

TO THE RIGHT HONOVRABLE AND VERTVOVS LADIE, THE LADIE LYCIE COVNTESSE OF BEDFORD.

He death of the righteous, that is, of every beleving and repentant finner, is a moft excellent bleffing of God and brings with it many worthy benefits : which thing I provate on this manner. I. God both in the beginning, and in the continuance of big grace, and by ceaser bhings with big fruant then they date commonly adk or thinke, and becaufe be bash promifed aide and firength with otherm, therefore in wonderfull wijedame be caffeth upon them this heavy burthen of death, that they might make experience what is the exceeding might and power of big grace in their weakgenefit. II. Indogeneent begins at God honfe: and the righteend are laden with affliftions and temptations in this life, and therefore in this world they have their deaths and hels, that in death they might not feele the torment of hell and death. 11. When Lazarus was dead Chrift fuid, He is not dead but fleepeth : bence it followeth, that the Chriftian man can fay, My grave is my bed, my death is my fleepe : in death I dye not, but oncy fleepe. It is thought, that of all terrible things, death is moft terrible : but it is falfe to them that be in Chrift, to whom many things happen farre more beaug and bitter them death I V. Death at the first brough forth fin, but death in the righteen by meanes of Chrifts death, abolifsch finne becaufe is it is the accomplifument of mortification. And death is fof are from diffroying fuch as are in Chrifts that the first brough forth fin, but death in the righteen by meanes by Alexan being and the start of the theorem that the first beaugh is an advective the righteen by meanes of Chrifts death, abolifsch finne becaufe is it is the accomplifument of mortification. And death is fof are from diffroying fuch as are in Chrifts that there can be no better refuge for them against death : for prefenby after the death of the boady. followes the perfett freedome of the first : and the refureation of the body. N. Lafity, death is a meanes of a Chrift out duels, and will heale ftill to day and to morrow, and the third I will be pericected. Now this perfettion in the members of Chrift, is nathing iff but the blefing of God the author of peace, fandtifying them throughout, that their whole fluits, and founds, and bouldes, and bouldes, and bouldes, may be preferred without these to the comming of our Lard I fluid will be lift.

Now basing often thus confidered with my leffe of the excellency of death , I though good to draw the fumme and chiefe beads thereof into this finall Treatife : the protection and confideration whereof I commend to your Ladifhip, defiring you to accept of it, and reade it a your teyline. If I be blamed for writing unto you of death, whereas by the courfe of nature you are not yet neere death. Salomon will excels meawho faich that we muft remember our Creater in the daies of our youth. Thus hoping of your Honours good acceptance. I pray Coat buffet his my little labour to your comfort and faluation. Septemb. 7. 1595.

Your Honours in the Lord,

WILLIAM PERKINS.

Eccle

Ecclefiaftes 7. 3.

The day of death is better then the day that one is borne.

precept laid down by Salomon for weighty caufes. For in the Chapters going before hee fets forth the vanity of al creatures vnder heanen: and that at large in the very particulars. Now men hereupon might take occafion of difcontentment in refpect of their eftate in this life : therefore Salemon in great wifedome here takes a new courfe, and in this chapter begins to lay downe certaine rules of direction and comfort, that men might have fomewhat wherwith to arme themfelues against the troubles and miferies of this life. The first rule is in this third verfe, that a good name is better then a pretious oyntment : that is,a name gotten and maintained by godly conuerfation, is a special bletsing of God, which in the middeft of the vanities of this life, miniltreth greater matter of reioycing and comfort to the heart of man, then the most pretious overment can doe to the outward fenfes. Now fome men having heard this first rule concerning a good name, might obiect and fay, that renowne and good report in this life affoards flender comfort: confidering that after it followes death, which is the miferable end of all men. But this objection the wife man remonuch by a fecond rule in the words which I have in hand, faying, that the day of death is better then the day that one is borne.

That wee may come to the true and proper fence of this precept or rule, three points are to be confidered. First, what is death here mentioned. Secondly, how it can be truely C faid, that the day of death is better then the day of birth. Thirdly, in what refpect it is better.

For the first, death is a deprivation of life as a punifhment ordained of God and impofed on man for his finne. First, I fay, it is a deprination of life, becaufe the very nature of death is the absence or defect of that life which God vouchfafed man by his creation. I adde further that death is a punifhmet, more efpecially to intimate the nature and qualitie of death: and to fhew, that it was ordained as a meanes of execution of Gods iuftice and iudgement. And that death is a puniforment ; Paul plainly auoucheth when he faith , that by one man finne entred into the world, and death by finne. And againe that death is the flipend, wages or allowance, of finne. Furthermore, in every punishment here be three workers: the ordainer of it. the

Mag Hefe words are a rule or | A | procurer, and the executioner. The ordainer of this punishment is God in the effate of mans innocencie ; by a folemne law then made in these very words, In the day thon eateft thereof, theu fhalt die the death, Gen. 2 17. But it may be alleadged to the contrary; that the Lord faith by the Prophet Ezechiel, Ezech. 22. II. that he will not the death of a finner , and therefore that he is no ordainer of death. The answer may cafily be made, and that fundry waies. First. the Lord speakes not this to all men, or of all men, but to his own people the Church of the Iewes, as appeares by this claufe prefixed. verfe 10. Somme of man fay unto the bonfe of Ifrael, e.c. Againe, the words are not fooken abfolutely, but onely in way of comparison. in that of the twaine hee rather wils the conuerfion and repentance of a finner, then his death and deftruction. Thirdly, the very meaning of the words import thus much that God doth take no delight or pleasure in the death of a finner, as it is the ruine and destruction of the creature. And yet all this hinders not but that God in a new regard and confideration may both will and ordaine death, namely, as it is a due and deferued punifhment, tending to the execution of inflice : in which inflice God is as good as in his mercy. Againe, it may be objected, that if death indeede had beene ordained of God, then Adam should have beene deftroyed, and that prefently vpon his fall. For the very words are thus, Gen. 2. 17. When focuer thou halt eate of the forbidden fruite, thou shalt certainely die. Anfw. Sentences of Scripture are either Legall or Euangelicall, the Law and the Gofpel beeing two fenerall and difting parts of Gods word. Now this former fentence is Legall, and muft bee vnderftood with an exception borrowed from the Gofpell or the couenant of grace made with Adam, and reuealed to him after his fall. The exception is this : Thou fhalt certainely dye whenfoeuer thou eateft the forbidden fruit, except I doe further give thee a meanes of deliuerance from death, namely, the feede of the woman to bruife the ferpents head. Secondly, it may be answered, that Adam and all his posteritie died, and that prefently after his fall, in that his bodie was made mortall, and his foule became fubiect to the curfe of the Law. And whereas God would not vtterly deftroy Adam at the very first, but onely impofe on him the beginnings of the first and the fecond death : hee did the fame in great wifedome, that in the middeft of his iuftice he might make a way to mercie : which thing

could

could not have beene, if Adam had perifhed. A

490

The executioner of this punifhment is hee that doth impose and inflict the fame on man, and that also is God himfelfe, as hee teftifieth of himfelfe in the Prophet Efay, Ifa. 45.7. I make peace, and create emil. Now cuill is of three forts: naturall.morall,materiall : Naturall cuill, is the deftruction of that order which God fet in enery creature by the creation. Morall cuill, is the want of that rightcoufneffe and vertue which the law requires at mans hand: and that is called finne. Materiall cuill is any matter or thing which in it felfe is a good creature of God, yet fo, as by reafon of mans fall it is hurtfull to the health and life of man,as Henbane, Wolfebane, Hemlocke, and B all other poyfons are. Now this faying of Elay must not be vnderstood of moralleuils, but of fuch as are either materiall or naturall : to the latter of which, death is to be referred, which is the deftruction or abolifhment of mans nature created.

The procurer of death is man not God : in that man by his finnes and difobedience did pull vpon himfelfe this punifhment. Therefore the Lord faith in Ofeah, Ofe.13.6.0 Ifrael, one hath destroyed thee, but in mee is thine belpe. Against this it may be objected, that man was mortall in the effate of innocencie before the fall. Anfw. The frame and composition of mans bodie confidered in it felfe was mortall, becaufe it was made of water & earth, and other elements, which are of them felues alterable and changeable:yet if we refpect the grace and blefsing which God did vouchfafe mans bodie in his creation, it was vnchangeable and immortall, and fo by the fame blefsing fhould have continued, if man had not fallen ; and man by his fall depriving himfelfe of this gift and blefsing, became every way mortall.

Thus it appeares in part what death is : yet for the better clearing of this point, we are to confider the difference of the death of a man and of a beaft. The death of a beaft is the totall and finall abolifhment of the whole creature: for the body is refolued to his first matter, and the foule arifing of the temperature of D the bodie, vanisheth to nothing. But in the death of man it is otherwife. For though the bodie for a time be refolued to duft, yet muft it rife againe in the laft iugement, and become immortall : and as for the foule it fubfifteth by it felfe out of the bodie, and is immortall. And this being fo, it may be demanded, how the foule can die the fecond death. Anfw. The foule dies, not becaufe it is vtterly abolifhed : but becaufe it is as though it were not, and it ceafeth to bee in refrect of rightcoufneffe and fellowship with God. And indeed this is the death of all deaths, when the creature hath fubfifting and beeing, and yet for all this is deprined of all comfortable fellowship with God.

The reafon of this difference is, becaufe the foule of man is a fpirit or fpirituall fubftance, whereas the foule of a beaft is no fubftance, but a naturall vigour or qualitie, and hath no beeing in it felfe without the bodie, on which it wholly dependeth. The foule of man contrariwife being created of nothing, and breathed into the bodie, and as well fubfifting forth of it as in it.

The kinds of death are two, as the kinds of life are, bodily and fpirituall. Bodily death is nothing elfe but the feparation of the fonle from the bodie, as bodily life is the conjunction of body and foule : and this death is called the first , because in respect of time it goes before the fecond. Spiritual death is the feparation of the whole man both in body and foule, from the gracious fellowship of God. Of these twaine, the first is but an entrance to death, and the fecond is the accomplifhment of it. For as the foule is the life of the bodie, fo God is the life of the foule, and his fpirit is the foule of our foules, and the want of fellowship with him brings nothing but the endleffe and vnfpeakable horrors and pangs of death.

Againe, fpirituall death hath three diffinft and leuerall degrees. The firlt is, when a man that is aliue in refered to temporall life, lies dead infinne. Of this degree Paul (peaketh, when he faith, $T Tims _5 \cdot 6 \cdot Bu fheer bat lines in$ peakers, is dead while [be liseth. And this is thecafe of all men by nature, who are the chil $dren of wrath, and dead infimes and treif <math>\beta_n (Br.)$, $Bph \cdot 2n \cdot The faccond degree is the very end of$ this life, when the body is laid in the earth,and the foule defcends to the place of torment.The third degree is in the very end ofthis the body and foule meet agains, and goeboth to the place of the damned, there to beetormented for euer and euer.

Hauing thus found the nature and differences, and kinds of death, it is more then manifeft, that the text in haad is to be vnderfhood, not of the fpirituall, but of the bodily death : becaufe it is oppofed to the birth or natinitie of man. The words then mulf carry this forfor: The time of bodily death in which the bodie and foule of man are feuered afunder, it is better then the time in which one is brought into the world.

Thus much of the firft point in now followeth the facond, and that is, how this can bee true which Salomon faith, that the day of dath is better then the day of birth. I make notthis quefition to call the Scriptures into controuerfie, which are the truth tirfelife, but I doe it for this end, that wee might without wauering be refolued of this which Salomon acoucheth. For there may bee fundry reafons brought to the contrary. Therefore ler ws handle the quefition: the reafons or objections which may be alleadged to the contrary, may allbe reduced to fixe heads. The firth is taken from the opinion of wife men, who thinke it the beft thing of all neuer to bee borne, and the next beft to die quickely. Now if it bee [A] the best thing in the world not to bee borne atall, then it is the worft thing that can be to dye after a man is borne. Anfwer. There be two forts of men:one, that line and die in their finnes without repentance: the other, which unfainedly repent and beleeue in Chrift-Now this fentence may bee truely anouched of the first: of whom wee may fay as Christ faid of Indas, Mat. 26. 24. It had beene good for him that he hadnesser beene borne. But the faying applied to the fecond fort of men is falle. For to them that in this life turne to God by repentance, the best thing of all is to bee borne ; because their birth is a degree of preparation to happinefie; and the next beft is to die quickly: be-В caufe by death they enter into poffession of the fame their happinesse. For this cause Balaam defiretd the death of the righteous; and Salomon in this place preferres the day of death before the day of birth, vnderstanding that death which is joyned with godly life, or the death of the righteous.

The fecond objection is taken from the teftimonies of Scripture. Death is the wages of finne, Rom. 6.23. it is an enemie of Chrift, I. Cor. 15. and the curfe of the law. Hence it feemes to follow, that in and by death, men receive their wages and paiment for their finnes: that the day of death is the dolefull day in which the enemy prenailes against vs: that hee which dyeth is curfed. Anfwer. Wee must diftinguish of death: it must be considered two wayes: first, as it is by it felfe in his owne nature: fecondly, as it is altered and changed by Chrift. Now death by it felfe confidered, is indeed the wages of finne, and enemy of Chrift and of all his members, and the curfe of the law, yea the very fuburbes and gates of hel:yet in the fecond refpect, it is not fo: for by the vertue of the death of Chrift, it ceafeth to bee a plague or punifhment, and of a curfe it is made a blefsing, and is become vnto vs a paffage or mid-way betweene this life and eternall life, and as it were a new wicket or doore whereby we paffe out of this world, and enter into heaten. And in this refpect the faying of Salemon is most true : for in the day of birth, men are borne and brought forth into the vale of mifery , but afterward when they goe hence, having death altered vnto them by the death of Chrift, they enter into eternall ioy and happinefic with all the Saints of God for cuer.

The third obiection is taken from the exiamples of molt worthy men, who haue made their prayers againd death : As our Sauiour Chrift who prayed on this manner, Luke. 22. 42. Father if is be chrywill, let this cappe puffer from mayer nor my will, but thy wilbe done. And Danid prayed, Plat. 6.4, 5. Returnes O Lord, deliver my folde, fause mee for thy morecies fade: for in death there is no remembrance of thee, in the grave who flad prafe thee? And Exebiad, when the Prophet Elsip, 26.4, 32. 3. bad him fet this houfe in order, and tolde him that hee must die, wept fore, and that in respect of death: now by the examples of thefe most worthy men: yea by the example of the Sonne of God himfelfe, it may feeme that the day of death is the most terrible and dolefull day of all. Anfw. When our Saujour Chrift prayed thus to his Father, hee was in his agony, and hee then as our Redeemer ftood in our roome and ftead, to fuffer all things that we should have fuffered in our owne perfons for our finnes: and therefore he prayed not fimply against death, but against the curfed death of the croffe: and hec feared not death it felfe, which is the feparation of body and foule, but the curfe of the law which went with death, namely, the vnfpeakable wrath and indignation of God. The first death troubled him not, but the first and fecond ioyned togither. Touching Danid, when hee made the fixt Pfalme, hee was not onely ficke in body, but also perplexed with the greatest temptation of all, in that he wreftled in confcience with the wrath of God, as appeares by the words of the text, where hee faith, Lord rebuke me not in thy wrath. And by this we fee that hee prayed not fimply againft death, but against death at that instant when hee was in that grieuous temptation. For at other times hee had no fuch feare of death, as hee himfelfe testifieth, faying, Pfalme. 23.4. Though I should walke through the valley of the (hadow of death , 7 will feare no enill. Therefore hee prayed against death onely as it was joyned with the apprehenfion of Gods wrath. Laftly, Ezechiah prayed against death, not onely becaufe he defired to line and doe feruice to God in his kingdome, but vpon a further and more fpeciall regard; becaufe when the Prophet brought the meffage of death hee was without iffue, and had none of his owne body to fuccede him in his kingdome. It will bee faid, what warrant had Ezechiah to pray againit death for this caufe? An/w. His warrant was good : for God had made a particular promife to Danid and his posteritie after him, that fo long as they feared God and walked in his commandements, they should not want iffue to fit vpon the throne of the king-D dome after them, I King. 8.25. Now Ezechiab at the time of the Prophets meffage remembring what promife God had made, and how he for his part had kept the condition thereof, in that he had walked before God with an vpright heart, and had done that which was acceptable in his fight ; he prayed against death, not fo much because he feared the danger of it, but because he wanted iffue. This prayer God accepted and heard, and hee added fifteene veeres vnto his dayes, and two yeeres after gaue him Manaffes.

The fourth objection is this, that thole which have beene reputed to be of the better fort of men, oftentimes have millerable ends : for fome end their dates defpairing, fome rauing and blafpheming, fome fitrangely tor-

of death is the day of greateft woe and mifery. To this I answer first of al generally, that we must not judge of the citate of any man before God by outward things, whether they be blefsings or iudgements; whether they fall in life or death: For (as Salomon faith) All things come alike to all : and the fame condition is to the inft and wicked, to the good and to the pure, and to the polluted, and to him that facrificeth, and to him that facrificeth not: as is the good, fo is the finner; hee that fweareth, as hee that feareth an oath. Secondly, I anfwer the particulars which be alleadged, on this manner : And first of all touching defpaire, it is true that not onely wicked and loofe perfons defpaire in death, but alfo B repentat finners, who oftentimes in their fickneffe, teftifie of themfelues, that being alive, and lying in their beds, they feele themfelues as it were to be in hell, and to apprehend the very pangs and torments therof. And I doubt not for all this, but that the childe of God most deare vnto him, may through the gulfe of defperation attain to enerlasting happines. This appeares by the manner of Gods dealing in the matter of our faluation. All the workes of God are done in and by their contraries. In the creation, all things were made, not of fome thing, but of nothing, cleane contrary to the courfe of nature. In the worke of redemption, God gives life, not by life, but by death and it wee confider aright of Chrift ypon the croffe, C wee shall fee our paradife out of paradife in the middeft of hell. For out of his owne curfed death doth hee bring vs life and eternall happineffe. Likewife in effectuall vocation. when it pleafeth God to conuert and turne men vnto him, heedoth it by the meanes of the Gofpell preached, which in reafon fhould dritte all men from God. For it is as contrary to the nature of man as fire to water, and light to darkeneffe; and yet for all this, though it bee thus against the disposition and heart of man, it preuailes with him and turnes him to God. Furthermore, when God will fend his owne feruants to heaven, he fends them a contrary way, even by the gates of hell: and when it is his pleafure to make men depend on his | D fauour and prouidence, hee makes then feele his anger, and to bee nothing in themfelues, that they may wholly depend vpon him, and bee whatfocuer they are in him. This point beeing well confidered, it is manifelt that the childe of God may paffe to heaven by the very gulfes of hell. The loue of God is like a fea, into which when a man is caft, hee neither feeles bottome nor fees banke. I conclude therefore, that defpaire, whether it arife of weakeneffe of nature, or of confcience of fin, though it fall out about the time of death, cannot prejudice the faluation of them that are effectually called. As for other ftrange euents which fall out in death, they are the effects of difeafes: Rauings and blafphemings arife of the difeafe of melancholie, and fren-

mented: it may feeme therefore that the day |A

fies, which often happen at the end of burning feauers, the choler fhooting vp to the braine, The writhing of the lippes, the turning of the neck, the buckling of the ioynts and the whole body, proceedes of crampes and convultions, which followes after much euacuation. And whereas fome in fickeneffe are of that ftrength that three or foure men cannot hold them downe without bonds; it comes not of witchcrafts and poffeisions, as people commonly thinke, but of choler in the veines. And whereas fome when they are dead, become as black as pitch (as Bonner was) it may arife by a bruife, or an impostume, or by the black iaundife, or by the putrifaction of the liner ? and it doth not alwaies argue fome extraordinarie iudgement of God. Now thefe and the like difeafes with their Symptomes and ftrange effects, though they shall deprive a man of his health, and of the right vie of the parts of his body, & of the vie of reason too:yet they canot deprine his foule of eternall life. And all finnes procured of violent difeafes, and proceeding from repentant finners, are finnes of infirmity; for which, if they know them, and come again to the vie of reason, they wil further repent: if not, they are pardoned and buried in the death of Chrift: And we ought not fo much to ftand vpon the ftrangenefic of any mans end, when we know the goodnes of his life: for we mult iudge a man not by his death, but by his life. And if this be true, that ftrange difeafes, and thereupon strange behaviours in death, may befall the beft man that is; wee must learne to reforme our judgements of fuch as lye at the point of death. The common opinion is, that famandie quietly and goe away like a lambe (which in fome difeates, as confumptions, and fuch like, any man may do) the he goes ftraight to heauen : but if the violence of the difeafe ftirre vp impatience, and caufe frantick behauiours, then men vie to fay, there is a iudgement of God feruing either to difcouer an hypocrite, or to plague a wicked man. But the truth is otherwife. For indeede a man may die like a lambe; and yet goe to hell : and one dying in exceeding torments and ftrange behaulours of the body, may goe to heauen. And by the outward condition of any man, either in life or death, wee are not to judge of his e-Itate before God.

The fifth objection is this : When a man is most neere deach, then the diacell is most buffe in temptation,& the more men are a faulted by Satan, the more dangerous and troublefome is their cafe. And therefore it may feeme that the day of death is the worlt day of all. Am? The condition of Gods children in death is twofolde. Some are not rempted, as Simens, who when he had feene Chrift, brake forth & faid, Lord now letseft thou ity fersam depart in peace. Sec.fore-fignifying no doubst, that here thould end his dayes in all manner of peace. As for them which are compted, though their cafe be very troublefome and perplexed, yet their falno man confider et bin his beart : and mercifull men are taken away, and no man understandeth that the righteous is taken away from the enill to come. Examples of this wee have in lofias. Becaufe (faith the Lord. 2 King. 22.20.) thine heart did melt, and thou hast humbled thy selfe before the Lord, when thou heardest what I stake against this place, &c.behold therefore I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou falt be put in thy grave in peace, and thine eyes (hall not fee all the enill which I will bring upon this place. And Paul faith, I Cor. 11. 32. that among the Corinthians fome were afleepe, that is, dead, that they might not be condemned with the world

Thus much of freedome from miferie, which is the first benefit that comes by death; and the first step to life : now followes the fecond, which is, that death gives an entrance to the foule, that it may come into the prefence of the cuerlasting God of Christ, and of all the Angels and Saints in heaven. The worthineffe of this benefit makes the death of the righteous to be no death: but rather a blefsing to be withed of all men. The confideration of this made Paul to fay, Phil 1. 22. I defire to be diffolued : but what is the caufe of this defire ? that followes in the next words, namely, that by this diffolution hee might come tobee with Chrift. When the Queene of Sheba faw all Salomons wifedome, and the house that he had built, and the meat of histable, and the fitting of his feruants, and the order of his ministers, and their apparel. &c. fhe faid, I King. 10. Hap. py are thy men, happy are thefe thy fernants which ftand ener before thee and heare thy wisedome : much more then may we fay, that they are ten thousand-fold happy which stand not in the prefence of an earthly king; but before the king of kings, the Lord of heauen & earth: and at his right hand enjoy pleafures for enermore. Moles hath beene renowned in all ages for this, that God vouchfafed him but fo much fanour as to fee his hinder parts at his request : O then, what happineffe is this, to fee the glory and Maiestie of God face to face, and to haue eternall fellowship with God our Father, Chrift our Redeemer, and the holy Ghoft our Comforter, and to line with the bleffed Saints and Angels in heaven for ever?

Thus now the third point is manifest, namely, in what refpect death is more excellent the life. It may be here the mind of man vnfatiffied, will yet further reply & fay, that howfoener in death the foules of men enter into heanen, yet their bodies though they have beene tenderly kept for meate, drinke and apparell; and have flept many a night in beds of doune. must lie in darke & loathfome graues, & there be wafted & confumed by worms. Anf. Al this is true indeede, but all is nothing, if to be that we will but confider aright of our graues as we ought. Wcemust not judge of our graves, as they appeare to the bodily eye, but wee muft looke vpon them by the eye of faith, and con-teous (faith the Prophet, E/a. 51. 7.) perifheth and A fider them as they are altered and changed by the death and buriall of Chrift, who having vanquished death vpon the crosse, purfued him afterward to his owne den, and foyled him there and deprived him of his power. And by this meanes Chrift in his owne death hath bnried our death, and by the vertue of his burial! as fweet incenfe hath fweetned and perfumed our graues, and made them of flinking and loathfome cabbins, to become princely pallaces, and beds of most fweet and happie reft, farre more excellent then beds of doune.

And though the body rot in the grave, and be eaten of wormes, or of fishes in the fea, or burnt to afhes, yet that will not be vnto vs a matter of difcomfort, if we doe well confider the ground of all graces, namely, our coniun-Ation with Chrift. It is indeed a fpirituall, and yet a most reall conjunction. And we must not imagine that our foules alone are ioyned to the body or foule of Chrift, but the whole perfon of man both in body & foule is ioyned and vnited to whole Chrift. And when we are once ioyned to Chrift in this mortall life by the bond of the fpirit, we shall remaine & continue eternally ioyned with him : & this vnion once truly made, shall never be diffolued. Hence it followes, that although the body be feuered from the foule in death, yet neither bodie nor foule are feuered from Chrift, but the very bodie rotting in the graue, drowned in the fea burned to afhes, abides ftill vnited to him, and is as truly a member of Chrift then as before. This point we must remember as the foundation of all our comfort, and hold it for ever as a truth. For looke what was the condition of Chrift in death, the fame or the like is the condition of all his members. Now the condition of Chrift was this, though his body and foule were feuered each from other as farre as heauen and the graue, yet neither of them were feuered from the Godhead of the Sonne, but both did in death fubfift in his perfon. And therefore though our bodies and foules bee pulled afunder by naturall or violent death, yet neither of them , no not the bodie it felfe, shall bee feuered and difioyned from Christ. It will bee alleadged, that if the bodie were then vnited to Chrift, it fhould live and bee quickened in the grave. An/w. Not fo:when a mans arme or leg is taken with the dead palfie, it receives little or no heat, life, fenfe, or motion from the body ; and yet notwithftanding it remaines still a member of the body, because the flesh and the bone of it remaine ioyned to the flefh and the bone of the body : even fo may the body remaine a member of Chrift, though for fome fpace of time it receine neither fenfe, nor motion, nor life from the foule, or from the fpirit of God.

Furthermore, wee must remember that by the vertue of this conjunction , shall the dead body, be it rotten, burned, deuoured, or howfoeuer confumed, at the day of iudgement rife to eternall glory. In the winter feafon trees rc-

Ifa. 97.1,

remaine without fruite or leaves, and beeing A couenant, and die out of Chrift; their foules go beaten with wind and weather appeare to the eve as if they were rotten trees: yet when the fpring time comes againe, they bring forth, as before, buds and bloffomes, leaves and fruite. the reafon is, becaufe the bodie, graines, and armes of trees, are all ioyned to the roote where lies the fappe in the winter feafon, and whence by meanes of this conjunction it is deriued to al parts of the tree in the foring time: Euen fo the bodies of men haue their winter alfo, in which they are turned to duft, and fo remaine for the fpace of many thousand ycares; yet in the day of indgement by meanes of that mysticall conjunction with Christ, shal divine and quickening vertue ftreame thence B to all the bodies of the gleft to caufe them to line againe, and that to life eternall. But fome will fay, that the wicked also rife a -gaine. Anf. They doe fo indeed, but not by the fame caufe; for they rife by the power of Chrift as hee is a judge to condemne them : whereas the godly rife againe by the vertue of Chrifts refurre fio, wher of they are partakers by meanes of that bleffed and indiffolute coniunction which they haue with Chrift. And the bodies of the elect though they putrifie and confume neuer fo much in the graue, yet are they still in the fauour of God, and in the couenat of grace: to which, becaufe they have right and title beeing dead, they shall not remaine fo for ever, but shall rife to glory at the C last indgement. Therefore the rotting of the body is nothing in refpect, and the death of the body is no death. And therefore alfo death in the old and new Testament is made but a fleepe, and the graue a bed, whereof the like was neuer feene: wherein a man may reft.nothing at all troubled with dreames or fantafies, and whence he shall rife no more fubiect to weaknes or ficknes, but prefently be tranflated to eternall glory. By this then which hath bin faid, it appeares that the death of the righteous, is a fecond degree to euerlafting happineffe.

Now then confidering our conjunction with Chrift is the foundation of all our ioy and comfort in life and death; wee are in the feare D of God to learne this owne leffon, namely, that while we have time in this world, we must labour to be vnited to Chrift, that wee may bee bone of his bone, & flefh of his flefh. This very point is as it were a flaggó of wine to reuiue our foules when they be in a fwounc at any inftant. And that we may be affured that we are certainely joyned to Chrift, we must shew our felues to be members of his myfticall body by the daily fruits of righteoufneffe and true repentance. And being once certainely affured in conficience of our being in Chrift, let death come when it will, and let it cruelly part afunder both body and foule, yer shall they both remaine in the couenant, and by meanes thereof bee re-vnited and taken vp to life eternall. Wherason the contrary, if men bee out of the to hell, and their bodies rot for a time in the graue; but afterwards they rife to endleffe perdition. Wherefore I fay againe and againe lalour that your confiiences by the holy Ghoft may teftifie, that yee are living frones in the temple of God, and branches bearing fruit in the true vine: and then ye shall feele by experience that the pangs of death shall bee a further degree of happineffe then ever ye found in your lives, enen then when ye are gafping and panting for breath.

Thus much of the meaning of the text, now follow the vfes, and they are manifold. The first and principall is this. In that Salomon preferres the day of death before the day of birth, he doth therein give vs to vnderftand, that there is a direct and certaine way whereby a man may die well, if it had beene otherwife. he could not have faid that the day of death is better. And whereas hee anoucheth this, hee fheweswithall that there is an infallible way wherby a man may make a bleffed end. Therefore now let vs come to fearch out this way: the knowledge and true vnderstanding wherof must not bee fetched from the writings of men, but from the word of God; who hath the power of life and death in his owne hand.

Now that a man may dis well, Gods word requires two things: a preparation before death, and a right behauiour and disposition of death.

The preparation vnto death, is an action of a repentant finner, wherby he makes himfelfe fit and ready to die, and it is a duty very neceffary, to which wee are bound by Gods commandement. For there bee fundry places of Scripture which doe ftreightly enjoyne vs to watch and pray, and to make our felues readie every day against the fecond comming of Chrift to judgement. Now the fame places do withall bind vs to make a preparation against death, at which time God comes to judgement vnto vs particularly. Againe, looke as death leaueth a man ; fo shall the last indgement finde him, & fo fhall he abide eternally: there may bee changes and conversions from euill to good in this life, but after death there is no change at all. Therefore a preparation to death can in no wife bee omitted of him that defires to make an happie and bleffed end.

This preparation is two-fold, generall and particular. Generall preparation is that, wherby a man prepares himfelfe to die through the whole courfe of his life. A duty most needfull which must in no wife bee omitted. The reafons are thefe : first of all death which is certaine, is most of all vncertain, I fay it is certain, becaufe no man can efchew death. And it is vncertaine three waies: firit, in regard of time: for no man knoweth when hee fhall die: fecondly, in regard of place: for no manknowes where he shall die, whether in his bed, or in the field, whether by tea, or by land: thirdly, in refpect of the kind of death: for no man knowes

a violent or naturall death. Hence it followes that men fhould every day prepare themfelnes to death. Indeede if we could know when, where, & how we fhould die, the cafe were otherwife, but feeing we know none of thefesit ftands vs in hand to looke about vs. A fecond reason feruing further to perfwade vs, is this. The most dangerous thing of al in this world, is to neglect all preparation. To make this point more manifest, I will vie this coparison. A certaine man purfued by an Vnicorne, in his flight fals into a dungeon, & in his fal takes hold and hangs by the arme of a tree now as he thus hangs looking downward, he fees two wormes gnawing at the root of the tree, and B as hee lookes vpwardhe fees an hive of moft fweethonie, whereupon he climes vp vnto it, and fitting by it feedes thereon. In the meane feafo while he is thus fitting, the two wormes gnaw in percesthe roote of the tree : which done, tree and man and all falles into the bottome of the dungeon. Now this Vnicorne is death; the man that flies is every one of vs. and every living man : the pit over which hee hangeth, is hell; the arme of the tree is life it felfe, the two wormes are day and night, the continuance whereof is the whole life of man: the hine of honie is the pleafures and profits and honors of this world, to which when men wholly giue themfelues, not confidering their ends, till the tree root, that is, this temporall C life bee cut off: which beeing once done, they plunge themfelues quite into the gulfe of hell. By this wee fee, that there is good caufe that men fhould not deferre their preparation till the time of fickeneffe, but rather enery day make themfelues readie against the day of death. But fome will fay, it shall fuffice if I prepare my felfe to pray when I beginne to bee ficke. An/w. Thefe men greatly deceive themfelues, for the time then is most vnfit to begin a preparation, becaufe all the fenfes and powers of the body are occupied about the paines and troubles of the difeafe: and the ficke partie is exercifed partly in conference with the Phyfitian, partly with the Minifter about his foules health and matters of confcience, and D partly with friends that come to vifite. Therefore there must fome preparation goe before in the time of health, when the whole man with all the powers of body and foule are at libertie. Againe there be fome others which imagine and fay, that a man may repent when he will, even in the time of death: and that fuch repentance is fufficient. Anf. It is falle which they fay : For it is not in the power of man to repent when he himfelte will; when God will he may. It is not in him that willeth or runneth, but in God that hath mercie. And Chrift faith, that many fhall feeke to enter into heaten, and fhall not be able. But why fo? becaufe they feeke when it is too late; namely, when the time of grace is paft. Theretcreit is exceeding folly for men fo much as

whether he shall die of a lingring or fudden, of A once to dreame that they may have repen tance at command; nay it is a just judgement that they should bee contemned of God in death, that did contemne God in their life: & that they should quite be forgotten of God in fickenefie, that did forget God in their health. Againe I anfwer, that this late repentance is feldome or neuer true repentance. It is ficke like the partie himfelfe, commonly languifhing and dying together with him. Repentance should be voluntary (as all obedience to God ought,)but repentance taken vp in fickneffe, is vfually conftrained and extorted by the feare of hell, and other iudgements of God: for croffes, atflictions, and fickeneffe wil caufe the groffeft hypocrite that ever was to ftoope and buckle vnder the hand of God. and diffemble faith and repentance and enery grace of God, as though he had them as fully as any of the true feruants of God ; whereas indeed he wants them altogither. Wherefore such repentance commonly is but counterfeit. For in true and found repentance men muit forfake their finnes; but in this, the finne torfakes the man: who leaves all his cuil waies only vpon this, that he is constrained to leaue the world. Wherefore it is a thing greatly to be wished, that men would repent and prepare themfelues to die in the time of health before the day of death or fickeneffe come. Laftly, it is alleadged that one of the theenes repeted vponthe croffe. Anfw. The theife was called after the eleventh houre at the point of the twelfth, when he was now dying and drawing on: Therefore his conversion was altogither miraculous and extraordinary: and there was a fpeciall reafon why Chrift would have him to be called the, that while he was in fuffering he might fhew torth the vertue of his passion: that al which faw the one, might alfo acknowledge the other. Now it is not good for men to make an ordinary rule of an extraordinarie example.

Thus then this point beeing manifest, that a generall preparation must bee made, let vs now fee in what manner it must be done. And for the right doing of it, five duties must bee practifed in the courfe of our lines. The first is the meditation of death in the life time. For the life of a Christian is nothing elfe but a meditation of death. A notable practife hereof wee have in the example of lefoph of Arimathea, who made his tombe in his life time in the midft of his garden: no doubt for this end, to put hinfelfe in minde of death, and that in the midit of his delights and pleafures. Heathen Philosophers, that neuer knew Chrift, had many excellent meditations of death, though not comfortable in regard of life euerlafting. Now we, that have knowne and belecued in Chrift, must goe beyond them in this point, confidering with our felues fuch things as they neucr thought of , namely , the caufe of death our finne : the remedy thereof, the curfed death of Chrift : curfed I fay, in regard of the kinde of death and punifhment A laid wpon him, but bleffed in regard of vs. Thirdly, we muft often meditate on the prefence of death, which we doe when by Gods grace wee make an account of euery prefent day, as if it were the prefent day of our death, & reckon with our felues when we goe to bed as though we fhould neuer rife againe; and when weerife, asthough we fhould neuer lie downcagane.

This meditation of death is of fpeciall vfe, & brings forth many funits in the life of man. And first of all it ferues to humble vs whder the hand of God. Example we have of Abraham, who faid, Gen. 18. 27. Behold 1 have began to fpeake is my Lord, and 7 am but adj and adjues. Marke here, how the confideration of his mortality made him to abafe and caß downe himfelfein the fight of God: and thus if wee could reckon of enery day as of the laît day, it would ftraight way pull downe our peacocks feathers, and make vs with lø to ahhore our felues in duft and afhes.

Secondly this meditation is a meanes to further repentance. When Ionsu came to \mathcal{N}_{ii}^{-} mise and cried, Ion, 3, 45, 5, Te forty days, G, \mathcal{N}_{ii}^{-} mise fluct be defreyed, the whole city repented in fackcloth and aftes. When Eliss came to Abab and told him that the dogs fhould eate Isfabely by the wall of Iezreel, and him alfo of Ababs flock chat died in the city, &c. it made him to humble himfelfe fo, as the Lord faithto Eliss, 1, Kin, 21, 29, Seeff then bow Ababis humbled before me? Now if the remembrance of death was of fuch force in him that was but an hypocrite; how excellent a meanes of grace Thirdly, this meditation ferues to fittre vp concentation in enery eftate and condition of life that fhall befall vs.Rightous Job in the very middelt of his afflictions, comforts him felfe with this confideration; Naked (Aith hee, Job, 1-21.) came I forth of my mother: wome, and maked (hall freturne agains, 5% c. bleffed be the name of the Lord And furely the often meditation of this, that a man of al his abundance cancarry nothing with him but either a coffin or a winding fheete, or both, fhould be a foreible D meanes to reprefite the wnfatiable defire of riches and the loue of this world.

Thus we fee what an effectuall meanes this meditation is to encreafe & further the grace of God in the hearts of mean. Now I commend this firft datieto your Chriftian confideration, defiring the practife of it, in your lines: which practifie that it may take place, two things muft bee performed. Firft, labour to plucke cut of your hearts a wicked and erronecosismagination, whereby enery man naturally blefteth himfelfe and thinkes highly of himfelfe: and though he hath one foot in the grate, yet he perforates himfelfe that he fhall not die yet. There is no man almoft fo old but by the corruption of his heart he thinkes that he fhall line one yeare longer. Cruell and vnmercifull death makes league with no man: & vet the Prophet faith, Efa. 28.15. that the wicked man makes a league with death. How can this be? there is no league made indeed, but onely in the wicked imagination of man; who falfly thinkes that death will not come neere him, though all the world fhould be deftroyed. See an example in the parable of the rich man. that having ftored vp abundance of wealth for many yeares, faid to his own foule, Luk. 12.19. Soule thou halt much goods laid up for many yeres. line at ease, eate, drink, and take thy pastime, wheras his foule was fetched away prefently. And feeing this naturall corruptio is in every mans heart, we must daily fight against it, & labour by all might and maine that it take no place in vs: for fo long as it fhall preuaile, we fhall be vtterly vnfit to make any preparatio to death. Wee ought rather to indeauour to attaine to the minde and meditation of S. Hierome, who teftifieth of himfelfe on this manner, Whether I wake or fleepe, or what focuer 7 doe, me thinks 7 beare the found of the trumpet, Rife ye dead, and ome to indecment.

The fecond thing which we are to practif: that we may come to a ferious meditation of our owne ends, is, to make prayer vnto God that we might be inabled to refolue our felues of death continually. Thus David prayed Pfal. 39.4. Lord make me to know mine end , and the measure of my dayes, let mee know how long f bane to line. And Mofes, Pfal 90.12. Lord teach me to number my dayes , that 7 may apply mine beart unto wifedome. It may bee faid. What neede men pray to God that they might be able to number their dayes? cannot they of themfelues reckon a few yeeres and dayes, that are able by art to measure the globe of the earth, and the fpheares of heaten, and the quantities of the ftars, with their longitudes, latitudes, altitudes, motions, & diftances from the earth? Noverily. For howfocuer by a generall fpeculation we thinke fomething of our ends, yet valeffe the fpirit of God bee our fchoole-mafter to teach vs our dutie, we shall neuer beable foundly to refolue our felues of the prefence and fpeedines of death. And therfore let vs pray with David and Mofes, that God would inlighten our minds with knowledge ; and fill our hearts with his grace, that we might rightly confider of death, and efteeme of every day and houre as if it were the day and houre of death.

The fecond duty in this generall preparation is, that euery man mußt daily endeauour to take away from his owne death the power and ftrength thereof. And I pray you marke this point: The Philiftims fuw by experience that Sampfon was of great flrength, and therefore they yfed meanes to know in what it to be in the haire of his head, they ceafed not vntill it was cutoff. In like manner the time will come when we muft encomter hand to hand with tyrannous and crueil death : the best therefore is, before hand now while we A | fome, when the fting is out, and we may let haue time, to fearch where the ftrength of death lies, which being once knowne, we must with fpeed cut off his Sampfons locks, and bereaue him of his power, difarme him, & make him allogither vnable to preuaile againft vs. Now to find out this matter, we neede not to vie the counfel of any Dalilah, for wee have the word of God which teacheth vs plainely where the ftrength of death confifts, namely, in our finnes, as Paul faith, 1.Cor. 15.56. The fting of death is fin. Well then, we knowing certainly that the power and force of euery mans particular death lies in his owne finnes, muft fpend our time and fludy in vfing good meanes that our finnes may bee remooued and pardoned. And therefore wee must daily inure our felues in the practife of two duties. One, is to humble our felues for all our finnes paft, partly confefsing them againft our felues, partly in prayer crying to heauen for the pardon of them. The other, is for time to come to turne vnto God, and to carry a purpofe, refolution, and indeauour in all things to reforme both heart and life according to Gods word. Thefe are the very principall & proper duties, wherby the ftrength of death is much rebated, and he is made of a mighty and bloodie enemie fo farre forth friendly & tract ble; that we may with comfort encounter with him & preuaile too. Therefore I commend thefe duties to your Chriftian confiderations, & carefull pra- C Aife, defiring that yee would fpend your daies euer hereafter in doing of them. If a man were to deale with a mighty dragon or ferpent hand to hand, in fuch wife as hee must either kill or bee killed, the beft thing were to bereane him of his fting, or of that part of his body where his poyfon lies:now death it felfe is a ferpent, dragon, or fcorpion, and finne is the fting or poylon whereby he wounds and kils vs. Wherefore without any more delay, fee that yee pull out his fting : the practife of the forefaidduties is as it were a fit and worthy inftrument to do the deed. Haft thou bin a perfon ignorant of Gods will, a contemner of his word and worthip, a blafphemer of his namera breaker of his fabbath, difobedient to parents D and Magistrates, a murderer, a fornicatour, a railer, afl inderer, a conetous perfon? &c. Re . forme thefe thy finnes and all other like vnto them, pull them out by the rootes from thy heart, and caft them off. So many finnes as be in thee, fo many ftings of death be alfo in thee to wound thy foule to eternall death. Therefore let no one finne remaine, for which thou haft not humbled thy felfe and repented ferioully. When death hurts any man, it takes the weapons whereby he is hurt, from his owne hand. It cannot do vs the leaft hurt but by the force of our owne finnes. Wherefore I fay again and again, lay this point to your hearts, and fpend your ftrength, life, and health, that ye may before ye die, abolish the strength of death. A man may put a ferpent in his bo-

death-creepe into our bofome, & gripe vs with his legs, and ftab vs at the heart, fo long as he brings not his venime and poyfon with him.

And because the former duties are so necesfarv, as none can be more, I will vfe fome reafons yet further to inforce them. Whatfocuer a man would doe when he is dying, the fame he ought to doe every day while he is living; now the most notorious and wicked perfon that ever was, when he is dying will pray and defire others to pray for him, and promife amendment of life, protefting that if he might liue, he would become a practitioner in al the good duties of faith, repentance, and reformaв tion of life. Oh therefore bee carefull to doe this every day ! Againe, the faying is true, he that would line whé he is dead, must die while he is aline; namely, to his finne. Wouldft thou then live eternally ? fue to heaven for thy pardon, and fee that now in thy life time thou die to thine owne finnes. Laftly, wicked Balanm would faine die the death of the righteous : but alas, it was to fmall purpofe: for he would by no meanes live the life of the righteous: For his continuall purpofe and meaning was to follow his old wates in forceries and conetoufneffe. Now the life of a rightcous man ftands in the humbling of himfelfe for his fins paft, and in a carefull reformation of life to come. Wouldest thou then die the death of the righteous ? then looke vnto it, that thy life be the life of the rightcous ; if yee will needs line the life of the varighteous, ye must looke to die the death of the vnrighteous. Remember this, and content not your felues to heare the word, but be doers of it : for yee learne no more indeed, what measure of knowledge foeueryce haue, then ye practife.

The third duty in our generall preparation, is in this life to enter into the first degree of life eternall. For as I have faid, there be three degrees of life euerlafting, and the first of them is in this prefent life. For hee that would live in eternal happineffe for ever, muft begin in this world to rife out of the graue of his owne finnes, in which by nature he lies buried, and line in newneffe of life, as it is faid in the reuelation, Renel. 20.6. Hee that will ef. cape the second death, must bee made partaker of the first refurrection. And Paul faith to the Colofsians, that they were in this life delinered from the power of darkeneffe, and translatedinto the kingdome of Christ, Col. 1. 13. And Chrift faith to the Church of the lewes, the kingdome of heaven is among ft you. Now this first degree of life is, when a man can fay with Paul, Galat. 2. 20. I line not, but Chrift lines in mee : that is, I finde partly by the testimonie of my fanctified conficence, and partly by experience, that Chrift my redeemer by his fpirit guideth and gouerneth my thoughts, will, affections, and all the powers of body and |. foule according to the bleffed direction of his holy will. Now that wee might bee able to fay this, we must have three gifts and graces A of God, wherein especially this first degree of life confilts. The first is , faming knowledge, whereby we doe truely refolue our feluesthat God the Father of Chrift is our Father, Chrift his Sonne our redeemer, and the holy Ghoft our comforter. That this knowledge is one part of eternall life, it appeares by the faying of Chriftin John 17.3. This is life eternall, that is, the beginning and entrance into life eternal, to know thee the only God, and whom thou haft fent lefus Chrift. The fecond grace, is peace of conficience which paffeth all under ftanding, Phil.4. 7. and therefore Paul faith, Rom. 14.17. that the kingdome of heaven is righteensnesse, peace of conficience, and isy in the boly Ghost. The hor-R rour of a guilty confcience is the beginning of death and destruction: therefore peace of confcience derived from the death of Chrift, is life and happineffe. The third is the regiment of the ipirit, whereby the heart and life of man is ordered according to the word of God. For Paul faith, Rom. 8. 14. that they that are the children of God, are led by the fpirit of Chrift. Now feeing this is fo, that if we would live eternally wee must begin to live that bleffed and eternall life before we die, here we must be carefull to reforme two common errours. The first is, that a man enters into eternall life when he dies, and not before: which is a flat vntruth. Our Saujour Chrift faid to Zacheus, Luk 19.9. This day is faluation come to thy boufe, C giving vs to vnderstand, that a man then begins to be faued , when God doth effectually call him by the ministery of his Gospel. Whofocuer then will bee faued when he is dying and dead, must begin to be faued while he is now living. His faluation must begin in this life : that would come to faluation after this life. Verily, verily, faith Chrift, be that heareth my word, and beleeneth him that fent me, hath eternall life, namely, in this prefent life. The fecond errour is, that howfocuer a man live, if when he is dying he can life vp his eyes, & fay, Lora bane mercie upon me, he is certenly faued. Behold a very dangerous and foolifh conceit, that deceives many a man. It is all one as if an arrant theife fhould thus reafon with himfelf, and fay; I will fpend my dates in robbing and ftealing, I feare neither arraignment, nor execution. For at the very time when I am to be turned off the ladder, if I doe but call vpon the judge I know I shall have my pardon. Behold a molt dangerous and defperate courfe: and the very fame is the practife of careleffe men in the matter of their faluation. For a man may die with Lord have mercie in his mouth, and perifh eternally: except in this world hee enter into the first degree of eternall life; For not enery one that faith, Lord, Lord, fall enter into beauen: but he that doth the will of the father which is in heaven, Matth 7.21.

loh, ;,

The fourth duty is, to exercise and inure our felues in dying by little and little fo long as we liue here vpon earth before we come to die indeed. And as men that are appointed to runne a race, exercife themfelues to running that they may get the victorie; fo fhould wee beginneto die now while wee are liuing, that we might die well in the end. But fome may fay, how should this be done? Paul gives vs direction in his owne example, when he faith, By the reioycing which I have in Christ, I die daily. 1. Cor. 15.31. And he died daily, not onely becaufe he was often in danger of death by reafon of his calling; but alfo becaufe in all his dangers and troubles, he inured himfelfe to die. For when men doe make the right vie of their afflictions, whether they be in todie or minde, or both, and doe with all their might endeauour to beare them patiently, humbling themfelues as vader the correction of God, then they begin to die well. And to do this indeede is to take an excellent courfe. Hee that would mortifie his greateft fins, must begin to doe it with fmall finnes; which, when they are once reformed, a man shall be able more eafily to ouercome his mafter finnes: So likewife he that would be able to beare the croffe of all croffes, namely, death it felfe, must first of all learne to beare finall croffes, as fickneffes in bodie, and troubles in minde, with loffe of goods & friends, and of good name: which I may fitly tearme little deathes, and the beginning of death it felfe: and we must first of al acquaint our felues with thefe little deathes, before we can bee well able to beare the great death of all. Againe, the afflictions and calamities of this life are as it were the harbingers and purueiers of death: & we are first to learne how to entertaine these messengers, that when death the Lord himfelfe fhalcome, we may in better manner entertaine him. This point Bilney the martyt wel confidered, who oftentimes before he was burned, put his finger into the flame of the candle, not onely to make triall of his ability in fuffering, but alfo to arme and ftrengthen himfelfe against greater torments in death. Thus ye fee the fourth duty, which ye muft in any wife learne and remember, becaufe we cannot be able to beare the pangs of death well, vnleffe we be first well schooled and nurtured by fundry trials in this life.

The fifth and laft duty is fet downe by Salomon, Ecclef. 9.10. All that this hand fluid finde to dee, dot is with all thy power. And marke the reafont. For there is neither works, nor invaning, nor howledge, norwifedame in the graues whither thong soft. To the fame purpofe Paul faith, Gal. 6.10. Due good to all men white yee hare time. Therefore if a man bee able to doe any good fernice either to Gods Church, or to the common-wealth, or to any prinate man, let him do is with all forede and with all might, left death it felfe present him. He that hath care thus to fpend his daies, fhall with much comfort and peace of confeirnce end his life.

Thus much of generall preparation. Now followeth the particular, which is in the time of fickenesse. And here first of all I will shew

what

what is the doctrine of the Papifts , and then [A] afterward the truth. By the Popifh order and practife, when a man is about to die, he is inioyned three things. First to make facramentall confession, specially if it be in any mortall fin:fecondly, to receive the Eucharift; thirdly, to require his annoyling, that is, the facrament(as they call it) of extreame vnction.

Sacramentall confession, they tearme'a rehearfall or numeration of all a mans finnes to a prieft, that he may receive abfolution. But against this kind of confession, fundry reafons may be alleadged. First of all, it hath no warrant either by commandement or example in the whole word of God. They fay yes : and they indeauour to prooue it thus : He which B lies in any mortall finne, is by Gods law bound to doe penance and to feeke reconciliation with God: now the necessarie meanes after baptifme to obtaine reconciliation, is the confession of all our finnes to a prieft: Becaufe Chrift hath appointed priefts to bee iudges vpon earth, with fuch measure of authoritie, that no man falling after baptifme, can without their fentence and determination be reconciled; and they can not rightly iudge, vnleffe they know all a mans finnes: therefore all that fall after baptifine are bound by Gods word to open all their finnes to a prieft. Anf. It is falle which they fay, that priefts are indges, having power to examine and take knowledge of mens finnes, and iurifdiction where- C by they can properly abfolue and pardon or retaine them. For Gods word hath giuen no more to man , but a ministerie of reconciliation. 2. Corinth. 5.18. whereby in the name of God, and according to his word, he doth preach, declare, and pronounce, that God doth pardon or not pardon his finnes. Againe, pardon may truely bee pronounced, and right iudgement of the eftate of any man, without a particular rehearfall of his finnes, for hee which foundly and truely repents of one or fome few finnes, repents of all. Secondly, this confession is ouerturned by the practife of the Prophets and Apoftles, whonot onely abfolued particular perfons, but alfo whole Chur-When Nathan the Prophet had rebuked Da. nid for histwo great and horrible crimes, Dauid touched with remorfe faid, 2.Sam.12.12. 7 have simmed, and Nathan prefently without further examination declared vnto him in the name of God, that his finnes were forgiuen him. Thirdly, it cannot be prooued by any good and fufficient proofes, that this confeffi on was vied in the Church of God till after s. or 6. hundred yeares were expired. For the confession which was then in vie, was either publike before the Church, or the opening of a publike fault to fome private perfon in fecret. Therefore to vrge ficke men vnto it lying at the point of death, is to lay more burdens on them, then ever God appointed. And whereas they make it a neceffarie thing to receive the Eucharithin the time of fickeneffe toward death, and that primately of the ficke partie alone, they have no warrant for their practife and opinion. For in the want of the facrament there is no danger, but in the contempt: and the very contempt it felfe is a finne which may be pardoned, if wee repent. And there is no reafon why we fhould thinke that ficke men should bee deprived of the comfort of the Lords supper. if they receiue it not indeath ; because the fruit and efficacy of the Sacrament once received, is not to be reftrained to the time of receiving; but it extends it felfe to the whole time of mans life afterward. Againe, the fupper of the Lord is no private actio, but meerely Ecclefiaftical: and therefore to be celebrated in the meeting and affemblies of Gods people; as our Saujour Chrift prefcribeth, when he faith, Doe ye this; Lus.22, and Paul in faying, When ye come together. But it 19. is alleadged, that the Ifraelites did eate the 1.Cor. Pafchal Lamb in their houfes when they were 11.200. in Egypt. Anfw. The Ifraelites had then no liberty to make any publike meeting for that end: and God commanded that the Pafchal Lambe should bee eaten in all the houses of the Ifraelites at one and the fame inftant; and that in effect was as much as if it had beene publike. Againe, they alleadge a Canon of the Councill of Nice ; which decreeth that men being about to die, must receive the Eucharift and not be a deprined of the prouifion a Frank of food necessary for their journey. Answer. riviatico, The Councill made no degree touching the administration of the Sacrament to all them that die, but to fuch onely as fell away from the faith in perfecution, or fell into any other notorious crime, and were thereupon excommunicate, and fo remained till death : and either then or fomewhat before teftified their repentance for their offences. And the Canon was made for this end, that fuch perfons might be affored that they were againe receiued into the Church ; and by this meanes depart with more comfort. Thirdly, it is obie-Red, that in the primitive Church, part of the Encharift was carried by a ladde to Serapion Euleb. ches without exaction of auricular confession. D an aged man, lying ficke in his bed. An/w. 6.0.36 It was indeede the cuftome of the ancient Church from the very beginning, that the elements of bread & wine fhould be fent by fome of the Deacons to the fick, which were abfent from the affembly. And yet neuertheleffe here is no footing for private communions. For the Eucharift was only then fent whethe reft of the Church did openly communicate; and fuch as were then abfent onely by reafon of fickneffe, and defired to be partakers of that bleffed comunion, were to be reputed as pre- Bafil. ep. fent. Laftly it is objected, that it was the maner ad Cal. Tcr.ul.l. of men and women in former times to carry ad vipart of the Sacrament home to their houfes, orem. & to referve it till the time of necessity, as the Hier. in time of ficknes and fuch like. Anfw. The refer- Apol.pro uatió of the Sacrament was but a fuperfitious I, miob

practife, though it be auncient. For out of the |A administration, that is, before it beginne, and after it is ended, the Sacrament ceafeth to be a facrament, and the elements to bee elements. As for the practife of them that vied to cram the Eucharift into the mouth of them that were deceafed; it is not only fuperfittions, but alfo very abfurd.

Carrls. 3+

As for the Annoyling of the ficke, that is : the annointing of the body, fpecially the organes or inftruments of the fenfes, that the party may obtaine the remission of his finnes, and comfort against all temptations of the dinell in the houre of death, and ftrength more eafily to beare the pangs of fickeneffe and the pangs of death, and he reftored to his corpo-1 B rall health, if it be expedient for the faluation of his foule; is but a dotage of mans braine. and hath not fo much as a flew of reafon to iuftifieit, The fifth of lames is commonly alleadged to this purpose, but the annointing there mentioned is not of the fame kind with this greafie facrament of the Papilts. For that annointing of the body was a ceremony vfed by the Apoftles and others, when they put in practife this miraculous gift of healing, which gift is now ceafed. Secondly, that annointing had a promife that the party fhould recouer his health, but, this popifh annointing hath no fuch promife, because for the most part the perfons thus annointed dy afterward without recoucry; whereasthole which were annointed in the primitine Church alwaies recouered. Thirdly, the auncient annointing ferued onely for the procuring of health, but this tends further to the procuring of remifsion of finnes, and ftrength in temptation.

Thus having feene the doctrine of the Papifts, I come now to fpeake of the true and right manner of the making particular preparation before death, which containes three forts of duties: one concerning God, the other concerning mans owne felfe, the third concerning our neighbour. The first concerning God, isto feeke to be reconciled vnto him in Chrift, though we have beene long affured of his fauour. All other duties must come after in the fecond place, and they are of little or no effect without this. Now this reconciliation mult be fought for; & is obtained by a renewing of our former faith and repentance ; and they must bee renewed on this manner : So loone as a man shall feele any manner of ficknes to feaze vpon his body, he must confider with himfelfe whence it arifeth: and after ferious confideration, he shall find that it comes not by chaunce or fortune, but by the fpeciall prouidence of God. This done, he mult goe yet further, and confider for what caufe the Lord fhould afflict his body with any ficknes or difeafe. And hee fhall finde by Gods word, that fickneff: comes ordinarily and vfually of fin. Wherefore is the liuing man forrowfull? man fuffereth for his finnes, Lam. 3. 39. It is true indeede, there bee other caufes of the wants of the bodie, and of fickeneffe, befide finne; and though they be not knowne to vs, yet they are knowne to the Lord. Hereupon Chrift when he faw a certaine blinde man, and was demanded what was the caufe of the blindnes, an fwered. lob 9.2. Weither hath this man finned, nor his parents, but that the worke of God should be shewed on him. Yet we for our parts, who are to go not by the fecret, but by the reuealed will of God. mult make this vie of our ficknes, that is fent vnto vs for our finnes. When Chrift healed the man ficke of the palfie, he faith, Mat. 9.2. Be of good comfort, thy finnes are forginen thee: & when he had healed the man by the poole of Bethefda, that had bin ficke thirty eight yeers, he bids him finne no more , left a worfe thing (hould happen unto him : giving them both to vader- Ioh 5 24. ftand, that their fickeneffe came by reafon of their finnes. And thus fhould every ficke man refolue himfelfe. Now when we have proceeded thus farre, and have as it were laid our finger vpon the right and proper caufe of our lickeneffe, three things concerning our finnes mult be performed of vs in ficknesse. First, we mult make a new examination of our hearts and lines, and fay as the I fraclites faid in affli-Ation: Let vs fearch and trie our wates, and turne againe unto the Lord, Lam. 3. 40. Secondly, we muft make a new confeision to God of our new and particular finnes, as God fends new corrections and chaftifements. When David had the hand of God verie heavie vpon him for his finnes. fo as his very bones and moifture confumed within him, Pfal, 3.14. hee made confefsion of them vnto God, and thereupon cbtained his pardon, and was healed. The third thing is to make new prayer and more earnest then euer before, with fighes and groanes of the fpirit, and that for pardon of the fame fins, and for reconciliation with God in Chrift. In the exercise of these three duties standes the renouation of our faith and repentance, wherby they are increased, quickened, and reuined. And the more fickeneffe preuailes and takes place in the body, the more fhould we be carefull to put them in vre: that fpiritual life, might increase as temporall life is decaied. When king Ezechias lay ficke, as hee thought vpon his death-bed, he wept as for fome other cau fes, fo also for his fins, and withall he prayed God to cafte them behinde his backe. Danid made certaine Pfalmes when hee was ficke, or at the leaft upon the occasion of his ficknesse, as namely, the 6. the 32. 38,39. &c. and they all are Pfalmes of repentance : in which wee may fee how in diffresse of body and minde hee renued his faith and repentance, heartily bewailing his finnes, and intreating the Lord for the pardon of them. Manaffes, one that fell from God, and gaue himfelfe to many horrible finnes, when he was taken captive and imprifoned in Babylon, He prayed to the Lord his God and humbled himfelfe greatly before the God of his fathers, and prayed unto him : and God was intreated of him, and heard his prayer, and brought him againe into Ierufalem into his kingdome, and A then Manaffes knew that the Lord was God, 2. Chron.3,112,13. Now looke what Manaffes did inhis tribulation, the fame thing mult we doe in the time of our bodily fickcneffe.

Here I have occasion to mention anotorious fault, that is very common in this age, euen among fuch as haue long liued in the bo fome of the Church : and that is this : Men now adayes are fo farre from renuing their faith and repentance, that when they lye fick and are drawing toward death, they muft be catechized in the doctrine of faith and repentance, as if they had beene but of late receiued into the Church. Whofoeuer will, but as occafion is offered, vifit the ficke, shall finde | B this to be true which I fay. What a fhame is this, that when a man hath fpent his life and dayes in the Church for the fpace of twentie, or thirty, or fourtie yeares, hee should at the very end of all & not before, begin to inquire what faith, and what repentance is, and how his foule might be faued. This one fin argues the great fecurity of this age,& the great contempt of God and his word. Well, let all men hereafter in time to come, be warned to take heed of this exceeding negligence in matters of faluation, and to vfe all good meanes before hand, that they may bee able in fickeneffe and in the time of death to put in practife the fpirituall exercises of innocation and repentance.

Now if fobe it fall out that the ficke partie C cannot of himfelfe renew his owne faith and repentance, he must feeke the helpe of others. When the man that was ficke of the dead palfie could not goe to Chrift himfelfe. Mar. 2.4. hee got others to beare him in his bedde : and when they could not come neere for the multitude they vncouered the roofe of the houfe, and let the bed downe before Chrift : even fo when ficke men cannot alone by themfelues doe the good duties to which they are bound. they mult borrow helpe from their fellowmembers; who are partly by their councell to put to their helping hand, and partly by their prayers to prefent them votoGod, and to bring them into the prefence of God.

And touching helpe in this cafe, fundry du- D ties are to be performed. Saint fames fets down foure: two whereof concerne the ficke patient, and other two fuch as be helpers. The first duty of the fick man is to fend for help: where two circumftances muft bee confidered: who must bee fent for, and when. For the first, Saint lames faith, lam. 5. 14, Is any ficke among you? let him call for the Elders of the Church. Whereby are meant not only Apoftles and all minifters of the Gofpell, but others alfo (as I take it) which were men auncient for yeares, indued with the fpirit of vnderstanding and prayer, and had withall the gift of working miracles and of healing the ficke. For in the primitine Church this gift was for a time to plentifully bestowed on the that believed in Christ, that fouldiers caft out diuels, and parents wrought miracles on their children. Hence wee may learne that howfocuer it bee the dutie of the minifters of the word principally to vifit and comfort the ficke, yet it is not their dutie alone, for it belongs to them also which have knowledge of Gods word, and the gift of praier. Exhort one another (faith the H. Ghoft, Heb. 2.12.) while it is called to day. And again, I. Thef. 4.11.14. Admonish them that are defordered, and comfort thefe that are weake. And indeede in equitie it should be the dutie of every Christian mã to comfort his brother in ficknes. Here wee must needes take knowledge of the common fault of men & women when they come to vifit their neighbours and friends: they cannot fpeake a word of inftruction and comfort, but fpend the time in filence, gazing, and looking on: or in vttering words to litle or no purpofe, faying to the fick party, that they are very forry to fee him in that cafe, that they would haue him to be of good comfort, but wherein and by what meanes they cannot tell; that they doubt not but that hee shall recouer his health and live with them ftill, and be merry as in former time; that they will pray for him; whereas all their prayers are nothing els but the Apoftles Creede, or the ten commaundements, and the Lords prayer vttered without vnderstanding. And this is the common comfort that ficke men get at the hands of their neighbours when they come vnto them ; and all this comes either becaufe they live in ignorance of Godsword, or becaufe they falfely thinke that the whole burthen of this dutie lies vpon the fhoulders of the minifter.

The fecond circumftance is, when the ficke party must fend for the elders to instruct him and pray for him. And that is in the very first place of all before any other helpe bee fought for. Where the Diuine endes, there the Phyfitian must begin: and it is a very preposterous courfe that the Divine should there beginne where the Phyfitian makes an end. For till helpe be had for the foule, and finne which is the roote of ficknes be cured, phyficke for the body is nothing. Therefore it is a thing much tobe difliked, that in all places almost the physitian is first fent for, and comes in the begiuning of the ficknes, and the Minister comes when a man is halfe dead, and is then fent for oftentimes when the ficke particlies drawing on and gaiping for breath, as though Minifters of the Gofpel in these daies were able to worke miracles.

The fecond dutie of the ficke partie, is to confelfe his finnes, as S. Iames faith, Confeffe your finnes one to anne her, and pray one for another. Isan, N. It will be faid, that this is to bring in againe Popifh fhrift. Anfw. Confefsion of our finnes, and that vnto men, was neuer denied of any: the queftion is onely of the manner and order of making confefsion. And for this caufe wee mult put a great difference betweene Popifh fhrift, & the côfefsion, of which S. Iames fpeaketh. For he requires only a confession of that or

or those finnes which lie vpon a mans confci-1A ence when he is ficke: but the popifh doctrine requireth a particular enumeratio of al a mans finnes. Againe, S, lames enjoynes confefsion onely as a thing meete, and convenient : but the Papift as a thing necessarie to the remision of finnes. Thirdly, S. James permits that confession bee made to any man, and by one man to another mutually: whereas Popifh fhrift is made onely to the Prieft. The fecond duty then is, that the ficke partie troubled in minde with the memorie and confideration of any of his finnes paft or any manner of way tempted by the diuell, shall freely of his owne accord open his cafe to fuch as are both able and willing to helpehim, that he may receive | B comfort and die in peace of confeience.

Thus much of the ficke mans dury; now follow the duties of helpers. The firft is, to pray owr him, that is, in his prefence to pray with him, and for him, and by prayer to prefent his very perfon and his whole eftate vnto God. The Prophet Elizeus, the Apoftle Paul and our Sauiour Chritt Vfed this manner of praying ; when they would miraculoufly reftore temporall life & therfore it is very meete that the fame fhould be vfed alfo of vs, that we might the better firre vp our affections in praier, and our compafsion to the fick when we are about to intreat the Lord for the remifsion of their fones, and forther faluation of their foules.

The fecond ducie of him that comes as an helper, is to annoint the fick party with oyle. Now this annointing was an outward ceremony which was vfed with the gift of healing, which is now ceafed, and therefore I omit to fpeake further of it.

Thus much of the duty which the fick man owes to God: now follow the duties which he is to performe vnto himfelf, and they are twofold:one concernes his foule, the other his body. The dutie concerning his foule, is that he must arme & furnish himfelfe against the immoderate feare of prefene death. And the reafon hereof is plaine: becaufe how foeuer naturally men feare through the courfe of their lives more or leffe; yet in time of fickeneffe when death approacheth, this naturall feare bred in the bone will most of all thew it felf,e. uen in fuch fort, as it will aftonish the fendes of the ficke party, and fometime caufe defperation. Therfore it is necessary that we vie meanes to ftrengthen our felues against the feare of death. The meanes are of two forts practifes, and meditation. Practifes are two efpecially. The first is, that the ficke man mult not fo much regard death it felfe as the benefits of God which are obtained after death. He must not fixe his minde vpon the confideration of the pangs and corments of death ; but all his thoughts and affections mult be fer vpon that bleffed eftate that is emoyed after death. Hee that is to paffe ouer fome great and deepe riuer, mult not looke downward to the fireame of the water; but if he would prevent feare, he must fet his foote fure, and cast his eye to the banke on the further fide: and fo must he that drawes neere death, as it were looke ouer the waues of death and directly fixe the eye of his faith vpon eternall life. The fecond practife is to looke vpon death in the glaffe of the Gofpel, and not in the glaffe of the law; that is, we must confider death not as it is propounded in the law,& looke vpon that terrible face which the law giueth vnto it; but as it is fet forth in the Gofpell. Death in the law is a curfe and the downefall to the pit of deftruction; in the Gofpell it is the entrance to heauen : the law fets forthdeath as death; the Gofpel fets forth death as no death, but a fleepe onely; becaufe it speaketh of death as it is altered and changed by the death of Chrift ; by the vertue wherof death is properly no death to the feruants of God. When men fhall have care on this manner to confider of death, it will bee a notable meanes to ftrengthen and ftablifh them against all immoderate feares and terrors that vfually rife in fickeneffe.

The meditations which ferue for this purpofe are innumerable, but I will touch onely those which are the most principall and the grounds of the reft: and they are foure in number. The first is borrowed from the speciall prouidence of God: namely, that the death of every man, much more every childe of God, is not onely fore-feene, but alfo fore-appointed of God : yea the death of enery man deferued and procured by his fins, is laid vpon him by God, who in that refpect may be faid to bee the caufe of every mans death. So faith Anna, 1 Sam 1.6. The Lord killeth and maketh aline. The Church of Jerufalem confeffed that nothing came to paffe in the death of Chrift, but that which the fore-knowledge and eternall counfell of God had appointed, Act. 4.28. And therefore the death alfo of every member of Chrift is fore-feene and ordained by the fpeciall decree and providence of God. I adde further, that the very circumftances of death, as the time when, the place where, the manner how, the beginnings of fickenes, the continuance, and the end, every fitte in the fickeneffe, and the pangs of death; are particularly fet downe in the counfell of God. The very haires of our heads are numbred (as our Sauiour Chrift faith, Mat 10.29.39.) and a farrow lights not on the ground without the will of our heavenly Father. David faith exceliently, Pfal. 1 39. 15,16. My bones are not hid from thee, though I was made in a Jecres places of fashiend beneath in the earth thine eies did feeme when I was without forme, for in thy booke were all things written, which in continuance were fashioned, when there was none of them before. And he ptaies to God, to put his teares into his bottle, Pfal. 56.8. concerning the body; and that is, that all ficke perfons must bee carefull to preferue health and life till God doe wholly take it away. For Paul faith, Rom. 14.7,8. None of vs lineth to him felfe neither doth any die to himfelfe : for whether we line, we line unto the Lord, or whether we die, wee die unto the Lord, whether wee line therfore or die, we are the Lords. For this caufe we may not doe with our lives as we will, but we must referre the whole disposition thereof vnto God, for whofe glory we are to line and die. And this temporall life is a most precious iewell, & as the common faying is, life is very fweet ; because it is given to man for this end, that he might have fome fpace of time wherein hee might vie all good meanes to attaine to life euerlasting. Life is not bestowed on vs, that wee fhould fpend our dayes in our lufts and vaine pleafures, but that we might have libertie to come out of the kingdome of darkeneffe into the kingdome of grace, and from the bondage of finne into the glorious libertie of the fonnes of God: and in this refpect fpeciall care must be had of preferuation of life, till God doe call vs hence.

In the preferring of life, two things mult be confidered : the meanes , and the right vfe of the meanes. The meanes is good and wholfome phyficke, which though it be defpifed of many as a thing vnprofitable and needles, yet muft it be efteemed as an ordinance & blefsing of God. This appeares, because the spirit of God hath given approbation vnto it in the Scriptures. When it was the good pleafure of God to reftore life vnto King Ezekias, a lumpe of dry figs by the Prophets appointment was laid to his boyle and he was healed. Indeede this cure was in fome fort miraculous, becaufe hee was made whole in the fpace of two or three dayes, and the third day he went up to the temple : yet the bunch of figges was a naturall and ordinarie medicine or plaifter feruing to foften and ripen tumours or fwellings in the flefh. And the Samaritane is commended for the binding vp and for the powring of wine and oyle into the wounds of the man that lay wounded betweene Ierufalem & Ierico. Now this dealing of his was a right practife of phyfacra phibh, c.8, fickes for the wine ferued to cleanfe the wound and to eafe the paine within: and the oyle ferued to supple the fielh & to allwage the paine without. And the Prophet Elay, feemes to comend this phyficke, when he faith Efa. 1.6. From the fole of the foot unto the head, there is nothing whole therein, but wounds and swellings, and fores full of corruption : they have not bin wrapped nor bound up, nor mollified with oyle. And whereas God did not command circumcifion of childrenbefore the eight day, he followed a rule of phyficke obferued in all ages, that the life of the childe is very vncertaine till the first feuen dayes be expired, as we may fee by the examhill, ani. ple of the child which Danid had by Bathfabe which died the feuenth day. And vpon the very fame ground heathen men vfed not to

A name their children before the eight day. Thus then it is manifest that the vie of phyficke is lawfull and commendable-

Furthermore, that phyficke may bee well applied to the maintenance of health, fpeciall care must be had to make choife of fuch Phyfitians as are knowne to be well learned. and men of experience, as alfo of good confcience and good religion. For as in other callings, fo in this alfo, there be fundry abufes which may indanger the lines & the health of men. Some venter vpon the bare infpection of the vrine, without further direction or knowledge of the effate of the ficke, to prefcribe and minifter as shal feeme best vnto them. But the learned in this facultie doe plainly auouch, that thiskinde of dealing tends rather to kill then to cure, and that fundry men are indeede killed thereby : For indgement by the vrine is most deceitfull : the water of him that is ficke of a peftilent feauer even vnto death, lookes for inbitance and colour as the water of a whole man : and fo doth the water of them that are ficke of a quartane or of any other intermitting feauer : fpecially if they have vfed good diet from the beginning, as also of them that have the pleurifie, or the inflammation of the lungs, or the Squinancie, oftentimes when they are neere death. Now then confidering the waters of fuch as are at the point of death, appeare as the vrines of whole and found men, one and the fame vrine may forefignifie both life and death, and be a figne of diners, nay of contrary difeates. A thinne, crude, and pale vrine in them that be in health is a token of want of digeftion ; but in them that are ficke of a fharpe or burning ague , it betokens the frensie, and is a certaine figne of death. Againe, others there be that thinke it a fmall matter to make experiments of their deuifed medicines vpon the bodies of their patients, whereby the health, which they hoped for, is either much hindred or much decaied. Thirdly, there be others which minister no phyficke at any time, or vfe phlebotomie without the direction of indicial Aftrologie : but if they that follow this courfe alwaies, they must needs kill many a man. Put the cafe that a man full bodied is taken with a pleurific, the moone being in Leone, what must bee done ? The learned in this art fay, he must prefently be let blood : but by Aftrologie a ftay muft be made, till the moone be removued from Leo the house of the funne : but by that time the impoftume will be fo much increased by the gathering together of the humours, that it can neither be diffolued nor ripened : and by this meanes the ficke partie wanting helpe in time , shall die either by inflammation or Lang 1.1. by the confumption of the lungs. Againe, epifi-35. when a man is ficke of the Squinancle, or of See Gathe feauer called Synochus, the moone then be- nigerrus ing in the malignant afpects with any of the infortunate planets (as Attrologets vfe to infortunate planets (as Attrologets vfe to fpeake) if letting of blood be defetred till the rum.

moone bee freed from the forefaid afpects, A lowed. First of all, he that is to take physicke. the partie dies in the meane feafon. Therefore they are farre wide that minister purgations and let blood no otherwife, then they are counfelled by the conftitution of the ftarres, whereas it is a farre better courfe to confider the matter of the difeafe, with the difpolition and ripening of it : as also the courses and fymptomes, and crifis thereof. This being fo, there is good caufe that ficke men fhould as well be carefull to make choife of meete Phyfitians to whom they might commend the care of their health, as they are carefull to make choife of Lawyers for their worldly fuites, and Diuines for cafes of confcience.

Furthermore, all men must bee here warned to take heede, that they vie not fuch meanes as have no warrant. Of this kinde are all charmes or fpels, of what words foeuer they confift : characters and figures either in paper, wood, or waxe: all amulets, and ligatures, which ferue to hang about the necke or other parts of the bodie, except they bee grounded vpon fome good naturall reafon; as white peonie hung about the necke, is good against the falling fickenesse : and wolfe-dung tyed to the bodie is good against the chollicke, not by any enchantment, but by inward vertue. Otherwife they are all vaine and fuperflitious : because neither by creation, nor by any ordinance in Gods word, haue C they any power to cure a bodily difeafe. For words can doe no more but reprefent. And yet neuertheleffe, thefe vnlawfull and abfurd meanes are more vied and fought for of common people, then good phyficke. But it ftands all men greatly in hand in no wife to feeke forth to enchanters, and forcerers, which indeede are but witches and wizzards, though they are commonly called cunning men and women. It were better for a man to die of his fickeneffe, then to feeke recourry by fuch wicked perfons. For if any man turne after fuch as worke with fpirits, and after Sooth fayers, to goe an whoring after them, the Lord will fet his face against them, and cut them off from among his people, Leuiticus 20.6. When Achazia was D ficke, hee fent to Baalzebub the God of Ekron to know whether hee fould recouer or no: as the meffengers were going, the Pro. phet Elias met them, and faid, 2 King. 1. 6. Goe and returne to the king which fent you, and fay unto him, Thus faith the Lord, Is it not becaufe there is no God in Ifrael, that thou fendeft to inquire of Baalzebub the god of Ekron? therefore those shalt not come downe from thy bed on which thou art gone up, but (halt die the death. Therefore fuch kinde of helpe is fo farre from curing any paine or fickeneffe, that it rather doubleth them, and fafteneth them ypon must not onely prepare his bodie, as Physitians doe preferibe : but he must also prepare his foule by humbling himfelfe vnder the hand of God in his fickeneffe for his finnes, and make earnest prayer to God for the pardon of them before any medicine come in his bodie. Now that this order ought to bee vied , appeares plainely in this, that fickenefic forings from our finnes as from a roote; which fhould first of all be stocked vp, that the branches might more eafily die. And therefore Afa commended for many other things, is blamed for this by the holy Ghoft, 2 Chro. 16.12. that he fought not the Lord, but to the Phyfitians ; and put his truft in them. Oftentimes it comes to passe, that difeases curable in themselves, are made incurable by the finnes and the impenitencie of the partie and therefore the beft way is, for them that would have eafe, when God begins to correct them by fickeneffe; then alfo to begin to humble themfelnes for all their finnes, and turne voto God.

The fecond rule is, that when wee have prepared our felues, and are about to vfe phyficke, wee must fanctifie it by the word of God and prayer, as we doe our meate or drinke. For by the word wee must have our warrant, that the medicines preferibed are lawfull and good : and by prayer wee muft intreat the Lord for a blefsing vpon them. in reftoring of health, if it bee the good will of God, I Tim. 4. 2.

The third rule is, that wee must carry in minde the right and proper end of phyficke. left wee deceiue our felues. Wee must not therefore thinke that phyficke ferues to preuent old age or death it felfe. For that is not possible, because God hath set downe that all men shall die and be changed. And life confifts in a temperature and proportion of naturall heate and radicall moisture ; which moyfture beeing once confumed by the former heate, is by art vnrepairable; and therefore death must needs follow. But the true end of phyficke is to continue and lengthen the life of man to his naturall period ; which is when nature that hath beene long preferued by all possible meanes, is now wholly spent. Now this period, though it cannot bee lengthned by any skill of man, yes may it eafily bee fhortned, by intemperance indict, by drunkennesse, and by violent difeafes. But care curaneus must be had to avoide all fuch cuils, that the carnifer. little lampe of corporall life may burne till it goe out of it felfe. For this very fpace of time is the very day of grace and faluation : and whereas God in inflice might have cut vs off and have vetorly defroyed ve, yet in great mercie he gives vs thus much time , that wee might prepare our felnes to his kingdome : which time when it is once fpent, if a man would redeeme it with the price of ten thoufand worlds, he can not have it.

And to conclude this point touching phy.

a Inter-

Gal, I. 6. & 10. de fimp.mcáic, ficke, I will here fet downe two fpeciall duties A of the Phylitian himfelfe. The first is, that in the want and defect of fuch as are to put ficke men in minde of their finnes, it is a duty fpecially concerning him, hee being a member of Chrift, to aduertife his patiets that they must truly humble themfelues, and pray feruently to God for the pardon of all their finnes : and furely this dutie would bee more commonly practifed then it is, if al phyfitians did confider that oftentimes they want good fucceffe in their dealings, not because there is any want in Art or good will, but becaufe the partie with whom they deale is impenitent. The fecond dutie is, when he fees manifelt fignes of death in his patient, not to depart concealing them, в but first of all to certifie the patient thereof. There may be and is too much nicenes in fuch concealements, & the plaine truth in this cafe knowne, is very profitable. For when the party is certaine of his end, it bereaues him of all cofidence in earthly things, & makes him put all his affiance in the meere mercy of God. Whe Ezechias was ficke, the Prophet fpeaks plainly Vnto him, and faith: Ifa. 38.1. Set thine house in order, for thou must die. And what good we may reap by knowing certainly that we have receiued the fentence of death, Paul fheweth when he faith, 2 Cor. 1.9.We have received the fentence of death in our felues, becaufe we (hould not trust in our felues, but in Godwhich raifeth the dead.

Hauing thus feene what be the duties of the ficke man to himfelfe, let vs now fee what be the duties which he oweth to his neighbour; and they are two. The first is the dutie of reconciliation, whereby he is freely to forgiue all men : and to defire to be forgiuen of all. In the old testament, when a man was to offer a bullocke or lambe in facrifice to God, he muft leave his offering at the altar, and first goe and bee reconciled to his brethren, if they had ought against him : much more then must this be done, when we are in death to offer vp our felues, our bodies, and foules, as an acceptable facrifice vnto God. Queft. What if a man cannot come to the fpeech of them with whom he would be reconciled ; or if he doe, what if they will not be reconciled? Anfw. When they D shall in their fickeneffe feeke and defire reconciliation, and cannot obtaine it, either becaufe the parties are abfent, or because they will not relent, they have discharged their confcience, and God will accept their wil for the deed. As put cafe, a man lying ficke on his deathbed, is at enmitie with one that is then beyond the fea; fo as he cannot possibly have any speech with him, if he would neuer to faine, how thall he ftay his mind? why, he must remember that in this cafe, a will and defire to be reconciled is reconciliation it felfe.

The fecond dutie is, that those which are tulers and governors of others, must have care and take order that their charges committed to them by God, be left in good eftate after their death: and here come three duties to be handled; the first of the Magistrate, the fecond of the Minister, the third of the master of the family. The Magiltrates dutie is, before he die, to prouide, as much as he can, for the godly and peaceable effate of the towne, citie, or common-wealth: and that is done partly by procuring the maintenance of found religion and vertue, and partly by eftablishing the execution of ciuill inftice and outward peace. Examples of this practife in Gods word are thefe. When Moles was an hundred and twen- Dent. 21. tie yeere old, and was no more able to goe in | a. and out before the people of Ifrael, hee called them before him, and fignified that the time of his departure was at hand, and thereupon tooke order for their wel-fare after his death. And first of all he places Iofuab over them in his fread, to bee their guide to the promifed land : fecondly, he gives fpeciall charge to all the people, to be valiant and couragious against their enemies, and to obey the commandements of God. And Isfuab followes the fame came courfe, lofu. 23. For he cals the people together, and fhewes them that the time of his death is at hand, and gives them a charge to be couragious, and to worship the true God : which done, he ends his daies as a worthy Captaine. When king Danid(1 King. 2. 1,2,3, &c.) was to goe the way of all flefh. and lay ficke on his death-bed; he placed his owne fonne Salomon vpon his throne, and gaue him charge, both for maintenance of religion, and execution of inflice.

The dutie of Minifters when they are dying, is, as much as they can to caft and prouide for the continuance of the good efface of the Church ouer which they are placed. Confider the example of Peter, 2 Pet. 1. 15. I will (faithhe) indeauour alwaies, that ye alfo maybee able to have remembrance of these things after my departure. If this had bin well obferued, there could not have bin fuch abundance of fchifmes. errors, & herefies as hath bin, and the Church of God could not have fuffered fo great hauocke. But becaufe men haue had more care to maintaine perfonall fuccession, then the right fuccession, which stands in the doctrine of the Prophets and Apoftles; therfore wolues haue come into the roomes of faithfull teachers, and the Apoltacie of which Paul fpeaks, hath overfpred the face of the Church.

Thirdly, houfholders muft fet their families in order before they die, as the Prophet E/sy faith to Ezskiah: Set thine boufe inorder, for thou muft die. For the procuring of good order in the family after death, 2.things are to be done: The first cocernes this life, & that is to diffore of lands and goods. And that this may be well & wifely done; if the Wilbe vnmade, it is with godly aduice & counfel to be made in the time of fickness according to the practifie of ancient and worthy men. Abraham before his death makes his Will, & giues legacies; fo did Jfaet, and Jacob, in whofe laft Will and tettament are contained many worthy blefsings and pro-

Saujour Chrift, Joh. 19.27. when he was vpon the croffe provided for his mother, fpecially commending her to his Difciple lohn whom he loued. And indeede this dutie of making a Will, is a matter of great weight and importance; for it cuts off much hatred and contention in families, and fraies many fuits in law. It is not therefore alwaies a matter of indifferencie, which may be done or not done, as many fallly thinke, who vpon blind and finister refpects abstaine from making Wils, either becaufe their wealth fhould not be knowne, or because they would have their decaied effate to be concealed, or becaufe they feare they fhal die the fooner if the Will be once made.

Now though the making of Wils belongs to another place & profession, yet fo much may be fooken here as the holy Ghoft hath vtrered in the word: and that I will reduce to certaine rules. The first is, that the Will must be made according to the law of nature, and the written word of God, and the good and holefome politiue lawes of that kingdome or countrie whereof a man is a member. The will of God mult be the rule of mans will. And therefore the will that is made againft any of thefe. is faultie. The fecond is, that if goods chill gotten be not reftored before, they mult even then be reftored by Will, or by fome other way. It is the practife of couctous men to bequeath their foules when they die to God, and C their goods cuill gotten to their children and friends; which in all equitie should be reftored to them to whom they belong. Queft. How if a mans confcience tell him that his goods be euil gotten, & he knowes not where, or to whom to make reflitution ? Anfw. The cafe is common, and the answer is this. When the partie is knowne whom thou haft wronged, reftore to him particularly; if the partic be voknown or dead; reftore to his executors or assignes, or to his next kinne; if there be none ; yet keepe not goods cuill gotten to thy felfe, but reftore to God, that is, in way of recompence and ciuill fatisfaction, beftow them on the Church or common-wealth. The third rule is, that heads of families must prin- D cipally beftow their goods vpo their own children, and them that be of their owne kindred. This man (faith God to Abraham of Eleazara ftranger, Gen. 25.4.) fhall not be thine heire, but the forme which fhall come of thy loynes. And this was Gods commandement to the Ifraelites, that when any man dies, his fonne fhould bee his heire, & if he have no fon, then his daugh. ter : and if he have no daughter, then his brethren : and if he have no brethren, then, his fathers brethren ; and if there be none , then the next of his kinne whofoener. And Paul faith, Rom. 8 17. If ye be formes, then alfo beires: And again, I Tim. 5.8 He that prouides not for his own, and namely for them of his houshold, is worse then an infidel. Therefore it is a fault for any man'to alienate his goods or lands, wholly and finally phecies of the effate of his children. And our A from his blocd and posteritie. It is a thing plate d. which the very law of nature it felfe hath conrep.l 2. demned. Againe, it is a fault to give all to the Atifi pol. . T.Cap.8 eldeft, and nothing in refpect to the reft; as though the eldeft were borne to bee gentlemen, and yonger brethren borne to beare the wallet. Yet in equitic the eldeft mult have more then any, even becaufe he is the eldeft, and because flockes and families in their perfons are to be maintained; and becaufe there must alwaies be fome that must be fit to doe fpecial fernice in the peace of the commonweale, or in the time of warre; which could not be, if goods fhould be equally parted to all. The fourth and laft rule is, that no will is Heb 9. of force till the teftator be dead, for fo long as he is aline hee may altar and change it. Thefe rules must be remembred, becaufe they are recorded in Scripture; the opening of other points and circumstances belongeth to the profession of the law.

The fecond dutie of the mafter of the family concerneth the foules of fuch as bee vnder his gouernment : and that is to give charge to them that they learne, beleeue and obey the true religion, that is, the doctrine of faluation fet down in the writings of the Prophets and Apoftles. The Lord himfelfe commends Abraham for this : I know Abraham, faith hee, that he will command his fonnes, and his boushold after him, that they keepe the way of the Lord to do righteousnesse and indgement. And Danid giues Salomon on his death-bed a most norable and folemne charge, the fumme and fubftance wherof is, to know the God of his fathers, and to ferue him : which being done, hee further commends him to God by prayer, for which purpose the 72. Pfalme was made. This practife of his is to be followed of all. Thus gouernours, when they shall carefully dispose of their goods, and give charge to their posterity touching the worship of God, shall greatly honour God, dying, as well as lining.

Hitherto I have intreated of the two-fold preparation which is to goe before death:now followes the fecond part of dying well, namely, the difposition in death. The difposition is nothing elfe but a religious and holy behauiour, fpecially towards God, when we are in or neere the agonie or pang of death. This behaviour containes three fpeciall duties. The first is, to die in or by faith. To die by faith is, when a man in the time of death, doth with all his heart relie himfelfe wholly on Gods fpeciall loue and fauour and mercie in Chrift, as it is reuealed in the word. And though there be no part of mans life voide of just occasions whereby we may put faith in practife, yet the fpeciall time of all is the pang of death, when friends, and riches, and pleafures, and the outward fenfes, and temporall life, and all earthly helpes forfake vs. For then true faith maketh vs to goe wholly out of our felues, and to defpaire of comfort and faluation in refpect of any earthly thing; and with all the power and strength of the heart to reft.on A the pure mercie of God. This made Luther both thinke and fay, that men were best Chriftians in death. An example of this faith wee have in Danid, who when he faw nothing before his eyes but prefent death, the people intending to ftone him, comforted himfelfe at that very inftant (as the very text faith) in the Lord his God. And this comfort he reaped, in that by faith he applied vnto his owne foule the mercifull promifes of God:as he teltifieth of himfelfe : Remember (faith he) the promife made to PGLIIG. thy fernant, wherein thou haft caufed mee to truft. It is my comfort in trouble : for thy promise bath quickened me. Againe, My flesh failed and my P64, 73+ bears alfo, but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever. Now looke what Danid here did, the fame mult every one of vs doe in the like cafe. When the Ifraelites in the wildernesse were stung with fierie ferpents, and lay at the point of death, they looked vp to the brafen ferpent which was crefted by the appointment of God, and were prefently healed: cuen fo when any man feeles death to draw loh.3.14. neere, and his fierie fting to pierce the heart, hee must fixe the eye of a true and lively faith vpon Chrift, exalted and crucified on the croffe, which being done, hee shall by death enter into eternall life.

Now because true faith is no dead thing, it must be expressed by special actions; the principall whereof is Innocation, whereby either prayer or thankefgining is directed vnto God. When death had feized vpon the body of lacob, he raifed vp himfelfe, and turning his face towards the beds head, leaned on the top of his staffe by reason of his feeblenesse, and Heb II. prayed vnto God: which prayer of his was an excellent fruit of his faith. Iobs wife in the midft of his affliction faid vnto him to very good purpose, Bleffe God and die. I know and Iob 2, 9. grant that the words are commonly translated otherwife, Curfe God and die : but (as I take it) the former is the beft. For it is not like that in to excellent a family, any one perfon, much leffe a matron and principall gouernour thereof, would give fuch lewd and wretched counfell, which the most wicked man vpon earth D having no more but the light of nature would not once giue, but rather much abhorre and condemne. And though lob call her a foolifh woman, yet he doth it not, becaufe the went about to perfwade him to blafpheme God; but because thee was of the minde of lobs friends and * thought that he ftood too much in a concontinue ceit of his owne righteoufueffe. Now the very meaning of her counfell is this: Bleffe God, that thine vp. is, husband, no doubt thou art by the extremirightnes? verfe 9. tie of thine affliction at deaths doore : therefore begin now at length to lay afide the great ouerweening which thou haft of thine owne rightcoufneffe, acknowledging the hand of God vpon thee for thy finnes, confesse them vntohim, giue him the glory, pray for the pardon of them, and end thy daies. This counfell is very good and to bee followed of all: though it may bee the applying of it (as fob well perceived) is mixed with folly.

Here it may be alleadged, that in the pangs of death men want their fenfes and conuenient vtterance, and that therefore they are vnable to pray. Anf. The very fighes, fobs, and grones of a repentant and beleeuing heart are prayers before God, euen as effectuall as if they were vttered by the best voice in the world. Praver flands in the affection of the heart, the voice is but an outward meffenger thereof. God lookes not vpon the fpeech, but Pfal.10. vpon the heart. Dauid faith, God beares the de-17.8145 fires of the poore, Againe, that hee will fulfill the 19, defires of them that feare him; yea their very B teares are lowd and founding prayers in his eares.

Againe, faith may otherwife be expressed by the Last words, which for the most part in them that have truly ferued God, are very excellent, and comfortable, and full of grace : fome choice examples whereof I will rehearfe for instructions fake, & for imitation. The last words of facob were thefe, whereby as a Pro-Gen, 49. phet he foretold blefsings & curfings vponhis children : and the principall among the reft were thefe : The fcepter (ball not depart from 74-Verfe to. dah,and the law-giuer from betweene his feet, till Verfe 18. out examples in this cafe, who in his agonie A. prayed, Father let this cap pall for immerget with a fubmilision, nor my will have the wide date: teaching vs in the very pangs of death to refigne out felues to the good pleafure of God. When the Prophet tolde king Exechiah of death, prefendly without all manner of grudging he addreffed himfelfe to prayer. We care commannded to prefent our felues vato God as free-will offerings, without any limitation of time, and therefore as well in death as in life. I conclude then, that we are to roake as much conficience in performing obedience to God in infiftring death, as we do of any thing in the courde of our lines.

The third duty is to render vpour folles in- B to the hands of God as the molt faithful keeper of all. This is the lat dutie of a Chrithian, and it is preferibed vnto vs in the example of Chrift vpon the croffe, who in the very pangs of death when the diffoltion of body and foule drew on faid, Luk, 23.46. Father into thy bands I commendary firit, & to gaue vp the ghoft. The like was done by Srephen, who when hee was flored to death, faid, All. 7.59. Jord 76 fue receive my firit. And David in his time beeing in danger of death, vfed the very fame words that Chrift vitceed, P/al.31.5.

Thus wee fee what be the duties which we are to performe in the very pangs of death that we may come to eternall life. Some men will haply fay, if this be all to die in faith and C obedience, and to furrender our foules into Godshands, we will not greatly care for any preparation before-hand, nor trouble our felues much about the right manner of dying well : for we doubt not, but that when death fhall come, wee fhallbe able to performe all the former duties with cafe. Anf. Let no man deceive himfelfe by any falfe perfwafion, thinking with himfelf that the practife of the forefaid duties is a matter of eafe; for ordinarily they are not, neither can they bee performed in death, vnleffe there be much preparation in the life before. Hee that will die in faith, must first of all line by faith; and there is but one example in all the Bible of a man dying in faith, that lived without faith; namely, the theife vp- D on the croffe. The feruants of God that are endued with great measure of grace doe very hardly beleeue in the time of affliction. Indeed when fob was afflicted he faid, though the Lord kill me, yet will I truft in him; yet afterward. his faith being ouer-caft with a cloud, he faith, that God was become his enemy, and that he had fet him as a marke to fhoote at , and fundrie times his faith was opprefied with doubting and diftruft. How then that they that neuer lived by faith, nor inured them felues to beleeue, bee able in the pang of death to reft from the mercy of God ? Againe, he that would die in obedience, must first of all lead his life in obediences he that hath lived in difobedience cannot willingly and in obedience appeare before the judge when he is cited by death the fergeant of the Lord; he dies indeede, but this is vpon necefsitie, becaufe he must yield to the order and courfe of nature as other creatures doe. Thirdly, hee that would furrender his foule into the hands of God, mult be refolued of two things: the one is that God can the other is that God will receive his foule into heauen, and there preferue it till the laft judgement. And none can be refolued of this, except he haue the fpirit of God to certifie his confcience that he is redeemed, iustified, fanctified by Christ, and shall be glorified. He that is not thus perfwaded, dare not render vp and prefent his foule vnto God. When Danid faid, Pfal. 21.5. Lord intothy hands & commend my first, what was the reafon of this boldnes in him? furely nothing elfe but the perfwalion of faith, as the next words import : for thon haft redeemed me, O Lora God of truth. And thus it is manifest that no man ordinarily can performe these duties dying, that hath not performed them living,

This being fo, I do againerenew my former. exhortation, befeeching you that yee would practife the duties of preparation in the courfe of your lines, leading them daily in faith and obedience, and from time to time commending your foules into the hand of God, and cafting al your works vpon his prouidence. They which have done this, have made most happy and bleffed endes. Enoch by faith walked with Heb. 1 1.5 God, as one that was alwaies in his prefece leading an vpright & godly life, and the Lord tooke him away that he fhould not fee death. And this which befell Enoch. Shal after a fort befall them alfo that live in faith and obedience : becaufe death shall be no death, but a fleep vnto them, and no enemie, but a friend to bodie & foule. On the contrarie, let vs confider the wretched and miferable endes of them that hath fpent their daies in their finnes without keeping faith and good confcience. The people of the old world were drowned in the flood: the filthie Sodomites and Gomorrheans were deftroyed with fire from heauen : Dathan and Abiram with the companie of Core were fwallowed vp of the earth : Core himfelfe (as it feemes " by the text) beeing burnt with fire: a Numb. wicked Saul, and Achitophel, and Indas de-16. 32. ftroy them felues: Hered is eaten vp of wormes, Pfal. 106. & gaue vp the ghoit: Iulian the Apoftata fmit- 17. ten with a dart in the field, dyed cafting vp his blood into the aire, and blafpheming the name of Chrift. Arrius the hereticke died vpon the ftoole, fcouring forth his very entralles. And this very age affoards ftore of like examples. Hoffmeister a great Papilt, as he was going to the Councill of Ratisbone to difpute against Illyric, de the defenders of the Gofpel, was fuddenly in fide. his iourney preuented by the hand of God, and miferably died with horrible roaring, and crying out. In the Vniuerfitie of Louaine, Guarlaces a learnest Papist falling ficke, when hee Foxe perceived no way with him but death, hee fell booke of into a miferable agonie and perturbation of Aas and fpirit, crying out of his finnes, how miferably Mon, bide the judgement of God; and fo cafting out words of miferable defperation faid, his fins were greater then they could be pardoned, & in that defperation ended his dayes. Iacobus Latomus of the fame Vniverfitie of Louaine; after he had beene at Bruxels, and there thinking to doe a great all against Luther and his fellowes, made an oration before the Emperour to foolifhly and ridiculoufly that hee was laughed to fcorne almost of the whole court: then returning from thence to Louaine againe, in his publike lecture hee fell into open madneffe, vttering fuch words of defperation and blafphemous impietie, that other Diuines which were prefent, were faine to'carrie him B away ashee was raving, and to fhut him into a clote chamber. From that time to his very laft breath, he had nener anything elfe in his mouth; but that hee was damned and rejected of God, and that there was no hope of faluation forhim, becaufe that wittingly and against his knowledge hee withftood the manifest truth of Gods word. Crefcentius the Popes Legate & vicegerent in the Council of Trent, was fitting all the day long vntill darke night in writing of letters to the Pope: after his labour when night was come, thinking to refresh himfelfe, hee began to rife, and at his rifing, beholde there appeared to him a mightie black dog of an huge bignes ; his cies flaming with fire, and his cares hanging downe well C neere to the ground, which began to enter in and ftraight to come towards him, and fo to couch vnder the boord. The Cardinall not a litle amazed at the fight thereof, fomewhat recouering himfelfe called to his feruants which were in the outward chamber next by, to bring a candle and to feeke for the dog. But when the dogge could not bee found there nor in any other chamber about, the Cardinall thereupon fricken with a fuddaine conceit of minde, immediately fell into fuch a fickeneffe whereof his Phyfitians which hee had about him could not with all their industrie and conning cure him; and thercupon hee died. Stenen Gardiner, when a certaine Bifhop came vnto him, and put him in minde of Peter denying D his mafter, answered again, that he had denied with Peter, but neuer repented with Peter, and fo(to vie M. Foxes words) flinckingly and vnrepentantly died. More examples might be added, but thefe shall fuffice.

Againe, that we may be further induced to the practife of these duties, let vs call to minde the vncertainty of our dates; though we now line, yet who can fay that hee shall be alige the next day, or the next houre? No man hath a leafe of his life. Now marke, as death leaues a man, fo fhall the laft indgement finde him: and therefore if death take him away vnprepared, eternall damnation followes without reconerie. If a theife bee brought from prifon either to the barre to be arraigned before the iudge, or to the place of execution, hee will be waile heehad lived ; and that he was not able to a- A his mildemeanour paft, and promife all reformation of life; fo beeit, hee might bee de. livered, though hee bee the most arrant theife that ever was. In this cafe we are as fellons or theenes : for wee are enery day going to the barre of Gods indgement, there is no flavor ftanding in the way, cuen as the fhippe in the fea continues on his courfe day and night whether the marriners be fleeping or waking; therefore let ve all prepare our felues, and amend our lives betime, that in death we may make a bleffed ende. Minifters of the Gofpel doe daily call for the performance of this dutie: but where almost shall wee finde the practife and obedience of it in mens lines and converfation? Alas, alas, to lend our eares for the fpace of an houre to heare the will of God is common: but to give heart and hand to doe the fame, is rare. And the reafon hereof is at hand : wee are all moft grieuous finners, and every finner in the tearmes of Scripture is a foole, and a principall part of this folly is to care for the things of this world, and to negleft the kingdome of heauen, to prouide for the body, and not for the foule, to caft and fore-caft how we may line in wealth and honour and cafe, and not to vie the least fore-caft to die well. This folly our Sauiour Chrift noted in the rich man that was carefull to inlarge Lukn his barnes, but had no care at all for his ende, 1718, or for the faluation of his foule. Such an one was Achitophel who (as the Scripture tearmes him, 2. Sam. 17.23.) was as the very oracle of God for counfell, being a man of great wifedome and forecait in the matters of the common wealth, and in his owne prinate worldly affaires: and yet for all this hee had not fo much as common fenfe and reafon to confider how hee might die the death of the righteous, & come to life everlafting. And this folly the holy Gheft hath noted in him. For the text faith, 2.Sam. 17.23. when hee faw that his counfell was defpiled, bee fadled his affe, and rofe and went home into his citie, and put his housholde in order, and went and hanged himfelfe. And the five foclish virgins contented themfelues with the blafing lampes of bare profession, neuer feeking for the horne of lafting oyle of true and lively faith, that it might furnish and trim the lampe both in life and death. But let vs in the feare of God, caft off this damnable follie, first of all feeking the kingdome of God and his righteoufneffe, and leading our lives in faith and obedience, that we may die accordingly.

And thus much of the first point of do-Arine, namely that there is a certaine way whereby a man may die well: now I come to the fecond. Whereas therefore Salomon faith. Ecclefiaft. 7. 3. that the day of death is better then the day of birth , wee are further taught , that fuch as truely beleeue themfelues to bee the children of God, are not to feare death ouer-much. I fay ouer-much; becaufe they must partly feare it, and partly not. Feare

it they must for two causes : the first, because ,A death is the deftruction of humane nature in a mans owne felfe and others : and in this refpect Chrift feared it without finne : and wee must not feare it otherwife then we feare fickneffe, and pouerty, and famine with other forrowes of body and mind, which God will not haue vs to defpife or lightly regard, but to feele with fome paine, becaufe they are corrections and punifhments for finne. And hee doth therefore lay vpon vs paines and torments, that they may be feared and efchewed: and that by efchewing them we might further learne to efchew the canfe of them, which is finne: and by experience in feeling of paine, acknowledge that God is a indge and enemy | B of finne, and is exceeding angry with it. The fecond caufe of the feare of death, is the loffe of the Church or Common-wealth, when we or others are deprined of them which were indeede or might haue bin an helpe, ftay, and comfort to either of them, and whole death hath procured fome publike or private loffe.

Againe, we are not to feare death, but to be gladofic, and that for many caufes. First of all, in it we have occasion to shew our fubiection & obedience which we owe vnto God. when he cals vs out of this world, as Chrift faid, Father, not my will but thy will be done. Sccondly, all finne is abolifhed by death, and we then ceafe to offend God any more as wee have done. Thirdly, the dead bodie is brought |C into a better condition then euer it was in this life, for by death it is made infenfible, and by that means it is freed from all the miferies and calamities of this life ; and it ceafeth to be either an active or passive inftrument of finne, whereas in the lifetime it is both. Fourthly, it gives the foule paflage to reft, life, & celeftiall glorie in which we shall fee God as he is, perfectly know him, and praise his name for ever, keeping without intermission an eternall fabbath; therefore Paul faith, I defire to be diffolued and to with Christ, for that is best of all. Fifthly, God executes his indgements vpon the wicked, & purgeth his Church by death. Now in all these respects godly men haue caufe not to feare and forrow, but to reioyce in their owne death, and the death of others.

Thirdly, if the day of death be fo excellent, yeaa day of happines, then it is lawfull to defire death, and men doe not alwaies finne in withing for death. Paul faith, Phi 1.23.1 defire to be diffolned: and againe, Rom. 7. 24. O miferable manthat I am , who fhall deliner me from this body of death ? Yet this defire must not be fimple, but reftrained with certaine refpects: which are thefe : First, death must be defired to farre forth as it is a meanes to free vs from the corruption of our nature. Secondly, as it is a meanes to bring vs to the immediate fellowfhip of Chrift and God himfelfe in heaven. Thirdly, death may be lawfully defired in refpect of the troubles and miferies of this life. two caucats being observed; the first, that this defire muft not be immoderate : the fecond, it mult be ioyned with fubmilsion and fubicction to the good pleafure of God. If either of thefe be wanting, the defire is faulty, and therfore lob , and leremie , and longs failed herein because they defired death being carried away with impatience.

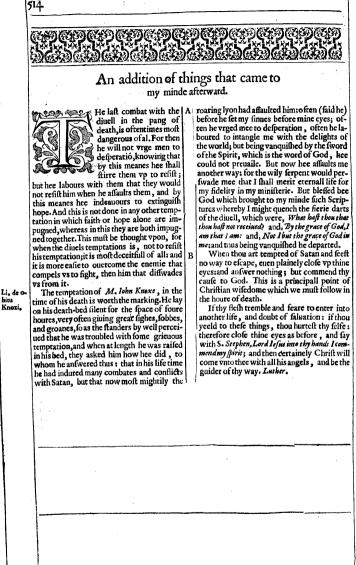

On the contrary allo a man may defire a continuance of life. Exclusing prayed and defired to line; when he heard the methage of prefent deaths, that he might doe fernice to God. And Paul defired to line in regard of the Philippians, that hee might further their faith, though in regard of himfelfe to die was aduantage to him.

Lafily, if death ioyned with reformation of life be foblefied, then the death of the wnbelecuing and varepentant finner is energy way, curfed and moft horrible. Reafons are thefe: Firft, it is the deftruction of nature; and the wages of fin. Secondly, in it there is no comfort of the fpirit to be found, no mitigation of paine, and no good thing that may counteruaile the miferies thereof. Thirdly, that which is the beginning of eternal leath, defperation, and infernall torment; without hope of deliuerance. Therefore as I began fo I end, haue care to line well, and die well.
