuries.

3. That though religion has in most cafes been the pretence for popilh feverities, it has often not been the true caufe. The Morifcoes and Jews were expelled Spain, and diabolical cruelties exercised in South America, rather that their perfecutors might have a pretence for feizing their posseful from any zeal for religion. [G. E.] manner of the opposition, the extreme violence, injuffice, and cruelty, with which the church of God has been treated. It feems to show the hand of malignant infernal fpirits in it.

Now what reafon can be affigned, why the corruption and wickednefs of the world fhould fo implacably fet itfelf against the religion of Jefus Christ, and against the feriptures, but only that they are contrary to wickednefs. and confequently good and holy? Why should the enemies of Christ, for fo many thousand years together, manifest fuch a mortal hatred of this religion, but only that it is the caufe of God? If the feriptures be not the word of God, and the religion of the church of Christ be not the true religion, then it must follow, that it is nothing but a pack of lies and delusions, invented by the enemies of God themselves. And if this were fo, it is not likely that the enemies of God, and the wickednefs of the world, would have maintained fuch a perpetual and implacable enmity against it.

(2.) It is a great argument that the Chriftian church and its religion is from God; that it has been upheld hitherto through all the opposition and dangers it has met with. That the church of God and the true religion, which has been to continually and violently oppofed, with to many endeavours to overthrow it, and which has fo often been brought to the brink of ruin, and almoft fwallowed up, through the greatest part of fix thousand years, has yet been upheld, does most remarkably show the hand of God in favour of it. This, if properly confidered, will appear one of the greateft wonders and miracles that ever came to pass. There is nothing like it upon the face of the earth. As to the old world, which was before the flood, that was overthrown by a deluge of waters; but yet the church of God was preferved. Satan's vilible kingdom on earth was then entirely overthrown; but the visible kingdom of Chrift never has been. All the ancient monarchies of which we read in former ages, they are long fince come to an end; they have all grown old, and have vanished away: "The moth has eaten them • up • up like a garment, and the worm has eaten them like • wool;' but yet God's church remains.

Never were there fuch potent endeavours to deftroy any thing elfe, as there has been to deftroy the church. Other kingdoms and focieties of men, which have appeared to be ten times as ftrong as the church of God, have been deftroyed with an hundredth part of the opposition which the church of God has met with; which shows, that it is God who has been the protector of the church. For it is most plain, that it has not upheld itfelf by its own firength; for the most part, it has been a very weak fociety. The children of Ifrael were but a fmall handful of people in comparison of those who often fought their overthrow. And in Christ's time, and in the beginning of the Christian church after his refurrection, they were but a remnant; whereas the whole multitude of the Jewish nation were against them. And fo in the beginning of the Gentile church : they were but a fmall number in comparison with their heathen perfecutors. Also in the dark time of antichrift, before the reformation, they were but a handful; and yet their enemies could not overthrow them. And it has commonly happened that the enemies of the church have not only had the greatest number, but alfo the civil authority on their fide. So in Egypt, Ifrael were only flaves to the Egyptians, and yet they could not deftroy them. Likewife in the time of Antiochus Epiphanes, under the heathen Roman government, and for the most part fince the rife of antichrift, the civil power was all on the fide of the perfecutors, and the church feemed to be in their hands. And not only has the ftrength of the enemies of the church been greatest, but ordinarily the church has not used what firength they have had in their own defence, but have committed themfelves wholly to God. So it was in the Jewith perfecutions before the deftruction of Jerufalem by the Romans; and in the heathen perfecuuons before Constantine, the Christians did not attempt to make any foreible refiftance to their heathen perfecutors. So it has for the most part been under the Popish 3Q2 perfceutors.

perfecutors. So it has for the moft part been under the Popish perfecutions; and yet they have never been able to overthrow the church of God: but it stands to this very day.

This is still the more wonderful, if we consider how often the church has been brought to the brink of ruin, and the cafe feemed to be desperate. In the time of the old world, wickedness so prevailed, that but one religious family was left. At the Red Sea, when Pharaoh and his hoft thought they were quite fure of their prey; and from time to time in the church of Ifrael, God delivered them, as has been shown. Thus under the tenth and last heathen perfecution, their perfecutors boasted that they had deftroyed the Christians, and overthrown the church; yet in the midft of their triumph, the Christian church rifes out of the dust and prevails, and the heathen empire totally falls before it. So when the Chriftian church feemed ready to be fwallowed up by Arianifm, --when antichrift rofe and prevailed, and all the world wondered after the beaft, and the church for many hundred years was reduced to a very fmall number, and the power of the world was engaged to deftroy them; yet they could never fully accomplish their defign, and at last God wonderfully revived his church in the time of the Reformation, and made it to ftand as it were on its feet in the fight of its enemies, and raifed it out of their reach. And fo fince, when the Popish powers have plotted the overthrow of the Reformed church, and have feemed just about to bring their matters to a conclusion, and to finish their defign, then God has wonderfully appeared for the deliverance of his church, as it was in the revolution by King William. And fo it has been from time to time: prefently after the darkeft times, God has made his church most gloriously to flourish.

If the prefervation of the church of God, from the beginning of the world hitherto, attended with fuch circumflances, is not fufficient to flow a divine hand in favour of it, what can be devifed that would be fo? But if this be from the divine hand, then God owns the church and and her religion, and those for ptures on which she is built: and so it will follow, that this is the true religion, and that the for ptures are God's word.

(3.) We may draw a further argument for the divine authority of the fcriptures from the fulfilment of thofe things which are foretold in the fcriptures.---I have already obferved, as I went along, how the prophecies in fcripture were fulfilled: I fhall now therefore fingle out but two inftances of the fulfilment of fcripture prophecy.

[1.] One is in preferving his church from being ruined. I have just now shown what an evidence this is of the divine authority of the fcriptures, in itfelf confidered; I now speak of it as a fulfilment of scripture prophecy. This is abundantly foretold and promifed in the feriptures, as particularly in the text: there it is foretold, that other things shall fail, other kingdoms and monarchies, which fet themfelves in oppofition, flould come to nothing: ' The moth shall eat them up like a garment, and the ' worm shall eat them like wool :' and fo it has in fact come to pafs. But it is also foretold, that God's covenant mercy to his church shall continue for ever: and fo it has hitherto proved, though now it be fo many ages fince, and though the church has paffed through fo many dangers. The fame is promifed in Ifaiah, [liv. 17.] ' No ' weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rife against thee in judgment ' thou shalt condemn.' And again, [chap. xlix. 14---16.7 ' But Sion faid, the Lord hath forfaken me, and my · Lord hath forgotten me. Can a woman forget her ' fucking child, that fhe fhould not have compaffion on the ' fon of her womb? Yea, they may forget, yet will I not · forget thee. Behold I have graven thee upon the palms · of my hands, thy walls are continually before me.' [See alfo chap. lix. 21. and xliii. 1, 2. and Zech. xii. 2, 3.] So Chrift promifes the fame, [Matt. xvi. 18.] ' On this ' rock will I build my church, and the gates of hell " thall not prevail against it.' Now if the scriptures be not the word of God, and the church built on them be not of God, how could the perfons who foretold this, know know it? For if the church were not of God, it was a very unlikely thing ever to come to pafs. For they foretold that other kingdoms fhould come to nothing; alfo the great oppofition the church fhould meet with, and the many dangers with which fhe fhould be almost fwallowed up, (as it were eafy to fhow,) and yet foretold that the church fhould remain. Now how could they forefee fo unlikely a thing but by divine infpiration ?

485

[2.] The other remarkable inftance which I shall mention of the fulfilment of fcripture prophecy, is in what is foretold concerning antichrift, a certain great oppofer of Chrift and his kingdom .--- And (1.) It is foretold that this antichrift should arife not among the heathen; but that he should arife by the apostaly and falling away of the Christian church. [2 Thef. ii. 3.] ' For that day " shall not come, except there come a falling away first, ' and that man of fin be revealed, the fon of perdition.'---(2.) That he should fet himfelf up in the temple or visible church of God, pretending to be vefted with the power of God himfelf, as head of the church, [ver. 4.] (3.) It is intimated, that the rife of antichrift should be gradual, [ver 7.] ' For the myftery of iniquity doth already work : only he who now letteth, will let, until he be taken out ' of the way, --- (4.) It is prophefied that he should be a great prince or monarch of the Roman empire: fo he is represented as an horn of the fourth beast in Daniel, or fourth kingdom or monarchy upon earth, as the angel himfelf explains it, of the little horn. [Daniel vii. 24.]---(5.) It was predicted that his feat should be in the city of Rome itfelf; fo it is faid expressly, that the fpiritual whore, or falfe church, fhould have her feat on feven mountains or hills: [Rev. xvii. 6.] ' The feven heads are feven ' mountains on which the woman fitteth:' and [ver. 18.] ' The woman which thou faweft, is that great city · which reigneth over the kings of the earth;' which it is certain was at that time the city of Rome .--- (6.) Ir was prophefied, that this antichrift flould reign over peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues, [Rev. xvii. 15.] and that all the world should wonder after the beaft.

beaft. [Rev. xiii. 3.]---(7.) That he fhould be remarkable for his pride, pretending to great things, and affuming very much to himfelf; [2 Thef. ii. 4.] ' That he fhould ' exalt himfelf above all that is called God, or that is wor-' thipped.' [Rev. xiii. 5.] ' And there was given unto ' him a mouth fpeaking great things, and blafphemies.' [Dan vii. 20.] The little horn is faid to have a mouth speaking very great things, and his look to be more fout than his fellows.---(8.) That he fhould be a cruel perfe-cutor, [Dan. vii. 21.] The fame horn made war with the faints, and prevailed against them: [Rev. xiii. 7.] ' And it was given to him to make war with the faints, ' and to overcome them.' [Rev. xvii. 6.] ' And I faw ' the woman drunken with the blood of the faints, and ' with the blood of the martyrs of Jefus.'---(9.) That he fhould excel in craft and policy, [Dan. vii. 8.] ' In this horn were eyes like the eyes of a man.' [ver. 20.]
Even of that horn that had eyes.' This alfo came to pass in the church of Rome.---(10.) It was foretold, that the kings of Christendom should be subject to antichrift : [Rev. xvii. 12, 13.] ' And the ten horns which ' thou fawest, are ten kings, which have received no king-' dom as yet; but receive power as kings one hour with ' the beaft. Thefe have one mind, and fhall give their ' power and ftrength unto the beaft.'---(11.) That he fhould perform pretended miracles and lying wonders: [2 Thef. ii. 9.] ' Whofe coming is after the working of Satan, with all power, and figns, and lying wonders.' [Rev. xiii. 13, 14.] 'And he doth great wonders, fo ' that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the · earth, in the fight of men, and deceiveth them that ' dwell on the earth, by the means of those miracles which ' he had power to do in the fight of the beaft.' (s) Fire's coming

(s) Popifk MIRACLES.] Thefe may be divided into two classes. neither of which deferve the name of miracles, the former being mere fictions, and the latter, tricks of priest.

1. Of the former little need be faid, as to mention is to expose and refute them. That St. Denys, or St. Juftinian, walked with their coming down from heaven feems to have reference to the popifh excommunications, which were dreaded like fire from heaven.---(12.) It was foretold, that he fhould forbid their heads under their arms-that the Virgin Mary held Becket's fhirt while he mended it-or that a band of angels moved her cottage from Judea to Loretto by night-Thefe may provoke our rifibility, but will hardly now command belief even from Papifts.

487

But, 2. We admit many of the facts they pretend, though we deny there was any miracle in them, except indeed the credulity of the multitude. To pafs by the trick of fpeaking and moving images, which are now no fecret; we fhall prefent our readers with two inflances of the miraculous powers of the Roman church, one for its ingenuity, the other for its recentnefs.

" St. Anthony is commonly thought to have a great command over fire, and a power of deftroying by flashes of that element thofe who incur his difpleafure. . . . A certain monk of St. Anthony . . . one day affembled his congregation under a tree where a magpie had built her neft, into which he had found means to convey a fmall box filled with gunpowder, and out of the box hung a long thin match that was to burn flowly, and was hidden among the leaves of the trees. As foon as the monk or his affiftant had touched the match with a lighted coal, he began his fermon. In the mean while the magpie returned to her neft; and finding in it a ftrange body which fhe could not remove, fhe fell into a paffion, and began to feratch with her feet, and chatter most unmercifully. The friar affected to hear her without emotion, and continued his fermon with great composure; only he would now and then lift up his eyes towards the top of the tree, as if he wanted to fee what was the matter. At last, when he judged the match was near reaching the gunpowder, he pretended to be quite out of patience; he curfed the magpie, and wilhed St. Anthony's fire might confume her, and went on again with his fermon; but he had fcarcely pronounced two or three periods, when the match on a fudden produced its effect, and blew up the magpie with its neft; which miracle wonderfully raifed the character of the friar, and proved afterwards very beneficial to him and to his convent."

[DE LOME's Hift. of the Flagellants.]

Query, Was not this fulfilling the prophecy of making fire come down from heaven in the light of men !

The following miracle, viz. the liquefaction of the blood of St. Januarius, is annually wrought, and is related by a refpectable eye-witnefs. "The grand proceffion on this occation was compofed of a numerous body of elergy and an immenfe number of people of all ranks, hended by the Archbithop of Naples himfelf, who bid to marry and to abflain from meats; [1 Tim. iv. 3.] 'Forbidding to marry, and commanding to abflain 3 R 'from who carried the phial containing the blood of the faint. A magnificent robe of velvet richly embroidered was thrown over the fhoulders of the buft; a mitre refulgent with jewels was placed on its head. The archbishop with a folemn pace and a look full of awe and veneration, approached, holding forth the facred phial which contained the precious lump of blood; he addreffed the faint in the humbleft manner, fervently praying that he would gracioufly condefcend to manifest his regard to his faithful votaries, the people of Naples, by the usual token of ordering that lump of his facred blood to affume its natural and original form : in thefe prayers he was joined by the multitude around, particularly by the women. My curiofity prompted me to mingle with the multitude; I got by degrees very near the buft. Twenty minutes had already elapfed, fince the archbishop had been praying with all poffible earneftnefs, and turning the phial around and around without any effect. An old monk flood near the archbifhop, and was at the utmost pains to instruct him how to handle, chafe, and rub the phial; he frequently took it into his own hands, but his manœuvres were as ineffectual as those of the archbifhop. By this time the people had become exceeding noify; the women were quite hoarfe with praying ; the monk continued his operations with increased zeal, and the archbishop was all over in a profule fweat with vexation ..... An acquaintance whifpered it might be prudent to retire. . . . I directly took his hint, and joined the company I had left. An universal gloom overspread all their countenances. . . . One very beautiful young lady cried and fobbed as if her heart had been ready to break. The paffions of fome of the rabble without doors took a different turn; inflead of forrow they were filled with rage and indignation at the faint's obduracy, . . . and fome went fo far as to call him an old, ungrateful, yellow-faced rafcal. .... It was now almost dark, .... and when leaft expected, the fignal was given, that the miracle was performed . . . . The populace filled the air with repeated fhouts of joy; a band of mufic began to play; Te Deum was fung; couriers were difpatched to the royal family, then at Portici, with the glad tidings; the young lady dried up her tears; the countenances of our company brightened in an inftant, and they fat down to cards without farther dread of eruptions, earthquakes, or pestilence." [Dr. MOORE's View of Society and Manners in Italy, Lett. 64.7

Thefe miracles need no comment; but fome Proteftants add a third clafs of popifh miracles, wrought, as they fuppofe, by the agency of the devil; but thefe we omit, knowing of none for which the cunning of the priefts was not quite fufficient.

[N. U.]

489

from meats, which God hath created to be received with thankfgiving.'---(12.) That he fhould be very rich, and arrive at a great degree of earthly fplendour and glory: [Rev. xvii. 4.] ' And the woman was arrayed in purple, and fearlet colour, and decked with gold and precious ftones, and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand.'
[See alfo chap. xviii. 7, 12, 13, 16.] (T) It was fore-told,

( $\tau$ ) RICHES and SPLENDOUR of the church of ROME.] Thefe are principally obvious in their vertments, images, and magnificent ceremonies. We fhall give a flort fpecimen of each.

(1.) For veftments, we fhall mention only those of Pope Paul II. who "in his pontifical veftments outwent all his predeceffors, efpecially in his regno, or mitre, upon which he had laid out a great deal of money in purchasing at vast rates, diamonds, sapphires, emeralds, chryfoliths, jaspers, unions, and all manner of precious stones, wherewith, adorned like another Aaron, he would appear abroad fomewhat more august than a man..... He made a decree that none but cardinals should wear red caps; to whom he had in the first year of his popedom given cloth of that colour to make horse cloths or mule cloths of, when they rode." [Platina's Lives of the Popes, translated by Rycant, p. 414.]

N. B. The fcarlet coloured beaft !

(2.) For images, and other ornaments, the popifh treafure is immenfe. In the catalogue of the treafury of St. Denis, the tute-lar faint of France, are the following, among innumerable other articles :

"A great, very beautiful, and precious crofs of maffy gold, all covered before with rubies, fapphires, emeralds; and oriental pearl. There is shown, under the rich little cross which is in the midft of it, the length of a foot and a half of the wood of the true crofs .-- A little crucifix enchafed in gold, very delicately made of the wood of the true crofs by Pope Clement the Third's own hands .- There is flown under the cryftal a little phial, in which there is of the blood and water which ran from the fide of our Saviour, when it-was pierced with a lance ; there is moreover fome of the milk, and of the gown of our Lady; a finger of the apolle St. Thomas, another finger of St. Medard, and the myrrh which the kings offered to our Saviour ; and twenty-eight other different forts of reliques .- One of the nails wherewith our Saviour was fastened to the crofs; it is enchased in a great filver tabernacle gilt and garnished with precious stones, made by the monks .- Au image of the holy Virgin of filver gilt, which holds with one hand a little reliquary, in which is feen a piece of the fwaddling cloaths wherewith fhe wrapt our Saviour in the manger of Bethlehem .- A great image of our Lady, of filver gilt, holding in told, that he fhould forbid any to buy or fell, but thofe that had his mark. [Rev. xiii. 17.] ' And that no man ' might in the right hand a fleur de lis of gold, in which there are of her hairs and cloaths.—Another great image of St. John the Evangelift, of filver gilt, holding with one hand a cryflal tube fet in gold, in which is feen a tooth of the faid apolle.--- A great crofs, all of gold and precious stones, called the cross of St. Laurence, becaufe in it there is a bar of the iron grate on which this holy martyr was roafted.-A great image of St. Nicolas, of filver gilt, whofe mitre is enriched with precious flones, and at the foot of it there are reliques of the faint .- A golden head of the great St. Denis the Areopagite, apoftle of France, and patron of the place, whofe mitre, alfo of gold, is all covered with precious ftones and oriental pearls; the whole borne up by two great angels of filver gilt .- The chalice and the little veffels for holding wine and water, which the fame St. Denis made use of at the facrifice of the mafs about 1550 years fince; the whole of rock cryftal enchafed in filver, and the chalice enriched with precious ftones.-A great crofs of maffy gold, made by St. Effay; it is enriched with a number of oriental pearls, and other very precious flones, and among others with a very great and very fine oriental amethift .- A beautiful, great, very ancient, and curious veffel of rich cryftal, which was ufed in the temple of Solomon .- A great cup of gold and precious stones, which belonged to the fame Solomon .- A little idol of Apollo, engraved on an amethift, fet in gold, enriched with precious ftones .- With innumerable other precious images, curiofities and reliques. Add to thefe the riches of the miraculous houfe of Loretto, where Mr. ADDISON, who faw them, affures us, "Silver can fcarce find a place, and gold itfelf looks but poorly amongft fuch a number of precious ftones." [Addifon's Travels, p. 93.]

For the pomp of the Romifh fervices, take the following account from the late celebrated Mr. WHITEFIELD, of what he calls "the crucifixion, reprefented partly by dumb flow and partly by living perfons," in the church belonging to the convent of St. De Beato : "We had not," fays Mr. W. " waited long before the curtain was drawn up; immediately, upon a high feaffold hung in the front with black bays, and behind with filk purple damafk laced with gold, was exhibited to our view an image of the Lord Jefus at full length, crowned with thorns and nailed on a crofs, between two figures of like dimensions, reprefenting the two thieves. At a little diftance, on the right hand, was placed an image of the Virgin Mary in plain long ruffles, and a kind of widow weeds. Her veil was purple filk, and the had a wire glory round her head. At the foot of the crofs lay, in a mournful penfive pofture, a living man, dreffed in woman's cloaths, who perfonated Mary Magdalen; and not far off flood a young man, in imitation of the beloved difciple. He was dreffed in a loofe green filk vefture and bob-wig. His eyes 3 R 2 werc

492 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

' might buy or fell, fave he that had the mark, or the ' name were fixed on the crofs, and his two hands a little extended. On each fide, near the front of the ftage, flood two centinels in buff, with formidable caps, and long beards; and directly in the front flood another yet more formidable, with a large target in his hand. We may suppose him to be the Roman centurion. To complete the fcene, from behind the purple hangings came out about twenty little purple-vested winged boys, two by two, each bearing a lighted wax taper in his hand, and a crimfon and gold cap on his head. -----At their entrance upon the flage they gently bowed their heads to the fpectators, then kneeled and made obeifance, first to the image on the crofs, and then to that of the Virgin Mary. When rifen, they bowed to each other, and then took their refpective places over against one another, on steps assigned for them on the front of the flage. Oppofite to this, at a few yards diffance, flood a black friar, in a pulpit hung in mourning. For a while he paufed, and then, breaking filence, gradually lifted up his voice till it was extended to a pretty high pitch, though I think fcarce high enough for fo large an auditory. After he had proceeded in his difcourfe about a quarter of an hour, a confused noise was heard near the front great door; and upon turning my head, I faw four long bearded men; two of which carried a ladder on their fhoulders, and after them followed two more with large gilt diffes in their hands, full of linen, fpices, &c. Thefe, as I imagined, were the reprefentatives of Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea. On a fignal given from the pulpit, they advanced towards the fteps of the fcaffold. But upon their first attempting to mount it, at the watchful centurion's nod, the observant foldiers made a pass at them, and prefented the points of their javelins directly to their breafts. They are repulied. Upon this a letter from Pilate is produced; the centurion reads it, flakes his head, and, with looks that befpoke a forced compliance, beckons to the centinels to withdraw their arms. Leave being thus obtained, they afcend ; and having paid their homage, by kneeling first to the image on the crofs, and then to the Virgin Mary, they retire to the back of the flage. Still the preacher continued declaiming, or rather, as was faid, explaining the mournful fcene. . Magdalen perfifts in wringing her hands and varioufly expressing her perfonated forrow; whilft John (feemingly regardlefs of all befides) ftood gazing on the crucified figure. By this time it was near three o'clock, and therefore proper for the fcene to begin to clofe. The ladders ale afcended, the fuperfcription and crown of thorus taken off, long white rollers put round the arms of the image, and then the nails knocked out which fastened the hands and feet. Here Mary Magdalen looks most languishing, and John, if possible, ftands more thunderstruck than before. The orator lifts up his voice, and almost all the hearers expressed concern by weeping, beating name of the beaft, or the number of his name, (u)---(13.) That he should fell the fouls of men, [Rev. xviii. 13.] in enumerating the articles of his merchandife, the fouls of men are mentioned as one.---(14.) It was fore-told, beating their breafts, and fmiting their cheeks. At length the body is gently let down; Magdalen eyes it, and gradually rifing receives the feet into her wide-fpread handkerchief; whilft John, (who hitherto flood motionlefs like a flatue) as the body came nearer the ground, with an eagerness that befpoke the intense affection of a sympathizing friend, runs towards the cross, feizes the upper part of it into his clafping arms, and with his difguifed fellow mourner helps to bear it away. Great preparations were made for its interment. It was wrapped in linen and fpices, &c. and being laid upon a bier richly hung, was afterwards carried round the church yard in grand procession. The image of the Virgin Mary was chief mourner, and John and Magdalen, with a whole troop of friars with wax tapers in their hands, followed after. Determined to fee the whole, I waited its return, and in about a quarter of an hour the corpfe was brought in, and depofited in an open fepulchre prepared for the purpofe; but not before a priest, accompanied by feveral of the fame order in fplended veftments, had perfumed it with incenfe, fung to, and kneeled before it. John and Magdalen attended the obfequies; but the image of the Virgin Mary was carried away, and placed upon the front of the flage in order to be killed, adored, and worshipped by the people. This I faw them do with the utmost eagerness and reverence. And thus ended this Good Friday's tragi-comical, fuperflitious, idolatrous droll. Surely, thought I, whilft attending on fuch a fcene of mock devotion, if ever, now is the Lord Jefus crucified afresh ; and I could then, and even now, think of no other plea for the poor beguiled devotees, than that which fuffering Innocence put up himfelf for his enemies, when actually hanging upon the crofs, viz. "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." [Account of fome Lent Procefs. &c. at Lifbon, p. 31-37.]

(U) The MARK of the beaft, &c.] By the mark of the beaft is meant a profeffion of the popifh religion, commonly fignified by the fign of the crofs in the forchead. Without this none might huy or fell. So the council of Lateran and fynod of Tours, under Pope Alexander III. and the bull of Pope Martin V. forbid any traffic to be carried on with hereties, as the perfecuting Roman emperors had done before. The number of his name is to be found in the Greek word LATEINOS, The Latin; the letters of which as numerals make juft 666, (as do those of the Hebrew ROMITH, the Roman beaft) and about that date the Latin fervice was enjoined in all the Roman or Latin churches. [Bp. Newton on the Proph. vol. viii. Dif. 25. and Reader on the Rev. in loc.]

+94 HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

told, that antichrift would not fuffer the bodies of God's people to be put into the graves. [Rev. xi. 8, 9.] ' And ' their dead bodies fhall lie in the flreet of the great city,---' and they---fhall not fuffer their dead bodies to be put in ' graves.' All these particulars have literally come to pass with respect to the church of Rome, and I might mention many others.

(4.) From what has been faid, we may learn that the fpirit of true Christians is a fpirit of fuffering. Seeing God has fo ordered it, that his church should for fo long a time be in a fuffering flate, we may conclude, that the fpirit of the true church is a fuffering fpirit, for doubtlefs God accommodates the flate and circumstances of the church to the fpirit that he has given them. We have feen how many and great fufferings the Christian church for the most part has been under for thefe 1700 years; no wonder therefore that Christ fo much inculcated upon his hearers, that it was necessfary, if any would be his difciples, ' they ' must deny themfelves, and take up their cross and follow ' him.' [Matt. xvi. 24.]

And we may prove that the fpirit of the true church of Chrift is a fuffering one, by the fpirit the church has fhown and exercifed under her fufferings. She has actually, under thofe terrible perfecutions through which fhe has paffed, rather chofen to fuffer the most dreadful torments, to fell all for the pearl of great price, and to endure all that her bittereft enemies could inflict, than to renounce Chrift and his religion. Hiftory furnishes us with a great number of remarkable inflances; fets in view a great cloud of witneffes. This abundantly confirms the neceffity of being willing to part with all for Chrift, to renounce our own eafe, our worldly profit, and honour, and all, for him, and for the gospel.

Let us now inquire, whether we are of fuch a fpirit. How does it prove upon trial? does it prove in fact that we are willing to deny ourfelves, and renounce our worldly intereft, and to pafs through the trials to which we are called in providence? how fmall are our trials, compared with those of many of our fellow Christians in former mer ages! And I would on this occafion apply that paffage [Jer. xii. 5.] ' If thou haft run with the footmen, and ' they have wearied thee, then how canft thou contend ' with horfes?' If you have not been able to endure the light trials to which you have been called in this age, and in this land, how would you be able to endure the far greater trials to which the church has been called in former ages? Every true Chrithian has the fpirit of a martyr, and would fuffer as a martyr if he were called to it in providence.

(5.) Hence we learn what great reafon we have, affuredly to expect the fulfilment of those foriptures which yet remain to be fulfilled. The foriptures have fore-told many great things yet to be fulfilled before the end of the world. But there feems to be great difficulties in the way. We feem at prefent to be very far from fuch a state as is foretold; but we have abundant reason to expect that these things, however feemingly difficult, will yet be accomplished in their featon. We fee the faithfulnefs of God to his promifes hitherto. How true has God been to his church, and remembered his mercy from generation to generation : we may fay concerning what God has done hitherto for his church, as Joshua faid to the children of Ifrael. [Jofh. xxiii. 14.] • That ' not one thing hath failed of all that the Lord our God ' hath fpoken concerning his church ;' but all things are hitherto come to pass agreeable to the divine prediction. This should strengthen our faith in those promises, and encourage us to earnest prayer to God for the accomplishment of the great and glorious things which yet remain to be fulfilled.

It has already been flown how the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption was carried on through various periods down to the prefent time.

4. I come now to fhow how the fuccefs of Christ's redemption will be carried on from the prefent time, till antichrist is fallen, and Satan's visible kingdom on earth destroyed.---And with respect to this space of time, we have have nothing to guide us but the prophecies of fcripture. Hitherto we have had fcripture hiftory or prophecy, together with human hiftory. But henceforward we have only prophecy to direct us. And here I would pafs by those things that are merely conjectural, or are only furmifed by fome from those prophecies which are doubtful in their interpretation; and shall infift only on those things which are more clear and evident.

495

We know not what particular events are to come to pafs before that glorious work of God's Spirit begins, by which Satan's kingdom is to be overthrown. By the confent of most divines, there are but few things, if any at all, that are foretold to be accomplished before the beginning of that glorious work of God. Some think the flaving of the witneffes, [Rev. xi. 7.8.] is not yet accomplished.* So divines differ with respect to the pouring out of the feven phials, [Rev. xvi.] how many are already poured out, or how many remain; though a late expositor, † whom I have before mentioned to you, feems to make it very plain and evident, that all are already poured out but two, viz. the fixth on the river Euphrates, and the feventh into the air. But I will not now ftand to inquire what is intended by the pouring out of the fixth phial on the river Euphrates, that the way of the kings of the east may be prepared; but only would fay, that it feems to be fomething immediately preparing the way for the deftruction of the Spiritual Babylon, as the drying up of the river Euphrates, which ran through the midft of old Babylon, was what prepared the way for the kings of the Medes and Perfians, the kings of the eaft, to come in under the walls, and defiroy that city .--- But whatever this be, it does not appear that it is any thing which shall be accomplished before the work of God's Spirit is begun, by which, as it goes on, Satan's visible kingdom on earth shall be utterly overthrown. And therefore I would proceed directly to confider what the fcripture reveals concerning this work of God.

Anđ

* Newton, Lowman, Gill, Doddridge, Reader, Sc. + Mr. Lowman. And I would promife two things in general concerning it.

1. We have all reafon to conclude from the feriptures, that just before this work of God begins, it will be a very dark time with respect to the interests of religion in the world. It has been fo before those glorious revivals of religion that have been hitherto. It was fo when Chrift came in the flesh, and also before the Reformation from Popery. And it feems to be foretold in fcripture, that it shall be a time of but little religion, when Christ shall come to fet up his kingdom in the world. Thus when Christ spake of his coming, to encourage his elect, who cry to him day and night, [Luke xviii. 8.] he adds this, · Neverthelefs, when the Son of man cometh, shall he ' find faith on the earth ?' Which feems to denote a great prevalency of infidelity just before Christ's coming to avenge his fuffering church. Though Christ's coming at the last judgment is not here to be excluded, yet there feems to be a special respect to his coming to deliver his church from their long continued fuffering, perfecuted ftate, which is accomplished only at his coming at the deftruction of antichrift. That time when the elect cry to God, [Rev. vi. 10.] ' How long, O Lord, holy and ' true, doft thou not judge and avenge our blood on ' them that dwell on the earth?' and the time fpoken of in Revelation, [chap. xviii. 20.] ' Rejoice over her, thou ' heaven, and ye holy apoftles, and prophets, for God ' hath avenged you on her,' will then be accomplifhed. It is now a dark time with respect to the interests of religion, and there is a remarkable fulfilment of that prediction, [2 Pet. iii. 3.] ' Knowing this, that there shall ' come in the laft days fcoffers, walking after their own ' luss.' And fo Jude, [17, 18.] ' But beloved, remem-· ber ye the words which were spoken before of the apos-' tles of our Lord Jefus Chrift; how that there should · be mockers in the laft time, who fhould walk after their ' own ungodly lufts.' Whether the times thall be any darker still, or how much fo before the beginning of this glorious work of God, we cannot tell.

2. There

2. There is no reafon to think but that this great work of God will be wrought, though very fwiftly, yet gradually. As the children of Ifrael were gradually brought out of the Babylonish captivity, first one company and then another, and gradually rebuilt their city and temple; and as the heathen Roman empire was deftroyed by a gradual, though a very fwift prevalency of the gofpel; fo, though there are many things which feem as though the work of God would be exceeding fwift, and many wonderful events fuddenly be brought to pafs, and fome great parts of Satan's visible kingdom have a very fudden fall, vet all will not be accomplished at once, as by fome great miracle, (as the refurrection of the dead at the end of the world will be all at once;) but this is a work which will be accomplified by means, by the preaching of the gofpel, and the use of the ordinary means of grace, and fo will be gradual. Some thall be converted, and be the means of converting others. God's Spirit shall be poured out first to raise up instruments, and those instruments shall be used and succeed. And doubtlefs one nation fhall be enlightened and converted after another; one falfe religion exploded after another. the reprefentation in Daniel [chap. ii. 3, 4.] the flone cut out of the mountain without hands gradually grows. So Christ teaches us, that the kingdom of heaven is like a grain of muftard feed, [Matt. xiii. 31, 32.] and like leaven hid in three measures of meal, [ver. 33.] The fame reprefentation we have in the vision of the waters of the fanctuary. [Ezek. xlviii.] --- The fcriptures mention feveral fucceffive events by which this glorious work thould be accomplished. The angel speaking to the prophet Daniel of those times, mentions two periods, at the end of which glorious things should be accomplished; [Dan. xii. 11.] 'And from the time that the daily facrifice shall ' be taken away, and the abomination that maketh defo-· late fet up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ' ninety days.' But then he adds [ver. 12.] ' Bleffed is ' he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hun-' dred and five and thirty days;' intimating that fomething thing very glorious fhould be accomplifhed at the end of the former period, but fomething much more glorious at the end of the latter .--- But I now proceed to flow,

(3.) That this great work shall be accomplished, not by the authority of princes, nor by the wifdom of learned men, but by the Holy Spirit; [Zech. iv. 6, 7.] ' Not by · might, nor by power, but by my fpirit, faith the Lord of hofts. Who art thou, O great mountain? before · Zerubbabel thou shalt become a plain, and he shall bring · forth the head ftone thereof with fhouting, crying, Grace, ' grace unto it.' So the prophet Ezekiel, speaking of this great work of God, fays, [chap. xxxix. 29.] 'Neither ' will I hide my face any more from them; for I have · poured out my fpirit on the houfe of Ifrael, faith the ' Lord God.' We know not where this pouring out of the Spirit shall begin, or whether in many places at once, or whether what has already been, be not fome forerunner and beginning of it. (w)

This

(w) Whether the LATE CONVERSIONS be the beginning of this glorious event ?] We have already been pretty large in our account of feveral remarkable out-pourings of God's Spirit in the converfion of finners in the prefent century; [See above, note L, p. 465 -M, 468-N, 470-and 0, 471.] To which might be added a work of the like nature in Scotland, about the year 1740, when great multitudes were awakened in a fudden and fingular manner ; but we shall only fubjoin on authentic account of fome very recent inftances of the power of divine grace in propagating the gofpel among the Indians in America ; where Dr. Wheelock, in the year 1754, eftablished a school at Lebanon, in Connecticut, (fince removed to Hanover, in New Hampshire, where it is still continued by his ion) for the education of Indian and English youths, as millionaries, interpreters, and fchool-mafters to the different Indian tribes. The utility of this inflitution may in fome measure be eftimated from the following extract from a letter of the Rev. Mr. Kirkland, an eminent missionary therein educated, dated Boston, March 10, 1784.

" The Oneidas expect in the course of two years to have more than a thoufand Indians in their vicinity, who will be difpoled to attend to the word of God, and among those, fune hearty lovers of the religion of Fefus, as themfelves express it. About eighty of the Delaware tribe . . . . have lately petitioned the Oneidas for a fettlement in their neighbourhood, where they might have the privilege of religious inftruction. Their requeft was immediately granted." 3 5 2

This pouring out of the fpirit of God, when it is begun, fhall foon bring great multitudes to forfake that vice and wickednefs which now fo generally prevails, and fhall

grauted." In their addrefs to Mr. K. on this fubject, they have the following words : "We intreat our father to make one trial more for christianizing Indians, at least for one, if not for two years, and if there be no encouragement after this, that we shall be built up as a people, and embrace the religion of Jefus; he may leave us, and we thall expect nothing but ruin." In a letter to the Scots commiffioners at Bofton for propagating the Chriftian faith, the December preceding, is the following pallage, referring to the unhappy American war : "Fathers, .... we haveb een diftreffed by the black cloud that fo long overfpread our country : the cloud is now blown over; let us thank the Great Spirit and praife Jefus. By means of the fervants of Jefus, the good news of God's word hath been published to us. We have received it. Some of us love it, and Jefus hath preferved us through the late ftorm. Fathers, our fire begins to burn again ; our hearts rejoice to fee it : we hope it will burn brighter than ever, and that it will enlighten the nations around. Our brothers of the Stockbridge and Mohegan tribes, and many others from the eaftward, have already agreed to come and fit with us around it, who all hope to fee alfo the light of God's holy word." [Abftract of the Proceedings of the Scots Society for propagating Chriftian Knowledge.]

"Since the above, Mr. Kirkland was fent to the Society in Scotland for propagating Christian Knowledge, a copy of his journal from May 1786, to May 1787. A concern about religion began among the Oneida Indians, August and September 1786, and in November greatly increased, and continued to do to through the winter and fpring. About feventeen, in three villages of that tribe, appear favingly converted. In one of thefe villages, the convictions have been remarkably rational and pungent; and a fenfe of the cvil of fin has exceeded the fear of punifiment. In another, just views of their state have been more mixed with enthusiafm. Outward reformation is fuch, that in one village there hath not been an inflance of an Indian drunk thefe fix months. On Lord's days, Mr. Kirkland is often employed, without any confiderable intermiffion, from morning to evening, and can hardly command leifure for neceffury refreshment ; and often, on other days, fpends ten hours in preaching. catechizing, and private religious converfation with the many who come to him, to unfold the difficience of their fouls, and to afk inftruction in Chriftianity. Their hunger for the bread of life permits not his fending them empty away. Frequently they have enjoyed much of God's prefence in public worfhip. It was remarkably fo, January 1, 1787, when they were diffurbed with pagan Indians diffovering their joy for the new year, by fiting of guns, and inviting the Chriftians to an idolatrout fhall caufe that vital religion, which is now fo defpifed and laughed at in the world, to revive. The work of conversion shall break forth, and go on in such a manner as never has been hitherto; agreeable to that promite. [Ifa. xliv. 3---5.] ' I will pour water upon him that is ' thirsty . . my spirit upon thy feed . . . one shall fay, ' I am the Lord,' &c. God, by pouring out his holy Spirit, will furnith instruments for carrying on this work; will trous dance, for which there was not a fufficient number, through their refufal. Irritated at Mr. Kirkland, to whom they afcribed the difappointment, four Indian youths confpired to murder him that night, which was happily difcovered, and by the care of fome of his converts difappointed. Even the heathen Sachems difapproved this, and at an Indian council that week, three of the youths expressed their penitence, and the fourth fent his apology. Thefe appearances have ftruck fome of the Tufcararo and Onondago tribes. Mr. Kirkland writes, that his work, though fo uncommonly laborious, was never fo delightful. Indeed, fince the days of Mr. David Brainerd, there has been nothing fo promifing among the Indians. Mr. Kirkland is translating the gofpel of Mark, and fome felect Pfalms, into the Oncida language, which he hopes to get printed. His labours are much helped by good Peter the catechilt, one of the most eloquent men among the fix nations, and by the ichoolmafter, whole name I do not recollect."

[Sermon by the Rev. Mr. Oaccum, Indian Miffionary on the death of another Indian, just published by the Rev. Mr. Rippon.]

To the above-mentioned inflances may be applied a remark of fome eminent divines on the work of God in New England, not impertinent to the occasion of introducing this note:

"We are taught alfo by this happy event how eafy it will be for our bleffed Lord....to fpread his dominion, from fea to fea, through all the nations of the earth. We fee how eafy it is for him with one turn of his hand, with one word of his mouth, to awaken whole countries of flupid and fleeping finners, and kindle divine life in their fouls... The name of Chrift fhall diffufe itfelf like a rich and vital perfume to multitudes that were ready to fink, and to perifh under the painful fenfe of their own guilt and danger. Salvation fhall fpread through all the tribes and ranks of mankind, as the lightning from heaven in a few moments would communicate a living flame through 10,000 lamps or torches placed in a proper fituation and neighbourhood. Thus a notion fhall be born in a day when our Redeemer pleafes, and his faithful and obedient fubjects fnall become as numerous as the fipires of grafs in a mcadow newly mown and refreshed with the flowers of heaven."

[Dr. Watts and Dr. Guife's Preface to Mr. Edward's Nar. p. vii.]

will fill them with knowledge and wifdom, and fervent zeal for promoting the kingdom of Chrift, and the falvation of fouls, and propagating the gofpel in the world. So that the gofpel fhall begin to be preached with abundantly greater clearnefs and power than it has hitherto been: for this great work of God fhall be brought to pafs by the preaching of the gofpel, as is reprefented [Rev. xiv. 6---8.] that before Babylon falls, the gofpel fhall be powerfully preached and propagated in the world.

This was typified of old by the founding of the filver trumpets in Ifrael in the beginning of their jubilee: [Lev. xxv. 9.] ' Then shalt thou cause the trumpet of ' the jubilee to found on the tenth day of the feventh ' month; on the day of atonement shall ye make the ' trumpet found throughout all your land.' The glorious times which are approaching, are, as it were, the church's jubilee, which thall be introduced by the founding of the filver trumpet of the gospel, as is foretold [lfa. xxvii. 13.] ' And it shall come to pass in that day, that the great ' trumpet fhall be blown, and they ihall come which were ' ready to perifh in the land of Affyria, and the outcafts ' of the land of Egypt, and shall worship the Lord in the holy mount at Jerufalem.' And there shall be a glorious effusion of the Spirit with this clear and powerful preaching of the gofpel, to make it fuccefsful for reviving those holy doctrines of religion which are now chiefly ridiculed in the world, and turning many from herefy, and from popery, and from other false religions; and also for turning many from their vice and profanenefs, and for bringing vaft multitudes favingly to Chrift.

That work of conversion shall go on in a wonderful manner, and spread more and more. Many shall slow together to the goodness of the Lord, and shall come, as it were, in flocks, one flock and multitude after another. [Ifa. Ix. 4, 5.] ' Lift up thine eyes round about, and ' fee; all they gather themselves together, they come to ' thee; thy flow shall come from far, and thy daughters ' shall be nurfed at thy fide. Then thou shalt fee and ' flow flow together.' [ver. 8.] 'Who are thefe that fly as a 'cloud, and as the doves to their windows?' And it being reprefented in the forementioned place in the Revelation, [chap. xiv. 6---8.] that the gofpel thall be preached to every tongue, and kindred, and nation, and people, before the fall of antichrift; fo we may fuppofe, that it will foon be glorioufly fuccefsful to bring in multitudes from every nation; and it thall fpread with wonderful fwiftnefs, and vaft numbers thall fuddenly be brought in at once, and as it is faid, 'a nation thall be born in a day.' [Ifa. lxvi. 7---9.]

(4.) This pouring out of the Spirit of God will not affect the overthrow of Satan's visible kingdom, till there has first been a violent and mighty opposition made. In this the fcripture is plain, that when Chrift is thus glorioully coming forth, and the deftruction of antichrift is ready at hand, and Satan's kingdom begins to totter, the powers of the kingdom of darknefs will rife up, and mightily exert themfelves to prevent their kingdom being overthrown. Thus after the pouring out the fixth phial, which was to dry up the river Euphrates, to prepare the way for the deftruction of spiritual Babylon, it is reprefented [Rev. xvi.] as though the powers of hell will be mightily alarmed, and thould ftir up themfelves to oppofe the kingdom of Chrift, before the feventh and laft phial fhall be poured out, which fhall give them a final and complete overthrow. After an account of the pouring out of the fixth phial, [ver. 12.] the beloved difciple informs us in the following verfes, that ' three unclean fpirits, ' like frogs, shall go forth unto the kings of the earth, to ' gather them together to the battle of the great day of God ' Almighty.' This feems to be the last and greatest effort of Satan to fave his kingdom from being overthrown; though perhaps he may make as great an effort towards the end of the world to regain it.

When the Spirit begins to be glorioufly poured forth, and the devil fees fuch multitudes flocking to Chrift in one nation and another, and the foundations of his kingdom daily undermining, its pillars breaking, and the whole whole ready to fall, it will greatly alarm him. Satan has ever had a dread of his kingdom being overthrown, and he has long been endeavouring to fortify his kingdom, and to prevent its ruin. To this end he fet up the two mighty kingdoms of Antichrift and Mahomet, and has nurfed all the herefies and fuperfittions in the world: but when he fees all begin to fail, it will roufe him exceedingly. If Satan dreaded being caft out of the Roman empire, how much more does he dread being caft out of the whole world.

It feems as though in this laft great oppofition which fhall be made against the church to defend the kingdom of Satan, that all the forces of antichrift, mahometanifm and heathenism, will be united; all the power of Satan's vifible kingdom through the whole world : and therefore it is faid [Rev. xvi. 14.] that ' fpirits of devils shall go ' forth unto the kings of the earth, and of the whole ' world, to gather them together to the battle of the great ' day of God Almighty.' And these spirits are faid to come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beaft, and out of the mouth of the falfe prophet : i. e. there shall be the spirit of popery, and the fpirit of mahometanism, and the spirit of heathenism, all united. By the beaft is meant antichrift ; by the dragon, in this book, is commonly meant the devil, as he reigns over his heathen kingdom; by the false prophet, in this book, is fometimes meant the pope and his clergy : but here an eye feems to be had to Mahomet, whom his followers call the great prophet of God. This will be, as it were, the dying ftruggle of the old ferpent; a battle wherein he will fight as one that is desperate.

We know not particularly in what manner this oppofition will be made. It is reprefented as a battle; it is called ' the battle of the great day of God Almighty.' There will be fome way or other a mighty ftruggle between Satan's kingdom and the church, and probably in all manner of ways; and doubtlefs great oppofition will be made by external force; wherein the princes of the world who are on the devil's fide fhall join hand in hand; for it it is faid, ' The kings of the earth are gathered together ' to battle.' [Rev. xix. 19.] And probably alfo there will be great opposition of fubtle difputers and carnal reasoning ; great perfecution in many places, and virulent reproaches. The devil now doubtlefs will ply his skill, as well as ftrength, to the utmost. The allies and fubjects who belong to his kingdom, will every where he ftirred up, and engaged to make an united and violent opposition against this holy religion, which they fee prevailing fo mightily in the world.---But,

(5.) Chrift and his church shall in this battle obtain 2 complete victory over their enemies. They shall be totally routed and overthrown in this their last effort .---When the powers of hell and earth are thus gathered together against Christ, and his armies shall come forth against them by his word and spirit to fight with them, in how august and glorious a manner is this defcribed. [Rev. xix. 11---16.] ' And I faw heaven opened, and ' behold a white horfe, and he that fat upon him is called ' faithful and true,' &c. And to reprefent to us how great the victory thould be which they fhould obtain, and how mighty the overthrow of their enemies, it is faid, [ver. 17. 18.] that ' all the fowls of heaven are called together, to ' eat the great fupper given them, of the fleth of kings, ' and captains, and mighty men.' &c. and in the following verfes we have an account of the victory and overthrow.

In this victory, the feventh phial shall be poured out-It is faid, [Rev. xvi. 16.] of the great army that thould be gathered together against Christ: ' And he gathered ' them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue, " Armageddon ;' and then it is faid, ' And the feventh an-' gel poured out his phial into the air; and there came a ' great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the ' throne, faying, It is done.' Now the bufinefs is done for Satan and his adherents. When this victory is obtained, all is in effect done. Satan's last and greatest op-position is conquered; all his measures are defeated; the pillars of his kingdom broken, and will fall of courfe. The

3 T

The devil is utterly baffled and confounded, and knows not what elfe to do. He now fees his antichriftian, Mahometan, and heathenith kingdoms through the world, all tumbling about his ears. He and his most powerful instruments are taken captive. Now that is in effect done which the church of God had been fo long waiting and hoping for, and fo earnestly crying to God for, faying, 'How ' long, O Lord, holy and true ?' Now the time is come.

The angel that fet his right foot on the fea, and his left foot on the earth, [Rev. x. 5 --- 7.] lift up his hand to heaven, and fware by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven, and all things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the fea, and the things which are therein, that when the feventh angel thould come to found, the time thould be no longer. And now the time is come; now the feventh trumpet founds, and the feventh phial is poured out, both together; intimating, that now all is finished as to the overthrow of Satan's visible kingdom on earth. This victory shall be by far the greatest that ever was obtained over Satan and his adherents. By this blow, with which the ftone cut out of the mountain without hands shall strike the image of gold, and filver, and brafs, and iron, and clay, it shall all be broken to pieces. This will be a finishing blow to the image, fo that it shall become as the chaff of the fummer threshing floor. [See Dan. ii. 35.]

In this victory will be a most glorious display of divine power. Chrift shall therein appear in the character of King of kings, and Lord of lords, [Rev. xix. 16.] and shall dash his enemies, even the strongest and proudest of them, in pieces; as a potter's vessel shall they be broken to shivers. Then shall strength be shown out of weakness, and Chrift shall cause his church as it were to thresh the mountains. [Ifa. xli. 15.] 'Behold, I will make thee a new 's sharp threshing inftrument having teeth; thou shalt thresh 'the mountains, and beat them small, and shalt make the 'hills as chaff.' [See also Ifa. xliii. 13---15.]

(6.) Confequent on this victory, Satan's vifible kingdom on earth thall be deftroyed. When Satan is conquered in this this last battle, the church of Christ will have eafy work of it; as when Joshua and the children of Israel had obtained that great victory over the five kings of the Amorites, [Jofh. x. 5---14.] when the fun flood ftill, and God fent great hailftones upon their enemies, they after that went from one city to another, and burnt them with fire : they had eafy work of fubduing the cities and country to which they belonged. So it was alfo after that other great battle that Jofhua had with that great multitude at the waters of Merom. [Jofh. xi. 5---9.] So after this glorious victory of Chrift and his church over their enemies, the chief powers of Satan's kingdom, they shall destroy that kingdom in all those cities and countries to which they belong. Then the word of God thall have a fwift progrefs through the earth; as is faid, that on the pouring out of the feventh phial, ' the cities of the nations fell, and every ' ifland fled away, and the mountains were not found.' [Rev. xvi. 19, 20.] When once the flone cut out of the mountain without hands had broken the image in pieces, it was eafy to abolish all remains of it. The very wind will carry it away as the chaff of the fummer threshingfloor. Becaufe Satan's visible kingdom on earth shall now be destroyed, therefore it is faid, that the feventh phial, by which this shall be done, shall be poured out into the air; which is reprefented in foripture as the fpecial feat of his kingdom; for he is called ' the prince of the power of the ' air.' [Eph. ii. 2.] Now is come the time for punishing Leviathan, that piercing ferpent, of which we read, [Ifa. xxvii. 1.] ' In that day the Lord with his fore and great ' and ftrong fword, thall punifh Leviathan the piercing ' ferpent, even Leviathan, that crooked ferpent, and he " fhall flay the dragon that is in the fea."

Concerning this overthrow of Satan's vifible kingdom on earth, I would, [1.] Show wherein this overthrow of Satan's vifible kingdom will chiefly confift; [2.] The extent and universality of this overthrow.

[1.] I would flow wherein this overthrow of Satan's kingdom will chiefly confift. I fhall mention the principal things in which it will confift, without pretending to determine in what order they fhall come to pafs, or which fhall be accomplifhed firft, or whether they fhall be accomplifhed together.

3 T 2

deter-

Herefies, infidelity, and fuperflition, among those who have been brought up under the light of the gospel, will then be abolished. Then there will be an end to Socinianism, Arianism, Quakerism, and Arminianism; and Deism, which is now to bold and confident in infidelity, shall then be crussed to nothing; and all shall agree in the fame great and important doctrines of the gospel; agreeable to that promise, [Zech. xiv. 9.] 'And the Lord shall be king over all the earth: in that day shall there ' be one Lord, and his name one.' Then shall all superstition be abolished, and all shall agree in worshipping God in his own ways. [Jer. xxxii. 39.] 'And I will ' give them one heart, and one way, that they may fear ' me for ever, for the good of them, and of their chil-' dren after them.'

The kingdom of antichrift shall be utterly overthrown. His kingdom and dominion has been much brought down already by the phial poured out on his throne in the Reformation; but then it shall be utterly destroyed. Then thall be proclaimed, ' Babylon is fallen, is fallen.' When the feventh angel founds, ' the time, times and half, shall ' be out, and the time shall be no longer.' , Then shall be accomplithed concerning antichrift the things which are written, [Rev. xviii.] concerning the fpiritual Babylon, that has for fo many ages been the great enemy of the Christian church, first under heathenism, then under popery: that proud city which lifted herfelf up to heaven, and above God himfelf in her pride and haughtinefs; that cruel, bloody city, shall come down to the ground. Then shall that be fulfilled, [Ifa. xxvi. 5.] ' For he <sup>6</sup> bringeth down them that dwell on high, the lofty city · he layeth it low, he layeth it low, even to the ground, ' he bringeth it even to the duft.' She shall be thrown ' down with violence, like a great millftone caft into the " fea, and shall be found no more at all, and shall become an habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul fpirit, · and <sup>6</sup> and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.' Now fhall fhe be fripped of all her glory, and riches, and ornaments, and fhall be caft out as an abominable branch, and fhall be trodden down as the mire of the ftreets. All her policy and craft, in which fhe fo abounded, fhall not fave her. And God fhall make his people, who have been fo perfecuted by her, to come and put their foot on the neck of antichrift, and he fhall be their footftool. All the ftrength and wifdom of this great harlot fhall fail her, and there fhall be none to help her. The kings of the earth, who before gave their power and ftrength to the beaft, fhall now hate her, and fhall make her defolate and naked, and fhall eat her fiefh, and burn her with fire. [Rev. xvii: 16.]

The Mahometan kingdom fhall be utterly overthrown: the locufts and horfemen [Rev. ix. 10.] have their appointed and limited time fet them, and the falfe prophet fhall be taken and deftroyed. And then, though Mahometanifm has been fo vaftly propagated in the world, and is upheld by fuch a great empire, this fmoke, which has afcended out of the bottomlefs pit, fhall be utterly feattered before the light of that glorious day, and the Mahometan empire fhall fall at the found of the great trumpet which fhall then be blown.

Jewish infidelity shall then be overthrown. However obstinate they have been now for above 1700 years in rejecting Chrift, and though inftances of their conversion have been fo rare everfince the destruction of Jerufalem. and they have, against the plain words of their own prophets, continued to approve of the cruelty of their forefathers in crucifying Chrift; yet when this day comes, the thick vail that blinds their eyes shall be removed, [2 Cor. iii. 16.7 divine grace shall melt and renew their hard hearts, ' and they shall look on him whom they have ' pierced, and they shall mourn for him, as one mourneth · for his only fon, and fhall be in bitternefs as one that is ' in bitternefs for his first-born.' [Zech. xii. 10, &c.] And then shall the house of Israel be faved : the Jews in all their difperfions thall caft away their old infidelity; fhall thall have their hearts wonderfully changed, and abhor themfelves for their paft unbelief and obfinacy; and fhall flow together to the bleffed Jefus, penitently, humbly, and joyfully owing him as their glorious King and only Saviour, and fhall, with one heart and voice, declare his praifes unto other nations.

Nothing is more certainly foretold, than this national conversion of the Jews is in the xith chapter of Romans. And there are also many passages of the Old Testament which cannot well be interpreted in any other fense, which I shall not now particularly mention. Besides the prophecies of the calling of the Jews, we have a remarkable feal of the fulfilment of this great event in providence, by their being preferved a distinct nation in such a dispersed condition for above 1600 years, which is a kind of continual miracle. (x) When they shall be called, then shall that

(x) PRESERVATION of the JEWS.] "I have often amufed myfelf (fays Mr. ADDISON) with fpeculations on the race of people called Jews, many of whom I have met with in moft of the confiderable towns which I have paffed through in the courfe of my travels. They are, indeed, fo differminated through all the trading parts of the world, that they are become the inftruments by which the moft diffant nations converfe with one another, and by which mankind are knit together in a general correspondence : they are like the pegs and nails in a great building, which though they are but little valued in themfelves, are abfolutely neceffary to keep the whole frame together.

"The Jews are looked upon by many to be as numerous at prefent, as they were formerly in the land of Canaan. This is wonderful, confidering the dreadful flaughter made of them under fome of the Roman emperors, which hiftorians deferibe by the death of many hundred thoufands in a war; and the innumerable maffacres and perfecutions they have undergone in Turkey, as well as in all Chriftian nations of the world. 'The Rabbins, to exprefs the great havock which has been fometimes made of them, tell us, after their ufnal manner of hyperbole, that there were fuch torrents of holy blood fhed as carried rocks of an hundred yards in circumference above three miles into the fea.

"Their difperiion is the fecond remarkable particular in this people. They fwarm over all the Eafl; and are fettled in the remotelt parts of China: they are fpread through moft of the nations of Europe and Africa, and many families of them are eflablifhed in the Weft-Indice; not to mention whole nations bordering that ancient people, that were alone God's people for fo long a time, be received again, never to be rejected more: they fhall then be gathered into one fold together with the Gentiles; on Prefter-John's country, and fome difcovered in the inner parts of America, if we may give any credit to their own writers.

"Their firm adherence to their religion is no lefs remarkable than their numbers and difperfion, efpecially confidering it as perfecuted or contemned over the face of the whole earth. This is likewife the more remarkable, if we confider the frequent apoltafies of this people, when they lived under their kings in the Land of Promife, and within fight of their temple.

"If in the next place we examine, what may be the natural reafons for thefe three particulars which we find in the Jews, and which are not to be found in any other religion or people, I can, in the first place, attribute their numbers to nothing but their conflant employment, their abstinence, their exemption from wars, and, above all, their frequent marriages, for they look on celibacy as an accurfed flate, and generally are married before twenty, as hoping the Mefliah may defeend from them.

"The difperfion of the Jews into all the nations of the earth is the fecond remarkable particular of that people, though not fo hard to be accounted for. They were always in rebellions and tumults while they had the temple and holy city in view, for which reafon they have been often driven out of their old habitations in the Land of Promife. They have as often been banifhed out of moft other places where they have fettled, which muft very much difperfe and featter a people, and oblige them to feek a livelihood where they can find it. Befides, the whole people is now a race of fuch merchants as are wanderers by profeffion, and at the fame time are in moft, if not all, places incapable of either lands or offices, that might engage them to make any part of the world their home.

"This difpertion would probably have loft their religion, had it not been fecured by the ftrength of its conflitution; for they are to live all in a body, and generally within the fame enclofure; to marry among themfelves, and to eat no meats that are not killed or prepared their own way. This fluts them out from all table converfation, and the most agreeable intercourfes of life; and, by confequence, excludes them from the most probable means of conversion.

" If, in the laft place, we confider what providential reafon may be affigned for thefe three particulars, we fhall find that their numbers, difperfion, and adherence to their religion, have furnifhed every age, and every nation of the world, with the ftrongeft arguments for the Chriftian faith; not only as thefe very particulars are foretold of them, but as they themfelves are the depolitaries of thefe and all the other prophecies, which tend to their own

Gentiles; and fo alfo shall the remains of the ten tribes. wherever they be, and though they have been rejected much longer than the Jews, be brought in with their brethren. The prophecies of Hofea efpecially feem to hold this forth, that in the future glorious times of the church, both Judah and Ephraim, or Judah and the ten tribes, shall be brought in together, and shall be united as one people, as they formerly were under David and Solomon; ' Then shall the children of Judah and the chil-' dren of Ifrael be gathered together, and appoint them-' felves one head,' [Hofea i. 11.] and fo in the laft chapter, and other parts of his prophecy. Though we do not know the time in which this conversion of the nation of Ifrael will come to pafs; yet thus much we may determine by fcripture, that it will be before the glory of the Gentile part of the church thall be fully accomplished ; becaufe it is faid, that their coming in fhall ' be life from the dead to ' the Gentiles.' [Rom. xi. 12---15.]---(Y) own confusion. Their number furnishes us with a fufficient cloud of witness that attess the truth of the Old Bible. Their difpersion fpreads these witness through all parts of the world. The adherence to their religion makes their tessimony unquestionable." [Spectator, No. 495.]

Then

To ftrengthen thefe remarks, we fhall add the following anecdote: —A perfon, the former part of whofe life was fpent in vice, when he became thoughtful of death and eternity, was fhaken in mind from day to day with many doubts about the truth of the Chriftian faith; and being upon the point of a refolution to renounce it, as he was paffing through a ftreet in the city, he caft his eyes upon a Jew; prefently his doubts vanished, and by the bleffing of God attending that providential occurrence he became a confirmed believer.

[WINTER's Sermons on Dan. p. 153.]

(Y) The RESTORATION of the JEWS.] Mr. LOCKE [in loc.] gives us the fubiliance of the xith chapter of the Romans above reierred to in a few words: "St. Paul in this chapter goes on to flew the future flate of the JeWs and Gentiles, as to Chriftianity, viz. that though the JeWs were for their unbelief rejected, and the Gentiles taken in their room to be the people of God; yet there was a few of the JeWs that believed in Chrift, and fo a fmall remnant of them continued to be God's people, being incorporated with the converted Gentiles into the Chriftian church. But when the

Then shall also Satan's heathenish kingdom be overthrown. Grofs heathenifm now poffeffes a great part of the earth, and there are fuppofed to be more heathens now in the world, than of all other profetions taken together, Jews, Mahometans, and Chriftians. But then the heathen nations thall be enlightened with the glorious gofpel. There will be a wonderful fpirit of pity towards them, and zeal for their inftruction and convertion put into multitudes, and many thall go forth and carry the gofpel unto them; and then shall the joyful found be heard among them, and the Sun of righteoufnefs thall arife with his glorious light thining on those many vaft regions of the earth that have been covered with heathenish darkness for some thousand years, many of them doubtlefs ever fince the time of Mofes and Abraham, and have lain thus long in a miferable condition, under the cruel tyranny of the devil, who has all this while blinded and the fulnefs of the Gentiles is come in, [fee ver. 25, 26.] the whole nation of them shall be converted to the gospel, and again be reftored to be the people of God."

3 U

Dr. W. HARRIS juffly obferves, that " as this epiftle was written . . . long after the moft remarkable conversion of the Jews, by the first preaching of the gospel, and after Paul had been about thirty years engaged in the work, it appears that the Prophecies relating to the calling of the Jews were not accomplished then, and confequently are not yet accomplifhed." [Dif. on the Mefilah, p. 91.]

Dr. WHITBY, [in loc.] very juftly observes, that " there is a double harveft of the Gentiles spoken of in this chapter; the shift called their riches, [ver. 12.] as confifting in preaching the gospel to all nations, whereby indeed they were happily enriched with divine knowledge and grace; the fecond, the bringing in their fullnefs, which expresses a more glorious conversion of many to the true faith of Christians in the latter age of the world, which is to be occafioned by the conversion of the Jews."

It is indeed now pretty generally agreed among the learned, that we are warranted by the feriptures to expect a national convertion of the Jews, and their return to their own land; and the chief thing which has prejudiced fo many perfons against this hypothefis is, that fome divines have carried it too far, almost to the reflitution of Judaifm itfelf, and added a number of particulars from their own conjecture, which are by no means plainly revealed. [G. E.]

and made a prey of them from generation to generation. Now the glad tidings of the gofpel fhall found there, and they fhall be brought out of darknets into marvellous light. (z)

It is promifed in many places that heathenifm fhall thus be deftroyed: thus it is faid, that ' the gods which have ' not made thefe heavens and this earth, thall perifh from ' the earth, and from under thefe heavens, [ Jer. x. 11.] ' and that he will utterly abolifh idols.' [ Ifa. ii. 18.] Then fhall

(z) State of the HEATHEN world.] Divines have much diffuted about the falvation of the heathen; fome have precipitately given them up entirely to the devil, and configned them over to everlafting darknefs and defpair; while others, fluddering at fo horrid an idea, have ran into the opposite extreme, and fuppose, that they might be faved merely by the light of nature.

" I am perfuaded, (fays the amiable Dr. Watts) that God never did, nor will forgive the fin of any man, ... but upon the account of what Jefus has done and fuffered, ... fo that if heathens are faved, I think it is øwing to the merit of Chrift and his death. 'There is falvation in no other, nor is there any other 'name whereby men may be faved.' [Acts iv. 12.]....But, though I fuppofe no man shall be faved but by virtue of the mediation and death of Chrift, .... yet there is good reason to believe, that there have been many finners actually faved, who never believed in Jefus Chrift, ... nor ever heard of his name." [Strength and Weaknefs of human Reason, p. 106.]

To confirm the latter obfervation our Christian Philosopher, among other inflances, mentions Cornelius, who 'feared God, and 'was accepted of him,' previous to his having any knowledge of Jefus Christ and the gospel. [Acts x. 31, 33.]

Perfectly confiftent with the above are the fentiments of the elegant Monf. SAURIN; "We will not fay with fome divines, that the heathens were faved by an implicit faith, .... we will not affirm with Clement of Alexandria, that philofophy was to the Greeks, what the law was to the Jews; ... nor with St. Chryfoftom, that they who, defpifing idolatry, adored the Creator... were faved without faith; .... [nor] like one of our reformers, (Zuinglius) place Thefus, Hercules, Numa, &c. with the patriarchs... and apofiles; .... lefs ftill do we fay with St. Auguftin that the Erythrean Sybil is in heaven.... But after all, who dare limit the Holy One of Ifnael? Who dare affirm that God could not reveal himfelf to a heathen on his death bed? Who will venture to fay he hath never done fo? [Sermons, vol. ii. p. 314-] fhall the nations of Africa, the negroes, (A) and other heathens who chiefly fill that quarter of the world, who now feem to be in a flate but little above the beafts, and in fome respects below them, be enlightened with glorious light, and delivered from all their darknefs, and fhall become a civilized, intelligent, and holy people. Then shall the vaft continent of America, fo great a part of which is covered with barbarous ignorance and cruelty, be every where covered with glorious gofpel light and Christian love; and instead of worthipping the devil, as now they do, they shall serve God, and praifes shall be fung every where to the Lord Jefus Chrift, the Saviour of the world. So may we expect it will be in that great and populous part of the world, the East Indies, which are now moftly inhabited by the worthippers of the devil, and fo throughout that vaft country Great Tartary: (B) then the kingdom of Christ will be established in those continents which have been more lately difcovered towards the north and fouth poles, where now men differ very little from the wild beafts, excepting that they worthip 3 U 2 the

(A) The flote of the NEGROES.] May we not hope from the prefent appearance of things, that it is referved for our age and nation to liberate, at leaft in a happy degree, thefe miferable outcalts of mankind, and thus prepare the way for the introduction of the gofpel among them? which in their prefent flate feems next to impoffible. [U. S.]

(B) The IDOLATRY of the TARTAR3.] " The Delai Lama is the grand object of adoration for the various tribes of heathen Tartars, who roam that vaft tract of continent which ftretches from the banks of the Volga to Correa on the fea of Japan ; the most extensive religious dominion, perhaps, on the face of the globe. He is not only the fovereign pontiff, the vicegerent of the Deity upon earth; but . . . the more remote Tartars ablolutely regard him as the Deity himfelf. They believe him immortal, and endowed with all knowledge and virtue. Every year they come up from different parts to worship and make rich offerings at his fhrine. . . . The orthodox opinion is, that when the Grand Lama feems to die, .... his foul .... only quits a .... crazy habitation to look for another, . . . and is diffeovered again in the body of fome child, by certain tokens known only to the lamas, or priefts." [Stewart's Account of Thibet, Philof. Tranf. vol. lxvii.]

the devil. and beafts do not. The fame will be the cafe with those countries which have never yet been discovered. Thus will be glorioufly fulfilled that promife, [Ifa. xxxv. 1.] ' The wilderness and the folitary place shall be glad ' for them: and the defert shall rejoice and blossom as the ' rose.' [See also ver. 6, 7.]

[2.] Having thus flown wherein this overthrow of Satan's kingdom will confift, I come now to obferve its univerfal extent. The visible kingdom of Satan shall be overthrown, and the kingdom of Chrift fet up on the ruins of it, every where throughout the habitable globe. Now shall the promife made to Abraham be fulfilled, that ' in him and in his feed all the families of the earth be · bleffed;' and Chrift now shall become the defire of all nations. [Hazgai ii. 7.] Now the kingdom of Chrift fhall, in the most strift and literal fense, be extended to all nations, and the whole earth. There are many paffages of fcripture that can be underftood in no other fenfe. What can be more univerfal than this, [Ifa. xi. 9.] ' For ' the earth fhall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as ' the waters cover the fea.' As there is no channel or cavity of the fea any where, but what is covered with water; fo there shall be no part of the habitable world, but what shall be covered with the knowledge of God. So it is foretold [Ifa. xlv. 22.] that all the ends of the earth fhall look to Chrift and be faved. And to fhow that the words are to be understood in the most universal sense, it is faid in the next verfe, 'I have fworn by myfelf, the word is ' gone out of my mouth in righteoufnefs, and shall not ' return, that unto me every knee shall bow, every tongue ' fhall fwear.' So the prophet Daniel, [chap. vii. 27.] " And the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the ' kingdom under the whole heaven thall be given to the ' people of the faints of the most High God.' When the devil was caft out of the Roman empire, that being the principal part of the world, and the other nations being mean in comparison of those of that empire, it was reprefented as Satan's being caft out of heaven to the earth, [Rev. xii. 9.] but it is reprefented that he shall be be caft out of the earth too, and flut up in hell. [Rev. xx. 1---3.]---This is the greatest revolution by far that ever came to pass: therefore it is faid, [Rev. xvi. 17, 18.] that on pouring out the seventh phial there was a great earthquake, such as was not fince men were upon earth, so mighty an carthquake and so great.

(7.) And this is the third great difpendation of Providence, which is in fcripture compared to Chrift's coming to judgment. So it is faid, after the fixth phial, and after the devil's armies were gathered together to their creat battle, and just before Christ's glorious victory over them, [Rev. xvi. 15.] ' Behold, I come quickly; bleffed ' is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments.' So [2 Thef. ii. 8.] fpeaking of antichrift, it is faid, ' And ' then thall that wicked be revealed, whom the Lord thall ' confume with the fpirit of his mouth, and fhall deftroy " with the brightness of his coming." So Christ's coming to fet up his kingdom on earth, and to deftroy antichrift. is called coming with clouds of heaven. [Dan. vii. 13, 14.] And this is more like Chrift's last coming to judgment, than any of the preceding difpenfations which are fo called, on these accounts :

[1.] That the difpendation is greater and more universal, and fo more like the day of judgment, which refpects the whole world.

[2.] On account of the fpiritual refurrection which will accompany it, refembling the general refurrection at the end of the world. [Rev. xx. 4.]

[3.] Because of the terrible judgments and fearful defiruction which shall now be executed on God's enemies. There will doubtles be at the introduction of this dispenfation a visible and awful hand of God against blassphemers, and obstinate enemies of Christ; and especially antichrist himself, which is compared to the casting of antichrist himself, which is compared to the casting of antichrist into the burning flame, [Dan. vii. 11.] and to cashing him alive into the lake that burns with fire and brinssphere. [Rev. xix. 20.]---Then shall the cruel church of Rome suffer those judgments from God, which shall be far more dreadful than her cruelest perfecutions of the faints.

faints. [Rev. xviii. 6, 7.]---The judgments which God fhall execute on the enemies of the church, are fo great, that they are compared to God's fending great hailftones from heaven upon them. [Rev. xvi. 21.] 'And there fell ' upon men a great hail out of heaven, every ftone about ' the weight of a talent: and men blafphemed God, be-' caufe of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof ' was exceeding great.' And now fhall be the treading of the wine-prefs of the wrath of God. [Rev. xiv. 19, 20.]

[4.] This shall put an end to the church's fuffering ftate, and fhall be attended with their glorious and joyful praifes. Indeed, after this, near the end of the world, the church shall be greatly threatened; but it is faid, it shall be for a little feason, [Rev. xx. 3.] for as the times of the church's reft are but fhort, before the long day of her afflictions are at an end, fo whatever affliction she may fuffer after this, it will be very fhort : but otherwife the day of the church's affliction and perfecution shall now come to a final end. The fcriptures, in many places, fpeak of this time as the end of the fuffering ftate of the church. [Ifa. li. 22.] God fays to his church, with respect to this time, ' Behold, I have taken out of thine ' hand the cup of trembling, even the dregs of the cup of ' my fury ; thou shalt no more drink it again.' [Ch. xl. 1, 2.] 'Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, faith your 'God. Speak ye comfortably unto Jerufalem, and cry ' unto her that her warfare is accomplished, that her ini-' quity is pardoned; for the hath received of the Lord's ' hand double for all her fins.' [Ch. xl. 20.] ' The · Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of " thy mourning fhall be ended." [Zeph. iii. 15.] " The . Lord hath taken away thy judgments, he hath caft out ' thine enemy: the King of Ifrael, even the Lord is in ' the midft of thee: thou fhalt not fee evil any more.' [See alfo lfa. liv. 8, 9.]

The time which hath been before this, hath been the church's fowing time, wherein the fowed in tears and in blood: but now is her harveft, wherein the will come again rejoicing, bringing her theaves with her. Now the time time of the travail of the woman cloathed with the fun is at an end: now the hath brought forth her fon; for this glorious fetting up of the kingdom of Chrift through the world, is what the church had been in travail for, with fuch terrible pangs, for fo many ages; [lfa. xxvi. 17.] ' Like as a woman with child that draweth near the time ' of her delivery is in pain, and crieth out in her pangs; ' fo have we been in thy fight, O Lord.' [See ch. lx. 20. and Ixi. 10, 11.] And now the church shall forget her forrow, fince a man-child is born into the world: now fucceed her joyful praife and triumph. Her praifes thall then go up to God from all parts of the earth; [Ifa. xlii. 10---12.] And praife thall not only fill the earth, but alfo heaven. The church on earth, and the church in heaven, shall both gloriously rejoice and praise God, as with one heart, on that occasion. Without doubt it will be a time of very diffinguished joy and praise among the holy prophets and apoftles, and other faints in heaven: [Rev. xxiii. 20.] ' Rejoice over her thou heaven, and ye holy ' apofiles and prophets, for God hath avenged you on ' her.' [Ifa. xliv. 23.] ' Sing, O ye heavens, for the Lord ' hath done it ; fhout, ye lower parts of the earth : break ' forth into finging, ye mountains, O forest, and every ' tree therein : for the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and glo-" rified himfelf in Ifrael." See what joyful praifes are fung to God on this occasion by the universal church in heaven and earth. [Rev. xix. 1 --- 7.] ' Allelujah, falvation and ' honor and power unto the Lord our God,' &c.

[5.] This difpenfation is above all preceding ones, like Chrift's coming to judgment, in that it puts an end to the former flate of the world, and introduces his everlafting kingdom. Now Satan's visible kingdom shall be overthrown, after it has flood ever fince the building of Babel; and the old heavens and the old earth shall pafs away, and the new heavens and new earth be fet up in a far more glorious manner than ever before.

THUS I have thown how the fuccels of Christ's purchafe has been carried on through the times of the afflicted flate of the Christian church, from Christ's refurrection, until until antichrift is fallen, and Satan's visible kingdom on earth is overthrown.

§ IV. THE SUCCESS OF CHRIST'S REDEMPTION CAR-RIED ON IN A PROSPEROUS STATE.

1 COME now to fhow how the fuccefs of redemption will be carried on through that fpace wherein the Chriftian church fhall for the most part be in a flate of peace and prosperity. And in order to this, I would, I. Speak of the prosperous flate of the church through the greater part of this period. 2. Of the great apostafy there shall be towards the close of it.

1. I would fpeak of the profperous flate of the church through the greater part of this period. And here observe,

(1.) That this is most properly the time of the kingdom of heaven upon earth. Though the kingdom of heaven was in a degree fet up foon after Christ's refurrection, and in a farther degree in the time of Constantine; and though the Christian church in all ages of it is called the kingdom of heaven; yet this is most eminently the kingdom of heaven upon earth, the time principally intended by the prophecies of Daniel, which speak of the kingdom of heaven, whence the Jews took the expression. [See Dan. ii. 44.]

(2.) That this is the grand period for the fulfilment of all the prophecies of the Old Teftament which fpeak of the glorious times of the gofpel in the latter days. Though there has been a bleffed fulfilment of those prophecies already, in the times of the apoftles, and of Conftantine; yet the expressions are too high to fuit any other time entirely, but that which is to fucceed the fall of antichrift. This is most properly the glorious day of the gospel. Other times are only forerunners and preparatories to this; other times were the feed-time, but this is the harveft.----But more particularly,

[1.] It will be a time of great light and knowledge. The prefent days are days of darknefs, in comparison of those those days. The light of that glorious time shall be fo great, that it is reprefented as though there should then be no night, but only day; no evening nor darkness. [Zech. xiv. 6, 7.] 'And it fhall come to pass in that day, that the light shall not be clear, nor dark. But it ' fhall be one day, which fhall be known to the Lord, ' not day, nor night: but it shall come to pass, that at ' evening-time it shall be light.' It is further represented, as though God would then give fuch light to his church, that it should fo much exceed the glory of the light of the fun and moon, that they fhould be afhamed: [Ifa. xxiv. 23.] ' Then the moon shall be confounded, and the fun ' afhamed, when the Lord of hofts fhall reign in Mount "Zion, and in Jerufalem, and before his ancients glo-' rioufly.' There is a kind of veil now caft over the greater part of the world, which keeps them in darknefs; but then this veil shall be deftroyed : [lfa. xxv. 7.] ' And · he will deitroy in this mountain the face of the covering · caft over all people, and the veil that is fpread over all ' nations.' And then all countries and nations, even those which are now most ignorant, shall be full of light and knowledge; and not only divines, but ordinary Chriftians shall then be very intelligent in religion ;---[ Ifa. xxxii. 3, 4.] ' The eyes of them that fee, thall not be ' dim; and the ears of them that hear, shall hearken. . The heart alfo of the rafh thall understand knowledge." [Jer. xxxi. 34.] ' And they fhall teach no more every ' man his neighbour, and every man his brother, faying, ' Know the Lord; for they thall all know me, from the · leaft of them unto the greateft of them.' There thall then be a wonderful unravelling of the difficulties in the doctrines of religion, and a clearing up of feeming inconfiftencies: [Ifa. xl. 4, 5.] ' Crooked things thall be " made ftraight, and rough places plain, and darkness " thall become light before God's people." Difficulties in fcripture thall then be cleared up, and myfteries difcovered in the word of God, which were never revealed before. This feems to be compared to removing the veil, and difcovering the ark of the testimony to the people, which before before ufed to be kept in the fecret part of the temple, and was never feen by them. Thus, at the founding of the feventh angel, when it is proclaimed, [Rev. xi. 15.] ' That the kingdoms of this world are become the king-' doms of our Lord and of Chrift;' it is added, [ver. 19.] that ' the temple of God was opened in heaven, and ' there was feen in his temple the ark of his teftament.' So great fhall be the increase of knowledge in this time, that heaven fhall be as it were opened to the church of God on earth.

[2.] It shall be a time of great holinefs. Now vital religion shall every where prevail and reign. Religion shall not be an empty profession, as it now mostly is, but holinefs of heart and life shall abundantly prevail. Those times shall be an exception from what Christ fays of the ordinary flate of the church, viz. that there fhall be but few faved; for now holinefs fhall become general: [Ifa. 1x. 21.] ' Thy people alfo thall be all righteous.' Not that there will be none remaining in a Chriftlefs condition; but that visible wickedness fliall be suppressed every where, and true holinefs shall become general, though not universal. And it shall be a wonderful time, not only for the multitude of godly men, but for eminency of grace: [Ifa. lxv. 20.] ' There shall be no more thence ' an infant of days, nor an old man that hath not filled · his days: for the child fhall die an hundred years old, ' but the finner being an hundred years old, shall be ac-' carfed.' [Zech. xii. 8.] ' He that is feeble among them ' at that day shall be as David; and the house of David ' fhall be as God, as the angel of the Lord before them.' And holinefs fhall then be as it were infcribed on every thing, on all men's common bufinefs and employments, and the common utenfils of life : all fhall be as it were dedicated to God, and applied to holy purpofes: every thing thall then be done to the glory of God; [Ifa. xxiii. 18.] ' And her merchandife and her hire shall be holi-' nefs to the Lord.' [Zech. xiv. 20, 21.]---And as God's people then shall be eminent in holinefs of heart, fo they shall be also in holiness of life and practice.

[3.] It

[3.] It shall be a time wherein religion shall in every respect be uppermost in the world. It shall be had in great effeem and honour. The faints have hitherto for the most part been kept under, and wicked men have governed; but now they will be uppermoft. The kingdom shall be given into ' the hands of the faints of the ' Moft high God, [Dan. vii. 27.] ' And they fhall reign ' on earth.' [Rev. v. 10.] ' They thall live and reign with ' Chrift a thoufand years.' [Rev. xx. 4.] In that day, fuch perfons as are eminent for true piety and religion, shall be chiefly promoted to places of trust and authority. Vital religion shall then take possession of palaces and thrones; and those who are in the highest advancement shall be hely men; [Ifa. xlix. 23.] And kings shall · be thy nurfing fathers, and queens thy nurfing mothers.' Kings shall employ all their power, and glory, and riches, for the advancement of the honour and glory of Chrift and the good of his church; [Ifa. lx. 16.] ' Thou thalt ' alfo fuck the milk of the Gentiles, and fhalt fuck the ' breaft of kings.' And the great men of the world, and the rich merchants, and others who have wealth and influence, fhall devote all to Chrift and his church; [Pfal. xlv. 12.] ' The daughter of Tyre shall be there with a ' gift, even the rich among the people shall intreat thy · favour.'

[4.] Those will be times of great peace and love. There shall then be universal peace and a good understanding among the nations of the world, inftead of fuch confusion, wars, and blood/hed, as has hitherto been from one age to another: [Ifa. ii. 4.] ' And he shall judge ' among the nations, and fhall rebuke many people: and ' they shall beat their fwords into plow shares, and their 6 fpears into pruning hooks : nation shall not lift fword ' against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.' So it is represented as if all inftruments of war should be destroyed, as being become useles; [Pfal. xlvi. 9.] 'He ' maketh wars to ceafe unto the end of the earth; he · breaketh the bow, and cutteth the fpear in funder; he ' burneth the chariot in the fire.' [See alfo Zech. ix. 10] 3 X 2 Then

Then fhall all nations dwell quietly and fafely, without fear of any enemy: [Ifa. xxxii. 18.] 'And my people 'fhall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in fure dwel-'lings, and in quiet refting places.' [Alfo Zech. viii. 10, 11.]

Then shall malice, envy, and wrath, and revenge, be suppreffed every where, and peace and love prevail between man and man; [which is most elegantly fet forth in Ifa. xi. 6---10.] Then shall there be peace and love between rulers and ruled. Rulers shall love their people, and with all their might feek their best good; and the people shall love their rulers, and shall joyfully submit to them, and give them that honour which is their due. And fo shall there be an happy love between ministers and their people : [Mal. iv. 6.] ' And he shall turn the . heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the · children to their fathers.' Then shall flourish in an eminent manner those Christian virtues of meekness, forgivenefs, long fuffering, gentlenefs, goodnefs, brotherly kindness, those excellent fruits of the Spirit. Men in their temper and difposition shall be like the Lamb of God, the lovely Jefus. The members shall be conformed to the head.

Then fhall all the world be united in one amiable fociety. All nations, on every fide of the globe, fhall then be knit together in fweet harmony. All parts of God's church fhall affift and promote the fpiritual good of one another. A communication fhall then be upheld between all parts of the world to that end; and the art of navigation, which is now applied fo much to favour men's covetoufnefs and pride, and is ufed fo much by wicked debauched men, fhall then be confectated to God, and rendered fubfervient to the intereft of religion. [Ifa. lx. 5---9.] And men fhall then express their love one to another, not only in words, but in deeds of charity, as we learn, [Ifa. xxxii. 5.] ' The vile perfon fhall be no more ' called liberal, nor the churl faid to be bountiful;' [ver. 8.] ' But the liberal devifeth liberal things, and by liberal ' things fhall he ftand.' [5] It will be a time of excellent order in the church of Chrift. The true government and difcipline of the church will then be fettled and practifed. All the world fhall then be as one church, one orderly, regular, beautiful fociety. And as the body fhall be one, fo the members fhall be in beautiful proportion to each other. Then fhall that faying be verified, [Pfal. cxxii. 3.] ' Jerufalem ' is builded as a city that is compact together.'

[6.] The church of God fhall then be beautiful and glorious on thefe accounts; yea it will appear in perfection of beauty: [Ifa. lx. 1.] 'Arife, fhine, for thy light is ' come, and the glory of the Lord is rifen upon thee.' [Ifa. lxi. 10.] 'He hath covered me with the robe of ' righteoufnefs, as a bridegroom decketh himfelf with or-' naments, and as a bride adorneth herfelf with her jewels.' On thefe accounts, the church will then be the greateft image of heaven itfelf.

[7.] That will be a time of the greatest temporal profperity. Such a fpiritual state as we have just described, has a natural tendency to temporal profperity : it has a tendency to health and long life; and that this will actually be the cafe is evident. [Zech. viii. 4.] ' Thus ' faith the Lord of hofts, There shall yet old men and ' old women dwell in the ftreets of Jerufalem, and every ' man with a staff in his hand for very age.' It has also a natural tendency to procure eafe, quietnefs, pleafantnefs, and cheerfulnefs of mind, and alfo wealth, and great increase of children; as is also intimated, [Zech. viii. 5.] ' And the fireets of the city shall be full of boys and ' girls playing in the ftreets thereof.'---But further, the temporal profperity of the people of God will alfo be promoted by a remarkable bleffing from heaven: [Ifa. lxv. 21.] 'They shall build houses, and inhabit them; ' and they fhall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them.' And [Micah iv. 4.] ' They shall fit every man under ' his vine, and under his fig-tree, and none fhall make ' them afraid.' [Zech. viii. 12.] ' For the feed thall be ' profperous, the vine thall give her fruit, and the ground 6 fhall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew.

dew, and I will caufe the remnant of this people to poffefs all thefe things.' [See alfo Jer. xxxi. 12, 13. and Amos ix. 13.] 'Yea, then they fhall receive all manner of tokens of God's prefence, and acceptance and favour.' [Jer. xxxiii. 9.] 'And it fhall be to me a name of joy, a praife and an honour before all the nations of the earth, which fhall hear all the good that I do unto them; and they fhall fear and tremble for all the goodnefs and for all the profperity that I procure unto it.' Even the days of Solomon were but an image of thofe days, as to the temporal profperity which fhall obtain in them.

[8.] It will also be a time of great rejoicing. [Ifa. xxxv. 10.] 'And the ranfomed of the Lord shall return and ' come to Zion with fongs, and everlafting joy upon their ' heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and forrow ' and fighing thall flee away.' [Chap. lv. 12.] ' For ye ' shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace : the 6 mountains and the hills fluall break forth before you." [Chap. lxvi. 11.] ' That ye may fuck, and be fatisfied with the breafts of her confolations; that ye may milk ' out and be delighted with the abundance of her glory.' [Chap. xii. 3.] ' With joy fhall ye draw water out of the ' wells of falvation.' --- Then will be a time of feafting. That will be the church's glorious wedding-day, fo far as her wedding with Chrift shall ever be upon carth : [Rev. xix. 7.] ' Let us be glad and rejoice, and give honour to ' him; for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his ' wife hath made herfelf ready.' [Ver. 9.] ' Bleffed are ' they which are called to the marriage-fupper of the ' Lamb.' --- But I come now,

(3.) To fay fomething of the duration of this flate of the church's profperity. On this I fhall be very brief. The feriptures every where reprefent it to be of long continuance. The former intervals of reft and profperity, 2s we before obferved, are reprefented to be but fhort; but the reprefentations of this flate are quite different: [Rev. xx. 4.] ' And I faw the fouls of them that were beheaded ' for the witnefs of Jefus, and they lived and reigned with Chrift Chrift a thoufand years.' (c) 'Whereas thou haft been forfaken and hated, fo that no man went through thee, I will make thee an eternal excellency, a joy of many generations.' [Ifa. lx. 15.]

This

(c) The MILLENIUM.] ' The fouls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jefus,' may be confidered as meant, not of the individual perfons that fuffered martyrdom for his fake, but of their fucceffors in the fame fpirit, who being of the fame temper for faith, patience, zeal, and fortitude, and profeffing the fame doctrines with the martyrs, were one body with them, and fo, in the flile of prophecy, might be fpoken of, as though they were the fame perfons, in like manner as John the Baptift is called Elizs, becaufe he came in the fpirit and power of Elias, [Matt. xi. 14. and xvii. 12. compared with Luke i. 17.] and as Rome-antichriftian is in feveral places of this prophecy called Sodom, Egypt, and Babylon, on account of its being like them in idolatry, pride, luxury, and cruelty; and the two witneffes that were to prophefy in fackcloth one thousand two hundred and fixty days of years, [Rev. xi. 3.] could not mean the fame individual perfons, but a fucceffion of them that perfifted in the fame faith and profession. When therefore it is faid, ' The fouls of them that were beheaded ' for the witnefs of Jefus, lived and reigned with Chrift a thoufand ' years;' this may be taken, according to prophetic flile, in a metaphorical fenfe, and may fignify a fucceffion of fuch; in like manner as the two witneffes being killed, and their ' dead bodies rifing ' and flanding on their feet,' is to be underflood, [Rev. xi. 7. 11.] and as the reftoration of Ifrael from their captivity is called their ' living and flanding on their feet, and God's opening their graves, ' and caufing them to come out of their graves,' [Ezek. xxxvii. 9, 10, 12.] and as the conversion of the Jews, in the last days, is fpoken of, as ' life from the dead. [Rom. xi. 15.] Accordingly the faints ' living and reigning with Chrift,' may relate to their abundance of fpirituality, purity and glory, light, love, and joy, tranquillity and fafety; and to the power of the civil magiftracy, as being in their hands, and exercifed with great authority and fuccefs, for fupprefling all iniquity and prophanenels, and promoting true religion and holinefs in those happy days .- I am not infenfible, that many learned and pious men have put a literal conftruction on this prophecy, to denote a proper refurrection of the dead bodies of former martyrs, and (as fome of them think) of all other departed faints; and they accordingly fuppofe, that their dead bodies shall be raifed to life, and reign, in a glorious manner, with Chrift, as perfonally and visibly fitting on his throne, for a thoufand years, upon earth. But as I can fearce think that the corporal prefence of Chrift will be removed, for a thousand years, from heaven to earth, fo a literal refurrection of all the bodies of the faints

This may fuffice as to the profperous flate of the church through the greater part of the period, from the deftruction of Satan's vifible kingdom in the world, to Chrift's appearing in the clouds of heaven to judgment.

I now come to fpeak of the great apoftafy there fhould be towards the clofe of this period, and how eminently the church fhould be for a fhort time threatened by her enemies. And this I fhall do under three particulars:

(1.) A little before the end of the world there fhall be a very great apoftafy, wherein great part of the world fhall fall away from Chrift and his church. It is faid, [Rev. xx. 3.] that Satan fhould be caft into the bottomlefs pit, and faints is fpoken of, as, ' in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye ' at the laft trump,' in order to their meeting the Lord in the air, and being with him, not on earth, but for ever in heaven. [I Cor. xv. 52. and 1 Theff. iv. 16, 17.] And after the expiration of this thousand years, and after Satan shall be loofed again for a little while at the end of them, we have an account of the general refurrection of all perfons, without any exception, or the leaft hint that the martyrs, or any other faints, had role fo long a time before. [Rev. xi. 12, 13.] And as a proper refurrection is never expressed, in scripture, by the reviving or living again of the soul, but only of the body; fo it feems extremely forced to underftand the 'living again of the immortal fouls' of them that were beheaded, as deferiptive of a literal refurrection, and a refurrection of the bodies of glorified faints, to live on earth for a thoufand years, feems inconliftent with the fublimer felicity and honour of their fouls were poffeffed of before in heaven, and with their being liable to be deceived, in cafe Satan had not been reflrained, as alfo with the trouble that muft neceffarily arife to them from the vigorous opposition which he and his army would make against them at the expiration of the thousand years in which he was bound. It muß likewife be an exceeding debafement of their refined dignity and delight in the immediate prefence of Chrift on his heavenly throne, to exchange them for any pleafures or honours upon the earth, especially if (as some Millenaries imagine) they are to be entertained with any fenfitive enjoyments. I therefore rather incline to think, that, according to the flile of prophecy, and particularly in this book, which is figurative, all this relates not literally to the refurrection of the martyrs or other faints, and the perfonal reign of Chrift for a thoufand years on earth; but figuratively, and in a fpiritual fenfe, for glorious days of long continuance to the church on earth; whether for the precife number of a thoufand years, or more. [Dr. Guise's Paraph. in loc.]

and flut up, and have a feal fet upon him, that he flould deceive the nations no more till the thoufand years thall be fulfilled; and that, after that, he must be loofed out of his prifon for a little feafon. And accordingly we are told [ver. 7 and 8.] that when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loofed out of his priton, and shall go forth to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog. Which feems as though the apoftafy would be very general. The nations of the four quarters of the earth fhall be deceived; and the number of those who shall now turn enemies to Christ shall be vafily great, as the army of Gog and Magog is reprefented in Ezekiel, and as it is faid [Rev. xx. 8.] that the number of them is as the fand of the fea, and that they went upon the breadth of the earth, as though they were an army big enough to reach from one fide of the earth to the other.

Thus after fuch an happy and glorious feafon, fuch a long day of light and holinefs, of love, and peace, and joy, now it fhall begin again to be a dark time. Satan thall begin to fet up his dominion again in the world. This world fhall again become a fcene of darknefs and wickednefs. The bottomlefs pit fhall be opened, devils fhall come up again out of it, and a dreadful fmoke fhall afcend to darken the world. And the church of Chrift, inflead of extending to the utmoft bounds of the world, as it did before, fhall be reduced to narrow limits again. Mankind being continued fo long in a flate of fuch great profperity, will now begin to abufe their prefperity, to ferve their luft and corruptions. [Luke xvii. 26, &c.]

(2.) Those apoftates thall make great opposition to the church of God. The church thall teem to be eminently threatened with a fudden and entire overthrow by them. It is faid [Rev. xx. 8, 9.] Satan thall gather them together to battle, as the fand on the fea thore; ' and they went up ' on the breadth of the earth, and compatible the camp of ' the faints about, and the beloved city.' So that this beloved city thall feem just ready to be fwallowed up by 3 Y them:

them; for her enemies fhall not only threaten her, but shall actually have gathered together against her; and not only fo, but shall have befieged her, and shall have compassed her about on every fide.

There is nothing in the prophecy which feems to intimate the church's actually falling into their hands, as it has fallen into the hands of antichrift, to whom it was given to make war with the faints and to overcome them. [Rev. xiii. 7.] God will never fuffer this to be again after the fall of antichrift; for then the day of her mourning fhall be ended. But the church fhall feem moft eminently *threat*ented with utter and fudden deftruction.

(3.) Now the flate of things will feem most remarkably to call for Chrift's immediate appearance to judgment. For then the world thall be filled with the moft aggravated wickednefs, much the greater part of the world fhall become open enemies to Chrift, and their wickednefs will be dreadfully aggravated by their apoltafy. Before the fall of antichrift, most parts of the world are full of wicked men. But the greater part of these are poor heathens, who never enjoyed the light of the gofpel; and others that have been bred up in the Mahometan or Popifh darknefs. But thefe are apoftates from the Chriftian church, and the vifible kingdom of Chrift, in which they enjoyed the great light and privileges of the glorious times of the church, which thall be incomparably greater than the light and privileges which the church of God enjoys now. This apoftafy will be more like that of the fallen angels than any that ever has been; for they apoftatifed, and turned enemies to Christ, though they enjoyed the light of heaven; and thefe will apoftatife, and turn encmies to him, though they have enjoyed the light and privileges of the glorious times of the church. And that fuch fhould turn open and avowed enemies to Chrift, and fhould feek the ruin of his church, will cry aloud for immediate vengeance.

The wickednefs of the world will remarkably call for Chrift's immediate appearance in flaming fire to take vengeance on them, becaufe of the way in which they fhall manifeft manifell their wickednets, which will be by fcoffing and blafpheming Chrift and his holy religion : and particularly, they will fcoff at the notion of Chrift's coming to judgment, of which the church thall be in expectation, and of which they will warn them. For now doubtlefs will be another, and the principal fulfilment of that text. [2 Pet. iii. 3, 4.] ' Knowing this first, that there shall ' come in the laft days fcoffers, walking after their own · lufts, and faying, Where is the promife of his coming ? · For fince the fathers fell afleep, all things continue as · they were from the beginning of the creation.' They thall be in no expectation of the coming of Chrift to judgment, but shall give up themselves to their lufts, to eat and drink, and wallow in fenfual delights, as though they were to be for ever. They shall despise the warnings the church shall give them of the coming of Christ to judgment, as the people of the old world defpifed what Noah told them of the approaching flood, and as the people of Sodom did when Lot faid to them, [Gen. xix. 14.] * The Lord will deftrov this city.' The wickedness will alfo cry aloud to heaven for Chrift's appearing to take vengcance of his enemies; for their attempts against the holy city of God.

And the number of the wicked is another thing which fhall efpecially call for Chrift's coming: for the world will doubtlefs then be exceeding full of people, having continued fo long in fo great a flate of profperity, without fuch defolating calamities, as wars, pefillences, and the like, to diminith them, and the most of this populous world will be fuch wicked contemptuous apoflatefrom God. And if the wickednefs of the old world, when men began to multiply on the earth, called for the deftruction of the world by a deluge of waters, this wickednefs will as much call for its deftruction by a deluge of fire.

Again, the circumfiances of the church at that day will alfo eminently call for the immediate appearance of Chrift, as they will be compafied about by their blafphemous enemies and juft ready to be fwallowed up by them.

3 Y 2

Iı.

It will be a most diffreffing time with the church, excepting the comfort they will have in the hope of deliverance from God: for all other help will feem to fail. The cafe will be come to the laft extremity, and there will be an immediate neceffity for Chrift's coming to their deliverance. But though the church shall be fo eminently threatened, yet shall it be preferved till Chrift shall appear in the glory of his Father with all his holy angels. And then shall all the elect be gathered in, whose names were written in the book of life before the foundation of the world, shall be brought in: not one foul shall be lost. And the myflical body of Chrift will be complete as to its number of parts, having every one of its members. In this refpect, the work of redemption will now be finished. And the end for which the means of grace have been inftituted shall be obtained. All that effect which was intended to be accomplified by them fhall now be accomplifhed.

§ V. Completion of the work of redemption in a future State.

THUS I have fhown how the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption has been accomplifhed during the continuance of the Chriftian church under the means of grace. We have feen what great revolutions there have been, and are to be during this fpace of time; how the wheels of Providence have gone round for the accomplifhment of the fuccefs of Chrift's purchafe, in the beftowment of grace on the elect: and we are now come to the time, when the courfe of things in this flate of it is finifhed, and all things are ripe for Chrift's coming to jndgment.

You may remember, that we are difcourfing on this propolition, viz. That from the refurrection of Chrift to the end of the world, the whole time is taken up in procuring the fuccels of Chrift's purchase of redemption, and 1 observe that the fuccels of Chrift's purchase is of two kinds, confisting either in grace or glory; and that the fuccels fuccets confitting in the former of thefe, is to be feen in those works of God which are wrought during those ages that the church is continued under the means of grace; and that the fucces, confitting in the latter, will chiefly be accomplished at the day of judgment.

Having already flown how the former kind of fuccefs has been accomplifhed, I come now to that kind of fuccefs which is accomplifhed in the beftowment of glory on the church, which fhall chiefly be at the day of judgment.---And here I would mention two or three things in general concerning this kind of fuccefs of Chrift's purchafe.

(1.) How great this is, chiefly appears in that the fuccefs of Chrift's purchafe does fummarily confift in the falvation of the elect. But this befowment of glory is eminently called their falvation: [Heb. ix. 28.] ' To them that look ' for him, thall he appear the fecond time, without fin ' unto falvation,'--So it is called redemption. [Eph. iv. 30.]
Sealed unto the day of redemption;' [Eph. i. 14.]
Redemption of the purchafed pofferfion.'

(2.) All those glorious things which were brought to pass for the church while under the means of grace, are but preparatory to, and images and fhadows of this. Themeans of grace and grace itself are to fit for glory and all the glorious things which were accomplished for the church in the days of Constantine, and which are to fuceeed the fall of antichrift, are but a shadow of what will be bestowed at the day of judgment; and therefore, are spoken of in fcripture as images of Christ's last coming to judgment. ---But I hasten more particularly to show how this kind of success of Christ's purchase is accomplished.

1. Chrift will appear in the glory of his Father, with all his holy angels coming in the clouds of heaven. When the world is revelling in their wickednefs, and compaffing the holy city about, juft ready to deftroy it, then fhall the glorious Redeemer appear in the fight of the world; the light of his glory fhall break forth; the whole world fhall immediately have notice of it, and they fhall lift up their eyes and behold this wonderful fight. It is faid [Rev. i. 7.] ' Every

• Every eye shall fee him.'---Chrift shall appear in his human nature, in that fame body which was brought forth in a stable, laid in a manger, and which afterwards was fo cruelly used, and nailed to the cross.

Men shall now lift up their eyes and behold him coming in fuch majefty and glory as is to us utterly inconceivable. The glory of the fun in a clear firmament will be but darknefs in comparifon of it; and all the glorious angels shall attend on him, a thousand thousand ministering to him, and ten thousand times ten thousand round about him. How different a perfon will he then appear from what he did at his first coming, when he was as a root out of dry ground, a poor, defpifed, afflicted man! How different now is his appearance, in the midft of those glorious angels, principalities, and powers, from what it was when in the midft of a ring of foldiers, with his mock robe and his crown of thorns, to be buffetted and fpit upon, or hanging on the crofs between two thieves, with a multitude of his enemies round about triumphing over him! (D)

This

(D) Chrift APPEARING in the Clouds.]

"Thence iffuing I behold (but mortal fight Suftains not fuch a rufhing fea of light) I fee on an empyreal flying throne, Awfully rais'd, heav'n's everlafting Son; Crown'd with that majefty which form'd the world, And the grand rebel flaming downward hurl'd. Virtue, dominion, praife, omnipotence, Support the train of their triumphant prince. A zone, beyond the thought of angels bright, Around him, like the zodiac, winds its light. Night fhades the folemn arches of his brows, And in his cheek the purple morning glows. Where'er ferene he turns propitious eyes, Or we expect, or find a paradife; But if refentment reddens their mild beams, The Eden kindles, and the world's in flames, On one hand knowledge fhines in pureft light, On one the fword of juffice fiercely bright. Now bend the knee in fport, prefent the reed, Now tell the fcourg'd impoftor he fhall bleed !" . . **. . . . .

. 4 Triamphant

This will be a most unexpected fight to the wicked world: it will come as a cry at midnight: they fhall be taken in the midft of their wickednefs, and it will give them a dreadful alarm. It will at once break up their revels and caroufing. It will put an end to the defign of the great army, that will then be compaffing the camp of the faints: it will make them let drop their weapons out of their hands. The world, which will then be very full of people, most of whom will be wicked men, will then be filled with dolorous fhrieking and crying; for all the kindreds of the earth thall wail becaufe of him. [Rev. i. 7.] And where shall they hide themselves? How will the fight of that awful majefty terrify them? Then they fhall fee whom they have mocked and feoffed at, and whole church they have been endeavouring to overthrow. This " Triumphant King of glory ! foul of blifs ! What a stupendous turn of fate is this ! O! whither art thou rais'd above the fcorn And indigence of him in Bethlem born, A needy, helplefs, unaccounted gueft, And but a fecond to the fodder'd beaft ! How chang'd from him, who meekly proftrate laid, Vouchfaf'd to wafh the feet himfelf had made ! From him who was betray'd, forfook, deny'd, Wept, languish'd, pray'd, bled, thirsted, groan'd and dy'd; Hung pierc'd and bare, infulted by the foe, All heav'n in tears above, earth unconcern'd below ! • • • • • " Now the defcending triumph flops its flight, From earth full twice a planetary height. There all the clouds, condens'd, two columns raife Diffinct with orient veins and golden blaze. One fix'd on earth, and one on fea, and round Its ample foot the fwelling billows found. Thefe an immeafurable arch fupport, The grand tribunal of this awful court. Sheets of bright azure, from the purelt fky, Stream from the chryftal arch, and round the columns fly. Death wrapt in chains low at the bafis lies, And on the point of his own arrow dies. " Here high enthron'd th' eternal judge is plac'd, With all the grandeur of his Godhead grac'd; Stars on his robes in beauteous order meet,

And the fun burns beneath his dreadful feet."

[Young's Laft Day, book ii.]

<sup>535</sup>

This fight will change the voice of their laughter and finging into dreadful wailing. Their countenance fhall be changed from a flow of carnal mirth, pride and contempt, to ghaftly terror, trembling, and amazement.

But with refpect to the faints, the church of Chrift, it fhall be a joyful and most glorious fight to them; for it will at once deliver them from all fear of their enemies, who were before compassing them about, just ready to fwallow them up. Then shall they lift up their heads, and their redemption shall be drawing nigh. [Luke xxi. 28.]---And thus Chrift will appear with infinite majefty, and at the fame time with infinite love in his countenance. Their countenances also shall be changed, not as the countenances of the wicked, but from forrow to exceeding joy and triumph. And now the work of redemption will be finissed in another fense, viz. that the whole church shall be completely and eternally freed from all perfecution and molestation from wicked men and devils.

2. The last trumpet shall found and the dead shall be raifed, and the living changed. God fent forth his angels with a great found of a trumpet, to gather together his elect from the four corners of the earth in a mystical fenfe, before the destruction of Jerusalem; i. e. he sent forth the apofiles, and others, to preach the gofpel all over the world. And fo, in a myftical fenfe, the great trumpet was blown at the beginning of the glorious times of the church. But now the great trumpet is blown in a more literal fenfe, with a mighty found, which shakes the earth. There will be a great fignal given by a mighty found made, which is called the voice of the archangel, [1 Thef. iv. 16.] ' For the Lord himfelf shall defcend ' from heaven with a fhout, with the voice of the arch-' angel, and with the trump of God.' On the found of this trumpet, the dead shall be raifed every where. Now the number of the dead is very great. How many has death cut down fince the world has flood. But then the number will be much greater after the world thall have flood fo much longer, and through moft of the remaining time time will doubtlefs be much fuller of inhabitants than ever it has been. All thefe shall now rife from the dead. The graves thall be opened in all parts of the world, and the fea fhall give up the innumerable dead that are in it. [Rev. XX. 13.] (E)

And now all the inhabitants that ever shall have been upon the face of the earth, from the beginning of the world

 $_{2}Z$

(E) The TRUMPET [ball found !] "How alarming, how flupendous the fummons ! Nothing equal to it, nothing like it, was ever heard through all the regions of the universe, or all the revolutions of time. When conflicting armies have difcharged the bellowing artillery of war, or when victorious armies have shouted for joy of the conquest, the feas and shores have rung, the mountains and plains have echoed. But the voice of the archangel, and the trump of God, will refound from pole to pole. It will thake the pillars of earth, and ftartle the dungeon of hell.-Stronger, ftronger still ! it will penetrate even the deepest recesses of the tomb. It will pour its amazing thunder into all those abodes of filence. The dead, the very dead shall hear.

"When the trumpet has founded, 'the dead fhall arife.'-In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, the graves open; the monumental piles are cleft afunder; the families, the nations under ground, fart into day. What an immenfe harveft of men and women, fpringing up from the caverns of the earth, and the depths of the fea ! Stand awhile, my foul, and contemplate the wonderful fpectacle.-Adam formed in Paradife, and the babe born but yefterday, the earlieft ages, and lateft generations, meet upon the fame level.-Jews and Gentiles, Greeks and Barbarians, people of all climes and languages, unite in the promifeuous throng. Here, those vast armies, which, like fwarms of locusts, covered countries; which, with an irrefiftible fweep, over-run empires; here they all appear, and here they all are loft. Loft, like the fmall drop of a bucket, when plunged amidit the unfathomable and boundlefs ocean .- O! the imultitudes! the multitudes! which thefe eyes shall furvey, when God ' calleth the heavens from above, ' and the earth that he may judge his people.' What thame muft flush the guilty cheek ! What auguish wound the polluted breast ; to have all their filthy practices, and infamous tempers, exposed before this innumerable croud of witneffes !---- Fly, my foul; inftantly let us fly, earneftly let us fly, to the purifying blood of Jefus. That all our fins may be blotted out; that we may be found unbiameable and unreproveable, in the prefence of the affembled world; and, what is infinitely more to be revered, in the fight of the omnipotent God. [HERVEY, Ther. and Alp. vol. ii. Let. 5.]

world to the end shall appear upon the earth at once. The church of God in all ages, Adam and Eve the first parents of mankind, and Abel, Seth, Methufelah, and all the faints who were their contemporaries; Noah, and Abraham, Ifaae, and Jacob, the prophets, and all the Old Teftament faints, the holy apoftles of Jefus Chrift, and all the faints of their times; the martyrs under the ten heathen perfecutions; all who belonged to the church during the dark days of antichrift, all the holy martyrs who have fuffered under the cruelty of the Popifh perfecutions; all the faints of the prefent time; and all that fhall be from hence to the end of the world .---- Now alfo the enemies of the church in all ages of the world shall appear upon the face of the earth again; the wicked drowned by the flood, and the multitudes of impenitent finners that died all over the world among God's profeffing people, or others before Chrift, and all wicked Heathens, Jews, Mahometans, and Papifts, that have died fince; all shall come together. Sinners of all forts; demure hypocrites; thofe who have the fairest and best outside, and open profane drunkards, whoremongers, profane Deifts, cruel perfecutors, and all that have died, or fhall die, in fin, to the end of the world.

And at the fame time that the dead are raifed, the living thall be changed. The bodies of the wicked who thall then be living, shall be fo changed as to fit them for eternal existence without corruption; and the bodies of all the living faints shall be changed to be like Christ's glorious body; [I Cor. xv. 51, 52, 53.] fo changed as to render them for ever incapable of pain, affliction, or uneafinefs; and all that dullnefs, heavinefs, and deformity, which their bodies had before, shall be put off; and they shall put on firength, and beauty, and activity, and incorruptible unfading glory. And now the work of redemption shall be finished in this respect, viz. that all the elect shall be actually redeemed in both foul and body. Before this, the work of redemption, as to its actual fuccefs, was but incomplete; for only the fouls of the redeemed were actually faved and glorified, excepting in a very few inftances: but now now all the bodies of the faints thall be faved and glorified together, both in foul and body. (F)

3. Now fhall faints be caught up in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and all wicked men and devils fhall be arraigned before the judgment-feat. When the dead faints are raifed, then the whole church, confifting of all the

(F) The general RESURRECTION.] The xvth chap. of St. Paul's first epithe to the Corinthians is a kind of treatife on this fubject, which ought in the first place to be confulted, as being the language of divine infpiration. Next to the feriptures is commonly ranked an excellent epithe to the fame Corinthian church by St. CLEMENT of Rome [mentioned as is fuppofed Phil. iv. 3.] written is feems before the detruction of Jerufalem. [See ch. xli.] In that epithe is the following paffage, remarkably coincident with the language of St. Paul, on this jubject :

" Let that be far from us which is written, ' Miferable are the ' double-minded, and those who are doubtful in their hearts. Who ' fay, thefe things have we heard, and our fathers have told us ' thefe things. But behold we are grown old, and none of them ' has happened unto us.' O ye fools! Confider the trees; take the vine for an example: first it flieds its leaves; then it buds; after that it fpreads its leaves; then it flowers; then come the four grapes; and after them follows the ripe fruit. You fee how in a little time the fruit of the trees come to maturity. Of a truth, yet a little while, and his will fhall fuddenly be accomplified. The holy fcripture itself bearing witness, ' that he shall quickly ' come and not tarry, and that the Lord shall fuddenly come to ' his temple, even the holy one whom ye look for.' Let us confider, beloved, how the Lord does continually flew us, that there shall be a future refurrection; of which he has made our Lord Jefus Chrift the first-fruits, raising him from the dead. Let us contemplate, beloved, the refurrection that is continually before our eyes. Day and night manifest a refurrection to us. The night lies down, and the day arifes : again the day departs and the night comes on. Let us behold the fruits of the earth. Every one fees how the feed is fown. The fower goes forth, and cafts it upon the earth; and the feed which when it was fown fell upon the earth dry and naked, in time diffolves : and from the diffolution, the great power of the providence of the Lord railes it again; and of one feed many arife, and bring forth fruit." [Clement's 1ft epift. Abp. Wake's Tranf. fect. 23, 24.]

From this paffage, but effectally St. Paul's epiftle, in the chapter above referred to, we may venture to determine that controverted point, how far the bodies of the faints will be the fame when raifed from the dead, namely, just as the corn which fprings up in 3 Z 2 the the elect through all ages, fhall appear together on the face of the earth, (excepting those few whose bodies were glorified before:) and fhall afcend to meet Chrift, who fhall fix his the me in the air, whence he may be feen by all that vafe multitude that fhall be gathered before him. The church of faints therefore shall be taken up from the earth to afcend to their Saviour. Thus the apoftle tells us, that when the dead ' in Chrift are raifed, and the living chang-· ed, then thofe who are alive and remain, shall be caught ' up together with them to meet the Lord in the air, and fo ' fhall we he ever with the Lord.' [1 Thef. iv. 16, 17.] Then shall the work of redemption be finished in another refpect: then shall the whole church be perfectly and for ever delivered from this evil world : they shall take their everlasting leave of this earth, where they have been strangers, and which has been to them a fcene of trouble and forrow; where the devil for the most part has reigned as god, and has greatly molefted them; where Chrift their Lord has been crucified; and where they have been fo hated, reproached, and perfecuted, from age to age. And ' there thall be an everlafting feparation made between them and wicked men. Before they were mixed together, and it was impoffible in many inftances to determine which were which; but now both faints and finners fhall appear in their true characters.

.

What an immenfe cloud of them will there be when all the church fhall be gathered together from the eaft and weft, north and fouth, to the right hand of Chrift. ---Then the harveft, is the fame which the hufbandman previoufly fows; not indeed the bare grain which was caft into the ground, but wonderfully increafed and improved. [See 1 Cor. xv.] So doubtlefs the bodies raifed will be effentially (not to quibble on the word individually) the fame as die; but no lefs wonderfully improves than the blade and ear of corn from a fingle grain. The manner of this we may not be able to comprehend at prefent; but we may furely believe the fact on the credit of immutable omnipotence.— From an expression of St. Paul, [I Thef. iv. 16.] that ' the dead ' in Chrift shall rife firft,' fome divines have inferred a twofold refurrection, first of the righteous and afterwards of the wicked, but this text only afferts, that the dead shall be raifed before the living are changed, as appears from the following verfe. [G. E.] ---Then the work of redemption will be finished in this refpect also. They all belonged to one fociety before, but yet were widely feparated from each other; fome being in heaven, and fome on earth; and those on earth were feparated one from another, many of them by wide oceans and vast continents. But now they shall all be gathered together, never to be feparated any more. And not only gathered together, but gathered unto their Head, into his immediate glorious prefence, never to be feparated from him any more.

At the fame time, all wicked men and devils thall be brought before the judgment-feat of Chrift. Thefe shall be gathered to his left hand, and, as it feems, will ftill remain upon the earth, and not be caught up into the air, as the faints fhall. Satan, that old ferpent, who first procured the fall and mifery of mankind, and has all along thown himfelf fuch an inveterate enemy to the Redeemer, shall never more have any thing to do with the church of God, or be fuffered in the leaft to afflict any member of it any more for ever; but shall now be judged, and receive the due reward of his deeds. Now is come the time which he long has dreaded, and trembled at the thought of; the time wherein he must be judged, and receive his full punifhment. He who by his temptation malicioufly procured Christ's crucifixion, and triumphed upon it, as though he had obtained the victory, even he shall fee the confequences of the death of Chrift which he procured : for Christ's coming to judge him in his human nature is the confequence of it; becaufe he obtained and purchafed this glory to himfelf by that death. Now he must stand before that fame Jefus whofe death he procured, to be judged, condemned, and eternally deftroved by him. If Satan, the prince of hell, trembles at the thought of it thousands of years beforehand, how much more will he tremble, as proud and as flubborn as he is, when he comes to fland at Chrift's bar! Then shall he also stand at the bar of the faints, whom he has fo hated, afflicted, and molefted : for the faints shall judge him together with Christ: [I Cor. vi. 3.] . Know ve not that we thall judge angels !? Now

Now shall he be as it were fubdued under the church's feet. [Rom. xvi. 20.] Satan, when he tempted our first parents to fall, deceitfully and falfely told them, that they should be as gods: but little did he think that the confequence should be, that they should indeed be fo much like gods, as to be affessive with God to judge him. (G) Much lefs did he think, that in confequence of this one of the posterity of those perfons whom he tempted, should actually be united to God, should judge the world, and that he himfelf must stand trembling and aftonished before his judgment-feat. And all the infernal spirits who have fo opposed Christ and his kingdom, shall now at last ftand in the utmost amazement and horror before Christ and his church, who shall appear to condemn them.

Now alfo fhall Chrift's other enemies be brought to appear before him. Now fhall the proud feribes and Pharifees, who had fuch a malignant hatred againft him while in his flate of humiliation, and who perfecuted Chrift to death; those before whose judgment-feat Chrift was once called, and flood as a malefactor at their bar, and those who mocked him, and buffetted him, and spit in his face; now shall they fee Chrift in his glory, as he forewarned them, [Matt. xxvi. 64, 65.] when he was before their judgment-feat; but now they shall fland before his judgment-feat with inconceivable horror and amazement.

Now alfo all the cruel enemies and perfecutors of the church that have been in all ages, fhall come in fight together, Pharaoh and the Egyptians, Antiochus Epiphanes, the perfecuting feribes and Pharifees, the perfecuting

(G) The faints fhall judge the FALLEN Angels.] "There feems a peculiar dignity and propriety in this determination of the great God, that when the Devils who are expressly faid to be 'referved 'in chains of darkness to the judgment of the great day,' [Jude 6.] shall be condemned, the faints being raifed to the feats of glory which these wicked spirits have forfeited and loss, should alist in that fentence which shall display the victory of Christ over them in his fervants, once their captives, and will no doubt render the fentence itself yet more intolerable to creatures of fuch malignity and pride." [DODDRIDGE, on 1 Cor. vi. 3.]

fecuting heathen emperors, Julian the apoftate, the cruel perfecuting Popes and Papifts, Gog and Magog, fhall all appear at once before the judgment-feat of Chrift. They and the faints who have in every age been perfecuted by them, must confront one another before the great Judge. And now shall the faints on their glorious thrones be made the judges of those unjust kings and rulers, who have before judged and condemned them to death. Now thall those perfecutors behold the glory to which they are arrived, whom they before fo defpifed and cruelly treated, and Chrift will make those holy martyrs as it were to come and fet their feet on the necks of their perfecutors; they shall be made their footftool. [See Josh. x. 24.] Thus wonderfully will the face of things be altered from what it ufed to be in the former times of the world; now will all things be coming to rights.

4. The rightcoufnefs of the church shall be manifested, and all the wickednets of their enemies shall be brought to light. Those faints who had been the objects of hatred, reproach and contempt in the world, and were reviled and condemned by their perfecutors without a caufe, shall now be fully vindicated. They shall now appear cloathed with the glorious robe of Chrift's righteoufnefs. And their inherent holinefs shall also be made manifest, and all their good works brought to light. The good things which they did in fecret shall now be manifested openly. Those holy ones of God, who had been treated as though they were the filth and offscouring of the earth, as though they were not fit to live upon earth, shall now appear to have been the excellent of the earth. Now God will bring forth their righteoufnefs as the light, and their judgment as the noon-day. And now fhall it be feen who were those that were not fit to live, when all the wickednefs of the enemies of Chrift and his church, their pride, their malice, their cruelty, their hatred of true religion, shall be fet forth in its true light. And now all the wickedness of the whole world thall be fully difcovered, their very hearts opened to view; and things that have been fpoken in the ear, in the clofet, and done in the dark, shall be manifested in in the light, and proclaimed before angels and men. [Luké xii. 3.]

5. Sentence thall be pronounced both on the righteous and the wicked. Chrift, the judge, fhall pafs that fentence on the church at his right hand, 'Come, ye bleffed ' of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you ' from the foundation of the world.' [Matt. xxv. 34.] This fhall be pronounced with infinite love, and the voice will make every heart to overflow with joy. Thus Chrift fhall pronounce a fentence of juftification on thoufands and millions, who have before had a fentence of condemnation paffed upon them by their perfecutors. He will thus put honour upon thofe who have been before defpifed : he will own them for his, and will as it were put a crown of glory upon their heads before the world; and then fhall they fhine forth as the fun with Jefus Chrift in glory and joy, in the fight of all their enemies. (H)

And then thall the fentence of condemnation be patted on the wicked, ' Depart, ye curfed, into everlating fire, ' prepared for the devil and his angels.' [Matt.] Thus thall the church's enemies be condemned; in which fentence of condemnation, the holy martyrs, who have fuffered from them, thall concur. (1) When the words of this

(H) Chrift coill put HONOUR upon his faints.] How beautiful and pointed is that paffage in the apoeryphal book of Wifdom, which reprefents the wicked at the laft day, thus bewailing their folly and contempt of the faints: 'Then thall the righteous man fand in great boldnets before the face of fuch as have afflicted him, and made no account of his labours. When they fee it, they thall be troubled with terrible fear, and thall be amazed at the farangenets of his falvation, fo far beyond all that they looked for. And they, repenting and groaning for anguith of fpirit, theal fay within themfelves,' "This was he whom we had fometimes in derifion, and a proverb of reproach. We fools accounted his life madnets, and his end to be without honour.--"How is he numbered among the children of God, and his lot is among the faints!" [Wild. v. 1-5.]

(1) DEPART, ye curfed.] "Oh! let me never hear thy voice pronounce those dreadful words. With what terrors would that fertence pierce my heart, while it thunders in my cars! To be feparated this fentence are pronounced, every fyllable of it will be more terrible than a fiream of lightning through their hearts. We can conceive but very little of the horror which it fhall produce.

6. Upon this Chrift and all his faints, and the holy angels miniftering unto them, fhall leave this lower world, and afcend up to the higheft heavens. Chrift fhall afcend in as great glory as he defcended, and in fome respects greater; for now he fhall afcend with his elect church with him, glorified in both body and foul. Chrift's first afcenfion to heaven foon after his own refurrection was very glorious; but this fecond afcenfion, the afcenfion of his myftical body, his whole church, fhall be far more fo. The redeemed church fhall all afcend with him in a moft joyful and triumphant manner; and all their enemies and perfecutors, who fhall be left behind on this accurfed ground, fhall fee their glory and hear their fongs.

7. When Chrift and his church have afcended to heaven, this world fhall be fet on fire, and turned into a great furnace, wherein all the enemies of Chrift and his church thall be tormented for ever and ever. [2 Pet. iii. 7.]
<sup>6</sup> But the heavens and the earth which are now, by the ' fame word are kept in flore, referved unto fire againft 4 A ' the feparated from thee, and curft with immortality,-who can fuftain the intolerable doom ?

O dreadful state of black defpair, To see my God remove,

And fix my doleful flation where

I must not taste his love, nor view the light of thy countenance for ever. Unntterable woe! there is no hell beyond it. Separation from God is the depth of mifery. Blacknefs of darknefs, and eternal night mult neceffarily involve a foul excluded from thy prefence.

" Depart from thee! Oh! whither fhall I go from thee? Into utter darknefs? After that fearful doom, I fhould without confiraint feek out fhades as dark as hell, and in the horrors of eternal night bewail the infinite lofs.

"The remembrance of that loft happinefs would render celeftial day infufferable. The light of paradife could not cheer me without thy favour: the fongs of angels would but heighten my anguish and torment me with a fcene of blifs which I mult never tafte." [Mrs. Rowe's Meditations, p. 67.]

' the day of judgment, and perdition of ungodly men.' Ah ! how will it ftrike the wicked with horror, when the world thall be fet on fire, either by lightning from heaven, or fire iffuing out of the bowels of the earth : efpecially when the fire begins to lay hold upon them, and they find no way to efcape it. [2 Pet. iii. 10. 12.] ' The heavens ' fhall pafs away with a great noife, and the elements ' fhall melt with fervent heat, the earth alfo, and the ' works that are therein shall be burnt up; and that the ' heavens being on fire shall be diffolved, and the elements ' fhall melt with fervent heat.' And fo fierce shall be its heat, that it shall burn the earth into its very centre. [Deut. xxxii. 22.] ' For a fire is kindled in my anger, and ' fhall burn unto the loweft hell, and fhall confume the ' earth with increase, and fet on fire the foundations of " the mountains."

And here fhall all the perfecutors of the church of God burn in everlafting fire, who have before burnt the faints at the ftake, and fhall fuffer torments beyond all that their utmost wit and malice could inflict on them. Here their bodies fhall be tormented eternally, and never be confumed: while the wrath of God shall be poured out upon their fouls. Though the fouls of the wicked in hell do now fuffer punishment, yet that will be fo increased at the day of judgment, that what they fuffered before, is in comparison of it, as an imprisonment to the execution which follows. ( $\kappa$ ) And now the devil, that

(K) The ETERNITY of bell torments.] This is a fubject fo awful and alarming, that a benevolent mind would never with to contemplete, much lefs to difcourfe of it, but a faithful minifler muft not always confult his feelings, but be content fometimes to offer violence to himfelf for the good of others. "Where is the minifler of the gofpel (fays Mr. Sauin) who has not a thoufand and a thoufand times difplayed the charms of religion, and difplayed them in vain?" Some fouls muft be terrified; fome finners muft be faved with fear and pulled out of the fire. [Jude 23.] Some hearts are fentible only to one object, that is bell; and if there be any one way of preventing their being really precipitated into that frightful abyfs hereafter, it is by precipitating them there in imagination that old ferpent, shall receive his full punishment; and that which he long trembled for fear of, shall now fully come gination now! 'Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord we perfuade men.' [2 Cor. v. 11.] [Sermons, v. vol. i. Ser. 7.]

Such preachers have been called ministers of damnation, with as much propriety as a man who alarmed a family in danger of furrounding flames, should be called a messenger of definition.

Monf. Claude points out a very judicious method of treating the fubject—By flewing that man is a creature fubject to a law—a law fuppofes a judge-and a judge punifhment upon tranfgreffors. This is fo evident to the common fenfe of mankind, that all nations have admitted the doctrine of future punifhment into their religions. But the evidences of this mult not reft here; fcripture must be applied to as the ultimate authority; and from this muft be shewn, not only that God will punish finners, but particularly, that he will punith them in a future flate-that this punifhment will invole both foul and body, as both have been real, permanent, and everlafting feufation of pain-and that its degree will be proportional to the greatness of the Judge, the ftrictnefs of the tribunal, and the power of the Almighty hand that executes it. [See CLAUDE's Effay, tranfl. by Robinfon, vol. i. 402-408.] But we shall rather abstract the substance of a fermion of our author (Pref. EDWARDS) who has treated the fubject with much argument and good fenfe, interfperfing (between crotchets) fome obfervations from other authors.

After fome preliminary remarks our author effablishes this DOCTRINF, viz. That the mifery of the wicked in hell will le abfolutely ETERNAL. In differentiation on this doctrine he advances four propositions:

I. That it is not contrary to the divine perfections to inflict on wicked men a punifhment that is eternal. (1.) That it is not inconfiftent with divine juffice appears from the infinite evil of fin.----[Confider that among men all offences increase their malignity in proportion to the dignity of the perfon offended. The muder of a flave is highly criminal, but that of a mafter, a father, a prince, proportionally more fo. God is a being of infinite Majefty, and his authority over all the creatures abfolute and unlimited :] God is also infinitely worthy of love, honour, and obedience; our obligations to honour and obey him are therefore infinite, and confequently fin, which violates all those obligations, [infults that Majefty, and renounces his anthority ] must be in its object, at least, infinite, and therefore deferves infinite, or which is the fame thing, eternal punifhmeut.-(2.) Neither is the doctrine inconfiftent with the divine mercy. It is an unreafonable and an unferiptural notion of God's mercy, to fuppofe that his nature is fo liable to be moved and overcome, by feeing a creature in milery, that he cannot bear

4 A 2

to come upon him. This world, which formerly used to be the to fee impartial justice executed. The feriptures reprefent the mercy of God as free and fovereign, and not of fuch a nature that God cannot help but deliver finners from milery. This is a mean and most unworty idea of the divine mercy; it is also contrary to plain fact. For if there be any meaning in the objection, it fupofes that all the mifery of a creature, whether just or unjust, is in itfelf contrary to the nature of God. For if a very great degree of mifery, though just, is contrary to his nature, then it is only, in our conceptions, to add to the mercy, and then a lefs degree of mifery will be fo. And fo, the mercy of God being infinite, all mifery must be contrary to his nature ; which is manifeftly contrary to fact. For we fee that God, in his providence, inflicts very great calamities on mankind, even in this life. However ftrong fuch kind of objections may feem, they arife from want of a fenfe of the infinite evil and provocation that there are in fin.- If fin appeared as hateful to us, as eternal mifery appears dreadful; if it ftirred up our indignation and deteflation, as eternal milery does our terror, all objections against this doctrine would vanish at once. [So obferves the inimitable Saurin.] "Allow the obligations under which the incarnation lays mankind, and everlafting punifiment feems to me to have nothing contrary to divine juffice. -No, the burning lake with its smoke, eternity with its abysses, devils with their rage, all hell with all its horrors, feem to me not too rigorous for the punishment of men, who have ' trodden un-· der foot the Son of God, counted the blood of the Covenant an ' unholy thing, crucified the Son of God afrefh, and done defpite ' unto the Spirit of Grace." [Heb. vi. 6. x. 26.] [Saurin, vol. iii. Ser. 13.]

But eternal mifery is not only confiftent with the divine perfections, but they appear evidently to require it. They require that God fhould infinitely hate fin—that he fhould express that hatred; (for no possible reason can be given why it is not fuitable for God to  $a\overline{a}$ , vs it is fuitable for him to be;) and the proper expression of an infinite hatred to fin, in the infliction of eternal punishment on incorrigible finners.

II. That eternal death or puniliment, which God threatens to the wieked, is not annihilation, but an abiding feasible punishment, or mifery. (1.) The feripture reprefents it as implying extreme pains and fufferings—' The fmoke of their torment. [Rev. xiv. 11. See alfo Matt. xxvi. 24.] (2.) It deferibes them as feasible of their punishment—' I am tormented.' [Luke xvi. 24.] (3.) It mentions different degrees of punishment—' Few flripes and many.' [Luke xii. 47. See alfo Matt. v. 22.] (4.) The wieked are called ' Spirits in prifon.' [1 Pet. iii. 19.]

III. The punifhment of the wicked fhall be abfolutely without end. Of those who have held that the torments of hell are not abfoCOMPLETED IN A FUTURE STATE. 549

the place of his kingdom, where he fet himfelf up as God, fhall abfolutely eternal. 1. Some fuppofe, that in the threatenings of everlafting punifhment, the terms used do not necessfarily import a proper eternity, but only a very long duration. 2. Others fuppofe, that if they do import a proper eternity, yet we cannot neceffarily conclude thence, that God will fulfil his threatenings. But (1.) that there terms imply a proper eternity, obferve that although the words for-ever, &c. are fometimes used in a limited fignification, as referring to a long time, on this fubject they cannot well be fo taken as relating to a period which commences not until time is no more-that they are doubled ' for ever and ever,' [Rev. xiv. 11.]-the fame expressions deferibe the happiness of the bleffed, [Matt. xxv. 46.] and even the divine exiftence, [Rev. iv. 9.] where there is no doubt of their importing an endlefs period .---Our Lord fays that finners shall not be delivered till they have paid the utmost farthing, [Matt. v. 26.] that 'their worm dieth not, and their fire is not quenched.' [Mark ix. 44.] [See Note D, p. 46.]

(2.) There are others who allow, that these threatenings denote a proper eternity; yet suppose that possibly God may not fulfil them; there not being the same reason to oblige God to fulfil his threatenings as his promifes.

But, though this is granted as to conditional threatenings, it must not be admitted of those which are positive and peremptory, as are those of eternal punishment; many of which are expressed in the form of predictions.—Such perfons also suppose, that God was obliged to make use of a fallacy to govern the world by; and a fallacy fo weak that they have been able to detect it.

[" But if it were allowed, that God had no other defign in denouncing eternal punithments than that of alarming finners, would it become us to oppofe his wife purpofe, and with our unhallowed hands throw down the barrier which he had erected against fin ? . . Let us preach the gofpel as God hath revealed it. God did not think the doctrine of everlafting punifhment injurious to the holinefs of his attributes. Let not us pretend to think it will injure them." Saurin, Ser. 3. vol. iii.]

IV. Several good and important ends will be obtained by this eternal punifhment of the wicked. As the vindication of God's injured majefty—the honour of divine juffice—and even indirectly, the glory of divine mercy—and the greater happinefs of the faints. [Not that they can take any pleafure in the fight of mifery, but] it will make them more fentible of their own happinefs, and more to prize diferiminating grace. [Pref. Edwards' Serm. Etern. of Hell.]

Thus far our author ; prolix as this note may be, it is hoped the importance of the fubject (effectially at this time) will apologize for briefly confidering an objection or two not mentioned above, but which to fome have appeared of great force.

fhall be the place of his full and everlafting punifhment. (L.) And in this another defign of the work of redemption, viz. putting Chrift's enemies under his feet, fhall be perfectly accomplifhed. His enemies fhall now be made his footftool, in the fulleft degree. Now fhall be the complete

I. It has been often urged, that the whole period in which men fin being but a few years, bears no proportion to an eternity of fuffering. But (as Mr. Saurin hath well obferved) " it is not the length of time employed in committing a crime that determines the degree and the duration of its punifhment, it is the turpitude and atrocioufnefs of it." A man fhall rob us in the ftreet, another fhall receive the article ftolen, our law fhall transport the former for 7 and the latter for 14 years, though both were inflantaneous acts. But a third fhall by a long continued feries of cruelty flarve a domeffic to death, and yet he fhall receive an inflantaneous punifhment, he fhall die.

2. It is poffitively faid God will not keep his anger for ever, will not be always wrath, [Pf. ciii. 9. Ifa. lvii. 16.] and yet it is alfo as pofitively faid that he will have no mercy on the creatures of his own hand, but punifh them with everlafting deftruction, [Ifa. xxvii. 2. 2 Thef. i. 9.] how then fhall we reconcile thefe affertions? By fixing a different fenfe on the fame words to favour a flattering hypothetis? No, but by diffinguifhing the perfons to whom the promifes and threatenings are addreffed, the former to Ifrael, to the contrite and humble penitent; the latter to obflinate and impenitent finners, as may be feen in the context.

After all we do not deny, but that fome perfons by treating this doctrine injudicioufly have given too much handle to objectors we do not pretend that it has no difficulties; but we think most of them may be refolved (Saurin fays all of them) by confidering that though all the wicked will be involved in punifhment of the fame duration, yet God can apportion the degree of punifhment, to the degree of the finners turpitude. And that this punifhment will not be merely an arbitrary infliction of Deity, but the natural confequence of fin. Sin estranges the foul from God—banishes it from his prefence—torments the confeience—hardens the heart, and, without almighty grace, a finner left to himfelf will for ever fin, and confequently forever fuffer. [I. N.]

(L) This WORLD fhall be HELL.] So conjectured our author; on the contrary Dr. Burnelt and many others have imagined that the earth would be purified and become the heaven of the faints, perhaps both were wrong. At leaft neither of thefe politions feem to be plainly revealed; and our notions of fpiritual bodies are fo uncertain and imperfect that we can hardly reafon on the fubject. Doubtlefs the Divine Majelty will not want means of punifhing obfinate rebels againly his government, and wherever may he the feene plete fulfilment of that threatening, [Gen. iii. 15.] ' It thall ' bruife thy head.'

8. At the fame time, all the church fhall enter with Chrift, their head, into the higheft heavens, and shall there enter on the flate of their higheft and eternal bleffednefs and glory. While the lower world, which they have left under their feet, is feized with the fire of God's vengeance, the whole church shall enter, with their glorious head, and all the holy angels attending, in a joyful manner, into the eternal paradife of God, the palace of the great Jehovah, their heavenly Father. The gates shall open wide for them to enter, and there Chrift will bring them into his chambers in the highest fenfe. He will bring them into his Father's houfe, into a world not like that which they have left. Here Chrift will bring them, and prefent them in glory to his Father, faying, ' Here am I and the children which thou haft given 'me;' [Heb. ii. 15.] as much as to fay, 'Here am I, · with every one of those whom thou gavest me from eter-' nity to take the care of, that they might be redeemed and ' glorified, and to redeem whom I have done and fuffered ' fo much, and to make way for the redemption of whom · I have for fo many ages been accomplishing fuch great re-' volutions. Here they are now perfectly redeemed in body ' and foul; I have perfectly delivered them from all the < il] fcene of his juftice, it must exceed the power of our prefent conceptions. MILTON has perhaps in the following passage given the finest specimen of the terrific sublime, which ever came from an uninfpired pen.

"A dungeon horrible on all fides round As one great furnace flam'd, yet from those flames No light, but rather darkness visible Serv'd only to discover fights of woe, Regions of forrow, doleful shades, where peace And reft can never dwell, hope never comes That comes to all; but torture without end Still urges, and a fiery deluge fed With ever burning fulphur unconfum'd: Such place eternal juftice has prepared For those rebellious."

[Par. Loft. b. i.]

ill effects of the fall, and freed them from all their enemies; I have brought them all together into one glorious fociety, and united them all in myfelf: I have openly juftified them all before angels and men, and I have brought them hither from that accurfed world where they have fuffered fo much, and prefented them tpotlefs before thy throne: I have done all that for them which thou haft appointed me: I have perfectly cleanfed them from all filthinefs in my blood, and here they are refplendent with thy perfect image.' And then the Father will accept and own them for his children, and will welcome them to the eternal and perfect inheritance and glory of his houfe, giving them more glorious manifeftations of his love than ever, and admitting them to a more full and perfect enjoyment of himfelf.

And now thall be the marriage of the Lamb in the most perfect fenfe. The commencement of the glorious times of the church on earth, after the fall of antichrift, is reprefented as the marriage of the Lamb: but after this we read of another marriage of the Lamb, at the close of the day of judgment. After the beloved difciple had given an account of the day of judgment, in the clofe of the xxth chapter of Revelation, then he proceeds to give an account of what follows in the xxift and xxiid chapters; and particularly he gives an account, that he faw the holy city, the new Jerufalem, (M) prepared as a bride adorned for her hufband. And when Chrift fhall bring his church into his Father's house in heaven, after the judgment, he shall bring her thither as his bride, having there prefented her, whom he loved, and gave himfelf for, to himfelf without fpot or wrinkle, or any fuch thing. [Eph. v. 27.] The bridegroom and the bride shall then enter into heaven, both having on their wedding robes.

(M) The NEW JERUSALEM.] Among other circumftances (which are undoubtedly allegorical) in the magnificent defeription of this city, it is faid [Rev. XXI. 21.] 'The flreet of the city was 'pure gold as it were transparent glafs.'—From this paffage an ingenious

And now the whole work of redemption is finished. We have feen how it has been carrying on from the fall of man to this time. But now it is complete, the top ftone of the building is laid. In the progrefs of the difcourfe on this fubject, we have followed the church of God in all the forms and tempefts through which the has paffed, till at length we have feen her enter the harbour, and land in the highest heavens, in complete and eternal glory. We have gone through time, and the feveral ages of it, as the providence of God, and the word of God have led us; and now we have iffued in eternity when time shall be no more. We have feen all the church's enemics fixed in endlefs mifery, and the church prefented before the Father in heaven, there to enjoy the most un-4 B fpeakable genious writer (Mr. Newton,) has fuggested the following beautiful ideas : . . . . " If our reading is right, we must understand it either of gold, pure, bright, and perfpicuous as the finest transparent glass, or else, as two distinct comparisons; splendid and durable as the pureft gold, clear and transparent as the fineft glafs .- Our glafs is clear but brittle, our gold is fhining and folid, but it is opaque and difcovers only a furface; and thus it is with our minds. The powers of imagination are lively and extensive, but transfient and uncertain. The powers of the understanding are more folid and regular; but at the same time more flow and limited, and confined to the outfide properties of the few objects around us. But when we arrive within the vail, the perfections of the glass and gold will be combined, and the imperfections of each entirely ceafe. Then we shall know more than we can now imagine ; the glafs fhall be all gold. And then we shall apprehend truth in all its relations and confequences .... by a fingle glance of thought, as the fight pierces in an inflant through the largest transparent body : the gold will be all glass..... (I do not offer this as the fense of the passage.") [CARDIPHONIA, vol. i. p. 14, 15.7

fpeakable and inconceivable glory and bleffednefs throughout the never ending ages of eternity. (N)

Now all Chrift's enemies will be perfectly put under his feet, and he fhall have his moft perfect triumph over fin and Satan, and all his inftruments, and death and hell. Now fhall all the promifes made to Chrift by the Father before the foundation of the world, the promifes of the covenant of redemption, be fully accomplifhed. Chrift fhall now perfectly have obtained the joy that was fet before him, for which he undertook the fufferings which he underwent in the flate of humiliation. Now fhall all the hopes and expectations of the faints be fulfilled. The flate of things that the church was in before was a progrefive and preparatory flate; but now fhe is arrived to her moft perfect flate of glory. All the glory of the beft times of the church on earth is but a faint fhadow of this her confummate felicity in heaven.

And now Chrift the great Redeemer fhall be moft perfectly glorified, and God the Father fhall be glorified in him, and the Holy Ghoft fhall be moft fully glorified in the perfection of his work on the hearts of all the church. ---And now fhall that new heaven and new earth, or that renewed flate of things, which had been building up ever fince Chrift's refurrection, be completely finifhed, after the very material frame of the old heavens and old earth are deftroyed: [Rev. xxi. 1.] ' And I faw a new heaven ' and

(N) ETERNITY.]

" ETERNITY, the various fentence paft, Aftigns the fever'd throng diffinct abodes, Sulphureous or ambrofial : what enfues ? The deed predominant ! the deed of deeds ! Which makes a bell of hell, a beav'n of heav'n. The goddefs, with determin'd afpect, turns Her adamantine keys, enormous fize, Thro' deftiny's inextricable wards, Deep driving every bolt, on both their fates. Then from the chryftal battlements of heav'n, Down, down, fice hurls it thro' the dark profound, Ten thoufand, thoufand fathoms, there to ruft, And ne'er unlock her refolition more." [Youwe's Night Thoughts, N. 9.] • and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth • were paffed away.'---And who can conceive of the triumph of those praises which shall be fung in heaven on this great occasion. The beloved disciple John seems to want expression to describe the joy on the fall of antichrist, and fays, • It was as the voice of many waters, and as the • voice of mighty thunderings, faying Alleluia : for the • Lord God omnipotent reigneth.' But much more inexpressible will those praises be which will be fung in heaven after the final confummation of all things : they will be mighty thunderings indeed !

And now how are all the former things paffed away, and what a glorious flate are things fixed in to remain to all eternity ! and as Chrift, when he first entered upon the work of redemption after the fall of man, had the kingdom committed to him of the Father, and took on himfelf the administration of the affairs of the universe, to manage all fo as to fubferve the purpofes of this affair; fo now, the work being finished, he will deliver up the kingdom to God, even the Father. [ I Cor. xv. 2.1.] . Then ' cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the ' kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have ' put down all rule, and all authority and power.' Not that Chrift should ceafe to reign or have a kingdom after this; for it is faid, [Luke i. 33.] ' He shall reign over ' the houfe of Jacob for ever, and of his kingdom there ' shall be no end.' [Dan. vii. 14.] ' His dominion is an everlafting dominion, which shall not pass away, and ' his kingdom that which shall not be deftroyed.' Bue the meaning is, that Chrift fhall deliver up that kingdom or dominion which he has over the world, as the Father's delegate or vicegerent, to be managed in fubferviency to this great defign of redemption. The end of this commiffion, or delegation, which he had from the Father, feems to be to fubferve this particular defign of redemption; and therefore, when that defign is fully accomplifhed, the commiffion will ceafe, and Chrift will deliver it up to the Father, from whom he received it.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT.

I PROCEED now to enter upon fome improvement of the whole that has been faid from this doctrine.

1. Hence we may learn how great a work this of redemption is. We have now, in an imperfect manner confidered its whole progrefs from its foundation at the fall through a long fucceffion of wonderful works, advancing higher and higher from one age to another, till the topftone is laid at the end of the world. And now let us confider how great this work is. Do men, when they behold the palaces of princes admire their magnificence, and grandeur? How then fhould we admire this building of God, which he has been erecting for himfelf through a long fucceffion of ages. There are three things which have been mentioned, that effecially fhow the greatnefs of this work of redemption.

(1.) The nature of thofe particular events and difpenfations of Providence, by which it is accomplifhed. What great things were done in the world to prepare the way for Chrift's coming, and fubfequent purchafe of redemption! How wonderful was the incarnation of Chrift, that God thould become man, thould refide upon earth for four and thirty years in a mean, defpifed condition; that he fhould fpend his life in fuch labours and fufferings, and at laft die upon the crofs! And what great things have been done to accomplifh the fuccefs of Chrift's redemption! For this purpofe he arofe from the dead, and afcended up into heaven, and all things were made fubject to him. How many miracles have been wrought, what mighty revolutions have been brought to pafs in the world already, and how much greater do we yet expect !

(2.) The number of those great events by which God carries on this work, shows the greatness of the work.---Those mighty revolutions fill up many ages. The work of creation was completed in fix days; but the great difpendations by which the work of redemption is carried on, are so many, that they fill up fix or seven thousand vears. years. The flood, the building of Babel, the difperfion of the nations, the fhortening of the days of man's life, the calling of Abraham, the deftruction of Sodom and Gomorrah; a long feries of wonderful providences relating to Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob, and Jofeph; the wonders in Egypt, in the Red Sea, in the wildernefs; and a long fucceffion of wonderful providences from age to age towards the nation of the Jews, all contributed in fome view to this great end. What great things were done alfo in Chrift's time, and fince then, in overturning Satan's kingdom in the heathen empire, in preferving his church in the dark times of popery, and in bringing about the Reformation! How many great and wonderful things must be effected in accomplifying the glorious times of the church; and at Chrift's last coming on the day of judgment, in the defruction of the world, and in carrying the whole church into heaven !

(3.) The glorious iffue of this whole affair, in the juft and eternal deftruction of the wicked, and in the confummate glory of the righteous. And now let us once more take a view of this bailding, now it is finished and the topftone laid. It appeared in a glorious height in the apoftle's time; higher in the time of Conftantine, and will appear much more glorious ftill after the fall of antichrift; but at the confummation of all things, it appears in its greateft magnificence, as a complete lofty flructure, whofe top reaches to the heaven of heavens; a building worthy of the great God, the King of kings.

From what has been faid, we may infer, that the work of redemption is the greateft of all God's works of which we have any knowledge. This work is the principal of all God's works of providence, and to this they are all reducible. All the revolutions in the world are to fubferve this grand defign. The work of redemption is alfo greater than that of creation, as the ufe of an houfe is the end of building it. The work of the new creation is more excellent than the old! So it ever is, that when one thing is removed by God to make way for another, the new one excels the old. Thus the temple excelled the tabernacle tabernacle; the new covenant, the old; the new difpenfation of the gofpel, the difpenfation of Mofes; the throne of David, the throne of Saul; the priefthood of Chrift, the priefthood of Aaron; the new Jerufalem, the old; and fo the new creation far excels the old. This work of redemption is fo much the greatest of God's works, that all the other are to be looked upon either as parts or appendages of it, or as fome way reducible to it; and fo all the decrees of God do fome way or other belong to that eternal covenant of redemption which was between the Father and the Son before the foundation of the world .---Every decree of God is fome way or other reducible to that covenant. And feeing this is fo great a work, we need not wonder that the angels defire to look into it : that it is fo much infifted on in the Bible ; being the great fubject of its doctrines, promifes, types, fongs, hiftories, and prophecies.

2. Hence we may learn that God is the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and end of all things. Such are the characters and titles we find often afcribed to God in those places where the fcripture speaks of the course of providential events; [Ifa. xli. 4.] ' Who hath wrought ' and done it, calling the generations from the beginning? ' I, the Lord, the first and the last, I am he.' [See alfo Ifa. xlv. 6, 7. and xlviii. 9, 12.] And therefore, when Chrift reveals the future events of Providence relating to his church and people, and this affair of redemption, to the end of the world, to his difciple John, he often reveals himfelf under this character; [Rev. i. 8.] ' I am Alpha ' and Omega, the beginning and the ending, faith the · Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, ' the Almighty.' [ver. 10, 11.] ' I heard behind me a great ' voice as of a trumpet, faying, I am Alpha and Omega, ' the first and the last.' Alpha and Omega are the names of the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet, as A and Z are of ours; and therefore it fignifies the fame as his being the first and the last, and the beginning and the ending. Thus God is called in the beginning of this book, before the courfe of the prophecy begins : and fo again at the

the end of it, after the final iffue of events. [Rev. xxi. 6.] 4 And he faid unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Ome-4 ga, the beginning and the end.' [Chap. xxii. 12, 13.] 4 And behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with 4 me, to give every man according as his work fhall be. 4 I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the 4 firft and the laft.'

We have now feen how all things were from God in the beginning; on what defign God began the courfe of his providence, and how it has been carried on agreeable to his defign, without ever failing: and that at last the conclution and final iffue of things are to God; we may therefore exclaim with the apoftle, [Rom. xi. 33, 36.] ' O the depth of the riches both of the wildom and know-' ledge of God ! how unfearchable are his judgments, ' and his ways paft finding out ! . . . . For of him, and ' through him, and to him, are all things: to whom ' be glory for ever, Amen.' We have feen other flates and empires, one after another, fall and come to nothing, even the greatest and strongest of them ; how the world has been often overturned, and will be more remarkably fo yet than ever it has been : we have feen how the world was first destroyed by water, and that at last it shall be utterly confumed by fire; but yet God remains the fame through all ages. He was before the beginning of this courfe of things, and he will be after the end of them. [Pfal. cii. 25, 26.] We have feen all other gods perifh; the ancient gods of the heathen in the nations about Canaan, and throughout the Roman empire, are all deftroyed, and their worfhip long fince overthrown; we have feen Antichrift, who has called himfelf a god on earth, and Mahomet, who claims religious honours, and all the gods of the Gentiles, perifh: and even Satan, the great dragon, that old ferpent, who has fet up himfelf as god of this world, will be caft into the lake of fire, there to fuffer his complete punishment: but Jehovah remains, and his kingdom is an everlatting kingdom, and of his dominion there is no end. We have feen mighty and numberlefs numberlefs changes in the world; but God is unchangeable, ' the fame yefterday, to-day, and for ever. [Heb. xiii. 8.]

We began at the head of the ftream of divine providence, and have traced it through its various windings and turnings, till we are come to the end of it, and we fee where it iffues. As it began in God, fo it ends in God. God is the infinite ocean into which it empties itfelf.— Providence is like a mighty wheel, whofe circumferance is fo high that it is dreadful; with the glory of the God of Ifrael above upon it, as it is reprefented in Ezekiel's vifion. [Ezek. i. 15. &c.] We have feen the revolution of this wheel, and how, as it was from God, fo its return has been to God again. All the events of divine providence are like the links of a chain; the firft link is from God, and the laft is to him.

3. We may fee by what has been faid, how Chrift in all things has the pre-eminence. For this great work of redemption is all his work; and therefore being, as it were, the fum of God's works of providence, this fhows the glory of our Lord Jefus Chrift, as being above all, and through all, and in all. That God intended the world for his Son's use in the affair of redemption, is one reason given why he created it by him, as feems to be intimated by the apoftle in Eph. iii. 9---12. What has been faid fhows how all the purposes of God are in Christ; that he is before all, and above all, and that all things confift and are governed by him, and for him. [Colof. i. 15---18.] That God has made him his first-born, higher than the kings of the earth, and fet his throne above their thrones; and upheld his kingdom, when theirs have all come to an end. We fee, that whatever changes there are, and however Chrift's enemies may exalt themfelves, that yet finally all his enemies shall become his footstool, and that he shall reign in uncontrouled power and immenfe glory; alfo that in the end his people ihall be all perfectly faved and made eternally happy. Thus God gives the world to his Son for his inheritance.

(4.) Hence

(4.) Hence we may fee the confiftency, order, and beauty, of God's works of providence. If we behold these events in any other view than that in which they have been fet before us, they will all look like confusion, like a number of jumbled events coming to pass without any order or method; like the toffing of the waves of the fea; things will look as though one confufed revolution came to pafs after another, merely by blind chance, without any regular or certain end.

But if we confider the events of Providence in the light in which the foriptures let them before us, they appear an orderly feries of events, all wilely directed in excellent harmony and confiftence, tending all to one end. The wheels of Providence are not turned round by blind chance, but they are full of eyes round about, as Ezekiel reprefents, and they are guided by the spirit of God, [ch. i. 18---20.] where the fpirit goes, they go: and all God's works of providence, through all ages, meet in one at laft, as fo many lines in one centre. (0)

(o) The mysteries of Providence.] It is a remark of fome of the Puritan divines, that he that duly obferves the divine providences, will never want providences to observe. And this hath always been the practice of believers. " If thou be a Christian indeed, (fays pious Mr. BAXTER) I know thou haft, if not in thy book, yet certainly in thy heart, a great many precious favours of Providence upon record." [Sants' Reit ,p. 168.] And not only on earth, but particularly in heaven, the contemplation of divine Providence will be a fource of inconceivable delight to the believer. " When the records of eternity (fays Mr. Howr) fhall be exposed to view, all the counfels and refults of that profound wifdom looked into, how will it transport ! when it shall be differned, lo ! thus were the defigns laid; here were the apt junctures and dependencies of things, which when acted upon the stage of time, feemed fo perplexed and intricate !" [Bleffednefs of the Righteous, p. 76.]-The fubject is exhauftlefs; we shall only add a short passage from another admirable writer of the laft century.

"O how ravifying a fight is that ! to behold at one view the whole defign of Providence, and the proper place and use of every fingle act, which we could not understand in this world; for what Chrift faid to Peter, [John xiii. 7.] is as applicable to fome providences in which we are now concerned, as it was to that particular action ; ' What I do thou knoweft not now, but hereafter thou · fl.alt

Τt

It is with God's works of providence, as it is with his work of creation; it is but one work. The events of Providence are not fo many different parts of one work, but they are rather fo many different parts of one work, one regular fcheme. The works of Providence are not difunited and jumbled without connection or dependence, but are all united, juft as the feveral parts of one building. There are many ftones, many pieces of timber, but all are fo joined, and fitly framed together, that they make but one building: they have all but one foundation, and are united at laft in one top-ftone.

God's providence may not unfitly be compared to a large and long river, having innumerable branches, beginning in different regions, and at a great diffance one from another, and all confpiring to one common iffue.---After their very diverfe and contrary courfes which they held for a while, yet they all gather more and more together,

' fhalt know it.' All the dark, intricate, puzzling providences at which we were fometimes fo flumbled, and fometimes amazed, which we could neither reconcile with the promife, nor with each other; nay, which we fo unjuftly cenfured and bitterly bewailed, as if they had fallen out quite crofs to their happinels; we fhall then fee to be unto us, as the difficult paffage through the wildernefs was unto Ifrael, ' the right way to a city of habitation.' [Pfal. cvii. 7.]

" And yet, though our prefent views and reflections upon Providence be fo fhort and imperfect in comparison of that in heaven, yet fuch as it is, under all its prefent difadvantages, it hath to much excellency and fweetnefs in it, that I may call it a little heaven, or as Jacob called his Bethel, the Gate of Heaven. It is certainly an highway of walking with God in this world, and as fweet communion may a foul enjoy with him in his providence, as in any of his ordinances. How often have the hearts of its obfervers been melted into tears of joy, at the beholding of its wife and unexpected productions! how often hath it convinced them, upon a fober recollection of the events of their lives, that if the Lord had left them to their own counfels, they had as often been their own tormentors, if not executioners! Into what, and how many fatal mifchiefs had they precipitated themfelves, if Providence had been as fhort-fighted as they ! they have given it their hearty thanks, for confidering their interest more than their importunity, and not fuffering them to perifh by their own defires." [FLAVEL on Providence, page 11, 12.]

gether, the nearer they come to their common end, and all at length difcharge themfelves at one mouth into the fame The different streams of this river are apt to apocean. pear confused to us, because of the limited nature of our fight, whereby we cannot fee the whole at once, nor difcover how they unite in one. Their courfe feems very crooked, and different fireams feem to run for a while different and contrary ways: and if we view things at a diftance, there feem to be innumerable obftacles and impediments in the way of their ever uniting, and coming to the ocean, as rocks, mountains, and the like; but yet if we trace them, they all unite at laft, difgorging themfelves in one into the fame great ocean.

5. From what has been faid, we infer, that the foriptures are the word of God, becaufe they alone inform us what is God's defign in all thefe works. It is most reasonable to suppose, that there is some certain scheme to which Providence fubordinates all the great fucceffive changes in the affairs of mankind; that all revolutions, from the beginning of the world to the end of it, are confpiring to bring to pafs that great event which the great Creator and Governor of the world has ultimately in view; and that the plan will not be finished, nor the ultimate event fully accomplished, till the end of the world.

Now there is nothing elfe that informs us what this fcheme and defign of God in his works is, but only the holy fcripture. Nothing elfe presends to fet in view the whole feries of God's works of providence from beginning to end, and to inform us how all things were from God at firft, and to what end they shall be brought at last .---Nothing but the feripture fets forth how God governed the world from the beginning, in an orderly hiftory; or how he will govern it to the end, by an orderly prophecy of future events: agreeable to the challenge which the God of Ifrael makes to the gods, and prophets, and teachers of the heathen. [Ifa. xli. 22, 23] ' Let them bring ' them forth, and thew us what thall happen : let them " fliew the former things what they be, that we may con-' fider them, and know the latter end of them : or declare 6 110 us things for to come. Shew the things that are to comehereafter, that we may know that ye are gods.'

563

4 C 2

It feems very fit and requifite, that the rational part of the creation should know fomething of God's scheme and defign in his works: for they doubtlefs are the beings principally concerned in them; especially seeing God has given them reason, and a capacity of seeing him in his works: for this end, that they may give him the glory of them. But how can they glorify God in his works, if they know nothing of his defigns? And this feems farther reafonable, becaufe they are made capable of actively falling in with and pronouncing that defign, acting herein as his friends and fubjects; it is therefore reafonable to fuppofe, that God has given mankind fome revelation to inform them of this: but there is nothing elfe that does it, but the Bible. In that we may learn the first original of things, and an orderly account of the fcheme of God's works from the beginning, through ages beyond the reach of all other hiftories. Here we are told what is the grand end that God purpofes, and the great things he defires to exhibit. Here we have an account of these worthy of God, and the glory of his perfections.

Here we learn the connections of the various parts of the work of Providence, in a regular, beautiful, and glorious frame, and have an account of the whole fcheme of Providence, from the beginning of the world to the end of it, either in hiftory or prophecy, and how they iflue in the fubduing of God's enemies, and in the falvation and glory of his church, and erecting the everlafting kingdom of his Son.

How rational, ufeful, and excellent a book is the Bible, and what characters it bears of being a divine revelation ! a book, without which, we fhould be left in miferable darknefs and confusion.

6. From what has been faid, we may fee the glorious majefty and power of God in this affair of redemption.---His power appears in upholding his church for fo long a time, and carrying on this work; preferving it oftentimes when it was but as a little fpark of fire, or as finoaking flux, flax, in which the fire was almost extinct. Yet God has never fuffered it to be quenched, but will bring forth judgment unto victory. God glorifies his ftrength in his church's weaknefs; in causing his people, who are but like little infants, finally to triumph over all earth and hell; fo that they thall tread on the lion and adder; the young lion and dragon shall they trample under foot. [Pf. xci. 13.] The power of God appears also in conquering his many and mighty enemies by that Jefus who was once an infant in a manger, and afterwards a poor, weak, defpifed man; yet he conquered, and triumphed over them in their own weapon, the cross.

God's power glorioufly appears in conquering Satan when exalted in his ftrongeft and moft potent heathen kingdom, the Roman empire. Chrift, our Michael, has overcome him, and the devil was caft out, and there was found no more place for him in heaven; but he was caft out unto the earth, and his angels with him. Again, his power glorioufly appears in conquering him in his proud, fubtle, and above all cruel, antichriftian kingdom; particularly in Satan's moft violent exertions juft before its final fall.

The mighty kingdoms of Antichrift and Mahomet, which have made fuch a figure for many ages together, and have trampled the world under foot, when Chrift appears, will vanith away like a fliadow, or as the darknefs in a room does, when the light is brought in. What are God's enemies in his hands? How is their greatest ftrength weaknefs when he raifes up ! and how weak will they all appear together at the day of judgment ! Thus we may apply those words in the fong of Mofes. [Exod. xv. 6.7 'Thy right hand, O Lord, is become glorious in ' power : thy right hand, O Lord, hath dathed in pieces the ' enemy.' And how great doth the majefty of God appear in overturning the world from time to time, to accomplifn his defigns, and at last in caufing the earth and heavens to fiee away, for the advancement of the glory of his kingdom !

7. From

7. From what has been faid, we may fee the glorious wifdom of God. This wifdom appears in creating the world for fo great and important ends; in bringing fo great good out of fuch evil, in making the fall and ruin of mankind, which in itfelf is fo lamentable, an occasion of effecting fuch a glorious work as this of redemption, and of bringing his elect to a flate of fuch unspeakable happines. How doth the wildom of God appear also in the long feries of revolutions which take place in the world, in bringing fuch order of confusion, in so frustrating the devil, and turning all his fubtle machinations to God's glory, and the honour of his Son Jefus Chrift; and in cauting the greateft works of Satan to be wholly turned into occafions of glorious triumph of the great Redeemer ! How wonderful is the wifdom of God, in bringing all things to fuch a glorious period at laft, and in fo directing all the wheels of providence by his skilful hand, that every one of them confpires as the manifold wheels of a most curious machine, at last to strike out fuch an excellent iffue, fuch a manifeftation of the divine glory, fuch happinefs to his people, and fuch a glorious and everlafting kingdom to his Son!

1

8. From what has been faid, we may fee the flability of God's mercy and faithfulnefs to his people; that he never forfakes his inheritance, and remembers his covenant to them through all generations. Now we may fee the truth of our text, 'The moth fhall eat them up like a ' garment, and the worm fhall cat them like wool; but ' my righteoufnefs fhall endure for ever and ever, and my ' falvation from generation to generation.' And now we may different the propriety of that name by which God reveals himfelf unto Mofes. [Exod. iii. 14.] ' And God ' faid unto Mofes, I am that I am:' i. e. I am the fame that I was when I entered into covenant with Abraham, Ifaac, and Jacob, and ever fhall be the fame; I keep covenant for ever: I am felf-fufficient, all-fufficient, and immutable.

And now we may fee the truth of that word, [Pfa. xxxvi. 5, 6.] ' Thy mercy, O Lord, is in the heavens; ' and • and thy faithfulnefs reacheth unto the clouds.---Thy • righteoufnefs is like the great mountains; thy judgments • are a great deep.' And if we confider what has been faid, we need not wonder that the Pfalmift, in the cxxxvith Pfalm, fo often repeats this, For his mercy endureth for ever; as if he were in an ecftacy at the confideration of the perpetuity of God's mercy to his church, and delighted to repeat it. Let us with like pleafure and joy celebrate the everlafting duration of God's mercy and faithfulnefs to his church and people, and let us be comforted by it under the prefent dark circumftances of the church of God, and all the uproar and confufions that are in the world. And let us take encouragement earneftly to pray for thofe glorious things which God has promifed to accomplifh for his church.

9. Hence we may learn how happy a fociety the church of Chrift is. For all this great work was for their fakes both undertaken and carried on; even becaufe he has loved them with an everlafting love. For their fakes he overturns flates and kingdoms. For their fakes he fhakes heaven and earth. He gives men for them, and people for their life. [See Ita. xliii. 4.] Since they have been precious in God's fight, they have been honourable; and therefore he first gives the blood of his own Son to them, and then, for their fakes, gives the blood of all their enemies. For their fakes he made the world, and for their fakes he will deftroy it: (P) for their fakes he built heaven, and

(P) The DESTRUCTION of the World.] "If one fhould now go about to reprefent the world on fire, with all the confusions that neceffarily must be in nature and in mankind upon that occasion, it would feem to most men a romantic feene; yet we are fure there must be fuch a feene: the heavens will pass away with a noife, and the elements will melt with fervent heat, and all the works of the earth will be burnt up. We think it a great matter to fee a fingle perfon burnt alive; here are millions fliricking in the flames at once. It is frightful to us to look upon a great city in flames, and to fee the diffractions and mifery of the people; here is an univerfal fire through all the cities of the earth, and an univerfal maffacer of their inhabitants. Whatfoever the prophets foretold of the defolations and for their fakes he makes his angels miniftering fpirits, Therefore the apoftle fays, [I Cor. iii. 21, &c.] 'All 'things are yours: whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, 'or the world, or life, or death, or things prefent or 'things to come; all are yours.' How bleffed is this people who are redeemed from among men, and are the tirft fruits unto God, and to the Lamb; who have God in all ages for their protection and help ! [Deut. xxxiii. 29.] 'Happy art thou, O Ifrael: who is like unto thee, O 'people faved by the Lord, the fhield of thy help, and 'who is the fword, thy excellency ! and thine enemies 'fhall be found liars unto thee, and thou fhalt tread upon 'their high places.'

Let

defolations of Judea, Jerufalem, or Babylon, [Ifa. xxiv. Jer. li.] Lament. ] in the higheft ftrains, is more than literally accomplifhed in this laft and general calamity; and those only that are spectators of it, can make its hiftory. But it is not poffible from any flation, to have a full prospect of this last scene of the earth; for it is a mixture of fire and darknefs. This new temple is filled with fmoke, while it is confecrating, and none can enter into it. But I am apt to think, if we could look down upon this burning world from above the clouds, and have a full view of it, in all its parts, we should think it a lively representation of Hell itself. For fire and darknefs are the two chief things by which that flate, or that place, uses to be defcribed; and they are both here mingled together, with all other ingredients that make that Tophet that is prepared of old. [Ifa. xxx.] Here are lakes of fire and brimftone; rivers of melted glowing matter; ten thoufand volcano's vomiting flames all at once; thick darknefs, and pillars of fmoke twifted about with wreaths of flame, like fiery fnakes; mountains of earth thrown up into the air, and the heavens dropping down in lumps of fire. Thefe things will be all literally true, concerning that day, and that flate of the earth. And if we fuppofe Beelzebub, and his apoftate crew, in the midit of this fiery furnace (and I know not where they can be elfe;) it will be hard to find any part of the universe, or any flate of things, that answers to fo many of the properties and characters of Hell; as this which is now before us. But if we suppose the storm over, and that the fire hath got an entire victory over all other bodies, and fubdued every thing to itfelf; the conflagration will end in a deluge of fire, or in a fea of fire, covering the whole globe of the earth. But let us only, to take leave of this fubject, reflect upon this occasion, on the vanity and transfent glory of all this habitable world; how, by the force of one element breaking loofe upon the reft, all the varictics Let the enemies of the church exalt themfelves as much as they will, thefe are the people that fhall finally prevail. The laft kingdom fhall be theirs; and fhall not be left to other people. [See Dan. ii. 44.] We have feen what a bleffed iffue things fhall finally be brought to as to them, and what glory they fhall arrive at, and remain in poffeffion of, for ever and ever, after all the kingdoms of the world are come to an end, and the earth is removed, and 4 D mountains rieties of nature, all the wonders of art, all the labours of men are reduced to nothing; all that we admired and adored before, as great and magnificent, is obliterated, or vanished; and another form and face of things, plain, fimple, and every where the fame, overfpreads the whole earth. Where are now the great empires of the world, and their great imperial cities? their pillars, trophies, and monuments of glory ? Shew me where they flood, read the infeription, tell me the victor's name. What remains, what impreffions, what difference or diffinction do you fee in this mafs of fire? Rome itfelf, eternal Rome, the great city, the emprefs of the world, whole domination and fuperstition, ancient and modern, make a great part of the hiftory of this earth ; what is become of her now? She laid her foundations deep, and her palaces were ftrong and fumptuous : She glorified herfelf, and lived delicioufly, and faid in her heart, I fit a queen, and shall fee no forrow. But her hour is come, the is wiped away from the face of the earth, and buried in perpetual oblivion. But it is not cities only, and works of men's hands, but the everlafting hills, the mountains and rocks of the earth, are melted as wax before the fun; and their place is no where found.

[" The cloud-capt towers, the gorgeous palaces, The folemn temples, the great globe itfelf, Yea all which it inherits fhall diffolve, And like the bafelefs fabric of a vifion Leave not a wreck behind."

SHAKESPEARE.]

560

" Here flood the Alps, a prodigious range of flone, the load of the earth, that covered many countries, and reached their arms from the ocean to the Black Sea; this huge mafs of flone is foftened and diffelved, as a tender cloud, into rain. Here flood the African mountains, and Atlas with his top above the clouds. There was frozen Cancafus, and Taurus, and Imaus, and the mountains of Afia. And yonder towards the north, flood the Riphzan hills, cloathed in ice and fnow. All thefe are vanified, dropped away as the fnow upon their heads, and fwallowed up in a red fea of fire. [Rev. xv. 3.] Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; juft and true are thy ways, thou King of Saints. Hallelujah." mountains are carried into the depth of the fea, or where the fea was, and this lower earth fhall all be diffolved. O happy people, and bleffed fociety! Well may they fpend an eternity in praifes and hallelujahs to him who hath loved them from eternity, and will love them to eternity.  $(q_i)$

to. And, laftly, hence all wicked men, all that are in Chriftlefs condition, may fee their exceeding mifery .---You that are fuch, have no part or lot in this matter: you are never the better for any of those things of which you have heard; but your guilt is fo much the greater, and the mifery you are exposed to the more dreadful. You are fome of those against whom God, in the progress of the work, exercises to much manifest wrath; fome of those enemies who are liable to be made Christ's footftool, to be ruled with a rod of iron, and to be dathed in pieces. You are fome of the feed of the ferpent, to bruile the head of which is one great defign of all this work. Whatever glorious things God accomplithes for his church, if you continue in the flate you are now in, they will not be glorious to you. The most glorious times of the church are always the most difinal times to the wicked and impenitent. And wherever glorious things are foretold concerning the church, there terrible things are predicted of the wicked, its enemies. [See Ifa. lxvi. 14.] And fo it ever has been in fact; in all remarkable delivérances wrought for the church, there has been as remarkable an execution

(Q) The felicity of HEAVEN.] One of the most beautiful ideas that the feripture gives us of the glory of heaven is, that it shall consist in the fight and enjoyment of the deity in the perfon of Jesus Chrift. "Grand idea of heavenly felicity, my brethren! Glorified believers shall see with their eyes the glorious body of Jesus Chrift! What joy to contemplate this object! What delight, if I may speak fo, when the rays of the deity, always too bright and confounding for mortal eyes to behold, shall be fostened to our fight in the perfon of Jesus Chrift! What transporting joy to fee the greatest miracle that was ever included in the plans of the wisdom of God! What felicity to behold in the body of Jesus Chrift a right of approaching with confidence to a familiarity with God! 'We know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him, for we shall fee him as he is." I John iii. 2. [SAURIN'S Ser. XII. vol. iii.]

execution of wrath on its enemies. Thus, when God delivered the children of Ifrael out of Egypt, he poured out his wrath on Pharaoh and the Egyptians. So when he brought them into Canaan by Jofhua, and gave them that good land, he remarkably executed wrath upon the Canaanites. When they were delivered out of their Babylonifh captivity, fignal vengeance was inflicted on the Babylonians. So when the Gentiles were called, and the elect of God were faved by the preaching of the apofiles, Jerufalem and the perfecuting Jews were deftroyed in a most awful manner. I might observe the same concerning the glory accomplithed to the church in the days of Conftantine, at the overthrow of Satan's visible kingdom in the downfall of antichrift, and at the day of judgment. In all these inflances, and especially in the last, there have been, or will be, exhibited most awful tokens of the divine wrath against the wicked.

You are indeed fome of those that God will make use of in this affair; but it will be for the glory of his justice (R) and not of his mercy. The enemies of God shall ( $\kappa$ ) God will make use of fome finners to display his JUSTICE.] This alludes to the docume of reprobation, which is neither more nor lefs than the neceffary confequence of election; for if, out of a world of finners God elects a part to everlading life, the remainder must be left to the confequences of their own fin. This note is not intended to discuss the truth of that doctrine, but only to offer a few hints with a view of obviating, in fome measure the force of a popular objection.

It is commonly faid that this fuppofition involves the damnation of a great majority of the human fpecies; but this we apprehend a vulgar miftake. In the first place we admit the falvation of all infants, dying before they attain the proper exercise of their reafon, which are of themfelves fuppofed the greater half of mankind; to which we add ideots, who are as to their mental powers exactly in the fame fituation. We hope, moreover, that God has in all ages and nations been pleafed to form to himfelf a people (though known only to himfelf) who are enabled to 'fear God and work ' righteoufness;' for we think that the heathens who never had the advantage of a written revelation, claim our charity far beyond the Christian world (fo called) who neglect or despife it. [See note z, p. 514.] We believe that in the world flate of religion among its professions, God referved to himfeli thousands of fincere worshippers. 1 D 2 [Sce fhall be referved for the triumph of Chrift's glorious power in overcoming and punithing them, and fhall be confumed with this accurfed world after the day of judgment, when Chrift and his church fhall triumphantly and glorioufly afcend to heaven. Therefore let all that are in a Chriftlefs condition amongft us ferioufly confider thefe things, and not be like the foolifh people of the old world, who would not take warning, when Noah told them that the Lord was about to bring a flood of waters upon the earth: or like the people of Sodom, who would not flee from the wrath to come, and fo were confumed in that terrible deftruction. (s)

571

And

[See note L, p. 62.] Add thefe to the millions of faithful martyrs, and the more innumerable multitudes that have, or will form the church of God in all ages; and the objection in great meafure, at leaft, vanifues. But if we extend our thoughts to higher worlds; if we include the thoufands of thoufands of angelic fpirits that wait on God's immediate prefence, or execute the orders of his throne; if we allow ourfelves to venture fo far into the modern philofophy, as to fuppofe that other planets may be inhabited as well as ours—and that the fixed flars may be funs to other fyftems of habitable globes—who can tell but there may be as many worlds, nay fiftens of worlds, of innocent and happy intelligent creatures, as milerable and guilty individuals? [G. E.]

(s) Let finners take WARNING.] We shall conclude these notes with the following animated paffage, from a fermon preached on occasion of the earthquakes in London, 1749. " So impreft do I find my mind with the weight and moment of eternal things, that I could, methinks, with I had a voice that would reach as far as this noife and convultion did : and if I had, .... I would reprefent, that if the convulsion of an earthquake is fo dreadful, how dreadful that scene must be, when all things shall be diffolved; the heavens pafs away with a great noife, and the elements melt with fervent heat, the earth and the things that are thereon, not only fhaken, but burnt up .--- I would reprefent the horror and affrightment which will feize the fouls of finners, when the archangel with the trump of God fhall fhake the whole creation; when they thall call for the rocks and mountains to fall upon them, and the earth opening and fwallowing them up would be a bleffing, if it would hide them from the wrath of God, and the Lamb .--- I would difplay the vanity of building on any thing in this uncertain convultive world, and the wretchedness of the men who have chofen their portion in this life .- And, finally, I would hail every faint and child of God (every one who by faith in Christ, ferious religion, And now I would conclude my difcourfe in thefe words from the laft of the Revelation : "Thefe fayings are faith-"ful and true, and bleffed is he that keepeth thefe fayings. "Behold, Chrift cometh quickly, and his reward is with "him, to render to every man according as his work fhall "be. And he that is unjuft, fhall be unjuft ftill; and he "that is filthy, fhall be filthy ftill; and he that is holy, "fhall be holy ftill. Bleffed are they that do his com-"mandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, "and may enter in through the gates into the city : for "without are dogs, and forcerers, and whoremongers, and "murderers, and idolaters, and whofoever loveth and ma-"keth a lie. He that teftifieth thefe things, faith, Surely "I come quickly. Amen; even fo come Lord Jefus." [Rev. xxii. 6, &c.] religion, and a good conficience towards God, can lay his humble claim to the promifes and hopes of the gofpel) as the happieft among men. Such convultions as thefe we have now felt, make on his mind reverential imprefilions of the power and majefty of God; but cannot hurt, nor need they give him any flavith terror. His God is his refuge and ftrength, a very prefent help in trouble; therefore he need not fear, though the earth be removed, and the mountains be carried into the midft of the fea :" [Pfa. xlvi.]

Nay more,

" Should the whole frame of nature break,

In ruin and confusion hurl'd;

He unconcern'd might hear the mighty crack,

And stand fecure amidst a falling world."

[Dr. ALLEN'S Ser. on defpifing reproofs.]

FINIS.

573

*** The Articles referring to the Text only, are diffinguished by the Page; those to the Notes only, by a Letter prefixed to the page; [as $ 79. i. e. Notes fage 79,] those that refer to both Text and Note have the Letter added after the Page: [as $8 and x, Page $8 and Note x.]

Page. TBEL's facrifice, s 79 - his character, ib. 88 & x — his death, Abraham, Jewish tradition of т 126 him. his calling, 126, &c. - his divine vifion, 140 & Z - pleads for Sodom, C 155 Achan's fin and punifhment, 191 & W Adam and Eve, their nakednefs, P 69 ---- their eyes opened, P 70 - their aprons, what, P 71 their penitence and falvation, 84 & u Age, how that term is ufed, 0.46 See Century. Agony, Chrift's, 344, 345, & PåQ Ahaz, the fign given him, 231 \$ 0 -hisdanger and deliverance 246 Alaric and his Goths C 123 Alban, St. martyred, 5 410 Alcuin oppofed Popery, s 442 Alexander's conquefts, 285 & x — he fpares the Jews, 200 &  $\infty$ America, peopling of, 464 &  $\kappa$ אנוש B 44 Anabaptifts, German, .460 — Modern Englifh, .460 à 1º Angel, Chrift fo called, A 199 &cc. See Appearances. Angels, Chrift their head, 59 -miniftring fpirits to Chrift 66 - Redemption made known to them, \_\_\_\_\_ 66 & o & c. - conducted Abel's foul to 88 & Y glory

Angels, how employed about Redemption, _____ 357 Antediluvian hiftory concife 101 & к Anthony St. his power over fire, s 488 Antichrift, who, F 429 — his kingdom, 428, 429 — its commencement, 430, 431 & н — its rife gradual, 431 & 1 — its fall, 508 prophecies concerning, 486 to 494 Antiochus Epiphanes perfecutes the Jews, 291, 292 & R — his death, — 293 & T Armidoya, r 76 Apoftafy, the laft grand, 528, 529 Apostles, their commission, 278 - preached in Britain, Q407 Appearances of Chrift before the Incarnation 66 & N-P 71 — 198, 199 & л . — to Adam, 66 & N — to Abraham, 140, C154 — to Jacob, — to Mofes, 157 & E -167 & I, 19S --- to the feventy elders, ib. — to Jofhua, ----ib. — to Daniel, ----271 Arabians, converted by Origen. 425. E 426 Arius and Arianifm, 420 & x Arianifm, its revival, 462 Armada, the Spanish, 452 & x Arminius and Arminianifes, 461 Afcenfion, Chrift's, 375 Afs, Ealaam's, fpake, s 184 Athanafius, St. and his creed, X 420 Attila

A

Attila and his Huns, c 423 Augustin, St. his conversion and writings. 421 & Y

writings, 421 & Y Auftin converts the Britons, E . 427

В

Babel, its building and deftruc-112 to 118 & Q tion, Babylon's deftruction, 273 & E ----- foretold by the Prophets, ib. Babylon, why Rome was fo 387 called, _____ grand enemy of the 387 church, Babylonifh captivity, 260 ----- cured the Jews of idolatry, 261 ---- prepared the way for Chrift, 262 184 & s Balaam's prophecy, s 184 ----- his afs fpake, Baptifm, Chrift's, 331 ----- Chriftian, inftituted, 379 Baptift, John, Chrift's fore-329 runner, —— His office very honour-330 & н able, Baptifts. See Anabaptifis.

Barbarians, gofpel preached to 425, 426, & E them. Beaft, myftical, his mark, U 493 ----- his image, F 429 Beauty of the church in the Milennium, 525 Biography, its utility, 3 314 Birth of Chrift, —— in the fulnefs of time, 314, А 316 —— at Bethlehem, 317 & в Bleffing, Noah's, on Shem, PIIS Brainerd, Mr. J. his miffion among the Indians, 1 465 Brethren, who fo called by the Hebrews, P II3

С

Cain, his facrifice and character, s 80 ----- Murders Abel, 88 & x ---- mark fet on him, 6.99 Calling on the name of the 89 & z Lord, Calling of Abraham, 126, &c. 238 Calves, golden, Canaan. his crime, PIII P II3 Canaanites deftroyed, Candleftick, golden, typical, P 233 Canon compiled by Ezra, 280 & 1 - completed by Malachi, 283 Canticles, book of, its exceilenev, 17 its divine authority, s 241 Captivity, Babylonifh, 260 Captives, feveral nations converted by means of, 425, E 426 Celfus, enemy of Chriftianity, s 349. L 401 Century, witneffes of the truth in every century, s 442 Century, the tenth, its characib. ter, Children, feveral converted very voung, 0 472 Chrift, his fulnefs and glory, 28 ---- the head of all things, 59 & 1 begins to execute his media-64, &c. torial office, - the defire of all nations, x 257 - generally expected, 266 & B - the grand fubject of the Bible. 305 Chrift

- Chrift appeared in the fecond temple, 321
- Chrift, his death an act of obedience, 325 & F — obeyed and honoured the law, 326, 328

- his fecond coming to judgment, 530, 533, 534 & n takes his church with him
- takes his church with him from this world, 545
- -afcends with her to the higheft heavens, 551,552
- refigns his mediatorial kingdom, 555
- has in all things the preeminence, 560 See Appearances and Jefus.
- Chriftianity perfecuted more than other religions, 480 & R

Church of Chrift, its happinefs, 44

- ------ wonderfully preferved, 97, 482, 484
- —— her fufferings ended, 518 Church, Jewith, its glory in
- Solomon's time, 235 —— declined foon after 237
- ---- preferved when the ftate declined, 243
- Church's profperity in Conftantine's time, 412, 413
- Cneph, an idol, Q73
- Colchians converted to Chriftianity, 425
- Cole, Dr. anecdote of, p 459
- College of prophets, 20.4 & c Comfort, fpiritual fource of,
- 26, 27
- Communion, firange terms of, 6
- Compafs, invention of, 468 Conception of Chrift, 313
- Conception of Chrift, 313 Conflagration of the world, 544 P 567
- Confusion of tongues, Q120,&c. Conftantine's vision and victory, 411, 412, & U
- Contemplation on God's glory,

Contemplation on the works of Nature, 18 Conversions, remarks in New England, 0 471 See Gofpel. Conviction of fin, 28, 29 Covenant, rites of, among the Hebrews, Z 140 — among the Greeks, Z 141 ----- among the Romans, z 142 — of redemption, 50, 51,& E ----- of grace, ---- renewed with Noah, 100 & ο —— with Abraham, 134 156 ----- with Jacob, ------ with David, 210 Councils, ecclefiaftical, inftitution of, 383 & G Crown of Judah preferved in David's family, 228 changed, 230 Crucifixion of Christ, 347 to 350 ------ acted at Lifbon, т 491 Cruelty of popery, 454 & z See Perfecution. Curfe, Canaan's, PIII Cyrus permits the Jews to return and re-build the temple, 274

D

Daniel's prophecies, 255, 285 & N 272 & D ----- feventy weeks, —— vifion of goat and leopard, 285 & N Danish missionaries in the East Indies, 468 & м Darknefs, miraculous at the crucifizion, т 349 David anointed, 207 & E -----, his life wonderfully preferved, 210 & H ----, his Pfalms, 215 — made king, 217 ----, God's covenant renewed with, 219 David

David conquered the whole land of Canaan, 219, 220 —, his character, M 220 ——improved the Jewifh fer-225 vice, ----- a type of Chrift, 226 ----- anceftor of Chrift,228 & N Death and dying words of Pref. Edwards, 12, 13 ---- of Chrift, 347 to 350 ----- of Chrift and Socrates compared, ¥ 353 ----- of Julian the apoftate, 422 & z ----- of Roffeau and Voltaire, P 474 Deacons first appointed, 382 Deaconneffes in the primitive church, F 382 Deifm, its fpread in England, 462, 474 & P Delaware Indians defire the gofpel, W 499 Delight in religion, 19 Denis, St. his treafury, т 490 Defcent, Chrift's into hell, w 350, в 372 Defign, God's in redemption, 60 & к - of Chrift's humiliation, 362 Deftruction of the church's enemies, 104 & M ----- of Sodom, &c. 152 to 154 & c Diary, extract from Mr. Edwards's, 24 Difficulties of an Indian miffio-L 465 nary, e Dionyfius, the Areopagite, 297 & х Difpenfations of Providence dark before Chrift came, 63, 82 Difperfion of the nations, 122 Divinity of Chrift, A 199 Doctrines of the gospel fully revealed in the New Tefta-380, 381 ment, ---- of the Waldenfes, T 444 4 E

Domitian, a cruel perfecutor, 0 404 Dort, fynod of, 461 & 11 Dragooning of the Protestants, B 456 Drunk, Noah, P 110

Е

Eastern idolatry, U 131 Edwards, Pref. his birth, 4 —— education, ib. - entrance on the ministry, ib. ----- appointed tutor of Yale college, ib. ----- fixed at Northampton, - 5 ----- difference with his church, ib. ---- his difmiffion from them, 7, 8 ----- attempts a reconciliation, 8, 9 ----- appointed miffionary at Stockbridge, 12 - appointed prefident of Jerfev College, ib. ----- his death, ib. — his dying words to his daughter, 13 ----- experience, 14 to 30 ----- remarks on, 30, 31 — his delight in meditation, 17 ----- thirft for holine's, 20, 25 ----- delight in the fcripture, 23 ----- ficknefs, 24 ----- fenfe of union to Chrift, 20 to 26 ---- conviction of fin, 28, 29 ----- writes the hiftory of Redemption, 31 ----- his fludy and exercife, 32 ----- his character, 8, 9, 32, 33 — his works, 33, 34 ----- his account of the revival of religion in New England, 470, 471 & 0 Egyptian idolatry, U 130 Empire, Perfian, deftroyed, 284 Empire

Empire, Grecian, erected, 284,	Flood, Noah's, 102 to 104 & M
285 & N	Forbearance, God's, 65 & M
divided. 286 & 0	For-ever, its import, 46 & D
deftroyed, 293, 294	Folly of inattentive reading the Roman, erected, ib. at its height, 298	fcriptures, 308
at its height, 208	France, conversion of, F 427
Encouragement for finners, 359,	Frank, Professor, 469, 470 & N
360	Frogs, unclean fpirits, 503
End of the world, meaning of	Frumentius preaches in India, that phrafe, 363, 364
Enemies, the church's fluil pe-	425, F 426 Fulfilment of prophecies, 485, rifli, 43, 44, 56, 57, 104 & M	Fulfilment of prophecies, 485, &c.
England, perfecution here,	as to the prefervation of 410 & s, 457 See Britain .	the church, 485 as to Antichrift, 486 to Encolto cham from
Enoch's character, 92 & A	Fulse dia 11 di 11 di 194
— prophecy, 93 & в — tranflation, 95 & с	Fulgentius, his timidity, N 436
tranilation, 95 & c	Future state revealed under the
Enoch, pretended book of, B 94	Old Testament, 96
Н 100	fuccefs of the gofpel how
Enthufiafts hurt religion,	it may probably be accom-
460 & G	plifhed, 500, 501 & w
Eternity, contemplation of,	_
N 554	G
$$ of hell torments, 546 & $\kappa$	Gemara and Mishna, quoted, R
Events, typical, of Chrift's 2d	348
coming, 367, 369 Eve's hope of Cain, w 86	Genealogy, the Virgin Mary's
Eve's hope of Cain, w 86	228 & N
See Adam.	Genferic and the Vandalls,
Eunuch, his conversion, U 250	C 423
Eves opened, what, P 70	Georgia, orphan houfe at, 0 473
Ezra's commiffion from Baby-	Giants, what, H 100
lon, 277	Giants, what, H 100 Glauca hall, 469, 470 & N
- expounds the law, 278 & H	Glory, Redemption completed
book of, 270	in, 532
Expence of popery, M 434, 435	See Heaven.
Ezekiel's prophecy, 270	Gnoffics, their herefy, D 424
1 1 77 -72	God the A and $\Omega$ in Redemption
F	558, 559
Faith, modern popifli, Q476	Gog and Magog, army of, 529
Fall of Man, 64	Gofpel revealed to the angels ruins of, God's defign to	Gofpel revealed to the angels, o 67 to 70
reftore, 57, 58 & H	to Adam, 69 to 75 & P
Fall of Antichrift gradual, 498
——————————————————————————————————————
Falfe Chrifts before Jerufalem's	times, — 388, &c. — among the Jews, 389, 390
definition t 200	among the Samaritane age
deftruction, 1 398 Favin, Is. martyr, B 456	among the Samaritans, 391 among the Gentiles, 392, Fees of the Pope's chancery,
-	394
м 434	means of falvation, 413
	Gofpel,

Gofpel, its fuccefs, owing to a divine power, — 417 divine power, — 417 — foretold, — 418 among the Barbarians, 425, 426 & E
— means of, E 426
—— in Ireland, 426
in Britain, Q407
in Scotland, w 499 among the American Indians, 463, 464, 1 466, w 497, &c.
opposition to it, proves its divinity, 479, &c. fuccefs of, fince the Reformation, 462, &c.
in Mufcourr ib
in Mufcovy, - ib.
in America, 0 471, 473
Goths converted to Christianity,
425, E 426
Grace triumphant over guilt,
57 & G
Grant of the earth to Noah, 108
Grecians, foreign Jews, 269,&c.
Greek language general, 287 prepared the way for propagating the gofpel, 288 traullation of Old Teftament, 288, 289, & P
Gregory XIII. his impiety A 455
Gregory Arrisin piecy & 455

Η

Haggai's prophecy, 277 & G Hall, Rev. Mr. letter to, 10 Haman, Jews delivered from, 282, & L Ham's crime and curfe, P 110 - pofterity, P 114 ----Hannibal's exclamation, P 113 Haran's pretended death, P 127 Head of all things, Chrift, 59&L Heart, man's, evil, 101&1 Heaven created for the elect,52 & F

---- hoft of, worfhipped, U 130

____ journey to, v 131 ____ and earth, new, 58, 365, 554

Heaven, happiness of, 570 & Q Heavenly believer's journey hither, V 131 Heathen, falvation of, 162,171, z 514 — oracles, 408 & R Heathens boaft, having deftroyed Chriftianity, 411 Heathenism destroyed, 412 to 414 Hebrew idiom, r 78 Hell, this world whether, 546 to 550 & L — its torments eternal, 546 & K - Milton's defcription of, L 551 420, D 424 Herefies, rife of, 508 ------ their final end, Heretics not allowed to trade, U 493 Hermes, Q73 Herod, King in Judea, G 163 High Church perfecutors, 458, & c Hogs, maflacre of, Q73 Holinefs, its nature, 21 Holy of Holies, typical of what, 233 & P Honour of the Saints at the laft day, 544 Horeb and Sinai, how diftin-1 167 guifhed, -----Horns, ten, beafts with, 422, 423, & в Hofea, the first who wrote his prophecies, 247 Humility, its excellence, 22 —— its true nature, 29 Hufs, John, martyred, 446 & w Hyperbolies in religion, 29 Hypocrites admitted to the Lord's Supper, 6

Januarius, St. his blood, s 488 Janus, the temple of, 299 & v Japhet's territory, P 116 4 E 2 Jacob's Jacob's ladder, typical, 156 & D ------ wreftling, 157 & E ----- prophecy, 161 & G ---- death, G 161 Iberians converted to Christia-425 nitv, Tefuits expelled Japan, - R 480 128 & U Idelatry, origin of, ---- Chaldean, ib. ----- kinds of, U 128 ----- Egyptian, ----- Eaftern, U 129, 130 U 131 515 & в ----- of the Tartars, Jehovah Jireh, в 148 Jerufalem, God's chofen citv, 218 ----- its deftruction, 397 & 1, 400 & к —— foretold by Chrift, 397 & 1 ----- New, 552 & м Jefus Chrift, his incarnation, 312, &c. —— his conception, 313 —— his birth of a virgin, в 267, 313, 314 ----- in the fulnefs of time, 314, 316 & A ---- proclaimed from heaven, 319, 320 ----- his fatisfaction, 323, 324 — his righteoufnefs and obedience, 325, &c. —— his childhood, 328 & G ----- trials, 328 328, 329 ---- private life, ---- public ministry, 329, &c. — forerunner, 329 ----- baptifm, 331 ----- temptation, ib. 344 & o ----- preaching, 332 & 1 ---- miracles, 333 ----- close of his miniftry, 334 & к ------ character, 335. 339 & 1 ----- his fufferings and infancy, 340 —— in his private life, 341 —— was a carpenter, 341 & м ----- truly fuffered, 342 & N

Jefus fuffered povetry, 342 ------ hatred and reproach, 343 ----- tried as a malefactor, 345, 346 ib. ----- denied, ----- crucified. 347 to 350 ----- mocked, 348 —— Jews fought a pretence for his death, R 348 ----- death, 349 ----- exact time of, т 349 ----- preached to fpirits in priw 350 ion, See Appearances and Chrift. Jews difperfed to all parts of the world, 265, x 510 — return by permiffion of Cyrus, 247 — typical, 275 wonderfully preferved, 291, 510 & x ----- given up to judicial blindnefs, 395 ----- rejected of God, ib. — deftroyed by the Romans, 396, 397 & 1 ------ warned of this, 396 ----- perfecuted by the papifts, E 459 — conversion and restoration. 509, 510 & X, 512 & Y Jewish difpensation abolished, 377 Ignatius martyred, 0 404 Incarnation, 312, &c. ----- its neceffity, 313 Indians at Stockbridge, Pref. Ed. miflionary there, 12 Indian fimplicity, L 466, 467 ----- letters, L 407, W 500 ----- fchools, м 469 ----- academy for miflionaries, &c. W 499 Indulgencies, prices of, M 434 Inquifition, 453 & Y ----- praife of, ¥ 453 Infpiration of the O. Teftament, 300, 301 ---- confirmed by Chrift, 282&M 100

178 & 0, 305 Job, book of, John the Evangelist banished to Patmos, 433, N 404 ----- the Baptift, his office, 329, 330 & н Jofeph's hiftory, 157 & F ------ temptation and victory, F 157 —— a type of Chrift, 158 Jofhua, book of, 212 & 1 Ireland converted, 426 ----- maffacre there, 459 & D providential deliverance of D 459 Ifaac, a pledge of the covenant, 143 ----- his life fpared, 143 & A the dead, в 148 Ifaiah, prophefied of Chrift, 249 & U Ifrael preferved in Egypt, 164 ----- redeemed from Egypt, 166 ----- that event typical, 166, &c. ----- led through the wildernefs, 180 ------ that alfo typical. ib. ------ wonderfully preferved, 183 & K ----- refcued by the judges, 196 ----- poffefs all the land of Ca-192, 220 naan, Jubilee, of what typical, 502 Judah, tribe of, preferved, 244 Judas Maccabeus, his bravery, 292 & 6 Judgments dreadful, caufed by fin, 101 Judgment laft and general, 541 Judges, book of, К 214 Julian the apoftate, 421, 422 ----- his death, 422 & z ---- attempted to rebuild lerufalem, 7. 422

Kirkland, Rev. Mr. letter from, W 499 Knowledge of good and evil, P 70 Koran, account of, 437 & 0

Kingdom of God and Heaven, 366, &c.

See Chrift and Empire.

L

Laban an idolator, S 125 Ladder, Jacob's, 156 & D Lamai, Delai, living idol, B 515 Lamentations, book of, 261 & y Languages, origin and confufion of, Q 120, &c. See Tongues. Lateinos, U 493 Latter days, what, 363 & A Laud, Abp. his temper, c 458 Law, given from Sinai, 173, 174 & L ----- not a covenant of works, 175 & M ----- typical, 175, 176 & N — book of, wonderfully preferved, 243 & т —– ceremonial abolifhed,267 Learning, human, its vanity, 297 ----- its proper ufe, 478 Letter to Mr. Hall, 10 See Indian. Lewis XIV. his cruelty. 456& B

Libertine, conversion of, p 180 Licentioufnefs, its prevalence,

Light of the Old Teftament, 63,82

Living at the laft day fhall be changed, 538

his wife's death, c 154 Longevity of the patriarchs, 178 & P

Lot preferved in Sodoni, 152to 154 & c

Luke

K

Luke, the companion of St. Paul, ______ 384

Μ

Mahomet's rife and character, 436 to 438 & P Majefty and power of God feen in Redemption, - 564, 565 Maimonides on idolatry, U 128 G 165 Makkaph, point, Malachi, prophecy of, 283 Manes and the Manichees, D 424 Mark of the beaft, U 493 Maffacre of the Jews, 1 399 ----- Irifn, ------ Farifian, 459 & D 455 & A Mediatorial office, Chrift, commenced at the fall, 64, &c. Mediators, heathens, origin of, U 120 Melchifedec bleffeth Abraham, 138 Y 138 Mercy, divine, its true nature, K 547 Mercy feat typical, 233 & P Merit of Chrift's obedience. 322 Mefiah expected as a facrifice, 2234 Millennium, ftate of, 520, &c. ------ the time for fulfilling the remaining prophecies, ib.

----- a time of great knowledge, ib.

- ------ of great holinefs, 522 ------ of vital religion, 523
- prace and love, 524
- ------ order in the churches,
  - 525

the church's glory, ib. temporal profperity, ib.

- - 527

Ministry of Christ, how finished, 334&к Ministry, gospel, instituted, 378 Miracles in the wildernefs, 183 & R ----- miracles of Chrift, 333 ----- of the apoftles, &c. 380 & E ----- popifh, 487 & s Mifery of the wicked, 570 See Hell. Miflina quoted, P. 348 Monaftries, expence of, M 434 Morals of the heathen philofophers, how corrupted, u 205 Mofes prophefied of Chrift, 184, 187 & T ----- call of the Gentiles, 187 ------ wrote the Pentateuch, Q180 Moth worm defcribed, A 43, 44 Mufcovy, fuccefs of the gofpel

there, – 462, 463 Myfteries of Providence, 561 & 0

Ν

Nakednefs, our firft parents, p 69 Nathan and Gad, book of, 227 Neceffity of abolifhing the ceremonial law, 267 Neglect of Chrift, danger of, 356, &c. Negroes, prefent flate of, 515 & A Nehemiah's commission, 276 ----- book, 280 403 & м Nero's perfecution, New Teftament, when, and by whom written, 385 & н New. See Heaven. Noah faved in the ark 106, 107 ------ typical, 100 & N ------ his prophecy, P 110 to 117 ----- poetic, P III ------ his intoxication, P IIO —— his family preferved the true religion, 124 97 & E Nod, land of, Number of the beaft, U 493

Obfcene

Obfcene publications, the evil of, Odoacer, king of the Heruli, C 423 Old. See Teftament. Oneida Indians, W 497 Oracle, heathen, 408 & R ----- Sybilline, B 267 Origen platonized, P 424 Origin of language, Q 122 — of preaching, — of fynagogues, H 278 281 & K Orphan houfe at Glauca, 470 & N ----- at Georgia, 0 473 Ofiris and Ifis, U 129

Р

Patriarchs, the Old Teftament, wonderfully preferved, 140, &c. Patrick, St. preaches in Ireland, 426 Paul, St. his convertion and miffion, 382 — quotes the heathen poets, 297 & w Paul II, Pope, his veftments, T 490 Pelagius and Pelagianifm, 421 & Y Pentecoft, day of, 379, 380, & Е Pentateuch, written by Mofes, Q 180 Perfecution of the Jews by Antiochus, 291, 292 & R - of Christianity, by the lews, 394 --- the first general, 403 & M ---- the 2d, -- N 404 ----- the third, ib.

Perfecution the 4th, 1 405 ---- the roth, 409, 410 & s ----- of the Orthodox, by the Arians, 421 ----- chargeable on all parties, D 425 ----- lefs than formerly, 476 Perfecutions, Popifh, 452, &c. ------ in Germany, 454 ----- France, 455 & A, 456 & B ——— England, 457 ——— Scotland, 459 ----- Ireland, --- ib. 8: D ------ Spain, — Е 459 ------ Spanifh America, ib. Perfons of the Trinity, Ε 50 Perfonal Types, Z 197 Peter the Great, -----463 Philofophers, the heathen, 295 & U ----- oppoled the gofpel, 401 & L ----- Chriftian, depraved it, D 424 Phials, (in the Revelation) the first five explained, 447, 448 ------ the 6th and 7th, 503, 505 Piety of the Israelites, who entered Canaan, 100 Pius VI. prefent Pope, his character, _____ 2476 Pilgrims, believers fo called, v 131 Pillar of a cloud and fire, K 160 Plots, popifi, defeated, 450,452 Plutfcho, Mr. Danish millionary м 468 Points, Hebrew, G 165 Polycarp, martyred, P 405 Pope's power decreafed, 475, SiQ Popes idolized, 432 & K ----- depoted princes, 433, St L ----- robbed the people, ib. M ----- antichrift, 429 & F ----- early appofed, 411 & s Poperv

Ο

Popery, its rife, gradual, P 431 See Antichrift. Population, ftate of, at the flood, 98 _____ at the end of the world, 531 Porphyry wrote againft Chriftianity, L 402 Poverty of Chrift, 342 Preaching, origin of, н 278 ----- of Ezra, ---- ib ------ of Chrift, 332 & 1 ------ to fpirits in prifon, w 350 Predefination, a comfortable doctrine, -----16 Prefence of the Lord, D 97 323 & E Price of Redemption, Promife, the very first comprehenfive, Q.75 Promifes, abstracts of God's de-Y 194 crees, Prophecies fcarce in the time of the judges, B 204 - abundant after the captivity, 🕚 251 - of Ezekiel and Daniel, 270 ----- when ceafed, 283 ----- fulfilment of, proves the truth of revelation, 485 ----- as to the prefervation of 485 the church, ----- concerning antichrift, 486 to 494 ----- future reafon to credit, 495 520 Prophets, order of, inftituted, 200, &c. ——— fchool of, ib. ----- college of, 204, &c. —— connect temporal events with fpiritual, G 209, O 232 ----- feveral eminent, 247 Profperity of the Church in the time of Conftantine. 412, 413

Proteftantifm, prefent flate of in Ruffia, 463 & 1 Providence, divine, 189, 560, 561 & 0 Providences extraordinary, 470 & N Providential deliverance for Ireland, D 459 — feveral in England, 450, &c. Pfalms, Book of, 215, 216 & L Purchafe of Redemption, 322, &cc.

R

Redemption what, 49, 50 ------ covenant of, 50 E 51 ------ how carried on, 53, &c. 56, &c. ------ defign of, ------ completed in glory, 532 Reformation, 446, &c. Reformed church, decreafe of, 473 Relics, popifh, т 490 Reprobation, an objection to it obviated, R 571 Refurrection of Chrift, 372,374 ------ fpiritual, 367, c 527 ------ general, 536, 537 & E, 539 & F Reftitution, univerfal, 58 Reftoration of the Jews, 512 & Y Revolutions, remarkable in Providence, 253 Righteoufnefs of God, 45 ------ of Chrift, ------ of the Saints, 325, &c. 543 Rochefter Ld. his conversion, U 250 Romiith, 493 Rome, why called Babylon, 387 Rome, church of, its riches and fplendour, 490 & T Roffeau's dving words, P 474 Ruth, book of, K 214

S

Sabbath, Chriftian, 377, 378 & D

Saccas, Amm. his notions, D 424 Sacred fire loft, 264 Sacrifices, origin of, 76 & R 83 of Cain and Abel, s 79 types, 234 & Q, N 176 Saints, fhall judge devils, 542 Samaritans oppole the Jews, 276 convertion of, 391 Samuel, the prophet, his writings, 212, 214 & K Saracens compared to locufts, 439 & Q

Satan, his kingdom on earth deftroyed, 506, &c. —— his final judgment, 541

Satisfaction, Chrift's, 322, &c. Saved, few, before Chrift's coming, - 62 & L

number of, L 62 Scotland, revival of religion there, w 499

Scripture hiftory, when filent,

& N

Scriptures, wifdom of God in, 3°3

Seed of the woman, Q.74

Self righteonfnefs reproved, 354,

355 Septuagint tranflation, 288, 289 & P

Serpent, the old, his curfe, Q72, 73

worfhipped, ib. his head bruifed, Q74 Shechinah, P 71, K 169

See Appearances. Sheth, the name of a place, s 185 Shewbread, typical, 233 & P Slileh, prophecy of, 6 164, &c.

Signs before Jerufalem's deftruction, 1 398 Sin, the unpardonable, A 422 Skins, coats of, typical, 81 & T Smith, Mr. and Mrs. our author's friends, 22 Sodom and Gomorrah, their fin and deftruction, P II2 Solomon, a type of Chrift, 237 ------ his writings, 241 & s Sons of God, who, 100 & н Sovereignty of God, 15, 16, 25, 30 Spirit, Holy, his glory, 28 ----- effusion of in the wildernefs, 100 ----- return at Chrift's coming, 318 ------ in the latter days, 499 Spirit of Chriftianity, 494 Star, an emblem of Deity, s 185

Stone of Ifrael, x 192 Sufferings of Chrift, 340, &c. Sun and moon fland ftill, y 194 ------ worthip of, u 130

Т

Tabernacle, Jewifh.erected, 195 — a type. See Temple.

Talmud quoted, 313 Temple, Solomon's, a type of Chrift, 232 & P Temptation, Chrift's, 331, 344

& o Terah, an idol maker, T 127 Teftament, Old, its intpiration, its utility, 307 confirmed by Chrift, 282 & M

300

Tongues, confusion of, Q120, &c.

----- carly, how conveyed, 178 & P

í (E.ev

4 F

Tree of the knowledge of good and evil, P 70 Trent, council of, 449, 450 Trinity, perfons of, E 50 Trumpets (in the Revelation) four firft explained, 423 & c Turkifh conquefts, 440 Types, Old Teftament, B 14S, 149, 175, 176 & N, 208 & F, 234 & Q, U 350

U

Vail of the temple, 233 & P Valentinus and his followers, D 424 Veftments, popifh, т 490 Vials. See Phials. Virgin, prophecy of, 0 231 Voltaire's faying of the Pope, Q.476 —— dying words, P 474 Unbelief reproved, 353 Urr of Chaldea, т 127 Urim and Thummim, 263 & z

W

Walking with	God,	Α	92
Waldenfes,		442, 8	kc.

Waldenfes, their doctrine, T 444 ----- perfecuted by the Papifts, 445 & U Wars, popifu, 451, 452 Whitefield, his labours in America, 0 473 Wickliffe and his followers, 445, 446 Wifdom of God in Redemption, 566 ---- in the fcriptures, 303 Witneffes for the truth in every age, 441 & s World burnt, 545

Y

- Young generation in the wildernels, their piety, 190 See Children.

Z

Zechariah, the prophet, 277 Ziengenbalgh, Danish mislionary, M 468

TABLE OF TEXTS

More or lefs explained in this Work.

So The Articles referring to the Text only, are diffinguified by the Page; those to the Notes only, by a Letter prefixed to the page; [as $ 79. i. e. Note $ page 79,] those that refer to both Text and Note have the Letter added after the Page; [as $8 and x, Page $8 and Note x.]

Gen i as	XXXI OA
Gen. i. 28 108 iii. 8—11 P 69	xxxi. 24 151
m. 0	53 125 and s xxxii. 24, &c. 157 and e , 15 57, 69, 70, 72
and 0, 80, 82	A 199
iv. 1 85, 86 and w	XXXV. 5 151
4, &c 79 and s	XXXIX, 7–12. 157 and F
8 x 88	xlviii. 21 G 161, &c.
14, 15 99 and G	xlix. 8–10.161 and G. 262
16 97 and E	l. 20
25 87, 98	Exod. iii. 2, 3 167 and 1
25	viii. 26
v. 24. 92 and A, 95 & c	xii. 12
20 P I I O	vvi 6 monda
vi. 1-4 100 & H, 103	xxiii. 20, 21, A 201
viii. 15	XXIV. Q-II. IOS
20-22. 101 and 1, 100	XXXIII, 2-1. A 201
ix. 1-3, 7 100	xxxiv. 6, &c. 108
1, &c 118 and 0	XXXIV. 24
9, 10 100 and 0	Levit. vi. 13.
9, 10 109 and 0 20, &c P 110	xxii: 0. $.$
25-27 P 111, &c.	xx. 8-13.
xi. 28 T 127	xxii. 28 s 18.1
xiii. 21 S1 and T	xxiv. 17, 19, 181 and s
25, act. P 110 25–27. P 111, &c. xi. 28. T 127 xiii. 21. S1 and T xiv. 4, &c. 137 18-20. Y 139, 140 xv. 9–18. 140 and z 16 150	Deut. iv. 32-34. 170, 173
18-20. Y 139, 140	viii. 4 183 and R
xv. 9–18. 140 and z	2, 3, 15. 188, 189
16 150	and u
xvii. 10. 136 and w	xviii. 16—19.186,187 and T
16.       150         16.       150         xvii. 10.       136 and w         xvii. 17, &c.       c 154	XXXII. 8 122 and R
xix 1-25. 152, 154. &c.	21 187, 395
xxii. 1—16. 143 to 148 and	22 540
A and E , 234	22 546 xxxiii. 13, 14. Y 19 1
xxiv. 31 P 115	Jofli. v. 13, 14. 198
xxvi. 35 150	vii. 1926. 191 and w
xxvi. 35	x. 5-14 507
4	F 2 Jofh.
•	•'

Join. x. 12, 13, 193, Y 194	Haiali xxvi. 17 519
xviii. 1 195	xxxvii. 30, 31 247
xxiii. 8 190	xl. 4, 5 521
xxiv. 2 124	15 506
Judges vi. 11, &c. 199 and A	xli. 2, 3 138 and x
xiii. 17, 21 ib.	22, 23 563
I. Sam. iii. 1. 202 and B	xliii. 4
xiii. 14 м 220 xvi. 6, 7 207 and е	Ifaiah xxvi. 17.       519         xxxvii. 30, 31.       247         xl. 4, 5.       521         15.       506         xli. 2, 3.       138 and x         22, 23.       563         xlii. 4.       567         xlv. 22.       516
	$ \begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$
13 215	Ś 43, &c.
13 215 xvii. 14 210 and H	liii. 3 343
II. Sam. vii. 16 219 viii. 3 222	liii. 3 343 4, 10. 249 and u
viii. 3 222	$\begin{array}{c} P & 235 \\ P & 235 \\ lx. & 4, 5. & 502 \\ 21. & . & 522 \\ lxv. & 1. & . & 396 \\ lxvi. & 7-9. & w & 501, 503 \\ Laron & ii & 0 \\ \end{array}$
xxiii. 1	lx. 4, 5. 502
I. Kings viii. o 262	21
xviii. 1	lxv. 1. · . 306
II. Kings ii. 15 201	lxvi. 7-0. w 501, 503
xxii. 8. &c. 243 and T	Jerem. ii. 2. 3. 188
114 201 and G	X. II
11. Sam. vn. 16.       219         viii. 3.       222         xxiii. 1.       215         I. Kings viii. 9.       262         xviii. 4.       204         II. Kings ii. 15.       204         xxii. 8, &c.       243 and T         114.       204 and G         I. Chro. xxiii. 26.       226         xxix. 29.       K 215, &c.         II. Chro. xxiii. 18.       225	1xv. 1.
ххіх. 20. К 215. &с.	xxxii. 30
II. Chro. xxiji. 18. 225	xxxiy, 18-20, Z 141
Ezra i. 4	1. 35-38. 120
ii. 63	Ezek, j. 18-20.
ii. c	xxi. 7
Nehem viii. 1-12. 278 and H	Dau ii. 7
X. 2. 221	35
Effher in S	10 201
Joh vyvi 26 27 U 203	+0
$\begin{array}{cccc} P falms xyi & IO \\ \end{array} \qquad \qquad$	41
$\frac{1}{2}$	44. · 259, 520
ivviv S aStandr	iii a.t. 273
VC 10 182	vii 6
SV 10. S-C 101	12 11 260, 259
ev 12, ee. 151
CX C . 570, 397	20, 21, +3+, 40/
CXVIII. 24 374	$\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$
Cant	viji 5 5 01 088 080
	27. 387, 516, 523 viii. 5, 7, 21. 288, 289 and N
Nchem. viii. 1—12. 278 and H         x. 3.       221         Effher iii. 8.       265         Job xxxi. 26, 27,       U 130         Pfalms xvi. 10.       B 372         xkv. 12.       523         lxxiv. 8.       281 and k         xc. 10.       151         cxv. 12, &cc.       151         cxv. 12, &cc.       376, 397         cxviii. 24.       374         cxxii. 3.       525         Cant. ii. 1.       17         vii. 7.       406         Ifaiah ii. 3, 4.       219, 390, 523         12, &cc.       259	iv et er ere and b
11aian n. 3, 4. 219, 390, 523	ix. 24, 27272 and D,
12, ac. 259	270, 329
$\frac{1}{10}$
11.2-14. 231 and 0	45· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
6 8 c 200 and 6	ix. 24, 27. 272 and D, 276, 329 xi. 3, 4. 286 45. 293 xii. 4. $477$ 11. $408$ Hofea i. 11. $512$ vi. 6. $78$ xii. 4. $419$ Amos
0, act. 392, 524	Hoferiu
9 510	$\frac{110}{16}$
$\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$
AXV. / 10.	лн. д
	s Annos

	or i E A i S.
Amos vii. 14, 15. 205	$ \begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$
ix. 11 317	XVI. 12. 12. 281
Haggai ii. 6, 7. 256, 321	XVII. I. K 224
23 277	XVAII. 20. 21. P 218
Micah v. 2	31. 200
Zechar. iv. 6, 7 400	$xix$ , 20, $\delta c$ , 210 and $\mathbf{r}$
viii. 4, 5, 12. 525	Acts ii. $26-20$
xii. 10, & C 500	21
xiv. 6, 7. 521
xiv. 6, 7. $521$ 20, 21. $522$	V. 31. 276
Mal. iii. 1, 2. A 201, 257, 321	Vi. L
iv. 2-4 283	3. &C. 280
6 524	vii. 15
Matt. ii. 3-6 B 317	X. 31. 32.
iii. 7 73	43. D 206
10 396	xii. 1-3
13-15 326	xiii. 46, 47, 306
16, 17. 331	xv. 6, &c. 383 & G
iv. 1-11. 344 and o	xvii. 16 302
Mat. iii. 1, 2.       A 201, 257, 321         iv. 2-4.       283         6.       524         Matt. ii. 3-6.       B 317         iii. 7.       73         10.       396         13-15.       326         16, 17.       331         iv. 1-11.       344 and o         viii. 20.       342         xii. 21, 22.       442	18
Xii. 21, 22. A 42	22, &c 207
хvi. 28 в 85	26, 27. 125 & R
xxiv. throughout, 397 to 400	Rom. i. 21 478
and ĸ	iv. 11
$\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$	$\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$
xxv1. 39. Q 345	xi. 12-15. 513 & Y
xxvii. 40. 349 and s	27 389
Mark vi 2	3032. 171
Nark VI. 3. 341 and M	xiv. 9 373
Luke $ii$ J $33, 34, 345$ and P	XVI. I F 282
293, 318 & c	I. Cor. i. 21 173
7	111. 22. · Y 193
24	vi. 3 541, 542
xxii 52 · · · 497	20 E 323
xxiv. 18	20 E 323 X. 11 181, 363 XV. 10 382
John i. 11	XV. 10 382
J I.I. J.J.	<sup>2</sup> 5· · 57
iii. 8.	33· · 297
30. $220$ $221$	U Cor : 51 - 53 538
iv. 20, &c. 201	11. Col. 1. 4
22, 23, 261	in. 10 103
35, 30,, 302	$Gal$ iii $a_4$ · · · Y 193
V. 37. A 200	Eth $i_{10}$
39. 282 and M	20-22
vii. 27 Z 313	Phil. ii. S. o. 370
viii. 56	Colof. j. 15. 66
xii. 20, 21 268	26
xiii. 7 0 561	ii. 10. 501
xin. 31, 32 60	I. Thef.
	$\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$

T A B L E OF T E X T S.

I. Thef. iv. 16 F 540	Rev. xii. 1 235, 387
I. Thef. iv. 16 F 540 26 536 II. Thef. ii. 3 428, 486	2 257, 387
II That is a sage set
11. 1 Hel. II. 3. . 420, 400	3 406, 423
4. 432 and K, 486	6 427, 443
7 429, 486	7 406
8 517	9 414, 516
o (Stande	14 443
I Tim i th	115
1. 1 m. 1. 17 17
I. Tim. i. 17.       . 17         v. 9.       F 382         II. Tim. vi. 6, 7.       402         Hebrews vii. 1—6.       v 139	xiii. 1
11. 11m. vi. 6, 7. 402	$3 \cdot \cdot \cdot 4^{29}$
Hebrews vii. 1-6. Y 139	7· · · 454
ix. 26	9 73
ix. 26	13, 14. 429 and F, 487
25, 27	and s
31 M 104	17. 493 and U
xi. 4	xiv. 4, 5. 444 16, 8. 502, 503
5 92 and A	16, 8. 502, 503
95 and c	SV 10 8/C 448
13, 14 V 131	xvi. 12. 496, 503
13, 14 V 131 17-19 148 and B	14 504
	15 517
xii. 21
1. reter 1. 3 374 and C
10, 11. 205, 206, and D	19, 20 507
12. 319, 357	21 518
12. 319, 357 iii. 18—22. 106 and N,	21 518 xvii. 4. 49 and T
0.51	5
II. Peter iii. 10, 12 546	6 452, 486
I. John iii. 2. 2570	16 509
iv. 19 27	18. 486
Jude 7 154	12, 13 487
14, 15. 93 and E, 94	xviii. 24. 452 xix. 7, 9 526
Revel. i. 10. 378 and D
Revel. i. 10. 378 and D vi. 9, 10	10. 206 and D, 248
13-17 367, 412	11-18, 19. 505
vii. 1	XX, 2, 518, 520
viii. 1	xx. 3 518, 529 4. 517, 523, 526
viii. 1
	5 368
ix. 3, &c. 439 and C	7 . 529
15, &c. 440 and R	8 104, 529
x. 5—7 506	9 104
ix. 3, &c. 439 and ( 15, &c. 440 and n x. 5-7. 506 xì. 3, &c. 441 and s	9 104 13. 537 and E xxi. 1. 365, 554
7, 8 496	xxi. 1. 365, 554
12, 13	14 379
15, 19 522	23 68