

AN
E X P O S I T I O N,

WITH PRACTICAL OBSERVATIONS.

OF THE
SECOND EPISTLE OF JOHN.

Completed by Mr. T. Reynolds.

HERE we find a canonical epistle inscribed, principally, not only to a single person, but to one also of the softer sex. And why not to one of that sex? In gospel-redemption-privilege and dignity, there is neither male nor female, they are both one in Christ Jesus; our Lord himself neglected his own repast, to commune with the woman of Samaria, in order to shew her the fountain of life; and when almost expiring upon the cross, he would with his dying lips bequeath his blessed mother to the care of his beloved disciple, and thereby instruct him to respect female disciples for the future: it was to one of the same sex that our Lord chose to appear first after his return from the grave, and to send by her the news of his resurrection to this as well as to the other apostles: and we find afterwards a zealous Priscilla, so well acquitting herself in her Christian race, and particularly in some hazardous service toward the apostle Paul, that she is not only often mentioned before her husband, but to her as well as to him, not only the apostle himself, but also all the Gentile churches, were ready to return their thankful acknowledgments. No wonder then that a heroine in the Christian religion, honoured by divine providence, and distinguished by divine grace, should be dignified also by an apostolical epistle.

II. JOHN.

The apostle here salutes an honourable matron and her children, v. 1. . . 3. Recommends to them faith and love, v. 5, 6. Warns them of deceivers, (v. 7.) and to take heed to themselves, v. 8. Teaches how to treat those who bring not the doctrine of Christ, v. 10, 11. And, referring other things to personal discourse, concludes the epistle, v. 12, 13.

1. THE elder unto the elect lady, and her children, whom I love in the truth; and not I only, but also all they that have known the truth; 2. For the truth's sake which dwelleth in us, and shall be with us for ever.

Ancient epistles began, as here, with salutation and good wishes: religion consecrates, as far as may be, old forms, and turns compliments into real expressions of life and love. Here we have, as usually,

1. The saluter; not expressed by name, but by a chosen character—The elder. The expression, and style, and love, intimate that the penman was the same with that of the foregoing epistle; he is now the elder, emphatically and eminently so; possibly, the oldest apostle now living; the chief elder in the church of God. An elder in the ancient house of Israel was reverend, or to be revered; much more he who is so in the gospel-Israel of God. An old disciple is honourable, an old apostle and leader of disciples is more so. He was now old in holy service and experience, had seen and tasted much of heaven, and was much nearer than when at first he believed.

2. The saluted; a noble Christian matron, and her children—To the elect lady, and her children. A lady, a person of eminent quality for birth, education, and estate; it is well that the gospel has got among such; it is pity but lords and ladies should be acquainted with the Lord Christ and his religion; they owe more to him than others do; though usually not many noble are called. Here is a pattern for persons of quality of the same sex; the elect lady; not only a choice one, but one chosen of God; it is lovely and beautiful to see ladies, by holy walking, demonstrate their election of God; and her children; probably, the lady was a widow, she and her children then are the principal part of the family, and so this may be styled an economical epistle. Families may well be written to and encouraged, and further directed in their domestic love, and order, and duties. We see that children may well be taken notice of in Christian letters, and they should know it too, it may avail to their encouragement and caution; they who love and commend them, will be apt to inquire after them; this lady and her children are further notified by the respect paid them, and that, (1.) By the apostle himself; whom I love in the truth, or in truth; whom I sincerely and heartily love. He who was the beloved disciple, had learnt the art or exercise of love; and he especially loved those who loved him, that Lord who loved him. (2.) By all her Christian acquaintance, all the religious who knew her; and not I only, but also all they that have known the truth. Virtue and goodness in an elevated sphere shine bright; truth demands acknowledgment; and they who see the evidences of pure religion, should confess and attest them; it is a good sign and great duty to love and value religion in others. Then here is the ground of this love and respect thus paid to this lady, and her children; for the truth's sake, (or true religion's sake,) which dwelleth in us, and shall be with us for ever. Christian love is founded upon the appearance of Christian vital religion; likeness should beget affection; they who love truth and piety in themselves, should love it in others too, or love others upon the account of it: the apostle and the other Christians loved this lady, not so much for her honour as her holiness; not so much for her bounty as her serious Christianity. We should not be religious merely by fits and starts, in certain moods and moons; but religion should still dwell within us, in our minds and hearts, in our faith and love. It is to be hoped that where religion once truly dwells, it will abide for ever. The Spirit of Christianity, we may suppose, will not be totally extinguished: which shall be with us for ever.

3. Grace be with you, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love. 4. I rejoiced greatly, that I found of thy children walking in truth, as we have received a commandment from the Father.

Here we see, 1. The salutation, which is indeed an apostolical benediction; Grace be with you, mercy and peace from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love. Sacred love pours out blessings upon this honourable Christian family; to them who have, more shall be given: these blessings are craved, (1.) From God the Father, the God of all grace: he is the Fountain of blessedness, and of all the blessings that must bring us thither. (2.) From the Lord Jesus Christ; he is also Author and Communicator of these heavenly blessings, and he is distinguished by this emphatical character—the Son of the Father; such a Son as none else can be; such a Son as is the Brigntness of the Father's glory, and the express Image of his person; who, with the Father, is also eternal Life, 1 John 1. 2. From these divine persons the apostle craves, [1.] Grace—divine favour and good-will, the spring of all good things; it is grace indeed, that any spiritual blessing should be conferred on sinful mortals. [2.] Mercy—free pardon and forgiveness; they who are already rich in grace, have need of continual forgiveness; [3.] Peace—tranquillity of spirit and serenity of conscience, in an assured reconciliation with God, together with all safe and sanctified outward prosperity; and these are desired in truth and love; either by sincere and ardent affection in the saluter, (in faith and love he prays them—from God the Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ,) or as productive of continued truth and love in the saluted; these blessings will continually preserve true faith and love in the elect lady, and her children; and may they do so!

2. The congratulation upon the prospect of the exemplary behaviour of other children of this excellent lady. Happy parent, who was blessed with such a numerous religious offspring! I rejoiced greatly that I found of thy children walking in the truth, as we have received commandment from the Father. Possibly, the lady's sons travelled abroad, either for accomplishment and acquaintance with the world, or on the account of their own business or the common affairs of the family, and in their travels might come to Ephesus, where the apostle is now supposed to reside, and might there happily converse with him. See how good it is to be trained up to early religion! Though religion is not to be founded upon education, yet education may be, and often is, blessed, and is the way to fortify youth against irreligious infection. Hence too let young travellers learn to carry their religion along with them, and not either leave it at home, or learn the ill customs of the countries where they come. It may be observed also, that sometimes election runs in a direct line; here is an elect lady, and her elect children; children may be beloved for their parents' sake; but both by virtue of free grace. From the apostle's joy herein we may observe, that it is pleasant to see children treading in good parents' steps; and they who see this, may well congratulate their parents thereupon, and that both to excite their thankfulness to God for, and to enlarge their comfort in, so great a blessing. How happy a lady was this, who had brought forth so many children for heaven and for God! And how great a joy must it be to her ladyship, to hear so good an account of them from so good a judge! And we may further see that it is joyful to good old ministers, and accordingly to other good old disciples, to see a hopeful rising generation, who may serve God and support religion in the world when they are dead and gone. We see here also the rule of true walking; the commandment of the Father. Then is our walk true, our converse right, when it is managed by the word of God.

5. And now I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, that we love one another. 6. And this is love, that we walk after his commandments. This is the commandment, that, as ye have heard from the beginning, ye should walk in it.

We come now more into the design and substance of the epistle; and here we have, 1. The apostle's request; Now I beseech thee, lady. Considering what it is that he entreats, the way of address is very remarkable; it is not any particular boon or bounty to himself, but common duty and observance of divine command; here he might command or charge; but harsher methods are worse than need less, where milder will prevail; and the apostolical spirit is, of all other, the most tender and endearing. Whether out of deference to her ladyship, or apostolical meekness, or both, he condescends to beseech; And now I beseech thee, lady. He may be supposed speaking as another apostle does to a certain master to whom he writes; Wherefore, though I might be much bold in Christ, (and according to the power with which Christ hath entrusted me,) to enjoy thee that which is convenient, yet, for love's sake, I rather beseech thee, being such a one as the aged, the elder. Love will avail where authority will not; and we may often see that the more authority is urged, the more it is slighted. The apostolical minister will love and beseech his friends into their duty.

2. The thing requested of the lady, and her children—Christian sacred love; that we love one another, v. 5. They that are eminent in any Christian virtue, have yet room to grow therein. But as touching brotherly love, ye need not that I write unto you; for ye yourselves are taught of God to love one another. But we beseech you, brethren, (and sisters,) that ye increase more and more, 1 Thess. 4. 9, 10. This love is, (1.) Recommended, [1.] From the obligation thereto—the command ment. Divine command should sway our mind and heart. [2.] From the antiquity of the obligation; not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, v. 5. This commandment of mutual Christian love may be said to be a new one, in respect of its new enaction and sanction by the Lord Christ; but yet, as to the matter of it, (mutual holy love,) it is as old as Natural, Jewish, or Christian religion; this commandment must every where attend Christianity, that the disciples of it must love one another. Then this love is, (2.) Illustrated from the fruitful nature of it; and this is love, that we walk after his commandments, v. 6. This is the test of our love to God, our obedience to him. This is love to ourselves, to our own souls, that we walk in obedience to divine commands. In keeping them there is great reward. This is love to one another, to engage one another to walk in holiness; and this is the note of our sincere, mutual, Christian love—that we (in other things) walk after God's commands. There may be mutual love that is not religious and Christian; but we know our's to be so, by our attendance to all other commands beside that of mutual love. Universal obedience is the proof of the goodness and sincerity of Christian virtues; and they that aim at all Christian obedience, will be sure to attend to Christian love; that is a fundamental duty in the gospel-charter; This is the commandment, that as ye have heard from the beginning, ye should walk in it, (v. 6.) that is, walk in this love. The foresight of the decay of this love, as well as of other apostasy, might engage the apostle to inculcate this duty, and this primordial command, the more frequently, the more earnestly.

7. For many deceivers are entered into the world, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist. 8. Look to yourselves, that we lose not those things which we have wrought, but that we receive a full reward. 9. Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son.

In this principal part of the epistle we find, 1. The ill news communicated to the lady; seducers are abroad; For many deceivers are entered into the world. This report is introduced by a particle that bespeaks a reason of the report; “Ye have need to maintain your love, for there are destroyers of it in the world; they who subvert the faith, destroy the love; the common faith is one ground of the common love;” or, “You must secure your walk according to the commands of God; that will secure you; your stability is likely to be tried, for many deceivers are entered into the world.” Sad and saddening news may be communicated to our Christian friends; not that we should love to make them sorry; but to fore-warn is the way to fore-arm them against their trials. Now here is, (1.) The description of the deceiver and his deceit; he confesses not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh; (v. 7.) he brings some error or other concerning the person of the Lord Jesus; he either confesses not that Jesus Christ is the same person, or, that Jesus of Nazareth was the Christ, the Anointed of God, the Messiah promised of old for the redemption of Israel, or, that the promised Messiah and Redeemer is come in the flesh, or into the flesh; into our world and into our nature; such a one pretends that he is yet to be expected. Strange, that after such evidence, any should deny that the Lord Jesus is the Son of God and Saviour of the world! (2.) The aggravation of the case; such a one is a deceiver and an anti-christ; (v. 7.) he deludes souls, and undermines the glory and kingdom of the Lord Christ; he must be an impostor, a wilful deceiver, after all the light that has been afforded, and all the evidence that Christ hath given concerning himself, and the attestation God hath given concerning his Son; and he is a wilful opposer of the person and honour and interest of the Lord Christ, and as such shall be reckoned with when the Lord Christ comes again; let us not think it strange that there are deceivers and opposers of the Lord Christ's name and dignity now, for there were such of old, even in the apostles' times.

2. The counsel given to this elect household here-upon. Now care and caution is needful; Look to yourselves, (v. 8.) The more deceivers and deceits abound, the more watchful the disciples must be. Delusions may so prevail, that even the elect may be endangered thereby. Two things they must beware of: (1.) That they lose not what they had wrought, (v. 8.) what they have done, or what they have gained. It is pity that any religious labour should be in vain; some begin well, but at last lose all their pains; the hopeful gentleman, who had kept the commands of the second table from his youth up, lost all for want of less love to the world and more love to Christ. Professors should take care not to lose what they have gained: many have not only gained a fair reputation for religion, but much light therein, much conviction of the evil of sin, the vanity of the world, the excellency of religion, and the power of God's word; they have even tasted of the fowers of the world to come, and the gifts of the Holy Spirit; and yet at last lose all. Ye did run well, who hindered you, that ye should not obey (or not go on to obey) the truth? Sad it is, that fair splendid attainments in the school of Christ should all be lost at last. (2.) That they lose not their reward, none of it, no portion of that honour, or praise, or glory that they once stood fair for; that we (or ye, as in some copies) receive a full reward; “Secure ye as full a reward as will be given to any in the church of God; if there are degrees of glory, lose none of that grace (that light or love or peace) that is to prepare you for the higher elevation in glory; hold fast that which thou hast, (in faith and hope and a good conscience,) that no man take thy crown; that thou neither lose it, nor any jewel out of it,” Rev. 3. 11. The way to attain the full reward, is, to abide true to Christ, and constant in religion to the end.

3. The reason of the apostle's counsel, and of their care and caution about themselves; which is twofold: (1.) The danger and evil of departure from gospel-light and revelation; it is in effect and reality a departure from God himself; Whosoever transgresseth, (transgresseth at this dismal rate,) and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. It is the doctrine of Christ that is appointed to guide us to God; it is that whereby God draws souls to salvation and to himself; they who revolt from thence, in so doing revolt from God. (2.) The advantage and happiness of firm adherence to Christian truth; it unites us to Christ, (the Object or Subject matter of that truth,) and thereby to the Father also; for they are one. He that abideth, (rooted and grounded) in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son. By the doctrine of Christ we are enlightened in the knowledge of the Father and the Son; by it we are sanctified for the Father and the Son; thereupon we are enriched with holy love to the Father and the Son; and thereby prepared for the endless enjoyment of the Father and the Son. Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken to you, John 15. 3. That purity makes meet for heaven. The great God, as he has set his seal to, so he puts a value upon, the doctrine of Christ. We must retain that holy doctrine in faith and love, as we hope or desire to arrive at blessed communion with the Father and the Son.

10. If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed: 11. For he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds.

1. Upon due warning given concerning seducers, the apostle gives direction concerning the treatment of such; they are not to be entertained as the ministers of Christ; the Lord Christ will distinguish them from such, and so would he have his disciples. The direction is negative: (1.) "Support them not; If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, (concerning Christ as the Son of God, the Messiah and Anointed of God, for our redemption and salvation,) receive him not into your house." Possibly, this lady was like Gaius, whom we read of in the next epistle, a generous housekeeper, and hospitable entertainer of travelling ministers and Christians. These deceivers might possibly expect the same reception with others, or with the best who came there; (as the blind are often bold enough;) but the apostle allows it not: "Do not welcome them into your family." Doubtless, such may be relieved in their pressing necessities; but not encouraged for ill service. Deniers of the faith are destroyers of souls; and it is supposed that even ladies themselves should have good understanding in the affairs of religion. (2.) "Bless not their enterprises; Neither bid him God speed." Attend not their service with your prayers and good wishes." Bad work should not be consecrated or recommended to the divine benediction. God will be no patron of falsehood, seduction, and sin. We ought to bid God speed to evangelical ministration; but the propagation of fatal error, if we cannot prevent, we must not dare to countenance. Then,

2. Here is the reason of such direction, forbidding the support and patronage of the deceivers: For he that biddeth him God speed, is partaker of his evil deeds. Favour and affection partake of the sin. We may be sharers in the iniquities of others. How judicious and how cautious should the Christian be. There are many ways of sharing the guilt of other persons' transgressions; it may be done by culpable silence, indolence, unconcernedness, private contribution, public countenance and assistance, inward approbation, open apology and defence. The Lord pardon our guilt of other persons' sins.

12. Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink; but I trust to come unto you, and speak face to face, that our joy may be full. 13. The children of thy elect sister greet thee. Amen.

The apostle concludes this letter, 1. With an adjournment of many things to personal conference; Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink; but I trust to come unto you, and speak face to face, that our joy may be full. Here it is supposed that some things are better spoken than written. A pen and ink may be a mercy and a pleasure; but a personal interview may be more so; the apostle was not yet too old for travel, nor consequently for travelling service. The communion of saints should be by all methods maintained; and their communion should tend to their mutual joy. Excellent ministers may have their joy advanced by their Christian friends; That I may be comforted together with you by the mutual faith both of you and me, Rom. 1. 12.

2. With the presentation of service and salutation from some near relations to the lady; The children of thy elect sister greet thee. Grace was abundant toward this family; here are two elect sisters, and, probably, their elect children. How will they admire this grace in heaven! The apostle condescends to insert the nieces' duty, (as we would call it,) or dutiful salutation to their aunt. The duty of inferior relations is to be cherished. Doubtless, the apostle was easy of access, and would admit all friendly and pious communication, and was ready to enhance the good lady's joy in her nieces as well as her children. May there be many such gracious ladies rejoicing in their gracious descendants and other relations! Amen.
