Publick Prayer should be in a Known Tongue.

I COR 14. 15.

I will Pray with the Spirit, and will Pray with Understanding also.

THe Spirit of God foreseeing, That in the latter dayes there would be an Apostacy and departure from the Faith; and that impious and corrupt Doctrines, would be published by Men of corrupt minds; hath so compiled the holy Scriptures, that from thence even those Errors which arose long after the times of the Apostles may be detected and confuted. With very good reason, did Tertullian say, Adoro Scripturæ plenitudinem, I adore the fulness of the Scripture. The Perfection and Sufficiency of it must needs be granted by all that understand it, and that will believe the Testimony, which it gives concerning it self. 'Tis profitable πρὸς διδασκαλίαν, πρὸς ἐλεγχόν, for Doctrine and reproof. It serves to inform and open the Eyes of the Ignorant, it serves to stop the Mouths of Gain-sayers. Hence we may be furnished with both Offensive and Defensive Weapons: and the Armour which is fetched from it, is filled τὰ ὅπλα τῆ φωτός; The Armour or the Weapons of Light, Rom. 13. 12. And truly Sin and Error being but discovered, that very discovery, will have a great influence unto the mortification of the one; and our preservation from the contagion of the other.

I do not at all wonder that the Church of Rome should take away the Key of Knowledge. Open but that Door; and that Command would more generally be obeyed, which you read Rom. 18. 4. Come out of her my people, that ye be not partakers of her Sins, that ye receive not of her • Plagues. The Popish leaders are very much against the Scriptures being known, because it makes so much against them, and speaks so plainly against their Doctrines; and they are jealous lest their own men upon serious reading and consideration might be brought to say, Aut hoc non est Evangelium, aut nos non sumus Evangelici; Either this is not the Gospel, or we are not Gospellers. Either this Word of God is not true, or if it be true, then Popery is a meer falshood.

That there is such a great disagreement between the Scripture and Popery, might easily be made manifest in all the Points of Controversie between the Romish Church and Ours; we having departed from them upon this very score, because they have rejected the Word of God; and left that Faith which was once deliver'd to the Saints.

But the Point now to be insisted on, is, The Language or Tongue, in which Prayer that is publick ought to be made.

How near a kin is Mytical Babylon unto Babel of old in the Land of Shinar! We read that therethe aspiring builders Language was confounded, and they did not understand one anothers speech, Gen. 11.7. and this Confusion stopt the building of that Tower, which was designed to reach Heaven. In the Devotions of the Romish Church, the Priest speaks but the People understand not what is spoken, and this is an impediment unto the Peoples Edification; so that their Devotions reach not Heaven, but are only a speaking into the air, 1 Cor. 14.9. and are as little regarded by God, as they are understood by themselves. The Protestant Churches, on the other side, are for Prayer in a known Tongue; and good warrant they have from the Apostle himself, who says, I will pray with the understanding; and that in the Church he had rather speak five words, i.e. a few words with his understanding, than by his voice he might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

The Text informs us of the Apostles practice; which he proposes, surely not that we should dislike it and refuse to follow him but for our imitation. Three things are here to be consider'd.

1. What's meant by Prayer? It must be understood concerning publick Prayer, or Prayer with others; for the Apostle in this Chapter where the Text lies is delivering a Decency and Order, which was to be observed in the Publick Assemblies; he supposes several persons to be present, that might answer Amen to the Supplications and Thanksgivings that were made. This Interpretation, as Beza observes, is most agreeable with the scope of the Apostle, and the drift of his Discourse.

2. What's meant by the Spirit? I will pray in the Spirit; that is, by the gift of Prayer which the Spirit bestows. This Exposition I find in Chrysostome, το πνευματι, τῷ ἁγίῳ χαρίσματι. Extraordinary abilities of Prophecyng and Praying were given after Christs Ascension, and the Mission of the Holy Ghost; and the end of all was the Churches Increase and Edification. Here 'tis not amiss to add, That by comparing other places with this, we must grant, that praying in the Spirit, com-

Si de privatis precibus ageret, videri posset à suo proposito aberrare. Beza in locum.

Δογ. αε. in 1 Epist. ad Corinth.

prehends a great deal more than the bare gift of utterance in this duty, whether extraordinary in an unknown, or more ordinary in a known Language. To pray in the Holy Ghost, implies, and that chiefly, the having our infirmities helped by the Spirit of God; our Graces quickened; our affections and desires raised unto that strength and fervency; unto which the Lord for his Son our Advocates sake has promised satisfaction.

3. What is meant by Understanding? This must not be referred to the Understanding of the Apostle; for 'tis difficult to suppose that He at any time did not understand what himself did speak. But it relates to the Understanding of others; as vers. 19. I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also. To teach with the Understanding, in the Apostles sense, is to accommodate what we say to the Understanding and Capacity of those whom we teach. In like manner to pray with the Understanding; is to pray so, as that those whom we pray with, may apprehend what we beg for at the throne of Grace, and for what we return thanks unto God, else how is it possible they should be edified?

Upon the words thus opened I build this Thesis which I am to maintain: That Publick Prayer is not to be made in an unknown tongue, but in such a Language as is understood by the common People. In Publick Prayer I include Confessions of Sin, Petitions for Grace and Mercy, Intercessions for others, and giving of Thanks; which are uttered in the hearing of the Congregation: and I affirm, That all such Publick Worship and Service is to be performed in such a Tongue as the Congregation is acquainted with. Hearken to the Apostle, 1 Cor. 14. 16, 17. Else when thou shalt bless with the Spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned, say Amen at thy giving of Thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest? for thou verily givest Thanks well, but the other is not edified. Chrysostome upon these words speaks thus, ἰδιώτῳ τὸν λατικὸν λέγει. By the man unlearned the Apostle means the Lay-man; even he must understand the words that are spoken in Prayer, that thereby he may be edified.

In the handling of this Thesis;

First, I shall give you the judgment of the Church of Rome in the matter.

Secondly, Produce arguments to prove that Publick Prayer ought not to be made in an unknown Language.

Thirdly, I shall make it manifest, that Antiquity is utterly against the Papists in this business.

Fourthly, I shall answer the Objections of the Romish Doctors; and shew the weakness of their Arguments, which they urge for their Latin, and by the People not understood, Service.

Fifthly, I shall discover the Mystery of iniquity in this Papal Doctrine, which preaches up and encourages to an ignorant Devotion.

Sixthly.

Sixthly, Conclude with a Practical Application:

In the first place I am to give you the judgment of the Church of Rome. And that they indeed hold that Publick Prayer may be made in a Language that the People understand not; appears two ways.

1. By their general Practice. Their Mass-Book is in Latin, their Divine Service, and Offices, as they call them, are performed in the Latin Tongue. But this is certain, that the Latin Tongue is not now the Mother-Tongue of any Nation under Heaven. In former ages indeed 'twas spoken in Italy. But that Nation has been so often invaded and overrun by foreign enemies, especially by the Goths and Vandals; that there has been a great alteration in their Language; the present Italian being vastly different from that Language which the Romans of old used. But though Latin be not understood by the common People, yet in Italy and Spain, and Germany, and France, and other places, where the Pope governs and is obeyed, the Publick Service is Latin; and to teach, that the People should understand what they pray for, is declaim'd against as a piece of Heresie.

2. 'Tis not only the Practice of that Church to have Latin Prayers, nor the opinion only of some private Doctors, nor the judgment of a Provincial or National Synod that thus it ought to be; but that very Council of Trent, which they (though without reason) call Holy and Oecumenical, or General, does determine, that Prayer need not be made in a Vulgar Language: The words of the Council are these, Sessio. 22. capit. 22.

Et si Missa magnam contineat populi fidelis eruditionem, non tamen expedire visum est Patribus ut vulgari lingua passim celebraretur. Though the Mass do contain a great deal of instruction for the faithful people, yet it did not seem expedient to these Fathers that it should be every where celebrated in a vulgar tongue.

Indeed afterward they command that the Pastors expound aliquid, expound something, but since something is only mention'd, and not what, nor how much, and to be sure not all; we may well say, Hoc aliquid nihil est; This something is as good as nothing. Moreover the ninth Canon runs thus:

Siquis dixerit lingua tantum vulgari Missam celebrari debere, Anathema sit. Whosoever shall say that the Mass ought to be celebrated only in a vulgar language, let him be accursed. You see how a Popish Council determines that Publick Prayer need not be in a known Tongue, and thunders out an Anathema against those who are otherwise minded.

In the second place follow the Arguments against the Papists, which prove that Publick Prayer ought not to be made in a Language unknown to the People.

1. When Prayer is made in an unknown Tongue, the Name of God is taken in vain. Aquinas speaks of four ways of taking Gods Name: 1. Ad dicti confirmationem, when we call God to witness the truth of what what has been spoken. 2. Ad Sanctificationem, to the sanctifying and separating of a thing to an use that is holy; thus the water in Baptism is separated to a Sacramental use, by the Name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. 3. Ad operis completionem, unto the performing of any work which we undertake. Thus David went forth against Goliath in the Name of the Lord of Hosts, whose Armies that proud Giant had defied. 4. Ad confessionem & invocationem, when we make confession of Gods Name before others, or call upon his Name our selves.

Now when thus in Prayer we take the Name of God into our mouths we must remember the third Commandment, and how the Great Law-giver has expressly signified, that he will not hold the transgressors guiltless. 'Tis the first Petition in the Lords-Prayer, Hallowed be thy Name: But how can those that understand not the words of Prayer, hallow Gods Name? How can their hearts and their words go together? and if they don't, the Worship is vain. Mat. 15. 8, 9. This people draweth nigh to me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me; and in vain do they worship me. The People in Latin Prayers understand not when Sin is confessed, nor when Pardon and Grace are asked, nor when praise is offered: How then can their hearts be suitably affected? It follows therefore that the Lords Name is taken, and an Ordinance used in vain. Certainly the end of Oral Prayer is not attained in the Church of Rome. The reason of using words in this duty is that others may understand, and join with us, and also that our own thoughts and hearts by the words may be kept more close to God, and intent upon his service; but in both these regards Latin Prayers to those that understand not Latin are just as good as none at all.

2. Prayer in an unknown Tongue is ignorant Worship. The Samaritans were blamed by Christ for worshipping they knew not what, Joh. 4. 22. And he speaks by way of reprehension to his Disciples, Ye know not what ye ask. So that not only the Object of Prayer must be known, but likewise the matter which we pray for. But in both these regards poor Papists are miserably ignorant. Their Idolatry plainly shews they have not right conceptions of the Godhead. How like are they to the Heathen Romans of old, who before their Conversion to the Christian Faith, changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like unto corruptible man, Rom. 1. 21. which is an evident Argument, that they are become vain in their imaginations, and that their foolish hearts are darkned, ver. 23. The Papists multiply Altars indeed, but upon all their Altars this Inscription may be written, which was upon the Altar at Athens, Ἀγνώστῳ Θεῷ, They are dedicated to a God they know not.

And as they know not the God they pray to, so neither do they understand what they pray for. And what is ignorant Worship if this be not, To make unknown Prayers to an unknown God? Surely 'tis the will of God, we should understand what we pray; but the Papists are willingly ignorant, and it abundantly suffices them, if so much time is but wasted wasted in their Devotions, and so many words are but pronounced, though they understand those words no more than a Parrot does the meaning of those words of ours which it has learned to imitate.

3. How can such Prayers as are made in an unknown Tongue, be made in Faith? and yet Faith is so necessary an ingredient in Prayer, that the Apostle sticks not to say, Let not that man, who asks not in Faith, think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord, Jam. 1. 7. We must believe that what we ask is according to the Will of God; to this end the Word which is the declaration of Gods Will ought to abide in us. Joh. 15. 7. If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. There must also in Prayer be a reliance upon the Promises of God, all which are Yea and Amen in Christ: But how can we either believe that we ask according to the Will of God; or rely upon those Promises which God hath made, if we know not what we pray?

Faith in Prayer, which is true, always presupposes knowledg; How shall they call on him (says the Apostle) in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? Rom. 10. 14. He that understands not the Tongue in which the Prayers are made, cannot certainly tell whether the Lord be praised or blasphemed; whether Grace be implored, or liberty beg'd to continue in wickedness: Nay he cannot tell whether God be prayed to at all. How then shall a man in Faith be able to join in such manner of Supplications? And as this unknown Tongue is an impediment to Faith, so when what is asked is not understood, How can the Desires be lively? Ignoti nulla cupido: The Understanding must apprehend the evil before that evil can be heartily deprecated; and be convinced of the good before the Will is brought to embrace it.

4. The design of Prayer, is not to work any change in God with whom there is not the least variableness, neither shadow of turning; but a change in us; that by Prayer we may be the better disposed for the reception of what we ask. But how can Prayer which is not understood be here available? When this Duty is rightly performed, it tends to the making of us more sensible of our guilt and vileness, our neediness and insufficiency; and to the setting of a greater edge upon our affections, towards those Spiritual and Eternal Blessings which are promised in the New Covenant; and by this means we are made more meet for the accomplishment of those Promises. But Prayer in an unknown Tongue leaves Men as it found them. And they must needs continue under their deadness, their hearts being straitned and alienated from God through the blindness that is in them.

5. Though to speak in an unknown Tongue was in the first age of the Christian Church a Miraculous Gift, and served much for the confirmation of the Christian Faith. Yet unless there were an interpreter, the use of an unknown Tongue was not permitted in the Publick Worship of God.

1 Cor. 14. 28. If there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the Church, and let him speak to himself and to God. Surely then it plainly follows, that Prayer with the Unlearned should not now be made in Latin, since skill in that Language is not now an extraordinary Gift, but gained by ordinary instruction and industry; and the use of it in Prayer with those that know not the meaning of it, tends not to confirm Christianity, but to hinder true Devotion.

6. The use of an unknown Tongue in the Lords Service is expressly denied to be unto Edification. The Apostle gives this general Rule, Let all things be done to edifying, 1 Cor. 14. 26. and v. 17. he before expressly says, That the Unlearned is not edified by Worship in a Language which he does not understand, though the Prayers or Praises be never so excellent. The Papists indeed that are devout in their way, may possibly imagine they are edified by their Latin Prayers; but they would do well to consider, that the Apostle speaks very plainly, That an unknown Tongue is not to Edification; and it concerns them likewise to suspect their own hearts, which are so deceitful, and to fear lest Satan by delusory Affections, and a false Peace, impose upon them. But let us suppose that they are really affected at their Devotions; certainly no thanks at all to the Prayer, the meaning of which they are utterly ignorant of.

Well then, since Prayer is to be unto Edification, it must be such as may be understood by the People. The Spiritual benefit and advantage of their Souls is to be regarded in all Publick Administrations. The Apostles had indeed the gift of Tongues in the day of Pentecost; but, which is very much to be marked, It was not that they might speak in an unknown, but in a known Language to the People. Therefore you read, that those Parthians and Medes, and Elamites, and the rest of them did say, We do hear every one in the Tongue wherein we were born, the wonderful works of God, Act. 2. 8, 12.

I might farther add, That it is repugnant to the very nature of Publick Prayer, that it should be in an unknown Tongue. For the People all the while if they are at any, are at their private Devotions, though in the Publick Assembly; while the Priest in Latin is confessing Sin, the Peoples hearts may be giving thanks for Mercy; while the Priest is asking for one kind of Blessing, the Peoples Affections may be carried out after another. Thus there is not that agreeing together in what they ask, which Christ speaks of; and which is necessary in Publick Prayer.

7. The Apostle having delivered this Doctrine, that Prayer and Praise should be in a known Tongue, adds at the close of the Chapter; not only, That he taught the same in all Churches of the Saints; but also, If any man think himself to be a Prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledg, that the things which I write unto you are the Commandments of the Lord, 1 Cor. 14. 37. So much for the Arguments against Prayer in an unknown Tongue.

In the third place I am to manifest, That Antiquity is utterly against the Church of Rome in this matter: the Papists talk much of the Fathers indeed; but how disobedient they are to them, and how much they dissent from them, may most easily be evinced.

And because the Council of Trent hath Anathematized all that are against the Popish Latin Prayers, I will suppose another Council, and several of the most eminent, and ancient Fathers Members of it; and that I may deal the more fairly with our Adversaries, I will suppose some of their own most noted and famous Doctors, admitted into this Council; and that yet it may be the more regarded, I shall suppose the Apostle Paul himself to be the President of it.

The Fathers whom I shall mention are Justin Martyr, Origen, Cyprian, Ambrose, Augustine, Hierome, Basil, and Chrysostome.

The Question to be debated, is, Whether Prayer is to be made in a known, or in an unknown Tongue? Let the Fathers speak in order.

Justin Martyr, who is very ancient, and lived about the year 160, Apol. 2. ad Antoninum Pium, sub finem, tells us:

Καὶ τῇ τῷ ἡμῶν λεγομένη ἡμέρᾳ πάντων καὶ πόλεως ἢ ἀγροὺς μετόχων ἐπὶ το αὐτὸ συνέλευσις γίνεται; καὶ τὰ σπονημονέματα τῶν ἀποστόλων ἢ τὰ συγγράμματα, πᾶν προσεπὶν ἀναγιγνώσκεται μέχρις ἐγχαρεῖ. Ἔπειτα παυσάμενοι τῷ ἀναγιγνώσκοντι, ὁ προεὼς διὰ λόγου τῷ νεοεστῶν καὶ πρόκλησιν τῷ τῶν καλῶν τέτων μιμήσεως ποιεῖται; ἔπειτα ἀνιστάμεθα κοινῇ πάντες καὶ εὐχὰς πέμπομεν, καὶ παυσάμενων ἡμῶν τῷ εὐχῇ ἀετὸς προσφέρεται καὶ οἶνον. — Καὶ προεὼς εὐχὰς ὁμοίως καὶ εὐχαριστίας ὅση δύναμις ἀντὶ ἀναπέμπῃ, καὶ ὁ λαὸς εὐφημῇ λέγων τὸ ἀμήν.

On the day commonly called Sunday, Assemblies are made of Citizens and Countrymen, and the writings of the Apostles and Prophets are read: The Reader giving over, the Minister makes an Exhortation to the People, perswading to the imitation and practice of those good things that are propounded. After this we rise all and pour out Prayers, and Bread and Wine are brought forth, and the Minister to the uttermost of his ability, does send forth Prayers and Praises unto God, and the People give their consent, saying, Amen.

Behold the Scriptures read even to Citizens, nay to Country-People, and Prayers made which they did understand, and say Amen to.

Origen may speak next, Lib. 8. Contra Celsum pag. (mibi) 402. Οἱ λῃποὶ πᾶν χριστιανῶν ἐδὲ ἐν ταῖς θείαις γραφαῖς κεμένους ὀνόμασι καὶ τεταγμένοις ἐπὶ τῷ θεῷ χρᾶνται ἐν ταῖς εὐχαῖς, ἀλλ' οἱ μὲν Ἕλληες ἑλληνικοῖς, οἱ δὲ Ῥωμαῖοι Ῥωμαϊκοῖς; καὶ ἕως ἑκάστος κατὰ τὴν ἑαυτοῦ διαλεκτὸν εὐχεταὶ θεῷ καὶ ὑμνεῖ αὐτὸν ὡς δύναται; καὶ ὁ πάσης διαλέκτου κύριος τῶν ἀπὸ πάσης διαλέκτου εὐχομένων ἀκούει. The Christians in their Prayers use not the very words (he means the Words in the Original) of the Scriptures; but they that are Greeks do use the Greek Tongue, and those that are Romans the Roman Tongue; and so every one according to his Dialect, does Pray unto God, and praise him according to his ability; and He that is the Lord of every Language, does hear the Prayers which are put up to Him in every Language.

Cyprian De Orat. Domini. pag. (mibi) 309. speaks thus:

Aliter. Orare quam docuit Christus, non ignorantia sola est, sed & culpa; quando ipse posuerit & dixerit, rejicitis mandatum Dei ut Traditionem vestram statuatis.

To Pray otherwise than Christ has taught, is not only ignorance, but a great fault; for he has expressly said, Ye rejected the Command of God, that ye may establish your own Tradition. Now where has Christ taught the use of an unknown Tongue in Prayer? 'tis but Romes Invention and Tradition, and that not of a very long standing.

Ambrose may be heard in the next place, in 1. ad Corinth. c. 14.

Si utique ad edificandam Ecclesiam convenitis, ea debent dici que intelligent audientes: nam quid prodest ut quis lingua loquatur quam solus scit, ut qui audit nihil proficiat?

If ye come together to edifie the Church, those things ought to be spoken that the hearers may understand; for what doth he profit the People who speaks in an unknown Tongue to them? And afterwards the same Father adds; There were some, of the Hebrews especially; that used the Syriack, and the Hebrew Tongue in their Services; but these aimed at their own glory and commendation, not at the Peoples benefit. Though the Hebrew Tongue was that in which God of old utter'd the Law upon Mount Sinai; that which Moses and the Prophets used; though the Syriack was that in which our Lord himself spake while he was upon Earth; yet Ambrose blames those that prayed in these Languages with those People who did not understand them. After Ambrose, let us hear Augustine, Enarrat. in Psalmum 18.

Intelligere debemus, ut humanâ ratione non quasi avium voce cantemus; Merule, Psittaci, Corvi, Picæ, & hujusmodi volucres sæpe docentur ab hominibus sonare quæ nesciunt: scienter vero cantare non avi sed homini divinâ voluntate concessum est.

We ought to understand what we pray for, that we may not like Birds, but like men, sing unto God. For Black-birds and Parrots, and Crows, and Pies, and such kind of Fowls, are taught to sound forth what they understand not: But to sing (which certainly in the Psalms of David includes Prayer and Praising) with understanding, is granted not to a Bird, but to a Man through the good pleasure of God.

From this Fathers words you may perceive, that the not-understood Prayer of a Papist is likened unto the prating of a Pye, or Parrot.

Hierom, who was famous for his skill in Languages, and was himself a Presbyter of the Ancient Church in Rome, yet speaks after this manner, Præfat. in Epist. ad Galatas.

In Ecclesiis Urbis Romæ quasi tonitru Cæleste audimus Populum reboantem, Amen. In the Churches of the City of Rome, the Voice of the People was like Heavenly Thunder, when they answered aloud, Amen, at the end of the Prayers which they put up unto God.

The People understood, and gave their consent unto the Prayers which were used in those days; but the present Church of Rome, Hen quantum mutatur ab illâ ! Alas, how much is it altered from what it once was !

Quod autem Amen consensum significet audientis & sit signaculum veritatis ad Corinthios prima nos docet, in qua Paulus ait. Caterum si benedixeris Spiritu, qui supplet locum idiote, quomodo dicet Amen super tua benedictione, quoniam quidem nescit quid dicas : ex quo ostendit non posse idioten respondere verum esse quod dicitur, nisi intellexerit quod docetur.

Amen signifies the consent of the hearer, and is a sealing of the Truth : Paul says, If thou blest with the Spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned say Amen at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest ? whereby he declares, That the unlearned Man cannot answer, that that which is spoken is true, since he does not understand it.

Great Basil, his mind you may know concerning the proposed Question, Homil. in Psalmum 28. Having complained before that the Children of Men do not in His Temple give glory unto God, he adds ;

Ἡ γλῶσσα ψάλλετω, ὁ δὲ νῦν ἐρευνάτω τὴν διάνοιαν τῶν ἐρημέων, ἵνα ψάλλῃς τῷ πνεύματι, ψάλλῃς δὲ καὶ τῷ νοῖ. Let thy Tongue sing, and let thy Mind search the meaning of what is spoken, that according to the Apostle, thou mayest sing with the Spirit, and sing with understanding also.

Chrysostom agrees with the forementioned Fathers fully, Λογ. as in I Epist. ad Corinth.

Ἰδιῶτῶν τὸν λαῖον λέγει, καὶ δείκνυσιν αὐτὸν εἰ μὴ τὰν ζῆλον ἐκποιέοντα, ὅταν τὸ αὐτῷ εἰπῶν μὴ δύναται. Take notice, says he, how the Apostle does always seek the Churches Edification. By the unlearned Man, Paul means the Layman, and shews how this unlearned Person does sustain a very great loss, when Prayers are made in such a Language, as he through want of understanding is not able to say Amen to them.

I shall add unto these passages of the Fathers, a Constitution of the Emperor Justinian. Emperors of old were revered by the Church, though now the Pope endeavours to Lord it over them. The Constitution is this. Novel. Constit. 123.

Jubemus, omnes Episcopos, &c. We command that all Bishops and Presbyters do celebrate the Holy Oblation, and Prayers used in Holy Baptism; not speaking low, but with a clear Voice which may be heard by the People, that thereby the Minds of the People may be stirred up with greater Devotion in uttering the Praises of the Lord God. And for this is cited I Cor. 14. How shall the Unlearned say Amen, if he does not understand what is spoken? And then it follows, If the Priests neglect these things, the Judgment of God and Christ will fall on them; neither will we, says the Emperor, when we know it, rest and leave it unrevenged.

But now let us hear the Romish Doctors themselves speaking to the Question in Hand.

Cardinal Cajetan, Comment. in 1 Epist. ad Corinth. c. 14. has these words; Ex hac Pauli Doctrina habetur, quod melius est ad edificationem Ecclesie, orationes publicas, quæ audiente Populo dicuntur, dici linguâ communi Clericis, & Populo, quam dici Latine.

From this Doctrine of the Apostle Paul it follows, That it is better for the edification of the Church, that the publick Prayers which the People hear, should be made in that Language which both the Priests and People understand, than that they should be made in Latin.

Here I cannot chuse but cry out, Magna est Veritas, great is Truth, and it will prevail! Behold a Cardinal of the Romish Church, speaks as plainly against the Council of Trent, as any whom they nickname Hereticks can.

The next Romish Author is Nicolaus de Lira, who glossing upon the same Chapter, speaks to the same purpose.

Si Populus intelligat orationem sive benedictionem Sacerdotis; melius receditur in Deum, & devotius respondet, Amen.

If the People understand the Prayer or Thanksgiving which is performed by the Priest, their minds will be brought the better and nearer unto God, and with greater devoutness they will answer, Amen.

The third Romish Doctor, shall be the Angelical (as he is called) and highly-magnified Thomas Aquinas, Commentar. in 1 Epistolam ad Corinth. cap. 14. His words are these;

Plus lucratur qui orat & intelligit; nam reficitur, & quantum ad intellectum, & quantum ad affectum.

He gains most who prays and understands the words which he speaks; for he is edified both as to his understanding, and also as to his affections.

Again he saith, Melius est ut linguæ quæ benedicit, etiam interpretetur, omnis enim sermo bonus est ad edificationem fidei.

'Tis best that the Tongue which blesses, should interpret; for good words should be spoken to the edification of faith.

Here we may with reason say, Bene quidem scripsisti Thomâ.

Thomas thou hast written what is agreeable to Truth.

Thus the Fathers and the Popish Doctors themselves have deliver'd their opinions, and all are for praying in a known Language.

Nay I have read, and 'tis acknowledged by a Jesuit, Azorius Inst. lib. 8. cap. 26. ex Aen. Sylv. That above six hundred years ago, when the Pope did deliberate and consult whether he should grant unto the Bohemians the use of the Vulgar Tongue in their publick Devotions; there was heard a voice from Heaven, saying, Omnis lingua confiteatur ei; Let every tongue confess unto God.

But now at last let us be determined by the Apostle Paul, the supposed President of the Council, and his mind I shall give you in this Paraphrase upon his own words.

I thank my God I speak with Tongues more than you all; but I had rather speak five words to be understood by, and to edifie those that hear me, than than ten thousand words in an unknown Tongue. If the Trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battel? and if I pray, and those that are present understand not the meaning of the voice, how shall they wrestle with God? how shall they defend themselves against the assaults of the enemy? how shall they join in begging for Grace to overcome him? I am an Apostle, and not a Barbarian, and I would not speak words into the air, but so as to benefit them that hear me. I am unwilling the Publick Worship of God should be exposed to the contempt and scorn of Infidels; or that they should censure it to be only the raving of mad-men, because they know not the meaning of the words that are used. Our God is not the God of confusion, but requires a reasonable Service, and these commands concerning Prayer and Praising so as to be understood, are his commands. Every one who is indeed spiritual will be thus perswaded: they who are otherwise minded are willingly ignorant.

You see I have proved the Protestant Doctrine out of the Fathers; nay, 'tis granted by Popish Authors of very great name; and how plainly the Apostle is on our side, do but read and judg.

Let the Papists now for shame cease their bragging of Antiquity. 'Twas certainly the manner of the elder and purer times to pray in a known Language. Thus prayed the Apostles, thus prayed our Lord Jesus, thus praised the Heavenly Host at Christs Nativity, in such words as the very Shepherds understood, Glory be to God in the Highest, on Earth peace, good-will towards men. Thus the Prophets prayed, and David the sweet-Singer of Israel; all his Psalms were written in Hebrew, the Jews Mother-tongue. Thus sung Deborah and Barak, thus Moses and the Israelites after their Miraculous Deliverance out of Egypt, and Pharaohs overthrow in the mighty Waters. Nay I must add, there was a time when there was but one Language in the whole World; before the building of Babel, and then there was no unknown Tongue to pray in. In the days of Enos the Son of Seth the Grand-child of Adam, 'tis said, Men began to call upon the Name of the Lord, Gen. 4. 26. And this must of necessity have been done in a Language which none were ignorant of. Surely then the Protestant Religion in this regard must be acknowledged of sufficient Antiquity, since 'tis as old as the old World, since 'twas before the flood of Noah.

In the fourth place I shall answer the Popish Arguments to defend their Cause; and shall not fear to produce the very strongest which I have met withal.

1. 'Tis Objected That the Apostle does not speak in 1 Cor. 14. concerning the ordinary Divine Service, but concerning Spiritual Songs, which by an extraordinary Gift were utter'd.

Ans. The Apostle does mention Prayer as well as giving of Thanks; and there is as much reason that the ordinary Service should be understood, as the extraordinary; because that which is ordinarily used, should by all means be to Edification.

2. 'Tis

2. 'Tis Objected, That Prayer in an unknown Tongue is not condemned, but Prayer in a known Tongue only preferred. Bellar. Lib. 2. de Verbo Dei, Capit. 16.

Ans. First, Suppose this, why does the Church of Rome pray after the worse, and not after the better manner of the two? Secondly, I say 'tis condemned by the Apostle as not being for Edification; for he that could speak in a Tongue, if he could not interpret, nor any Interpreter present, was commanded to keep silence in the Assembly.

3. 'Tis Objected, That of old the Instruction and Edification of the People was necessary, and the use of Prayer was, that they might be Instructed and Edified: But now the end of Prayer is not so much the Peoples Instruction and Edification, as the yielding to God that Worship which is due to him. Id. ibid.

Ans. First, The Apostles were as careful that God might have his Worship, as the Papists, nay a great deal more careful. Secondly, Disjoin not Gods Worship and the Peoples Edification; for he is best worshipped in spirit and in truth. And the more the mind understands, and the heart of the Worshipper is affected, God is the more honoured, and the better pleased.

4. 'Tis Objected, That Prayer is not made to the People but unto God, and he understands all Tongues alike; and 'tis sufficient that the Lord understands what is prayed, though the People are ignorant. And this Bellarmino does illustrate by a similitude. If a Courtier, says he, should petition for a Country-man in Latin to a King, the Country-man might be benefited by the Latin Petition of the Courtier, though he should not understand a word of it. Loco citato.

Ans. 1. It might have been said, That God understands all Tongues alike in the Apostles days as well as now; the Lord being then and now, and always, equally Omniscient. 2. The use of Prayer is not to inform the God we pray to, For he knows what things we have need of before we ask, Mat. 6. 8. but to make our selves more sensible of our needs, and consequently more meet to be supplied; but how can this be if Prayer be lockt up in an unknown Dialect? 3. As for Bellarmines Similitude, it will not hold. For the God of Heaven is not like the Kings on Earth, who will hear Petitions made by Favourites for persons that make no address themselves: But He requires, That every particular person should ask if he will receive, and understand what he prays for; and that he should have suitable affections to the matter of his Petitions, if he will be heard and answered. Add also, That if a King should forbid Petitions in a strange Language, and should command that Petitioners should use a Tongue they understand, that with the greater earnestness they may beg what they need; to such an one a Latin Petition would not be so acceptable; But God has forbid the use of an unknown Tongue: Therefore we may conclude, That the Popish Latin Prayers in an Auditory which understand them not, are to very little purpose. The People must seek and knock as well as the Priest, else they they shall not find, else it will not be opened unto them, Mat. 7. 7.

In the fifth place I am to discover the tendency of, and Mystery of Iniquity in this Papal Doctrine, which encourages to Prayer in an unknown Tongue, and teaches People to be contented with an ignorant Devotion.

1. It gratifies exceedingly the lazy disposition of Men, who naturally like a liberty to rest in opere operato, in the work done, and cannot endure to be urged to the more difficult part of Religion, which lies in a conflict with wandring thoughts in duty; in watching over, and taking pains with the heart, that it may be intent, considerate and affectionate in its applications unto God. I know the Papists boast of their austerities in their Devotions; but these are external things, and who has required them at their hands? And I may with good reason affirm, That one quarter of an hour spent in Prayer, where the very heart is engaged, and understands what 'tis doing, and seeks the Lord with its whole desire, will be to better purpose than all the Prayers by rote that are, or can be said by a blind Papist, though he should live to the age of Methuselah.

2. This Doctrine is a notable device to keep the People ignorant, and to make them more dependent upon the Priesthood; and hereby they hope more easily to rule them. These cruel Guides, as they take away the Bible from the People, which is the great means of Knowledge; so they will not suffer them to cry for Knowledge, so as to know what they cry. What a faithful servant is the Pope unto the Prince of Darknes! and what quiet possession does the strong man armed keep while the Gospel is hid, and men pray for they know not what, and consequently obtain nothing!

3. Many Prayers may well be made in Latin meerly through shame. When I read the Scripture, I conclude the Papists are afraid of the Light which shines from thence, lest it overthrow their black Kingdom; and when I read the foolish, nay blasphemous Prayers, which are made in the Church of Rome, I conclude they are ashamed the meaning of them should be known. Thus they pray to the Virgin Mary.

*Sancta Maria,
Quæ totum orbem illuminas.
Quæ tuos servientes exaltas.
Illuminatrix cordium.
Fons misericordie.
Ab omni malo libera nos Domina.*

O Saint Mary,
Who dost enlighten the whole world.
Who dost exalt thy servants.
Who dost illuminate hearts.
Who art the fountain of mercy.
From all evil good Lady deliver us.

To Saint Dorothy they pray thus:

*Sancta Dorothea,
Cor mundum in me crea.*

} O holy Dorothy,
} A clean heart create in me.

Saint

Saint Agnes is prayed unto to keep them in the Faith; and Saint George to save them from their Sins, that they may rest in Heaven with the Blessed for ever. These Latin Prayers in plain English are most wicked Blasphemies; and both Gods work and honour, which is peculiar to himself, and dear to him, is (to the provoking of him to jealousy) ascribed and imparted to the Creature.

In the last place I come to the Application.

USE I.

Bless the Lord that the Day-spring from on high hath visited this Land of your Nativity, and that Popish darkness is so much dispelled. How thankful were the Israelites, think you, for that Light which shined so clear in Gosben, when Egypt was plagued with Darkness, that was so hideous and palpable? Neighbouring Regions, most of them are blinded by Rome and Hell; and see not the things which you see, hear not the things which you hear. You are instructed to whom Prayer is to be directed, unto God; and in whose Name, in the Name of Christ, whose Mediation and Intercession is always prevalent. Supplications are made in a Tongue which you understand; that you may be the more affected with what you pray for, and consequently have gracious returns to your Prayers from the God of all Grace. What cause is here of Thanksgiving that Publick Administrations are so much more agreeable unto Christs Institution, than the Administrations of the Church of Rome.

Prayers being poured forth with so much fervency, and in such words as all, even the meanest, understand; the Scriptures being read in a Language which you know, so as that the Book of God is not a sealed Book to you; Sermons being preached with so much plainness and power. Finally, Sacraments being administered, so as that you may know how to improve these Seals of the New Covenant, to the strengthening of your Faith, the inflaming of your Love, and the increase of all manner of Grace: All this may well cause you to cry out with David, Psal. 84. 1. How amiable are thy Tabernacles, O Lord of Hosts. And one thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after, that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his Temple, Psal. 27. 4.

USE II.

It highly concerns you to fear and to pray against the return of Popish blindness. While Satan and his Angels are busie and industrious to extinguish the light of the Word; while Rome does join with Hell to this end, that this Land may be again overspread with Ignorance, Idolatry, Superstition, Will-Worship; 'tis your wisdom and duty, while they are plotting, to be counterworking by your Prayers. Oh cry unto the Lord to secure his own Honour, and your Priviledges, against these Enemies, which are so great invaders of both. Beg with the greatest earnestness, (and truly earnest begging was never yet denied) that the Gospel may continue, and a Spiritual way of Worship according to the direction of the Gospel; and that Rome's Emissaries may never make Merchandize of your Souls; or the Souls of your Posterity.

USE III.

Let the blind zeal of the Papists make you more frequent in your accesses to the Throne of Grace: Though they Worship ignorantly, yet how much do they Worship? as Superstition is wont to urge men to abundant labour. But you that see more reason to pray than they, and have more encouragement from God, than ever they understood, should be shamed and quickned unto this Duty. The Papists indeed, if they understood themselves, might well be disheartned, because their Worship is Will-worship, not of Gods appointment, but their own Invention. But you should abound in Devotion, for God will not be sought in vain as long as you seek him in his own way, and your labour shall not be in vain in the Lord, 1 Cor. 15. 58.

USE IV.

Take heed of Distraction in Prayer, and not-minding what you ask or what you are doing, when at the Mercy-Seat. 'Tis great hypocrisy to be present only in body at the Sanctuary; the heart in the mean while running away after pleasures, covetousness, vanity; and this exceedingly provokes the Lord to jealousy, and are you stronger than He? 1 Cor. 10. 22. Pray, what's the difference between a Papist that understands not, and a carnal Protestant that minds not a word of what is spoken in Prayer? Or if there be any difference the Protestant is in the worse case; because having the means of Edification, he is the more without Apology, that he is not edified.

USE V.

Content not your selves with bare understanding the words of Prayer, but know the Lord you pray to; be acquainted with his Power and Truth; and how he keeps Mercy for thousands, and particularly for you, if you are sensible of your sin and misery, and are willing that from both He should deliver you. Understand also the worth of what you ask, that Spiritual and Eternal Blessings being highly valued, your desires after them may be vehement, and you may wrestle with the greater strength and resolution till you have obtain'd them.

USE VI.

Let Understanding and Faith in this duty of Prayer be join'd together. The Popish implicate Faith, to believe as the Church believes, that is, to believe they know not what, is a wretched piece of carelessness and presumption, and a mad venturing of the Soul, which is so precious, upon an empty sound and title. But do you search the Scriptures, enquire what God has spoken; and firmly believe his words which are so faithful and worthy of all acceptation. Let your Faith in Prayer be strong; and be fully perswaded, that having such Promises as God has made, and engaged engaged himself to make good, and such an Advocate in Heaven as Christ the Righteous: what you ask according to the Will of God shall in no wise be denied. In a word know your duty and do it, and then conclude, As certainly as God is, so certainly he will be a rewarder of them that diligently seek him, Heb. 11. 6.

Thomas Mortonus Episc. Dunelm. Apol. Cathol. Par. 2. Lib. 1. Cap. 31. De Vernac. precibus, pag. 108. Non est igitur quod in hac causa, lector, hallucineris; neq; enim te fugit nos primo antiquitatem novitati: Secundo, devotionem sanctam & divinam, cæcæ & fanaticæ superstitioni: Tertio, animæ consolationem spiritualem, rigide stupiditati: Quarto, infantie prudentiam: Quinto, torpori consensum: Sexto, fictis & ementitis periculis commoda pene infinita: Septimo, sacrosanctam deniq; Spiritus sancti sapientiam, humane stultitiæ ac temeritati antepondere.

There is therefore, Reader, no room for a mistake in this cause; for thou canst not but know, that the Protestants prefer, 1. Antiquity before Novelty: 2. Holy and divine Devotion before blind (and properly so called) fanatick Superstition: 3. The spiritual comfort of the Soul, before rigid stupidity: 4. Prudence before childishness: 5. Consent before carelesness: 6. Almost infinite advantages before feigned and imaginary dangers: 7. The holy wisdom of the Spirit of God, before the folly and rashness of men.
