To the READER.

HOSE Famous Ministers of Christ, Luther, Niclancthon, Calvin, Zuinglius, Bucer, and the rest of them, who justly are stiled Reformers of Religion; did say more against Popery, than any of the Papists have yet been able to give a solid Answer to: And indeed it was by wife and uninterested men judged, above a hundred years ago, a desperate Cause, being so much against both Scripture and right Reason. The Church of Rome, therefore, that it might uphold and defend it self, hath had recourse unto Cruelty, Policy, Sophistry.

As for their cruelty, What place almost is there that rings not of it? The Massacre at Paris, the Irish Rebellion, the Gunpowder Treason, those Flames in which so many were burned in the Persecution under 2. Mary; do plainly shew, That the Romish Beast is the most Cruel one that ever was, and is extreamly eager to tear in pieces all that refule to worship him. Those many thousands of Men, Women, and Children, who have been most barbarously butchered by Bloody Papilts in France, in Ireland, in Bohemia, in Piedmont, in England; may inform all, what Arguments they use to promote their Religion, when once they have any Power in their hands; and what kind of dealing is to be expected where Popery shall prevail; unless there be a subjecting of Bodies, Estate, Reason, Sense, Faith, and Conscience alfo, unto their Tyranny and Vsurpation.

And lest these Instances of Cruelty which I have mentioned, should be extenuated, as making nothing against Popery, because several of that Religion have condemned them; it will not be amiss to add, That Thuanus, an Historian of their own, Historianum lie. gives this information; That the Pope when he heard of the 53. p. 1604, Massacre, from his Legate at Paris, read the Letter in the Con-Nuncio de tufiftory of Cardinals, and folemnly gave thanks to Almighty multu Parisi-God for so great a bleffing conferred upon the Roman See and rum quanta the Christian World. It was also decreed, That a Jubilee should latitia Roma be published; the Causes whereof the transfer to make the exultarum est. be published; the Causes whereof, were to return thanks to Lecis in Car-

The Epistle to the Reader.

God for destroying in France the Enemies of the Truth and of the Church, &c. Soon after, the Pope lent Cardinal Orfin in his Name to congratulate the King of France, who in his journey through the Cities highly commended the Faith of those Citizens who had an hand in the Massacre, and distributed his Holines's blessings among them. And at Paris, being to perswade the reception of the Council of Trent, endeavoured it with this Argument, That the memory of the late Action to be mag. nified in all Ages, as conducing to the glory of God, and the dignity of the holy Roman Church, might be, as it were, fealed by the approbation of the Holy Synod.

of persons flain in this Massacre at Paris, and other places, to Thirty thousand.

If this Massacre be thus justified, commended, magnified, where there was also so much Treachery (for the Protestants were invited to a Marriage between the Houses of Valois and *The number Bourbon; and then in the dead of the night * many thousands of them, without distinction of Age or Sex, were butchered; fo that the Channels ran down with blood into the River); sure we may conclude, That the most horrid Murthers will be deamounted un-fended, as long as that which they call the Catholick Religion is thereby promoted. I grant indeed, there are some good-natur'd Papists which say, They dislike such bloody doings, whatever may be pretended for their justification: But 'tis more than probable, that these very Gentlemen, supposing the Pope had full Power to weild both Swords, if they should dare to talk against his Cruelty, would presently be call dand feel the stroke of his Swords, as Hereticks.

Policy is another prop of Popery. By Policy. I do not mean that Prudence in managing of State-affairs, which is joined with Integrity, Justice, Honesty; but that Crastiness and Subtilty where no regard is had either to Truth or Consciences but any thing is done though never so much against the Rules of Righteoulness, that carnal Ends may be brought about. The Pope having arrogated such Power to himself; that he can abfolve Subjects from their Oaths of Allegiance, can take off the obligation of Covenants and Promises, and give Dispensations to transgress the Laws of God; hereby a door is opened to all Unrighteousness, and Papists may be allowed to diffemble, to lye, to be perjured, as long as 'tis for the Catholick Cause. The Writings of Machiavel have been studied more throughly by many of the Romanists, than the Scriptures of the Apostles and Prophets. And those who have conversed with the fefuits, and understand the Mystery of Jesuitism, find them such exact Achitophels, that they will counsel to any thing, though never so ungodly, if it tend to the upholding of their Faction.

Lastly, For their Sophistry: In this respect their Schoolmen, who have endeavored to argue for Popery, are famous. But when what they say is duly weighed, it appears to be but Sophistry, and no more. In the main points of Controversie between the Church of Rome and us, their Arguments are answered in these ensuing Sermons; the truth also is consirmed by Scripture and Reason, and then an Improvement made in order unto practice. This mixture of Polemical and Practical Divinity together, 'tis hoped will be very uleful.

The Ministers who preached these Lectures, endeavoured to accommodate themselves to the capacity even of ordinary Hearers: For the common people, confidering the Industry of Romish Emissaries, are in great danger of being seduced; and this Book, through the bleffing of God, may be an Antidote. I could have wished that the Sermons had been delivered to me all together, that they might have been printed in better order, and forted together according to the subject-matter of them. But if the Reader please to consult the Table at the beginning, he may read them in order if he be so minded.

To conclude: Since England was formerly such a Tributary to the See of Rome, and such vast sums of Money were carried yearly from Hence Thither; we are not to doubt but the Pope looks upon us with grief that he has lost us, and with an earnest desire to regain us. His Instruments are more than ordinarily busie to this End, insomuch that both King and Parliament have taken publick notice of it. This Lecture therefore against Popery, is very seasonable; and if (which I earnestly beg) this Labour be made successful to reduce any of them who have been feduced, or to arm and defend the people against one of the greatest visible Enemies that Christ has in the world; I shall exceedingly rejoice that my Pulpit was so much honoured by my Fathers and Brethren when they preached in it, and that ever such a Project against popery came into my mind.

The Theses or Truths maintained in these Sermons against the PAPITS.

I. THE Scripture was written for the use of the Laity, and should be translated into known Tongues, that they may understand it; and should be heard and read by them.

Text, 1 Thes. 5. 27. Serm. 5. p. 105.

II. The Scripture is a sufficient Rule of Christian Faith, or Record of all necessary Christian Doctrines, without any supplement of unwritten Tradition, as containing any necessary matter of Faith; and is thus far sufficient for the decision of Controverses. Text, 2 Thes. 2.15. Serm. 6. p. 149.

III. The Testimony of the Church is not the only nor the chief reason of our believing the Scripture to be the Word of God. Text, Luke 16.29. Serm. 10. p. 313.

IV. There is no External, Supream, and Infallible Judg in the Church of God, to whom all Christians are obliged to submit their Faith and Conscience in all matters of Religion. Text, Mat. 23.8, 9, 10. Serm. I. p. I.

V. There is no such Church instituted by Christ, as all Christians joined to one meer Human Head, either Personal or Collective: But Christ is the only Universal Head. Text, I Cor.

12. 27, 28. Serm. 2. p. 25.

VI. Kings and Emperors are not rightful Subjects to the Pope; neither hath he Power, for pretended or real Herefie, to excommunicate and depose them, nor to absolve their Subjects from their Oaths of Allegiance; but even the Clergy are subject to secular Princes, and their Bodies and Estates under their Government. Text, Acts 26.2. Serm. 3. p. 44.

VII. The Pope of Rome is That Antichrist, and Man of Sin, Spoken of in the Apocalyps, and by the Apostle Paul. Text, 2 Thes. 2. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Serm. 4. p. 80.

VIII. The Protestants did upon just grounds separate from the Church of Rome. Text, Luk. 6.22. Serm. 14. p. 492.

IX. The Lord Jesus, who is the only Foundation of his Church, is the preserver of its Duration, in some measure, visibly throughout all ages. Text, Mat. 16.18. Ser. 25. p.839.

X. The Papists dangerously corrupt holy Worship, by their sinful Prayers to Saints and Angels. Text, Rom. 10. 14. Ser. 15. p. 519.

XI. Purgatory is a groundless and a dangerous Doctrine.

Text. 1 Cor. 3. 15. Serm. 24. p. 813.

XII. No Sin is in its own nature Venial, but every Sin is deadly, and deserves eternal Damnation. Text, Rom. 6. 23. Serm. 8. p. 261.

XIII. The Good Works of believers are not meritorious of eternal Salvation. Text, Pfal.62. 12. Serm. 11. pag.401.

XIV. There are not any works of Supererogation. Text, Luke:

17. 10. Serm. 16. p. 548.

XV. The Dockrine of Justification is dangeroufly corrupted in the Roman Church. Text, Rom. 3. 24. Serm. 12. p. 441.

XVI. 'Tis not lawful to make Images of God, nor to mor-(bip him as represented by an Image; nor to direct our worship to an Image as a Medium; nor scandalously to seem to worship Images, by doing it corporally as Idolaters do, though me pretend to keep our hearts to God. And the Papists presumptuoufly leave the second Commandment, out of the Decalogue. Text, Mat. 4. 10. Serm. 12. p. 458.

XVII. Publick Prayer ought not to be made in an unknown

Tongue. Text, 1 Cor. 14.15. Serm. 9. p. 295.

XVIII. The Pope and his Clergy, by false presumptuous Pardons and Indulgences, have beinously injured Christ, the Church, and Souls of men. Text, Heb. 10.14. Serm. 19. p. 677.

XIX. That Doctrine in the Church of Rome which forbids to marry, is a wicked Doctrine. Text, I Tim. 4. 2. Serm. 17.

XX. The Papal Doctrine in denying the possibility of Assurance, is false, and hath a dangerous tendency; to destroy the true Peace and Comfort of Souls in the certain hopes of everlasting happiness. Text, 2 Pet: 1. 10. Serm. 18. p. 617:

XXI. Baptism and the Lords Supper are the only Sacraments: of the Covenant of Grace under the New Testament. Text, Prov. 30. 6. Serm. 20. 701.

XXII. There is no such thing as Transubstantiation in the Eucharist; and 'tis Idolatry in the Papists to worship the consecrated Bread, though they think 'tis turned' into the Body of Christ. Text, 1 Cor. 11. 23, 24, 25. Serm. 21. p. 729.

XXIII The Papists go presumptuously against the Institution of Christ, and change and corrupt his Ordinance, and are injurious to the people, in denying the use of the Cup to thewar in the Lords Supper. Text, Mat. 26, 27, 28. Ser. 22. p. 760. XXIV. In the Mass there is not a true and real Sacrifice of Christ himself for the sins of the Dead and Living. Text, Heb. 10. 12. Ser. 23. p. 784.

XXV. Popery is a Novelty, and the Protestant Religion was not only before Luther, but the same that was taught by Christ and his Apostls. Text. Jer. 6. 16. Ser. 7. p. 165.

POPE and COUNCILS not Infallible Mathem Bool

Mat. 23.8, 9, 10. But be not ye called Rabbi, for one is your Master, even Christ, and all ye are Brethren.

And call no man your Father upon the earth, for one is your Father which is in Heaven.

Neither be ye called Masters; for one is your Master, even Christ.

HE But in the beginning of these words hath a manifest respect unto the foregoing verses, wherein our blessed Saviour describes and censures the ambition and usurpation of the Scribes and Pharisees. He tells you in the fifth verse, All their works they do to be seen of men; not for the pleasing of God, but for gaining of reputation amongst men; not for the satisfaction of their own Consciences, but for vain glory and ostentation. They made broad their Phylasteries;

the Phylacteries were little scrowls of Parchment which the Jews did wear upon their arms, or upon their foreheads, wherein they writ some parcels of the Law of God. How solidly grounded that practice was, I shall not now examine: But the Scribes and Pharisees made these Phylacteries larger and broader than the rest of the Jews, that they might gain that respect from the people by their outward garb, which they could not gain by any true and solid worth. It follows in the sixth verse. They love the uppermost rooms at feasts, and the chief seats in the Synagogues; and in the seventh verse, and greetings in the Markets, and to be called of men Rabbi; i.e. Master or Doctor; for so the word signifies; and the word is doubled for the greater honour and respect. They affected titles of honour, and the Jewish Sanhedrim did solemnly confer these titles upon learned men; and they obliged the people to give them these titles; and they had a saying, that be that B saluteth his teacher as he doth another man, and deth not call him Rabbi, provokes God to depart from Israel.

But indeed there was a deeper and worse design than this in it; they did not only aim at splendid and glorious titles, but they did usurp Authority and Dominion over the Consciences of the People. whereof this was but a fign; as amongst us the Flag is a fign of the Dominion of the Seas, fo this title was an indication and fign of that Authority they usurped over the people. Against this leaven of the Scribes and Pharifees, our Saviour cautions them in the words read. Be ye not called Rabbi, call no man your Father upon earth; neither be ye called Malters. The same thing thrice repeated in various expressions. to thew the great importance and necessity of this precept. But how is this to be understood? Ianswer, it is not a prohibition concerning the rife of the name, but concerning the practice of the thing. You are not to understand it thus, as if it were unlawful to call any man Father, or Master, as the Quakers with sufficient weakness will understand it. Certainly the Apolities best understood the meaning of their Lord and Master; and for as much as we find that they themselves did give men these titles, we have warrant enough to use them, Ephes. 6. 4. Fathers provoke not your Children to wrath; and lest any man should have fuch an Allegorical humour as to understand it of spiritual Fathers. they are called fathers of the flesh, Heb. 12.9. We have had fathers of our flesh. And so servants must obey in all things their Masters according to the the Col. 3.22 nay more it is not unlawful to call teachers by these names; it is not unlawful to call Teachers, Masters, Doctors, Rabbies, 1 Cor. 4. 15. For though you have ten thousand instructers in Christ, yet have you not many Fathers, for in Christ Fesus I have begotten you through the Gospel: I am your Father, your spiritual Father, and the title of Master (Sisaonanos) anfivers to Rabbi in the Hebrew, as the learned know, and plainly appears from Joh. 20. 16. Fesus said unto ber Mary, she turned her self about and fuid, Rabboni! a word of the same signification with Rabbi, which is as much as to fay Master. This name I say, is commonly given to Teachers and Ministers of the Gospel; he sent some Apostles, and some teachers or Masters, Sidagnanes, and so St. Paul calls himself Sidagnanes, a seacher, a Master a Doctor of the Gentiles.

What then is here forbidden?

Ans. Two things. (1) He forbids a vain and ambitious affectation of such titles of honour as these. (2) And principally he forbids that Authority and Dominion over the Consciences of men which these titles do import. I shall say nothing to the sormer, the latter is that I must discourse of at this time. And to this purpose, and that you may the better understand the mind of our blessed Saviour in these words you must know that the Scribes and Pharisees did arrogate to themselves this Authority over the people, the self-same Power which the Popish teachers at this day usurp over their people. This was their dockrine, ctrine, That the People were obliged to believe all their Doctrines, and to practife all their Injunctions. These are the very words of the Jewish Talmud, which is as it were their Bible. All the words of our Rabbins are to be believed, and received, as the very words of the living God. And in another place, We owe the same faith to all which the Rabbins teach in their homilies, which we give to the Law of Moses. Nay they went so sar as to say, (as Rabbi Solomon an eminent Doctor of theirs saith upon Dent. 17. 11.) Thou shalt not depart from the words of the wise, i.e. their Teachers, though they tell thee that thy right hand is thy left, and thy left hand is thy right; and in another place, be that diffents from his Teachers, is as bad as he that diffents from the Divine Majesty; and he that believes the words of the wise, it is as if he did believe God himself. Nay they went higher, My Son attend rather to the words of the Scribes than to the words of the Law.

Now by this you may clearly understand what our Saviour aims at, and why he presset this point with so much vehemency; you see the very life and soul of Religion was struck at by this intolerable Usurpation. Therefore our Saviour saith, call no man Rabbi, call no man your Father upon earth; let none of my Disciples or Apostles ever usurp this Authority; and if any of them should be so arrogant as to-do it, let no man give this title to them; that is, acknowledg not this Authority to be in them; own no man for your Father or Master on Earth, except my felf or your Father in Heaven.

From the words thus explained I gather this Doctrine.

Doct. There is no external, supream and infalible Judg in the Church of God, to whom all Christians are obliged to submit their Faith and Consciences, in all matters of Religion.

This was the point that I was defired to discourse of at this time; and I do it the more willingly, because in the whole body of Popery, the opposite Doctrine to this is the heart of it. This is Articulus stantis, vel cadentis Papismi: Popery will either stand or fall by the truth or falshood of this Assertion. It is usual with Papists considently to invite us to the debate of this Doctrine, concerning the supream and infallible Judg of Controversies; this they all acknowledg, strikes at the root; and we do but nibble at the branches, unless we strike at this.

Now that you may the better understand this Discourse, I must acquaint you with the Doctrine of the Papists in this particular. They are not content with Christ the Judg in Heaven, and the holy Scriptures the Judg upon Earth; but they must have another Judg, a visible Judg; like the Israelites they must have a visible God to go before them, though it be but a Cals. They say (1) that an external and visible Judg of all matters of Religion upon Earth is absolutely necessary; and this Judg they say is the Church, by which they understand the Governours of the Church, either the Pope, as some of them say, or as others, a General Council, or the Pope and a Council together, as those that would seem wifer than the rest pretend.

(2) They say, this supream Judg is infallible; he can neither be deceived himself, nor deceive them that stick to him, and are taught by him.

(3) They say it is the duty of every particular Christian intirely and unreservedly to submit his Faith and Conscience to the conduct and guidance of this Judg, to believe whatever he teacheth, and to practise whatever he commands, according to that known and often mentioned, and never to be forgotten Assertion of Bellarmine, De Pontisice Rom. 1.4. cap.5. in sine. If, saith he, the Pope could or should so far err, as to command the practice of vice, and to forbid vertuous actions, the Church were bound to believe vices to be good, and vertues to be bad. This is plain dealing; and I cannot but adore the wise and wonderful Providence of God, that should give up a person of such wisdom and learning as Bellarmine, to discover the true and the desperate consequences of this principle, that all men that have a care of their Souls might avoid and abhor it.

This is the sum of their Doctrine; and they further add, that this Doctrine of the Churches supream and infallible Authority, as it is of more weight and importance, so it is, and in all reason ought to be more evident and demonstrable than any other Christian Doctrine whatsoever, as a learned Doctor of the Romish Church expressly affirms. I mean Creffy in his Exomologesis; whether this be so or no we shall by and by discern. And against this bold and wicked Assertion I have laid down this Proposition, There is no external supream, infallible Judg in the Church of God to whom all Christians are obliged to Submit their Faith and Consciences in all matters of Religion. That which I am now pleading for is, that you may preserve the greatest treasure you have in the world, even your Consciences, against the horrible Usurpations of wicked and unreasonable men. I shall not use multitudes of Arguments to confute the Popish Assertion, but a few, and those such as may convince the Conscience of any person, who will not shut his eyes against the light.

Arg. 1. This Authority which they pretend to is a greater Authority than the Apossels themselves did ever claim, or exercise in the Church of God; as plainly appears from 2 Cor. 1. 24. Not that we have dominion over your Faith. I do not understand what dominion over a mans Faith can be, if this that they pretend to be not so. God himself can scarce be imagined to have a greater dominion over any mans Faith than this, that a man be obliged to believe every thing which God saith without examination, and practise whatsoever he commands; and this the Pope lays claim to, as you have heard, and it is notoriously known; by which alone you may sufficiently discern who is that Man of Sin prophesied of, 2 Thes. 2. 4. Who opposeth and exalteth bimself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the Temple of God, shewing himself that he is God. This was our bleffed Saviours fole Prerogative, Act. 3. 22. Mosestruly said unto the Fathers, a Prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren like unto me, him shall ye hear; in all things what soever he shall say unto you. So that this is the heighth of Christs honour; and the truth is, it might well be faid of Christ, we may safely relie upon and hear Christ in all things whatfoever he should fay to us; this was very agreeable to the nature and person of Christ, one in whom were all the treasures of wisdom and knowledg, one in whom the fulness of the Godhead dwelt bodily, one that was God manifested in the slesh: I say, we may safely relie upon such a person; but that this should be said of a weak and wicked man such as themselves consess many of their Popes to have been, that we should hear whatever he fays; this is such a stupendious insurpation, that I can never think of it with horror enough. The holy Apostles thought it good manners to keep a diffance from their Lord and maker, they never durst arrogate such an absolute and unlimited Authority to themselves. Witness that evident place, Gal. 1.8, 9. Though me or an Angel from heaven preach any other Gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accurfed. And as I said before, so say I now again, If any man (be what he will, the Pope or a Council, or any company of men, for ubi lex non distinguit, non est distinguendum, God makes no difference or exception here, neither must we) preach any other Gospel unto you than that you have received, let him be accursed. And do you not think this would be another Gospel if any man should say, that vices were vertues, and fins duties, and consequently that unbelief and impenitency were Gospel-duties, would not this be another Gospel? and you see they allow this Authority to the Pope. If the Pope teach so, you are bound to believe so; but this was not Saint Pauls mind, Though we or an Angel from Heaven preach any other Gospel, do not only disbelieve him, but curse him to his face; it may be he will curse you, and pronounce an Anathema against you, and roar with his Bulls against you; but regard not that, the curse causless shall not come, Prov. 26.2. but the curse shall rest upon himself.

Arg. 2. Such an Authority as they pretend to, is contrary to that command of the trial of Doctrines, which is laid upon all Christians; for if there be an infallible Judg to whom I ought to submit my Faith and Conscience in all matters of Religion, what need I try Doctrins? certainly there is no room left for it; and therefore the Papists laying down that Assertion, they do with very good sense collect this Conclusion from it. That you owe an implicite Faith to all their Doctrins, and blind obedience to all their commands; it is Bellarmines Assertion, A Christian, saith he, sould receive all the Doctrins of the Church without any examination. Now let us see whether this be the mind of God or no; if it be, than they are in the right; if not, than it is an abemina-

ble Usurpation. If we consult the holy Scriptures, we shall find that no Christian is to offer to God a blind sacrifice, but a reasonable service. 1 Pet. 3. 15. Be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you. It is not the Colliers reason will serve the turn, nor the Colliers Faith, to believe he knows not why; this is not to give a reason of our hope, 1. Joh. 4. 1. Feloved, believe not every Spirit. (that is every teacher that pretends to be led by the spirit) but try the Spirits whether they are of God, because many false Prophets are gone out into the world. God hath given us sufficient warning, that there should be a great and a general defection amongst Professors, yea amongst the Preachers of the Gospel, 1 Tim. 4. 1. Now the Spirit Speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to se. ducing Spirits, and Doctrines of Devils. Act. 20. 30. Also of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things to draw away Disciples after them, &c. 2 Pet. 2. 1, 2. But there were false Prophets also amongst the people, even as there shall be false Teachers among you, who privily shall bring in dimnable herefies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and many shall follow their pernicious mays. Well now, what is the remedy against this doleful disease? be not surprized when you see various and contrary opinions in the Church; it is no more than was foretold by all the Apostles. But now what shall Christians do in this distressed condition and contradiction of opinions? what was the remedy prescribed in case of false Prophets of old? and what is the remedy in case of false Teachers now? Why it is trial. Christians are commanded to try them. There were two ways proposed to try the Prophets of old; the one was by the event. Deut. 18.21, 22. And if thou fay in thine heart, how shall me know the word which the Lord hath not Spoken, when the Prophet Speaketh in the name of the Lord, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord bath not Spoken; but the Prophet bath spoken it presumptionsly, thou shalt not be afraid of him. And the other way of trial was by the Scripture, Ifa. 8. 20. To the Law and to the Testimony, if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them; and Ver. 16. Bind up the Testimony, Seal the Law a none my Disciples. And Verf. 18, 19. Behold I and the Children whom the Lord bath given me are for signs and for wonders in Israel, and when they shall say unto you, seek unto them that have familiar spirits, and unto wizards, that peep, and that mutter, shall not a people seek unto their God? for the living to the dead? The way to discover these delusions is to enquire, and that is by the Law and by the Testimony, and this the people were obliged to. And so this is the remedy prescribed in the New Testament; I need instance but in that place, 1 Thes. 5.21. Prove all things, hold fult that which is good. Prove all things, who is this that is required to do it? it may be it is the Pope, it may be it is a general Council, and they indeed must prove all things; no, read the first verse of the first Chapter, Paul and Sylvanus, and Timothem unto the Church of the Thessalonians in God our Father; the Members of the Church, these are here commanded to prove all things, and hold fast that which is good. The same persons are obliged to prove all things, who are obliged to hold fust that which is good: and since it is confessed the latter clause belongs to the people, so must the sormer also. Consider three things. (1.) Christians have Ability to try things with. (2.) They have a Rule to try things by. And (3.) They have a Promise of discovery; and I think more is not necessary.

First. Christians have Ability to try things with, they have reasonable faculties, they are capable of judging between things that differ; the Apostle speaks to the Church of the Corinthians; I Cor. 10. 15. Ispeak as to wise men, judg ye what I say. Christians, as well as Minithers, have the Spirit of God which enables them to judg of spiritual things. 2 Cor. 2. 15. He that is spiritual (that is, he that hath the Spirit of God) judgeth all things. He is capable of judging between Doctrine and Doctrine, between Precept and Precept, between Fra-Clice and Practice; and upon the warrant of this Text, and many others, I dare athrm, that a serious, godly, discreet Christian, is a more competent judge of many divine Truths, than the greatest Scholar in the World, that wants the direction of the Spirit of God; add to this what our Saviour faith, John 10.4, 5. and remember he speaks not of the Shepherds, but of the Sheep; my sheep hear my voice, and they follow me; a stranger they will not follow, but will fly from him: for they know not the voice of strangers. You see the Sheep are indued by God with faculties, they can distinguish between Christ and a Stranger, between Christ and Anti-christ.

Secondly, Christians have a certain Rule to try things by, and that is the holy Scriptures, to which Christ commanded the Jews to bring all his doctrines, Joh. 5. 39. Search the Scriptures. Acts 17. 11. Thefe were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the Scriptures dayly whether those things were so. 2 Per. 1. 19. We have also a more sure word of Prophesy (the Prophecies of the Old Testament compared with the events and doctrines of the New) whereunto you do well that you take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place. Pray observe, 1. Who writes this, it is Peter, he from whom the Pope claims all the power he hath, and yet Peter saith, you do well to take heed to the Scriptures. I know the Popes are grown wifer fince, they have corrected Peter; they fay, People do ill to take heed to the Scriptures; they fay, it is the fountain of all herefie, for people to study the Scripture: our Saviour said it was the sountain of all error that men did not understand the Scriptures; You err, because you know not the Scriptures. Matt. 22: 29: The Pope faith, Men err because they will know and read the Seriptures. 2. To whom he writes this, look upon the endorsement of his Epistle: Peradventure he writes thus to his Successors; No, but tothem that have obtained like precious faith with us, v. 1. of this chapter.

Thirdly, Christians have a premise of discovery upon Trial; 2 Prov. 4.5. If thou seekest her (that is wisdom) as silver, and searchest for her as for hid treasures, then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord, and find the knowledg of God; Joh. 7. 17. If any man will do his will he shall know of the doctrine whether it he of God, or whether I speak of my self.

Arg. 3. Against the Supremacy and the infallible Authority of the Pope is taken from the danger of following falle guides. People may fin in following their guides and teachers; this the Papists deny; they fay that People are obliged to believe their Teachers, and if they do fo, they are free from fin and danger; and if their Doctrine be true, it must needs be so. This is that I must now briefly examine, as that which alone will decide the whole controverly; when Aaron taught the people to worship the golden calf, and proclaim'd, to morrow is a feast unto the Lord, Exod. 32.5. Did the people fin in obeying Aarons do ctrine, and complying with his precepts, or did they not? I think nothing is more plain, than that they did fin in it: vers. 31. And Moses returned unto the Lord, and said, Oh! this people hath sinned a great sin. Not only Aaron sinned in teaching this doctrine, but the people sinned in believing this doctrine: and in Vers. 35. And the Lord plagued the people because they made the calfe which Aaron made, or, as the words may very well be interpreted, because they worshipped the calfe, or sacrificed to the calfe, which Aaron made.

So you see plainly, the people sinned, and were plagued because they followed the Doctrine of Aaron: and so in Isa. 2. 12. O my people, they which lead thee, cause thee to err, by their corrupt doctrines and finful practices; and yet this did not at all excuse them: for Isa. 24. 1, 2, 3. Behold, the Lord maketh the earth (that is, the Land) empty, and maketh it wast, and turneth it upside down, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof; and it shall be; as with the people, so with the priest, as with the servant so with his master, as with the leader so with the follower: The Priest shall be punished forely for misguiding the people, and the people shall be purished for following them. come lower, to the Priests and Rulers of the Church in our blessed Saviours time; the chief Priest and the great Council at Ferusalem then were, as the Papists confess, the supreme and infallible Judges of all the matters of Religion, as the Pope at least with a general Council pretends to be at this day. These infallible Judges, are called blind guides, Matt. 23. 16. Woe unto you blind guides; they were universally enemies to Christ; John 7. 48. Have any of the Rulers or of the Pharisees believed on him? They accounted Christ an impostor; Matt. 27. 63. The very words of their great Council are these, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive; after three days I will rise rife again; these were the men that stiered up the people against Christ. Matt. 27, 20. But the chief Priests and Elders perswaded the multitude that t'vey should ask Barrabas, and destroy Fesus. You see nothing is more plain; no adversary can be so impudent as to deny this, that the high Priests and the great Council of the Jews did unanimously agree in preaching this Doctrine, that Christ was a deceiver. Now the question is, whether the people did well in believing this Doctrine, or not. Certainly if the Popish Doctrine be true, the people did well in following the high Priests direction, and so the Papists affirm; they are the words of Becanus, in his Manual of Controversies, The whole people of the Tews, in the matters of Religion were bound to follow what the high Priest said, and the greatest of their Divines, even Bellarmine expresly says, that the people were bound to stand to the high Priests judgment; what soever sentence be should deliver. Now we say, they did sin in believing their Teachers; let us both hear what Christ says, and no more need be faid against this abominable Affertion, nor for the deciding of this question, and establishing you against this Doctrine. What can be more plain than that passage of our Saviours, Matt. 15. 14? Let them alone, they be blind leaders of the blind, and if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch. You see, he that follows a blind leader is punished as well as he that leads him, both fall into the Ditch. And Acis 3. 17. When the Apostle was Preaching to the Jews, I mot, says he, that through ignorance you did it, (that is, you crucified Christ) as did also your rulers. Ignorance it was in the Priests, and ignorance it was in the people; and the people, say the Papists, are excusable, because they were bound to follow the Priests; but did this make it no fin in the people? Let us hear what Saint Peter says, Acis 2. 23. Him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledg of God you have taken, and by wicked hands bave crucified and slain: Neither Gods decree, nor the high Priests misguidance did at all excuse them from that wicked act; and as they faid, His blood be upon us and our children, so we see that sad Curse is upon them to this day; Wrath is come upon them to the uttermost, as the Apostle says, I Thes. 2. 16. And if we search this matter a little further, it will more evidently appear, and indeed afford another undeniable Argument to confirm this Truth. Here were two contrary Authorities, God and Christ in his name on the one side, and the Authority of the Church on the other side. Christ commands the Jews to believe in him, John 6.29. when they asked him, What shall we do that we may work the works of God? What does God require of us? Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that you believe on him whom be bath sent: and the great Doctrine, you know, Preached by Christ, was, Repent and believe the Gospel; and Christ tells them, Joh. 3.36. He that believeth on the Son bath everlasting life, and he that believeth not the Son, shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him. And the Arguments our Savjour brings to prove himhimself to be the Melsias, and to oblige them to believe, they are principally two. The first is the works he did, Joh. 5.36. The works that I do bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. And the second is the Scriptures, vers. 39. of that Chapter, Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testifie of me; and in vers. 46. Had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me, for be wrote of me; this for the one side. On the other side stands the Authority of the Church, the Supream and Infallible Judg of Controversies, as the Papists say these were; The chief Priests and Elders, and all the Council, sought false witness against Jesiu, to put him to death, Mat. 26.59. and vers. 65. the high Priest pronounceth, he hath spoken blasphemy, what further need have we of witnesses, behold now you have heard his blasphemy, what think ye? and the rest consent to his sentence; vers. 66. and they answered and said, he is guilty of death. And the Jews had agreed already that if any man did consist that he was Christ, he should be put out of the

Now then the question lies here, whether the Fews were obliged to believe Christ in this case, or whether they were obliged to believe the High Priest and Sanhedrim, and the Church of the Fews. And methinks the very mentioning of it should presently determine it in all your thoughts; it is so prodigious a thing that the Church should fet up it felf in opposition to Christ, that no man can hear it without tingling ears. Saint Peter hath decided it, Act. 5. 29. Then Peter and the other Apostles answered and said, we ought to obey God rather than man; we ought to believe God rather than man. Can any man that hath the understanding of a man in him, or the Conscience of a Christian, think that the people of the Jews, that the Disciples and Apostles of our Lord did fin in believing in him, because it was contrary to the command of the High Priest and Church of the Fews? Can any man think their Unbelief was their duty? or that the Authority of the Church could make void the command of God? or that the Fews did but their duty in believing Christ to be a deceiver! These are stupendious and prodigious affertions; and yet all these and many more must be digested, or else they must part with their fundamental Doctrine. And just as the case of the Tems was then, so is our case now; for example, God clearly and plainly commands me, as plainly as words can express it, Exad. 20.4, 5. Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven Image, or any likeness of any thing that is in Heaven above, or that is in the Earth beneath, or that is in the water under the Earth, thou shalt not bow down thy self to them, nor serve them. And Mat. 4. 10. says our Saviour, It is written, thou halt worthip the Lord thy God, and him only thalt thou ferve. The Church of Rome comes and teaches us a quite contrary doctrine; they fay, thou shalt worship graven Images, and Saints, and Angels, and not God only; the question is, which of these two we must believe, and whose command we ought to obey? whether the Children must obey God

God their Father, or the Church their Mother? whether I must believe the Word of God, which is confest to be so by the Papists themselves, or the word of man, which they vainly pretend to be the Word of God? let the 1 fob. 5.9. determine this Controversie, if me receive the witness of man, the witness of God is greater. The witness of God certainly ought to be preferred before the witness of man; add to this Mat. 15. 6. You have made the commandment of God of none effect by your Traditions. And versign in vain do they worship me, teaching for Doctrines the commandments of men; and tell me what is it to make void the commandments of God by mens Traditions, if this be not?

Arg. 4. and last. Against this Doctrine is from the want of a Divine Appointment and Promise; we must remember the question our Saviour puts, Luk. 12. 14. Man who made me a judg or a divider over you? And that passage, Heb. 5. 4. No man taketh this honour to himself, but he that was called of God as was Aaron. If there be such a Soveraign and Infallible Judg as the Papilts pretend there is, and the Pope be he, this Judg ought in all reason to produce his commission, and shew his letters patents for it. It is confessed on all hands that man is of himself a vain and soolish creature, full of ignorance, apt to error, that loves darkness rather than light; Men of low degree are vanity, and men of high degree are a lye, Pfal. 62. 9. the minds of all men do need renovation, or else they are not capable of discerning Divine things. Now if any man pretend to an exemption from the common infirmities and corruptions of humane nature, this man ought to produce his writ of priviledg, and to shew wherein, and how he hath such an exemption. Certainly if any pretends to be infallibly guided by God in all things, he can claim it only from the grace of God, and by vertue of Gods Promise; but such Promise there is none. I acknowledg the Papists pretend they have such a promise, that I shall next examine. And here are two things to be enquired into: (1) To whom this committed on and promise is given, and this is the foundation of all the rest; for though it should appear, that God had made a Promise of infallible guidance to some person or persons; yet unless it plainly appear to whom that promise is made, no man can lay claim to it, or have any benefit by it.

Now let us enquire to whom this Promise is made; the Papists say, it is made to the Church; but, say I, what do they mean by the Church? say they, it is to the Governours of the Church; but go a little further, and what do they mean by the Governours of the Church? and herein they most horribly break into pieces; this Doctrine they say, as you have heard, is of more importance than any Doctrine whatsoever, and so ought to be proved with the greater evidence, than any other. But when we come to examine it, their evidences are so obscure and inevident that they are not sufficient to convince their own Brethren; It belongs say some of them to the Pope, to the Bishop of Kome; say others, no, it belongs to a General Council, and these opinions are quite contrary one to another; and this difference is not only amongst obscure and private persons, but their greatest Doctors; there is University against University, City against City, Kingdom against Kingdom. So that till they be agreed, to whom this Promise is made, they can make no benefit of the claim, nor are we obliged to follow them.

2. Where this Grant and Promise is? the Papists answer, it is contained in the holy Scriptures; and here they muster up some Promises as they call them, that confer this priviledge either upon the Pope, or a General Council; and this I shall briefly examine. Only in general ob-

- 1. More clear and express Promises than any they pretend to did not secure the Church of God formerly from error, and therefore it is a vain thing for them to expect it now. I will deal so charitably with our adversaries, because they want proofs as to help the infirmity of their cause. We will suppose there were such a text as this, In the Church of Rome shall my name be for ever; sure they would desire no more than this; they would fay, it is plain from hence that the Church of Rome is infallible. But I say, if there were so plain a proof, yet that would not be sufficient to prove it infallible, or to secure the Church from Error, and that I will prove by a plain instance. God speaks concerning the Temple of Jerusalem, 2 Chron. 7. 16. For now I have chosen and sanctified this bouse which thou hast built, to put my name there for ever, and mine eyes, and my heart shall be there perpetually. You see, here is the same Promise which I supposed made to Ferusalem; but how far this was from securing the Church of Fernsalem, the high Priests and his Brethren from Error and Apostacy, doth sufficiently appear from those frequent and grievous complaints of the Prophets, concerning the universal depravation of that Church, and particularly of the Priests of it, from the instances of the gross errors and miscarriages of the High Priests and others; and particularly it is put out of all dispute by that fatal and damnable Error of that Church in the condemnation of Christ.
- 2. Gods Promise of leading them into all truth is suspended upon certain conditions. The Spirit of truth you know is only promised to them that ask him, Luk. 11. 13. How much more shall your heavenly father give the holy Spirit to them that ask him; and it is supposed that they must ask aright; for you ask and receive not, because you ask amiss, Jam. 4.3. and in the place forementioned, Foh.7.17. If any man will do his will, he shall know the Doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of my self; where you see the knowing of the Doctrine of Christ is suspended upon the doing of Gods will. Now then for as much as the Church of Rome hath apparently broken the condition God requires, as no man that reads their own Historians can doubt, no wonder if God according to his commination in that case, make them to know his breach of Promise.

3. The Promises which they pretend to are so dark and obscure that they do not convince many of their own Brethren; therefore it is a ridiculous thing to think they should convince Protestants. For instance, I told you they were horribly divided in that sundamental Doctrine of the Insallible Judg, that some place this Insallibility in the Pope, and others in the Council. Now whereas the Promises they pretend to are of two sorts, some pretend this Insallible Authority to be in the Pope, and some in a General Council. Those that say it is in the Pope, do both slight and dispute against those arguments that are brought to prove it to be in the Council, and on the contrary those that believe the Insallibility to be in the Council, despise and confute those Arguments which are brought for the Insallibility of the Pope. This being premised, I come particularly, but briefly (because I have discussed them essewhere) to the Promises pretended for this usurped Authority. First for the Pope, and then for the Council.

For the Pope they tell us this story, That Saint Peter was made by Christ the Supream and Infallible Judg of all Matters and Controversies of Religion, and that Peters Successors, the Popes and Bishops of Rome are invested with the same Authority and Priviledgiand this they say, is evident from Scripture, and hath been owned by the Church of God in all ages from Christs time till Luthers days: this is the Romish Legend, to which I answer; this Doctrine hath no foundation in Scripture;

the places they alledg for it are principally two.

1. Their first place is Mat. 16. 18. And I say also unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Therefore Peter, and consequently all his Successors the Popes, are the Rock upon which the Church is built; and therefore have the Supream and Infallible Judgment, to whom all persons must submit their Faith and Practice.

Ans. 1. It is plain enough, that it is not Peters Person, but Peters Doctrine which our Saviour doth here speak of. Peter had made a glorious consession, vers. 16. Thou art Christ the Son of the living God; and vers. 17. Jesus answered and said unto him, blessed art thou Simon Barjonas; for slesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in Heaven. And for a further confirmation of this Truth, he adds, I say unto thee, thou art Peter, (he mentions Peters name by way of allusion), and upon this Rock, that is, this Confession made and delivered by thee, I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

2. If it were Peters person, and if he were called a Rock, and a Foundation of the Church, yet all this will not prove him to be infallible, much less his Successors. The proper and primary Foundation of the Church Peter was not; witness that evident place, I Cor. 3. 11. For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Jesus Christ; in a secondary and Ministerial sense Peter was a Foundation, and so were all the rest of the Apostles; 2 Ephes. 2. 20. You are built upon the siundation of the Apostles and Prophets; i.e. upon the Doctrine delivered by the Apostles and Prophets not upon their Persons (for then the Prophets could never have come in for a share), and therefore in like manner (if you will allow Scripture to be its own interpreter) when Peter is called a Rock or Foundation, it is not his Person, but his Doctrine to which that title belongs. Rev. 21. 14. The wall of the City (the new Jerusalem, the Church of God) had twelve foundations, and in them the names of the twelve Apostles of the Lamb. Here is no prerogative of Peter, but all are equally foundations.

3. The Promise of Infallibility doth not belong to Peter, but unto the Church, the gates of bell shall not prevail against it; prevail against what or whom? against the Church; it is not the Rock upon which the Church is built, but the Church which is built upon that Rock, unto which that security is promised; he doth not say, the gates of hell shall not prevail against thee, much less doth he say, the gates of hell shall not prevail against thy Successors to the end of the world; but the gates of hell shall not prevail against the Church. So that though Peter dies, and all his Successors should prove (as a great number of the Popes have done) A postates from the Faith yet still the Church remains built upon the Rock.

4. This Promise is made to the true, invisible and sincere Professors of the Gospel-Church; this is evident from the accomplishment of the Promise. The Promise is, the gates of hell shall not prevail against the Church; and it is manifest the gates of hell did and do prevail against all other persons except the sincere Professors of the Gospel; therefore those persons that are said to be Infallible, and secure against all danger, are only the true and invisible members of the Church.

2. The other place is, Luk. 22.31, 32. And the Lord faid, Simon, Simon, behold Satan bath defired to have you, that be may fift you as wheat; but I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not: therefore, say they, Peter did not err in the Faith, and confequently the Popes, his Successors, cannot err; but alas, what vain and ridiculous Arguments are these? Nothing is more evident, than that this Promise, or Prayer rather of Christ doth not concern any Infallibility in the Doctrine of Faith, but his establishment in the grace of Faith; if you consider Peter was not so much mistaken in his judgment, the opinion of Peter concerning Christ was not changed, it was not so much an error of his mind as an error in his practice. Peter was afraid of suffering, and slavish fear made him speak against his own Conscience, when he said, Iknow not the man; and his miscarriage was in his tongue, not in his judgment; so that it is plain it was the grace of Faith that was there shaken, and not the Doctrine of Faith, and therefore no Infallibility can be pretended from it. And here I might defift, but for more abundant confutation of this abfurd and abominable Doctrine, I shall shew that as they cannot prove it from from Scripture, we can disprove it from Scripture. I hope I shall make it plain from Scripture, that the Doctrine of Peters Infallibility and Supream Authority in the Church of God was not received after Christs death; for this I shall offer two Arguments.

1. That Peter no where challengeth this power.

2. The Apostles no where give it him; therefore it is an intolerable arrogance that his Successors should claim it.

1. Peter did not challenge it. It is observable, that in the Gospel of Mark, which the learned believe was indited by Peters direction, there is not so much as a repetition of that famous Text, Thou art Peter, and on this rock I will build my Church. Peter durst not have omitted it, if it had been so sundamental a Doctrine as the Papists would have it. And afterward Peter writes two Epissles, and there is not one syllable in either of them concerning this Authority; but some may possibly say, this was Peters modesty, that he would not take it to himself. But certainly Peter durst not exercise his modesty to the impeachment of his. fidelity, and the concealment of so necessary and important a Truth; but he would and ought to have done as Paul did, who when his Authority was opposed by false Teachers, he afferts and vindicates, and (as himself expresseth it) magnifieth his office, Rom. 11. 13. and so no doubt Peter would and should have done had he really had that Supream Power which the Papists for their own sakes would fasten upon him; and because he did not, it is a great presumption he had it not.

2. The other Apostles no where give this honour to Peter, but rather by their practices shew themselves to be of a contrary opinion; which I think will be sufficiently evident to all sober discreet and disinteressed persons from two places of Scriptures, which methinks might suffice for the determination of this Controversie.

The one is, Act. 15. where I must first remind you that at this time our bleffed Saviour was dead, and Saint Peter by the Doctrine of the Papists, was supposed to be in the actual exercise of his Headship over the Church, to be the Supream and Infallible Judg of all Controversies; and if they fay true, he was believed and known to be so by all the rest of the Apostles, and all the Christians of that age; whether it were so or no we shall see by this Chapter. A controversie ariseth in the Church; well, what do they do for the resolution of it? Ad. 15. 1,2. They go 11p. to Jerusalem to the Apostles and Elders about this question. Why did they not go to Peter if he were the Infallible Judg? it was a vain and frivolous thing to call them all together, if Peter alone might determine it. But it may be these were the Christians at Antioch, and they did not well understand Peters Supremacy and Infallibility, but the Church of Ferusalem understood it better; well, let us examine that too, in vers. 6. the Apostles and Elders came together to consider of this matter; Saint Peter. was no more consulted with than the rest: in the 7. vers. Peter spake in the Assembly, and delivers his opinion, vers. 10. Now therefore, why

tempt ye God to put a yoke upon the neck of the Disciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear? the yoke of the Ceremonial Law is wholly to be taken off from the necks of Christians, and no burden should be laid upon them. After him James comes and delivers another opinion, different from Peters, vers. 19,20. My sentence is that me tronble not them which from among the Gentiles are turned to God, but that me write unto them, that they abstain from pollutions of Idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood; as if he had said I am not altogether of Peters mind, I would not have all these things wholly and on a sudden discharged. It is but meet that some respect and tenderness should be shewn to the believing fews, and that we should become all things to all men that we may fave some; and therefore it is fit we should a little comply with the Fews, not to impose Circumcision. but to abstain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood. And the manner of his expression here is very observable; My sentence is, Did igo ngiro, Wherefore I thus determine and conclude. He doth not say, according to the present stile of the Romanists, and as he ought to have done, if their Doctrine were true, I do in all humility present my opinion to the Vicar of Christ, the Prince of the Apostles, the Supream and Infallible Judg of this and all other Controversies, to whom I freely and fully submit my thoughts and judgment; but barely relates part of Peters discourse, and then concludes with a kind of definitive sentence. And which is further considerable, this great Council prefers James his opinion before. Peters, and the Decree runs in James his words, vers. 2.9. That ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication, from which if ye keep your selves, ye shall do well. Can any man in his right senses imagine that things would have been thus managed if Peter had been the Supream and Infallible Judg of all Controversies? Yet further the Decree runs not in Peters name as now it doth in the Popes name, but in all their names; Vers. 23. The Apostles and Elders, and Brethren, send greeting unto the Bretbren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch, and Syria, and Cilicia; and vers. 28. it seemed good to the holy Ghost, and to us, to lay mpon you no greater burthen than these necessary things; and Act. 16. 4. They delivered them the Decrees for to keep that were ordained by the Apostles and Elders that were at Jerusalem. It is ridiculous and incredible to think that there should not in all this story be one word of Peters preheminence, if he were at that time what they vainly pretend him to be, the Supream Head of the whole Church, and the Infallible Judg of all Controversies.

Another place of Scripture no less evident is the second Chapter of Saint Pauls Epissle to the Galatians, where there are divers remarkable passages; vers. 7. The Gospel of the Uncircumcision was committed to me (saith St. Paul) as the Gospel of the Circumcision was committed to Peter. How? what strange news is this? I thought all the Gospel of Christ, whether whether Circumcifion or Uncircumcifion had been committed to Peter, and not any to Paul, but in subordination to Peter, so says the Pope, fo fay the Papists at this day: Circumcision and Uncircumcision, Jews and Gentiles, all committed to Peter; this is a new discovery! Saint Paul though rapt up into the Third Heaven, he knew nothing of this: Peradventure whilest he was in Heaven, the decree for Peters Supremacy and Infallibility was enacted upon earth, and so he lost the knowledg of that Mystery. Howsoever he found nothing of it in Heaven, and we can find nothing of it upon Earth, and therefore it must needs come from a third place, and what that is, I leave to you to judg. He adds furthe- vers. 9. When James, Cephas, and John, who seemed to be pillars (he ipeaks of them all alike, all Rocks and Pillars) perceived the grace which was given unto me, they gave to me and Barnabas the right hand of fellowship; and verf. 11. When Peter came to Antisch, I with tood him to the face, because he was to be blamed. What? the Infallible Judg to be blamed? this is nonsence: the Infallible Judg to seduce and mislead them that followed him? This he did, fays Saint Paul; And therefore it is a very nonfenfical opinion to think that at this time he owned Peter to be the Supream and Infallible Judg of all Controversies. Observe further, how sleightly he speaks of all the Apossles, and that promiscuously, without any reservation for Peter, vers. 6. Those who feemed to be somewhat, whatsoever they were it maketh no metter to me (God accepteth no mans person) for they, who seemed to be somewhat in conference added nothing to me: Peter is no more to me than another man, nor than Fames, nor Fobn, and all the Apost'es. I received the Gospel immediately from Christ, and He that prought effectually in Peter to the Apoliteship of the Cirumcision, the same wis mighty in me towards the Gentiles, vers. 8. Can any man living think, that confiders what he believes, that the Apostle would have spoke thus, and that all the Apostles would have dealt thus, if they had known and believed, that Peter had been at this instant the Supream Infallible Judg, to whom all were obliged to fubmit. But further, if all that is faid concerning Peter had been true, and if the alledged Promiles did indeed belong to Peter, and did make him an Infallible Judg of all Controversies; yet what is this to the Pope, who is a person of a quite different character? Which that you may understand a little, I shall in brief present to you the quality of those persons, who they fay, are Infallible Judges of all Controversies. I shall not mention a word out of any Protestant Author, but out of their own writings. The Popes Library keeper, Platina, confesseth concerning divers of the Popes, as is notorious, that they were, bominum portents, monsters of men; and elsewhere he consesseth, that there were Eighteen Popes sucrefluely, one after another that were Magicians, and in covenant with the Devil. Can any man living think that such persons were infallibly guided by the Spirit of God that had made a league with the Devil? and and Genebrard, a violent and virulent Papist, confesseth that the Popes for a bundred and fifty years together after the Apostles were Apostates, not Apostolical; and our country-man Stapleton, an eminent man amonost the Papists, saith, I must acknowledg, I think there were scarce any fins except that of Herely, of which the Popes and Bishops of Rome were not guilty. And it is notoriously known that many of them were Adulterers, and many of them Sodomites, and many of them bloody and cruel men, and guilty of all forts of Wickedness. I need say no more but shall leave it to you to judg how incredible a thing it is, that perfons of fuch a character as this, should be the Supreme and Infallible Judges of all Controversies. How can it be imagined, that such a perfon should be the foundation of the Church, that is not so much as a true member of the Church? Or how can that Promise; The gates of bell shall not prevail against thee, belong to that man that hath made a covenant with Hell it felf, or that is a bondslave of the Devil? How can any infamous wicked wretch make claim to those Promises which Christ made to the holy and bleffed Apostles? How can it be imagined that that mans Faith is secured, all whose other Graces are ruined and come to nothing? You shall find that Faith and a good Conscience go together; I Tim. 1. 19. Holding faith and a good conscience, which some having put away, concerning faith have make shipwrack. How can any mans Faith live, when all his other Graces are confessed to be dead? And you know what Saint Fames faith, Chap. 2. vers. 20. Faith without works is dead. How can that man pretend to be infallibly guided by the Spirit of God, that hath not the Spirit of God in him? It is expressly said of such sensual and brutish men, as many of the Popes are acknowledged to have been, that they have not the Spirit of God. We have it under the hand of one of the Apostles, Jude vers. 19. Senfual, not having the spirit. Which also appears (and it is very remarkable that it doth fo) from that very Text which they bring to prove the Infallibility of Councils; John 14. 16, 17. I will pray the father, and he shall give you another comforter, that he may abide with you for ever, even the spirit of truth whom the world (that is, as is evident, the wicked men of the World) cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: the World hath not the Spirit of God, because they have not feen nor known God. Now, who those men are that have not seen nor known God, you may learn from another place; I John 3. 6. Woosoever abideth in him, that is, in God, or in Christ, sinneth not, whosoever sinneth bath not seen him, neither known him; that is, whosoever doth sell himself to sin, whosoever alloweth himself in the customary practice of sin, for of such only that phrase is meant, otherwise the same Apostle says, If we say we have no sin, we deceive our selves, and the truth is not in us, and There is not a just man on earth that doth good and sinneth not, Eccles. 7. 20. But the meaning is, he that lives in a constant course of sin, this man hath not seen God, nor known known him, and therefore hath not the Spirit of God; and therefore away with that impudent Doctrine that pretends the infallible Guidance of the Spirit, to him that hath not so much as the common Graces of the Spirit of God.

By this time I hope it sufficiently appeareth that the Doctrine of the Popes Supreme and Infallible Authority hath no foundation in Scripture; I should now proceed to shew that this Doctrine was not owned by the Ancient Church succeeding the Apostles: But because this would of it self require a large discourse, and hath been abundantly demonstrated by others, and I have elsewhere spoken something to it, I shall at present wholly sorbear it. I thought to shew you that as it was not owned by the Scripture, so neither was it owned by the first and purest Churches.

For the fecond Particular, the Supremacy and Infallibility of Councils, separate from the Pope, it is so little owned by our English Papists, that I shall not need to spend many words about it. The places of Scripture which they alledg for it, are principally these three.

The first, Matt. 18. 20. Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. A most ridiculous proof! for all that this Text proves, is the special and gracious Presence of Christ: Christs gracious Presence is one thing, infallible Guidance is another thing; if that Presence of Christs makes all those infallible which have it, it is not only the Pope, or a General Council, but all Councils, and all assemblies of Christians are Infallible. Further this Promise is suspended upon that condition of being gathered together in Christs name, that is, by Christs command and commission, seeking his honour and glory, being guided by his Rule, and acting according to his Will; all which is included in that phrase of being gathered in Christs name: It is true he that doth all this is Infallible, but the question is, whether they do this; nay, it is abundantly evident they do it not.

Another place is, John 16.13. When the spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth. To that I shall need only to say this, that this Promise is made to the Apostles alone, and it is made to every Apostle. Pray observe it, it was not only made to Peter, but to all the Apostles, and to every Apostle: whereas one Apostle went one way, and another another way, one preached to the Jews, another to the Gentiles, God did promise that he would direct all these in Preaching the Doctrine of the Gospel, that they should be led into all necessary truths, and this was necessary to be done in laying the soundation of the Christian Church: But what is this to the Pope or General Council? He doth not say, that the Apostles shall be Insallible only when they are gathered together, but every one asunder: otherwise all those Churches which were converted by the Preaching of any single Apostle (which was the case of most Churches in the World) had no certain and infallible foundation for their Faith. And confequently, if this Priviledg be extended to the Successors of the Apostles, then not only the Pope is Infallible, but all and every other Successor of any one of the Apostles is Infallible; so that either it proves the Infallibility of divers particular persons, or else it doth not prove the Infallibility of Councils. Another place is, Act. 15.28. For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay no other burthen upon you. A most impertinent Allegation; this is only a Declaration of the present case, and no Promile for the future. It is true, he fays, this Council was guided by the Holy Ghost, and so they were, but does not say all other Councils shall. It is notoriously known that many Councils there were that were Arrians, and others that were Erroneous in other points; and the Papills themselves confess that many Councils have Erred, especially those Councils that have undertaken to censure and condemn the Popes, and to set up their own Authority above them. These, they say, were not led by the Holy Ghost, but (as they say expressly of the samous Council of Carthage for that very reason) acted by the instigation of the Devil. So that it feems all General Councils are not Infallible, but such as they please, or such as please them; the rest must seek their fortunes, and shift for themselves. As for this Council, Ad. 15. it is confessed they were Infallible. But doth it therefore follow, that because this Council all the Members whereof were holy men, and divers of them holy Apostles. (every one of which was Infallible) were Infallibly guided by the Holy Ghost in this Controversie, that therefore a General Council, consisting fometimes (for ought appears to the contrary) wholly of wicked men without the Spirit of God, should be Infallibly guided in all Controverlies? There is no man of common sense but sees an evident disparity in the case.

I know there is one thing they further pretend, that though it be true, the Pope is not Infallible of himself, nor the Council alone, yet both together are Infallible; The Decrees of the Pope confirmed by a General Council are Infallible. Two things only I shall say to this.

1. This is but a shuffling evasion against their own Consciences, because it is notoriously known, and the Popish Doctors unanimously confess it, that this supposed Infallibility is lodged either in the Pope, or in the Council; They will not allow of a mixt Infallibility, that the Pope should constitute one part, and the Council another. Bellarmine says, that Infallibility dies not lye partly in the Pope, and partly in the Council, but it is wholly in the Pope, and in the Council, so far and no further than they cleave to the Pope; and says another, Stapl. The Council adds no Infallibility to the Pope; it is he alone that is Infallible. And on the other side, those that place the Infallibility in the Council do as expressly affirm, It is not partly in the Pope, and partly in the Council, but wholly in the Council, and in the Pope no further than he sticks to the Council. Which having sully proved elsewhere out of their own Authors, I shall here omit. By which

which it is evident enough, that this is only an artifice to deceive the ignorant and injudicious people, but is not satisfactory to their own Consciences.

- 2. If this were true, it would do them no good, because it doth not reach the present state of the Church; for at this time there is no General Council in the Church; the Pope is now the only Head of the Church amongst them; so that either the Pope alone is the Infallible Judg, or there is none at this day. If it be said, they have besides the Popes Authority, the Decrees and Writings of the Councils, that will do them no good; for they all say, there is a necessity of a living Infallible Judg, and they say of the Scripture, that it is but a dead letter, and that no Writings can determine Controversies: so that there being now no Head of the Church beside the Pope, either he is Infallible or there is none such in their Church at this day; and therefore I may conclude, that no particular person or company of men now is, or can be, the Supream Judg of the Church, to whom all Christians are bound to submit their Faith and Consciences. I shall conclude all with two practical Inferences.
- 1. Learn from hence what infinite cause you have to bless God that hath delivered and preserved you from Popery, and what need you have centinually to pray, and to use all lawful endeavours that this Ironyoke may never be put upon you. The Popish teachers do by their people, as the Philistims did by Sampson, put out their eyes, and make them grind in their mill. Papilts mult fee by their Teachers eyes, and are obliged to believe whatever they teach them. I have been informed by an English Merchant, sometimes residing in Spain, that being in some Conference concerning Religion, with a Spaniard of note there and his intimate Acquaintance, he used these Expressions with Tears in his Eyes; "You People of England are happy, you have liberty to fee "with your own eyes, and to examine the Doctrine delivered to you, "upon which your everlatting life depends; but fays he, We dare not " say, our Souls are our own, but we are bound to believe whatever our "Teachers tell us, though it be never so unreasonable or ridiculous. It is . doubtless a dreadful thing for a man to see the Inquisition on the one hand, and damnation on the other hand. Therefore let us bless God that hitherto hath delivered us, and hath prevented in some good meafure the hopes and expectations of Papists. Understand I beseech you, and consider your Priviledg; We Ministers do not impose upon you, and tell you, you must believe all we say, though it would be for our interest to do so; but we say with the Apossle, We speak unto wife men, judg ye what we say; We commend you as St. Paul did the Bereaus; Ad. 17. for searching the Scriptures, whether these Doctrines we teach be true or no. It is a great evidence of the truth of the Frotestant Doctrine, that it is not afraid of the Light, it desires nothing more than to be tried; and it is no less an evidence of the falshood of Popery, that they they dread nothing more than the Light. You know what our Saviour fays, Joh. 3. 20, 21. Every one that doth evil bateth the light, neither cometh to the light, left his deeds should be reproved, but he that doth truth cometh to the light that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God. God hath given you Talents, we command you to use your Talents, they command you to wrap them in a napkin. God hath given you light, The Spirit of a man is the Candle of the Lord; we command you to see by that Light, they command you to hide it under a bushel. Pity blind Papists, pray for them, and rejoyce in the goodness of God towards you, and see what cause you have to be fervent in prayer, that God may never suffer Popery to recover its standing in these Kingdoms.

2. For as much as there is no person upon Earth that can infallibly guide you to Salvation, it concerns you to have the greater care of your own Salvation. You will say what shall we do? I shall only give you these three Directions, and so conclude. Do but these three things, and you need not be troubled that you have no Infallible Judg to secure you in your way.

1. Study the holy Scriptures, let the Pope forbid you to do it, it is no matter, it is sufficient for us, that Christ commands you to do it, Fob. 5.39. Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life; ye think, and ye think right, you must not take that for a term of diminution; no more than when the Apostle saith, I think I have the spirit of God, I Cor. 7. But the meaning is, you judg, and you judg aright in it; Job. 20. 31. Thefe things are written that you might believe, that Fesis is the Christ the Son of God, and that believing ye might have life through his name. The Word is written, and bleffed be God you have it before your eyes, it is not hid nor locked up from you, as amongst the miserable Papists; but the Book is open, and you may read it, and may by Gods bleffing upon your own industry and the use of those helps which his gracious Providence affords you, in competent meafure understand it. I shall only mention that one place, and methinks the very reading of it should put this dispute quite out of doors, 2 Tim. 3. 14. Oc. But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned, and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them, and that from a child thou hast known the holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wife unto Salvation, through Faith which is in Christ Fesus.

2. Pray fervently for the Guidance of Gods Spirit; and for your encouragement know that God hath not left you without Promiles, & those much more clear than those which the Papists produce for their Diana of Infallibility. In general this, Job. 16.23. Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you. And lest any should think this. Promise is confined to the Apostles, our Saviour adds, Job. 17.20, 21. Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word. That they all may be one, &c. Another clear and comfortable Promise to this purpose you have Luk. 11.13. If ye then being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your Children, how much more shall your Heavenly Father give the holy Spirit to those that ask him? Whence I may venture to draw this Conclusion. That an holy and humble Chriflian fincerely asking the conduct of the holy Spirit, hath better affurance of his Infallible Guidance in all Truths necessary to Salvation, than an ungodly Pope that either doth not ask it, or asks amis, seeing fuch a person hath no interest in Christ, in whom alone all the Promises are Yea and Amen, 2 Cor. 1.20. And therefore let no Christian perplex himself with such anxious thoughts as these, What shall I do under the various and contradictory Opinions that are amongst us? I want wisdom to discern. St. James tells you what you should do, Jam. 1.5. If any man lack wildom, let him ask of God, who gives to all men (mark that) liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him. And therefore in this case beg Counsel from God. There is not the weakest, nor the most ignorant creature amongst you, but if you faithfully and diligently seek direction from God, you may confidently expect it. Pray to God as David did, Pfal. 25.5. Lead me in thy Truth, and teach me; for thou art the God of my Salvation, on thee do I wait all the day. And Pfal. 43. 3. Oh fend out thy Light and thy Truth, let them lead me, and bring me unto thy holy hill. And as David did beg this of God, so he promiseth it to himself, and fo may every fincere Christian, Pfal. 73. 24. Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel, and afterwards receive me to glory. God is the same God still, and as able and as willing to direct you as ever he was, and as faithful in keeping his Promise as ever, as ready to hear as you are willing to ask. You have it under Gods hand, Luk. 11.10. Ask and you hall receive, seek and you shall find, knock and it shall be opened to you. What need more be faid to encourage the Faith and the Hope of all that fear. God ?

3. If you would discern and hold fast the Truth, love and practise it. The best way to be certainly guided into the way of Truth, is to live up to it. Of this we have evident affurance in that forementioned place, Fob. 7. 17. If any man will do his will, he shall know of the Doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of my self. Certainly a good Conscience is the best preservative of a mans Faith; and therefore when once men put away a good Conscience, the next news is, they make shipwrack of their Faith, 1 Tim. 1.19. Holding faith and a good conscience, which some having put away, concerning faith have made shipwrack: an eminent instance you have, 2 Thes. 2. 10, 11, 12. Because they received not the love of the truth that they might be faved, for this cause God shall send them strong delusions, that they should believe a lie, that they all might be damned who believed not the Truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness. A Text that needs no other Comment but the Examples of this Generation. Papists brag much of the many Proselytes they have gained amongst us. For my part I am not at all surprized with it. When I confider such Texts as this and the righteous and tremendous Judgments of God, I rather wonder they do not flow in to them in far greater numbers. Nor can I believe that any wise man will think they have any great cause of triumph in their Proselytes, if he will but make a little enquiry, and get a true Character of the generality of them. He that knows their Morals will never wonder at the change of their Religion. It is no strange thing if a dissolute Protestant turn a zealous Papist; or if the righteous God shake those out of his lap, and out of the Protestant Church who were but rotten members of it.

I conclude all with that excellent advice, 2 Pet. 3. 17, 18. Ye therefore, beloved seeing ye know these things before, beware lest ye also being led away by the error of the wicked, fall from your own stedfastness, but grow in Grace, and in the knowledg of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

CHRIST

SERMON II.

CHRIST, and not the POPE, Universal Head of the Church.

I Cor. 12. 27, 28. Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular.

And God hath set some in the Church, first Apostles, &c.

Il R appointed Work at this time is to determine, Whether there be such a Church of Christs Institution, as consisteth of all Christians United or Subjected to any one meer humane Head, Personal or Collective? Or, Whether there be any Universal Head or Governour of the whole Church on Earth, besides, and under fesus Christ? Which I deny. And when I have fully opened the question, I shall prove the Negative both from this Text, and several other Texts and Arguments.

Of all the Controversies between us and the Papists, this is the first and greatest: We first deny that there is any such Head: And secondly,

That the Pope is such a Head.

The Papists, as knowing the impossibility of finding any fair pretence of ascribing the Internal acts of Christs Office to the Pope, are forced to distinguish, a Mediatorial Head of vital influx to the Church-Regenerate, from a Political Governing Head of the Church-visible (or Congregate). And they confess that Christ only is the first; but say, that under Christ, the Pope is, as his Vicegerent, the second: But we maintain the Negative as to both: And if there be no such Head, there is no Church that is so Headed. Two things in this word are meant in our denial. First, There is no such Constitutive Head, who is to the Universal Church a Constitutive, Essential part; as is a King in a Kingdom, a Master in a Family, and the Pars Imperans, in every Political Society. Secondly, There is no such Governing Head, having Power and Obligation to make Universal Laws, and to Judg and Execute Universally.

There are three ways of Divine Institution which we here exclude. First, God hath instituted no such Head or Church by the Law of Nature. Secondly, Nor by Christ himself, immediately determining it in his humane Nature on earth. Thirdly, Nor by the Revelation or determination of his Spirit in his Apostles or any other Authorized and Infall.ble Inspired persons: And besides these three, we know no other fort of Institution of God, to come into question.

Our question medleth not with the Heads or Governours of Kingdoms, nor of particular Churches; but only of the Universal Church.

Arg. 1. From Nature, common Reason and Experience, a non posse, ad non esse: No mortal man, or Collective body of men, is capable of being a Constitutive and Governing-Head of all the Church on Earth: Therefore there is no such Head.

First, No single person is capable of it. To prove which, consider but, 1. What a Man is. 2. What such a man would have to do.

· First, A Man is a poor finite creature, confined to one place at once, not able to compass the Earth, nor know all its Countreys, much less Inhabitants: Not able to take notice of all the actions of the fons of men throughout the World; nor to receive such satisfactory information concerning them, as may inable him to judg them justly: Nor is he capable of taking cognisance of one of many Millions of Causes that would belong to such a Judg. And Man is a poor Worm, unable to procure any due execution of Universal Laws, and to repress the Rebellion of Refisters; and to defend the Church against its enemies. And man is so bad a creature, that he that is tried in so great a work as the Government of all the World, and tried by so great temptations as must needs arise in such an undertaking, will but become (according to the course of ordinary changes) the worst, and so the most odious of men: So that it is a wonder that Man should become so ignorant, as to think that any one mortal Man is capable of Ruling all the World, or all the Christians in the World.

Secondly, But confider what such a Head must have to do, and there will remain no difficulty in the Case. 1. He that undertaketh the Universal Government, undertaketh to make Universal Laws, and to exercise Supream Power in Judging and Executing according to those Laws. And he that maketh Universal Laws in things unchangeable, must suppose that Christ hath not done it himself already, which is salse: And in things changeable, he must be sufficiently acquainted with the state of all the Nations in the World, and the different Cases which require diversification both as to Time and Place: which a Man of many Thousand miles distance is uncapable of.

And as to Judgment and Execution. 1. As to Persons, it is to be exercised upon individuals. 2. As to Causes; it is 1. Either Judging who is fit or unfit for the Sacred Ministry, as to Ordination; or 2. Who is sit or unfit for Christian Communion. And that in respect, 1. To Knowledg and Faith, or Ignorance, Unbelief or Heresie; Or 2. To a Pious and Honest, or a Criminal Conversation.

First,

First Kingdoms or Cities are not either to be taken into, or cast out of that Church of Christ, for the Faith or the Faults of any part of Baptism belongeth to Individuals; and to Cities and Kingdoms no otherwise than as confishing of such Individuals: It is the Faithful and their Seed that are to be baptized; God never Authorized any to baptize Kingdoms or Cities because the King or Magistrates believed.

And the same must be said of Excommunications; Kingdoms or Cities are not to be Unchurched, or Interdicted Gods worthip, because of the fin of Kings and Magistrates: (Though such inhumane and unchristian kind of Discipline hath (upon the Venetians and many other Countries) been exercised by the Pope); God saith, that the Soul that sinneth shall dve, and not the Son for the Fathers sin, which he is not guilty of.

Secondly. And if this be so, it is easie to discern whether one Man can so Govern all the World. 1. He that ordaineth Ministers, must try them, that he may truly judg of their sofficiency. 2. He that baptizeth the Adult, must try their Knowledg and Faith, that he may truly judg of their Capacity. 3. He that will justly judg any accused of Herefie or wicked living, must hear the Witnesses, and hear the Person, and understand the circumstances of the Cause: And before he Excommunicate any, he must not only know him to be Criminal, but also Impenitent; and therefore must with Evidence, Love and Patience, endeavour first to bring him to Repentance. The like knowledg is necessary to a just Absolution. And what can one Man do in any of this, for all the World?

Object. He can do it per alios, though not per se: He can send forth men to do it. The King cannot Govern his Kingdom by himself only, without Officers; but by them he can.

Answ. 1. What other men do, he doth not: To say he doth it per alios, is but a deceitful phrase, and maketh not their work to be his. That which he doth, is not to Preach, and Baptize, and Excommunicate, and Absolve by them, but to bid them do it, or license them; yet if he sent them all to do it as his Servants Authorized by him to do it in his name and flead, it might be called morally his Act: but it is not so. The Office of a Bishop or Presbyter, is of Divine Institution, and their work described by the Word of God; and the Office and Work is their own; and they themselves are accountable for it to their chief Pastor, Jusus Christ. 2. The work of an Ecclesiastick Pastor is perfonal, even the exercise of his own skill, and not only the commanding of another to do it. If fetting others on the work were all that's necessary, there needed no Bishop or Pastor to be such a Head; a Prince were fitter: David and Solomon could command the Priests and E 2

Levites to do their Office, and could place and displace them; and so many Christian Kings: But as it is not the proper Office of a Physician, Surgeon, Printer, Architect, Oc. to Licente Phylicians, Surgeons, Printers. &c. or to set them on work; so neither of a Bishop or Pastor to license or command such: And for Ordination, it may be done without a Pope; or else how is the Pope ordained or consecrated him-3. The Office of the Apostles was not only to send other men to convert the World, and fettle the Churches, and govern them; but first. to labour in all this themselves, and then to ordain others to go along with them as their helpers, and to govern the particular Churches; which is not the same thing, as only to set other men on work. Kings Office confifteth fo much in Power, to appoint Officers under him to their several Provinces and Works, as that therein it greatly differeth from a Pastors, which is like to a Physicians, or a Philosophers, and more confisteth in the exercise of personal skill and oversight. 5. But if all this hitherto faid were nothing, it is most certain that no King is capable of governing all the World: And if the Pastoral Office required no more personal skill and exercise thereof than the Regal; yet all that would follow were but this, that as a King by himself and his Officers. can govern a Kingdom, but not all the World, so is it to be said of any Pastor; though indeed the latter is much less possible.

The Impossibilities are notorious at this day. 1. The Pope doth not so much as know a very great part of the World, what Inhabitants it hath, or of what Religion. 2. Much of the World is so remote from him that his Messengers must be many years in going, and all informations as long in being fent to him. 3. The passage is so hazardous and difficult that they are not likely by Sea and Land-to escape all the dangers in the way. 4. Many Princes Countries must be past through that are enemies to Christians, and in frequent Wars with us, and one another, and therefore will not suffer such passage and intercourse as. the Government of the remotest parts require. 5. There are many Countries that understand no Language which the Popes Emissaries can speak. 6. There are many Christian Countries at this day which the Pope lately was not known to, nor ever so much as required their Subjection to him, by reason of their incapacity of Converse. When Oviedo would have made the Abassins believe that Subjection to the Pope was necessary to their Salvation, the Emperours Mother posed him by that Question, Why God nor the Pope ever told them so till now, and why they never before heard of the Popes claim? To which the poor man had no better an answer to give, Than that inaccessibleness and distance hindered it, as Godignus himself reciteth the Discourse. Which is no less than a plain confession of what I am proving, that no one man is capable of governing all the World: When so great an Empire as that of Abaffir (especially in its former grandeur) was so far out of the Papal Papal reach, as that for so many hundred years he could never so much as know them, and send a Governour to them, nor any Messengers to claim their Obedience; no wonder if much more of the World be sur-ther out of the reach of his Notice and Jurisdiction.

Are. 1. And as no fingle natural Person, so much more no Collective Person or Company is capable to be an Universal Governour. For all the foresaid difficulties will be yet greater to them, than to one. There is none but an Universal Council that can be supposed to make such a Claim; which Council must be one Civil Person, or Collective, and therefore be in one place, and manage this Government by Confent: But 1. That place where they meet will be as distant from the Antipodes as Rome is, and they will have as far to fend and receive information. 2. The collecting of a true Universal Council, as I shall shew anon, is not only difficult, but never to be done. 3. One man may do more in a day, than a Parliament, much more a Council of all the Christian World, can do in many Days or Weeks; there are so many to speak, debate, and to receive satisfaction. 4. And seuds and disagreements will be yet a greater hinderance: So that where there is a Natural Incapacity, there can be no Universal Governour; But both Pope and Councit have a Natural Incapacity: Therefore neither of them can be an Universal Governour.

Arg. 2. From the silence of the Creed and Scripture concerning such an Universal Head: If Christ had instituted any Vicarious, Universal Governour, and consequently a Church so constituted, it would have been plainly revealed in the Creed, or Sacred Scriptures: But there is no such thing plainly revealed (nor darkly neither) in the Creed or Sacred Scriptures.

ptures. Therefore there was no such instituted by Christ.

The Major is proved, in that they commonly confels that all Fundamentals or points of common necessity are plainly revealed in the Creed, or Sacred Scriptures; and they affert that an Universal Governour, and a Church so constituted, is a Fundamental, and a point of common necessity to be believed: Therefore if Christ had instituted any such, it must needs have been in the Creed, or Scriptures. No man can imagine that if the rest of the matters of Divine Faith must themselves be received from the believed Authority of such a Head or Church, Christ would not plainly make known the Authority of such a Head and Church: But this is the foundation of the Papists Faith.

And that there is no fuch thing contained in the Creed or Sacred Scriptures, the Impartial reading of them is enough to prove: The Creed mentioneth the Holy Catholick and Apostolick Church as one; but faith not a word of Rome, or the Pope, or a Council, or any Universal Governour of this Church, besides Jesus Christ.

The Sicred Scriptures mention no fuch neither; it is only Peter that is pretended by the Papitts to be there endued with fuch a Power. But I. There is no word that speaks such a thing, the consutation of their

vain Collections, from Tues Petrus, &c. and Pasce oves meus, &c. I have made elswhere, and in this short Exercitation neither need nor may recite it.

2. It belongeth to the Universal Governour to make Universal Laws for the Church; but no Scripture tells us of any more that Peter did in this Legislation, then Fames or Paul, or other Aposiles.

3. It belongeth to the Universal Governour to give Authority to all the rest, and to settle all Inseriour Orders and Officers; but no Scripture mentioneth any such thing of Peter, but the contrary, viz. Deacons were instituted by the Apostles jointly; none of the rest of the Twelve received his Power from Peter; Paul took Silus, and Barnabus took Mark with him, and Paul made Timothy, Titus, and others Evangelists without Peter, or any Authority received from him; and the Apostles ordained Elders in every Church which they planted without Peter, ASI. 14.23. Tit. 1.5, Ge.

Obi. They had their power from Cheift before he ascended, and so needed not receive it from Peter.

Ass. Either Peter was made the Universal Governour before Christs Ascention or not; if not, then Christ personally settled no such Monarchy; yea, then he settled contrarily an Aristocracy, or equality of Power in many, that is, in all the Apostles; and is it credible that he settled one form of Government at first, and charged it so quickly after? And then the Churches were after Christs Ascension planted and settled by such as had no Power from Peter, and so the Succession is not from him as the Head. And then all the Texts pretended by them (as Pasce over, &c.) are by them forsaken. But if Peter was made Monarch before Christs Ascension then the other Apostles must before he under Christ and him, and as the Church had two Heads at once, a Prime and a Vicarious, so the rest must have their Power from both. At least after Christs Ascension all the Apostles would fall under the Government of Peter, and so from thence must hold their Power from him, which they never did.

4. It belongeth to the Universal Governour to be the known declared Center of the Churches common Unity; to whom accordingly in case of Divisions they should have recourse throughout all the World. But it was not so concerning Peter; We read of many sad Contentions, in the Churches of Corinth, Galutia, Colosse, we use of Rome it self, Rom. 14. & 15. and many sad Heresies, Crimes and Breaches in the Seven Asian Churches, Rev. 2. & 3. and yet not a word to refer them to Peter for their healing, nor one reproof for their rebellion against him as Universal Governour, nor one perswasion to unite all in him! Nay he himself, who 2 Pet. 2. doth write sharply against

5. And it belongeth to the Universal Head and Governour to rebuke, all culpable Inferiours, and to receive appeals in cases of disficulty. But none of all this is said of Peter, but contrarily that Paul withstood him to the face, because he walked not uprightly, and was to be blamed, Gal. 2. So that the case in Scripture is plain against them.

Arg. 3. From the contrary Affertions in the Holy Scriptures. The Scriptures are not only filent as to the Institution of any such Universal Governour or Church, but they speak against it: Therefore there was no such Institution of Christ.

And here I must come up to my Text, and from it and others bring in feveral Scripture-Arguments.

Note here 1. That the Unity of the Church, and the nature and reafons of it, are most largely and expressly handled in this Chapter. 2. That this Church is called the Body of Christ, but not of Peter or the Pope; and that its Unity is placed in one Spirit, one Lord, and one God, Vers. 5, 6, 7; 11, 12, 13. and not in one Vicarious Head. 3. That all Believers are numbred with the Members, even Apostles themselves expressly, as contradistinct from the Head in whom they are united. Apostles are called here, Members in particular, set by God in the Church, even the first rank of Members, and Prophets next. If Peter then was the Universal Head, it was not as an Apostle; for the Apostles were but the noblest Members in particular.

Arg. I. If Christ be here described as the only Head, and Apostles but as particular Members, then no Apostle was an Universal Gover-nour or Head: But the Antecedent is plain in the Text, &c.

And indeed Bellarmine is forced to maintain that the Pope facceedeth not Peter as an Apostle, but as the Vicarious Head of the Church; by which he confesseth that Peter was not such a Head as an Apostle. But Paul here describing the whole Body, mentioneth no part but Christ the Head, and Apostles and others variously gisted and placed, as particular Members. So that here is no Office above Apostolical in which the Pope can succeed Peter.

Arg. II. The same evidence is visible in Ephes. 4. where Paul vehemently endeavouring the Ephesians Unity, reckoneth up only these seven Necessaries in which it must be sounded: 1. One Body (of Christ).

2. One Spirit. 3. One Hope of our Calling (Grace and Glory). 4. One Lord (Jesus Christ). 5. One Faith (the Belief of the Gospel). 6. One Eaptism (and Baptismal Covenant). 7. One God and Father of all, above all, through all and in all); vers. 3, 4, 5, 6. And in all the Members who must in these seven be united, he placeth diversity, and numbereth Apostles, Prophets and Pastors with the rest, as being but particular Members of the Body. And then he describeth the Body that is thus to be united, the ends and benesits of their concord, and the subordinate means, to vers. 16. In which he calleth them the Body of Christ (only and not of the Pope) which must come to a perfect man, in the Unity of Faith and Knowledg of Christ, and not be tossed with every wind of Doctrine, but grow up in him in all things which is the Head, Christ: From whom the whole body sitly conjouned and compacted (not by another Head but) by that which every joynt supplyeth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body to the edifying of it self in love. There could never have been an opener door, for Paul to have brought in the mention of an Universal Vicarious Governour at, if he had known of any such; than the occasions and Subject here in hand. But here is still none but Christ the Head, and Apostles and others as the particular Members.

Arg. III. Yet more expresly in 1 Cor. 1.3. When the Corinthians were inclined to factions; some would have United in Paul, and some in Apollo, and some in Cephas or Peter, and some would have appropriated Christ to themselves. And how doth Paul seek to heal this Schism? Not by telling them that indeed they must all Unite in Peter as the Universal Head or Monarch; but that Christ is not divided (and therefore he must be their common Center) and that the rest were but his Ministers by whom they believed, and were not crucified for them, nor were they Baptized into their name; and that they shewed themselves Carnal by these contentions, in setting up one above another, when Paul, Apollo, and Cephas, were alike theirs, and Ministers of Christ, and Stewards of his Mysteries; Cap. 3.3;22. & 4.1. So that here Peter is not only not mentioned as the Head and Center of Church-Unity, when his Name was in question, and the Case required it, (had it been true) but also expressly and by Name excluded from any such Office, and those sharply taxed that would so have thought of him, nay, that thought yet lower of him; for indeed there is no probability that any of the Corinthians dreamt of his Universal Government, but only some preferred him as a more excellent Teacher before all others, in a fiding way.

Arg. IV. When Peter himself instructeth the Pastors of the Church in their duty, 1. He taketh no higher title to himself than an Aposlle and Servant of Jesus Christ, and an Elder, and a Witness of his sufferings, and a partaker of the Glory that shall be revealed. 2. And he tells them that they must not oversee the flock as Lords, but as Examples; which is inconsistent with their opinion, who take his Universal Government, to be effential to the Church, and necessary to Salvation to be believed.

Arg. V. In Matt. 20. We find it put by way of petition to Christ, to determine who should be greatest; viz, that James and John might be next him in his Kingdom; and Peter with the rest of the Ten were offended at it: yet Christ is so far from telling them that either they, or Peter shall have such honour, that he contrarily concludeth; verf. 25. &c. Te know that the Princes of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority upon them; but it shall not be so among you: But whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant. Even in this, not telling them who shall be the Man, but leaving it to them by humility and fervice to merit all that preeminence which he alloweth of.

Arg. 4. The Fourth chief Argument is fetcht from the Non-confistence of such an Universal Head with the Office and Prerogative of Christ.

To have Instituted an Universal Head and Governour, would have been the making of another Christ, or at least the communicating of part of the Essence of Christs Office and Prerogative; But Christ did never make another Christ, nor communicate any part of the Essence of his Office or Prerogative: Therefore Christ did never Institute an Universal Head and Governour.

The first Proposition is proved by the true definition or description of Christs Office, which containeth his Universal Kingdom, as well as his Universal Propriety and Priesthood. That Christ is the Owner and the Ruler of all, is believed by all that believe him to be the Christ; For this end, he both dyed, rose, and revived, that he might be Lord of the dead and of the living, Rom. 14.9. And the Universality of some parts of his Priestly Office are acknowledged; and of the rest, as to those who are capable of the Benefits. He is the Owner of all the World: And he is the Ruler of all, de jure, & de faste, in divers manners and degrees, though only the faithful obey him to Salvation: And his Sacrifice had not only a sufficiency for all, but also effectually procured the common Grace and Benefits which are actually given to all. And 1. It is confessed by all sober persons, that Christ hath not given to any under him an Universal Propriety. If any Parasite of the Pope so talk, the rest dare not own it. To be the Lord or Owner of all Things and Persons is proper to Christ: If the Pope be his Vicarious Proprietary, Kings and Persons are at his will and mercy, and he need not to be beholden to any Prince for Tribute; for all Lands and Monies in the World are his: But this is the proper Prerogative of Christ. And there is no Mediator that offereth himself a Sacrifice for the fins of the World, or meriteth for all men, or all believers, but Jesus Christ.

The Minor is undeniable: Christ by vertue of his Universal Power, hath communicated a Ministerial Limited Subordinate Power to men, over several parts of his Church or Kingdom, but not Universal over all:

all; which needeth no other proof, than to know that Authority and Obligation concur in constituting every such Office: And if any one Apostle had been Obliged to Rule, yea, or to Teach all the World, he had been obliged to an impossibility. Therefore even the Apostles all together had but an Indefinite obligation, and not an Universal as to all the World; no, nor to all the Churches: For if e.g. Philip their Deacon, or his converted Eunuch, or Joseph, or Nathaniel, or any other Preacher did convert any Countrey, or gather any Churches sar off from the reach of any Apossle, no Apossle was bound to Teach or Rule that Church; much less any one of them to Teach and Rule all the World.

And I. If Christ have not made an Universal Sub proprietor, it's not like that he hath made an Universal Rector. 2. If Christ have not made an Universal Teacher, 3. Nor an Universal Priest; by the same Reason we may conclude, that the Universal Kingdom is incommunicable. 4. And as to the Kingdom it felf, 1. The Universal Legislation is already performed by Christ, and therefore not left to Man. 2. Universal, Forcible Government is committed to no Man: All Power in Heaven and Earth is given to Christ; and he committeth the Sword to Kings and Magistrates, and the Word to Ministers with the Keys of the Church; But Christ never made an Universal King or Magistrate under him to Govern all the World by the Sword: Therefore we as well may conclude; that he never made an Universal Pastor, or Church-Monarch; one part of his proper Kingdom being no more communicable than the other. 3. And Universal Protection, which is another kind of Kingly Office, is not communicated to any. The Pope cannot Protect all the World, or all the Church; so that all the rest of Christs Office, being as to the Universality confessed incommunicable, it will follow that Government must be so also: I say, As to Universality, as foreseeing that they will object, that it is Incommunicable as to Primacy of Power, but not as to Universality; which therefore I have proved, though in this strait I must not stand to Anfwer their frivolous Objections.

And here you may perceive, why Protestants say that the Pope is Antichrist, even because he traiterously usurpeth, and arrogateth, that which is Essential to Christs own Office, by making himself an Universal Head to Christs Body, and Governour of his Kingdom, on a salse pretence of Christs delegation.

Object. A King may make a Vice-King, or Lieutenant, without parting with any of his Royalty or Prerogatives.

Answ. I. It is not the Name of a Viceroy, but the Thing that is in question. A King may call a Subject his Viceroy, and may make him his chief Magistrate over some part of his Empire that is distant from him.

him, yea or over the whole: But if he give him the absolute Legislative, and Judicial Power over all his Kingdom, he parteth with his Royalty, and maketh that man King. 2. But suppose it were otherwise, the reason of the difference in the case is evident. A King is but a Man, and so is his Viceroy, and one is as capable of Ruling as the other. But Universal Government is somewhat above the capacity of any meer Man, and none but God and our Redeemer is capable of it: Therefore if Christ will make an Universal Head and Governour of the World or Church, he must make him another Christ, or a God; or else he doth not make him capable.

Arg. 5. A negatione effectus ad negationem effectionis. There never was fuch an Universal Vicarious Head of Christs Body: Therefore he never instituted such.

Nothing but the Antecedent here needs proof.

I shall consider (for the proof of the Antecedent) 1. Of the Church in the time when the Scripture was written: 2. And of the Church till the days of Constantine: 3. And of the Church till the Usurpation of the Title of Universal Head: 4. And of the Church since then to this day.

1. In Scripture-times I have proved already, that neither Peter nor any other did govern the Universal Church, in Ordination, Legislation, Judgment, Appeals, &c.

- 2. Till Constantines time there is not the least probability of any such thing in Church-History; which I will not be beholden to any man to grant me who is acquainted with the Records of Antiquity; nor do I sear a denial from any thing but Faction, or blind Partiality, such as Baronius, and other Flatterers of the Pope were byassed by. For whereas the chief Claim of the Pope is from his Presidency in Councils, till Constantines days there never was such a thing as a General Council in the World (unless you will call Christs Family and Apostles such). And he that can prove the Pope to have been till then the Governour of all the World, or all the Christians in the World, will setch his procs (neither from Scripture nor true History, but) from somewhat unknown to other Mortals.
- 3. And were Men but Impartial in the studying of Church-History, I would not be beholden to any Man readily to acknowledg all that follows: 1. That Constantine and his Successors were far from being Rulers of all the World; having but one Empire, which though great, the Maps will tell you was small in comparison of all the Earth. 2. That the Bishop of Rome was to the Empire but as the Arch-Bishop of Canterbury is to England; a Bishop who by that Emperour had a Primacy given him in his Empire: For what Power had he to settle a Head to the rest of the World? 3. That whereas his Presidency in General Councils was his chief pretence for his Universal Power, even that Presidency was unconstant, and varied as the Emperour pleased. 4. That those General Councils were called General but in reference to one Principality or Empire, (as the Scots called their Assemblies General) and were no Universal Councils representing all the Churches in the World. For 1. They were called long by the Emperour; And what Power had the Roman Emperour to call together the Bishops of all the World? 2. The Subscriptions of the Bishops as recorded even in Binius, Surius, Nicolinus, Crab, will satisfie any man that doth not by Faction hinder his own fatisfaction: And though the name of one Johannes Perfidis in the Council of Nice, and some such Instances in others, seem great Objections to some Men, I let them go, as knowing that there is no end of disputing with those Men that can make a Mountain of an Atome. There was a City called Perfix; and it was then usual to place a Bishop at the Borders of Persia, Scythia, &c. and to call him by the Title of the Neighbour Country which he was defired to take care of. I have oft enough in other Writings proved that the Councils were but Imperial. (supposing that some few under Pagans, that affected the Countenance of the Roman Greatness, who were Neighbours, did rarely joyn themselves): And that Reynerius confesseth, that the Armenians and other Churches converted by the Apostles, were not under the Bishop of Rome: And that Theodoret giveth the Reason why the Bishop of Nisibis was at the Council of Nice, because Nisibis was then under the Koman Empire: And that the Abassines, the Persians, Indians, outer Armenians, and many-other Countries of Christians without the Empire, were not represented in the Councils, nor ever-subjected themselves to the Pope of Rome.

4. And even fince the days of Boniface who obtained of Phocas the Name of Universal Bishop, the Christian World was never under hime For 1. The Greek Church hath ever since resisted the Claim. 2. The said Abassines, Armenians, Indians, and many others never subjected themselves to him. 3. He hath captivated his professed Subjects by so much cruel force, as that he is uncapable of knowing who are his real Subjects by consent: And we have by experience reason to think, that in all Popish Countries it is not one of many that is a Papist understandingly, and at the heart, but most either know not what Popery is, or filently go on with their Neighbours to avoid the obloquy and fuffering, which elfe they must undergo. 4. Dr. Field (of the Church); and Bishop Morton (in his Apolog.) have fully proved; That till Luthers time, abundance of the Doctors of each Age, though they renounced not the Roman Communion, were against their Opinions; and that there is scarce any Doctrine of the Protestants, which men of their own Communion held not. All which fully shew that the Universal Church did never acknowledg or receive this pretended Universal Head. 5. To all which I may add, That all the Greek Church (when far larger than the Latin) did ever hold the Primacy in the Empire to be Jure bumano only; which is notorious in the express words of the Council at Chalcedon, and in that the Patriarch of Constantinople contended for the Primacy, which he could never have done had he taken it to be of Gods Institution: For Constantinople being comparatively a novel Church, had no pretence to a Primacy as fure Divino. All which I have further proved elswhere.

Of all the Arguments brought for the Popes Universal Government I know but Two, that to a considering Man are worthy a Consutation.

The first is from pretended Possession: Christ ruleth his Church not only Preceptively but Eventually de facto, according to the great design of his Office, (else he should be but a Nominal King himself;) But Christ hath Eventually, or defacto ruled his Church by the Pope and his Prelates these Thousand years at least, if not from the beginning: Therefore he Instituted this sort of Government (or else his own Regiment and Design is frustrate).

Ans. 1. As to the Major; the Church of Christ hath obedient and disobedient Professors; Good and Bad, Piety and Sin are in the Church-Visible. The Goodness and Piety, and Obedience is according to his Decree and Purpose; but so is not the Sin. And Christs own Government obtaineth its ends, in the Salvation of his Elect, and in so much restraint and order as he keepeth up among the rest. 2. Else this Argument would prove as much that Idolatry and Heathenism were better than the Jews Religion, before Christs Incarnation: For Judea was a very little spot of the World, and de fasto Heathenism did possess most of the rest. 3. Yea it would prove all sin to be of Gods appointment, if we might argue a fasto ad jus.

2. But the Minor is not true: It is accounted by the best Geographers to be but about a third or sourth part of the Christian World that are Papists at this day, when the decay of the Eastern Churches, and the loss of Nubia, and a great part of the Abassian Empire, &c. hath much diminished it. I may therefore turn this Argument better against them, and say that Christ never did de facto rule his Church, or the greatest part of it by an Universal Governour, nor permit it so to be ruled: Therefore this never was his Design: Though indeed his

Will de debito must be known by his Laws, and not by Events.

The second Argument is: Though an Universal Head be not of Divine Institution, why may not the Bishops of the Churches set up such a one over them all by consent (or Princes at least)? And why may not an Universal Church be Instituted by Man, as well as a National or Provincial Church?

Ans. 1. Is the Government of Christs Church a matter of so small moment, and is the Soveraign Head no more concerned in it, but to leave it to Men to set up what Government they will? Undoubtedly it is the Prerogative of the Soveraign to appoint his own Officers: And he that doth it usurpeth his Prerogative. 2. What men are they that pretend to fuch Power? were they themselves the Officers of Christ, in any state of Instituted Government? If not; then (1) Christ hath made no Subordinate Government; (2) Then he made no Apostles, &c. (3) Then he did not the part of a Soveraign; (4) Then these Men that made the new Government were no Ministers of his, nor had any Power from him to do it. But if they themselves be Christs Instituted Officers; then 1. Christ did Institute certain Officers, and consequently a state of Government. 2. Then let these Ministers of his prove if they can that ever he commissioned them to alter that state of Governmen which he first Instituted; 3. If they cannot, let them confess that it is a Trayterous Usurpation. 4. Either it is a Government Univerfally needful to the Church, or not: If not, why talk you of it? If yea, who made you either greater or wifer, or better than Christ? that you can find out and settle an Universal Government, which he had not the power, the wisdom or the goodness to Institute? 5. By his Instituting particular Churches, and their Overseers or Elders, and Worship and Discipline, he shewed us that he took such a Church-settlement for his own Work: And if so, what made him do it imperfectly? and how come you to be able to do it better? 6. The World hath had lamentable experience these Thirteen hundred years and more, to how ill effects Men have altered Christs Institutions, and to what proud Contentions, Schisms, Persecutions, and other Calamities their Alterations have tended. 7. But (to speak fully to the case) we grant that as Christs Ordinances, Doctrine, Worship and Discipline, are distinguished from the meer Circumstances of them, (called the Circa Sacra); so when Christ hath Instituted Officers for his own Work, Men may for edification make Officers for their Work; that is, these Circumstances (such as are Church-Wardens, Sextons, Door-keepers, and many the like). But will any man of brains and Christianity hence conclude, that Men may set up an Officer for Christ, above all the Officers of his own Institution, and empowered to over-rule them all, yea and to Silence them, Suspend them, Excommunicate them, and be a Monarch over them all? If Christ would have had fuch a one, he was as wife and able to do it himself as any of his Ministers are. 8. And it is God that must bless the Labours of his Officers: And he hath no-where promifed to bless any but his own. 9. And if Men may make the Papacy, Men may pull it down again when reason requireth it. And it will go harder with the Pope, than either pious Gerson (de auferibilitate Pape), or Learned Card. Nic. Cusanus (de Concordia), do affirm, it may. 10. But if it be but by Mens confent, that we must have a Pope, let those have none that do not consent: And then most of the Christian World will be without him.

This

This Controversie about an Universal Vicarious Head and Governour, being the true sum of the difference between the Papists and Protestants, were we not now restrained, should be much largier handled, and suller proofs of all that we affert annexed. But our necessitated brevity shall conclude with these sew Uses.

I. Learn hence to hate the Devilish sin of Pride, and fear it in your sclves, lest there should be more of it than you have yet observed: For the Pope and his Prelates, are naturally such Sons of Adam as our selves: And if Pride in them may rise to such a height, as to make them in this so mad, as to think poor Man hath Capacity, and Right, and Obligation to Govern all the World, or all the Christians in the World, and thereby to become the plagues of the Earth, and the troublers of all Christian States and Churches, have not we all cause to fear it in our selves? Though it have not Temptation or Advantage to work so publickly and mischievously as theirs, alas, it is the same Sin which causeth men to overvalue their own Understandings, their Goodness, or their Greatness: It is the same Sin which setteth some Preachers on contriving, and hunting for preferment, and others for popular applause, and which maketh men Write, and Freach, and Talk against things which they understand not, and against men better than themfelves, and to destroy Love and Concord, and tear the Churches, and harden the ungodly in the contempt of all Religion; yea, and to proceed impenitently in all this, while some think that their zeal for Order and Obedience, and others, that their zeal for Truth and Godliness, will warrant them in all this, It's an old Proverb, that all men are born with a Pope in their Bellies: And he is a Conquerour, and a Saint indeed, that hath truely overcome his Pride, which conquereth many that can Preach and Talk against it: And many that cry out of Popery. and Papal pride, do too little detect, and fear, and mortifie, the same pernicious evil in themselves.

II. Learn hence to understand the Grand Difference between the Protestants and the Papists: It is not first, Whether the Pope be the Man that Christ hath made his Universal Vicar, and Governour of all the World? But first, Whether there be any such Instituted by Christ or not? For if they once prove that there is any such, we will consess that no other can put in so fair a claim for it as the Pope. The question is not, first, Whether the Church of Rome be the true Catholick. Church? But first, Whether there be any such thing of Christs Institution, as an Universal Church, Headed by a Vicarious Head, under Christ?

We deny the Being of fuch a Head, and fuch a Church.

III. Therefore take heed of those disputers that cry up the Catholick Church, as supposing it to have an Universal Head besides Christ (ei-ther Pope or Council) as if this must be a granted thing; and then all that we have to do with the Pope, is but to bound and moderate him.

in his Government: These men say, We are against the abuses of the Court of Rome, but not against the Church of Rome. But that which a Protestant justly denyeth is, That there is any such Universal Head and

Church at all, as the Papists do affert.

IV. And hence observe in what sence it is, that Divines say, that Rome is not a true Church, nor Papists as such members of the Church of Christ; we all confess that those called Papists, who practically hold the Essentials of Christianity, and truely believe in Christ the true Head, are all parts of the true Catholick Church, which hath no Head indeed but Christ. But we maintain that the Pope was never made by Christ, the Governour of the Universal Church; and that their pretended Catholick Church, consisting of the Pope as such a Head, and of his Subjects as such, is a Traiterous Combination, and no true Church of Jesus Christ: That Policy was never Instituted by him. And in this sense all Protestants are agreed, while some say that Rome is a true Church, and others say that it is not: They mean thus the same thing.

V. And hence you may perceive why they take the Pope to be Antichrist: Because he usurpeth part of the Prerogative and Kingdom of Christ, without his Institution, and against his Laws; by making himself the Governour of all the World or Church, he maketh him as another Christ: As he would be a Traytor to the King, who would usurp the Universal Government of his Kingdoms, as to Legislation, Judgment, and Executions, though he should falsy pretend the Kings Com-

VI. Take heed of a Fleshly, and Worldly Religion. A Fleshly, and Worldly Heart, and Life, lyeth under shame, and remorfe of Conscience, till the Devil bring in the defensative of a Fleshly, and Worldly Religion: For Nature, Reason and Experience tell men, that all things below are vanity, in comparison of everlasting things; and therefore the Devil Hath no such way, to keep his possession of such Souls in peace, as by making them a Religion suitable to their Worldly minds and interefts: And then they will fin against God as by his own Authority, and vilifie his Servants, yea, and burn them as by his own, Command, and fight against Christ as by his own Commission & in nomine domini incipit omne malum, as the old Proverb is, taken from the Papal Style. Religion is so excellent, and necessary, that nothing can so successfully prevail in the minds of men against it, as that which cometh in its own garb and name. What men on Earth do Satan more service than men of a Fleshly and Worldly Religion? Who by the power of Carnality, first make themselves, and next, would make others believe, that their own Worldly Interest is the true Interest of Christ, and the Catholick Church; and when they have made their own Carnal Wills and Interest, the means of the Churches Peace and Concord (such as they will allow it) then cry up the great names, of Government, ObeObedience, Order, Unity, Concord and Peace, and cry down all that is against them, as Consusion, Rebellion, or Schism; when all significth no more, but that they are proud and worldly, and have got the upper ground, and so may name things to their own advantage. When Sin becometh a Religion, it conquereth the Light, and quieteth Conscience, in the most odious actions, and most malignant oppositions of the Truth. I cannot more significantly speak my sense, than in the words of our serious Poet, Mr. George Herbert, in his Church Militant, p. 188, 189, 190.

"Sin being not able to extirpate quite

"The Churches bere, bravely refolv'd one night"
To be a Church-man too and wear a Miter, &c.

But it is too long to be Transcribed.

If the Archbishop of Canterbury should tell all the World, that no Man can be a true Christian, or be saved, that believeth not in him, and becometh not his obedient Subject, and should send out men to Preach this on the pretence of Unity, Obedience, and Peace; Would not all the World deride this, as a worldly presumptuous kind of Religion? Just such is Popery, which saith the same of one that the Roman Emperour made the chief Bishop in his own Principality; and now when that Empire is dissolved, claimeth the Government of all Christian Kings and People in the whole World. Is it not a wonder of stupidity; that such a Religion, is not derided, and despised by all mankind that have the use of Reason?

VII. Lastly, Take heed of hasty trusting fair pretences, when so abfurd a thing, and great a mischief, as the Papal Universal Government, may have such good words to promote it, as Unity, Concord, Obedience; &c. And so many deceived persons to entertain it.

Quest. What is the mischief of this pretended Headship?

Answ. First, It constitutes a Humane Universal Church: whose name deceives men, and keepeth the Divine Catholick Church to many unknown.

Secondly, This Humane Church is set up above, and against the true Universal Church of Christ; and arrogateth Power to depress, abuse, and persecute the Churches that Christ hath Instituted.

Thirdly, Hereupon it introduceth a Humane Religion, which is as injurious to the Religion instituted by Christ.

Fourthly, It cheateth Millions of Souls, by making them believe that they are good Christians, because they are Subjects to the Bishop of Rome, which they call, being of the right Church.

Fifthly, It becometh the Grand Engine of dividing Christians, and destroying Love, and raising Bloody Persecutions, and hindering Unity which they cry up. For when Christ hath made the terms of Christian Concord to be few and easie, and such as all Christians are agreed in, Concord is hereby accordingly made easie: But when an Usurper will come and add his Forgeries, and impossible Terms, which Christians neither do, nor ever did agree in, what more effectual and pernicious art could have been used, to divide the Churches? If nothing but Allegiance to the King be required to the Concord of his Kingdoms, all Loyal Subjects would be as one: But if a Subject will step up and fay, you shall also swear to me, as the Universal Viceroy, or have no Peace, when he proveth no fuch Power, and the Subjects take it to be Treason to be Sworn to him without the Kings command; Would not this fet all the Kingdom together by the ears?

Sixthly, And then, when men are possessed with this false opinion, that all Christians must be united in subjection to the Pope, it will pervert the minds of the very lovers of Unity and Peace, and harden them in the guilt of wicked Persecution, as if it were their duty as the friends of Unity, to root out all those as enemies to it, who refuse their false and traiterous means.

Seventhly, And I may add that the poor Pope himself is hereby made the most miserable of mortal men, while he undertaketh the Pastoral charge of millions and myriads, even of many Kingdoms and Empires, which he never can nor will perform, and so must answer for betraying and deceiving all these Souls.

Ouest. But if there be no such thing as an Universal Church Headed and Governed by a Vicarious Head under Christ, What is the true Universal Church, and what is its true Government?

Answ. First, The Universal Church on Earth, is all Christians Headed only by Chritt, as having the sole power and capacity, of Universal Legislation, Judgment, Execution, and Protection.

Secondly, The true Government is this; 1. All forcible Government by the Sword, even about matters in Religion, belongeth to Kings and Magistrates only, in their several dominions.

Secondly, The Power of the Word, and Church-Keys (to judg who shall be in the Communion of the Church) belongeth to the Bithops or Pastors of the particular Churches respectively.

Thirdly, These Bishops or Pastors being obliged to as much Concord as they can attain, are bound to hold correspondence with one another by Delegates, Letters, or Synods, as far as the End (Church-Concord) doth make necessary.

Fourthly, If they offend and abuse their Office, they are under the Government of the Magistate, who may chastise them.

Fiftbly, If the Pastor be an Insidel, or Enemy, and will not do his duty, Cyprian long ago told us, that the people must obey God before a wicked Pastor; and as he hath no power to force them, so they are not bound to consent, to sin against God, or betray the Church and their own Souls, for the will or interest of unsaithful Pastors.

Sixthly, And when all is done, we must never dream of attaining in this World a perfect Unity and Peace, nor till we come where Knowledg, Love, and Holiness, are all perfect: of which, see more in my finall popular Treatife called Catholick Unity.

SERMON III.

KINGS and EMPEROURS, not rightful Subjects to the POPE.

Mr flowy flust

Act. 26. 2. I think my self happy King Agrippa, because I shall answer for my self this day before thee, &c.

Hough I cannot this day assume to my self that happiness the Apostle did, that he did Apologize before a King who was expert in all the Customs of the Jews, vers. 3; Yet (I do Suppose) I may account my self happy, that I am to Apologize for Kings and Emperours, who do know, and have affumed to themselves their Royal Prerogatives granted to them from the King of Kings by whom they reign, confirmed to them by him who is set upon the Holy Hill of Zion; and infringed, eluded, or usurped by a Pretended Vicegerent, whose Right and Reason in his Pretences are no greater than his Humility or Modesty in the claim and exercise of his Power. Whilest I treat of this important Affair, I hope you that are my Auditors will do me reason to hear me-patiently; and I humbly submit the Discourse to those sacred Persons whose cause needeth no more. or greater Advocates than have already appear'd in it: And if the immodest restlesness of incroachers do occasion a necessary Apology for this Cause, it deserveth a much better than now is by others desire, not his own choice, put upon it. If there be any thing less becoming the greatness of the Cause, and the excellency of the Persons, and (as I foresee it will be) not worthy the favourable acceptance of the meanest Prince; yet I humbly pray the favourable interpretation, and gracious pardon of all that my own weakness hath rendred defective; and a condescending acceptance of what the strength of Reason, the refentment of Duty, the obligation of Oaths, the dictates of Nature, the Command of God, and a vowed Loyalty to my Great and Gracious Soveraign, have in this (so much his) Cause better performed. With . this defired candor and hoped favour I return to my Work, which lyeth in the Text I have read, because in that either directly or consequentially lieth this Thefis.

Kings and Emperours are not rightful Subjects to the Pope, neither hath he Fower for pretended or real Herefie to Excommunicate and Depose them, nor to Absolve their Subjects from their Oaths of Allegiance; but even the Clergy are subject to Secular Princes, and their Bodies and Estates under their Government.

In which Thesis (I observe) two different sort of Propositions, the first Negative, the other Positive; and these kind of Propositions in the Schools are differently treated, for the Politives are to be proved by the Opponent, the Negative to be defended by the Respondent; so should Rome if the Pope would carry his Cause, prove his own Right, which he can as eafily now as ever; and with just such Arguments as formerly make good; whilest immodest Claims, forcible Usurpations, en- The Summary staved Councils, citations of treasonable Decretals, appellations to seditious of the Popes Canon-Law, blasphemous appropriation of Omnipotency, self-designing flat-Right, and its teries, and vowed obedience to the Pope against Nature, Reason and Reli. Proofs. gion; Whilest these are accounted good proofs, what Romanists will think the Pope an Usurper? or his Wars against the Emperour Rebellion? May all Christian Kings enjoy their undoubted Rights, and keep in the undisturbed Possession of them until such Arguments of weak and fensless become strong and reasonable, his Roman Holiness will scarce think the reversion worth his thanks, if it be bequeath'd him, or worthy of his hope if it be promised him on such Terms, and on better I trust he will never have it. This Negative part of the Position (for reasons kept to my self) I do cast into the latter part of my Discourse, The Positive Position, viz. The Clergy are subject to Secular Princes, and their Bodies and Estates under their Government, I put in the first place, and shall first handle it; whence the Negative Propositions will as consequences follow and take their own place. Now here it is neceffary I

1. Explain the Terms which are here used, and state the Thesis.

2. Confirm the Thesis so stated.

3. Discover the Doctrine and Doctors who avow the contrary.

4. Give you their Reasons, and an Answer to them.

5. Present you with some Corollaries from the Discourse.

Method of the Discourse.

Sect. I. The first Term to be explained is Clergy, which admits of Who meant both a Scriptural sense, and an Ecclesiastical sense: in the Scripture-sense by Clergy in Scripture and it doth lay it self out to such extent as far exceedeth the meaning of it in Ecclefiastical sense, as is evident from the use of the word xxing thoth Ecclefiastick in the *Old Testament, and in the *New, where it comprehendeth all the Writers. * Deut 40.20. > Sect. II. Subject, i.e. Not only De facto, because the Power of the Secular Prince is so formidable that they do not, because they dare not, deny him obedience; to which Henry the Eighth might well ascribe the most of the good behaviour of the Papistical Religious whom he subverted, but de Jure they are subjected; God, Nature, Gratitude, Oaths. Religion, and necessary Constitutions of humane Laws have subjected them. In the words of the Apostle, Rom. 13.5. Wherefore they must needs be subject, not only for weath, but for Conscience sake. That is (as Grotius well Paraphraseth it) not only out of fear of punishment which the Law threatneth but out of Conscience, because Christ hath commanded it.

Non Solo pænæ metu quam deges minantur jed quia Chri-Grot. in loc.

The Subjection we speak of then is a voluntary, free, cheerful and thus id pracripit. dutiful Obedience which is due to the Civil Magistrate, and not an enforced Subjection; It is the refult of Law, Conscience, and Love, not only the refult of Fear and Compulsion. It is our Duty, and the Magistrates Due.

Properly and The next Term to be explained is Secular Princes; where by firially all the way note, That Princes are properly Secular, their Dignity, Pomer, Princes are and Government is (quoad Originem) in its rife Divine; the Powers that Secular.

are, are of God, but (quo ad objecta) as to the things they do take cognisance of they are (though not solely, yet) Primarily Secular. And (quoad externam formam) as to the manner of pomp and state which may render the Government more Awful, 'tis and justly is, ordered and determined (prout sapientia principis visum oft) as seemeth good to whence it is the wisdom of the Prince, and so is Secular. But what through the that we must Royal favour of some good Princes, and more through the Ambition now distinguish and Usurpations of Popish Ecclesiasticks, who have invested themselves princes Secuwith Principalities, and a Power equal with the Princes of this World; far and Eccle-It is become necessary we should distinguish Princes into Secular and Ecclesi-fastical. aftical: The Secular being those Princes which we will call now Temporal and Civil; The Ecclefiastical such as the Pope, his Cardinals, and Who these some Bishops, such as the Spiritual Electors in the Empire, &c. To which are. Inferiour Clergy do with less scruple acknowledg, and pay their ready: Subjection; belide which I doubt not to affert, (and hope I shall be able to prove) they do owe a Subjection, and Obedience to the Temporal, Civil, i.e. Secular Prince; of which a word or two, that we may not miltake, or be mistaken. Now this term Prince may be taken either 1. In Princes perrespect to the Person; or 2. In respect to the Office; In the first sense it re-sonally confiferreth to Governments in a fingle Person, as in Kingdoms, in the lat-respect to the ter it referreth to Government, managed by a State or Council, as of Government. old in the Roman Commonwealth; or now in the Commonwealths of Ecclefaflicks Venice, Genoa, or the Dutch. Neither of these may be excluded, where rightful Subthe Clergy are Subjects to a King, as in France, or Spain, they are Monarchs, his rightful Subjects: Where they are under a Commonwealth they are Common-Subjects to the Secular Power; i.e. they owe Subjection to the Supream wealths, as Civil Maglifrate; as to their perpetual honour, and to the good ex. was excellentample of all Christendom, the Illustrious Republick of Venice made ly and effectboth the proud Pope Paul the Fifth, and the stubborn Clergy of their by the Vent-State to learn and acknowledg (Jià Thi ogy nu) out of fear of the Ma- tians against gistrates Power, when they would not (Sid The owel Indiv) out of sense Paul the 5th. of their own Duty. Again, ere I leave this, a Prince may be confidered either with respect to Subjects that,

First, Are born Subjects to whom the Supream Magistrate is Native Princes and Prince; to whom they owe fealty, and allegiance, whether they have Sworn Subjects Natuit, or not: Their Oath strengthens a former, but createth not their first petual. obligation to Allegiance. Natural. Or,

Secondly, Princes may be considered with respect to Subjects that are Each may be such, occasionally, and Pro tempore, as when either necessary occasions, sooccas onally invite or call men into a forreign Princes Countreys, or when an artiff and tempotrary choice out of curiofity, or the like, bringeth men into a forreign chants, Stu-Jurisdiction: The case of Merchants, Students, and Travellers, dents and whilest they are in those Countreys, they are in Conscience bound by Travellers athe just known Laws of that Land; and if they transgress those Laws, broad.

(As in case of an Invasion to Arm, or in an assault of a City to defend it, or in the danger of his Prince's Person to rescue him with the Labour, Courage, and Hazard of his own Life) That Clergy-man, who in a florm would not obey the Pilots order, and take his turn at the Pump. to fave the Vessel, and Goods, with his own Life and the Life of others; were as unworthy of a room in the Ship, as other lading that is cast over-board to prevent a danger from its weight.

Sect. V. The Estates of the Clergy, are next to be confidered, and Fifth Term explained, E- that in divers respects.

First, Their inheritances from their Fathers, do not by the Sons being a Clergy Man, become free from the common burtheus, which Authority lay-Subjects as o- eth on the Publick or generality of the Subjects for defraying publick charges.

> Secondly. The Lands and Estates of their preferments of what fort soever, are in like manner chargeable, if the Magistrate judgeth it necessary and equal: And in such case they ought to obey as readily as other men, when their Prince with advice and confent of fuch Counsel as can duely impose it on others, have imposed it on them.

Thirdly, The Estates of Ecclesialtical Societies are under the Govern-Social may be limited, tax-ment of the Secular Authority, as well as the Estates of Lay-Societies ed, regulated and Corporations, to limit their increase by gifts, as by our Statute of Mortmain: To enquire and compel them, to imploy them to the uses for which they were given, as by commission of charitable uses.

are so under the Civil Magistrate's Government, that he may eject and remove the negligent, and incorrigible male-administrators in that Office, as in other cases of male-administration. Though it may be most convenient to do this by Clergy-men, as Co-adjutors in the process; yet the Authoritative determination deriveth it self from the supreme Magiftrate, who as He judgeth the Offender unworthy of the Trust of fuch an Office, so may disposses him of the Benefit and Estate belonging to it.

Fifthly, The Estates so taken from the one, may by the Power which justly Such Estates took them away, be adjudged to another, who may better discharge the may be con-Office, and deserve the Benefice. And in this case the Clergy-man must ferred on obe subject, though possibly an error may be in the judgment passed, thers who and no legal way be left for his relief; as fell out in the deprivation of charge the

the Protestant Ministers by Queen Mary.

Sixthly, The Estates of Clergy-men are forfeitable on crimes of high na- Estates of ture, as well as other mens Estates. Treason, of which (with or with- Clergy-men, out leave from Rome, I say) a Clergy-man may be guilty, will forseit other mens. his estate, and the Prince may (on conviction at least) seize it.

Sect. 6. I come to the last Term to be opened, Are under their Go- Sixth Term vernment; where I do remind you, that we speak now of matter of opened under Right, not of matter of Fact separate from Right: Their Persons, and de jure, and Estates, ought to be under the Government of the secular Prince, as not only fatto. their Rightful Lord and Governour. Now Government,

First, Is for Protection and defence: Governours are shields of the Protection of Earth, and Heirs of restraint, a praise to them that do well, and they Government, watch over their people as Sheepherds: whence the Poet rightly called Clergy importunately his Prince πόμηνα λαῶν: And here, in this part, none do with such claim. importunate clamors, and immodest injunctions expect a share, as the disloyal Shavelins; as if the secular Arm were framed to the Body-Po-Herein shave-litick, only to defend the Persons and Estates of Ecclesiasticks, and to modest. offend all others.

Secondly, Is Directive; and this, some of them will indeed allow Directive Gothe secular Magistrate over the Clergy; but ere the Magistrate can get vernment alclear of them with this small allowance of his right, it fares with him some: But as they say, it doth with those who receive money of Witches, or this allowance the Devil, when they come to use it, 'tis vanisht or turned into wither- vanisheth ed leaves. Nature would seem to allow: Indeed a Directive Power without Coercive, is an Engine to pull down the honour of a Prince, and to exalt the stubborn humour of every Male-contented Subject, a fit Project for Rome; and some brain-sick Millenarie, who in his hot fit dreameth of a Crown for himself on Earth. But our Thesis intends to Subject the Clergy of Rome (for our own, they readily acknowledg it, and live) in a subjection to the directive Government of the Christian Magistrate, as the Rule of their Duty, and to the Coercive Government as the just Rule of punishment for neglect of their duties.

Clergy.

Fourthly, Where the Government secular is not Christian, yet in all just ment, though and lawful commands, the Clergy is subject to the Directive Power of it; not Christian, and in commands unjust and unlawful, their Persons and Estates are under Power Direct the Coercive Power, though it should be exercised to the highest degree of ive and Coer- Persecution: And I do not remember beside Prayers, Supplications, eive over the Patience, and Tears, any remedy left them for the last relief, but an The Summary Princes, who are supposed Christians, and not Heathens. honest, peaceable and justifiable slight from their rage, and cruelty. I added this over and above, seeing our Thesis speaks of subjection to of the Thesis, then the Clergy, who by the Pope and his Law are exempt from the jurisdiction of the secular Prince in all cases, are so sar from a due and rightful claim to such exemption, that in all cases Civil and Criminal. and Ecclesiastical, they are both as to their Persons and Estates, subject to the Directive and Coercive Power of the Secular Prince, be he a Christian, or Heathen Magistrate; in so much, that the Clergy owe him an Active obedience in the due and lawful exercise of his Directive Power: and in the undue exercise thereof, the Clergy as others owe him a Passive obedience, and neither may resist by force, or appeal from him to a Forreigner, to evade or null his Coercive Power. The state of the Position thus laid down, I come to the second thing:

proposed. viz. To prove that the Clergy are subject to the Secular.

1. First, I arque from the Text; a Majore ad Minus; St. Paul was a Clergy man, fitter to be trusted with such an exemption from obedience to the Secular Prince, than any of our Present Clergy: And if any such Prition, therefore viledg had been given by Christ, or had been inherent in the Office. he would have known it, claimed it, and flood on it; But St. Paul none for him. knew none fuch, stood not upon any such Priviledg: Therefore surely there is none such inherent in the Clergy, or annexed to the Clergy.

Rom. 1. 1. & I think there is not much doubt to be made, whether 1. He were a Gal. 1. 1. Clergy-man, who had his commission from God and Christ, without the ceremonies with which men do ordain to that Office. Or 2. Whe-

His filence in the Case hath done the Church much cil of Rome; wrong, which date the Immunities, some Centuries later than Paul's and of Paltime. 5. Whereas, Had he been as Zealous, and Wise as our Koman chal 3. then P. Priests now are; He had been more faithful to his Trust, and we had Tho. Recket's more clearly proved our Right. Farther yet, 6. his Prince and Benefactor, who found Tho. Becket most resolute to exempt the Clergy, though guilty of Murthers, from the judgment of the Secular Prince; that he might preserve the usurped Priviledges of the Church, when Reason, Law, and Gods own Word required just execution on fuch crimes proved against the Clergy.

And of later years, the like bred a quarrel betwixt the Serene Republick of Venice, and Paul the fifth.

* It is Bellarmine's Evasion, and Suarez approves it, qui dicit Paulum non jure sed facto Casarem appellasse .-- Nam jurisdictione exemptus erat utiq; jure divino sed quia alia ratione non poterat inimicorum infidias Evitare.

I conclude therefore this Argument, the Clergy of this present Age, and of Ages past are as much under the Secular Government as was St. Paul; But he was so much under it, that he accounted himself happy, that he might have a candid hearing before the Secular Power, and could find no Priviledg to exempt himself: Therefore neither have our present Clergy any such Priviledg of exemption, and should acknow-ledg it a happiness to defend a just cause before an Impartial Judg, and no wrong to be adjudged to a deferved correction for any crime condemned by the righteous Laws of their Sovereign Prince.

2. What was just and right, and ought to be owned by St. Paul a. Clergy-man in the point of subjection to the Secular Power, that is just, right, & ought to be owned in the point of subjection to the Secular Authority now by the Clergy. This Proposition I think will need no proof. and if it should we shall meet with due place for it. But S. Paul owned this Subjection as what was just, right, and which ought to be. Now this Proposition is almost in express terms in that, Act. 25. 10. (6) Lastly, what-ever weakness or obscurity may be in my arguing from the Text, yet I am fure the Text doth more plainly and more irrefragably affert Cafars Jurisdiction over this eminent Ecclesiastick than all the Texts produced to that end do prove the exemption of the Clergy from the Civil Magistrates Judgment, or their Subjection to the Pope. I cannot renounce common sense at so easie a rate as to fay Christ said thrice to Peter, feed; &c. therefore the Pope is the Supream Judg of Ecclesiastick Persons and Causes in the whole Church; or if I were so easie an Arguer I should through the frailty of clear sense more readily make this Heretical Conclusion, All Clergy-men inferiour to Saint Paul ought to own their Subjection to the Civil Authority without appeal from the Supream Power of their Prince; because St. Paul owned it his duty, and Casars right by that Confession, I stand before Cesars Judgment-seat where I ought to be judged. If the Romanists be of his opinion, who when he was told that it was the Doctrine of St. Paul, which was afferted in opposition to his Tenet, made a quick reply, I am not of Pauls mind, I shall not take my felf bound to reconcile them to his opinion; if we cannot have their company herein, we shall not much want it whilest we have such good company as St. Paul and Cafar. Third Proof. from Scripcure.

Thirdly, I argue Clergy-men, Bodies and Estates are as other Subjects under the Government of the Secular Prince : Thus, They who are included in the Community, on whom the Word of God chargeth Subjection to Princes as a duty, are under the Government of the Prince. None can doubt this who doubt not that all is duty which the Divine Law chargeth on us in our places; But now the Clergy are included in the Community, which is apparent by that universal Proposition of the Apostle in Rom. 13. 1. Let every foul be subject to the higher Powers. It is now exploded (though pretending to Origen as to the Author) that this is meant of the Animal, not Spiritual man, i.e. the Clergy-man. Time Erasmus in loc. was when such a gloss passed current with some whose Interest it was the Scripture should be elided, rather than plain duty underflood; and the aspiring ambition of Papal Clergy nipt in the bud. Now it is clear, that the Apostle retaineth the Hebrem Dialect, Every foul, i.e. dixit pro omni every man. So that either our Papal Clergy must disclaim their kindred with Mankind, or else with their whole Family be subject to the

And that you may know to whom Tribute is due, the Apofile telleth you, it is to him that beareth the Sword, who hath Power ·Civil, and Secular, verf. 4.

> Neither would I advise Boniface to thrust in here swaggering with his two Swords; for here is not room for him, the place is designed for one who hath but one Sword, and who came honeftly by it, and can give a good account thereof as he is the Minister of God, a terrour to those that do evil, and revenger to execute wrath, not to excommu nicate. In a word this place doth so peremptorily subject all Persons to the Civil Power, that I must needs though somewhat related to the Glergy, profess the Text makes equal Subjection our duty; and gratitude to the favour of our Prince maketh our Exemptions (whatever they are) at once our Priviledges above our Neighbours; and our debts to our Prince.

Fourthly, The Apostle St. Paul diresteth Titus to preach Obedience and Fourth Scrip-Subjection due to Principalities and Magistrates from Christians with- ture Proof. out any exception of Persons, Tit. 3. 1. Nay, if you enquire who they are that Titus must put in mind to be subject, you cannot refer it to other than such persons as by St. Pauls direction were committed to his care and teaching, among which you will cap. 1: find the Clergy-Elders, ver. 5. 7808 BTUS901, and Bishops, ver. 6. existence. These are some of those whom Titus must put in mind to obey Magistrates. How much doth the Papal Clergy. need such a Monitor to cool their fervours to their Ecclesiastical Immunities, and to kindle their decay'd zeal for Obedience to the Civil Powers. Whence I thus reason, Those that Titus is commanded to mind of their Obedience to Magistrates, were of right under the Government of the Magistrate; But Presbyters and Bishops, i.e. Clergy-men were some of those who were to be so minded by him: Therefore they: are of Right under the Government of the Civil Magistrate. This is the Theopoliteia of St. Paul. But lest you should doubt he had not good will enough to the Successors and Clients of St. Peter, out of an old quarrel that fell out between him and St. Peter, when the Doctor of the Gentiles was so bold with the Prince of Apostles, that he did charge him with dissimulation, a very small and dwarfish fault in St. Peter, and hugely improved in his Successors. Who knows whether a spice of this old grudg were not strew'd on the injunctions of Obedience, and Subjection to the Civil Power? But what was St. Peters opinion in the case?

Fifthly, St. Peter then in Epist. 1. chap. 2. 13, 14, 15, 16, verses, doth FifthScripture very unluckily for his Successors and their Clergy fall into the same Proof. strain of Subjecting the Clergy as well as others; for he doth without exception require of all Christians that they submit themselves; i.e. their Persons, and by consequence their Estates, to every Ordinance of Man, whether to the King, &c. How unhappily forgetful was he of his Vicar! not one word of him and his Supremacy but all reserved intire to the King, and Inferiour Magistrates sent by the King, to whom all a Christians within his Dominions are to submit themselves.

But in those days Christians were under Persecution, and it would not have been prudence to have published their Priviledges, and to have exempted the Clergy. It seems Rome hath long understood by unwritten Verities and Apostolical Traditions, that Peter thought one thing, and wrote another. But the spite is; he doth excuthedra, determine this where certainly he is Infallible; fince his Succeffors in afterages claim the Infallible Priviledg in vertue of that first Grant made to Peter; who in practice did once what his Successors do very often without impair of their Infallibility err (in genere morum) as to practice, but cannot in Doctrine. Well, sure Peter did thus direct prudentially, and temporising! not so, his Reasons do as it salls out assure us he did own it as a perpetual Doctrine and Rule; for 1. It is for the Lords sake, vers. 13. And this farther, 2. is the will of the Lord; and 3. that by so doing they might stop the mouths of the soolish and ignorant; who among the Heathens were ready to charge the Christians without any ground given, with that, which on just reasons from the seditious and rebellious practices of well-nigh a thousand years contessing with the Civil Supream Power, Rome hath given the soolish Hereticks to object against them; but in the words of Royal mouth, Their Faith is faction, and their Religion Rebellion.

Sixth Scripture Ptoof.

Now to all these add we in the fixth place this Scripture-Argument; That the Clergy whether ordinary Priests, or the High-Priests, or Prophets, once were and that (jure) of right subject to the Government of the Secular Power, and were bound to appear and give account of themselves to the Civil Power in case they were accused and summoned. So when Ahimelech and the Priests that dwelt at Nob were accused and summoned to give account of themselves, and what they had done for David; they obey and appear before Saul their King, 11 Sam. 22, 11. Who indeed did as cruelly and tyrannically adjudg them to death as they had dutifully and readily obey'd his Summons. But now fure if there had been any Priviledg of exemption, some one or other among those fourscore and five Priests would have known it, and pleaded it before they had been so unmercifully Butchered; but here is not one word of all this, no exception to the Judg as incompetent, no deprivation, and degradation from the Priesthood, in order to reduce them to the Secular and Layflate: No delivering them by the Ecclesiastick State into the hands of the Secular Power; in which and such like formalities the Romish Priest (if at any time he be so unbefriended and unhappy) is stript of his Clerical Immunities, and delivered over to the Civil Sword. It is a Riddle Rome will hardly unfold with dexterity, that Eighty-five Priests should have neither knowledg of such a Priviledg, nor courage to plead it for faving their life. I need not advise a Seminary Priest apprehended and in danger of condemnation, to seek a Precedent at Nob; he knows he shall lose his labour; it is Rome only that shaves the head, and then as facred forbids Kings to meddle with it. Yet lest the Tyranny of Saul whom the Scripture notes for this, or the meanness of the sufferers should any whit invalidate the instance, let us look a little lower where we find Abiathar deprived of the Priestly Office by Solomon, 1 King. 2. 26, 27. Who commanded that he should get him to Anathoth, ver. 26. and thrust him from being Priest before the Lord, ver. 27. The chief Priests among mong the Hebrews as they were put in by the Kings, so for grievous faults they might be put out, or punishe with death by the Kings, for they were Summi Sacer-Subjects, and while the King fat the High Priest stood. So Grotius on the dotes apud Hiplace.

Now the Case is altered at Rome, and hath been long since. Abiathar came and (on his appearance) received sentence of Judgment from his An.Dom. 683. Soveraign: But Sergius the first was of a more unvielding mettal, and though the Emperour Justinian the second, sent for him to Constantinople, to answer for his Disobedience to his Soveraign, who required him to receive the Canons of the Council of Trullo; yet this Pope found Partizans among his fellow-Subjects, who had less manners than to obey their Emperour, and more love to the Pope than to let him take so dangerous a Journey, and he good man would not be so unkind as to go a- zacharias Progainst the will of those who offered violence to the extraordinary Pur- to Spatharius. Suivant that summoned him. Nay men of less Authority have taken on them to refuse Obedience to the Summons of their Soveraign. Thus Anno 1164, Thomas Becket though a greater Saint than Sergius, yet of a lower rank or there a-bouts. in Power refused to appear before King Henry II. and his Council of Anno 1103. Nobles at Notrhampton. Nor was Anselm's carriage much more dutiful to his Soveraign King Henry I. to whom he refused to do Homage as was required and had been performed by his Predecessors.

By these Instances it appears that both ordinary Priests, nay the High-Priest himself among the Jews, were under the coercive Government of the Kings of Israel, whose Authority the Prophets, though by extraordinary call they may with reason be thought in some respect above the High-Priest, submitted unto without appeal to a Superiour, or exception to the incompetency of their Judgment. So did the Prophet Submit to Asa, 2 Chron. 16. 10. and patiently did bear the hasty judgment of his angry Soveraign; no noise here of an appeal, no mention made of Immunities, of his Office, or Priviledg of the Clergy. The Seer doth not (what once the Servant of Philip the Macedonian King did) appeal from Asa good King in a bad humour, to Asa a better Judg in a good humour. How would an Anselm, a Becket, a Brandelino Valdemarino, or Scipio Saraceno have hust and hector'd his Prince for such usage as H2nani from Asa, or Feremiah from Zedekiah and his Princes, Fer. 38.5,6. found. But those great Clerks (so let me call the Prophets) pretended to no such exemption in those days, and yet Feremiah had so ample commission that the Pope desireth no more to be granted him of Kings and Princes, and thinks this enough to fet him above them all whilest he offers a violence to that Text, (Fer. 1.10. I have set thee over the Nations, and over the Kingdoms of the Earth.) Great as the violence he offers to the Emperours Crown and Soveraign Dignity. But it admits a plea whether to his excuse in part or to his greater shame, let the Impartial Judg without violence to both the Text and Princes, he had 15st his longing, for neither do freely grant the Popes that Supremacy they must have, or they miscarry, though I think it was not the denial hereof was the cause of the miscarriage of the Female Pope; though both mother and brat too (I do guess, for I find not a word of this Popes Nieces or Nephews) died in the Child-bearing: Yet be it or better or by more than worse for our own Clergy, or the shavelings of Rome; the Secular Aufifty Authors thority did once govern the Clergy in the Church of the Fews; and ordinary Priests, the High-Priest and Prophets themselves submitted to it; whence our obedient and learned Clergy have example to their dutifulness, and the Papal Clergy a reproof of their disloyalty; and our Thesis hath a good evidence of its truth; which I shall now endeavour to prove by some farther Reasons (though I think enough to make out the truth hath been already delivered perhaps Reason may convince some who are not willing to see the truth in Scripture-precedents.

> 1. This were to make either a native subject equal to his Soveraign Prince, or to render a considerable body of his People Subjects to a forreigner; which appears thus: If the body of the Clergy (and the orders of the professed Religious) be only subject and under the sole Government of one of their own Profession; and whoever is a native this person is and his Succeffors will be (when advanced to the Supremacy and Ecclefiaftical Soveraignty) set up in a power Independent on his Prince, and uncontroulable by his Prince, and so of a subject be made a Soveraign over the Clergy, whose obedience will be withdrawn from the Prince to the Ecclesiastical head, and Supream; or, If this Person, who is supposed Ecclesiastical Soveraign, and who ought to govern the Religious and the Clergy, be a forreigner, then he that by birth and blood is a stranger to the Prince becomes by this means the Lord and Soveraign over the

2. This would lessen all the Princes and Soveraigns of the world in three things effential to the very being and stability, as well as to the Glory and Grandeur of their Kingly Thrones and Majesty; It would lessen their Freedom and liberty in making Laws for their whole Kingdom, and ere they can resolve on that Ordinance which they do apprehend will be for univerfal good of their Kingdom, they must enquire of the Ecclessastical Exempts whether such a Law would not violate the Ecclesiastical liberty, and ask them leave to make it, or else they shall be taught as Auselm and Becket would teach their Soveraigns, or as Paul the fifth taught the Duke of Savoy, and the State of Genoua, and would fain have taught the State of Venice, but they proved stubborn Scholars, and enforced that presuming tutor to forgo the Lecture.

Next it would lessen their Authority in commanding obedience to Laws made; the Exempt Clergy would undoubtedly first consider, whether the Obedience required were not an infraction of their Immunities and how far it intrenched on the liberty of the Church, and when this is brought to an issue who does not see that the General priviledge pretended untieth the (Vinculum necessariæ & debitæ observantiæ) bond of a necessary Obedience which is due of Right to the Magistrate, and leaves the Exempt to the free determination, whether of good nature and volun-Tenentur Chritary choice he will comply with his Prince, or whether Prudence will ci obligatione not rather determine to secure their pretended Priviledg, and deny that non coastiva to their Prince, which (they pretend) he hath no right to command. would leave in their hands, who in Criminal cases of highest nature will so boldly deny them all power to judg Ecclesiasticks. Certainly by the same justice he taketh away power of judging by Laws Civil, he will also (when time serveth, and with equal right) deny them a power to make Laws to regulate the Obedience of the Ecclesiasticks, or if there be some daring Prince will venture to make the Law, the Pope, or who-ever shall be suppos'd the absolute Soveraign over the Clergy. shall by the injured Clergy have timely notice to interpose a Prohibition that the Obedience be not exacted, nor a non-Obedience to such Laws punisht. 2. Reas. They that are by the Word of God bound to pray for the Secular Prince as for a Soveraign under whose Power and Authority they do live and enjoy the quiet and prosperity of their life, are certainly under the Government of the Secular Prince, both as to their Persons or Bodies, and as to their Estates or Goods, which have no small share in the peace and quiet that they (hould defire to enjoy. I think little doubt can be made of this Proposition, or any thing contained in it; for it speaketh not of Pravers which (ex debito Charitatia) out of Christian charity we ought to make for all men, and specially for men in great Power who through a just favour may much advantage the Church of God. But we speak of Prayers that are to be made for particular Rulers under whom we either were born, or by Gods over-ruling Providence are for present determined. Now the Scripture doth thus direct, I Tim. 2. 1, 2. I exbort therefore (saith St. Paul) that first of all Supplications, &c. be made for * สะอุตุผลงฉั, all men, for Kings, &c. * In which words you have a Canon of the

* Δι ηνεχώς υπες δής βασιλέιας αυδών όπως ασάλευτΟ διαμένη,ποοευχόμεθα:

This Text then requireth those that pray to look on those Kings and Magistrates which in the Apostles words are Barines & er copoxis, for whom they pray, as Kings over them, as their Rulers, and so confequently they must acknowledg themselves the Ruled or Subjects, according to the rule, That Relates do mutually suppose each other. In a Relata le muword or two that the Clergy must pray for Kings, and for those that are two ponunt: in Authority is certain enough from the comprehensive words of the Text: But for what Kings, &c. if for forreign, how much more for their own? If for their own then is it only that they may give good counsels, and by them direct the Clergy? This hath very little availed with resolute and turbulent Clergy-men, and can as little contribute to quieting the life of the disturbed as it can restrain, punish, and by coercive Power chastise the disturbers, which if it be (by an ill chance as often it hath been) found to proceed from the Clergy, alas the Prince is lest helpless, and the Laity is lest hopeless. And we had need to have another manner of address, viz. That all Men and Kings, and all in Authority should pray for the Clergy, that they may be good-natur'd, wife and thankful to God for their Immunities, that they may abuse none of their Immunities to the disturbance of the Prince or Laity, and so had we need the Text be changed.

Reaf. 3. The Clergy are bound to give an Exemplary Obedience and Fidelity to their King, that by their Example the People who are committed to them for Instruction may be induced to and settled in a their Obedience and Allegiance; but such an Example is not given, but rather a contrary example of disobedience, disrespect, and contumacy, by a pretended exemption of the Clergy; they are not then exempt, but ought to be in body and state, or goods under the Civil Government. Thus briefly they that by God are commanded to give Exemplary Obedience to Civil Government, are as to their Persons and Goods under the Civil Government; But the Clergy are so commanded: Therefore they are under it. The Major Proposition can admit no doubt; for such a command from God makes our Obedience due to such a Government; the only dispute can be whether God hath commanded the Clergy to give example of fuch Obedience now? Thus I prove it; God commands them Exemplary doing what is to be done for the Lords sake, and what is to be done for Conscience sake; the Clergy more than others are bound by their Profession to let the World know that they are Conscientious, and that they act for the Lords sake: But now Obedience to Civil Magistrates is so commanded for the Lords sake, 1 Pet. 2.13. and it is commanded for Conscience too, Rom. 13.5. That the Clergy are comprehended in those general commands, as I have already proved, so now I say to confirm it, That where the Scripture doth not, they cannot except themselves.

Obedience to the Civil Government is every-where but at Rome, and in her appendant Schools a Moral vertue, and a necessary Ingredient to make an honest and vertuous man. And therefore the Loyal Moralists, the wife Law-givers, with best warrant of Reason and Religion always required it in all Subjects, only Rome, (where it matters not how much blind obedience to the Pope, or how little Religion toward God they find in their Clergy), taketh care that their Clergy be not mancipated to the strict Rules of Political vertues, lest of good Citizens and obedient Subjects, they should insensibly lapse into a differviceableness to the Papal Tyranny. But we must, guided by Reason and Scripture, acknowledg Allegiance a very great vertue, wherein (as in other vertues) the

Keas. 4. They who do defend their Persons and their Goods by the Authority and Power of the Civil Government, ought in all equity and reafon to bear and profess true Allegiance to the Governours and Government. The right which is done for them in such cases obligeth them to this duty, and the benefit from Governours to the Governed is a most just reason for Obedience from the Subject to the Prince. The Apostle St. Peter intimates this as one ground of Obedience, 1 Pet. 2. 13, 14. Be ye subject, &c. Why? because Governours are eis ensinuour naκοποιών, appointed to restrain the injurious, and oppressive by judging condemning and punishing their injustice. They are also eis saayor 'Aya' Dowoior, for the praise of those that do well; Protecting, rewarding, and praising them. The benefit we enjoy should in reason bind us to the obedience and submillion we owe our Governours.

By this Argument St. Paul prest the Christians at Rome to Obedience, Rom. 13. 3. For Rulers are not a terrour to good works, but to the evil, &c. Do good and thou shalt have praise of the same, so vers. 4th. The Ruler is the Minister of God for good, &c. therefore be ye subject. And this is the Prophets reason, Pray for the Prace of the City, &c. But it's Babilon; true, but in the Peace thereof you shall enjoy peace, Jer. 29. 1. with ver. 7. So then the Argument holds good in the Prophets and Apostles Logick; They who enjoy the benefits of a Government must be obedient to the Government. And I would fain know what will become of all the pleas which the Romanists make for the Preheminence of Clergy-men if this foundation be not folid and good; the great benefits the Laity reap from the counsel and labours of the Clergy, they judg reason enough for the Laity's Subjection to them. In a word to speak Reason with Impartiality in the case, Let those that are benefited, be submissive to and observant of those by whom they are benefited, then the common people & all the Laity will duly observe in Spiritual cases the counsel & authority of their Spiritual Guides, and the Clergy in Civil and Secular Cases will be left where Christ and St. Peter did Teave them under the Civil and Secular Prince to be governed by him. There is indeed Beneficia confe- a dispute whether the Right of Governing be originally in the Berunt jus & po- nefactor, because of the Benefit he bestows, or on some other account; but there is no dispute, nor will it admit any, whether the Fifthly, What Priviledges and exemptions for their Persons or Estates, mines, ad offrom common or publick burthens and services the Clergy do enjoy, they do ficium jure deenjoy through the favour of their Prince or Governour, who pleaseth to re-bitum commomit to them, what there may be some reason to persmade, but no Law, or vendi. Right to command from the Prince: Who as at first he saw Reason to grant that favour, so will (I believe) continue it until he see a sufficient cause to recal his own Grant; which suture cause may (by conjecture from what already hath been acted in our view) soonest arise from an usurping Ingratitude (the hereditary infirmity of the Papal See) which never giveth to any, what it can by fraud or force keep to pontificious in it seif: as the Grave and Impartial Author of the Council of Trent more positum, de well observeth, on the Pompatick and Ridiculous Act of Paul the dere, or quod Fourth; giving the Kingly Title over Ireland to Queen Mary, who justis dominis had derived it from her Father, and her Brother, and had assumed it to auserve mqueher self at her first coming to the Crown. Such Legerdemain hath unt, id ips. long past at Rome, coined with the impress of gratitude or bounty, conc. And when this shall come to pass, the Christian World shall less majestatis, understand the mistake of the Canonists in their Law; which affert, quia non est That the Clergy, and all their Goods, are by Divine right free from the subditus Regi-Power of Secular Princes. proveth a Universal, Publick inconvenience or mischief it ought to be reversed. Now Ecclesiastick Persons do owe their Immunities from personal Services and Tributes to the favour of their Secular Prince: Therefore their Persons and Goods are under their Government. If this do not appear evident, I would have a Papist tell me; What had been the Case of the Clergy, if such Immunities had never been Granted? Had they not been under the Civil Magistrate? What if necessity awaken the Civil Magistrate, and he seeth in point of prudence and safety, that these Exemptions and Immunities may not be continued, and fo by a Law revokes them, Doth not the Clergy thereby return to their pristine Subjection? Ecclesiastical Immunities for the Bodies and Goods of the Ecclefiasticks are introduced, Ture humano, by the Law of Man; if no such Law had been made, or on just cause hereaster shall be repeal'd, no such Exemption had ever been, or else had been null'd though once granted; if no such Exemption had been granted, then had these Ecclesiasticks been equally subject with the non-exempt, and from it, wholly of a different nature, viz. Spiritual; and therefore cannot in Reason claim Immunities which are in their nature Secular and Civil: Such are these we have been discoursing of. Now, every one may foon know, that the Priviledges of every rank of men, are suitable to the Nature of that Office or Relation wherein they stand; so Civil Offices have the Immunities which are Civil, and Spiritual Offices are invested with Spiritual Immunities; as it is not a Privilede due to a Christian as Christian, to be exempt from the Coercive Power of the Civil Magistrate; so neither is the Priviledg of the Clergy by vertue of their Office so great as to advance them above the Power of the Prince: God who knew what Priviledges were fittest for each Order of men. would fure have told us that the Clergy should be free from the Government of the Civil Magistrate, if he had either made or intended an Exemption in all Civil Cases should be a Priviledg to Ecclesiastick Per-Lib. de clericis sons. But Bellarmine himself confesseth, that there is not one Word of cap. 28. Nullum God proving such Immunities due to the Clergy. It were a great difpotest proferri order, and would bring in a confusion upon the Universe to allow such ista exemptio a mixture; for why is not the Irrational creature raised to the Priviledges of the Humane Nature? What answer would a Shaveling give me to the question? Or why is the Humane Nature determined to a Satisfaction, with Priviledges below the Angelical? Is it not because their Natures are different? Well, why is this a satisfactory account of different Priviledges in different Ranks of Natural Beings, and may not be alike satisfactory, in the different kinds of Moral and Political Beings and Orders? These are as different as the other. It were a monstrous birth should a bruit bring forth somewhat half bruit and

Now then, one of these two must be afferted by the exempt Clergy:

1. Either that they were never born Subjects, and so were in different sense from the Apostle born free. If they like not this, say

2. Or else though born Subjects, their Holy Orders have nulled that unum Gallia natural Allegiance, and defeated the Prince of fo many Subjects as have regnum been made Clerks. If this be the Case,

I would enquire whence is this corroding quality in the IndelibleCharacter, to eat out what is engraven so deep in our Natures by the God of Order and Nature? Certainly Christ and his Apostles never so tempered it: But Rome who found the bonds of Allegiance were fetters on them, restraining them from their resolved Usurpations, and hindring their growing Ambition, refolve what-ever comes on't; These Bonds must be broken, and these Cords must be cast off (to allude to that, Pfal. 2.) and it must be done by some curious engine too; for else the noise of it would give an Allarm: In one word, The Grace of God in Christ to his Church, hath been so far from abolishing any, that it hath mightily fortified on all the bonds of Natural and just necessary Relations, in all forts of men, Civil, and Sacred, and commands Ecclesiastical Persons as well as Civil, to observe the just Laws of those Princes, to whom Nature had before made them Subjects. It is not Christ's Canon, but the Canon of Antichrist, which to make good Clerks spoils good Citizens. Had the truth in this been as confistent with Papal designs, as the distinct duties of a good Subject, and Sacred Person are consistent in one Person, I had neither troubled you and my felf, nor had they troubled the World with this Controversy; It were time for Princes to command no more Priests should be made. until Rome, or who else do pretend the same Prerogative, had learnt to preserve a Loyal and good Citizen, while they make an Ecclesiastical Officer: might my motion be heard, they only should confer Orders on Subjects who had learnt this skill.

Eighthly, And lastly, were this a Truth, That the Clergy were both as to Bodies and Estates not under the Government of the Civil Magifirate, How could the Primitive Christians, the Martyred Bishops, the perfecuted Clergy, avow it to the World, that Christianity did not teach any thing destructive or dangerous to Commonwealths and Civil Governments.? How great an impudence would it be in it felf to deny ? Or how greatly would it have been to the shame of the suffering Christians, if that their adversaries could charge on them, that they professed a Religion which directly spoil'd the Magistrate of his Coercive Power over their Priests, and Indirectly, i. e. in ordine ad spiritualia, in relation to spirituals, spoiled him of his Coercive Power over the rest of his Subjects. the Christians principled and perswaded. Might he not with some colour of Reasons plead, You have spoil'd me of Supreme Authority over Sacred Persons this scoff, that their Bodies and Estates, as too Holy to be commanded by the polluted hands of Secular Princes: And I judg the Persons of Priests and Christians too Holy to meddle with the polluting things of this World, and Heaven more will, in ordine ad spiritualia, free them from those cares and businesses? Had there been a proof made before any one Tribunal of the Roman Emperours, that the Christian Religion had published, maintained, and practifed such a Proposition; the impartial World would soon have pull'd off the mask, and shew'd undeniably that those pretended Martyrs were not condemned for the profession of their speculative opinions, or the owning of the Truth of the History of Christ: but that these pretended Martyrs were real and avowed Traytors, enemies to Cafar, to the Civil Government, and dangerous usurpers on the Supreme Authority of the Prince. Such Martyrs indeed may now be talkt of in Rome; but what impartial Judg will not condemn the Treasonableness of the crime which deserved, and the Impudence of the Plea which defends the sufferers, who died for disloyal rejection of their Native Prince, and traiterous subjecting themselves to the Power. of a Forreigner, enemy to him in whose Kingdom they do flourish or might flourish?

Now after so much Reason pleaded for the subjection of the Clergy in Civil Causes to the Civil Magistrate, it may perhaps seem to some incredible, that any Doctrine by any Doctor should be avowed contrary hereunto; can there be such an unreasonable opinion entertain'd, or maintained by any? The next thing proposed for to be treated, will plain exempt the Clergy from the Coactive Power of a Civil Magistrate against Nature, Reason, and Religion. How far they would allow the Directive Power if time favoured them, I give you leave to guess from the late instance of Pope Urban, 1622. and Pope Innocent the Tenth; This latter interposing between the French King, requiring Cardinal de Retz to renounce his Title or pretence to the Archbishoprick of Paris. reviving the old Maxime. That Princes ought not to be Suffered to meddle in Ecclesiastical affairs, this being to put their Sickle too boldly in another man's barvest: The former refusing to admit Ferdinand 2. his Embasfadour extraordinary which was Cardinal Pasman, for avoiding (as the tom. I. part. 3. excellent Historian Bapt. Nani reports it) to admit such an Embassadour, be alledged, that a Cardinal honoured with the Purple and a Holy Characi-

History of Venice. lib. 9. er could not be employ'd in the service of Secular Princes.

This is plain dealing however, and so far Princes are obliged; that: they will speak their minds sometimes freely. Now I see if Clergymen offend the Laws, Princes are ill-natur'd to punish, because Clergymen owe them obedience to Directive Laws; And if they employ them in a matter unwelcome to his Holiness, the Princes make too bold with them that bear the Impress of a Holy Character; so precarious must the Rule of Princes be over an exempted Clergy. Yet, What Reason may be supposed for this? Certainly so great a Priviledg cannot in Reafon be pretended by wife and honest men, to be warranted by light and trivial Arguments.

Two forts of Arguments I usually meet with urged; First, Drawn The Reasons, ab Indecoro, from the unseemliness of subjecting the Clergy to the Government of the Civil Magistrate, and this hath three indecencies in it;

of which by and by.

The Second drawn a Jure, from their Right to be exempted, and this also is threefold, of which ere long. Mean time return we to the first.

It is, say the Fapal Orators, a very unseemly thing that the Clergy 1. Ab indeshould be so subjected. For my part if there be an Indecency in it, I could be glad the Indecency were removed. I should think some advantage would thereby accrew to the Reformed Clergy; but without Spectacles of the Papal make, we shall never be able to descry the Indecencies; let us borrow Cardinal Bellarmin's and with them look how

2. An Indecency I confess there is that a Clergy-man should by any mis-judged by demeanor deserve it: But as the Fathers in the Council of Trent sometime them he argued to their advantage: Customs manners and humours alter, and preached to. what was handsome of old becomes unhandsome now; and besides, indecent in Countrys differ, nothing more graceful than to be mounted on a white the case. As among the Fews; but the Pope would refent it as an high affront if Indecencies as his Catholick Majesty should by a strange activity (like the Transub-men fancy. stantiating act of the Priest) turn the white Neapolitan Courser into an As for the Tribute due to his Holiness for the Kingdom of Naples, and fend it for him to ride on. In a word all we heretical Protestants (and a No Protestant great many of the good Catholicks of all Countrys) fancy to our felves, can fee this That it is very meet to fee a Cleary man preaching to his Prince from Indecency, &c. I never knew the full weight of this Argument before I had met of the World. with the information that Stanislius Orichorius gave me, That every common Priest does is much excel a King as a beast does excel a man. Now Answer'ds by this Rule it were as much pity to see a King judg, condemn, and cause to be hang'd, or headed a Priest, as it would be to see a Horse, or As by an usurped power turn upon and execute his Master and driver. In a word when I see the usurping beast so use a man I will endeavour to prevent the absurdity: But if ever it be my lot to see or hear and Soveraign Prince judg, condemn, and put to death a shaveling, and one of Romes Consecrated Priests, (or one of a more reformed profession) under the guilt of capital crimes, I should desire the Father to excuse me untill I saw as clearly as Stanislaus did. The Priest was the man, and the King the beaft; and ere that will be, my help will a stand him in as much stead as a pardon doth after the Criminal is hanged: Lastly I wonder Kings will endure such absurdities when they might prevent it; let Rome make their Priest less, and account Kings: greater; or if this superlative Greatness be essential to the Priesthood,". I humbly submit the resolution, whether it were not fitter such a Priesthood should be abolish than all Kings be thus made Asses, (and without impair of their Intellectuals, and without the exemplary miracle.

But a puff will better blow away a feather than a mighty engin, and all the cost and labour would be lost that were bestow'd to bring Cannon, Spade, Mattocks and Engineers to overthrow a poor hutt, or cottage. From these pals we to the second fort of Arguments.

2. Sort of Pleas a Jure Divino. Answer.

A Fure Huma-

A Fure Divino, saith the Canonist, by Divine Right; but the Canonist who faith it bath the wit to let us feek the Text, for he takes not himself bound in duty to cite it, and we deserve not the kindness that he should do more than he thinks himself obliged unto: Others of the fraternity diffent and think they have reason to pretend the Immunities to be Ture Humano; and until they agree how the Clergy among them came no answered, by these Immunities we shall not think it breach of charity or good manners to tell them, we wish they came honefly by so rich a Commodity; certainly Christ never gave it them, nor do the more modest pretend his gift, they are content with the collation by Popes Decretals first, or next by favour of General Councils, ever fince the Papal Power grew too great for Kings and Emperours; ever fince the one: durst not contemn, and the other was so hardy as to denounce Excommunications against infringers of the Immunities Ecclesiastical. These two will prove their Right to these Immunities in any place, and at any time where Power and Injustice are too great to be called to account: And as good Right they have to these Immunities as the Pope and Councils could give them, and I hope you will believe the Pope and his Councils would not fail to invest their sworn Vassals with power enough to disturb the Civil power, and lessen it, that the Monarchy of the Papal Church might more speedily and safely be aggrandized; they have these Priviledges indeed from the Ringleaders in the Conspiracy to strengthen it against the just Authority and Soveraignty of Princes. And now you clearly see how honestly they come by it, ask their fellows whether they be thieves?

But a third Plea is from the Favour of Princes they enjoy these Immunities. True, the more is their ingratitude and shame, they abuse that favour to the lessening of their Prince; who hath too often had many occasions given him to repent his Grant, to restrain his favour, and to teach the unthankful Clergy more duty, by requiring more. What the Prince giveth they enjoy without our envy, or complaint; let them keep within those bounds, and I will not disturb them. Finally to conclude this point, now the Clergy (in all places of the world where the Prince is Christian) enjoy many considerable Immunities Jure Humano, which Immunities they never had Right to claim, till the Prince had Will to give; And which they may not expect to enjoy, when either abuse of them provokes the Prince to revoke them, or emergent inconveniencies perswade him to diminish or null them. What is so granted, is neither Immutable in its Constitution, nor ever intended to the publick prejudice of the Prince and State; nor can it exalt the Clergy into a state of absoluteness and non-subjection to the Prince; or if you would imagin a foft Prince should so inadvertently, and in a transport of zeal to the Clergy and Church, grant them such a Priviledg (as the Roman Clergy right or wrong will pretend unto) yet good Statists and best Reason will tell them, that the Grant being made to the prejudice of the Crown, it is neither good nature nor manners, nor justice to require it of their Prince, whose honour and dignity they are bound to conserve; Errante clave, the Infallible Decrees are null, say some Romanists; Errante Sceptro, Civil Grants to Subjects become Nullities. And such are the uncontroulable Immunities of the unsubjected Roman Clergy, to whom Princes had been less kind had they foreseen what use would be made of their Royal favours, and to whom they are not less equal and just though for their Crowns and Honour more resolved and prudent in recalling the ungovernable Ecclefiasticks to that Subjection, which they ought in equal degrees and readiness with other Subjects give unto their Prince, whether by affistances from their Estates, or by their Persons; both being, as our Thesis averreth, under the Government of the Civil or Secular Prince.

After so prolix Discourse on the positive part of our Position; I come to a briefer handling of the Negative parts of it, which was the fifth and last thing I proposed in the method of our proceeding. And so,

1. Consect. The highest Power and Authority Ecclesiastical, as such, is lower than the Soveraign and Supream in all Matters Civil and Secular in what man or body of men so ever it be pretendeded de jure to be, or vi & fraude it be found by Usurpation to be. This follows from the former suppositions as they have been proved, and is evident enough in it self: If the Clergy as to Bodies and Estates be under the Civil Government, then it follows they are not as Clergy-men Soveraign, for he is no Soveraign in the same respect wherein he is under anothers Authority; these are inconsistent: for Soveraignty and Supremacy set the Person in whom they are, above all within the limits of his Jurisdiction; but Ecclesiastical dignity, or the holy Character, leaves the Person on whom it is imprest, under the Subjection he was in before.

> 2. Consect. Were the Pope (what his flatterers say he is, and his Infallibility confirms) the Supream Ecclesiastical Person and Head to that stupendous body of Ecclefiafticks (and were this proved his Right by a better title than ever it was, or ever it will be), yet still this cannot raise him to the dignity of Soveraign over Secular Princes or Kings.

For be the Power whatever it is for its eminency, still it is an Ecclefiastical Power, and the Person in whom it is invested derives it to himself not immediately and virtute Persone; but mediate & virtute officii; or indeed Jure Ecclesix concesso by a Right granted to the Church, and by the Church to be convey'd on a fit Person; and so the Person chosen by the Church receives not what Power his boundless ambition can grasp, but what Power the Church can bestow, which hath been proved to be still a Power inferiour to the Secular Power in all Secular affairs. It is a between 1193 sure Rule in all Cases, Nihil dat quod in se non habet. Therefore well did Sancho brother of Alphonsus the 7th. proclaims to the world the ridiculous Nothing the Pope gave him, proclaiming him, if he would conquer it, King of Egypt; and what his refentments were of such an idle conceit, when in requital of his Holiness bounty he commanded sons,&c. p.36. him to be proclaimed Caliph of Bandis, on the same condition of con-

Thus Adrian 4th was rebukt for his prefumption and 1197. H. Fewlis Preface to History of Popili Treaquering it. In briefithe Pope, pretended Head of the State Ecclefiastick de facto, is now a free Prince as he is Pope, and hath a Secular Power annexed to his Ecclefiastical Office. But if Constantine's Grant, and some other Princes bounty be a forgery, it is easie to say how their Holinesses came by, and how honeftly they continue the possession of such Power: And if prescription of time and possession will not bar a Soveraign Prince his claim, there may arise some brisk Prince in the Empire who may fart a better title to those Dominions, and reduce the Pope to the Primitive decorum of Bishop of the first See; requiring him to be content with what Immunities the Imperial Council shall judg fit to allow him, fince in all likelihood they will be more than were ever given by Christ to St. Peter, and his real or pretended Successors. Let him whilest he can retain his Temporal Soveraignty, and within his own Dominions be above all Persons in all Causes; yet this doth not flow out of his Ecclefiastick Office immediately, directly, and per se, as he is Bishop, which is an order wholly of different nature to Secular Power and Matters. And therefore were he Universal Bishop, yet his power would be but the power of a Bishop, that is in Spirituals; and the engin of their own making cannot draw in Temporals in ordine ad Spiritualia. That was, as the Huntsmans dog in his younger days, nimble and hold-fast, but the Cur is now old, and his teeth worn out, and every free Prince now will shake him off. They are weary of the cheat, and I hope will not let an Usurper indirecte & consequenter, take out of their hands that which God, Nature, Grace and Reason, have directe & necessario entrusted in their hands.

3. Confect. The Clergy being proved in Body and Estate as to Civil affairs under the Government of the Secular Prince; No Clergy-man of what degree soever he be, nor any body of Clergy-men combined together, can absolve the Subjects of any Prince or free State from their Oaths of Allegiance. And if it be pretended, he or they may do so, the pretence is micked; and if the pretended Power be executed, the Subject notwithstanding is as much bound as ever, nay somewhat more bound on this occasion, because the Prince is in an apparent danger; out of which to rescue him, every good Subject ought to contribute his affishance for his Princes safety. The Excommunication, or the menace of an approaching Excommunication from such a proud pretender, may be just reason why Princes should require renew'd affurance of their Subjects Allegiance, and why Subjects should give new instances of their constant duty; but it can be no reafon why Subjects should think themselves free from their Obedience and Oaths. The condition of Princes through the multitude and weight of their affairs is of all mens the most uneasie, when it is (the most it can be) eased by a ready and universal Obedience in the Subject; but how miserable would it be on supposition that their Kingdoms were at the dispodisposal of a forreigner! How unfaithful are our Historians, or how shameless hath the encroaching pride of the Pope and the Papal Clergy been! either they who write the stories of Ages past have most injuriously dealt with their own and other succeeding Ages, or the Papal power hath with might and main set it self to ruin the Regal and Imperial Power. Now what will become of the Maxim which pleaded stifly for the Ecclesiastical power? Tis retorted thus: All Authority appointed of God, is by him entrusted with Power and Authority sufficient to conserve it self, and effect its proper ends: But if a Bishop, who is a Subject, may depose the Prince, and release the sworn Allegiance, the Power of the Prince is not sufficient to preserve it self among Subjects; If the Bishop be a forreigner, as the Pope is to all Princes, who doth excommunicate, and depose, and release Subjects, then the Princes Power is not sufficiently qualified to preserve it felf against strangers

In brief; Those that are Papal Bishops, and were born Subjects, are equally with other Subjects, natural Leige-men to their Prince; for we have proved that the dignity of Bishops doth not exalt them above the condition of Subjects: Now it is certain Subjects cannot absolve their fellow Subjects; none can loofe the bond which doth as much tye himself as another, nor can Rebellion acquit Rebellion in a Subject. Those Bishops who being forreigners to a Prince, are always to be watcht as suspicious, and mottly to be oppos'd as enemies, though Bishops (as Popes are accounted) can never be thought persons to be intrusted with a Power over Kings and Princes, whom they treat with no other kindness than a man doth one whom he resolveth to overthrow or humble with the first opportunity: So that as it is not in the Dignity and Office it self, to convey an uncontroulable Power to a native Subject in any case over his Soveraign, so neither is it in the Office to convey fuch a power to a forreigner; and both are a weakening of the Civil. power to a degree of impotence that cannot defend its Subjects, or pre-Serve it felf, or attain the necessary ends of Government.

4. Consect. If the Dignity of the Clergy be not sufficient to advance the Clergy-man high enough above the Civil Magistrate (as hath been proved) in Civil Matters; Then were the Pope Universal Bishop, and had be rightful Power to Excommunicate (which yet is not proved by any of his parasites, nor yielded by any Protestant); yet could be not deprive the Prince or King, so excommunicated, of his Dominions in part or whole.

For in this case the Pope must act as a Bishop; and this Office, as it is a Spiritual Office, and the Rules of it are Spiritual, so the effects and ends of it are also Spiritual, and ought to keep within these limits and bounds; but now, when (after admonition and intreaties prove vain) the Universal Bishop should Excommunicate, he hath gone to the utmost

that his Rule directs, or his Authority can enable him to; the Depoling of a King, the giving his Kingdom to any that have the hardiness to attempt, and the success to gain it; as it is wholly of a Secular nature, so it is wholly forreign to the Office of any Bishop. And it hath brought the greatest confusion, wars, bloodshed, and desolation into the Christian World; that by this we might guess from whom this usurped Power comes, fince we know there have been such direful effects of it, and these effects the natural and proper effects of such unjust pretences. The Censure of the Church is an execution of a Spiritual Power, and was never appointed to leap so prodigiously high as with its foot to kick down the Crowns of Kings and free Frinces; this (transitus de genere ad genus) skipping from a just execution of Ecclesiastical Power, into the Usurpation of a boundless Power in Affairs Secular over Princes and Kings, is the most insolent and intolerable presumption; and which gives Gods Vicegerents in Civils, a justifiable plea to hate and oppose the pride and designs of the Papal Clergy, who by this means have with a kind hand given their inferiour Clergy so happy a lift, that the meanest person in Holy Orders among them, is Jure & virtute Officii, Stanislaius O. a better man than his Prince, whom he exceeds as much as a man ex-richorius. ceeds a beast, or God exceeds the Priest, if you'l believe their slatterers. Amongst whom the Learned Cardinal Bellarmine (misimployed in the De Pontifice Office of Master of the Ceremonies) does set Kings below Bishops, lib. 1. cap. 7. Priests, and Deacons too: so glorious is this Roman Church, that Kings like our drossie bodies, sons of the earth, fall short of the Church-men as much as the body falls short of the Soul. Bravely spoken! what pity is it that every Ecclesiastical Sacred Head hath not an Bellarm. de laiestate and revenues to maintain his Grandeur as much in Magnificence (is, cap. 8. above Kings as their Office hath fet them: if such transcendent Honour be the effect of Papal Ordination, our King and Parliament have reason to continue the Prohibition against the Subjects of this Kingdom going beyond the Seas to take Orders. It is not fafe to have Subjects fo advanced, and I do not wonder that Rebellion in a Clergy-man of the Roman Mint is become so small a Peccadillo, or rather thin'd into an invisible mist, and though the Priest be visible in the Rebellion and Treason, neither the Traytor, nor Rebel can be seen or found: alas good men and precious! the world unkindly owneth not their Excellency, and they by natural propensities (flowing from their constitutive principles) do innocently aspire to a state equal to their Orders, which blind Hereticks nick-name Rebellion, and jealous Princes brand as Treason; and so the innocent Clergy (when they have the luck to be taken in it) are condemned and executed for Traytors. But the comfort is the enlightned Consistory at Rome can see and distinguish the Clergy-man quoad Substantiam, innocent, nay meritorious; it is the Prince or State which mistook him, and under the separate accidents and form of a Traytor bloodily bloodily cut off the mans head. Dull Souls that will not be informed in the mystery of Transubstantiating Rebels as well as bread. Well, howe're it is that their Clergy must being judged by a severe Secular Judg die (sub forma perduellium) in the unhandsome dress of Traytors; yet by the most indulgent hands of his Roman Holiness, the World shall be informed of the error, and in compensation for the hard usage they met with be made as substantial and real Saints as ever the Pope made any: so may Garnet be executed at Tyhurn, but be St. Henry at Rome; and those that were Beautifeu's and set the World on fire, and threatned more prodigious Calamities to the World, are made Stars of great light and glory in the Roman heaven. Such unintelligible Doctrines, and fuch intolerable practices have attended the licentious frisk of the Bi-Thop of Rome when reide of ra, he excommunicates and makes Kings and Princes his prey, and on well xear, seizeth and devoureth the prey; and is thus become usware xunales, Chimera real: Which may not be too severely imputed to levity in me, fince really I could not tell what to make of him; for in his Fore-parts I find the mouth of a Man, and hear the words of a Father in admonitions, but when I have looked

Many have compared it hear the words of a Father in admonitions, but when I have looked (Rome) to the down to the feet I see the Paws of a Lion, and his Talons always bloomonky that dy with the prey under his feet torn to pieces, or deeply wounded; So I hugs its young ones to clearly see him in the Prospect history gives of him, their own Glossary death, for just represents him not much more to his advantage:

So of a well-conftituted Officer as Christ and Peter lest him (if you'l believe them) he is made a mishapen Monster, and the wonder of the World; and now in the unjust claim of the Father of Lies draws deceived proselytes to worship him, shewing them the Kingdoms of the World, and the Glory of them, with promise that as they merit by their good service to the Apostolick-Chair, he will give them a right, and when they can they may take possession of his gift, for unto him pertain all these things, and to whomsoever he will he giveth them; and I affure you it is neither Jure Divino, nor Jure Humano, but quasi Neutro, i.e. Jure Inserno.

5. Consect. Hence it follows, That Emperours, Kings, Princes and free States, are not Rightful Subjects to the Pope, or to any other single Ecclesiastical Person, nor to any body of the Clergy-men, neither in Synods with Presbyterians, or in Convocations with Episcopal, nor in pretended General Councils with Papists, nor in the Consistory or Conclave with the Cardinals and Pope collected together. He that designed the Office in his Church hath left these Officers under the Obedience of the Civil Magistrate in all Civil Matters which concern the Government of their Estates and Persons. In which cause so many have appeared, and so clearly vindicated the Royal Prerogatives and Soveraign Authority of Kings; not only Protestant Writers, but among the Papists themselves many very learned Pens have afferted the Supream and Soveraign Power of free States, that it is become in most Countrys a ridiculous Claim the Pope maketh, or any of his Vassals flatter him with That their Prince is a Vassal and Subject to his Holiness and that is now become as long fince it should have been, a Trayterous Tenet and worthy of death, which was in the heighth of Popish Tyranny a necesfary principle of the Papal Religion. How ill-natur'd soever the Children of that Church have proved, abridging their Father of his Power; I will not now enquire; but might a stranger to the Father and his Children speak a few words indifferently to both. I would adventure to say, it had been justice and honesty in the Ghostly Father to have lest his Children the Power and Authority which he gave them, who faid the Magistrates were gods, and then the Primitive kindness of Kings like Constantine the Great would have ensured the favours and observances of Princes to the Clergy: But fince the Papal Infallibility hath almost reduced this affair to this hard choice, Either that we must have no Pope and Exempt Clergy, or no free and Soveraign Monarchs, I am easily inclined to believe, the Secular Princes will rather chuse that the Ecclefiafficks should part with their Immunities than that Princes should part with their Soveraignty; and how great a part of the Christiean World would joyn with them is not hard to guess. The Soveraignty of the Pope is an Article of the Popes political Faith, but I verily think he hath more wit and care of his Soul than to make it an article of his Chriflian Faith: And if he will venture his foul and the fouls of his sheep on gage that he may keep his present Grandeur, I am well satisfied that he is not my shepherd, and I am not a little glad that there are so many Papists that do not make this an Article of their Faith. Free States and Kingdoms do know that Supream Soveraignty is not effential to Christs Vicar, Peters Successor, or Universal Bishop, that Exemptions. of the Clergy are favours of the Prince and not natural and necessary properties of the Office; and which is ill news for Rome, have well contidered the distinction between being of Communion with the Church Catholick, and with the Pope as first Bishop, and being in subjection to the Pope as to a Soveraign. They now are skilled in the Method of observing the Church, and opposing the Court of Rome. And though I' know not what may (per Possibile) come to pass among men, and what King may make himself against all Right a Subject to the Pope, yet I am sure no King or Emperour can ever be rightfully the subject of the Pope who at most is but Bishop of the first See.

SERMON IV.

The POPE of ROME is ANTICHRIST. Mr. flenry Wilkinson

Thes. 2. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Let no man deceive you by any means, for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition.

4. Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped: So that he, as God, sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

5. Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you, I told you these things.

6. And now ye know what withholdeth, that he might be revealed in his time.

7. For the mystery of iniquity doth already work; only he who now letteth, will let, until he be taken out of the way.

8. And then shall that wicked be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming:

9. Even him whose coming is after the working of Satan, with all power, and signs and lying wonders, that perish: because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

E will first give you an Account of the Apostles writing here so fully concerning Antichrist, and so proceed to handling the Words. The reason of his falling on this subject here, was upon the preaching of some among them, who told them, that the coming of the Lord to judgment would be very suddenly

in

denly, in that age and time in which they lived, upon which report they were in a very great fear and dread. v. 2. They were shaken in mind, and this terrour and consternation of Spirit there is expressed under a double Metaphor. 1. From a Sea-storm that tears the Vessel from the Anchor and Harbour; so much the word σαλευθήνω here used doth import, which comes from oddes which signifies a Tempest at Sea. 2. By bod taken from Souldiers, who by a panick fear arifing among them, puts them into a disorder and confusion, so that they have neither head, nor heart, nor hand to act in a due manner : So it was with the Theffalonians, by reason of false Teachers, who by their blasts and storms of false Doctrines, Epb. 4. 14. shake men from their stedfastness: they were at present under great distraction and fear, from the false Teachers who did delude them; 1. By a pretence to an extraordinary Spirit, or Visions, and Revelations. 2. By Word and Preaching. 3. By Letter as from Paul, by which works they did exceedingly deceive them; and perswaded them to believe that the end of the World was at hand.

Whence we observe, 1. That false Teachers do use all pissible means and diligence, to prevail with persons to believe their false Doctrines.

2. False Teachers do so far prevail with many, that they rent and tear them as with a tempestuous wind, and put them into a consternation of Spirit as by a panick fear so as that they can neither keep to the Truth nor act according to it.

In the Words you have, 1. The Revelation of the greatest Enemy that ever was against Christ and his Church, in the third vers. and the eighth. 2. You have a full and large Description of that Enemy, by several circumstances of time, place, &c. As also by several Characters and Names, by which this Enemy may be known from all other Enemies of Christ that ever were, or should be in the World. I shall wholly wave their opinion, who contrary to the whole stream of Interpreters, do take the meaning of this place to be concerning Christs Coming to destroy Ferusalem, and them that crucified Christ; and the Apostacy to be the Christians breaking off compliance with the impenitent Jews, and departing from them to the Gentiles: and the Man of Sin here described they take to be Simon Magus, together with the Gnofticks. But that this cannot be so meant, is plain, from the Season of entring of the Man of Sin, &c. who was to be revealed, and upon his Revelation, there would follow an Apostacy from the Faith before Christs Coming to judgment. That which did so terrifie the Thessals was this, that Christ's second Coming was at hand; then the Apostle tells them, that there was to be a great Apostacy upon the Revelation of the Man of Sin, which was to be many years, some Hundreds of years after this. As for Simon Magus and the Gnosticks, they were revealed before the writing of this Epistle; Hugo Grot. Dr. Hammond, &c. This Enemy is set forth as if he were a single person, but it is not so to be taken in this place; for it is frequent in Scripture to fet forth a Body Politick. or a Kingdom, or State, by a particular Person or Individuum. In Dan. 7. 1, 2, 3, &c. there be four Kingdoms, or Monarchies, which were in a Succession one after another in the World, deciphered by four great Beafts, which are interpreted to be four Kingdoms, verf. 17. or four Kings; and the fourth Beaft is called the fourth Kingdom, ver. 22. And the vulgar Translation renders vers. 17. four Kingdoms: So that each Beast signifieth a multitude of men in a Succession, under one Government for several Ages; and so consequently the Head and Horns fignifie the Power, and Sovereignty, of such a Kingdom for a long time in a Succession.

So we find, Rev. 12. 1, the state of the Primitive Apostolical Church set forth by a Woman in travel; and vers. 6.14, by a Woman in the Wilderness. So Rev. 13.11. the two-horned Beast, which is the same with the false Prophet, Rev. 10. 13, and 19, 20, and 20. 10, doth not signifie a single Person, or a succession of single Persons (suppose the Popes) but a Body of Deceivers under one Head or Government. It is generally agreed on by Protestant Writers, That the Pope as Head of that Antichristian state which is here described, is pointed at in this place; or that the Papacy, Head and Members, in a Succession making up one Body Politick, is that Monster which they call Antichrist. It is on all hands agreed on, That where-ever we find all these Characters, together with the Circumstances set down in the Text, to concenter, that must be The Antichrist, who was to be brought forth into the World before the second coming of Christ. He tells us of One to come, a strange One, a monstrous One, such a One as never was before; and that you may not be mistaken in this Prodigious One, he gives us the lively portraicture of him.

Let us now descend to the particulars as they lye in the Text. Character by 1. Antichrist is described by the Apostacy which should arise in which Anti- the Church upon the coming of this Monster: He is an Apostate, forth, is the and the cause of an Apostacy: there was to be n'Anosaoia, a very great Apo- Apostacy before his full Revelation, vers. 3. Apostacy is taken 1. Postacy which litically, so some take it for a falling from the Roman Empire. 2. Ecshould attend clesiastically, to fall from the Church or True Religion. 3. Figuratively, the Subject for the Adjunct, meaning the chief in Place and Power, that causeth others to fall away; as I Tim. 4. 1. There shall be an Apostacy, there shall be such as shall fall away, and cause others so to do.

In the two latter senses it is taken here; for the Ecclesiastical Hierarchy, fet out by the Lamb with two Horns, Rev. 13. 11. is the grand Apostate and a cause of the great Apostacy of many, by causing by force and fraud to worthip the Beast and his Image, vers. 12, 13, &c. The time of this Apostacy is a special mark of Antichrst's rising, 1 Tim. 4. 1, 2, 3. This Apostacy was to be in the latter times of the fourth

fourth Monarchy, set out by Fourty two Months, and One thousand two hundred and Sixty days, Rev. 11.2, 3. and chap. 13.5. The Apostacy of the Church from the Rule of Faith and Worship, by spiritual Fornication is a fignal note of Antichrist, or the Antichristian State, of which the Pope is the Head; and his proper See is Babylon the Metropslis: And the Body which was to be ordered by this false Prophet as its Supreme Head, was, and is, the Beast of Rome, with Seven Heads and Ten Horns, and Ten Crowns on his Horns. Rev. 12.1. This Apostacy as to the time, is upon the rifing of the Antichristian Papal State, when those Doctrines of Demons, and forbidding Marriage and Meats, which are peculiar to the Church of Rome, came into the Church; the old Pagan Roman Empire was broken to pieces, and had its deadly wound, which afterwards was heale'd by the two-Horned Beast, Rev. 13. 12. Framed into a likely Image of the former Pagan Beaft, by reason of which, the visible Worship of Christ in the Church gradually was cast out, and the spiritual Fornication of Saints and Angels, Relicks, Images, and fuch like, which is renewed Gentilism and re-

The Revelation of the Man of Sin doth appear by his rifing gradually, and the time of his rifing will appear by the Apostacy from the Rule of Faith, Worship, and Manners; so that if we can find the Defection of the Church, we know one chief Character of Antichrift. Some begin the Apostacy from the Primitive purity about 396. Many Popish errours come into the Church. Wolph. in Centenar. Feroin. 390. complains of the Avarice and Corruption of the Clergy, and of the prohibition of Marriage and Meats. And Augustin 399. complains how the Church was fallen from her Purity. Wolphius in his Epiftle, and in his Book, An. 290. and 400. brings in a large Catalogue of errours crept into the Church, by which the times of the grand Apostacy may be known: And it pleased God to speak in a wonderful way from Heaven in those times, by prodigious Comers, An. 282, and 389. Alfted. Chron. Comet. Thus was the Man of Sin gradually revealed, and the Apostacy did gradually proceed. Indeed the Pope could not 'yet shew himself in the full exercise of his Power in the Roman Empire, for the Civil Power of the Roman Empire would not bear such a competition as the Hierarchy of Rome; and therefore the Roman Empire which is a Civil State, was to be taken out of the way, vers. 6, 7, 8. It was to be removed from the Seventh Head, the Old Roman Beast, as it was a Civil Government, and placed somewhere else, i.e. on the Pope or Ecclesiastical Hierarchy, which usurps the Power of both Swords. This could not be done before the deadly wound was given to the Cæ-Sarian family, which the idolatrous blasphemous Beast was to succeed: This is the Beast which carrieth the Whore, Rev. 17. 3. which could not be done till the Imperial Sovereign Power of Rome was broken, and translated to the Pope; then the Man of Sin was more fully revealed. Upon this ground, Ferom when he heard of the taking of Rome. by Alericus King of the Goths, expected the coming of Antichrist. Epist. ad Ageruchiam, Qui tenebit (faith he) de medio fit & non intelligemus Antichristum appropinquare? He that letteth is removed, and shalls we not know that Antichrist is nigh? So in prafat. 1.8. in Ezech. pasci-

M 2 . ed,

Some state the beginning of the Apostacy, and the Revelation of the Man of Sin higher, some lower, but they agree in the main. That this Apoltacy was by the Pope, and upon the fall of the Roman Empire: Some will have his Revelation to be about the time of King Pepin, and Charlemain. It is true the Papacy then came to a great height, but the Church was very corrupt in Doctrine, Worship, Discipline, and Manners, and polluted with spiritual Fornication after Saints, and Angels, and Images, &c. long before that time. So that we may infer, that if the Apoltacy came in with the Pope or Papacy, as this did rife to a height, so did the Apostacy from the Truth, then this Character doth agree to the Pope, by which he may be known to be The Antichrift.

2. The Second Character, by which the Pope is set forth, so as to be cond charact- known to be Antichrift, 1.He is, o arbeun o The auagrias; o qo The anoer is the spe- xéias, v. 3. davtineiner , v. 4. davou , v. 8. Molin. phraseth him; plied to Anti- As we fay a Man of Blood, for a Man thirsting after Blood, or a cruel bloody Man. The Son of Perdition, perditissimus, One (by an Hebraism) set upon destruction of others, the most flagitious profigate Sinner, the most inhuman cruel Destroyer, to whom the titles of Apolyon, and Abaddon do most properly belong; He is actively and pallively the Son of Perdition, Rev. 17.8. and 19.20. He is the great destroyer of Souls, vers. 12. He is the o artineiner &, the great Enemy of all Enemies of Christ, though he is not called by the name of The Antichrift; yet here is a word with the Article prefixed to it, which carrieth the like importance with it. He is the worst and greatest Enemy of Christ, who under a pretence of friendship and love to Christ, doth usurp and undermine his Offices; He appears like a Lamb in his deportment, and speaks like a Dragon, Rev. 13. 14. 2. The Papacy is of all other Bodies Politick the worst, being set out with such expressions as have the greatest Emphasis in them; It would be too great a buliness for a Sermon to give you an account of their Tyranny, Cruelty, Luxury, Rapaciousness, Avarice, Blasphemy, Whoredom, Spiritual and Corporal; all the Abominations of the Three former Monarchies do meet in this Fourth, of which the Papacy is the last edition, Rev. 13.2. That Beath set out there is the Roman Empire, as Papal not Pagan, as appears by the Crowns on the Horns: But the Pagan Empire had the Crowns on the Heads, Rev. 12.3. Now that wickedness in which those former Empires did excel did meet in the Papal, Rev. 13.2, and therefore it is fet out by the Lions mouth, the feet of the Bear, and the Leopard. He is fet out in his Type, Dan. 11. 28, 30, 31, 32. Or, he himself is set forth (as some think) wholly against the Covenant, expressing an indignation against it with all his might, fetting himself against the Sanctuary and daily Sacrifice. Gruterus and others understand it of Antichrist, and not of Antiochus. The Scripture when it expresseth a person or thing in a signal way, doth it by an affixed article as here, or by an abstract: Here the article sheweth an eminence of wickedness; so the abstract, Cant. 1.4. Heb. uprightnesses, by which righteous persons are set forth; so a proud person is set out by pride, Fer. 50. 3. we render it, O you most proud! So sin for a great sinner, Prov. 13.6. So the Man of Sin fignifies the most Sinful Man.

He is called the & avonos, v. 8. That wicked one, the most lawless one, breaking all bounds and bands, and casting away the cords of Christ, as they, Pfal. 2. 3. that will not come under the yoke of Christ, nor stoop to his Scepter, that will not that Christ should reign, as Luk. 19. 14. This boundless lawless one is therefore set out by a most unruly Beaft, Rev. 13. 1, 2, &c. and by the Whore of Babylon, Rev. 17.1,2,3, &c. riding the Beast and making the Kings to commit Fornication. with her, and making the Inhabitants of the Earth drunk with the Wine of her Fornication; This is the Mother of Harlots and abominations, drunk with the blood of the Saints and Martyrs, v. 5.6. This the lawless one is the Antichristian state, the Man of Sin under another notion. Lawless, & Loous, as to Scripture, so in point of Doctrine, Worship, Government, and Manners; as to Humane Laws and Powers, being above them all; as to Oaths of Allegiance, &c. as to Exemption of his Clergy, and fuch like.

If these Epithetes which the Holy Ghost gives to Antichrist, do all belong to the Pope or Papacy, then he may be justly thought to be described in this place.

3. The third particular by which Antichrist is set out is the place, 3. Is the place v. 4. he sitteth in the Temple of God; there he exerciseth his Juris- where he sitdiction and Tyranny, and shews himself God, i.e. in the Church, the eth and resiplace of the visible external Worship of God, which is called the out- dethward Court, Rev. 11. 2. which is trod under foot by the Draconizing- de Antichristo, beaft, or Papacy, profaning the whole Worship of God, and a new Gen-proves the tilism; therefore the outward Court is cast out, and forbid to be mea- Pope to be fured in regard that lawless Monster hath brake all bands, and will not Antichrist come under any Laws and Rules of Christ, therefore they and their from this character. Worship are cast out. The place where he sits is called, rads, the Tem- See Dr. whiple or House of Gods Worship. So it is said of the King of Babylon, That he will sit on the Mount of the Congregation, Isa. 14. 13. i.e. Mount Sion, the place of Gods Residence and Worship: So here the K.of Babylon he takes upon him to fit in the Temple, or Church of God, which is called, rais, Ephel. 2.21. 1 Cor. 3. 16. 2 Cor. 6. 16. Some will have it for the Temple of Ferusalem, that must be the Seat of Antichrist, which is in the power of the Turk; but this cannot be, in regard the other Characters will not fuit with the Turks, but do fall in fuitably with the Pope. And so Ferom takes the notion of rade, in Quest. ad Algesiam, and August. de Civit. Dei. c. 19. he soith, Recitius dici sessurum in Templum Dei, eis von vady 78 828, fo the Greek; Tanquam ipse sit Templum Dei quod est Ecclesia: As we say in amicum, i.e. velut amicus. This may very well agree with the Papacy, who pretend to be the Holy Catholick and the only True Church. So then the Pope fits in the midst of his Holy Catholick Church of Rome, exercifing his Tyrannical Power over the people of God; so that Mahometans cannot be the Church, they wholly renounce the name of the Church of Christ.

But how can the Antichristian Synagogue where Satans throne is, be called the Temple of God?

Resp. The Scripture speaketh of things as they once were, though they do not continue so to be; and speaks it of persons as they are in pretence and outward profession, though they be not such as they pretend to be. Abigail is called the Wife of Nabal when he was dead, I Sam. 30. 5. And Simon the Leper though he were healed, Mit. 26.6. So the City that was a Harlot is called the faithful City, Isa.r. 21. It was called the holy City, Joh. 4.2 1. where they worthipped. It was called the holy place, Mat. 24. 15. till the Desolation by Vespasian; and Mat. 27.53. the boly City, though they had turned the House of God into a den of thieves, Mat. 21.15. and the City was a bloody City that killed the Prophets, Mat. 23. 37. Besides sometime the Scripture speaks of it quoad opinionem hominum, as they are reputed by men, 2 Chron.28.23. They sacrificed to the gods of Damascus that they would help them; they are ealled gods on that account; so Judg. 10. 13, 14. This Character doth very well agree to the Pope, or Papacy, to prove it to be the Antichristian state here set forth.

The Fourth Character is his Self-exaltation.

4. He is set forth by Self-exaltation: ἐπεςαιεμώνος ἐπὶ πάντα λεγόμενον θεδν; and not only above all that have the title of gods as the Civil Magistrates, Pfal. 82. 1, 6. Which have the title of gods by virtue of the Authority that God hath invested them withal, Job. 10. 34, 35. But also above the true God, by taking on him to do more than God himself, ἢ σέβασμα, quiequid est Augustum, whatsoever is held worthy the highest degree of Civil Reverence 2s is the Majesty of Kings. He as God, he takes on him the Honour due to God himself, and will be adored by the highest Power upon Earth. He that does all this must needs be the Antichrist, but such things doth the Pope; let him look to the conclusion.

Molin, in Vale. c. 6. shews how the Pope is called God, how they plead that he ought so to be, whereof several of their own Writers, especially out of the Glossa Extravagant.cum Inter. Which hath these words Credere dominum Deum nostrum Papam, conditorem dicte Decretalis, & istius, sic non potuisse statuere ut statuit, hæreticum censeretur. It is Heretical to believe our Lord God the Pope the maker of the said Decretal not to have power to Decree as he hath decreed. And Bellarm. 1.1. de Pontif. faith, (speaking of the Popes Supremacy) Ecclesia secluso etiam Christo unum caput babere debet, The Church (secluding Christ) ought to have one Head; this is the Pope which is Occumenical Bishop. So they attribute the Offices and Excellencies of Christ to the Pope. They say, He is the Father of all Christians, which belongs to Christ, Isa. 9.7. That he is the Teacher of the Church, and the Spouse of the Church, the Foundation of Faith, the Lord of Lords, the chief Corner-stone, universal Judg and Infallible, who is to judg all others, but to be judged of none. These all belong to Christ alone, and he that thus exalts himfelf, and arrogates these things to himself must needs be Antichrist. Philip de Nicolai de Antichristo, shews how the Pope taking all these Titles to himself, proveth that he is Antichrist. As also the Protestant Divines generally prove him to be Antichrist by this Character.

Some go further in this Argument, and shew how the Pope takes on him to do more than God. It is frequent among their Divines and Canonists to say, Papam posse dispensare contra Apostolum & contra vetus Testamentum. That the Pope can dispense against the Apostles, and against the Old Testament. That the Pope can make new Simbols. That he can dispense with things forbidden of God. Bel. 1.4. de Panitent. c.13. saith, Indulgentia faciunt, ut pro iis panis que nobis per indulgentia condonantur, non teneamur pracepto illo, de faciendis dignis panitentia fructibus; That as to those penalties from which we are freed by Indulgences, we are not bound to bring forth fruits worthy of repentance. Nay he goes further, Lib. 4. de summo Pont. c.5. Sir Papa erraret pracipiendo vitia, vel probibendo virtutes, teneretur Ecclesia credere vitia esse bona, & virtutes malas, nist vellet contra conscientiama peccare; If the Pope should err so as to command vices, and forbid virtues, the Church would be bound to believe vices to be good and virtues to be evil, unless she will sin against Conscience.

Thus blasphemously do they speak of the Supereminence of the Pope above God himself; and as for all Civil Powers he is absolutely free from them, and much above them all, Vid. text. Decret. dist. 96. c. 7. Satis evidenter ostenditur a seculari potestate non solvi prorsus nec ligari Pontiscem posse, quem constat a Constantino Deum appellatum, cum nec Deum ab hominibus judicari manisestum sit; Since the Pope is god, therefore he cannot either be bound, or loosed by men. Their words are in the body of the Canon-Law set forth by the command of Gregory 13.

Ani.

An. 1591. From this it appears that the Pope is above Scripture. Coun-"cils, Princes, and all Powers upon Earth, upon the account of his Divinity It is common amongst them at least to equalize the Popes Decrees to the Holy Scripture; and that the Popes Decretals are to be accounted Canonical; and that the Popes Determinations are to be preferred above the Scripture; with many such like blasphemies. See Decret. cum gloffa ed. Tug. Ann. 1510. Dist. 19. & c. 6. Dist. 40. And which is worst of all, they affert the Scriptures are inferiour to the Popes Decrees. Ut fidem non facere, neg; necessitatem credendi inducere queant. nisi Papa per canonizationem gaam vocant, iis authoritatem prius impertiat, Decret. 1.2. tit. 23. de presumptionibm, chap. 1. That the Scriptures have no Authority so as to procure belief of them, unless they can be first canonized by the Pope. It is no wonder though the Pope uttereth such Blasphemies, since he is the Head of that Idolatrous Beast sull

Since they will have the Pope to be such a Supream Head to the Church militant, as Christ Quoad influxum interiorem, so he groad influxum exteriorem Doctrine & fidei, Bel. 1.2. de Concil. authoritate, c. 15. Since they will have him not only to be equal with Christ, but above him; he being able to redeem Souls out of Purgatory, which Christ never did, and is affirmed by them: 70h. Turrecremata and others that licensed the Revelations of Bridget, they let go that passage in that Book, Bonus Gregorius oratione sua, etiam insidelem Cesarem elevavit ad altiorem gridum. By which it appears that the Pope hath done that which Christ never did; and that the Popes Charity is larger than Christs, who prayed not for the World, Fob. 17.6. but the Pope prays for the Damned. Since I say, they will have their Pope with all these prodigious Blasphemies, since they will have their Lord God the Pope thus lifting up his Head above Lucifer, let them have him, and believe his. Lies and Impostures; since they reject the Truth whereby they might be saved, let them believe his Lies that they may be damned, v. 10, 11. Qui Satanam non odit amet tur dogmata Papr.

There is a great consent among the Ancients as to this thing; and Ferome was so clear and confident in this thing, that as foon as he heard of the taking of Rome by Alarick, he presently expected the coming of Antichrist. See Tertul. 1.4. de Resur. c.24. Ambros. in Comment. in Ezek. Chrysost. Com.in loc. August. 1.19. de Civ. Dei, c.20. Among the Ancients they were so confident of this thing that the Church did pray in her Liturgy, That the Roman Empire

Katexur, is the same as Possidere, I Cor. 7. 30. or ayoed Cortes, ws mi natexorles, the Roman Empire being broken into Ten Kingdoms brought in Antichrift; so Tertul, 1.4. de Resurrect. c.24. Paul did not express the Roman Empire by name left he should bring a Persecution upon the Church. Ferom ad Algasiam, qu. 11. Pet. in Molin. Vale. shews in several Instances how the Roman Emperours did keep the Bishop of Rome from growing to that height, as he did upon their being removed out of the way.

Others take it to be meant of the Roman Emperour himself, and not of the Roman Empire at all; for the Roman is not taken out of the way. but stands on two legs, viz. the Empire of Turks, and the Empire of Germany. It was the Emperour himself which was Constantine the Great, who removed to Constantinople, then the to nativo was taken away, The Grandeur of the Emperour and of Antichrist could not stand together. Assoon as the Emperour departed from Rome, Antichrist began to be revealed. For when all the Bishops in the Christian World did meet at the Council of Nice, the Bishop of Rome (though requested by a Letter) came not, he pretended old age, and the weakness of his Body: But Bellarmine telleth us the true reason was, it was not meet the Head should follow the Members, but rather that the Members should follow the Head; and if the Emperour were present, it is likely he would fit above the Pope, which was not meet, he being the Spiritual Head; therefore he did absent himself. Cotton on 1 70h. 2. 18. Though they differ as to the Emperour and Empire, to be that which hindred, yet they agree as to the Pope, that he rose to his height upon the removal of the one or the other out of the way.

Such is the hellish contrivance of the whole Body of the Religion of the Papacy, (in which Satan never shewed himself so notorious an Impostor, and Angel of Darkness, though under the appearance of an Angel of Light) that it gained upon the whole World exceedingly by the Pope, Satans Vicar, fet forth by the Lamb with two Horns, Rev. 13. 11. Who hath prevailed with all forts of men to receive the Mark of the Beast, and bow to his Image; v.12, 13,14. The Religion of Antichrist is carried on in a subtle cunning way, else it could not be called a Mystery and a Mystery of Iniquity under the pretence of Godliness; the great factors in this Mystery are said to be seducers that speak Lies in hypocrisie, 1 Tim. 4. 1, 2. who have uogowork, a form of piety, which is the mantle to cover the blackest abominations. 2 Tim. 3. 1, 5. And Peter speaking of such Mystical Villanies, 2 Pet. 2. 1, 2, 3. tells us how privily they should bring in damnable Herefies under the colour of truth. The Religion of Popery which is meerly to advance the honour and grandeur, profit and interest of the Pope and his Hierarchy, under a pretence of setting up the name and honour of Christ, have by their Mystical art, and cunning fair plausible deportment, undermined and overthrown the Religion of Christ up and down the World. Chamier 1.16. c.8. treating about Antichrift. and shewing how by their cunning, Herefies are made subservient to him; saith thus, Hec vero si aliqua est Antichristi nota; dicam audacter, aut nullum esse Antichristum, aut Episcopum Kom. eum esse: This is a special note of Antichrist; I'le speak boldly, That either there is no Antichrist, or the Bishop of Rome is he.

Then 5. everyena The Adons, for Adam erefyenas, i.e. everyurds, Hypallage Heb. We render strong delusion, or the delusion of Anti-christ working strongly, specially coming under a Judicial tradition from · God. This Advent or coming of Antichrist here mentioned is not to be referred to his first Revelation only, but to his full Revelation, when his Kingdom and Government shall be set up in its splendor and power.

He shall come with all the power of Satan. Satan is most famous for two things, he is Mordan & homicida, Joh. 8.44, for he is an adverfary to Divine Authority, and Mans Salvation; and both these are eminently seen in the Pope for he hath brought in salse Doctrines, salse Wor-

thip, and a false Religion into the Church; and by this means he is the great murderer of Souls, for they are damned that follow his Delusions, as appears in the Text. Satan shews himself a lyar when he puts men on a talse Idolatrous Worship instead of a true; so all Idolaters are lyars, Rom. 1.25. They changed the truth of God into a lie, &c. and therefore Idols are called lies, Amos 2.4. so Idolaters are said, to make lies their refuge, as under falshood to hide themselves. But Satan never did impose such a lye on the World as in the Idolatrous Worship of Rome; there Idolaters and Lyars are put together, Rev. 21.8. and 27. he that worketh abymination and a lye, they are put together; and Chap. 22.

Cum omni potentia; some take it of the power of both Swords, Ecclesiastical and Secular, which the Pope claims, but it rather respecteth that faculty and power which the Pope the two Horned-Beast, Rev. 13. 12, 13, &c. doth pretend to, and whereby he doth work Wonders: The Signs and Wonders here spoken of, are the ways and means, and weapons which Satan useth by Antichrist to deceive persons to their destruction, this was the way which Satan took by Jannes and Jambres to deceive Pharaoh and the Egyptians, 2 Tim. 3.8. these were a kind of types of Seducers which were to come in these last times.

That this may appear to be a Character of Antichrist, the Papists themselves do grant that Antichrist is to be confirmed with Signs and Wonders, Suarez Apol. lib.1. c.17. num.12. Bellarm. de Pont. Ram. l.3. c.15. Sanders de Antichristo, Dem. 19, 20, 21, 22. If then the Popes coming be by Signs and lying Wonders, then he will come under that mark of Antichrist by their own confessions.

That Miracles have been at the first promulgation of the Scripture is most true for the confirmation of the Divine Authority of it, & increasing a belief of the Doctrine of Christ; but after that the Gospel is promulgated, there is no further use of Miracles: And therefore when the Scripture doth speak of Miracles and Miracle-mongers as here; and Mar. 13.22. and Rev. 13. 13. Mat. 7.22. it is to be understood of false Christs and salse Prophets, who shall come in the name of Christ, and shall pretend to marvelous things in his name, and shall deceive many,

and this is here brought in as a special mark of Antichrist.

That this Mark is fulfilled in the Papacy, doth appear from themfelves, who boast very much of their Miracles, and the advancement of their Religion, and the confirmation of it by Miracles. The Legends of their Saints are full of Miracles, of St. Dominick, St. Francis, Saint Benediët, and the Images of the Virgin Mary, and other Saints in their Calendar; such Miracles are called lying Miracles: 1. Because they are for the confirmation of false Doctrines, of Transubstantiation, Purgatory, Invocation of Saints, Adoration of-Images, and Relicks, &c. Prayers for the Dead, and the Popes Supremacy, &c. 2. Because many of them are things meerly seigned to be done which were never done, or if they were done, they have been brought about by the meer artifice of Satan, who is able to do things beyond the reach of men, by which he deceives such as will be deceived. 3. From the end of these Miracles which is to deceive men, Mar. 13.22. and here in the Text they are framed by seducers for seduction, and such as will not receive the truth with that love of it: v.1. They came with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish.

Their own Authors have set down multitudes of Miracles: Baron. in his Annals: The conformities of St. Francis, the Golden Legend of Jacobus de Voragine, the Sermons of Dormi secure, the History of our Lady by Lipsius, and Bellarm. de Officio Principis, l. 3. with several others. So that by all this you see this note will agree to the Antichristian state of the Papacy.

8. By his fa-

8. He is set out by his satal ruin, and utter destruction, v.8. Here be two parts of this verse. 1. The first looks back on the verse before, which speaks of the time of Antichrists coming upon the removal of what hindred; this we have done with. But 2. this latter part points at the ruin of Antichrist, and how he shall be destroyed. The former part had respect to our Instruction, the latter is for our Consolation in the downfall of so great and publick an Enemy.

He sets down the principal efficient cause of his ruin, and that is Christ at his coming: when Christ comes to set up his Kingdom, and to take to him his great Power and Reign, then he will destroy Antichrist; Dan. 2.44. & 7.14,28. specially under the fifth, sixth, and seventh Vials, Rev. 16. from v. 10. to the end. You have the destruction of the Whore, chap. 18. the overthrow of the Beast and salse Prophet, ch.19. from 17. to the end; then you have the binding of Satan and the reign of the Saints on the Earth, ch. 20. 1, 2, &c.

2. You have the instrumental cause, the spirit of his mouth. Here be two words to be considered, I. Avandoas, consumere; which notes his gradual confumption by the preaching of the Gospel, Isa. 11. 4. this is the Sword out of his mouth, Rev. 19. 15. By this Sword Christ doth fmite the Nations; his confumption is gradual as was his rifing, which was under the Trumpets, and his fall is under the Vials: the Preachers of the Gospel have been wasting, wounding and consuming him, specially fince the Angels with open mouth did declare against him, Rev. 14. 6, 7, 8, 9. The Ministers of the Gospel since the Reformation began, have discovered the Whoredoms, Impostures, and false Doctrines of Rome, and the danger of having communion with Rome, and the desperate condition of such as will not separate from her, v.9.10. Many a deadly wound have they given to Antichrist; so that he hath been wasting like a Snail, as Pfal. 58.8. till he shall come to nothing; not by might, nor by power, Rev. 4. 6, 7. but by the Word which he hath pretended to rise by he shall be destroyed. 2. Here is naragyioan, which notes his utter destruction, by the brightness of Christs coming, when he

he shall come to take to him his great Power, at the founding of the seventh Trumpet, Rev. 11. 15. The Text must be considered under a double Capacity; 1, As to his Ecclefiastical state, and in his Spiritual Capacity as he is fet forth under the notion of a Whore, and false Prophet, and so shall be consumed by the preaching of the Word, and the Sword of the Spirit; and this hath been doing these many years, and the work is still carrying on by the Ministers of the Word. 2. He must be confidered in his Politick Secular Capacity, confifting of several Kingdoms under one supream Head, which is the Pope; so he is set out by the notion of the Beast, Rev. 11.7. & ch. 13. 1, 2, 3. which Beast, the Whore, i.e. the Ecclefiastical Hierarchy of Rome rideth, Rev. 17.3. yet they both together make up but one Antichrist, as the Horse and Man both together makes up but one Horseman. Now Antichrist as to his Secular Capacity, he shall be destroyed with another Sword, Rev. 13.10. He that killeth with the sword shall be killed with the sword. So that the utter consumption both of the Beast and Whore shall be upon the little stones rising into a great Mountain, which shall smite the Image on his feet, and shall break it to pieces, Dan. 2. 34, 35. This little stone is the Kingdom of Christ, which hath been but Regnum Lapidis hitherto, but then shall be Regnum Montis.

Perhaps it will be said, That the destruction of Antichrist (as hath been shewed) can be no mark of Antichrist, by which he may be known, for all

Enemies shall be destroyed by Christ and by his Word.

It is true that Christ will destroy all his Enemies by his Word which cometh out of his mouth, Rev. 19. 15. Sin and the Devil are continually destroying by the Word; but since Antichrist is set forth as the greatest enemy that ever was, and since the Antichristian state of it as it is in the Ecclesiastical Hierarchy of Rome, together with the Beast, Rev. 13. . . 1, 2, &c. are the last edition of the Fourth Monarchy, and it is on its last legs in this state, and it hath most opposed the Kingdom of Christ beyond any other; therefore the destruction of this State as to the remarkableness of it shall go beyond all other States and Kingdoms in the ... World. And therefore it is, that the Vials are prepared for this Enemy in a more special manner beyond all others, Rev. 15. 1, 2, &c. and ch. 16. the seven Angels with the seven Vials pour them forth upon the Beast, or something of the Beast. Thus much hath been made good in the . Papacy in a great measure already, which may appear by the confessionof Bellarmine, who telleth us, (Lib. Pont. de Rom. 3. c.21.) That the Lutheran Heresie possessed almost all Germany, Denmark, Norway, Suevia, Gothia, Hungaria, Pannonia, France, England, Scotland, Polonia, Bobemia, and Helvetia, and is got over the Alps into Italy. From his confellion you may perceive what a Consumption there hath been made of Antichrift.

2. Antichrist may be known by his Followers, and the Livery which Retinue, and they wear, the black marks and brands upon their backs, v. 10, 11,12. their Livery.

Here is a damned crew, the Retinue and Followers of Antichrift, having this special mark on them, that they be such as shall perish. Their Properties are I. Negative, They received not the love of the truth that they might be saved. 2. Affirmative, they have pleasure in unrighteousness. 3. They are set forth by some passive Properties which are penalties. 1. Internal, v. 11. strong delusions to believe a lye. 2. Eternal, v. 12. Damnation; here be the black marks of Reprobation, by which Antichrists Retinue and Followers are set forth. We do not find that any party of men are under more dreadful marks of Gods hatred than Antichrists Followers. See Rev. 13. 8. there they be let out by the Stigma of Reprobation, as persons left out of the Book of Life. And chap. 14. 9, 10, 11. They that worship the Beast, and receive his mark in their forebead, and in their hand, they shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, &c. and be tormented with fire and brimtone, &c. And chap. 17.8. there the admirers of the Beast are such as are left out of the Book of Life: The same persons are described here by Paul. 4. They are set forth by a special act of God in a way of just Judgment toward them; i.e. his sending strong Delusions to believe lies, by a Judicial Tradition, and giving of them up to a spirit of falshood to their eternal perdition. All these which are followers of Antichrist, that wonder after the Beast, and receive his mark, and bow to his Image, who close with Popish false Doctrines instead of the true; the Holy Spirit expresseth them by ex Esegarto, v.10. i.e. Pertinaciter oblatum repudiarunt; est Meiosis, Beza. They are such as wilfully reject the true Doctrine and Worship of Christ, and pertinaciously adhere to the false Doctrine, and the Idolatrous Worship of the Pope: And moreover they please themselves much in those false ways of unrighteousness, which are most destructive to Souls, and most displeasing to God.

From all this it appears that the Pope is Antichrift. Indeed if but some one or few Particulars did meet on the Pope or Papacy, we could not argue from them that he were the Antichrift, but when they all meet in the Papacy, and generally by common confent of Orthodox Writers they fasten these marks upon the Pope, he will never be able by all the skill he hath to escape the vengeance of God which will follow him on that account. Dr. Whitaker writing against Antichrist, and proving the Pope to be the Antichrift, he names many eminent and learned men that have understood this place, and those others in Daniel and the Revelation, of the Pope. He tells us of Wicklife (who declared the Pope to be Antichrist) who was suo seculo dectissimus. And Luther affirms in his Writings the Pope to be Antichrift: He saith he is potissimus Antichristus, and that abomination of Desolation that stands in the Holy place. Papa ille est Antichristus, cum sit specialis procurator Diaboli, &c. Non solum simplex illa persona, sed multitudo paparum a tempore defectionis Ecclesia, Cardinalium, Episcoporum, & suorum complurium aliorum, est Antichristi persona composita, monstrosa, &c. Catalog. Testium Verit. He adds that that he was a man, Spiritu Prophetico & dono interpretandi Scripturas preditus admirabili. Then followed Peter Martyr, Bucer, Bullinger, Melancton, Brentius, Calvin, Oecolampadius, Musculus, Beza, Gualter, Illyricus, Danus, Junius, Gabriel Poweol, Philip Morney, George Pacardus in Descriptione Antichrifti, Catalogus Testium Veritatis, Rivet, Crakenthorp, Tilenus, Chamier, Bishop Usher in a Letter to Archbishop Land, 1635. All agree in this Thesis, That the Pope is Antichrist. And Zanchy though he differed fomewhat from his Brethren in this point, yet he saith in his Miscellanies, Regnum Papa, non nego esse Regnum Antichristi. And he thinks that the Pope is pointed in 2 Thef. 2. As for our English men we have many that have publickly testified the Pope to be Antichrist, as Mr. Fox in his Martyrology hath noted. The learned Martyr Walter Brute maintained it in a large Discourse. Richard Wimbleton in a Sermon preached at Pauls Cross 1389. Sir Geofry Chaucer in his Plow-mans Tale. Lucifers Letters to the Prelats of England, Supposed to be written by William Swinderly Martyr. William Tyndal a godly Martyr in his Obedience of a Christian man. The Author of a very Christian Bishop and a counterfeit Bishop, 1538. John Bale Bishop of Osyris in his Image of both Churches, & templorum illustriam Britannie. Mr. Latimer, Mr. Bilney, Mr. Rogers, Sletterdon and others, Martyrs. William Abbey Bishop of Exeter in his poor mans Library. Bishop Femel in his Defence of the Apology of the Church of England. Mr. Tho. Beacon in his Acts of Christ and Antichrist, and Mr. Fox in his Meditations on the Apocalypsis. Mr. Brightman on the Apocalypsis. Bishop Bilson in his Book of Christian Subjection, and Unchristian Rebellion. Dr. Robert Abbot Bishop of Sarum, Dr. George Downham Bishop of Derry, Dr. Beard, Dr. Willet, Dr. Fulk, Dr. Sutcliffe, Dr. Share, Mr. Squire, in their several Treatises concerning Antichrist: Archbishop Cranmer did avow publickly Haud equithe Pope to be Antichrist: Archbishop Parker and Grindal avowed the quemquam same: Archbishop Whitgist when he Commenced Doctor at the Divijustum essential nity-Act 1569, publickly maintained in the Schools, that Papa est ille bonumque. Antichristus: And Archbishop Abbot afferted the same, with many o. Cui Papa non thers of our English Divines, who have generally held and declared the fordet mani-festus ut An-Pope to be Antichrist.

I might add the Convocation in Ireland 1615, the Parliament of England 3 Jacobi; the Synod of Gape in France, several Statutes of 16 R.2. c. 5; 25 Hen.8. c. 19, 20,21,28. Hen.8. c. 10.37. Hen.8.17. they tacitely define the Pope to be the Antichrist. Then our Book of Homilies, second part in the Sermon for Whitesunday; and in the fixth Sermon against wilful Rebellion determine the Pope to be Antichrist. The Book of Common-Prayer for the Fisth of November, stileth the Pope, Papists, and Jesuits a Babylonish, Antichristian Sect. The Author of the Book called Ensibius Captivus, who declared against the Pope as the Antichrist to his face, when he was brought before him to be arraigned. Archusius de ortu Antichristi, Philip Nicolai, Christopher. Peres.

Pencer:

Pewer, &c. have fastened the title of Antichrist on the Pope. We find in story several times loud out-crys of the birth of Antichrist, and still their eyes were upon the Pope. An: 1106. Prepergentis tells us that Pope Paschalis was going a Journey into France there to hold a Council, and he heard in his Journey, that it was the common report that Antichrist was born; whereupon he stops his Journey and staid at Florence, but afterwards he went his Journey, despising the report, as coming from contemptible fellows: Though Baronius tells us, They were persons of no ordinary note who did report it. See Bernard Epist. 56: ad Gaud. fridum. Carnoteus, Epift. Sabellic. Ennead. 9. c.4. tells us of Prodigies that appeared about that time in the Heavens, a Camel of vast magnitude, and in the Sea which over-flowed the shore an hundred paces: thereupon it was that the Bishop of Florence said, that Antichrist was born then in the year 1120: There was a Treatise set forth in the name of some faithful servants of Christ concerning Antichrist, in which all persons are awakened to consider of Antichrist, which was manifest in their age in the Pope and Papacy; thereupon many did separate from the Church of Rome: See Bernard Hom. 65, 66, in Cant. Between the year 1160, and 1170, the world being awakened as with a publick Herald founding a Trumpet about Antichrists then appearing caused a very great separation of the Waldenses and Albigenses from the Church of Rome. By all these Testimonies it appears what a general agreement there is and hath been among all that have had a favour of the true Religion upon their hearts; they have still agreed in this, though they have differed in other points. That the Pope is Antichrist.

From what hath been said there be several things may be drawn by way of Inserence, for our practice and instruction.

I Infer: From what hath been said we may see a reason of the mistakes of some in their proving the Man of Sin to be the Antichrist, and the Pope to be the Man of Sin, from some places which do not so properly belong to it. They have thought the same Antichrist to be pointed at in Johns Epillles, 1 Job. 2: 18, 22. and 1 Job. 4. 3: and 2 Job. 7: as here in Pauls Epistle to the Thessalonians: Some think the same Antichrist to be set forth by John, as by Daniel, and Paul, and by John in the Revelations, who deciphers Antichrist under the notion of a Beast, and a Whore, and a false Prophet. The Antichrist pointed at by John in his Epistles bath relation rather to the prediction of Christ, Mat. 24. 11, 23, 24. Mar. 13.21, 22. There shall arise false Christs, &c. We have not the name Antichrist but only in John, indeed we have & artinequeros v.4. a word equivalent: Fohn speaks of an Antichrist who was then in the World, and one prophesied of by Christ to come speedily into the World. But Paul writes of one who was wholly to come into the World, and for whose coming there were great obstacles to be removed first. The Antichrists coming in John is immediately upon a time which is called exarn wes, I Job. 2.18. And we know that fince he is come, it is the last hour or last time. This cannot refer to the last time which respecteth the coming of Christ to judg the World: This last hour doth refer to the Jewish state, of which the last glass or hour was now running and their final desolation was at hand. Then there were several who did pretend to be Christ, and to come in his name; there was Simon Mague, and Carpocrates, and the Gnosticks, of whom they were the heads which did pretend to Miracles, and Enthusiasms, and did seduce many. These be the Antichrists John speaks of in his Epistles, which were to appear, at the Coming of the Lord to Judgment; I do not mean his last Coming to the Judgment of the World, but of his Coming to the final destruction of Ferulatem, and the Jewish Polity and Nation by Velpasian: of which Coming Paul speaks, Heb. 10. 25. That was the day approaching in which Christiame to destroy that people: It is mentioned by James 5. 7, 8. which did draw nigh, for then the Lord Jesus was coming against Ferusalem. From the misunderstanding of these places, and misapplying them to wrong purposes, hath arisen the misapprehensions of the Pope's being Antichrist; for though several things in those places in John's Epistles do agree to the Papacy, yet the proper description of Antichrift is to be looked after in Pauls Epistle to the Thessalonians, &c.

and in the Revelation, and in Daniel.

2 Infer. If the Pope be The Antichrist set forth by those bloody characters (as hath been feen); if this Body Politick, Head and Members, be the Antichristian state, and this state is the Papacy, then it cannot be the true Church: It is true, Antichrist, Head and Members, are the counterfeit of the true Church, and of Christ the Head, and therefore they cannot be the true Church. The Scripture still sets out the Antichristian state in a stat opposition to the true, yet still under a pretence and colour of Faith in, and Love to Christ: For Antichristianism is, mystica impietes, pietatis nomine palliata: A mystical impiety, under the cloke of piety; so the Gloss. The false Church whereof the Pope is the Head, is set forth by a double Beast, Rev. 13. 1, 2, --- 11, 12. Both which together make up one Catholick Roman Papal Church, the number of whose name is 666, verf. 18. And the true Church, whereof Christ is the Head, is set forth by 144000, chap. 14. 1. the Square-root being 12. built on 12 Apostles: But 25 is the Square-root of 666, and there Mr. Potter in is a Fraction in the Root, and one more too there in the Square-root; his 666. to let us know, that though the Antichristian Church may feem as fair to fuch as look on it with human eyes, and 666, runs as handfomly as 144; but the former is the number of a Man, the whole Church and her Religion, being made up of additions and inventions of men. The number 666, denotes the Apostacy of the Church from the Standard of Truth. The Square-root of the Apostolick Church being 12, and so the Apostacy lies generally in additions to the Root and Foundation of the Christian Religion; they do not rest satisfied in sundamentals of the Christian Religion delivered by the 12 Apostles. The salse Church is set forth by the Whore, who pretends to be the Spouse of Christ, but is opposite to the Virgin-company, Rev. 14.4. that follow the Lamb. The Ecclesiastical state of Rome, or Hierarchy, is set forth by the salse Prophet, Rev. 16. 13, &c. 19. 20. & 20. 10. in a stat opposition to the two Prophets, Rev. 11. 10. which are the same with two Witnesses, and two Olive-trees, and two Candlesticks, vers. 3, 4. These represent the true Ministry of Christ which did prophesse, vers. 6. till they sinished their Testimony, vers. 7. Now whereas it is said that they are a true Church, veritate entitatis, but not Moris; they yield the Cause, because the question is not whether they be true and real men and women which are members of the Church of Rome; but whether they be members rightly qualified, as to their moral, and supernatural Principles which makes them a true Church?

How can that be a true Church, whose Head is the Man of Sin, &. who hath all those black and hellish characters belonging to him? Such a Church cannot be sounded on the 12 Apostles; Therefore that cannot be a true Church, which hath the Abaddon and Apollyon for the Heads. How can that be a true Church, which is so opposite to the true Church both Head and Members?

3. Inference. If the Papal Antichristian state, be such a Body, Head: and Members (as hath been shewed) then we may hence learn, 1. our Danger, 2. our Duty. 1. Our Danger if we continue in that Church. It must needs be a very dangerous thing for any to continue a member of that Church, or to have Communion with her: Such are under the energetical Influence and Seduction of Satan, and the Judicial Tradition of God, that fince they reject the truth in the love of it, they are given up to believe a lye, that they may be damned. They are under the most dreadful commination, Rev. 14. 9, 10, 11. They are a people marked out for utter destruction, as being rejected by him, Rev. 13. 8, and 17. 8. 2. We may learn our Duty to make haste out of that Church. All such as keep up Communion with Rome, let them hearken to that Call, Rev. 18. 4. Come out of her, &c. The Argument is taken from the Danger; this separation is no Schism, it being a separation from that Church, which is Apostatized from the Faith, and Truth of Christ. As soon as ever the people of God came to be awakened, and that the light of the Gospel began to spring forth, they presently saw their danger if they continued in that Church, and immediately performed their duty, and departed from her.

4. Inference. If the Papal Antichristian state be such a Body as hath been shewed, then it should be seriously considered, how any living and dying in the Faith and Religion of that Church can be saved, Rev. 16.3. Every living Soul died in that Sea of Ordinances (as some take it) of that Church, which is as the Blood of a dead man, as it was (Exod. 7. 17, 18.) when the Rivers were turned into Blood, all the Fish died. The whole Religion of the Antichristian Church is made up of false Doctrines, idolatrous Worship, superstitious Ceremonies. Traditions, and Inventions of men, by which they make void the Law of God. Matt. 15. 6. and subvert the Truth of the Gospel. How any (holding their Religion as it is so formed by the Man of Sin) can be faved in it, I cannot see. In all the description of the Man of Sin, the Son of Perdition, there is nothing that hath any tendency to Salvation: Look on the Church of Rome and her Hierarchy as the is fet forth by the Spirit of God, and it is still set forth in the most black and odious colours of a Beast with seven Heads and ten Horns, and by a Beast with two Horns like a Lamb, but speaks like a Dragon; Rev. 13. 1, 2, & 11, 12. Oc. And by the great Whore that rideth the Beast, Rev. 17. 1, 2, and 5, 6. Here is nothing but mischief and ruine to Souls from this Church, as fet out by those Types, as also under the notion of a false Prophet, and Seducer of the Souls of people to their Perdition. Some of the Church of Rome have much doubted, whether the Pope and Cardinals (which are the Head and Pillars of their Church) shall any of them be faved. Boccatius brings in a Monk faving thus: Papes & Cardinales, & Episcopos non pervenire ad salutem per doctrinam istam, quam palam videmus, eos servare; sed aliam habere penes se, quam clanculum observant, nec alis facile communicant: quid potuit verius dici, eos per istam, que illis est in usu, non posse servari. Boccatius himself, looks on the Pope, and Cardinals, and Bishops, according to the Doctrine they held forth to the World, as persons which shall never be saved; unless as the Monk saith, they have some other Doctrine which they keep to themselves, in which they look for Salvation: He on all their Religion to be a meer Shew and Pageantry, and refined Paganism. 1'le propound but an Argument or two to confirm this Inference.

1. They which lay the main stress of their Religion, on the rotten foundation of the Universal Headship of the Pope, and do believe it as an Article of their Faith, they cannot build their eternal Salvation upon fuch a weak foundation; there being no other foundation but that which is laid, Christ Jesus, 1 Cor. 3.11, 12. But so do they of the Church of Rome, they built their Religion on this foundation of the Headship of the Pope, to whom they give what peculiarly belongs to Christ, with Supremacy, Soveraignty, Universality, and Infallibility. They which rob Christ of his Crown and Jewels, and put them on the Popes triple Crown for him to wear, and lay the greatest weight on this business, they cannot be saved while they rest there; But so do the Papists: Therefore, &c. The Pope sits in the temple of God, as God, 2 Thef. 2. 4. and he is believed to have those excellencies which belong to Christ. Bellarmine saith, The Pope is the Universal Spouse of the Church: And August. Beroius saith, He is is the foundation of Faith, the 0 2 the Cause of Causes, and Lord of Lords. And Baldus saith, He is the living fountain of all righteousness, &c.

2. They which believe as an Article of their Religion, that the Church, or the Head of it is above the Scripture (as hath been shewn before, and by my Brethren in their discourses) they cannot be faved in that way; because no Man can know certainly, where his Salvation is to be had, fince it is (by their Tenets) in the Power of the Pope, to alter or add, as he shall think fit. The Pope set out by the two-Horned? Beaft, that speaks like a Dragon, Rev. 13. 11. 2nd is the same with the false Prophet, he takes to him the Authority of Christ, and more than Christ doth exercise, to make new Articles of Faith, to set up a new Worship in the Church, and to impose it upon all upon pain of death, banishment, excommunication, Rev. 13. 11, 12, 13, &c. This Beast which represents the Hierarchy of Rome, exerciseth all the Power of the first Beast, vers. 12. which was given him by the Dragon: vers. 4. So that he is Satans Lieutenant and Vicar-General, especially in taking such a Power and Authority above the Scripture; and this must be believed as an Article of their Faith. Let such consider, how they can be faved in that Religion.

3. That Church which is cast off of God and must not be measured. as refusing to come under the Rule of the Word, is such which none can be faved in; But such is the Church of Rome, Rev. 11.2,3. There is that Church (i.e. Head and Members, and all the Offices, and Ordinances, Institutions, Doctrine, Worship and Government) are all, cast out, as false, as having no Authority, or the Stamp of Christ upon them: Though they will plead an Interest in Christ, as Mat. 7. 22. yet Christ will utterly disown them; though they will cry the Temple of the Lord, the Temple of the Lord, &c. yet they are cast out, and given to the Gentiles to be troden under foot by the Gentiles. In regard that Rome having Apostatized from the Religion, and pure Worship of Christ, hath brought into the Church and publick Worship thereof, Pagan Idolatry under new names, of worshipping of Angels, and Saints, or Dæmons, 1 Tim. 4. 1, 2. That Church which is thus cast off of God, and his pure Worship is cast off by them, as being like the Man of Sin, or being the Man of Sin, Head and Members; I do not fee how Salvation is to be had in that Church as fuch, thus difallowed by God, as you have heard: Therefore it is that the Churches of Christ have cast her off; and as Bishop White in his answer to the Jesuit. faith, we have cast off the Pope, and his Teaching, for no other Cause, but that we are affured he is Antichrist, and his Faith is Heresse. If their whole Church and Worship be cast out by God, as being under no Scripture-Rule; then the true Religion, true Faith, true Worship, are not to be looked for in them, and by consequence, the Salvation of Souls is not to be expected from them.

5. Infer. If the Pope or the Ecclefiafical Hierarchy of Rome, be that Antichristian state which you have heard set forth, and there is a My-stery of Iniquity in their Religion and Worship, and they are under such black marks of reprobation, that do joyn with them in Communion, then it is fit that all Christians should be acquainted with the Mystery of Iniquity in some measure, and should study, as the grounds of the true Christian Religion, so the seeming pretences, and salse princi-

we should be acquainted with them, lest we be deceived through ignorance, and overtaken with the devices of Satan; which Paul mentioneth, 2 Cor. 2.11. and that we may be delivered from being planged in the deeps of Satan, spoken of Rev. 2.24. Are not the Nations deceived by them? Rev. 20. 3. Doth not the World worship the Dragon, and bow to the Image of the Beatl, or receive his Mark, or have the name of the Beast, or the number of his Name? Rev. 13. 3, 4, 15, 16, 17. Do not the Kings of the earth commit Fornication with the Whore? And are not the Inhabiters of the earth Drunk with the Wine of her fornication? Rev. 17.2. And all this because they do not know the impostures of that Church in their Religion. Surely the Spirit of God would not have fet out this Church under the notion of the Man of Sin, and those several Beasts in the Revelations and elsewhere; but that it was intended we should know them to avoid them. How express and punctual is Paul, in setting forth the Apostacy of the latter times? I Tim. 4.1, 2, 3. He fets out both the way of their deceits and the instruments. 1. He tells us of seducing Spirits., 2. The Doctrine of Devils. 3. They speak lies in hypocrify. 4. They are under a seared Conscience, and care not what they say or do, to promote the Holy Catholick Church of Rome, as they call her.

2. We should study their Mysteries, else (if we should be called to suffer) we shall not be able to suffer on a clear, and comfortable account, as they Rev. 11. 7. and chap. 13. 7. They suffered because they would not comply with the Man of Sin, in his Religion and Worship, nor conform to them, nor have Communion with them, as they did, Rev. 13. 3, 4, 14, 15. Those in vers. 7. Suffered on that account.

3. We must know those things, else we shall not be able to joyn in the Triumphant Song of Moses and the Lamb, upon the pouring forth the Vials on this Antichristian state. They only stand on the Sea of Glass, baving the Harps of God, and sing the Song of Moses, and which have gotten the victory over the Beast, and over his Image, and over his mark, and over the number of his Name, Rev. 15. 2. they are persons well seen in the deceits and impostures of that Church.

4. The Saints and Martyrs could not have born so noble a Testimony against the Man of Sin, in sollowing the Lamb wherever he went, Rev. 14. 3, 4. And were and are at open defiance against them, declaring their detestation of their Religion and Worship; vers. 8, 9, 10.

unless they did well know what they did. Indeed the Papists tell us we need not fearch into those things. The Rhemists in their Annotations, on Acts 1.7. say it is not needful to search into the times of Antichrist, &c. But Dr. Fulk answereth them, that it is necessary for us to know the coming of Antichrist as God-hath revealed him. But the Ministers of Antichrist would have no enquiry made of him, lest they should be found in See of Rome, the Western Babylon; They would have us be ignorant of this point, and keep us in the dark, lest we should see their frauds. Bellarmine de pontif. Rom. in prefat. calls that point of the Pope, summam rei Christiane, the very sum of the whole business of a Christian: And Malvenda de Antichristo, saith, he studied that one point twelve years. They count it a point most worthy to be studied, but they would keep the World in darkness and ignorance; lest if their Impostures should be detected, they would be abhorred, and their whole Religion being found to be a mere Delufion, it would be an Execration. And that will come to pass, by the discovery of further light of the Gospel, by which the prodigious enormities of that Church, and the pudenda of the Whore will be made manifest to all the World; that (I say) will come to pass which is prophesied of, Rev. 17. 16. The ten horns -- shall hate the whore, and make her desolate, and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire. They shall Cart her as the mother of abominations, as a common strumpet throughout Christendom.

6. If the Papacy, the Hierarchy of Rome, of which the Pope is the Head, be such as hath been described by Paul, then there can be no peace with Rome, no Communion with Rome: How can there be Peace faid febu to foram, 2 Kings 9. 22. as long as the Whoredoms of Fezebel are so many? What peace can there be with that Church which is the Mother of Harlots, and abominations of the earth? Rev. 17.5. What peace can there be with that Body Politick, which is the greatest enemy of Jesus Christ upon earth? What peace can there be between the followers of the Beast, Rev. 13. 3, 4, 15, 16, &c. and us adorers and admirers, and the followers of the Lamb? Rev. 14. 1, 2, 3,4. They are flatly opposite the one to the other, the one having the mark of the Beast in their right hand and foreheads; the other the name of the Father, and of the Lamb (so some Copies have it) written in their foreheads, who did own and publish defiance to each other: So that we may fay as it is, 2 Cor. 6. 16. What agreement bath the Temple of God with Idols? And verf. 14. 15. What Communion hath light with darkness, Christ and Belial, Christians and Antichristians, Truth and Falshood, the Church of Rome with the Protestant Churches together? Bishop Hall in his Book, No Peace with Rome, saith, Sooner may God create a new Rome, than reform the old. There was a reconciliation attempted by the Emperours, Ferdinand, and Maximilian; and Caf-Sander.

fander by their appointment drew a Project, in which he shewed his Acta collog; judgment, but without success. Consultat. Cassandri. It is said, that at Ratisbon. An. a meeting at Regenspurgh, there was an agreement made touching Free-list Lindan. de quewill, Original Sin, Justification, Faith, Merits, Dispensations, the Mass, rela pacis, practice but this held not.

factours of the Church of Rome, are bitterly fet against all reconciliation. See Bellarm. de Grat. evilib. arbit. He saith, that we embrace this opinion so much the more willingly, by how much it displeaseth our adversaries, and especially Calvin. And Maldonat. in c. 6. Joh. was so much abhorring from the Religion of the Protestants maintained by Calvin, that he saith, That though what he held was the same opinion with Austin and others of the Fathers, yet he rejected it because it was held by Calvin.

7. If these things be so concerning the Papacy as hath been said then there is matter of admiration and gratitude to all such whom God hath delivered from compliance with or conformity to, or Communion with that Church, of which the Pope, which is the Man of Sin, the Son of Perdition, is the Head, whose coming is after the working of Satan, &c. v.9. Whose Members e under his powerful Seduction, and the Judicial Tradition of God to believe a lie to their own eternal damnation, v. 10,11, 12. Their condition must needs be most dangerous, who are Members of that Church; and therefore it is the greater mercy to be faved. from that Seduction which thousands are under, whose Names are not written in the Lambs book of life, Rev. 13.8. & 17.8. They are under the black notes of Reprobation: To be faved from being of their Communion who worship the Beast, or his Image, and to be of that company of the Hundred forty-four thousand who are Virgins, and follows the Lamb where ever he goes, is worthy of eternal Praises. When we find such as are under the Seduction of the Man of Sin, the false Prophet, and the Whore, to be under the most fearful comminations from God, Rev. 14.9, 10, 11. how they that drink of the Wrath of God, and in the presence of the Lord and his holy Angels for ever and ever; Is it not matter of very great admiration and praises, that we should be saved from their sin, and so delivered from their plagues.

8. If the Church of Rome, of which the Pope is the Head, be such a Body, so corrupt and abominable as hath been shewed, then it is dangerous and pernicious, to retain any relick of the Man of Sin, that salfe, erroneous, idolatrous Church, in Doctrine, Worship, or Government, which they have pretended to be according to the Word of God, but have wrested the Scriptures to their own destruction, as 22 Pet. 3. 16. It is dangerous to retain such customs and usages in the Church, whereby we may Symbolize with Rome; How satal several things have been to the publick peace of the Church, which have been derived from Antichrist is too well known, from the divisions, contentions, and persecutions which have continued to this day. By these very means, the Papacy together with their Religion, have had a party, and kept up an interest among the Protestant Churches, and also a savourable respect among many, who have had a secret affection for the Pope and his Religion. Such will not have it that the Pope is Antichrist; and they will needs have it that the Church of Rome is a true Church: And that she is the Mother-Church, and that we ought to return to our Mother, with such like. What was the cause that the Book of Articles of the Church of Ireland was called in, but because they declare the Pope to be Antichrist, and the Church of Rome to be no true Church, and that the Lords day was wholly to be sanctified. So Montague in his Apello ad Cassarem, said, The Pope or Bishop of Rome, personally is not The Antichrist, nor yet the Bishops of Rome Successively. Dr. Heylin in his answer to Burton, maintaineth that the Pope is not Antichrist. Christopher Dove, and Robert Shelford were of the same mind.

9. Hence it follows that the Protestant Churches are unjustly charged with Schism in departing from Rome: the Papists charge us with Schism because we depart from them, and will not hold Communion with them; though there was the most just cause of this departure from them. 1. In regard they are heretical in their Doctrine, and obstinately persist in it, against all convictions to the contrary, for there have been attempts made to have healed Babylon, but the would not be healed, Fer. 51. 8,9. therefore forsake her. Him that is an Heretick rej & Gro. Tit. 3. 10. 2. When a Church becomes idolatrous in her Worship, as a Cor. 11. 16. then it is a duty to depart from them that depart from the Truth: upon Feroboam's defection and the peoples with him from the true Worship of God, there was a departure from them, by such as set their hearts to seek the Lord God of Israel. The Church of Rome became most corrupt and abominable in her Worship, else she had not been set out by the Whore riding the Beaft, Rev. 17.3. 3. When a Church becomes bloody, and tyrannical, and persecuting her Members to the death, then there is just cause of departing from them. Look on the Church of Rome set forth by the first and second Beast, Rev. 13.1, 2,-11, &c. both which make up one Antichrist; see how cruel and bloody that Church is: So where it is fet out by the Whore, Rev. 17. 5, 6. drunk with the blood of Saints. there is fignified a just cause of departure from her. 4. When a Church groweth wholly corrupt and debauched in her Morals, very vicious and scandalous in the lives of Governours and Members, then depart; 2 Tim. 3. 1,---5, there 19 abominations, or thereabout, spoken of, of which many should be guilty, from such turn away; though they had a form of Godliness, fince they did deny the power of it. I'le make no apology that I have put your patience so much to it, but this, That the Man of Sin, with whom I have had to do, is the most unruly Beast that ever was, and hath put the whole World into a disorder and confusion. And though I have exercifed your patience while I have been Preaching on this Beaft; yet I wish and pray that your patience may not be put to it by this Beast, as Rev. 13. 7. But if it should please God to let loose this Beast upon you, my prayer is, that it may be faid of you, as it was of them, verf. 10. Bebold the Faith and Patience of the Saints. SERM.

The SCRIPTURE to be read by the Common People.

HE Controversie before us is, Whether the Scriptures are to be read and heard, of, and by the Lay-people? and whether they are to be translated into the Vulgar Tongues? the Papitts deny, we affirm. My business will lye in three Propositions.

I. That the People are to hear and read the Scriptures.

II. That therefore the Scripture is: the Word of God was written for them, and to them.

III. Therefore it is to be translated into Vulgar Tongues.

The first is an express Precept; the second is a reason to prove the first; the third is an Inference from both.

And seriously when I have been musing upon this question, I profess heartily I have been surprized with amazement, how such a Controversie should arise amongst Christians (if Christians). Might not a man as well dispute whether a Carpenter should have his Line and Rule to work by? or a Soldier wear his Sword in the midst of Enemies? Shall I question whether the Air be necessary for Breath, or Bread for Life, or the Light of the Sun for our Secular Affairs? Sure enough the Word of God is all this, a Rule most perfect, a Sword most victorious, Air most fragrant, Food most wholsome, and Light most clear; the Word of an Angel precisely considered, is no ground for Faith, nor Rule for life, duty, and worship. The Word of God read and heard (saith our Church) is so great a good, that the benefits arising therehence are inexpressible, unconceivable; the Bible (faith that painful, pious, learned Bishop Hooper) Why, (saith he) God in Heaven, and the King in Earth bath not a greater friend than the Bible, in his Epistle Dedicatory to King Edward the Sixth. But I shall say no more of these, nor of any Protestants, because they are parties, and therefore their Testimony, though most true, is not proper. This Word is for the Soul, and is not the Soul more than Life; this light is to give the knowledg of the Glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ; and is not this infinitely beyond all our natural and civil concerns? all these things here below, either within us or without us are short-lived and vexation, but this makes a Man wife, and that to Salvation, and that through the Knowledg of and Faith in our Lord Jesus. And after all this and much more that might be said concerning this treasury of all Wisdom and Knowledg, shall it be a question whether the People so highly concerned in these things, shall they hear or read the Scripture? this is to me is wonderful; But the question is put beyond all question as to our adversaries, 'tis defined, determined by the Council (as they call it) of Trent in the negative, that the Lay-people shall not read, or hear the Scriptures read, no, nor have a Bible in the Vulgar Tongue under great Penalties; nay, the Priest reads it not in their publick Worship. The words are these, Si quis legere ant babere prasumpserit; If any shall presume to read or have a Bible; what then? why, the penalty is this, absolutionem peccaterum percipere non posset; he may not nay he cannot be absolved from his sins, they exclude such a manfrom remission of his sins; it seems the reading of the Bible is a sin unpardonable. The people are taught to believe, That what the Pope binds on Earth is bound in Heaven; fure then (I judg this must be the sence of the Canon, (viz) If a man that reads the Scripture, or hath a Bible in his House comes to confession and is absolved, that Absolution is invalid; he is not subjectium capax, he doth ponere obicem, there is a bar lies in his way to hinder his Absolution, and that bar is his reading or having the holy Bible. My reason is this, though he had a thousand Bibles, and did confess it to the Priest as his fault, he would absolve him, and the Absolution would stand good; so that to have a Bible and read it, puts a man into the state of Damnation, and no man can read the Scriptures but under the greatest penalty, se. under the pain of Damnation. By this Trent Conciliabulum, Conventicle, you see, Wo be to the Bible, and all the friends thereof; Bened. Furret in his Preface to the Index, Lib. Prob. & expurg. tells us, that Misericordix erga Dei librum nullus locus est; There is no place of mercy lest to the Book of God: Men fly from the Gospel (saith he) in the Italian or Spanish Tongue. Peste citim, faster than they would run from the plague of Pestilence.

But you will say the Councils prohibition of the Bible is with a limitation, viz. If you have a Bible without a license from the Bishop; they do not forbid licensed men the reading, and therefore wrong them not.

I answer, 'tis true they do speak to that purpose, I will not wrong them; but give me leave to do the truth and you right by telling you, that their pretence of a license is a very flam, a meer gullery, an abominable cheat, as I shall shew you in its place.

Further, that this Book may not spread abroad, the High-Priest and Elders in this Council straitly charge and command all Book-sellers and all Dealers in Books, that they sell not or any other way part with any one of these Books to any person upon the forseiture of the price of the faid Books, and to undergo all other punishment according to the arbitrium, will and pleasure of the Bishop. I confess this is drawn up very cunningly with much craft, as indeed all their Doctrines are expressed with artifice and subtilty. But if you read the Mandate of the Archbishop of Toledo by the Authority of Paul the fifth, there the punishment is this, so. For the first time he shall be punished, suspensione Officii, suspension from his Office, loss of his trade for two years, banishment twelve miles from the Town, ubi Bibliopolium habuit, for two years, and fined 1200 Ducats; Mille ducentorum Ducaterum mulcta puniendus; this for the first fault. But for the second time, si recidat, then the punishment to be doubled, and other punishments, ex Inquisitoris arbitrio eroganda, according to the will of the Inquisitor; and all this, Si quis babere aut emere vel vendere ausit; if any dare be so hardy as to have, or buy, or sell a Bible. And those Traders that are not so skilful as to understand the Catalogue of Books prohibited, must either take a man of skill into their Shop, or shut up their Shop-windows; for whosoever shall offend in this case, though per neglectum, or ignorantiam, a pana, nulla ratione exemptum iri; though they offend through neglect or unskilfulness shall not be exempted from punishment upon any account what seever. And Paul the fifth by his Breve sub annulo Piscatoris dated at Rome, 1612, forbids all persons, Ne legant aut teneant, that they should not read or keep those Books under the punishment of the greater Excommunication and other Censures; but bring them by, a certain day to be prefixed by the holy Inquisitor General, into the holy Office of the Inquisition; and accordingly the said Inquisitor in his Pontificalibus specifies in his Mandate this to be done within ninty days, all Books prohibited in the Index to be brought into the Office: Now amongst the Books in the Index, which are prohibited by Pontifical Authority, the Bible is the special Book forbidden. And to make all sure as much as may be by men and others, there are towards a hundred of Latin Versions of the Bible prohibited in this. Catalogue; and to be yet more sure that the Bible of all Books may not escape, this Inquititor General by the Popes Authority doth call in not only Books prohibited in the Index, but Librum aut libros in Regulis Generalibus comprehensos; Book or Books comprehended in the General Rules. Now the fourth General Rule (observe I pray) is made solely against the Bible in any vulgar Tongue, they are not to be endured; nay against any parts of it, as suppose some of Davids Psalms, or some of Pauls Epistles; nay, whether they be printed, or written, sive excufa, sive manuscripta; nay, all Summaries or brief heads of the Bible; nay quantumvis historica, although it be a Compendium of the Historical parts of it, all is forbidden. And if any man of what calling or dignity soever, be he Bishop or Patriarch, be he Marquess or Duke, (where is the Tradesman or Farmer, or Gentleman now?) if any of these shall dare the contrary, they are rebells to our Mandate, immorigeri, disobedient to holy Church, and P 2 shall shall be suspect of Heretical pravity; and I promise you that is a fair way to the Inquisition; i.e. the loss of liberty, pains of the body; for-feiture of goods, and loss of life ut plurimum.

Object. But whatever you say, the Council doth permit reading the Bible in the Vulgar Tongue, provided you have a license.

Answ. I told you before, this license was a meer blind, a fallacy, a flam: But because I am in hand with my Author, and to stay your stomachs till I come to handle this in its due place, for present I will only tell you this, (viz.). That Pope Paul the fifth in his Breve lately quoted doth recal all such Licenses. I will give you the sum of it, it begins thus, Ad futuram rei memoriam; Since as we understand the Licenses of reading the Books of Hereticks, or Books suspected of Herefie, or Books otherwise prohibited and condemned, (there comes in the Bible); obtained under certain pretences; do too much increase in the Kingdoms of Spain, (in Regnis Hispaniarum), and understanding, that there is more danger to the unlearned than profit to the learned, by, and from the said Licenses; we therefore upon whom the burden of watching over the Lords flock is incumbent, being willing to provide a seasonable remedy, and walking in the steps of our Predecessors Popes of Rome (mark that for anon), we do annul, casse, revoke, Irritamus & viribus penitus evacuamus, utterly make void all such Licenses, Faculties and Grants, and by the te. nour of these presents we do decise and declare the same to be cassate, void and null, easque nemini suffragari posse; granted by whomsoever, whether our Predecessors, our Selves, our Penitentiary Ordinaries, or Bishops whomsoever, and granted to what persons soever, whether Abbots, Patriarchs Marquesses, Dukes, or any other persons Ecclesiastick, or Mundane; quacunque autoritate fulgeant, whether they have had their License by Letters Apostolical, in form of a Breve under the Seal, or any other peculiar way to make the License firm and lasting, we revoke and annul all to the utmost.

Non obstantibus constitutionibus, Ordinationibus Apostolicia, any Constitutions and Ordinations Apostolical to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding, under the pains and censures of the Church to the highest; & invocato si opus est brachio seculari, (i.e. under the penalty of a Jayl, a Dungeon, a Faggot); and we command All Archbishops, &c: to take care that these our Letters be forthwith published in all Provinces, Cities, Diocesses, absque alia requisitione eis desuper facienda, i.e. without demurring, disputing, demanding why or wherefore. Here is sure work, not a crevise, a chink lest unstopped. Do you not see what care here is taken to suppress all Licenses, nay though under the Popes Seal? See what a roaring Bull here is, and what is your License now, I pray? a Fig. leaf. In the midst of this Breve his Holiness gives a Mandamus to the Inquisitor-General, the Archbishop of Toledo to prosecute this Breve to the utmost, not to suffer any person though never so great to have or keep, or read, or buy, or sell a Bible; which accordingly he did execute, as before.

For other Books I am not concerned, for ballardly patches added to the Fathers, which are many, and castrations of them, which are gross; if I could I may not meddle with that affair. I only take notice of the Index Expurg. how these Fathers of Rome blot out, and command to be blotted out the fayings of the Aucient Fathers as they are placed in the Indexes made either by the Interpreters, or the Publishers of them: As for instance, in Athanasius set forth Greco-latin; in the Index there was set down thus, Scripture sacre etiam plebi & Magistratibus cognoscende; Deleatur. i.e. The Holy Scriptures are to be known even of the Common-people, and the Magistrates; blot that out say they: Again, Scriptura sacraita clura est ut quisque, &c. The Holy Scripture is so plain that any one may understand; blot that out. Five more sayings there are about the sufficiency of the Scriptures, and that they only are to be heard; Deleantur, blot them all out; these Sentences will puzzle young Students, confirm the Hereticks: But indeed the true reason is they will discover our wickedness and heresies. So they deal with St. Austins works, Basilea ex Officina Froben, Purgatorium non inveniri in Scriptura; Purgatory not to be found in the Scripture; Deleatur, let it be expunged fay they; and good reafon, for such passages will make your Kitchin cold. And special order is given by these Fathers that care be taken to blot out all such passages. Ex quocunque alio indica: specially 4th, Edit. there named, & ex aliis similibus; and Lib. 2. de Bapt.cont. Donat. there is this short passage, Non est in Evangelio; there is no such thing in the Gospel, Dele, blot it out. So they serve Chrysostom, Basilea ex Offic. Frob. 1558, Sine Scriptura nibil afferendum; Scriptura Divina omnibus, volentibus pervie & faciles; Scripturarum lectio omnibus: Scripturas continere omnia. Scripturas legere, omnibus etiam; with some others, as Apostolorum Doctrina facilis & omnibus pervia: i.e. The Scriptures are plain to the willing, they are to be read of all even Artificers, the Scriptures contain all things necessary, and the like; away with these fays Holy Mother Church, blot them out every one, and good reason, for open that door once, then farewell all. Hitherto we have had two Acts of the Pope and his Council, one to call in the Bibles condemned that were abroad; the other to prevent their going abroad for the future, but all too late: Alas this would not do, therefore they take two other courses; the first was this, The holy Synod decreeth that no man dare (audeat) to interpret or expound Scripture in another fense, save that quam sancta mater Ecclesia tenuit, which boly Mother Church hath bolden, and doth hold; whose right it is cuias est) to whom it belongs to judg of the interpretation of the holy Scripture: although fuch interpretations were never uttered before, they that shall oppose this let them be declared by the Ordinaries, and punished according to the Statutes. So that if the Pope (for he is the Church, as you must know) shall affirm, Joh. 21. 16. Pasce over Peter feed my Sheep; if he shall say that the meaning of that Text is this, that by thele words our Lord Christ gave to Peter an Universal Headship over the Church, and in ordine ad -Spirituspiritualia, a Soveraignty absolute over all Kings to plant and pluck up, and that all this Power is given to the Pope as Peters Successor; why then you are to believe it, you must not take any other sense, though this be non-sense and never heard of before, that is all one.

So the second Council of Nice, quoted and approved by the Council of Trent, countenanced by the Legats and Lies of Adrian the first, proves Images to be worshipped, thus, No man lights a candles and puts it under a bushel, therefore the boly Images are to be placed upon the Altars, O res inconsequens & risu digna, said Carolus Magnus. But what is that, let it be never fo ridiculous and worthy to be hissed at; you may not dare to take any other sense, you may not quarrel at the Inference, though it be monstrously irrational; if you do, they have two Swords, and with one they will cut you off from the Church, and with the other, fc: the Secular, they will cut you off from the Earth; for the Church faith, That is the meaning of Ecce duo gladii, Behold here are two Swords;

the one shall unchristian you, and the other shall unman you.

The second course the Council hath taken to help themselves, is this; They have added to the Holy Bible (despairing of any relief there) the Apocrypha, and make Tobias and Fudith, and the two Maccabees, with the rest of the Stories of Bell and the Dragon, a Rule for Faith and Life, and whosoever shall not take them for the Word of God, Sacred and Canonical, they curse him, let him be Anathema; they send a man to Hell, if he refuse Toby. They have also stitched or patched to the Holy Bible their Traditions under the name of Apostolical, containing matters appertaining to Faith and Life; and these Traditions (which are in scrinius pectoris Pape), under lock and key in the Popes breast, they command under the pain of Anathema to be received pari Pietatis affectu & reverentia, with an equal pious affection and reverence as we receive the Word of God. Oh horrible!

The first of these courses, viz. to oblige men to understand Scriptures as the Church; i.e. the Pope expounds them, this is a reproach to the reason of Mankind; Bubalum eum esse non bominem, it degrades men into brutes. The second goes higher, and is a reproach to the Soveraignty, Goodness, Wildom, Faithfulness of our Lord Jesus. They do by this means horribly reproach the Apostles; for if the Administration of the Sacrament under one kind, and Invocation of Saints, Merit of works, Worship in an unknown Tongue, with others; if these be Traditions as their learned men say, and if their Traditions be Apostolical from the mouth of Christ, and dictates of the blessed Spirit as the Council faith; Oh then what an ugly and black reproach is here cast upon the Apostles: nay, it is a most prodigious blasphemy against the Lord Christ, and his holy Spirit, that the Apostles should teach, and practife, and write one thing to the Churches, and after whisper the clean contrary to some others who should convey it by word of mouth to posterity.

Any man sees that these sour points of Faith which they would prove by Tradition are directly contrary to what the Apostles preached and practised, and wrote to the Churches. But this is not my business, I only touch upon this.

But perhaps you will demand upon what reason the Council did thus decree? I Answer, they tell you, sc. cum experimento manifestum sit, 'tis manifest by experience that the sufferance of the Bible in the vulgar tongue. doth more barm than good through mens rashness; Ergo me firbid it: A doughty reason, no question of it! as if some Souldiers rashly abusing their weapons, therefore the General should command, and that upon grievous penalties, and that when they are faced by their deadly enemies, all the Army to be disarmed. Should a Protestant decree against Prayer, because Prayers of Papists are blasphemous? or against the use of the Lords Supper, because the Mass is Impious and Idolatrous? What decrees were these? Must Gods appointment be anulled, because of mens abuse? Why did they not decree that men should be prohibited the use of the light of the Sun by day, and Moon by night, because thieves and others abuse it? Doubtless such Decrees had not been so irrational and mischievous as this; for that light is for my body, for the face and converse with man, for my Secular affairs, and but for a time: but the light of the Scriptures (which they forbid with a curse) is formy Soul, for the face of Jesus, for Spiritual concerns, and for Eternity. The truth of the case is this, the experience of the Council was of that kind which Demetrius and the Craftsmen feared would be theirs; if Paul be suffered, down goes Diana, and our Market is spoiled. I will tell you as briefly and as fully as I can the story of this experience.

About the year 1516, the Friars are fent by Leo 10th. abroad with their Pardons to raise money for his Holiness, Indulgences for horrid Sins are fold at easie rates. Into Germany come the Friars, Luther (who had some years before quitted the study of the Law, and applied himself to the close and daily study of the Scriptures, and had been bleffed with some taste of the Righteousness of Jesus Christ, unexpectedly began to stir against these Pardon-mongers; yet at first very mildly, not simply against the thing, but against the impudence and covetous ress of the Friars: the Friars scornfully and publickly traduce Luther, he takes heart, and begins to dispute, write and preach against them; this spark thus blown suddenly becomes a great flame. The Pope begins to storm, and writes about this affair to Cardinal Cajetan; Cajetan disputes Luther, and quotes against him the Bull of Clement the sixth, which runs thus, Wherem una guttula, one drop of the Blood of Christ had been sufficient for Redemption, and streams of Blood came from bis Body; all that Blood which row over and above. Christ had deposited as a precious treasure in the hand of Peter Claviger (the Key-keeper of Heaven) and to his Successor; to be dispensed; (i.e. to be fold) to Penitents; and so likewise the surplusage of the Merits of the Virgin Mary, and all the Saints. Tanguam:

inexhausta condonandi materia, an inexhaustible store-house of Pardons.Luther retels the Bull by Scripture ; Frederick of Saxony shews him favour. the University of Wittemberg defends him; Frederick the Duke of Saxony sends him Cajetans Letter; Luther intreats the Controversie may be decided in Germany; the Emperour summoned him upon safe conduct to appear at Worms; accordingly he appears, there in the Imperial Affembly, and after in the Lodgings of an Archbishop before some other Princes; he humbly but vehemently offers himself to be tried by the Scriptures, or evident Reason; he is banished Germany, and appeals to a General Council; the Pope fears a Council as the shadow of death. All this and much more was done in five years, it was day-light all abroad in several places by this time; the Gospel had dispelled the darkness of Popery without any great noise or bustle. The Council of Trent convened not till the year 1546, about thirty years after the Preaching of the Gospel began, and was carried on by men of renown, for learning, piety and pains; the Council prohibits the Bible ob temeritatem, for the rashness of men, but doth not tell us what men, nor in what. Our excellent and learned Translators in their Epist. Dedicat. to King Fames say, that they expect to be maligned for their work by the Papists. because they desire to keep the people in ignorance and darkness. Dr. White in his defence, cap. 51. saith. That from mens rashness they dishonestly. nay most dishonestly conclude the utter suppressing of the Scriptures, not that they care how they are used, (for never any men used them so vilely as themselves, either in applying, reviling, or corrupting of them); but because they are mad at the Bible which discovers their beresie.

And if ever they get power again, 'tis probable (they may learn more wit by their experience, and Rome-Papal may serve the Book of God, as Rome-Pagan served the Oracles of the Sybils heretofore; namely, take it out of their Popish World, and chain it fast in the Vatican, there to be inspected only by a few Considents, and to be expounded as the Pope pleaseth. Origen said of old that the reading of the Scriptures was the torment of the Devil; sure it torments some body else of later years, but in Origens time it was not so; the Bible burns the Devil, and the

Thus we have seen the Council biting sore, but not opening much; that is lest to their Doctors, whose clamours have been loud and importunate, and their tongues set on fire from beneath against this holy Word from that day to this. They that do evil hate the light, the thies curseth the Candle, the Malesactor would dispatch his Judg; the design of these Doctors is to make the most sound and sully perfect Scripture to be as the people at the Pool of Bethesda, halt, blind, lame, withered. Alb. Pigh. a prime man (I promise you) gives this advice. They should (declamitare) often declaim against the Scripture, and that Rhetoricia artissis, with Rhetorical artissees and flourishes complain of their difficulty, darkness, shortness, lameness, impersections, blemishes; on t'other side fide they should strenuously contend for the necessity, authority, certainty, perfection, clearness, of Traditions unwritten; and then, nullo negotio, no doubt they shall easily carry the day. And what Pighius advised his sellows to do, he practised himself sufficiently. Andradius a great stickler in the Council, and a daring-man, takes the same course, and good reason; for he confesseth, That many and weighty points too of their Religion would reel and stagger, if they were not supported by Traditions. Orthod. Explic. lib.2.

Canus a considerable man Bishop of the Canaries tells his fellows, That there is more force and strength to confute Hereticks in Traditions, than in the Scripture. And after that he had wrested the Fathers, compared his adversaries to the Devil, quoting Scripture, alledged Plato and Farguin to justifie their practice; spit his venom into the face of the Bible, and urged a non-sensical argument, viz. Dabo legem, I will put my Law in their hearts; Ergo, there are Traditions. I say after this stuff he tells us the reason of it, Quorsum bacs? (saith he) nampe, omnem ferme disputationem; &c. that well-nigh all disputation with Hereticks is to be decided rather by Tradition than Scripture: Lib.3. Com. loc.c.3. That is, in plain English, we must resolve our Faith and Practice in the things of God into the Popes breast, rather than into the word of Jesus Christ.

So likewise Briston teaching his Scholar how to grapple with the Protestants, teacheth him thus; That he must first get the proud Hereticks out of the weak and false castle of only Scripture, (do you not observe his reverence? he calls the Scripture weak and salse, Os durum & impium!) and bring him into the plain sield of Traditions, and then the cowards will run; i.e. set the Pope in the Throne, and Christ at his Foot-stool, and then no doubt of the victory. For you must know the Pope hath the plenitude of all Power, to mint and stamp Traditions, to allow Miracles, and to expound Councils and Fathers as he pleaseth, and then all is our own. Bristow ult. Mot.

Iam weary of this, it were endless to repeat their Blasphemies in advancing the Papacy, and abusing Scripture. I will name but one Doctor more, when I have told you a Story out of a good Author. About the year 1523, seven years after Luther began to preach, they were so mad against the Scriptures, and so vexed at the light, that they burned two Austin Friars at Brussels, only for this, that they preferred the Scriptures above the Popes Decrees. There appears nothing else in the History, Cum in eo persisterent, damnati sunt capitis & exusti; Sleidan. Commen. lib.4. Send men out of the World in stery slames, because they will prefer Christ the Lord above the Pope! this is somewhat hard.

The Doctor (I mean) is Coster the Jesuit, he in his Enchir. cap. 1. divides Gods Word into three Parts: The first Part is that which he wrote himself in the two Tables. The second Part that which he commanded to be wrote by others, the Old and New Testament. The third Part, that which he neither wrote himself, nor rehearsed to others, but left it to them to do

themselves, as Traditions, the Popes Decrees, and the Decrees of Councils. And he makes this Application of his Distinction, that many things of Faith are wanting in the two former, (very good, it seems God by himfelf, and by his Prophets and Apostles gives out his mind defectively); neither would Christ have his Church depend upon them; (Oh horrible daringness)! The latter (saith he) viz. the Traditions and Popes Decrees are the best Scripture, the Judg of Controversies, the Expositor of the Bible, and that whereupon we must wholly depend. That is, blot out the Sun, and set up a flinking Farthing-candle, this is the defign. However you may observe in a few words a great deal of blasphemy, and some honesty: the Blasphemy lies in these particulars. r. That God hath revealed his Will fhort and scanting; a horrid reproach to the glory of his Wisdom and Mercy! 2. That the Lord Christ would not have us trust to his Word; a most vile reproach to his Care and Faithfulness over his own House! 3. That musty, dusty Traditions, and the Popes Decrees are the Word of God. 4. That the Decrees of men, of whom some have been Negromancers, Conversers with the Devil, Poysoners, Murtherers, Adulterers, nay Traytors, Blood-suppers, Ignorant, aret the Rule of Faith: The Honesty is in this, that he joyns hand in hand, together Traditions and Popes Decrees, and well they may, for they are brethren, and have one and the same Parent. 2. In that he confesseth that Traditions were not rehearsed or delivered from God by word of mouth; and therefore the Council of Trent put a sad and miserable blind and cheat upon Princes and People, while they fay that Traditions were either spoken by Christ, or dictated by the Holy Ghost.

Lest any man should say that these Doctors were private men, which is their common and last shift, I will shut up all with their new Creed. Know then, that Panl the 4th. set forth a Creed of his own, consisting of Twelve Articles, added to the Twelve of the Creed, called the Apostles; out of which I shall take only three, proper to my business. The title of it is, The publick profession of the Orthodox faith to be uniformly observed and professed. The sirst Article is, The Apostolick and Ecclesiastical Traditions, and other Observances and Constitutions of that Church do I firmly admit and embrace.

2. Art. Also the Sacred Scriptures do I admit according to that sense which our Mother the Church hath holden, and doth hold, whose right it is to judg of the true sence and interpretation of the Scriptures:

3. Art: I do vow and swear true obedience to the Bishop of Rome, and all other things likewise do I undoubtingly receive and confess, which are delivered, defined and declared by the facred Canons and General Councils, especially the holy Council of Trent; and withal I condemn, reject and accurse all things that are contrary hereunto; and all Heresses whatsoever condemned, rejected, and accursed by the Church. And this true Catholick Faith I will maintain inviolate to the last gasp; and I will take care of those which shall be under me, or such as I shall have charge over in my calling, to be bolden, taught or preached to the uttermost of my power; this I promise, vow and

Thus the Bow is bent, and the Arrow upon the string to shoot through the heart of the Scripture, the soundations of the Prophets and Apostles must be cast down, or else Babel will fall; there is the origine of these and such like out-ragious reproaches upon the Oracles of the blessed God: Pass over to the Isles of Chittim, go to Kedar; Did ever any Nation do this to their Oracles? Did the Pagans ever do such indignities to the dictates of their Druides? or their Brachmans? or the Turks to their Alchoran?

This Controversie then, whether the People of God should read and hear the Word of God, (which would make a man wonder that ever such a question should be moved, the duty being so solemnly enjoyned, the practice of it so necessary, the fruit of it so profitable, which made David wifer than his Enemies, than his Teachers, than the Aged, better to him than all treasures, sweeter than the honey-comb.) I say this Controversie shall through Gods assistance discuss and deliver you my thoughts upon it from the 1 Thess. 5.27. that is my Text.

1 Thes. 5.27. I charge you by the Lord that this Epistle be read to all the holy Brethren.

This Text is a Constitution Scriptural, one of the true Canons of the Apostles, directly opposite to the Constitutions of the Pope, and the Canons of the Council of Trent, as we shall see by and by. It may be resolved into these parts;

1. An Injunction to a Duty, that is Reading, that it be read.

2. The subject or matter to be read, that is, this Epistle. And by the same reason all the rest for the wit of all the Jesuits in the World cannot frame an Objection against the Reading of any, which may not be as well made against the reading of this one.

. 3. The Object or Parties to whom, the holy Brethren, i.e. the People.

4. The Extent, to all, all the holy Brethren.

5. The Solemnity of this Injunction, I charge you, not I befeech, or intreat, or I exhort, (as sometimes he doth), but I charge; and that not simply a bare charge, but the highest that can be, and the only time that ever Paul did give this which is so high, that none can be higher. He doth indeed charge Timothy solemnly, 1 Tim. 6. 13. but there it is, before ivarior πε θεε, in the presence of God; but in my Text it is τον κύριον, i.e. νη τον κύριον, by the Lord; there it is παραγγέλω, præcipia, I charge, I command; but here it is, δεκίζω, I charge, I adjure; δεκίζω, is juramento obstringo; it hath the force of an Oath, and that under the curse.

curse, I adjure thee, (saith the High Priest) to our Lord Christ, Mat. 26.
63. Exercise of I adjure thee by the living God tell w; implying an Execration in case of speaking falsly. The Apostle Paul doth not deal with them in this place, observando, as the Latins used to do, per Deos Deasque omnes, as some think; (yet even in that sense the words had been very vehement, and in case of failure of not reading would import vengeance on them for it), but here he deals execrando, his charge hath the form of an Oath, obliging under pain of the curse, and so Dr. Hammond renders it: In This in Hiphil, is literally and critically to make swear, to adjure; and is expressed by Pauls, ognison, I Thess. 5.27. I bind you under the curse of God that this Epistle be read. The Law concerning this we have Numb. 5: 21. where we have not simply an Execration, but there we have the Oath of Execration: Thus he upon Mat. 26. note 1.

The Text thus explained (methinks) among fober men should quickly decide the Controversies For whether we should obey the Lord Christ, or the Council of Trent? Whether we should believe Paul the Apostle speaking by the Holy Ghost, or Paul the Pope speaking by a pack of Parasites, judg ye: Which curse of the two should we dread, this of God in the Text, or that of Man at Trent? Surely there is no difficulty to determine this point.

The words thus opened will to our business afford us three Observables; 1. The state of the series of Popes or Antichrist. 2. His Character. 3. His Confutation.

1. His state is a state accursed; I offer my proof thus. They that do not read the Scriptures to the People in the vulgar Tongue, according to the duty of their Office, nor suffer the people to read themselves; nay, that do prohibit them to have a Bible, and that by a severe Law under a grievous penalty; these for so doing are bound under the curse of God; But Antichrist doth all this: Therefore the state of Antichrist is a cursed state. The Proposition or Major is the Text, the Truth of God; the Assumption is notorious, the Practice of Rome or Antichrist: The Conclusion is regular and natural.

Add to this the wo our Lord Jesus denounceth against the Scribes and Pharisees, Mat. 23. 13. because they did shut up the Kingdom of Heaven took amay the key of knowledg. Luk. 11. 52. They neither went in themselves, nor suffered those that were entring to go in; yet these never suppressed the Bible in their own Tongue, much less prohibited the reading of it by the People; neither did the Scribes omit the reading of it to the People. The Argument holds from the less to the greater; in both these the Scribes were Saints in comparison to the Popish Doctors, and the non-expounding by far a less sin than the prohibition, and that by a Law under grievous penalty, nay death it self, as it will appear anon.

2. Here we have the marks of Antichrist, Dan. 7. 24. (for it cannot with with truth and sense be understood of any other), saith of him, He shall think to change times and laws, sc. of the most High. Paul giveth this mark of him, He shall not only exalt himself above all Augustness, (Sisaspa visas . Augustus sc. Cafar, Act. 25.21.) not only above the Emperour and Princes, but 2 Thes. 2. 4. shews himself as God, sc. in changing Lams Divine, and making new Laws, new Creeds to bind the Conscience; this mark is visible in many particulars. But to my business, thus; The Lord Christ commands the people to search the Scripture; the Pope commands no, no such matter. Christ commands them to fearch Moles and the Prophets, the Old Testament; the Pope forbids them to search either Old, or New. Christ saith, In them you think to bave eternal life; the Pope saith the contrary, There is more danger of eternal death. Christ gives this reason, they testifie of me; the Pope faith. No, they are very dark and obscure, very short and defective, therefore no competent witness. Christ saith, Let my word dwell in you richly; the Pope faith, No, not dwell, no not in your Houses. Christ saith, teaching and admonishing one another; the Pope saith, Brabling and perverting one another. Christ saith, Whatever you do in word or deed, do it according to my word; the Pope saith, Do my word, observe our Decrees, or elfe I will burn you. Christ commands in my Text that this Epifile be read; the Pope commands the contrary, No reading. Christ saith, To all the Brethren; the Pope faith, No, not to any Lord, or Duke, or Prince; (Franciscus Encanas as learned a man as Spain afforded, was imprisoned fifteen Months, expecting death every day, but marvelously delivered; only for presenting the New Testament in Spanish to the Emperour Charles the Fifth). Christ saith, I charge you to read; the Pope faith, I charge you, you do not read. Christ faith, I charge you under my curse; the Pope saith, I charge you not to do it, under the curse of the Church. Christ faith, I charge you under the pain of Hell-fire; the Pope faith, I charge you do not under the pain of Hell, and the Stake in Smithsield too.

Thus you see his mark, and 'tis the same in many other Particulars; as for instance, Christ commands in the Supper, Drink ye all of this; the Pope prohibits it, Not a man of you shall drink a drop; but that is ex-centrical, now it is the business of another.

3. Here we have the Confutation of the Popish Doctrine and Practice; and this ariseth out of the Premises thus: If the Lord Christ frequently commands the reading of the Scriptures by the People, and solemnly charged the reading of them to the People, then Popish Doctrine and Practice is false, and wicked: But Christ doth do so; Therefore their Doctrine is false, and their Practice wicked. On the other side; If the Premises be true that Christ hath commanded and charged this, then the Doctrine and Practice of the Protestants is holy, just and good; But Christ hath so done: Therefore their Practice is good. Observe from hence, That Popery is not only an addition to the Doctrine of Christ (as some pretend) but an Opposition, a flat Opposition to it; and where it is an addition, as in the great business of Justification by the Righteousness of Christ alone, there the addition is a destruction; 'tis such an addition as Agrippina made to the Meat of Claudius Cafar, such an addition as destroys Religion, and poysons the Soul. So the Invocating of God, Meritis & Intercessione, by the Merits and Intercession of Saints, and the formal Invocation of Saints and Angels, requesting their open & auxilium, (very large words, and the very words of the Council), entreating their belp and assistance; is not a bare addition, but horrid Blasphemy and palpable Idolatry: For which things fake our famous English Divines have held the Church of Rome to be no more a true Church, than a Murderess and a Whore can be a true Subject, and a true Wife; a Metaphyfical verity is an idle whimfey in Moral concerns. And they have held also, That a man living and dying a full Papist could not be faved; every one, faith he, may be faved from Popery, that is not the business, but whether he may be saved in it? they say, No.

In opposition to the Popish Doctrine this day, I have three things (as I have told you) to affert. 1. That the Scriptures are to be read by, and to the People of Christ. 2. That therefore the Scripture is Scripture, the Word of God was therefore written. 3. That it is to be translated into the Mother-tongue. The first is a plain Duty and constant Practice. The 2d. is a Reason to prove it. The last is a manifest Inserence from them both; For if the Word of God were therefore written that it might be read to and by the People, then it follows of course, that it is lawful, honourable, necessary to be translated; for if the Shell be not broken, how can we come to the Kernel? if the Trumpet give an uncertain sound who shall prepare himself to the Battel? if the Stone be not removed from the Wells mouth, how shall the Maidens draw Water?

1. Of the first, Col. 4. 16. When this Epistle is read amongst you cause it to be read in the Church of the Laodiceans; and that ye read also the Epistle of Laodicea, Ephes. 3. 4. Whereby when you read ye may understand my knowledg in the Mystery of Christ. This Epistle (it is very probable) was written to all the Churches of Asia, as that to Corinth was to all the Churches of Acheia, and it is likely the Epistle to the Laodiceans (being one of these Churches) was the same with this to Epbelus: If any would see more of it, he may consult Dr. Ushers Annals, ad annum Christi 64. or Dr. Hammond upon Col. 4. n. a. All that we get by it, is no more than what we had reason to believe before for the substance: sc. That this Epistle was communicated to all the Churches of Asia; only it seems very probable that this Epissle was inscribed to the several Churches by name, one by one. Now these two Texts throw Dagon upon the threshold: For observe 1. the Apostle takes it for granted, that they would read it; nay, he commands them to take care that others may read, and that they read his Epistle written to others. 2. He takes takes them for men of understanding, he doth not look on them as brutes.

3. Not only understanding more obvious Truths, but even the Mystery of Christ; he doth not tell them, these are hard, obscure, they are not for the vulgar, the rabble, the lay people, in whom there is not mens, consilium, or ratio, but a meer Bellua multorum capitum, a many-headed, and a mad-headed Beast.

4. He doth yield or submit his own understanding of that Mystery to the discerning of these Ephesians. The third Text shall be that of James in the Council at Jerusalem, Act. 15.

21. For Moses of old hath them that preach him, being read in the Synagogue every Sabbath-day: This was the old practise from ancient times, and still in, saith James. Again Act. 13. 15. After the reading of the Lam and the Prophets, the Ruler sent to Paul; it being the custom of the Jemish Doctors after reading to expound some Scripture for the instruction of the People; so the Ruler sent to Paul and Barnabas, and Paul preached; one would think this might suffice.

The Testimony of such a Council, the universal, ancient practise of the Fews in their Worship, practised by our Lord Jesus, Luk. 4.16. He went into the Synagogue as his custome was on the Sabbath-day, and stood up for to read. Again, the Lord Jesus often in his answers to their questions appeals to their own reading; very often this is his practife; tor instance, in the case of Divorce, Mat. 19.3, 4. Have ye not read that be which made them in the beginning, made them male and female? Andagain, for this cause a man shall for sake father and mother, and they twain shall be onec flesh. So when the Children cried, Hosanna, Have ye not read, saith he, out of the mouths of babes &c. Mat. 21.16. and v.42. Did ye never read in the Scriptures, the stone which the builders refused? and have ye not read in the Scripture so much as this, What David did when he was hungry, Luk. 6. 3. how he eat the shew-bread, and they that were with him? And have ye not read in the Law how the Priest prophane the Temple, and are blameless? Mat. 12.5. Very frequently he quotes the Scripture, but mentions not the Prophet nor the Section, they were so well acquainted by reading and hearing it read, they knew very well the Text. The Sadducees put a case out of the Scripture, Mises saith if a man die Gre. he tells them. They err, not knowing the Scripture; answers their argument out of the Scripture, appeals to their own reading, Have ye net read (faith he) that which wis spoken unto you by God; I am the God of Abrabam, &c. Mat. 22.31, 32. Pray. observe God spake that to Mifes fixteen hundred years before they were born; and Christ saith, Godspoke it to them, then it did concern them to know it; then they oughtto use the means, then they ought to read, Have ye not read what God? spake to you? So when he speaks of the abomination standing in the holy place spoken of by Daniel the Prophet; he doth not beat them off and tell them it is dark and difficult, no, but directly the contrary, Let hims that readeth, understand, saith he; Mat. 24. 15. And so in the Revelation (and fure Daniel's Prophecy, and Johns Revelation are the difficulttell: test pieces in the holy Bible), he is so far from affrighting his People from reading of it as a thing unsit or dangerous, that he begins the Revelation with a Blessing to the Reader, Blessed is he that readeth, Rev. 1.3. Yea, but every one cannot read; why then, Blessed are they that hear; but why read and hear? why, that they may understand and keep the sayings of this Book: the sealed Book with seven Seals is opened, and in the little Book the time determined is expressed by days, months, and years, and in every of these things there is an agreement to a tittle, we know not indeed where to commence; and I think it is falix nescientia, a profitable nescience; but sure the Book is profitable. I wonder with what face the Fesuits of Rhemes in their Preface on their Annotations, could scurrilously scoff at the Hereticks for reading the Revelation; did they fet themselves on purpose against the Testimony of Jesus Christ? They (the Protestants) read, and to see out of pride of heart, and we know what spirit they vaunt; the Cantica canticorum, the Romans and the Apoealyps. Oh ye Jesuits what makes you to rage and revile, what harm these Books do to you! I guess this is the reason, the Canticles in a Heavenly way treats of the near Union of the Church to Jesus Christ, and her daily Communion with him by Faith, Love, Blesfing, Prayer, 'Meditation and Obedience to him. Doth this offend you? But why I wonder do you mention the Romans, as if it were so great a fault for the People of God to read the Romans; avaunt impudence joyned with spight and malice! had you no more discretion but to tell the World in print, That, that Epistle did torment you? The truth is, that Epissle heweth Popery all to pieces; their mincing Original sin. their cursed distinction of fins into Venial and Mortal, (which one distinction ruins more Souls than any one in the World, and brings them in more gain than any other), their Justification by Works, their Do-Ctrine of Apostacy, Election conditional, with the rest are all consuted and confounded by that Epistle.

Besides in Pauls numerous Salutations of the Saints at Rome in the 16. chap. he never mentions Peter, not any-where else in the Epistle, never mentions his care over them, or pains amongst them, nor their respect or duty to him; a shrewd suspicion, and it is no way sit the People should know so much.

For the Revelation every one knows the reason why they cannot abide that Book to be known and read; for there is described the great Whore, intoxicating Princes, and the Inhabitants of the Earth with the Wine of her Fornications; the City is so plainly described to be Rome, that every Reader presently understands it of the Papacy. And well they may, for the attempts of learned men to apply the Revelation to Rome-Pagan are lighter than vanity; and the attempts of the Jesuits to accommodate it to an Antichrist at Rome, three years and a half before the end of the World, is most fabulous and ridiculous; and yet a horrible cheat in France, Spain, and Italy, and other places, where the Papifts dwell, that Chymerical Antichrist goes for current.

But to proceed, there are Scriptures yet behind, and they are principal ones, none beyond them; perhaps you think what needs you prove it any more, it is as clear as the Sun? I answer, I have told you my thoughts have been the same; I have wondred how our Divines could be so copious, so laborious, so exact in a point so plain, till I considered that it is one of the main points of greatest moment; let this be for a wonder to us, that the Popes, the Councils, Cardinals, Doctors, men of parts, convenienced with all helps of Libraries, Arts, Languages, should either be so blind, or blinded as not to see it, or else so daring as to deny it, or else so desperate, (this is the case) as tooth and nail, by all means, slattery, fallacy, force, wrestings, perverting Scriptures, Fathers, Councils, to oppose it, to disparage, to blaspheme it, and all to rob the People of God of it, and to make merchandise of their Souls; for that is the meaning of that Text, Rev. 18. 13.

The first is that of Christ, Joh. 5. 39. Search the Scriptures; the Context tells you that Jesus had healed the Cripple that lay at the Pool, the Jews cavil at him for carrying his bed, v. 10. he defends himself by the Command of him that cured him, v. 11. he comes and tells them, so the Jews, that it was Jesus which made him whole, v. 15. Upon this the Jews sought to kill Jesus, v. 16. Upon this Jesus began to preach to them, v. 18. to the last v. and in this 39. v. he commands and exhorts them to search the Scriptures, as if he had said, you will not believe me, though you see my works, and I would not have you believe the Scribes to whom you give too much credence, between us both believe your own eyes, search the Scriptures. Moses and the Prophets wrote of me.

There is the first.

The second is that of the Bergans, That they searched the Scriptures daily whether thefe things were fo; and they are highly commended for it by the blessed Spirit, they were more noble; (Ah the poor Rhemists), vet they had their best wits, and did their best endeavours, and many a year they were a contriving their Annotations), how are they confounded and puzzled here! something they would seem to say, but 'tis worse than nothing, because it is nothing to the purpose; and indeed what can be faid; a man had need to have a special faculty in railing and casting mists before so clear a light; for this Text avows three things which are the very state of the Controversie. 1. That the Scriptures were in the vulgar Tongue. 2. That as they were in their own Tongue, so the Laity had them in their own hands. 3. That they did read them, and heard them read; there was nothing of any Imperial or Pontifical Power to hinder them, no Monks nor Friars to discourage them and impeach them too. The question being thus cleared, add to this, ex abundanti, the practice of these Bereaus which was searching, and that daily, thefe Scriptures, for which they are commended, and that by God himself for so searching; and any sober man would think it impoilible R impossible for any to gain-say it; less the people whose Souls are precious and immortal in other Countrys enjoy the same priviledges as the Bereans had, and then if they do not read and hear, and search, their destruction will lie at their own door; but if they be debarred and die in their sins through ignorance, if they perish for want of knowledg, their blood will be required elsewhere. Wo be to the Parish-Priests, wo be to the Bishops, wo to the Prelates, said one of their own.

The third and last is that of Moses in the year of release, Deut. 3.11.12. 13. When all Israel is gathered together men women children, servants, all the Brangers within the gates, thou shalt read this Law before them in their hearing. I say nothing of the King, who is commanded to have a Copy of the Law, and to read therein all the days of his life, Deut. 17. 19. Nor of Folhua the Captain-General, the Law, the Book of the Law hall not depart out of thy mouth, but those shalt meditate therein day and night, Josh. 1.8. Nor the Chamberlain of the Queen who was reading in his Chariot the Book of Isaiah, Act. 8. Nor Peters exhorting the Twelve Tribes to take heed to walk according to the Scriptures as a light, and a more fure word of Prophelie, than any particular voice from Heaven, though that was most fure also, 2 Pet. 1. 19. Nor Pauls bidding Believers to try all things, I Thes. 5. 19. which trial must be by a Rule, which is the Word of Christ, with which Rule they must be well acquainted, or else they will be but forry triers. These and many others I must pass over, and defire you to confider what you heard. The adversaries to this truth know all this full well, but what care they for Moses? tell them that Mifes took the blood and sprinkled the Altar, and read the Book of the Covenant in the Audience of the People, Exod. 24. 6; 7. What care they for Moses precept or practice, or threatning? for why, they affert that Papa potest dispensare contra Misen; if you argue from the Apostles, why then, Papa potest dispensare contra Paulum. To be short, a learned Frenchman (no Hugenot) tells us, Dr. Gloffatour upon the Canon-Law avowed by the Rota in Rime, affirms that the Pope may dispense against the Apost le, against the Old Testament, against the four Evangelists, against the Law of God; Review of the Counc. Trent, lib.5. cap.3. To what purpose should I stuff my Discourse with Quotations, Papa potest, the Pope can dispense, when we see he doth do it, and it is so determined by the Council with an Anathema to the gain-fayer in the business of Marriage, Can. 2. de Matrimonio, Si quis dixerit Ecclesiam non posse dispenfare in nonnullis, &c. If any shall affirm the Church cannot dispense in some things forbidden about Marriage in Leviticus, let him be accurfed. If a man reply that these Marriages were abominable among the Heathen before Mofes was born, and for these sins God cast them out, and therefore they were fins against the light of Nature; and by that reason the Pope cannot dispense: pish, the Answer is easie, Papa potest dispensare contra Rationem, the Pope can dispense against Reason. If you reply that Paul did deliver to Satan the Corinthian, for one of these Marriages prohibited; the Answer is, Paulus non potnit, Paul could not dispense, but Peter could. Thus you see there is no defending of Popery in this and other Controversies, but by setting the Pope above God. The damned Angels would be as God; but here is one that acts Superiority over Christ, who is God over all, bleffed for ever, Rom. 9.5.

The second Point to be discussed is this; That the Eible had never been but for the use of the people of God; God therefore commanded the Doctrines, Precepts, Promises, Providences, Prophesies to be written for them; and therefore they are to read it, and to hear it read; nay more as they were written for the People; so by Gods appointment they were written to the People: therefore the People are not to be debarred from the reading, and hearing of them. A man that denies these Arguments must be (to refresh my self with 7. G's language), the firstborn of impudence and non-fensicality. The two Antecedents I shall prove by parts; the first is proved by Rom. 15. 4: Whatsoever things were written before time were written for our learning; and the best learning too in the World, that we all through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope; for our learning, mine and yours, ye Saints at Rome, Tent-makers, Artificers, Men, Women, Old, Young; for your Learning, Faith, Hope, Patience, waiting upon God, keeping his ways, and comfort in so doing, strength, courage to do, to suffer; and whatfoever things Doctrinal, Preceptive, Promissory, Historical, all written, all written for you, for your learning: Ergo, fure they may read them, and hear them. The next is 70h. 20.31. But these are written that ye might believe that Fesis is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing ve might have life through his name. This Gospel was the last written (our Books tell us) upon the request of some Asian Presbyters for the good of the Churches. And against the Ebionites, and Cerinthians, and such like who denied the Deity and satisfaction of our Lord Jesus; sure it was written for the Churches (and so to all to the end); and it was written for their Knowledg of, Faith in, and Salvation by our Lord Jesus: these are expresly in the Text. So again, 1 70h. 5. what a Chapter have, we there, so sublime and heavenly! yet in the 12. he tells us that these things are written to Believers, to all Believers, that they might know that they have eternal life, v. 13. And so begins his Epissle chap. 1. when he had spoken something of their fellowship with the Father, and his Son Jesus Christ, These things (saith he) I write unto you that your joy may be full, v. 4. Chap. 2.12. I write to you little Children; v. 12 to you fathers, young men, v. 13. The Epistle is high, yet very plain; it treats of the Bleffed Trinity, Communion with the Father, and his Son Jesus Christ, cleansing by his Blood from all Sin, Remission of Sins through his name, the teachings and witness of the holy Spirit, and treats of these things so, that writing of them to all sorts for their good, together with the Doctrines written, is abundantly able to confound the Remans, and Poland adversaries abroad and at home.

What need I mention any more, that of the King, Deut. 17.19. he must write a copy of the Law, and it must be with him, that he may learn to fear the Lord his God, and to keep all those words of those statutes to do them. Joshush must have the Book that he may observe those precepts and prosper, Josh. 1.8, 9. It were endless to name all; I will form the Argument, and go to the next.

Thus it runs; The Truths which God appointed to be written on purpose that the People might read and hear for their Learning, Instruction, Faith, Obedience, Comfort, Joy; these Truths the People ought to read and hear; But the Bible is the Book wherein these Truths are written for that purpose: therefore they are to read and hear the Bible read one to another.

But 21v. as they were written for them; so they were written to them. not to the Clergy, but the People especially. Rev. 2. 30. the Seven Epistles to the Seven Churches written to them for their good: What thou feest prite in a Book and send it to the Seven Churches in Asia; saith the Lord Christ to Fohn, Rev. 1. 11. So Fude v. 1. So Peter his second Epistle, I write unto you, in both which I stir up your minds by may of remembrance. Thus he writes to them and for them, 2 Epift, c. 2. v. 1.2. So Paul, to the Saints at Rome, to them at Corinth; to the faithful in Christ Fesus at Ephesus. So in the rest as every Child knows. Now. when God gives his Truth by Inspiration and appoints it to be written. as profitable to conviction, to conversion, to instruction in righteousness, that his People may be throughly furnished to every good work and word; what audaciousness, what wickedness is it for any sinful man to interpose and hinder this, and that by a Law, and that under a curse? Shall some mighty Prince signifie his Will to the People under him of the greatest concernment in the World for their advantage, and shall any man stand up and forbid them to read it, or hear it read, and punish them with death for having a transcript in their houses? Search and look into itories whether such a thing, was ever done under Heaven. Ambrose saith that Scriptura est Epistola Dei ad creaturas; and behold here is one that opens his mouth against Heaven, and establisheth wickedness by a Decree, expresly forbidding all men of all degree to. read or keep this letter. Is not this he to whom the Dragon gave his. Power, his Seat, and great Authority? to whom was given a mouth. speaking great words and blasphemies, and to continue two and forty; months, Revel. 13. Well, the Argument is this, They to whom God, appoints the Scriptures to be written they are to read and hear them. read; But the Scriptures were thus written to the People; Therefore they. are to read them.

The next thing is to evidence our Assertion by the judgment of the Ancient Fathers; but that seems needless, for their own do confess that the Fathers to a man were of our perswasion and practice. Claud. Estimated was tells us of himself, Equidem in Patribus Orthodoxis per Dei gratiam, &c. Truly, saith he, by the Grace of God I have been conversant in the Orthodox Fathers, and marvel very much (non potui non mirari), that the custom of reading Scriptures by the People should now be accounted capital and pestilent, which to the Ancient Orthodox Fathers seemed so commodious and prositable, Espen. Com. in Tit. c. 2. pag. 266. If it be said, That this Bishop was before the Council of Trent, and that possibly if he had been in that Convocation he would have been of another mind. There were learned men there more excellent, that might have better informed him. To this I answer, I will give you one instance for all, a little after that Council, and it is worth your observation.

About the year 1560, Bishop Fewel preaching at Pauls-Cross, before a very great and Venerable Affembly makes this offer; That it any man alive, or men whatsoever of the Popish side, could prove by any one plain sentence out of Scriptures, or Fathers, ancient Doctors, or General Councils, for the first fix hundred years, any one of the seven and twenty Articles, which he there rehearled, he would then yield and submit. Among these Articles the fifteenth concerns our business; it runs thus, If any one can prove by Scriptures, Fathers, Doctors, Councils, for the first fix bundred years, that the Lay-people were farbidden to read the word of God in their own tongue, I will yield and submit. Great discourse (you must think) arose upon this among all sorts; for such a man (indeed incomparable) to make such an offer so seemingly daring, in such a place so publick, in such a way as in a publick Ordinance of God, before such an Assembly so solemn and learned, great discourse there was no doubt. Some few months after he comes into the same place, and remembers the Audience of his proffer with a great deal of Christian humility; and modefly tells them, It was not vain-glory or self-confidence (for what was he?) but the vindication of Truth, the Glory of Christ, and the Salvation of Souls that had engaged him in this business. Then and there he repeated the same Articles, and renewed the same proffer. Whisperings, censurings, railings there were great store in private concerning him, but no man makes an attempt to answer him. The Bishops Apology for the Church of England is printed, and translated into several Languages, dispersed abroad in France and Spain, and other parts. One. of the many notable home-learned passages I have transcribed to our purpose. If me be Hereticks (as they would have us called) and they be-Catholicks, why do they not convince and master us by the Divine Scriptures, as Catholick Fathers have always done? Why do they not lay before us. how we have gone away from Christ, from the Prophets and Apostles, and from the Holy Fathers? why are they afraid of this why stick they at this? I pray you what manner of men be they which fear the judgment of Gods. word? that are afraid of the holy Scriptures? and do prefer before them their own dreams, and cold inventions? and to maintain their crain Traditions, have defaced and corrupted now these many bundred years the Ordinances of Christ and the Apostles. This is somewhat close and warm. Well, but still here is a great silence; Dr. Cole (late Dean of Pauls) a man reputed learned, enters into a Letter-combate with him; the Bishop begs of him to give one Father, one Scripture, one Doctor. Good Mr. Dr. (faith he) do not deceive the People their Souls be precious. The Dr. fends him back a taunt, a quibble, but never a word of Scripture. Council, or Father: he pretends he was afraid of forfeiting his recognifance; No, no, (replys the Bilhop) there is no fear of that, why should you fear the forfeit of your recognifance more for quoting Austin and Chryfostom, than for quoting Horace, and Virgil. At last about five years after out comes Dr. Harding and his fellows, and when he and they (for you may be fure the main strength of Rome was engaged in this guarrel) come to make their reply to this fifteenth Article, the words are these. I will read them to you in their own expressions; That the Lay-people were then forbidden to read the Scriptures in their own Tongue, 1 find it not. This is honest however, but then the next clause is knavish. Neither do I find they were commanded to read. Ans. The Fathers did not take upon them to command, but they pressed the Command of Christitat clause was impertinent on purpose to beguile the Reader. The Fathers did exhort the People vehemently for reading, and rebuked them sharply for not reading. Give me a roll of Parchment as long as my arm, of the ordinary bredth, and I dare undertake a man shall fill it full within and without with the Sayings of the Fathers to our purpose in a short time, indeed the work is done already to our hands; our Reverend Fathers have wrought hard with great judgment and fuccess, we have (or might have) entred upon their labours. Is it not a fault amongst us that we make no more use of so shining lights, I will name a few. Bishop Fewel in his Reply and Defence. Morton in his Appeal. Whitaker de Scriptura. Dr. White his way and defence. Cartwright on Rhem. Pref. the Renowned Du Plessis, and the great Chamier. What an abundance of Savings of the Fathers have they quoted for the Peoples reading and hearing of the Scriptures within this hundred years and upward! and none hath adventured to gain-fay them therein that I know. But you will say, Do not the learned Papists (for there are learned men amongst them) give some answer to the Scriptures you quote, and the old Doctors too? Ianswer, there be four Questions I have to speak to, before we come to speak something of translating the Scriptures; and this Question shall be the first, the second is, What Artifices they do use to bring People out of conceit with the Scriptures; the third is, What Objections they usually bring against us; the last, What may be the defign in all this. And I shall here make use of the Fathers.

First then, What have they to say? I answer, to that Scripture, which is a principal one, Job. 5. 39. Search the Scriptures, they would fain have it to be the Indicative Mood, not the Imperative, to be a practice, not a precept. Poor men!they would get little by this if it were so, for this practice was lawful and commendable, and then Christ appeals to the Scriptures in which they were practifed, to which they did pretend; their own Dr. Bishop Espencieus thinks it a very great shame, that the Fews did practise themselves, and train up their Children in the knowledg of the Scriptures, and Christians did neglect it. Yea, but they would willingly shift it off from being a Command, for then it is still binding, and People that have any sense of God, and their Souls, and any thoughts of another World will conceive it is their Duty, let all the Popes in the World say what they will to the contrary. This is that which pincheth, therefore they would by any shift or wriggle put it off from being a Command; but it will not be. The Fathers take the words in the Imperative, Utinam omnes faceremus, Would to God we would all do that which is written. Search the Scriptures ; Origen in Ifa. Hom. 2. enéneuver egéurare, he commands us, Search the Scriptures, Athanas. Tom. 2. paz. 248. Com. 2070An John, when a Commandment is given let us obey our Lord. Basil, Chrysostom the same; so Theophylatt his follower the same, Siddonor was Swinsortas, teaching of them how they might have the Word of God abiding in them: he faith, Search the Scriptures, Theoph, in loc. There needs no more; for Fansenius doth contess it, Communiter quidem accipitur ut sit imperativi modi, 'tis commonly taken for a Command: Non dicit legite, he doth not fay read, but fearch; Non has aut illus sed omnes, not this or that, but all the Scriptures, Law and Prophets, Conc. c. 36. in loc. So doth Maldonate, Theophylact, Augustine, & omnes opinor præter Cyrillum graves authores. All grave Authors I suppose, except Cyril, take these words for a Command, In eo enim vis Testimonii & gratia Orationis confistit. Why so, ad suas ipsorum Scripturas mittit; Christ sends them to their own Bibles. In quibus omnem ilii gloriam fuam collocabant, of which they chiefly gloried. As if he should say, Quandoquidem tantum Scripturis tribuitis fince you ascribe so much to the Scriptures, that in them you think to have eternal life, search the Scriptures, and all things do well agree, they testifie of me. Chrysoft. & Euthymius bene adnotarunt non dicit legite sed scrutamini, Maldon. in loc. So that this Text doth stand for a Commmand from Christ, and the countermand stands (among others) for a brand of Antichrist. But soft, not so hasty; Stapleton and others say, Christ there speaks to the Scribes. and Pharifees and they were to fearch the Scriptures by their Office: This. they prove by v.33. You fent unto John; now the Scribes and Pharifees sent unto John, therefore to them he speaks. Ans. The Chapter speaks not a word of the Scribes and Pharifees, but of the Fews; besides, the Scribes and Pharifees did not send unto John but the Jews. The Text is express, 70h. 1. 19. The Fews fent Priests and Levites from Ferusalem to John.

As to the Fathers urging the Bible upon the People, they say, 'Tis true; but say they (Sixtus Senensis, and others), Patres dispensarunt, indulse-dulserunt libertatem, Aus. Out upon it, a meer forgery to cheat the simple, Venia & indulgentia locum non habet ubi non pracesserit prohibitio; That is Chamiers Answer, an Indulgence doth presuppose a Prohibition. How could the Fathers indulge that that was never forbidden? Was the reading or hearing of the Bible ever forbid by the Fathers or Christian Magistrates in their time? Indeed Antiochus did burn it, and Julian scoffed at it, and Dioclesian did burn it also; but of Christians never any did so, the destroyers and prohibiters of Scriptures are of another sort;

they do like the Pagan Princes, Antiochus and Dioclesian.

But they plead the Fathers; They say the Fathers (as Ferom and Aufin) say the Scriptures are obscure and hard to be understood; and from thence infer, That in the judgment of the Fathers the Lay-people should not meddle with them. Ans. 'Tis true, most of them urge this. but very sophistically, and indeed wickedly. Austin saith that the Scripture like a familiar friend speaketh those things it containeth to the heart, Doctorum & Indoctorum, of the Learned, and the Unlearned. Epist. 3. The Scriptures are easie to be understood, and exposed to the capacity of every Servant, Plowman, Artificer; so Chrysostome, Cyril, Ferom, Isidore, and indeed all to the same purpose. True they say (as we do). That there are some things obscure to stir up diligence, frequency, prayer. Some Scriptures are dark, therefore Christians must pray more, and read more attentively, diligently; that is the Inference of the Fathers; Therefore they must not read at all; that is the Inference of the Jesuits. What sophistry, how bald is this, fit to be hissed out of the company of rational men. Chrysostome is most earnest upon all sorts, Artificers, Tradesmen, Men, Women, Young, Old, to be much in Reading and Hearing, answers all their shifts, tells them that they have more need than others, than Students, than Monks, because they are in the midst of many temptations. Our Divines cite him much, the Compiler of our Homilies, quotes scarce any Father besides. What say the Jesuits to this? why some say, He dealt like a Pulpit-man, not like a Reader in a Desk, like an Orator, not a Disputant. Others, He was a vehement man. Others, That he spake Hyperbolically; that is, He spake more than was needful. Whereas the truth is, The Angels would fooner want words wherewith to commend than the Bible want worth to commend it self. But of all men the Rhemists are most impudent. who would make as if Chrysostome were so vehement only or mainly to take People off from Cards and Dice, and Stage-plays; whereas Cbryfostomes great business is to take them from their excuses of their Families, Trades, Callings; Rhemists Preface to their Annotations, with Cartwrights Answer, see there at large. To conclude this, the Fathers speak of the Scriptures according to the Scripture; viz. That they are a Light, a Lamp; a Light that Thineth, that they give Understanding to the simple: If men speak not according to them it is because there is no light in them, yet these men reject all. Some few are constrained 40 confess confess that in points generally to be believed the Scriptures are plain; but yet they will not yield at any hand that they shall come into the hands of the People, you shall hear their reasons by and by.

The second Question is, What Artifices their Learned Men do use to debase the Scriptures, that the People; may have a vile estecm of them, bring them to disdain and loath them? I answer, many ways by Word and Deed; first by Word, Shall I say they disparage them? Sure enough, they blaspheme, they call them a dead Letter, a dumb Judg, Theologiam Atramentariam, Inken Divinity; (do you hear ye Quakers who were your Tutour) a Lesbian Rule, a Nose of Wax without the Pope (faith Car. Hosius) they have no more Authority than Asops Fables, non plus Authoritatis quam Æsopi Fabulas: Here is a Rabshakey whom the Babylonish King hath preferred to a Red-Hat to blaspheme the Living God; the same man compares David's Psalms to Ballades, with a verse out of Horace, Scribimus indocti doctig, Poemata passim; which the excellent Bishop Englisheth thus, we write Ballades Tag and Rag. Dr. White in the way tells us that Perefius faid, that he thought verily it was the Devils invention to permit the people to read the Bible; Is not this enough to scare and affright poor fouls from touching it, or attending to it? Martin. Peresius de Trad. p. 44. And Thyrraus saith, that he knew certain Husbandmen possessed of the Devil, because being but Husbandmen they were able to discourse of the Scriptures: Thyrraus de Damoniac. c. 21. Thes. 257. Methinks here I have an idea of a Frier Preaching, that Reading Scripture is the way to be possessed of the Devil.

2. By Deeds and Practice, and that many ways.

1. They cry up the good of Ignorance; they tell us it is more rewardable to be ignorant than knowing, they require no knowledg of the things we pray for: The Jesuites tell us after a long harangue in some things impertinent, and in others very false, that devout People may, and ought, in their ancient right, still use their Latin Prayers, Beads, and Primars as ever before, notwithstanding what Paul saith, in the 1 Cor. 14. And that they doubt not but it is acceptable to God, and available in all their necessities; nay more, that they pray with great consolation of spirit, and with as great devotion and affection, nay oftentimes more than they that Pray in the Vulgar Tongue. Well, and what Prayers be these? Why they be Prayers, Psalms, and holy Words: They are the Pater Nofter, the Ave Maria, the Creed, Our Ladies Mat. tins, and the Letanies, and the like: Oh! the impudence of men, that have made their Faces harder than a Rock, to Print such things as these: Rhem. Annot. on the 1 Cor. 14. So also they require no ability to profess their Faith, if they were to suffer for it; if a Catholick called before the Commissioners, bath courage to fay I am a Catholick, he defendeth bimfelf sufficiently (though he can say no more) and that I will dye a Catholick; But what if the Commissioners ask him a reason of his Faith, he answers enough, by telling them that the Church can give them a rea-Son fon of all their demands, Rhem. Annot. Luke 12. 11. They say that Ignorance in most things, is best of all, --- to know nothing is to know all

. 2. They cry up to the skies an Implicite Faith (this is distinct from the other, though near a-kin) this is the Colliers Faith, and doth wonders. The Story is, the Collier was fick, and being at the point of death, he was tempted of the Devil what his Faith was; the Colher answered, I believe and dye in the Faith of Christs Church: Being demanded by the Devil, what the Faith of the Church was, that Faith (quoth he) that I believe in; and thus clearly baffed and non-pluffed the Devil. He put him to flight said Staphylus, I should not have believed this Story (faith my Author) upon the report of such a base companion as Staphylus; but when I saw the same conceit set forth as gravely by Learneder Cleardes than that renegate (so Bishop Femel calls him); then I conceived that the Colliers Faith was Canonized for the Papists Creed: These learned men were no less than Alb. Pighiw. Hierarch. lib. 1. cap. 5. p. 38. and Hofius cont. Proleg. Brentii, lib. 3. p. 136. with two other confiderable men. Dr. Cole shall conclude this. with what he did once conclude the convocation at Westminster, in the beginning of Queen Elizabeth: The Story in short is this. A Disputation is appointed by the Council at Westminster (saith Fuller in his His ftory); Nine Popish Bishops and Doctors on that side; Eight Protestant Doctors on the other side, Sr. Nicholas Bacon Lord Keeper, Moderatour: The first question was about service in an unknown Tongue, the first Day passed with the Protestants; the second Day the Popish Bishops and Doctors fell to cavilling against the order agreed on: (Alas what should they do, they could not now, Petere argumenta ex officinis carnificum;) They fell to sauciness as well as disorder, the meeting is dissolved, Dr. Cole stands up and tells that honourable Assembly, thus with a loud voice, I tell you (faith he) that Ignorance is the Mother of devotion: So said the Valentinians of old, as Irenew tells us, that the Ignorance of Truth is knowledg, lib. 2. c. 19.

3. They have one trick more to debase the Scriptures, and dull the edge of peoples affections to them, some of their Doctors write most unworthy things of the Bible, as before; these they applaud, that so they may instil slily and insensibly into the minds of men by their Authority, a very coarse esteem of the Word of God: As for example, Catharinus testisieth of Cardinal Cajetan, that he denied the last chapter of St. Mark. some parcels of St. Luke, the Epistle to the Hebrews, the Epistle of James, the second Epistle of Peter, the second and third Epistles of John, and the Epistle of Jude; this Man they applaud very highly, call him the incomparable Divine, fill their people with high admirations of him, and then publish in their Books these things; and so instil by drops an evil opinion of the Scriptures: And if the Protestants object this to them, they put it off, saying, he was but a private Doctor, what is that to their Church. The Priests and Friers tell the people what Hosius and others their admired men say of the Scriptures, a dark, lame, mute, dumb, forry Book; and all this to disparage the Holy Truth of God, and to keep poor Souls in Ignorance, which they do by this means, both Priest and People. Their very Priests understand not their own Mass-Books; A Young Man within these three Months, entered into Discourse with some Priests at Malaga in Spain, he faluted them in Latin, and proposed some Questions in Latin to them, they understood never a Word. Archbishop Spotsmood tells us in his History of Scotland, that the Cardinal persecuted men in Angus, for reading the New-Testament: And 'tis said the Ignorance of these times was so great, that even the Priests did think that the New-Test ament was one of Martin Luthers Books, H. Se. ad annum 1544. He tells us also of a great contention among the Church-men, whether the Pater Noster might be said to the Saints; it was brought to the University, they, some of the Doctors said it might be said to God formaliter, to the Saints materialiter; to God principaliter, to the Saints minus principaliter; to God capiendo stricte, to Saints capiendo large: The Doctors meet several times, and not agreeing, it was referred to a Provincial Synod to be decided. When the Synod convened, the question was agitated again, at last it was resolved that the Pater Noster might be said to saints. His. Scot. Anno 1553. 'Tis impossible to conceive what a thick fogg, and mist of ignorance and darkness was upon the Souls of the people; I will mention but one Story from Dr. White upon his own experience, it is this; he faw and learned (dwelling among them) how they faid their Prayers; the Creed thus, Greezum zuum Patrum onitentem creatorum ejus anicum Dominum nostrum qui cum sons Virgini Marie crixus fixus Douche Pilati. and so on, to Eccli Catholi remisserue peccaturum communiorum, obliviorum bitam and turnam again. It would make a mans heart tremble (faith my Author) at their most horrid ignorance; yet to hear them pronounce their Prayer it moves laughter, and I confess upon this account I durst not Preach it: In him you may see a great deal more of this pitiful stuff, The way to the True Church, in the Preface to the Reader. The Jesuit in his Answer calls him to an account for this; but in his Defence he tells the Jesuit that is the case of the better fort as well as the poor, they are all ignorant, and fay their Prayers much at one rate, and this faith he I will stand to, if all the Seminaries in England had it in chase: My experience of some (faith he) allows me to speak that the Ignorance is general. Defence c. 12. He asked an Ancient Woman what Jesus Christ was; She told him the could not tell, but fure it was some good thing, it would not have been with the Lady else in her Creed; but no more.

4. Lastly, They take this way to put down the Scriptures, so, by destroying and burning them, and those that love them: I will give three or four instances, the first, King Henry the Eighth writes to the French King for Licence to Print the Bible in English in Paris, because there was store of Paper and good Workmen, as also to Bonner then Leiger in France to surther it; this was by the means of Cromwell, at great charges it is effected; but by the means of Gardiner and his tellows seized and burned openly in the Maulbert place in Paris, 2500 Bibles burned at one sire. See Fox his Martyr. there is much more to this purpose.

French

Upon the persecution of the Duke of Guise against the Protestants. at Amiens all the Bibles, Testaments; Psalters, were sought for and openly burnt, at Troys the Bibles were all rent and torn in pieces, at Angees they openly burnt the Bibles in the Market-place; one fair gilt Bible was hung upon an Halberd, and carried in Procession, the Papists faying, Behold, Truth hanged, the Truth of the Hugenots, the Truth of all the Devils, with much collected by Mr. Clark in his Martyrol. In Ireland (within memory) the Bible was, dragged, kennelled, cut, torn, stampt upon. Bishop femel tells of a Martyr in Q: M. pleaded the Scripture before the Bishop in his own defence; the Bishop turning to a Justice said, nay, if he prates of the Bible, we shall never have done; habemus Legem, we have a Law (faid he) and by our Law he ought to die. Rep. to Cole. John Porter a young Man, reads in the Bible set up in Pauls by Bonner in the Lord Cromwell's time; when Cromwell was dead. Bonner fends for him, accuses him for expounding the Bible to the people, Porter denies any fuch thing; Bonner fends him to Newgate where he is loaded with Irons, hands and leggs, and a Collar of Iron about his neck, by a friends means to the Keeper he is somewhat eased, and put among the Felons, whom he reproves, and instructs, being well acquainted with the Scriptures; he is complained of, the Bishop commands him into the Dangeon, 'tis thought he was put into the Engine called the Devil in the Neck: In the night he was heard to groan fadly, in the morning found dead.

A poor Bookseller in Avignion was burned to Ashes, for setting to sale some French Bibles, his desence worthy the reading, his questions utterly silencing the Bishop of Aix, with the rest of the Prelates; they gnashed upon him with their Teeth, and cried, To the fire presently: He was led to his execution with two Bibles about his neck, one hanging before, the other behind, as shewing the cause of his condemnation; so the good Man and the Eibles were burnt together. For

Mar. H. 8.

A Woman of Sanfay in France, was accused by her Servant for having a Bible in her House, in reading whereof was her whole delight; the Maid Servant complains of this to the Jesuites; the Jesuites complain to the Judges, she was apprehended, and imprisoned; the Judges told her, if she would confess upon the Seaffold that she had broken the Law, and cast her Bible into the fire, she should have her life: We would have you (said they) imagin it to be but Paper, and you may buy another, only throw this into the fire to give the Jesuites content, thus they laboured to perswade her for the space of two hours: What a scandal shall I give said she to the People to barns Gods Book? No certainly, I will never do it, I will rather burn my Body than my Bible: Upon this she was committed close Prisoner, fed with bread and water, at last condemned to be set upon the Scassold, her Bible burnt before her face; her self to be strangled, her body to be dragged through the Streets to a dunghil, which was accordingly done.

A Woman in Ireland required by Fitz Patrick to burn her Bible, She told him that she would rather die than burn her Bible; whereupon the Sabbath day morning after this, She and her Husband were cruelly murthered: But the murtherer, tormented in Conscience, and dogged (as he conceived) and haunted with apparitions of them, with inward horrour pined away. Cls. Mar. Fran. Ireland.

There is no end of these sad Stories, Dr. Story shall conclude; Thou pratest (said he to a Martyr) of the Bible, bibble, babble, all is bibble babble, thou shalt prate at a Stake. So much of the second Quefition.

The Third is this, What Objections do they make against reading, and having Scripture? They are men of Learning, some of them give some Reason for their proceedings.

Answ. They do so, and you shall hear them fairly proposed, I will ' not wrong them.

The first is this; Cast not holy things to Dogs, nor Pearls before Swine; therefore the People must not have the use of Bibles. Answer, Verily this Argument is so horribly injurious to the Wisdom and Mercy of God, and so inhuman and barbarous to the rationality of Man, that one would think it were rather flanderoufly and defignedly imposed upon them, then proposed by them; But it is notoriously true in all their Books: Harding and his fellows alledg it in their Aswer to Bishop Fewel. Hosius doth the same also. The Jesuites in their Preface to the Rhem. Annot. but more subtilly and slily; and are rebuked sufficiently. by Mr. Car. Salmeron and Costerus gives the same reason why the People are not to know the Church-Traditions, they must be kept lockt and safe in the Popes Breast; the Pope is not to let the people know Traditions, or at least doth not, because Holy things must not be thrown to Dogs. Canus doth the same, and because he speaks out, I will write his words, Si Apostoli quibus formis sacramenta essent conficienda, quibusq, ritibus administranda, aliaq, id genus religionis secreta passim vulgo tradidissent, quid esset aliud quam adversus Christi legem sanctum dare canibus & inter porcos spargere margaritas? imo quid esset aliud quam omnia mysteria Christiana Religionis abolere? nec enim mysterium est quod ad populares aures effertur. Hec itag; prima ratio est cur Apostoli quedam sine scripto tradiderunt, nempe, ne aut ab ethnicis irriderentur sacra nostra aut vulgo vulgo etiam fidelium venirent in contemptum: The long and short is this, That the Apostles did by word of mouth deliver the secrets of the Gospel to some men, and did not write and preach the whole of Faith and Duty to the Churches; for if they had done so, they had gone against the Command of Christ, who saith, Give not holy things to Dogs, and cast not Pearls before Swine; Can. Lib. 3. c. 3. com. Loc. Thus the poor People whose Souls are immortal and precious, the People that are the Church of God, for whom Christ died to redeem with his Blood, for whom, and to whom the Scriptures were on set-purpose written, must have nothing; not the Scriptures, because holy things must not be given to Dogs, nor Traditions (which also contain matters of Faith and Worship) because Pearls must not be cast to Swine.

Mr. Harding and they with him tell us, that whereas the Hebrew Letters had no Vowels, the Seventy Elders only could read, and the people were kept from reading of it, as it is thought by the special Providence of God, that precious stones should not be cast before Swine, Reply to the fifteenth Article, a notorious daring untruth, for whether they had points or not is not to the question; sure enough the people could Read, for they were expresly commanded to Write the Words of the Law: Deut. 11. And they could Write a Bill of Divorce. Paulus Fagins saith, from the Rabbins, that through the whole Countrey every Town had a School, and that in Ferusalem there were some hundreds of Schools; And in so many Schools was there no Scholar did know his Letters? For him to fay they could not Read, and that by a special Providence they were kept from it, and that, because holy things should not be cast to Dogs; What daring men are these? But the truth is, they will adventure upon any thing to serve their own turn, by keeping the people in midnight doleful Darkness.

Their fecond Obection is, The People will pervert the Scriptures, therefore they are justly prohibited; the good Old Gentleman out of his Fatherhood, takes away the Knife out of his Childrens hands, they will abuse themselves and cut their fingers.

Answ. This Objection is an-Hundred year old, and Thirty to boot, and every-where among their Bushops and Jesuites to be found; but I stood amazed to read it of late, in a reply to Dr. S. It seems they think it is a very sharp Argument: Alas, one of the Martyrs in Q.M. broke the edge of it, indeed batter'd it all to pieces. The Story in-short is this; Stephen Gratwich convented before Dr. Watson Bishop of Winchester, in St. Maries Overies in Southwark, tells the Bishop of his cruelty, in taking away the New Testament from him, which he had for the health of his Soul, which all men ought to have for their Souls comfort; and so he did treat them more like brute beasts, than Christian men: No (quoth the Bishop) we will use you as we will use the Child; for if the Child will hurt himself with the Knife, we will take away the Knife from him:

So

So because you will damn your Soul with the Bible, you shall not have it. My Lord quoth Gratwick, this is a simple Argument to maintain and cover your sin, are not you ashamed to make the Word the cause of our damnation? But if your Argument be good, you may take away from us our Meat and Drink, because some men do abuse them; and you may make an Argument to take away all other mercies as well as the Scriptures: My Lords, quoth Winchester, we lose time, this sellow is perverse, he speaks nothing but Sophistry, we shall get no advantage against him. Have at ye now, Wilt thou recant? I will pronounce sentence. There, there it is, Who shall stand before this Argument?

But if perverting Scriptures, be any reason for the non-reading of them; then of all men in the World, the Popes, Cardinals, Priests; Tesuites, should be prohibited; of all men they should never touch a Bible, instances are many: I will present you with a few. Dr. Harding and the Lovainists with him argue thus; The Son of Man came not to destroy, but to seek and save that which is; Ergo, in the Sacrament the Accidents of Bread and Wine remain without their Subjects. The Axe may not boast himself against him that lifteth it up; Ergo, no Man may dare to judg the Pope, if he leads thousands of Souls to Hell; no Man may mutter, or fay, Domine cur its facis. To the pure all things are pure, to the unclean all things are unclean; Ergo, It is not lawful for Priests to Marry. Give not Holy things to Dogs, Ergo, Prayers must be in a strange Tongue the people do not understand. I will sprinkle clean Water upon you; Ergo, the Priest must sprinkle the people with Holy Water. Christ said, Without me ye can do nothing; Ergo, the Bishop alone must consecrate the Church. Paul saith, the Rock was Christ; Ergo, the Altar must be of Stone. The Earth is the Lords, the round World, and all that dwell therein; Ergo, the Host or Sacramental Bread must be round. God made the Sun to rule the day, and the Moon the Night; Ergo, the Dignity of the Pope is Fifty fix times bigger then the Emperours Dignity. The Thief upon the Cross, repented himself of his Life; Ergo, the Priest at Mass must fetch a sigh, and knock his Breast. Juds kissed Christ; Ergo, the Priest must kiss the Altar. Take the Money in the mouth of the Fish, and pay for me: and thee; Ergo, the Pope is the Head of the Church. Babylon is as Cup of Gold in the hand of the Lord; Ergo, the Chalice must be of Silver or Gold. Thus I have given you a full dozen of instances; of their horrible abusing of the Scripture; and if it were serviceable II could furnish you with a dozen more, the greatest abusers of the Scripture that ever were, and the greatest blasphemers that ever were, in applying that to ignorant finful men, which is peculiar to the Lord Jesus: As the Pope is the Light that cometh into the World; and the Ambaffadours of Sicilie thus supplicate the Pope Tu qui tollin peccata mund? Oh thou, that takest away the Sins of the World have mercy upon us 50 Oh Oh thou that takest away the sins of the World, Dona nobis pacem, Grant us thy peace. And these (with much more that might be added) I say these illogical non-sensical inferences, and blasphemous applications are afferted, by Bishop Jewel at Pauls Cross; and Chemnitius. Exam.

3. They Object, That the Reading of the Scriptures or hearing them read breeds Herefie, Therefore they ought not to have the use of them: This Objection is common amongst all their writers; the Council of Trent (as was above said) saith that the Scripture do more harm than good; what harm they do not tell, though they did resolve to prohibit them, and did spightfully speak against them; yet in their Decree they durst say no more than that they did harm in general, and they could not for shame and policy say less, for then they had not mentioned any pretence for their prohibition: Why did not they speak out and name the harm they did, by whom, in what Countrey, to whom, in what particulars? And all their ground is experience, cum experimento manifestum sit; But whose experience is this? None sure, but their own they found and felt, and feared more would follow, that the Scriptures had discovered to the World their Tyranny, Heresie, and Idolatry, their Pride, Covetousness, Filthiness, and innumerable Villanies: This was the experience, and this is the rife of their rage and enmity, and continueth so to this day amongst some of them it may be seared to spiteful persecution against knowledg.

Wo be to our Parish Priests, wo be to our Bishops, wo be to our Prelates, said a Learned Man of their own; yea, wo be to them indeed, they have not only taken away the Key of Knowledg, but they reproach it to be the key of Heresie: Hereticks (saith Dr. Harding and his complices) suck in the venom of Heresie out of the Scriptures; Ergo, if the people read the Scriptures, they will prove Hereticks. This is the common cry of them all, and Bishop Jewel shall answer them all, the conclusion is this; every Man may read the Jesuites and Priests Books, but Gods Book they may not read; every Man may read the Jesuites and Priests Books without danger, but the Book of God they cannot read without danger; would you know the reason (saith he)? the Reason is this, Gods Book is full of Truth, and their

Books are full of Lies.

The Scripture breeds Heresie, even as much as Light breeds Darkness, or Physick Diseases; yea, but men do pervert them! that is answered before: Yea, but now Heresies are abroad, therefore it is not safe! And were there not Tradition-mongers and Heresies in Christs time? Were not false Teachers very many and in very many points, and those very dangerous and destructive in the Apostles time? Were there not some that denied the resurrection of the body, and turned all into an Allegory, of a rising within us, then as well as now? And of late the Familists and Quakers? Did not some deny the Deity of our Lord Jesus, the Ebionites and others then, as well as the Socinians now? Did not some let go the Head Christ and introduce a wicked practice of Worshipping of Angels, through the pretence of Humility, Holding not the head, Col. 2. Were there none that did overthrow the soundation, (if making Christ of none effect will overthrow the Foundation then sure they did it) by Justification by Works as a less principal cause. Certainly there were all these and others, yet the Apostles did never sorbid the People reading Scriptures, for sear they might be insected. As if an Antidote should cause or occasion, (if you will have it so) I say occasion an insection; the Apostles did the contrary; John bids them Try the spirits; and Paul bids them Try all things; and Jude exhorts them To contend earnestly for the Faith delivered once to the Saints: Take unto them the sword of the spirit which is the word of God, Ephes.

It is to little boot to light up a Candle where the Sun fnines; what should I name the Fathers, were there not Heresies in their times? Doth not Irenew, and after him Epiphanius name them in numbers eighty? doth not Austin after them and others reckon up about eighty? Did they now forbid the People to read and fearch the Scripures? The clean contrary every one knows that knows any thing of them. Nay, they chide them because they were not skilful: The Manichees and Hereticks deceive the simple, but if we had our senses exercised to discern good and evil we might easily refute them; how shall we have our senses but by the use of the Scriptures and frequent hearing. Chrysoft. Hom. 8. ad Heb. Nothing can deceive those that search the Scriptures, for they are a light. Theoph, de Lazaro. & Sev ixuou oogioa Sau, which thining the thief is difcovered; & naintins pairitau n' ivelonetau. We must read the Scriptures, omni studio that we may be skilful exchangers (trapezitæ) to discern between Gold and Copper. So Hierome long before Theophyl. Malleo Scripturarum &c. that we beat out the brains of Herefies with the mallet of the Scriptures, idem. It were tedious to tyth the Quotations of the Fathers to this purpose. The Scripture breeds Herelies; Nay, saith Ireneus 1450 years fince to the mad, fantastick Valentinians; Hac omnia contulit, &c. The Iznorance of the word of God is the cause of all these Heresies. This the holy learned Father pithily discourseth in many Chapters, Lib. 4. especially from the 11th. to the 17th. to confound the Marcionites, Carpocratians and other Gnofticks, That it was the same God and Father Almighty Maker of the World then and now, and the same Lord Fesus the Saviour both now and then. That Abraham was faved by faith in Christ. Nemo cognoscit filium nist pater, nemo cognoscit patrem nist filius & quibuscung, filius revelaverit; revelaverit enim non solum in futurum dictum est, quasi tunc inceperit verbum revelare Patrem cum de Maria natus, sed communiter per totum tempus positum est; ab initio enim silius assistens suo Plasmati revelut omnibus Patrem, quibus vult & qued vult & quemadmodum vult Pater & propter hoc in omnibus & per omnia unus Deus Pater,unus filius, unus spiritus, una sides & una salus omnibus credentibus in eum. Cap. 14. Propheta cum ergo esset Abraham & videret in spiritu diem adventus Domini & Passionis dispositionem, per quem ipse & omnes similiter ut ipse credidit, credunt Deo salvari inciperent, vehementer exultavit, novit, quod Deo beneplacuit silium suum dilestum & unigenitum prastare sacrificium in nostram redemptionem, lib. 4. c. 13.

And he saith also before, That the accursed Hereticks Gnosticks of all sorts and names, did beget their Heresies and spread them from the ignorance of the Scripture, Hac omnia contulit eis ignorantia Scripturarum & dispositionis Dei: sc. in the Scriptures, Nos autem & causam differentia Testamentorum, & rursum unitatem & consonantiam ipsorum, in bis que deinceps futura sunt referemus, 1.3 c.12.

But lastly, If the Scriptures must not be read by the People, because they will prevert them, and engender Heresies, then of all the men in the World, Learned men, the Clergy, Popes, Cardinals, Jesuits, Priests, Academicks, Ministers should not read them, for he must be a great stranger in History, Primitive and Modern, and in common experience. Who doth not know, that these men in all ages have been the broachers of Errors and Herefies, the false Apostles, the Ministers of Satan? the Gnosticks their Ring-leaders were they not learned? Arrius, Pelagius, Photinus, Macedonius, and the rest; they were either Presbyters or Bishops. Come to our times, look into Poland and Tranfylvania within these eighty years past, the Socinusses, Uncle Lelius, and Nephew Faustus, Crellius, Smalcius, Volkelius, and the rest? the Ministers of Transylvania were they Lay-people? Who did expound the ninth of Isaiah and applied it to Hezekiah? and the 53 Isaiah and apply it to feremiah? or the fifth of Micah, and apply it to Zorobabel? Who invented such a trick as to say these Texts might be applied to Jesus Christ, and ought to be so; modo eminertiori, a villainous trick in it felf, and very apt to deceive young Students? Who are those that affirm, publickly affirm, That Abraham was not faved by Faith in Christ? are they Lay-men, they would take it very hainously if a man should not say that they were learned men, admirable and incomparable men. Did the People in Holland revive and vent Pelagianism? Do the People in England contrary to the Scriptures and the Doctrine of the Church vent Photinianism or Pelagianism? I have reason to believe that brain-fick Quakerism did not arise from the People, but from learned Seducers, that have a mystery amongst them to do any thing, or spread any fallity, so it be for the advance of the Catholick cause. Sabbatarianism, for the Saturdays Sabbath. Antisabbatarianism against the Lordsday, Jure Divino. Anabaptism hath risen from and been supported by men of Learning.

The fourth and last Objection they make, or that I shall name, is the obser-obscurity of the Scriptures. The Scriptures are obscure and dark, therefore the Lay-people shall not read them. This also is a common thred-bare bassled Argument, how do they prove the Antecedent? Why, There are some things dark and hard to be understood in Pauls Epistles.

Ans. Though there be some sew dark places in Paul and other Scriptures, yet generally they are plain, and there is nothing dark in those sew places that concerns Faith and Holiness; but the same is abundantly plain in other Texts; some places are obscure, most places are plain and facile: Ergo, the People must read none at all; this is the proper but most absurd Inserence of the Jesuits. Some Texts are somewhat dark, therefore the people should read the oftner, pray the more, compare Text with Text, consult and conser the more, be well skilled and setled in the Doctrines of Faith and Practice in plainer places the more. These Inserences are proper and natural, but that they should not read at all is such a wild doltish non sequitur, that nothing can be more.

David faith, That they are a Light, a Lamp, that they enlighten the eyes, give understanding to the simple: Yet how little was there of the Bible in Davids times, no more but the five Books of Moses, and two or three other Books, and these mostly Historical; what a light and glory shining is there now by the Accellion of Solomon, the History of the Kings, the Prophets, Evangelists, Apostles? and yet shall bold men reproach them, and say, They are dark? 'Twill be tedious to you and me to quote Fathers in this Point; take two or three; Universe Scripture & Prophetice & Evangelica, sunt in aperto; & sine ambiguitate & similiter ab omnibus audiri possunt: Prophets and Apostles are without ambiguity, and may be heard (understood) of all. Irenam lib.2. c. 46. He discourseth against the Valentinians, and the other Gnosticks, who would pick out a mystical meaning where it never was; and if that they met with any number, what wild work would they make with it for their fantastick Mones; much at the rate as the Papilts out of Pasce oves collect the Popes Supremacy, and out of the Eighth Pfalm, Thou halt put all things under bis feet: sc. Sub pedibus Pontificis Romani, under the Popes feet. Pecora campi; The beafts of the field; that is, Men on earth, the fish of the Sea; that is, Souls in Purgatory. Volucres cali, the birds of Heaven; that is, the Souls in Heaven Canonized by the Pope. Go to, faith Irenaus to the Gnosticks, with your wild notions: So say we to our Adversaries. Scriptura in aperto funt; The sense of the Scriptures is plain enough. So Clem. Alexand. perswades the Heathen to leave their Fables, which are much like the Popish Legends; and their Statues which they worshipped with uncouth Ceremonies, like the Popilh Images; and invites them to Heavenly knowledg in the Prophers and Apostles. Audite qui estis longe, qui estis prope, nullis celatum est verbum, lux communis innotescit omnibus, nullus est in verbo Cimmerius: The word is evident, the light shineth, there is no darkness in the word; Clem. Alexand. Orat. adhort. ad Gentes. Whatsoever things are necessary are manifest in the Scrip-T 2 tures;

tures; Chrysoft. Dr. Prideaux in the Chair was wont to tell us, that Scriptura est obscura in aliquibus cognoscendis a Theologo. Sed non est obscura in credendis & agendis a Christiano: If the Scriptures be hid they are hid indeed to the Learned Papists. How do they write and determine contrary to one another? How plain is Pighius in the Point of Justification, and the Imputation of Christs Righteousness, as also Gropper and the Divines of Colen, and long before them Aquinas also? How dark and ignorant, and shuffling is the Council of Trent in that great Point? Canus tells us that Cornelius Miss the Bishop of Bitonto did affirm in the Council of Trent, That Christ in the Supper did not offer Sacrifice: Christum in cana corpus suum & sanguinem suum non obtulisse: Christ did not offer up his Body and Blood at the Supper. A most undoubted Truth and that that throws the Mass with all its attendants upon the face, it gives a deadly blow to almost all of Popery; and this Cornelius was not alone in this point. But what say the Fathers to it? Canus tells us, That jure a Patribus & universis Theologis explosus est. Cornelius and his opinion was justly exploded and cast out by the Fathers. and all the Divines in the Council. They decree the contrary, and curse the gain-sayer. Canus undertaks to confute him, but indeed his Arguments are very watry and childish, Can.in Com.loc.l. 12.c. 12. There is scarce an Article in which they do agree among themselves, no not in the Point of the Popes Supremacy. Men receive not the Truth in the love of it, and God justly lets them wander in the dark and believe a lie; the darkness is not in the Sun, but the eye is bleared and dim, the fault is not in the Object but in the faculty; the Scripture is light, but we are dark. Object. But they do not prohibit men to read so they have a License.

Ans. I told you before that this was a meer flam; and if men might have a License, yet it is and would be a meer Innovation, and a piece of Tyranny: But it is a very cheat, the Licenses I have proved already are forbidden by Paul the 5. For the further discovery of this, let us observe what Clement the Eighth tells us in his observation upon this Decree of the Council; It is to be observed (saith he) concerning this Rule of Pius the 4th. That no new power is granted to Bishops or Inquisitors to license the buying, reading, or keeping the Bible in the vulgar tongue. Seeing hitherto by the Commandment and Practice of the holy Roman and universal Inquisition, all such power of granting Licenses hath been taken from them; that whatsoever the Pope and his Crew (saith Dr. White,) might make a shew of to blind the eyes of the World, yet in very deed they meant no such thing as a License at all.

Ledesiman hath written a Tract about this Question, and he well understood their sense; he tells us, Quamvis aliquis bono animo, &c. Although (saith he) any man with an honest mind shall desire a License, and shall pretend that he desires it for Devotion, and the profit of his Soul: Si se dicat petere bono animo; yet that of our Saviour may be answered to him, Mat. 19. You ask you know not what, it is a fallacious devotion?

devotion; a Zeal, but not according to knowledg; or rather it is a spirit of division and error at all adventures; Concedendum non est; no License is to be granted. Nay more (and somewhat dangerous too) Radix istius peritionis est beresis; Heresie is the rise and root of such a request; 'tis beresis interior; therefore they crave a License to read, because they are fick of an inward heresie, (quia hæresi interiori laborant,) because they think the thing is necessary; and it ought to be so, at least it is more expedient, and the contrary not to be lawful, Lib. de Lect. S. S. Ling. vern. So that it seems 'tis inward heresie for a man to desire leave to read the Bible. 'Tis inward herefie to think that the Council of Trent hath done any thing inexpedient in forbidding people to read under pain of nonabsolution, or the Book-seller to sell under such a Penalty. In the Taxa Cam. Apostol. a man may buy an Indulgence for Incest under 12 d. But if a man sell a Bible it is no less mulct than 1200. Duckets. The noble Morney shall conclude this, Prisci patres. &c. the Ancient Fathers did chide the People for not reading; the Council doth curse them if they do read. Then, before the Art of Printing, Bibles were scarce and dear, now they might have plenty and cheap. They laboured to open the eyes of the People of God; these endeavour to put them out, and to keep them in ignorance all their days. And now I pray judg what is become of your License?

Quest. the 4th. and last. What Design have the Papists in all this? Why do they thus vilifie, disparage, prohibit the Scriptures, when their Decrees are so manifestly repugnant to and consuted by Scriptures, the Old Fathers, and universal Practice, and evident Reason; sure they have some end that moves them to it.

Ans. Yes, they have divers. First, They reproach the Scriptures as lame and insufficient, that they may advance their own Traditions: Traditions are not additions to the Word, saith Canus, Quin point sunt Verba Divina non aliter ac illa que sacris libris Scripta sunt: Lib.3. Com. lec. cap. nlt. So Hosius, Bannes, Bellarmine, Coster, Alphons. a Castro, with all the Herd speak at this rate; and indeed it is time for the Pope to make a new Bible, for the Bible of God is his enemy, and therefore they are enemies to it; I hate it, for it never speaks good of me. The Pope must beget Traditions, and the Jesuits to cozen the People must name them Apostolical.

The Monks of Hildebrands breeding were kept back from the Scriptures, to the end that their rude wits might be nourished with the husks of Devils, which are the customes of humane Traditions, (Siliquis Demoniorum que funt consuetudines,) that being accustomed to such filth they might not taste how sweet the Lord was. Bishop Usher out of Waltram. Answ. to Malonc. Hildebrand was a fit tool for such a work, a Murderer, a Poysoner of several Popes, a Necromancer, conversed with the Devil, threw the Host into the fire because it would not answer his demands; as the Oracles were wont to do. See Bale, Eng. Vot. This was the man that trampled Scripture, and advanced Traditions: And so it came down from hand to hand, from Monks to Friars, from them to Priests and Bishops; hence came the ungodly practice of keeping the Common-People from reading Scriptures, that they might be drawn to bumane Traditions. Usher ibid.

The second Reason is to maintain their Pride, the Bishops state, the Priests imperiousness, to be accounted some great ones; to be called Rabbi, and Magister noster, they keep away the Scriptures that the People may depend upon them. I fear (saith Erasmus) that the People must nihil attingere, that is in plain English, Be sots and stocks, and brutes. The reason and ground of this is not so much the danger the People may run into by knowledg, (that is a sorry but wicked pretence,) sed sui respective, they keep the People in ignorance more than Indians,) upon their own account; viz. that they may be looked upon as Oracles, that the People may resort to them as Oracles, and may ask them what is the meaning of this, or that, and they in a proud Magisterial way may answer, Understand thus, (sie senti, sie loquere,) speak thus. To maintain their Pride and Stateliness they make the People brutes to be led by the nose, and not Men to be masters of Reason.

The third Reason may be this, If the light comes in, the moth eaten, braided ware will easily be discovered; therefore you must keep the Shop dark, if the People have the Scriptures they will quickly desert us. Of all men to this purpose commend me to Petrus Sutor, Cum multa palam traduntur observanda: Whereas many thing are openly taught to be observed, which are not to be had expressy in holy Scriptures, will not the simple people (Idiota has animadvertentes,) observing these thing quickly murmur and complain? Will they not also easily be with-drawn from the Ordinances of the Church when they shall find there is no such thing contain d in the word of Christ? Pet. Sut. de Tralat Biblie cap. 22. Indeed here is the nail upon the head; or rather the sow by the right

Dr. Harding gives this as one Reason why the People must not have the Bible: sc. They will despise and make the Simplicity of the Church and of all those things which the Church useth as pap and milk to nourish her tender Babes withal: Hard. Rep. art. 15. That is, they will despise that which God would have them despise; sc. salse Worship. The People by the light of the Scriptures will despise the antick, mimick postures, gestures, vestures in their superstitious idolatrous Worship in an unknown Tongue; therefore we will take a course, they shall not have them: They will see and know our Aves and Credo's to be no Prayers, our Ladies Letany, and Prayers to Saints, to be old Paganism revived; They will espy many a hole in our coat, they will contemn holy Church, and despise her pap, and we shall be made a scorn. Indeed here is the singer upon the fore, down goes Diana. In short, Bishop Jewel answers Harding thus: The People despise nothing but what should should be despised, for they despise nothing but Supersition and Idolatry: ibid. But these are but private Doctors, therefore let us see what the Pope himself saith in the case, there is a very considerable passage to this purpose, and I find it quoted by Dr. Stilling sleet, and Dr.

Moulin. The Story is this:

The Bishops meet at Bononia to consult with the then Pope, Paul the third, how the Dignity of the Roman See might be upheld, for now it began to totter: They offer many ways, at last they came to that which they thought the weightiest of all; and therefore did propose last which was this: viz. That by all means as little of the Gospel is possible might be, might be read in the Cities of his Jurisdiction, but especially as little as possible could be in the vulgar Tongue; and that little that was in the Mass should be sufficient, and that it should not be permitted to any mortal man to read more; for as long as men were contented with that little, things went well, but quite otherwise since more was commonly read. For this in short, is that Book (mark that) which above all others have raised these tempests and whirlwinds with which we are almost carried away; and intruth whosoever diligently considers it and compares it with what is done in our Churches, will find them very contrary to each other, and our Doctrines not only to be different from it, but repugnant to it.

A very honest, true and ingenuous confession; and indeed it is no hard matter to shew to every man, even the meanest capacity, how that their Doctrines (not only their Practices) but their very Doctrines are not only different but repugnant to the Sacraments, Lords-Prayer, the Creed, and the Ten Commandments: Here, here is the true reason for which they do vilifie Scripture, the People are Lozels, they might meddle with their Measures and Distass; they will vent Heresies, they are not fit, they will cut their fingers, the holy Father would suffer them to barm. themselves; he will chem their meat first, and then they shall have their pap and milk. These and such like are meer pretences, the true cause is rendred by these Bishops here at Bononia. This meeting (as I guess) was about twenty years after Luther, that man of God, (as he is called) began to preach, and some years before the Council of Trent began, and the Council out-did their advice, for they advised as little of the Gospel to be read as might be, in the vulgar Tongue; but the Councildecrees they shall have none at all, neither poor nor rich, neither man or woman, neither Prince nor Peafant, neither Clerk nor Lay-man shall read it or have it in the Mother-tongue; as if the fear of Cain in some fort were upon them, that whosoever met them with a Bible should kill them. So much for this.

Now lastly to the third Point in this Controversie to be debated; viz. That the Scriptures are to be translated into vulgar Tongues, into the Peoples Language; for we have proved already they are to read and hear them, and that therefore they were written by Divine appointment for them, and to them; therefore they ought to be translated. For what am I the better for the Indian-Bible, I know never a word? what would you be the better for a Welsh one, unless there be an Interpreter? Methinks the gift of Tongues, Act. 2. should convince any one; gifts are for others, for the work of the Ministry, that the Body may be edified, Eph. 4. by the gifts of Tongues did so many Nations; some of Africa, some of Asia, some of Europe, hear the Apostles speak the wonderful things of God in their own Language in which they were born. This was extraordinary as to the attainment, fince skill in the Languages hath been attained by ordinary means in the use of study and prayer; and so by Translations People have known by reading, hearing the great Mystery of Jesus, and Salvation by him in their own Tongue; In gifts both ways extraordinary then, upon a sudden without their study, and gifts ordinary attained by means, fince God according to his Infinite Wisdom and Mercy made known his Will, his Grace for mans Salvation. So that I may fay of translating the Word, what Kentigern a Bishop in Wales about the year 550, was wont to say of Preaching; viz. They that are against Preaching Gods word, envy the Salvation of Mankind. So they that hinder translating fill Hell.

Ulphilas translated the Bible about thirteen hundred years fince into the Gothish Tongue; he invented the Characters; translated on purpose that the Barbarous might learn the Mysteries and Truth of God, Vi discerent eloquia Dei. Many, very many of the Goths were converted, and were Martyred by Athanaricus, because they forsook the Religion of their Fathers, sc. Paganism, they did embrace death for Christ, Socr.

Eccl. Hift. 1.4. c.27.

St. Hierom translated the Scriptures into the Dalmatick Tongue, Bellarmine and Harding would seem to doubt of it. Hosius and Alphonsus a Castro do both acknowledg it; and 'tis no wonder, for Hierome himself saith he did so, in his Epist. ad Sophronium, Hominibus lingua mea dedi; and when Sophronius desired him to translate the Psalms into Latin most accurately, because he would translate them into Greek, he adviseth him there was no need; and quotes that of the Poet, In Sylvas ne ligna feras; that is in English, Carry not coals to Newcastle, or, cast not mater into the Sea; there were so many Translations into the Greek that it would be supernumerary. Ibid.

The same Hierom tells us that at the Burial of Paula, such Companies came to the Solemnities out of the Cities of Palestine as passed again, and that they did sing Psalms orderly, People of several Nations, Hebrao, Greco, Syro, Latino Sermone, in Hebram, Greek, Syriack, and Latin; ad Eustoch. de Epitap. Paule.

They that have Translated the Hebrew into Greek, Numerari possiont, may be numbered, they were many; but they that Translated it into Latin are numberless, Latini autem nullo modo: Austin de Doct. Christ. lib. 2. c. 11.

Basil assirms that Translations were made into the Palestine, Thebane, Phanician, Arabick, and Lybian Tongues, in Epist. ad Neocesar. Chrysosteme the same; Isidore saith into all Christian Tongues, de Eccles. Office.

cap. 10.

What should I speak of Aquila, Theodotion, Symmachus, Origen, or the Syriack, of the New Testament, which is very ancient; some ascribe it to Mark, for it is so evident that Alphonsus a Castro doth confess it, Fatemur sacros libros olim in linguam vulgarem fuisse translatos, We confels that of old time the holy Books were translated into the vulgar tongue. I humbly conceive it is remarkable (fure I am to me it is so) that God gave to Feremy what the Fems should say when they were in Babylon, not in the Hebrew, but in the Chaldee Tongue, for that Tongue the Babylonians spoke, and not the Hebrem, and so the Babylonians might understand what they said to them, Fer. 10. 11. Thus shall ye fiy unto them, the Gods that have not made the Heavens and the Earth, they shall perift, &c. Tis in Chaldee there, that is the Original. And so likewise Daniel expounds Nebuchadnezzars dream to him in the Chaldee Tongue, and several Chapters in him are in Chaldee; so that here Chaldee is the Original. I have mused sometimes why Daniel in writing the Historical part of his Book did not write it in Hebrew, seeing the things were past and gone before he wrote, why should he historifie those great pasfages in the Chaldee as he spoke them, and not in Hebrew, unless it be this, that God would have us from hence observe, That it is his will that men should know their own concerns in their own Tongue, that they themselves might read and hear: What an irrational, bloody, abominable thing then is it in the Council of Trent to forbid the Translating of the Scriptures on purpose to keep poor and yet immortal Souls in ignorance; there are none do thus that I know, but the Turk, the Grand Mufties at Rome and Constantinople in this are agreed. The Turkish Religion framed to shed much blood, (ad fundendum sanguinem facta) delighteth much in Rites and Ceremonies, and commands belief most imperiously without any liberty to enquire what or why: Unde librorum quos sanctos habent lectio plebi interdicta est, whence it is that the People are forbid to read their (holy) Books, which very thing is a prefent and manifest token of iniquity. H. G. de ver. Rel. 1.6.

But let us go a little further in this. Eusebius in his Prap. Evang. 1. 13. inclines to judg that Moses was Translated into Greek before the Persian Monarchy. Numenius a Pythagorean Philosopher said of Plato, that what Plato wrote of God and the World, he stole it out of Moses, (thus when thieves fall out, &c.) and what is Plato but Moses turned into good Greek? But whether there were any Translation then, or whether they learned of the Jews with whom they did much and long converse, (which is the more probable way of the two.) I mean the prime Philosopher Pythagorus, after him nigh 190 years Plato, and then Aristotle with others, I do not determine; But sure I am (though men love to cry up these and neglect Moses) that they were proud puddling Plagiaries or thieves.

Ptolomy Philadelphus caused the Hebrew to be translated into Greek, and received it with great Veneration when he heard the Law read in a Tongue he understood; see at large Josephus Jew. Antiq. lib.12. c.1,3. other Translations there were that went under the name of the Septuagint; this the Eunuch was reading in his Chariot, Act. 8. Luke sets it down according as it is in the Greek Translation, and not in the Heb. Original. Philip expounds to him, and God blesseth, the Eunuch believes in Jesus, is baptized, goes on his way rejoycing, a good Argument for Translation; yet that Translation of that Text which the Eunuch was in reading was nothing accurate, in bis humiliation his judgment was taken away; it is, he was taken from prison or restraint, and from judgment. Let us now see a little what our Adversaries do object against us in this case. First they say,

Obj. This Island hath continued in the Faith this 1300 years without Bibles till of late.

Ans. Very false, Constantine commanded the Bible to be written and fent abroad into all Countrys, Kingdoms, Nations of his Dominions; whereof England, or rather Britain was one. Adelftane King of England caused the Bible to be Translated into the English Tongue. Beda almost a thousand years since Translated the Gospel of St. Fohn into English. Bishop Jewel, John Trevisa, Fuller, C.H. Beda saith, Five Nations didconverse with one Truth, one Bible, Britons, English, Pills, Scots, Latins. Hec Insula quinque gentium linguis unam eandemque scrutatur veritatis scientiam, Bed. lib.1. Eccles. Hist. Cedman Translated the History of the Creation, the Departure from Egypt, the Entrance into Canaan, the Birth, Death, Resurrection and Ascension of Christ, the Glory of Heaven, the Pains of Hell: De Dectrina Apostolorum, de terrore futuri Judicii, de aliis plurimis Scripture Historiis; multorum animi ad contemptum (eculi & ad appetitum vitæ calestis accensi fuere, Bed. Eccles. Hist. (according to mine,) lib.4. c. 24. many men were mortified and made heavenly thereby, by Cedmans Translation. Suppose they had none, what then, should they never have? time was they were Gentiles and Pagans, should they continue so?

Obj. 2. Your Translations are faulty, Harding, Rhemists.

Answ. This is said a thousand times but never proved, an untruth joyned with flander, so fewel; a spiteful lie, so Cartwright answers the Jesuits; Shew them saith he). Dr. Martin did attempt it, but was laught at for his folly by his friend: The words may be short, but the sense incorrupt.

Obj. 3. What, the Scripture Translated into a Barbarous Tongue!

Ans. This makes a noise, Barbarous, barbarous, Vulgar Tongues, for Hosslers, Tapsters, Sempsters, idle, loose, sensual, brutal men, this is their Rhetorick; but indeed it is a very rancorous, croaking noise;

Barbara

Barbara lingua est qua nescit laudare Dominum, Bed. The Bible in any Language is holy, and the Language is holy that knows how to worship God, and bless Jesus. What were the Canaanites? what was Terab, Nahor, Abraham, before God called him? When Abraham came into Canaan was not the Hebrew the Language of Heathens? was not the Greek a Pagan Tongue? If I know not the meaning of the voice I shall be a Barbarian to bim, and he to me, I Cor. 14. 11. Paul calls every Tongue barbarous that is not understood, and so all the Prayers of the Papists are barbarous, because they are not understood by the People.

To conclude, they allow no Translation but the old Latin, this the Council makes authentical, prefers above the Original; it hath been mended several times, but yet crawls with many very great faults, against their knowledg on purpose to defend their Errors and Idolatries. I refer to Chemnit. Exam. 1 part. de Scr. Our learned Bishop Mortons Appeal, Lib. 4: c.18. Sect.3. there it may be found.

Take an Instance or two in Gen. 3. 15: He shall bruise the Serpents head; so the Hebrew, so the Seventy Translate it. So the learned Papists do acknowledg it. Yet in the last Edition set forth by Clement the Eighth, the vulgar Latin read it, She; so the Virgin Mary, She shall break the Serpents head. And this though it be a manifest, nay a consessed corruption of the Text, yet is still reserved by them, and no man in Writing, Preaching, Disputing, must dare to use any other but this; and this they do against knowledg, on purpose to keep up their blasphemous, Idolatrous Worship: Here is their Resormation.

So in Exod. 34. 29, 30. they read thus, They saw his face horned: Heb. shining, as we read it; hereupon they picture Moses with a pair of Horns, for which the Jews do horribly curse the Christians, as though they thought Moses to be a Devil.

So Heb. 11. 21. they read it, Jacob worshipped the top of his rod; adoravit fastigium virga; whereas in the Greek it is, He worshipped upon his staff, at or upon his staff. And this is confessed by their own men, Grace super fastigium; sc. nixus baculo ejus.; Sa. Jes. in loc. Though our Translators dealt honestly, putting leaning in a different Character, because it is not in the Greek. How do they cry out of Fastities! no man can think what a stir the Image-mongers make for their Idolatry by this corrupt Translation of their Vulgar, that Jacob worshipped his staff; they catch at any sorry thing for advantage. So in their own Annotations upon Mat. 2. the Wisemen that came from the East, they impudently and soolishly call them the three Kings of Colen; and how their Bodies were translated thither on purpose to keep the old trade of Pilgrimage and Prayers for the sake of Offerings; they durst not let the Bible go abroad without a keeper, their frothy soolish salse Notes.

Well, let us seriously consider what a rich mercy we have that we have it in liberty, purity, safety in our Mother-tongue. How do Hierom, Austin, and the rest of the Fathers, Luther, Calvin, and our own Reformers strain for Expressions to set forth their Excellency, let us not be dull and stupid; let us abhor Popery that will maintain their Kingdom of Darkness, though it be in darkness of Souls, the ready way to everlasting darkness.

Let us pray frequently for the life and safety of him that is Supream, and those that are subordinate under him; Assure your selves these are matters of near concernment.

Let us pray that God would blast Popery, that God would preserve us from it; if that should for our Gospel-sins prevail, you must lose your Bibles, perhaps your Bodies too, unless you will adventure to lose the Truth, and your Souls: assure your selves they have waded through the blood of men to destroy the Word of God, and will do so still; their strongest arguments are Swords and Stakes.

Lastly, by Hearing, Reading, Praying, Meditation, let every one of us labour to be expert in the Word, Apollos was mighty in the Scriptures. To stir up your hearts, consider these Particulars: 1: The Author; it is infinitely the best, the most holy, only wise God; 1 Tim. 3. v. last. 2 Pet. 1. v. last. it is seven times repeated in the seven Epistles, Rev. 2.3. ch. what the Spirit, the Spirit of Glory, of Holiness, the Spirit of Truth saith to the Churches. 2. The matter; it is our Lord Jesus: here are the treasures, all treasures, of Wisdom, Divine Wisdom and Knowledg; here are the Commands of God, full, plain, pure, everlasting; here are the Promises exceeding great, free, precious Promises, Yea and Amen in Christ; here are the Works of Gods Creation and Providence, which the Philosophers knew not. 3. The Office of it, it is to instruct, to give understanding, to convince of Sin, of Hell, of Jesus, 'tis to breed and encrease Holiness, Peace of Conscience. Lastly the end, to make us wise unto Salvation, through Faith in Christ Jesus;

PROPOSITION.

The Scripture is a sufficient Rule of Christian Faith, or a Record of all necessary Christian Doctrines, without any supplement of unwritten Traditions, as containing any necessary matter of Faith, and is thus far sufficient for the decision of all Controversies.

Thes. 2. 15. Therefore Brethren stand fast and hold the Traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our Epistle.

He Apossel after he had comforted the Thessalonians, he exhorteth them to Constancy in the Truth, whatever Temptations they had to the contrary. The Comforts he propoundeth to them were taken, I. From their Election, ver.13. 2ly. From their Vocation, ver.14. His Exhortation is to Perseverance: Therefore, Brethren, &c.

In the words observe, 1. The Illative particle [Therefore] because God hath chosen you and called you, and given you such advantages against Error and Seduction.

2. The Duty inferred, sinere, stand fast; it is a Military word, you have the same in other places, 1 Cor. 16.13. Watch ye, stand ye fast, &c. Ephes. 6. 14. Stand therefore, having your loyns girt about with truth: The word intimateth Perseverance.

3. The

3. The means of Perseverance, Hold the Traditions which you have been taught, whether by mord or our Epistle.

Where observe, 1. The Ad; 2. The Object.

1. The Act, κρατώτε, hold with strong hand; the word implieth a a forcible holding against assaults, whether of Error or Persecution. The Thessalonians were assaulted in both kinds; the Heathens persecuted them, and some were gone abroad that began the Mystery of Iniquity, and were ready to pervert them.

2. The Object; which is propounded, 1. By a common and general term, the Traditions which you have been taught. 2. By a Distribution, Whether by word or our Epistle.

I. The common and general term, [the Traditions which ye have been taught,] there are two sorts of Fraditions, Humane and Divine.

1. Humane Traditions are certain External Observances instituted by men, and delivered from hand to hand, from Progenitours to their Posterity; these may be either besides or contrary to the Word of God:

1. Beside the Word; as the Institutions of the Family of the Rechabites, in the observance of which from Father to Son, they were so exact and punctual, that God produceth their Example to shame the disobedience of his Pcople, Fer. 35. 6.7. Fonadab the Son of Rechab our Father commanded us saying, Te shall drink no wine, nor build houses, nor plant Vineyards, &c. 2. Contrary to the Word of God; such as were those of the Pharisees, Mat. 15.2. Why transgress ye the Commandment of God by your Tradition? Humane inventions in Religion are contrary to and destructive of Divine Laws.

2. Traditions Divine are either Heavenly Doctrins revealed by God, or Institutions and Ordinances appointed by him for the use of the Church. These are the Rule and Ground of our Faith, Worship and Obedience. The whole Doctrine of the Gospel is a Tradition delivered and conveyed to us by fit Messengers, such as the Apostles were; I Cor. 11.2. Now I praise you Brethren, that ye remember me in all things, and keep the Ordinances, Marg. Traditions, as I delivered them to you. So that bolding the Traditions is nothing else but Perseverance in Apostolical Doctrine.

II. The Distribution; That no cheats might be put upon them under any pretence; therefore, he saith. Whether by mord, or our Epistle; that is, by mord of mouth when present, or by Epistle when absent. And he saith, not Epistles, but Epistle; as alluding to the sormer wrote unto them: They were bound to yield toboth alike credence and obedience; for whether in speaking or writing, the Apostolical Authority was the same. To improve this Verse for your benefit, I shall lay down several Propositions.

1. That whatever affurance we have of Gods preserving us in the truth, yet we are bound to use diligence and caution; for the Apossle had said, That God had chosen and called them to the belief of the truth; and yet saith, Therefore Brethren stand fast. First, Reason will tell us. That when we intend an End we must use the Means, otherwise the bare intention and desire would suffice, and to the accomplishing of any effect, we need no more than to will it; and then the sluggard would be the wisest man in the world; who is full of Wishings and Wouldings, though his hands resuse to labour; But common experience sheweth that the End cannot be obtained without a diligent use of the means, Prov. 13.4. The soul of the sluggard desireth and hath nothing, but the soul of the diligent shall be made fat; that is, rewarded with the intended benefit.

2. The business in hand is, Whether Gods Election, Calling, or Promise doth so secure the End to us, as that we need not be so careful in the diligent use of Means. Such a notion or conceit there may be in the hearts of men, therefore let us attack it a little by these Considerations.

1. Gods Decree is both of Ends and Means; for all his Purposes are: executed by fit means. He that bath chosen us to Salvation, bringeth it about by the belief of the Truth and Sanstification of the Spirit, 2 Thes. 2.13. And without Faith and Holiness no man shall see God, and escape condemnation. God had affured Paul, That there should be no loss of any mans life among them except of the Ship, Act. 27. 22. And yet afterward versign. Paul telleth them, Except these abide in the Ship ye cannot be saved. How could that Assurance given to Paul from God, and Pauls; Caution to the Mariners stand together? Doth the purpose of God, depend upon the uncertain will and actions of men? I answer not as a cause, from whence it receiveth its force and strength, but as a means appointed also by God to the execution of his Decree; for by the same: Decree God appointeth the event what he will do, and the means by which he will have it to be done; and the Lord revealing by his Word: this conjunction of Ends and Means, there is a necessity of Duty lying. upon man to use these Means and not to expect the End without them. God intended to save all in the Ship, and yet the Mariners must abide. in the Ship; therefore what God hath joined together let no man separate: If we separate these things God doth not change his Counsel, but we pervert his order to our own destruction.

2ly. God that hath bidden us to believe bis Promises, hath forbiddens us to tempt his Providence, Mat. 4. 7. Now we tempt God, when we defire him to give an extraordinary proof of his care over us, when ordinary Means will serve the turn, or be useful to us.

yet if God hath injoined them for that End, we must use them. As in the instance of Naaman, God was resolved to cure him; but Naaman, must take his prescribed way, though against his own fancy and conceit, 2 King. 5. 10. Wish in Jordan seven times, and thy sless shall come again unto thee, and thoushalt be clean. Compare vers. 13. If the Prophet bad bidden thee to do some greater thing, &c. 50 Joh. 13. 6, 7: Petermust submit to be mashed, though he could not see the benefit of it. So Foh.

Job. 9. 6,7. the blind man must submit to have his eyes anointed with clay, and wash in the Pool of Siloam; though the Clay seemed to put out his eyes rather than cure them; and the Pool could not wash away his blindness; but Means appointed by God must be used, whatever improbabilities are apprehended by us.

4. That when Gods Will is expresly declared concerning the Event, yet he will have the Means used; as for instance, 2 King. 20. 5, 6, 7. God was absolutely resolved to add fifteen years more to Hezekiahs life, yet he must take a lump of Figs and lay it on the boil: Which plainly sheweth that no promise on Gods part, nor assurance on ours hindresh the use of Means, God will work by them, not without them.

5. In Spiritual things Assurance of the Event is an encouragement to industry, not a pretence to sloth, I Joh. 2.27, 28. Yea shall abide in him; and now, Little children abide in him. The promise of Perseverance doth incourage us to use endeavours that we may persevere, and quicken diligence rather than nourish security, or open a gap to carnal liberty, I Cor. 9.26. Irun not as one that is uncertain; we are the more earnest, because we are assured the Means shall not be unessectual.

- 2. Prop: Our duty is to stand fast in the Faith of Christ, and profession of Godliness, whatever Temptations we have to the contrary. [Stand fast] being a Military word, it alludeth to a Soldiers keeping his ground; and is opposed to two things, 1. A cowardly slight; 2. A treacherous revolt.
- 1. A cowardly flight, implieth our being overcome in the evil-day, by the many afflictions that befal us for the Truths sake, Epbes. 6.13. Wherefore take to you the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil-day, that after you have done all things ye may stand, Their Temptation was the many troubles and perfecutions that befal them, called there the evil day. Their defence lay in the whole armor of God, which is there made of fix pieces, the Girdle of Truth or Sincerity, which is a strength to us as a girdle to the loyns; the breaft-plate of Righteousness, or an holy inclination and desire to perform our Duty to God in all things; and the Shield of Faith, or a stedfast adhering to the Truths of the Gospel, whether delivered in a way of command, promise or threatning; the Helmet of Hope, or a certain and delirous expectation of the promised Glory, the shoo of the preparation of the Gospel of peace, which is a headiness to endure all Encounters for Christs sake. who hath made our Peace with God; and the Sword of the Spirit which is the Word of God: Now if we take this armor and use it in our Conflicts, what doth it serve for? to withstand and stand; the first is the act of a Soldier, the second is the posture of a Conqueror; here is withstanding till the Field be won, and then standing when the day of evil is over. Here we make our way to heaven by conflict and conquest, and hereafter we triumph. 2. A

2. A treacherous revolt, or yielding to the enemy by complying with those things which are against the Interest of Christ and his Kingdom for advantage sake, 2 Tim. 4. 10. Demas hath forsaken us and loved the present world. Backstiders in beart are the worst fort of Apostates, such as lose their affection to God, and delight in his ways, and esteem of his glorious recompences, for a little pleasure, prosit, or pomp of living; Sell the birth-right for one morsel of meat, Heb. 12. 15, 16. Some sail in their understandings, but most miscarry by the perverse inclination of their wills; they are carnal, worldly Hypocrites that never thoroughly mortisted the slessly mind; prize things as they are commodious to the sless, and will save them from sufferings. The byass of such mens hearts doth easily prevail against the light of their understandings.

3. Prop. The means of standing fast is by holding the Traditions which were taught by the holy Apostles. Here I will prove, 1. That the Doctrine of Christianity taught by the Apostles is a Tradition. 2. That holding this Tradition by strong hand, when others would wrest it from us, is the means of our Perseverance.

. 1. That the Doctrine of Christianity is a Tradition. I prove it by two Arguments; first, Matters not evident by the light of nature, nor immediately revealed to us by God must be either an Invention or a Tradition; an Invention is something in Religion not evident by natural light, nor agreeable to found reason, but is some cunningly devised fable, invented by one or more, and obtruded by various artifices upon the Belief of the World. Inventions in this kind were mans disease. not his remedy, Eccles. 7. 29. God made man upright but they sought out many Inventions. As when the Philosophers sat abroad upon Religion, a goodly Chymera it was they hatched and brought forth! Rom. 1.21,22. They became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish beart was darkened, and professing themselves to be wife they became fools. These Inventions little became the nature of God. Nor were they profitable to man, for still the great fore of nature was unhealed which is a fear of death, and the righteous wrath of God, Rom. 1.32. so that neither mans comfort nor duty was well provided for: surely the Gospel is none of this fort; not an Invention of man, but a Revelation of God; and a Revelation not made to us in person, but brought out of the bosom of God by Jesus Christ, and by him manisested to chosen witnesses, who might publish this Mystery and Secret to others. Well then, since the Gospel is not an Invention, it is a Tradition, or a delivery of the Truth upon the Testimony of one that came from God to instruct the World, or reduce it to him; not an Invention of man, but a Secret brought out of the bosom of God, by our Lord Jesus Christ: Therefore 'tis said, Heb. 2.3, 4. Hom. shall we escape if we neglect so great Salvation; first spoken by the Lord himself, and then consirmed to us by them that heard him, the Lord bearing X

them witness, or. Christ delivered it to the Apostles, and the Apostles delivered it to others, 2 Tim.2.2. Those things which thou bust heard from me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also. The Apostles received the Gospel from Christ, and the Churches, and Ministers from the Apostles, and then delivered it down to others until it came to us; which is the means of our believing the Truth, and confessing the Name of Christ. This Testimony delivered and conveyed to us by the most credible Means, and which we have no reason to doubt of, is as binding as if we had heard Christ and his Apostles in person: for we have their mord in writing, though we did not hear them preach and publish it with the lively voice; their Authority is the same delivered either way. And that these are their Writings, appeareth by the constant Tradition of the Church, and the acknowledgment of Friends and Enemies, who still appeal to them as a publick authentick Record, and as they have been attested by the Church. they have been owned by God, and bleffed by him to the converting and fanctifying of many Souls, throughout all successions of Ages: And by this Tradition Christianity hath held up the head against all encounters of time, and the persecutions of adverse Powers have not suppressed it; nor the disputes of enemies silenced the profession of it: But from age to age it hath been received and transmitted to future Generations, though sometimes at a very dear rate. And this is binding to us though we faw not the Persons and Miracles by which they confirmed their Message, and heard not the first report. Yet the Universal Tradition having handed it to us is a sufficient ground of Faith; and so we believe through their word, and are concerned in Christs Prayers, 70h. 17. 20. for with them and their Successors (as to these necesfary things) Christ hath promised to be to the end of the world. Mat. 28. 20.

2ly. My next Argument is; Because Christian Religion must needs be a Tradition, partly because matter of fact is the foundation of it, and it is in it self matter of faith: 1. Because it is built upon matter of fact, that the Son of God came from God to bring us to God; that is to say, appeared in Humane nature, instructed the World by his Dostrino and Example, and at length died for sinners, confirming both in life and death the truth of his Mission, by such unquestionable Miracles as shewed him to be the Son of God, and the Saviour of the World. Now a Testimony, Tradition, or Report is necessary in matters of fact, which of necessity must be confined to some determinate time and place. It was not fit that Christ should be always working. Miracles, always dying, always rifing and ascending, in every place, and in the view of every man; but these things were to be once done in one place of the World, in the fight of some particular and competent Witnesses: But because the knowledg of them concerned all the rest of the World, they were by them to be attested to others; matters of fact can only be proved by credible witnesses, and this was the great Office put upon the Apostles, Act. 1. 8.21,22. and Act. 2.32. Act. 3.15. Act. 10. 39,40,41. 2. As it is matter of Fact; or the Doctrine built upon this matter of Fact. We cannot properly be faid to believe a thing but upon report and testimony: I may know a thing by sense or reason, but I cannot believe it but as it is affirmed or brought to me by credible Testimony. As we are said to see those things which we perceive by the eye, or the fense of seeing, and to know those things which we receive by reason, or sure demonstration; so we are said to believe those things which are brought to us by valuable testimeny, tradition, and report. As for instance if any one ask you, Do you believe the Sun shineth at Noonday? You will answer, I do not believe it but see it: So if any one ask you, Do you believe that twice two make four, and twice three make fix? You will say I do not believe it but know it, because certain and evident reason telleth me, that two is the half of four, and three of fix, and every whole confisteth of two halfs or moyeties: But if he should ask you, Do you believe that the Sun is bigger than the Earth? You will say Ibelieve it; for though your Eye doth not discover it, nor doth an ignorant man know any certain demonstration of it; yet having the authority of learned men, who are competent judges in the case, you judg it a rash and foolish obstinacy not to believe it. Apply it now to the mysteries of Godliness revealed in the Gospel, they cannot be seen with the Eye, for they are invisible; nor found out and comprehended by any Humane Understanding, because they exceed the reach of mans Reason, and depend upon the love and arbitrary will of God, Joh. 3. 16. Yet you believe them, because God hath revealed them to the Prophets and Apostles; and God being Truth and Wisdom it self, cannot deceive, or be deceived; and therefore you believe them with the certainty of Divine Faith, and do no more doubt of them than you do of those things which you see with your eyes, and know and understand by a sure Demonstration. The sense of seeing may be deceived, and Humane Reason may err; but 'tis impossible God should deceive or be deceived. It often-times falleth out that men do prefer the authority and report of a man whom they judg to be wife and good before their own sense and reason; as for instance, that man who by his eye judgeth the Sun to be less than the Earth, yet doth not obstinately stand in his opinion, when he heareth a knowing and skilful Philosopher affert the contrary; Now if we receive the witness of men the witness of God is greater, I Joh. 5.9. And this Testimony of God is brought to us by his authorized Messengers as the ground of Faith; and what is that but Tradition. We believe in God by hearing of him, and we hear by a Preacher, Rom. 10.14. Ordinary Preachers declare his mind to us, but the Extraordinary confirm it; the common Preachers give us notice, but Christ and his Apostles give us assurance; and by their Testimony and Tradition our Faith is ultimately resolved into the Veracity of God. X 2 2ly. That

2 ly. That holding this Tradition is the great means of standing fast in the Faith of Christ, and the Confession of his Name. For in the Word of God delivered by Christ and his Apostles, there is fure direction to walk by; and sure promises to build upon. For whatever they made known of Christ was not a fable, but a certain truth; for they had the testimony of Sense, 2 Pet. 1. 16, 17. 1 Fob. 1. 1, 2, 3, 4. and so could plead both the authority of his command, and the certainty of his Promise, and that with uncontroulable evidence; and without this Revelation there can be neither Faith nor Obedience, nor sure expectation of Happiness. For we cannot trust God for what he hath not promised, nor obey God in what he hath not commanded; nor in our difficulties and distresses expect happiness from him without his warrant and affurance. But by this Doctrine delivered to us we have all that belongeth to Faith, Obedience and Happiness; and beyond that the Creature can desire no more. 1. There can be no Faith till we have a sure Testimony of Gods Revelation; for Faith is a believing such things as God hath revealed because he hath revealed them. 'Tis not Faith but fancy, to believe such things as God hath never revealed; nor is it Traft and a reqular Confidence to think, that he will certainly give us what he hath never promifed; this were to lay us open to all manner of delufion: And therefore we are never upon fure and stable ground, but by sticking to such a Tradition as may justly intitle it self to God. 2. Nor Obedience; for Obedience is a doing what God bath commanded because be bath commanded it. The fundamental reason of Obedience is the fight of Gods will, I Thes. 4. 3. 1 Thes. 5. 18. 1 Pet. 2.15. To do what God never commanded, or not to do it upon that account but for other reasons is not Obedience; and in difficult cases the Soul can never be held to its duty, till we are perswaded that so is Gods Will concerning us. Now to know his Will concerning us, we are often bidden to fearch the Scriptures; but never bidden to consult with the Church to know what unwritten Traditions she hath in her keeping to instruct us in our Duty. 3. No certain expectation of Happiness. We are never safe till we know by what Rule Christ will judg us, that is, reward or punish men at the last day: Now he will judg us according to the Gospel; Rom. 2. 16. 1 Thef. 1.8. Obey the Gospel, and you have a perfect Rule to guide you to Happiness; but if you neglect this great Salvation, or be unfaithful in the profession of it, this Word condemneth, you, and God will ratifie the sentence of it.

^{4.} Prop. That whilest the Apostles were in being, there were two ways of delivering the Truth, and that is by word of mouth and writing. So in the Text, Whether by word, or our Epistle. The Apostles went up and down and preached Christ every-where; that needeth no proof, unless you would have me to produce the whole Book of the Asts of the Apostles: But they did not preach only but write, and both by the instinct of the holy Spirit, who guided their Fournies, and moved them to write Epistles: For being often absent from Churches newly planted, and Heresies arising, or some Contentions, which could not be avoided among weak Christians, God over-ruled these Occasions for the profit of the Church in after-Ages. Upon one occasion or another they saw a necessity to write arayung zway, Jude 3. It was needful for me to write unto you. As in the Old Testament God himself delivered the Law with great Majesty and terrour, and afterward caused the same to be written in Tables of Stone for the constant use of his People. And the Prophets first uttered their Prophecies, and then wrote them: So the Apositles first preached Evangelical Doctrine, and then consigned it to writing for the use of all Ages. And though all things delivered by them were not delivered in one Sermon, or one Epistle; yet by degrees the Canon of the New Testament was constituted and made perfect by the Writings of the Evangelists and Apostles.

5. Prop: That now when they are long since gone to God, and we cannot receive from them the Doctrine of Life by word of mouth, we must stick to the Scriptures or written word. 1. Because we are taught to do so by Christ and his Apostles. Christ always appealeth to the Writings of the Old Testament, both against Traditions, which he condemneth, Mat. 15.2. and against pretended Revelations, Luk. 16.31. If they hear not Moses and the Prophets, neither will they be perswaded to repent, if one should come from the dead. And the Apostles still have recourse to this proof, Act. 26. 22. Witnessing no other things than the Prophets and Mofes did fay thould come to pass: And when they pleaded they were eye and ear-witnesses, and so their Testimony was valuable; yet they say ye have Besaioleegy Novoy, a furer word of Prophetie whereunto ye shall do well to take heed, 2 Pet. 1.19. Now how can we do better than to imitate these great Examples? 2. Because these things were written for our sakes, I Joh. 1. 4. These things write we unto you, that your joy may be full. The Apostles being to leave the World, did know the slipperiness of mans memory, and the danger of corrupting Christian Doctrine, if there were not a fure Authentick Record left; Therefore they wrote, and fo fully, that nothing is wanting to compleat our joy and happiness. 3. Because the Scriptures are perfect. The perfection of Scripture is known by its end, and intended use; which is to give us a knowledg of those things which concern our Faith, Duty and Happiness. 1. Our Faith in Christ. If there be enough written for that end, we need not unwritten Traditions to compleat our Rule: Now St. John telleth us he. might have written more things, But these things are written that ye might believe in the Son of God, and have life through his name, Joh. 20. 30,31. Certainly nothing is wanting to beget a Faith in Christ; the Object is sufficiently propounded, the Warrant or Claim is laid down in the New Covenant, and the Incouragements to believe are clear and Strong :: strong. What would men have more? so that here is a perfect Rule, perfect in its kind, and for its proper use. 2. For our Duty; that is Sufficiently provided for. The Apostle telleth us. That the Grace of God, take it Objectively for the Grace of the Gospel, or Subjectively for Grace in our hearts, teacheth us: if you mean Objective Grace, it prescribeth, direcieth; if of Subjective Grace, it perswadeth and exciteth what to do. to live Toberly, righteously, godly, in the present world. Tit. 2:12. There are all the Branches of Mans Duty enumerated: Sobriety relateth to felfgovernment; Righteoully to our carriage towards our Neighbour; Godly to our commerce and communion with God. Now in the Word of God what is there wanting, that belongeth either to Worship, or Justice, or personal Holiness? therefore certainly we need no other Rule; for it layeth down whatsoever Men are bound to do in all Ages and Places of the World, and in what soever circumstances God shall put them: And so it is fit to be the Law of the Universal King and Lawgiver; yea it is so perfect, that whatever other way is set up, it presently dasheth against those notions that we have or should have of God and his Service, and Worship; or it infringeth or perverteth the liberty and nature of man. 3. For our Happinels, that Doctrine and Institution, which is able to make us wife unto Salvation, is enough for us, but so the holy Scriptures are said to do, 2 Tim. 3. 15. Thou hast known the holy Scriptures which are able to make thee wife unto Salvation, through the faith which is in Christ Fesus. Nay afterward, vers. 17: The man of God is by them made perfect, and thoroughly furnished to every good work.

If the Scriptures do thoroughly direct Men to know God in Christ, and save their own Souls, why should we look any further? Now they do not only surnish every private Christian with this knowledg; but the man of God, who is to instruct others, he needeth look no surther, but is surnished out of the Scripture with all things necessary to discharge his Office. Therefore here we fix and rest, we have a sufficient Rule, and a full Record of all necessary Christian Doctrines.

Use 1. The Use of all is; Let us not seek another Rule than the Word of God. Papists cry up Unwritten Traditions to be received with equal respect and reverence, as we receive the holy Scriptures; but you Brethren, stand fast, holding the Apostolical Tradition: you cannot have it by word of mouth from them now; therefore you must stick to what is written, or else you cannot preserve your selves from the frauds and impostures of Antichrist. These Apostolical Writings have been received in all ages and times of the Church from the beginning; and all Disputes among Christians have been tried by them: None were allowed good or sincere Christians who doubted of the truth of them. But because we have to do with a People that will sacrifice all to the honour and interest of their Church; and knowing they are not able to stand before the light of Scriptures, have to the no little prejudice of the Christian Cause done all that they can to weaken the Authority, Sufficiency and Perspicuity of them, that we might have no Religion without the Testimony and Recommendation of their Church;

therefore Ishall resume the matter and declare it afresh.

I. Mankind lying in darkness, and in the shadow of death, it was necessary that one way or another God should reveal his mind to them, that we may know what belongeth to our Duty and Happiness; for our chief good and last end. Being altered by fin, we strangely mistake things, and put light for darkness, and darkness for light, good for evil, and evil for good; weighing all things in the ballance of the flesh which we feek to please. We confound both the names and natures of things, and wander in a maze of a thouland perplexities; therefore God in pity to Mankind hath given us a fure direction in his Word, which is a lamp unto our feet, and a light unto our paths, Pfal. 119.105. Mark the words of Light and Lump; the use of a Lump is by night, and in the day we have the Light of the Sun; whether it be day or night with us, here we. are taught how to carry our felves. Mark again the words of Path and Feet, the one fignifieth our may and general course, the other all. our particular actions; so far as Religion is concerned in them, we have directions in the Word about them. Besides. Mans condition is such that he needeth a Supernatural Remedy by a Redeemer, which depending upon the meer Love and free Grace of God cannot be found out by Natural light left to us; for that only can judg of things necessary, but not of fuch things as depend upon the meer pleasure of God: Therefore a. Divine Revelation there must be.

2. Since it is necessary that God should some way or another reveal his mind to his People; it must be done by Oracles, Visions, Dreams, or by extraordinary Messengers, who by word of mouth might convey it to us; or else by mriting, and by ordinary teachers, whose lips may preferve knowledg in the Church. The former ways might suffice, while God saw fit to reveal but a few Truths, and such as did not burden the. Memory; and men were long-lived and of great simplicity, and the Church was confined within a small compass of ground, and not liable to fo many miseries and changes as now in the latter ages: But when once God had spoken to us by his Son, these extraordinary ways ceased, Heb. 1. 1, 2. God who at fundry times and in divers manners spake in timepast unto the Fathers by the Prophets, hath in these last times spoken unto us. by his Son. As formerly God did speak ToxuTgoTws, in divers manners, that is to fay, by Visions, Oracles, Dreams, &c. so πολυμερώς, at fundry times, by several steps & degrees he acquainted the World with the Truths necessary for man to know; delivering them out by portions, not all together at once, till he came who had the spirit without measure, Joh. 3.34 the Prophets. to whom God revealed himself before by Visions Oracles, Dreams, or the Coming of the Spirit upon them had the Spirit & usages by meafure, to fit them for some particular errandior message, on which Godi fent them. But when God sent his Son out of his bosom to reveal the whole Doctrine of Faith at once, and to declare his Fathers Will with full authority and power, he fixed and closed up the Rule of Faith. So 'twas not fit that after him there should come any Extraordinary Nuntio's and Embassadours from Heaven, or any other should be owned as Infallible Messengers; but such as he immediately sent abroad in the World to Disciple the Nations: Therefore all former extraordinary Ways ceased, and we are left to the ordinary Rule stated by Christ.

3. Being left to the ordinary Rule it was necessary it should be taught not only by word of mouth, but committed to writing; for Christ is ascended into Heaven, and the Apostles do not live for ever: And we have no men now that are immediately and divinely inspired; and ordinary Pastors and Teachers cannot make new Articles of Faith, but do only build on the Apostles foundation, 1 Cor. 3. 10. or that divinely inspired Doctrine which they delivered to the Church. Yea, that Do-Etrine cannot well be preserved from oblivion and corruption without Writing therefore God accounted this the fafest way. Those things that are only delivered by word of mouth, or from hand to hand, may eafily be changed, corrupted, or utterly lost. Certainly if you consider mans floth, treachery, levity, and the many vile affections which may easily induce him to extinguish or corrupt the Truth which is contrary to them; you will see that it is necessary that there should be a sure Authentick Record, by which Truth and Error might be tried and distinguished. Yea, that the Church which is dispersed throughout the World might have truth at hand, and particular Believers have this Doctrine ever by them for their comfort and use; it being the property of a bleffed man to delight in the Law of God, and to exercise himself therein day and night. Pfal.1.2. In short, while the Apostles were living 'twas good to take the Tradition from their mouth; but now they are dead, we take it from their Writings. Surely if God faw some Writing necessary when those extraordinary ways (we spake of before) were in use, and the Church of the Old Testament was in a much quieter state than the Church of the New. I fay, if some Writing were necessary then, it is more necessary now; for the Christian Church is more exposed to dreadful storms of persecution, the deceits of Hereticks of all sorts, especially to the frauds of Antiobrist, which we are forewarned of in this Chapter; and are detected and discovered by their contrariety to the written word.

4. This Truth being written, it is both a safe and a full Rule for us to walk by; it is a safe Rule because it is written by the Apostles and Evangelists, boly men moved by the Holy Ghost. The Apostles did not lose their Infallibility when they committed what they preached to Writing; the same Spirit that affisted them in delivering the Doctrine by word of mouth, affisted them also when they delivered it by writing: and it is a full and sufficient Rule, because it containeth all things which are necessary for Men to believe and do in order to eternal life. Let them name let them name what is necessary beyond what is recommended there, or may be deduced from thence: yea it doth contain not only all the Essential but also the Integral parts of the Christian Religion; and therefore nothing can be any part of our Religion which is not there. The direction of old was, Isa. 8. 20. To the Law and to the Testimony, if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them. Every thing was then tried by Moses and the Prophets, and every thing must be now tried by the Prophets and Apostles, which is our foundation of Faith, Worship, and Obedience, Eph. 2. 20.

5. That which we blame in the Papilts is. That they cry up a private, unproved, unwritten Tradition of their own, as of equal Authority with this safe and full Rule which is contained in the Written Word of God. Their crime and fault may be confidered partly with respect to the Object and Matter, That these Traditions are not indifferent Customs, but Essential Points, necessary to Faith and Christian Practice; and so though a Christian be never so thorough and sound in his Obedience to the Word of God, and true to the Baptismal Covenant, yet if he submitteth not to these Unwritten Traditions, he wants some Point necessary to Faith and Practice, and so to Life Eternal; which is contrary to Mark 16. 16. He that believeth and is Baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned: And Joh. 17.3. This is life eternal, to know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent: Partly as to the Subject, as they make their own faction to be the only keepers of these things, and that nothing is to be owned as Apostolical Tradition, but what is delivered as such by their Authority; which is to leave the Church to the Tyranny and Usurpation of a corrupt Faction, to declare for Apostolical Tradition any thing which serveth their Ends and Interests, and for which no true Historical evidence is produced. Now the unjust and fraudulent Practices which they have used to promote this Usurpation over the Churches of Christ, render them of all men most unfit to be trusted in this kind; partly with respect to the manner, they will have these things to be received Pari reverentia & pictatis affectin; With the same reverence and pious affection with which we receive the holy Scriptures; and so mans post is set by Gods, and unproved Traditions equalled with Doctrins of Faith: their opinion is bad enough, but their practice is worse, for there they shew they value these things more than the Scriptures; as Superstition always aboundeth in its own things. Did ever any of their Doctors say the same things of Traditions which they take the boldness to say of Scripture? Did they ever call them Pen and Inkhorn, or Parchment Divinity, a Nose of Wax, a dumb Rule, an obscure and ambiguous Doctrine: These Blasphemies they vent boldly against the Scripture, but did they ever speak thus of Traditions? and again their common People are a thousand times better instructed in their Traditions than in the Doctrine of Salvation; they skill more of Lent, and Ember-meeks, &c. than they truly understand the

the Doctrine of Mans misery and remedy: And call you this equal reverence and pious affection to the Scriptures and Traditions? Partly because they would never give us a perfect Catalogue of Unwritten Traditions necessary to be observed by all Christians; it may be lest they should amaze the People with the multitude of them, or else that the People may not know how many of their Doctrins are destitute of Scripture-proof, and so they plainly be discovered to be imposers on the belief of the Christian World.

6. Though we blame this in Papists, yet we reject not all Tradition: 1. Because Scripture it self is a Tradition, as we proved before, and is conveyed to us by the most credible means, which we have no reason to doubt of; the Scriptures of the Old Testament were preserved by the Tems, to whom were committed the Oracles of God, Rom. 3. 2. And Protestants receive all the Books which they admitted into their Canon. And for the Books of the New Testament the Christian Church hath received them as the Writings of those whose Names they bear, and by the constant Universal Tradition of the Church they are transmitted to us; and we have no more reason to doubt of them, than we do of Statutes and Laws made by Kings and Parliaments, who lived long before we had a being. Yea, we may be much more confident as the matter is of greater weight and consequence, and these Writings have the fignature and stamp of Gods Spirit on them, and have been bleffed by God to the converting and fanctifying of many Souls; and have been delivered down to us by a succession of Believers unto this very day: and by them Christianity hath been preserved in the World notwithstanding the wickedness of it; and hath held up head against all the encounters of time. The persecutions of adverse Powers, have not Suppressed it, nor the disputes of Enemies silenced the Profession of it; but still from age to age Gods Truth is received and transmitted to Posterity.

2. Because the proof of Christianity depending upon matter of Fact, chiefly Christs rising from the dead, it can only be proved by a Testimony, which in so extraordinary a case must be made valuable and authorized to the World by the Miracles accompanying it. Now the notice of these things is brought to us by Tradition, which being unquestionable, giveth us as good ground of Faith as it did to them that lived in the Apostles time, and heard their Doctrine, and saw their Miracles. Gods wonderful works were never intended for the benefit of that Age only in which they were done, but for the benefit also of those that should hear of them by any credible means whatsoever, Psal. 145.4. Toel 1.3. Psal. 78.3, 4,5,6,7. These things were told them that they might set their hope in God, &c.

3. Because there are some Doctrins drawn by just consequence from Scripture, but are the more confirmed to us when they are backed with constant Church-usage and practice; as Baptism of Infants, Lords-day, Singing of Pialms in our Publick Worship, &c. 4. Be-

4. Because there are certain words which are not found in Scripture indeed, yet agreeable thereunto, and are very useful to discover the frauds of Hereticks, as Trinity, Divine Providence, Consubstantial Procession of the Holy Ghost, Satisfaction, &c.

5. We reject not all Church-History, or the Records of ancient Writers concerning the Providences of God in their days, in owning the Gospel, which make much for our instruction in manners, and are helps to encourage us to put our trust in God.

6. There are certain Usages and innocent Customs, or Circumstances common or facred, and other actions, which we despise not but acknowledg and receive as far as their own variable nature and condition requireth, not rejecting them because anciently practised; nor regarding them when the general Law of Edification requireth the omission of them. But that which we detest is, That the Traditions of Men should be made equal in Dignity and Authority with the express Revelation of God: Yea, that manifest Corruptions and Usurpations as making Rome the Mistress of other Churches; and superinducing the Pope as the Head of the Universal visible Church, and the Vicar of Christ without his leave and appointment; and such-like other Points should be obtruded upon the World as Apostolical Traditions, and to be received with like Religious reverence as we do Articles of Faith fet down in Scripture: This is that we cannot fufficiently abhor as apparently false and destru-Crive to Christianity.

1. Whatever affurance we have of Gods preserving us in the Truth, yet we are bound to use diligence and caution.

2. Our diligence and caution is to be imployed about this, that we may stand fast in the Faith of Christ, and the profession and practice of Godliness.

3. That the means of standing fast in the Faith of Christ, and the profession and practice of Godliness is by holding the Traditions which were taught by the Holy Apostles.

4. That while the Apostles were in being there were two ways of delivering the Truth by word of mouth, and Writing.

5. That now when they are long fince gone to God, and we cannot receive from them the Doctrine of life by word of mouth; We must stick to the Scriptures or Written Word.

I. The Duties that are enjoined, and they are two. First, to ask and enquire after the right way that leads to Rest and Happiness; a Metaphor (d) taken from a Man that is upon his Journey, and not well acquainted with the way to his intended place, stands still and asketh, Facite ut via- Which is my way to such a Town, I am bound and bent for such a Country? and if I mistake my way, I lose my self, my labour and my ubi dubitant, business; and being directed doth heedfully observe what is said unto him, and carefully remembers the marks that are told him, by which he might conclude that he is in his direct and ready way. Sirs, this is your case, you are bound for Heaven, you would all be happy when you die, and if you mistake your way, you lose your selves, your Souls and gate, (sub. a- Bodies too, and God and Chrift, and Happiness, and all, and that for ever: Stand then, and earneftly enquire (e), which is your way, and diligently observe what are the Marks whereby you might know that you are in the road to a Blessed, Glorious Life: and these in the Text are two. First, It is the old Way; Seek not out new paths to Heaven, keep in the old Way that all the Millions of Saints now happy in the enjoyment Abraham, Ja- of their God, went in: If you would get to the place where they be, you must go the same way they did. The old Way that Abraham, and Ilaac, and Facob went; the old Way that Mofes and David, Peter and Paul, and all the holy, humble, and believing, penitent People of God

Secondly, It is the good Way as well as old; for though Goodness was before Wickedness, yet every way that is old is not good (f); thereis the old Way of Swearing and Lying, and Drunkenness; there is the 3.12. Gen.4.8. old Way of Hypocrifie, Impenitency, and Unbelief; the old Way of Whoredom, and hating Holiness: This hath been the old. Way, but a bad one, and that leads to Damnation: If you be in this Way and but the way of hold on in this Way, and go forwards, and do not turn, and that quickly too, you will be in everlasting torments, and that quickly too. Stand then and see that your Way be the good and the old Way.

Secondly, (g) The next Duty in the Text enjoined, is to malk in this Way both old and good, when you have found it; for if a man have the most exact knowledg of his Way, & shall sit down, and shall sit down or stand still, and not walk in it, he will never come to the place that Way doth lead unto. The Way is pointed out by God himself unto you; get up then, arise and walk therein, and that with hast and speed; your Way is to a long Eternity, the night of Death is coming upon you, be daily posse extenu- jogging on, do not loyter in your way; time goeth on therefore so do

II. In the Text there is by what Authority (h) you are thus strictly enquan errore joyned to ask for, and walk in the good old Way; that is, by Divine niam faris fu- Authority. [Thus faith the Lord, stand ye in the ways and fee, and usk , oc.] perg; admoni- It is the Lord that made thee, that doth thus command thee; it is that tus à Deo sue- Lord that doth preserve thee, in whom thou dost live, and move, and halt hast thy being, that hath kept thee out of Hell all this while; thou hast been going in the wrong way, and running in the paths that lead to destruction and damnation; it is that Lord that can damn thee, when he will, and that can inflict the punishments and plagues upon thee, that are due unto thee for thy fin against him; that could this day and hour cast thy Body to the dust, and thy Soul to Devils, that doth command thee to stand and see, whither thou art going; he seeth the way wherein thou art walking, and out of pity to thee, calleth after thee, faying, Poor Sinner! why art thou so swift, and makest such haste in the way of Sin? Why dost thou run with so much speed to a place of torment, as if thou couldest not get thither sure enough, or soon enough; whereas the Way thou walkest in (except thou turn) will bring thee to eternal misery, surely and quickly too? Oh stand and see, whither thou art going!stand and see that at the end of this thy sinful walk thou wilt come unto a lake of burning Brimstone; to a doleful Dungeon, to a place of torment, and of utter darkness! Oh stand and see, and look about thee if thou canst behold any that are going to eternal Happiness walking in that way and road that thou art daily travelling in! I therefore charge thee upon pain of everlasting torment, as thou lovest thy Soul, or ever wouldst be received unto everlasting joy and happiness, go not on, turn back again; thou art out of thy way to rest and glory, stand then and ask, for the good old way and walk therein.

3. Here is the incouragement propounded, to stir you up to ask for, and walk in the good old way, and that is (i) rest for your Souls. Rest in some measure, and from some things for the present, and rest perfect and perpetual in Heaven hereafter for ever. Oh what ails the fons y of men to be so mad upon their lusts and ways of sin, that though God Subito motus, doth threaten them with everlasting, restless, and [hereaster] remedi-concitatus, voless torments, will yet go on in the way that leads them thither ! and transitive, mothough God promiseth a place and state of rest, and love, and life, if vit, volutavit, they will turn their hearts and feet unto the ways that would bring per antiphrathem to it, will notwithstanding keep their sinful course! which brings fin, quievit.

to the next part in the words.

4. The Obstinacy and wilful rebellion of Sinners, and their resolute pur- Schindler: pose to the contrary (k). God commands you to walk in a good way, but (k) Hic figniyou will not; he promiseth you rest and happiness, if you will, but sicat Propheta yet you will not; and doth threaten you with death and hell, and yet per Judzos you will not. Oh the hardness of your hearts! Oh the stubbornness of quo minus your wills! how great is it, when the Precepts, nor the Promifes, nor fruerentur rethe threatnings of the great, eternal God, will not make you bend, nor bus prosperis, bow, nor buckle to his revealed Will! Who turns thy tongue to curse and to blaspheme the holy name of God but thy own will? Who compels thy feet to carry thee to a Whore-house? Dost thou not voluntarily move thitherward, and thou goest, not bepossit gratiam cause thou canst not forbear, but because thou wilt not sorbear to go? Moreover, as thou canst leave many of thy wicked ways, if thou wilt, so thou canst set upon a better course of life if thou wilt. Thou canst go to Sermons if thou wilt, and thou canst consider of what thou hearest if thou wilt; and thou canst fall down upon thy knees and pray to vel illud laba- God if thou wilt; who doth hinder thee but thine own will? And if thou wilt not do what thou canst, is it not a plain case that thou libero arbitrio wouldest not do more, though thou couldest? Do not plead that thou canst not, till thou hast done the best that thou canst do, which yet: unto this day thou never hast done. If thou wert now a dying canst thou fay, thou hast done thy best, and the most that thou couldest do to leave culpam. Aquin. the way of fin, and to walk in a better way? thy own Conscience. would condemn thee, and tell thee that thou hast not. The day is hastning when it shall be roundly told thee, in thy ear, thou mightest have been holy and so happy, but thou wouldst not. Thou wast called to come to Christ that thou mightest have lived, but thou wouldst not. Thou wast exhorted to ask for, and walk in the good old way; but the reason, why thou didst not, was because thou wouldest not. And how. deservedly are they damned, that are wilful in their ways, and are refolved that in the good way they will not walk.

The Text according to these Parts contained in it, would afford so. many Doctrines, which would yield matter for many Practical Sermons, but must all be omitted, because I am limited to endeavour to make good this Position, viz. That Popery is a Novelty, and the Protestants Religion was not only before Luther, but the same that was taught by Christ, and his Apostles.

For the more clear and diffinct proceeding in the handling of this Affertion, I shall cast what I have to say (and can bring into one Sermon) into this Method:

First, I shall premise some certain Propositions for the better stating of the matter in hand;

Secondly, I will give you a parallel or comparison of the Doctrines taught by the Prophets, Christ, and bis Apostles, the Doctrines of the Protestants, or Refirmed Churches, and the Doctrines of the Papifts; by which you may easily discern, that ours is the old and true, but theirs a new and

Thirdly, I will show you that the same Religion and Doctrine professed and owned by the Protestants was (after Christ and his Apostles) before

Luther taught, and received by many.

Fourthly, I will give you an account of some of the material, esential Points of Popery, when they first sprung up in the Church; and when first made Articles of Faith, with Such strictness that they should be accounted Hereticks that did not profess to believe them, but would oppose them; that by their original and rife, you may rightly conclude that the charge of Novelty laid upon the Popish Religion is a just charge.

Fifthly. I will make some Practical Application of the whole.

The first part of the Method propounded contains these Eight Propolitions.

First Proposition. That the ordinary way in which lost sinners since the Fall of Adam have been recovered and restored to Life and Salvation, as to the Essentials of the Covenant of Grace, in all ages bath been one and the same (m). For (m) Ea quippe though God hath at fundry times and in divers manners revealed his fides justos Will unto his Church, yet the Covenant of Grace (cast out to fallen servavit antiman as a plank after shipwrack) under various external Dispensations, nos. i.e. Mehath been the same; under the Law administred by Promises, Prophesies, diatoris Dei & Sacrifices and Circumcifion, the Paschal Lamb, and other Types and Ordi-hominis Jesu nances delivered to the People of the fews (n), all pointing at Christ Aug. de come; under the Gospel by the Preaching of the Word, and Administrationature. So gratically and the come in the composition of the com on of the Sacraments. Baptisin, and the Lords-Supper, which is done in Heb. 1: 14. Commemoration of the Death of Christ, already past. This way hath worverous 2 ? been the same to Heaven all along through Christ, successively from TONUTPOTENT. Adam to our days, and will be the same to the end of the World; which (n) Christi Adam to our days, and will be the lame to the end of the World; which veri Sacrificii we might learn from the excellent Harmony, perfect agreement betwixt multiplicia the Doctrine of Moses, the Prophets, and Christ and his Apostles; for variag; sgna these declaring the whole counsel of God, A&. 18.27. did yet preach erant sacristno new Doctrine concerning Christ and Salvation by him, but what cia prisca fanctorum, Moses and the Prophets did say, and that also in reference to the Gen-cum hoc utiles, as well as to the Fews, Act. 26.22, 23. To believe on Christ, to num per mullove God above all, to repent, and mortifie Sin, to be sanctified and ta figuraretur, renewed after the Image of God, to be obedient to the Will of God tanquam verhath been the good way from of old. The new charge in outward Aduna diceretur, ministrations made by Christ, and the Apostles did not make a New ut fine fastiway to Heaven, though the old Dispensations then did cease, and give dio multumplace to those appointed by Christ, which with the Doctrines of the commendatur Apostles are retained in the Reformed Church, but are depraved, cor nupted and departed from by the Church of Rome, as will appear by the cap: 20. parallel of Doctrines.

Second Proposition.

Antiquity is not a mark of a true Church; a Church of a long standing and continuance successively from age to age might be a false Church: The Church of Rome contrary to all reason makes Antiquity a mark (0). (0) Secunda nota Ecclesia whereby a true Church might be known; and contrary to all History est antiquitas; brags of her own Antiquity. But that which is a distinguishing mark nostra autem to difference one thing from another must be found in (p) one kind, in all adversarii Pa- of that kind, only in that kind, and yet always in it; as a man hath two pisticam vo- feet, but thereby cannot be distinguished from some other Creatures, cant, est illa because this is common to birds as well as men: So to be skilful in Muipsa, quam fick is proper only to man, but not found in every man, and therefore Christus instituit, & proin- no mark to know a man by; for one that is no Musician is a true and de vetustion real man, as well as he that is: So also there might be something proper to one kind of beings, and only to that kind, and to every one of that omnibus sedis hæretico- kind, but not always; as Laughter to Mankind only, and to every rum. Bell. de . concil. Eccles. one, but not always; for though no Creature can laugh but Man, yet one is as true and real Man when he doth not use that action, as when 1.4. 6.5. he doth. Again, though Man only is endued with Learning of Arts (b) Proprium and Sciences amongst living Creatures, yet to say this is a mark of a convenit foli alicui speciei, Man, were to say that most Men in the World were no Men; for the omnibusq; ilmost are not so learned, and the Men that are now learned, were not lius Individuis always so, and yet had then the true and real nature of Men. But if & semper. Tres notarum you say, a Man hath a power or faculty to laugh, you then give a plain mark to distinguish him from all others, because this power is proper conditiones ponit, Billarm. to Mankind only to every one of Mankind, only, and always; and therefore 1. Debent esse this being a property of Mankind, and inseparable from any of that kind, proprix non a difference to distinguish man from all other living Creatures might be communes. taken from thence, besides the constitutive specifical difference. debent esie.

2. Notiores, ca re cujus sunt notæ, alioqui non sunt notæ, sed ignotæ. 3. Sunt inseparabiles à vera Ecclesia. De Concil. & Eccles. Lib.4. cap. 2.

By this plain familiar instance the common and unlearned people, (to whose capacity the design is to accommodate this Sermon) might understand something of the nature of a mark, whereby one thing might be known from another, and applying this to the business in hand might make a judgment, that the Popish braggings of Antiquity, (alone considered) will fall short of a demonstration, or evidence, that the Church of Rome is the only true Church, that hereby she cannot prove her self to be a true Church; and that upon these two Grounds or Reasons.

1. Because Antiquity is separable from a true Church, as the Church of God in Adams days was a true Church, and yet it was not then an ancient Church, when it first began; and the Christian Church in the Apostles days was a true Christian Church, and yet it was not then an ancient Christian Church, no more than an Insant newly born might be said to be an old man, and yet it is a true man, though not old.

2. Because Antiquity is not only separable from a true Church, but is also common to other things now as well as to a true Church; yea, it might be spoken of the Synagogue of Satan, for as much as Satan hath had his followers in the World for many thousand years; and there have been many wicked and ungodly societies of men, far more ancient than the Church of Rome, or any Pope the Head thereof. So that the Antiquity that the Church of Rome boasts of (but hath not) cannot prove it to be the true Church of Christ, any more than the Synagogue of Satan. And that Antiquity, that indeed she hath, together with her Spiritual fornication may evidence her to be an old barlot, but not the true Church; for when the faith, the is so old as to be the Mother of all other Churches, we can name fome Churches that she would have to be her Daughters to be more ancient than the Church of Rome; but it is absurd tofay the Mother is younger than any of the Daughters.

Third Propesition.

As Antiquity is not a mark of a true Church, so neither is Antiquity a note of true Doctrine; for although all truth is more ancient than error (error being a corruption of truth) yet every Doctrine that is old, or of many hundred (q years standing is not therefore true; for (q) Quodeunthere are old errors, and old berefies, yea such as are more ancient than que adversus. those that are properly and formally Popish Errors. There are the old Er-pit, hoc erits rors and Herelies of Cerinthus, Ebion, Arrius, and many more, of a haresis, etiam sooner and more early original, than the main Doctrines of Popery, vetus consuethat are effential to that Religion; and if we judg of Doctrines meerly tudo. Tertul. de. by Antiquity, many Herefies have the precedency before Popery. Since Virg. Veland. then Wickedness and Error can plead Antiquity of many Ages; it is plain that Antiquity is a praise or disprise, according to the nature of the: thing of which it is spoken; if it be good, the older the better; if it be bad, the older, the worser; continuance in Sin being an aggravation of it; as an old Swearer, an old Drunkard or Idolater is worse than one that hath lately taken up such wicked practices. Antiquity of Doctrine and (r) Considern-Worship without truth and purity being but (r) grey-headed Error do fine veriand Sin, it follows that the longer the Church of Rome hath embraced erroris est. such Worship, and taught such Doctrines, she is not so venerable for cypr. Epift, add her Antiquity, as vile for her Iniquity, Pompeium.

Fourth Proposition.

Some of the Popish Doctrines, and some parts of Popish Worship are older, and of a longer standing than some other be. Rome was not built in one day; and the body and systeme of Popish Doctrine, as now it is held, was not finished in one age. Popery came in by degrees, and Antichrist did rise to this height as now he is in in, step by step. The insigni muta(1) Question propounded by the Papists to be resolved by the Prote-tione religio-

Stants, saying, Who was the first Pope that brought in their Religion? and who was the first that made all the Innovations we complain of? is ridiculous and absurd, supposing that to be introduced into the Church by one man, in one age, which was brought in gradually, by many men, in many ages. Fifth Proposition.

Those things that are essential to our Religion, are owned by the Papist's themselves; for they do profess to own the Scripture to be the Word of God, and that it is certainly true; but do add their own Traditions. things not contained in the Scripture, yet necessary to Salvation, which we cannot receive. They own Christ to be the Head of the Church, and so do we; but they add and fay, That the Pope is the Head of the Universal Church also, but so do not we. They own Baptism and the Lords-Supper, so do we; but they add five Sacraments more, which we deny. They own that there is an Heaven and an Hell, as well as we, but they teach that there was a place distinct from both, in which the Souls of sunt simplici- Believers were before Christs death. And that there is a Purgatory, ter necessaria and a place for the Souls of Infants, distinct from Heaven and Hell, all Apostolos which we do deny. They own the Merits of Christ, and so do we; but they add their own Merits, which we deny; and so in other Points. omnibus præs. So that the Controversie betwist us and them is not, Whether what dicare, — Dico, illa omnia we hold be true and old, for that is granted by the Papiffs themselves (t), Scripta esseab as to the essential parts of our Religion, but about what they have in-Apostolis, que vented, and added to the true Religion. All our Religion is contained funt omnibus in the Scripture, and what is there, we own, and nothing else as nequæ ipsi palam omnibus

Ten Commandments, Creed, and Lords-Prayer, which the Papists also do vulgo prædi- confess and own. So that our Religion is past dispute, and is in a mancaverunt. Bell. ner granted to us: But whether the Popish Doctrines as such, be true de Verb. Dei: her granted to ds: But whether the Populi Boernies Lib.4. cap.11. and old, is the very Controversie betwixt us and them.

Sixth Proposition.

From the former follows this, That there are more things effential to the Popish Religion as such then there are to our Religion. They do own our Essentials, but we deny theirs. Those in which we and they do agree, are acknowledged by both to be true and old; those in which we differ from them, we truly fay are New.

Seventh Proposition.

The Reformation of the Church doth not confit in bringing in of New things, but in casting them out, and paring them off: It is a gross mittake that in the Reformation, in and since Luthers time, the Church hath brought in new Doctrines, and rejected the old: But (which is the truth) hath cast away the new, and retaineth the old. Gold and dross were mixed together, the Jewel of Truth was hid under the filth of corrupt Doctrines, our Reformers kept the Jewel and the Gold, and cast the dross and filth away. The Reception of the old Dostrine, and the Rejection of the New is that which made the Reformation. And if the Church of Rome would own what is in the Scripture, and no more, as necessary to Salvation, and would cut off the New, which they have added to the Old, we and they should be of the same Religion. Our Religion was perfect and compleat before the Doctrine and the Worship of the Church of Rome, (as now it is) were in being; and if you give a Coat to a Man, and he afterwards put some pieces to it, long after it was a Coat, if you ask a Mendicant, or a Beggar in the street, he may tell you, that is the New part which was put to it, after it was a perfect Coat.

(t) Nota secundo ea quæ consuevisse

Eight Proposition.

To know which is the Old Religion and the New, we must keep to the Word (u) of God, as the rule and test thereof. What is not in the Word (u) Si ad diof God, no way, neither expressly, nor by just, immediate, necessary con-vinæ traditi-fequence; and yet is made necessary to Salvation is certainly a New Re-originem re-ligion; though it hath been taught many hundred years. Thus all vertamur, false gods though long since served and worshipped are called New cessat error gods, that newly came up, Deut. 32. 17. The Old Religion then must humanus. be examined by the Old Rule, the Holy Scriptures; so that to deter-cypr. Epil. ad mine this, we need not run to the Canons of the Church, the Councils of Men, to the Decrees of the Pope, to the Writings of the Fathers, which are all fallible, and of later standing than the Word of God, as being before any fuch Councils, Canons, Constitutions and Writings of Men, fince the Apostles time. When therefore the Papists ask you, Where was your Religion before Luther? you might confidently answer, Where their Religion never was, nor will be found; and that is, in the holy Scriptures, which was long before Luther was, or the Pope either. But if you ask them, Where was their Religion in the Apostles times, and several hundred years after Christ, you will put them hard to it to shew you, nay they cannot do it.

The second General Head in the Method proposed, is to give you a parallel of Doctrines taught by the Prophets, Christ, and his Apostles; by the Protestants or Reformed Church; by the Papists or the Church of Rome. The first shall be laid down in the very words of Scripture. The second out of the publick Confessions of faith of the Reformed Church in England, and beyond the Seas. The Third out of the Writings and Decretals of the Popes, Councils, Cardinals, and other Doctors approved by the Church of Rome. By all which the Three Things contained in this Position will be made manisest. First, That the Doctrine of Protestants is the same, that was taught by Christ and his Apostles. Secondly, That therefore it was long before Luther. Thirdly, That the Doctrine of the Church of Rome, differing from, and being contrary to the Doctrine of Christ and his Apostles must be a very Novelty. But here I have not time nor room to make this Comparison in all points of differing Doctrine betwixt us and them, but shall make choice of some out of many, but

By this, Reader, thou maist plainly perceive that the Doctrine of the Papifts in this, is expresly contrary to the Doctrine of the Prophets, Christ, and his Apostles, and that the Doctrine of the Protestants is the very same with the Doctrine of Christ and the Apostles: compare them together, and thou will see the agreement of the one, and the contrariety of the other, to the Doctrine of Scripture, and conclude that the Doctrine of the Reformed Church is the old and true, but the Doctrine of the Church of Rome, is both new and false Doctrine; And that what the Rhemists on Gal. 1.8. fay, It is great pity and shame that so many follow Luther and Calvin, and such other lewd Fellows into a new Gospel; is more true of, and better applied to the followers of the Popish Doctors, or of the Rhemists themselves; who on 2 Tim. 3. 16. say, The Hereticks upon this commendation of holy Scriptures, pretend (very simply in good footh) that therefore nothing is necessary to Justice and Salvation but Scriptures. And on Joh. 21. 25. Few things are written of Christs Ads. and Doctrine in comparison of that which he did and spake, and yet the Hereticks will needs bave all in Scripture. Whereas the Evangelist saith not, That any thing is omitted of his Doctrine, but of his Acts: For though he spake more words than be expressed, yet all the Doctrines that he uttered in those words, is contained in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament. III. Of Religious Worship in a known Tongue.

I. The Doctrine of the Scripture concerning this Point.

I Cor. 14.2. He that speaketh in an unknown tongue speaketh not to men, but to God, for no man understandeth him; howbeit in the spirit he speaketh mysteries. Read ver. 3,4,5,6,7,8,---- 9. So likewise ye except ye utter by the tongue words easie to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken? for ye shall speak unto the air. v.11. If I know not the meaning of the voice, I shall be to him that speaketh a Barbarian, and he that speaketh (ball be a Barbarian unto me. 14. For if I pray in an unknown tongue, my spirit prayeth, but my understanding is unfruitful. 16. Else when thou halt bless mith the spirit how shall be that occupieth the room of the unlearned, Say Amen, at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest. 18. Ithank my God I speak with tongues more than you all. 19. Tet in the Church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue. Read also ver. 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28.

VI. Of

VI. Of the Head of the Universal Church.

1. The Doctrine of Christ and his Apostles concerning the Head of the Universal Church.

Mat. 23.8. But be not ye called Rabbi, for one is your Master even Christ, and all ye are brethren. Ephes. 1. 22. And bath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the Head over all things to the Church. 23. Which is his body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all. Ephes. 5. 23. Christ is the head of the Church, and he is the Saviour of the body. Col. 1. 18. And he (Christ is the head of the body, the Church. 1 Cor. 12.28. And God hath set some in the Church, sirst Apostles, secondarily Prophets, thirdly Teachers, &c. Ephes. 4.11. And he gave some Apostles, and some Pastors and Teachers.

Reader, observe in these places where the Apostle gives an Enumeration of Church-Officers, here is no mention of a Vicar of Christ, or of any mortal man being the Head under Christ, of all the Churches of Christ in the World, and is it likely that he would have omitted the chiefest and most principal Officer, that is essential to the Church, if there had been any such? I can find several Officers mentioned, but no Universal (though secondary) Head, if I have over-looked him, and thou findest any such, do me the kindness to come, or fend, and tell me that thou hast found him in the Apostles Catalogue; which I could not fee mentioned neither express, nor reductively; not express, that is plain; not reductively, for to which of these should he be reduced? to the Prophets? let me hear his Prophesies, and when any of them have been fulfilled: Besides, I know not that he pretends thereto. To be an . Apostle? Apostles went up and down to preach the Gospel, and were not fixed to any particular State, which is not the case of the Bishop ... of Rome. To the number of Teachers, and Pastors? this is below the Pope to be ranked amongst such, for he is the Pastor of Pastors. Besides. in the Catalogue there are many Pastors, but I see not one to be the chief and head of all the rest, and of the whole Universal Church. So. that in the Catalogue of the Apostle there is no such thing, but is a... non-ens, a meer Chimara, a fiction.

II. The Doctrine of the Protestants, or Reformed Churches concerning the Head of the Universal Church.

"There is no other Head of the Church, but the Lord Jesus Christ, "nor can the Pope of Rome in any sense be Head thereof; all true Pa"flors in what place soever they be placed, have the same and equal"
Authority among themselves, given unto them under Jesus Christ, the "only Head, and the chief, and alone Universal Bishop: And there"fore it is not lawful for any Church to challenge unto it self, Domi"nien."

"nion or Soveraignty over any other Church .--- The Bishop of Rome "hath no more Jurisdiction over the Church of God, than the rest of "the Patriarchs, either of Alexandria or Antioch have.

is false Doctrine.

(t) The Roman Catechism propounds the Question, What we are to think of the Bishop of Rome? and answereth, the account and unanimous opinion of all the Fathers, (Oh horrible falshood!) concerning him was that this visible Head was necessary to the constituting and preserving of the Unity of the Church.

Reader, thou should know that this is a great cause of division, not of union; for many Churches have separated from them, and continue without communion with them for this, as well as for other Rea-

I Cor. 13. 12. For now we fee through a glufs darkly .---- Now I know but in part, Gal. 2. II. But when I came to Antioch I withflood him (Peter, the Popes pretended Predecessor) because he was to be blamed. (and yet his Successor must not be blamed) though through his negligence he should draw many to Hell, as before is shewn.) Ver. 12. For before that certain came from James, be (Peter) did eat with the Gentiles; but when they were come, he with-drew, and feparated himfelf, fearing them which were of the Circumcifion. 14. But when I faw that they walked not uprightly according to the truth of the Gospel, Isaid unto Peter before them all &c. Reader, from hence thou maist learn that the Successor so called, claimeth a greater Priviledg than his Supposed Predecessor had, for Peter did err, but the Pope (torfooth) cannot; yet Papifts call this Text a rough Scripture; for it so puzleth them that they know not how to answer it, Rom. 11.18, 19, 20, 21. turn to it, ver. 22. Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God; on them (the Church of the Jews) which fell severity; but towards thee (the Gentile and Church of Rome amongst them) goodness, if thou continue in his goodness, (as the hath not); otherwise thou that be cut off. (Where then is her Infallibility)? Revel. 18.2. Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the babitation of Devils. (and yet cannot err, no more may Devils), and the hold of every foul fpirit, (and yet boasts she is without spot) and a cage of every unclean and burtful bird; (and yet is the holy Mother-Church, all this is hard to be reconciled.) Read also the second and third Chapters of the Revelation, what is faid of the Seven Churches; and then look for good proof that Infallibility is fetled by Christ upon the Church of Rome, above all other Churches, before thou believest any such Priviledg to be granted to it.

It is probably and piously to be believed, that the Pope not only as Pope, cannot err, but as a particular person cannot be an He-"retick. (This is a foul mistake, for several Popes have been Hereticks in the judgments of some of their Popes, so that some of them must "needs err, either some of them in being Hereticks, or others of them "in faying they were, if they were not.) "By pertinaciously believing any thing that is false, contrary to the Faith. 5. (f) In these two things, all the Catholicks "do agree; 1. That the Pope with his General Council cannot err in "making Decrees of Faith, or general Precepts of Manners. "the Pope alone, or with his particular Council determining any thing "in a doubtful matter, whether he may err or not, ought to be obeyed "by all the faithful. [A goodly Agreement !]

(g) Becanus gives the opinion of the Papists, saying, 1... That the (g) Catholici (g) Becanus gives the opinion of the Lap. "the Church doth determine Controversies, or give its definitive sen-Manual. lib.1. 4 tence, is not the Scripture only, but the Scripture and Tradition to-"gether. 3. That the Church according to the Rule (of Scripture and "Tradition) pronounceth sentence either by the Pope, the Pastor of the "Church, or by a Council approved by the Pope, and both ways in-

(b) Pighius also puts in his Judgment," That the Pope cannot any way be an Heretick, nor publickly teach Heresie, though he alone deter-

But Reader, notwithstanding all this confidence of Infallibility, whether of Pope, or Councils, or both, they are proved to have erred from the Historical Narratives of their own Writers. Baronius acknowledgeth that Pope Honorius (i) was counted an Heretick, joyning with Epitom. John the XXIV. was accused before the Council of Constance for Heresie, Simony, Murder, Poysonings, Adulteries, and Sodomy; which being made good against him he was Deposed and Imprisoned. (r) Pope Eugenius the Fourth was Deposed by the General Council at Basil, for being a Simonist, and guilty of Perjury, being a Schismatick, and an obstinate Heretick. It would make a large Book to give an account of the failings of Popes in mat-(s) Vide.Luitters both of Life and Faith; but I have but little room allowed. For example, the hominibus in- General Council of Constance and of Basil have fully afferted that a General Council is above the Pope, and is to be judged by them, and by them may be deposed; in these words, Not one of the skilful did ever claris princi- doubt but that the Pope was subject to the judgment of a General Council, in pibus & Pon- things that concern Faith; and that he cannot without their confent diffelve or remove a General Council, yea and that this is an article of Faith, which quo nihil fere without destruction of Salvation cannot be denied, and that the Council is above the Pope, de fide, and that it cannot be removed without their own ritatis gestum consent, and that he is an Heretick that is against these things. VIII. Of the Catholick Church.

I. The Doctrine of the Apostles concerning the Catholick or Univerfal Church.

I Cor. 1.2. Unto the Church of God which is at Corinth .---- with all that in every place call upon the name of Fesus Christ our Lord, both theirs and ours. I Cor. 12. 13. For by one spirit, we are all baptized into one body, whether we be fews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free, and have been all made drink into one spirit. Rev. 7. 9. After this I beheld, and lo a great multitude which no man could number, of all Nations and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the Ibrone, and before the Lamb .--- See also Ephes. 1. 10, 22. Act. 2.39. Ephes. 2.19. & 3.15. Ad. 3. 47. Mat. 28. 19. Mar. 16. 15. Ad. 2.21. Rom. 1. 16. Gal. 3.28. Act. 13.39. Rom. 10.4. Luz. 13.28. Act. 10.35.

Reader, observe that these Scriptures speak of the Church, under Christ the Head thereof, (making no mention of owning of, or being joyned to, any mortal man, as their visible Head) in which Church, (not limited or confined to the Church of Rome) there is Salvation.

II. The Doctrine of the Protestants concerning the Catholick or Univerfal Church.

"The Catholick or Universal Church which is invisible, consists of "the whole number of the Elect that have been, are, or shall be ga-"thered into one, under Christ the Head thereof, and is the Spouse, the "Body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all.

"The visible Church which is also Catholick or Universal under the "Gospel, (not confined to one Nation, as before under the Law) (x) Conf. Laurent. Surium, Concil. Tom. 4. pag. 506.

But Reader, dost thou think that God will damn any holy, humble and believing persons, because they are not subject to the Pope? hath God any where made such subjection to him a condition of Salvation? let them shew it if they can. Or are there no such persons in the World that are holy and believing, that do not submit unto the Pope? There are many thousands that know themselves better than his Infallible Holiness can know them, that know that to be a falshood.

Neither doth Bellarmine vary from them in his definition of the (b) Bellar. de Church; (b) "That it is a company of men knit together in the pro-Eccles. Milit. " fession of the same Christian Faith, and communion of the same Sa-"craments, under the Government of lawful Pastors, especially of the "Bishop of Rome, Christs Vicar upon Earth. From whence it might be "easily gathered (saith he) who do belong to the Church, and who "do not. There are three parts (as he goeth on) of this definition of "the Church. 1. Profession of the true Faith. 2. Communion of "the Sacraments. 3. Subjection to the Pope of Rome the lawful Pa-"for. By the first all Infidels, Turks, Pagans, Hereticks and Apostates "are excluded from the Church. By the second, Catechumens and Ex-"communicated persons be excluded. By the third, all Schismaticks "that have the Word and Sacraments, but do not submit to the law-"ful Pastor, (the Pope); but all others though they be Reprobates, "wicked and ungodly are included in the Church.

Mark this, good Reader, whether this founds like the Apostles Do-Arine before laid down, if men be never so good, and holy, though converted, and believe, if they do not submit to the Pope as the Universal Head, they are no Members of Christs Church, nor can be saved; and if they be wicked and ungodly, if they own the Pope they are included in the Church. Oh what an odious Religion is that, which damns all the Christians in the world besides themselves! O what wretched diffembling is this, to call their Church the most holy Church without spot or wrinkle or any such thing; when the worst might be and are owned as Members thereof, if they profess subjection to the Pope! but however by this the Head and Members are conformable, and let them go together.----

IX: Of Justification:

I. The Doctrine of the Apostles concerning Justification.

Rom. 4. 5. Now to bim that worketh not, but believeth on him, that justified the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness. 6. Even as David describeth the blessedness of the man unto whom God imputeth righteous ness without works. 7. Saying, Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered. 8. Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin. 2 Cor. 5. 19. Not imputing their trespasses unto them. 21. For he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin, that we might be made the righteousness of God in him. Rom. 3. 22. Even the righteousness of God, which is by faith of Jesus Christ, unto all, and upon all that do believe. 24. Being justified freely by his grace, through the Redemption that is in Christ Jesus. See ver. 25, 28. and Tit. 3. 5,7. Rom. 5. 17, 18, 19. Gal. 2. 16. Phil. 3. 9. Ast. 13. 38, 39. Ephis. 2. 8, 9.

II. The Doctrine of the Protestants.

"Voluntary Works, besides, over and above Gods Commandments, "which they call Works of Supererogation, cannot be taught with-"out arrogancy and impiety; for by them men do declare that they do "not only render unto God as much as they are bound to do, but that "they do more for his sake, than of bounden duty is required, whereas. III. The Doctrine of the Papists.

"(o) The fastings and satisfactory deeds of one man, be available Sax. art. 3.17. cc to others; yea, and holy Saints, and other vertuous persons may in measure and proportion of other mens necessities and deservings allot unto them, as well the Supererogation of their Spiritual Works, as on 2 Cor. 8.14. > But Reader, though a man might have more Money than he doth need, yet thou shalt not find a man that hath more Grace than he doth need, and he that cannot satisfie for himself cannot impart satisfaction to another; for none can give what they have not; and if we do what is no way commanded, we might hear, Who hath required this at your hands? and though Paul was not burdensome to the Corinthians, yet he received from other Churches to do them service. So that all that is said falls short to prove Works of Supererogation: Let proud Papists boast of doing more, while thou goest to thy knees to lament, that when thou hast done thy most and best, hast done less than is commanded.

> > XII. Of Religious Worship.

I. The Doctrine of Christ and his Apostles, that Religious Worship is due only to God.

Mat. 4. 10. Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Col. 2. 18. Let no man beguile you of your reward in a voluntary bumility bumility and worshipping of Angels. Rev. 19. 10. And I fell at his feet to worship bim, and he said unto me, see thou do it not; I am thy fellow-servant ---- morship God. See also Rev. 22. 8, 9. "Saviour; and that they are of a wicked opinion that say, that the "Saints enjoying eternal happiness in Heaven are not to be called up-" on; or who do affirm, either that they do not pray for men, or that "to pray to them, that they would pray for us, yea each one particu-"larly, is Idolatry, or contrary to the Word of God, or against the ho-"nour of Jesus, the one Mediator of God and Men; or that it is "a foolish thing to make humble request in words, or in our "minds to those that are reigning in Heaven. Moreover, "that the facred bodies of the holy Martyrs and others "living with Christ, which were living Members of Christ, and the "Temple of the Holy Ghost, which shall be raised by him to eternal life "and be glorified, are to be worshipped by Believers, by which God "bestoweth many benefits on men. So that whosoever shall say, that "Veneration and Honour is not due to the Reliques of the Saints, or "that these and other sacred Monuments are without profit honour-"ed [worshipped] by the faithful; and that for the gaining of their "help the memory of Saints in vain is solemnized, are utterly to be "condemned, even as the Church hath long condemned them, and "doth now condemn them. Moreover, the Images of Christ, the Vir-"gin Mary, and of other Saints are especially to be had and kept in "Churches, and due honour and Veneration to be given to them.

Again, "It is beyond all doubt, that Believers according to the "custom always received in the Catholick Church should give to the "holy Sacrament, the Worship of Latria, (Highest Worship) which is "due to the true God. Concil. Trident. Seff. 13. cap. 5.

The Popish Doctors maintain of Images in general, that they ought to be worshipped with the same Adoration as the thing represented by the Image. So Aquinas. The same reverence is given to the Image of Christ as to Christ himself. Since therefore Christ is worshipped with Adoration of Latria (Highest Worship due to God) it follows that his Image ought to be worshipped with Adoration of Latria (or Highest Worship due to God.)

XIII. Of Transubstantiation.

I. The Doctrine of Christ and his Apostles, that after Consecration in the Lords Supper there is real Bread and Wine.

Mat. 26. 26, 27. Luk. 22. 19, 20. 1 Cor. 11. 23. The Lord fessis the same night in which he was betrayed took bread. 24. XV. Of the Sacrifice of the Mass.

I. The Doctrine of the Apostle Paul.

Heb. 9. 22. And almost all things are by the Law purged with blood, and without shedding of blood there is no remission. 25. Nor yet that he shuld offer himself often, as the high Priest entreth into the holy place every year with the blood of others. 26. (For then must be have often suffered since the soundation of the world) but now once in the end of the world bath he appeared to put away sins by the sacrifice of himself. 28. So Christ was once offered to hear the sins of many.-----Heb. 10.11. And every Priest standeth daily ministring and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins. 12. But this man after he had offered one sacrifice for sins, for ever sate down on the right hand of God. 14. For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified. 18. Now where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin: Read also Heb. 7.23,24,25,26,27.

So in that part of the Mass called the Offertory, the Priest saith, "Holy "Father, Eternal and Almighty God, receive this Immaculate Host, "which I thine unworthy servant, offer unto thee my true and living "God, for my innumerable sins, and offences and neglects, and for all "them that stand here about, and also for all faithful Christians, both "living and dead, that it may profit me and them unto Salvation, into "eternal life. View and consider this little piece which I have transcribed, Reader, for thy sake, out of the Mass-book, and then judg whether there be any such thing concerning the Lords-Supper in the Scripture; and whether these be not new Doctrines and Devices.

XVI. Of Worshipping the Host.

I. The Doctrine of the Scripture concerning the Lords-Supper, where it is treated of, containeth nothing for the worshipping of it; as Mat. 26. 26, 27. Mar. 14. 22, 23, 24. 1 Cor. 11. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29.

"The Bodies of men after death return to dust, and see corruption, " but their Souls (which neither die nor fleep) having an Immortal sub-"fistence, immediately return to God, who gave them. The Souls of "the Righteous being then made perfect in Holiness, are received into "the highest Heavens, where they behold the face of God in light and "glory, waiting for the full Redemption of their Bodies; and the Souls "of the Wicked are cast into Hell, where they remain in torments and "of the Wicked are call into Hell, where they remain in tornelles and /p) Confess.

"Purgatory, let him be accurfed.

By this Parallel of Doctrines you may eafily judg that ours is the old Religion, and the Religion of the Papilts (wherein they differ from us), is a new Religion; for they that do own, profess and hold to the same Doctrines and Worship that were taught by Christ himself and his Apostles, and no other (as to Essentials at least) are of the old Religion; and those that forsaking and corrupting the Doctrine and Worship taught by Christ and his Apostles, maintain and hold Doctrines not contained in the Scripture, but risen up since and contrary to it, are of a new Religion; But the Protestants do the first, and the Papists do the last, as appeareth by the Parallel of Doctrines; Therefore the Protestants are of the old Religion, and the Papists of a new Onc. For that Religion which doth agree with the oldest, and the only Rule is the oldest and only Religion; and if the Papists will keep to the first and ancient Rule, the Word of God, they must be of our Religion; if they will not, but add or diminish, they will never answer to the charge of Novelty laid upon them.

So that their infulting and ridiculous Question so often used, even till it is become odious and doth nauseate, Where was your Religion before Luther? (which is the second part of my Task), is plainly and fully resolved in the Scriptures, and in the Primitive Churches. And methinks learned Papists should blush and be ashamed, (that have or can read the Writings of the Fathers, and determinations of ancient Councils,) to propound such a Question; but they do it to amuse the common People that cannot read Greek and Latin Authors, and are not acquainted with the History of the Church; whilest I am perswaded they themselves know better, and could resolve this question themfelves, if they would read indifferently and judg impartially. But the

People

People that cannot read the Fathers, Councils, &c. might be abundantly fatisfied, that our Religion is the old Religion, because found in, and founded upon the Word of God; for all the Books in the World must give place to the holy, sure, infallible Word of the most true and faithful God.

But though we shew our Doctrines in the Scripture, yet the Ouestion. Where was our Religion before Luther? (who began the Reformation in the year 1517.) is put to beget jealousies in the People, that for many hundred years before him, our Doctrine and Religion was not taught nor professed; and therefore call for a Catalogue of such as have taught our Doctrines from the Apostles time successively to the time of Luther; as they pretend they can do theirs; and would bear the People in hand that the Church as now Reformed, and the Doctrines now received by them, are new and upftart things, and have not been fince the Apostles times, or before Luther; the contrary whereof, that there have been fuch Doctrines, and a Church owning them in all ages fince they were preached by the Apostles, will appear by two Heads of Arguments; the one taken a priori, that such a Church cannot, shall not cease, but always be in some part or other of the World; the other a posteriori, that it hath not ceased, but hath always actually been, and therefore before Lutber.

The first, That it cannot, shall not cease to be, taken a priori stands firm upon these two grounds; First, upon the promise of Christ, that is of Infallible Verity; Christ hath promised that the true Church which is built upon the Doctrine of the Scripture, and is conformed theremote should continue always, and not fail: That the Reformed Churches are built upon the Doctrine of the Scriptures, and are conformed thereunto, appeareth from the Parallel of Doctrines before laid down. So that there is evidence from the Promise of Christ, that the Church holding such Doctrines as the Reformed Churches do, did continue, could not fail; and there our Church and Religion was before Luther.

the only Head of the Church, and the Church the Body of Christ is the King of his Church, and the Church subject to Christ Christ is the Husband and Bridegroom of the Church, and the Church the Wise and Spouse of Christ; such a Church then could not cease to be, else there would have been some time in which Christ would have been an Head without any body upon Earth, a King without Subjects, an Husband and Bridegroom, without a Wife or Spouse; all which are absend, as to say a Man is a Father that hath no Child. But in this the Controversie doth not lie betwixtous, but which Church is this Body, Subjects, and Spouse of Christ, which by virtue of Christs promise and relation to him, could not sail or cease to be, theirs, or such as the Reformed Churches are. There is this ground samong others) on our side. That Church which owneth Christ to be her only Head, Husband and King, and no other other, which owneth and professeth subjection to the Laws of Christ, and no other as necessary to Salvation, and worshippeth the true God according to the Scripture, and no other, is the Body, Spouse and Subjects of Christ, that could not cease to be in any age; But such Churches as the Reformed are, do own Christ to be their only Head, Husband and King, and no other, and profess subjection to the Laws of Christ, and no other as necessary to Salvation, and worship God according to the Rules contained in the Scripture, and no other. All which the Roman Church as Papal doth not do; for they own another Head befides Christ; as necessary to Salvation, and profess Subjection to the Laws of another, besides the Laws of Christ, and that equally with them, yea before them, though distinct from, and contrary thereunto, and give Religious Worship to others besides the true God, and so plays the Whore and Harlot; that we might conclude, that such Churches as the Reformed are, and not as Papal, are the Body, Subjects and Spoule of Christ, which could not cease in any age to be, since the Apostles times, and there our Religion was, and Church too before Lather.

The second evidence that there have been the same Doctrines, neceffary to Salvation, taught all along fince the Apostles successively to Luthers times, is a posteriori, from the Writings of Men, and Histories of the Church, even such as are abundantly satisfactory to us and undeniable by our adversaries, that our Doctrines are not so late as Luther. I had here prepared several things to be inserted concerning the Succession of the Church from the Primitive times, to the age in which we live; but because I would not have this Discourse to swell above the bounds of a Sermon, and understanding that there is a Reverend Brother defired to treat of that particularly, to which I do refer you, I here omit them; yet the frequent demand of Papists, asking, Where was your Religion before Luther? and that part of this present Position, That it was before Luther, will not suffer a total silence herein. Though this is no real prejudice to the Truth of our Doctrine, or Religion, if we could not give a Catalogue of names that did hold and profess them in all ages, fo long as we find them in the Scripture, nor could they for want there-- of be justly charged, either with falsity or novelty; for what is in the Word of God is true and old, and what is not contained therein and made necessary to Salvation, is false and new, though of many hundred years standing. That this is unreasonably required by the Papists, no hurt to our Religion, as to the Verity and Antiquity of it, nor no cause of stumbling to the common People, familiarly assaulted in this point, and all because not necessary to be known, will appear by these things following.

the names of all the men that have lived before us, no, nor of any of them. It is sufficient hereunto that we can prove we have the same Essential Constitutive parts of Men as our Predecessors had; that we have such Bodies and such Souls as they had, is a proof we are real Men as they were, though we know not the names of all the Intermediate persons successively by whom we have received our Beings from them: would not you laugh at one that would perswade you, you are no Men, or that the Humane nature is a new thing, because you cannot give a Catalogue of the names of Men from Adam, or from Noah, from one age to another? or would it not be sufficient proof of your Manhood that you have the same Identity of Nature as Adam or Noah, and Men of former ages had? So here; so long as we can tell and are sure we own and believe the same Doctrines that the Aposses did, we are sure we are of the same Religion as they were, though we could not give the names of the persons that have from time to time professed the same, this is as if one should say Melebizedek did not succeed his Progenitors, because his Genealogy cannot be given. Ridiculous!

2. It is not necessary to know the falseness of any Doctrine that we should know the names of the Hereticks that have handed them down from one age to another; but we know them to be false, by their being contrary to the Scripture.

3. We know that the dictates of the Law of nature are good and true, and that we have such a Law though we cannot give an account of the name of our Ancestors from whom we have received them.

4. A man might be an exast artificer, though he be not able to mention the names of those that have been in all ages, that professed the same occupation from the times of those that did first invent them. So a man might be a good Christian, and of the true Religion, and be ignorant of the many thousands Christians that have been before him.

5. Without this knowledg a man might love God, repent, believe and be faved, therefore not necessary to true Doctrine, Religion or Salvation; else every unlearned Believer must be acquainted with all the Histories of the Church, and Fathers, and Professors before him, which is impossible.

6. If a man did know this, yet be might be damned, if a man could tell all the Writers, Preachers, Doctors and Councils that have lived this Sixteen hundred years he might go to Hell at last. God will condemn men for being ignorant of the Essential Points in Christianity contained in the Scripture, and if they do not believe, nor are converted; but not for being unacquainted with the Histories of the Church, and names of those that did profess the true Religion in the ages before them.

7. The Scripture never denieth that to be a true Church, that cannot, and because it cannot shew the succession thereof by Histories and Humane Writings.

8: The Scripture doth never fend us to Histories, Councils and Fathers to judg of true Dostrine and Religion by, but to the Word of God. Where in Scripture are Professors or Ministers either commanded to study, and be so conversant in all Histories, Councils and Antiquities as to be able to give a Catalogue, who have taught or owned the true Doctrine in ages before them?

9. What deceitful dealing is this? to deny the People the reading of the Scripture and acquaintance with them, and in such things commend Ignorance as the Mother of Devotion, and will yet call upon them to say, Who taught your Doctrines before Luther? as if it were more material to know who taught them, than to know them; or to be more skilled in the Writings of Men, than in the Word of God.

10. They call for that from us on our part; which they cannot give themfilves for themselves on their part. You ask, Who taught your Doctrines from the Apostles times? and we retort your Queston, and who taught: all your Doctrines from the Apostles times? We know you can never thew them. So that if we could not, yet we were even with you. I know you pretend a large Catalogue of Popes; but yet you are greatly puzzled to give their Succession, when there have been several Popes together, and they that then lived could not know which was the right. But if you could give a Succession of Persons, it profits nothing without a Succession of true Doctrine; if you could shew a Succession de facto, you. can shew none de jure. That may be actual that may not be lawful. A? thief may actually succeed a true Possessor, and a Tyrant and Usurpera lawful Prince, but not lawfully; this is Usurpation not legitimate Succession. We might say therefore to your People as you do to ours. Is it fafe for you to continue in that Religion, of which you can give no account who have taught your Doctrines from the Apostles times? for you cannot, no, nor your Doctors neither, no, though they call a Council and fearch all Records and Writings of men, as shall be shewn in the next General Head of this Sermon.

Yet this is not said, as if we doubted of our cause, if it were to be tried by the Writings of the ancient Fathers, or as if we could not mention multitudes before Luther that have taught and owned our Doctrines; for there are many great Volumns and Cart-loads of Books in which our Doctrines are to be found. To give a large rehearsal of their words on our side would be an endless work, and not to be crouded into a piece of one Sermon: yet a few shall be picked out of many, sufficient to shew that our Doctrines, in which we do oppose the Do-

Arines of the Church of Rome have been taught of old.

What was the Doctrine in the first hundred year from the Birth of Christ is best understood from the holy Scripture; and this is that Age and the Writings of the Apostles are those Writings, by which the Writings of all other Ages must be examined, as their surest Rule, and that our Doctrines are there contained, and not the Doctrines of the Papists as such; see the Parallel before.

In the Writings of the Fathers that lived in the second hundredth year s

we have many Testimonies.

From whence is clear, that this Bishop of Rome (1) challenged not the Supremacy over England, but acknowledg'd the King to be Supream Governour in his own Kingdom. (2) That he acknowledged the Perfection of Scripture for life and manners, when Laws should be taken from thence for the Government of a Kingdom. (3) That England received the Gospel early, and not so late from the Church of Rome as some of them boast, nor at all first from them but from the Gracians of the East-Church (s), as some think.

Particulars would be abundance, but Brevity is one part of my task in this present matter; I must therefore take up with a Testimony or two (t) Irenadver. of the Doctrine taught in this Age. (t) Irenaus testifieth that the same Truths of Apostolical Doctrine were in this Age.---(u) And that the Church that was planted through a great part of the World, even to the end of the Earth, by the Apostles and their Disciples, received the same Faith that is contained in that which is called the Apostles Creed; and he gives a Summary of Doctrines to the same purpose as in that Creed is contained.

> Unto these times (w) Egesippus that lived in this Age, declareth that the Church of God remained a pure and uncorrupted Virgin.----Moreover the same witness gives a general Testimony of the Doctrine in this Age, ---- coming to Rome he met with many Bishops, of one mind and Doctrine, faith, The Church of Corinth remains in the pure and right Rule of Doctrine, and was comforted very much with their Doctrine. Being come to Rome I staid there till Anicetus was stalled Bishop, ---- in all the Succession, and in every one of their Cities, it is no otherwise than the Law and Prophets, and the Lord himself did preach.

> After the Apostles many taught our Doctrines long before Luther: having but little room, I must take up with the fewer Heads of Doctrine, and fewer Testimonies under each Doctrine; I had begun to give a Catalogue in every hundred year fince Christ, but that being too large for this place, I laid it by, and give Instances in these sew following.

Chrylostome also, that lived in the same age, and died about the year 407, taught the same Doctrine so long before Lutber, in this point, as the Reformed Churches now do. II: That the People ought to read the Scripture and therefore ought it to be translated into vulgar Tongues, was a Doctrine taught long before Luther.

By Chrysostome, (q) "Let the Word of God dwell in you richly, he (q) 'Ansoale doth not fay only let it dwell in you, but in great abundance. III. That Religious Worship was not to be given to Images, or Religues of Saints win taught long before Luther.

When Polycarpus fuffered, the envious Persecutors not willing that his Body should be honourably buried, as the Christians were desirous to do, they moved the Proconsul not to deliver to the Christians the Body of Polycarp, lest they leaving Christ, fall a worshipping of him; concerning which the Church of Smyrna (for I have not room for citations of particular persons) in their (u) Epissle to the Church at Philo- (u) Euseb. milium, &c. said, This they said, being ignorant of this that we can never Eccles. Histor. forsake Christ, ---- and that we can worship no other; for we worship Christ Lib.4. cap. 15. as the Son of God, the Martyrs we love as Disciples and followers of the

(w) About the time of Sylvester first, who was Ann. 314. a Council (w) Placuit, was so far from worshipping of Images that they would not have any picturas in Pictures in the Churches, left that which is worshipped or adored should non debere; be painted on Walls. Also about the year 700, a Synod at Constanti- ne quod colinople (whom the Greeks call the Seventh,) did not only condemn the tur, aut Adoworship of Images, but also Images themselves, and that they should be cast ratur, in pariout of Churches. (x) Gregory Bishop of Næocæsarea (not the antient of etibus depinthat title, but another fince him), wrote a Book against Images, which Eliber. can. 26. was read and approved by this Council, and inserted into the Syno- (x) Illiric. dical Acts as a common Decree; in which Book there are Testimonies Catal. Test. of Scripture and Fathers against the Idolatry of Images; and that they Verit. pag. 73, would not allow any Image or Picture of Christ, but Anathematized them that should draw his Effigies in material colours. Can. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13. and determined that there was one only Image appointed by Christ, to wit, the Blessed Bread and Wine in the Eucharist Lords Supper] which represent to us the Body and Blood of Christ. The Second Nicene Synod was against this, and for Images, and a Synod at Francfort against the Second Nicene Council and their Images.

Pezelius gives us this account, That Leo the third, Emperour, called a Synod about the year 730, in which it was controverted, whether Images were to be worshipped, &c. the issue whereof was that the Fathers then present, (except only Germanus, and therefore resigned, and one Anastasius was chosen in his room) condemned and subscribed. That worshipping of Images and Relicks was meer Idolatry, contrary to the Scripture; and the Intercession of Saints a Fable. The Emperour put the Decrees of the Synod into execution, commanded the Images to be brought into the midst of the City and burned; and the Pictures on Walls to be whited over, and so defaced; and did write to Pope Gregory the third, (according to some, the second) and commanded him, as he would keep in his favour, to do the like. After him his Son Constantinus, called Copronymus, out of his zeal called a Synod at Byzantium, Ann. 754. which is called the Seventh General Council, where were present 338 Fathers, where the Question being discussed,

Whether it were lawful that Images should [so much as] be in Churches; who receiving the Decrees of the first and second Councils of Constantinople, Ephesius, Nice, Chalcedon; did determine with one consent, that all Images should as abominations be cast away. Pezel. & Lampad. Mellisc. Histor. par. 3. pag. 37,41.

IV. That Invocation of Angels and Saints is unlawful was taught long before Luther.

By the Council of Landicea which was about the year 364, according to Caranza, who relating the Canon I am to produce, for [Angelos] reads twice [Angulos] to evade the force of the Councils Canon, which he could not fland before, for which tricks of Legerdemain their Translations are little to be trusted to; let us take it in the Greek Text.

Angels, and gather Assemblies, which are forbidden; if therefore any shall be found giving himself to this secret Idolatry, let him be accursed, because he hath forsaken our Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God, and hath approached to Idolatry.

The Papists are so humble that they will go to God, by having recourse to Saints, to intercede for them; this we dislike. Who taught the contrary before Luther? Multitudes. One of which because it is so (3) Solent ta- pat, I will transcribe; (2) Ambrose above a thousand years ago condemned such that used such a miserable excuse, in that they think to go to men pudore passi neglecti God by thefe, as men go to a King by bis Nobles. V. That there are but two places for the Souls of men after death, and consequently no Purgatory was taught long before Luther.

(a) Augustine, born above a thousand years before Luther, taught, (a) August.de "That there is no middle place for any, he must needs be with the pec. Merit. & "Devil that is not with Christ. (b) Again, "The Catholick Faith remission. 1.1.c.28 "resting upon Divine Authority, believes the first place the Kingdom of Quest. Evang. Again, "There is no place for the amending of our ways but in this life; for "after this life every one shall receive according to what he seeketh "after in this; therefore the love of Mankind doth constrain us to in-"tercede for finners, left by punishment they so end this life, that there "life being ended, their punishment never end. This cannot be Purgatory, for the Papists do not say that the Wicked, or the Devils be in Purgatory but in Hell.

VI. That the Marriage of Ministers was lawful, was taught long before Long before indeed; for it is the fixth of the (supposed) Apostolical Canons, owned by the Church of Rome in these words, (e) Let not a Bishop (e) Caranza or a Presbyter upon pretence of Religion put away his Wife; but if he do, let Sum. Concil. bim be excommunicated, if he shall persist therein, let him be deposed.

(f) The Council at Ancyra also did decree, That such as in their Ordi- (f) Concil. nation did declare their purpose for to marry, if they did so, should continue Ancyran. Cans in their Ministry. (g) Another Council about the year 300 decreed, vero Can. Ec-That if any should judg, that he ought not to partake of the Oblation from cless univers. a married Presbyter, let bim be accursed. And the first General Council Can. 30. at Nice that had this under debate after Paphnutius had delivered his (2) Codex judgment about it, did leave it at every Ministers liberty to marry, or univers. Cannot marry as they should see cause; (b) which the Romanists Canon 63 Concil. Law doth also set down. Likewise this is fully stated in the fixth Gene- Gangrens, ral Council, That the lawful Marriages of boly men should be valid, but Can. 4: whosoever is found diligent should no way be hindred from that office, be- (b) Corp. Because in Councils there are many witnesses at once, let us hear them. The Council at Ancyra, though but Provincial (yet as Caranza faith was confirmed by the General Council at Nice,) was according to Caranza his Computation in the year of our Lord 308, did decree, Gan. 2. That Deacons that had facrificed to Idols, should not deliver the Bread nor the Cup in the Sacrament. Whence it appears that in that age the Cup was given as well as the Bread. And the Council at Neo-ca-Sarea confirmed also by the Nicene Council, (so Caranza) Can. 13. did decree, That the Country Priests in the presence of the Bishop, or Presbyters of the City, should not give the Bread, nor reach the Cup, but if they were absent, they alone should do it. At the General Council at Chalcedon confifting of 630 Fathers, the Seventh accusation brought against Iba (q) (q) Concil. Bishop of Edessa was, That there was not sufficient quantity of Wine pro- Surium, Ton. vided, that those that did administer were constrained to go to the Taverns' 2. Ad. 10. for more. But what need this complant, if the People were not to drink as well as to eat; this being a General Council, it feems that through the whole Church the Cup was given to the Laity; this was about the year 451. in the time of Leo the first. In the third Toletan Council it was decreed that through all the Churches of Spain and Gallicia, that the Creed should be repeated with a loud voice, and the People make profession of their Faith, before they receive the Body and Blood of Christ. At the Council of Ilerda, it was decreed, That the Clergy that deliver Christs Can. I. apud Body and Blood, should abstain from all mens blood, even of their enemies. Magdeburg. He replieth, But it hath the likeness or similitude of it; and thou drinkest that which hath the resemblance of the precious Blood of Christ. This was taught then above a thousand years before Luther by this Father. And so it was by Chrysoftome also, (x) Who saith, "If "it be perilous to put these hallowed Vessels to private use, in which is in Mat. Tom. "not the true Body of Christ, but the Mystery of his Body is contained "therein, how much more, &c.

IX. That

1X. That the Bishop of Rome was not the Universal Head of the Catholick Church, nor the Judg in whose definitive sentence all were bound to acquiesce was taught long before Luther.

In the second hundredth year after Christ, there were six Councils, Provincial only, the cause whereof was the difference about the Feast of Easter; Ireneus (y) President of the Synod in France did write to (v) Euseb. Victor then Bishop of Rome, and sharply reprehended him for going Histor. Eccles. about to fever from the Unity in Communion all the Churches of Afia; lib.5. cap. 2 which pleased not all the Bishops. So Eusebius. In the year 418 was cap.5. the fixth Council of Carthage, which refisted three Popes one after another. About the year 450 the Council of Chalcedon withstood Leo then Bishop of Rome in the question of Supremacy.

Illyricus upon his word affirmeth that he saw an Epistle of the Bishops of France and Germany (written by Aventinus his own hand) to Anastasius Bishop of Rome, and others of his Complices, the sum whereof was, To admonish the Pope and those Bishops of Italy that fided with him, to let them alone, and not proceed to exercise their Tyranny over them. The whole Epissle is to be found in Illyricus, Catal. Test.

The Bishops also of Belgia about the year 860, did contest with the Pope, whose Epistle to Pope Nicolas the first is taken by Ilyricas out of Aventinus, in the close of which Epistle they declare that for the Causes before mentioned: (2) "They would not stand to his Decrees, nor (2) Hisce de "hear his voice, nor fear his thundring Bulls. Ludovicus the Emperour, Son of Charles the Great, and the Nobles and Clergy in his time did not own the Bishop of Rome to have that Headship and Power as now they claim and usurp, when by his Authority, without any mention of the Pope, he affembled reveral Councils; belides others he called four feveral Synods for the Reformation of the Church of France, viz. at Mentz, at Paris, at Lions; and at Tholoufe, to enquire what was held answerable or contrary to the revealed Will of God, and wherein they departed from the holy Scripture. Married Priests: But yet the Bishops in Germany did refuse to yield to this Decree, or to depose those Priests that were Married, detending themselves by the Authority of the Scripture, ancient Councils, and the Primitive Church; adding thereunto, That the Commandment of God. and humane necessity did directly oppugn the Popes Decree. They long continued to defend their Liberty, infomuch that feeing neither Reason, nor Prayer, nor Disputation would serve the turn, the Clergy consulting together what to do some advised, not to return again to the Synod, others to return and thrust out the Archbishop from his Seat, and give him due punishment of Death for his deservings, that by the example of him others might be warned hereafter never to attempt that thing any more to the prejudice of the Church, and the rightful Liberty of Ministers. The Archbishop spake them fair, and bid them be of good hope, he would fend again to Hildebrand (the Pope) and they should have what would content their minds; willing them in the mean time to continue as they had done in their Cure and Ministry. The next year the Pope sent Bishop Curiensis as Legate to the Archbishop of Mentz, and asfembled again a Council, where the Clergy were commanded under pain of the Popes Curfe to renounce their Wives, or their Livings. The Clergy still defended their Cause with great constancy, in the end it brake forth into a Tumult, that the Legate and Archbishop hardly escaped with their lives. After this the Churches would chuse their Ministers themselves, and not send them to the Bishops (the enemies of Ministers Marriage) to be confirmed and inducted, but put them to their Office without knowledg or leave of the Bishop.

The Pope did write also about this matter to Otho Bishop of Constance, but this Bishop would neither separate those that were Married from their Wives, nor yet forbid them to Marry that were Unmarried.

(i) The Clergy of France did stoutly oppose the Popes Bull for the Excommunicating of Married Priests that would not Divorce their Wives, declaring their Reasons from the Word of God, from Councils, from the necessity of Nature, and resolved to lose their Benefices, rather than jut away their wives; saying moreover, If Married Priests would not please the Pope, he must call to Angels from Heaven to serve the Churches. But if these Clergy-men would not be at the Popes beck, neither would the Angels in Heaven, I know not what other Angels may be.

In the Popes proceeding against Henry the Emperour, he was opposed by the Council at Wormes, in which were the Bishops not only of Sanony, but of all the whole Empire of the Germans, who did agree and conclude upon the deposing of Hildebrand, and Roulandus (k) was sent to Rome, who in the name of the Council commanded the Pope to yield up his Seat.

This same Pope was again judged and condemned by another Council held at Brixia, where were divers Bishops of Italy, Lombardy and Germany, in which Condemnation is recited amongst other things, his Usurping Authority over the Emperour, and taking away and forbidding the Marriage of Priests.

Towards the end of the thousandth year (when there was again two Popes at once, Urbane and Clement the third) William Rusus King (1) of (1) Fox. Ads England would suffer no appeal from England to the Pope of Rome, as it & Mon. Vol. 1. was not lawful to do from the time of William the Conquerour. And P. 242. when Ansilm Archbishop of Canterbury Appealed to Rome, the King charged him with Treason for so doing: All the Bishops of the Realm stood on the Kings side against Anselm; though Anselm pleaded hard, saying, Should I forswear Saint Peter, I should deny Christ. But all the rest of the Bishops disowned any Appeal from England to Rome.

(m) About the year 1105, two famous Bishops of Mentz recorded (m) Ads & to be very virtuous and well-disposed, were cruelly and tyrannously dealt Mon. Vol. 1. with by the Pope, their Names were Henry and Christian), Henry would P. 254 make no Appeal to the Pope, but said, I appeal to the Lord Jesus Christ; as to the most high and just Judg, and cite you (the two Cardinals that had done him wrong) before his Judgment, there to answer me before the high Judg. Whereunto they scoffingly said, Go you before first, and we will follow after. Not long after the same Henry died, whereof the two perfecuting Cardinals having intelligence, said one to another jestingly, Behold, be is gone before, and we must follow after according to our promise. A little after they both died in one day; the one voided out all his Entrails into the draught; the other gnawing off the singers off his hands, & spitting them out of his mouth (all deformed in devouring himself) died.

How the Clergy were against the Popes Decrees that they should put away their Wives, or lose their Livings, we might learn from a large Copy of Verses made by an English Author, concerning Pope Calixius, for this.

O bone Calixte, nunc omnis clerus odit te, Quondam Presbyteri poterant uxoribus uti, Hic destruxisti, postquam tu Papa suisti, &c.

(0) About this time the Bishop of Florence did teach and preach that Antichrist was now manisest, for which Pope Paschalis did burn (0) Ibid. 2545 his Books.

At this time also Historians mention two more famous Preachers, Gerbardus and Dulcinus Navarensis, (p) who did earnestly labour and preach against the Church of Rome, defending and maintaining that (?) Illyrical Prayer was not more boly in one place than in another, That the Pope was Catalog. Antichrist, That the Clergy and Prelates of Rome were Rejects, and she the very Whore of Babylon spoken of in the Revelations. These two brought thirty more with them into England, who by the King and Prelates were all burnt in the forehead, and so driven out of the Realm, and after that were slain by the Pope.

(a) Fox. Acts & Mon. Vol.1. p.299.

At this time also in the City of Tholoufe (q) there were a great multitude of Men and Women whom the Popes Commissioners did persecute and condemn for Hereticks; of whom some were scourged naked, some chased away. One of the Articles they maintained was that the Bread in the Sacrament after Confecration was not the very Body of the Lord.

(r) Besides these there was Peter Bruis, Ann. 1126, and after him his niacens. lib.1. Disciple Henry, Ann. 1147, in France drew many Provinces from the Epist. 1. & 2. Church of Kome, preached against Transubstantiation, the Sacrifice of the Mass, Suffrages and Oblations for the Dead, Purgatory, worshipping of Images, Invocation of Saints, single life of Priests Pilgrimages, Superfluous boly-days, Consecration of Water, Oyl, Frankincense, &c. The Pope and his Prelates they called Princes of Sodom, the Church of Rome they termed Babylon, the mother of fornication and confusion. This Peter Brais preached the Word of God among the People of Tholoufe for the space of twenty years with great commendation and at last was burned.

> Did the Papists never hear of the Waldenses, or have they not been vexed with their Doctrine before Luther was born, that they ask where was our Doctrine and Religion before Luther?

Did the Council of Constance condemn the Doctrines of Wickliffe and Huss as Erroneous, and was there such a noise about them, and yet did not the Church of Rome hear of our Doctrines (then owned by them)

"will be, none can be more pernicious to the Church of God (he " means the Church of Rome) than that of Lions. And he giveth these three Reasons, (1) "Because it hath continued a longer time than any, " some say that it hath been ever since the time of Sylvester, others say "from the times of the Apostles. (2) Because it is more general, for "there is not almost any Country whereinto this Sect hath not crept. "(3) Because all others procure horrour by their Blasphemies against "God; this of the Lyonists hath a great appearance of Piety, in as much "as they live uprightly before men, and put their trust in God in all "things, and observe all the articles of the Creed, only they blaspheme "the Church of Rome, and hold it in contempt, and therein they are "easily believed by the People. A fair Confession of a Papist. So that you see, they can tell, if they lift, where and when, and by whom our Doctrines were taught before Luther, but they use this Question to beguile the ignorant People, Where was your Religion before Luther?

And Facobus of Riberia acknowledgeth that the Waldenses had continued a long time. The first place (saith he) they lived in was in Narbonne in France, and in the Diocess of Albie, Rhodes, Cabors, &c. and at that time there was little or no estimation of such as were called Priests, Bishops and Ministers of the Church; for being very simple and ignorant almost of all things, it was very ealie for them through the excellency of their Learning and Doctrine to get unto themselves the greatest credit among the People; and for as much as the Waldenses disputed more subtilly than all others, were often admitted by the Priests to teach openly, not for that they approved their opinions, but because they were not comparable to them in wit. In so great honour was the Sect of these men that they were both exempted from all Charges and Impositions, and obtained more benefits by the Wills and Testaments of the Dead than the Priests.

Rainerius saith of them, that they had Translated the Old and New Testament into the Vulgar Tongue, they teach and learn it so well, that I have seen and heard (saith he) a Country Clown recite Fob word by word, and divers others that could perfectly deliver all the New Testa-

The Doctrines that these Waldenses taught before Luther, are the fame that the Reformed Churches do now hold; (1) As that only the holy Scripture is to be believed in matters of Salvation. (2) That all things are contained in holy Scripture, necessary to Salvation, and nothing to be admitted in Religion, but what only is commanded in the Word of God. (3) That there is one only Mediator, other Saints in no wife to be made Mediators, or to be Invocated. (4) That there is no Purgatory. (5) That Masses sung for the Dead are wicked. (6) All mens Traditions to be rejected, at least not to be reputed as necessary to Salvation. (7) That differences of Meats. (8) Variety of Degrees and Orders of Priests, Friers, Monks and Nuns. (9) And superfluous holy days. (10) And Peregrinations with all the rableus, Eohemica ment of Rites and Ceremonies brought in by man are to be abolished. (11) That the Supremacy of the Pope usurping above all Churches, and Kings & Emperors is to be denied. (12) That the Communion in both Fox Acts & kinds is necessary to all People. (13) That the Church of Rome is very Babylon, and the Pope Antichrift, and the fountain of all'other. (14) That the Popes Pardons and Indulgences are to be rejected. (15) That the Marriage of Ministers is lawful, and such-like. Their Doctrines are related by Aness Sylvius afterwards Pope, none of their best friends. But the English Reader might find them in the Book of Martyrs. Luther lived and began the Reformation after the year 1500, these preached this Doctrine before the year 1200; look and see our Doctrine was before Luther.

In the year 1200, &c. it would be endless to give an account of particular Doctors, that did oppose the Doctrine of the Church of Rome, and did maintain the Doctrines we receive.

I might mention Almaricus a Doctor of Paris that suffered Martyrdem for withstanding Altars, Images, Invocation of Saints, and Transubstantiation.

(4) Avent. lib.7. p. 546.

Also Everard (u) an Archbishop in Germany, in an Assembly of Bishops at Regenspurge gave his judgment of the Bishop of Rome. "Hilde-"brand (said he) under colour of Religion laid the foundation of the "Kingdom of Antichrift .---- These Priests of Babylon will reign alone. "they can bear no equal, they will never rest, till they have trampled "all things under their feet, and fit in the Temple of God, and be ex-"alted above all that is Worshipped: He which is the Servant of Servants "coveteth to be Lord of Lords, as if he were God; his Brethrens coun-"fels, yea, and the counsel of his Master he despiseth. He speaks great "things as if he were God; in his brest he casteth new devices, where-"by to raise a Kingdom to himself; he changeth Laws and confirms "his own; he defileth, plucketh down, spoileth, deceiveth, murdereth. "Thus that child of Perdition (whom they use to call Antichrist) in "whose forehead is written, the name of Blasphemy, I AM GOD; I "cannot Err; sitteth in the Temple of God and beareth rule far and "near. Was this Luther, that speaks so like him against the Pope? no, one born long before him, or else the Papists would go too nigh to " fay, This Doctor had learned this from Luther.

The Preachers in Sweden publickly taught that the Pope and his Bishops were Hereticks. It would be too long to give account, how the Pope was opposed by Frederick the Second; and by John King of England a great while, though at last he delivered the Kingdom of England and Ireland to the Pope, and Farmed them of him for a Thousand Marks per annum; and afterward was poyfoned by a Monk; and though he made this Resignation of these Kingdoms for himself, and his Heirs for ever to the Pope, yet his Son and Successor Henry the Third made great Opposition against; as did the Lords and No- (w) Fox Ads bles in his Fathers days, and have left a Lamentation upon record of & Mon. Vol.1. that fact of King John. (w)

Lib. de collatione Beneficiorum.

But the History of the Waldenses now spread far and near stands like a Beacon on an Hill that all that do not shut their eyes have clear light to fee that our Doctrines were taught in abundance of places before Luther, these continued in Dauphine, Languedoc, and Guienne, and in all those Mountains which reach from the Alpes to the Pyrenaan. They had spread themselves into Germany, where were a great many of their Preachers who at the found of a Bell preached in a publick place, "That "the Pope was an Heretick, his Prelates seducers, that they had no "Power to bind and loose, or to interdict the use of Sacraments, and "told them that though they had not come, God would have raised "up others, even of the very stones; for to enlighten the Church by "their Preaching, rather than he would have suffered Faith utterly to "have perished.

By this time they Ordained Preachers in Spain, which preached the same Doctrine with them, and in Lombardy much multiplied. Yea in one only Valley called Camonica they had ten Schools. Another faith, that their little Rivers streamed so far as to the Kingdom of Sicily, and the only reason of their sufferings is said to be because they withdrew the sheep from the keeping of Saint Peter, and departed from the Roman Church. Do not you yet see where any were that owned and preached our Doctrines before Luther? Go then to Jack Upland (x) (x) Fox Acts question no more for shame.

From the year 1300 the bloody Persecutions and the great Sufferings of multitudes for the true Doctrine and opposition to the .Church of Rome do prove what is fought after, except they imprisoned and burnt fo many, they know not for what. For Satan (according to fome) being bound at the end of the first Ten Persecutions, and remaining bound a thousand years, was now let loose again. Do they ask still, Where was our Doctrine before Luther? why, where Persecution was raised by Papills before Luther; for why were so many Imprisoned, Banished and Burnt, if they did not look upon them as Hereticks, and whom they so call is notoriously known. Was not Conradus Hager Imprisoned for preaching against the Mass, Johannes de Castilone, and Franciscus de Arcatura, were they not burnt, and Haybulus Martyred, and Johannes de Rupescissa Imprisoned for certain Prophesies against the Pope? Did not Militrius a Bohemian preach that Antichrist was come, and was he not Excommunicated for the same? Was not Occam. Excommunicated, and his Books prohibited because they displeased the Pope?

Brushius relates that fix and thirty Citizens of Miguntia were burned (y) Fox. Acts for following the Doctrine of the Waldenses, (y) affirming the Pope to & Mon. Vol. 1. be the great Antichrist. Also Masseus recordeth of one hundred and forty in the Province of Narbon were put to the fire for not receiving the Decretals of Rome, besides them that suffered at Paris to the number of twenty four, and after them four hundred burned for Hereticks. And were there not many Witnesses against Popish Doctrines and Afferters of ours from the year 1400? as John Badby, Nicolas Tayler, Richard Wagstaff, Michael Scrivener, William Smith, &c. Jobs Huss, Ferome of Prague; but why do I mention particular names, when there were a great number of faithful Bohemians not to be reckoned, and many other places. Besides all these that have preached and owned our Doctrine long. ago, we might send such Papists as ask, Where was your Doctrine before Luther, to the Churches in other parts of the World, as to the Greeks, the Muscovites, the Melchites or Syrians, the Armenians, the Facobites, the Cophti, or Egyptian Christians, the Abassines and others, who though too corrupt in many things, yet do agree with the Reformed Churches in many Points wherein they with us differ from the Church of Rome, as is witnessed by David Chytreus, who travelled among & many of them, and from his personal knowledg and conversing with many that were amongst them; and by Letters from others, gives an account of the state of several Churches; and by the confession of Faith in the Eastern Churches, composed by Crytopulus Patriarch of Constantinople, and others, as also by the confession of Papists themselves.

there is a place distinct from Heaven and Hell, where some departed traus de stat. Souls are lodged for a while; their opinion is, That those that lived holily, and died in the Lord go immediately to Heaven, and the wicked that die without repentance go presently to Hell; but such as are converted at the end of their life are in another place, in a middle condition, and for these they pray, but yet they do not call this Purgatory. So Chytreus. And in their Confession they utterly deny Popish Purgatory, for they affirm the punishment of such departed Souls that are neither in Heaven nor in Hell, is not material, (m) neither by fire, nor by any other matter, but only from the affliction and anguish of their own Consciences, re-Tolvov n exmembring then what they did amiss while they were in this world. As also vodes nunes thou maist see their impudence in asking where our Church and Doctrines were before luther; where there have been so many Churches ever fince the Apostles times that have (though not without many cor- End Edu-. ruptions in many things, yet) held to the effential Doctrines of Chri- 70 76 % 260stian Religion, and have not received these Doctrines of the Church of Rome, which is but a little Church in comparison of all the rest, amongst whom our Religion was before Luther.

Having made appear that the Doctrines of the Reformed Churches are the same that were taught by Christ and his Apostles, and that by many after them long before Luther; the next thing is to demonstrate that Popery is a Novelty; this follows indeed by just and good consequence from what hath hitherto been said in the former parts of the method first proposed to speak of this Position in; for two such Do-Arines as are so contrary, yea so contradictory, cannot both be true, and equally old; for Truth must be before Error. But yet that Popery had not its being till many hundred years (as now framed) after Christ, I shall pick out some of the chief and most material Points of Popery, (and if these fall the other cannot stand) and give an account of the time when they first came in; the rest whose rise and original as to the particular time is more uncertain, though clear enough that they were not from the beginning, nor long, long after, will not need such large infiffing on; and yet in all I must endeavour Brevity, which is a task that lyeth upon me, and pincheth me hard all along in fuch a copious subject as this Position is.

First, I stall begin at the head, (which is indeed the head and heart of Popery) which though by that Age it hath, gray hairs are upon it, yet in comparison of true Antiquity indeed, it will appear that their head is both raw and green, and if the head be young the whole body cannot be old; and the Witnesses to give in their Testimony of the minority of the Pope as Head of the Church as now claimed, are at hand, even six several Councils, which have so polled this head, and clipt his beard, that it looketh very young, and bear his age marvellously well; for look upon him in the glass of true History and no man will believe that he is so old as he brags to be.

First, my first Catalogue of Witnesses consists of three hundred and eighteen grave ancient Fathers assembled in the first General Council (that ever was since the Apostles times.) at Nice, in the year of our Lord 325. In reading over the Canons of this Council, I fix upon two, which are fully and directly against the Popes Universal Soveraignty and Dominion above all other Churches; the one is against Excommunicate persons Appeal in any Diocess unto remote Churches; or being harboured or received by them in these words.

Concerning persons Excommunicated, whether they be of the Cler(s) Heat they gy or the Laity, (s) Let this sentence be observed by the Bishops of every discovered by the Dishops of every discovered by the Canon, which saith, That those which are cast yerousered out by some, shall not be admitted by others. This Canon clips the Power of the Pope, and takes away his Jurisdiction over other Churches; and was so understood of old is plain, because when some were Excommutayuals Tenicated in Africk, and did run to, and were entertained by the Bishop of Rome, the Council in Africk did hold irregular, and did write to the Pope fo too, and alledged this Canon of the Council of Nice, that he ought not to admit them whom they had Excommunicated; of which more when I come to that Council.

The other Canon in this Council runs, (t) Let the ancient customs ob- (t) Tade vaid tain [continue in force] which are in Egypt, Libya and Pentap lis, that & Su realerta, the Bishop of Alexandria have power [authority, the Government] of all Ted en alyinthese; because also the Bishop of Rome hath the same custom. Likewise also τω κ λιβίκ in Antioch, and in other Provinces, let the Churches have their Dignities, λα, ως ε τὸν [Priviledges, Prerogatives] preserved, [secured] to them .-----From in ansage thus much of this Canon we easily learn. First, that the Bishop of Rome Stig exionshad not Universal Jurisdiction over all the Churches, because the Bi- πον πάντων shop of Alexandria was to have the same Power, [] Authority, The Exercise: over those parts, and the Bishop of Antioch in those parts, and others exact it 70 in other Provinces, as the Bishop of Rome had in those parts, which in The sound could not be if the Bishop of Rome were Universal, and they Provinci- επισκόπω τως al underlings, for there is not like Power, Authority, or Equality in an ες της διμόιως Universal and Provincial Bishop according to their own Doctrine. Se της διμόιως condly, we as easily see, that what Power the Pope had, is not by this Αντιόχειαν, Council bottomed upon, and derived from the holy Scriptures, or fuc- 2 2 Tais ancession from Peter, but grounded only upon custom; not a word is here aus emapyiof any Divine right to that power or place in which he then was, which con any come was far inferior to what he claimeth and usurpeth now. For the first rais enranofthree hundred year then, an Universal Head was a non-ens, not risen, eus.—Codex nor acknowledged in the Church of God. Very good.

Secondly, the next Catalogue of Witnesses against the Universal Sove- 6. raignty of the Bilhop of Rome, hath in it one hundred and fifty Fathers, affembled at Constantinople (which Caranza faith, is one of the four Caranz.p. 2003) principal Councils, and next after the Council of Nice, whose Authority is already alledged,) about the year three hundred eighty three. (So Codex Canonum.) These in their first Canon did ratifie and confirm what was done in the Nicene Council, and would have it to be observed with- (") The wave out violation. the Asian Diocess, should govern the Asian Diocess only. And the Bishops of the Dioces's of Poncus, what appertaineth to that Diocess only; and so the Bishops of Thrace, should in Thrace. And that no Bishop of any Diocels should go except he be called to Ordination, or any other Church-dispensations. This Canon above written concerning Diocesses, being kept, it is manifest that those things which appertain to each Province, Should be ordered by the Synod of that Province (if they had said, All, by the Bishop of Rome, the Universal Head, it would have made their hearts to leap within them, and made his Holiness smile; but alas! they carried it quite another way, by the Synod of the Province.) according to the determinations of the Nicene Council .--- (w) And in the next Canon they Decreed. That the Bishop of Constantinople, for as much as it is new Rome, should have the badges of honour next to the Bishop of Rome. From this General Council we learn, first, That they vote against any one being Universal Head; because, secondly, every Bishop was to govern in his own Diocess, and no other was to meddle, except desired, with any Ecclesiastical matters in anothers Province. Thirdly, that the Bishop of Constantinople is made equal with the Bishop of Rome, save that his Worship (I should have said Lordship, but that they will not think high enough, but I cannot help it, these two Councils forbid me to say Head,) should fit in the first place, or before the other, which yet he might have done. without Universal Jurisdiction. Fourthly, we learn that this honour that they either had was not bottomed upon Divine Right, but because they were Bishops in the Imperial Cities; but here is not a word, thouart Peter, &c. Peters Successor, &c. Apostolical Seat, &c. All this is very good evidence that the Pope is not so old as to reach to the times of this Council neither. Thirdly, the next Catalogue of Witnesses that yet the Bishop of

Rome was not Universal Head consists of two hundred Fathers, affembled in a General Council at Ephesus in the year 431, (so Codex. Canon.) Or as others 434, or thereabouts. This Council is so full, that I wonder how the Papists so many of them as have set forth so many Volums of Councils could with patience write what so much made against them. and yet go on in their error challenging Headship from the Apostles (x) Tiegyma न्तवहवे ४४५ रमtimes. the holy Bishops of the Province of Cyprus, Zenon and Evagrius, have declared to us a new thing, contrary to Ecclefiastical Laws, and Canons of the boly Fathers, and that which reacheth [concerneth] the liberty of all, wherefore since common diseases need the greater medicine, for as much as they do the more barm, the ancient custom not being followed; to wit (this new thing was) that the Bishop of Antioch had Ordained some in Cyprus, as some eminent for Religion coming to the holy Synod have both by writing and by their own words informed; (wherefore it is decreed that) the Presidents of the holy Churches in Cyprus shall have this, without detriment and violation of their right, according to the Canons of the holy Fathers, and the ancient custom, themselves to Ordain godly Bishops; and this also shall be ob-Greed in other Diocesses and Provinces every where that no Bishop draw under his Subjection any other Province, which was not his from the beginning, or his Predecessors; and if any Bishop bath made such invasion, and by violation [or wrong] made it subject to bim, he shall again restore it; that the Canons of the Fathers be not transgressed, lest under pretence of Priestbood the arregance [or swelling pride] of worldly power creep in unawares. and we insensibly and by little and little lose that liberty which Fesus Christ our Lord, the Redeemer of Mankind, bath purehased for in with his own Blood, and given freely to us. It feemeth good therefore to this bely and general Synod, that the Rights which they have had from the beginning be fecured to every Province, pure and inviolable, according to the ancient cu-Stom; every Metropolitan having liberty to take a copy of the Acts for his own security. And if any one shall take a Copy contrary in any thing to what is now determined, it pleased all the holy and Universal Synod that it should be void. Thus far this General Council unanimously voted against one Bishops medling with, encroaching upon the Provinces of others; calling it a new thing, &c. How then was one Bishop owned as Head over all the rest.

Fourthly, another Catalogue of fix hundred and thirty (so Caranza,) assembled in a General Council at Chalcedon in the year 4513 therein their first Canon ratificated confirm all the Canons of the former Councils, so that by the vote of these, they to this year are against the Primacy and Soveraignty of any one Bishop. In another Canon they determined, Tissur, City of Constantinople, and there have it tried. So then Appeals to Rome of Tesos Englished again in another Canon of Romo Tages.

Fifthly. Another Evidence in this cause is the Council held at Antioab πραγμασι &c in the year 341, (10 Codex Canon.) the occasion whereof was this: In the time of Julius the first, (a) Bishop of Rome in the Eastern Church Eccles Univers. Can. 206: several Bishops were Deposed for divers causes by their Synods; which (a) Enfeb. Ec- Bishops went to Rome, acquainted Julius with their whole Estate and cles. the Bishops of the Province should be to all purposes valid. Clearly do they take away all Appeals to Rome, as the matter of the Canons, and the occasion of making of them doth fully demonstrate. Sixthly. Another full Evidence that the Bishop of Rome was not owned as Universal Head is the stout opposition made against it (in their early aspiring after it) by two bundred and seventeen Fathers affembled, (Augustine being one, and Aurelius President) in the year 419, (so Codex Can. Ecclesia Africana.) The Controversie then was this. Apiarius a Priest in Africa, was for his scandalous life Excommunicated, in an African Synod, hereupon he fled to the Bishop of Rome, who abfolved him, and commanded him to be restored to his place; and Sozimus Bishop of Rome to justifie this, claimed a right to receive Appeals from all parts of the World, and for proof thereof pretended a certain Canon of the Nicene Council that did give it him; the Council not finding any such Canon in the Decrees of the Fathers at Nice, sent away Letters and Messengers to the Bishop of Constantinople, Alexandria and . Antioch, that they would fend to them the Acts of the Nicene Council, fast closed and sealed up, because they could not find a Canon which was alledged by the Legats of the Bishop of Rome, from these they received several Copies, all agreeing, but in none of them what Sozimus had affirmed to be in them, that he was shamefully by all the Council convinced of forgery, that he did greatly err, they all proved; for the Copies taken out of the Originals by Cyril of Alexandria, and by Atticus of Constantinople, &c. had no such thing in them; and the whole Council writing to Boniface, (in which Letter they call Sozimis a man of unhappy memory,) defired him to repel those that made him their refuge, both because there is no such constitution of the Fathers, which . hath at any time so much derogated from the Authority of their Churches, as also because the Nicene Council hath apparently left the ordering of all Inferiours to the judgment of their Metropolitan, and had determined that all matters of Controversie should receive their final decition in the place where they began; for how can a Judgment given beyond the Seas be good, where Witnesses necessarily required in such cases, cannot be present, either in regard of their sex, or age, or some other Impediment. --- Because it is granted to every one to appeal to the Councils of their own Provinces, or to an Universal Council.-----Unless there should be any one that can think that our God can inspire a justice of trial into any One man, and deny it to innumerable Priests: that are affembled in Council; and much more these Letters of the Council to Boniface, of Cyril of Alexandria to the Council, and of At(c) Ouvios

tion of the Bishop of Rome, and stoutly stood against the invading endeavours of aspiring Antichrist. Yet will I add one more, (and so let the Councils pass for this head; that is, against the Universal Head,) and that is of a Council at Gonstantinople, in the time of Agatho Bishop of Rome, which was about the year 673, or as others 681, who did smartly snub (the pretended Mother, that is to give Laws to all others) by making a Law to reach as far, and to bind the Church of Rome, faving, (d) For as much as we understand that in the City of Rome in time of (d) Quoniam Lent, they fast upon the Sabbatb-days, contrary to the custom of the Church, it is decreed in this Synod, that also in the Church of Rome, that Canon shall be of force without violation, which faith, if any of the Clergy shall be rum civitate, found fasting on the Lords-day or Sabbath, except one and that only, let bim quadrigesime be deposed, but if he be of the Laity, let him be Excommunicated. This the jejuniis in e- Church of Rome in the heighth of their pride would hardly brook, but jes saboatis jejunare, præ- you see as far as this time reacheth, many Councils knew no such thing as an Universal Head, but opposed the first appearance of it.

So far we see that the Church of God did curb and restrain the ambisticam confuetudinem traditam; sanctæ Synodo visum est, ut in Romanorum quoque Ecclesia inconcussè vires habeat Canon qui dicit : Si quis clericus inventus fuerit in fancto dominico vel Sabbatho jejunans, præter unum & solum, deponatur, sin autem Laicus, segregetur. Surius in concil: Tom. 2. p. 1048. Concil. VI. Constant. Can: 55. refer. autem ad Canon. Apostol. 66.

To these Evidences setched from Councils I shall add further the expressed judgment of two of their own Bishops, Predecessors of him, that first got the title of Universal Head, Pelagius and Gregory the Great, which two did so exceedingly inveigh against this title, God in his Providence so ordering it, that the following Popes might be condemned out of the mouths of their Predecessors; whose sharpness of speech against this Usurpation, was occasioned by John Bishop of Constantinople, surnamed the Faster, who did assume to himself the title of Universal Bishop about the year 580, about which time Pelazius the second being Bishop of Rome, did write to all the Bishops affembled at Constantinople in a Synod called by John the Bishop of that Seat, saying, "That "they ought not to acknowledg John as Universal Bishop, unless they "purposed to depart away from the Communion of all other Bishops: Moreover, saying, (e) "Let no Patriarch use to profane a Title, for if (e) Nullus Pa-"the chief Patriarch thould be called Universal, the name of a Patria-universalitatis "arch should be taken away thereby from all others; but God forbid vocabulo un-"it should ever enter into the heart of a Christian to assume any thing quam utatur, "unto himself, whereby the honour of his Brethren should be debased. quia si unus "For this cause I in my Epistles never call any by that name, for fear lest niversalis di-"by giving him more than is his due, I might feem to take away that citur, Patriar-"which of right belongeth to him. This is a large Testimony against, and a full condemnation of both Glos. Name and Office of Universal Bishop, and this by a Bishop of Rome, before his Successor had usurped the same. And I might infer, either that the following Bishops of Rome do greatly err in taking to themselves this Name and Office, or else this Bishop of Rome was fallible and did err in a matter of Faith (made now by them necessary to Salvation) let them choose which they will (for one they must) their Principles are woun-

This

This is that Gregory, Bishop of Rome that was so vehement in his writing against the name and office of Universal Bishop, that after his death the Romanists would have burnt his Works had not one Peter a Deacon restrained them by affirming to them, That he often saw the Holy Ghost in the form of a Dove sitting upon the head of Gregory while he was writing of them. This is that Gregory that so earnestly cried down an Universal Bishop, that Pope Gregory the 13th. could not answer but by giving this Gregory the stat lie. Plessam.

But what follows from that learned Authoritative confutation? but that the Bishop of Rome is fallible and may err; for if Gregory the Great did speak truth, then Gregory the thirteenth did speak falle, in saying his Doctrine was a lie. If Gregory the thirteenth did speak true, in saying the other did lie and that in a matter of Faith made necessary to Salvation, then did Gregory the Great greatly err, in a matter that concerned the Universal Church. Let them take which they will, their Infallibility lyeth in the dust; for it will much puzzle his Holiness to reconcile the parts of a contradiction. Let him try his skill that both Gregories might in this be found true.

I have borrowed some Paper to be a little the larger in this, both from Councils, and in transcribing the words of these two, 1. Because this is the Main HEAD and Hinge of our Controversies. 2. Because these two were their own, and yet against them. 3. Because it makes it plain that to six hundred years the Bishop of Rome was not Universal Head, for at that time it was disclaimed by themselves, as you see. 4. Because the English Reader that understandeth not Latin Authors, might be satisfied from their own mouths that Universal Soveraignty of the Bishop of Rome is not so old as to come up so high as six hundred years after Christ.

But when was this Title first assumed? and by whom was it first conferred upon the Bishop of Rome, to be called Universal? that you might know when and how he got up into the Chair.

You have been told before that Gregory the Great did write Letters to Maurice the Emperour in the Controversie betwixt him and John of Constantinople about the name Universal. This Emperour Maurice salling into dislike among the Soldiers, one Phocas a Centurion made himself Captain of those that did mutiny, and was afterwards by them proclaimed Emperour; Maurice seeing this sted away with his Wise and Children. Phocas was Crowned, and pursueth after his own Master Maurice, overtakes him, slew his Wise and Children, or some of them before his eyes, and afterwards caused him to be murdered also. Mark that this Phocas was a vile Traitor, and a Murderer of such an excellent Emperour and virtuous Man, as Historians say, that Maurice was. A while after that Phocas was Emperour, Gregory that was Bishop of Rome and opposed the Title of Universal Head, departed out of this life, and Sabinian a malicious detractor of Gregory and his Works succeeded ceeded him, and continued Bilhop of Rome scarce two years, after whom succeeded Boniface the third, about the year six hundred and five, who lived not (as some say) above eight moneths, or as others but a year, after he was Bishop of Rome; but in that time he obtained what he aimed at; for the Murther committed by Phocas upon the Empercur Manrice, being not approved of by the Bishop of Constantinople, he seeking to establish himself in the Empire (gotten by blood, by the Friendship of the Bishop of Rome, Boniface making great offers of his service to Phocas, took this opportunity to defire of him that he and his Succesfors after him, should be called Universal Head of all the Churches of Christ, and that the Church of Rome thence forward should have the preheminence, and be Head of all other Churches; this murdering Phoens, and this aspiring Boniface agreeing to help one another, the Bi- (6) Qro temshop to strengthen him in his Empire got by Rebellion; the Emperour pore interces-Phocas quickly grants that he should be the Universal and head-Bishop serunt quædam odiorum over all Christian Churches. And this is acknowledged by their own fomenta inter Historians. (k)

From all which you clearly see, first, that it was not till after the fixth bundred year from Christ that the Bishop of Rome had this Title conferred upon him. Secondly, that he came not to it by divine right, not made so by God, nor called and chosen to it by a General Council of Fathers, but by a Traytor and a Murderer. The Pope giving his help to keep the Usurper in the Saddle, by way of requital this wicked and Tyrannical Emperour lifts the Pope up into the Chair. A couple well (Oh no mischievously) met to do Offices for each other, but both eminently injurious to others by their Usurpations, the one in the State, the other in the Church.

As his Name and Office of Universal Bishop is new, so are those other accumulative, pompous, and some of them blasphemous Titles not fit to be given to any mortal man. For of old it was not so, for Peter whose Successor he pretends to be had no such Names nor Titles, but filed himself a sellow Presbyter, I Pet.5.1. (1) And the Canons of the (1)"Ω52 7 5 African Church of old were that the Bishop of the first Seat (that was wowinsnade-Rome) should not be called Prince of Priests, or bead-Priest, or any such like of as exiononame, but only the Bishop of the first Seat. their own Canon Law (n) forbids that the Bishop of Rome should be called Universal. Power, it was not so of old; he had not the Power of calling Councils, but it did belong to, and was done by Civil Magistrates. The first General Council of Nice was affembled by the Authority of Constantine the Great; the Second at Constantinople was called by Theodosius the elder; the Third at Ephesis by Theodosis the younger; the Fourth at Chalcedon by Valentinian and Martian, &c. Historians tell us that when once the Emperours began to be Christians, from that time forward the Churchaffairs depended upon them, and the greatest Councils were affembled, and so still are, at their appointment. (p) So Socrates. And the Council of Constance, (which Caranza (q) saith was General, and in the time of Pope John 24, which was after the year 1400, mark how lately, and and did depose three Popes, Gregory 12th, Alexander 5th, John 24th.) (r) Primo deand again in the Council of Basil, which began in the year 1431, (mark clarat Synodill how lately), in both these it was decreed, (r) That a Synod hath its ipsa potestapower immediately from Christ, which every one of what state Joever or dignitem à Christo ty be be; yea, even the Pope himself ought to be obedient, which if they be immediate not, but shall contumaciously contemn the Decrees, Statutes, and Ordinances habet, cui quiof the Council, except he repent shall suffer condign punishment, though it be cunque status the Pope himself. And this Council of Constance was confirmed by Pope vel dignitatis, Martin the fifth, Seff. 45. and the other at Bafil by Pope Nicolas the etiamfi Papafifth.

By all this it doth appear that the main effential point of Popery is a tur, &c. Conc. meer Novelty, having not its original till after the fixth hundred year constan. Ses. 4.5. after Christ, and not got up to its full power till several hundred years & conc. Basil. after this. So that I may (as Voetius doth) confidently affirm, that in Self. 2. & 16. the first fix hundred years, there was NO CHURCH, NO ONE DOCTOR, NO ONE MARTYR, NO CONFESSOR, NO ONE FAMILY, NO NOR ONE MEMBER OF THE CHURCH, NEITHER IN THE WEST, NOR IN ANY OTHER PART OF THE WORLD, THAT WAS PROPERLY AND FORMAL-LY A PAPIST. What is then become of the ANTIOUITY of PO-PERY? and this I bottom upon this foundation; because there cannot be so much as one [Formal] Papist, where the Essentials of Popery are not; as where the Essentials of a man are not, there is no man a-Chually existent, but the Pope as Universal Head is the Essential part of the Popish Religion, without which (according to their Doctrine) the Church is no Church, nor any one a Member thereof that doth not. own him and submit unto him. Therefore the Pope not being till after the fixth hundredth year, so long there was not one Papist-(formally and properly) in the whole World.

This being the main Pillar of Popery I have infifted the longer to prove primus Sacerthe Novelty of it; for this falling, the whole Fabrick tumbleth down: dotibus & Dias therefore it is not necessary that I should be so large in the rest, so for ter annum sawant of more room and paper I must be constrained to contract and lutis 388. but name what follows.

Secondly. The forbidding of Ministers Marriage is a meer Novelty. For terdixit, as their own (s) Authors say, Syricius Bishop of Rome that lived about tificatum Grethe year 388, was the first that did forbid it; yet it was not then re-gorii 7, Ann. ceived and practiced as a duty for them to abstain from Marriage, but 1074, connuliberty of Marrying was never 'denied them till Gregory the 7. came to bium adimi be Pope in the 1074, who yet was resisted, as one that brought in a Sacerdotibus occidentalinew custom, never received before, and the Bishops of Italy, (1) Ger-bus potuit. many and France met together, and for this decreed that he had done Polyd. Virg. de against Christian piety, and deposed him, for that among other things Invent. rer. he had divorced Men and their Wives, denying such as had their law- (t) Magdeb. ful Wives to be Priests; when yet at the same time he admitted to the cent. 11; page Altars, Whoremongers, Adulters and Incestuous persons. Bellarmine himself and other (u) Popish Doctors do grant, yea he proves by Arguments that by the Law of God it is not forbidden that Ministers should Marry, and that for many hundred years the Church Tract. 27. So. of Rome permitted Greek Priests to have and dwell with their Wives.

Thirdly. That Religious worshipping of Images hath not been of old in the Church of God, nor received and owned by Councils, (for what particular persons and hereticks in this point have done is not in this Controversie so much to be minded) nor practised in the Church for some bundred years after Christ, there is sufficient evidence. Bishop Usher in his Answer to the Jesuits Challenge, faith, It might well be concluded that Images were brought into the Church partly by lewd Hereticks, partly by simple Christians newly converted from Paganism. The Gnostick Hereticks had Images, some painted in Colours, others framed of Gold and Silver, and other matter, which they faid were the representations of Christ, made under Pontius Pilite, when he was conversant here among men; and though Enseits (w) makes mention of the Images of Paul and Peter, and of Christ, yet there be calls it an Heathenish custom. But they were so far from worshipping them in the Primitive times, that a Council (x) of ancient Fathers did decree about the year 325, That Pictures ought not be in the Church, left that which is worshipped or adored should be painted on walls. Which Law made by this Council set Melchior Canus (v) the Papist in such an heat, that he alone would condemn all them not only of imprudency but impiety for fo doing, for the poor man could not otherwise answer it.

In the first four General Councils there is nothing for the worshipcilio Elibertino ping of Images, which reached to the year 451, and yet if they had been of that opinion they had had occasion from what was done in the Elibertine Council, being about the same time that the Nicene Council was, and before the other three.

And it should seem that they were not worshipped in the Church of Rome it felf for fix hundred years after Christ, by the Epistle of Gregory the Great to Serenus Bishop of (2) Marseilles, who had broken down Images, and cast them out of his Church, when he perceived some to bequod fraterni- gin to dote upon them too much, whom though be reproves for breaking of tas vestra quos- them yet him he commends for his Zeal, that nothing made with hands should. dam Imagin he worshipped .---- you ought to restrain the people from worshipping of them. that though the people might have had them, whereby to gather the know. ledg of the History, but might not sin in worshipping the Pisture. Moreover at a Council of 338 Fathers held at Constantinople in the quoniam quis year 754, they were solemnly condemned; and when they were set up by the second Council at Nice in the year 787, were degraded again of natura specttheir honour by the Council of Francfort in the year 794.

(b) Durant purposely sets himself to give us all the Councils that non potest ac have approved the use and veneration of Images; and saith, the first pingi. that did was the fixth Council at Constantinople (which was in the time ritib. p.31. of Pope Azatho about the year 673), and quotes the 83, but it is the 82 Canon, (c) where the Picture of Christ is commanded to be made in the shape of a Man, but turning to the place I find plainly that this star hominis Canon doth not at all command any Worship to be given to it, but characterem only as Historical, that is nothing to the Popish cause of worshipping of etiam in Imathem. Another (saith he) is a second Nicene Council, which yet was ceps provete-787 years after Christ, so that this might pass for a Novelty.

Fourthly. The Doctrine of Purgatory by the confession of Papills them- (d) Nemo felves is ranked among the Novelties brought into the Church; for one certe dubitat. of them saith, (d) No true Believer now doubts of Purgatory, whereof notwithstanding among the ancient there is very little or no mention at all. The Greeks also to this day do not believe that there is a Purgatory; let who will tamen apud read the Commentaries of the ancient Greeks, and fo far as I fee, he shall Priscos, nullar find very rare speech of Purgetory, or none at all. And the Latins did not all vel quam raof them together receive the truth of this matter, but by little and little; nei- mentio; sed ther indeed was the faith either of Purgatory or Pardons so needful in the & Gracis ad. Primitive Church, as now it is. Thus far a Papist, and an ingenuous one hunc usque too, which is rare to find, that will without Partiality speak the truth. Which Bellarmine doth not use to do, for he saith quite contrary, That &c. Johan Roll. all the Fathers (e) bo b Greek and Latin have constantly taught from the apud Polyd. Apostles times that there is a Purgatory. And this Cardinal is in such a Virgide invent. heat for Purgatory-fire, that he faith, That it is a Doctrine of Faith, fo rirum, lib. 8: that he that doth not believe it, shall never come to it, (no harm if he do (e) Bellar. de: not, I suppose it is no desirable thing to be in pains no less than the pains Purgat. lib. 13. of Hell, though shorter,) but shall be always tormented in the slames of cap, 15. So thoris nostri also of a Purging-fire after this life, through which they make all Saints gratia redempri sumus, hoc to pass; by which fire they understand, the last day of Judgment; but jam coeleftis the Popish Purgatory is another thing, not invented in the days of Gregory the first, who did write in the end of the fixth age, saying, (b) muneris habenius, ut cum Because me are redeemed by the Grace of our Creator, so much me have of à carnis nobeavenly gift, that when we are with-drawn from the habitation of our flesh, ftræ habitatione subtrahi- me are presently brought to the heavenly recompence. And though in the mur, mox ad Writing of this Pope there is some mention of Purgatory for smaller cœlestia præ-Sins, yet it is not the same that the Papists now affert; for in his Diamia ducamur. logues he speaks of the Purgation of Souls in Baths, in Rivers, and Giegor. (p) He also attempts not to rise ribus nota, higher than the fixth hundredth year, to the former Gregory; but there illi Scriptores he finds little to fasten upon, and therefore steps presently back to Boniface the 8, who he saith was the first that brought in the Popish Jubilee, raverunt. -when he gave Pardons to those that visited the Apostles Temples, in the Quid ergo year 1300, which Jubilee he commanded should be observed every hundredth year. But when fifty years were almost expired, Pope Clement contigerit de the fixth ordained this Jubilee should be every Fifty year, for as much Indulgentiis, as mans age would not reach the hundredth year. Lastly, Pope Sixtus ut apud pristhe fourth (about 1471,) or as my present Author 1475, brought it to do sie manievery 25. year; and then (I pray thee Reader mark) the use of Pardons, ____ Etsi pro which they call Indulgences, began to be famous, which Pardons for what Indulgentiacause, or by what authority they were brought in, or what they be good for, rum approbadoth much trouble our Modern Divines to shew. 6. The like I may conclude of Prayer for the dead; for if Purgatory be but a late device, and Indulgences granted for their deliverance be but late, prayer for them to be delivered out of Purgatory, (which is supposed in the manner of the Papists prayers for departed Souls) cannot be of a longer standing, as their Bishop before quoted did rightly argue.

What might be alledged for the Antiquity of praying for the Dead, used indeed in the Church formerly, is nothing to the Popish prayers used now; for it is most evident, that they did not pray in relation to their being in Purgatory which they understood not, nor do their prayers express any such thing, but rather the contrary of their being at rest, which they could not have in Purgatory; therefore whatsoever prayers they were, or to what end, is not my work at present to enquire, till they be proved to be such as Popish prayers for the Dead be, their praying in this sort for them will stand still among the younger practices of the Church of Rome.

7. As for the Novelty of praying to Saints, Cardinal Du-Perron (a man that would have found it, if there had been any such practice in the Primitive Churches) doth freely acknowledg (as Molineus that traced him in his Book affirmeth,) that as in the holy Scriptures there is neither command nor example for the Invocation of Saints, so likewise in the writings of the Fathers, that have written before the first four Councils (which brings us to the year 451.) no trace is to be found of that Invocation. The distinction betwixt the Saints Intercension, and the Invocation of Saints should be carefully heeded; for whether the Saints in Heaven pray for

(t) But Alphonsus as to Councils rises no higher than mentum, & similiter licet the Lateran, according as Scotus did.

9. The denying of the Cup to the People might be reckoned with the rest, Ecclesia hufor a meer Novelty, having its rife in the Council of Constance which be-jusmodi Sacragan in the year 1414, and there needs no other evidence, that this is an intentum reciperetur à side-Innovation, than the very words of the Canon, whereby it is denied to libus sub uthe People, which are, (u) Although Christ did administer this Sacrament traq; specie, in both kinds, and though in the Primitive Church the People did receive it tamen hac in both kinds, yet this cultom is rationally introduced, ----that the Feople shall consuctude ad evitandum aonly take the Bread, --- and we command under pain of Excommunication liqua pericula that no Presbyter give it to the People under both kinds of Bread and Wine. & scandala,est See Reader, though Christ appointed both, though the Primitive times rationabiliter observed both, yet these say they shall have but one, any thing in Christs introducta, command, and the Churches practice for so many hundred years to the à laicis tancontrary notwithstanding; for this it was called defervedly by one Con- tummodo sub cilium Non-obstantiense, instead of Constantiense.

The practice of the Church of Rome decreed by this Council is but suscipiatur, two hundred and odd years standing; and yet after this the Council of &cc. Concil. Basil granted the use of the Cup to the Bohemians; and again the Coun- (n) Decret. cil of Trent denied it; so that Popish Councils can say and unsay, do and Greg. and yet cannot err, and that's pity.

10. The Adoration of the Sacrament was after the Docarine of Transubflantiation; for the reason of their worshipping of it, is because it is qui sansies changed into Christs Body and Blood; the first then being new, the o-legater Canother cannot be old; the first brought in as an Article of Faith in the time nwase, videof Innocent the third 1215, the worshipping of it in the time of Honorins (w) the third in the year 1216. Behold its Antiquity!

11. The practice of the Popes canonizing of Saints is a new invention by were alie. the confession of Bellarmine himself, (x) who acknowledg that the first sed non mili Pope that he ever read of was Leo the third, 800 years after Christ. And conflat. Billar. the same Cardinal saith, That no Saints might be publickly Invocated lib.s. cap 3.

that are not Canonized by the Pope, put both together, and it will make a clear consequence, that Invocation of Saints at least publickly was not for 800 years after Christ, the Papists themselves being Confessors.

But whither do I tend? to run over all Particulars controverted betwixt us and them would sooner swell into a Volumn, than be contained in a Sermon; I can therefore but name some other Points, and let it be shewn that for five, fix, seven hundred, yea some for a thousand years after Christ, that they were generally owned or received in the Church of Christ, such as these added to the former.

12. The Infallibility of the Bishop of Rome.

13. That the Church of Rome is the only Church, founded by God himself, or that the Church of Rome is the Catholick Church.

14. That there is no Salvation out of the Roman Church.

15. That all that the Church of Rome delivers is to be believed, whether it be written in the Word of God or no.

16. That the Pope or Ch. of R. hath Power & Authority to make Doctrins of Faith, necessary to Salvation, that are not contained in the Scripture.

17. That the Pope of Rome alone, or his Council alone, or Pope and Council together are the Judg of Controversies, to whom Appeals from all the Churches must be made, and all bound to acquiesce in their, or his Determinations.

18. That the Pope of Rome might judg-all but be judged by none, nor be blamed though he leads Souls by troops to Hell.

19: That the Pope of Rome hath Temporal Jurisdiction over Princes, Kings and Emperours, to depose them from their Thrones, dispose of their Crowns, and absolve their Subjects from their Oaths of Allegiance to their lawful Princes.

20. That the Pope of Rome hath Authority to dispense with the Law of God, to make that lawful which God forbids, and that evil which God commands.

- 21. That the Power of calling General Councils is inherent in the Pope.
- 22. That the Pope by himself, or Legats ought to be President in fuch Councils.
- 23. That all that General Councils do determine without his Authoritative Ratification, is of no force, but void.

24. That the Scripture is imperfect and insufficient, containing in it not all things necessary to Salvation, nor for the refuting of all Herefies.

25. That it is not lawful to interpret Scripture contrary to the sense of the Church of Rome.

- 26. That the Church doth not depend upon the Scripture, but the Authority of the Scripture, even quoad nos, upon the testimony of the Church of Rome.
 - 27. That the Scripture ought not to be Translated into the Vulg. Tong. 28. That the common People are to be debarred from reading of the Scriptures except they have a License from the Bishop.

29. That the publick Service and Prayers in the Church ought to be 20. That in an unknown Tongue.

30. That there are seven proper Sacraments, Baptism, Confirmation, Lords-Supper, Penance, Extream Unction, Matrimony, Ordination: Or that there are eight Sacraments of Order, as the Order of Porters, Readers, Exorcists, Servitors, Sub-Deacons, Deacons, Presbyters and Bishops; to make indeed sourteen or fifteen Sacraments.

31. That the Sacrament of Confirmation is more worthy than the Sacrament of Baptism, and is to be had in greater reverence, and accordingly to be done only by a Bishop, when Baptism by a Presbyter.

32. That private Masses are lawful, and in them both Clergy and Laity to be deprived both of the Bread and Wine, except the Priest that makes it, by the rest only to be seen.

33. That the Eucharist when it is sent unto the Sick is to be adored by all that meet it, and those that do not, to be accounted Hereticks, and to be persecuted with Fire and Sword.

34. That it is a Sacrifice for the Quick and Dead, for obtaining not only Spiritual but Temporal Blessings, to be offered to God for Health, fuccess in Battels, for their Horses and their Hogs.

35. That a justified person may truly and properly make satisfaction to God for the guilt of punishment, which remains to be expiated after the fault is remitted.

36. That the satisfactory Works of the Saints may be communicated and applied to others, or that there are Works of Supererogation.

37. That Absolution by a Priest is so necessary to Salvation, that persons believing in Christ are damned if they die before they be absolved by a Priest.

38. That the Confirmation of Bishops, and Institution of Arch-Bishops by the Pall is to be sought by the Pope of Rome, from all parts and quarters of the World, without which they are no such Officers, and cannot without Sacriledg execute their Office.

39. That in Baptism there is an Implicite Vow of Obedience to the Pope of Rome.

40. That the Decret. Epist. are to be reckoned amongst Can. Scripture.

41. That the Bishop of Rome if he be Canonically ordained, whatsoever he were, is undoubtedly made holy by the Merits of St. Peter.

42. That every transgrettion of the Law deserveth not death, but that there are many sins of themselves and in their own nature venial and deserving pardon, that the Blood of Christ is not necessary to wash them away, but may be done away with holy Water, knocking the brest, and by the Bishops blessing.

43. That Clergy-men are exempted from the Jurisdiction of Temporal Lords in things Civil and Criminal, and that the Civil Judg cannot punish Ecclesiastical persons.

44. That the Rebellion of a Clergy-man against the King is not Treason, or that it is meritorious to kill Princes Excommunicated by the Pope:

45. That good Works in themselves have a proportion, and condignity with the reward, and are meritorious from their inward worthiness, to be worth the reward, as a Journey-man is of his wages for his labour. Papifts themselvs do acknowledg that the first beginning of some of their Doctrines they cannot tell, and to search for the year when every Novelty was introduced is needless, all these that are named, are not in Scripture, nor in the Primitive Church, some not for 4, 5, some not for 6, 7, 8, 9, 12 hundred years, that I might conclude that Popery is a very Novelty, and doth vainly and falfly boast of its Antiquity.

I. Use. 1. Is Popery a new Way, and the Religion of Protestants the old Religion taught by Christ and his Apostles, then this is a safe Way, and a safe Religion; in it you may be justified, sanctified, and furely faved. It is the old Way that Paul, and Peter, and Believers in the Primitive times obtained an everlassing Kingdom and Crown. Be not frighted with the uncharitable and groundless Doctrine of the Papists. that out of their Church there is no Salvation. 2. Then it is the misest Way; the folly of men shews it self in the new Ways of Popery, and wherein they profess themselves to be wife, they are become fools; but in the old Way is manifest the manifold Wisdom of God. 3. Then it is the purest Way; the nearer the Fountain the purer are the Streams; the nearer the Copy the fairer is the Writing; the Church of Rome doth vainly glory in Titles of Holiness; the most body Pope; the body Church; the multitude of Holy Days, holy Rites and Ceremonies, &c. that is holy and pure, that is consonant to the holy and pure Word of God. If you are to travel you would go the cleanest way; you are travelling to an everlasting state, the old Way of Faith in Christ. Repentance for Sinsinward Holiness and new Obedience taught in the Reformed Churches, agreeable to the Doctrine of Christ, and his Apostles, is the cleanest Way that you can go in to keep a clean and pure Heart, a clean and pure Conscience to have a clean and pure Conversation. 4. It is the nearest Way; if you leave this Way, the further you go, the more you are out of your Way. You go about, you must back again, or you go on to a place where there is no rest night nor day, but the smoke of their torment ascendeth for ever and ever. 5. Then it is the most comfortable and most pleasant Way; all the Ways of Wildom are Ways of pleasantness, and all her Paths are peace. It might be strowed with outward troubles, briars and thorns may be in this Way, but there is inward peace, and inward joy, and folid, fure and Lasting comfort to be found in it. 6 Then it is the only Way; The Way of Faith in Christ, the Way of Regeneration and Holiness, the Way of new Obedience and Perseverance therein is the old Way to Heaven, and there is no other. If you will choose new Ways your selves, or walk in new Way's chalked out by others contrary to the good old Way. you will lofe God and Christ, and your Souls for ever.

Il Vje. 1. Get a right understanding of the greatness of your mercy; that you were not born in times and places of Popery, that you have Ministers to teach you the good old Way. & Magistrates to defend you therein; that you are not burned at a Stake for not receiving new Popish Doctrines; that you have Bibles, and not burned for having of them. Know your mercy. 2. Eless God for this mercy, when you understand how great it is: Indeed when you rightly know it, and duly weigh it, you will bless God that you were not brought up in Popish darkness and Idolatry, that you were not brought up to worship Images, pray to Saints, &c. but God alone. 3. Pray to God for the continuance of this mercy to you & to your children after you; that Popery might never return, but the Generations to come might be taught the Protestant Religion, that is, the good old Way to Heaven. That your children, and childrens children might enjoy the Eible, and have the old Truths of God preached to them. For their sakes pray much. 4. Then walk in this good old way; if you see the Way to Happiness and not walk in it, you will fall short of it. You might be Protestants in opinion, and yet be for ever damned. A drunken Protestant, a whoring Protestant, a swearing, impenitent, unbelieving Protestant, shall not be saved, because in opinion he is a Protestant. You might resuse to commit Idolatry in bowing to, and worshipping of Images, and yet go to Hell for making an Idol of your Money, and over-loving of the World. You might renounce the Pope as Head, and in judgment own Christ, as only Head of his Church, and yet be damned for not believing on him, choosing of him before all, nor loving him above all:

Let all old corrupt things be done away; As (1) your old Ignorance. (2) Your old false-leves, (3) Your old pelf-love. (4) Your old false peace. (5) Your old enmity against God and Holiness. (6) You must be cut off from two old stock. In a word, for I am but name a few of many that might be said for the practical Improvement of this Text) crucifie the old man, destroy the body of Sin. For to keep your old hearts and yet think to go to Heaven is to look for a new Way of Salvation.

Let all things be new, none can walk in the old Way but who are new Creatures.

(1) Your Understandings must be new; new valuations of Christ. (2) Your Wills new; new Elections of Christ. (3) Your Affections new.

1. New Love to God, to Christ, his Ways, his People, his Precepts.

2. New Descres; Oh that I had God for my Father, Christ for my Lord and Saviour, Grace as a Pledg of Glory.

3. New Sorrows, for walking in a way of Sin so long, neglecting Christ so long, Swearing so much, Praying so little.

4. New Delights.

5. New Hatred.

(4) As Affections new, so your Ends must be new, Gods Glory.

5. New Cares to get, keep a good.

Conscience, to live holy, die happily and to be saved eternally.

Except you be thus made new, you might know the good old Way, but you cannot walk in it; which if you do not, wo, wo, a thousand woes to you for ever. A Damned Protestant! How! a Damned Protestant! that was told which was the good old and only Way, that lived under the constant, plain and powerful preaching of the same Doctrines that Christ himself and his Apostles did deliver. I profels your case will be worser, and your torments will be greater, than the Heathenwho might fay, Lord we never had a Bible, never heard of Christ, nor of the vay of Salvation; no Ministers were sent to us, no Gospel preached to us. Yea, worser will be your case, and greater will be your damnation than of many amongst the Papists that have not been so plainly taught, so frequently instructed, so faithfully warned, so earneftly intreated as you have been. You are not told, that Ignorance is the mother of Devotion, as they be, you are not kept from reading of the Scripture, as they be, but are presed, urged and exhorted to it. You have not publick Worship in an unknown Tongue, but by plain Language are you warned of Hell, commanded in the name of God to forfake your old wicked ways; how oft have you been perswaded to come to Christ, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life? How long hath God waited? and will you on in your wicked ways still; in your old course of Profaneness and Lying, and Sabbath-breaking? in your old course of careless neglect of God, and Christ, and your own Immortal Souls? that's an old Way indeed, but it is not the good old Way. If you will go on, take your course, if you will not turn to the good Path, take what falls. But know that the Way of Sinleadeth directly unto Hell. Proceed a little further, go on a little longer, and thou wilt drop into a bottomless pit, and be a danined wreten and take up thy everlasting lodgings with the old Dragon, wiith the old Serpent; and canst thou there have rest? Rest! how canst thou under the heavy load of Gods wrath? Reft! how canst thou under the strokes of an angry, provoked and revenging God?' Thou canst not rest upon a bed of Down, when thy Conscience is seared, & God affild thee with the Stone or Plague, or Burning Fever, though all thy friends be round about thee, administring Cordials & Comforts to thee. And canst thou rest in a bed of slames, in a burning siery surnace, in a place more dreadful and more hot than is a vessel stull of boiling Lead, and burning Brimstone; when thy Conscience shall be awakened, the Worm gnawing within thee, the Devils round about thee, and an angry God above thee, and not one night hee to pity or relieve thee? For Gods sake, Sirs, and for your Souls sake, as ever you would avoid endless, & easless, & remediless torments hereafter, walk in the good old Way of Faith and Holiness, Repentance and new Obedience now.

And if you would now walk in this good old Way, you shall (1) be taken into a New Covenant. (2) And have new employment, better, more noble, more profitable, more pleasant than ever yet you were engaged in. (3) You shall be taken into new Relations to be the Sons of God, the Daughters of God, the Servants, People and Friends of God. (4) You shall become a new Habitation for Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. (5) You will have ground of comfort when you come to die. Death is the old Way into another World; and if you walk in the good old Way while you live, you may be comforted, if you can appeal to God, having the witness of a good Conscience, and say, Now Lord remember how I have walked before thee in the good path with an upright heart. And then (6) you shall enter into the New Jerusalem where you shall have (1) Universal, total Rest. (2) Seasonable Rest. (3) Eternal, and (4) Delightful Rest; And that (1) from Sin, from the reigning, and conflicting power of Sin, from the guilt and in-dwelling of Sin. from the Temptations of Satan, he shall never trouble nor disquiet you more. Commission of Sin is now a burden to you, and temptation to Sin is now a burden to you, but the good old Way will bring to rest from both. (3) Rest from all Assistions from God upon your Eodies; now Sickness is a burden that makes you to be restless, but then you shall have an aking Head no more, pained Bowels, a sick Heart no more for ever. (4) Rest from all Troubles from men, no more imprisoned, persecuted; rest from all their slanders and reproaches, &c. (5) Rest from all those boly Duties that are now as a means to bring you to this Rest. You shall rest from Repentings and Mournings for Sin, from all the pains that now you are at to mortifie corruption; though not from loving of God, delighting in God, and admiring of his Love, nay this your Love shall be one part of your Rest. (6) Rest from all doubts and fears, and jealousies of heart. Now you doubt, doth God love me? do I love God? is Christ mine, and am I his? will God save me? pardon me? sometimes (thou saist) I hope he will, and that doth lighten my heart; sometimes I fear he will not, and that's a burden.Oh it is an heavy burden to my Soul, under which I cannot reft. But this good old Way will bring thee to a rest where thou shalt doubt no more, and sear no more. Canst thou doubt, whether it be day, when thou seeft the Sun doth shine? or that fire is hot, when thou feeft it burn, and feelest it doth warm thy hand?no more shalt thou doubt, when thou comest to the end of thy walk in the good old Way, whether God doth love thee, when thou shalt be filled with his Love, and feel that he doth love thee, and fee to what a bleffed place of rest, and peace, of life, of light and joy, his Love hath brought thee to. (7) Rest from all Desertions; God shall no more frown, no more depart, or withdraw from thee for ever. (8) Rest from all thy worldly labours and employments; when thou hast now wearied thy self in thy calling all the day, thou takest thy rest at night, and oh how sweet is rest when thou art weary; when the day returns thy labour also doth return, and thy noble Soul by mean and low imployment (yet thy duty while thou art here) one in making Bricks, another Pins, one in working in Wood, another in Silk, or Silver and Gold, poor employment for a Rational Soul; by reason whereof God hath few of thy thoughts, little of thy delight and love; and doth distract thee often in thy holy duties; but this Way will bring thee to a Rest from all these, when God shall have all thy thoughts, delight and love. Stand then & see which the good old Way. Nay you do see which is it; God hath shewed it unto you, it is chalked, marked out before you; Rest you are promised, and Rest you shall find in walking in it; But let none of you say in words, or heart, by your practice, we will not walk therein, left you come unto a place of torment, where you NEVER shall have REST. The sum whereof, and the rest, is but this, Lay down your Money, and doubt not of getting up to Glory. The Romish Feroboam, I mean the Pope, fets up the two Calves of his golden Faith and Worship to preserve to himself his carnal Kingdom; of which Faith and Worship, the greatest part is purely subservient to the Popes, either Coffer or Kitchin, and of which Kingdom, more truly than of War, Money may be said to be the Soul and Sinews. If their Doctrines may be witnesses to prove fo clear an accusation, I might produce a far greater number than is needful to make up an ordinary Jury, by mentioning those of Auricular Confession, Pilgrimages, Penance, Images, Prayers for the Dead, Indulgences, Purgatory, Sacrifice of the Mass, Merits, Holiness of places, breaking faith with Hereticks, the Popes Superiority over Princes, dispensation with Oaths; and this before us, of Venial Sin. All these arrows, if they were not level'd at the mark of Gain, yet sure I am, they most exactly bit and center in it (firange they should meet so unitedly if shot at rovers); if you consult the generality of their Doctrines, most of the Questions in the Popish Catechism, may easily be reduced to this one, What shall we get for our Paunches and Purses? A Catechism not compos'd by Peter the Popes pretended Predecessor (who though he said, Silver and Gold have Inone; yet also said, thy Money perish with thee); but by Judas his bagbearing pattern, in that question of his for betraying of Christ,---- Quid dabitis? What will you give me? 'Twas ingenuously spoken by a late Poet, when he thus verfify'd;

An Petrus Romæ fuerit, sub judice lis est Simonem Roma nemo fuisse negat. We are not sure that Peter ever sat

It Rome, but Simon did, w'are sure of that. Simon, that Simon who barter'd and chaffer'd for the Spirit with Money, communi is constant Resident at Rome, where some hundreds of years, in many thou-consensu, pecsands of Bargains, he hath been as successful in selling to fools, as ever was cata quadam, his Predecessor insuccessful in his attempt to buy of the Apostles. Among hominem non all their Doctrines of this earthen and muddy complexion, we shall this reddere morday, more particularly produce this of Venial Sin, principally both set tis aterna reup, and shor'd up, that the pretended punishment of those in Purgatory, um, sed rang may be bought off by money; and that without any beholdingness to temporalis. the blood of Cbrist, provided the Purse will but bleed freely, as drawn Bellar, c. Ven. the Christian World; and from hence it was, that Sins, by Papists call'd Nos unanimi pardonable, have been rather termed saleable, venalia not venialia, with negamus illud a very small and venial alteration of the word venial.

I wonder not therefore that Bellarmine in his first Chapter of Venial minus affirmat Sin, thus fets out, We teach (faith Bellarmine) by common confint, That communi there are some Sins which of their own nature, do not render a man guilty of conscuss deernal death, but only of temporal punishment. To which Expression of his, Bellar. There. Orthodox Amesthus replys, Nos unanimi consensu negamus illud quodBellar- 1.2. a.t.

Nos docemus quad Bellarminus affirmat, communi consensu doceri. We (Protestants) deny with an unanimous consent, that which Bellarmine affirms is taught (among them) with common consent. My Work this day, is to declare my Concurrence with our Protestant Divines, in their denial and detesting the blasphemous Doctrine of Venial Sin. Only I cannot but mention as an encouraging entrance into this approaching Employment, the wariness of Bellarmines Expression, in these words, Communi consensu docemus; we teach by common consent; for he could not say (as Dr. Ames his Answerer) we teach our Doctrine herein with unanimous consent. For (as Medina Quâ ratione distinguatur an eminent Papist confesseth) the Popish Doctors are infinitely at odds, and peccatum veniale à morta-disagree among themselves in sinding out, how a Venial and a Mortal Sin differ. 'Tis true the black Regiment, or rather the forlorn Adventuli, non una est sententia rers of the Antichristian Army, strike home, and speak out for their Ge-Doctorum, sed neral the Pope, and his Cause in this Point. Bellarmine tells us, That some finitum Bost- Sins are so far from deserving eternal punishment, that God cannot punish ores. Medin. in them eternally without injustice. Alphonsus a Castro, That Peccatum veniale non valet privare gratia; Sin Venial cannot deprive of grace. And that wretched Andradius (the worst of the Crew), with his more devout Cum multi ex brother Bonaventure afferts, That for Venial Sins we do not so much as need hac vitâ migrent, à lethagrent, à lethatout this life fore from Montel Sine and for habten Sine then for hand a lethalibus quidem part this life, free from Mortal Sins, and for lighter Sins they shall never be damned; and that it can hardly be understood how God should be just, should ctiminibus immunes; le- he punish any for Venial Sins with eternal punishment. And that Convioribus tacilium Senonense declares, That he who dies involv'd in Venial Sins (amen alius alio mong which it particularly mentions idle words, of which Christ saith, magis implicatus, quorum We must give an account, and by which we shall be condemned, Mat. 12.37.) tamen nemo, though he be unfit for Heaven, yet neither is it fit he should go to Hell, as befive ob plura, ing a partaker of Grace, but is to be purged by the fire of Purgatory, out of five pauciora which he is to be delivered by the prayers of the living; and that who soever hac delicta thinks otherwise, is guilty of the Lutheran, Wiclevian and Waldensian Hequotidiana, damnationem retical pravity.

clearly discovers that they hold, that 'tis not necessary to confess Venial Sins. 'Tis true therefore (as I said), that those bored slaves of the Pope, thus tearingly express themselves in the afferting of Venial Sin. But vet 'twas honestly said by Bellarmine however, That this Doctrine of the Veniality of Sin, is taught (in the Antichristian Synagogue) only with a common (not an unanimous) confent. For the learnedst of the Papilts, as Vega, Altissidorensis, Almain, Azorius, Durand, Fisher of Rochester, (who lost his Head for his maintaining the Popes Headship) but especially Gerson Chancellor of Paris, liberally affert that all Sin is mortiferous or deadly; and that none is Venial, or deserving of Pardon: To all which I add that for the first seven hundred years after Christ, the Doctrine of Venial Sin was never taught by any Father, or Doctor, or maintain'd in any Council. Nor can Bellarmine, after his strictest learch into the Fathers; nor could he, nor dares he name one of them that ever us'd the very name or word of Venial Sin. This being premised as an encouragement to our conflict, namely that the best Soldiers of the Enemies Army, are come over to our fide (a fign of their ensuing overthrow,) you may take up the truth of this Doctrine concerning Venial Sin, either in an affirmative or negative Proposition (which you please): If in an Affirmative, receive it thus; Every Sin is of its own nature morti- The main. ferous and deadly, deserving eternal punishment. If in a Negative, take Point. it thus; No Sin deserves pardon; or thus, No Sin is exempted from deserving eternal death; or (as 'tis usually exprest), No Sin is Venial in its own nature. In the discussing this great Truth, I shall (God willing) dis-

By way of \{ 1. Explication. 2. Confirmation. 3. Application.

I. In the Explication I shall proceed by way of

1. Concession, or granting what is not to be deny'd.

2. By way of Negation, or denial of what is not to be granted; that by both, the question may be clear'd, by being freed from the fogs of Popish Objections.

I. For the first way of Explication, viz. of Concession, I grant,

1. All private offences of man against man, have a pardon from man due jusquam in to them; and that 'tis fo, the Scriptures fully discover, Ephes. 4. 32. ale. Chamier Col. 3. 13. Rom. 12. &c. in requiring mutual forgiveness. 'Tis well ex- Panfer. de pec. prest by Chamier, There's no sin of any against us, but is Venial. But how ven.p.mihi 182: weak is Bellermines argument from hence, to prove that Venial Sins do Eadem rationot hinder God from loving us. If all offences (faith he) diffolve the no concludere love of God; by the same neason should they dissolve love and friendship between man and man; but this they do not, therefore, &c.

ther the offences. To make this plain, I argue,

1. From Popish Principles.
2. From undeniable Reason.

1. From Popilh Principles. For, jusquam in nos, non veni- nos, non veni- ale, at hominum in Deum inferiors for light and small offences, yet that God inflicts grievous tornullum veni- ale; multa certe mortale; multa certe mortalia ipsis saten- (if you'l believe Bellarmine;) the least whereof (as Aquinas tells us,) is cham. Panstr.

2. Do not the Papists grant that there are many kinds of offences de pec. Ven. Id. which do not destroy Humane friendship (nor ought) which yet exclude from Gods love? As when a man out of a good intention of helping or benefiting his friend, proves hurtful or offensive to him; this excludes not a man from his friends favour; but when a man out of a zealous intention to please God, doth offend him (as Paul did who thought he did God good service in persecuting the Church), he doth with Paul in that case, sin mortally, and deserve exclusion from the favour of God.

2. I argue from undeniable reason: The sum whereof is this; Man offended by man hath causes to continue still his love to man, which God offended hath not.

1. Man by the bond of a Precept, is bound to forgive man; but God is not capable of such a bond.

2. Man offended, is a finite creature, and therefore offences against him, are comparatively small and inconsiderable; but offences against God are against an infinite Majesty, and therefore infinite.

3. Offences against Man are mutual, the offended to day, may be the offender to morrow; but God never can wrong his Creature, no, though he burts it; What iniquity have your fathers found in me? Jer. 2. 11.

4. Man offended may be, and perhaps hath been benefited by the Man offending; but to God no good of ours can extend.

5. A man offended, oft warns not the offendor that he should not offend or wrong him, but God hath a thousand times admonisht, exhorted, intreated, threatned against offending of bim.

Second Concession.

2. I grant, though all Sins deserve eternal punishment, and though no Sins are Venial, yet that all Sins are not equal, nor do they deserve equal punishment. The Papists would willingly fasten this Stoical dotage upon us, of holding the equality of Sin (as did the Jovinianists of old) in requital for our maintaining the damnableness of all Sin; but what they say herein of us, is a meer flandering of us. This Calumny Dure- In eo calvius in his Eighth Book against our famous Whitaker (Quantum nomen!) nus peccara hath cast upon learned Calvin, That be held all Sins were equal, because quod omnia be held all were mortal. The like also saith Gautierus in his Chronological mortalia, & Table of the fourth Age, where speaking of the Fovinianists their ma- æternis digna king all Sins equal, he impudently tells us, Calvins Doctrine is conformable supplicits to those who held all Sins equal, because it makes them all mortal. But blest Dura. cont. sed Calvin both purgeth bimself from the Calumny, and confutes the whital. Lib.8. argument on which 'tis grounded, in the third Book of his Institutions, Non parum cap.4. by this invincible answer; Scio (saith he) quam inique Doctrinam conformis est nostram calumnientur, &c. I know how unjustly the Papists calumniate our vini, nolentis Doctrine; they say, By our making all Sins mortal and damnable, we set up audire peccathe Paradox of the Stoicks, of the equality of Sins; but (faith he) the very ta venialia sed Doctrine of the Papists themselves will fully clear us; for I demand omnia definiof them. Do they not acknowledg that among those Sins they call Mortal, there Gaut. Tab. is an inequality, and that one Mortal Sin is greater than another, and there- chron. sec. 4ti. fore they cannot charge me with making all Sins equal, because I hold they Scio quam are all Mortal. How is then the Doctrine of Equality of Sins, more to be inique Doctfathered upon Calvin, than upon the Papists themselves? 'Tis our confrant Doctrine, That Sins and their punishments are unequal, though all lumnientur. Sins are Mortal. We teach, Though all Sins deserve eternal punishment, Dicunt enim: yet not the same degree of eternal punishment, but some a lesser degree paradoxum than others. Though all Sins deserve a punishment extensively infinite esse Stoico-yet not intensively equal. We agree to that old expression of a mi-catorum ætim ardent nonnulli; the flames of Hell shall be less torturing to some, qualitate. Sed! than to others; for some, it will be more tolerable at the day of judgment suo ipsorum than for others; some are beaten with more others with fewer stripes. Luk. ore, nullo ne-12. 47, 48. As among the Jews there were several degrees of capital gotio convinpunishment for several offences, so are there in Hell several degrees of Quaro enim, punishment suted to the degrees of Sin. Of which truth the words of annon inter Christ, Mst. 5. 22, are a clear proof, which tell us of the punishment ea ipsa peccainsticted by the Judgment, which was the Consessus singularum Civitatum, talia fatentur, the Affembly belonging to every City, confifting of three and twenty, aliud alio maby whom the punishment inflicted was (according to the best Writers) jus agnoscant?? killing with the Sword. This will vet be clearer, if we duly confider the case to which Christ is speaking, concerning which we may thus understand Christ expressing himself: Hereto-Tres iracun- fore men bave been deter'd from murdering others, because the Law commands that murtherers (hould be cut off by the sword; But I would have totidem facit you take beed of anger, because that is to be punisht in the next world as severely as murder is punisht in this. See Grotius on the place. And hereby Bellarmines Cavil is answered, who to prove that all Sins are not Mor-Grat, p. 90,91. tal, and deserving eternal punishment in Hell, argues thus; Here are Non solum qui (saith he) two Temporal punishments less than that of Hell-fire; and because be is only guilty of Hell-fire who breaks out into fuch an outragious anger as to call his brother fool therefore the other degrees of anger are Venial Sins, as being only threatned with Temporal punishments. But this erroneous Sophister perverts the true sense of this Text, not considering that the true import thereof is this, That all the three degrees of anger here mentioned by our Saviour, are totidem homicidia, to many murders (as Parens speaks) and that the three degrees of punishment expressed here are three degrees unius specie pana of one punishment in kind and nature, pænam figni- which is eternal punishment in Hell, and that a lefs degree of torment in ficant Gehen-Hell is understood by the Judgment, than by the word Council, and a less by Council than by Hell-fire, and that all the three degrees of punishment here expressed by Christ, equally intend the punishment of the damum, capitalem ned in Hell, though not in equality of punishment to be inflicted on the poenam intel- offenders. Thus Ireneus of old interpreted this Text: Not only (faith ligit, per civi- he) is be guilty of killing to damnation, who kills his brother, but even he pænam, sem- who is angry with bim without a cause. So Saint Austin de verb. Domini; piternam ani-Omnes cruciabuntur, sed minus ille, minus ille; All shall be tormented, mæ mortem though some more, some less. Thus also Barradius and Maldonat, Bellarmines fellow-Jesuits, (though not greater Suphisters, yet better Exum qui irasci- positors than Bellarmine) interpret this Text, ingenuously confessing, tur, & eum qui That by Judgment and Council as well as by Hell-fire, the eternal death of fratrem found the Soul is to be understood, though with a gradual difference of the levem, & eum punishment. 3. My third Concession is this. Though no Sin be venial but every Sin deserves eternal death, yet no Sin of its own nature necessarily and infallibly pæna, non ea- damus, but the Sin against the Holy Ghost. All other Sins may possibly be pardoned, Mat. 12.31. every Sin that admits of Repentance, is pardonable. All Sins are remissible secluso finalis impanitentia respectu, which are not followed with final impenitence, as is that against the Holy Ghoft. Other Sins make a man liable to death, this pertinacicusty opp fite to the terms of life. This is that Sin unto death mentioned 1 Fob. 5.16 17.

And

And hereby the argument of Buly the Jesuite for Venial Sin is obviated, who from this Scripture, which mentions a Sin not unto death, and a fin that is unto death; argues, that some Sins are of their own nature venial, and not deserving death, though other Sins are mortal, and do deserve death. 'Tis true St. Fobn distinguisheth between a Sin not unto death; and a Sin unto death; but by both expressions he intends Sins mortiferous in their own nature, and such as deserve eternal death. By the Sin not unto death, he understands a Sin notwithstanding which, a man may avoid eternal death, and may be pardoned though it deserves eternal death; and by a Sin unto death he intends a Sin which who foever commits, can never be pardoned, and therefore can never escape eternal death; and hence he would not have such a Sinner as commits it, pray'd for. And that by the Sin not unto death he doth not mean a venial Sin that deferves not death, is plain from this very Text, where the Apostle saith, That life shall be given for them that have not fin'd unto death by the prayers of the faithful; but I defire to know why life should be given for him that fins not unto death, if his Sins were veniul & did not at all deserve death. Certainly the sin which the Apostle calls a fin not unto death, had meritoriously taken away the life of the Soul and so cannot be accounted venial, but in some. kind mortal; and 'tis as plain from the Text, that by the Sin which is unto death, the Apostle means not a Sin which is mortal, or only deserving death, as distinguisht from Venial Sin; because the Apostle forbids the praying for him that commits that sin which is unto death. Now if the Apostle forbids praying for him whose Sin is mortal, as only deserving death, then it would unavoidably follow that none should be pray'd for that commit mortal Sins or Sins deserving death, but only they who commit Venial Sins; which is contrary to Christs, both Precept and Example, who both commands us to pray for Persecuters, (and no Papist can deny that Persecution is a Mertal Sin.) and did himself, as also did after him that Blessed Martyr Stephen, pray for his Persecuters. And fo clearly true is this, that Bartholom eus Petrus a Papist, and Professor of Peccatum non Doway, in his Continuation of Estius's Comment on the Epistles, on ad mortem 1 70h. 5. 16. ingenuously confesseth, That by a Sin not unto death is to dicitur Apobe understood, a Sin from which a man may arise by repentance, and that stolo, quod est by a Sin unto death, we are to understand a Sin from which a man can mortale quinever arise by repentance. And that a Mortal Sin may be said to be not dem sed aginever arrie by repentance. And that a Mortal Sin thay be fall to be not tur ejus pocumo death, he illustrates by the speech of Christ concerning Lazarus's nitentia. Vide-Sickness. This Sickness (faith Christ) is not unto death; namely, because bitur hoc mi-Lazarus was to be recall'd to life, and so a Sin not unto death, is a Sin rum alicui, from which, and from death by which, a man may be recall'd; as a Sin quod peccatum quoddam unto death is a Sin from which, and from death by which, a man cannot mortale dica-

Lorin. in loe: Peccatum non ad mortema non potest peccatum significare veniale, cum enim dicat Johannes, Oranti pro peccato non ad mortem dandam ese vitam, plane indicat hoc peccatum non ad mortem, spiritualem vitam adimere, quod si spirituali vità destituitur qui peccat non ad mortem, mortisero scelere obstringatur, necesse est. Justin. in loc.

The fourth Concession.

4. My fourth Concession is this; Though no Sin be Venial in its own nature, and deferving of pardon, yet this binders not but that Sin is Venial by an extrinsick cause, namely, the grace and mercy of God in Christ. Though Venial Sins (as the Papists call them) in themselves are Mortal; yet Mortal Sins through Grace are Venial. All the Sins of the Elect, and of those in the state of Grace, are, though in themselves damnable, yet pardoned through Grace, and not damning. There is no condemnation to them (faith the Apostle) that are in Christ Fesus. Though the least Sin makes us guilty of damnation if God should deal with us strictly, and secundum legis rigorem, according to the rigour of the Law; yet the greatest cannot effect this guiltiness of damnation, where mercy through Christ is confer'd upon the most unworthy. Sins in themselves unworthy of pardon, are Venial to the guilty, ex benignitate judicis, by the goodness of na funt. Sunt the Judg, and remissible to the debtor, ex liberalitate Creditoris, by the bounty of the Creditor. Though ex peccati natura, every Sin excludes from Salvation; yet ex misericordia Dei, no Sin doth so. Though Sin be not exempted from desert of punishment, quia vindicari non debet; yet 'tis exempted, quia Deus vindicare nolit. Though not because it ought not to be punished; yet because God through Christ will not punish it.

And hence, 1. It follows, that as all the Sins of Reprobates are deadly, not only ex merito, because of their merit; but also ex eventu, and in the event, because no Sin is Venial in it self, but only by Gods mercy: So likewise, 2. That the reason why the Sins of the Regenerate exclude them not from the favour of God, is not from their own nature, but meerly from Gods mercy, all Sins deserving that exclusion. Yea, 3. Hence it follows, that though damnation be actually inflicted upon some for their Sins, viz. Unbelievers; yet remission and salvation may be bestow'd upon others, notwithstanding they have committed those very Sins for which others are damned. To Unbelievers Whoredom is damning, and excludes them from the Kingdom of God, Ephel. 5. 5; and yet Davids Adultery excluded not him from that Kingdom. The murdering of Christ was imputed to Indas and Pilate; and yet not to those Act. 2.23, 38. who seem Christ with wicked bands, whom Peter wills to repent, and be baptized, for the remission of sins. God pardoned Davids Adultery with Bathsheba, but might not Antonies with Cleopatra; Lois Incest was. Herods might not be forgiven. Solomons Idolatry was, and Feroboams might not be remitted. Yea hence I fear not to affert, that greater Sins may be pardon'd to some, when smaller may damn others: An idle word may destroy one, when Murder and Adultery may not another.

And this fully answers Bellarmines Argument for the Veniality of Sin. *Tis this, If all Sins be Mortal of their own nature, and only Venial to Believers, because of their Faith; then all Sins should be Mortal to Unbelievers. and Venial to Believers: But this (faith he) is false, that all Sins of Unbelievers should be Mortal and all Sins of Believers Venials for if they be Venial to Believers, then much more are they so to Unbelievers. But why so, O Cardinal? Because (saith he) the Sins of Believers are more grievous and bainous than the Sins of Unbelievers, as being committed against more light and love. Now this Argument is easily answer'd by my fourth Concellion. 'Tis not false that Sins though smaller in genere peccati, in the kind of Sin, should be Mortal to Unbelievers, and greater Sins Venial to Believers; for as they are Mortal to both of their own nature, so by accident, through the mercy of God, pardoning to Believers both their smaller and greater Sins, their Sins become Venial in the event; which accident being deficient to Unbelievers in their finning, Nequaquam eorum peccata facit venialia, sed ut sunt sinit mortalia; It makes not their Sins Venial, but leaves them as they are in themselves Mortal, as Fideles gravilearned Pareus in answer to Beliarmine. We grant (as Gerard expression per learned), that the pardoned Sins of Believers are more hainous than those peccant; ergo of Unbelievers; but hence it cannot be infer'd, that some Sins of Un-multo magis believers are Venial: For that the Sins of Believers are Venial, 'tis not venialiter from the nature of their Sins, but from the meer Grace of God par- peccant infidoning, and not imputing their Sins; and therefore to all Unbelievers peccantes; sic their Sins remain such as they are of their own nature, that is, Mortal or Bellarminus. Mortiferom. This also stops the mouth of that desperate or despairing Responder Papist Cotton, who thus argues, to hold that all Sins deserve eternal pure Pareus. Anserishment, and that none can live without Sin, is the ready way to drive est intellection. men to the precipice of despair, especially when dying (he should have um per se, ve-'Tis the ready way to drive the Priests, those silly runs est ex Quacks, into despair of purging the Purse with the pill of Purgato- accidenti, ry): But the answer is easie, This Argument only becomes those quibus ricordiam Dei Dei misericordia est ignota, (as Chamier speaks), who are strangers to venia delentis

tum, sed omnia peccata fidelium resipiscentium; quod accidens cum in peccatis infidelium desiciat, nequaquam ea venalia facit, sed mortalia finit, ur sunt sua natura omnia eorum peccata. Pareue contr.Bell.de amiss.Grat.c.11. Certum est renatos per peccata mortalia contra conscientiam commissa, gravius Deum offendere quam infideles, quibus tantum cognitionis lumen, ac tantus beneficiorum divinorum cumulus non obtigit; sed ex eo nondum inferri potest, quadam peccata infidelium esse sua natura venialia;quòd enim in renatis quædam sint venialia, id non est à natura peccatorum, sed ex solà Dei miserentis, & peccata non imputantis gratià. Ergo in non-renatis & insidelibus, omnia omnino peccata sunt & manent talia, qualia sunt ex natura sua, hoc est, mortalia. Gerh. loc. Com. de pec. act. p.306.

not the smalness of Sin, but the greatness of Christ, that saves us. This pitiful Papist draws a damnable conclusion from a Divine principle. The principle & No sin is Venial; therefore (saith he) despair; but therefore fay we, believe, go out to Christ for free remission through his blood, whereby all Sin Mortal in its nature, is Venial to the Believer. And let me tell thee (O thou blind Papist) though thou finnest much in making Sin small, yet thou sinnest more in making my Saviour so. I shall conclude this fourth Concession, with manifesting the consent herein of the learnedest of the Papilts with our Protestant Divines. Aquious saith. debetur pæna Eternity of punishment is due to every Sin of the unregenerate, ratione conditionis subjecti, in respect of the state of him that commits it, who mants that Grace whereby Sin is only remitted. And Cajetan upon those words of Aquinas tells us that Grace is the only fountain whence floweth remission of Sin, and nothing maketh Sin venial or remissible, but to be in Grace; and that nothing maketh Sin irremissible and not venial, but the being out of a State of Grace; and that which maketh Sin Venial or not Venial, is the state of the subject wherein 'tis found. For if we respect the nature of Sin as 'tis in it self, it will remain (without grace) eternally in stain and guilt, and so will subject the Sinner to eternal punishment, and is mortal. So that remissibility or irremissibility of Sins must not be considered according to the sins themselves, but according to the subjects being or not being in the state of Grace. Fisher Bishop of Rochester, though a most bitter adversary to Sola gratia est Luther, yet concerning the Veniality of Sin, he thus speaks to Luther; principlum In this that Sin is Venial by the mercy of God, I am, Luther, wholly of thy mind. Azorius confesseth, That the remission of Venial Sin is of a free and

Thus far are our Concessions concerning the Veniality of Sin, or our 2d. Branch. of granting what is not to be denied, which was the first part of my Explication; I come now to the second Branch of Explication, which is to be by way of Negation, or denial of what is not to be granted. Agnoscimus quorundam doxus, against Baily the Jesuite upon this occasion, That there are some who de alieno corio sunt liberales, cut large thongs out of an Hide that's none of their own, That (he means) of Gods mercy; who measure Gods judgment according to their own rule; and like foolish debtors will be judges of their own cause against their Creditor. That guilty Malefactor (saith he gravely) is unwife, who extenuates his fault before his Judg to whom his whole cause is known; nor is it less imprudent to diminish our Sins before that God, who can both convincere & cogere, convince us of our debts; and compel us to make satisfaction. Bellarmine then and his Complices are none of the wifelt or honestell, who dictate to us, that some Sins are so light and little, that they deserve no eternal punishment, but are Venial; i. Some in genere suo, in their kind of Sin, as when the Will is carried out to that, which contains in it felf a kind of inordination indeed, but yet such as is not contrary either to the love of God or our Neighbour, as an officious lie, or an idle word; and that, 2. Somé Sins are Venial ex imperfectione operis, by the imperfection of the work : and these (saith Bellarmine) are of two forts; 1. Some are Venial ex surreptione, Vid. Bellar. 1.1. by their unexpected stealth and creeping into the Soul, and these are sud. de amis. Grat. den motions of lusts, anger, revenge, &c. which get into the mind before cap. 3. reason can deliberate, whether they are to be admitted or no; and so they are not perfecte voluntaria, have not the full confent of the Will. 2. Other Sins are Venial by the imperfection of the matter, ex parvitate materia, which are committed in a light and small matter; as the stealing of an balf-peny, which neither hurts our Neighbour, nor destroys Love. Against these we oppose, That there's no Sin but deserves evernal punishment per propriam naturam & intrinsecam rationem, by its own proper Vid. Medin. in? and intrinsecal nature. As the least drop of water is water, as truly as 1, 2.2.88.a.1. the whole Sea, so the least Sin is as truly Sin as the greatest; and the Durand q.6. least Sin according to the rigour of the Law deserves an everlasting pe-Dicendum nalty. The imperfection of Sin as to degree, takes not away from it est ut docueeither the reason of Sin, or the merit of penalty, as Medina, Azorius, runt Durandus. Durand, and others confess. Azorius tells us from Durand, Vega, Cajetan; Vega, veniale That the Law of God forbids Venial Sins even all Sin both great and small; peccatum est and that the Arguments of the Protestants prove, that Venzal Sin is a- quidem congainst the Law of God. To which I add, that it implys a gross contradiction quia revera to say that the least Sin should be said to be a Sin, and yet to be Venial and lex Dei prodeserve pardon; for if it deserves pardon; then also freedom from punish- hibet & grament, and if freedom from punishment, then it hath no guilt, and if it via & levia, idhave no guilt, then it is no Sin. Most true is that speech of Alten- quod adversastrig, in his Lexicon Theologicum; Nullum peccatum habet rationem ad menta commerendam veniam, imo potius demeretur; Sin as Sin cannot deserve to be probarunt. pardoned, but it deserves not to be pardoned. Nor can Bellarmine with his Azor. Inft. Mor. it, is not perfectly a Law, and hath notperfectly rationem legis: But this is false (to say no worse): For that Law truly binds the Conscience to perform et, and therefore 'tis truly a Law; and that it truly binds the Conscience, is clear, both because it is made by him who hath jus leges condendi, a right of making Laws, and also because it hath a sanction, a threat, viz. the giving an account; and condemnation also, Mat. 12.31. And when Bellarmine argues that Sins which he calls venial ex surreptione, by stealth into the Soul unawares, are not perfectly voluntary, and therefore are venial; 1. 'Tis acutely observed by the learned Chamier, That a sin may be by surreption, or inconsiderateness, and yet it may be voluntary voluntati, sed also, surreption not being properly opposed to voluntarin s, but to election, THE RECEIPTORS, when upon weighing of circumstances a thing is chosen; for it often falls out, that the will is carried to a thing, though by a sudden and inconsiderate mooni, cum omnibus cognitis, tion, as Peter deny'd Christ with his will, though suddenly, and inconsiderately, and yet thereby Peter committed a mortal fin: And though a Sin of circumtantiis, unum elisurreption be not voluntary in the highest degree, yet is it with a true and proper consent, (as Ames speaks). 2. But besides, the nature of Sin, gitur denique; its formale or that wherein it consists, is not its voluntarines, but its transnam sæpe accidit ut motu gression of the Law. The Law of the Creator, not the will of the creature, is the Rule of right andwrong. Voluntarin Baggravates, but involuntariness excuseth not Sin. 3. Tis excellently observed by the learned Davead aliquid fe- nant, That may be said to be voluntary, not only which is committed with an express and actual willingness, but that which is not hindred by the will ratur; ut voluntate Petrus when it is bound to binder it; but the will is bound to command its reason, that it should be wakeful and watchful, to suppressall the motions of inordinate concupiscence. 4. Further, doth not the Law prohibit and condemn all affections and motions, whether deliberate or by surreption and indeliberate and hence it was, s. That holy Paul complaining of the Sin that dwelt Iraque & hac in him, Rom. 7.19. was afficied, not only for the deliberate motions of fin. quoq; quæ per but also for those that were indeliberate and involuntary; and would be furreptionem fiunt, volunta- have mourned under them, if they had not been sinful? 1. 6. c. 10. Est voluntarium non quidem in summo gradu, sed vero & proprio consensu, Ames, Bellarm. Eneru: de pec. ven. pag. mihi 16. Voluntarium reputatur, non modò quod expressa & actuali voluntate committitur,sed quod ab ipsa voluntate non impeditur, quando tenetur impedire. Tenetur autem voluntas imperare rationi, ut pervigil fit in comprimendis omnibus inordinatæ concupifcentiæ motibus. Davenant Q. 31. Determ. p, mibi, 145.

> And when Bellarmine argues for the Veniality of Sin from the parvitas materia, the smalness and slightness of the matter in which Sin is committed, as the stealing of an half-penny, or a penny; I wish he had remembred, That

That according to this Doctrine, if Bellarmine should steal a Peny from his poor Neighbour ten thousand several times, he should not yet after all commit a Mortal Sin; fince if the stealing of one penny be but a venial Vid. Petrum Sin, ten thousand Venial Sins cannot make up or amount to one Mortal Molineum in Sin. Besides, the smalness of the matter in which a sin is committed, is Tresibus Sedafo far from extenuating, that it often aggravates the fin committed; nenfilms. as tis a greater fin to murder a man for Sixpence than for an hundred pounds, to deny my flarving Friend a peny-Loaf, than twenty Seam of Wheat; and thus Divines commonly aggravate Adams Sin by his breaking the Command of God in so small a matter as was the forbidden fruit. And whereas Bellarmine tells us that the stealing of an halfpeny or a peny is not against the Law, because (saith he) Lex non diferte prohibet furtum oboli. The Law doth not expressy mention any prohibition of stealing an balf-peny or a peny. What if I should ask Cardinal Robert, whether the Law any where expressly forbids the stealing of a thoufand pounds? and whether the stealing of such a Sum is therefore noz against the Law, because the Law expressly forbids it not? Doth not the general prohibition of Theft contain under it, all the kinds of Theft? Doth not this Command, Thou shalt not steal, forbid the stealing of any thing that is anothers, whether the thing be great or small? even as the Law forbidding Adultery, forbids that Sin with any Woman, noble or ignoble, rich or poor, bond or free. In the overthrow of Fericho it was not John. 6. 19. expressy forbidden to steal a Babilonish Garment, or two hundred Shekels 7, 221. of Silver, or a Wedg of Gold; and yet because of the general prohibition Achan dyed for stealing that Garment, the two hundred Shekels of Silver, and the Wedg of God. Besides, that which violates one apex or tittle of the Law, breaks the Law and offends God. How deeply holy Anstin was humbled for stealing of an Apple, though stoln when he was a Child, appears by his Confessions. Surely in Bellarmines Divinity, Adams taking but an Apple, and that from his Wife, was but a Venial fault. In Military Discipline, a Souldier is hang'd for stealing of a Trifle, or of what is of a very inconfiderable value. The stealing of the least thing is against a great both Command and Commander. And whereas Bellarmine argues, that the stealing of so small a thing as an half-peny, burts not our Neighbour, and therefore tis Venial and not forbidden; Its answered, the Law forbids not only the burting of our Neighbour, in forbidding to Steal, but it forbids the violation of Justice too. Law forbids inward lust, but how doth inward lust hurt our Neighbour? God in his Commands respects his own purity as well as our mortally in Neighbours utility. Further, 'tis evident that the veniality of a Sin selling their committed against our Neighbour, cannot be gathered from its not Brother, burting him *; for in many Cases even Bellarmine will grant that a sin though by against our Neighbour is damnable, though it hurt not our Neighbour him, he was at all, yea though it prove very profitable and advantageous to him. Take highly advanan instance in this true Story. A worthy Physician, some years since, ced.

Still I follow Bellarmine, urging this Argupectorant, aut ment, That the stealing so small a thing opposeth not Charity to man, or Love to God. I answer, though a small Thest do not expectorare or expugnare charitatem (as Doctor Davenant expresseth it) destroys not Love & Charity, yet it doth pugnare cum illa perfecta charitate, oppose that perfect Love and Charity which the Law requireth; and it ariseth from that inordinate lust which the Law forbids, and which is contrary both to the Law and Love which the Law requireth. I add herein lyes the great militake of Bellarmine in this point; in that he judgeth of the nature of mortal Sin by the extinction of charity, whereas it confifts in any illa inordina- swerving or declination from the Law of God, and Charity. And when Bellarmine argues, That precepta de minimis non sunt proprie precepta; centia qua est Commands concerning the least things, are not properly Commands: Besides that full answer I have formerly given, as to proving those Commands are most truly Commands, I cannot but here subjoyn that smart Expression of Gerard, who tells Bellarmine, thus arguing, Satan himself was deficient in this Piece of Bellarmines Sophistry; and that Satan could not more speciously have covered his temptation to the eating the forbidden Fruit, than by faying, Tush, this is but a little Command, about a Trifle, an Apple, and naturam mor- indeed 'tis properly no Command at all. But this bold Sophister perverts this Text, and plays too faucily with a most serious and fevere Scripture. For by the last mite or farthing we must not understand sins, but the punishments due to fins, and the minutissimas partes panarum, the smallest parts of punishment in Hell. 'Tis but a wretched shift of Bellarmine, when he tells us that his venial or leffer fins, are not contra, but only prater legem, not against, but only besides the Law; by which distinction, this blasphemous Sophister not only falls foul upon Andrew L. 4. de justif. de Vega, and other Papists, (whom he very roundly reproves for grant- c. 14. ing that venial fins are properly against the Law, telling them, That upon that Principle, they can never mantain the possibility of a perfect impletion of the Law, because (as he saith) they can never get off cleverly from that Scripture (be that offends in one is guilty of all); but which is worse, Jam. 2, 10. he audaciously wounds the purity and perfection of the Divine Law, to Videndum est shelter his venial sins. I shall only chastise the intolerable insolence of this Popeling by asking him one question, and 'tis but this, What proportion is there between eternal death, and the eating a morfel of Flesh in Lent, or a Womans spinning a Yard of Thread on an holy day. Arg. 1. No Fault is Venial in it felf, that deserves eternal death:

But every Sin deserves eternal death:

Therefore no Sin in it self is Venial.

The first Proposition or mijor is granted by the Papists, who tell us that the nature of Sins Veniality, stands in its not deserving eternal death; and therefore no Sin is Venial that deserves eternal death.

The minor or fecond Proposition, viz: that every Sin deserves eternal.

death, I shall clearly prove by Scriptures and reason.

1. By Scriptures; and I shall name three. The first is that which I named for my Text, Rom. 6.23. The mages of Sin is death. The second is, Ezek. 18.4. The soul that sinneth shall die. The third is that of Deut. 27.26. Cursed be be that continues not in all the words of this Law, &c. To these Scriptures Bellarmine answers, but very miserably.

To that of Rom. 6.23. The mages of Sin is death; Bellarmine anfivers, That when Paul saith, The mages of Sin is death; 'tis only meant of Mortal Sin, and thus is he to be understood, The mages of Mortal Sinis death. But I answer, with as good reason, in all the places of Scripture, wherein we are dehorted from Sin, he may cast this shameful gloss upon them, and say, that we are in them, dehorted not from all Sin but only from Mortal Sin; as when the Scripture saith, eschemevil;

Bell irmine may add this gloss, and say, we are not forbidden to shun all.

There, evil, but only Mrtal evil. And so when Paul saith, abstain from all appearance of evil; that is, as Bellarmine expounds it, abstain from all appearance of evil;

Rom. 12. 9. pearance of Mortal evil; and Ram. 12. 9. abbor that which is evil; i.e. Mortal evil; yea when we pray to be deliver'd from evil, that with Bellirmines comment, is only Mortal evil, not all fin. But further I would ask any Papift, only these two easie questions, it. What is the meaning of these words, Rom. 6.23. [The mages of fin is death?] The Papist will anfwer, by these words, the Apostle means sthat Sin deserves death. Let Bone- Sempiteral did Julinian the Jesuit upon Rom. 6.23. speak for all, who gives it thus, cruciatus pecby the desert of sin, eternal punishments are inflicted. 2. I demand, What is the cati merito meaning of this word [mertal] when Bellarmine thus expounds this Esned. Just. in Text, the wages of [mortal] Sin is death? All the Papills with Bellarmine Romas, p. 191. readily answer, that the meaning of a mortal Sin, is a Sin that deferves death. Now, Reader, be pleas'd to add to the Apostles Proposition the wages of fin is death, that is, Sin deserves death, Bellarmines Expolition, the wages of [moreal] Sin is death; That is, of a Sin that deserves death, and Pauls Proposition will be turn'd into a gross Tautology and be made to speak thus, Sin deserveth death that deserveth death; a wretched depravation of the facred Text, whereby they shew that rather than they will renounce a gross error, they will make the divinely-inspired Apostle, to speak gross non-sense. Besides, 'tis evident that in this sixth Chapter to the Romans, the Apostle dehorts the converted Romans from all Sin; particularly, v.2. God forbid that we should continue in fin; and how shall me live any longer therein. Now will any dare so wretchedly to interpret Paul, as to say that the Christians are here dehorted only from some Sins, and not from all? If any would offer so to expound the Apostle, I would instantly stop his mouth by two Arguments taken from the Context, wherein the Apostle disswades from Sin v. 3: 1. By a reason taken from being baptized into the death of Christ; now when we are so baptized, is not all Sin washt away and destroyed? And 2. the Apostle useth another reason to disswade from continuing in Sin, and that is, the confideration of their former yielding themselves to Sin; Whence he argues, They ought now as much to serve Righteousness as formerly they had ferved Sin, v.19; whence 'twill follow, That as they had formerly served not only greater but smaller Sins, so now they ought to cast off the latter as well as the former even all Sin whatsoever. Now if Paul by these two Arguments dehorts from all Sin, why should he not then do so by this next Argument, viz. the iffue of Sin, the wages of Sin is death?

As to that place of Ezek. 18.4. The foul that sinnerb, it shall die; Bellarmine answers. The Prophet only intends that threat against Mortal Sins, grievous and hainous abominations, not against smaller Sins which he calls Venial. But he abuseth the Scripture, for the Prophet there fetting down the standing rule of Divine Justice, that none should die but for his own Sins, makes no exception of leffer Sins from being within the compass of that Commination, not saying the Soul that grievously fins, but the Soul that fins, shall die. Universe dictum est, 'tis universally exprest as Pareus notes; but to put all cut of doubt, that leffer as well as greater fins, are threatned to be punisht with death by the Prophet, 'tis plain from the 31. uers. of that Chapter, where the Prophet plainly declares his meaning to be of Sin in general without any restriction; Cast away from you (saith he) ALL your transgressions, and make you a new heart, for why will ye die? All Sins therefore which opposed a new heart, are they commanded to cast away, and are here clearly discovered to be deadly.

To that place of Deut. 27. 26. Curfed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this Law to do them; Bellsrmine still gives the old answer: By the words of this Law (faith he) are not meant the words of the whole Law; as if God had threatned a curse against all Sins in general, but only of Mortal Sins, some groffer Sins of Murder, Incest, Idolatry, &c. But this is a curled gloss put upon a Divine curse; for the words here used, the words of this Law, are the same with those of Verse the 8th. where the very same expression the words of this Law, intend the words of the whole Law; and evident it is that here all those Sins are intended which are opposed to Legal Righteonsness, Do this and live; but such are all Sins in general. But the Apostle whom I ever took for a better Expositor of Scripture than either Bellarmine or the Pope, leaves no place for dispute in this matter, who Gal. 3. 10. citing this very place of Deuteronomy, denounceth the Curfe, not against those that commit some gross Sins against some part of the Law, but against those that continue not in all things that are written in the book of the Law; i.e. those that commit any Sin whatever.

Thus I have made good by Scripture this Proposition, viz. Every Sin deserves eternal death. I shall now proceed to prove it by two Rea-

Jons; the first whereof is this:

Every Transgression of the Law deserves eternal death;

Every Sin is a Transgression of the Law: Therefore every Sin deserves eternal death.

The fecond Proposition, or minor, That every Sin is the transgression of the Law, is contained in the express words of Scripture, I fob. 3. 4. where Sin is called the transgression of the Law, from which every Sin is a swerving, and thence hath its both nature and name also; and etis granted by the learnedst among the Papists, that all Sins, even Venial are against the Law; so Durand, Gerson, Vega, Azorius, Cajetan, with others. And Augustin's old definition of Sin, that etis distum, fastum concupitum contra legem; that Sin is that which is either said, done, or desir'd against the Law, falls in with them, or rather they with it; and therefore Bellarmines distinction of some Sins that are only prater, beside, and not contra, against the Law is grossly salls; for if all Sins are forbidden by, all Sins are contrary to, the Law.

The major or first Proposition, That every transgression of the Law deserves eternal death, is most certain : But I prove it thus.

Whatever deserves the Curse of the Law, deserves eternal death; but every Transgression of the Law deserves the Curse of the Law: Therefore every Transgression of the Law deserves eternal death.

The

The major or first Proposition cannot be deny'd unless we will hold that the Curse of the Law, only contains temporal evils, which is horridly false, for if that were true, then Christ hath not delivered us from eternal death by delivering us from the Curse of the Law.

The minor or second Proposition, That every Transgression of the Law deserves the Curse of the Law, I prove from that clear and full Scripture. Gal. 3. 10. Cursed is every one that continues not in all things that are written in the Book of the Law to do them. According to the rigor of the Law, the least breach thereof makes us cursed, and this was the Laws unsupportable burden, that when we were bound to do all things in the Law, and were unable to do them, we were yet cursed for not doing them.

2. My second reason to prove that every Sin deserves eternal death is this;

That which deserves an infinite punishment deserves eternal death; but every Sin deserves an infinite punishment: Therefore every Sin deserves eternal death.

The major or first Proposition is deny'd by none, there being no infinity of punishment mention'd, or imagin'd, but in that call'd in Scripture eternal death.

The minor or second Proposition, that every Sin deserves an infinite punishment, I thus prove:

If Christ laid down an infinite price to redeem us from every Sin, then every Sin deserves an infinite punishment; but Christ laid down an infinite price to redeem us from every Sin:

Therefore every Sin deserves an infinite punishment.

The consequence is evident, That if Christ laid down an infinite price for every Sin, then every Sin deserves an infinite punishment, because it had been an unjust exacting of punishment upon Christ, had there been required of him the laying down of an infinite price for a finite evil, that required only a finite punishment to be inflicted for it.

The minor or second Proposition, viz. That Christ laid down an infinite price to redeem us from every Sin, is undeniable by those that will neither deny Scriptures nor Catechisms: For that Christ redeem'd us by an sinfinite price, hath not only the consent, but 'tis the ground of the comfort of all Christians. Infinites persons facit infinitatem pretii, an infinite person made the price of infinite value. And that Christ laid down this infinite price for all Sins, is with the like consent and comfort embraced by all that believe the Scriptures aright, which abound in Texts that express it, Psal. 130. ult. He shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities. I Joh. 1.7. The blood of Christ cleanseth from all Sin.

Tit. 2. 14. He gave himself that he might redeem us from all iniquity. Thence Hs. 14. 2. 'twas a prayer of Faith, Take away all iniquity; and Isa. 53. 10. The Lord hath laid upon him the iniquity of us all; and Joh. 1. 19. The Lamb of God that takes away the sin of the World; and Mat.

2. 24. Belli l'ave his people from their fins; from every Sin, and every Sin perfectly.

2d. Arg.

My second Argument to prove that no Sin is venial, is this:

What soever is contrary to the loving of God with the whole heart, is not Venial but Mortiferous;

But every Sin is contrary to the loving of God mith our whale heart:

Therefore every Sin is Mortal, and so not Venial.

The first Proposition or major is undeniable; because he that loves not God with his whole heart, sias against the express words of the command, Mat. 22. 37. And the loving God with all the heart, is call'd the great command, and is preser'd before the love of our neighbour by Christ, Mat. 22. 38, 39. Since therefore there are many commands of love to our neighbour, which cannot be violated but we must needs Sin mortally (as the Papists grant), twill evidently follow, That a transgression of the command of loving God with all the heart, must needs he a Mortal Sin.

The second Proposition or minor, That every Sin opposeth the loving of God with all the heart, and that whoever lins, loves not God with all the heart, is as true as the former.

Beliarmine therefore dares not here answer by denying this truth abfolutely; but by a lame and lamentable distinction, he answers here,

That to love God with all the heart, may be taken two ways:

Non Prælatione. 1. To love God so intirely and persectly as that nothing is prefer'd before Gods love; and this love of God (saith Bellarmine) is both the meaning of the command, and such alone also which Venial Sins do not oppose. -.

Non Admissi-

2. To love God so perfectly as that a man is so wholly taken up with the love of God, that no sinful and vicious thought at any time can creep or steal into a persons heart: But (saith Bellarmine) such a love of God as this, is not commanded in this life, and this love of God he confesses is opposed by Venial Sins. For answer to this impious distinction of Bellarmine, 'tis both most false and frivolous.

1. As he tells us that 'tis not necessary to the love of God with all the foul, that all vicious thoughts be hindred from admission into a man; for this is clearly oppos'd not only by St. Austin of old, but by others,

Diliges Deum even Papists of late. St. Austin tells us, That to love God with all the extoto corde, the Soul, is to confer all the life, thoughts and understanding upon him, from ma, se ex tota whom we have them all, and to suffer no part of the life to give way to be mente; i.e. willing to enjoy any thing else, but whatsoever else comes into the mind to be omnes cogi-tationes, omnem vitani, & omnem intellectum in illum conferas, à quo habes ea ipsa que confers. Quum autem ait toto corde, totà animà, tota mente, nullam vitæ nostræ partem reliquit, que vacare debet, & quasi locum dare, ut alià re velit srui; sed quicquid aliud diligendum venerit in animum, illuc rapiatur quo totius dilectionis impetus currit. loved, is to be carried thither: Victor expresseth it thus; Al man , havill mominem burn with so hat a love to God, that nothing should creep into any faculty tanto Dei aof the Soul, that either diminishablove to God, or carries it any whither more flagrace else. Anselm excellently thus, on Mat. 22. In the Underst inding no plice monstrat, ut is to be left for Error; in the Will nothing is to be willed contrary to God in nihil prorfus. the whole memory nothing is to be remembred whereby we may the leff in ullam anithink of bim. Q.24: Art.12.

Alvarez expressy opposeth Bellarmine in these words; To love God Diligere Deis to admit nothing into the beart contrary to God. Theophylact most fully; um cft nihil To love God with all the heart is to cleave to him with all the parts and fa- in corde diculties of the Soul; to give our selves wholly to God, and to subject the nu-vinæ dilectioni contraritritive, sensitive, and rational siculty to his love. Now according to um admit these Explications of the Love of God, the least Sins (which Papists tere. Alwarer call Venial) are contrary to it; for in them there's not a pleasing of Lib.6. de Aux. God in all things, not a forfiking of all things contrary to his will; yea in div. Grat: dip. these Venial Sins there's an admission of a contrary and un'awful Love of Ayanav 7070 the Creature into the heart, and not a total subjecting thereof to seed so di-XW5. 78 0 4582 God ...

But secondly, in every Venial Sin, there's the preferring of something. before God, and therefore a manifett transgressing of the Law of loving God. As to a formal and explicite preferring the Creature before God; so as to account the Creature a more excellent Good than God is, this all those do not, that live in the groffest and most mortal wickednesses, (as the Papilts acknowledg); for men may live even in the hainous Sinof Persecution; and yet think thereby they serve and set up God: But. as to a virtual and interpretative preferring the Creature before God, this men do in the least Sins, they carrying themselves so as if the Creature were to be prefer'd before God, they fearing not for the love of. the Creature to offend God; and injuriously to his Justice, to break his Commandments. And how may a man be said to shew by his carriage; more respect to the Creature than to God; if not by breaking the Come mands of God and contemning bis will for the Creature. To thun the dint of this Answer, the Papills are forced to this wretched shift, which's plainly declares his meaning to be of Sin in general without any restriction; Cast away from you (saith he) ALL your transgressions, and make you a new heart, for why will ye die? All Sins therefore which opposed a new heart, are they commanded to cast away, and are here clearly discovered to be deadly.

To that place of Deut. 27. 26. Curfed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this Law to do them; Bellarmine still gives the old answer: By the words of this Law (saith he) are not meant the words of the whole Lam; as if God had threatned a curse against all Sins in general, but only of Mortal Sins, some groffer Sins of Murder, Incest, Idolatry, &c. But this is a curfed gloss put upon a Divine curse; for the words here used, the words of this Law, are the same with those of Verse the 8th. where the very same expression the words of this Law, intend the words of the whole Law; and evident it is that here all those Sins are intended which are opposed to Legal Righteonsness, Do this and live; but such are all Sins in general. But the Apostle whom I ever took for a better Expositor of Scripture than either Bellarmine or the Pope, leaves no place for dispute in this matter, who Gal. 3. 10. citing this very place of Deuteronomy, denounceth the Curfe, not against those that commit some gross Sins against some part of the Law, but against those that continue not in all things that are written in the book of the Law; i.e. those that commit any Sin whatever.

Diliges Deum even Papists of late. St. Austin tells us, That to love God with all the ex toto corde, the Soul is to confer all the life, thoughts and understanding upon him, from & ex totà animà, & ex totà whom we have them all, and to suffer no part of the life to give way to be mente; i.e. willing to enjoy any thing elfe, but whatfoever elfe comes into the mind to be omnes cogi-

tationes, omnem vitam, & omnem intellectum in illum conferas, à quo habes ea ipsa quæ confers. Quum autem ait toto corde, tota anima, tota mente, nullam vitæ nostræ partem reliquit, quæ vacare debet, & quasi locum dare, ut alià re velit frui; sed quicquid aliud diligendum venerit in animum, illuc rapiatur quo totius dilectionis impetus curtit. Alvarez expresly opposeth Bellarmine in these words; To love God Diligere Deis to admit nothing into the beart contrary to God. Theophylast most fully; um oft nihil? To love God with all the heart is to cleave to him with all the parts and fa- in corde diculties of the Soul; to give our felves wholly to God, and to subject the nu-vinæ dilection in contrari-tritive, sensitive, and rational faculty to his love. Now according to um admirthese Explications of the Love of God, the least Sins (which Papists tere. Alvarez call Venial) are contrary to it; for in them there's not a pleasing of Lib.6. de Aur. God in all things, not a for siking of all things contrary to his will; yea in div. Grat: dip. these Venial Sins there's an admission of a contrary and un'awful Love of Ayanar 7072 the Creature into the heart, and not a total subjecting thereof to ged in the God .. But secondly, in every Venial Sin, there's the preferring of something. before God, and therefore a manifest transgressing of the Law of loving God. As to a formal and explicite preferring the Creature before God; so as to account the Creature a more excellent Good than God is, this all those do not, that live in the groffest and most mortal wickednesses. (as the Papists acknowledg); for men may live even in the hainous Sinof Persecution, and yet think thereby they serve and set up God: But. as to a virtual and interpretative preferring the Creature before God, this men do in the least Sin; they carrying themselves so, as if the Creature were to be prefer'd before God, they fearing not for the love of. the Creature to offend God, and injuriously to his Justice, to break his Commandments. And how may a man be said to shew by his carriage, more respect to the Creature than to God; if nor by breaking the Come mands of God and contemning bis will for the Creature. To thun the dint of this Answer, the Papists are forced to this wretched shift, which is to answer; That he who sins Venially, prefers not the Creature before God, because he knows that Venial Sins will not dissolve that knot of love and friendship between God and him. But what a pittiful excuse is this for Venial Sin, since (as Baronius well observes, pag. 106. de pec. ven.) They who commit Venial Sins, thinking these Sins will not dissolve the favour of God, either think such Sins are so light and flight that they deserve not the dissolution of Gods favour; or they think though they do deserve that dissolution, yet that God will deal fo graciously with them, as that for such Sins, he will not exclude them from his favour: If they think that they do not deferve the diffolution of Gods favour, they grofly err, yea grievously sin against God, by judging their Sins to be light and little, and by a bold fixing of limits to Gods Justice; as if God could not justly punish their Sins with that penalty which he tells us they deserve: But if they think that their Sins do deserve the dissolving of Gods favour, and that it is meerly from the Grace of God that they who commit them, are not excluded from it; then it follows, That they for the love of the Creature offending God by these Sins, prefer the Creature before God and his favour; for whosoever for any Creature, dares do that which may justly exclude him from Gods favour, doth prefer the Creature before the favour of God: Nor doth their knowledg that these Sins do not exclude them from the favour of God, when yet they will commit them, extenuate or excuse their contempt of Gods favour, of which they are guilty, but contrarily it aggravates that contempt; fince though they know 'tis by Gods Grace and favour that their smaller Sins do not exclude them from his Love and Mercy, yet they abuse the Clemency and Goodness of God to a licentiousness in Sin, which is almost the highest contempt of Divine favour imaginable.

My third Argument to prove, That no Sin is Venial, or deserving to be pardon'd, shall be drawn from the nature of pardon; whence I thus

Arg. 3.

An opinion that overthrows the nature of Gods pardoning of Sin, is impious and erroneous; But this opinion that some Sins are Venial and deserve to be pardoned, doth thus overthrow the nature of Gods pardon-(1 () 1 (ing of Sin:

Therefore this opinion is impious and erroneous.

The major or first Proposition is evident.

The minor or fecond Proposition I prove thus: If pardoning of Sin deligns an act of free Grace and favour, in pardoning, which God according to strict justice, might not have done; and if the Doctrine of Sins Veniality and deserving to be pardoned, makes pardoning an act of justice. fo that God cannot but in justice do it; then the opinion of Sins Veniality overthrows the Doctrine of Divine pardon:

But the pardoning of Sin designs an act of free Grace and favour, which God might not have done unless he had pleas'd, and the Doctrine to the first to be a first three to be a feet to be of Sins Veniality makes the pardoning of Sin an act of Fustice which God cannot but do; therefore the Popish Doctrine of Venial Sin, overthrows the Doctrine of Divine pardon.

The Major or first Proposition is evident, and will be granted by all. The Minor or second I prove thus in both its parts. As to its first part, 'tis most manifest that pardon designs an act of free Grace and favour; 'tis needless to multiply Scriptures (which to do were most easie) in so clear a point; Ephes. 1. 7. Forgiveness of sin according to bis grace. Misericordia Pfal. 51. 1. According to thy mercy blot out my transgressions. I Tim. 1.13. donatus sum.

I obtained mercy, (faith pardoned Paul.)

For the second part of the Minor, that the Doctrine of the Papists about the Veniality of Sin, makes the pardoning of Sin an act of justice, which God cannot but do if he will do justly, is no slander cast upon the Papists in this Point. I pray let them be judg'd in this case, by their own confessions. The Council of Mentz professeth (as we heard) That Bin. Tom. 9. they cannot understand how God should be just, if he punish any for Venial Sins c. 46. with eternal punishment. Sonnius, the Papist I mean, tells us that Venial Sin is Venia dignum, Venial Sin is worthy of pardon. And Bellarmine, That they hold with a general consent, that Venial Sins make not a man injustum est guilty of eternal death; and he afferts with intolerable blasphemy, That punire pecca-God should be unjust if he punisht Venial Sins eternally; justice requiring a ta venialia forbearance to punish that offence which deserves not punishment. From all pona aterna: which it follows, that Divine pardon is so far from being an act of free Lib. 1. de Amiss: Grace in the account of a Papist, that when he recites his Pater Nofter, if his Devotions agree with his Doctrines, he may rather fay, Lord pay us,

My fourth Argument shall be taken from Christ his rejecting of this 4. Arg. Pharifaical depravation of the Law of God, that some commands of the Law, and some Sins against those commands are so small and slight that God will not require a perfect fulfilling of the Law, as to leffer and smaller commands, nor the necessary avoiding of such Sins as are against those smaller commands. The words of Christ are these, Mat. 5. 18. Till Heaven and Earth pass away, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the Law, till all be fulfill'd. The Lord Christ by these words wherein he shews 'tis impossible that any thing in the Law, though accounted never to small, should pass from it, but all must be fulfill'd with a perfect Satisfaction, opposeth the Pharifees; who taking it for granted, that there was necessarily required to righteousness and life, a perfect fulfilling of the Law, and yet finding that it was impossible to keep the minutissima legis, as to abstain from all sinful inward motions in the mind and heart, from every idle word, &c. to have such a perfect conformity to the Law, that there should be no lusting contrary to it, coyned this distinction, that some of the commands of the Law were small, and some great; and though none could in those little commands against finful motions of the heart, perfectly satisfie the Law, yet if he kept the great Command-

Christus fortitlimè negat esse quadam mandata in lege ita minuta, quæ. Deus non multum curat, quorum etiam impleantur, da ratio in Natuendâ justitia legis coram Deo: fectissimam legis impletifariam. esse dat,ne unum quidem literæ apicem cadere pronuntiat, quod

Commandments of the Law, concerning outward alls and works of the Law, he should be just before God; since those Commands of little things were but little Commands, and therefore would not condemn a manfor transgressing of them provided that he perform'd the external works commanded in those great Commands. Now Christ vehemently denies that there are any commands of the Law fo small and minute, as that God' would not much regard them, or of which in the stablishing the righteon sness. of the Law before God, a man should give no account for the breaking of them, but God would account him righteous whether he observed them or no. And therefore to shew the necessity of fulfilling the Law in the most perfect and exact manner, Christ assures, there should not pass from the Law one jot or tittle thereof that should not be fulfil'd; not a jot, the least letter, quamvis non not a tittle, the least point, but was so highly accounted of by God, that before they should pass away without being fulfil'd, Heaven and Earth non fit haben- should pass away. So that there was required to the fulfilling of the Law, that all things in it, even to the least apex or tittle, should be fulfill'd. To which Doctrine of Christ agrees that of Moses and Paul, Gal. 3.10. who denounced a Curse not only against those who continued not in the great Ut itag; per- things, but in all things written in the Law: And of James 2.10. who faith, Whosoever shall keep the whole Law; and yet offend in one, shall be guilty of onem, necest all; and this one is here to be taken for any one. As Luk. 15. 2. If he have an hundred sheep and lose one, that is, any one. So Mat. 10.42. Who-. Christusosten- soever shall give a cup of cold water to one, that is, to any one of the least Believers, &c. So that unum, one, is equivalent to quodlibet; as here, one jot or tittle of the Law, that is, any one jot or tittle of the Law shall not pass away, but must be fulsil'd. non sit necesse impleri. hunc locum opto ut inspiciant lectores & perlegant.

My fifth Argument is taken from that macula, or stain, or filth, that every Sin, even the least and lightest, leaves behind it. This stain left behind the commission of every Sin, is by several considered several Negari non ways: Either as an babitual aversion from God; or as an habitual disconpotest hominem vere ma- formity to the Law of God; or as the impairing of inherent Grace, (the nere pollutum beauty of the Soul), and the weakning of its acts; or as a greater habiweniali, quod tude and inclination to Sin; In regard of some, or all of these lest upon the Soul after the commission of any Sin, 'tis said, that Sin desiles femel commisst, donecab and pollutes, Mat. 15. 11, 18. Rev. 22. 11: and that every Sin is a spot, eo justificetur; Ephes. 5. 27. and filthiness, 2 Cor. 7. 1. Jam. 1. 12. Ezek. 24.13. Ezek. peccato veni- 36.25. and when a man repents of Sin, and hath Sin pardoned to ali justificatur, him, he is said to be washt and cleansed, I Cor. 6. II. 2 Cor. 7.1. Ezek. 36.25, 33. And because we are said to be cleansed, I foh. 1.7. from all vere dicitur ab eo emun-Sin, therefore all Sins, even such as Papists call Venial; leave a spot and dari. Vasquez stain upon the Sinner, even as Vasquez the Jesuit confesseth. Now since in Ia. 2dæ. there's this stain and defilement befals us after every Sin, there follows Disp.139. c.4.

an exclusion for all Sin, from the Kingdom of Heaven, into which no unclean thing shall enter, Rev. 21.27. and that Exclusion Bellarmine tells us, is Lib.1.de amist proper to Mortal Sins; and indeed that which excludes from Heaven, Grat. cap. 5: must needs deserve eternal death, and so be Mortal. And that this Exclusion is not to all, perpetual, 'tis not from the nature of Sin, nor from the cleansing virtue of any Purgatory-fire, but meetly of God in Christ pardoning and purifying.

My fixth Argument is taken from the Power of God, justly to forbid 6. Arg. the least Sin under the pain of an eternal penalty. Now if God can justly probibit the least Sins, under an eternal penalty, then may he justly punish those Sins prohibited, with that eternal penalty. And that God may probibit the least Sin under an eternal penalty, is evident, not only because the Will of God forbidding any Sin under an eternal penalty, is a sufficent reason of that penalty, and makes the punishment proportionable to the demerit of the Sin; but because God hath actually prohibited under pain of eternal punishment, things in themselves lawful and indifferent, as abstinence from several kinds of Meats, Blood, &c. and therefore furely he may forbid all Sin under that penalty: Yea God in the Covenant of Works made with Adam, a Ctually prohibited all Sin under the penalty of eternal death: Which is evident, because if God promis'd eternal life to Adam, upon condition of perfect Obedience, certainly the commission of the least Sin would have made Adam stable to eternal death; for he that performs not the condition prescrib'd in the Covenant, cannot obtain the reward, but contrarily deserves the punishment appointed against those who violate the Covenant; But if Adam had committed the least Sin, he had not performed the condition prescrib'd in the Covenant, which was perfect Obedience; therefore he had deserved the penalty appointed against the violators of the Covenant. And if the Covenant of Works bound not Adam to avoid every Sin for the escaping of eternal death, then it bound him (as the Covenant of Grace binds us) to repent of Sin for the escaping of eternal death, there being no remission of any Sin, or avoiding of eternal punishment for it without repentance: But under the Covenant of Works there was no Obligation to repentance for Sin; for if there had been any Obligation to repentance for Sin, there must have been a promise of pardon upon repentance; but that's false, because the promise of pardon belongs only to the Covenant of Grace, pardon being only bestow'd through Christ.

Seventhly, I argue from the Typical remission of Sins in the Old Testa-7. Arg. ment; for they were then commanded to offer Sacrifices, not only for greater and more enormous offences, but for their lesser Sins, as those of infirmity and ignorance, which the Papists call and account Venial. As is evident from Levit. 4. 2, 12, 13, &c. and Lev. 5. 17. Now those Sacrifices fices respected that only Sacrifice of Christ, by which all our Sins are expiated, as Christ was made a curse for us that he might deliver us from the curse, Gal. 2. 13. And from this (saith the learned Waleus), Invicte demonstratur, 'tis invincibly demonstrated, That every Sin of it felf is. Mortal.

8. Arg.

Eightly, I argue from the infinity of evil that is in every Sin, to its desert of an infinite punishment. That every Sin is an infinite evil is most certain; I mean not that 'tis infinite intensive, as to it self or bulk, (as I may fay) for as the Sinner is but finite, so Sin is a privation but of a finite rectitude; and if every Sin were infinite in its intensiveness, all Sins would be equal. But yet two ways Sin is infinite: 1. Objective, because committed against an infinite Majesty. 2. Extensive, and in respect of its duration, because its stain and defilement last for ever, in regard of the Sinner, who cannot of himself repent. In like manner there's an infinite punishment due to Sin, (I mean not a punishment infinite intensive; for a finite Creature cannot be capable of an infinite torture; but yet an infinite punishment is due to Sin) two ways, as Sin was said to be two ways infinite: 1. A punishment is due to Sin, infinite Objective, by the Sinners being deprived of that infinite good, against whom he hath here offended, and whom he hath here neglected and despised. 2. A punishment infinite extensive, in respect of its duration for ever, because the stain contracted from Sin committed in this life, endures for ever; and therefore the wicked who continue for ever fedi, filthy and unclean, continue for ever Dei Confortio indigni, unworthy of ever having Communion with God. Qui nunquam desinit esse malus, nunquam desinit esse miser; he that never ceaseth to be evil, never ceaseth to be miserable. The most Venial fault therefore, being an infinite fault, deserves an infinite punishment. That 'tis an infinite fault, 'tis plain, because 'tis against the infinite Majesty of the Law-giver, and because its stain of it self, and without the mercy of God, endures for ever.

9: Arg.

Ninthly, That all Sins, even such as Papists call Venial Sins, deserve an eternal punishment is evident, because the least Sins of Reprobates. idle mords thall be punishe with eternal punishment. That those least Sins shall be punisht eternally, is plain from Mat. 12.36,37. Every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment; for by thy words thou shalt be justified and by thy words thou shalt be condemned. This condemnation here mention'd by Christ, plainly imports an eternal punishment; for in the day of Judgment there will be no condemnation to a temporal punishment. And that therefore the least Sins deserve eternal punishment is evident, because otherwise the punishment which shall be inflicted for these Sins would not be just, and proportionable to their demerit.

Nor can the Papists shun the force of this Argument, by saying, That

Serm. VIII.

'tis meerly by accident that Venial Sins are punisht with eternal death, not in regard of themselves, but because of the condition of the subject of these Venial Sins; which Sins by accident in Reprobates cannot be repented of, because they are joined with Mortal Sins that exclude Grace necesfary to repentance: This pittiful shift (I say) will not at all help the Papists; for these smaller Sins (which they call Venial) are of and by themselves the cause of condemnation to an eternal punishment, as is evident from this place, Mat. 12. 36, 37. where Christ proves that an account shall be given of every idle mord, because by our words we shall be condemned; by which expression he manifestly shews that those idle words of which he spake though Papists count them Venial are yet of themselves a sufficient cause of condemnation to eternal punishment; and besides, if it be unjust (as Bellarmine blasphemously speaks) to punish Venial Sins with eternal death, because they deserve it not; and if a Venial Sin by its conjunction with a Mortal Sin in a Reprobate, is not made greater or deserving of a greater punishment, but retains the same nature that it had before it will then unavoidably follow, (if of it felf and in its own nature it deserves not eternal punishment, that as 'tis in a reprobate joined with a Mertal Sin dit cannot deserve eternal punishment, and by consequence, it is not punishe with an eternal punishment; for if it were, God should punish Sins beyond their desert. Nor can the Papists come off (as Baronius well observes) by saying, Though a Venial Sin by a conjunction with Mortal Sin, is not made more grievous and hainous, yet it is more durable by that conjunction; as having thereby an eternal duration of that stain, which follows it, because without repentance, which by a Mortal Sin is hindred, there's no taking away of that flain. This subterfuge (I fay) is very insufficient; for the faults in Reprobates, which Papists call Venial, either in themselves do, or do not deserve eternal death; if they do not deserve eternal death, then they are punished beyond their desert, (which is blasphemy to say), If they do deserve eternal death, then that desert of eternal death is founded in the hainousness of the faults themfelves; and eternal death is inflicted, not alone for the duration of the Stain of those Sins, but for the demerit of the offences themselves; to which the Scripture expresly agrees, which testifies, that eternal punishment in the day of Judgment, shall be inflicted for those things done in. the body, 2 Cor. 5.10. so Mat. 25.42, 43. And hence twas that Scotts, Biel, Vega, and Medina, because they saw that if Venial Sins were punisht eternally, they should be so punisht because of what they were in themselves, and in their own nature, and by the demerit of the offence, labour to put off all, by afferting, that the punishment wherewith the Damned in Hell are punisht for Venial Sins, is not eternal, but temporal, Scot. in 4. sent; and that it shall at length have an end, though their punishment inflicted diffined, 21, on them for Mortal Sins shall last for ever : But others of their own Fra- qu. 1. ternity, condemn this justly for an absurd opinion, particularly their

Lastly, I argue from the ridiculous absurdity of the Doctrine of Veniality of Sin, to the erroneougness of it. The way, say the Papists, how Sins Venial come to be expiated and removed, is either in this life, or in the next: In this life by, [prinkling with holy Water, Confession to a Priest beating the Break, Whipping; Saying the Lords-Prayer, Croffing, eating no Flesh, giving to the Church, &c. In the next life Venial Sins are only expiated by the most torturing slames of Purgatory, greater than any tortures Conteror, oro; here in this life, yea as tormenting as Hell-fire, setting aside its duration (as the Papists say) and oft to be endured many hundreds of years. I dono, per hac demand then, If in this life a Venial Sin may be expiated with a toy, as sprinkling with holy Water, and Crosling, or the doing that which oft is, and always should be done with cheerfulness, as giving Alms, and yet in the next world it requires so many years of torturing flames to expiate it; what is the reason of this difference of the ways of expiating Venial Sin, that here it may be done with a sport, and there it requires fuch long and inexpressible tortures in fire a thousand times hotter than any here in this world, and as grievous as the torments of Hell? To this question the Papists answer, The Sinner is in the fault, who did not by so light and easie a way, expiate his Sin while here he lived; here he neglected his duty, and therefore there he finarts for it. But then I demand again, was that neglect of doing his duty in this world a Mortal Sin, or was it a Venial Sin? If a Mortal or damnable Sin, it should have carry'd the offender to Hell; If a Venial Sin, the difficulty again returns, Why may it not be expiated as easily as other Venial Sins are?

First, For Controversal Inferences.

I. If every Sin, even Venial, be damnable, as breaking the Law (as hath been proved) and none can live without them (as Papilts confess) 'tis clear then, that now none can in this life perfectly keep the Law.

Secondly, If no Sins be Venial, but all mortiferous and damnable, and make us guilty of Eternal Death, then down falls merit ex condigno, Merit by the worthiness of any works; for to be guilty of death, and to deserve eternal Life, cannot stand together.

Thirdly, Purgatory is but a Fable, if no Sins be Venial; Why should that Fire burn, if it be not purgative? or rather, how can it burn, if it have no Fewel?

II. The Practical Inferences, which are many, I shall but name.

First, If every Sin be damnable and mortiferous; then Sin is of a very bainous Nature. There's more malignity in an idle Word, and Injustice against God in a vain thought, than that all the World can expiate, more weight in it, than all the strength of Angels are able to Secondly, If the least Sins are mortiferous, What then are the greatest? If a Grain presseth to Hell; If an Atom can weigh down like a Mountain; What then can a Mountain do? If whifpering Sins speak so loud; What then do crying ones, Bloody Oaths, Adultery, Murder, Oppresfion?

Thirdly, If every fingle Sin be damnable, What then are all our Sins? Millions of Sins, Sins of all our Ages, Conditions, Places that ever we lived in, Relations? If all were (as Saint Auftin speaks) Contra nos Colletta, gathered into one heap against us, what an heaven-reaching moun-

Fourthly, If every Sin be damnable and mortiferous, God is to be justified in the greatest temporal severities which he inflicts upon us. As God never punisheth so severely here, but he can punish more; so he never here punisheth so severely, but we deserve more and greater severities. Pains, Flames, Sword, Pestilences, those tonsure insolescentis generis bee

mani those movings down of so many Millions, are all short of damnation deserved by Sin. God is to be justified in sending such Judgments, as the Fire of London, and the Tempest lately in Utrecht.

Fifthly, They who instigate others to Sin are damnable and mortiferous Enemies to Souls. They draw to an Eternal Punishment. Soul-Murder is the greatest, and Soul-Murderers most resemble the Devil in carriage, and shall in condemnation. How deeply dyed are those Sins and Sinners that are dipt in the Blood of Souls!

Sixthly, 'Tis no Comardise to fear Sin. Of all fear, that of Sin is most justifiable. 'Tis not magnanimity but madness, not valour, but fool-hardiness, to be bold to Sin. Surely, the boldness of Sinners, fince Sin deserves Eternal Death, is not from want of danger, but discerning.

Seventhly, How excusuble are Ministers and all Christian Monitors that warn against Sin. They bid you take heed of damnation.

warn against which with the greatest, is the mercifullest severity.

Eighthly, How madly finful is it to be merry in Sin! to make a mock of it! What's this but to sport with Poyson, and to recreate our selves with damnation? If here men are counted to play before us, when they are sinning, 'twill be bitterness in the end. There's no Folly so great as to be pleased with the Sport that Fools make us, nor are any Fools like those that dance to damnation.

Ninthly, Unconceivably great is the patience of God toward Sinners, especially great ones: Gods patience discovers it self eminently, in that he spares damnable Sins, though he sees them, bates them infinitely more than we can do, is able to punish them every moment, is infinitely the Sinners Superior, yea seeks to prevent their punishment by warning, intreaties, threats, counsels; yea, puts forth daily Acts of mercy and bounty towards those who sin damnably; yea, he waits, and is longfuffering oft scores, and hundreds of years, though this waiting shews (not that he will always spare, but) that we should now repent.

Tenthly, "Tis our Interest to be holy betimes; 'tis good, that as much as may be of that which is so damnable, should be prevented. Shouldst thou be converted in old age, 't will be thy extream forrow that it was so late, though thy happiness it was at all. Early repentance makes an easie Death bed, and makes joyful the last Stage of our journey unto Eternal Toyes.

Eleventhly, No smalness of fin should occasion boldness to commit it. I. In some Cases, the smalness of the inducement to Sin, the slightness of the matter of thy Sin, aggravates the offence. To deny a Friend a Cup of Water, is a greater unkindness than to deny him a thousand pounds: What, wilt thou feand with God for a trifle, and damn thy Soul 3. Parva viam for a toy? wilt thou prefer a peny before God and Glory? 2. Small Sins are more difficultly shunned; A small bone of a Fish easily gets into the Throat, and 'tis hard to avoid it: And 3. Small Sins differe to multa funt ut greater; the Wimble makes way for the Auger. 4. Sins many, though Imal.

small, are as one great one; An heap of Sands presserh to death as well as a Sow of Lead; A Ship may fink by Water coming in at a Leak, drop by drop, as well as when overwhelmed with a great Wave. As Austin

Twelfthly, I note, The great reason why Christ Thould be dear to us. Thou canst not be without bim, no not for thy little, thy least Sins, and those of dayly incursion. Oh! that this Doctrine might make you and me prize Christ more as long as we live. Because the Best cannot live without sins, neither can they live without a great Saviour; none of us can live without these smaller Sins, (as the very Papists grant) but oh that we may take a wifer course to get pardon of them, than they do, by our looking upon Gods pity through Christs Blood, as our only Purgatory. The Pharifees (of old) faw that we could not live without breaking the Law in smaller things (as we have shewn before) but let us more study than they did, Gods design in giving a Law which faln-Man is not able to keep. The Apostle tells us Gods design herein; He aimed at Christ, Rom. 10. 4. who was intended by God as his end in giving fuch a Law which faln-Man could not keep; namely, that Sinners might feek after his Righteousness, by seeing their own inability to keep it. How much do we want Christ at every turn, for our smallest inadvertencies, impertinent, wandring thoughts, in the adjacent defects and defilements of our holy things! Lord, I want thy Blood, as often as I fetch my breath!

Ex rigore Legis, the least Sins damn, and none of us but every day and in every duty, commit them; but here's the Comfort, we are delivered through Christ, from that damnation which we deserve for all those unavoidable defects and evils, that attend the Best in their best observing the Law of God; we being loofed under the Covenant of Grace, from that rigid exaction of the Law, which suffers no Sin to go without Eternal punishment, and delivered by Christ from the necessity of a perfect and exact fulfilling the Law of God, under pain of damnation. 'Tis true, the Law still commands, even Believers, perfect obedience, and 'tis a Sin in Believers under the Covenant of Grace, that they do not obey the Law of God to the utmost perfection thereof; but here's our happines, that Christ hath obtained, that the imperfection of our Obedience shall not dami us, but that our imperfect Obedience to the Law, shall through him be accepted. If incied there were only the Law and no Christ, no Obedience but that which is absolutely perfect, could be entertained by God; but now, though by the Law, perfect Obedience be required, yet by Grace, imperfict (if fincere) Obedience is accepted; For under the Cavenant of Grace, strictly and precisely under pain of damnation, we are only obliged to that measure of obedience which is possible by the help of Grace; and

hence it is, that Christs Yoke is called easie, which cannot be understood Mat. 11, 1212; of the Law in its rigor, but as mitigated by the Covenant of Grace: That

That Yoke would not be easie but intolerable, if it propounded no home of Salvation, but under that impossible condition of perfect Obedience to the Law. And 1 70b. 5, 2. His commands are not grievous; but so they would be, if their exactions were rigorous in requiring perfect Obedience under pain of damnation of us that cannot perform it: But for ever blessed be God, that though our best Obedience be imperfect, vet the perfect. Obedience of Christ imputed to us, supplies the detect of ours; yea, that our imperfect Obedience doth not only not damn us (though the imperfection thereof deserves damnation according to the rigor of the Law) but that it is ordained to be the may to our Salvation; I mean not its imperfection, but it, notwithstanding its imperfection. Reader. if thou art a Believer, till thy Love to Jesus Christ, prompts thee to a more sutable Ejaculation, accept of this for a Conclusion of this whole Discourse. A saving. Eternity (Father of Mercy) will be short enough to praise thee for Him, who hath delivered us from those many millions of Sins, the least whereof deserve a damning Eternity: Dear Lord Fesus, who hast faved us from the least Sin that ever we had or did help us to serve thee with the greatest Love, that our Souls can either admit or express. And as (through Grace) the guilt of the least Sin shall not lye upon us; so neither letthe Love of the least Sin lodg within w. Thou who halt made our fultification perfect, dayly perfect what our Sanctification mants. And never (Lord) let us put limits to our thankful returns, for those satisfying sufferings of thine. that knew no Bounds, no Measure.

Publick Prayer should be in a Known Tongue.

M. Mathaniel Vincent
1 COR 14. 15.

I will Pray with the Spirit, and will Pray with Understanding also.

He Spirit of God foreseeing, That in the latter dayes there would be an Apostacy and departure from the Faith; and that impious and corrupt Doctrines, would be published by Men of corrupt minds; hath so compiled the holy Scriptures, that from thence even those Errors which arose long after the times of the Apostles may be detected and consuted. With very good reason, did Tertullian say, Adoro Scripture plenitudinem, I adore the fulness of the Lib. adv. Her-Scripture The Perfection and Sufficiency of it must needs be granted mogen, cap. by all that understand it, and that will believe the Testimony, which 22. it gives concerning it self. 'Tis profitable mpds Sisasnanian, mpds "neyxor, for Doctrine and reproof. It serves to inform and open the Eyes of the Ignorant, it serves to stop the Mouths of Gain-sayers. Hence we may be furnished with both Offensive and Defensive Weapons: and the Armour which is fetched from it, is filled 72 owna 78 owles; The Armour or the Weapons of Light, Rom. 13. 12. And truly Sin and Error being but discovered, that very discovery, will have a great influence unto the mortification of the one; and our preservation from the contagion of the other.

I do not at all wonder that the Church of Rome should take away the Key of Knowledg. Open but that Door; and that Command would more generally be obeyed, which you read Rom. 18. 4. Come out of her my people, that ye be not partakers of her Sins, that ye receive not of her

Qq 2 Plagues.

Plagues. The Popish leaders are very much against the Scriptures being known, because it makes so much against them, and speaks so plainly against their Doctrines; and they are jealous lest their own men upon serious reading and consideration might be brought to say, Aut hoe non est Evangelium, aut nos non sumus Evangelici; Either this is not the Gospel, or we are not Gospellers. Either this Word of God is not true, or is it be true, then Popery is a meer falshood.

That there is such a great disagreement between the Scripture and Popery, might easily be made manisest in all the Points of Controversie between the Romish Church and Ours; we having departed from them upon this very score, because they have rejected the Word of God; and left that Faith which was once deliver'd to the Saints.

But the Point now to be insisted on, is, The Language or Tongue, in which Prayer that is publick ought to be made.

How near a kin is Mystical Babylon unto Babel of old in the Land of Shinar! We read that there the aspiring builders Language was confounded, and they did not understand one anothers speech, Gen. 11.7. and this Consusion stop the building of that Tower which was designed to reach Heaven. In the Devotions of the Komish Church, the Priest speaks but the People understand not what is spoken, and this is an impediment unto the Peoples Edification; so that their Devotions reach not Heaven, but are only a speaking into the air, 1 Cor. 14.9. and are as little regarded by God, as they are understood by themselves. The Protestant Churches, on the other side, are for Prayer in a known Tongue; and good warrant they have from the Apostle himself, who says, I will pray with the understanding; and that in the Church he had rather speak sive words, i.e. a sew words with his understanding, that by his voice he might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

The Text informs us of the Apostles practice; which he proposes, furely not that we should dislike it and resuse to follow him but for our imitation. Three things are here to be consider'd.

Prayer, or Prayer with others; for the Apostle in this Chapter where the Text lies is delivering a Decency and Order, which was to be observed in the Publick Assemblies; he supposes several persons to be present, that might answer Amen to the Supplications and Thanksgivings that were made. This Interpretation, as Beza observes, is most agreeable with the scope of the Apostle, and the drift of his Discourse.

2: What's meant by the Spirit? I will pray in the Spirit; that is, by the gift of Prayer which the Spirit bestows. This Exposition I find in Chryfosteme, τω πνευμαλι, τεθένι τω χασίσματι. Extraordinary abilities of Prophecying and Praying were given after Christs Ascension, and the Mission of the Holy Ghost; and the end of all was the Churches Increase and Edification. Here its not amiss to add, That by comparing other places with this, we must grant, that praying in the Spirit, com-

Si de privatis precibus ageret, videri posset à suo proposito aberrare. Beza in locum.

Aoy. As. in a Epist. ad Corinth.

whether extraordinary in an unknown, or more ordinary in a known Language. To pray in the Holy Ghost, implys, and that chiesly, the having our infirmities helped by the Spirit of God; our Graces quickned; our affections and desires raised unto that strength and servency; unto which the Lord for his Son our Advocates sake has promised satisfaction.

3. What is meant by Understanding? This must not be referred to the Understanding of the Apostle; for 'tis difficult to suppose that He at any time did not understand what himself did speak. But it relates to the Understanding of others; as vers. 19. I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also. To teach with the Understanding, in the Apostles sense, is to accommodate what we say to the Understanding and Capacity of those whom we teach. In like manner to pray with the Understanding; is to pray so, as that those whom we pray with, may apprehend what we beg for at the throne of Grace, and for what we return thanks unto God, else how is it possible they should be edified?

Upon the words thus opened I build this Thesis which I am to maintain: That Publick Prayer is not to be made in an unknown tongue, but in such a Language as is understood by the common People. In Publick Prayer I include Confessions of Sin, Petitions for Grace and Mercy, Intercessions for others, and giving of Thanks; which are uttered in the hearing of the Congregation: and I affirm, That all such Publick Worship and Service is to be performed in such a Tongue as the Congregation is acquainted with. Hearken to the Apossle, I Cor. 14.16, 17. Else when thous shalt bless with the Spirit, how shall be that occupieth the room of the unlearned, say Amen at thy giving of Thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayes? for thou verily givest Thanks well, but the other is not edified. Chrysostome upon these words speaks thus, Isiatla to vatuor requestion. By the man unlearned the Apossle means the Lay-man; even he must understand the words that are spoken in Prayer, that thereby he may be edified.

In the handling of this Thefis;

First, I shall give you the judgment of the Church of Rome in the matter.

Secondly, Produce arguments to prove that Publick Prayer ought not to be made in an unknown Language.

Thirdly, I shall make it manifest, that Antiquity is utterly against the Papists in this business.

Fourthly, Ishall answer the Objections of the Romish Doctors; and shew the weakness of their Arguments, which they urge for their Latin, and by the People not understood, Service.

Fifthly, I shall discover the Mystery of iniquity in this Papal Doctrine, which preaches up and encourages to an ignorant Devotion.

Sixthly

Sixthly, Conclude with a Practical Application:

In the first place I am to give you the judgment of the Church of Rome. And that they indeed hold that Publick Prayer may be made in a Language that the People understand not; appears two ways.

1. By their general Practice. Their Mass-Book is in Latin, their Divine Service, and Offices, as they call them, are performed in the Latin Tongue. But this is certain, that the Latin Tongue is not now the Mother-Tongue of any Nation under Heaven. In former ages indeed 'twas spoken in Italy. But that Nation has been so often invaded and overrun by forreign enemies, especially by the Goths and Vandals; that there has been a great alteration in their Language; the present Italian being vastly different from that Language which the Romans of old used. But though Latin be not understood by the common People, yet in Italy and Spain, and Germany, and France, and other places, where the Pope governs and is obeyed, the Publick Service is Latin; and to teach, that the People should understand what they pray for, is declaim'd against as a piece of Heresie.

2. 'Tis not only the Practice of that Church to have Latin Prayers, nor the opinion only of some private Doctors, nor the judgment of a Provincial or National Synod that thus it ought to be; but that very Council of Trent, which they (though without reason) call Holy and Occumenical, or General, does determine, that Prayer need not be made in a Vulgar Language: The words of the Council are these, Sef-

Sio. 22. capit.22.

Etst Missumagnam contineat populi fidelis eruditionem, non tamen expedire visum est Patribus ut vulgari lingua passim celebraretur. Though the Mass do contain a great deal of instruction for the faithful people, yet it did not seem expedient to these Fathers that it should be every where celebrated in a vulgar tongue.

Indeed afterward they command that the Pastors exponent aliquid, expound something, but since something is only mention'd, and not what, nor how much, and to be sure not all; we may well say, How aliquid nibilest; This something is as good as nothing. Moreover the ninth Canon runs thus:

Siquis dix rit lingua tantum vulgari Missam celebrari debere, Anathema sit. Whosever shall say that the Muss ought to be celebrated only in a vulgar language, let bim be accursed. You see how a Popish Council determines that Publick Prayer need not be in a known Tongue, and thunders out an Anathema against those who are otherwise minded.

In the second place follow the Arguments against the Papists, which prove that Publick Prayer ought not to be made in a Language unknown to the People.

1. When Prayer is made in an unknown Tongue, the Name of God is taken in vain. Against speaks of sour ways of taking Gods Name:

1. Ad disti confirmationem, when we call God to witness the truth of what what has been spoken. 2. Ad Sanstificationem, to the sanstifying and separating of a thing to an use that is holy; thus the water in Baptism is separated to a Sacramental use, by the Name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. 3. Ad operis completionem, unto the performing of any work which we undertake. Thu David went forth against Goliab in the Name of the Lord of Hoss, whose Armies that proud Giant had defied. 4. Ad confessionem & invocationem, when we make confession of Gods Name before others, or call upon his Name our selves.

Now when thus in Prayer we take the Name of God into our mouths we must remember the third Commandment, and how the Great Law-· giver has expresly fignified, that he will not hold the transgressors guiltless. 'Tis the first Petition in the Lords-Prayer, Hallowed be thy Name: But how can those that understand not the words of Prayer, hallow Gods Name? How can their hearts and their words go together? and if they don't, the Worship is vain. Mat. 15.8, 9. This people draweth: nigh to me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips, but their beart is far from me; and in vain do they worship me. The People in Latin Prayers understand not when Sin is confessed nor when Pardon and Grace are asked nor when praise is offered: How then can their heartsbe suitably affected? It follows therefore that the Lords Name is taken. and an Ordinance used in vain. Certainly the end of Oral Prayer is not attained in the Church of Rome. The reason of using words in this duty is that others may understand, and join with us, and also that our own thoughts and hearts by the words may be kept more close to God, and intent upon his service; but in both these regards Latin Prayers to those: that understand not Latin are just as good as none at all.

2. Prayer in an unknown Tongue is ignerant Worship. The Samaritans were blamed by Christ for worshipping they knew not what, Joh. 4.22. And he speaks by way of reprehension to his Disciples, Te know not what ye ask. So that not only the Object of Prayer must be known, but likewise the matter which we pray for. But in both these regards the poor Papists are miserably ignorant. Their Idolatry plainly shews they have not right conceptions of the Godhead. How like are they to the Hearthen Romans of old, who before their Conversion to the Christian Faith, changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like unto corruptible man, Rom. 1.21. which is an evident Argument, that they are become vain in their imaginations, and that their foolish hearts are darkned, ver. 23. The Papists multiply Altars indeed, but upon all their Altars this Inscription may be written, which was upon the Altar at Athens.

Ayroso Oso, They are dedicated to a God they know not.

And as they know not the God they pray to, so neither do they understand what they pray for. And what is ignorant Worship if this be not, To make unknown Prayers to an unknown God? Surely 'tis the will of God, we should understand what we pray, but the Papitts are willingly ignorant, and it abundantly suffices them, if so much time is but wasted wasted in their Devotions, and so many words are but pronounced, though they understand those words no more than a Parrot does the meaning of those words of ours which it has learned to imitate.

3. How can such Prayers as are made in an unknown Tongue, be made in Faith? and yet Faith is so necessary an ingredient in Prayer, that the Aposses sick not to say, Let not that man, who asks not in Faith, think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord, Jam. 1.7. We must believe that what we ask is according to the Will of God; to this end the Word which is the declaration of Gods Will ought to abide in us. Job. 15.7. If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. There must also in Prayer be a relyance upon the Promises of God, all which are Yea and Amen in Christ. But how can we either believe that we ask according to the Will of God; or relie upon those Promises which God hath made, if we know not

Faith in Prayer, which is true, always presupposes knowledg; How shall they call on him (says the Apostle) in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? Rom. 10, 14. He that understands not the Tongue in which the Prayers are made, cannot certainly tell whether the Lord be praised or blasphemed; whether Grace be implored, or liberty beg'd to continue in wickedness: Nay he cannot tell whether God be prayed to at all. How then shall a man in Faith be able to join in such manner of Supplications? And as this unknown Tongue is an impediment to Faith, so when what is asked is not understood, How can the Desires be lively? Ignoti nulla cupido: The Understanding must apprehend the evil before that evil can be heartily deprecated; and be convinced of the good before the Will is brought to embrace it.

4. The design of Prayer, is not to work any change in God with whom there is not the least variableness, neither shadow of turning; but a change in us; that by Prayer we may be the better disposed for the reception of what we ask. But how can Prayer which is not understood be here available? When this Duty is rightly performed, it tends to the making of us more sensible of our guilt and vileness, our neediness and insusficiency; and to the setting of a greater edge upon our affections, towards those Spiritual and Eternal Blessings which are promised in the New Covenant; and by this means we are made more meet for the accomplishment of those Promises. But Prayer in an unknown Tongue leaves Men as it found them. And they must needs continue under their deadness, their hearts being straitned and alienated from God through the blindness that is in them.

5. Though to speak in an unknown Tongue was in the first age of the Christian Church a Miraculous Gift, and served much for the confirmation of the Christian Faith. Yet unless there were an interpreter, the use of an unknown Tongue was not permitted in the Publick Worship of God.

I Cor. 14. 28. If there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the Church, and let him speak to himself and to God. Surely then it plainly follows, that Prayer with the Unlearned should not now be made in Latin, since skill in that Language is not now an extraordinary Gift, but gained by ordinary instruction and industry; and the use of it in Prayer with those that know not the meaning of it, tends not to confirm Christianity, but to hinder true Devotion.

6. The use of an unknown Tongue in the Lords Service is expressly denied to be unto Edification. The Apostle gives this general Rule, Let all things be done to edifying, 1 Cor. 14.26. and v.17. he before expressly says, That the Unlearned is not edified by Worship in a Language which he does not understand, though the Prayers or Praises be never so excellent. The Papists indeed that are devout in their way, may possibly imagin they are edified by their Latin Prayers; but they would do well to consider, that the Apostle speaks very plainly, That an unknown Tongue is not to Edification; and it concerns them likewise to suspect their own hearts, which are so deceitful, and to fear lest Satan by delusory Affections, and a salse Peace, impose upon them. But let us suppose that they are really affected at their Devotions; certainly no thanks at all to the Prayer, the meaning of which they are utterly ignorant of.

Well then, since Prayer is to be unto Edification, it must be such as may be understood by the People. The Spiritual benefit and advantage of their Souls is to be regarded in all Publick Administrations. The Apossles had indeed the gift of Tougues in the day of Pentecest; but, which is very much to be marked, It was not that they might speak in an unknown, but in a known Language to the People. Therefore you read, that those Parthians and Medes, and Elamites, and the rest of them did say, We do hear every one in the Tongue wherein we were born, the wonderful works of God, Act. 2.8, 12.

I might farther add, That it is repugnant to the very nature of Publick Prayer, that it should be in an unknown Tonguc. For the People all the while if they are at any, are at their private Devotions, though in the Publick Assembly; while the Priest in Latin is consessing Sin, the Peoples hearts may be giving thanks for Mercy; while the Priest is asking for one kind of Blessing, the Peoples Assections may be carried out after another. Thus there is not that agreeing together in what they ask, which Christspeaks of; and which is necessary in Publick Prayer.

7. The Apossle having delivered this Do Arine, that Prayer and Praise should be in a known Tongue, adds at the close of the Chapter; not only, That he taught the same in all Churches of the Saints; but also, If any man think himself to be a Prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledg, that the things which I write unto you are the Commandments of the Lord, I Cor. 14. 37. So much for the Arguments against Prayer in an unknown Tongue.

R r In

In the third place I am to manifest, That Antiquity is utterly against the Church of Rome in this matter: the Papists talk much of the Fathers indeed; but how disobedient they are to them, and how much they diffent from them, may most easily be evinced.

And because the Council of Trent hath Anathematized all that are against the Popish Latin Prayers, I will suppose another Council, and several of the most eminent, and ancient Fathers Members of it; and that I may deal the more fairly with our Adversaries, I will suppose some of their own most noted and samous Doctors, admitted into this Council; and that yet it may be the more regarded, I shall suppose the Apositle Paul himself to be the President of it.

The Fathers whom I shall mention are Justin Martyr, Origen, Cyprian;

Ambrose, Augustine, Hierome, Basil, and Chrysostome.

The Question to be debated, is, Whether Prayer is to be made in a known, or in an unknown Tongue? Let the Fathers speak in order.

Justin Martyr, who is very ancient, and lived about the year 160,

Apol. 2. ad Antoninum Pium, sub finem, tells us:

Καὶ τἢ τὰ ὅλίκ λεγομένη ἡμέρα πάν]ων κτ πόλεις ἢ ἀγοςες μειόν]ων ἐπι το αυθό συνέλευσις γίνεται; ἢ τὰ ὑπομνημονέυματα τῷ ὑποςόλων ἤ τὰ συγγεάμματα, τῷν Φροςητῷν ἀναγινώσκεται μέχεις ἐγχωςες. Ἡτα παυσαμένε τὰ αναγινώσκοι] ⑤, ὁ περεςως διὰ λόγε τἱω νεθεσίαν ἢ πεόκλησιν τὰ τῷν καλῶν τότων μιμήσεως ποιείται; ἑπειτὰ ἀνιςάμεθα κοινῆ πάνθες ἢ ἐυχὰς πέμπομεν, ἢ παυσαμένων ὑμῶν τὰ ἐυχῆς ἀξτὸς περεςφέρεται ἢ οῖν ⑤. — Καὶ περεςως ευχὰς ὁμοίως ἢ ἐυχα-ειέας ὅση δυναμις ἀυθῷ ἀναπέμπει, ἢ ὁ λαὶς ἐυφημες λέγων τὸ ἀμὶω.

On the day commonly called Sunday, Assemblies are made of Citizens and Countrymen, and the writings of the Apostles and Prophets are read: The Reader giving over, the Minister makes an Exhortation to the People, perswading to the unitation and practice of those good things that are propounded. After this we rise all and pour out Prayers, and Bread and Wine are brought forth, and the Minister to the uttermost of his ability, does send forth Prayers and Praises unto God, and the People give their consent, saying, Amen.

Behold the Scriptures read even to Citizens, nay to Country-People, and Prayers made which they did understand, and say Amen to.

Origen may speak next. Lib. 8. Contra Celsum pag. (mihi) 402. Oi Nowel with xgistarwin ide in tais desait yeapais nemérois drémati in tetaqué ois en la ser xpourais de des xpours in lais duxais, and oi min endes énduncis, ci de pomaioi pomainois; in transcribe de dinter núples dinterto éuxetal de in funcion padains dianément núples tou and náons dianément euxomément. The Christians in their Prayers use not the very mords (he means the Words in the Original) of the Scriptures; but they that are Greeks do use the Greek Tongue, and those that are Romans the Roman Tongue; and so every one according to his Dialect, does Pray unto God, and praise him according to his ability, and He that is the Lord of every Language, does hear the Prayers which are put up to Him in every Language.

Cyprian De Grat. Domin. pag. (mihi) 309. speaks thus:

Aliter. Orare quam docuit Christus, non ignorantia sola est, sed & culpa; quando ipse posuerit & dixerit, rejicitis mandatum Dei ut Traditionem vestram statuatis.

To Pray otherwise than Christ has taught, is not only ignorance, but a great fault; for ke has expresty said. Te rejected the Command of God, that ve may establish your own Tradition. Now where has Christ taught the ule of an unknown Tongue in Prayer? 'tis but Romes Invention and Tradition, and that not of a very long standing.

Ambrose may be heard in the next place, in 1. ad Corinth. c. 14.

Si utique ad adificandam Ecclesiam convenitis, ea debent dici que intelligant audientes: nam quid prodest ut quis lingua loquatur quam solus scre nt qui audit nibil proficiat?

If ye come together to edifie the Church, those things ought to be spoken that the hearers may understand; for what do he profit the People who Speaks in an unknown Tongue to them? And afterwards the same Father adds; There were some; of the Hebrews especially, that used the Syriack, and the Hebrew Tonque in their Services; but these aimed at their own glory and commendation, not at the Peoples benefit. Though the Hibrer, Tongue was that in which God of 'old' utter'd the Law upon Mount Sinai that which Moses and the Prophets used; though the Syriack was that in which our Lord himself spake while he was upon Earth; yet Ambrose blames those that prayed in these Languages with those People who did not understand them. After Ambrose, let us hear Augustine, Enarrat, in Psalmum 18.

Intelligere debemus, ut humana ratione non quafi avium voce cantemus; Merula, Psittaci, Corvi, Pica, & bujusmodi volucres sape docentur ab bominibus sonare que nesciunt: scienter vero cantare non avi sed homini divinà voluntate concessum est.

We ought to understand what we pray for that we may not like Birds, but like men, sing unto God. For Black-birds and Parrots; and Crows; and Pies, and such kind of Fowls, are taught to found forth what they understand not: But to sing (which certainly in the Psalms of David includes Prayer and Praising) with understanding, is granted not to a Bird, but to a Man through the good pleasure of God.

From this Fathers words you may perceive, that the not-understood

Prayer of a Papist is likened unto the prating of a Pye, or Parrot.

Hierom, who was famous for his skill in Languages, and was himself a Presbyter of the Ancient Church in Rome, yet speaks after this manner, Prefat. in Epist. ad Galatus.

In Ecclesiis Urbis Romæ quasi tonitra Caleste audimus Populum reboantem, Amen. In the Churches of the City of Rome, the Voice of the People was like Heavenly Thunder, when they answered aloud, Amen, at the end of the Prayers which they put up unto God.

The People understood, and gave their consent unto the Prayers which were used in those days; but the present Church of Rome, Heu

Rr ananthin. quantum mutatur ab il'à! Alas, how much is it altered from what it once was!

Again the same Hierom speaks, Sub finem Comment. in Epist. ad Galatas.

Quod autem Amen consensum significet andientis & sit signaculum veritatis ad Corinthios prima nos docet, in qua Paulus ait, Caterum si benedixeris -Spiritu, qui supplet locum idiote, quomodo dicet Amen super tua benedi-Gione, quoniam quidem nescit quid dicas : ex quo oftendit non posse idioten respondere verum esse quod dicitur; nisi intellexerit quod docetur.

Amen signifies the consent of the hearer, and is a sealing of the Truth: Paul Cave. If thou bles with the Spirit, how shall be that occupieth the room of the unlearned say Amen at thy giving of thanks, seeing be understandeth not what thou sayest? whereby he declares. That the unlearned Man cannot answer, that that which is spoken is true, since he does not understand it.

Great Bafil, his mind you may know concerning the proposed Question, Homil. in Pfalmum 28. Having complained before that the Children of Men do not in His Temple give glory unto God, he adds;

Η γλώνα Ιαλλέτω, ο δε νές έρευνατω των διάνοιαν τών ερημένων, ένα Ιάλ-Ans the wveruate, Lanns Se is the vot. Let the Tongue sing, and let the Mind fearch the meaning of what is spoken, that according to the Apostle, thoumayest sing with the Spirit, and sing with understanding also.

Chrylostom agrees with the forementioned Fathers fully, Noy. As in

I Epilt. ad Corinth.

ไฮเอาใน าอง กลเหอง กร์กูลเหล่ ฮ์ค่นงบอเ ล็บโอง รี นุเหคลัง ไทนเลง เรอนย์ของโล, อีกสต To aulus eiver un Suraras. Take notice, says he, how the Apostle does always feek the Churches Edification. By the unlearned Man, Paul means the Layman, and hews how this unlearned Person does sustain a very great loss, when Prayers are made in such a Language, as he through want of understanding is not able to say Amen to them.

I shall add unto these passages of the Fathers, a Constitution of the Emperor Julinian. Emperors of old were reverenced by the Church, though now the Pope endeavours to Lord it over them. The Constitution is this. Novel. Constit. 123.

Jubernus omnes Episcopos, &c. We command that all Bishops and Presbyters do celebrate the Holy Oblation, and Prayers used in Holy Baptism; not speaking lew, but with a clear Voice which may be heard by the People. that thereby the Minds of the People may be stirred up with greater Devotion in uttering the Praises of the Lord God. And for this is cited I Cor. 14. Him shall the Unlearned Say Amen, if he does not understand what is Spoken? And then it follows, If the Priests neglect these things, the Judement of God and Christ will fall on them; neither will we, fays the Empefor, when we know it, rist and leave it unrevenged.

But now let us hear the Romith Doctors themselves speaking to the Question in Hand.

Cardinal Cajetan, Comment. in 1 Epist. ad Corinth. c. 14. has these words; Ex hac Pauli Doctrina habetur, quod melius est ad edificationem Ecclesse, orationes publicas, que audiente Populo dicuntur, dici linguâ communi Clericis, & Populo, quam dici Latine.

From this Doctrine of the Apostle Paul it follows, That it is better for the edification of the Church, that the publick Prayers which the People bear, should be made in that Language which both the Priests and People under-Stand, than that they should be made in Latin.

Here I cannot chuse but cry out, Magna est Veritas, great is Truth, and it will prevail! Behold a Cardinal of the Romish Church, speaks as plainly against the Council of Trent, as any whom they nickname Hereticks can.

The next Romish Author is Nicolaus de Lira, who glossing upon the same Chapter, speaks to the same purpose.

Si Populus intelligat orationem sive benedictionem Sacerdotis; melius reducitur in Deum & devotius respondet, Amen.

If the People understand the Prayer or Thanksgiving which is performed by the Priest, their minds will be brought the better and nearer unto God, and with greater devoutness they will answer. Amen.

The third Romish Doctor, shall be the Angelical (as he is called) and highly-magnified Thomas Aquinas, Commentar. in 1 Epistolam ad Corinth.

cap. 14. His words are thefe;

Plus lucratur qui orat & intelligit; nam reficitur, & quantum ad intelle-

Etum, & quantum ad affectum.

He gains most who prays and understands the words which he speaks; for he is edified both as to his understanding, and also as to his affections.

Again he saith, Melius est ut lingus que benedicit, etiam interpretetur;

omnis enim sermo bonus est ad edificationem sidei.

Tis best that the Tongue which blesses, should interpret; for good words should be spoken to the edification of faith.

Here we may with reason say, Bene quidem scripsisti Thomâ. Thomas thou hast written what is agreeable to Truth.

Thus the Fathers and the Popish Doctors themselves have deliver'd their opinions, and all are for praying in a known Language.

Nay I have read, and 'tis acknowledged by a Jesuit, Azorius Inst. lib. 8. cap. 26. ex An. Sylv. That above six hundred years ago, when the Pope did deliberate and consult whether he should grant unto the Bobemians the use of the Vulgar Tongue in their publick Devotions; there was heard a voice from Heaven, saying, Omnis lingua consiteatur ei; Let every tongue confess unto God.

But now at last let us be determined by the Apostle Paul, the supposed President of the Council, and his mind I shall give you in this Paraphrase upon his own words.

I thank my God I speak with Tongues more than you all; but I had rather speak five words to be understood by, and to edifie those that hear me, than ten thousand words in an unknown Tongue. If the Trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battel? and if I pray, and those that are present understand not the meaning of the voice, how shall they wrestle with God? how shall they defend themselves against the assaults of the one? how shall they join in begging for Grace to overcome him? I am an Apostle, and not a Barbarian, and I would not speak words into the air, but so as to benefit them that hear me. I am unwilling the Publick Worship of God should be exposed to the contempt and secon of Insidels; or that they should censure it to be only the raving of mad-men, because they know not the meaning of the words that are used. Our God is not the God of consusion, but requires a reasonable Service, and these commands concerning Prayer and Praising so as to be understood, are his commands. Every one who is indeed spiritual will be thus perswaded: they who are otherwise minded are willingly ignorant.

You see I have proved the Protestant Doctrine out of the Fathers; nay, 'tis granted by Popish Authors of very great name; and how plainly the Aposile is on our side, do but read and judg.

Let the Papists now for shame cease their bragging of Antiquity. Twas certainly the manner of the elder and purer times to pray in a known Language. Thus prayed the Apostles, thus prayed our Lord Jesus, thus prailed the Heavenly Host at Christs Nativity, in such words as the very Shepherds understood, Glory be to God in the Highest, on Earth peace, good-will towards men. Thus the Prophets prayed, and David the sweet-Singer of Israel; all his Pfalms were written in Hebrew, the Fews Mother-tongue. Thus fung Deborah and Barak, thus Moles and the Israelites after their Miraculous Deliverance out of Egypt, and Pharaobs overthrow in the mighty Waters. Nay I must add, there was a time when there was but one Language in the whole World; before the building of Babel, and then there was no unknown Tongue to pray in. In the days of Enos the Son of Seth the Grand-child of Adam, 'tis said, Men began to call upon the Name of the Lord, Gen. 4. 26. And this must of necessity have been done in a Language which none were ignorant of. Surely then the Protestant Religion in this regard must be acknowledged of sufficient Antiquity, since 'tis as old as the old World, fince 'twas before the flood of Noah.

In the fourth place I shall answer the Popish Arguments to defend their Cause; and shall not fear to produce the very strongest which I have met withal.

1. 'Tis Objected, That the Apostle does not speak in 1 Cor. 14. concerning the ordinary Divine Service, but concerning Spiritual Songs, which by an extraordinary Gist were utter'd.

Ans. The Apostle does mention Prayer as well as giving of Thanks; and there is as much reason that the ordinary Service should be understood, as the extraordinary; because that which is ordinarily used, should by all means be to Edification.

2. 'Tis Objected, That Prayer in an unknown Tongue is not con-Bellar. Lib. 2. de Verbo Dei, demned, but Prayer in a known Tongue only preferred. Capit.16.

Answ. First, Suppose this, why does the Church of Rome pray after the worse, and not after the better manner of the two? Secondly, I fay 'tis condemned by the Apostle as not being for Edification; for he that could speak in a Tongue, if he could not interpret, nor any Interpreter present, was commanded to keep silence in the Assembly.

3. 'Tis Objected, That of old the Instruction and Edification of the Id. ibid. People was necessary, and the use of Prayer was, that they might be Instructed and Edified: But now the end of Prayer is not so much the Peoples Instruction and Edification, as the yielding to God that

Worship which is due to him.

Answ. First, The Apostles were as careful that God might have his Worship, as the Papists, nay a great deal more careful. Secondly, Difjoin not Gods Worship and the Peoples Edification; for he is best Worshipped in spirit and in truth. And the more the mind understands, and the heart of the Worshipper is affected. God is the more honoured, and the better pleased.

4. Tis Objected, That Prayer is not made to the People but unto God, and he understands all Tongues alike; and 'tis sufficient that the Lord understands what is prayed, though the People are ignorant. And this Loco citatos Bellarmine does illustrate by a similitude. If a Courtier, says he, should petition for a Country-man in Latin to a King, the Country-man might be benefited by the Latin Petition of the Courtier, though he should not understand a word of it.

Answ. 1. It might have been said; That God understands all Tongues alike in the Apostles days as well as now; the Lord being then and now, and always, equally Omniscient. 2. The use of Prayer is not to inform the God we pray to, For he knows what things we have need of before me ask, Mat. 6.8. but to make our selves more sensible of our needs, and consequently more meet to be supplied; but how can this be if Prayer be lockt up in an unknown Dialect? 3. As for Bellarmines Similitude, it will not hold. For the God of Heaven is not like the Kings on Earth, who will hear Petitions made by Favourites for persons that make no address themselves: But He requires, That every particular person should ask if he will receive, and understand what he prays for; and that he should have suitable affections to the matter of his Petitions, if he will be heard and answered. Add also, That if a King should forbid Petitions in a strange Language, and should command that Petitioners should use a Tongue they understand, that with the greater earnestness they may beg what they need; to such an one a Latin Petition would not be so acceptable; But God has forbid the use of an unknown Tongue: Therefore we may conclude, That the Popilita Latin Prayers in an Auditory which understand them not, are to very little purpose. The People must seek and knock as well as the Priest, else they shall not find, else it will not be opened unto them, Mat. 7. 7.

In the fifth place I am to discover the tendency of, and Mystery of Iniquity in this Papal Doctrine, which encourages to Prayer in an unknown Tongue, and teaches People to be contented with an ignorant Devotion.

1. It gratifies exceedingly the lazy disposition of Men, who naturally like a liberty to rest in opere operato, in the work done, and cannot endure to be urged to the more difficult part of Religion, which lies in a conflict with wandring thoughts in duty; in watching over, and taking pains with the heart, that it may be intent, confiderate and affe-Ctionate in its applications unto God. I know the Papists boast of their austerities in their Devotions; but these are external things, and who has required them at their hands? And I may with good reason affirm, That one quarter of an hour spent in Prayer, where the very heart is engaged, and understands what 'tis doing, and seeks the Lord with its whole delire, will be to better purpose than all the Prayers by rote that are, or can be said by a blind Papist, though he should live to the age of Methuselah.

2. This Doctrine is a notable device to keep the People ignorant and to make them more dependent upon the Priesthood; and hereby they hope more easily to rule them. These cruel Guides, as they take away the Bible from the People, which is the great means of Knowledg; fo they will not fuffer them to cry for Knowledg, fo as to know what they cry. What a faithful servant is the Pope unto the Prince of Darkness! and what quiet possession does the strong man armed keep while the Gospel is hid, and men pray for they know not what, and consequently

3. Many Prayers may well be made in Latin meerly through shame. When I read the Scripture, I conclude the Papists are afraid of the Light which shines from thence, lest it overthrow their black Kingdom; and when I read the foolish, nay blasphemous Prayers, which are made in the Church of Rome, I conclude they are assamed the meaning of them should be known. Thus they pray to the Virgin Mary.

Sancta Maria, Que totum orbem illuminas. Dux tuos servientes exaltas. Illuminatrix cordium. Fons misericordie.

O Saint Mary, Who dost enlighten the whole world. Who dost exalt thy servants. Who dost illuminate bearts. Who art the fountain of mercy. Ab omni malo libera nos Domina: I From all evil good Lady deliver us.

To Saint Dorothy they pray thus:

Sancta Dorothea, Cor mundum in me crea.

? 50 holy Dorothy, S A clean beart create in me. Saint Agnes is prayed unto to keep them in the Faith; and Saint George to fave them from their Sins, that they may rest in Heaven with the Blessed for ever. These Latin Prayers in plain English are most wicked Blasphemies; and both Gods work and honour, which is peculiar to himself, and dear to him, is (to the provoking of him to jealousie) ascribed and imparted to the Creature.

In the last place I come to the Application.

USE I.

Bless the Lord that the Day-spring from on high bath visited this Land of your Nativity, and that Popish darkness is so much dispelled. How thankful were the Israelites, think you, for that Light which shined so clear in Gospen, when Egypt was plagued with Darkness, that was so hideous and palpable? Neighbouring Regions, most of them are blinded by Rome and Hell; and see not the things which you see, hear not the things which you hear. You are instructed to whom Prayer is be directed, unto God; and in whose Name, in the Name of Christ, whose Mediation and Intercession is always prevalent. Supplications are made in a Tongue which you understand; that you may be the more affected with what you pray for, and consequently have gracious returns to your Prayers from the God of all Grace. What cause is here of Thanksgiving that Publick Administrations are so much more agreeable unto Christs Institution, than the Administrations of the Church of Rome.

Prayers being poured forth with so much servency, and in such words as all, even the meanest, understand; the Scriptures being read in a Language which you know, so as that the Book of God is not a sealed Book to you; Sermons being preached with so much plainness and power. Finally, Sacraments being administred, so as that you may know how to improve these Seals of the New Covenant, to the strengthning of your Faith, the inflaming of your Love, and the increase of all manner of Grace: All this may well cause you to cry out with David, Psal. 84.1. How amiable are thy Tabernacles, O Lord of Hosts. And one thing have I defined of the Lord, that will I seek after, that I may dwell in the bouse of the Lord all the days of my life to be bold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his Temple, Psal. 27.4.

USE II.

It highly concerns you to fear and to pray against the return of Popish blindness. While Satan and his Angels are busie and industrious to extinguish the light of the Word, while Rome does join with Hell tothis end, that this Land may be again overspread with Ignorance, Idolatry, Superstition, Will-Worship; 'tis your wisdom and duty, while they are plotting, to be counterworking by your Prayers. Oh cry unto the Lord to secure his own Honour, and your Priviledges, against these Enemics, which are so great invaders of both. Beg with the greatest carnestness, (and truly earnest begging was never yet denied) that the Gospel may continue, and a Spiritual way of Worship according to the direction of the Gospel; and that Romes Emissaries may never make Merchandize of your Souls; or the Souls of your Posterity.

USE III.

Let the blind zeal of the Papists make you more frequent in your accesses to the Throne of Grace: Though they Worship ignorantly, yet how much do they Worship? as Superstition is wont to urge men to abundant labour. But you that see more reason to pray than they, and have more encouragement from God, than ever they understood, should be shamed and quickned unto this Duty. The Papists indeed, if they understood themselves, might well be disheartned, because their Worship is Will-worship, not of Gods appointment, but their own Invention. But you should abound in Devotion, for God will not be sought in vain as long as you seek him in his own way, and your labour shall not be in vain in the Lord, 1 Cor. 15. 58.

USE IV.

Take heed of Distraction in Prayer, and not-minding what you ask or what you are doing, when at the Mercy-Seat. Tis great hypocrific to be present only in body at the Sanctuary; the heart in the mean while running away after pleasures, covetousness, vanity; and this exceedingly provokes the Lord to jealousie, and are you stronger than He?

1 Cor. 10. 22. Pray, what's the difference between a Papist that understands not, and a rarnal Protestant that minds not a word of what is spoken in Prayer? Or if there be any difference the Protestant is in the worse case; because having the means of Edification, he is the more without Apology, that he is not edified.

USE V.

Content not your selves with bare understanding the words of Prayer, but know the Lord you pray to; be acquainted with his Power and Truth, and how he keeps Mercy for thousands, and particularly for you, if you are sensible of your sin and misery, and are willing that from both He should deliver you. Understand also the worth of what you ask, that Spiritual and Eternal Blessings being highly valued, your desires after them may be vehement, and you may wrestle with the greater strength and resolution till you have obtain'd them.

JUSE VI.

Let Understanding and Faith in this duty of Prayer be join'd together. The Popish implicite Faith, to believe as the Church believes, that is, to believe they know not what, is a wretched piece of carelesness and presumption, and a mad venturing of the Soul, which is so precious, upon an empty sound and title. But do you search the Scriptures, enquire what God has spoken; and firmly believe his words which are so saithful and worthy of all acceptation. Let your Faith in Prayer be strong; and be fully perswaded, that having such Promises as God has made, and engaged

engaged himself to make good, and such an Advocate in Heaven as Christ the Righteous; what you ask according to the Will of God shall in no wife be denied. In a word know your duty and do it, and then conclude, As certainly as Godis, so certainly he will be a remarder of them that diligently seek him, Heb. 11.6.

Non est igitur quod in hac causa, lector, hallucineris; neg; enim te fugit nos primo antiquitatem novitati: Secundo devotionem sanctam & divinam, caca & fanatice superstitioni : Tertio, anime consolationem spiritualem, rigida stupiditati : Quarto, infantia prudentiam: Quinto, torpori confensum: Sexto, fictis & ementitu periculis commoda pene infinita: Septimo, Sacrosanctam denig, Spiritus fancti sapientiam, bumane stultitie ac temeritati anteponere.

There is therefore, Reader, no room for a militake in this canses for thou canst not but know, that the Protestants prefer, 1. Antiquity before Novelty: 2. Holy and divine Devotion before blind (and properly so called) fanatick Superstition: 3. The spiritual comfort of the Soul, before rigid stupidity: 4. Prudence before childishness: 5. SERMONX

The Testimony of the Church is not the only, nor the chief reason, of our believing the Scripture to be the Word of God. In June

LUKE 16. 29.

They have Moses and the Prophets, let them hear them.

S everlasting Blessedness (mens greatest and most desirable Good) is that which God only can bestow, and the Way to it that which He only can discover: (Who knows the Lords mind like himself? Who is so sure a Guide in the Way as He who is himself the End? Nature can neither direct us to, nor fit us for a Supernatural Happiness.) Soit is not only our interest to seek it, but likewise to see, Whether what pretends to be the Rule of our walking in order to our obtaining of it, be indeed the right one; which we can no otherwise be affured of, than by seeing that it be such a one as is given us by him to whom alone it belongs to prescribe us the Wav, and who being infinitely good, as well as infinitely wife, will no more deceive us, than he can be himself deceived. Now the holy Scripture of the Old, and New Testament, is that which we profess to own as the Rule of our Faith and Life, in relation to our future Glory. It is then the wisdom of every Christian to enquire upon what account he receives this Rule, why he believes it, and submits to it, whether he be perswaded that it is of God, by God himself, or only by men; for if he can find indeed that he receives it upon the Authority of God, he may be secure of the Truth, and Sufficiency of it; but if only on that of Men, they being liable to mistakes.

mistakes may lead him into Error, and so he can never be sure that what he owns as his Rule, is indeed the right one, and of Gods own prescribing: Or admit it really be so, yet if it be not received on right grounds, he will be exposed to innumerable fears, and stuctuations, and never walk comfortably, nor constantly in his way, when he doubts whether it be the right, or a wrong one: The superstructure cannot be better than the foundation; and a well-ordered and comfortable Converfation will never be the effect of an ill-grounded Belief. It is good therefore in the beginning of our Course to be secure of our way, to see both what we believe, and why; lest otherwise, we be either forced to go back, or else upon as light grounds swerve from the way, as we were at first perswaded to engage in it. Our great enquiry then in this Discourse will be, Upon what account me believe the Scripture to be the Word of God? whether upon the Authority of God, or the Church? which I ground upon these words, They have Moses and the Prophets, let them bear them.

In this Parable, whereof these words are a part, we have an account of the different estates of a wicked man Dives, and a good man Lazarus, both in this life, and the other. In this life Dives had bis good things, the whole of his happiness, all the portion he was ever to enjoy; and Lazarus had his evil things, all the forrow and misery he was ever to endure. And in the other life, we have Lazarus in Abrahams Bosom, a place and state of rest, entered into peace; and Dives in Hell, a state of Isa. 57, 1. misery, and place of torments; where finding so great a change, and being deeply affected with his now woful condition, he is (though in vain) desirous, if not of release, as despairing of that, yet at least of a little ease; and therefore addressing himself to Abraham, he entreats him that Lazarus might be fent to dip but even the tip of his finger in water. and cool his Tongue; but this is denied him as impossible, ver. 26. Seeing that would not do, he defires, however, his torments might not be encreafed by his Brethrens coming to him, whom we may suppose to have been his fellow-finners, and partakers with him in his riot and luxury: Or, if you will believe fo much charity to be among the Damned, his request is, That Lazarus might be sent to them to admonish them for their good, that so they might be brought to a timely Repentance, e're they came to an untimely end, and then to endless torments. But this is denied him too as altogether needless, and unprofitable, ver. 35; and he is told, That God had made sufficient Provision for them, given them the most effectual means, whereby they might be brought to Repentance, in that he had given them his Written Word, Moses and the Prophets, by whose Writings if they were not perswaded to Repent, a Miracle would not perswade them; Lazarus rising from the Dead would no more be believed, than Moses and the Prophets, whose Writings were among them; and therefore to them Abraham sends them as a means sufficient for the end, pretended at least by Dives to be aimed at. They have Moses and the Prophets let them hear them; As if he had faid, The Will of God concerning thy Brethrens duty, and the Truth of God concerning future rewards as the great motives to it, are clearly enough laid down in the Scripture; and if they believe not these things, and are not perswaded to Repentance upon the Authority of God in his Word, much less will they be moved by the Testimony of one coming from the Dead. Hence I inter. That the Holy Scripture, or Written Word of God, is sufficient in it felf, and most effectually able to convince men of the truth of those things which are contained in it. It was so then, why not now? Moses and the Prophets were fo; why are not the Apostles and Evangelists? is all the whole Scripture grown Old Testament; and so old as to be decayed ? when, and by what means did it lose that Life and Power, that Authority and Efficacy it sometimes had? it had formerly more virtue to convince men than a Miracle it self, and now belike it hath less than a Council! it could have done more than a man from the dead, and now it can do less than a dead man, a finful Pope! (for his Holiness of Rome may be very wicked, the Papists themselves being Judges).

From the former Proposition it will undeniably follow, That the Scripture is Sufficient in it self to convince men of its own Divineness, or its being it self the Word of God, that being one truth it doth so often affert: The General must comprehend the Particular, and therefore if the Scripture be sufficient to satisfie the minds of men as to all that it affirms to be truth, it must needs be able to satisfie them as to this too, that the whole of it is the Word of God.

But this our Adversaries will not allow, and therefore instead of taking it for granted, or resting on this single proof, we must here put it to the Question. From whence the Scripture hath its Authority? or upon what grounds we are to believe it to be the Word of God? If you will give the Papists leave to answer, they will presently tell you, Upon the Sole Authority of the Church, or, because the Church declares it to be the Word of God, and that without the determination of the Church, it hath very little Authority, or weight in it, and you are no more bound to believe the Gospel of Mathew, than the History of Livy; Nay, one says plainly, That but for the Church, you are no more bound to believe the Scripture. than Esops Fables; and you may be sure the Man was in earnest, when you do but consider how many incredible things another of them (alledged at large by our learned Whitaker) musters up out of the Scripture, which he would fain perswade the World would never be believed, if the Church did not interpose her Testimony; and yet as broad as the Blasphemy mentioned is, another of the same Party minceth the Matter, and fays, the Words might be pionfly spoken: And if a private Doctor of the Church of Rome may thus transubstantiate Blasphemy into Piety, or make that pass for Pious, which is really Blasphemous, I fee no reason why a Popemight not add his Authority, and make it Canonical too. But that we may give the best Account of the Controversie before us: I. Something Surdis apud Chamier.

Concerning the Authority of the Scripture. Serm. X.

1. Some things must be premised by way of Explication for the better understanding of Terms.

2. The State of the Question must be laid down.

3. The Truth confirmed.

4. Popish Objections answered.

5. Some Application made.

1. For Explication of Terms, let us see, -

1. What we mean by the Scripture. By that therefore is understood the Word of God, declaring his mind concerning mens Happiness and Duty, or teaching us what we are to believe concerning God, and how we are to obey him, as it was at first revealed by himself to the Apostles and Prophets, and by them delivered by word of mouth, and afterward for the perpetuity and usefulness of it, committed to Writing as we now have it, in the Books of the Old and New Testament: So that the Word of God, and the Scripture are the same materially, and differ only in this, That the Word of God doth not in it felf imply its being written, nor exclude it, but may be confidered indifferently as to either; whereas the Scripture fignifies the same Word, only with the addition of its being committed to Writing.

2. What is meant by Authority, when we enquire, whence the Scrip- camero de verture hath its Authority. Authority in this Business is a Power of Com- bo Dei. manding or Perswading, or (as some phrase it) Convincing, arising from some Excellency in the Thing or Person vested with such Authority. Whatever hath Authority de facto, so far forth hath esteem and honour, or reverence yielded to it, as whatever hath Authority de jure hath such esteem or honour of due belonging to it, and answering it as its correlate; and both the one and the other is founded on some Excellency, fometimes of Nature (both in Persons and Things,) sometimes of Office and Dignity, fometimes of Knowledg, sometimes of Vertue and Manners, sometimes of Prudence (as in Persons;) according to each of which a suitable respect and honour is due to the Authority therefrom arifing; and as any Man excels in any of these, so he hath Authority in that, though he may not in other Things. Thus he that excels in the knowledg of the Law, may have Authority in that, though he may have none in Physick or Divinity, in which he may not excel: and an honest Man, that excels in Morality, may on that account have the Authority of a Witness, though not of a Judg. Now when we speak of the Authority of the Scripture, and ask from whence it hath it? we do but enquire, Whence it is, that the Scripture perswades, convinces, or binds us to believe it, or commands us to affent to it, as the Word God? or whereon its Power of so doing is founded? whether it be not some Excellency inherent in it self, or whether it be only fomething forrein and extrinsecal to it?

3. What we mean by Faith, when it is demanded, Why we believe the Scripture to be the Word of God? Faith, so far as it concerns the understanding understanding (for in some Acts of Faith the Will bears part) is an afsent yielded to something proposed under the appearance (at least) of Truth, built upon the Testimony of another; and therefore according as the Testimony is, for the sake of which we believe any thing, accordingly will our Faith be: If it be the Testimony of a Man or Men, our Faith will be an humane Faith; but if the Testimony be Divine, or we believe a thing because God himself asserts it, we call it a Divine Faith. Only we must remember, that a truly Divine Faith hath always God for its Author; so that three things concut to the producing the Act of such a Faith. 1. The Truth believed, which is the Object of 2. The Testimony of God concerng that Truth, which is the Formal Reason, and Ground of this Faith. 3. The Efficiency of God producing it, or working it in the Mind. Now when we speak of believing the Scripture to be the Word of God, we speak of a Divine Faith: A man may upon the Credit of his Parents, of his Minister, of a particular Church, or of the Church Catholick (if such a Testimony can be had) believe the Scripture to be the Word of God; but the question will be, what kind of Faith that is, whether such a one as God requires him to receive the Scripture with?

4. What we understand by the Church in the Question: The Church may be taken either for the Universality of Believers in all places of the World, so as to comprehend private Saints, as well as publick Officers. People as well as Pastors, and those of former ages as well as the present, Prophets themselves, and Apostles, and Pen-men of the Scriptures or we may take it for that part of the Catholick Church which lives together in the same age call, it if you please the present Catholick Church. comprehending in it all the Believers, People as well as Pastors, alive at the fame time, in the several parts of the whole World. Or else, we may understand the Church in the Popish sense, only for the present Church; and that too, for the Church of Rome, which they call Catholick; and that again, only for the Pastors of it, excluding the People; and they again may be considered either separately, or in conjunction, as meeting together in a General Council; and that either by themselves without the Pope, or together with him: Or lastly as represented by him, or virtually contained in him; for this great name the Church, dwindles at last into one only man: But sure he is no small one that contains so many in him; for if we believe the Papists (not only, though especially the Jesaits) the Pope, in this Controversie, is nothing else but the Church Catholick compacted, and thrust into a single person, in whom all those several Excellencies, which are scatter'd among the Members, do, as in the Head, collectively reside. And so the Catholickness they vaunt so much of, is crowded into a narrow compals, for those whether Paflors or Members of the Church that lived formerly are first cut off, and the Church is reduced to the present age; then the people (as excrescencles) are pared away too, and the bulkiness of the Church thereby lessened, fened, the Officers or Pastors only remaining; and yet these too must be contracted into a Council, and that at last Epitomized into a Pope, who is but the Epitome of an Epitome, and scarce so much as a small Synopsis of that Voluminous thing, the Church, they talk so largely of.

2. For the state of the Question, these things being premised, take it thus; In some things we agree with them, in some we differ from them.

1. In some we agree:

1. That the Scripture of the Old and New Testament, which we own (who yet exclude the Apocryphal Books of one sort, or other), is the Word of God, is acknowledged by them, as well as by us.

2. Consequently, That it is in it self true and of Divine Authority, and that it doth not depend upon the Church as to that Authority and Truth which in it self it hath, or that the Testimony of the Church doth not make it to be true, or to be the Word of God; the Papists themselves (at least the most wary among them) will (be sure in words) grant: and therefore they have coyned a distinction for the nonce; they tell us, That the Scripture hath a twosold Authority, one in it self, as it is true, and comes from God; the other in relation to m, as it binds us to receive, and believe it: The sormer of these they own to be in the Scripture, Antecedently to the Testimony of the Church. The distinction is vain, when all Authority is in relation to another, over whom either de facto it is, or de jure it ought to be exercised. But let it pass.

3. That every Christian is bound with a Divine Faith to receive the Scripture as the Word of God, they grant as well as we do.

4. That the holy Spirit hath a hand in mens believing the Scripture to be the Word of God, allow the Papists their sence, and they will likewise yield no less than we. That the Faith whereby men own the Scriptures, (if it be a Divine one, as they say it is), is wrought in the hearts of men by the Spirit of God, they do grant, and must, unless they will avow themselves to be Pelagians.

5. And lastly, That the Church allow us our sense, may be an help to us, and surtherance to our Faith in receiving the Scripture, as the Word of God, we will grant as well as they. That the Universal Concurrence of all Believers in receiving the Scripture, and the Testimony they do, and in all ages have, in their way and capacity given to it, is a strong Argument to perswade differences to submit to the Divine Authority of it, we easily yield. And that it is the duty of the present Church, during its time, to labour to preserve the Scripture pure and intire, and to hold it forth to others, and endeavour to perswade them of its Divineness, and so to perform the part of a Teacher, we are willing likewise to yield. And so in a word we acknowledg the usefulness of the Churches Testimony, as an external help, and that by which some benefit may be reaped by men at the beginning of their Faith; for it is the foundation of an humane Faith, and sufficient for the producing of that: And when a man hath so far yielded, as to receive the Scripture as Gods Word, though only on the credit of Men, yet coming afterward to peruse and study it, and look more narrowly into it, he may then come to see better, and more solid grounds for his belief, and God working on his heart by the Word; he may come to receive it with a Divine Faith, which at first he did only with an humane: As Job. 4. the men of Samaria who first believed Christ for the Womans words, did afterwards believe him, because they heard himself. Thus far therefore there is some agreement between them and us. So that the Question is not concerning the Object of our Faith, the thing to be believed, for both acknowledg it (in this business) to be the Divineness of the Scripture; nor concerning the Efficient cause of that Faith, for both will own it to be the Spirit which works this Faith in the heart: But concerning the

2. This therefore is the thing wherein we and they differ; something they affirm which we deny, and something we affirm which they deny.

Medium, or Argument whereby the Spirit works it, and so the ground and foundation of our Faith, that which is the formal reason why we believe the

1. They affirm the Testimony of the present Church, (and that must be of Rome only now; for they count that only the Catholick one, that is of the Pastors of it convened in a General Council, either with the Pope, (as some of them say) or without him (as others) or virtually in him (as others) to be the only sufficient ground of mens believing the Scripture to be the Word of God; and so tell us, That the Spirit bears witness to the Divinity of the Scripture by the Testimony of the Church, and makes use of that as the Medium, or Argument by which he perswades men to receive the Scripture as the Word of God, and that without that Testimony or Antecedently to it, men cannot know, nor are bound to believe the Scripture so to be. This we

Scripture to be the Word of God.

2. We affirm on the other fide, That the Testimony of the Spirit of God in the Word it self, witnessing it to be of God, by that stamp and impress, or (which comes to the same) by those notes and marks of Divinity which every-where appear in it, is the immediate and principal, and a sufficient reason of our believing it to be the Word of God, and the Medium the Spirit useth in working Faith in us or making us assent to the Divinity of the Scripture. So that as the Spirit working inwardly in our hearts, moves as the Efficient of our Faith; so the Scripture it self in its own intrinsecal beauty, luftre, power and excellency is that which moves us in the way of an Object, or Medium, to yield our affent to its being of God. By this the Spirit of God as the Author of the Scripture witnesseth it to be of God, and by an internal application of this to our minds, induceth us to affent to its fo being. The Testimony of the Spirit in the Word is open, publick, general to all if they have but eyes to see it, whereas the inward application of it by the Efficiency of the Spirit is only to Believers.

This they deny; and this we shall first (though more briefly) prove, and then disprove (as well as we deny) what they affert.

Arg. 1. The Holy Ghost in Scripture calls us to the Scripture it self, and Gods Authority only in it, (and not to the Church) for the fetling of our belief of its Divinity; and therefore in the Scripture it self we have a sufficient Argument to move us to believe its coming from God. Ha. 8. 20. we are sent to the Law and to the Testimony; the Prophets generally propound what they deliver, meerly in the name, and on the Authority of God; their usual stile is, Thus faith the Lord, and, The word of the Lord; they do no-where fend us to the Church to know, Whether it be so, or not, but leave it with us as being of it self (that is, without the Testimony of the Church) sufficient to convince us, and if we will not believe it, at our own peril be it. So in the Text, Abraham (that is indeed Christ, whose mind Abraham in this Parable is brought in speaking,) fends Dives Brethren to Moses and the Prophets; and our Saviour Christ, Joh. 5.39. sends the Jews to the Scriptures, bids them fearch them, and so ver. 46, 47; and Luke Act. 17. 11. commends the Bereaus, not that they fent up to Fernsalem to the Church there, or waited for'a General Council to affure them of the Divineness of what was preached to them, but that they daily searched the Scriptures, to see if those things were so. But all this would be in vain, our labour would be lost in searching the Scriptures, and looking into them for the confirmation of themselves, if there were not something in them sufficient to perswade us of their having God for their Author, but at last we must have recourse to the Church to affure us of it. Why are we sent thus far about, it a nearer way be at hand?

Arg. 2. Those Properties which the Holy Ghost in the Scripture attributes to the Scripture will prove the same. It is light, Prov. 6.23. The Commandment is a lamp, and the Law is light. Pfal. 119. 105. A lamp to my feet, and a light to my path: A light shining in a dark place, 2 Pet. 1.19. and fure that which is light may discover it self. He that needs another to tell him what is light, wants eyes. Heb. 4. 12. It is quick and powerful, and harper than a two-edged sword, it enters into the Soul, and therefore by its own power and efficacy discovers it self to us as well as us to our selves. It is like as a fire, and like a hammer that breaks the rock in pieces, Fer. 23. 29. So likewise, 1 Cor. 14.24,25. and Pfal. 19.7,8. From both. which we may argue, That Word which convinceth men, judgeth them, makes manifest the secrets of their hearts; that again, which converts the Soul, makes wife the simple, rejoiceth the heart, enlightens the eyes, is sufficiently able to discover it self to be of God, though the Church should not give in her Testimony; but such a Word is the Scripture: therefore, &c. And further, Why may not Gods Word discover its Author, as well as his Works do? If the Heavens declare the Glory of God, and the Firma- clamat qualiment shews his handy work, Psal. 19.1. If even the least Creatures preach bet herba God to us, they that bear not his Image on them, yet have some vestigia, Deum.

some footsteps of him, and much more his greater and more noble Works. the Glorious Fabrick of Heaven and Earth, and Man the most excellent of his Creatures on Earth, shew forth that Excellency in them. which manifests it self to be from none but God; and he hath in a word, left fuch an impress of Himself upon his Works, as that they generally proclaim themselves to be his. Why should it be thought incredible, that God should leave the like notices of Himself upon his Word, and flamp that upon it which might plainly evidence it to be his? Nay, if Men do commonly make themselves known by their Works, Writers by their Skill, Artists by their curious Pieces; if Apelles could have drawn such a Picture, Phidias have cut such a Statue, Cicero have pen'd fuch an Oration, that any who had judgment in fuch things might have faid, Such a Man and no other, was the Author of such a Work; furely then much more may God in fo lively a manner express Himself in his Word, as clearly to notifie to us, that it is his. And if any should say, God could have done it, but would not; I defire to know a good reason, Why God who hath left us so plain and conspicuous Evidences of his Wisdom, Power and Goodness on his Creatures. would not leave the print of Himself in the like manner upon his Word?

Arg. 3. Gods revealing Himself to us in the Scripture is the first and highest Revelation upon which our Faith is built, and therefore that Revelation is sufficient to manifest it self to us, even without the Churches Testimony. The reason of the Consequence is, Because Faith (a Divine one fuch as we speak of) being always built upon Revelation, whatever it be which is the first Revelation whereon our Faith is built must be sufficient to notifie it self to us; otherwise our Faith is not sounded upon any Revelation at all, if that Revelation needs fomething else which is not Revelation to give credit to it: Or if that which is the first Revelation, yet needs another to make it manifest to us, it is not it self the first, which is a palpable contradiction. And for the Antecedent, I thus make it appear: In the business of Faith, Either we must come to some first Revelation, or we must go on from one to another without any end: For either the Faith whereby I believe this Revelation. That the Scripture is the Word of God, to be Divine, is founded upon this very Revelation it felf, viz. the Scripture, (which so many times tells me it is of God), or upon some other Revelation; if upon this it self, then I have what I would, that this is the first Revelation whereon my Faith is built: But if on another, Iask again, Must I believe that for it self, or for some other; if for it self, then that must be the first; if for some other. I shall ask again, Am I to believe that for it self, or for another. and so there will be no end, no first Revelation on which my Faith is founded, but I must go higher, and higher, even in infinitum. Other Arguments might be produced to confirm what we affert, and are by our Divines, but I intended brevity in these, and the truth we maintain will be more confirmed by what I am in the next place to fay against the Papists Assertion.

2. That therefore the Testimony of the Church is not the only sufficient ground, (nor indeed a sufficient one at all,) of our believing the Divinity of the Scripture. I shall prove by several Arguments.

Arg. 1: I argue from Ephel. 2. 20. And are built upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets. The Scripture is the foundation of the Church, and therefore hath not its Authority, even in respect of us from the Church, but on the contrary the Church hath its Authority from the Scripture, upon which it depends in its very being, and without which it is not the Church, nor if built upon any other foundation; it hath no Authority but from the Scripture, none in it felf but as thence it derives it, and we know none it hath but as there we find it. And this is spoken of the true Church, and not meerly the Church in the Popilh sense. If ever we would find out the nature and definition of the Church, we must feek it in the Scripture, where alone it is that we fee it to be Gods Will to have a Church upon Earth and by what means it is called, and of whom it is constituted, and with what Power and Priviledges it is endowed. He that will question, Whether the Scripture be the Word of God will as easily question. Whether the Church be the Church of God; or Whether God have any Church or not. Now if the Church have all its Authority from the Scripture, by which alone it is a Church, and known to be so, how can it be with any reason said; That the Scripture hath its Authority, even as to w from the Church? For if the Church have no Authority but from the Scripture, than the Authority of the Church must suppose that of the Scripture, and the Scripture must be own'd, or the Church cannot be own'd; for who knows what, or which the Church is, but as the Scripture describes it to us? and so the Scripture hath not its Authority, as to us, from the Church. For can the Scripture both give Authority to the Church, and yet receive its own Authority from it? Can it authorize the Church before it be it self authorized by it? Can it give the Church a Power to communicate Authority to it, and yet hath no Authority hitherto it felf? Nay, Can it be confissent with common sense, that the Scripture should give the Church a Power to bind men to the belief of it, and yet have no Power inlit felf to bind the Church to the belief of it? Again, when they fay the Scripture hath its Authority from the Church, I ask. How shall I know there is a Church? for if I be one that own no such thing as the Scripture (which the Church is perswading me to believe) withal I own no such Society as the Church, and how will they prove there is such a one, but by the Scripture? for I who am supposed to acknowledg no Church, do acknowledg no Authority it hath, and shallnot take its own Word: And yet if I grant there be a Church, How shall I know that such a company of men as pretend to be the Church, are really so? I shall not take their own Testimony, I am not satisfied in their being witnesses to themselves: And if they will prove themselves to be the Church by the Scripture, then either the Scripture must have AuthoAuthority as to me before the Church, or else they prove one obscure thing by another: If they say there be certain signs and marks of the Church inherent in it, by which it may be known: Alas I know not those marks but by the Scripture which describes the Church. If they fay the Spirit witnesseth by those marks that this is the Church why may not I say the same of the Scripture, and so that be known without the Testimony of the Church to be the Word of God, as well as the Church to be the Church of God? And yet after all this, granting this Society of Men to be the Church, yet How shall I know that this Church is Infallible? and if I know it not to be so, I am not so mad as to build my Faith upon its Authority. If they say because it is governed by the Holv Ghost; How shall I know that? for it is not obvious to me that it is: If they fay because Christ hath promised that it should; I ask, where? Where can it be but in the Scripture? fure then the Scripture must be owned, and have its Authority as to me, or their proof is invalid, and they do but trifle instead of arguing.

Before I proceed to another. Argument, let us examine what is excepted against this. To this Text; Eph. 2. 20. It is replied by some of the Papists.

Excep. 1. That by Foundation is not meant the Scripture written by the Apostles and Prophets, but their Preaching,

Ans. But, 1. If that were granted, it would not prejudice our Cause; what they Writ and Preached is the same Truth, and differs not essentially, but only in the way of Delivery, one being delivered to their present Hearers viva voce, and the other by Writing transmitted likewise to Posterity: Act. 26. 22. Witnessing, both to small and great, and Saying no other things, than what the Prophets and Moses did say should come. So Act. 17:

2. The Preaching of the Apostles and Prophets did last but a while, whereas [Paul speaks of the lasting, perpetual Foundation of the Church. till a little a little a little and the state of the

3. If he speaks only of the Preaching of the Apostles and Prophets, How comes he to joyn these two together? for the Prophets were long since dead, and their Preaching (if that only were the Foundation of the Church) could be the Foundation of that Church only, which lived with them, and heard them.

Excep. 'He meant therefore fay some of our Adversaries, the New-Te'stament Prophets, which Preached at the same time with the Apostles."

Ans. But that is not so easily proved, as said, for though such Prophets are mentioned in some places of the New-Testament, it doth not follow, That they must needs be understood here; for Why doth the Apostle mention them only, and not Evangelists too, nay Pastors and Teachers likewise; whom he joyns altogethers Epb. 4. and who did at the same time Preach the same Truth which the Apostles did? Besides that, we find by the Doctrine of the Prophets mentioned in the New-Testament, Testament, the Truth Preached and Written by the Prophets under the Old, commonly understood. So Pet. 2. 1. 19. A more sure Word of Prophecy. Heb. 7. 1. God spake to the Fathers by the Prophets. So also, Rom. 1. 2. and Luke 1. 70. The Apostles under the New Testament, were the Chief that Taught, though New-Testament Prophets, as likewise Evangelists, Pastors, and Teachers did Preach the same Doctrine; as formerly under the Old-Testament, the Prophets that then lived were the Chief, though others besides, as the Levites, Chron. 2. 30. 22. did Teach the good knowledg of the Lord.

Excep. But, say they again, the Ephesians were not built upon Pauls Writings, which were not then extant, but on his Preaching; and therefore these other kind of Prophets must be understood on whose Preaching (together with the Apostles) they were Built.

Ans. The Preaching the Truth or Writing it makes no difference, but still it is the same Truth, which is the soundation of the Church, whether it be Written or Preached. And though the Ephesians were built on the Word as Preached by Paul, yet What hinders, but they might likewise be Built on the Word, as Written by former Prophets, whom though they could not now hear, yet they might Read? And Paul himself proves what he Preached by what the Prophets had Writ, that so both the Word Preached and Written might be propounded to the Ephesians as one and the same Foundation of their Faith.

Excep. 2. They say, That by the Church in this Place is understood, not the Pastors, but the People, because the Pastors were they that Preached; and therefore if they were meant, it would follow, that 'they should be Built upon Themselves.

Ans. 1. It is most absurd to say, That the Pastors and Doctors of the Church are not Built upon the Doctrine of the Apostles and Prophets. Who ever heard of one Foundation for the Faith of the Teachers, & another for the Faith of the People? It seems then, by their own Confession, the Pope and his Clergy are not Built upon the Foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, and if they have not this Foundation, I am sure they have no better. The Faith of Pastors and People is the same; and why is not the Foundation the same too? Are they sit to Build up Others in the Faith of the Scriptures, who are not Themselves Built upon the Scriptures? And it is idle to say, they are Built on the Holy Spirit: for will they separate the Spirit from the Scripture? What doth the Spirit Teach but out of, and according to the Scripture? to be Led by the Spirit, and yet Built on the Scriptures, are very well contistent.

Arg.2. It is not absurd to say, That the Teachers of the Church are Built on the Doctrine they Teach, though Not as they Teach it, yet as They have before received believed it: Indeed they ought to offer nothing to Others as the Foundation of their Faith, but what is the Foundation of their Own: nor to hazard the Souls of their Hearers upon any worse Bottom, than they would venture their own Souls. And it doth not follow, from hence, That they are taught by themselves, or are a Foundation to themselves, but only that the Doctrine they have themselves Believed and are Built upon, they deliver it to Others, that they too may believe it, and be Built upon it.

Arg. 2. The Doctrine delivered in the Scripture doth not, as to our receiving it, depend upon the Church, and therefore neither doth the Scripture it self: the Doctrine of the Scripture, and the Scripture it self. are really the same, and differ but in an accident of being Written, or not Written. The same Doctrines we have in the Scripture were published, and known before they were written, and they did not then depend upon the Authority of the Church, and why should they now? Doth the Writing of them make them of less Authority, or less credible, or less able to convince Mens minds than they formerly were? Upon the Authority of what Church did Adam, Seth, Enoch, Abraham &c. receive the Word of God, when it was yet unwritten? What Council was there, what Pope to perswade them of it? And how come the same Truths to have less Power and Efficacy to perswade us, than them? Will our Adversaries say the Patriarchs received the Word immediately from God himself? True: some of them did; but what is that to the Church, and her Authority? Or will they fay, those Patriarchs from whom others received the Word were Infallible? They will hardly be able to prove it. How came Abraham to perswade his Wife to tell a lie, and expose her Chastity thereby for the saving of his Life. if he were Infallible? And how came other Patriarchs to allow Polygamy if they were Infallible? And do not the Papists themselves tell us that the Church of the Jews was not Infallible, and that Infallibility is the peculiar Priviledg of the Gospel-Church, the Promise of it being made only to that? And to come down lower, Moses received many Things of the Lord, which were immediately received by the People, as the Law of the Passover, Exod. 12. and 24.3. where the People presently answer, That All the words which the Lord had faid, they would do. Did the People themselves (the Church in the Wilderness. AG. 7.18.) give Authority to these Laws, or did the Council of the Elders do it? We find nothing of their being convened together upon any such account, as to consider whether Gods Laws should be receiwed or not: Or did they receive them on the Authority of any other Church? If so, which was it, where was it? Or lastly, was Moses an Old-Testament Pope, and the Virtual Church of Israel? Then by like that Church was Infallible as well as the Gospel, contrary to their own That Moses was infallibly Inspired in all that he commanded the People from God, is sure; but that ever he pressed them to receive the Word of God on his own Authority, or any but Gods, can never be proved. If they fay that the People received the Word on the account of the Miracles wrought by Moses, that is more to our purpose than theirs. And what shall we say of the Law written in Mens hearts? on whose Authority is that received? it is the same for substance with the Law written in the Word; and must there be the Testimony of the Church to affure men that even this Law too is of God? Or, if it be acknowledged for its own light and power whereby it manifelts it felf to be of God. Why may not the Law written in the Word be so acknowledged too? But come we further down; On whose Authority were the Sermons of the Prophets, after Moses's time received? When they spoke to the People in the Name of the Lord, did they ever cite the Testimony of the Church to vouch what they said to be indeed from the Lord? Or, did they ever feek the suffrages of the high Priests, and Governours of the Church to establish their Doctrine as Divine? their ordinary stile is, Thus faith the Lord, not thus saith the Church; or the Church fays, That the Lord faith thus. Lastly, if we descend to the Times of the New Testament, we shall find the same there: When our Saviour Christ himself preached, what he spoke was as much the Word of God when he spake it, as now that it is written; but neither did he refer himself as to the Divinity of his Doctrine, to the Authority of the Church; nor did any believe it on that account. He did not refer it to the Church, for he did not receive Testimony from men, Joh. 5.34. No not from John Baptist himself, though of no small Authority in the Jewish Church, and generally taken to be a Prophet. Though Fohn, as his duty was, did bear witness to Christ, and point to him, Joh. 1. This is the Lamb of God, &c. yet Christ had no need of this Testimony, to make himself be received as the Messiah, or what he preached as the Word of God, as if the one or the other could not have been received without it: He therefore tells the Jews, Joh. 5.36. That he had greater witness than that of John; first his Works, then his Father himself, ver. 27.- then the Written Word, ver. 39. Search the Scriptures, &c. they are they that restifie of me. All this while here is not one tittle of the Church, and its Testimony; and if that be the only means whereby men can be assured of the Divineness of the Word How comes Christ to overlook it? And that they who believed Christs Doctrine did not believe it on the Authority of the Church is clear; for the Church of the Jews was genevally corrupt, erred in many things, and therefore was unfit; and it was, especially as to its Guides and Officers, generally against Christ, and therefore unwilling to give Testimony to him; it neither own'd him, nor his Doctrine; so that they who received and believed Christs Preaching did it on some other account than the Testimony of the then-prefent Church. If the Papists shall say, they received his Doctrine on the account of Christs own Divine Authority; I would enquire How they came to know he had any such Authority? for that Christ was the Meffish, and consequently had this Divine Authority, were some of the Truths he preached. If they say, That Christs Doctrine was received either upon the account of his Miracles, or of its agreement with the U u

Scripture of the Old Testament; they say more for us than for themselves, and either way desert their cause. And if we look to the Apofiles that followed Christ, and preached the same Doctrine, we shall see that it was not received on the account of the Church, no more than commanded to the hearers thereon: Act. 2. upon Peters Preaching three thousand believed, they gladly received the word, ver. 41. they did not it seems, expect the Testimony of the Church to tell them, Whether it were the Word or not. Al.4.4. we read of either five thousand more, or so many as made up the whole five thousand. And Ast. 3. the Samaritans receive the Gospel on Philips Preaching, and afterward the Eunuch; and (to pass by others) the Bergans, and Thessalonians receive the Word, Act. 17. Of the former it is faid, v. 11. That they received the Word with all readiness of mind, and daily searched the Scriptures, &c. Of the latter Paul testifies, 1 Theff. 2. 13. That they received the Word, not as the Word of Man, but as it is indeed the Word of God. All this while here is no Church interposing its Authority, or afferting the Divineness of what Peter or Philip, or Paul preached. On what account then did these People believe the Word preached by the Apostles? On the Authority of the Church say the Papists: But what Church? "Why says "a great one among them, speaking of the Thessalonians, the voice of "Paul was the voice of the Church, when he preached to the Thessalonians, "and so they in receiving the Word on Pauls Authority received it on "the Authority of the Church: Say the same of Peter and Philip. Paul it feems then was the Church, or else how could Pauls Preaching be the voice of the Church? What kind of Church then was Paul? was he the Church Virtual, was he a Pope, and was Peter and Philip, and the rest of the Apostles and Evangelists so too? A blessed Church sure that had so many Popes, or rather a miserable one, that either had no visible Head, or had so many. If they say, Pauls voice was the voice of the Church, because he was an Officer of it, by whom the Church published. the Doctrine she believed and was to propagate: Paul was indeed an Officer of the Church, but yet made so by Fesus Christ himself, not an Apostle of men, nor by man, Gal. r. 1. And the Doctrine he preached was no otherwise the Doctrine of the Church, than as it was the same which the Church believed, but never taught it him; for he received is not of men, neither was taught it, but by the Revelation of Jesus Christ, ver. 12. and therefore they might more reasonably have said, That the voice of Paul was the voice of Christ, the Word he preached being more properly the Word of Christ who was the Author of it, than the Word of the Church who only received it of Christ. But what will become of this fine invention of our Jesuit, if the Thessalans did not receive the Word on the Authority of Paul himself, whether in his single or representative Capacity, (or call it as you please)? and sure they did not: For then his Authority must be own'd, e're on the account of that his Preaching could be believed; but both Paul and his Authority (what-

(whatever it were) was unknown to the Theffalonians when he first preached among them, and therefore could not induce them to believe what he taught. The same we may say of the other Apostles in their first planting the Gospel, when they came to the Gentiles; they were unknown till they made themselves and their Authority known by their Preaching: And when they came to the Jews where they were known, yet they were not trusted, nor their Apostolical Authority acknowledged, and so it could prevail neither with the one, nor with the other till their Doctrine was first believed.

Arg. 3. The Scripture hath its Authority in relation to us before the Church pass its judgment concerning it, and therefore it hath not that Authority from the Church. This will appear;

1. By the Concession of the Papists themselves, who acknowledg, That the Church only declares the Scripture to be Authentick, but doth not make it so; sure then it was Authentick in it self before that Declaration of the Church, which is only a pronouncing that to be, which was before. And if it be in it self Authentick it is so to us too, that is, it hath in it self a power of binding us to the belief of it, so soon as we come to hear of it, whether the Church hath declared its authentickness or not.

- 2. If the Scripture hath not its Authority as to m before the Judgment of the Church, then either it must be a private or publick Judgment of the Church which gives it that Authority: a private one it cannot be; for when we speak of the Authority of the Scripture as to us, it is understood of all Christians every-where, and it is not fit that a private Judgment of the Church, or (which is the same) the Judgment of a private Church should give Laws to all the rest: Nor can it be the publick Testimony, or that of the Catholick Church, for none such can be produced by the Papists, from whence the Scripture hath its Authority; let them if they can shew us the first General Council that ever declared the Scripture to be the Word of God. The Council of Ferusalem, Act. 15. if it were a General one, is the first we read of, and that toucheth not the Point in hand, doth not declare the Scripture to be Authentick, but takes it for granted. They that were there met cite the Scripture of the Old Testament, and thereby own its Authority, but do not then first establish it; and Peter and the rest do the like in their Preaching, Act. 2. 3. and dare the Papists say then, That the Old Testament was not Authentick before this Council? Had the Church hitherto no certain Canon, nor Authentick Scripture to be the Rule of its Faith? After this Council we find no General one till that of Nice, and was the Church of God all this while too, for three hundred years, without the Canon of the Scripture? To fav nothing that the Council of Nice it self did never define which it was, but acknowledged it as already received.
 - 3. If a Council meets to declare the Divine Authority of the Scripture, ture, we would know by what Authority it meets? If the several Paflors of the Church come together on the Authority and by the command of the Scripture it self, then it hath its Authority before they meet, else it could not make it their duty so to do: If by some Revelation or impulse of the Spirit without the Scripture, what kind of Spirit is that which acts in separation from the Scripture? And if the Papists will affirm this, let them no more call themselves good Catholicks, but even the worst of Fanaticks.

Arg. 4. The Authority of the Church is not more certain or clear as to us, than that of the Scripture, and therefore the Scripture cannot have its Authority from it: That which proves another thing must it self be more clear and better known: But that the Authority of the Church is not better known to us than that of the Scripture will soon appear; for whatever Authority the Church hath, the must prove it either from her felf, or from something else: If from any thing else, it must either be from the Testimony of those that are out of the Church, but they know not the Church, nor any Authority it hath; or from the Scripture, but then the Authority of the Scripture must be more known than that of the Church; or from the Spirit, but how will they make it out that they have the Testimony of the Spirit for them, otherwise than by the Scripture, in and by which he is wont to bear witness? If they say the Spirit witnesseth to the Authority of the Church inwardly, so as to perswade the minds of Dissenters that the Church is the Church of God; this is meerly beg'd, and not proved, and yet will not fatisfie neither; for we ask not What is the Efficient Cause of mens believing the Authority of the Church, but What is the Argument whereon that belief is grounded, and whereby the Church perswades Men of its own Authority? Or else on the other lide, if the Church prove its Authority from it felf, then the same thing shall be proved by it felf: But yet I ask, What Judgment of the Church is it, whereby its Authority is proved? They say both the Testimony of the Ancient, and of the Prefent Church. But how can the Tellimony of the Ancient Church be known, but by the Writings of those that formerly lived, the Books of Fathers, and Decrees of Councils? But we would know how we shall have greater assurance that those Books were written by those Fathers whose Names they bear, and those Decrees made by those · Councils to which they are ascribed, than that the Scripture is the Word of God? How came we to be more certain that Cyprian's, or Anftin's Works were Writ by them, than that the four Gospels were Written by the four Evangelists, or Pauls Epistles by him? And if the Present Church prove its. Authority by the Ancient Church, it must prove it but to very few; for they are but few that ever faw, and yet fewer. that ever read the Writings of the Ancients, and many perhaps have never heard of them. And besides, the Ancient Church was sometime the Present Church, and when it was so, from whence might it prove its Authority? From some more Ancient no doubt, according to our Adversaries discourse, it must be. But from whence did the first Church prove its Authority (for we must come to a first) when there was none before it to prove it by? Lastly, the Authority of the Prefent Church cannot be proved by the Testimony of the Present Church: For then it must be either by a part of it, but that cannot be; for a part of the Present Church is inferior to the whole of it, and he that questions the Authority of the whole, will no less question that of a part; Or elfe, by the whole Church, and then the Authority of the whole Church must be proved by the Authority of the whole Church; we must believe She is the Church, because She says She is the Church.

Arg. 5. If we are to believe the Divinity of the Scripture, meerly on the Churches Authority, then that Faith can be but an humane Faith, because founded on no better than the Authority of Men: our Faith can be no better than its Foundation; a Divine Faith cannot be built upon humane Testimony; but the Papists themselves are ashamed to own a thing so grossy absurd, as that the Faith whereby we believe one main Article of Religion, the Divineness of the Scripture, should be but an humane Faith.

Excep. To this therefore they say, That the Faith whereby we be-quens non lieve the Scripture to be the Word of God is a Divine Faith, and built aliter loquitur, on the Testimony of God, and that Testimony is no other than the quam si imme-

Testimony of the Church. We easily reply,

Ans. 1. That the Churches Testimony is no otherwise the Testimo- aut quovis alio ny of God, than as it agrees with the Word of God; and when it doth supernaturali fo we are to believe what the Church says, not merely because the modo reve-Church fays it, but because God says it: And if the Church holds landi, nobis forth to me any Divine Truth, and I'yield my affent to it, merely because Staplet. the Church declares it to me; though what I believe be a Divine Truth, yet the Faith with which I receive it will be but an humane Faith; the Truth is of God, but my Faith is in Man; Whereas if I believe any Truth because God speaks it, though not by the Church nor any Officer of it, but some private Person, yet my Faith is a Divine Faith, and the Testimony of a private person speaking what the Scripture speaks, is as really the voice of God as the Testimony of the Church.

2. Some of the most Learned of the Papists themselves make a great difference between the Testimony of God, and of the Church; the former they grant to be altogether Divine, the latter modo quodam, after a fort Divine; the former they reckon to be the primary Foundation of Bellarm: Faith, the latter but the secondary a nay some of them acknowledg that Becan, apud Faith which rests only on the Authority of the Church, not to be Di-Rob. Baron. vine; and some the Churches Testimony to be but the conditio sine qua Can 1. 2. c.83 non, the condition without which we cannot believe the Divinity of the Scriptures, which fure they would scarce do if they thought the Testimony of the Church to be the Testimony of God: And if the Testimony of the Church be but in some sort a Divine Testimony, the Faith which is built upon it can be but in some sort a Divine Faith: and if the Testimony of the Church be but the secondary Foundation of Faith. How comes it to be (according to Stapleton) the Testimony of God himself, which sure they will allow to be the primary Foundation of Faith?

3. Before they can evince the Testimony of the Church to be the Testimony of God, they must first prove the Church to be absolutely Infallible, and see they agree among themselves about it, lest we be still at a loss how to know what is that Church whose Testimony is the voyce of God himself.

And 4. If I do but deny the Testimony of the Church to be the Testimony of God (as we do) how will they prove it? By the Testimony of the Church; I shall not take its word. Or will they say it hath such Notes of its being the Voice of God in it, as thereby to manifest it self to be his Voice? They will get nothing by that, for I am ready to fay the same of the Scripture. Or, Lastly, Will they prove it by the Scripture? Then they plainly give away their Cause, and own the Authority

Arg. 6. If we must believe the Scripture to be the Word of God, of the Scripture to be before the Testimony of the Church.

only because the Church determines it to be so, then we must believe all things in it to be of God for the same reason only: That Christ came into the world to fave sinners, that whoever believeth in him, shall have Everlasting Life, &c. and all the Promises of the Golpel must be believed to be made to us by God, only because the Church tells us they were, and the Truth of them, as to us, depends meerly on the Churches Authority, and so all the comfort of our hearts, and the hopes we have of Heaven must be primarily derived from the Authority of the Church, and ultimately resolved into it: What a case had we been in if it had not pleased the Church to receive these Promises into the Canon? and See the Papists if the Papists say true, she might not have received them; for (as we shall see by and by) it depends wholly upon the Church what Books shall be Canonical, and what not, and by the same reason what parts of those Books; and consequently, whether all the Promises of the Gospel shall be Canonical or not; and so we ow all our Hope to the Churches Charity, and must count her a good-natur'd Mother for not cutting off these Breasts of Consolation, but leaving something for her poor Children to hang upon, to keep them from perishing. Belike it is the Churches favour that all the World is not damned. I am sure the best Promises in the Scripture, if the Popith Doctrine take place, can afford but cold comfort. For if I be asked, What ground I have for my Hopes of Salvation? I answer the Promises of God. If I be asked again, Are these Promises true? I answer, Yes. But how doth that appear? Why, because God made them. But how do I know God made them? Well enough; for the Church fays he did. Here the Authority of the Church is the first Foundation of all my Hopes: And poor ones, God knows, they they are, if no better grounded, and little comfort I am like to have in them. It is to little purpose to tell me, the Testimony of the Church is not meerly Humane; for is it meerly Divine! If it be not, it cannot found a Faith which is meerly Divine: And when my Soul, and the everlasting Salvation of it, lies at stake, I think I am concerned to see that my Faith and Hopes have a sure Foundation; and that I am sure none can be which is not meerly Divine.

Arg. 7. If the Testimony of the Church is necessary, and the only sufficient Reason of our believing the Divineness of the Scripture, then it will certainly follow, that no man who is out of the Church, can be called into the Church by the Scripture; Which is pretty strange Do-Ctrine, and yet I see not how possibly the Papists can evade it; for they that are called into the Church by the Scripture are perswaded by the Scripture, and convinced by it that it is their duty to joyn themselves Vid. Cham. to the Church: But this can never be if the Scripture be of no Autho-Can. 1, 6.18. rity with them; whatever convinceth or perswades a man must certainly have some Authority with him; and if therefore the Church perswades men by the Scripture, that Scripure must needs be received, and own'd ere they be joined to the Church; the Scripture being the very Reason. and Argument whereby they are perswaded. The Conclusion will not be yielded to if the Medium from whence it is infer'd be not first granted; and in this case the Scripture is the Medium the Church makes use of in perswading men to embrace her Society. Thus it was in the beginning of the Gospel-Church, Acts 2. Peter disproves the conceit some of the Two had of him, and the rest of the Apostles, that they were full of new Wine, by the Testimony of Scripture, Joel 2. 28. Propheeying concerning the pouring out of the Holy Ghost in the latter days. Then he proves the Resurrection of Christ, by Pful. 16. 8, &c. And his Ascension into Heaven, by Pfal. 110. 1. And his being the Christ promised to David to be of the fruit of his Loins, by Psal. 132. 11. And hereupon follows the bringing into the Church three thousand of the Hearers, who When they heard these things, were pricked in their hearts, Act. 2. 32. And so ch. 3. How often doth Peter cite the Prophets, particularly, Moles v. 22. And Philip thus Preacheth to the Eunuch out of the Prophet Isaiab, ch. 8. And Peter again to Cornelius out of the Prophets, ch. 10. 43. And Paul Act. 13. where we find some both Jews and Gentiles wrought on by his Preaching and brought into the Church. And was it the Authority of these Apoliles, that is, in the Papists stile, the Church, that perswaded thus many? Alas, they. that heard them did not once dream of their being the Church, and therefore did not believe on that account:

Arg. 8. No Law receives its Authority of binding Men to Subje-Ction to it, from those that are merely subject to it, and did not make it; therefore the Scripture hath not its Authority from the Church, which is merely subject to it as a Law; and is not the Author of it.

The whole Church is so, and not only Pastors but People; and if the Pope himself be not under the Scripture, as the Law by which he is to be ruled, well may he pass for be avoused, that wicked, or lawless One spoken of 2 Thess. 2.8. True indeed, a Law may be made known by an Herald that proclaims it, but Who can say it receives its Authority of binding the Subjects from him, when he himself is one of them, and as much bound to it, as any else? Allow the Church to be the Herald which Proclaims and Publisheth this Law, Must She therefore give Authority to it? Put case, a Subject hear of a Law though not by an Herald, Is he not bound to submit to it, because he did not hear it proclaimed? Suppose a Man come to the knowledg of the Scripture, some other way than by the Ministery of the Church, in the Popish sence, that is, the Pastors of it, as it is storied the Indians, and the Iberians did by the help of private Persons, Is he not bound to submit to it? Must he suspend his Belief till he have the Testimony of the Church to as-fure him that the Scripture is of God?

"If it be said, that a Law doth not bind till it be promulged, and "the promulgation of it is the Churches business. I Answer; God hath published his Law sufficiently in the Scripture, and to it all must be subject to whom the Scripture comes, whether the Church further tells them that it is the Word of God or not; as in the case mentioned it was received and submitted to. I wonder how the Church was the Herald that proclaimed the Law of God to the Iberians, when they received it from a poor captive Woman. Stapleton (before) tells us. That when Paul preached to the Thessalvnians his voice was the voice of the Church; And I pray was this poor Womans voice the voice of the Church too? By my consent let her even be the Church it self, virtual. infallible, a meer Pope Foan the first. But further, if the Church publish this Law we speak of, and it doth not bind till published by her, Upon what account did she her self believe it when she first published it? (Let the Question be concerning the Herald himself why he believes the Law which himself proclaims?) Doth the Church believe the Scripture to be the Word of God at all antecedently to her own publishing and propounding it to others, or not? Is her Faith wrought in her by the Testimony she her self gives to the Scripture, or by something before? I suppose the Papists will scarce be so mad as to say the former; For what kind of Faith must that be, when a man believes meerly upon his own Testimony? And how can the Church be the Church before she believes? If they say, the Churches Faith in the Scripture was wrought in her before her own Testimony concerning its Divineness, I would fain know what that is by which it is wrought? If it be any thing in the Word it felf, or be the Testimony of the Spirit, Why may not Lor any man else believe the Scripture before the Church give in her Testimony concerning it, upon the same account that she her self doth? But if the believe the Divinity of the Scripture upon the Testimony of the former Church, I would know again, What better assurance she hath of the Testimony of the former Church, than of the Scripture it self, seeing she can know it only out of the Writings of the Ancients? and whoever questions the Authority of the Scripture, may upon much better grounds question the Writings of Fathers, and Decrees of Councils, as was faid before.

Arg. 9. They that believe not the Scripture to be the Word of God, when propounded to them as fuch, though they have not the Testimony of the Church to confirm them in it, yet Sin in their not believing it, and are therefore bound to believe it, antecedently to the Church's Testimony (for if they were not bound to believe it, they should not Sin in disbelieving it) and confequently the Scripture hath its Authority in it self, and before the Testimony of the Church; and therefore not from it. That Men Sin in not believing the Scripture even without the Churches Testimony, is proved from Att. 13. 46, 51. where Paul shakes off the Dust of his Feet against the Unbelieving Jews, and tells them they Judg themselves unworthy of Eternal Life. See Act. 28. 24. &c. where he declares their actual Unbelief to be the effect, of their hard-heartedness; which though it might be judicial they being left of God to themselves and their own Lusts, yet withal it was finful too, and contracted by themselves. And will any Man say, That these Jews in refuling the Gospel did not Sin? I suppose the Papists themselves scarce will. If they say, as formerly, That Pauls Testimony was the Testimony of the Church; I answer, Those Jews own'd no such thing as a Gospel-Church, nor any Authority it had to bind them to the Belief of the Gospel; and consequently could not own Paul as an Officer of that Church, his Apostleship being merely a Gospel-Office, which Man could not submit to who did not first receive the Gospel by which he was conflituted an Apostle. If they say, they might know him to be an Apostle by the Miracles he wrought; I answer again, That At. 13. when he Preached at Antioch in Pisidia, we have no mention of any Miracle he there wrought, yet some both Jews and Gentiles believed, v. 42, 43. And therefore they neither received himself nor his Preaching upon the account of his Miracles, nor could Miracles make it the Duty of the unbelieving Jews to submit to Paul as an Officer of the Gospel-Church when no Miracle was wrought by him. If it be said that he was known by the fame of his Miracles elsewhere wrought which gave credit to him; Then it will follow, that Paul was to be believed for his Miracles sake, as well as the Gospel for his sake; and thence again, That the Gospel was not to be believed merely for Pauls own Authority, but principally for his Miracles, it being for their fake that he himself was owned as having any Authority; and if so, Either Pauls Authority was not the Authority of the Church, or the Authority of Paul as the Church was not Supream, for that of his Miracles was above it: That which procured credit to him was of greater Authority XX than himself. Upon the whole it seems by this reply of the Papists that Miracles were the great thing which procured credit to Pauls Preaching; and if they did, the Authority of the Church did not, unless, as before they made Paul and the Church the same, so here they will make Miracles and the Church the same.

Arg. 10 It cannot be certainly known by the Testimony of the Church, that the Scripture is the Word of God, and therefore it hath not, as to w, its Authority from the Church. If it may be certainly known that the Scripture is the Word of God, by the Testimony of the

Church, then, Either it must be by the Testimony of the Universality of Believers, or of the Pastors; not the former, for (beside that the Papists themselves exclude them, and say that the Scripture is to have Authority with them, but not from them) Either we speak of the Multi-Vid. The Sal- tude of Believers separately and disjunctively, and so they cannot give credit to the Scripture, when they are all of them fallible and liable to Error: Or else all together and in conjunction; but so likewise they cannot certifie us of the Divinenels of the Scripture, because they never did, never will meet together to do it; and we may stay long enough ere we believe the Divinity of the Scripture, if we tarry till all the Believers in the World meet together to give in their Verdict concerning it. If we speak of the Church merely in the Popish sence, for the Pastors of it. there will be as much uncertainty as in the other; for either we must consider them separately too, or in conjunction; if separately, they are all liable to Error, and according to the Papills themselves they do all believe the Scripture on the Authority of the Church, and therefore cannot give Authority to it; if we consider them all together, when did, or when will the Pastors of all the Churches in the World meet together to give their joynt Testimony to the Scripture? And if they should, Why are we bound to believe them? They were not infallible fingly, nor can they be any more so conjunctly, if all the several parts of the integral, the Church, be liable to Error or Corruption, Why is not the whole? But suppose the Pastors meet by their Delegates in a General Council, Will that mend the Matter? Not at all that I see; for it is not yet determined by the Papists themselves, where the Supream Authority, which should give Testimony to the Scripture, doth reside, whether in Pope, Council, or both; and so we are lest at uncertainties, and know not to whom to go, whose word to take, but must suspend our belief of the Divineness of the Scripture, till it be agreed upon among our Adversaries, whose Authority is indeed Supream and to be relied upon. Yet put case a General Council be the chief which gives Testimony to the Scripture; How shall we know that this Council hath not Err'd in determining the Scripture to be the Word of God? Shall we know it by the Scripture? It is supposed we doubt concerning that, and so its Testimony is not valid; Or by the Testimony of the Church? Why, this Council is the Church it self, which

which determines in its own Case, and so we must believe this Council hath not Err'd, because it says it hath not Err'd. If the Pope be the Church virtual, and we must receive the Scripture on his credit, the same Objection will be against him, for How shall we know he doth not Err? By the Scripture? But it is yet in Question; Or by the Testimony of the Church? The Pope himself is this Church, and then we must believe he hath not Erred, only because he saith he hath not Erred. Lastly, Let Pope and Council both together be this Church, How shall we know they both together do not Err? Not by the Scripture for that is not yet own'd; nor by the Testimony of the Church, for Pope and Council together are this Church, and their Testimony concerning themselves is not to be received. And to conclude, How shall we know that Pope and Council are the Church? Not because they themselves say so, nor because the Scripture doth, for that is not yet believed; not by the Testimony of the Spirit, for Why shall that bear witness any more to the Church, that it is the Church, than to the Scripture, that it is the Word of God? Nor yet by Notes or Marks inherent in the Church, for, Why may not the same be allowed to the Scripture? And how shall we know these marks to be true, but by the Scripture, by which alone we can judg of the nature, and properties of the Church? And yet still it is supposed that the Scripture is not believed.

4. This may suffice to shew the absurdity of the Popish Doctrine, let us in the next place see what grounds they have for it, and how they oppose the Truth: I shall only speak to the chief of their Arguments, and reduce them to as sew Heads as well as I can; any that would see them more largely handled, may consult several of our Protestant Divines, who speak more fully to this Point, than the shortness of a Sermon will permit.

Obj. "Either (say they) the Authority of the Scripture must be known "by the Church, or by the Scripture it felf, or by the Testimony of the "Spirit; but it cannot be known either of the two latter ways; and there-"fore can only the first. First, That it cannot be known by the Scrip-"ture it self, they prove, because neither the whole Scripture can be proved by the whole, nor one part of it by another. For if a man "deny the whole Scripture it will be in vain to attempt the proof of "one part by another, when such a one doth no more receive the Autho-"rity of one part than of another: And the whole cannot be proved "by the whole; for then the same thing should be proved by it self; "and whereas that which is brought to prove another thing should it " felf be more clear than that which it is to prove, in this case one ob-"feure thing should prove another; or rather an obscure thing be "brought to prove it felf, for the whole Scripture cannot be said to be "more clear, or better known than it self. Before I propound the other part of their proof, I shall answer to this.

Ans.

Ans. The Divine Authority of the Scripture may be known by the Scripture it self. For 1. The Authority of one part of it may be proved by another part to those that do not deny the whole. Some there have been, and still may be, who have received some part of the Scriptures, and not others; to fuch we may prove that part which they deny by that which they all. The Sadducees acknowledged the Five Books of Moses, but not the Prophets; our Saviour Christ therefore when he had to do with them, did not cite the Prophesie of Daniel to prove the Resurre-Ction of the Dead, but Moses Writings, Mat. 22. But when he dealt with others of the Fews who received the whole Old Testament, he proved what he spake out of other parts of it, out of the Prophets themselves; and so bids them more generally search the Scripture. Why may not we do likewise? We shall see how the Old and New Testament prove each. other, so that we may argue with men that acknowledg the one, so as by that they allow, to prove that which they deny.

1. The Old Testament is proved by the New, Luk. 24. 44. Christ divides the whole Old Testament into Moses, the Prophets and the Psalms, and thereby declares them all to be Canonical; that was then the usual way by which the Fews did divide the Old Testament. And here in the Text, Abraham sends Dives's Brethren to Moses and the Prophets. And Job. 10. 34, 35. Christ mentioning a place out of the Psalms, bears witness to the whole Old Testament under the name of the Scripture, The Scripture cannot be broken. And we find particular parts of the Old Testament proved in the New, Mat. 5. Christ confirms the Law of Mofer as to its Divine Authority, when he explains it, befide other places in which he speaks of some particular Laws, Mat. 12. 42. and Luk. 4. 26. and especially Heb. 11. the Historical part of the Scripture is confirmed; and how many Testimonies have we out of the Psalms and Prophets every where, which do the same. The twelve lesser Prophets are at once proved by Stevens alledging them, Act. 7. 42. where the Testimony cited is out of Amos; but Steven mentions the Book of the Prophets, i.e. That Volume of the smaller Prophets which among the Tems was reckoned as one Book.

2. The New Testament is confirmed by the Old. For how often doth Christ and his Apostles prove their Doctrine out of the Old Testament? when they quote the Old Testament, it is a good proof of its Authority to any that own the New; and when by those Quotations they prove their own Doctrine, it is a good Argument for the proof of the New Testament, to them that believe the Old, as the case was of the Fews at that time; and therefore our Saviour Christ refers them to the Old Testament, particularly Moses, Fob. 5. 45,46. for the proof of the great Doctrine he held forth to them, That he was the Messesh that should come into the World. So Peter, Act. 3. refers to Deut. 18. to prove what he was preaching, A Prophet hall the Lord your God raise up to you, &c. The same we may say of the Types of the Old Testament, that they confirm the New, in which we find them fulfilled. If any fay, We find no particular confirmation of Ezra, Nebemiah, and Estber, in the New Testament: I answer, They are confirmed by our Saviour Christ in his general Division of the Old Testament, according to the Jewish account, into the Law, the Prophets, and the Psalms, under which these Books were contained; the whole Volume of the Hagiographa going under the name of the Psalms.

2. But now, what if we have to do with those that deny the whole Scripture, admit no part of it, How shall we convince them that it is the Word of God? Ianswer,

1. Not by the Church, be fure; for if they have no reverence for any part of the Scripture, they will have as little for the Church, which hath no being as a Church, but from the Scripture; and therefore it will be a most vain thing to attempt a proof of the Scripture either in part, or in the whole, by the Church, which is as unknown in the nature of a Church, to them that question the Scripture, as the Scripture it self is.

2. We would prove the whole Scripture by the whole, as well as one part of it by another. For as the whole systeme of Gods Works in the Creation proves it felf to be of God, and to have him for its Author, Pfal. 19. 1, &c. by all those eminent signs and effects of Gods Goodness, Power and Wisdom which are to be seen in the whole: So likewise doth the whole Scripture prove God to be the Author of it, by all those signs and evidences of his Wisdom, Goodness, Power and Holiness which appear in the whole, and manifest it to be of God. Nor doth it follow from hence, That if the whole Scripture prove it felf, it is, as the Papills say, more known than it self, simply and absolutely, though in some respects, it certainly may be so, as a man in one respect may be more known than himself in another: A man when he hath given some eminent proofs of his Learning, is thereby more known than without them he is; so the Scripture too considered with all those Evidences of Gods Goodness, Wisdom, Holiness, &c. which appear in it, is more known than it self when these are not considered. How do we prove the Sun to be the Sun but by the glory of its light, which so far excels the light of other Stars? and is not the Sun confidered with its light more known to us than confidered in it felf? How do we come to the knowledg of the nature of things in the World, but by confidering their Properties, Qualities, Effects; &c. which plainly declare what their nature is; seeing such Properties, &c. could not be but where such a nature is ? So likewise here, there are those Properties in the Scripture, those Excellencies which could be from none but God; and therefore make it appear that that Writing which hath those Excellencies in it is of God. To speak of these distinctly is not my present business, not have ving to do with them that deny the Scripture.

2. "We cannot (say the Papists again) know the Scripture to be the "Word of God, by the Testimony of the Spirit; for either it is by the "publick Testimony, which is that of the Church, and if this be gran-

'ted;

"ted, they have enough; or its private Testimony, but then (they say) "it will follow; 1. That our Faith in the Scripture is Enthusiasm. "2. That if the private Testimony of the Spirit be questioned, it cannot "be proved but by the Scripture; and so the Scripture being proved "by the Spirit, and the Spirit again by the Scripture, we shall run in a "round, which is no lawful way of arguing.

Ans. To this I answer; That we know the Scripture to be of God by the publick Testimony of the Spirit, but I deny his publick Testimony to be his witnessing by the Church; it is indeed his witnessing by the Scripture it self when he witnesseth it to be of God, by those Excellencies of it which evidence it to to be; and this he withuffeth to all that have their eyes open to see it, and in that respect it may be called publick; and when he witneffeth the same thing by the same means, in the hearts of particular Believers, and so applys his publick Testimony to private Consciences, enlightning and habling men to believe upon his publick Testimony; you may if you please call that his private Testimony. This clearly cuts off all that the adversaries object, and no such things will follow, as they pretend, upon what we maintain. We know no other private Testimony of the Spirit, but this particular application of his publick one; and then I am fure there is no danger of Enthusiasm. For that is properly Enthusiasm when God reveals any thing to mens minds immediately and in an extraordinary way, and without the intervention of the usual means whereby he is wont to make himself known to men, as in former times he did to the Patriarchs, Prophets and Apolles, (and the Enthusiasm both the Papists and we find fault with is, when men pretend to this which yet they have not:) But when God makes known his Will in an ordinary way, by the use of instruments, and means for the conveying of Spiritual knowledg to them, this is not Enthusiasm, as when Faith comes by hearing, Rom. 10. And so it is in the case before us; when the Spirit witnesseth to the hearts of private Believers that the Scripture is the Word of God, he doth it in an ordinary way, working in them a Faith of the Scripture, by those Arguments of Divinity, which are in the Scripture it self, and makes use of them, as means to induce them to believe. As the light and brightness of the Sun is the Medium whereby it is known to be the Sun; so that Divine light and power which is in the Word, is the very Medium and Argument, whereby the Spirit (enabling us to perceive it) perswades us that that Word is the Word of God. And I would ask our Adversaries, Can a private man believe the Divinity of the Scripture meerly on the Authority of the Church, without the Spirits witnessing it to him by that Authority? if they fay, Yes, then they must acknowledg that Faith to be meerly humane because not wrought by God; if they say, No, (as they must if they be constant to themselves in holding that the Spirit witnesseth by the Church), then when the Spirit witnesseth to the Conscience of a private Believer by the Church, why is not that Enthusiasim too? for when he witnesseth to a private Conscience by this application of his publick Testimony, here is as much a private Spirit, and a private Testimony as any we speak of; the only difference is in the Medium the Spirit useth in this private work, which they fay is the Testimony of the Church, and we fay, is the Scripture it felf; both of us agree that it is the Spirits publick Testimony, but they call one thing so, and we another. If they say, That yet this is not Enthusiasm, because here is no immediate Revelation, but means are made use of; I say the same of the Spirits witnessing to the Divinity of the Scripture in the heart of a private Believer by the Scripture it self, or those notes of Divinity which are apparent in the Word; this is no more immediate than the other, nor any less by the intervention of means.

And for the other Consequent they would infer from the private Te-"filmony of the Spirit, that then we shall run in a round, and prove "the Scripture to be the Word of God by the Testimony of the Spirit, "and prove the Spirit again by the Scripture. There is as little fear of this as of the other: For we bring not the private Testimony of the Vid. R. Baron, Spirit in our Consciences (against which only this Objection is made), or contra Turnebehis applying his publick Testimony to us in a way of illumination and Camer de verconviction of our minds, as the Argument inducing us to believe; but Dei & Turrethat we say, is his publick Testimony in the Word, when he witnesseth tin. de Cr. its Divinity to us by that Excellency Light and Power which is in the its Divinity to us by that Excellency, Light and Power which is in the Word it self, and makes use of that to perswade us to believe. The Spirit indeed is the Efficient of our Faith, or the Agent which causeth us to believe, enlightning our minds, and drawing our hearts to confent to the Truth; but the Evidences of Divinity we see in the Scripture, through the Spirits enlightning us, is the reason or motive of our believing; they move us to believe objectively; but the Spirit effectively. So that here is no danger of a Circle in our Discourse, or proving idenzper idem; for if I be asked, How I know the Scripture to be the Word of God? This question may have a double sense; for either it is meant of the power and virtue whereby I believe; and then I answer, By the Power and Efficiency of the Spirit of God opening the eyes of my Understanding, and enabling me to believe; or it is meant of the Medium or Argument made use of, and by which, as a Motive, I am drawn to believe; and then I answer; Those impressions of Divinity the Spirit hath left on the Word, and by which he witnesseth it to be of God, are the Argument or Motive perfwading me to believe. Now when they ask bow I know the Spirit who witnesseth in my Conscience to the Divinity of the Scripture to be the Spirit of God? the Question is plainly. by what Means or Argument I am perswaded that it is the Spirit of God, and then I answer by those properties of the Spirit which the Scripture mentions. And so the Question, How I know the Scripture to be the Word of God? either is concerning the Efficient of my belief of the Scripture, or else it is not to the purpose, (for I do not alledg the Esti-ciency or inward operating of the Spirit, as the motive of my Faith), and the latter is concerning the Objective cause, or Argument inducing me to believe the Spirit to be the Spirit of God. The mistake is this, They would fasten upon us, that we make the Spirit in his inward work upon our hearts to be the motive to our Faith, whereas we only make it to be the Efficient of our Faith.

To conclude this Answer to their first Argument: Let us see if it may not be retorted upon themselves. If the Churches Testimony give Authority to the Scripture (as Papists say) then if a Man deny the Authority of the Church, How will they prove it? For neither one part of the Church can give credit to the other, when the whole is questioned, nor can the whole Church give credit to it Self, for then the whole Church will be more known than it Self. Or, if we ask, How comes the Church to believe the Scripture? Is it by its own Testimony? but sure it must believe it ere it can give Testimony to it: Or is it by the Testimony of the Spirit? If so, is it by the Publick Testimony of the Spirit? That cannot be; for according to them, that is no other than the Testimony of the Church it Self, the absurdity of which hath been already shewn. Or if it be the Private Testimony of the Spirit, then they by their own arguing, will run into Enthusiasm, as well as We. And indeed they do plainly run into a Circle in their proving the Scripture by the Authority of the Church, and the Authority of the Church again by the Scripture; for with them the Authority of the Church is the Motive or Argument whereby they prove the Divine Authority of the Scripture, and that again is the Motive or Argument by which they prove the Authority of the Church. And so both the Church and the Scripture are more known than each other, and yet less too; more known because they prove each other, and less known because they are proved by each other. Here they are themselves in a nooz, but it is no matter; the Popes Omnipotency can easily break it, or the Churches Authority make her Logick Canonical, though all the Aristotles in the World should make it Apocryphal.

Obj. 2. "It is necessary for us in Religion to have the Canon of Scripture certain, but this we cannot have otherwise than by the Church; because its Authority is most certain, and the only one which is sufficient to remove all doubts concerning the Divineness of the Scripture out of our minds; both because God speaks by the Church, and because the Church best knows the Scripture: She is Christs Bride, and therefore best knows the voice of the Bridegroom; she hath the Spirit of Christ, and therefore can best judg of his Word, and the "stile of it.

Anf. We deny that the Canon of the Scripture cannot be known but by the Church, and the Contrary hath been already proved: The Scripture hath been owned and received where no such Judgment of the Church hath been. And it is as false that the Authority of the Church is the greatest and most certain; for that of the Scripture upon which the Church and her Authority depends, is above it. God speaks in the Scripture, and by it teacheth the Church her felf; and therefore his Authority in the Scripture is greater, the Authority of him that teacheth, than of those by whom he teacheth. As the Authority of a King in his Laws, is greater than that of an Officer that proclaims them. King may by his Counsel or Judges acquaint his Subjects with his Laws; But will it therefore follow, because he speaks his mind, which is in those Laws, by such Officers, that their Authority is greater than that of those Laws themselves? God speaks by the Church (the true Church we mean) but he speaks nothing by her but what he speaks in the Scripture, which she doth only Ministerially declare to us; and therefore the Authority of God and his Law is above hers, who though the publish yet did not make it, but is her self subject to it, and by that Law only stands obliged to publish it to others. And for what they say of the Church's ability to judge of the Scripture; We answer, That She cannot judge of the Stile of the Scripture otherwise than by the help of the Spirit, and by the same private Christians may judge too, and there be no means whereby the Church can know the Scripture to be the Word of God, but particular Believers may know it by the same: And if the Church's Authority be so great in our Adversaries Opinion, because She can so well judge of the Stile of the Scripture, How much greater is that of the Scripture, which is able by its Stile to manifest it Self to the Church?

Except. 'But (fay they) we do not know the Voice of Christ in the 'Scripture, but by the Church; therefore her Authority is greater.

Ans. This is both False and Inconsequent. False, for it hath been sufficiently evinced that the Voice of Christ may be otherwise known, and hath been too. Inconsequent, in that it follows not that the Authority of the Church is therefore greater than that of the Scripture: John Baptist directed many to Christ, and suppose without his direction of them and witnessing to Christ they had never come to him, Will it thence follow that John's Authority was greater than Christs? The Church, we grant may be a mean whereby many are brought to the Belief of the Scripture, who yet afterward do believe upon better grounds, as being perswaded by the Word it Self.

Obj. We can no otherwise know the Scripture to be the Word of God, than as we know what Books are Canonical, and what not, what were written by Inspired Pen-Men, and what were not; but this we can know only by the Authority of the Church. This is proved because some Books which at first were not received as Canonical, the Church did afterward receive, as Ecclesiasticus, Tobit, Suffanna, the Books of Maccabees, &c. The Epistle to the Hebrews, the Second of Peter, Second and Third of John, and the Revelation. And Books which are not Canonical, are therefore not Canonical because 'the Church would not allow them as such; viz. The Revelation of Paul, the Gospel of Peter, Thomas, Matthias, &c. And lastly, Some Books written by Prophets and Apostles are not Canonical, because the Church hath not determined that they are so.

Camero.

Ans. To let pass what a Learned Protestant largely proves, viz. That it is possible to know the Scripture to be the Word of God, and yet not know which Books are particularly Canonical, and written by Inspired Pen-Men; that it may be known that the Doctrine contained in those Books is of God, though it be not known whether it were writ by fuch as were immediately Inspired themselves, or had it from those that were. In the Primitive Times some not only Good Men. but Churches too, did deny some of those Books to be Canonical which we now generally receive, and yet they did receive the Word of God. and the Doctrine contained in those Books, though they questioned whether those Books themselves were written by such as were immediately Inspired or not. And do not the Papists themselves tell us. That the Canon of the Scripture was not established for a long time after the Apostles days, till it might be done by General Councils? And vet sure the Church did in the mean time own the Word of God, and know the Voice of Christ.

We say then that it may be known which Books are Canonical and which are not, otherwise than by the Church, for the Church her Self knows them otherwise than by her Self, or Her own Authority. When She declares them to be Canonical, She believes them to be Canonical, and her believing them to be Canonical is Antecedent to Her declaring them to be so; She must learn Her Self, before She can Teach Others: She believes them therefore to be Canonical, because She sees the Stamp of God upon them, and that they are such as can be of none but God. (The same way likewise private Believers may know them.) And when the Church sees this Stamp of God upon a Book, She thence concludes it to be Divine, and then declares it to be so.

Excep. 'But how then comes it to pass, That some Books of Cano-'nical Scripture were not so soon received as others, if all have such an 'Impress of Divinity upon them?

Ans. I answer; That these Notes of Divinity, which are sufficient in all the several Books of Scripture to demonstrate them to be of God, yet may be more clear and illustrious in some than in others, as Gods Power and Wisdom may be more apparent, and conspicuous in some of His Works than in others of them: Or else it may be from the different degrees of illumination, afforded to different Persons, and in different Ages: When some doubted of some Books of Scripture, all did not, and they that did not, had a greater measure of the Spirit, as to that at least, than others had.

Now to their particular Proofs of the Minor Proposition in their Arguments. We Answer particularly.

1. That

I. That those Books annex'd by the Papitls to the Old Testament, and called by them Deuterocanical, and by us no better still than Apacryphal; such as the Books of Maccabees, Efdras, Tobit, &c. never were received into the Canon by the Ancient Church, nor can they produce the Decree of any one Ancient Council wherein they were owned; as for Modern Councils we matter them not. They say that these Books were doubted of at first, and afterward received. Belike then the Church at first did not know them to be the Word of God; and if she be the Bride of Christ, who best of all knows the Bridegrooms Voice, How came the for so long time not to know it? Here certainly, in spight of Infallibility, the Church must be in an Errour; for if she doubted of the Divinity of these Books, when yet they were really Divine, she err'd in so doubting; and if she did know them to be of God, and yet did not receive them, she was more than erroneous, that is, she both; Et tamen was plainly rebellious. As for the Epistle to the Hebrews, the second of Nos utrang; Peter, and those others which we all own as Canonical, though some suscipinus, neparticular Persons or Churches might doubt of their Authentickness, yet quaquam hujus it doth not appear that all ever did. Some of the Papists themselves temporis consueconfess that the Epistle to the Hebrews was generally acknowledged, veterum Scriptounless by two or three of the Latin Fathers; and Hierom reckons both rum Authoritathat, and the Revelation as generally acknowledged for Canonical. How- tem sequentes, ever when these Books were owned as Canonical, it was not on the qui plerung; ubare Authority of the Church; For how came the Church her felf to tur Testimoniis; acknowledg them? How came she to know that they were written by non ut interdum Inspiration? Did she believe it on her own credit? Or did she not ra- de Apocryphis ther receive them as Canonical, because she found them Canonical, factre solent, perceiving the stamp of God upon them? and sure the same reason Darden. might make us receive them, though the Church had not testified concerning them.

2. To the second Thing they alledg, concerning the Revelation of Paul, the Gospel of Peter, &c. or any Book written by Philosophers, 'or by Hereticks; Ianswer, That if the Church did reject them, she did do but her duty, and it will not follow from her rejecting them, that there was no other way of knowing them not to be Canonical, befide the Churches disowning them. For upon what grounds did the Church disown them? Upon her own Authority? Then she rejected them because she rejected them, judged them not be Canonical because she judged them not to be Canonical. If she did disown them because she faw not that Dignity and Excellency in them, which she saw in the Books vidois avid of the Old and New Testament, and which might perswade that they nagariev, were of God; sure then it was not meerly the Churches Authority and as along which made them not to be Canonical; and on the same grounds that will if so the Church rejected those Books, we likewise may do it. Sure I am σεβή παραι-Eusebius reckons those Books not only as forged, but as something worse, c. 35. that is, absurd and impious,

3. "When they fay that some Writings of the Prophets and Apostles "themselves are not Canonical, and therefore not so, because not ac"knowledged by the Church to be so. I Answ. That some things the Prophets and Apostles might write as private Men, and not by the Inspiration and special direction of the Holy Ghost, and such never were to be received into the Canon of the Scripture, nor were written with any intent that they should. But those things which they writ as Prophets, and as Apostles, by the immediate Inspiration and special direction of the Spirit; and for this end, that they might be the Rule of the Saints Faith, were all received into the Canon: If they deny this Let them produce any such Writing of Prophets, or Apostles not yet received as Canonical. For what they fay out of 1 Chron. 29.29. of the Writings of Samuel Nathan & Gad, How will they eyer make it evident that they were other than the Books of Samuel, written partly by himself while he lived, and partly by Gad and Nathan after his death? And so likewise, 2 Chron. 9. 29. the Writing of Nathan, Ahijah and Iddo, and 2 Chron. 13. 22. Iddo again, 2. 29, 30. Jehu, How will they ever prove them to be other than what we have in the Books of Kings? It is true too that mention is made of some Writings of Solomon which are not in the Canon; But how will it appear that they ever ought to be there, or were ever written for that purpose? As for any Writings of the Apostles which are not in the Scripture, the chief infifted on is the Epistles, as they would have it, of Paul to the Liodiceans, mentioned Colof. 4. which we deny to have been written by Paul, nor will the words enforce any fuch thing; the Epistle from Laodices is one thing, and to Laodices anonot mods Aa- ther: It is most likely to have been some Letter written by the Laodiceans to Paul, in which there being some things that concerned the Goloffians, the Apostle adviseth them to read that Epistle. Hierom saith of this Epistle, that some do read it as one of Pauls, but it is generally rejected. And for other Books which they mention, they have been as generally disowned by the Church as fictitious, and not written by the Authors whose Names they bear. The same Father cashiers several of them toий (стал. Ibid. gether, that went under the Name of Peter, as being all Apocryphal.

Obj. 4. "We cannot confute Hereticks who deny the Scripture or "part of it, but by the Authority of the Catholick Church, which re"ceives it.

Those Hercticks that will acknowledg the Church may be confuted by its Authority, but not have Faith wrought in them; they may have their mouths stop'd, but not their minds ensightned by it. And though we may make use of the Authority of the Church with fuch, yet not as the chief, and much less only, Argument to perswade them of the Divinity of the Scripture; but even by the same way, whereby Believers are perswaded of it, may Hereticks be perswaded too. And if we meet with such Hereticks as pay no more reverence to the Church, than to the Scripture, we are in a fine case, if we have no other way of of dealing with them, but by urging the Authority of the Church; furely they that deny the Divinity of the One, will not stick to deride the Testimony of the Other.

Obi. s. To pass by other Testimonies they cite out of the Ancients. one they mainly triumph in, that faying of Austin, "That he had not "believed the Gospel had not the authority of the Church moved him to it.

Anlw. Aultin speaks when converted and Orthodox, of himself as tholica comformerly a Manichee, and shews that he had then been moved by the Authority of the Church to receive the Gospel: when he was a Ma- Crederem & nichee he was an Heretick, not an Heathen, and so might have some e- commoverer fleem for the Church; or if he had no respect for the Church as the for credidit-Church, yet he might (even by the Confession of Papists themselves) sem, & comfo far as he saw the Consent of so many Nations, and the Prescription of movisset, as is folong time, and other like Arguments in the Church to induce him to of speaking reverence it.

destructive to Religion?

1. How dishonourable to God, for the Credit of his Word to depend upon the Testimony of Men, and not to be able of it self to discover its Author?

1. A dishonour it is to his Wisdom, if he could not otherwise assure Men of the Divine Original of the Scripture, than by having Men bear witness to it: If he knew no other way of certifying us of his Will, and making known his Laws to us, but by the help of our fellow-creatures, who as well as we are subject to those Laws. Can God make the Heavens declare his glory, and cannot he make the Scripture do it? Can he make himself known by the judgments be executes, and not by the Sta- Psal. 9, 16, tutes he establisheth? Can he shew forth his Wisdom, Power and Goodness by the things he doth, and not by the things he speaks, and so make his Works praise him, but not his Word? Nay, Can Men so Psal. 145. 10. write, so speak, as thereby to discover themselves, and what wisdom, or knowledg, or skill they have, and cannot God do as much? Is God less wise and able than they are, or is he wise in some things, and not in Mic. 2. 7. others? How came the Spirit of the Lord to be thus straitned, as to have but this one way of making known the Word to us, and that such a one as he must be beholden to his Creatures for it? It is certain that formerly he had other ways, And why hath he not now? How comes he Jam. 1, 170. to be less wise than he was! Sure if there be no variableness in God, nor shadow of turning, he must be as unchangeable in his Wisdom as in any other Attribute, and there can be no diminution of it.

2. If God can otherwise make known the Divineness of his Word, than by the Testimony of the Church, and yet will not, it looks (to say no worse) very like a reflection upon his Goodness, to leave men a more uncertain way of coming to the knowledg of his Will, and their Duty, when he could give them a more fure one; to leave his people better helps against their weakness and doubtings, than the uncertain Authority of a Man, or a company of Men, who may as eafily be deceived in the Testimony they give, as others may in the Faith they yield to it. And if God did formerly give his people a better and more fure Foundation for their Faith, than the Authority of meer men, weak men, fallible men (as hath been proved), How comes his Goodness to fail now, and to be less to Saints under the Gospel, than to those under

the Law, or the Patriarchs before it? 3. This Doctrine of the Romanists greatly derogates from Gods So-place; it doth worse than make Princes go on foot, and Servants ride on Eccles. 10. 7. Horses. If what the Papists teach in this Point be true, the Holy Ghost is in a worse condition than his Apossle was, 2 Cor. 3. 1. (who needed not Letters of Commendation to or from the Churches) he must be sain to canvale for the Votes of men, or feek their Testimonials; God himself cannot establish his Laws without the Churches leave; Jesus Christ shall not be King of Saints, not Sway his Scepter, nor Rule his House without the good-liking of the Pope and Council: What is this but what was said of old, Nisi homini Deus placuerit, Deus non erit; God must be concerned to please Men, at least the Papists; for if he doth not, they know how to be quit with him; for then He shall not exercise his Authority over them, not bind their Consciences, not command their Faith, not prescribe them their Duty, not govern their Lives the Church will not give their approbation to his Laws, and so he shall not be their Sovereign, be shall not be their God. What can be more injurious to Gods Supremacy than this Doctrine, which subjects the Authority of God in his Word to the pleasure of his Creatures? What Sovereign Prince upon Earth will endure to be so dealt with? to have the Authority of his Laws suspended upon the Testimony of those that publish them, of those that are themselves subject to them? I dare say the Pope scorns to have it faid that his Decretals have their force from him that divulgeth them. or his Bulls from him that Posts them up: He would not endure if he fent out his Orders to a Church, or Council, that they should fit upon them, and subject them to their sudgment, and approve or disallow of them as they faw fit; He would expect that they should be received. and submitted to upon the account of his Stamp upon them, and Seal annexed to them. Why may not the Scripture be allowed as much,

> 2. This Doctrine of the Papists is prejudicial, indeed destructive to Christian Religion, it leaves us only the name of Christianity and no more. What is all Religion if God be not the Author of it, and if the Papists say true, we can never be sure that God is the Author of that which we call Christian. This one Doctrine of the Romish Synagogue puts us into a worse condition than the Jewish one is in, which hath some Foundation for its Faith and Worship, whereas this leaves none at all for ours. It is in a word most perniciously contrary to, and destructive of a Christian Faith, and Comfort and Obedience all at once.

I. It is destructive to our Faith. It leaves us no firm Footing for it. when it must be first founded upon, and lastly resolved into the Author rity of Men; and we can never know the Scripture to be the Word of God, without either the concurring Votes of all the Christian World to affure us of it, or at least the definitive Sentence of a Pope or Council, and have no better affurance of its being Divine, than their fav-fox What can ruine our Faith if the undermining of it do not? And what is it to undermine it if this be not? It takes away the very Foundation of it, and instead of the infallible Veracity of the God of Truth, puts us off with the uncertain Testimony of (at least) a Company of Fallible Men, who may every one of them be deceived, and therefore so may we too, for Company, if we relie on their Authority. Indeed it leaves us little (if any at all) more certainty for our Religion than the Turks have for theirs; for Why may not they as well require us to believe that God speaks to us in the Alcoran, because they say He doth, as the Papifts require us to believe He speaks to us in the Scripture, merely because the Pope, or Council, say so? Nay, How little difference doth this cursed Doctrine make between the Great Mysteries of the Gospel, the Articles of our Faith, and the ridiculous Fables of the Rabbines, or Abominations of Mahomet? For if some Writings are not Canonical Scripture, merely because the Church (that is, Pope or Council) hath not Canonized them, and some are because it hath; the Acis of Peter and the Revelation of Paul are not the Word of God, because the Church would not so far Dignifie them, and the Epistles of Peter and Paul are therefore of Divine Authority because it so seemed good to the Church to determine, Why might not the same Church, if She had been so pleased, have added the Talmied to the Scripture; I and the Alcorais too? And they cannot fay, it is because these Books contain not only. innumerable Fopperies, but notorious Lies, unless they will eat their own Words, and recede from one of their chiefest Arguments, viz. That the Apocryphal Books they themselves do not receive, are therefore only not Canonical, because the Church hath not received them, when the rest are because She hath.

2. It is as destructive to our Comfort. When our great Comfort proceeds from our Faith, such as the one is, so will the other be too; an ill-grounded Faith can never produce a well-grounded Comfort: the Foundation being shaken, the Building must needs totter. What will become of that Comfort of the Scripture the Apostle speaks of, Rom. 15.4. that Joy and Peace in Believing, v. 13. that Hope in Gods Word David mentions, Psal. 119. 81. and 130. 5. If we can no otherwise be fure that it is Gods Word, but only because Men tell us it is so? How will our Hope and Comfort fail us, and our Hearts fail us, when we come to confider; That that Testimony of Man which is the ground of our Faith, and therefore of our Comfort, for ought we know will, fure enough may, fail us? How should we stand if our Foundation fink under us? If The Rain should descend, and the Floods come, and the Winds blow, and beat upon us, What Shelter, what Fence should we have? How great would our Fall be? If Temptations should arise, and affault and shake our Faith, How should we maintain our Comforts? Would it not be sad for Us, or any of Us to say within our Selves; 'I have ventured my Soul, and its Eternal Welfare upon the Scripture, and the Promises I there find, but How do I know that this Scripture is the Word of God? How do I know I am not mistaken? Am I, as fure I am not deceived, as I am certain of being Miserable if I be? Here is indeed a Company of Men that call themselves the Church; but that is a hard Word, I never meet it any-where but in their mouths, and in this Book which they have put into my Hands; and yet these are the only Men that tell Me it is the Word of God. But What reason have 'I to believe them? They say indeed they are Infallible and cannot be deceived, but How shall I know that? They say the Scripture says so; 'Suppose it doth, What know I but they make it say so, and the Scripture, and they are agreed together to gratifie one another, and speak 'for one another? I see not that they are the Church unless the Scripture makes them fo, and yet they tell me, that the Scripture is not the 'Word of God to me unless they make it so. I know no Authority they have to bind me to believe them, but what this Book gives them, and they know none it hath to bind me to believe it, but what they 'give it. And thus I am quite at a loss, if either this thing called the 'Church be not honest but will cheat me, or be not infallible but may 'deceive me; How vain than, and flattering have all my Hopes been 'hitherto, how uncertain my Faith, how deceitful my Joys and Com-'forts! Farewel Glory, and Honour, and Peace; farewel Life and Im-2 Tim. 1. 10. 'mortality; farewel the Inheritance of the Saints, and the Crown of righ-'teousness; fine things if I knew where to have them. How would you like this Christians? Do ye not even tremble at the thoughts of such dismal Temptations? What thinklyou then of the Religion of the Papists, which exposeth all that embrace it to such uncertainties; It is no wonder they allow no certainty of Salvation to Believers, when they leave them at so great uncertainties for the very Foundation of their Faith.

Rom. 2. 10: Coloff. 1.12. 2 Tim. 4. 8.

> 3. It is as destructive to our Obedience as to either of the other. Gospel-evidence is the fruit of Faith; and therefore such as is the Faith we have, such will be the Obedience we yield: If our Faith be not right, our Obedience can be no better: a humane Faith is not sufficient to found our Duty to God upon, and that Obedience which proceeds only from such a Faith, will neither be acceptable to God, nor available to us; and yet such is the Faith, and no higher which causeth our Obedience, if it be grounded only or firstly in the Testimony of Man, and resolved into it. Without Faith it is impossible to please God; and that Faith sure is a Divine Faith, such as rests on Gods own Authority: But if we believe the Scripture to be of God, only because Men say it is. that Faith cannot be Divine; and therefore nor the Obedience which flows from it acceptable. In this case the same Testimony of the Church which would be the Foundation of our Faith, would likewise be the cause of our Obedience: We should believe Duty to be Duty, with the fame kind of Faith with which we believed the Command of it to be of God and that would be no other than mens telling us that it is; and fo the refult of all would be, that we must obey God, because they tell us he commands us to obey him, and so we first shew a respect to Men in believing before we shew any to God in obeying him; And then, not only we must be beholden to the Church for the knowledg we have of our Duty, but God must be beholden to her too for our performing of it.

2. How much a better Religion is ours than that of the Papilts? We are the veriest fools upon Earth if ever we change our own for

1, We have more Certainty in our way than they have, or ever can have in their way. Our Faith is built upon no worse a bottom than the infinite Veracity of him who is the Truth it felf, revealing himfelf to us in the Scripture of Truth, and not on the sandy Foundation of any Humane Testimony: It leans upon God, not upon men; upon Thus faith the Lord, not Thus faith the Church. Though we despise not the true Church, but pay reverence to all that Authority wherewith God hath vested it, yet we dare not set it up in Gods place; we are willing it should be an help to our Faith, but not the Foundation of it, and so should do its own Office, but not invade Gods Seat, nor take his Work out of his hands; that would neither be for his Glory, nor our own Security: Our Faith is a better than such a one would be: We receive it not from Churches, from Popes, from Councils, but from God himself, that cannot lye to us, and will not deceive us. If we are beholden to Men, Parents, Ministers, &c. for putting the Bible into our hands, and directing us to the Scripture; yet when we read it, hear it opened. and are enlightned by it, and see what a Spirit there is in it; When the Word enter; into us (as the Sun-beams into a dark room) and gives us light, Pfal, 119. 104. we see its Excellency, are ravished with its beauty, taste its Sweetness, feel its Power, admire its Majesty: When we find it to be such a Word as searcheth our Hearts, judgeth our thoughts, tells us all that is within us, all that ever me did in our lives, John 4. 29. awakens our Consciences, commands the most inward spiritual Obedience, fets before us the noblest Ends, and offers us the most glorious Reward, an unseen one, an Eternal one; Then we come to acknow-

fedg that of a Truth God is in it, no meer Creature could be the Author of it; and so we believe-it, not because Men have Ministerially led us to the knowledg of it, or have perswaded, or commanded us to receive it, or told us it is of God, but because we our felves have heard, and felt him speaking in it; the Spirit shines into our minds, by the Light of this Word, and speaks loudly to our hearts, by the Power of it, and plainly tells whose Word it is; and so makes us yield to Gods Authority in it. Take a Christian whose Faith is thus bottomed, and overturn it if you can; you must first beat him out of his Senses, perswade him he hath no eyes, no taste, no feeling, no understanding, no affections, no reflection upon himself, no knowledg of what is done in his own soul, and so indeed that he is not a Man, but a brute or a stock, e're ever you can perswade him that the Scripture is not the Word of God. Whereas, on the other side, the Papists Religion is built meerly on Men, and their Faith hath no more Certainty than those Men have Infallibility. them what is the great, nay the only convincing Reason, why they believe the Scripture to be the Word of God: And they will tell you, the Churches Testimony concerning it; they believe it because the Church commends it, that is, the Pope doth fo, or a General Council, or some-body they know not who; and here they are at a loss already, for a fruch as they fill our ears with a great noise and din of the Church, and can scarce talk of any thing, but the Church, the Church, yet they are not so much agreed among themselves, what this very Church is upon whose Authority they build their Faith, and would have us build ours; In several Countries they have several Churches, several Supremacies, several Infallibleships; A Council is the Church, and Supreme, and Infallible in France, and the Pope is the same in Italy, and so (amongst the Papists) if you do but change your Climate, you must change your Faith too; if you but Cross the Alps, you must translate your Faith, and shift it from a Councils shoulders, to the Popes: A strange variable thing you will find it, which must be calculated according to the Meridian you are in, and will not serve indifferently for all places; so that you must be sure to fix your habitation ere you can settle your Belief. And yet if this were agreed upon, you would still be at an uncertainty as to the Infallibility of what soever they call the Church; for you are like to have nothing but their own word for it; and if you will take it so, you may; or if they prove it by the Scripture, they defert their Cause, and own the Scripture as above them, and Authentick without them, and so while they would establish their Infallibility they. lose their Authority. And so to conclude, there is nothing certain, nothing solid among them. nothing able to bear the weight of an Immortal Soul, nothing upon which a man can venture his Everlasting Salvation. I see no such thing as a truly Divine Faith among them, unless it be therefore Divine, because built upon the Authority of their Lord God the Pope. They eall the Pope Ecclesia Catholica Principem & Sponsum; In the Mass at the Elections

Election of him, they apply that to him which is faid of the Holy Ghost, John 14. 16. I will pray the Father, and he will send you another Comforter. And in the time of Leo 10, It was disputed in their Schools, among other Blasphemies, Whether the Pope were a meer man, or quasi Dew, as it were a God; and Whether he did not partake of both the Natures of Christ. Morn. Myster. Iniquit. p. 636.

Our Religion is more Comfortable as well as more Certain. Our Faith being built upon the Truth of God himself, and our Comfort upon our Faith, so long as our Foundation remains immoveable, we need not fear our Superstructure. If our Faith have good footing, our Hopes and Comforts will keep their standing. Faith in the Promises is that from whence all the Comfort of our hearts, and our rejoycing in hope of the glory of God doth proceed ; A Christians Joy is joy in believing, Rom. 5. and his Peace the peace of God, and his comforts the comforts of the Holy Ghost; but this can never be if our Faith be founded immediately on the Testimony of Men, and not of God, or we believe the Promises of the Word to be made by God, because Men tell us he made them. So long as we hold to the fure Word, we have fure Hopes, and fure Comforts, and no longer; and therefore a Papist can never have any strong consolution by his Faith, when his Faith it self hath so meak a Foundation. How can they ever rejoice in hopes of Heaven, when they believe there is a Heaven with no better a Faith, than they believe a Pope or Council to be Infallible? It is to little purpose to say, They believe there is a Heaven (say the like of other Articles) because God in the Scripture tells them so, when they would not have believed one tittle of that very Scripture, if a Pope or a Council had not bid them believe it; for then their Hopes and Comforts are all resolved into the Authority of this Church (what-ever it be) as well as their Faith is; and both the one and the other rests not on the real Infallibility of the God of Truth. but on the pretended Infallibility of one single Prelate at Rome, or a Convention of them at Trent. From such a Foundation for our Faith. and such Comforters of our Consciences, The Lord deliver us.

By this you may gather what you must do if you would be Papists; you must renounce your Reason, and Faith too, if you would embrace their Religion; you must enslave your Consciences to the Authority of Men, and so put out your own eyes that you may see with other Mens: you must not be built upon the Foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, but of Popes and Councils, it may be of a fingle Pope, and so hazard your eternal Peace and Welfare on the credit of a Man, who may be himself a Murderer, an Adulterer, a Sodomite, a Necromancer, a Blasphemer, an Heretick, and may be so far from being saved himself, that he may (as some Papists acknowledg) carry whole cart-loads of Souls to Hell with him; yet still he is Infallible, an Infallible Murderer, an Infallibile Sodomite, an Infallible Sorcerer, &c. And you must believe him to be Infallible all this while, by himself or with a Council, or you cannot be saved among them. The Church to be sure you must believe, and adore what-ever it be (either representative or virtual), you must not ask a Reason for your Faith neither, but tamely submit to its tyrannical Dictates. And, if it should ever come to this, Would it not be as bard a Chapter, as the third of Daniel? Would not Smithsield be as hot a Place as the Plain of Dura, if every one that would not fall down and worship this great Golden Idol, Holy Church, should be cast into the burning siery Furnace.

Use 2. And therefore to prevent this, and That your Faith may be firm, and immoveable, as standing not in the Authority or Wisdom of Men, but the Power and Truth of God; That your Hearts may be full of Comfort, your Lives full of Holiness, your Deaths full of Sweetnefs, and That you may be more than Conquerors over all those Temptations whereby the Wicked one may at any time affault your Faith; Besure to see that it have a good Foundation; see that you believe the Scripture upon folid and lasting Grounds. Trust the Authority of no meer Man, nor Company of Men in the World, in a Business on which the Everlasting Blessedness, or Misery of your Souls doth depend. Hear Moses and the Prophets; hear the Apostles and Evangelists; We are fure God spake by them, and they never Err; as for Popes and Councils, we are sure they have Err'd, and so may do again, and so may your Parents that first Instructed you. Masters, Teachers, Churches, all may Err, and though de facto they do not Err in this, when they tell you the Scripture is the Word of God; yet they being but Men, and having no Promise of absolute Infallibility, and being liable to Mistakes in other things, when you find that, you may come to question whether they were not mistaken in this too, and so think you have been deluded all this while, and taken that for the Word of God, and Rule of your Lives, which is nothing less; and then you will either cast away your Faith, or you must seek a new Foundation for it; and if you come in a Papists way, and hear talk of Peters Successors, Christs Vicars, Catholick Churches, General Councils, Infallibilities, long Successions, Apostolical Traditions, you do not know what kind of Spirit such Conjuring Words may raise up in you: You may be apt to think, the Major Part (as you will be told, though falfely, it is) must carry it, and so determine your Faith by the Votes of Men, that is, not fo much change the Foundation of it as enlarge it: And whereas before it was built upon the Credit of a Parent, or a Pastor, now build it upon the Credit of a great Many, or a great One in the Name of all the rest; or if it rested before on a particular Church, now it shall relie on that which you are told is the Catholick one. For my part, I shall never wonder to see ill-grounded Protestants; easily turn Papists: they are semi-Papists already, and they may soon be wholly such; they have a Pope at home, and if they do not like him, they may eafily exchange

him for another abroad: He that pins his Faith upon one Mans Sleeve may foon do it upon anothers; he is already a Church-Papist, and may soon be a Mass-one. And therefore, to conclude, Whoever thou art, if thou have not formerly done it, Search thy felf now ere Satan fift thee: try thy Faith in the Scripture that it may be approved; see whose Image and Superscription it bears, what Foundation it hath, what Anfwer thou canst give to any one that asks thee a reason of it, nay, what answer thou can't give thy self. Ask thy self, Why do I believe the Bible to be the Word of God? 'How do I know it was not the Inven-'tion of Man? By what Arguments, by what Authority was I indu-'duced to give my affent to it? Do I take it merely on the credit of those of whom I was born, among whom I was bred, with whom 'I have conversed? Is this a sufficient Foundation for my Faith? Dare 'I venture my Soul upon such a Bottom? Is this to build my House 'upon a Rock? How near the Papists am I come ere I was aware of it? I spit at them, and defie them, and yet act like them if not below 'them, and can scarce say so much for my Faith as they can for theirs. If this be thy condition, To work a-new for shame, and begin quickly too, and get thy Faith well settled, and upon its right Basis, or I dare fay thou wilt never keep thy Faith at the expence of thy Life, but rather turn ten times than Burn once. If thou hast therefore any regard to the constancy of thy Faith, to the comfort of thy Life, the honour of God, or the Salvation of thy own Soul, labour immediately to get thy Belief of the Word better founded: Read the Scripture constantly, study it seriously, search it diligently, hear it explained, and applied by others, meditate on it thy felf, and beg of God an understanding of it, and a right Faith in it; that he would give thee an heart to perceive, Deut. 29.4. and eyes to see, and ears to hear; that he would Open thine eyes to behold wondrow things out of bis Law; that he would give thee his Spirit, that thou may it Search the deep things of God; that he would cause thee to hear I Cor. 2, 10; his voice in that Word which thou hast hitherto taken to be His, and direct thy heart into the furest Grounds of believing it. And be fure hold on in such a way of painful endeavours for the getting thy Faith fettled, till it be done, and what thou hast hitherto received on the account of Man, thou now believest for the sake of God himself. I deny thee not the Testimony of the Universal Church of Christin all Ages (so far as thou art capable of knowing it) as well as of the present Church, or any particular One to which thou art any way related, as an help to thee; make the best thou canst of it, only rest not on it: But especially take notice, if thou see not the Stamp of God upon the Word, Characters of Divinity imprinted on it, as well as external Notes aca panying it; Confider the Antiquity of it, the Continuance of it, the Miracles that confirmed it, the condition of the Men that penn'd it, their Aims, their Carriage and Conversation, Gods Providence in keeping it, and handing it down to thee through so many successive Generations.

rations, when so many in all Ages would have bereaved the World of it: And further, Consider the Majesty and Gravity, and yet Plainness and Simplicity of its Stile, the Depth of the Mysteries it discovers, the Truth and Divineness of the Doctrine it teacheth, the Spirituality of the Duties it enjoyns, the Power and Force of the Arguments with which it perswades, the Eternity of the Rewards it promises, and the Punishments it threatens, the End and Scope of the whole, to reform the World, to discountenance and extirpate Wickedness, and promote Holiness and Righteousness, and thereby advance Gods Glory, and lead Man on to everlasting Blessedness, &c. And be sure leave not off, till thou find thy Faith raised from so low a bottom as the Authority of Men, and fix'd on Gods own Testimony; till thou canst safely and boldly fay, 'I believe the Scripture now to be the Word of God, not because I have heard Men say so, but because I hear God himself in this very Scripture bearing witness to it; his Spirit hath given me new Eyes, and enabled me to see the Divineness of it: Iknow and am sure That this is the Word of God, never mere Man spake at such a rate, e never did the Word of Man work such effects. The entrance of it hath e given light to my Soul which was before in darkness, not knowing whither it went. How many glorious Mysteries do I see in it, what Purity, what Spirituality, what Holiness, &c. all which speak the Wifdom, and Power, and Goodness, and Holiness, and Truth of the 'Author of it? What Sweetness have I tasted in it? It hath been as the Hony and hony-comb to me: What Power, what Life, what strange Energy have I experienced in it? What a Change hath it wrought in "me! What Lusts hath it discovered and mortified! What Duties hath it convinced me of, and engaged me in! What Strength hath it furnished me with! How hath it quickened me when I was dead in Sin, revived my Comforts when they were dying, actuated my Graces when they were languishing, rouzed me up when I was fluggish, awaked me 'when I was dreaming, refreshed me when I was sorrowful, supported me when I was finking, answered my Doubts, conquered my Temptations, scattered my Fears, enlarged me with Defires, and filled me with ' Joy unspeakable and full of glory! And what Word could ever have wrought such effects, but that of the Eternal, all-Wise, all-Powerful 'God? And therefore upon his alone Authority I receive it, Him alone 'I adore in it, whose Power I have so often sound working by it. I 'durst venture an hundred Souls if I had them, and an hundred Heavens if there were so many, upon the Truth and Divine Authority of this Word; and should not slick, not only to give the Lie to the "most Profound, and most Resolute, and Invincible, and Irrefragable, and Angelical and Seraphical Doctors, nay and Infallible Popes, nod 'Councils too, but even to fay Anathema to Angels themselves, and 'Seraphims, if they should tell me the Scripture were not the Word of God. Whether the good Works of Believers be Meritorious of Eternal Salvation? Neg.

Pfalm 62. 12. Alfo to thee, O Lord, belongeth Mercy: for Thon rendrest to every man according to his work.

Here is scarce any sin more natural to us than Pride, and no Pride worse than spiritual Pride; it was the condemnation of the Devil; and spiritual Pride shews it self most of all in those high and overweening thoughts we are apt to have of our own worth and excellency: Though when we have done evil we are filled with guilt, yet if we but think we have done well, we are tickled with conceit; one while we are conscious we have offended God, another while we are ready to believe we have obliged him. We can scarce be enlarged in a duty, pray with any life or warmth, hear with attention and affection, but we are ready to take our Lords words out of his Mat. 25 mouth, and greet our selves with a Well done good and faithful Servant. And that too not only, as if the work were wholly our own, but as if we had deferved fomething by it. We commonly contend with the Papists about the Antiquity of our Religion; they bear us in hand that theirs is the more ancient; for my part, I readily grant it in this sense, that Popery, as to several of the chief points of it, is plainly the Religion of corrupt nature, and nature hath the flart of grace in the best of us. Men are generally born with a Pope in their bellies, and they can never be eased of him, till some powerful conviction of the insufficiency of their own righteousness, and the impossibility of meriting Salvation by it, like strong Physick make them disgorge themselves, and bring himup: And if the doctrine of merits be in the Papists only, their Faith, yet it is in carnal Protestants, their Nature, and in Saints themselves, may fometimes be their temptation. And therefore, Christians, though my pres nt business lie mainly with them of the Romish Re- The most violigion; yet do not you look upon your selves as altogether unconcerned; lent assault Mr. cnox ever had but remember that the same Arguments which conclude directly against the Pope without you, may at the same time be levelled against the Pope within you. And the truth of it is, that acquaintance with your selves. and the constitution of your own souls, is the best way to establish you against the most dangerous errours of Popery, and the better you can deal with that little young Antichrist in your hearts, the better you will be able to defend your selves against that great old one at Rome. And that I may help you so to do as God shall enable me, I have chosen this Text. which I the rather fix upon, because I find it in the head of a whole squadron of Scriptures, pressed by Bellarmine into the Popes service : his Holiness his Commission you know can compel any Scripture to maintain the Catholick Cause, though against its own consent. I shall endeavour in the progress of my discourse, to rescue both this, and others from the injury of an involuntary warfare, in which they are forced to tight against that truth, which God commissioned them to defend. If we look into the body of this Pfalm, we shall und the royal Pen-man of it, once and again, declaring and professing his faith and confidence in God, and him only, ver. 1, 2, 5, 6, 7: in despight of all his enemies opposition against him, over whose power he doth triumphantly insult. ver. 3. as well as tax their malice, ver. 4. and perswades others to the like fixing their faith on God, ver. 8. labouring to take them off from their false and ill-grounded confidences, whether in persons or things; either as wicked or vain, ver. 9. 10. and then lays down the reasons and grounds of the boldness of his faith, Gods power, ver. 11. and his mercy, ver. 12. one shewing his sufficiency, and ability to overtop all those enemies, and effectually to fave, the other his readiness so to do for all that do thus trust in him, and wait for him. The latter of these, Gods. mercy, he fets forth by a most eminent instance of it, that most glorious retribution he makes to those that do believe and obey him. Also to thee. O Lord, belongeth Mercy: for thou renderest to every man according to his work.

And so the words do both affert that great Attribute of Mercy in God, and prove it; the one in the former part of the verse, To thee, O Lord, belongeth Mercy: the other in the latter, for thou renderest to every man according to his work. The great day of recompensing men according to what they have done in the slesh, will be the most ample proof, and illustrious manifestation not only of the righteous, but merciful nature of God.

Enquire we here what is meant by Work, and what by rewarding men according to it.

1. By Work we are not to understand barely one individual work; but (the singular number being put for the plural) a plurality, or complection of works, of the same kind, which altogether make up one integral work. All the particular actions men do of the same kind are but parts of the great work they are doing, either for God, or the

the Devil, and so are all included in it. And the miscarriages of Gods children, are so many haltings in their course, so many bunglings in their work, which are blemishes in it, though not absolute interruptions of it.

But if it be farther enquired, what kind of Work or Works is here intended? I answer, good ones, especially; for in the rewarding of them it is that Gods goodness and mercy so greatly appears, when it is plainly enough his juttice that is manifested in the recompensing of evil ones. Or we may thus Paraphrase the words; To thee O Lord belongeth mercy, in that thou renderest to every man according to his work, not only evil to them that do evil and have deferved it, but good to them that do good, though they cannot challenge it.

2. By rewarding men according to their works, (briefly, because I. shall meet with it again) I understand Gods recompensing men according to the nature, or kind, or quality of their works: fuch as their works have been, such shall be their reward, Rom. 2. 6, 7, 8, 9. Who will render to every man according to his deeds. To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory, and honour, and immortality, eternal life. But to them that are contentious, and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath, &c. And so the pro- Quia to reddis portion is between the kind of work, and the kind of reward. Where unique juxta the work was good the reward shall be sutable; and where the work bonis, mala mawas evil the reward will be answerable. Natural good the reward of lis: damnas Moral, as natural evil the reward of Moral evil, Isa. 3. 10, 11. If it be percatores, rewell with the righteous and ill with the wicked, who can say but the reward is according to their works, though the righteous mans reward be 62. qui apud a thousand times greater than his work? Here is therefore a likeness of illumest 61. quality between the work and the reward, but not a proportion of equality.

Doctr. The truth then we infer from the words thus explained, is finilitudo quathis, That the reward of good works is not deserved by them that receive litatis, non proit: Or, That the best of men by their best works, do not merit the portio aqualireward that God gives them, If the consequence of this doctrine from tatis. Daventhe Text be questioned, it may thus be proved. That which is meerly C. 60. out of the mercy of the rewarder, cannot be for the merit of the worker, Rom. 11.6. And if it be by grace, then is it no more of works, otherwise grace is no more grace: But if it be of works, then is it no more of grace, otherwise work is no more work. But the Pfalmist here affirms, that the reward of good works is out of the mercy of the rewarder: and therefore it follows, that it is not for the merit of the worker. And to I come to the business in hand, to shew you that good works do not merit eternal life, that being the reward spoken of by the Pen-man of this Pfalm. Here we must,

1. Explain the terms of the Question.

2. Give you the State of it.

3. Confirm the Truth.

4. Take off Objections.

5. Make Application.

1: For explication of the terms, it would be enquired into,

I. What is meant by good works? Answ. Not to wrong our Adverfaries, they themselves do generally understand such good works as are wrought by them that are furnished with truth of Grace, or a supernatural principle futed to, and productive of supernatural actings: such good works as are the vital actions of the new man, the motions of that Divine nature whereof believers are made partakers. And indeed those proceed from works which proceed not from such a principle can be but equivocally Amicus et gra- called good, as not partaking of the nature of that which is truly, i.e. supernaturally good: And of those only we are here to speak, and not of any fuch as are antecedent to the first grace, or conversion of the heart to God. But when we speak of these good works, we mean not 5. c. 10. Pet. 2. only those of the second Table, works of justice, Charity, Bounty, though the Papills like them best, at least when done to themselves: This principle they must needs be eminently good, which bring in good mony to the always accom- Popes coffers, and good chear to the Priests bellies: But we take them without which more largely and comprehensively, for the duties of both Tables, and no works are those too not only external, or such as are performed by the outward man, but likewise for the inward actings of this supernatural principle which yet proceed no farther than the heart, such as the inward workings of love, thankfulness, hope, joy, humility, patience, &c. And quia fine fide in a word, all that good fruit of all kinds, which grows upon this good root.

2. What we are to understand by Meriting. What is the Original Aug. in Pf. 31. fignification of the words Mereri and Meritum I shall not stand to enquire, but that which is most in use in our present age, and which the Papists for the advantage of their cause make most use of, is expressed in English by deferving and defert. But if we look back to former times, we shall find these words taken in a far different sense by the Ancient Fathers, (to say nothing of Heathen Writers) than by modern Papists. The Fathers commonly take mereri, to merit, for the same as consequi, obtinere, to obtain, or gain, and meritum merit; for any good work which according to Gods appointment is rewardable with eternal life: though in the other, and more strict acceptation of the word it be no merit, as not being truly worthy of the reward; and so to merit eternal life is in their sense no more than to do those things which are the way wherein eternal life is to be obtained. And this is evident in that they apply the word Merit to those actions in which any realdesert, or proper worthiness of the reward, can never be rationally imagined. Thus Augustin frequently, one while he tells us that the Worshippers of Devils are said to Merit certain temporal comforts: Elsewhere, that the Virgin Mary merited to Conceive, and bring forth Christ. And again, that ise peccatum. de Nat. & Grat. Paul by so many persecutions and blasphemies, merited to be called a chosen vessel. And yet again that the people of Israel had a stiff neek, for that they merited to be delivered from their bondage by fo many miracles. And I find a passage cited of Austin, which, if merit be taken in the present Popish notion, all the world cannot reconcile to sense. Nullis præcedentibus meritis per gratiam dei meruimus

c. 35. qui (de Paulo loquitur) pro tot persecutionibus et blas- phemiis, vas electionis meruit nominari. de Predict. & grat. c. 16. et paulo ante, dura cervix in illo populo qui ex omni Mundo elettus est, qui de servitute decem miraculis meruit liberari.

tem lidei fieri, By no antecedent merits, we by the grace of God merited to become the Temples of God. And can a man merit without merits? deserve without deserts? If he have no merits properly so called, he cannot properly merit to become the Temple of God; but without merits he may obtain this favour of God. And yet more strange is that expression, whoever is the Author of it, which some tell us is still fung in the Roman Ritualls, where speaking of Adams sin, it is said Chamier. & to be Falix culpa que tantum meruit habere redemptorem: An happy River, Orthod. transgression which merited so great a Redeemer. And will any believe Cathol, that Adams fin deserved so well at Gods hands? Was Christs coming into the World to redeem finners, the reward of fin, or the remedy againful it? and yet the reward of it, it must be, if the word meriting be taken in its proper sense. The same way the word is taken by others of the intrare non me-Fathers. If they, i. e. the Israelites (saith Ambrose) did not merit to come rurrunt, qua into the land, because they murmured against God: How shall we merit to murmurati sunc come into Heaven, when we live so like the Heathen? And Cyprian speak-contra Diwn, ing of Dorcas being raised from the dead, she (saith he) who ministred quomodo Nes merchibelp to the afflicied Widows that they might live, merited to be called back must intrare, into life at the Prayers of Widows. In the same Catachrestical way we differenter vifometimes find the word used in the vulgar translation, Josh. 11.20. we ventes, sicut read it, That they might find no favour: the vulgar hath it, that they in 4. ad Hebr. might not merit any mercy. And Gen. 4. 13. My punishment is greater Que laborarthan I can bear. Our Margin reads it, Mine iniquity is greater than that tibus viduis larit may be forgiven: but the vulgar, Mine iniquity is greater than that I gita furrat subhould merit forgiveness. What can meriting in these places tignistie, but sidia vivendi, obtaining a fignification very far differing from that in which the Papilts petitione vidunow take it? I insist the more in this, because it merear. is all the Answer I intend to the Testimonies of the Fathers, which the Papists think to run us down with.

But to pass from the word to the thing: if we enquire into the Pedigree of this darling doctrine of the Papills, we may eafily derive it (to look no higher) from their Great-grand-fathers the Pharifaical Jews. from whom they have received a great part of their Religion: The Pharifees-were for infallibility, and a Magisterial imposing spirit in matters of Conscience before the Pope was born; and the Rabbines were for Tradition before there were any Papists in the World: And as for Merits, Camero cites a passage out of Maimonides, where he says, That every man hath his fins, and every man his Merits, and he that bath more Synag. Jud. & Petr. Galetine. Merits than sins, is a just man, but he that hath more sins than Merits is a micked man. And that learned Author, as well as others, is of opinion that the Apostle Fames hath an eye to this errour of the Pharisees, when he fays, Chap, 2. ven. 10. Others tell us of seven forts or degrees of Pharifees among the Jews, one of which had its name from their profesting to do all still that was required of them, or asking, Was any more yet to be done? like the young man, Mat. 19. 20. All thefe have I kept from my youth, what lack beo facere et fa- I yet? And indeed we need go no farther than our Saviours frequent ciam illud, q d. reflections upon them, and the Apostles smart disputations against them, in the point of justification. But from whence soever the Papists have received this doctrine of Merits, thus they mannage it: Merit, say they, is trib. Sect. Jud. twofold, One out of Congruity, the other out of Condignity: The for-1.2. c. 22. & mer is a work to which the reward is not due out of justice, but out of fome kind of decency, or congruity; or as some of them speak, out of the liberality of the person who accepts the work; so that though the work do not really merit the reward, and is not proportioned to it, vet there is some kind of meetness or congruity that it should be rewarded. This kind of merit some of them contend to be found in men while in their natural state, in relation to that grace which is afterward bestowed first grace, nor the pardon of their sins, and that believers when fallen Thom. difp. 5. from grace (as they suppose they may) cannot merit their own recovery. But this is not the Merit we are to speak of; The other is that which is dia. 27. q. 2. out of condignity, which Durand distinguisheth into two kinds: One taken more largely for a work of that dignity or goodness which is according to Gods appointment required in it, that it may be rewardable with eternal life; and that is no more really than the graciousness, or supernatural goodness of the Action, as proceeding from a supernatural principle, and ordered to a supernatural end, which we acknowledge must be in every good work which is capable of a supernatural reward, Est actio volun- and is to be found in every truly gracious action. But there is a Merit

out of Condignity in a more strict sense, which is defined to be Avoluntary action for which a remard is due to a man out of Justice, so that it cannot be denyed him without injustice. Others define it much after the same manner, viz. fuch an action as hath an equality of dignity or worth in Miritum ex relation to the reward, which is therefore due to it out of justice. And patto. this is the merit we are to speak of, to say nothing of that third kind some add, Merit upon supposition of a promise, as when a reward is promised to a man if he do some work, which yet bears no proportion to that reward, and for which antecedently to the promise he could not challenge any, but such a promise being made, he may, and consequently (fay they) may be faid to Merit.

The Question then is between us, and the Papills, Whether the good 2. The flate of works of believers, such as God doth remard in the future life, do truly the Question. and properly deserve that reward, so that it is due out of justice, and God should be unrighteous if he should deny, or refuse it? The modern Papists cum enim ille generally affirm it. The council of Trent so lays down the judgment iple felus chriof the present Church of Rome, as to affert that good works do truly stus, tanguam merit eternal life, and anathematize any that shall say the con-caput in memtrary.

And though those cunning Fathers speak somewhat darkly, and so involve things, blending truth with error, as if they defigned to make younger brothers of all the World beside, yet the great interpreter of Counsel speaks more honestly, that is more broadly, and plainly tells us, Andred. apud. That eternal blessedness is no less due to the good works of good men, than Chambit. eternal torments are to the evil works of wicked men. And that eternal life is so the recompence of good works, that it is not so much given of Col freely, and out of Liberality, as it is out of debt: And that the nature. of Merit and grace not being consistent, the reward is to be reckoned not as of grace but of debt. Now well fare Andredius for a plain dealing Enemy; it is a commendable quality in any, but a rare one in a. Papilt; the man faves us the labour of guesting at the Councils meaning. had all spoke out like him, we should more easily have understood them, and fewer would have been deluded by them: And yet not to wrong any, other modern Jesuits are no less rigid in the point than this Author; nay who among the Papists do not affert the worthings: of good works in relation to the reward, though they are not yet agreed from whence that worthiness should arise: Some say as (Bellarmine tells us) from the promise of God engaging to reward them; but these are few, and too modest, and inded half Hereticks for their pains. Others fay from the intrinsick worth, and excellency of the works themselves, setting aside the confideration of the promise. These are the impudent children of Holy Church, fit Sons for fuch a Mother. And yet the Cardinal himself comes little behind them, if at all; he is of opinion, that the good works of righteous men are worthy of Eternal glory, partly by reason of their own proper goodness, and partly by virtue of Gods promise; yet not so neither (for he is afraid of speaking too diminutively of good works) as if without Gods covenanting with the worker, and acceptance of the work, it did not it self bear an answerable proportion to eternal life; but (only) because, setting aside the promise, God is not obliged to accept a good work to eternal life, though it be equal to it. To these we may add others, who say good works are worthy of eternal life, as they are tineta sanguine Christi, dip'd in Christs blood, dignissed and commended by his merits, from which they receive virtue and power, to be themselves meritorious. And so our business is to fhew that good works do not on any account, either of themselves, and their own internal excellency, or of Gods promise, or Christs Merits deserve eternal life. And so we came to confirm the truth.

Inter mercedem et meritum eft quidam respe-

Arg. 1. Good works are rewarded meerly out of Gods mercy and grace, and therefore not out of mans merit. What more opposit than Mercy, and Merit? Tit. 3. 5. Not by works of righteousness, but of his Etus mutuus &c. mercy he faved us. What a man doth really deserve by his works, canhabet quandam from thence only that the best works of Gods children are ever rewargratiam five do ded with eternal blessedness. of Mercy. Men never need mercy more than when they come before Gods Tribunal, and even there when they look for the reward of their good works, they must expect it from the mercy of the Judge. So Nehemiab did, who after making mention of some of his good works, and praying that God would remember him for them, chap. 13. ver. 14. he farther prayes that God would spare him according to the greatness of his mercy, ver. 22. Now when is it that Nehemiah defires to be spared, but then when he expects his works should be rewarded? Gods sparing extends even to his judging. Gods remembring him for good, ver. 31. his not wiping out his good deeds, and his sparing him, all proceed from the same mercy of God. But eternal life (say the Papists) is ascribed Exes to Gods mercy, not that it is not truly, and properly the reward of mans Merits, but that those merits themselves are the fruits of Gods mercy. To which we may eafily reply, that if God do out of his mer-Answ. cy fave us, and out of mercy remember us for good, and reward us according to our work, then it is clear that he doth not only enable us out of his mercy, to do those good works which tend to Salvation. It is one thing for a man to be faved, another thing to be put into a way of Salvation by being enabled to work for it. As it is one thing to crown a man for conquering, and another to give him weapons&teach him to fight.

God could not be truly said to save any man, if he only gave him grace to work in order to it: Nor to fave him out of mercy; if for all that mercy he must still be saved by his merits, and without them, might fall short of Salvation.

Arg. 2. Eternal life is the gift of God, and therefore is not deserved by our good works, Luk. 12. 32, It is your Fathers good pleasure to give you the Kingdom. Rom. 6. 23, The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life. That therefore Eternal life is a gift none can deny, that will not deny the plain words of Scripture: And that then it will follow, that good works do not deserve it, will appear by the opposition that there is between a free gift, and a due reward: that which is of grace is not of debt, and that which is of debt is not of grace, Kom. 11.6. What I owe, I cannot be faid properly to give, and what I properly give, I cannot be said to owe. So that if God properly gives Eternal life, he cannot be faid to owe it, and if he do not owe it, I am fure we do not deserve it. So much we see in the Apostles Antithesis, the wages of sin is death; death is truly and properly the wages of fin, as being deserved by us, and it is justice in God to give us our desert. But he doth not say, Eternal life is the wages of our righteousness or works, but the gift of God, as being free, and altogether undeserved by us. But Eternal life he calls zaporus the free gift of God, such an one as is given, in xierros out had nothing to of grace, as Souldiers fometimes were wont to have gifts, donativalargesses, given them over and above their pay, as we know was the frequent practice of the Roman Emperours to do, unto which it is not unlikely that our Apostle may allude in the latter part of the verse, as well as he plainly enough doth to their pay in the former. The Apostle υναία πανη doth not say eternal life is your wages (says Theop θες ανα το χά for you receive not the compensation, and remunerate είτμα, ε χο all these things come by grace through Jesus Christ. στι σώσεν ελάξε Arg. 3. Arg. 3. Eternal life is given to believers by way of Inheritance, and therefore not by way of Merit, Eph. 1.14, Which is the earnest of our inheritance. Rom. 8. 17, If children, then heirs, heirs of God, and joynt heirs with Christ. Heb. 1. 14. Who shall be heirs of Salvation. This none can deny. And that it follows that if they be heirs of glory, they have it not by the merit of their works, we see by Tit. 3.5, 7. Not by works of righteousness, &c. that being justified by his grace we should be made beirs, &c. Gal. 3. 18. If the inheritance be of the Law it is no more of promise, but God gave it to Abraham by promise. To have eternal life by the Law and by works, is opposed to our having it by promise, and by inheritance. And this may be farther confirmed; for if a believer merit his inheritance, then either he doth it by works done before his Adoption, which Papists themselves will not say, who acknowledge eternal life not to be the wages of servants, but the portion of children, and that merits cannot be in any who are not reconciled to God, and accepted of him: Or else it must be by works done after a man is adopted; but that cannot be neither, because whoever merits, doth thereby acquire a right to something to which he had none before, whereas every believer hath a right to the heavenly inheritance by his very Adoption, and before those good works be wrought, whereby it is pretended he merits it. Rom. 8. 17. If children, then beirs, &c. But fay the Papists, believers have a right to heaven by their adoption, yet must merit the actual possession of it. It is subtilly distinguished: as if an adopted person had not a title to the possession of the inheritance the very first moment he is adopted, or as if a man might have a right to heaven, and yet not have a right to the possession of it. We acknowledge that obedience is required in a Son before he come to possess his Inheritance. yet that obedience though antecedent to his possessing that inheritance, is only the way in which he is to come to it, and the means whereby he is to be fitted for it, but is not meritorious of it; there is no right to the Inheritance required by his obedience which before he had not, though farther fitness for, and sutableness to it there may be. The Israelites. were to fight, and subdue their enemies ere they possessed the promised Land, but their right to the possession of it they had before by the promise; and who can say that they were worthy of it meerly because they fought for it ?

Arg. 4. Believers owe all to God, and therefore can merit nothing of him: they owe all to God, both as being his fervants to whom they are bound, and his beneficiaries who have received all from him.

1. They are his servants, Luk. 17. 10. Say we are unprofitable ser. vants. I Cor. 6. 19, 20. Te are not your own, for ye are bought with a price; what that price is Peter tells us, I Pet. 1.18, 19. not corruptible things, gold, filver, but the precious blood of Christ, &c. All the Creatures are his fervants, because made, and employed, and maintained by him: but believers are more especially his servants, because they are redeemed by him too, from being servants to fin and Satan (by whom, though they were never rightfully Servants, yet they were held in bondage) and purchased by him to be his own possession, his peculiar people, and to do his work, to be zealous of good works, Tit. 2. 14. I suppose 1. 14. none can deny Believers to be as much Gods fervants, as any mans fervants are his, and that he hath as absolute a dominion over them, as men ever can have over those which are theirs, being bought with a price as well as any. Now who knows not that servants are so their Masters, that they are not their own, not sui juris, cannot command themselves, not dispose of themselves, or their time, or their work; all they have, and all they do is their Masters. Believers then being thus Gods servants have nothing, do nothing but what belongs to their Lord, and so can deserve nothing at his hands by all the service they can do him, feeing they owe it all to him; who indeed deserves any thing for doing what he is bound to do, and deserves punishment if he do not do? And therefore if God rewards his servants, he doth it out of his liberality, and because it pleafeth him to reward them, not that any thing is due to them; and if he never should reward them, never had promised them a reward, yet still they being servants were bound to do his work. Hence our Saviour in that 17. of Luke bids his Disciples when they have done all that is commanded them, or supposing they could and should do all, yet even then to acknowledge themselves to be but unprofitable servants, not only unprofitable to God, (so much the Papists will grant) but unprofitable to themselves, in that being bound by the condition of servants to obey their Lord, they could not deserve so much as thanks, ver. 9, much less a reward. And so in a word, if God give believers any thing it is grace, if nothing it is not injustice. He that would deserve any thing of his Master must first be made free; Manumission must go before Merit.

2. Believers owe all to God because they are his beneficiaries, and have received all from God, I Cor. 4.7. What hast thou that thou hast not received? It is God that morketh in you to will, and to do of his own good pleasure. Phil. 2. 13. Not that we are sufficient of our selves, to think any thing as of our selves, but our sufficiency is of God. 2 Cor. 2. 5. And indeed Papists themselves dare not in plain terms deny it, but in words confess it. And the more ancient, and founder Schoolmen roundly affert, all the good we do. as well as enjoy to come from God. No man, fays one, is before-hand with God in doing any thing for God, but God bimself in every good work, and motion is the first mover and doer. And, whatever me are (saith another) whatever we have, whether good actions, or good habits, or the use of them, it is all in us out of the liberality of God freely giving all, and preserving all. And yet another, All our good works and merits are Gods free gifts. He calls them merits, and yet in that very place disputes against the condignity of merits, with this very Argument we have in hand. And though it be true, that the good actions we do are ours as they are wrought by us, and come from us, yet all that is good in them is of God, and they have no more goodness in them than what they have of him.

Now then hence it will follow that men can deserve nothing of God, Rom. 11.35. Who hath first given to him, and it shall be recompensed to him again? They that have not first given to God something which is their own, something which they never received from him, cannot oblige him to recompense them. And indeed it is contrary to common sense, that a man should deserve any thing of another by giving him back what he received from him, and so that God should be a debtor to us for those very good works which himself hath wrought in us. Thus some of the Papists themselves argue. If God, says one, gives a soul grace, he gives it freely, and no man will say that because he hath given him one gift, he ows him another, therefore when God freely gives a soul charity, he is not consequently bound to give it glory. Nay the other go farther, and argue that the more good a man doth the more he receives from God, (seeing it is of God that he doth that very good) and therefore is so far from obliging God by what he doth, that he is himself more bound to God. And indeed it is a clear case, that the more a man ows to God, the less capable he is of deserving any thing of God, but the more good a man doth the more he ows, because the more he doth the more he receives, and consequently the best Saints, that do most, seeing they likewise receive most, must needs owe most; and therefore merit least. Indeed did they do their good works meerly in their own strength, and without receiving grace from God, so that they could call their works purely their own, more might be said in defence of Merits; But when no believer in the World ever doth one jot of good more than what he is enabled by God to do, and which God works by him; it follows that still as his works encrease, so his receipts encrease, and as they grow, his merits (to speak so for once) abate.

Si Deus dat anime charitatem gratis donat, et nullus diceret quod ex eo quod Deus donet aliquod munus alicui, siat ei alterius muneris debitor, ergo ex eo quod gratis dat anime charitatem, non debetur consequenter etiam gloria. Arimin. ubi supra. Vid. Bradward. & Durand. ubi supra. he being in every good work a new debtor to God for the grace whereby he did it.

Arg. 5. The good works of believers are imperfect, and therefore they cannot merit by them. How can a man merit any reward of the Lawgiver by doing that which doth not answer the Law, which requires not only good works but perfectly good ones? He doth not deserve his wages that doth not do his whole work, and do it as he should. Or how can a man deserve a reward by those works which deserve punishment? Can he deserve the bleffing and the curse at the same time, and by the same works? But imperfect good works, though the imperfection of them be not actually imputed, and what is good in them be accepted, yet as imperfect, and falling short of the demands of the Law, do deserve the Curse; for, Gal. 3. 10. Cursed is every one that continues not in all that is written in the book of the Law to do it. And the perfection of good works as well as the works themselves is one of those things which are written in the Law, Luk. 10. 27. Thou shalt leve the Lord thy God with all thy heart, &c. Now that the good works of believers are imperfect, not only altogether, but each of them in particular, how clear is it to any that ever really exercise themselves in them? Where is there the Saint in the world, but hath some fins mingled with his good works? Who ever holds on in fo constant a course of obedience and holiness; but that the good he doth is interrupted with the mixture of some evil? There is not a just man upon the earth that doth good, and fins not, fays Solomon Eccles. 7. 20. And if we say we have no sin we deceive our selves, and the truth is not in us, saith St. John, I Joh. 1. 8. And David who was as holy as any Papist upon earth, speaks for himself, and all the world besides, that if God should mark iniquity, none could stand, Psal. 130.3. And though our Adversaries tell us here that the intermixture of some venial sins, with the good works of the Saints, doth not hinder their perfection, nor meritoriousness, and that their fins are no other: that believers may as they walk toward heaven, have a little dust fall upon them, but do not wallow in the mire; that they do but turn aside in Gods ways, not turn their backs upon them, but halt in them, not forfake them, but squint a little on the World, not turn their faces wholly toward it. Yet this will not suffice till they can folidly establish the distinction of mortal sins, and venial upon Scripture foundations, which they never can till they have made an Index expurgatorius upon the Bible it self, and sentenced the holy Penmen of it as Authores damnatos, condemned them for making those fins mortal which they themselves would so fain have only venial. No nor after they have done that, till they can produce some one Saint who hath lived all his days without ever falling into any one of their mortal fins. Let them ransack their whole Colledge of Cardinals, search all their Religious houses, examine Peters Chair it self, and they shall not find one that dares (and Protestants will not) pretend to be wholly without, or free from some or other of those sins, which they themselves count Mortal.

And if we look to the good works of the Saints in particular, we shall find some defectiveness in every one of them, the best proceed but from an imperfect principle; the new nature, which, in believers during their present state, is but in its growth, not come to its full maturity; it shall be made perfect, and therefore is not yet perfect. God promises that believers shall grow in grace, Pfal. 92. 12, 13, 14. The righteous shall flourish as the Palm tree, and grow like a Cedar in Lebanon. They are commanded to grow, 2 Pet. 3. 18. Grow in grace. It is their endeavour to grow, Phil. 3. 12, 13, 14. They reach out to things before them, and press forward, &c. And it is their priviledge that they do grow, 2 Cor. 4. 16. Their inner man is renewed day by day. And there is no time of a Saints life in which it is not his duty to grow in grace; the command obligeth them all as long as they are on this fide heaven. But if grace were come to its full perfection, there would be no more need of growing in it, no more obligation so to do. Besides, there is no Saint, but as he hath some grace in him, so he hath some remainders of corruption too, fin dwelling in bim, as well as Paul had, Rom. 7. 17. the Law of the members as well as the Law of the mind, ver. 23. flesh as well as spirit, Gal. 5. 17. As one principle which draws him off from fin, so another, which inclines him to it; as one which puts him upon good, so another which makes him in some degree averse to it, as something which makes him do the work, and in some measure as he should; To something which checks and cools him, and makes him not do it altogether as he should. Now from hence ariseth a double imperfection in the best works of the Saints: One is a want or failing of that intenseness, or those degrees of goodness, that height and excellency of it which the Law of God requires; for where the principle it felf is not fully perfect, the actings of that principle cannot but be imperfect; the effect can be no better than the cause: The other is the adherence of some evil to the work, some spot or stain cleaving to it: as sin dwells in the same soul, the same mind, the same will and affections with grace, fo it mingles it felf with the actings of grace; there being fomething of mud in the fountain, it dirties the stream; the vessel having a tang, derives it to the liquor that runs out of it; there being something of venom in the flower, it infinuates it felf into, and mingles with that fweet vapour that comes from it: so that upon the whole every act of a Saint is some way or other defective, and blemished, and comes short of a legal accurateness, and therefore is not able to abide a legal trial: that any are at all accepted with God, it is upon the fole account of Jesus Christ, 1 Pet. 2. 5. Him we find, Rev. 8. 3. offering incense with the prayers of the Saints, and his Type the High Priest, Exod. 28. 38. Bearing the iniquities of the holy things which the children of Israel hallowed in all their holy gifts. And sure then if the good works of believers lievers are accepted for Christs sake, they are not rewarded for their own; their goodness cannot deserve a recompence, when their infirmities need a covering: their weakness argues their not answering the Law, and if they do not answer it, they cannot deserve to be rewarded according to it.

Arg. 6. Believers need forgiveness of sin, and therefore cannot by all their good deeds merit life. That they need forgiveness is plain not only by the former Argument, (in that there is no man fo full of good works, but he hath some sins mingled with them; and there are no good works in this life, so full of goodness, but they have some mixture of evil too.) and by our Saviours command to pray for pardon, and that daily, Mat. 6. 12. Forgive us our debts. But likewise by the practice of the Saints in Scripture, Pfal. 25. 11. Dan. 9. 19. 1 King. 8. 34, 36. and the practice of the Papills themselves; How many Pater Nosters, and Kyrie Elecsons, do they daily say? The veriest Saints among them confess their sins, and pray for pardon. The Pope himself, for all his Holiness, and his pardoning other mens sins, yet confesset bis own. Now if Saints themselves need forgiveness, how do they deserve Heaven? How can the Conscience of sin, and the merit of life consist together? He that prays for pardon confesseth himself a sinner, and he that owns himself a sinner, acknowledgeth himself to be worthy of death; and if he be worthy of death, how is he worthy of life? If he deserve a punishment, sure he doth not at the same time deserve a reward? If they shall say, that they pray only for the pardon of venial fins, it signifies little; they had as good keep their breath for something elfe, seeing after all their seeking the forgiveness of them, yet they mult be fain to expiate them hereafter in Purgatory: And if they do by their. venial fins deserve Purgatory, how do they at the same time merit: Heaven? And therefore either let the Papilts cease to pray for pardon, or to pretend to merit. To beg forgiveness, if they do not a indeed fin, is to mock God, and to pretend to merit if they do, is tomock themselves.

Arg. 7. The good works of believers are not commensurate and equal in goodness, and value to eternal life, and therefore cannot deferve it. Common sense will evince the truth of the consequence. Who can say that such a work deserves such a reward, if it be not equal in worth, and value to it, any more than that such a Commodity deserves such a price, if it be not of equal worth with it? And Papists themselves grant as much; Aquinas makes the just reward of a mans labour, and Vid. 11. 2. quithe price of a thing bought to be both alike of Justice, and requires an 114. Are 12 equality wherever strict justice is. And that the good works of the Saints are not equal to eternal life, unless they be grown better than they were in Pauls time, is clear by Rom. 8. 18. For I recken, that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us: And if the sufferings of the Saints are not worthy of their glory, sure none of their other works are; their sufferings, (wherein they are not meerly passive, but active too, for they chuse to suffer afflictions, Heb. 11.25.) being some of the most excellent of their works, and in which most grace is exercised. The Papists common Answer is, That the good works of Believers as they come meerly from them, and their free will are not worthy of, or equal to their glory, but yet that they are so as they proceed from grace, a supernatural principle in their hearts. But we have seen before, that that very principle though excellent, noble, divine as to the nature of it; yet in respect of its degrees, is but imperfect, and therefore the actings which proceed from it must needs be so too; there being such a mixture of sin in the heart where grace is seated, it mingles it self with the actings of grace in our works. And how then can we say that an imperfect work deserves a full reward? That the poor lame performances of believers are equal to that abundant glory, which God in his goodness hath prepared for them?

Arg. 8. Believers cannot recompense to God what they have already received of him, and therefore cannot by all they do merit any thing of him. They that are debtors to God can by no means make him a debtor to them; when they owe him so much, he can owe them nothing. Debt to God must be discharged before any obligation can be laid upon him. And that Saints cannot recompense God for what they have received of him, is clear by what was said before, for they have received of him all they are, all they have, all they do, their being, their powers and saculties, their good inclinations, principles, actings. And what can a man return to God which may recompense him for all these? It is a known saying of the Philosopher, That no man can requite God, or his Parents. And indeed if a Son cannot return equal to his Father for the being he harh received from him, though but subordinately to God, much less can he recompense God himself for that, and Arift.Eth. 1. 8.

God, or his Parents. And indeed if a Son cannot return equal to his Father for the being he hath received from him, though but subordinately to God, much less can he recompense God himself for that, and all else which he hath received from him. But deserving a reward at Gods hands, especially such a one as we speak of, is much more than meerly to requite him for what he hath done for us, and therefore such a reward, by all our good works we can never possibly merit. I conclude this with that, of Bradwardine, God bath given to and for man, miserable captive man, man obnoxious to eternal flames, himself made man, suffering, dying, buried, that he might redeem him, and he promiseth, and giveth himself wholly to be enjoyed by man as his great reward, which infinitely exceeds any meer man: And consequently all his power, all his holiness, all his good works. What Saint on earth can requite God for giving himself for him, and how then can he merit the enjoyment of God? If the first be above his requital, I am sure the other is above his desert.

Deus dedit homini, & pro misero homine, & captivo, Flammis perpetuis obligato, seipsum incarnatum, passum, & sepultum, in precium temporaliter redimendo; promittit insuper & dat seipsum totum in præmium fæliciter consumendo, quod excedit quimlibet parum hominem insinite. Bradw.

Arg. 9.

Arg. 9. He that deserves any thing of another must do something whereby that other hath some benefit or advantage, for no man can be faid to merit at anothers hand, by doing that which is advantageous only to himself. But Believers, by all they do, profit themselves, if any, not God; they bring no gain, make no addition to him, it is their own good. their own happiness they farther and advance by all their holiness and good works, but not God's, who is still, after all the good Works of all the Saints on earth for these 5000 years and upwards, the same he was before: All their mites have added nothing to his Treasures, all their drops nothing to his Ocean. Job 22. 2. Can a man be profitable to God as a man that is wife may be profitable to himself? ver. 3. Is it gain to him that thou makest thy ways perfect? And therefore it must needs follow, that Believers by their good works deserve nothing of God.

Arg. 10. The Popish Doctrine of Merits highly derogates from the honour of God and Christ, and therefore is not to be admitted.

1. It derogates from the glory of God;

1. In his Liberality, for God is the most liberal giver, 7am. 1. 5. Every good, we fay, by how much the greater it is, so much the more communicative it is, and God being the greatest good, must needs be most communicative, most liberal, and that too to such an height, as nothing can be conceived more so. Now he that gives freely, is more liberal, more generous, more communicative, than he that gives out of debt, or on the account of defert, and therefore that most free and liberal way of giving must be ascribed unto God, as most sutable to him, and we cannot say that God gives any thing to his Creatures out of debt, but we diminish the glory of his liberality.

2. In his Liberty. It is a subjecting him to his Creature. He that ows any thing to another is so far forth subject to him; the borrower is Prov. 22, 7. fervant to the lender. He that gives all freely, is more free himself, than he that gives only because he ows it. And therefore if God be a debtor to man, and bound in Justice to reward him, he doth not act so freely as if no fuch obligation lay upon him.

2. It derogates likewise from the glory of Christ, because from his vid. cham.tom, Merits. Whoever merits any thing, acquires thereby a right to that lert.l.14.6.20. thing which before he had not, either in whole or in part. A day-labourer hath no right to his wages, but by his work, and till his work be done cannot challenge it; and so if Believers merit eternal life, they do by their works get a title to it, which before their working they had not: and if they do by their works acquire a right wholly to eternal life, then Christ hath not at all merited it for them; if in part they merit it, then Christ hath but in part merited it for them; and something there is in eternal life which Christ hath not merited. And it is in vain to fay that Christ hath merited for the Saints a power of meriting, and that it is more for his glory to enable them to do it, than to do it wholly himself. For, besides that, the Papists can never prove that Christ hath

Exc.

Answ.

Ccc merited merited any such power for Believers, it is really more for the honour of his bounty to purchase all for them himself, than to enable them to it. As he is more bountiful who gives a man a great estate out of his own proper goods, than he that enables him to get an estate by his labour and industry.

Indeed Bellarmine speaks plainly, that God would have his children merit Heaven, because it is more for their honour than to have it given them. De Justif. 1. 5. c. 3. So little is his eminency concern'd for God's glory, as zealous as he is for the credit of the Saints: methinks he might have remembred, that what is given to the one is taken away from the other; and if it be more for the Saints honour to have their inheritance by way of merit, yet it is more for God's glory that they have it as a gift.

Other arguments might be added, but I had rather mention enough than all. I have been larger in these, because, though some of the more learned among the Papists place the meritoriousness of good works upon something else than the intrinsick excellency of them, yet this is the most popular and dangerous error among them, the vulgar fort not understanding the distinctions and niceties of some sew Scholars, are more apt to believe their good works to be of their own nature, and for their own excellency meritorious. More briefly therefore of the rest: Bellarmine bears us in hand, that the compleat meritoriousness of good works ariseth from the addition of God's promise to them; so that they which would not have merited eternal life otherwise, (though proportioned to it, if he may be believed) yet the promise being made, are truly worthy of it.

Against this we argue; that if the accession of the promise make good works to be truly meritorious, then it must be either because the promise makes good works better, more excellent and noble than they would have been, had no such promise been made; or else because (which is this Cardinals notion) the promise oblight God in justice to reward not ennoble them, nor add any intrinsecal dignity or worth to them, nor make them in themselves better than they would have been if such a promise had not been made, the promise being something extrinsecal to the works themselves, &c. From whence therefore they can receive no new degrees of inward goodness or worth. The proper formal excellency of a good action ariseth from its conformity to its rule, the rightness of the principle from whence it proceeds, and to which it is directed: if therefore it proceed from a supernatural principle, and be referred to a supernatural end, and be in other things agreeable to its proper rule, which is the command of God, and not the promise; (for that though it be an encouragement to work, yet is not the rule of our working) it hath all in it that is necessary to the essence of a good work, whether whether any promise be made to it or not. Indeed, the more high and intense the principle of Grace is from whence it proceeds, and the more directly and expresly it is ordered to its end, and the more exactly it is conformable to its rule, the more good, the more gracious it is; but the adding of the promise makes it not one jot more gracious, more intrinfecally worthy: had God never made any promise of rewarding the good works of Believers, yet they would have been as good as now they Nay, I meet with a School-man that fays, if the promise make Nec illa proany alteration in the nature of a good work, it is rather by diminishing missio facit opus from its goodness than adding to it; so far as it may be an occasion of melius, ut patet a mans acting less out of love to God, and more out of love to himself. openis, & per However did any new goodness accrew to a good work by the accession omnes ejus cirof God's promise, it would follow, that the least good work of a Saint cumstantias inshould thereby be so elevated and raised in its worth and value, as to be forstian minus made equal to the greatest; the giving a cup of cold water to one of bonum; facit Christ's Disciples, should be equal to a mans laying down his life for enim intentio-Christ; for they which agree in some third, agree between themselves; nem minus sin-(as the learned Bishop Davenant argues) and so if the giving a cup of prius operabacold water to a Disciple of Christ, be by God's promise made equal to tur pure propter eternal life, dying for Christ being no more, even after the accession of Deum solum, the promise, they must be both equally good, and (in the Papists stile) nunc for sitan equally meritorious actions, because both commensurate to, and merito-retributionem rious of the same reward. Nay, supposing God should promise eter-promissam. nal life to a meerly moral work, which had no supernatural goodness in Bradw. de it, or to an action in it self indifferent, yet that action, though not gra- causa Dei, l.r. cious in it self, should be of as great dignity and value as any the best Que conveniand most spiritual action what-ever; for the best action cannot be ima-unt in aliquo gined by Papists themselves to deserve any more than eternal life, and tertio convenieven a meer moral or indifferent one would by the help of the promise untinter se. De deserve as much, and yet the Papists acknowledg that none but gracious 63. ones can deferve it. And how abfurd would it feem in the things of this life, for a promise or contract thus to raise the value of a mans labour or mony, above the due estimation, and intrinsick worth of it? Would it not feem strange, nay ridiculous to affirm, when two men buy two parcels of a commodity, of equal worth in themselves, but at unequal rates; suppose the one at 100 l. as the full value, the other at 5 l. that the contract made between the buyer and seller, or the promise of the feller to let his Chapman have his goods at such a price, did raise the value of his five pounds, and make it equal to the others hundred? who would grant this? who would not fay that fuch a commodity were in a manner given away, or the just price of it abated, rather than the value of the mony rasfed? It is a case here, and what our Adversaries speak of good works being made meritorious by the addition of God's promise, is no less ridiculous and void of reason.

2. The addition of God's promise of rewarding good works, doth not bind him in strict justice to reward them. We acknowledg that he is engaged, by his immutability and faithfulness, to reward the holiness of his Saints, having once promised so to do; but that is no more than to fay, that God is engaged to act like himself, suitably to his own nature; it is agreeable to God, as God, to be faithful and true to his word; if he were not faithful, he could not be God, not to be faithful were to deny himself, 2 Tim. 2. 13. But it is quite another thing to be bound in strict justice to render to men such a reward as he hath promised. For the object of justice being the equality of the thing given, and the thing received, and it being the business of justice to see to that equality, and that so much be returned for so much, God being bound by his promise to make such an equality of the reward to the work, argues imperfection in him; for it implies that God is mans debtor, and hath received more of him-than hitherto he hath given him, or that a mans works exceed all his receits, and all God's former bounty: in a word, that man hath done more for God, than God hath yet done for him, on the account whereof he is bound to give him more, (viz. the reward) that so there may be an equality. And if this do not imply imperfection in God, what doth? Besides, if after God hath promised glory to a righteous man walking in his righteousness, yet he should not give it him, such an one could only say that God did break his word, or act contrary to his faithfulness, but he could not say he acted unjustly, or did not give him as much as he received from him. If (faith a Papift himself) God should not give glory to a man that died in a state of Grace. or should take it away from one already possessed of it, yet in so doing he should not be unrighteous. To conclude, justice properly taken implies an equality, and where equality is not, there cannot be justice; but there is no equality not only between God and man, but between mans working, and Gods rewarding; and it is not the addition of a promise that either levels the reward to the work, or raiseth the work to the re-

But, fay some of our Adversaries, good works become meritorious of eternal life, by being sprinkled with Christ's blood, commended to God by his merits. We would willingly see the proof of it; let them tell us, if they can, what it is which Christ's merits do super-add to the goodness of the work whereby it becomes meritorious, when before, though truly good, it was not so. We grant indeed, that as there is no goodness in our selves, so likewise none in our works, which is not the effect of Christ's merits; but supposing the goodness of them, we would know what it is that Christ's merits do further add to them to make them meritorious. True indeed, the merits of Christ do procure both acceptance and reward for the good works of the Saints, but they do not make these works intrinsecally perfect: they are the cause why the failings of the Saints in them are not imputed, but they do not remove those failings and weaknesses from them. Nay more, Christ's Vid. Rivett. merits do no more make the good works of believers meritorious, than Orthod. Cathol. Christ communicates to believers themselves a power of meriting, but that can never be; a meer creature is uncapable of such a power: to merit is proper to Christ only, and cannot agree to any of his members; the power of meriting eternal life confilts in the infinite virtue of the person meriting answering to the glory merited; and therefore to say that Christ, by his merits, makes the good works of the Saints meritorious, is to fay that he communicates to themselves an infinite power, and to their works an infinite excellency.

To all these I add but this one general Argument. It is not lawful for men to trust in their own works, and therefore they do not merit any thing of God by them; for what reason can be given why a man might not put confidence in them, if they really deserved a reward of God, and so were really the cause of mans salvation? It is true indeed, the confidence of a believer, and his rejovcing in the goodness and safety of his spiritual estate, and hope of life, may be helped on by, and in a fense proceed from his obedience and good works, because they are an evidence of his faith, and so of his interest in Christ, acceptance with God, and title to the heavenly inheritance; but this is quite another thing; there is a vast difference between a mans taking comfort in his obedience, as the evidence of his title to glory; and trusting in it, asthat which gives him that title. Nebemiah, though he reflect on his good deeds, and comfort himself in them, yet expects his reward on another account, Chap. 13. ver. 22. Spare me according to the greatness of thy mercy; and so our Pfalmist in the Text, To thee belongeth mercy, for thou renderest to every man according to his works: and how frequently, do we find the Saints disclaiming all confidence in their own holiness and obedience, when they have to do with God and his judgment? But to descend from the Saints to a Cardinal, Bellarmine himself after his laborious disputes in defence of merits, and for justification by works, in the very same Chapter where he pleads for the lawfulness of mens Proper incertrusting in them, at last hath this conclusion, That, because of the uncer-titudinem protainty of mans own righteousness, and the danger of vain-glory, it is the price justitice, safest way for men to place their whole considence in the mercy and goodness inanis glorie, of God alone. And if Bellarmine say it is safest, I will say it is wisest, tutissimum est and the Cardinal doth but trifle in contending so much for the merit of totam fiduciam good works, and so in a business of the highest importance, putting men in sola Dei upon a course which he himself dares not say is safe.

Having said thus much for the confirmation of the truth against the ponere. De Ju-Papists, it is high time we give them leave to speak for themselves, and stif. 1. 5.c.7. hear what they can say for the merit of good works in relation to the re- prop. 3.

First therefore they tell us, that eternal life is in Scripture frequently Obj. 1,. called a reward, Matt. 5. 12. Great is your reward in Heaven; 2 Joh. 8.

misericordia, &

But that we receive a full reward; Rev. 22. 12. I come quickly, and my reward is with me: and so in other places. Now, say they, Mereas & meritum, a reward and merit are correlates; so that merit infers reward, and reward implies merit; and therefore if Heaven, which is given to believers, be the reward of their works, their works must needs be the merit of that reward.

Answ.

1. A reward may be taken either strictly, and properly, for that which is given to a man not only on consideration of his work, but is proportioned, and measured out according to it, and is in strict justice due to him for it. And in this sense we deny that eternal life is ever in the Scripture called a reward; and let our Adversaries prove it if they can. Or, secondly, it is taken improperly and metaphorically, and then there is no fuch relation between it and merit, as the objection mentions. Thus, Gen. 30. 18. God bath given me my hire, or reward, faith Leab, and yet who can fay that the merited a fon at God's hands, by giving her hand-maid to her husband? Psal. 127. 3. The fruit of the womb is bis remard; and I wonder then what is the merit? Indeed, what is reward in the latter part of the verse, but the same that heritage in the former? So, Gen. 15. 1. I am thy shield, and thy exceeding great reward. And will the Papists say that God himself falls under mens merit? and yet so it must be, if there be such a necessary relation between reward and merit. Yet more fully, Rom. 4. 4. To him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt. Here are plainly two forts of rewards, one proper, and of debt; the other improper, and of grace. And therefore I conclude, that eternal life is called a reward in Scripture improperly, and metaphorically, and no otherwise than as any thing given to another on confideration of service done, may be called a reward, though it be a thousand times greater than the service is, or though it be not at all due to him to whom it is given; as when a Master gives something to his flave who hath done his work well, though he were not bound to it, his fervant being his mony, and being bound to do do his work, and do it well, though no reward should be given him.

Exc. Ansre. Oper. p. 44.8.1. 2. As eternal life is sometimes called a reward, so it is other times called a gift, Rom. 6. 23. If it be here excepted, that it is properly called a reward, and metaphorically a gift: Camero answers, that that which is properly a gift, may metaphorically be called a reward, as if it be given on the account of some fervice, as when a Master gives a gift to his servant for doing his work, which yet (as before) he was not obliged to give; but that which is properly a reward, can by no means be called a gift, because a real proper reward implies something worthy of it, whereby it is deserved, and the reward is a debt due in justice to such a work; and so if eternal life be a reward, it cannot at all be called a gift, at least without an unpardonable catachress; whereas, though it be properly a gift, it may figuratively be called a reward, because of some resemblance to it, in that God rewards men with eternal glory after they have done him service, though they were bound to have served him, however no fuch reward were to be given them. And yet again, eter- chamier. de nal life is called an inheritance, as well as a reward; and, fays a learned bon. oper. c. 6. man, either both these names are given it properly, or both figuratively; or one properly, and the other figuratively; the first cannot be, for tobe properly an inheritance and reward too, will imply a contradiction: who knows not that a reward properly taken is always deserved, but an inheritance is not; and so eternal life, if it be properly both, must begiven to some antecedent desert, because a reward; and without it, because an inheritance; and so freely, and not freely; out of justice, and not out of justice. If it be metaphorically only called both a reward and an inheritance, we gain as much as we need, for then it is not properly a reward, and so not truly deserved, the Papists themselves being judges. If one be taken properly, the other figuratively, it may eafily be proved that the figurative sense must rather be applyed to its being a reward than an inheritance, unless we will say not only that eternal life is properly a reward, but believers are properly mercenaries; and if the Papills are fo fond of their merits, that rather than fail they will own themselves mercenaries, much good may it do them, we envy them, not the honour.

Several places they alledge where the Scripture speaks of believers as Obj. 25. worthy of the reward: 2 Thes. 1.5. That ye may be counted worthy of the Kingdom of God: Rev. 3. 4. They shall malk with me in white, for they are various fax worthy. Much stress they lay upon the word worthy, and so argue the on the on the same as

The worthiness spoken of in such places, is plainly the Saints fitness for, and sutableness to, the reward of glory; that disposition which God works in those whom he intends to glorifie: of which the Apostle: speaks, Col. 1.12. Who bath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the Saints in light: where the vulgar Latin renders it, Qui dignos, nos fecit, though the Greek inavirant fignifie no more than, as we. translate it, making meet, or fit. And in how many other places is the same word used for fitness, or sutableness? Matth. 3. 8. Bring forth fruits naprise delise The meet for repentance, that is, such as become those who truly repent, and minurales. yet the Greek hath it, worthy of repentance: and if we take it in the Popish sense, what fruits are they which are worthy of repentance, so as to merit it? not works before it, for they themselves will not affirm works wrought before the first grace, to merit that grace, at least by way. of condignity. Nor can it be faid of works after repentance; for who is so weak as to say, a man may truly and properly deserve what he hath already, by something which he doth afterwards? Other places confirm our interpretation of the word, Eph. 4. 1. That ye walk worthy; of the vocation where-with ye are called; 'Azius meeramo ai is no more than to walk futably or agreeably to their calling. And Phil. 1, 27.

Veneris dignitate superbo. Virg. Quos quoniam cæli nondum aignamur honore. Ovid. Ažismev (D., qui imprimis hor ore dignus habetur, vel plurimi fit. A E 18 Dat dignum judicare. Suid.

A Lius TE Evanteries modificionais, to have our conversation worthy of the Gospel, is no more, than as our translation renders it; as becomes the Gospel. And agisabat, 2 Theff. 1. 5. which we render to count worthy, is no more conjugio Anea than dignari, to vouchsafe: and the same use both of the Greek and Latin word is frequent in Heathen Authors, so that nothing for merit in a proper sense can be inferred from it. Or, if dignity must needs be in the case, the Greek word will rather fignify, to dignify, or put honour upon another, than suppose any dignity inherent in him, or, if you please so to deal with a man, as if he were worthy, whether he be so or not; and thus it will rather imply a kind of imputation of worthiness to a person, than its being really in him.

Again, when the Saints are faid to be worthy, it is not to be undershood of any such dignity in them, as answers to what the Law requires, or of an absolute worthiness of the reward, but rather of a comparative one; when they are faid to be worthy, they are compared with wicked men, in respect of whom they may be said so to be; because, although, in strict justice, they do not merit life, yet they are qualified for it, and fuited to it, by having those holy dispositions wrought in them, which God intended to furnish them with, in order to the enjoyment of fo glorious a recompence as he hath defigned them for.

Those places of Scripture are objected, in which the reward is said to be given men according to the proportion and measure of their works and labour: from whence they infer, that in rewarding good works, God hath respect not meerly to his liberality, or promise, or favour, but to the dignity and efficacy of the works themselves; so that as evil works do really deserve eternal death, good ones do likewise deserve eternal life.

Obj. 3.

The general answer to this Argument was laid down in the explication of the Text, viz. That God's rewarding men according to their works, is to be understood of the nature and kind of them, not of the value and dignity of them, that they who do well, shall fare well; and they that do otherwise, shall be otherwise dealt with: it shall be well with the righteous, and ill with the wicked; there is a bleffing for the one, and a curse for the other. As for the particular Scriptures, they may be easily answered: first, my text is brought in against me, that God renders to every man according to his work, but it carries its answer along with it, that though God reward men according to their works, and so give life to those that are righteous, yet it is out of meer mercy he doth it: let but Bellarmine, read the whole verse together, and make the best of it he can. And for Luke 6. 38. With the same measure you mete, it shall be measured to you again; either it is to be understood not of God's judging and rewarding men in the future life, but of mans judgment in this life; as if he had faid, as you deal with others, so others shall deal with you; you shall have such as you bring, and be paid in your own coyn: Or elfe, if it be meant of God's judgment, yet it is of a judgment of condemnation, not, of absolution, and so is wholly impertinent to the business in hand; Christ doth not say, do not absolve others, lest God should absolve you; but, do not condemn others, i. e. rashly, sinfully, lest God condemn you righteously; and so much seems to be implyed in the parallel place, Matth. 7. 1, 2. 1 Cor. 3. 8. is alledged too, Every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour, but to little purpose; for the Apostle speaks not there of the salvation of some, and the damnation of others, but only of the difficulty of the falvation of some, who had built on the foundation, wood, hay, Itubble, ver. 12, 13, 14, 15. who, he fays, should be faved, yet so as by fire: some should be faved with more difficulty than others, yet all should be faved. The othe other places they bring here (Matth. 16. 27. Remard every man according to bis morks, Gal. 6.7. What-ever a man someth, that also shall be reap, Rom. 2.6. Who will render to every man according to his deeds,) need no more than the general answer before given, which is confirmed by ver. 7, 8, 9, 10. of the same Chapter, which speak plainly of the kind or quality, according to which the reward shall be given, not of the worth or dignity of them; and yet it is further assured by the last place the Papists alledge under this head, Rev. 22. 12. To give to every man as bis work shall be. This text is a Commentary on all the rest, for what is in the other places, xara ra toya, according to their works, is in this place, as to typor autition, as his mork shall be; that is, if a good work, eternal life; if an evil one, eternal death.

Those places are urged, in which eternal life is so said to be given to good works, as that those works are the reason why it is given them. The chief are, Matth. 25. 34, 35. Inherit the Kingdom prepared for you, &c. for I was an hungred, &c. Rev. 7. 14, 15. These are they which come out of great tribulation, &c. therefore are they before the Ibrone of

God. The stress of this Argument lies on those particles, for, therefore, &c. too flender twigs to keep the Popish cause from sinking. For they do not alwaies fignify a connexion by way of causality, or one thing being the true and proper cause of another, but only by way of consequence, or the following of one thing upon another; the connexion of two things, whereof the one is Antecedent, the other Consequent: as if you fay it is day, for the Sun is up; you then affert the Suns being up to be the reason of its being day, and rightly too; but if you say, it is day, for I see the Sun; you will not assirm your seeing the Sun to be the reason of its being day, and your for will signifie no more than that your feeing the Sun, follows upon its being day; you prove well that it is day, because you see the Sun; but you prove it not by the cause, but by the effect. If you should say Popery is a wicked Religion, for it makes Treason lawful, you shew why it is a wicked Religion; but if you say some Papists have been wicked wretches, for they have been convicted of Treason, and hang'd for their pains; you do not al. ledge their being convicted, and hang'd, as the cause of their wickedness. So likewise in the places urged upon us, when the reward is said to be given to men for or because they have done thus and thus, that doth not imply their having done so and so to be the proper cause of the reward given them, but only the connexion between their work and their reward, their fo doing, and fo receiving; I Tim. 1. 13. Paul speaking of his blaspheming, and persecuting, says he obtained mercy, because he did it ignorantly in unbelief. And can any man fay, that Paul's ignorance and unbelief (allow that they might lessen the sinfulness of his persecution and blasphemy,) were the meritorious causes of his obtaining mercy? Matth 16.2. When it is evening ye say it will be fair weather, for the skie is red. Is the redness of the sky the cause of fair weather, or only an indication of it? when therefore Christ invites the Saints to inherit the Kingdom prepared for them, &c. because he was an hungred, and they gave him meat, &c. he doth not thereby fignific that their good works were the meritorious causes of their inheriting that Kingdom, but only the Antecedents of it, and the Evidences of their title to it. And that is confirmed by our Saviour's own words, in that he doth not meerly call them to take possession of it, but to inherit it, or take posfellion of it as heirs, and by right of inheritance, and consequently not in the right of their merits. And if he had meant those works he mentions to have been the meritorious cause of their salvation, he could (with Bellarmine's good leave) have more clearly expressed it, and plainly told them, that they had merited the Kingdom, and he was bound in justice to see them settled in the posfession of it, so that it can no more be concluded from hence, that the Saints do, by their good works, deserve Heaven as their reward, than, if God should have said to the Israelites at the end of their forty years voyage toward Canaan, Go in now, and possess the promised Land, for you have been forty years in the wilderness, and have been exposed to many difficulties and hazards, that therefore they had thereby merited that Land.

Anlw.

If it be faid that Christ speaks the same, & as much of the good works of the Saints as he doth of the evil works of the wicked, the same word for being used, ver. 42, as well as ver. 35. I answer, that it will not follow from thence, that good works are as truly and properly the causes of salvation, as evil ones are of damnation, there being so great a difference in the case; and we do not conclude mens wicked works to be the cause of their damnation meerly because of the Conjunction used by our Saviour in this place, but from the nature of the thing it self, and other Scriptures, which speak more fully to it.

As for that place, Rev. 7. take but the whole words together, and Bellarmine hath his answer, ver. 14. These are they that come out of great tribulation, and have mashed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb, then follows ver. 15. Therefore are they before the Throne of God. Wherefore? because not only they come out of great tribulation, but because they have washed their garments, &c.

These places of Scripture are urged where eternal life is promised to good works, Matth. 19.17. If thou wilt enter into life, keep the Commandments, ver. 29. Every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, &c. for my name sake, shall receive an hundred fold, and shall inherit everlasting life; so I Tim. 4.8. Godliness hath the promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come, Jam. 1.12. Shall receive a Crown of life, &c. Thus they may argue from such places as these: they that do these works to which eternal life is promised, merit that life, but believers do those works, therefore they merit, &c.

I. It is most false, that they that do that to which the reward of life is promised, do deserve that reward; for (1.) No man deserves that which is promifed to him, unless by doing something which is adequate and proportionate to the thing promised, but, as before was declared) the good works of the Saints are not proportionate to eternal life, nor answerable in goodness and dignity to it, and so cannot deserve it. You may promise a man 100 l. for a days labour, which is not worth above two shillings, and can it then be said that he deserves your 1001? (2.) A promise may be made to a man for doing that which he is bound to do, though nothing were given him, as when you promife a reward to a flave, who yet was before bound to do your work, and then his doing it doth not deserve what you give him .(3.) Justification is promised to them that believe, and repent; and will the Papists say that a man deferves to be justified by his Faith and Repentance? a King promiseth pardon and life to a Rebel, if he lay down his Arms; to a Robber, if he leave off his robbing; and can it be faid that fuch do deserve pardon or life for laying down their Arms, or leaving off their wicked courses, when they were bound however to have done it, and the Prince was not bound to hire them to it?

2. To the min. propose we answer, Eternal life is promised to good works, (so to speak for once, though improperly, the reward being promised not to good works themselves, but to them that do them) either, (1.) In the first Covenant, or Covenant of works, and then works are the sole and adequate condition of salvation, and a mans right to it; but then those works must be every way perfect, and answerable to the Law that requires them; and thus the min. prop. is most salse, that any believer on earth doth that to which eternal life is promised; for none do all they should, and what they do, yet they do not as they should. (2.) Or in the second, the Covenant of grace, as where the Crown of life is promised to them that love God, Jam. 1. 12. and other Ddd 2 places of the like import: but then it would be confidered, (1.) That life is promised not to works alone, nor to works meerly as works, (for that is the very tenor of the Law) but as joyned with, and proceeding from Faith; and then they are neither the only, nor the compleat or adequate condition of obtaining eternal life. (2.) That they, to whom this promise is made, are believers, such as are accepted in Christ unto eternal life, even before those works are wrought, and then their works are not at all the condition of their being entitled to life, though the evidence of their title to it, and the means of fitting them for it, they may be, (as hereafter more.) And so we say, that however believers do those things to which eternal life in the Covenant of grace is promifed, yet they are not entitled to it by their fo doing, and therefore do much less deferve it. This may fuffice for the other places alledged. As for that of Matth. 19.17. It is manifeltly a legal command suited by our Saviour Christ to the question of the young man, who sought for life by Neg, melius in- the Law; our Saviour therefore accordingly answers him, and sends him to the Law; What good thing shall I do? fays the young man; Keep the Commandments, fays Christ; if thou wilt have life by the Law, sulfill the righteousness of the Law; if thou art only for doing, do all that God hath set thee to do; and this was the way to bring him to Faith, by convincing him of the impossibility of fulfilling the righteousness of the Law, (which he farther doth by the following command, go fell all thou halt, &c. where he detects the young mans secret covetousness whereby he had broken the Law,) and that after all his endeavours after a righteoufness of works, if he would at last be saved, he must quit his hopes of life by them, and look to Christ alone for it, seeing elsewhere it was not to be found.

They argue eternal life to be deserved by believers, because it is given to them out of justice, and that it is so, they prove by 2 Thest. 1. 6, 7. It is a righteous thing with God to recompence tribulation to them that trouble you, and to you that are troubled, rest with us, &c. 2 Tim. 4. 8. A Crown of righteousness, Heb. 6. 10. God is not unrighteous to forget your work; and labour of love: and so, Fam. 1. 12. Rev. 2. 10. and such like pla-

Answ.

God gives eternal life to believers, not out of strict justice in a proper fense, but out of that which we call justice, or righteousness of faithfulness, or constancy; and though he may be said to reward both Saints and Sinners righteously, or out of righteousness, yet not in the same way, or out of the same kind of righteousness; it is indeed righteous for God to recompence the labours and sufferings of his people, because he hath promifed fo to do, and it is righteous that he should act according to his own determination and promise, but it is not so righteous for him to do it, as that his recompencing them is formally an act of remunerative justice. And when the Apostle tells the Hebrews, that God is not unrighteous to forget their work and labour of love, he means no more; than that he is not unfaithful, not unconstant, he will not change, nor break his word. But is not the last day called the day of the righteous judgment of God, who will render to every man according to his deeds? in the same discount of Rom. 2. 5, 6. The same day, as it is called the day of God's rightcous Answ. judgment, so is likewise called the day of redemption, Eph. 4. 30. And a day of mercy, 2 Tim. 1.18. The Lord grant that he may find mercy in that day; and a day of refreshment, Act. 3. 19. When the times of refreshing shall come. And as Christ is said to come to judge the quick and the dead, 2 Tim. 4. 1. So likewise to appear to the falvation of believers, Heb. 9. 28. That great day therefore is properly a day of Mercy, of Redemption, of Refreshment, of Salvation to Believers, and but figuratively a day of righteous judgment as to them, fo far as it hath some resemblance to a righteous judgment, because God then gives eternal life with respect to something going before, viz. the obedience and holiness of those whom he rewards, not as if it did really deserve that reward, but because it is the way in which God hath determined to act; he gives glory to those that have lived graciously, happiness to them that have continued in the exercise of holiness.

Lastly, they argue from those places of Scripture where God is said not to be an accepter of mens persons, Rom. 2. 11. For there is no respect of persons with God; Gal. 2. 6. God accepteth no mans person; I Pet. 1.17. Who, without respect of persons, judgeth according to every mans work. Hence, says Bellarmine, respecting mens persons is contrary to distributive justice, as when a Judge gives a remard without merit, or a greater remard to lesser merits, or on the contrary. Therefore God, in giving rewards, considers mens merits, and according to the diversity of them assigns

That God is no respecter of persons we grant, and that accepting mens persons is contrary to distributive justice we grant too; but what is that to us, who deny that God's rewarding the good works of the Saints, is an act of distributive justice? for it is (as was before proved) an act of Grace; and accepting of persons hath no place in rewards of Grace, though those rewards be never so much above the deserts, or altogether without deferts in the persons so rewarded. They that la- Matth. 2020. boured but one hour in the Vineyard, received as much as they that had been all the day at work, which ought not to have been according to distributive justice, but well might according to Grace. gives, he gives out of no flock but his own, and may he not do what he will with his own? What is it to Bellarmine, if God will give glory and bleffedness to those that never deserved it of him? seeing he wrongs not others in what he gives to some, and he receives nothing from any to distribute to any: what God gives, he may, if he please, not give at all; or he may give out, and dispence to whom, and as he sees fit.

Several other Arguments Bellarmine brings to prove the merit of good works, but they are all of leffer confequence, and not like to prevail with 1 with any that can answer the seven already mentioned, which indeed are the most plausible of any he brings, and the very seven locks wherein the great strength of this great Champion lies, and these being shaven off, (let them grow again if they can) this Romish Sampson is but like another man. As for the testimonies he brings out of the Fathers, you need not fear them, and I shall not trouble you with them, having in the beginning given you an account in what sense they generally take the word merit, which makes nothing at all for the Papists cause.

Only one Argument more there is still behind, which, though all the Papists conceal, I will not: you find it, Att. 19. 25. Te know that by this craft we have our wealth. I dare say Demetrius speaks the very heart of Bellarmine; only he was a mechanick, and a fool, and so uttered all his mind, whereas our Cardinal was a crafty Jesuite, and knew how to keep in his. But how to answer this Argument I know not, unless by granting the whole. That the doctrine of merits is a gainful doctrine. cannot be denied, when the art of meriting is so liberal an art: It first replenisheth the Church-Treasury, which again, by the help of Indulgences, empties it felf into the Pope's Exchequer. Only these good works fuffer some alteration in the exchange, and by I know not what kind of new ferment in their last receptacle, what was merit in the Church Store-house, is in the Pope's purse transubstantiated into metal, which puts his Holiness out of a capacity of saying as Peter did, Gold and filver have I none. The fum is this; the Doctrine of merits is no doubt a fundamental Doctrine, Supererrogations are built upon it, Indulgences are built upon it, Purgatory it felf, and Prayers for the dead are built upon it, and, not to go fo far as the other World, how many good things in this life are built upon the foundation of Popish good works, many religious Houses, and many religious Orders, many a fair Monaftery, and many a stately Temple, and many a fat Benefice. And who can fay but the foundation must needs be precious, when the superstructure is so rich? Well then may the Popish Priests stickle for the principal, when the interest is all their own. Well may they contend for merits, as pro Aris & focis, as not only for their Altars, but for their Chimneys too, when it is the zeal of meriting that keeps their Kitchins warm. In a word, well may they sacrifice to these nets, and burn incense to

But here two Quæries may be made.

Qu. 1. Upon what account are believers bound to the practice of good works, if they merit not by them?

Answ. Upon several, and good ones too: reason enough we have to perswade us to the practice of good works, though we place no merit in them.

1. God's command is of it self sufficient, though no other reason could be given. He hath commanded us to be holy, I Pet. 1. 15. To exercise our selves to godliness; Tim. 4.7. To follow peace and holiness; Hehr. 12.14. To put on bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, &c. Col. 3. 13. To be ready to distribute, willing to communicate; I Tim. 6. 18. And in a word, that they who have believed in God, should be careful to maintain good works; Tit. 3.8. God is our Sovereign, his will is our rule, and our reason; what he will have us do, we must do, and his command is sufficient to make our actions not only lawful, but necessary, not only to warrant us in the doing of them, but oblige us to do them. And we need not doubt but our actions will be as acceptable to God, which are done out of compliance with his will, as any that are done with a defign of meriting at his hands: Obedience will go as far as mercenari-

2. Good works are the way in which God hath appointed us to walk in order to our obtaining eternal life. They are via ad regnum, the path Es ad metam of life, the way to God's Kingdom, the work we are to do ere we re- nunquan perveceive our reward, the race we are to run ere we be crowned. Though nitir, nifi viam rectam ingredi-God fave us not for them as meritorious causes of his faving us, yet those mur, via tamen that are capable of doing them, he doth not ordinarily fave without non est causa them. Eph. 2. 10. We are his workmanship created in Christ Jesus unto meta. Whitak. good works, which God hath before ordained, that we should walk in them, Heb. 12. 14. Without boliness no man shall see the Lord. eternal glory be not (as hath been proved) properly a reward now God's giving it an act of strict justice, yet God hath (we acknowledge) determined to give it, per modum pramii, after the manner of a reward, in that he will not give men the glory he intends them till they have done him some service, not treat them as Conquerors, who never sought his battel; not respect them as faithful servants, who have been sluggards or loiterers. The fantification of the Spirit as well as belief of the truth. must go before Salvation, because God hath from the beginning chosen us to Salvation by the one as well as the other, 2 Theff. 2. 13.

3. The practice of good works is a special means to strengthen and encrease good habits in us; the actual exercise of Grace heightens the principle of Grace, doing good is the ordinary way whereby we grow better; while we employ our talents we add to our stock; we get Grace while we act it, and lay up for our selves by laying out for God. Active Christians are generally the most thriving Christians, they gather by scattering, and are enriched by their very expences. The more humility men act, the more humble they grow; and the more love they exercise, the more love they have. As the more we use our limbs, the more agile and nimble they are; and the farther a river runs, the broader it

4. Good works fit us for the reward: it is by them we are made meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the Saints in light, Col.1.12. Though by Faith we are entitled to that inheritance, because we are the children of God by Faith in Jesus Christ; Gal. 3. 26. And if children, then beirs, beirs, Rom. 8.17. Yet over and above our title to it, there is required in us a suitableness to, and fitness for it. The Father of the Prodigal first embraces and kisses his poor returning son, and then puts the robe upon him, the ring on his hand, and shooes on his feet; he first pardons him, and then adorns him, and at last brings him into his house and feasts him; he fits him for his entertainment ere he brings him to it. God's pardoning a finner is one thing, and his fully faving him is another; his receiving him into favour, and receiving him into heaven; his giving him a right to the inheritance, and giving him the actual possession of it: the first is done in a sinners justification, the other in his final salvation: Operatio divina but between these two comes in a third, which is God's working in him a fitness and meetness for that salvation, which meetness consists in a temper of spirit agreeable to, and capable of such enjoyments as are expected by, and setled upon them that are the heirs of Glory. effici, priusquam deed, if we look into it we shall find, that there is not only a congruity that they who are to be made happy, should first be made holy, (in that it would be unbeseeming the wisdom and holiness of God to let them enjoy him, who never loved him; or crown them with everlasting bleffedness, who never prized or sought it) but a necessity too, in that unholy fouls have no capacity for true happiness, meerly natural hearts are not fuited to a supernatural good; heavenly enjoyments are above the reach of sensual creatures, and the faculty, till elevated, and raised by Grace, would be so much below its object, that it could take no delight Now grace or holiness in the heart, is that very temper I speak of, which makes a man capable of, and fit for glory; a supernatural principle for a supernatural happiness; and though God begins this frame, and infuseth something of this principle in the work of regeneration, yet it is further strengthened by the exercise of grace, and a course of good works, which we therefore fay do fit men for Heaven by encreasing Grace in them, wherein their fitness consists. Mens abounding in good works is the way to heighten those graces from whence they proceed, and the heightning their graces is the ripening them for their glory. And though God himself, as the Author of all Grace, is the principal Agent in carrying on this work of fanctification in them, and he who doth gradually work them for the glory he intends them, yet they themfelves having in their new birth received a new life, and new power from God, so far as they are active in the exercise of Grace, (which under him they are) fo far likewise they are active in preparing themselves for Glory, and therefore deeply concerned to live in the daily exercise of good works, as the means of preparing them for it.

5. Good works bear witness to the goodness of our Faith, they evidence it to be true, and of the right kind, not counterfeit, not sophisticate. And therefore we are greatly concerned to maintain good works, that thereby we may be able to affert our Faith against a quarrelling conscience, or an accusing devil, which otherwise we shall never be able to do.

do. We acknowledg that only to be a true justifying Faith, and so of the right stamp, which purifies the heart, Act. 15.9. Works by love, Gal. 5.6. encourageth, and promotes, and produceth holiness, and shews it self by works, Jam. 2. 18. So that if Faith be the root of good works, good works are the fruit of Faith; and how then shall we know the root but by the fruit? So that as if the Devil or Conscience charge us with disobedience to God, and breach of his Law, and that therefore we are liable to the curse of the Law, we plead in our defence; that though we are not without sin, yet we are not without Faith neither; though we have offended God, yet we have believed in Christ: so if we be accused of hypocrisie, or unbelief, and told that we have not received Christ by Faith, and therefore are liable to the woe of the Gospel, we then produce our good works, a course of holiness, as the undoubted signs and evidences of the reallity and power of our Faith; and in this sense we may say, that as we our selves must be justified by our Faith, so our Faith must be justified by our works.

6. Hereby they further our affurance, and help on our comforts. The great comfort of a Believer comes in by his Faith, Rom. 15.13. And therefore usually so much comfort a Christian hath, as he hath evidence of the truth and fincerity of his Faith. While it is uncertain to him whether his Faith be right, he can have little comfort in it; little joy and peace in believing, while he knows not whether he really believes or not. The same we may say of other Graces, so far as they conduce to the consolation of a Christian, a believer can enjoy little comfort in them, if he perpetually doubt of them; while he suspects himself to be an hypocrite, it is no marvel if he tafte not the sweetness of sincerity. Now our good works (as before) give evidence to the truth of our Faith, and fo likewife to the fincerity of other graces, as habits are known by their actings, and we judg what a fountain is by the streams that come from it. And therefore they that defire the comfort of Grace, must be diligent in the exercise of Grace; they that are concerned for their own peace and joy, are consequently so concerned to live, and act, as that they may attain that end. Beside, we might add, that the applause and commendation of a fanctified Conscience, upon the performance of good works, and that inward secret delight which is usually the concomitant of gracious actings, (which, so far as we are renewed, are grateful to that new nature which is within us) is no finall part of, a Christians pleasure, and therefore no weak inducement to diligence and constancy in such a courfe.

7. We are bound to the practice of good works, that forwe may be conformed to God and Christ. Christ, when on earth, went about doing good, Act. 10. 38. He did not only abound in holings, but activity; had not only a fulness of habitual grace in him, whereby he was always in a fitness and readiness to do good, but did continually exercise himself in it, and that he did, not only that he might fulfil the Law, but give us an example, and so for the imitation of believers, as well as satisfaction of divine justice: We therefore are commanded, so to walk even as he also malked, I Joh. 2.6. And the Apostle Paul bids us be followers of God, Eph. 5. 1. And Peter, be boly in all manner of conversation, (and so practically) as he who hath called us is holy, I Pet. 1.15. And our Saviour Christ bids us be perfect as our heavenly Father is perfect, Matth. 5. 48. It is our perfection to be like God, not in Infiniteness, Immensity, Independency, Attributes wholly incommunicable to us, unimitable by us, but in righteousness and holiness; this was our primitive perfection in innocency, and will be our final perfection in glory; and still the more we encrease in righteousness and holiness, the more perfect we grow, because the more like God; and the more good works we do, still the more we go on in grace toward perfection and conformity to God. Men generally look on it as a defirable thing to be like God in one way or other: let but those defires be regulated, and carried toward that likeness to him, which they may attain, and ought to seek, and that will be inducement enough to the practice of good works, as the most proper means to bring them to that conformity.

8. Good works are the end of good principles. God gives us grace that we should exercise it, puts a price into our hands that we should use it. Exercise is the immediate end of habits. We are not to look upon grace as an idle quality, a dormant principle, something to lie by us, and be fluggish within us. It is not to be as a candle under a bushel, but on a candle-stick; not as mony hoarded up, but laid out. And the more we exercise it, the better, because so much the more we answer God's end in bestowing it upon us.

9. Lastly, God is most glorified by our good works, 70b. 15. 8. And therefore we are the more to abound in them. The more the excellency and beauty of grace appears, so much the more God is glorified, and the exercise of grace doth most of all discover the beauty of it. Holiness is but God's image, and if the image be so ravishing, what then (will men infer) is he that is resembled by it? if there be so much lustre in a beam, what is there in the Sun? Grace in the creature is but the expression or imitation of some attribute in God to which it answers, and so the more grace we act, & the more good we do, so much the more we declare what excellencies are in God, or in Peter's phrase, shew forth his virtnes, I Pet. 2.9. So that good works are the most effectual way of glorifying God, because the most convincing demonstration of those perfections which are in God.

And is not here reason enough for the practice of good works? Is it nothing that God hath commanded them, that they are the way to glory, and fit us for glory, encrease grace, and discover grace, help on our conforts, and promote God's honour, unless withal we merit Heaven by them, and oblige God to reward us for them?

Qu. 2. If good works are not truly meritorious, why then, and upon what account doth God reward them?

Answ. 1. Because he hath promised so to do, and he is constant and unchangeable, and will not be worse than his word.

- 2. Because of the love he bears to, and the delight he takes in holiness, and those good works which are the fruits of it. The righteous Lord loveth righteousness, Psal. 11.7. God delights first in himself, and next in that which comes nearest to him, and most resembles him, as holiness doth, the actings of which in good works, is but the beaming out of his image in the soul; and it is not strange that God should delight in his own image. Beside that, good works are God's works, they not only resemble him, but come from him, and then well may he delight in them, and that he may shew how much he doth so, he bountifully rewards them.
- 3. To encourage men to the practice of them, by the hopes of the reward. Though obedience be our duty, even without confideration of the reward, yet to enliven our defires, and put more vigour into our endeavours after it, he fets the Crown in our view, and affures us that if we abound always in the work of the Lord, our labour shall not be in vain in the Lord 1 Cor. 15. ult.

Something from this Doctrine we may learn for our information in the truth, and something for our instruction as to duty.

1. For the former, we see here,

1. How much the best of Saints are beholden to the Lord Jesus Christ, for purchasing life and glory for them, which, by all their good works, they could never have done, though they were a thousand times more than they are. Had not Christ made the purchase, they could never have received the inheritance: had not he laid down the price, they could never have had a title or possession. They might work their hearts out of their bodies, ere they could work their fouls into Heaven. All the grace they ever have, or act in this life, could never deferve the least degree of glory they receive. So fair an Estate, so rich an Inheritance, so weighty a Crown, so transcendent a Blessedness is fit only for so great a Purchaser as the Lord Jesus Christ to buy out. They might as well purchase a Kingdom in the World with a single penny, as everlasting Glory with all their good works. What-ever title they have to a future happiness, what-ever hopes of it, what-ever rest, and peace, and joy they expect in it, they owe all to Christ, and are his debtors for all. They owe him more than a whole eternity of praises will ever recompence. How miserable would the best of Saints have been, if Christ had not merited for them? How should they ever have obtained eternal life, got a place in Heaven, or indeed have escaped everlasting burnings, had it not been for Christ's undertakings? When they had been working and labouring all their days, they would have lost their labour at last. They might have prayed, and heard, and given their goods to feed the Ule.

poor, and their bodies to feed the flames, they might have done all they could, and suffered all their enemies would, and yet have fallen short of a reward. One sin committed by them, would have done more to shut Heaven against them, than all their good works could to open it to them.

- 2. How unreasonable is their pride? how unpardonable is their folly that boast of, and put confidence in their own good works? That ever men should think God to be their debtor, and that they have him in bonds to them! That ever they should have such high thoughts of such pitiful things as their own works! Sure they have little knowledge of themselves that have such great conceits of themselves; know little of their ill deserts, that think they have any good ones; they have cheap thoughts of God's grace and Christ's merits, that do so magnify their own performances. David, and Paul, and all the ancient Saints were of another mind; they durst not abide God's trial, nor confront his judgment with the choicest of their works reiThey be-like were Saints of a leffer fize, and their graces and good works of a lower allay: our Popish Saints have over-top'd them in holiness, are Giants to them: Suarez and Vasquez have got the fiart of Job and David, and have found out a way to Heaven unknown to all that went formerly thither. Facob, poor man, counted himself less than the least of God's mercies, but these count themselves worthy of the greatest of them. The 24 Elders Rev. 4. 10. Cast down their Crowns before him that sits on the Throne. in token that they had received them from him; but Papists scorn to doso, they think they have won them, and therefore may wear them; and instead of giving Glory, and Honour, and thanks to him that liveth for ever, they take them to themselves, at least share them with him. The Lord tells the Ifraelites, Deut. 9. 6. That he gave them not that good · Land to possess it for their righteousness, speaking of the earthly Canaan, but these audacious merit-mongers think that even the heavenly one is given them for theirs. Great Saints no doubt they are, and well deserve to be canonized, when (if you will believe them) they deserve
- 3. And yet more egregious is their folly, in expecting advantage by the merits of others, and thinking to eke out their own righteousness by borrowing of their neighbours. If no good works of the Saints merit any thing at God's hands, then the Popish Treasury is quite empty, and his Holiness is a meer bankrupt, Supererrogations fail, Indulgences fail, and there is no borrowing from Peter to supply Paul. If the best have no merits at all, sure they have none superstuous, none to spare. The wise Virgins, Matth. 25. have no more oil than will serve for themselves, and are not they foolish ones that think to accommodate their friends? and they yet more foolish that hope to borrow of them? The Scripture speaks indeed of a superstuity of naughtiness in mens hearts, but it no-where speaks of a superstuity of goodness in their hearts.

hearts or lives A redundance of merit we acknowledg in Christ, unfearchable riches, all fulness; but woe to them that feek for the like redundance of merit among men. Ask the old Patriarchs, and Prophets, and Apostles, to lend you some of their merits, and they will all tell you they never had any of their own, they were all beholden to Christ, and to him you must go as well as they; the Church store-house cannot furnish you.

2. For instruction in point of duty: learn hence.

1. To be humble; and acknowledge the insufficiency of all you do. to deferve any thing at God's hands. Own your felves as unclean things. and your righteousness as filthy rags. Do but fludy your hearts, the Isa. 64. 60workings and luftings, the inclination and temper of them; fludy your actions and ways, the best as well as worst; your duties, and choicest fervices; and findy God's Law, the purity, holiness, spirituality, and extensiveness of it; what it forbids, what it requires, how far it reaches. and compare both together, and then be proud if you can, boast if you can, trust in your own works if you can; and, in one word to say all, be Papilts if you can.

2. Learn to admire the grace of God in rewarding your works: it is much that he accepts them, and what is it then that he rewards them? It is much that he doth not damn you for them, (feeing they are all defiled, and have fomething of fin cleaving to them) and what is it then that he crowns them? You would admire the bounty and munificence of a man, that should give you a Kingdom for taking up a straw at his. foot, or give you an hundred thousand pounds for paying him a rennyrent you owed him: how then should you adore the rich grace, and transcendent bounty of God in so largely recompencing such mean services, in fetting a Crown of Glory upon your heads, as the reward of those works you can scarce find in your hearts to call good ones? you will even blush one day, to see your selves so much honoured for what you are ashamed of, and are conscious to your selves you have deserved nothing by. You will wonder then to see God recompencing you for doing what was your duty to do, and what was his work in you; gi- Cum Deus corosving you Grace, and crowning that Grace, enabling you to do things net merita noacceptable to him, and then rewarding you as having done them. Take coronat quamheed therefore now of rivalling God's grace, or Christ's merits, of in-munera sua, verting his praifes, and ascribing any thing to your selves which belongs August. contract only to him. Set the Crown upon the right Head; let him have the Pelag. Epift: honour of the work, that hath done it, the glory of your reward that hath purchased it. Say with your selves, What am I, and what are my services, that ever God should thus plentifully reward them? I never pray'd but I sinn'd never confessed sin, never begg'd pardon of it, strength . against it, but I did at the same time commit it; I never heard a Sermon, received a Sacrament, did any good duty, but with some mixture of coldness, deadness, distractedness. I never had any Grace but what God gave me, nor acted any but what he stirr'd up in me. _ All the good I ever had, or did, I received from him, and therefore I owe all to him. I am a thousand ways his debtor, for my life and being, for the good things of this life, for the means and offer of eternal life, for the knowledge of his will, conviction of sin, restraint from sin, the change of my heart, the reformation of my ways. the graces of his Spirit, the priviledges of his children conferr'd upon me: I am his debtor for all the evils he hath delivered me from, all the good he hath offered me, wrought in me, done by me. And doth God take so much notice of such poor things? Will be indeed reward such weak endeavours such lame performances? Must I live in Heaven, that never deserved to live on earth? Must I wear the Crown of Righteousness, who never deserved any thing but the punishment of mine iniquities? Must eternal glory and honour be my portion, who have deserved nothing better than shame, and everlasting contempt? I have nothing to boast of, nothing to glory in. I must cry Grace, Grace. All I have, and to eternity am to have, is Grace. The foundation of my Salvation was laid in Grace, and so will the top-stone too. It was Grace sent Christ to redeem me, and Grace will send him at last fully to Save me. I have received all from God, and therefore defire to return the praise of all to him: It is but just that all sould be ascribed to him, from whom all came.

3. Labour so to exercise your selves in, and to good works, as yet to put all your confidence in God's grace. I do not go about to cry down good works, or discourage the practice of them, but take you off from confidence in them; nor to dissiwade you from that exercise of holiness whereby God may be glorified, and your fouls advantaged, but that finful reliance on your own righteousness, which is God's dishonour, and your loss. Be as holy as you will, do as much good as you will, abound as much in the work of the Lord, and walk as circumspectly and closely with God as you please, (and the Lord make you abound more and more) only, if you value your comforts, if you love your fouls, if you are concerned for God's glory, take heed of putting any the least confidence in what you do, or expecting to merit a reward by your most laborious working. It is the great art and wisdom of a Christian to joyn the exercise of Faith and Holiness together, and yet distinguish their different relations to his falvation; not to give so much to the one, as to exclude the other; but so to believe, as still to own the usefulness of works; and so to work, as to see the necessity of Faith: to believe like one that had no works, and to work like one that were to be faved by his works. In a word, to be diligent in good works, but not put confidence in them, and so to acknowledge their necessity in their place, but not their meritoriousness. He is a believer of the right stamp, who neither contemns Christ's Law, nor dishonours Christ's Grace, but is alike an enemy to Antinomian Faith, and Antichristian works.

If you do trust in your good works, your best duties and services; con-lider that,

1. You do but lean upon a broken reed, build upon a fandy foundation, which will at last fail you, disappoint you, undo you. What a defeat will it be to expect to be faved by your merits, when, at last, it appears you have no merits; to fancy your felves worthy of a reward, when it appears you have been worthy of nothing? And as fure as the Scripture is true, you can merit no more at God's hands by all your fervices, than a debtor can of his Creditor, by paying him some small part of what he owes him; and your very confidence in your works will bereave you of any benefit by Christ's merits: Christ alone must be trusted in, relied on, and glorified by you. You must not think to be parcel-Saviours with him; either he will be your only Saviour, or not at all your Saviour; your only righteousness, or not at all your righteousness: if you divide Christ's honour, you lose his help; your works cannot be your righteousness, and Christ will not; and so you will lose the things you 2 Joh. ver. 2, have wrought, by thinking to gain too much by them; miss of the substance while you catch at the shadow.

2. However you trust in your works while you live, you will not dare to do it when you die. When men come to die, and close the eyes of their bodies, usually those of their minds are most open, and as their resections are then most strong, so their prospect is most clear. The nearer they are to death, and judgment, and eternity, the truer apprehensions they have of them: they then best see how holy the Judge is how impartial his fearch, how righteous his fentence; and how do they fear him then, with whom they made so bold before? How doth the confidence of their lives thrink at their death? Alas, they did not think either God fo first as now they believe him, or their goodness so imperfect as now they come to find it. They see the necessity of grace, which before they flighted; and the infufficiency of works, which before they idolized. Mercy is mercy indeed to a dying man, and works are but works, and not merits. Let me see the face of the Papist, that, when he is coming to the highest tribunal, dares trust to his good works, and put in his claim to the Crown of Glory upon the account of his merits, and tells God to his face; Lord, I have done all thy will, and done it as I should; or if I have fallen short in some things, I have out-done it in others: I have beard so many Masses Said, so many Pater nosters, and Ave Maria's, observed so many Canonical hours, made so many Confessions, done so many Penances, given so many Alms, gone so many Pilgrimages, fasted so many Lents, mortified my flesh with hard lodging, and harden blows: and this is as much as Heaven is worth; thou art now a debtor to me: I have done my work, I challenge my reward, let justice be done me, and the Crown be given me. I ask no more than I have laboured for, and deserved at thy bands. It is but just that I should be joynt heir with Christ, seeing I have been joynt Purchaser with him. I am perswaded there is not the Papist. upon earth, unless he be most bruitishly ignorant of the Nature and Law. of God, and of his own heart, that will dare in a dying hour thus to bespeak him. And how foolish is it for men to boast of that now, which they will not dare to boast of then; and build upon a foundation in their life, which they must be forced to relinquish at their death? Remember, Christians, there is a time to die, as well as to live; a time to be judged in, as well as to act in; a day of recompence, as well as a day of service: and therefore bethink your selves before-hand; see your confidence be rightly placed. Expect your falvation from him only now, from whom you will expect it at last; and put your souls into his hands now, into whose you would then most willingly commit them; fet afide your works, though not as to the practice of them, yet as to your confidence in them. Eye Christ alone as to the business of your justification, acceptance, reward. Labour for such a Faith in Christ, and free Grace, as will support you under the weakness and impersections of your present righteousness, and encourage you against the terrors of approaching death. In a word, so believe and hope now, that you are going on toward Eternity, as you would do when you are stepping into it.

SERMON XII.

The Doctrine of Justification is dangerously corrupted in the Roman Church.

Rom. 3. 24. Being justified freely by his Grace, through the Redemption that is in Jesus Christ.

HE Apostle, in these words, (and the following) gives an exact account of the Doctrine of Justification, dictated to him by the Spirit of Truth. And this will be the best ground we can proceed on, to discover the errors by which it is corrupted. That is our present business to which I hasten, only first opening the words by a brief, touch upon them.

Being justified To be justified, is to be freely accepted of God as righteous, so as to have pardon and title to life, upon the account of Christ's righteousness. We cannot be accepted as righteous, till we be acquitted from guilt. The Apostle describes Justification by remission of sins, som. 4.5, 6. And being accepted as righteous, we are accepted to life. (The Apostle calls it Justification of Life, Romans 5.17, 18, 21.) This is upon the account of Christ's righteousness. We cannot be justified upon our own accounts for so we are condemned, and cannot but be so, nor upon other account but Christ and his righteousness; for there's no justification without righteousness; and none sufficient but that of Christ, which the Apostle includes in the Redemption that is in Christ Jesus.

Freely by his Grace The Lord justifies by his Grace, and this acts freely. That which moves him is called, Tit. 3. 4. X9754785 & LAVP 3920712, Kindness and Love, which, ver. 7. is Grace; (that being justified, This wife, depth, by his Grace) so Justification is xdeethat*, the free gift, Rom. 5. 16. Alapsaviv xdeeth*, the gift by grace, ver. 15. This grace, as it is free mercy, so it acts like it self, dagsav, freely, (the word used, Mat. 10.8. Augrav Ladeth*, freely ye have received it) he gives it freely to those who have no merit to deserve it: there is none in us; what there was, was in Christ. It is Through the Redemption. Redemption is deliverance by a price, or valuable confideration. This price was the bloud of Christ ver. 25.

Rom. 5.9. Eph. 1.6, 7. His death, Rom. 8.33, 34. His obedience, Rom. 5.19. His righteousness, ver. 18.

We may view the Text distinctly in three parts.

Believers are justified.
 Freely by his Grace.

3. Through the Redemption that is in Christ.

Against each of these the Papists have advanced several errors of pernicious consequence; and thereby dangerously corrupted the whole

Doctrine of Justification.

1. That a finner may be faved, the Scriptures declare that he must be both justified and sanctified: the Romanists, as if one of those were but requisite, call that Justification, which in Scripture is Sanctification; and that which in Scripture is Justification, they admit not, as distinct from inherent righteousness.

The Apossel Paul, who most insists upon the Doctrine of Justification, delivers these two as distinct things, I Cor. II. and else-where. He ascribes Justification commonly to the bloud of Christ, as in the Text, and Rom. 5. 8, 9. Sanctification to the Spirit of Christ, Tit.

However the Papists promiscuous use of the words might be tollerated, if they did not confound the things, and contend that we are formally justified by that which is the form and effence of Sanctification, viz. inherent righteousness. The danger is that which the Apostle would have the Jews avoid, when he expresseth his hearty defire that they might be faved; Rom. 10.13. For they being ignorant of God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves to the righteousness of God. The Papists trust to their own righteousness for acceptance and life, and will be justified, in the fight of God, by that which indeed is imperfect and culpable, and fo liable to be condemned; and being convinced that they cannot be justified by an imperfect righteousness, therefore they will have their inherent righteousness to be perfect, a not so perfect as it will be in Heaven. but so as to be free from b sin, and to answer the demands of the Law, fince they know otherwise it would not justifie them. And this fancy of a finless perfection runs them into many absurd and pernicious conceits.

L. 2. c. 16. p. 806.

For they are hereby obliged to maintain, that no corruption in their natures, (after Baptism) no aversion to God, no inclination to evil, though the contrarius habitual and fixed, has any thing of sin in it. No, nor any evicious hat the contrarius of habitus injustitia, quia non est peccatum sed vitium, ex malis actibus contractum, quale etiam in justification.

bits acquired by frequent acts of fin; all is finless that is in the soul, when Grace or Charity is once therein. And so there's no need of mortification, no possibility of it: for there is nothing of sin in them to be mortified, no habit or disposition, natural or accessary, upon which the charge of fin can be truly fixed. And as they leave no need of, no place for mortification; so after they have discarded the Scripture Justification, to make way for a Sanctification to justifie them; they deal no better with that neither. Whether it be taken for the first rise of Holiness, which is properly regeneration; or for the growth and increase of it, which is the Sanctification that the Scripture calls for commonly under this notion (they will have it to be a second Justification). As for the first Sanctification, by their principles, it excludes all sin, and is, so far, perfect or nothing, and so indeed it is a meer chimera, such a thing as God never gave, never promifed, as no meer man on earth ever had; 70b. 1. 18. Yet this and nothing else must justifie them, and make them worthy of eternal life: and thus they will be justified, and saved by a meer fancy, or nothing.

As for growth and increase in Holiness, (which is the Sanctification that the Scripture makes so necessary, and calls for with so much importunity) this they make superfluous and unnecessary. No man needs defign or endeavour it; for what needs he look after more of that which he hath already in d perfection? They have it in such perfection, as there is no culpable defect in it; it is no fin to have no more, (else it would not be sufficient to their Justification) and what necessity is there to labour for that which it is no fin to want? Their Doctrine of Justification by a rightcoulnels of their own inculpably perfect, obliges them to hold, that what Grace they receive at first, though in the very lowest degree, is all that God commands, and makes necessary (if he commanded more, the want of more would be culpable). So that every degree of Holiness or Charity above the least of all, is only e, sub consilio, meer matter of d Nulla enim counsel; which they may neglect without contracting fo much as the pliciter imperguilt of a f venial fault.

grees of holiness above the lowest, are unnecessary, they may be without all of them, safely and inculpably. In short, if the want of all other degrees, but the least of all, be a sin; if the lowest degree of all be not righteousness in perfection: by their principles, they are not justified, and cannot be faved; and so the main stress of their Salvation lies upon a gross and palpable delusion; that such a righteousness is perfect, as is furthest of all from perfection, and in a degree next to nothing.

Secondly, they feem to include remission of fins in Justification, but it is not that pardon which the Gospel offers, but another thing under the disguise of the same word. And particularly, such as lies cross to every part of the Text. Their pardon is not an act of God, absolving a guilty person upon the account of satisfaction given; but an act g or consequent of infused Grace or Charity within us, abolishing sin, and not proprium, penum otherwise taking away the guilt, but by taking away the being of it.

per opera satisfattoria que ipsa charitas imperat, Bellarm. de Purgat. Lib. 2. c. 3. p. 1381.

The best account I can give of it, in brief, is this, collected out of their chief Authors. They observe in sin the fault and the guilt; and the guilt either as it is the defert of lin, and the offender worthy of punishment; or, as it is an obligation to punishment, and the finner bound to suffer it. The former is, with them, b reatus culpa; the latter, reatus pana: and all this is taken away by Charity, or infused Grace. i. The fault in fin is the aversion, or the souls turning away from God: but Charity, or inherent Grace, brings it back again, and joyns it to him, and thereby the fault is remitted. Now the fault being gone, by vertue. h Reatus culpe. qui est dignitus of inherent Grace, the guilt must vanish too: for where there is no odii, indignitas fault, there is no desert of punishment; and where there is no desert of it, there can be no obligation to it. So that infused Grace having left Reatus pana, id fin no being, by necessary k consequence the guilt is taken away together. with it. Accordingly Bellarming shews particularly how this Charity takes away all that belongs to fin, the aversion from God, the stain of fin, the defert of punishment, and the obligation to it: and the sum of all is this. 1 The formal effect of habitual Charity is the abolithing of. fin: and with him and others, remission of sins, and insusion of Grace, are but one and the same m motion; whereof these are the two terms; as it is in the diffusion of light, and the dispelling of darkness.

So

So that this Doctrine leaves sinners no hopes of pardon in this life, or for ever: for hereby fin is not pardoned, till by inherent Charity it be quite expelled, which is not in this life: or till the finner be rendred not worthy of punishment, meerly by vertue of such Charity, which will never be.

However, those who understand what pardon is, by the light of Scripture will foon discover that this is not the Gospel-pardon; to go no farther than the Text, it clashes (as I said) with every part of it. For, first, by their account, Pardon is by a phylical, or super-physical act of Charity within us: whereas the first word in the Text, (Sixuis pueros). thews that pardon in Justification is a judicial act of God towards us. The perpetual use of the word in Scripture assures us of this: it implies a judicial proceeding, and is fet opposite to condemning or accusing. For a ludge to acquit one at the Barr, accused in order to condemnation, is not to qualifie him, (that would be to prevent mildemeanors for the future) but to discharge from what he is accused of, as past: nor can they give any instances in Scripture of such use of the word as will bear their notion. Indeed, it is against the usage of the World, and common sense, that a man should be faid to pardon one, by induing him with good. qualities. Secondly, the pardon in Justification is free. A gift of undeserved Grace (as the next words express it). But their pardon is not free neither in it felf, nor in that which they make the rife of it. (inherent Charity). They deface the freeness of it in both, by a conceitof their own merit; and so transform it into another thing than the pardon of the Gospel is, which shall be made apparent when we come to the second part of the Text. Thirdly, the Gospel-pardon is intirely, through the redemption that is in Christ (as the next words represent it): But their pardon excludes this redemption, or leaves it but a minute and remote influence into it, if any at all.

The Lord, by Christ's undertaking, is moved to shew mercy to sinners; he shews it by infusing Charity into their hearts, this takes away. the fault or being of fin, and that being gone, the defert of punishment vanisheth, and by consequence the obligation to it. So we must pass. feveral stages before we can discover what the redemption of Christ hath to do in the pardon of a finner; and when we have gone fo far, may be at a loss too, as they order the matter: but that will better be shewed in the last proposal.

Moreover, though they will have their pardon do more than meer est maxima poeremission can do; yet they make it fall short of that which is most pro-narum, -- Omnis per for pardon to do. It quite dissolves not the obligation to punish-qui in purgato-rio degit, cru-

> Thirdly, what we faid last, respects those sins which they call mortal; but there is with them another fort of fins which go under the notion of venials, and which in number exceed the other vastly and incomparably. And these sins by their Doctrine are not pardoned, or need no pardon; and so Justification, the free Grace of God, and the redemption of Christ, are excluded hereby, as needless, and unconcerned in them.

> The pardon in Justification frees the sinner from eternal punishment; but they teach, that these sins (all of them together) deserve not eternal punishment: q God cannot justly inflict it for them. It is not due to them. If the guilt of all the fins in the World, of this fort, were charged upon one man; or if there were no covenant or promise of God for pardon, fays their great Cardinal, (i. e. if there were no Gospel, no Christ) yet a sinner could not be punished for them eternally. So that there is no place for, no need of the pardon of the Gospel as to these fins. Then for the temporal punishment of them, the sinner either must, or may suffer it himself, and so satisfy for it: if he may satisfie for it, there's no need of pardon: if he do satisfie for it, there is no place

And yet these venial sins, which need no pardon, are many of them for their quality, great and heinous; for their number, far the greatest of all. As to their quality; their Casuists (who are dictators in this business) make what sins they list to be venial. Whereas, by their common reckoping, there are seven mortal sins; even divers of these, by their handling, are shrunk into small faults. They make f covetousness and prodigality two, t ambition, u vain-glory, x gluttony and y drunkenness, (if it do but half bruitishe a man,) z the neglect of the publick worship of God, (of all worship indeed which can be truly called so,) and the a neglect of charity and mercy to men; (except in such cases which rarely or never fall out;) b also common swearing, c great irreverence to the Divine Majesty, d abhorring of divine things, yea divers forts of e blasphemy f and perjury, g murder, with others of like nature to be but venial faults. They assign several waies wherein the highest impicties against

God, and greatest out-rages to men, may pass under this gentle notion, and so need no pardon. This might be clearly shewed, out of the writings of the leading men amongst them, of several orders, and such as have the chief conduct of their consciences, (though the Jesuites were left out), but it requires a large discourse, and I must not here digress a

And, as these sort of sins are great otherwise, so, that they are the greatest of all for number, is no question. Their Church enjoyns but confession once a year, and presumes that any wicked person may give an account, in a little while, to his Confessor, of the mortal sins he commits in a whole year: but of venial sins no account can be given, being so numerous, that they are beyond remembrance or notice. So that by their Doctrine there are very sew sins, in comparison, that need pardon, and so sew, that need either the free Grace of God, or the redemption that is in Jesus Christ. These corruptions are dangerous and evidently damnable. I have insisted the longer thereon, because in this point (about pardon) the Romanists are conceived to come neerer the trathand us than I fear they do indeed.

Proceed we now to the second part of the Text, (freely by his Grace,) When the Lord justifies a sinner, he does it most freely. It's an act of meer Grace; it's no way due to us before he vouchsafe it. He owes it not, but gives it, when he is no way pre-ingaged by any desert in us. Merit in us is utterly inconsistent with this gracious act. These two are opposite in their nature; and the Apostle plainly expresses the opposition, Rom. 11.6. and 4.4. If it be due by vertue of any act or work of ours, it is debt; if it be debt, it is not grace, the grace of God herein is no grace. If by grace, then it is no more of works, otherwise grace is no more

The Doctrine of Justification is dangerously grace; but if it be of works, then it is no more grace, &c. that worketh, is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt. The Apostle's discourse cannot be answered with reason, nor evaded with any conscience. And yet the Papists will presumptuously croud merits of all forts into Justification. And by this means too, they corrupt this Doctrine dangerously and intollerably: they do it against all evidence of Scripture; they do it to the foul defacing of the glory of free grace, and the redemption of Christ: they do it with great hazard to their own souls. For if they will not be justified freely, if they will stay till they deserve it, they are like to be condemned. Yet they will venture, and stick not to ascribe all that they include in their several justifications to some fort of merit. Inherent grace, and pardon of sin, to congruous merit; title to glory, and increase of Grace, (which they make a second justification) to merit of condignity.

Inherent (which they call justifying) grace, and count it (after a Seff. 6. Cap. 7. the a Council of Trent) unanimously the formal cause of justification, by their Doctrine, falls under merit. They mince it indeed, calling it merit of congruity, but it is big enough, how small so-ever they would have it feen, to bid defiance to the grace of God in the Text.

Now if justifying grace be due on our quo, extra graaccount, before the Lord vouchfafe it; he gives it not freely, but only pays what he owes, and is before obliged by us to let us have; d and Bellarmine says this merit is not founded on the promise of God, but in . gruitate, & st- the worth and dignity of the work.

There are some preparatory works which (they say) must go before

I need bring no particular testimonies, to shew, that by their Doctrine, pardon of fin falls under this fort of merit: For pardon and inherent Grace are by them involved together, and made one and the same motion; and I have staid the longer on that which is evidence for both, because some question, whether this congruous merit be commonly owned by their Writers. I think it might as well be questioned, Whether the proper merit of condignity be their common doctrine; for there are fome among them who diflike this, and scarce more the other, so far as I can compute the numbers.

As for the other particulars (Title to glory) included in the first, and increase of Grace, which they call a second Justification, the Council of homo per opera Trent has made it an Article of their Faith, That good works are truly sua bona quatemeritorious of both and denounceth those accursed who deny it; and nus movente their Writers unanimously since understand it to be merit of condignity, vitam eternam as o Aquinas exprest it before. So that these things are due from God de condigno meupon the account of their Good works in strict Justice, and not alone reatur, ipium in congruity. It is not my business to argue against their Doctrine of etiam gratia et

Their opinion of merit makes the special Grace and mercy of God dicendamest, needless: For if a man by what he doth can make heaven due from God 12.9.114. arts in point of Justice, he needs not his Mercy to save him, so long as he is 85. fure the Lord will not be unjust; he is not concerned to regard whether or not he be gracious and merciful. As in a like case, when a mans cause requires nothing but Justice, if he be sure the Judg will do him Justice, there is no need at all to be beholding to him for his mercy. Grace and Mercy being excluded as needless and superfluous, all obligements to love and gratitude, to all ingenuous obedience and worship, are taken off, and all sense of Religion like to be razed out of the souls of

is, Through the Redemption that is in Fesus Christ.

That Doctrine quite overthrows the Justification of a sinner, which removes from it this redemption; but so doth the Popish Doctrine, and thereby tends to make Christ of none effect. For without that redemption, he is not, he cannot be the Saviour of any man. Their errors here strike deep, and tend to undermine the foundation of Christianity. Let me give you an account hereof in respect of the satisfaction, the merit, and the application of this redemption.

1. The fatisfaction of Christ is unnecessary, by their Doctrine, there is no need of it for the justifying of a sinner; he may be pardoned and freed from eternal punishment without it. For if the pardon of sin be the abolishing, and utter extinguishing of it, as they teach, p and it be by infused Grace or charity, that sin is thus abolished, as dark r by the approach of light, and one contrary by natural confequence, at the prefence of another (which is their Doctrine, if I understand it); then there was no more requisite to free a finner from guilt and liableness to eternal punishment, but only that Christ should purchase for him habitual grace. Now to purchase this, his merit would serve, and there would be no need of satisfaction s. And there are those who seem to acknowledg the former, when they deny the latter.

> Then as to the temporal punishment, they leave no place at all for Christ's satisfaction; this is quite excluded here, (though this punishment be no less in their account than the torments of hell, eternity excepted): the finner must, or may, satisfie for himself, and therefore Christ did not satisfie: otherwise the Lord would take payment twice for one debt, and require double satisfaction for every sin, and punish it ultra demeritum, more than it deserves, which would be cruelty: yea he would not be satisfied when he had satisfaction, which would be unreasonable. Nor is this my inference only, they do as good as acknowledge it: For they grant that Christ did not satisfie for t temporal pu-

Thus, by their Doctrine of Justification and Pardon, the redemption of Christ, as to satisfaction made thereby, is reduced in a manner to nothing. For venial fins, to which, they fay, temporal punishment only is due; they cannot with any reason pretend that satisfaction by him is necessary. For mortal fins, (a small parcel of the infinite multitude of venials considered), habitual grace (which Christ might merit, though he did not fatisfie) is sufficient to abolish fault and guilt, and so to procure remission, as to eternal suffering.

Or, if habitual Grace were not sufficient for this, yet still they make the redemption of Christ insufficient, and so no satisfaction. For notwithstanding all that he hath done and suffered, the Lord is not appeased to those that believe; he will punish, he will inflict the torment of hell, for a time at least; how long, none of them can tell; but, without question, (they say) till his justice be satisfied, till that be done by themselves, which Christ alone can do, and that will be long indeed, and not end but with eternity. So that it is plain by their principles, that the Lord is not yet fatisfied by the redemption of Christ? it was not as much as justice required, it was not enough, and so could not be satisfaction. And therefore a Bellarmine concludes suitably enough to a Tertius tamer their principles; that of the feveral opinions which are amongst them modes videtur concerning Christ's satisfaction and mans: this is the most probable, that probabilior, there is no actual fatisfaction but one only, and this is ours.

2. The merit of this redemption is also by their Doctrine made un- satisfactio, & necessary for the purchasing of eternal life, to which we are accepted in ea sit nostra, de Justification; for they teach that men may (and must, if they will have Purgat. L. 1. it) merit it for themselves. Now there is no need of the merit of re demption, if men can, and do merit Heaven; for merit is the worth of what it is said to deserve it must be (by their computation) c equal or proportionable in value to it. Now if Christ bring the worth of Heaven, and we must bring the worth of it too; the Lord lets none have Heaven till he have double the value of it, till he receive twice as much for no ex gratia it as it is worth: so that Heaven, upon this account, will be a very procedente sit hard bargain, however the Lord declares it to be a gift.

C In obere boquedam proportio & aqualitas ad præmi-um vitæ ælernæ, Bellarm. de Justific. L.s. c. 17. Agualem valorem condignitatis habent, Valquez,

There is no avoiding this, but either by making the merit of Christ needless, or the merits of men. The Papilts in this case choose rather to make the merit of redemption unnecessary. And indeed, (when they think it advisable to speak out) they say expressly that there is no Ggg2. need need of the merit of Christ, that we may; thus Vasquez (one of their most eminent writers) d seeing the merits of a just man (saith he) do condignly merit eternal life, as an equal recompence and reward; there is no need that any other condign merit, such as is the merit of Christ. should intervene that eternal life may be had. But how then must we understand them, when they tell us that Christ did merit eternal life for us? They inform us by their Doctrine of Satisfaction: as Christ satisfied for the temporal punishment due to fin mediately, by procuring grace to satisfie for it our selves: so he purchased life for us mediately, e in that he was worthy to obtain grace for us, whereby we merit life our felves. But, by this account, he did not merit life for us at all, no more than he can be faid to confess or repent of our sins; because he obtained grace for us to confess and repent thereof our selves. This is but to own the merit of redemption, as a Pelagius owned the grace of God; when he faid it was grace, for him to form us with wills able to act fufficiently, and perform the office of grace without it.

a They said (as Augustine represents them) Posse sufficere naturam humanam que condita est cum libero arbitrio: eamque esse Dei gratiam, quia sis conditi sumus, ut hoc voluntate possimus. De gestis contr. Pelag. c. 35. And Jerom, ad Ctesiphontem, p. 253. Ita Dei gratiam ponunt, ut non per singula opera, ejus nitamur & regamur auxilio, sed ad liberum referent arbitrium, ut in eo Deo referende sint gratiæ, quod talis nos condiderit, qui nostro arbitrio possimus & eligere bona, & vitare mala: & non intelligunt ista dicentes quod per os eorum intollerabilem blasphemiam Diabolus sibilet.

Besides, secondly, their principles do not allow them to say, that we have inherent grace by the merit of Christ. And that being with them the formal cause of Justification; if it was not procured for us by his redemption, this is quite excluded from being interessed in justifying us. And indeed all the interest of Christ's redemption in our justification (and salvation too) is reduced by them to this one point, his purchasing inherent grace for us, (as appears by the premises). So that if this be disclaimed, there will be nothing ascribed to Christ.

Now it cannot be expected, that while they profess themselves Christians, they should, in plain terms, make Christ a Cipher; but they do it by consequence too plainly. Their other principles render Christ's meriting inherent grace for us, to be needless: and sure he would not do and suffer so much for a needless thing. By their Doctrine of congruous merit, a man destitute of inherent, (or (as they call it) justifying) grace, may do that which will make it due to him from God. Now that which a man can make due to himself, needs not at all the merit of Christ to make it due. The Lord will certainly let him have his due, without the mediation of any other merit.

Yea, if we should bate the word merit & debitum, or duness too, (as-Soto would have it); yet if a man can do that upon which jullifying grace will necessarily and infallibly follow, there is no need that Christ thould purchase it; for it is altogether unnecessary that Christ should merit that for us, which we can make fure to our felves, fo as to have it necessarily and infallibly. Now that a man can do thus much, to make such grace sure to him, the Dominicans (the best friends that the grace of God can find amongst the Romanists) do affirm; Dominicus a. Soto (a principal, and the leading man amongst them) afferts it, and that upon the express testimony of Aquinas (whose conduct they are wont in their divinity to follow as Angelical) bout of necessity, not that of constraint, but that of infallibility; Grace is given to him that prepares himfelf for it, by some belp of God. They hold, that when a man doth his endeavour, God will not deny him grace, (there's their c congruous merit) and think they falve all, by faying, this endeavour must be from divine affiltance; but Pelagius acknowledged, that no less than they and Augustine, with other his opposers, take notice of it: yet because he would have grace to be given according to merits (though by merits was understood, not that which deserved it, but any thing done by a finner, in respect of which grace is given, as d Bellarmine confesseth); they condemned him, as evacuating the redemption of box ne-Christ, and the grace of God.

In fine, if a man by their principles could not merit justifying grace for himself: yet still, by their Doctrine, there would be no need of Christ's merits: For they teach that any other just man e Mirito conmay merit it for him de congruo, and do so much on his behalf, grui potest alias it would be indecent and incongruous to the bounty of God, to deny him grace. And this is enough to make him fure of it infallibly; feeing the Lord is as far from acting undecently or incongruously, as he is from dealing unjustly.

I need not tell you these errors are dangerous; unless you need be told that there is danger in making Christ signifie little or nothing in the justifying of sinners.

The last thing propounded is the application of this Redemption, i.e. of the bloud of Christ, or his obedience or his righteousness, (for those are used by the Apostle, as terms of the same import). If we be accepted as righteous, it must be upon the account of some righteousness; we have none of our own that can acquit us before the Lord's tribunal. That of ours will neither satisfie for what is past, nor serve us for the future; it cannot of it felf be a good title to life, which has in it just ground for condemnation. The righteousness of Christ is alsufficient for all the exigences of our condition. But that it may be our Justification, (Rom. 5. 18.) it must be our Righteousness: and how can that be? We need no other man to tell us, than Bellarmine himself; a The fin of Adam (fays he) is communicated in such a manner, as that which nem, eo modo, quo is past, can be communicated; that is by imputation. If the Cardinal had not been a meer servant to his hypothesis, he would have followed this fo far as the reason of it leads him; and then it would have brought him to acknowledg no less of the righteousness of the second Adam than of the fin of the first: both are past, and no other way to commiss. grat. L. 5. municate what is past, but by imputation.

This imputation is it which they will deny, and yet cannot but confess. And in their great Champion, we may see manifestly the evidence of truth strugling with the power of interest and prejudice; and prevailing fo far as to force from him three or four acknowledgments of - b De justific.l.2. this imputation, in that b dispute, where he sets himself with all his might to oppose it.

There are these severals considerable, about the imputing this righteousness: first Substitution; Christ satisfied in our stead, i.e. He tendred that which was due from us. Secondly, Acceptance; the Father accepted what Christ performed in our stead, as performed on our behalf. Thirdly, Participation; we have the fruits and advantages of his undertaking, no less than if we our selves had satisfied. Now, the first of these the Romanists affert, the third they acknowledg, and the second they cannot deny, unless they will deny that the Father accepted Christ's perfect performance, on the behalf of those for whom he undertook it by his own appointment. And as this performance, fo stated, is that we mean, by Christ's rightcousness: so this acceptance, as declared in the Ss. respondeo & Gospel, in reference to those that believe, includes all that we mean by imputation. Nor need we contend for more, than they cannot, without something like blasphemy, deny, viz. God's acceptance of Christ's Satisfaction. Then a Nobis vero communicatur per generatiocommunicari potest id quod transiit, nimirum per imputationem. De a-C:17. p.332.

c.17.p.785. Ss. quarto refellitur, or c. 10. P.793. Et hoc modo non esset absurdum, siquis nobis diceret, nobis imputari Christi justitiam & merita, cam nobis donentur & applicentur, ac si nos ipsi Deo satisfecissemus, & p. 794. Sf. bac igitur falsa, &c.

Then doth God impute the righteousness of Christ to a believer. when he accepts what Christ performed for him, as if he had performed it. As we say, then a Creditor imputes the payment of the debt to the debtor, when he accepts of what the furety pays for him, as if Heb. 7. 22. himself had paid it. There is ground enough in Scripture to use this Matth. 6.12. for illustration at least.

And by the light hereof, a a mean capacity may see a clear answer to a Without lesthe greatest objections made by the Papills against Christ's righteous- sening the disness imputed, 1. Obj. If Christ's righteousness be truly imputed unto us, ference bethen we might be called, and accounted redeemers of the World. Ans. twixe debts He might as reasonably say, the debtor may be called and accounted the ments; a surefurety, because the furety's payment is accepted for him, 2.0bj. If Christ's ty as to either righteousness be imputed to us as if it were ours, then we ought to be ac- will serve our counted as righteous as Christ. Answ. He might as well argue, the purpose. debtor is as rich as the furety, because the furety pays his debt, 2.0bi. If by the righteousness of Christ imputed to us, we may be faid to be truly righteous; then Christ, by our unrighteousness imputed to him, may be truly called a finner. Answ. Which is just as if he should say; If the acceptance of the furety's payment acquit the debtor; then the furety, because the debt is charged on him, (though he contracted it not) is as bad a husband, and as much a bankrupt as the debtor.

Anson.

I need bring no particular arguments for this. All the Scriptures, where there is mention of Christ's dying for us, his sufferings, cleanling us with his bloud, his obedience to death, &c. (since it cannot be denied but all this was well pleasing to God, and accepted by him, as it was performed on the behalf of believers) are undeniable proofs, that his righteousness is imputed.

And it is a wonder to me, that any who acknowledg the fatisfaction of Christ, should have the confidence to say, there is no evidence for this imputation, in the fense expressed; but their causeless prejudice against the word, makes them it feems fo fullen, that they will not take notice of the things we mean, though they meet with it every where in Scrip-

In short, (I fear I have transgressed already, and must omit much of c. 2. c.s. p.778. what I intended); if Christ's righteousness be not imputed, it is not from his opiniaccepted; if it be not accepted, it is not performed, and so there will be certe sequitur, no satisfaction, no redemption in Jesus Christ. This is Bellarmine's ut christi justiown inference when he is disputing against Ofiander; to deny God's ac- tiam Deus non cepting Christ's righteousness for us, (which is by the premisses his im- acceptet, which puting it to us) is to overthrow the whole mystery of mans redemp- mitted, nise tion and reconciliation.

Use. For Application. Let me admonish you, as you tender the honour tum mysterium of Christ, and the comfort and happiness of your souls; to receive and preserve the Doctrine of Justification pure and untainted, as the Apostle of recon iliadelivered it. Beware especially of the Popish corruptions, whereby tionis everteres.

they have adulterated, and wherewith they have overwhelmed it. Whereas it is, as delivered in Scripture, the foundation of our hopes, and the fpring of our comforts: they have made it a fink, into which a great part of their other corruptions do run, and fettle; or the fource from which they rife, and are fed. I might make this good by an account of particulars: but those I have touched already are too many. They tell you, to be justified, is to be fanctified, and so fanctified, as to need no further fanctification after the first insusion: no growth in grace, no increase of holiness, no progress therein, nor mortification neither, no need of, no reason for it. Their principles are so indulgent, as to free you from such trouble. But then you must not take notice of the many commands of God which enjoyn these, and make them necessary; nor of the hazard that attends such neglects. They will assure you there is none under the notion which they represent them.

They tell you, you must be justified by your own righteousness, and that a perfect righteousness within you; that's it you must trust to; and if you think much to be justified, as never any sinner in the world was; and know not how to compass a righteousness absolutely perfect within you: they will inform you, that any degree of charity, the least, the weakest, is righteousness in perfection. Thus you may be justified in their way, if you will but have patience till your inherent righteousness in this world be perfect and spotless; or till the lowest degree of it be absolute perfection. If you think it impossible to be justified upon such terms; they will tell you there is nothing more easy. Any of their Sacraments will help you to it; for they all confer justifying grace, and that by the meer external act. You may have it, though you never mind what you are a doing, when you are at Sacrament, to get it. An case way to Heaven indeed, if it were as easie to be saved, as deluded.

They will have you believe that their Doctrine of Justification is that which we must approve, since it includes pardon; and yet they have no pardon by their Doctrine, while there is one speck of sin in their souls: and so not in this world, and the other is no world for it. And though they fancy, that fault, and stain, and desert, and the very being of sin, is abolished when they have pardon; and will have none, that is not lawful: yet are they not pardoned for all that, but plainly condemned, and into infernal fires they must go, and be there tortured, (after they are so fully pardoned) till themselves have fully satisfied, and paid the utmost farthing. And if they cannot do that, which Christ only can do, viz. satisfie the justice of God for all forts of sins, as to part of the punishment due to some, and the whole punishment due to others. Their Purgatory will prove Hell, everlastingness not abated: and they will find themselves damned eternally, and cast into Hell, who, by the r Doctrine, were betrayed into that state, under a pretence of being punished there a while, in order to Salvation. And if the demerit of sins, which they call venial, prove greater, than they believe (without and against Scripture) they are in Hell, while they dream they are but in Purgatory; for the partition between Hell and Purgatory, is but the distinction made in their fansies, betwixt mortal and venial sins, as to their demerit.

Thus are they in danger to be pardoned, and no wonder, fince there is not one fin in five hundred, which, by their Doctrine, needs Christor his blood for its pardon; there's no need of the blood of sprinkling for the infinite numbers of their venials. They have a sprinkling of their Remissio Veniae own will serve, an holy water conjured into such divine powers, as to lium qui est est wash away a world of sins, fault and punishment both. This is the settus aqua befountain (one of them) which themselves have opened for sin and uncleanness; and the other opened by Christ may be shut up, unless there tive fantimay be some use of it for another sort of sins, but those very sew, in tatis consertur.

Indeed, it is the intollerable injury they offer to Christ, his redemption, and the free grace of God, which makes their Doctrine of Justification most intollerable. To strip the redemption which is in Jesus culpas quos; Christ, of its merit or satisfaction, without which it is no redemption: veniales remitto make the mercy of God needless, or the free exercise of it impossible, Melchior Canus. De Sacr. demned. This is to seek pardon of foriner offences, by new crimes, as pars 1. p. 751. if one would not receive a pardon without interlining it with something of treasonable import against him who offers it. Yea, it seems an attempt to blot out of the pardon all that is pardoning; and to affront and deface that upon which all the hopes of a condemned sinner depends, and without which no stell can be justified. When ever the Lord justifies any, he doth it freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Jesus Christ: they that will not be thus justified, are in danger o be condemned.

God not to be Worshipped as represented by an Image.

Medler

Tis not lawful to give Religious Worship to any Creature

what soever.

'Tis not lawful to make an Image of God.

'Tis not lawful to Worship God, as represented by an Image, or to direct our Worship of him to an Image.

'Tis not lawful to Worship Images, by doing it corporally, as Idolaters do, though we pretend to keep our hearts to God.

The Papists presumptuously leave the second Commandment out of the Decalogue.

Mat. 4. 10. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee bence, Satan, for it is written, Thou shalt Worship the Lord the God, and him only shalt thou serve.

HE eleven first Verses of this Chapter, contain the History of the Combat, or Conflict between Christ and Satan; and in it you may take notice of these Particulars.

1. You have the preparation to the Combat, v. 1,2. Then was Jesus ledup of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the Devil; and when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterwards an hungred. Then, that is, immediately after Christ had been baptized in an extraordinary manner, and solemnly declared by a voice from Heaven, that he was the beloved Son of God, in whom he was well pleased; and after the Heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a Dove, and lighting upon him, and was full of the Holy Ghost, as St. Luke records it, Luke 4.1. Then (that that is immeimmediately after this) he was led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the Devil. We should have thought that the next news might have been of his taking a solemn Journey to Jerusalem, and in the Temple there publickly to have declared, that he was the great Doctor and Prophet of his Church, and that they were accordingly to hear him: but God's thoughts are not as our thoughts; the Text tells you, then, that is, immediately upon this, he was led by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the Devil.

2. You have the Combat or Conflict it felf, from the third Verse to the eleventh: the Devil takes an occasion hereupon to set upon him, and to affault him with these dreadful temptations. The first temptation, or affault, you have Vers. 3. If thou be the Son of God, command that these tiones be made bread: As if he had said, There was a Voice prefently from Heaven, that thou art Gods beloved Son, in whom he is well pleased; but if so, is it likely that God should take no further care of his own Son whom he loved, than to expose him to the want even of necessaries for the present life? so that, either thou art not the Son of Gode and that pretended Voice from Heaven is but a delulion, or if thou beeft so, let it appear by making of this Miracle, Command that these stones be made bread. The reply or answer made by our Saviour to this temptation, you have Vers. 4. But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God: where our Saviour shews, that this was a notorious Imposture, and a fallacious way of reasoning, that either he must perish in the wilderness with famine, or else he must prove himself to be the Son of God by working a Miracle, and commanding stones to be made bread : for, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. This temptation not taking effect, and the Devil foiled and non-plust by the force and dint of the Scripture, he makes a second assault upon him, Vers. 5, 6. Then the Devil taketh him up into the holy City, and setteth him on a Pinacle of the Temple, and saith unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thy self down, for it is written, He shall give his Angels charge concerning thee, and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone. I know that St. Luke observes not the same order in the recording of these temptations, as St. Matthew doth, but it is likely that was the third and last temptation, when Satan had that rebuke given him by our Saviour, Get thee bence, Satan, for immediately upon this, Vers. 11. the Devil leaveth him, and Angels came and ministred-unto him; and therefore I call this the second assault or temtation. The third and the last temptation, or affault, which seems to be most dangerous, you have Vers. 8, 9. Again, the Devil taketh him up into an exceeding high Mountain, and sheweth him all the Kingdoms of the World, and the Glory of them, and faith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. In St. Luke, Hhh 2 Chap.

Chap. 4. 6. he pretends a reason for it, And the Devil said unto him. All this power will I give thee, and the Glory of them, for that is delivered unto me, and to whom seever I will I give it. And Vers. 7. If thou therefore wilt worship me, all shall be thine. But the Devil was a Lyar from the beginning, and there were three notorious Lyes in this pretence of the Devils: 1. All this power will I give thee, and the Glory of them; whereas he had no fuch Power or Glory to bestow. 2. The second was, For that is delivered unto me: but God never made the Devil the Heir of all things, but his own Son. Heb. 1. 2. He hath in these last days Spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed Heir of all things. 3. The third was, To whomfoever I will, I give it: as if Satan could give the Kingdoms of the World to whom he pleafed, a power which God hath referved for himself, and hath not conferred on any Creature what soever. Daniel 2.20, 21. Blessed be the Name of God for ever and ever, for Wisdom and Might are his, he changeth the times and the seasons, he removeth Kings, and setteth up Kings. We read that Satan is sometimes transformed into an Angel of Light, 2 Cor. 6.14. but here he would be transformed into God himfelf; as also in that which follows; namely, that he would be adored and worshipped; If thou therefore wilt worship me, all shall be thine: or, as you have it in the Text, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Now in these words you have the reply or answer that our Saviour makes to this temptation; Then saith Jesus unto him; Get thee hence, Satan, for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou ferve: where you have two things confiderable: 1. You have something premised, or something prefatory unto Christ's answer, Get thee bence, Satan; which may be understood two ways: 1. Either as Vox detestantis, a Note of abhorrence and detestation, of the Devils horrible impudence and blasphemy, in that he would have Christ to fall down and worship him: or, 2. As Vox imperantis, a word of power and authority, commanding him out of his presence, Get thee bence, Satan; and thereby fufficiently declaring himself to be the Son of God, which was the thing in question: the Devil had twice put an if upon his Sonthip, Vers. 3. If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread: And Vers. 6. If thou be the Son of God, cast thy self down: Now our Saviour will have this to be out of question, and therefore commands him to be gone, Get thee hence, Satun; and the next news is, Vers. 11. Then the Devil leaveth him, and behold; Angels came and ministred unto him. 2. You have the answer it self, For it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Where again you have two things to be taken into Confideration: 1. You have our Saviours urging Scripture in the case, It is written: The Word of God is armour of proof against Satan and his temptations, and hence the Apostle makes it one main part of the Christian armour, Ephel. 6.17. Take the Helmet of Salvation, and the Smord of the Spirit, which is the Word

Word of God; and our Saviour makes use of this Sword in the Text, It is pritten, but where, see Deut. 6.13. Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve him; and Deut. 10.20. Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, him shalt thou serve, and to him shalt thou cleave: where I would note, that our Saviour doth not quote the very words that are in Deuteronomy, it is faid there, Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve him, our Saviour fays, Thou shalt worship. the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve : and yet notwithstanding, It is written. I hou shalt worship the Lord thy God; and him only shalt thou serve. And I would the rather take notice of this, because there are a generation of men amongst us, that tell us, upon occasion, that we do not speak Scripture-Language, and their reason is, because we do not speak Scripturewords: But, Friends, take this for a principle, If we speak Scripture-sence, though not the very words of Scripture, yet we may be faid to speak Scripture-Language: Thus our Saviour here speaking Scripture-sence, speaks Scripture-Language, It is written. Fear is a word of great latitude and extent; and comprehends in its felf that homage, and honour, and reverence, that we owe to God; and therefore our Saviour calls it Worship, and says, It is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, &c. Thus it is also in the like case, if the word person be Scripture-sence, it is Scripture-Language: if the word Sacrament be Scripture-sence, it is Scripture-Language. 2. You have the Scripture that is urged in these words, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Satan would have our Saviour to fall down and worship him: our Saviour replies, It is written, Thoushalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve: and the meaning and import of it is this, that which is proper and peculiar unto God, ought not to be given unto any. Creature whatfoever: but Worship is so, and therefore ought not to be given to any Creature whatsoever. Satan is a Creature, and if there were no more in the case than that, even that is reason sufficient why he ought not to be Worshipped: Thew faith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan, for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Thus I have given you an account both of the preparation to the Combat or Conflict between Christ and Satan, as also of the Combat or Conflict it' felf; thirdly, you have the issue of the whole transaction between Christ and Satan, Vers. 11. Then the Devil leaveth him, and behold Angels cameand ministred unto him.

My Text contains the answer, or the repulse that was given by our Saviour unto Satans third and last assault; Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan, for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou ferve.

The Proposition that I would commend unto your Consideration from the words, is this, That Religious Worship ought not to be given to any Creature whatsoever: or thus; God alone is, and ought to be the Object of Religious Worship. I say, God alone is, and ought to be the Object of Religious Worship: Honour and Worship is Gods due and right; and irreligion is a piece of wrong and injustice; and indeed, if divine honour was not given to God as his due and right, worship will be a part of benevolence from the creature unto God.

1. In the profecution of this point, I shall, by God's assistance, obferve this method. 1. I shall give you a brief description of worship, and thew you what worship is.

2. I shall lay down some distinctions for the due stating, and the right understanding of this proposition.

3. I shall endeavour to prove the proposition, namely, that religious worship ought not to be given to any creatures whatsoever; or that God alone is, and ought to be the object of religious worship.

4. And the fourth particular shall be the Use and Application.

1. For the first of these, I shall endeavour to dispatch in a few words; namely, to give you a brief description of worship, and shew you what worship is.

Worship is that honour or reverence that we give unto a person, or being, regard being had to the dignity and excellency of that person or being that is to be worlhipped; and it consists of three Acts.

1. An act of the mind, whereby we rightly conceive of the dignity and excellency of that person or being that we worship.

2. An act of the will, whereby, upon occasion, we are ready and willing to pay all offices of respect to that person or being.

3. An act of the body, whereby we express that respect or honour that is in our minds, unto that person or being, by some outward one of bodily act, as prostration, uncovering of the head, bowing the knee, or the like; and this is all I shall say to the first particular, what worship is.

2. Our next work is, to lay down some distinctions for the due stating and right understanding of this proposition; namely, that religious worship ought not to be given to any creature whatsoever; or that God alone is and ought to be the object of religious worship: as,

1. We must distinguish between our works, and religious worship: now, although religious worship ought to be given to God alone, yet civil worship may, and ought to be given unto creatures: this is a duty from Inferiors to their Superiors, from Children to their Parents, from Servants to their Masters, from subjects to Kings and Magistrates; these Gods must have civil worship: thus it is said of Judah, when Jacob on his death-bed blessed the twelve tribes, Gen. 49. 8. Judah, thou art be whom thy brethren shall praise; thy hand shall be in the neck of thine enemies; thy Father's children shall bow down before thee: Judah's honour was to weild the Scepter; and therefore the rest of the Tribes his Father's children, in a civil sense, were to worship him, and bow down before him: thus, when Joseph came into the presence of Jacob his Father, it is said, 48. 12. That he bowed himself with his face to the earth; this was civil worship.

And

And indeed, this worship considered apart, and in a separate way, seems to be proper unto the creature, and so not fit to be given unto God. If any should say, but is not God to receive all honour, and glory, and worship; and if so, why should civil worship be excluded? I answer, because this is not the way to honour God: if we should worship God no otherwise than as we worship a creature, this would be to blaspheme him, under a pretence of giving him that honour that we owe him. We may observe even amongst the creatures, that the homage or honour that we give unto the creature, hath alwaies respect unto the greatest excellency of that creature; as suppose a King were present, a Duke, or a Marquess, or an Earl; if a man should give him only that respect that is due unto a Duke, or a Marquess, or an Earl, this were in effect to degrade him of his Kingly power: if we give only the honour unto God, that a Creature may challenge as his due, this strikes at the very God-head it self, and we do, what lies in us, to degrade him of his supremacy and transparent glory.

2. We must distinguish between inward worship, and outward wor-- ship: there is inward worship in Faith, and Love, and Hope, and Fear, and other elicit acts of the mind; this is the inward homage that we owe unto God: and then there is outward worship, which consists in the outward expression of that inward homage and subjection that we owe to God, which is done as you heard before, by some outward one of bodily act, as prostrating, uncovering of the head, bowing of the knee, and the like. Now, though the worship of God consists mainly and principally in the former; for there may be a pretence of outward homage and reverence, and yet nothing of worship; as the Souldiers bowed the knee to Christ, and yet mocked him, Matth. 27. 29. yet outward worship is necessary; inward and outward worship doth mutually depend upon each other: he that doth not pray, nor read, nor hear, nor receive Sacraments, doth neither love God, nor fear him, nor trust in him. And besides, outward worship is a most effectual help and affistance unto the principle of inward worship, strengthening the habit of it, and exciting of it unto all sutable actions: for though bodily exercife, as it is fingle, and divided from the heart, doth, as the Apostle faith, profit little: yet when it joyns with it, it profits much, and makes us far more lively in the service of God, than otherwise we should be: and we may find by experience, that when we pray only inwardly in our spirits, we have not that life and enlargement in our minds and affections, as when we also pray outwardly with the voice; and upon these and fuch like grounds, it is advised by some, that prayer, though secret, should be vocal, because it excites affection, and quickens devotion: thus, though inward worship be the main of worship, and that which may most properly be called worship; yet outward worship is necessary: the fecond Commandment hath a special respect unto outward worship, namely, that we perform unto God that outward worship which he hath appointed appointed in his Word. And that which the Devil would have of our Saviour here, is outward Worship, All these things will I give thee if thou wilt fall down and worship me. If any shall pretend that it is External Veneration that they give unto other things besides God, whereas that which is inward, and which may most properly be called Worship, they reserve for God: the vanity of such a pretence will appear, if we consider, that it is not a necessary requisite unto salse and idolatrous Worship, that the inward devotion of the mind should accompany the external adoration of the body: for if so, it will follow, that a man being commanded under a severe penalty, might give outward adoration to any Image, either of the true or salse gods, and yet be guiltless; and who durst ever say so?

3. We will take it for granted, that Religious Worship admits of degrees, namely, that there is Religious Worship in an higher degree, and Religious Worship in a lower and inferiour degree: for, I suppose, that the Veneration and Adoration that our Adversaries of the Church of Rome give unto Images and Reliques, and things of that nature, is not Civil, but Religious, though in a lower and an inferiour degree. Now this being taken for granted, I affirm, That God, and God alone, is and ought to be the Object of Religious Worship, in the latitude of it; and that Religious Worship in the lowest and most inferiour degree, ought not to be given unto any Creature whatsoever, and that will appear from

1. It appears from the words of the Text, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Now if we are to Wor-· ship God alone, and serve God alone, then God, and God alone is and ought to be the Object of Religious Worship; and Religious Worship ought not to be given unto any Creature what soever. If it be Objected, That the Text doth not fay, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God only, but him only shalt thou ferve: that there is indeed an honour and a service that is due unto God alone, which to give unto any Creature would be Idolatry. Him only shalt thou ferve: but there is a Worship which is due unto the Creatures according to their respective Excellencies, as to Saints, holy things, and holy places, and we may worship them, though we may not serve them: but if this were the sense of this Scripture. the Devil might have excepted against the answer made by our Saviour as insufficient: he might have said, Thou mayst worship me, though thou mayst not ferve me : and that this Scripture did not forbid all Worship, yea that some Religious Worship might be given to a Creature in a lower and inferiour degree, though the Supreme Worship might not; and all that he defired of our Saviour was, That he would fall down and worship him: that it was inferiour Worship, though Religious, which the Devil required of Christ, is plain, for he acknowledges God at the same time to be his Superiour, and the Giver of that power which he laid claim to, Luk. 4.6. And the Devil Said unto him, All this power will

will I give thee, and the glory of them, for that is delivered unto me, and unto whomsoever I will I give it :- And yet that is the Worship which Christ faith God hath forbidden to be given unto any Creature; and our Saviour discovers his abhorrence and detestation of any thing of that nature, Get thee hence, Satan, for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Nor was it the scope of our Saviour to give countenance to any such distinction as this, as appears from that place of Scripture which is here quoted, Deut. 6. 13. Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve him, and shalt swear by his Name. Vers. 14. Te shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you. Where Moses doth not distinguish between the Worship that is due to God, and that Worship which may be given unto the Creature; but describes the Worship which ought to be given unto God, and to God alone, and which ought not to be given unto the gods of the Gentiles: and besides this ought to be taken into Consideration, we do not find the word only in Deuteronomy annexed either to the fear of God, or to the fervice of God. Now would it have been fairly and ingeniously done by any that lived under the Old Testament Dispensation, to make this gloss upon the Text? It is true, we must fear the Lord our God, but not him only; and serve him, but not serve him. only: fo that our Saviour add the word only for Explication sake; and indeed if God be to be worshipped at all, and served at all, for the same reason he only is to be worshipped, and he only is to be served: so that our Saviour doth not only recite this Text in Deuteronomy, but he doth it with advantage, when he tells Satan, It is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Worship is called Religious, because it binds us to God, and to God alone: and whereever in Scripture it is faid we must worship God, we must always understand it thus, we must worship him alone. Thus the Angel in the Revelations, Chap. 19. 10. where he tells John, that he must Worship God; the meaning is, that he must Worship God alone. Psal. 29.2. Give unto the Lord the glory due to his Name; and then it follows by way of explication, Worship the Lord in the beauty of Holiness. 'Tis faid of fob, Chap. 1. Vers. 20. That he arose, and rent his Mantle, and fell down upon the ground and worshipped: Nothing is said of the Object unto whom he did direct his Worship; the Object of his Worship is not expressed, but understood, and presupposed; if he fell down and Worshipped in a religious manner, it is to be taken for granted that he Worlhipped God.

2. It appears yet further, that God, and God alone is and ought to be the Object of Religious Worship, and that Religious Worship ought not to be given unto any Creature whatsoever, because God hath expressly forbidden us in Scripture the Worthipping of Angels, Col. 2.18. Let no man beguile you of your reward, in a voluntary humility, and Worshipping of Angels. The Apostles scope in this Chapter is to dispute against those those Corruptions that were creeping into the Christian Worship, these fometimes he calls the traditions of men, the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ, Vers. 8.° and the commandments and doctrines of men. Vers. 22. And amongst other Corruptions, he cautions them against Worshipping of Angels. Now if Religious Worship might be given to a Creature, then to these glorious Creatures; but this, according to the Apostles sense, is superstition, and will-worship. So Vers. 23. Which things have indeed a shew of wildow in will-worship, how the Church of Rome owns and avouches the Worshipping of Angels, which the Apostle forbids. 'Tis true indeed, the Papists, in their Worshipping of Saints and Angels, give the Saints the pre-eminence: 'Tis by their means, fay they, that Indulgences are given out of the Churches Treasury, or rather put to sale; they having not only merited their own Salvation, but some of them at least supercrogated for the good of others, in that they have done more and greater things than are enjoined in Gods Word: And this is an honour, that, according to their Principles, is not, nor ought to be given to the bleffed Angels.

But how extravagant soever the fancies of these men are, or may be, yet I shall aver, That if Religious Worship might be given to any Creature, then unto these Glorious Creatures, and that not only because they never sinned against God, as the Saints have done, but also because unto their care and tutelage are committed God's holy ones, and they are sent forth to minister for them that are heirs of salvation, Heb. 1. 14. But we read not of any such employ assigned by God unto the Saints

If any should say the Worship of Angels sorbidden in the Scripture, is the Supreme Worship that is proper unto God alone, and to give this indeed unto the Angels, would be Superstition and Will-worship, but not Religious Worship in an inferiour degree: What an horrible bold perverting of Scripture is this? and who can reasonably imagine, that the Apostle Paul, when he knew that the Worshipping of Angels was not only good and lawful, but highly commendable, should yet in the general condemn the Worshipping of Angels without any distinction at all made in the case.

And whereas it may be faid, that St. Paul doth not in the general condemn the Worshipping of Angels, but the Worshipping of Angels as Mediators, so as to exclude Christ: for the Apossel adds, Vers. 19. And not holding the Head. It is true, the Apossel doth so: but then we must know, that Religious Worship, though in an inferiour degree given to an Angel, is inconsistent with holding the Head, Christ. As a Wise that gives the honour of her Husbands Bed unto another, (and all religious and divine respect is no less) denies him to be what she calls him, though she call him Husband never so much. The reason urged in the second Commandment against salse Worship, is, that God is a jealous God; now we must understand it thus; he is jealous, not only.

lest he should not be honoured as God, but he is also jealous lest he should not be honoured as one God: for as by the Worshipping of him we acknowledge him to be God, so by the incommunicableness of that Worship to any Creature, we acknowledge him to be one God.

And yet that there may be no mistake in this matter, we deny not. but that good men, when Angels have appeared unto them in a visible shape, even when they have known that they have been Angels, have given honour to them, and it may be bowed down before them: but then it is granted on all hands, that the same external gesture may be adapted and fitted to the Worship that is Civil, and that which is Religious: and it lies upon our Adversaries to prove, that the honour or Worthip given unto them was Religious, and of the very same kind that we give unto God, but in an inferiour and lower degree. We read of Abraham, Gen. 18. 2. that he lift up his eyes, and log three men stood by him; and when he saw them, he ran to meet them from the Tent-door, and bowed himself toward the ground: but that this was a Civil, not a Religious respect, appears by the entertainment that he offers to make for them, Vers. 4. 5. Let a little water I pray you be fetched, and wash your feet, and rest your selves under the tree, and I will fetch a morsel of bread, and comfort ve your hearts: Indeed afterwards he knew one of them to be the Angel of the Covenant, the Lord Jesus Christ, who is called Febovab in that Chapter, and might Worship him with Religious Worthip. But this doth not in the least contradict our Principles, nor the Text, for God must and ought to be Worshipped, though we must Worthip the Lord our God, and him only must we serve: Unto which I might add, that the Servants of God under the Law, had a fair occasion offered them to invoke and Worship Angels, which we have not under the Gospel, because they frequently then appeared unto them in the likeness of men, which they do not to us; and yet we never read that the people of God under the Legal Dispensation, did invoke them, or pay any religious respect to them. David saw the Angel that smote the people, 2 Sam. 24. 17. yet did he not in the least apply himself to the Angel, or Worship him, but made his address unto God; David spake unto the Lord, when he saw the Angel that smote the people, and said, Lo I have sinned, but these sheep, what have they done?

3. It appears yet further, that God alone is, and ought to be the Object of Religious Worship, and that Religious Worship ought not to be given to any Creature whatsoever, because Religious Worship, though in the lowest and most inferiour degree, is such that neither Saints nor Angels durst own or receive: We read how that the Devil would be Worshipped, but Saints and good Angels would not; and I shall give you two instances for this, the sirst of a Saint, and the second of an Angel.

1. The first instance I shall give you is of a Saint, namely, that of Peter, Act. 10. 25. As Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him: but Vers. 26. Peter took him up, faying, Stand up, I my self also am a man. The Argument is this: No man is to be worshipped; But I am a man; Therefore I am not to be worshipped. Nor is it reasonable to believe, that Cornelius would give Religious Worship in the highest degree, which our Adversaries say is proper unto God alone, unto St. Peter; for it is said, Ast. 10.2. That Cornelius mas a devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, and one that prayed unto God alway. Nor can it justly be imagined, that a devout man, and one that feared God, and one that prayed unto God alway, should give Religious Worship in the highest degree, which they call Latriam, unto St. Peter, when he knew he was God's Minister, and not God.

2. The second Instance that I shall give you, is of an Angel, Rev. 19. 10. I fell at his feet to morship him; and he said unto me, see thou do it not, I am thy fellow-servant, see thou do it not: hereby is fignified unto us the heinousness of this sin; as if he had said, beware what thou dost; God forbid that a creature should joyn in co-partnership with God in his worship; worship God, see thou do it not; a speech something like that, Fer. 44.4. Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate, ver. 3. They went to burn incense, and to serve other gods, whom they knew not; and God-cried out, as it were with a shriek, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate: thus in the like case, when John fell down at the feet of the Angel to worship him, the Angel refuses it with abhorrence and detestation, See thou do it not; and he gives this reason for it, I am thy fellowfervant: and the argument is this; No servant of Christ ought to be worthipped, but an Angel is a fervant of Christ, therefore an Angel is not to be worshipped: Worship God, as if he had said, God, and God alone is the object of religious worship, and I am thy fellow-servant; worship God: the Angel in this feems to point at that worship which is called dulia; why should dulia be given to him, that is serve? It is an horrible wickedness to serve, and worship thy fellow servant in a religious manner: I am thy fellow-servant, worship God: see again to this purpose, Rev. 22. 8, 9. I John saw these things, and heard them; and when I had heard, and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the Angel, which shewed me these things: ver. 9. Then saith he unto me, see thou do it not for I am thy fellow-servant, &c. worship God. And whereas some pretend that St. John took the Angel to be God, and would have worshipped him with latria, which is proper to God alone; and therefore the Angel fays, see thou do it not: this is a meer groundless fancy of their own, and not to be made out by the least iota or tittle in the Text; and besides, it is very much that Saint John should be mistaken twice in the case, for he was twice repulsed by the Angel, and St. John calls him expresly an Angel; ver. 8. If ell down to worship before the feet of the Angel, and the Angel bids him worship God: by which is intimated, that St. John's mistake was not in the person, but in the worshipping of the person; for that religious worship, though in the lowest, and most interior ferior degree, is such, that neither Saint nor Angel durst own or re-

4. It appears yet further, that God, and God alone is and ought to be the object of religious worship, and that religious worship ought not to be given to any creature whatfoever, from the confideration of the nature of worlhip it felf, together with that God that is to be worlhipped: religious worthip in Solidum, as well in one degree as another, is due to God, and proper only unto him.: as there is no proportion between God and a creature, because there is an infinite distance between the one and the other; so it follows, that if it were possible, there should be an infinite disproportion between the honour that we give to God, and the honour that we give unto a Creature. And fince the Divine Excellency doth differ in kind from that which is, or can pollibly be in any Creature, it necessarily follows, that the Worship and Honour that is given unto God, ought to differ in kind from that Worship and Honour that we give unto the Creature: so that to give the same Worship unto God and to the Creature, differing only in degree, is in effect to fay, that the Creature is but in a degree inferiour unto God. Unto which I might add.

5. In the fifth place, That if Idolatry confifts only in giving Religious Worship in the highest degree unto a Creature, then the Arrians are fallly charged with Idolatry by ancient and modern Divines, for giving Religious Worship unto Christ, who, they say, is but a Creature, though the best of Creatures: I suppose that even our Adversaries themselves make no scruple to charge Arrians with Idolatry: Now it is not easily to be imagined, how the Arrians should give Latriam, or Religious Worship in the highest degree unto Christ, whom they profess to be a Creature, and not God; and if Religious Worship in an inferiour degree may be given unto a Creature, why then are they charged with Idolatry?

Unto which I might also add, That this will justifie at least many of the best and wisest of the Heathens in their Superstitious and Idolatrous practices, many of the Heathens Worshipping the true God by salse mediums: for instance, the men of Athens, Asi. 17.23. As I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an Altar with this Inscription, IO THE UNKNOWN GOD: whom therefore you ignorantly worship, him declare I to you; and yet the Apostle charges them with Superstition, Vers. 22. I perceive that in all things you are too superstitious: the Altar was dedicated unto the same God that Paul preached, and yet even in this they were too superstitious.

Thus I have endeavoured to clear this great truth unto you, That God, and God alone is and ought to be the Object of Religious Worship; and, That Religious Worship ought not to be given unto any Creature whatsoever. If it be said, That Religious Worship upon occasion hath been given unto a Creature, as for instance, upon Gods appeared to the control of the control

pearing unto Moses in the Burning Bush, Exod. 3.5. God said unto Moses, Draw not nigh hither, put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground. And thus the Israelites were to Worship before the Ark, even by the appointment of God himself, Psal. 59.5. Exalt ye the Lord our God, and worship at his footstool; for he is holy. Now if so, how is this a truth, That God, and God alone is the Object of Religious Worship; and, That Religious Worship ought not to be given unto any Creature what soever? For the removing of this difficulty, I shall say two things.

1. That in whatever place God is pleased to manifest his special and extraordinary presence, that place, during that time, may be said to be holy, or to be fanctified; and thus it was in the case of the holy ground, Exod. 3. 2. The Angel of the Lord appeared to him in a flame of fire, out of the midst of a Bush. Now that this Angel of the Lord was God himself, appears Vers. 4. When the Lord saw that he turned afide to see, God called unto him out of the midt of a Bush: upon this the Lord said, Draw not nigh hither, put off thy shooes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground. And so also as for the Ark, God had promised his special presence there, and to commune with his people from above the Mercy-feat, from between the two Cherubims whichwere upon the Ark of the Testimony, Exod. 25.22. And hence God is faid to dwell between the Cherubims, Pfal. 80. 1. Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel, thou that leadest Joseph like a flock, thou that dwellest between the Cherubims, shine forth. And hence the Shewbread that was placed upon a Table before the Ark, is said to be set before God, Exod. 25.39. Thou shalt set upon the Table Shewbread before me alway; and this Bread was therefore called panis facierum, the Bread of faces, and panis propositionis, because it was placed before the Ark. But I thall add, that there is no place under the Gospel that can be said to be holy upon the account of God's special and extraordinary presence: if there be any fuch, let our Adversaries shew us where it is, and give us sufficient proof. of it, and we will frankly comply with them, and grant that place to be holy and fanctified.

2. The second thing that I say is this, That although Moses was to put off his shoots because the place whereon he stood was holy ground, yea, and that respect was given to the ground because of God's special and extraordinary presence in that place, which was signified by putting off the shoots. (Take this for granted); yet how doth it appear that the respect given to the ground was Religious, or that Religious Worship was given to the ground? Oh, say our Adversaries, because it was holy. Grant it, the ground was holy, but must it therefore be worshipped religiously? If you form this into an Argument, it runs thus: Whatever is holy, ought to be worshipped religiously: But the Lord tells you the ground was holy; Therefore it ought to be worshipped religiously. But who sees not the weakness of the first Proposition, namely, That whatever is holy ought to be worshipped religiously? Aaron was holy, and the Priests under the Law were holy, but yet we read not that they were worshipped religiously, or with Religious Worship, either living or dead, much less did they worship their Garments, though they also were holy. We have, or at least we ought to have a respect for the people of God, as such, as they are religious and holy persons; and yet it doth not follow from hence, that therefore they are religiously to be worshipped: Yea, the people of God are holy, if compared with the holy ground it self, in an eminent and transcendent manner: for after God, i. e. after the image of God, they are created in righteousness; and true holiness: the ground was only capable of relative holiness, but the people of God are enriched and beautified with inherent holiness; and are sanctified, not only in a way of external Relation as the ground was, but inwardly, and inherently in their lives they are sanctified throughout, both in body, soul and spirit; and yet they are not to be worshipped with Religious Worship.

As for that instance concerning the Ark, that also is called holy, Pfal. 59.5. Exalt ye the Lord our God; and worship at his footstool, for he is bely, so our Translation renders it; or as it is in the Margent of the Bible, for it is holy: which way soever you render the words, it is much at one to our purpose, for although the Jews worthipped God at his Footfool, or before the Ark, which was his Footfool, yet it doth not appear that they worthipped his Footstool, no not with Religious Worship in a leffer or inferiour degree. The Israelites might worship God before the Ark, and yet not worship the Ark: thus the Wise-men worshipped Christ wrapped in Swadling-cloaths, laid in a Manger; but yet they did not worship either the Cloaths or the Manger: thus those that fung Hosanna to the Son of David, Hosanna in the highest, worshipped Christ riding upon an Ass, but they did not worship the Ass it self: whatever respect therefore was given to the ground, or to the Ark, it doth not appear that it was religious: if any be offended with the word Civil, and take it to be too low a word in a case of this nature, by my consent we will not be angry about words, let them call it, if they please, Supercivilis; or if they will but acknowledge that it was not the fame Worship for kind that we give unto God, the strife, as far as this goes, shall be at an end, and we shall be beholding to them for a better word, when they shall be at leifure to furnish us therewith.

We may take notice from hence of the Supersition and Idolatry of the Church of Rome, in giving that Worship that is proper unto God, and unto him alone, unto other things; and here I shall not speak to the Idolatry of the Church of Rome in the latitude of it, but take occasion to make mention of their worshipping of Saints, and their worshipping of Images.

1. Their worshipping of Saints. Our Adversaries tell us, that we do them wrong when we say that they give that Worship unto the Creature, that is proper unto God, and do frankly acknowledge that if they did so, they should make a Creature a God, and by consequence be guilty of Idolatry. But how they will or can acquit themselves in this particular, for my part I cannot understand: for actions, or gestures, or words. directed to any Creature, that doth imply that Creature to have any of God's incommunicable Attributes, and Divine Perfections, do questionless give that honour to the Creature which is proper unto God; and this is done by those of the Church of Rome: for instance, when thoufands of Papifts in thousands of places at one and the same time pray unto Saints, and in particular to the Virgin Mary, doth not this suppose the Saints, and in particular the Virgin Mary, to be Omniscient, and Omnipresent? And are not these some of God's incommunicable Attributes, and Divine Perfections? And is not the Omniscience and Omnipresence of God one main ground of Religious Worship? And is not God to be invoked every where, because he sees and hears whatsoever is done upon the Earth, and is present in all places? I will, saith the Apostle, I Tim. 2.8. that men pray every where, lifting up holy hands without wrath and doubting. We have no reason to lift up holy hands to a Saint, unless that Saint was every where: And whereas some pretend that the Saints may fee all things in God in speculo deitatis, in the Glass of the Deity; this Glass hath long since been broken by the hand of the Learned, nor is there any thing else like to be seen by it, but the rashness of some bold persons, who dare to sport with Divine things. and aspire unto a wisdom above that which is written, the Scripture not in the least making mention of any such thing: yea, the Humanity of Christ himself, though personally united unto the Divine Nature, did not pretend to it; for our Saviour speaking of the Day of Judgment, doth freely and openly declare to all the world, Mark 13.32. Of that day and that bour knoweth no man, no not the Angels which are in Heaven, neither the Son, but the Father: Nor can the meaning be that the Son knew not of the Day of Judgment in this sense, namely, so as to make it known unto the world, for in that sense the Father himself may be faid to know nothing of that day and hour, when he is plainly excepted in the case, Of that day and hour knoweth no man, no not the Angels which are in Heaven, neither the Son, but the Father. And seeing operari sequitur esse, and every being doth exercise its operations in such a way as is suitable to its nature and essence, it is an hard matter to conceive that a finite Creature can be capable of infinite knowledge, and exercife it accordingly: but I shall not infilt upon this, because it is to be managed by another hand: however, I shall take my liberty to add hereunto two Considerations, and so pass on.

1. We Protestants acknowledge that we have an honour for the blessed Apostles, and Martyrs, and Saints, and upon occasion give them their due praises, and celebrate their memorials: but those of the Church of Rome, whilst they would most superstitiously give them that honour that is due to God, most unrighteously deny them that honour that is due unto themselves. Is it an honour to the Prophets, Evangelists and Apofiles, to suppress what they writ, said and did, from the greatest part of the Christian World? When our Saviour savs upon occasion of a womans bringing a Box of pretious Ovntment, and pouring it upon his head as he sate at meat, Mat. 26.7, 13. That wheresoever this Gospel (hould be preached, there should also this that this woman had done, be told for a memorial of her. The Apostle's counsel is, 7am.5.10. Take, my Bretbren. the Prophets, who have spoken in the Name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience. Now is it an honour to the Prophets for the generality of the people to be kept in such gross ignorance of the holy Scriptures, that it is a wonder if millions of them know what kind of persons the Prophets were, and whether there were such that ever lived in the World? Is it an honour to the Saints departed to aver, that for some time at least, and it is hard to know how long, that they suffer the same pains and torments for substance that the damned suffer in Hell, and that all this time they are deprived of the Beatifical Vision of God's bleffed presence in the other World? Absolom had rather die than to live in exile, and not see the King's face, 2 Sam. 14. 32. Let me see the King's face, and if there be any iniquity in me, let bim kill me. And is it a small matter for the Saints, for many Generations, to be shut out of the presence of their heavenly Father, and banished from his fight, who is the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords? Thus the pretended honour that the Papills lay they give unto the Saints, vanishes into Air and Smoke.

2. That although we have an honour for the bleffed Apostles, Saints and Martyrs, yet we dare not give them Religious Honour, no not in any degree whatsoever; for this is due to God, and proper to him alone: when we attribute that to a Creature which is proper and peculiar unto God, we make that a God. Thus facob to Rachel importunately desiring Children, Gen. 30. 2. Facob's anger was kindled against Rachel, and he said. Am I in God's stead, who hath with-held from thee the fruit of the womb? Thus also when Naaman was sent into Samaria to be cured of his Leprofie, and brought a Letter to the King of Israel from the King of Syria to that purpose, 2 King. 5.6. Saying, Now when this Letter is come unto thee, behold, I have therewith fent Naaman my fervant to thee, that thou mayst recover him of his Leprosie. Vers. 7. It came to pass when the King of Israel had read the Letter, that he rent his cloaths, and said, Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of bis Leprosie? Thus it is also in the case of Worship, if we give that Worship to a Creature that is proper unto . God, we make it a God. Exod. 34. 14. Thou shalt worship no other gods, and the reason rendred is this, For the Lord whose Name is fealous, is a jealous God. God's Name is Jealous; and why is his Name fo? why is his Name Jealous? Because as men are made known and distinguished by their names from other men, so God is made known by his Name Jealous, and distinguished from other gods, from salse gods: salse gods were not jealous, though their Lovers and Worshippers went a whoring after other gods: if they worshipped them, and served them, all was well enough, they were not jealous. But the Lord our God is a Jealous God, and will not admit of any Co-partner or Rival in his Love, in his Worship; Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt those serve. Thus much for their worshipping of Saints.

2. The second thing I shall mention is their worshipping of Images; this is expresly forbid by the second Commandment. Exod. 20. Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven Image, or any likeness of any thing that is in Heaven above, or that is in the Earth beneath, or that is in the Water under the Earth: thou shalt not bow down thy self to them, nor serve them. That God had a special regard to Religion in this Commandment, is plain.

1. Because it is said, We are not to bow down our selves to them, nor serve them.

2. Because this Commandment belongs to the first Table, which concerns God's Worship and Service, and the Papists are transgressors of this Commandment, for they make unto themselves Images, and fall down and worship them.

And whereas it is urged. That suppose the Worship of the true God by an Image were forbidden by the second Commandment, it would follow indeed from hence, that it was unlawful to worthip God by an Image, but not that it was Idolatry. This is but a pretence; for to give religious respect unto any Creature whatsoever, is Idolatry: now that the Worthip given by Papists unto images is religious, appears, because they tell us, that the worship of an Image stays not there, but is referred or carried to the Prototype, or thing represented by it; and therefore must of necessity be the same in kind that is given to God himself: for he that tells you, that he doth it but improperly, indirectly, in this or that manner, acknowledges he doth the thing, and only tells you the manner how; and if the manner doth not destroy the thing, then it remains still the same kind of Worship, and for all these distinctions it is Idolatry. And besides, to comply with any way of Worship which is not of Divine appointment and institution, is not only a transgression of the second Commandment, but ought to be accounted one kind of Idolatry; and the reason is this, because hereby we give the honour unto a Creature, which is proper only unto God: for as God alone is to be worshipped, so again he alone can appoint the way or means whereby he will be worshipped: And this is so lignally a part of his Sovereignty and Authority over his Creature, that implicitely, and by way of interpretation, we make them our God unto whom we submit in any way or kind of Worship, which is not of Divine institution. And hence the Mraelites are said to worship Devils, Levit. 17.7. They shall no more offer their their Sacrifices unto Devils, after whom they have gone a whoring. Not that the Devil was at best directly the Object of their Worship, but because he hath a great stroke in bringing into the Worsh all kind of false Worship, and men in conformity hereunto pay him that observance and homage that is proper unto God, and in that respect may be said to Worship the Devil.

Our Adversaries plead for themselves, that they worship not a falso god, nor the Image of any false god, but the facred Images of Saints and Angels, and the blessed Virgin Mary, and the like, and that adoration must and ought to be given to those, and that for their sakes whom they represent: but if religious respect or honour be given to an Image for the sake of him whom it represents, this is an unquestionable Argument against the worshipping of Images: for seeing it is certain that no Religious Worship is due unto the Saints themselves, much less may it be given to an Image for their sakes.

And here I shall take an occasion to give you an account of what the Council of Trent fays concerning Images, Seff. 25. That the Images of Christ, and of the bleffed Virgin-Mother of God, and other Saints, are to be kept and referved, especially in Churches, and due honour and veneration to be given to them, (by honour and veneration I suppose they mean more than civil) not for that any Divinity or Virtue is believed to be in them, for which they are to be worshipped, or that any thing is to be asked of them, or any confidence to be placed in them, as was antiently done by the Heathens, who put their trust in Idols, but because the honour which is exhibited to Images is referred to the Prototype or thing represented by them: So that by the Image which we kiss, and before which we kneel or put off our Hats, we adore Christ, and reverence his Saints, whom the said Images represent. Thus that Council. Now let us see whether the Jews might not have had the same or the like plea for the purging of themselves from Idolatry in their worshipping the Brazen Serpent in Hezekiah's time. When the Brazen Scrpent had not that healing Virtue unto which it was defigned by God at first, might not they have said that they gave due honour and veneration to the Brazen Serpent, not for that any Divinity or Virtue was believed to be in it, or that any thing was to be asked of it, or any confidence to be placed in it, but in memory of those great and wonderful Cures that had formerly been wrought by it, and that by the appointment and inflitution of God himself, and what they did, was rather in honour to God, than unto it; and whatever veneration was given to the Brazen Serpent, it was for God's fake, and was ultimately to be resolved upon him. Let the Papists look to it, whether they have a better plea for themselves in their pretended due honour and veneration that they give unto Images, than the Jews had for their Idolatrous practices.

If any should say, But doth not Nature teach us, that the honour or dishonour done to a Picture or Image, reslects upon the person represented by it? Is it not an honour to a Prince to kis his Picture, and a dishonour to abuse it, or deface it? And therefore is it not an honour to God to do the like, and to give due veneration and adoration unto his Image? For answer to this, take into your Consideration these sol-

1. That it is supposed by this Querest, that an Image or Picture may be made of God, which ought to be denied, and not taken for granted: Esay 40. 17. All Nations before him are as nothing, and they are counted to him less than nothing and vanity: And it follows, Vers. 18. To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him? And why should we make an Image of God that is not like him? But our Adversaries tell us, That Images or Pictures made with reference unto God, may be considered two ways: In a proper sense, as if a man should conceive God to have eyes, and ears, and hands, and other bodily parts as we have, and represent him accordingly by an Image; and this our Adversaries themselves acknowledge to be an infinite disparagement unto the Divine Nature, because God being infinite and invisible, can by no means be represented as he is in himself by any corporeal likeness or figure: Or in a metaphorical and allusive sense, as representing fuch things as bear a certain analogy or proportion to some Divine Properties, and thereupon are apt to raife our minds to the knowledge and contemplation of the Perfections themselves; as when God appeared to Daniel as the Antient of Days, this was to manifest his Wisdom and Eternity; and the Holy Ghost as a Dove, this was to lignifie his Purity and Simplicity. Now, say they, to make an Image of God in this sense, is no way dishonourable to him, because it is not made to reprefent the Divine Nature by an immediate or proper similitude, but by analogy only, or metaphorical fignification: and these Images are usually called by way of distinction Symbolical Images of God. Unto which we fay,

1. That the making of any Image of God is forbidden in Scripture: Deut. 4. 15. Take good heed unto your selves, for ye saw no manner of similitude in the day that the Lord spake to you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire; Vers. 16. Lest ye corrupt your selves, and make you a graven Image, the similitude of any sigure, the likeness of male or semale: where God did not forbid them the making of the Images of salse gods, or that any veneration or worship should be given unto them; this is plain from the Text, Ye saw no manner of similitude; the meaning is not that they saw no similitude of any salse god, but of the God that spake to them in Horeb; whereupon the Lord gives them this caution, Take ye therefore good heed to your selves, lest ye corrupt your selves, or make you a

If it be faid, That they were to take heed lest they corrupted themselves by making an Image of God, in a proper sense, as is before explained, but they were not forbidden to make a Symbolical Image of God; It is replyed, 1. I demand, Where there is any ground in that Text for such a distinction between a proper and a Symbolical Image of God? The words of the Law are comprehensive & general, Take heed lest you corrupt your selves, or make you a graven Image, the similitude of any figure: and the reason rendred by God is for you saw no manner of similitude in the day the Lord spake to you in Horeb. Mark, no manner of similitude, no not so much as Symbolical.

2. Such an Image of God is forbidden, that we are to take great heed to our selves lest we corrupt our selves in the making of it: Now there is no such great danger for a man to represent God to himself by an Image in a proper sense, as if God had eyes, and hands, and feet, as we have, at least fuch are not in danger that are any thing acquainted with the holy Scriptures, which expresly tell us, that God is a Spirit, and that he will be worshipped in spirit and in truth: 'Tis to be feared indeed, that the poor ignorant Laity amongst the Papists may be in some danger by this means: but knowing persons amongst the Protestants, even those of the Laity, are not. If it be said, it is true, the people of Israel faw no fimilitude on the day that God spake to them in Horeb, but afterwards God made himself known to them by outward figures and fimilitudes; to Daniel, as the Ancient of Days, to our Saviour in the shape of a Dove; and besides, the parts and members of man's body, are sometimes in Scripture ascribed unto God, as eyes, and hands, and feet, &c. and why may not we represent God as he hath been pleased to represent himself? To this it is replyed, That God may, as he pleaseth, make known himfelf unto his people by some visible tokens of his extraordinary presences -But then confider,

1. That which God was pleased to do sometimes for holy reasons best known unto himself, is not the Rule of our actions, the Word of God is a sufficient Rule, and the only Rule; and if we would know what sin is, and what duty is, we must take our measures from thence: That in matters of Worship we may sin, in imitating God himself otherwise than he hath commanded in his Word; We have a samous instance for this in feroboam, 1 Reg. 12.32. Jeroboam ordained a feast in the eighth month; on the sifteenth day of the month, like unto the feast that is in Judah; and yet you see he is branded for this by the Spirit of God in the Scriptures.

2. We never read that Moles and the Prophets took care that any Figure or Image should be made of God, no not a Symbolical Image; and it is very strange that they should be so much wanting to themselves, and to the Generation wherein they lived, if they were such excellent helps to Devotion, as some pretend.

3. Though God sometimes by outward Figures and Similitudes gave notice of his extraordinary presence, yet it was to persons eminent for holiness, and of great and singular wisdom in Divine things, as Abrabam, Moses, Daniel, and such like Worthies, and such as were able to give a right judgment of things of this nature: but when God spake unto the people in Horeb out of the midst of the fire, they saw no manner of similitude, less they might corrupt themselves in the making of a graven Image, and might have gross and carnal notions concerning God: And indeed I cannot but wonder at our Adversaries, when they call Images Lay-mens Books, or the Books of the unlearned: Had the use of Images been appropriated to the more knowing and learned persons, it would have been more tolerable, there might be some pretence that such persons might from sensible and material representations be raised up to divine and heavenly meditation, even of things surpassing sense: but to conceive that the vulgar and ignorant sort of people, (and the generality of people are so, and ought to be so according to the Popish Principles) I say, to think that they who are in a manner made up altogether of sense, should be taught to worship an infinite, spiritual, invisible Being, by sixing their eyes upon sinite corporeal Objects of sense, seems to me to be the sirst-born of incredibilities.

And whereas it is faid that we cannot conceive of God but by forming Ideas of him in our minds, which are so many Pictures and Representations of God: this is true; but then withal we must consider, that these Forms and Representations of God in our fancies, arise from our natural constitution, from our finite and corporeal nature, and ought to be bewailed, and therefore is no argument for worshipping God in any corporeal Form; for this may betray us so much the more to gross and undue notions and conceptions concerning God; nor are our imaginations to guide our understanding, but our understandings must rectifie

4. These outward figures and signs of God's special and extraordinary presence, continued only for a time, and for some extraordinary service for which God had designed them, and then disappeared; and it is absurd for any to think, that which was by peculiar and extraordinary dispensation, should become a constant and ordinary rule unto all Generations.

5. 'Tis true, that the parts and members of man's body are sometimes ascribed unto God in Scripture, as eyes, and hands, and set, &c. but it is ridiculous from Tropes, and Metaphors, and Figurative Expressions, to form an argument for Pictures and Images: for if so, we may represent God as the Sun, as a Fountain, as Fire, as a Rock; and Christ as an Hen with Chickens under his Wings; for these are ascribed to God and Christ in Scripture; and yet I conceive that Papists themselves would not give any countenance to Pictures of this nature. Unto which might be added, that it is not likely that we should be misled into errour by such passages as those, when the Scripture elsewhere tells us expressly that God is a Spirit: but these pretended Images of God speak not, nor give us any notice of our danger. Yea, in those very places of Scripture, at least some of them, where eyes, and hands, and feet are ascribed unto God, we may find enough to prove that God is infinite and incomprehensible: for instance, when it is said that Heaven is God's Throne, and the Earth his Footstool, where at first view it seems to be infinuated, as if God had feet, and made use of the Earth as his Footstool; yet if we seriously consider the whole as it is ascribed unto God, we shall find that it plainly enough speaks God to be an infinite Being: for when it is said, that the whole Heaven is God's Throne, and the whole Earth his Footstool, it would not only be absurd, but monfiroutly ridiculous for any to conceive, that a body like unto mans should be capable of fuch qualifications, as at the same time to make Heaven its Throne, and the Earth its Footstool. So when God is said to deliver Israel by a mighty hand, and a stretched-out arm, there is no man can understand it thus, as if God stretched forth his Arm out of Heaven upon the Earth for the deliverance of his people, but that by God's Arm is meant God's Power, and that it is called his Hand or Arm improperly, and after the manner of men: thus the holy Scriptures have well provided for the people of God against errours and mistakes concerning God. But how the pretended Images of God may acquit themselves in this particular, our Adversaries should do well to advise: And therefore let me caution you in God's Name, lest you corrupt your selves in making any graven Image of God; and I do it so much the rather, because men have a great fancy to have a God that they may fee with their eyes, or at least some visible representations of God; for they think if he should be out of fight, he would be out of mind also. And hence Papists, and Popishly affected persons are more for being at Mass, than for hearing of a Sermon; they had rather see their God, than hear another speak eloquently of him; and therefore take heed lest ye corrupt your felves in this kind. And this is the first thing that I would say to this. enquiry, Whether it be not an honour to God that due Veneration and Adoration be given to his Image or Picture, namely, that this supposes that an Image or Picture may be made of God, which we deny.

2. The second thing that I would say by way of reply to this enquiry, is this, That civil honour may be paid to the Images of Kings and Princes, but it doth not follow from hence that the Images of Christ and of the Saints may have a religious respect paid to them: the Images of Kings and Princes are civil things, and therefore may have civil honour; if the Images of Christ and the Saints were sacred, as the other are civil, there might be some colour for what they say; but that they are sacred or holy, is to be proved, and till then we leave it to our Adversaries to a Prince, redounds to the dishonour of that Prince whom it represents; but I hope no indignity is offered to a Prince by breaking apieces those Pictures that he had expressly forbidden should be graven, or painted, or made, and that under a severe penalty: indeed the abuse of those things that are of divine Institution, as of the Elements in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, or the Water in Baptism, doth redound unto God himself; but what is this to an Image of mans devising? and that not only without any warrant from God, but expresly against his will and commandments? If a man should break apieces, or throw into the fire the Coin that comes into his hands that is false or counterfeit, though it had the Princes Image or stamp upon it; yet it would be no dishonour to the Prince to deal so by it, but rather a piece of homage and reverence to his Authority.

For the further clearing of this matter in controversie between us and our Adversaries of Rome, concerning the Veneration and Adoration that they say may be given to Images, we will consider that Images may be worshipped two manner of ways.

I. Terminative, that is, when people terminate their worship on an Image, as if it were God, without looking any further than it; and this is likely to be the sin of the more brutish fort of the blind Heathens, and of many ignorant Papists to this day; and this kind of Idolatry is forbidden by the first Commandment, this is plain upon this ground; If the first Commandment expressly enjoins us to have no other gods but Jebovah, then to worship an Image as God is forbidden by this Commandment; so that by making a graven Image in the second Commandment, and falling down before it, and worshipping of it; something else must be understood than the worshipping of it terminative as God; and therefore

2. Images may be worshipped relative, and with respect to the true God; and in this sense our Adversaries of the Church of Rome would maintain their worship of Images: now this also is unlawful, and forbidden by the second Commandment. In this sense the Papists in our days are guilty of Idolatry, and the Jews of old were guilty of Idolatry; for the Jews, at least many of them, did not worship the Images themselves, but the true God by them; and this will appear by instances out of the facred Scripture.

I. The first instance that I shall give you, shall be that of the Golden Calf, of which we read Exod. 32. That the worshipping of the Calf was Idolatry, is plain I Cor. 10. 7. Neither be ye Idolaters, as were some of them, as it is written, The people sate down to eat and drink, and rose up to play; where the Apostle reters to the peoples worshipping of the Calf, Exod. 32. 6. They rose early on the morrow, and offered burnt-offerings, and brought peace-offerings; and the people sate down to eat and drink, and rose up to play; and yet the Israelites did not fall into the Heathenish Idolatry by so doing, that is, they did not worship the Calf as God, but worshipped the true God by the Calf. I know the Papists with great bitterness inveigh against the Protesants for teaching of this Doctrine; nor do I wonder at it; for what is like to become of the Popish darling principle of worshipping the true God by an Image, if the Israelites, for doing the same thing according to the judgment of God himself, were Idolaters? Now therefore that which will be proved is this, That the Israelites did not worship the Calf as God, but the true God by the Calf; and that will appear by these following Considerations.

1. Because the Calf was dedicated and consecrated to the service of the true God, as appears by what Aaron said and did in that case, Exod. 32.5. When Aaron saw it, he built an Altar before it, and Aaron made Proclamation, and said, To morrow is a Feast to the Lord, or unto Jehovah; and Aaron useth the Name Jehovah, that he might make the best of a bad matter, that the people might not terminate their Worship on the Idol, but on the true God. And our Adversaries seem to yield to the force of this Scripture, when they do acknowledge, that Aaron perhaps, and some of the wiser amongst the Israelites, might not be so sottish as to worship the Calf as God: but they should consider also, that Aaron did not speak so much his own sense, but by this means would give notice to the people how to regulate and order their devotion; and if they would be so mad as to worship the Calf, in so doing, they should have respect unto the true God, unto Jehovah, and worship him by it; and accordingly he makes Proclamation, and says, To morrow is a Feast to Tehovah.

If it be faid, the Idol was called by the Name Febovah, and therefore they worshipped that as God; we reply, That this is gratis dictum said, but not proved: for Aaron doth not say, To morrow is a Feast to the Calf Jehovah, but, To morrow is a Feast to Jehovah: and suppose it were so, that the Calf was called Febovah, this may be understood of that religious Worship and Honour which they gave unto the Calf. which is so proper and peculiar unto God, that either that is God which we thus worship, or else we make it so. Psal. 106. 19, 20. 'tis said of Israel, They made a Calf in Horeb, and worshipped the molten Image: thus they changed their glory into the similitude of an Ox that eateth Grass: The meaning is not, that the Israelites thought that God in his Nature and Being was like unto an Ox; but by giving the Calf religious honour. by worshipping the graven Image, by giving that glory which is due to God unto an Ox, they did in a fense change their glory into the similitude of an Ox that eateth Grass. Thus when Israel is charged with faying, Fer. 2. 27. to a Stock, Thou art my Father; and a Stone, Thou buft brought me forth; this is not to be understood strictly; surely they had been groffer Stocks than those that they worshipped, if it entred into their thoughts that a Stock made them, or was their Father, or a Stone brought them forth, but because they gave some religious respect to those Stocks and Stones, they did in a sense change the Glory of God into a Stock, and into a Stone; and by interpretation, say to a Stock, Thou art my Father; and to a Stone, Thou hast brought me forth.

2. It further appears, that the Israelites did not worship the Calf it self as God, but the true God by the Calf, as by what Aaron said, so by what the people said, Exod. 32. 4. These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought brought thee up out of the Land of Egypt. Now though they fay gods, because the word in the Hebrew is in the plural number; yet according to the usage of the word in other places of Scripture, we must underfland by it one God, and so the Scripture expounds it elsewhere, Neb. 9.18. This is thy God that brought thee up out of Egypt: They called the Calf God by an usual Metonymy, by giving of the Name of the thing fignified unto the fign; as the Images of the Cherubims are called Cherubims, Exod. 25. 18. and the Images of Oxen are called Oxen, 1 Reg. 7. 25. fo then the meaning of this Scripture is this, These be thy gods, O Israel; that is to say, This is the sign and token of the presence of thy God, O Israel, that brought thee up out of the Land of Egypt. indeed had the Calf been God, according to the notion of the idolatrous. Heathens, the Calf would rather have kept them in Egypt, than have brought them out of Egypt: for look, as those of the Church of Rome have their tutelar Saints, some to preside over some Countries, and some over others; some to be helpful and affishant in one case, and some in another: so the Heathens had their tutelar and topical gods; the gods. of Egypt themselves would not sir out of Egypt, much less were they like to bring Ifrael from thence: the Heathens thought that the whole World was of too large a compass for one God to take care of, and therefore their notion was, that several Countries had several gods; yea, several places it may be in one and the same Country, had several gods; Their gods (fays the Syrians of the Israelites) are gods of the bills, I Reg. 20. 23. (possibly collecting the same from the Jews usual sacrificing in high-places) and not the god of the plain, Let us fight against them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they. It is likely that one god cannot be the god of the hills, and the god of the plain; and hence it is that the people that the King of Assyria sent to the Cities of Samaria, and placed there, are said not to know the manner of the God of the Land, i. e. the God of Ifrael, as distinct from the God of Judah, 2 Reg. 17.26. These were the notions that the Heathens had of their gods; and therefore if the Ifraelites were such gross Idolaters as our Adversaries pretend they were, how could they say, These are thy gods, O Israel, that brought thee up out of the Land of Egypt?

3. It appears yet further, that the Israelites did not worship the Calf it self as God, but the true God by the Calf, from that Text of Scripture, Asi. 7. 41, 42. They made a Calf in those days, and effered facrifice unto the Idols, and rejoyced in the works of their own hands. Vers. 42. Then God turned, and gave them up to worship the Host of Heaven. It is said, that facrifice notes the highest piece of Worship and Devotion; this is said, but it is more than evident that the Israelites had a respect to the true God, even when they offered sacrifice unto the Idol: for it is said, when the Israelites offered sacrifice unto the Calf, that God gave them up to worship the Host of Heaven. Now if their Idolatry had consisted in worshipping the Calf as God, it will be found to be more gross and absurd than to worship the Host of Heaven, at least it could not have been an aggravation of their sin that they worshipped the Host of Heaven, above their worshipping of the Calf, which is St. Stephen's scope in this place: the meaning therefore of this Scripture is this, that because they corrupted the worship of the true God in worshipping of the Calf, contrary to his command, therefore God in judgment gave them up to the worshipping of those that were not gods, namely, the Host of Heaven.

But is it not said, That they forgat God their Saviour? Psal. 106.21. and doth not this imply that they had renounced the worship of the true God, and worshipped the Calf as God? I answer, No; this must not be understood as if they did not remember God at all; no, nor yet the great things which he had done in Egypt: but they are said to forget him, because they were not mindful of his Precepts, and had no regard unto his Laws; and particularly that Law, Thou shalt not make to thy self any graven Image. They also do not obey God, that do not as they ought remember God; and in this sense the Israelites are said to forget God, not because they worshipped the Calf as a salse god, but transgressed, in worshipping of the Calf, the Law of the true God.

But what need had the Israelites of the Calf, as a sign of God's prefence going before them, when they had already the Pillar of Cloud by day, and the Pillar of Fire by night, designed by God for this very end? But what trisling is this? What need had they to long after the Garlick and Onions of Egypt, when God had provided for them Manna, the food of Angels, bread from Heaven? What need had David to contrive the death of his good subject Uriah, and after this to marry Bathsheba his Wise? Yea, what need have the Papists themselves of Crucifixes, when they have the Sacraments of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, Memoirs of Divine appointment and institution of Christ's Death and Passion? Would it not be ridiculous to say they had no need to do it, therefore they did it not?

And supposing that the people should be so stupid, as some pretend they were, as to think that there was a Divine Virtue inherent in the Calf; yet this doth not prove that they worshipped the Calf as God: for if so, the Jews might conclude that the Hem of Christ's Garment, and the Handkerchief and shadow of the Aposses were gods, because a Divine Virtue seemed to go forth from them: yea, and the Brazen Serpent might be thought to have been God, because the stung Israelite was healed by looking up to the Brazen Serpent.

And whereas it is urged that the Israelites served the gods of the E-gyptians whilst they were in Egypt, Josh. 24. 14. Now therefore fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in truth, and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and in Egypt: And the Scripture speaking of Israel, tells us, Psal. 106. 19. They made a Calf in Horeb, and worshipped the molten Image. In answer to this, we say, ll 2 Tha

That it is not unusual for God to charge a people going on in ways of wickedness and disobedience, with that which is suitable enough with what they do, and the intention of the work, though far enough off from the design and intention of the Worker: Thus the Aposse tells us, That Covetousness is Idolatry, and that there are some that make their Belly their God, and yet the persons concerned far enough off either from professing or designing any thing of this nature. Thus the Israelites made a Calf in Horeb, and worshipped the molten Image, because they gave religious worship to it, though their design and intention was far different from the Idolatry of the Heathens, that worshipped Idols, or false gods. Thus I have endeavoured to clear the first instance that may be given of the Jews committing Idolatry by their worshipping of Images, though they did not worship the Images themselves, but the true God by them; and having been so large in this, there needs but a few words to be spoken to the rest.

2. A fecond instance may be that of Jeroboam, in his infamous sin in setting up Calves at Dan and Bethel, whereby he made Israel to sin: Now it was not Jeroboam's design to withdraw the people altogether from the worship of the true God, or the worshipping of those Calves as gods, but to worship the true God by them; and that for these Rea-

1. The great design of Jeroboam in this, was, that he might secure the Ten Tribes unto himself, so that they might not think of returning to unite themselves any more to the House of David, which might possibly come to pass by their going up to Jerusalem, as appears from 1 King. 12. 26. And Jeroboam said in his heart, Now shall the Kingdom return to the House of David. Vers. 27. If this people go up to do sacrifice in the House of the Lord at Jerusalem, then shall the heart of this people return again unto their Lord, even unto Kehoboam King of Judah, and they shall kill me, and go again to Rehoboam King of Judah: and hence that saying of his, Vers. 28. It is too much for you to go up to Jerusalem;

as if he should say, Ye may worship God nearer home.

2. That it was not feroboam's design to withdraw the people altogether from the worship of the true God, will surther appear, because the Idolatry of feroboam is distinguished from the Idolatry of the Heathens abroad that worshipped salse gods, yea from the Idolatry of their Idolatrous Kings at home, as that of Abab, I Reg. 16.30. And Abab the son of Omri did evil in the sight of the Lord above all that were before him: so that Abab's Idolatry was more heinous than feroboam's; and what other reason can likely be rendred for it than this, namely, Abab's setting up of salse gods? for whereas it is pretended that Abab's sin was greater than feroboam's, because Abab's sin was the worshipping of many gods, whereas feroboam's sin was worshipping the Calf: as he is a greater and more heinous sinner that commits Adultery with many, than he that committs it but with one. This is but a pretence, for it remains remains to be proved, that the Israelites did at any time, yea in the worst of times, altogether renounce the true and living God, but in their conceit, yea and in their profession acknowledge the true God still: and hence it is that you shall read, that Abab's Prophets that were the Prophets of Baal, did yet Prophesie in the Name of the Lord, I Reg.22.11. And Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah made him horns of Iron, and he said, Thus saith the Lord, With these shalt thou push the Syrians until thou have consumed them: and Vers.12. All the Prophets prophesied so, saying, Go up to Ramoth-Gilead and prosper, for the Lord will deliver it into the Kings hand. So that the difference between feroboam's and Ahab's Idolatry lay here; feroboam's Idolatry consisted in worshipping of the true God by an Image is but Ahab's Idolatry was not only in worshipping the true God by an Image as feroboam's did, but in worshipping other gods besides him, namely, Baal-gods.

3. A third instance might be that of Michah and his Mother, Judg. 17. though his Mother made a graven Image, yet that it was for the worshipping of the God of Israel, appears by the whole story: she professes, Vers. 3. that she had wholly dedicated the silver that was to make a graven Image and a molten Image unto the Lord; and Michah himself consecrates a Levite for his Priess, viz. seeming thereby to have respect to the true God in the worship he had designed; and when he had done so, he professes, Vers. 13. Now know I that the Lord will dome good, seeing I have a Levite to my Priess: yet upon this account his Mother and himself also were Idolaters.

As we may take notice of the Superstition and Idolatry, so of the fraud and treachery of the Church of Rome, in leaving the second Commandment, or at least the far greatest part of it, out of some of their. Books: for this I shall mention their Roman Catechism, authorized by the Council of Trent, and Published by the Edict of Pope Pius the Fifth. where, speaking of the first Commandment (for Papilts make first and second to be but one) they recite it thus, Thou shalt have no other gods before me. Thou shalt not make to thy self any graven Image, and supply the rest with an &c. As also a Book called Manipulas Curatorum, containing in brief the Offices of Priests, according to the order of seven-Sacraments, by Guido de Monte, written Anno Dom. 1333. where the fecond Commandment is wholly omitted. As also a Book called Opusculum Tripartitum de Præceptis Decalogi de Confessione, & Arte Moriendi, by John Gerson Chancellor of Paris. Now this is an horrible piece of fraud and treachery, and accordingly disowned and decreed by the Reformed Churches.

Now for the further clearing and more distinct understanding of this matter, it will become us to take into Consideration, that this is granted on all hands, that there are Ten Commandments of the Moral Law, called therefore the Decalogue; and that these Ten Commandments are divided into Two Tables; but how many belong unto the First Table, and how many unto the Second, that indeed is a question. The Protestants, or those that may be called Calvinists in opposition to the Lutherans, ascribe Four Commandments to the First Table, and Six to the Second: The Papists and Lutherans making the First and Second Commandment to be but one, ascribe Three Commandments to the First Table, and Seven to the Second; and to make up the number of Ten, divide that which we call the Tenth Commandment, into two, the one, Thou shalt not covet thy Neighbours House, and the other, Thou shalt not covet thy Neighbours Wise, nor his Man-servant, &c. Now this distinction of the Commandments, together with their presumptuous leaving out of the Second Commandment out of the Decalogue, is not allowed by the Churches called Reformed, for these Reasons.

1. Because by this means they facrilegiously take away a Commandment of God, relating to his Worship and Service: for as by the first Commandment we are forbidden to worship false gods, or the Images of salse gods; so by the second Commandment we are forbidden to worship the true God in a salse way, or after a salse manner; and in particular the worshipping of Images, or the worshipping of the true God by an Image. Now they of the Church of Rome being aware of this, and that they might have a covert for their Idolatrous Worship, make the first and second Commandment to be but one, and presum-

2. That supposing the second Commandment (for so we say it is) was only an Appendix to the first, and an Explication of it, yet it is an horrible presumption to leave this Explication out of their Books, and particularly out of their Catechism. The Law of God ought to be made known unto the people, perfect and entire, as it was delivered by God himself: Surely God hath not given to any, no not to the best and wisest amongst the sons of men, the power of a Deleatur, with reference to his holy and blessed Law. And if that which we say is the second Commandment, may be razed out of our Books because it is an Explication of the first, by the same reason we may blot out the whole tenth Commandment out of the Decalogue, because it is an Explication of the whole Moral Law, and especially of the second Table, according to the notice given us by Christ himself, Mat. 5.28. I say unto you, That whosever looketh on a woman to lust after her, hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

And whereas it is urged, that in the rehearfal of the Commandment, our Saviour himself doth not keep exactly to the words and syllables as you have them upon record, Exod. 20. nor to the same order as Mat. 19. 16. when one came to Christ, and said to him, Good Muster, what good thing may I do that I may have eternal life? Our Saviour answers him, Vers. 17. If thou wilt enter into life, keep the Commandments; and Vers. 18. When he saith unto him, Which? Christ answers, Thou shalt do no murder: Thou shalt not commit adultery: Thou shalt not steal: Thou shalt ther. And thus Moses reciting the Commandments, intersects something when he speaks of the fourth Commandment, Deut. 5. 12, 13, 14, 15. Keep the Sabbath-day to sanctifie it, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee, &c. Vers. 15. And remember that thou wast a servant in the Land of Egypt, and that the Lord thy God brought thee out thence through a mighty hand, and by a stretched-out arm; therefore the Lord thy God hath commanded thee to keep the Sabbath-day: All this must be acknowledged; but then there is a difference between doing this sometime, and upon occasion, and to do it frequently and designedly; and where there are but Ten Commandments, most sacrilegiously and irre-

3. No fusficient reason can be rendred, why that which we say is the tenth Commandment, should be divided into two, but rather that it is one, and no more; and that the purport and scope of this Commandment is, to forbid the coveting of any thing that is our Neighbours: and if we may take the boldness to make the coveting of our Neighbours House one Commandment, and the coveting of our Neighbours Wife another, we may by the same reason make another of coveting our Neighbours Servant, and another of coveting his Ox, or his Afs, and so make twelve or thirteen Commandments, or rather as many Commandments as the things are that we covet. In a word, the Papists wilful declining the printing and publishing the second Commandment for the peoples use, doth give any impartial Observer sufficient cause to suspect that they themselves take it to be against their cause; and supposing that it should be granted, that three Commandments belong to the first Table, and seven to the second, yet it looks like a piece of fraud and unfaithfulness to suppress any thing of the Law, concerning which our Saviour tells us, that not one Ista or tittle of it. shall fall to the ground.

Is this, Learn from hence that there is a fweet harmony, and suitableness, and correspondency between Divine Truths delivered unto us in the Old Testament, and in the New. Moses in Deuteronomy teacheth us, to fear the Lord our God, and serve him: our Saviour in St. Matthew teaches us, that we must worship the Lord our God, and him only must we serve. Take the Word of God, whether you consider the Old Testament or the New, the incomparable fitness and proportion of the Truths and Doctrines contained in them one unto another, is one great Character of the Divinity of the Scriptures; and therefore those Do-Ctrines that are urged as matters of Faith, and yet have no fuitableness and correspondency with those Principles which are owned and acknowledged to be Divine Truths, but justle with them, and may be considered apart, and in a separate way from them, are to be suspected for delufions and miftakes. I shall take my liberty here (though not defigued for the management of that subject) to instance in the Doctrine of Transub-

Transubstantiation: We tell our Adversaries, that if we deny our senses in those things wherein it is proper for them to give a judgment, (as we must in case we believe that the Sacramental Elements, after Consecration, are transubstantiated into the very Body and Blood of Christ) then all Religion will fall to the ground, we cannot certainly know either what we read, or what we hear; nor could they that lived in our Saviour's time, certainly know that there was fuch a person living upon the earth, and all the Miracles that he wrought, for ought they knew, might be Delulions, and a meer deception of their senses: so that if sense was not to be believed, Christianity it self must have fallen to the ground. This cannot be denied: but then they fay that this one instance of Transubstantiation ought to be excepted from the general Rule, and ought to have its place apart, and in this particular case our senses ought to be over-ruled. Now this, amongst other things, makes the Doctrine of Transubstantiation to be suspected, because it hath not a suitableness to other matters, whereby the Verity of Christian Religion was proved and made good unto the World. Look as it is in other cases, consider the work of God, there appears a marvellous correspondence between them; the World hath its parts fo united one to another, that neither the Heaven, nor the Earth, nor any of the Elements can be taken away without the ruine of the whole: And thus it is with the Principles of Christian Religion, and especially the great Truths of Christianity; take away one, and you in a manner take away all the rest. For instance, The Doctrine of the Trinity hath many Principles of Christianity that fall in with it, the Incarnation of the Son of God falls in with it, the Death and Passion of the Son of God falls in with it, the Satisfaction of the Son of God made unto Divine Justice falls in with it: But you may take away the Doctrine of Transubstantiation, and all the Principles of Christian Religion will remain unshaken, yea untoucht, the Doctrine of the Sacraments not excepted: the Sacrament of Baptism will not suffer in the least by it, no nor the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper its self; for if Baptism be a Sacrament without Transubstantiation. why may not the Lord's Supper also? But this I take notice of only in transitu, and by the way, and so pass on.

Let this caution us against Supersition, and all False-Worship: It is the great Interest and Concern of the Church of Christ, to keep the Worship of God pure and uncorrupt. 'Tis to be acknowledged that Satan is a great enemy to the Truths of God, as well as to the Worship of God; yet his design is rather that the Worship of God be corrupted, than the Truths of God be perverted: for he knows that it is possible for Religion to be depraved in some points, and yet many may keep themselves from desilement, and may not be tainted with the errours of the place where they live, or the Church unto which they do belong, provided the Worship of God be kept pure and uncorrupt: but if once the Worship of God be publickly corrupted by Supersition and Idolatry, it is next to an impossibility if the infection do not spread over the face of the whole Church, and by consequence there can be no Communion with that Church without sin; and hence the great business of Popery is coming to Mass. It may be some Papists, at least such as are moderate, may allow you to adhere to some Protestant Principles, if you will come to the Mass; but that is indispensable.

As this should caution us against False-Worship in the general, so against worshipping of God by an Image in particular. God is very jealous lest his Worship should be given unto Images, and hence none of the Commandments are grounded upon his jealousie but the second, which is against Images, and we are very prone to Superstition and Will-worship in this kind. God expresseth himself most largely in the second and fourth Commandments, because men are more than ordinary inclinable to be transgressors of these two: A man is easily counselled that he must not kill, that he must not steal; but that God is to be worshipped only in that way which he hath prescribed in his Word, and that the Lord's Day, the Christian Sabbath, is to be kept holy, this may be enforced upon us, and we had need of line upon line to further us in these Duties; as where the Tyde is wont to run, and bear up with greater force and violence than is usual in other places, the banks that are made for the preventing of the breaking in of the water, had need to be made so much the higher and the stronger: And whereas it is said that Idols may not be worshipped, but Images may; it is high presumption to distinguish where God hath not: the second Commandment tells us, that we are not to make to our selves any graven Image, or the likeness of any thing; and it expresly forbids us, to fall down before it, and worship it: and furely it must needs be of dangerous consequence in things that concern God's Worship and Service, to endeavour to elude the force and power of any Law of God by a distinction of our own devising.

Is to counsel you to keep your selves from Idols; thus St. John, I Joh. 5.21. Little Children, keep your selves from Idols. Idols, what are they? Some will tell you, that there is this difference between an Image and an Idol: An Image, fay they, is a representation of something that hath a real being and existence; an Idol, of something that is feigned, and hath no being but in the minds and fancies of men; and that is the meaning, fay they, of that place of Scripture, I Cor. 8.4. We know that an Idol is nothing in the World; but this is a strange mistake: It is true, the Apostle says, an Idol is nothing; but how? not in respect of the matter of it, for so it is something, Gold, or Silver, or Stone; no, nor in regard of the thing represented by it; for an Idol doth not always represent things feigned, and such as have no existence but in the imaginations of men, as Sphynxes, Tritons, Centaurs, and the like, but many times things that are real, things that are in Heaven, and things that are on Earth,, as they are mentioned in the second Commandment. Nor is it to be imagined that amongst those multitudes of Use 5.

Images

Images which were worshipped by the Heathens, but that some of them at least might represent such things as had a real being and existence; and yet all fuch as were worshipped by them, are expresly by the Apostle called Idols, I Cor. 12.2. Te know that ye were Gentiles, carried away unto these dumb Idols, even as ye were led: but the meaning of the Apossele is this, an Idol is nothing in point of virtue and esticacy, nothing at all conducing unto Salvation; and in particular, that it hath no power at all either to sanctifie or to pollute those meats which were offered unto them, of which the Apostle speaks in that Chapter. An Idol is faid to be nothing in the same sense as Circumcision is said to be nothing and Uncircumcilion nothing, I Cor. 7.19. that is, in point of virtue and efficacy; and so the Apostle explains himself elsewhere, Gal. 5. 6. For in Christ Jesus neither Circumcision availeth any thing, nor Uncircumcision, but Faith that morketh by love: the ro formale of an Idol consists in this, that it is religiously worshipped, insomuch that which was no Idol before, immediately upon its being worshipped becomes an Idol: Thus the Brazen Serpent, that was no Idol before, upon its being worshipped became an Idol: Thus it was with the Sun, and Moon, and Stars, when the people worshipped them, and burnt incense to them, they became Idols.

Now the counsel that I give you, or rather St. John, is this, Keep your selves from Idols: They that would not be Idolaters, must keep themselves from Idols, from all things that may be enticements to that fin: in the Commandments where a fin is forbidden, all enticements and provocations to that fin are also forbidden. When God says, Thou shalt not commit adultery, the meaning of this Commandment, according to the Exposition that our Saviour himself makes of it, is, that we must not look upon a woman to lust after her. And Solomon speaking of an Harlot, gives this counsel, Prov. 5.8. Remove thy way far from her. and come not nigh the door of her house: And holy Job, made a covenant with his eyes, not to think upon a Maid, Job 31. 1. When God would forbid the fin of injustice, see how he expresses it, Deut. 25. 13. Thou shalt not have in thy bag divers weights, a great and a small. It was a fin for a man to have a great and a small weight in his bag; and why so? Suppose a great and a small weight were found in a mans bag, he might fay, How doth it appear that I have fold Wares by one weight, and taken up Wares by another? But God would not have them lay such a fnare before themselves, and therefore forbids them to have in their bags divers weights, a great and a small: So it is in this case, when we have a caution given us against Idols, Little Children, keep your selves from Idols. The Holy Ghost seems to meet with a secret Objection that might be made by some: We hate Idolatry, but yet to have Images to put us in mind of God, and to quicken our Devotion, provided we give them not religious Worship as others do, we hope there is no harm in this. Yes, there is: you must not only keep your selves from Idolatry, but you must keep your selves from Idols. Those of the Church of Rome charge Protestants as if they had a mind to abolish and root out of the minds of men, the memory of the blessed Apostles, Confessors, and Martyrs, by inveighing against facred Images, and holy Reliques: but this is just as if a man should take upon him the boldness to say, That because God buried the Body of Moses, in a Valley in the Land of Moses, and no man knoweth of his Sepulchre to this day, Deut. 34. 6. that God's design in all this was to blot out the Meinorials of Moses from the face of the whole Earth.

Let us pray unto God, that he would familh all the gods of the Earth; famishing of Idols is a Scripture-phrase, Zeph. 2. 11. The Lord will be terrible unto them, for he will famish all the gods of the earth, and men thall worthip him. The Pfalmist speaking of God's Providence over his Creatures, tells us, Pfal. 145. 15. The eyes of all wait upon thee, and thou givest them their meat in due season: but an Idol is none of God's Creatures, an Idol hath eyes and fees not, ears and hears not, mouth and and tastes not. But you will say, How then can God famish them? Thus: If we would know what it is to famish the gods of the Earth. then we must consider what their meat is; their meat is that Worship. and Service, and Honour, which is given them by the fons of men; Now when God is made the fole Object of Religious Worship, when men turn from dumb Idols to serve the living God, and him only, then God familhes the gods of the Earth, takes away their meat from them. and then men shall worship him, and let all good people say, Amen. So be it.

Protestants separated for Christ's Names sake.

Luke 6. 22. Bleffed are ye when men shall hate you, and when they shall separate you, and shall reproach you, and cast out your Name as evil for the son of man's sake.

Ne of the main designs of the Doctrine of the Gospel, is to unite men one to another, and to tie them together with the strongest bonds and ligaments imaginable. To this purpose it does not only forbid the doing of any wrong unto others, but it prescribes Rules for the curbing of our passions when provoked by them. Nay, it peremptorily enjoins, under the severest penalties, that we should forgive the offences done against us, and love the persons of them that do them. And that we might think it our greatest concern thus to do, it combines and gathers all, who have any hope toward God, into one Body, which is called the Church, who are jointly to profess one Faith, and to perform one Worship, and to serve one Lord: the Ligaments whereby this Body is united and tied together, being the Sacraments, for this end also appointed by Christ.

Who being the Lord of all, is yet pleased more especially to relate to this Body, as its Head, for Direction and Government, and to influence-it by his Spirit for life and motion. Now it being full as monstrous for one Head to have two Bodies, as for one Body to have two Heads. So far forth as any have hoped for Salvation by Christ, they have also pretended to belong to that One Body, of which he is the Head and Sa-

In these pretensions the Church of Rome comes not behind any, but with as much passion, and as little reason as they of old, whom the Prophet speaks of, they cry out too, The Temple of the Lord, the Temple of the Lord, the Temple of the Lord are these. Nay, so unreasonable are they in arrogating to themselves the priviledge of this Body, that they challenge (as the Donatists before them) to be the whole, and not a part of it; consounding, for to save this their purpose, things so discrepant as the Catholick, and Romish Church, (that is, the universal and a particular cular Church) and at last the Church and the Pope too are with them but one and the same, all others being but Cyphers, and meer Infignific cants to him.

And this I account none of the least reasons to suspect that they have no part nor share in what they so much pretend unto: for 'tis too too apparent that they have not that mind and spirit that was in Christ. (Now itis not continuity but animation that makes the several parts to become one Body.) And as the same soul that acts in the head, acts in every individual member belonging to it: so the same Spirit which was in Christ, is also in all, that as living members belong unto him. But, alas, where is that meekness and gentleness, that love and charity which our bleffed Saviour so much expressed himself, so earnestly recommended unto his Disciples; nay, which he made the Test of their really being bis? Though the Church of Rome yet retains the calling of Christ Joh. 13.35 Lord, Lord, it is evident in this they do not his will. They still cry, Hosanna to him, and yet really Crucifie him, at least in his Members. They are not the followers of the humble JESUS, but of the proud Pharisees, from whom our Saviour foretels that his Disciples thould fuffer; but fuch fufferings as were as little to be declined, as they were hardly to be avoided, being the high-way, though a rough one, to blifsand happiness: Bleffed are ye when men shall bate you.

In which words are remarkable,

1. Suffering foretold; in which the Sufferers also are described, which is the subject in the Verse, viz. such as men shall bate, and separate, and reproach, &c.

2. Their state or condition declared, or encouragement proposed unto:

such, (which makes the Pradicate) Bleffed are ye, &c.

In the former there are three things confiderable.

1. What it is that Christ's Disciples and followers shall suffer; they shall be hated, separated, reproached, and have their Names cast

2. For what cause they shall suffer thus; for the Son of Man's sake.

3. From whom it is that they suffer, from men, when men shall hate. you, &c.

I shall begin with the latter, as being first in the words of the Text, From whom and intend to pass it over with some little reflection at present upon ples suffer. it. Men here are not confidered as in honour, by reason of the Image of Homines, i. e. God, and their conformity unto God; for so they continued not: but impli inimici men is terminus diminuens, a term synonymous with World, which our doctrina anea, Saviour speaks of elsewhere; denoting such as are put in contra-distin- Johnson 8, 19. ction unto them that are chosen out of the World. It resects their Joh. 17.14. fall and degeneracy upon them. Nay, they whom Christ's Disciples

fusfer most by, are commonly such as make profession of searing and serving God too; unto whom light indeed is come, but they love darkness, and so they become bruised with a double fall: thus by their choice and practice, being super-added to that of their nature; and what so ever they pretend to the contrary, (as St. Jude speaks of them) they are twice dead. There is no enmity like that of Brothers: our Saviour himself suffered from none so much as from his Friend and Disciple Judus, and his followers since have endured most in all Ages from such as profess (as well as they do) to be retainers unto him.

But I shall pass this at present without any other Observation, as also the second part, or the state and condition of the sufferers spoken of in my Text; only you may here of them, though briefly, in the Appli-

What it is which the Difciples of Christ Juffer. The two former branches (in my propounded method) of this first part being such as I intend to graft my ensuing Discourse upon, give me leave, though e postliminio, to come to a nearer search into them; and at the first view, in the former of them, four remarkable particulars foretold, which the Disciples of Christ were to suffer: viz.

Hatred.

- I. Hatred.
- 2. Separation of them, as not worthy of Humane Society, but most unworthy to partake of Church-Communion.
- 3. Reproach, upon whom they might vomit up all their Gall without the charge and fin of bitterness.
- 4. The casting out of their Names, as such they would scorn to be reckoned amongst in their service of God.

1. Hatred. This is the root, the bitter root of the following bitter fruits: there would be no separating, no reproaching them, no cassing out of their names, were it not for the hatred they bear unto them. Now Hatred is a displicency at, and aversion from things or persons as evil; and nothing doth make men seem more hating and hateful to one another, as when they act by a contrary principle: for so far at least as they have such a principle in them, they judge not, they affect not any thing alike, but what one calls good, the other calls evil; and what this counts evil, the former esseems as good.

And this must needs be acknowledged to be true in the case of the Text. Christ's Disciples and the Pharisees, his Church and their Perfecutors, are acted by a contrary principle; in the one is the seed of the Woman, in the other the seed of the Serpent; and where these meet, though in the same (Rebecca's) Womb, they will strive and struggle against one another.

Our Saviour assigns this as the true reason why the World hated him, and should hate his Disciples after him, Joh. 17. 14. because neither he, nor they were of the World.

Gen.3.15.

Now

Now this Hatred, though its feat be inward, and it be many times hidden; yet its effects are outward and obvious, none of all the passions being more active than love and hatred are; and therefore our Saviour no sooner had spoken of the Pharisees hating of his Disciples, but he presently adds, they will separate you, and reproach you.

Because I intend not so much to insist upon them, I shall speak but a 2. Reproaches word of the Repreaches which Christ's followers must bear from the men in my Text. Hatred being in their beart, 'tis no wonder that reviling is in their lips; for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh; and something they must say to justifie the persecutions and mischiefs they heap upon others: for there are none (who have not put off all humanity) but would willingly have Reason and Equity on their fide.

Thus they taxed our Saviour himself that he was a Wine-bibber, a Luke 7 34. Friend of Publicans and Sinners; nay, they would not Crucifie him till they had charged him with blasphemy. Thus they calumniated the Mark 14.63. Apostles for being filled with new Wine, for turning the World upside Acts 2. 13.

down, and for destroying the Law, &c.

Neither was it better in the immediately succeeding Ages: What did not the Pagan-World reproach and upbraid the Primitive Christians with? What secret and abominable wickedness did they not charge upon their private meeting together to serve God? No Epidemical Difeafe, or Publick Calamity befel the Empire, or any Nation in it, but it was attributed prefently to some (forged) wickedness of the Christians. And it had been well if they had suffered from Pagans only: but, alas, they suffered no less from Brethren, (if I may call them Brethren) fo that a Heathen could observe, That no Beasts were so cruel one to ano- Hunnianus ther as Christians were...

But in this last Age of the World we have the dregs of all, and the Papifts act over again upon the Protestants all the Outrages which were ever heaped upon any in the forementioned instances: their calumnies against their Doctrine, their revilings of their Worship, their reproaches of their Persons, not only living, but even dead too, I could fill Volumes withal: What shall be given unto thee, or what shall be done unto thee, O thou false tongue? Psil. 120.3.

But because they proceed further, so must I: They do not only shoot out their sharp arrows, but discharge their murdering-pieces at us; nay, their malice is not confined to, or satisfied with the ruine of the body, but as if it were too mean a facrifice to their fury, they do what in them. lies, (and according to their own principle they effect it) to desiroy the Soul too; for they shall separate you, and cast out your Names.

Which brings me to speak to the other fruits the Text mentions of 3. Separations the batred born to Christ's Disciples and followers, and which this Discourse mainly intends; They shall separate you from their company. These latter words are added by the Translators to compleat (as they thought) thought) the sense; but it being as clear without them, I shall no farther take notice of them.

Some make the Separation here spoken of, to be meant only of a Po-Lucas Brug. in litical or Civil Separation, and their Gloss is, In carcerem aut exilium truserint, they shall banish you, or cast you into prison; as if the imprifoning or banishing of them, or at least declining to trade or converse with them, were all that was intended here.

This must be acknowledged an evil and a mischlef, which they that obey the Commandments of God, and hold the Faith of Jesus, have met with, and which was foreseen by St. John, Rev. 13. 16. that, they who would not receive the mark or name of the Beast, should not buy nor sell, Beza in locum Joh. 16.2.

But the word here used acoeioword, they shall separate, hath a further import, and implies a Separation from their Synagogues, and Publick Worthip, and is the fame with Smoowagayes mountowork, they shall cast you out of their Synagogues, mentioned by St. John: which I the rather incline to think to be the meaning of this place, because also in the antient Canons the same word derection is so often repeated to this purpose, i.e. when they would by their Censure suspend any from Church-Communion; and then they who were thus censured, were afterwards called abstenti, denoting their being held off from Church-Fellowship, and the Censure its self came at length to be called, The leffer Excommunication.

4. Casting out

But our Evangelist seems to explain this best by what he adds, They of their Names, shall cast out your Names; as 'tis said of the blind man who so constantly profest Christ, that they east him out, Joh. 9. 34. And 'tis to be observed, that instance, or they shall cast out, here in the Prediction, is it is all all out there, or they did cast him out in the fulfilling of it, the same word being made use of by either Evangelist.

As for casting out their Names, it refers to a known custom amongst the Jews, of keeping an exact account of all the Names of those who descended from them; not only their Tribes and Families, but every individual person was enrolled, as by evident places in Scripture could be readily made to appear. Now to have their Names cast out, or cut off from this Catalogue, was to be accounted no longer for Jews, or amongst the then People or Church of God, but to be reputed thenceforth as uncircumcifed, or as one of the Gentiles, that is, out off the Pale of the Church, and out of the Bond of the Covenant with God. We might illustrate this from a custom which they had amongst the Romans too; when any were for their misdemeanours to be Disfranchized, the Cenfor expunged, blotted out, or cut off their Names out of the City-Rolls, and they might not after that enjoy their City-Priviledges, neither were they thenceforth to be accounted as Citizens.

The furn that this amounts unto, is, That they who would embrace, and hold fast the Faith delivered by our Saviour, should be so far from meeting with that love and respect which they ought to be entertained withal, that they should on the contrary be Separated and Ex-

communicated, put out and accurfed, and that by them who shall take upon them to be the Governours of the Church.

That this was fulfilled in the first breaking forth of the Gospel, and in the very dawning of that day, we have evident testimony in Scripture to prove it by; but having in part formerly mentioned it, I shall now only refer you to it.

This was certainly a very great Engine, by which men were not only kept off from attending unto the means of their Conversion, and caused to thut their eyes against the light that did shine so powerfully round about them: but in case it had, broken in at any time unawares upon them, it was a most cogent Argument to keep them from owning and cherithing of it: for as St. John observes, though many believed on him, John 12.42. yet because of the Pharisees, (who swayed most in their Sanhedrim) they did not confess him, lest they should be put out of their Church; and for this very reason, if Nicodemus will come to Jesus, it shall be only by night.

Now it is a known Rule, that Scriptura Prophetica Sepius impletur, one and the same Prophecy may respect divers Ages, and be fulfilled in divers times; the same Prediction being frequently mentioned in Scripture with an "ra mangas", that it might be fulfilled upon divers occasions;

but I must not now divert to instances.

"Tis evident that this Prediction intimated here in my Text, is no more to be restrained to the Apostles themselves, or the Church at that time, or immediately after, than any other foretelling of fuffering perfecution in this World is to be, or than any promise of assistance and deliverance what soever.

It hath been realized indeed with a witness in our, and in our forefathers days. The Church of Rome, who pretend to be the only Church. of God, and Spouse of Christ, hath separated us from them, and hath cast out our Names; so that this day these words are fulfilled, They shall separate you, they shall cast out your Names.

But by reason that as it is not the punishment, but the cause which The cause of the makes a Martyr; so it is not the suffering barely of these things which suffering of speaks any to be the true Disciples of Christ. Let us therefore enquire ples. into the causes assigned by our Saviour in my Text for which his Disciples shall be thus dealt with. And here we meet,

First, with a pretended cause, They shall cast out your Names as evil, 1. The pretenderthey shall fasten (as much as in them lay) all manner of calumnies upon ed cause. you; and report of you, not as indeed you are, but as they who hate you would have you thought to be: they will pretend that their separating of you, and not conversing, especially in the Worship of God with you, is not what they would willingly have done, but what they were necessitated unto by you, who (as they alledge) have broached new Do-Etrines, and withal receded from ancient Customs, &c.

That this is true in either instance, is too apparent; the Pharisees Nnn charged...

charged the Aposiles, and the Church of Rome do charge the Prote-stants, with whatsoever they think likely to make them odious.

Some of them doubtless do this out of a kind of integrity of their hearts, separating, excommunicating, nay killing of them, as a deserved punishment for the evil they conceive in them, or to have been committed by them: this proceeds out of that blindness and ignorance which is so common unto all in the things of God; but especially as it is further contracted or encreased by them, or inflicted by God upon them for their not embracing truth in the level of it.

Rom. 1. 18,24 them, for their not embracing truth in the love of it, or holding it in unrighteousness: These may be thought indeed to have believed lyes, and that they were perswaded that they did God good service in thus despitefully using those that did worship him in spirit and in truth, as is intimated in a parallel place, Joh. 16.2.

But as to others, the supposed evil in the matter that Christ's followers are charged with, is but a pretended cause of their being so evilly dealt withal; not only as we shall see hereafter, in that they did not deferve it, but because also that they who so severely inflict these Censures. are (at least many of them) not so zealous against any opinion, or practice what seever as 'tis evil, that is, as it is against the manifest truth, or revealed will of God, or as it is dishonourable to God, or destructive to the fouls of men: for if they did fet themselves against any thing as evil indeed, they would fet themselves to oppose all evil; and in that proportion too in which it is evil, a quaterns ad omne, &c. He does not truly hate one fin, who does not hate all fins: as he hath no aversion from one Toad or Viper, as a Toad or Viper, who can take another up into his hands or bosom. Hatred is (as the Philosopher says) meis no visto, against all of a kind, or against none of that kind. So that I cannot think that the Pharifees who were so notoriously guilty of Rapine and Extortion, and could swallow Widows houses, should strain at the imagined fallity of the Apostles Doctrine, or the surmised corruption in the Gospel-Worship; there being especially such fair footsteps for either in those very Writings which they acknowledged the Rule of both. Neither can I believe that the Church of Rome, who can license, without any regret or scruple, Stews and Whore-houses, and can dispense with Rebellion and Incest, and what not? that these should be the men who are truly zealous for the Truths and Worship of God, as such, or that they should set themselves so much against the Doctrine which the Protestants profess, or against the way of worshipping of God which they use, because they are false or impious, for then they would be against all impiety, especially amongst themselves. But the true cause of the aversion of the generality of them from our opinions and practices, is, because they agree not with their Interests and Lusts, and are not consistent with their Profit and Grandeur: or, if you will, our Saviour here assigns the real cause, viz. It is for the Son of man's sake.

This is that which is at the bottom of all, 'tis for Christ's sake, for 2. The real cause their respect unto him and his Institutions, his Truths and Ordinances, for which they that his Disciples suffer. Would they not so much consider what he hath enjoined and commanded, but follow their pretended Guides with blind obedience, they should be as when the strong man armed kept the house, all in peace.

In a matter fo obvious I will not enlarge to discourse concerning this description of our blessed Saviour here used, Son of man; 'tis known to be one of the Names or Titles which he was pleased to denote or describe himself by; who, though he was God bleffed for ever, vouchsafed to take upon him our nature, and to become man for us: thus condefeending to us both in the name and thing, that we might know that it was he in whom that Prophecy was fulfilled, Unto us a Child is born, Esay 9.65. unto us a Son is given, &c. And by this means he did in the highest manner recommend himself, and Truths, his Will and Worship unto us. It is for his sake, i. e. for their love and faithfulness, their respect and obedience unto him, that they who believe truly in him in all Ages do suffer. Would but the Apostles have forborn to preach in his Name; would they have observed the antient, but antiquated Rites of the Jewish Church, they might long enough have kept in amongst them, and should not have been persecuted by them: So would the Protestants not regard the mind and will of God, nor the Doctrine and Institutions of Christ, but let the Church of Rome add or take away at its pleasure, they should not have been, nor now need they be, cast out by them.

This is that which I shall more strictly confine my self unto, though all along I have intended to lay a Foundation with such Materials as might suit the intended Structure.

The Church of Rome charge the Protestants with Schism, as rending and dividing themselves from the true Church, which, as they tell us, they themselves only are.

I shall pass by all the other reproaches they lade us with, though very heinous and innumerable; it being a common matter with them (as with the Pagan Persecutors of old) to put the sincere Professors of the Truths of God into Beasts Skins, allowing them to have scarce a humane shape, that any who would might the more eagerly bait and worry them to death.

But as for their imputation of Schifm unto us, we may well aver, that of all men they have least reason to charge us with it upon divers accounts, but especially because they themselves have put us from them: they have separated us, and cast out our Names, and to this day these words in my. Text are verified concerning us. And is it not hard to be accused for going from them, who put us away, and cast us from them by force? But they serve us as they did the Waldenses, whom they plundered, robb'd, and stripped of all they had, and then by way of derision and contempt called them Pauperes Lugdunenses, The poor men of Lyons, about about which City those famous Professors of the Truth were formerly most numerous.

I suppose that the matter of sact cannot be doubted of, and that none will question whether the Protestants have been, or are thus dealt withal by the Church of Rome; for I might bring a whole Cloud of Witnesses to prove it. All the Martyrs who have suffered any ways under them, are, in their ordinary course of proceedings, cast out, and Excommunicated by that Church, before they are delivered over to the Civil Magistrate to be condemned and executed; and such as they cannot get into their hands, or where by the savour of Laws, or tenderness of Princes, the Inquisition cannot obtain, the Council of Trent anathematize and curses howsover. And the Bull de Cana Domini goes farther, for in that the Pope not only Excommunicates all who in the way which they call Heresie, worship the God of their Fathers, but he accurses all them too, who do any ways favour them, though it be but by giving civil respect, or a necessary alms unto them; so extensive is their Charity. Little reason have we then to expect that which they so much boast of, Good Works

To pass by their exquisite torments, and more than barbarous cruelties exercised upon the bodies of Christians, (whilst they willingly suffer Jews in many places to dwell quietly amongst them) so directly contrary to the so much gloried in Primitive Church, who could not endure those Bishops who perswaded the Emperour to put Hereticks to death: and to be sure vastly differing from the mind and spirit of the meek JESUS, who would not at the instance of his Disciples destroy the truly both Heretical and Schismatical Samaritans by fire, though otherwise too as if they were but the cutting off gangrenated and dead Members for the better preserving of the rest of the body. And as if they did this too in obedience to that Apostolical Precept of delivering such unto Satan, and so putting away evil from amongst them. But what is this to their interdicting of whole Kingdoms, in which there cannot be supposed fewer thousands (and they full out as innocent as any in Nineveh) not knowing their right hand from their left. By which Interdicts (according to their own Authors) all Divine Offices and Service of what kind foever was forbidden throughout the whole interdicted Territory. None might preach or pray, or administer the Sacraments amongst them, whilst the Interdict lasted; the whole Region being by it put out (as they termed it) of the Communion of the Church, and all that died therein. during that space, how long soever, believed by them damn'd for ever. This (not to mention its effects in other places) lasted in England, as Matthew Paris records, in King John's time, fix years and an half, in which space it is thought there died in this Land above six hundred thou-fand men, women and children: And must all these necessarily eternally

perith, because that the King and Pope were at variance with one another? with which matter the poor Commons had little to do, neither could they intermeddle without rebelling against their Sovereign.

And what does the casting out of the incestuous person, or the holding of an obstinate sinner as an Heathen or Publican, make for the secluding so many millions of Protestants from their Church, and putting of them by that means (at least as they surmise) into a state of inevitable perdition?

Especially when as the Protestants with one consent do believe all things which are written in the Law and in the Prophets, which St. Paul Ads 24.14. thought a sufficient Apology for himself, when he could not receive the Traditions of the Elders: they believe no less, all that the Apostles and Evangelists have declared; they willingly embrace the three antient Creeds, accounted by the Primitive Church sufficient Tests of approved Christianity: they desire to live in all good Conscience towards God and men; and to give to every one their due in the place into which God hath put them.

Neither can we reasonably be charged with obstinacy, being very defirous to be informed better in any thing in which through mistake as men we might have erred. We pray to God daily that he would enlighten us, and give us to see the marvellous things in his Word. We delire to be thankful unto men, who God is pleased at any time to make instrumental for our further information in any of his Truths, or, our Duties. Now 'tis Obstinacy only which is the dead flesh of Heresie or Schism, and makes that Gangrene incurable, and the part affected with it to be fawn off, and contentedly parted withal.

But yet for all this we are not Scepticks neither; we know whom and what we believe; and we refolve, by the Grace of God, to continue in it: and if they call our Constancy, Obstinacy, may they call it so still, rather than that we should depart from it. We should be loath to pin our Faith upon any mans fleeve, be he Pope, or who he will. If St. Paul himself, or an Angel from Heaven preach any other Gospel unto us, than Gal. 1.8. that which we have received, he is, and must be accurfed; a sufficient caveat, one would think, against swallowing at all adventures whatsoever may be recommended to us upon the bare Topick of Authority, and not enquiring into the merit of the cause, the nature of the thing propounded, whether right or wrong, true or false. Henceforth an Ipse Dixit, such an one said so, or such a Pope defin'd it thus, will be but a pitiful excuse at the Day of Judgment for any false way. I must forbear touching more upon this string at present, being willing to join Iffue about our being parted from the Church of Rome, from the cause affigued in my Text, viz. The Son of Man's Take.

Which words I shall consider with a more particular relation to the feveral matters in Controversie betwixt us and them; and it may be reasonably hoped, that if we have Christ's Cause and Honour on our side in those very things for which they separate us, and cast out our Names. we may be reckoned still amongst his Disciples; and the Church of Rome as well as the Femish Church, may justly be reputed amongst the Persecutors here foretold of.

And this we may deduce from the following Scheme.

1. It is for the Truths of Christ; the Doctrine own'd, preach'd, and recommended by him, that they thus deal with us.

2. It is for the Purity of his Worship, because we would serve God according to his own Will, and not according to their Will-worship, that they thus abhor us.

3. It is for his Authorities sake, because we dare not take the Government from off his Shoulders; nor pay that respect to any frail man, which is only due unto him who is God bleffed for evermore: or if you will, it is because we dare not worship the Beast, that they serve us

To fum up all in one; it is for the Vindication of Christ in all his Offices, that we endure these Indignities at their hands.

The difference between us and the Church of Rome is most important in Matters of Faith; it is indeed such, and so great, that we willingly acknowledge, as they separate us for not being of their mind, so we are most willing not only to be parted, but to part from them, for their not being of Ged's mind: for what fellowship can light have with darkness? or what Communion hath Christ with Belial? 2 Cor. 6. 14, 15.

'Tis true on our part, that we would not for every mis-persmassion in the things of Religion, part with any ones Communion: as every man hath a foul of his own, so he cannot but through common frailty, different measures and means of knowledge, have conceits and opinions different from others about almost any subject. And though every truthis worth the embracing, yet betwixt Truths themselves there is as great a difference as there is between Farthings and Guineys; which, though they be both Coins, yet are of a very disproportioned value.

There are by the confession of all some Fundamental Truths, and by consequence there must be some Fundamental Errours. It is a Metaphorical Epithite, taken from Buildings, for as Buildings cannot stand if the Foundation be removed or taken away; so the Church, which is called the House of God, cannot stand neither if it be removed from those faving Truths, upon which, as upon a Rock, Christ hath founded it. And therefore the Apostle, who so earnestly blames the judging and condemning one another in leffer matters, yet would have us to reject fuch an Heretick, (after the first and second admonition) who holds any thing contrary unto these.

Now we cannot be juftly charged by the Church of Rome with any po-Strive Errour that can so much as strike at the Foundation: nay, she believes what we believe concerning God; one in Essence, three in Persons: She acknowledges with us the Person, Natures, Suffering, Resurrection and Ascension of Christ, and all the other Articles of the Creed. She charges us only with Negatives, because we cannot admit all such Do-Ctrines as the injuriously obtrudes upon us as matter of Faith: this is indeed the Apple of Contention betwixt us; and because we dare not Bishop Hall's allow and approve of every Dictate of the Pope, or Definition of the now Peace-maker. Roman Church as an Oracle of God, we stand accursed by them.

To point at some few instances in stead of many,

Do we believe that the Scriptures are a Rule for Life and Manners? I. concerning fo do they: but what they give with the one hand, they take away with the Scripture. the other, in that they make Traditions, and the Determinations of their Church, necessary to be received with the same reverence that Scripture is to be received withal: fo that Scripture, which in word they dare not deny to be the Rule, in deed they make it nothing less, defaming it what they can, as short, imperfect, and obscure; nay, forbidding the reading, or having of it in a vulgar Tongue, where they may. Whereas we may well aver, that no Art or Science what soever was so fully and plainly taught by any Book in the whole World, as our Christian-calling, and the true art of living and dying in the Faith of Christ, and in the favour of God, is taught us in his Word; the Survine, or things in it that are hard to be understood, being matters of less import to the welfare of our fouls. As for those Truths whereby Life and Immortality is brought to light, there need not so much Glosses and Commentaries to understand them by, as to bring an humble and teachable mind unto them.

We believe that our Saviour Christ is the Mediator betwixt God and 2. concerning man: they say that they believe the same too; and because Scripture is the Mediatorfo express concerning it, they dare not deny but that he is the only Me- ship of christ. diator: for the Apostle says as well that there is but one Mediator, as 1 Tim.2.5: he fays that there is but one God, and Jesus, these two indisfolvably together. And yet for all this the Church of Rome can give away Christ's Mediators place with a nice distinction at one blow, assigning new Advocates unto us, as often as they please to canonize any. And lest itshould be too much for our bleffed Saviour to be our Mediator by his Redemption, (which for good manners in the known distinction they leave unto him) they have fet up another Propitiatory Sacrifice besides that at his Passion, which their Priests do offer every day for the living and for the dead: Nay, they will not let his Blood purifie us from our fins, but Revel.1.s. have found out a Purgatory, in which our fouls must be purged by their own sufferings after death.

We say with the Apostle, that we are faved by Grace, Ephes. 2.8. 3. Concerning which the Papists will not deny in down-right terms, but they will add Grace. tomething to it, which shall make this Grace to be no Grace Before that they have done; either interposing the pravision of our good works without Grace in the purpose of God before the World began, or some good disposition in us, exciting God to bestow his Grace upon us: which Grace being well improved by us, meriteth no less than Glory at his hands for us. Whosoever lists to search this to the quick, will find, that there was never a prouder Opinion held by any of the children of men than this is; hence flow not their fatisfactory works only, by which they pay sufficiently unto God whatsoever is owing unto his Justice by them; but they hold also works of Supererogation, whereby they deferve more than they need for themselves, or know well what to do with, and therefore they put it into the Treasury of the Church, for the avail of those who by Money and Misses can take it out. The Pharifee was modest who said in the heighth of his boasting, Lord, I thank thee: if any of them would speak this opinion out, he would say, Lord: thou mayst thank me.

I will pass by multitudes of instances of the like nature, and will These truths are content my self only with these, as being such as I judged most material; and fuch, as respect the very Foundation; and therefore their Errours concerning them must of necessity be of very bad consequence.

> 1. Scripture is the Foundation of the Doctrine of Salvation, and the Church is said in this respect to be built upon the Foundation of the Prophets and Apostles, Ephes. 2.20. that is, the Church is built upon the Doctrine which was delivered by the Apostles and Prophets; a good Parallel to understand that so much controverted saying of our Savicur by, Upon this Rock I will build my Church, to be meant of Christ's building his Church upon the Doctrine, and not upon the Person or Succesfors of St. Peter.

> 2. Our Saviour Christ is the Foundation of our Salvation its felf, in that he purchased it by his death, and prepares and preserves it by his life; in which respect the Apostle tells us, that none can lay any other Foundation than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ, I Corinth. 3. II.

> 3. Grace is the Foundation of the Application of this Salvation, in that all the benefits which Christ hath purchased for us, and all the works which answerably thereunto he works by his Spirit within us, are all founded upon Grace, upon which only they depend, the hearts of believers being hence said to be established by Grace, Heb. 12.9.

> Now if they undermine or take away these Foundation-Truths from us, let them take all: 'tis howsoever observable that the Protestants Opinions in these cases must need be safe: for surely neither the Word of God, nor the Son of God, nor the Grace of God, can be reasonably challenged with any insufficiency, that they should need the Additions and Inventions of men to make them fuccessful, in that especially which they are chosen, and appointed unto by God. If God thought his Word to be sufficient to enlighten us, his Son to redeem and intercede for us, his Grace sufficient to fanctifie and keep us unto Salvation, we are content with his choice and allotment, and do not envy others who pretend to have more: but it is to be feared that they who grasp at more, do lose all. And we would rather have our Names cast out by them, for not adding to the Word of God, than that for our additions unto it, God

Neither may we be so much taken with the Truths which in these and other particulars the Church of Rome do retain, as that for their fake we should swallow the Errours which they mix with those Verities; and that rather than to be separated from their Communion, we might subscribe or affent to all the other Articles that are proposed by them; that were to do evil that good might come of it. Besides, this retaining of some Truths, do stand them in good stead to put off many Errours the better by. Few could vend defective Wares, if they did not shew some that were true made together with them. We know that false or counterfeit Money will hardly go off alone; neither is Poyson ordinarily taken fingly, or by its felf, but mixed with wholfom Food; and by that means it deceives the sooner, and spreads the farther.

Were there then nothing but this, that we must believe all that is determined, or that shall be determined by the Church of Rome, (forthey have lately made, and may still make new Articles of Faith) or else we must be accursed by them; we are rather to undergo all their Separations and Excommunications, than to affent to untruths, or feem Two things neto believe lyes. Who foever they be that propose any thing to be be- cessary to be prolieved by us, we may justly expect that they should prove one of these ved before we can believe two things unto us. Either ought that is

1. That the Article proposed by them to be believed is part of the Faith proposed.

once delivered unto the Saints: Or

2. That there may be now a new Faith.

The former of these, as to the points in controverse, they will ne- 1. That it was ver be able to prove; and that makes them speak so slightly of Scri- once delivered pture, because they know it is not for their turn: besides, if that we to the Saints. must contend for the Faith that was then delivered, we must contend against the Traditions, and all the super-added Definitions of their Church, so far at least as they are contrary unto it, and reduce all again to the old Test of the Law and the Testimony; which we would gladly do, but that they dare not abide by, but call out to the Fathers and Councils, though in vain, for help.

As for the latter, viz. The making of a new Faith. Whosoever makes 2. Or that we a new Faith, must make a new Hope for us too; and from them that may have a new propound another way unto us, we may expect another Heaven for us; Faith. for God's Heaven must be attained in God's way. Yet this new Faith was attempted to be made and propounded by some of them; witness the Evangelium eternum which the Fryars made, and the Pope favoured. In which new Gospel they affirmed that the Gospel of Christ was not the Gospel of the Kingdom, and that the Old and New Testament had lost their force, or should soon lose it: the time they set is now expired above four hundred years fince.

But this device not succeeding, they have since been more reserved and cunning: Not down-right and all at once, but indirectly and by degrees endeavouring to bring us to this their purpose; on the one hand decrying Scripture and revealed Truths as much as they can, and on the other hand magnifying as much those things, whose truth and goodness (if they have any) are only derived from their Churches Recommendation. One passage of Cardinal Hosius must not be forgot, who affirmed, That were it not for the Churches Authority interposed in the case, Scripture were no better than Assops Fables. O my soul, come not thou into their secret: and unto their assembly mine bonour be not thou united.

2. We are separated for Christ's instituted Wor-(hips Jake. Joh. 4.24.

The difference between the Protestant and now Roman Church is as confiderable about Religious Worship. They separate us, and cast out our Names, because we delire to keep to the purity and simplicity of Worship, so often commanded by God, and so highly recommended by Christ; and they on the other side do add in matters of Divine Worship according to the inventions of their own hearts, and the humours of every fanciful Pope.

Now this we are the more careful about, because that they who worship any thing besides the true God, or who worship him any other way than according to his own appointment, are in the fecond Commandment declared by God to be Haters of bim, i. e. in a more eminent manner than any other finners who foever. We find also Will-worship to be such a Leaven, as that (where it is join'd with otherwise right and well-directed Devotion) it leavens the whole lump, and makes the whole but one continued provocation in God's account. Those that swear by the Lord and by Malcham, are esteemed as if they had not fworn by God at all, but by Malcham only. As wicked as

One would think that washing of hands, and the wearing of broad Phylacteries, were matters so indifferent, as that they could not be displeating unto God; especially when commanded by the Church, and recommended too by Tradition: yet our Saviour assures us (though they thought to please God the better by them) it made all the rest of the

Jerem.3.14.

Worship is indeed the Marriage-Duty which the Church of God is to pay unto none but unto him, who is married unto her; and God hath declared himself to be a Fealous God, and that he will not permit any Creature to partake that Marriage-rite together with him. Hence it is that Idolatry is so often called Adultery, and a going a whoring from God; and in this, amongst other things, to be sure they agree: that as amongst men for every fault, though heinous ones too, there cannot be a separation between man and wife, but for Adultery there may; so God is pleased not to give a Bill of Divorce to any Church or People for any fin fo much as for Idolatry. When once they become over-spread with that fin, then it is that God fays unto them, Lo-ammi, Ye are not my people, Hol. 1.9. If we must then either be bidden by the Church of Rome to depart from her for not worthipping what the pleases, and as the lifts, or that God should depart from us, (by the with-drawing of his Word and Spirit from us) and bid us to depart from him, because we did not worship him according to his prescribed Will, (but preserred man's will before his will) it is easie to determine which we should most dread, and labour to avoid. Nay, let them again and again bid us to depart from them here, that God may not bid us to depart from him hereafter. Their Censure of Excommunication is lighter than the small dust in the balance, if compared with his Sentence of Condemnation.

I know that this Harlot, with the adulterous woman in the Proverbs, Chap. 30. 20. wipeth her mouth, and saith, I have done no wickedness. Yet I shall take it for granted, that if she gives and requires Religious or Aquin. 2. se-Divine Worship to be given to any Creature, she is guilty of Idolatry, 94. Artic.3. or else there is no such thing as Idolatry in the world: this being confessedly the worst kind of false Worship, and that for which God gave the Heathens ever unto such strong delusions, and vile affections, Rom. I.

25, 26. I shall not infist upon the particulars of Divine Worship; which is either internal, the worship of the heart; or external, the worship of the body. Faith and Hope are the homage which the heart pays unto God. It believes in him, as true and faithful; and hopes in him, as good and gratious in the highest degree. Adoration and Service are the tribute which the body owes unto God. Now I could easily evince that the Church of Rome gives any, or all of these to Creatures: for whilst they pray to Saints, (whether real or imaginary ones) they must hope and believe in them; for how can they call upon them in whom they Rom. 10 14. have not believed? And whilst they prostrate themselves before their very Images, whilst they build Altars and Churches, and keep Festivals, or observe days unto them, they give them whatsoever the outward man is able to perform to God himself.

Yet all this Worship they think that calling of it by another name (Sexeia) they can justifie.

Not to infift upon that which hath been so often proved by o hers, that the words suria and ralgia are promiseuously used, and that if there be any difference service imports the more servile offices of the two. Alas! the common people break the Cobweb-thred of such nice distinctions, which they are not able to skill of; and, as some amongst themselves have feared, fall into down-right Idolatry.

Not daring to give Divine Worship,

But hallgela its felf, or that worthip which they acknowledge to be Divine, and of the highest kind which can be given to God himself: yet,

I. To the Cross. Aquin. p. 3. quest. 25. Art. 4 Bonavent. q.4.

1. They give it to the Cross, as Aquinas and Bonaventure (who are Sainted amongst them) and a many others, do affirm. And Aquinas proves that the Crofs may be adored with Divine Adoration, because 3. Sent. dift. o. they put the hope of their Salvation in it: and to that purpose he cites an Hymn of that Church, wherein it calls the Cross, Its only hope.

> Not to speak of Crosses as they are painted or carved, unto which also they give the same honour: though it is more than probable that as they are usually made, they do not so much as resemble the Cross upon which Christ suffered.

But granting that the true Cross upon which Christ suffered may be worshipped, (which yet we abhor to grant) may they not be mistaken in the Wood of that Cros? It is certain there is more Wood worshipped for the Wood of the Cross, than Simon of Cyrene (or their Giantlike Saint Christopher) could ever bear. And in such a case when they worship a piece of ordinary Wood, (and perhaps without its due figure to inhance it) themselves must grant that they are Idolaters. But supposing that they be not mistaken, it is a wonder that they should have such a Veneration for the Cross, and Spears, and Nails by which Christ suffered, whilst that all Christians have the other Instruments of his suffering (as Judas and Pilate are) deservedly in so great an Execration.

2. To the Hoft.

Concil. Trident. Sell 13. Cap.s.

2. They adore the Hoft, that is, the confecrated bread in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and that with a Divine Worship, the very fame which they would give to God, or Christ himself. And the Council of Trent do accurse all that think this ought not to be done, and that the Sacrament ought not thus to be worshipped. It is strange what they say, that a Priest should make his Maker; but it is stranger yet, that as foon as he is made by him, he thould fall down immediately and worship the workmanship of his own hands: which made Averroes fay, that he never faw so foolish a Sect of Religion as the Christians were, who with their teeth devoured the God they had adored. So that to excuse themselves from being Idolaters, the best plea they do use proves them worse than Canibals: for these devour but men like themselves: the Papists, if we believe this their excuse, do devour the flesh of the Son of God ..

Concil. Tr dent. Seff. 7.

It is not my intention to speak unto that monstrous and truly senceless opinion of Transubstantiation: but supposing of it to be true, yet the Church of Rome, holding the intention of the Minister to be necessary towards the efficacy of every Sacrament; (and by consequence that unless the Priest whilst he speaks those five transubstantiating words, Hoc enim est corpus meum, do intend by them to change the Bread into the Body of Christ, &c. that then there is no change wrought by them:) what a miserable danger of Idolatry must all the people be in, in the mean while? They certainly cannot tell the mind of the Priest; and if he be not intent, as too often they are not, upon that butiness, all that worthip that Hoft must be most gross Idolaters, were all the opinions of their Leaders granted them to be true.

3. The last instance that I will give of their Idolatry, shall be in their 3. To the Virworshipping of the Virgin Mary: they call this worship which they give gin Mary. unto her imposicia, and they make it a middle fort betwixt the other two formerly mentioned: but they might call it, if that they pleased, imeg-Adjela; for they say unto her, and attribute unto her more than unto Christ himself. Nay, they Petition her to command her Son by her Motherly Authority; little confidering that the her felf called him God her Luke 1.47.

Saviour, though according to the flesh he was her Son.

Now though this, and much more which might be faid, do very plainly prove that their worthip hath got the Plague-spot of Idolatry upon it, and therefore that it is by no means to be meddled withal; yet they are so devoted unto it, as that they have commanded all such passages to be left out in the Editions of the Fathers, which speak for A- Index Exdoration as due, or to be given only unto God. Nay, the very second purg. Madriti, Commandment hath not escaped them, but they have put it out of the number of the Commandments, that they of their Communion might not be felf-condemned when they reflect upon it.

I know that some amongst them do sew other fig-leaves together to hide this their nakedness, but in vain: for how can there be a subaltern, or subordinate Religious Worship, unless there be a subordinate Deity too? There are , and ought to be degrees of Civil Respects, which are given diverfly unto men, according to the various degrees of Worth or Authority in the Objects, unto whom they are paid: but the Honour or Worlhip of God, and whatsoever is due unto him as God, can no more be shared by the Creature, than his infinite Essence and Majesty from which it flows. Neither will it serve their turn that they say they do not worship his Image with the same mind and affection wherewith they worship himself; no more than if an Adulteress should plead that though she prostitutes her body unto others, yet she does it not with the same degree of affection wherewith she embraces her Husband only. Gregory de Valens makes the hardest shift of them Libro 2, de 12all to excuse this sin, by saying, that there is a lawful as well as an un-dol. Cap. 7. lawful Idolatry. And acknowledging that they do use the former: we shall take his Confession that they are Idolaters: but neither he, nor any other can ever prove such a contradiction (in adjectio) as a lawful Idolatry. Well may they hold Concupifcence to be no fin, who hold any Idolatry to be lawful.

We can meet with no such Distinctions, nor ground for them neither in all the Word of God: but this we find there, that there is no agree- 2 Gor. 6.16,17

ment betwixt the Temple of God and Idols: and that where Idolatry is, we are bidden to depart, and to be separate, whether we might be retained or no. Whatsoever then we do or suffer in this cause, it is for the Son of Man's sake; who himself taught us to answer all Objections, and to repel all temptations unto this sin, by alledging, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve, Matth. 4.10. and by his beloved Disciple hath bidden us to keep our selves from Idols, I Joh. 5. ult.

3. It is for Christ's Soverreigney's sake that we are separated.

It is for Christ's Authority and Sovereignty's sake that we are separated, and have our Names cast out by the Church of Rome. Would we but magnifie their usurped power, we might swear, curse and blaspheme, commit Whordom and Incest, and what not? and yet be accounted true Sons of their Church. Had St. Paul but cryed up their great Diana, the Ephesians had not been offended with him; had he been otherwise as vicious as he was virtuous, or as prophane as he was holy.

We are willing for to obey them that have the rule over us in the Lord: but still so as that we may keep and maintain our fealty intire unto him who is over all. We are ready to submit to Governours under him in Church and State: but we must remember that we and they too are under him. The Legislative and Soverign Power is incommunicably in Christ, and cannot be parted withal by him. Who should give Laws to bind our inward man, but he that can search and try it, and can take cognizance of the performance or breach of his Law by it, and can punish or reward as he finds cause?

Neither does the Infallibility which the Church of Rome affumes, less derogate from the honour which is due unto Christ, it being a Jewel of bis Crown. I shall not enquire where the now Roman Church do make the subject of this Infallibility, (for they are not agreed upon it amongst themselves) whether it recides in the Pope, or in a General Council; or if the Pope be infallible, whether he be so in matters of Faith, or in matters of Right only. We deny either, to one or to all of them.

Fallibility cannot be removed out of the mind, no more than Mortality from the body of any. They go aquis passibus, and are both fixed to that state which all men are born in, and they cannot put either of them off, no more than Humanity it self. Nay, could there be an Universal, or truly Oecumenical Council, which there never was since the Apossles times; yet every Member of that Council being but fallible, the Council it self could not be infallible. Not to mention any particulars, which might be instanced in, which though determined by Councils and Popes, yet are antiquated, and rejected by the Papists themselves.

'Tis obvious that one Pope hath frequently contradicted another, and one Council hath thwarted the other; and furely they were not on both fides in the right. How much fafer is it to obey God's beloved Son, who being the express Image of the Father, is Iruth it felf, and whom we are bidden for to hear? it being the Character of a true Sheep of

Christ's

In obedience then unto Christ it is that we dare not thus become fervants unto men. Though we may go and come, we may not believe and dis-believe as they please: Nay, we cannot do it if that we would: For the Will hath no such power over the Understanding, as to make it think or believe what it litts to be true or false. The Will can set the Understanding upon acting on what Object it pleases, but it cannot make the Understanding concerning any Object think what it pleaseth, its power over it being only quoad exercitium, and not quoad specificationem.

Now this makes the Government of the Romish Church to be the most insupportable tyranny that the World hath ever known. Other Tyrants have been content with their Domination over their Vassals Bodies and Estates: nothing will satisfie these but to domineer over the Souls of men too; and we meet with the souls of men reckoned amongst their Merchandize, Rev. 18. 13. And well may they so be: for the greatest Traffick amongst them is for mens Souls.

And whereas God declares that he gives us bis Commandments for our Deut. 6.24, good always, though he hath an indisputable and uncontroulable right over us, yet he commands us nothing barely that he might exercise his Domination and absolute power that belongs unto him: but all his Institutions and appointments are such, as in their own nature would be advantageous to us, were they not enjoined by him; there being nothing that accomplishes and perfects man more than Holiness and the Image of God; which his Injunctions (in every instance) do tend only to promote.

But alas! what are men the better for multitudes of Observations in oined amongst the Romanists? They themselves cannot say that there is any goodness in them, but only what they derive from the Authority that enjoins them: And if that Authority should forbid them, or command other things contrary unto, or at least divers from them, they would then be reputed of another nature by such who contend so eagerly for them: though we have reason to believe that they call good; evil, and evil, good; yet that they can make evil to be good, or good to be evil, is incredible unto us.

Yet these pititul little things, which they can make for good or bad at their pleasure, they are more earnest in, than for all the great things in the Law. Transgressions against the Law of God written in our very hearts and natures, and transcribed thence into our Bibles, meet with little or no censure amongs them: but to doubt of any of their Churches Definitions, or to disobey any of her Commands, (in those things which never came into God's heart to enjoin) is amongs them a most unpardonable sin. So that as men have been observed to love their Books (being the Issue of their Brain and Studies) more than their Children.

Children, the fruit of their Bodies: these men dote upon their own inventions and imaginations, more than upon any thing, though by God himself recommended unto them.

I Cor. 9.22.

2 Cor.10.8.

And as it ordinarily happens, the mifery of the people is attended by the iniquity of their Leaders: for is this to become all things unto all men, to make their Flock become whatsoever they please unto them? Is this to exercise their power (according to their Commission) for Edification? Does it not impeach the Wisdom of God, and the Faithfulness of Christ, to make more things necessary to be believed and practifed than were commanded us in the Word, or told unto us by the Son of God? Is it not against the Rule of Charity, (that Bond of Perfection) to lay fuch heavy yoaks upon others, as they would not have, were they Difsenters, imposed upon themselves? Does it not occasion Dissimulation and Hypocrifie in men (and there is fin enough every where) to require of those in Communion with them, to affirm or deny, to practise or forbear in the things of God, every thing according to the humour of their present Rulers, and especially upon such severe penalties? Formerly whosoever confess'd with their mouth the Lord Jesus, and believed in their hearts that God had raifed him from the dead, might be faved: And though this was somewhat enlarged in the Creed, (commonly called the Apostles Creed) what is that to so many Volumes of Decrees and Councils (the late ones especially of their own contriving) which the Church of Rome enforces a submission unto?

St. Paul, who had the care of all the Churches upon him, especially he had the Gospel of the Uncircumcision committed unto him, (so that it is a wonder the Popes have not claimed to be his Successors, it is more for their purpose than to be St. Peter's, whose line was amongst them of the Circumcition) this blessed Paul having undoubted Apostolick Authority, would not prescribe to the Church of Rome, whether all should observe a day or no, or whether they should all eat sless or no, though no pretensions of Uniformity would be wanting on the one side or on the other. Nay, he was so far from opposing any unnecessary burden, that he commands his Galatians to stand fast in their liberty. Were there more of his spirit in the world, we might have less shew, but more substance in Religion.

It is a forry comfort that is left us, that notwithstanding the Churches Commands, we may think the things commanded us as indifferent in themselves as we will, provided we do but observe them on the account of their Churches Injunction. For whilst we are pinched, and perplexed with sears of the unlawfulness of their Additions, we are apt the more to suspect that Church to be but a Step-mother unto us, who will cast us out of her care and family for such things, which she, thinking to be indifferent, might without prejudice relax her Commands concerning them: but we, thinking that our Father hath determined or commanded otherwise, cannot yield her our Obedience in them. Is not

this,

this, as much as lies in that Church, to destroy them for whom Christ died? and to be fure it is far from endeavouring (which yet is her duty) by all means to fave some.

It is our unspeakable comfort in the mean while, that he whom we serve, and who is our Prince and Saviour, hath a Goodness towards us, answerable to his Power over us: the one without the other would but speak us as miserable as now we may be happy. Christ in all his Commands did not confider only the no scompenies, but the no air spiemer, he did not enjoin us all, which as God he might have done; but he commanded us fuch things only which we, as men, could bear, and might be benefited by.

As for the power which the Pope assumes unto himself, to dispense with the Laws of God; it is far above whatsoever our blessed Redeemer assumed, who profess'd that he came not to destroy the Law, but to fulfil Mat. 5.17. it. But thus the Pope fulfils what was prophelied concerning him, that he should oppose and exalt himself above all that is called God.

Yet this opinion of the Popes or Churches Authority, (though somewhat diversified) is such a darling opinion amongst them, that could we believe and practife all that their Church propounds, or commands at present, unless we will become au Daigslau DEDai, such voluntary Slaves as to let our ears be bored, and henceforth never to question their dictates, nor disobey their future Commands, it would not avail us towards any Communion with them: for (faith Bellarmine) who foever will not be fed by Peter, that is, learn of him and his Successors (the De verbo Dei, Popes) as Judges and Determiners what he is to take for matter of Faith, sed. 4. and what is the sense of the Scripture, is none of Christ's Sheep. And the very Form of their Church (which makes it Antichristian as much as any thing) confilts in this manner of Government. This is the Center of Unity: from the Pope as ordinary Pastor of the Universal Church, as from the Head, all life and motion is conveighed unto every individual Member.

But suppose this Authority or Power to be more diffused, and to be Subjected not in the Pope alone, but with his Confitory, or Council; yet we cannot think that they will ever yield ought unto us, had we truth or right never so much on our side: for whilst they hold their Church to be infallible, and that the cannot decree amifs in any matters of faith, or practice, we can never rationally hope for any redrefs. For fo long as they maintain their Churches Infallibility, they will not alter nor rescind any one thing, (were it to fave the whole World) for if they do, their Churches Infallibility is gone for ever; and it is by that Craft that they have their wealth.

This then being the case between us, and the Church of Rome, that the hath separated us, and cast out our Names, not for any opinion or practice that the can charge us with contrary to the Word of God, or the Duty of Christians; but rather for keeping the Commandments of God, and the Faith of Jesus. We may rejoice and be exceeding glad, (as Mat. 5.11,12. we are bidden) that we are thus reviled and perfecuted for the Son of Man's Take: for not only our remard shall be great in Heaven, but here on Earth too. For as our Saviour found the blind man after he had been Joh. 9.35. cast out for confessing of him, and imparted unto him a more full knowledge concerning himself; so Christ hath found the Protestant Churches. and afforded them his presence and care, communicating his Light and Love unto them; and nothing is more to be bewailed than that they have not been answerable unto such mercy towards them. We may truly fay that God hath turned their curse into a bleffing unto us: That

Brutum fulmen (their Thunderbolt of Excommunication) hath not hurt one hair of our heads, much less hath it entred into our souls. For (of Schifm.)

Dr. Hammond as Thomas de Curselis in the Council of Basil did well observe, though Christ favs, whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth, shall be bound in Heaven; he doth not say, Whatsoever thou shalt affirm to be bound, shall be so. And as the Excommunication of the Tewish Sanbedrim, denounced against Christ's Disciples, brought them so much nearer unto their Lord and Master, and aliened the Jews themselves, removing them so much farther from the Kingdom of Heaven: so do all unjust Censures unite us to the Apollles, &c. by this conformity with, and participation of their sufferings.

As for what the Church of Rome doth to frequently triumph in, and How out of the thinks to scare us with, viz. That out of the Church there is no Salvation:

Church there is It is to be confidered, no Salvation.

I. This to be true indeed of the Catholick Church. Taking it not as they do, for all them, and only them that are under the Pastorship of the Pope, but for all the real and living Members of Christ: for they only are truly his Body, that are enlivened by his Spirit. Thus the Apostle joins them together, Ephes. 4. 4. There is one Body, and one Spirit; and elsewhere he says, that unless the Spirit of Christ be in you, you are none of his. As every member of the Body, and only the members of that Body are acted by the same Soul; so is it in the mystical Body of Christ too: And it is the concern of all to obtain the Spirit of Christ. and to live the life of Christ, without which they cannot obtain Salvation by Christ, who is the Saviour only of his Body.

2. We acknowledge that it is every ones duty to join himself unto. and not causlessy to depart from a visible Church that professeth the Faith, and keepeth the Institutions of Christ: Every one ought to enquire where it is that this great Shepherd feedeth, and maketh his Flock to rest; and every needless departing from such a Church, does endanger Salvation, in that it makes a man truly guilty of Schism, which is a great sin against Charity, so highly recommended unto us: as also in that fuch an one withdraws himfelf from those Societies and Meetings.

unto which Christ hath promised his presence, and God bestows his Matth. 18.20. bleffing. 2. But

Cant. 1.7.

3. But where this cannot be obtain'd, or is not finfully neglected or refused, one may be saved without being joined to any visible Church whatsoever. If a Pagan, or a Jew, that is imprisoned in a Country where the Christian Religion is not profess'd, (being by reading or conference through the goodness of God brought to the knowledge of the truth, and to profess it, living answerably unto it) though he should die before that he could come to enjoy Church-Communion, we have no reason to doubt of his Salvation; our Saviour having told us, That whosoever believeth in him bath eternal life.

Joh. 6.40.

But more particularly as to the Church of Rome: for so we call them what we think that professing to hold the Christian Faith, are united in subjection and concerning the obedience unto that See, and do acknowledge the Pope their Universal Church of Rome Pastor. When we call them a Church, we mean no more than that they are a fociety or company of men, who make profession that they are Christians. Thus the Laodiceans are called a Church, Rev. 3. 14. though they were wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked; and we do not read of a found part amongst them. Thus God himself calls the Ten Tribes bis People, after their defection, by reason of Circum- Hos. 4.6. cision which they yet retained, and their being the Off-spring of Jacob. In this sense soundness of Faith is no more essential to a Church, than health is to a man. And as a man that hath the Plague or Leprofie is still a man, though to be shunn'd: so they may be thus a Church, though by all means to be forfaken. But as they themselves take a Church for a company of true believers joined together in Communion, so they are no Church, their Faith being far from the Faith of our Lord Jesus Christ.

As for the Succession they so much stand upon, and a Lawful Ministry Their Succession only to be found amongst them. No Church in the Christian World broken. hath ever had so many Interruptions, sufficient to destroy, according to their own principles, the lawfulness of their Ministry. How many Schisms hath there been in that Church? one of which alone lasted about fifty years: in which space there was not one person in all their Communion but was Excommunicated by one Pope or other, (the right Pope being ever he that had most force or fraud) not to mention the Simony and Herefie which some of them were so notoriously guilty of; and any of these are sufficient to break the Chain of Succession amongst them. For I hope that they will not allow an Excommunicated person to have a power of Ordination.

But besides this, they who are ordained by any amongst them, not being ordained to the work of a Minister, to preach or feed the Flock of Christ, or to serve him in the holy things of his own Institution, but to facrifice the Body of Christ for the living and for the dead; how can they be Gospel-Ministers? This certainly is not a Gospel-Ministration, (nor hath so much as a shew of it) but 'tis a repetition rather of the Jen's cruelty.

But to prevent further Objections and mistakes, we grant,

Ppp 2

granted to them. Rom 1.8.

1. That the Church of Rome was a very famous Church, whose Faith was spoken of throughout the whole World. Thus the seven Churches of Asia, at least some of them, were eminent and praise-worthy: but they can challenge no priviledge from what they have been, less the Jews themselves come in with their pretensions too, (who were once the only Church and people of God.) There is no greater stench than that which comes from a humane Body, when the Soul is once withdrawn: Nor is there any thing more abominable in God's account, than that Church or Society (call it what you will) from whom the Spirit of truth (who formerly did inform and enliven it) is departed.

2. We grant that the Church of Rome had precedence before all other Churches: but I would not be mistaken; it hath had precedence before them, but for very many Centuries no superiority over them; and this precedence which they had, was only because Rome was the Imperial City, and Seat of the Empire. And 'tis most like that for this cause the Epistle to the Romans was put before all the other Epistles: the place in which that Church was gathered, and the persons probably of which it did consist, being more eminent and conspicuous than others. But when Constantinople came to be the Seat of the Emperour, and made, and called New-Rome, it contested for that very precedency; and to this purpose it is remarkable that the Patriarchates and Dioceses into which the Church-Government was then divided, did answer to the partitions and divisions under the Civil Governours in that Empire: which did make indeed the Ladder for the Bishop of Rome to clime unto this height by.

As for their Pretensions to the Popes Universal Pastorship, and Superiority over all Churches, they had need to produce an Authentick Patent for it; what they have already shewn, making nothing for their purpose. But I shall wave any farther discourse upon that subject, because it is out of my sphere at present; as also although we should grant the Church of Rome all her Pretensions, &c. yet upon supposition, First, That she is corrupted in her Dostrine and Worship. And which howfoever will not ferve her turn.

Secondly, That she excludes and anathematizes all that do not joyn in those corruptions with her; (both which particulars have been proved.) We may satisfie our selves in being parted from them, and answer all that they can say with these two Conclusions.

For two realons. I. God never did require of us to join with any person or Church in their sins; much less that we should sin in order to the obtaining of Salvation at his hands. God's Rule is, That we should not do evil that good may come of it. And were the Communion with their Church never so useful, yet if it cannot be had without sinning, it must not be had at all. If the terms or conditions of Communion with them have any thing of sin in them, they had as good tell us that we should sly in the Air, or count the sands on the Sea-shore, and in case we did not, that then they would not receive us into their Communion; or that being in, they would cast us out. For such things as are morally impossible, (as an affent to any errour, or a consent to any false worship must needs be) are as unreasonably required of us, as any thing that is naturally impossible could ever be. And if on this account there be a Rent from them, the fault is in them that require such things at our hands; as, being contrary to the mind and will of God, cannot be done by us. We being innocent, nay commendable in the forbearing of them, (as the innocent person is in the case of a divorce) must needs be free.

2. It is sometimes necessary to forsake a visible Church. Nay more, it may be necessary to believe and as directly contrary to the Authority of the present Church. Thus the Jews were bound to believe our Saviour for to be the Messias, and to hear and obey him in all things, though they were forbidden so to do by the High Priests and Rulers, who, we know, determined concerning Christ that he was a Seducer and a Blasphemer. Yet what would not the Church of Rome give to have so clear and full a Testimony for her definitive Power in all Controversies, as that Jewish Church had derived unto it from God himself? Deut. 17.8.9.

But God never parted with his Sovereignty which he hath over all men: and where his mind and will is evident, that must be a Law paramount unto us, though it should be never so much gainsaid by any other. All other Superiours are subordinate unto him, who is the only Lord in chief; nay, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. And as those Souldiers Rev. 19 16. do but their duty, who out of a sense of their sworn Allegiance to their Prince, will not join with their Commander in the betraying of a Fort or Town: so if we dare not betray the Truths of God, nor the Souls of men unto the will of any whomsoever, we doubt not but that God does approve of our fidelity unto him, and will say unto us at the last, Well done, good and faithful servants.

And thus I have gone through some of those many things which we have to plead for our separated condition from the Church of Rome, whom we have so long, so undeservedly suffered under. But though they have nothing for us but Execrations and Curses, Fire and Faggot, yet let us return our bitterest Lamentations over them, and heartiest Prayers for them. It is a Lamentation, and shall be for a Lamentation. that so many millions of pretious souls are walking in paths which lead to the chambers of death. Oh that we could pluck them as Brands out of everlasting burnings. One means only I would caution against, viz. Our becoming theirs in hope to make them ours. I might observe how God hath blasted all such endeavours, and that they have more strengthened their hands, and weakned ours, than all the Weapons or Arguments that ever were used by them: and above all, God hath expresly commanded us to come out of her, and not to partake of her fins. But if Rev. 18.4. by our careful and faithful instructing, our meek, charitable, and holy living, we can gain any of them, we shall hide a multitude of sins, and James 5. ults our labour shall not be in vain in the Lord.

In

In the mean time if we should suffer still by them for well-doing, the Text affords us Confiderations enough to sweeten such a suffering condition unto us.

2. It is for the Son of Man's Sake that we thus Suffer; and if he had required greater matters of us, would we not have done them? I am fure that he hath deferved them at our hands: besides, these do turn for a Testimony unto us of the Truth of his Doctrine, whose words we find so exactly fulfilled amongst us unto this day. Not to speak of the Consolation which shall abound by Christ in all them in whom the sufferings of Christ do abound.

2. It is not a bare opinion (though his could not be erroneous) that we are bleffed, but it is Chrift's effective sentence: his dicere is facere. Christ doth make them blessed whom he pronounces to be so; and he can make a bleffed Persecution. If he blefs, who can curse? or if they do, he can turn their Curfings into Bleffings. Well may we then conclude with the Prayer of the Pfalmist, Lord, let them curse, but bless thou.

Invocation of Saints and Angels, unlawful.

Rom. 10. 14. How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed?

Y business being to shew the sin and folly of the Papists in praying to Angels and Saints departed, I thought this Scripture would be a fit Introduction to it. This Text alone in the learned Usher's opinion (a) will put an end (a) In answer to this Controversie amongst those that list not to be contentious. I to a challenge shall not dilate upon the Context, let it suffice to tell you, that the scope made by a Jeof the Apostle is to prove, that there was a necessity of preaching the land, p.377. Gospel to the Gentiles, as well as the Jews. He had shewed before that there is no difference betwixt them, that the fame Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him, that the Gentiles calling upon him should be faved by bim: hence therefore he infers, that the Gospel must needs be preacht to them, for as it follows in the Text, How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a Preacher?

His way of arguing is such as Logicians call Sorites, Rhetoricians a Gradation, and 'tis very forcible and demonstrative. So also is his manner of speaking, which is by way of Interrogation, which is the more convincing because it carries with it a kind of an appeal to the persons spoken to: the Interrogation here is equivalent to a Negation; How shall they call upon him; i.e. they cannot call upon him, 'tis not possible nor practicable; in whom they have not believed? the Original is, (b) on whom (b) Est & Siz 36. there must be a believing on him as well as in him, whom we invocate; i. e. there must be a fiducial trusting and relying upon him. All Supplication is founded on Faith, none implore his favour on whom they have not some reliance; we petition no others here on Earth, we must direct our prayers to no other in Heaven. Whoever is the Object of our prayers, must likewise be the Object of our trust. Now 'tis God alone, (who is distinguisht into Father, Son, and Spirit) in, or on whom we must believe, 'tis to him therefore, and him only that we must pray. He's accurst in Scripture that trusteth in any other, and so is he that religiously worships, or invocates any other but God alone. If Christ himself were a meer man, and not God as well as man, we should sin by believing in him, or by worshipping and calling upon him. 'Tis' one Argument whereby we prove the Deity of our blessed Redeemer, that the Scripture doth every where represent him as the Object of Faith and religious Invocation.

This Foundation being laid, I come (without farther prefacing) to raise or build upon it this ensuing Proposition.

The Proposition.

The practice of the Papists in praying to Angels and Saints departed, is very blame-worthy and abominable in the fight of God.

In the handling hereof I shall first shew you that this is the practice of the Papists to pray unto Angels and Saints: secondly, that their so doing is very blame-worthy and abominable in the sight of God.

1. This is the Papists practice. To the end I may not falsly charge or accuse them, I shall in the sirst place set down the Doctrine of their Church about this matter, and that as it stands recorded in the Council

(c) Santis una cum Christo regnantibus, & orationes pro hominibus offerentibus; bonum atqus utile est suppliciter eos invocare, & ob benesicia a Deo impetranda, per stlium ejus Jesum Christum, qui solus noster Redemptor & Salvator est, ad corum orationes, opem, auxiliumque consugere. C. Trid. Ses 9.

Invocandi sunt Sancti eo quod pro solute hominum preces assidue faciunt multaque corum merito & gratia in nos Deus confert benesicia; Rogati peccatorum ventam nobis imperant & conciliant nobis Dei gratiam. V. plura in Catechism. ex Decret. Concil. Trident. pontis, justu edit. of Trent. Thus then that Council hath determined, (c) "That the Saints reigning with Christ, "and offering up their prayers for men, it is "good and profitable humbly to invocate them, "and that we may obtain benefits of God, "through his Son Jesus Christ our Lord, who is "our only Redeemer and Saviour, to have re-"course to their prayers, aid and affissance. 'Tis true, here's nothing decreed about the Invocation of Angels, (though that be also their common practice) but here's a positive Prescription about the Invocation of Saints. 'Tis good and profitable (says the Council) humbly to invocate them, to have recourse to their prayers; who besides their praying for us, are supposed to afford some other aid and affistance to us; and what should that be? why to confer Grace and Glory, and every good thing. That this is intended, will appear, if you consider in the next place those forms of prayer that are in common use amongst them. And here I shall not instance in those pieces of devotion which are muttered in private corners or Closets, but in such as are read or sung in their publick Churches or Assemblies. In the Breviary, or Hours of Sarum, (which was in great request here in England before the Reformation) I find many pretty strains of Devotion; sometimes to all the Quire of Angels in general, sometimes to this and the other Angel in particular; to Michael, Gabriel, Raphael, whom they dignifie with the Title of Archangel. But in that and in other Breviaries, they are far more liberal of their prayers to the Saints; though they are made a little lower, yet the devotion of the Papists is carried a little higher to them than to the Angels: to these, and to their prayers, aid and assistance, they are more particularly directed, (as you heard) and accordingly they practife. Of these they don't only delire that they would pray for them, (as some of their later Writers, mincing the matter, do pretend) that indeed would be less culpable, though altogether, as we shall see, unwarrantable: but these they formally invocate, and pray unto, and that with the same shew of Devotion which they use to God himself. To these they build Temples, erect Altars, burn Incense, make Vows and Promises, &c. (d) These they dignishe with the same Names, Titles and Attributes as they do our Saviour himself; and of these they ask the same bleffings and favours as they do of God, and which are beyond the power of any meer Creature in Heaven or Earth to give. (e) In particular they pray unto them to enlighten their eyes, to increase their virtues, to pacifie their consciences, to pardon their sins, to comfort and save their souls, &c. 'Tis a poor plea of Bellarmine's, (f) whereby he attempts to defend fuch prayers, that though the words themselves may seem to imply more than a meer praying to the Saints to pray for us, vet that's all which they intend. To this purpose also a later Writer delivereth himself: 'Tis not, fays he, (g) the dead words, but the invention of the Speaker that animates them, that

- (d) S. Claudi desolatorum consolator, captivorum liberator, resurrectio mortuorum, lumen cacorum, auditus Surdorum, sanator languidorum, tutor naufragantium, via errantium, salus omnium in te sperantium, &c. Hor. Sec. us. Rom. 6. die Junii.
- (e) O beati Apostoli Dei solvite me a peccatis, defendite me a pænis inferni, & de potestate tenebrarum. Confortate me, & ad regnum æternum me perducite. makes them to be a Prayer. And again; 'Tis the sense that makes the words to be prayer, and not the bare characters or letters; and that the Churches sense is no other but to desire the Saints to obtain for us the blessings exprest in those forms, is manifest from her frequent intermixing that usual form of Pray for us, and from her publick Doctrine as declared in the Council of Trent, and inculcated to all the faithful in their Catechisms. To all which it may be replied. That many use these Prayers who never were instructed concerning any such Interpretations of them. And from whence should men learn the sense of your Prayers, but from the known fignification of the words used in them? If their Leaders did mean as some of them speak and write for the better colouring and gilding over this abomination, why don't they all this while reform their Breviaries, and Forms of Devotion, and so frame the Pe- (h) Dr. Stiltitions or Prayers therein, that they may be a little accommodated to lingfleet's Idothis sense that they would seem to put upon them? (b) A learned latry of the person speaking to this very case, brings the Papists to this Dilemma: Church of Rome, p. 166.

Those, says he, of the Roman Church that use these forms, and that according to the known sense of the words, either they do well or ill in so doing: if they do ill, then their Church is guilty of intolerable negligence in not preventing of it: if they do well, then their Church allows of more than bare praying to Angels and Saints to pray for them.

It must be confest the Church of Rome hath laid aside some of her old Breviaries and Offices, yet because they were formerly allowed and enjoined, she must be accountable for them, until she confess her errour that deserves a particular remark; and that is the hyperdulia (as they call it) or the transcendent service and worthip which they beflow upon the Virgin Mary. Her they falute and call upon under the terms of the Queen of Heaven, the Gate of Glory, and Fountain of Mercy, and Mother of all Grace: She is a Goddess, Savioures, Advocatest, Medicatrix, Empress, and what not? History of Ahasuerus in Esther, was a Figure of God's bestowing half his Kingdom upon the bleffed Virgin; that having Justice and Mercy, as the chiefest Goods of his Kingdom, he retained Justice to himself, and granted Mercy unto her. Hence if a man find himself aggrieved in the Court of God's Justice, he may appeal to the Court of Mercy of his Mother, she being that Throne of Grace whereof the Apostle Speaketh in the Hebrews, Let us go boldly to the Throne of Grace, that we may receive Mercy.

and find Grace to help in a time of need. In respect of her, they say, (o) God after a fort is more bound to us, than we are to him. (p) She in some respect did greater things to God, than God himself did to us and all Mankind. (9) She only said, He that is mighty hath done great things to me: but of her we may say, She hath done greater things to him that is mighty. Farther they tell us, (r) That though she be subject to God, in as much as she is a Creature; yet is she said to be Superiour, and prefer'd before him, in as much as she is his Mother. Hence they call upon her in a Mothers right to command her Son (f). Yea, in our Ladies Psalter, which is made in imitation of David's Psalms, the Name of God is every where expunged, and the Name of the Virgin Mary put in its place. Our Lord is changed into our Lady. In stead of (In thee O Lord,) it is, In thee, O Lady, I put my trust, let me never be confounded. In stead of (Let the Lord arise,) it is, Let our Lady arise, and let her Enemies be scattered. In stead of (O come let us sing unto the Lord,) it is, O come let us sing unto our Lady, and make a joyful noise to the Queen of our Salvation. The very rehearfal of these things is enough to make your ears to tingle, and your hair to stand an end. Oh how patient is God in bearing with the provocations of the Papacy!

2. The second thing to be considered is this, that this practice of the Papists is very blame-worthy and abominable in the fight of God. A little reflection upon what hath been already declared, might serve for confirmation hereof, and be in flead of a thousand Arguments with all those who have the least Zeal of God's Honour remaining in them. However, (ex abundanti) I shall attempt the proof of what I have propounded, by shewing you, that this practice of the Roma-nifts is,

The Scripture often expresseth this duty by the term of praying when infirm, to have recourse to only, without any mention of the Object: When you pray, use not vain Repetitions: When thou prayeft, enter into thy Closet, &c. prevalent. Why were they not directed to the Patriarchs and Prophets, to the bleffed Virgin, to St. Steven and St. James, and other early Martyrs of the Church, whose Prayers it seems by the Church of Rome are highly meritorious, and far more prevailing? This should have been the rather inculcated, because it was novel practice, and never used by the Roman Church; and therefore they had need of an express to encourage them to (uch Devotions. Dr. Whithy's Discourse of the Idolatry of the Church of Rome, p. 188.

(y) Que in dentur divinæ voluntati ad-(7) De Consens. Evangel.

This being the case, the Popish practice must needs be an abomination. God will allow of nothing in his Service and Worship but what he himself hath instituted. 'Tis a saying of Bishop Davenant, (y) That all the necessary parts of Religious Worship do so depend upon the verbo non fun- will of God revealed in his Word, that what soever is not founded in his Word, is contrary to his Will. To this purpose also is that of St. Auguversentur. Dav. stine, (z) Deum sic colere oportet quomodo seipsum colendum esse præcipit: Deter. Qu.44. We ought so to worship God as he bath appointed himself to be worshipt. Hear what the Scripture it self says, Deut. 12. ult. the Israelites are dehorted from using the religious Rites and Customs of the Heathens in the worshipping of God; how then? in what manner must they worship him? Whatsoever thing he commands they must observe to do, they may not add thereto, nor diminish from it. To all which may that of our Saviour be added, Mat. 15.9. In vain do they worship me, teaching for Doctrines the Commandments of men: i.e. pressing mens Traditions. in the room of Christ's Institutions.

One thing more may be confidered under this Head, that the worthipping of Saints and Angels, (a) (of which Prayer and Invocation (a) Eximium is a principal part) it is not only Unscriptural, but Antiscriptural, as advations ge-'tis not commanded, so 'tis forbidden in the Scripture: there 'tis writ- lectos triumph. ten, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. I am not ignorant of the Popilh distinction betwixt Adlgela and Sensia; the former they say belongs only to God, the latter may be applyed to the Creature. But how often have they been told and convinced, that these are used reciprocally both in sacred and prophane Writ? (b) and (b) Quid st & fome of themselves have been so ingenuous as to acknowledge it. He una religionis that first coin'd this distinction was no Critick in the Greek Topque (c) virtus sit, que that first coin'd this distinction, was no Critick in the Greek Tongue (c), latriam duliamnor did he ever intend it in the Popish sense. vice: there is nothing more abfurd; the abfurdity of it appears in these two particulars.

1. Consider their incapacity to hear the Prayers that are directed to them. 'Tis own'd on all hands to be ridiculous and irrational to pray to them that cannot hear our prayers. The Text fays, How shall we call on them in whom we don't believe? and I may add, How shall we call on them who can't hear us? That this is the case of the glorified Spirits, is evident, because, 1. They are not Omnipresent, they are circumscrib'd and finite Creatures, and can be but in one place at once. I dare affirm this of the Virgin Mary her felf: And how then shall she hear the prayers of 100000 persons, who it may be are praying to her at one and the same time, some of them in this Hemisphere, and some in the other? and if she can't hear, I doubt me she can't help those that are so much devoted to her service. 2. They are not Omni-percipient, if they should hear what men say with their mouths, they cannot perceive or understand what men say in their hearts. Now the most of our Prayers, (e) especially in our private Devotions, are meerly mental. they are (conceptus animi) such as are conceived in our hearts and tus agitur, plus minds; yea, the most acceptable Prayers consist many times in those flet is quam affa- fights and groans which are never uttered: To fay the Saints and Angels are privy to these, is to deifie them. There's never a meer Creature in Heaven but will confess (as David doth in another case) that (f) Job 14.21. (uch knowledge is too painful and too wonderful for him. This is an incommunicable property and perfection of God, so Solomon affirmeth, 2 Chron. 6. 30. Thou only knowest the hearts of the children of men.

It is disputed whether the Saints in Heaven have any knowledge at all of humane affairs on Earth: many wife and learned men are of an opinion to the contrary, and so the Scripture it self seems to be (f). gant vivi, etiam This we may affirm with the greatest confidence, that they have no such knowledge as is necessary in this case, they can neither hear nor underfrand the Prayers that men offer up unto them, nor (which is also requisite) with what mind they offer them, whether in sincerity or in

The Papists themselves are greatly divided to this day about this mat-Gloss in 13 qu. ter, and can neither satisfie themselves nor one another, how the glorified Saints come to have notice of our Supplications: (g) many nice and curious Questions they have; as, Whether the Souls of those they c.13 Si rebus pray to be present or absent? if they be present, then whether it be really or virtually? if they be absent, and have information from others, then whether it be from the Angels, or from God himself? or if it be from God, then whether it be by particular revelation from him, or by the beatifical Vision of him? Thus these Babel-builders are confounded and distracted; they agree (as I hinted before) that the Saints in Heaven must be made acquainted with our Prayers, or else in vain are they invocated: but how they come at it, non convenit inter omnes, says Pinello, all are not agreed about it. Some of them are much taken with a conceit of a Looking-glass in the face of God, wherein those blessed Spirits have a full view of all things past, present and to come: this is a pretty Notion, and 'tis pity that it hath no more universal reception: the dead should but alas, (this Speculum Trinitatis vel Deitatis) this Looking-glass in ving, or inter- of their own can see nothing in it but the folly and rashness of those that meddle with invented it, without any warrant in the Till and rashness of those that assifting them? Nor will that Text, In thy light we shall see light; nor that saying, (qui videt videnfence of the true tem omnia is videt omnia) He sees all things that sees him who sees all may to the true things, establish the belief of it. If it were so, that he that seeth God, church, p. 105, seeth whatever is in God, and whatever God seeth, then the Angels that that always behold his face, and look up to this Glass, would never have fromt down to pry as they did into the mysteries of the Gospel, and needed not to have been informed by the Church about the manifold Wildom of God: then they would not be to feek concerning any future events, no nor be ignorant of the day and hour of the last Judg-

2. Confider what manner of Saints many of them are, whom the Papists solemnly invocate and pray unto: they are such whose Saintship. nay whose existence is very questionable. Cassander (one of their own party) makes this complaint, (b) That the people do now almost despise (h) consult de the old Saints, and serve with more affection the new, whose holiness is less articreligionis, certain; yea, there are some of them, of whom we may justly doubt whe- cap. de meritis ther ever they lived in the world. 1. They call upon some of doubtful Sanet. Saintship or Holiness, who in stead of reigning in Heaven, are frying it may be in Hell. He must be of an easie belief, that can be certainly perswaded that every one whom the Pope Canonizeth, and putteth into the List of Saints, is so indeed. The Romanists themselves (i) acknowledge that in a matter of fact his infallible Holiness may (i) Th. Again. be mijtaken, and that there may be an errour in this very business of Canoni- Cajetan, Meich. zation. And some are strongly of opinion that the Pope was out when he Canonized Thomas Becket Archbilhop of Canterbury, and commanded the people of England, annually to celebrate the day of his passion, and that by Prayers to him they should endeavour to merit the remission of their fins. Now this Thomas, for ought that can appear in his Hiltory, and that as related by their own Writers, (k) was a proud Prelate, and a Rebel (k) Nubrigsof. to his Prince: One that had set the whole Nation in a flame to defend dereb. Ang. 12. the Popes quarrel against the King, and when he died was rather the Annal, ad da. Pope's, than God's Martyr, seeing he died not for the Faith of Christ, 1163. but for the Defence of the Popish Tyranny and Usurpation. 'Tis a good diversion to read his History as it's set together by Doctor Patrick in his Reflections upon the Devotion of the Roman Church, there you may find what a kind of Saint he was, and what Devotions the people by thousands paid to his Shrine. Yea, the people were so devoutly affected to this new Saint, that in respect of him, they scorned to have but little Consideration of the bleffed Virgin, or of Christ himself: for there being three Altars in the Church of Canterbury, one to Christ. another to the Virgin Mary, and a third to this St. Thomas, the Offerings at his Shrine came to about a thousand pounds, when those to the Virgin Mary came not to five pounds, and to Christ nothing at all. The people were the more encouraged in their Devotion, because of the lying Legends and fabulous Miracles that were reported to be wrought upon those that did invocate and pray unto him. One pleasant story may not be omitted, and it is of a little Bird that was taught to speak, and could fay St. Thomas. It happened that this Brd fitting out of his Cage, was feiz'd by a Spar-Hawk, who being ready to devour it, the

(1) Festiv. fol. Bird cryed St. Thomas, St. Thomas (1): whereupon the Spar-Hawk fell 80. Anton-Hile. down dead, and the pretty Bird was faved alive. Now, fays a devout Author, (and doubtless his inference is strong and concluding) if St. Thomas of his great Grace heard and helpt this poor Bird, much more will be hear a Christian man or woman that cries to him for help and Succour.

Let me instance but in one more of their Saints, (the Papists will be very angry if they hear I call his Saintship in question) and that is St. Francis the Founder of the Franciscan Order. He's no ordinary person with them: his Admirers parallel him with Christ, in the Prophesies that were before of him, in his Birth, Life, Temptations, Doctrine, Miracles, and what not? This and a great deal more may be read of him in his Book of Conformities, which was not long (m) A1.1590. fince (m) publisht with allowance. Of him, (n) one sings, Qui (n) Twselline. Franciscus erat nunc tibi Christus erit.

Francis be was won't to be, Now be shall be Christ to thee.

(o) Bonavena Motto 'tis p'aced under his victure.

Another great person (o) swore at Paris, it was revealed to him of ture, thence as God, that St. John (by the Angel that had the Scal of the living God in the Revelation) meant no other than this St. Francis: yea, such is their esteem of his Intercession, that they prefer it to Christ's, and say, (Christus oravit, & Franciscus exoravit) Christ hath pray'd, Francis hath obtain'd.

And yet who so reads the aforesaid Book of his Conformities, and Eonaventure of his Life, and other Chronicles and Records of him under the Papists own hands, will soon find that he was a strange kind of Saint, nay, that he did a multitude of things that argued him destitute of common fense. What will you say of a man that shall preach to Birds and Beafts, and falute them kindly with faying, (p) Brother Bird, and An. 1212. n. 30. Brother Beast? What if you should see a man taking up the Lice that fall from his Garments, and putting them on again, for fear it may be of wronging or dislodging those poor innocent Creatures? What can be faid for cutting his Garments in pieces, and then giving them away? unless it were that he might give to the more. What will you say to his tumbling in the mire? unless it were a fignificant Ceremony. And to his making Crucifixes of Mortar as Children do Babies of Dirt, with his own hands? Once more, what shall one think of his making a Wife of Snow, and of his embracing her to allay his amorous and lustful heat? These, with many more such ridiculous actions, thew him to be a Bedlam brain-fick Creature; and though by me he shall be no farther cenfured, yet I fee no reason why he should be Sainted, much less why he should be so blasphemously magnified and adored.

holiness. As they have many suspected, so they have many seigned or fabulous Saints in the Church of Rome. What Christ said of the Samaritans, may as truly be said of the Romanists, They worship they know not what, yea they know not who. Who would imagine this people should be so blinded and besotted as to worship and invocate imaginary Saints? Rom. liques are referv'd to this day; and it did not a little encourage them in their Martyrdom, that Christ had sent his Vicar amongst them, Pope Ciriacus, to absolve them from their sins, and to die a Martyr with them. Others indeed report otherwise concerning them, and we Hereticks in such uncertainties must be excused if we doubt whether ever there were any such number of Virgin (u) Martyrs or no, and do think (u) In the Golthe Church of Rome ridiculous (to fay no more at present) in confer-den Legend ring on such Imaginary Saints Religious Worship and Invocation. Whoso consults the Roman Breviaries, will meet with many more of this fort; yea, with some that their own Authors call Symbolical Saints, which yet are worshipped and invocated with the greatest formality: but enough of this second particular, that 'tis an absurd and irrational selves out with the aforesaid dictinction of (b) Latria and Dulia, the verity of which we have already seen. To the same purpose is that distinction of theirs, of superiour and absolute Worship as due to God, and inferiour and relative Worship as applicable to the Creature. Whereas if, by inferiour and relative, they mean religious Worship, as they must do if they speak to the thing in question, then we answer, that there is no foundation for any fuch distinction in the whole Book of God. And it would have flood the Arrians in great stead if it had been then invented, for by the help of fuch a distinction they might easily have enervated the force of the Apostle's Argument, whereby he proves the Deity of Christ, because the Angels of God are enjoined to worship him. To this they might readily have replied, That the Text intends a religious Worship of an inferiour degree, such as may be given to the most excellent Creature. If the Socinians now get this by the end, they may but it is in imitation of the old Pagan Idolatry, and a manifest reviving of their Doctrines of Damons, which is foretold in Scripture as that which should fall out in the last days amongst the degenerate and apostatizing Christians. - So the Apostle tells us in 1 Tim. 4.12. That in the (e) The Geni- latter times some shall revolt from the Faith, giving head to seducing tive Samporior, Spirits, and (Sidao nanious Saluovias) Doctrines of Devils, or Damons; that is to be taken passely for the is, (c) Doctrines which they are Objects, rather than Authors of Object of these Doctrines concerning Demons, as Doctrines of Baptism and of laying on Doctrines. Tit.2.10. Gal. were, and what the Heathens Doctrine about them was, may be read. 2020. Fol. Mede. at large in Mede's Apostasie of the Latter Times, (a Book which the Papists never cared to meddle with) there the Author hath made it manifest, that the Gentiles Idolatry, and Theology of Damons, is reviv'd and re-inforc'd in the Church of Rome. They fancied that their Demons were an inferiour fort of Deified Powers, that stood in the midst between the Sovereign gods and them. The Sovereign gods they fupposed so sublime and pure, that Mortals could not, might not approach to them: therefore they introduced this middle fort of Divine Powers to be as Mediators and Agents betwixt them. * These Damons or Mediators were supposed to be of two forts, some were the souls of men who were Deified after their death; the Canonizing of Heroes and deceased Worthies is ancient indeed, 'tis older than the Papacy: Rome when 'twas Heathen had a custom to Canonize their deceased Emperours, and call them Divi or Saints too. We read of Divus Augustus as well as of Divus Augustinus. Another fort of Demons (d) they had, which were more sublime, which never dwelt in mortal bodies, but were from the beginning always the same. This second fort of Demons doth fitly answer to those Spiritual Powers we call Angels, as the former fort doth to those which with us are called Saints. To these Damons they built Temples; their Images, Shrines and Reliques, they religiously adored: so that in many respects the Pagan Idolatry was a pattern of the Popish Idolatry, the one is exactly parallel with the other, it hath a great affinity to it, and its very foundation from it. I know that it will be objected that those Demons or inferiour Deities of the Heathens were the fouls of wicked Men and Devils, whereas those who are invocated and adored by the Romanists are the Spirits of just Men and Angels. To which I answer, That though in that respect there be a disparity, yet the Objection hath no force, because the Idolatry of the Heathen did not lie in making an ill choice of the Damons they worshipped, but in giving that religious Worship to a Creature which was due only to the Creator. Let him be a good or a bad Angel, a just or a wicked person, so long as he is a Creature, 'tis Idolatry to defer religious Worthip or Invocation to him.

Before I conclude this point, let me give you the opinion of one of their own way upon this matter: his words are these: (e) Many Chri- (e) Multi Chri-Stians do for the most part transgress in a good thing, that they worship the stiani in re bo-fee in many things wherein their opinion of the Saints doth differ from that which the Heathen had of their gods. What Protestant Heretick could have spoken more plainly? To carry on the allusion, consider how the Heathen had their Tutelar gods for Countries and Cities; in like manner the Papilis have their Saint-Patrons for particular Places and Nations; as * St. George for England, St. Patrick for Ireland; S. David for Latii sic nos te Wales, St. James for Spain, St. Dennis for France, &c. The Heathen did appropriate particular Employments and Offices to their Damons or Deities; so do the Papists to their He and She-Saints: only (as one observes) the Superstition and folly of new Rome in this exceeds that of the old, that they could content themselves, with Æsculapius, only in all matters that related to Phylick and Diseases, but these have almost as many Saints to invoke, as there are Maladies to be cured; one (g) S. Agatha. Saint is good for fore Breasts (g), another for the Tooth-ach (b), a (b) S Apollothird for Feavers (i), a fourth for Inflammations (k), and so on. Nay, in some cases they will not trult themselves in the hands of one Saint alone; as for instance, in case of the Pestilence they join St. Roch with (b) S. Anthony St. Sebastian for surer aid. The Heathen were wont to invoke Lucina in the Pains of Childbirth, but the Papists think St. Margaret to be the better Midwife; and St. Nicholas now in their esteem hath as much, or more power in the Seas than ever Neptune had.

4. This practice is injurious unto Christ. It intrencheth upon his Mediatory Office, and doth manifeltly rob him of his (1) Royal Preroproprium christi gative, which is to be the one, and only Mediator betwixt God and man. Hear what the Apostle says, I Tim. 2. 5. There is one God, and one Mediator betwixt God and man, the man Christ Fesus. One exclufively, one, and but one. In this Office Christ hath no Sharers or Pastners. As God is but one, and there is no other; so the Mediator is but one, and there is no other. The Papilts may as well fancy many subordinate gods, as subordinate Mediators betwixt him and us. I am not ignorant of their distinction, how that there is but one Mediator of Redemption, but there are and may be many Mediators of Intercession. To which I answer, That the Scripture knows no such difference or distinction of Mediators; and in Christ they are one and the same thing; L. 2. c 8. And in this he intercedes that he hath fatisfied for us, and 'tis in confideration of his death that God receives us into his favour. And if the diplace; The mu- stinction be admitted, the word between (in the Text forecited) doth evidently thew that he rather speaks of a Mediator of Intercassion: for 'tis improper to fay that Christ is a Redeemer between God and man;

bour upon the earth, ought to ascend up to the Head, which is gone before into Heaven, in whom we have the remission of our sins. For if St. Paul were a Mediator, the other Apostles would be so also, and so there would be many Mediators, which would not agree with that which elewhere he faith, That there is

and yet that we may know that he doth not intercede for us only by his Prayers, but by his Pallion and Merits also, 'tis added, That he gave bimself a ransom for us: and in the I John 2. 1. when Jesus Christ the righteous is spoken of as our Advocate, 'tis presently added, that He is the propitiation for our fins; which shews that his Intercellion consists in his being a propitiation for sin. The High Priest under the Law was a Figure or Type of Christ in this respect, for he was Typically a Mediator both of Intercellion and Redeinption. There was no other ordinary Mediator of Intercellion but he; and hence it is that he went alone into the Holy of Holies to offer up Incense unto God; he had no Partners with him in his Office. So Jesus Christ is entred alone into the Holy Place not made with hands, to wit, Heaven it self, to appear in the presence of God for us. In the Tabernacle of this World, (as it was in the first Tabernacle) there you may happily find many Priests whom you may employ as Agents for you with God; but in the second Tabernacle, which is Heaven, there is but one High Priest that hath to do in that Holy Place, but one Agent do deal with God for you. There is but one Advocate admitted into that Court to appear for you, and plead your Cause. 'Tis necessary for the constituting of an Advocate or Intercessor for us in Heaven, that he be Commissionated and Deputed by God unto that Office; he must not arrogate or take it upon himself, unless he be called thereunto. Now this Qualification doth fuit with Christ and no other; no Saint or Angel had ever any Commillion or Deputation from God for this service; to which of the Angels or Saints did he ever fay, Sit thou at my right hand, receive the Devotions and Petitions of Sinners on Earth, and present them to me in Heaven? I have read indeed that Angels are deputed to be their Guardians and Ministers, but not to be their Advocates and Mediators.

One thing I would add which deferves our Consideration, that these Popith Distinguishers do make the Saints in Heaven to be their Mediators of Redemption, as well as Intercession: for no Petition is more frequent in their Offices to the Saints, than that by their Merits, as well as Prayers, they might obtain such and such blessings here, and eternal Life hereafter. If it would not tire you, I could treat you with many scores of instances: For a taste, let me give you a piece of a Prayer to one Etheldred an English Saint, and 'tis in these words: (m) Look, O (m) o omnes most Gracious Virgin, upon our troubles which we deservedly sustain, and Santti & Sanby the Merits and Intercession of thy boliness, both appeale the anger of the Dei subvethe Judge whom we have offended, and obtain that pardon which we have ut per merita not deserved. But above all, commend me to one of our Country-folk, vestra pervenire and that is the honest man I named before, even St. Thomas Becket, whose valeam ad ablood they supposed of old to be as Sovereign as Christ's himself. Yea, I have understood that in fome of their Churches they have pictured Christ frowning and casting darts at sinners, whom they make to flee from him as if they were afraid of him; and then the Virgin Mary is brought in as shrowding of them, and interposing betwixt him and them. Oh unparallel'd wickedness! Oh ye vile and wretched Papists! Have you never read what is reported of Christ in the Scriptures of Truth? that he is a merciful and faithful High Priest, one that hath compassion on poor sinners, as having himself been toucht with the feeling of their Infirmities. Is this your dealing with him, to disgrace as well as to displace him? What mean your great Doctors by telling the World, that the Intercession of the Saints is more available than (p) Hen. the light of God.

It remains now that I examine the Pleas the Papists have for this Popish Pleas practice. You'll suppose they have something to say for themselves in for Invocation of Saints. this behalf, and so they have. I shall not wittingly conceal any thing of force, which is urged or pleaded by them. You have understood already that they don't pretend the warrant of God's Word for their fo doing. Those of them that have endeavoured to find this practice in the Scripture, have fumbled so lamentably that others of their own party are ashamed of them. Who can forbear smiling to hear it inferr'd, that because the rich man prayed Father Abraham to send Lazarus to his aid, therefore 'tis lawful to invocate the Saints, and to defire their affistance? There is one Text of Scripture which seems to patronize the Invocation of Angels, and 'tis ftrongly urged by some upon that account, and that is in Gen. 48. 16. there Jacob says, The An. gel which redeemed me from all evil, bless the Lads. These words of 7acob (says a learned Writer) are not spoken to an Angel, but of or concerning an Angel (q), and the speech is (and the speech is (and mes of wish or option, not by way of prayer or supplication. The Lord was the Angel with whom Facob before had wrestled, and he was the Angel whom Jacob here invocated. He prayed him to bless his Nephews, to whom he had said a little before, I will not let thee go unless thou bless me, and that was not a created Angel, but Jesus Christ the Creator of Angels. (f) The same Jesus is orat. 4, cont. the Angel spoken of Rev. 8. 3. who is said there, to stand at the Altar Arrian.p. 260. with a Golden Cenfor, and to have much Incense given him that he should The Patriarch offer it with the Prayers of all Saints upon the Golden Altar which was Jacob jained before the Throne: This must be understood of our High Priest the Lord none with God but him only Jesus Christ: It is He only that offereth or presenteth our Prayers with who is the the Incense of his Merits upon the Golden Altar, i. e. upon himself, word, whom for unto God for a sweet smelling savour (t.)

Neither are they only favourable unto such, but they work with them also that are willing to do service unto him, who is God over all, and are friendly to them, and pray and intreat with them: so as we boldly say, that when men which with resolution propose until themselves the best things, do pray unto God, many thousands of the sacred powers faith he, it belongeth to be worshipped, and the Angels themselves are not ignorant hereof: for although they excel in Glory, yet they are Creatures, and are none of those that are worshipped, but of those that worship the Lord. And again, Because Jesus Christ is not a Creature, but is begotten of the very substance of the Father, and is by Nature the Son of God, therefore is he worshipped.

So much for Greek Fathers, the Latine Fathers were of the same mind. Tertullian, who lived about the beginning of the third Century, he tells us, (d) That such and such things he might not pray for from any other but from him of whom he knew he should obtain them, because it is he who alone is able to give, and I am he for whom they must be obtained, being his servant who observe him alone. Novatianus, (whose Book of the Trinity is added to Tertulian's Works) he fays, (e) If Christ be only a man, why is a man called upon in our Prayers as a Mediator? Seeing that the invocation of a man is judged of no efficacy to Salvation. Why also is hope reposed in him, seeing hope in man is accursed? And again, If Christ be only man, how is he present being called upon every where? seeing this is not the nature of man, but of God, that he can be present at every place. Ambrose in his Funeral Oration upon Theodosius the Emperour, hath this pasfage, (f) Thou alone, O Lord, art to be invocated, Thou art to be intreated to make up the want of him in bis Sons. Augustine in his Confessions thus prays unto God, (g) I confess and know my soul is defiled, but who shall cleanse it? or to whom else should I cry besides thee? And again, (h) Whom should I find that might reconcile me unto thee? Should I have gone to the Angels? with what Prayer? with what Sacraments? Many endeavouring to return unto thee, and not being able to do it by themselves, as I bear, have tried these things, and have fallen into the desire of curious Visions, and were accounted worthy of Delusions. The same Father asserts, (i) That in the Catholick Church it is divinely and singularly delivered, That no Creature is to be worshipped by the soul, but he only who is the Creator of all things. And again, (k) Jesus Christ is the Priest, who being now entred within the Vail, alone there, of them that have been partakers of flesh, doth make Intercession for us; in figure of which thing, amongst that first People, and in that first Temple, the Priest only did enter into the

in his judicious Examination of the Council of Trent. The progress of it, together with the opposition it met with in the Church of God, is not unknown to those that have lookt into the History of those times. Although therefore the Popilh invocation of Saints be ancient in respect of some of their other Innovations, yet 'tis novel in its self, and in respect of true Antiquity. I shall conclude this Head, when I have thewd you, that not only particular Fathers, but whole Councils have condemn'd the practice in question. The Council of * Carthage was * Concil. Caragainst the invocation of Saints, and the Council of Laedicea did cen- thag.3. fure the invocation of Angels. In the 35 Canon of that Council, it was thus determined: (n) That Christians ought not to leave the Church (1) 'Os da xesof God, and go and call upon Angels, and make Meetings, which are things staves innaraforbidden. If any man therefore be found giving himself to this secret via v v (900, 1) Idolatry, let him be accursed; because he hath forsaken the Lord Jesus vis voudsen is Christ, the Son of God, and hath applied himself to Idolatry. Theodoret availed moved (in his Exposition of the Epistle to the Colossians) doth twice mention &c. Concil. Laothis Canon, and declare the sense of it. Upon Col. 3. 17. (0) The A-dic. Augustine calls those Hereticks that were inclined to the worship of Angels, De Hæres. c 39. Epiphanius speaks of a sort of Hereticks (called Collyridians) from the Collyrides, or Cakes, which they used to offer to the Virgin Mary. These he at large results, and says that neither Elias, nor John, nor Thecla, nor any of the Saints is to be worshipped. And again, God will not have the Angels to be worshipped, much less her that was born of Anna. And again, which of the Prophets have permitted a man to be worshipped, that I may not say a woman? The bleffed Virgin is a choice Veffel indeed, but yet a woman. Let Mary be in honour, but let the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost, be worshipped. Τω Μαρίαν μαθείς προσμυνείτω, Let no man worship Mary.
Again, Μά φαγέτω τές, &c. Let none eat of this errour touching holy Mary; for although the tree be beautiful, yet it is not for meat: And although Mary be most excellent, and holy, and to be honoured; yet she is not to be worshipped. Again, She was indeed a Virgin, and bonourable, and not given to us for ador ation, but one who did her self worship him, who was born of her in the flesh. Epiphan. Hæres. 79. p 446, 447,448. There also he exhorteth Christians to put on a man-like mind, and to beat down guraus parlar retur, the madness of these women. For it seems in those days it was the womens Heresse, though now it hath obtained amongst the Romanists, both males and females. Gregory Nyssen against Eunomius, 1. 5. hath this excellent passage; we are taught to understand, that whatsoever is created is a different thing from the Divine Nature; and that we are to worship and adore Morlw & annow go Jo, that Nature only which is uncreated, whose character is this. That it nighther at any time began to be, nor ever shall cease to be. The Spanish Inquisitors, Anno 1584. took care the word (only) should be blotted out. Chrysostom in his third Homily on the first Chapter to the Hebrews, bath this saying, why do you gape after Angels? they are servants Romans, he says, unto whom shalt thou slee? whom wilt thou call upon to sight for; and bely thee? shall at be to Abraham? but he will not hear thee. Shall it be to these Virgins? but they also shall impart none of their Oyl unto thee. Shall thou call upon thy Father or thy Grandfather? but none of them is able to release or relieve thee. These things considered, worship and pray to him alone who hath the power to blot out thine Obligation, and quench that slame. Again, Hom 9 on the Epistle to the Colossans, he tells us, That the Devil envying the honour we have to address our selves to God immediately, hath brought in the service of Angels. The Ancients were generally of opinion, that the Saints are not addited into Heaven, and a clear sight of God, till the last day; this is conselved by Stapleton, Desens. Each. Author. cont. Whitak. I. 1. c. 2. Tertulian, (says he) Irenaus, Origen, Chrysostom, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylast, Ambrose, Clemens, Romanus, Bernard, &c. did not assent unto this sentence, which now is defined as a Dostrine of Faith, That the souls of the righteous enjoy the sight of God before he day of Judgment, but did deliver the coutrary sentence thereunto. And if so, they could not be of opinion, by Bellarmine's own concessions, that men on earth should invocate them, as the Romanists now do. V. Origen. in Rom. 1. 2. P. 47: Aug. Tom. 8. in Psal. 36.

Seeing then the Scripture, and the ancient Fathers, are no Friends to this Popilh Invocation now in question; I am the less concerned about those other reasons which they sometimes urge in behalf of it. Nevertheless I shall consider those that are most considerable, that seem to have the greatest force in them.

Arg. 1. They argue from the lawfulness of desiring the Prayers of just men here on Earth: this is, they say, our daily practice; nothing is more ordinary than to intreat the Prayers one of another: the Apossile writes to the Romans, Ephesians, Colossians, and desires to be assisted by their Prayers. Now if we may intreat the Prayers and Intercessions of just men on Earth, much more then of just men made perfect in Heaven.

Answ. 1. There is not the same reason for both; because the former is required and warranted by the Word of God, and not the latter. Again, the living may be made acquainted with our desires and wants, and not the dead; we have no way of informing them, or communicating our minds to them: they that suppose it, cannot agree (as was said before) about the way and manner of it. Other reasons may be assigned why living Christians should pray one for another, which won't hold in this case. Hereby they are made sensible of each others wants, sufferings and infirmities; as also there is an increase of mutual and brotherly love, which is a necessary bond amongst Christians. But this is not all.

2. There is a vast disparity betwixt the Papists praying to the Saints in Heaven, and the Protestants desiring of the Prayers of just men here on Earth. This may easily be discerned by any that have not a mind to deceive, or to be deceived. When we desire others to pray with or for us, we don't make them the Object of Prayer and religious Invocation; nor do we reckon them as our Mediators, but as our fellowfuiters. See this in an instance. One man goes to his Minister, or godly Neighbour, and tells him his condition, and then desires him that he would strive together with him earnestly in Prayer to God for him, that he may be supplied in the things that he stands in need of. Another applies himself to one that is in Heaven, (or it may be that he supposeth to be there) and with great devotion he prostrates himself before him, (or it may be his Image) and then he prays, Oh bleffed St. Francis or St. Dominick, Look down upon thy poor Supplicant, take pity on me, a miserable sinner; I commend my body and soul to thee; a Tilt me by thy merits, fill me with thy graces, bring me to everlasting happiness. Save me now and in the hour of death, &c. I would fain know whether the practice of these two be one and the same: nay, whether there be any proportion or likeness betwixt the action of the one, and of the other. Take the holiest man now living in the world, (and if you believe the Church of Rome, there be some that have holiness enough, and to spare) and let this man have some of that religious Worship that is defer'd to their female (not to say their fictitious). Saints; as for instance, St. Katharine, St. Margaret, St. Brigit, St. Barbara, St. Ursula, or the like: that is to say, let a Temple be built, and an Altar erected to him, let his Image be set up, and the people enjoined to fall down before it, burn Incense to it, &c. let Vows and Supplications be made to him, and that in several places, and in the usual forms: I fay, let this, or something like it, be done to the holiest man living, and I am confident the Papilis, yea the Pope and all his Cardinals would with one mouth condemn it, and fay it were blame-worthy. and abominable.

Arg. 2. This practice argues reverence and humility; (r) 'tis pride (r) Precatio and arrogance to make our addresses to God immediately. Here we Dei per invocafeek to the King by the mediation of his Courtiers; much rather should tionem Santtowe go to God by the intercession of those that are his Favourites in jorem hamilita-Heaven.

Answ. This pretence or shew of humility seems by that Text in Col. 2. 18. to have a main hand in the first introducing of Angel-Worship. And of this opinion is an ancient Writer, (1) who fays, (1) Togother one They advised of old the Invocation of Angels upon this pretence, that the The arriver study God of all things was invisible and inaccessible, and that it was fit we mean year of successions. should procure his favour by the means or mediation of Angels. It was Theodor. in by this very Argument that the Gentiles of old defended their Damon-Colon. 2. Worship. This I have already hinted, and an ancient Father doth plainly affert it, (t) That the Heathen Idolaters, to cover the shame (t) Solent tax of their neglecting of God, were wont to use this miserable excuse, that men pudorem by these they might go to God, as by Officers we go to the King.

But the same Author preceds to discover the vanity of this pretence.

(u) Age, nun- I shall give you his own words: (u) Go to, (saith he) is there any man quid tam dequid tam dequid tam dego mad or unmindful of his Salvation, as to give the Kings honour to an mensest aliquis,

And in another place, "Oez wannis Didotoslav, &c. For this cause did he take flesh, that I might take the boldness to speak to him. I have no need of a Mediator; have thou mercy upon me. In dimissun. Chanaan, Tom. 5. p. 195. Edit. Savil. Again, in his fifth Sermon on the eighth of Matth: God (faith he) will not grant us so much of his grace at the request of them which pray for us, as when we our selves pray unto him. _____ In praying for our selves we do more with God than when others gray for us. ——— He put off the Canaanitish woman when his Disciples prayed for her, and heard her when she ber self prayed, and said, Be it unto thee as thou wilt.

I shall conclude my Answer to this Plea of the Romanists, by pro-

Suppose a King should grant to all his Subjects, the poor as well as the rich, free access to him, promising a redress of all their grievances upon the only mediation of the Prince his Son; and the Prince again should by open Proclamation invite all freely to come to him, and proffer himself to be their Mediator, promising he will not in any wise reject the meanest of them. Would it be arrogance in any to accept of this offer? nay, would it not be the highest presumption to take another course? to apply to the King by the mediation of this or the other Courtier? The case is the same here. But I hasten to the third and last Argument.

Arg. 3. The third Argument is taken from the success of such Prayers. This is infifted on by a late Author, and he calls it, (w) A convincing Argument. Certain it is (faith he) that many and great Miracles have been wrought by God upon Addresses made to the Saints, that those who call upon them are heard, and obtain what they desire. He gives several instances, and if the Reader please, I'll transcribe one of them: 'tis a story of what happened to one St. John Damascen, about the year 728. "He is known (faith he) to have been a stout Assertor of the Veneration of holy Images; and when the Emperour Leo Isanricus raised a Persecu-

"tion (so he calls it) for that cause, he wrote divers learned Epistles "to confirm the faithful in the Tradition of the Church. 'He was then "at Damascus, where the Prince of the Saracens kept his Court, and "highly in the favour of that Prince for his Wisdom and Learning. "The Emperour Leo, not knowing otherwise how to execute his fury "against him, causes a Letter to be forged, as from Damascen to him, "and to be transcribed by one who could exactly imitate his hand: "the Contents whereof were to invite him to pass that way with his "Army, with promise to deliver the City into his hands. This Letter "the Emperour (as out of friendship to an Ally, and detestation of "the Treachery) sent to the Prince of the Saracens; who no sooner 66 saw and read it, but in a brutish passion commanded the right hand "of Damascen (which he supposed had writ it) to be cut off. Dicium "Facium, a Word and a Blow; his hand was struck off, and hung up " in the Market-place till Evening, when upon petition that he might "have leave to bury it, it was commanded to be given him. He takes "the hand, and in stead of laying it in the ground, joins it to his Arm, "and proftrating himfelf before an Image of our Bleffed Lady, which "he kept in his Oratory, humbly befought her intercession, for the re-" storing of his hand, that he might imploy it in setting forth her Son's " praises, and hers. This done, sleep seized on him, and he beheld "the Image of the Bleffed Virgin looking upon him with a pleating "aspect, and telling him that his hand was restored. This is recorded, it feems, by John Patriarch of Jerusalem, in the Life of this St. John Damascen.

Answ. Do the Papitts indeed think that this (and such like pretty stories) is a good Foundation for the practice now in question? What if a man should be in doubt of the truth of this, and other relations of this kind? We know of whom it is said, That his coming is (x) after (x) 2Thes.29

the working of Satan, with all power, and signs, and lying wonders. If I might advise, the Pope should put forth a Bull for the prohibiting, yea for the burning all their Legends and Histories of feigned Miracles: they don't gain, but lofe greatly in their reputation by means thereof. Yea, what if I should say the Christian Religion suffers greatly in the World upon this very account? How have Jews and Infidels been hardned in their unbelief of the Gospel, and of the Miracles that Christ and his Apostles wrought for the Confirmation of it? and all by reason of those Fables, and lying Miracles that are obtruded upon the World by those of the Church of Rome. Repent, O Rome; repent in time of the wound that thou hast given to Christianity upon the score of these Fables and Forgeries.

staffe of the Latter Times.

(a) Willet.

'Tis worth our notice, and may ferve as a farther Answer to this (y) The Apo- Plea, what Mr. Mede offers (y) in his Treatise before-cited. That the Gentiles Damon-worship did enter into the World after the same manner, it was first infinuated, and afterwards established by Signs and Wonders of the very self same kind; so that the Idolatry of Saint-worship is in this respect also a true counterfeit of their Idolatry of Damons. He brings in Chrysoftom affirming that the Damons of the Gentiles wrought Miracles for the Confirmation of Paganism, and the Pagan Idolatry. They often-times by their skill cured Diseases, and restored to health those that were sick. What, (says he) should we partake therefore with them in their impiety? God forbid. He cites Eusebius also to this purpose:

Querite si vera est Divinitas Christi; si est ea, qua cognita, ad bonum quis re-firmetur sequitur ut salsa renuncietur, comperta imprimis illa omni ratione, que delitescens sub nominibus & imaginibus mortuorum, quibusdam signis & miraculis, & oraculis, fidem divinitatis operatur. Tertul. Apol. ad Gent. cap. 21. in fine.

"When (says he) those wicked Spirits (mean-"ing those that were worshipped under the "names of Damons) saw mankind brought off "to a deifying of the Dead, they infinuated "themselves, and helpt forward their errour, "by cauling motions in those Statues, which "were consecrated to the Honour of the De-"ceased, as also by Oracles and curing of "Diseases: by means of which the superstitious and credulous people "took them to be some Heavenly Powers, and gods indeed; some-"times to be the Souls of their deified Worthies. And thus (faith he) "the Earth-Neighbouring Damons, which are the Princes of the Air, "those Spiritualities of wickedness, and Ring-leaders of all evil, were "on all hands accounted for great gods. And farther he adds, That "the Memory of deceased Worthies was celebrated with great service, "the feature of whose Bodies the dedicated Images in every City feem'd "to represent, but their Souls the wicked Damons counterfeited by "working many wonders. Let me shut up this answer with the saying of a laborious and learned person, his words are these: (a) If it be ob-

jecied. That many have prayed to the Saints, and particularly to the Virgin Mary, and have obtained their requests, and therefore such prayers are available. We answer, That is no good Argument which is taken from the event: for so Livy writeth, that Romulus prayed to Jupiter, that he would flav the flight of the Romans, that he might keep off the Sabines, and it was effected. Pliny also reporteth, that one Helpis seeing a rampant Lion come against him, prayed to Bacchus, and win delivered. Like as the praying to Heathen gods is not justified by the subsequent effects, no more is the invocating of Saints, &c.

Come we now to a conclusion. I defire in the close of all that these three particulars may be confidered.

I. That this Discourse doth not destroy that Communion of Saints which is the common belief of all Christians. It is levell'd against the Invocation, not against the Communion of Saints. Ferusalem is sometimes put for the Church Militant on Earth, and fometimes for the Church Triumphant in Heaven, to shew that both make but one City of God. The Church below, and the Church above, are two parts of one and the fame Catholick Church, whence it is that those who are fanctified, and called on Earth, are faid to be come to the spirits of just men made perfect in Heaven. So the Apostle tells the Hebrews, that they are brought by the Gospel into a bleffed Society, with God the Fudge of all, with Jesus Christ the Mediator of the new Covenant, with an innumerable company of Angels, and with the Spirits of just men made perfect. Both those that are already made perfect, and those that still abide in a flate of imperfection, are fellow-Citizens, (as he elsewhere phraseth it) and have mutual fellowship or communion one with another. They have mutual relation to one Father, and Children of the fame Father have mutual fellowship amongst themselves: they have mutual union with one Head, and Members of the same body have mutual communion one with another: they have their animation by one and the same Spirit, as all the Members are animated by one and the same Soul: that Spirit which dwells in the Saints on Earth, doth bear them company into Heaven.

If it be demanded wherein this Communion confisieth which is bevery different eween the Saints above, and the Saints below? I answer, It consists questions, where mainly in mutual affections and communications one to another. The ther the Saints Saints in Heaven rejoice at God's preservation of his Church on Earth; pray for us, and that so many of their brethren and fellow-servants are daily fitted for whether me must pray to Heaven, and translated thither, whereby their bleffed Society is in- them? It is one creased. The Saints above may also pray and intercede for those be- thing to know low: for though the Papilis confound these two, (as they do other what the Saints things) to wit, the Intercession and the Invocation of Saints, yet there and another is a wide difference betwixt them: (b) And there be who allow them thing to know to pray for us, who yet will not admit of our praying unto them. (See what we make Rev. 6.10.) But then they say that this Intercession of theirs is for the do on Earth.

Ttt

Church

Church in general, and not for this or that Member in particular, whose case or person it's most likely is not known to them. On the other side. the Saints on Earth they pray for the Resurrection of the Bodies of the Saints in Heaven, that in Body as well as in Spirit they may be perfected and glorified. Yea, this is one sense of that Petition in the Lords Prayer, Thy Kingdom come. - They likewise praise God for the rest they enjoy in Heaven, that they are delivered from this valley of tears and trouble. They also groan, and that earnestly, to be glorified with them. and to be translated into their condition and company. Above all, they fet them before them as their examples, walking in their godly steps; being followers of them as they have been followers of that which is good. Though they don't invocate them, yet they study to imitate them, which is the highest honour they can put upon them. This is that which the Apostle requires in the Epistle to the Hebrews, when he bids us, to be followers of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises.

2. This Discourse serves to excite Christians to be much in calling on him in whom they believe. To be frequent in praying to God in the Name of Jesus Christ. Take (says James) the Prophets for an example of patience, and of suffering affiction. Take, I say, the Papists for an example of prayer, (fuch as it is) and unwearied devotion. It was the advice of a good man to his friend, that he would spend as much time every day in prayer and meditating, as he did in eating and drinking. It were well if we spent as many hours every day in the service and worship of God, as some of them do in serving and worshipping the Saints We may receive infruction from Oxen and Asses, and other bruit Creatures, and so we may from the blind Papists. Go to the Ant, thou Sluggard; and go to the Papist, thou slothful Christian: He hath his Canonical and stated hours for his devotion, he's diligent in turning over his Beads, in pattering over his Pater Nofters and Ave Maries, and will admit of no avocation. How then art thou to be reproved, who neglectest prayer to God from day to day? How many prayerless families and persons are there in this Nation? Christ says, The Ninevites shall rise up in the Judgment against the Jews, and the Papists will rife up in the Judgment against many Protestants, and condemn them. The charge of Eliphaz against Job will lie more rightly against many a one in the midst of us; you'll find it in fob 15. 4. he says there, (c) Arguitur Thou castest off fear, and restrainest prayer. The word notes (as one obferves) the cutting or dividing a thing into small pieces or portions, Bold V. Caryl which is indeed to multiply it. And 'tis as if he should have said, Thou dost mince thy prayers, and cut them out into many small shreads, as if thou didst hope to be heard for thy much speaking. Such were the Devotions of the Pharifees of old, and such are the Devotions of the Papists their Successors, to this day. Their Collects and Litames are full

full of vain Repetitions, the same things over and over again. But take the words as they are in our Translation, Thou restrainest prayer before God; and then they note either a total sorbearing, or a partial diminishing of the duty: some don't pray at all, others pray but seldom; both come under this reproof of restraining prayer. Remember who commands you, to pray always, and to pray without ceasing. Resolve, Reader, whoever thou art, upon more frequency and servency in this duty. Let an hour, or more, every day be set apart for secret prayer; and be sure, as Elias did, (d) to pray in prayer. The Papists and (d) reorder others say prayers, but do thou pray in prayer to God. 'Tis recorded of neorolectare others say prayers, but do thou pray in prayer to God. 'Tis recorded of neorolectare others say prayers, but do thou pray in prayer to God. 'Tis recorded of neorolectare others say prayers, but do thou pray in prayer to God. 'Tis recorded of neorolectare others say prayers, but do thou pray in prayer to God. 'Tis recorded of neorolectare others say prayers, but do thou pray in prayer to God. 'Tis recorded of neorolectare others say prayers, but do thou pray in prayer. (e) Luther that he prayed every day three hours, (easque ad studia (e) V. Vic. aptissmas) and that when he was most fit for such a service: Go thou Theod. in vita

Sex horas somno, totidem dei legibus æquis, quatuor orabis, Epu- Cooke advised lisque duas; Quod superest sacris ultro largire camanis. King Alfred a day for this divided every day into three parts, he allowed eight hours to his devo- exercise. tion, eight to his employment, and eight to his sleep and resection.

3. This Discourse may have this farther fruit, to beget a dislike, yea a deteffation of Popery. One would wonder that a man in his right senses should ever become a Papist. Their opinions many of them are not only unfcriptural, but irrational, a man must offer violence to his reason if he complies with them. I might give many instances, consider these two; the one is praying for the Dead, the other is praying to the Dead. We cannot help the Dead by praying for them, nor can they hear us when we pray unto them. Yea, the Popish Religion is not only ridiculous, but Idolatrous. There is a fivefold Idolatry which we charge upon the Church of Rome. 1. The worshipping of the Cross. 2. The worshipping of Images. 3. The worshipping of Relicks. 4. The worshipping of the Elements in the Eucharist. 5. The worshipping of Saints and Angels. Well may she be called the Whore of Babylon, yea that great IVhore, and the Mother of Fornications, and Abominations of the Earth. The Church of the Jews did not forfake the true God altogether, only the would worship him in Calves and Images, and how often for this reason is the called a Whore, and an abominable Harlot? The Church of Rome is a worser Strumpet than ever she was; a deep Ditch she is, may none amongst us be so far abborred of the Lord as to fall into it. Dearly beloved Country-men, Flee from Idolatry: this the abominable thing that God hateth. Popish Idolatry is as bad or worse than Paganish. I shall conclude this Sermon as the Apostle John doth his first Epistle, Little Children, keep your selves from Idols. Amen.

Luke 17.10. So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants, we have done that which mas our duty to do.

Coherence.

He Truth that at this time lies before me, both to prove and improve, is this, That there are not any Works of Sus pererogation. On that account I have pitcht on the words read, which are an Apodosis, or Epiphonema, the Inference or Conclusion which our Lord Jesus draws from his preceding Parable.

The Parable begins Verse 7. Which of you, having a servant plowing, or feeding cattel, will say unto him by and by when he is come from the field, Go, and sit down to meat? Vers. 8. And will not rather say unto bim. Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thy self, and serve me till I have eaten and drunken. Vers. 9. God accounts himself hereby gratified as it were, and even beholden to such sufferers; this, being the lowest subjection, and that being the highest honour men can yield unto their Maker. God will thank such. Nay more, look into that amazing Scripture, Luke 12.36, 37. and read it, if you can without an extalie: If a man serves, and his Lord comes and finds him watching too, and intent upon his work, what will his Lord do? he will gird himself, and serve bim. O stupenda condescensio! O stupenda dignatio! says one on the place. But know, though these two Parables seem parallel, their scope vastly differs. What a diligent Servant may humbly expect from his bountiful Lord is one thing, viz. That his labour shall not be in * vain, * 1 Cor. 15 58. or unprofitable, but plentifully rewarded. That's the scope of Luke 12. And what the most diligent Slave can justly challenge from his abfolute Lord and Patron is another, which is the grand scope of the Text. Doth he deferve, or may he justly challenge any the least reward, yea but so much as bare thanks? I trow not. So likewise ve.

No. without question we are to say so, and that from the heart, and in saying fo, we speak the truth, and nothing but the truth. We are indeed unprofitable servants, such as cannot merit the least good at the hand of God by our best obedience.

(d) Unprofitable, axean. 'Tis well observed by some Criticks, that niles, ab a priv. this word is of the same import with that Rom. 3. 12. they are become & xseia usus, unprofitable, inxseidenour, so the Sept. render Psal. 14.3. & 53.3. The word in the Original (e) גא, They are become abominable, putidi (e) 16 The, facti funt; so far from being profitable, that they rather stink in God's putidus faridus Nostrils. Nay farther, 'tis the same word that is given to that wicked fuit, lob 15.16. and flothful servant that was cast out into outer darkness. Cast out short into outer darkness. Cast out short into successions that (f) unprositable servant, Mat. 25. 36. To shew us, saith one, what our merit is, if God should be severe, Psal. 143.2.

In the last place, our Saviour subjoins the reason why he would have us heartily to acknowledge our felves unprofitable fervants, and 'tis this, Because if we had, or could have done all those things, &c. we had then done but that which we ought to do; that, and that only, that, and (g) "O weekho- no more than was our (g) duty to do, and on that account the Lord μω, αν ο φείλω, by a just right might exact and challenge it at our hands. We owe all obedience possible to God as our Creator, Psal. 100. 2, 3. & 33. 8, 9. sum oportet me. The highest obedience is our debt, and it is no matter of merit to pay a man's debts. How good soever any man is, he is no better than he should be; and what good foever any man hath done, he hath done no more than was his duty to do both to God and man. On this account, faith our Saviour, if you could and should do all those things, &c.

From the words thus opened, I infer these two Conclusions.

- 1. They, who in their Obedience attain to the greatest heighth which is possible in this life, fall short of much which in duty they are bound to do.
- 2. Were it possible for the best of men perfecily to keep the Law of God, yet even these supposed perfect ones cannot in the least oblige God, or merit any thing from the hand of his justice.

These two Propositions solidly fixt, and fitly discharged, may through a smile from Heaven prove effectual for the battering down of one of the topmost Pinacles of the Romish Babel, viz. their proud Doctrine of Supererogation.

I Conclusion.

First of the first. They, who in their Obedience attain to the greatest beighth which is possible in this life, fall short of much which in duty they are bound to do.

Quest. 1. But what is every man in this life in duty bound to do?

Answ.

Answ. Every man in this life is bound to full conformity, in the whole nan, to the righteous Law of God, and to entire, exact and perpetual obelience thereunto. The Law of the Lord is perfect, Pfal. 19.7. and re-nuires the highest perfection both of parts and degrees; and that

1. In the frame and disposition of the whole man, soul and body. eaches all the faculties, motions and operations of the inward, as well s the words, works and gestures of the outward. Man, as God's Creaure, is bound to love the Lord his God with all his heart, soul, mind, night, and strength, Deut. 16.5. Mat. 27. 37, to 41. Luke 10. 26,27. The first bublings of rash anger, are no less forbidden by this Royal law, than cruel Murther, Mat. 5. 21, 22. A Lust peeping out of the ye, is no less a violation of this Spiritual Law, than an unclean act. lers. 27, 28.

2. In the performance of all those duties of holiness and righteousness which he oweth to God and man. Ifrael must bear all God's Commandments, statutes and Judgments, that they might learn, and keep, and do them, Deut. 5. 1, 2, 3, 3 1, 33. He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, truly nd acceptably good; and what doth the Lord thy God require of thee? urely something, that in the balance of the Sanctuary down weighs thouands of Rams, and ten thousands of Rivers of Oyl, nay, is more acceptable han the Idolatrous facrificing of a first-born Son, namely, To do justly, o love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God, Mic. 6. 6, 7, 8. Holy Caul writes after this Copy, but could not reach it; 'twas his exercise nd endeavour, though not his attainment, to get and keep a good Concience void of offence, both towards God, and towards man, Acis 4. 16.

3. In this universal performance of all obedience, the Law requires the tmost perfession in every duty, and forbids the least degree of every sin. Who so shall keep the whole Law, and yet offend in one point, i.e. wil- James 2. 10. ingly, constantly, and with allowance from Conscience, though but in he least tittle, be is guilty of all, i.e. is liable to the same punishment, ands upon no better terms of hope and acceptance with God, than if e had done nothing.

Object. But what's all this to Believers? They are not under the Law.

ut under Grace, Rom. 6. 14.

Answ. 1. True Believers are not under the Law as a Covenant of Vorks, so as to be thereby either justified, Gal. 2. 16. Act. 13. 39. or ondemned, Rom. 8. 1. Gal. 3. 13.

2. But yet they are under the Conduct of the Law, viz. as it is a Rule of Life, informing them of the Will of God, and their Duty, and oth at once direct and bind them to walk accordingly. See what high pprehensions Paul had of this Law, The Law is boly, and the Commandnent is holy, just and good, Rom. 7. 12. His dear affection to it, I deight in the Law of God after the inner man, Vers. 22. His faithful obervance of it, With the mind I my self serve the Law of God, Vers. 25.

Copies

Copies out a great part of it, and presents it as a Rule to the Romans to walk by, Rom. 13. 7, 8, 9. and to other Churches, 1 Cor. 7. 19. Gal. 5. 14. Ephes. 6. 2, 3. James calls it A Royal Law, the Law of God, the King of Kings, and Jesus Christ the King of Saints. It hath a Kingly Author, requires Noble Work, gives Royal Wages, a Law of Liberty, which if ye shall sulfil, if ye have respect to the whole duty and compass thereof, ye shall do well, and but well, Jam. 1. 25. & 2.8. Thus the Beloved Disciple backs the Authority of the Law, 1 John 2. 3, 4, 7, 8.

Object. But hath not the Lord Jesus in the Gospel dissolved this Obligation?

Answ. Yea, so far is Christ in the Gospel from disloving, that he much ratisfies and strengthens this Obligation, Matth. 5. 17, 18, 19. I came not to destroy, but to fulfil; in this Chapter clearly expounds it, elsewhere most strictly enjoins it, Matth. 22.37, to 44. Luke 10. 26,27. Mark 12.33. Paul goes deep in the case, and rejects the thought of it with the decepest aversation, Rom. 3.31. Dowe then make void the Law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the Law.

Thus you have heard what every man in this life is in duty bound to do: namely, perfectly, intirely, exactly, perpetually to keep the Commandments of God: That's his duty. In the next place, let us speak to his Ability, or rather utter impotency to perform this duty.

2. They who in their Obedience attain to the greatest heighth which is possible in this life, fall short of much which in duty they are bound to do.

Since the fall of the first Adam, our common Head and Representative, no meer man descending from him by ordinary Generation, in this life ever was, is, or shall be able, either by himself, or by any strength of Grace received, perfectly to keep the Commandments of God, but doth daily break them in thought, word and deed.

1. Since Adam's fall.--- True indeed, the first Adam in his estate of innocency had a power, personally and persecilly, to keep the whole Law of God; but not since, neither he, nor any that naturally spring from his loins. 'Twas the dream of the old Pelagians, that man was so little bruised and impaired by Adam's fall, that even still by the meer power of Nature he could persectly keep the whole Law. If so, what means the Aposile, Rom. 5.12, 17, 18, 19. I Cor. 15.21, 22. By Adam's sin were all made unrighteous, subject to death, judgment, condemnation; and therefore such unrighteous, judged, condemned Creatures as we are all by Nature, can never persecilly sulfil a righteous Law.

2. No meer man: none that is a man and no more. No man descending from Adam by ordinary Generation. True, the only Mediator between God and man, the Man Christ fesus, was able perfectly to keep the Commandments of God, and did so. Conceived he was without sin, Luke 1.35. Heb. 4. 15. Anointed with the Holy Ghost above measure, Joh. 3.34. Holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, Heb. 7. 26. Came on purpose to fulfil the Law, Mat. 5. 17. and did perfectly fulfil it, Psal. 40. 7, 8. Heb. 10. 5, to 11. Mat. 3. 17. John 17. 4.

But then he was not a * meer man, He was God as well as man, Rom. * 'Avanagraf Go 9. 5. Col. 2. 9. God incarnate, the Eternal Word made Flesh, John 1. ard egimo solic. di ทุนติจ ฉ่งใจฉักรง

14. manifested in the Flesh, 1 Tim. 3. 16. But no meer man.

3. Not in this life. We grant, that when the Soul comes to be in- Clem. constit. roll'd and admitted a Free Denizen of the Heavenly Jerusalem, she shall sit down among the Spirits of just men made perfect, Heb. 12. 23. but not till then. When the Saints come to the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ, Ephes. 4.13. When they come to see God as he is, and shall behold his face in Light and Glory, then, and not till then they shall be like him, I John 3.2. Then indeed they shall see God face to face, but here only through a glass darkly, 1 Cor. 13. 12. then presented a glorious Church, not having spot or wrinkle, Ephes. 5. 27. But whilft here, like the Moon at Full, not without our spots.

4. Not able perfecily to keep the Commandments of God.

There is indeed a twofold perfection ascribed to Saints in this life.

1. A perfection of Justification. Saints are compleat in Christ their Head and Surety, Col. 2. 10. They are perfectly justified, never more liable to Condemnation, Rom. 8. 1, 33, 34. Heb. 10. 14. Joh. 5. 24.

2. A perfection of Holiness or Sanctification; and this so called,

1. In regard of its effential or integral parts. Thus when we see an Infant, that hath all the parts of a man, foul, body, all its members: we say, this is a perfect Child. Saints, even in this life, have this begun perfection of holiness. They are begun to be sanctified in every part, in oul, body, spirit, throughout, though every part be not throughout san-

Aitied, 1 Thess. 5.23.

2. In regard of desires, intendments, aims at, and endeavours after radual perfection. They defire, study, labour to be perfect, as their Heavenly Father is perfect, Mat. 5.48. They forget that which is behind, and press forward towards the mark, Phil. 3.12, 13. Perfection, which vill be their reward in Heaven, is their aim on Earth; and, as God accepts the will for the deed, 2 Cor. 8. 12. So he expressed the deed by he will, and candidly interprets him to be a perfect man, who would be perfect, and defires to have all his imperfections cured.

3. In respect of others; comparatively perfect. Thus, when one man s sickly and weak, and another man is very strong, we say the strong man nath perfect health compared with him that is fickly and weak; and yet the trong man hath not such perfeti health, but he hath also the principle of ickness in his body, and sometime may be ill, and indisposed. Thus Noah was perfect in his Generation, Gen. 6.9. Lot among the Sodomites, Fob in the Land of Uz, Fob 1. 1. Thus Saints in Scripture are said to be perfect, when compared with those that were openly wicked, or but penly holy; said to be men without spot, compared with those that were either all over-spotted with filthines, or only painted with Godliness. Thus those that were fronger in Knowledge and Grace, laid in the Scale with those that were weaker; men with babes, I Cor. 2. 6. Phil. 3. 15.

Heb. 5. 14. are said to be perfect.

4. In respect of Divine acceptation, an Evangelical Perfection, a Perfection of fincerity and uprightness; such, as love our Lord Fesus in sincerity, Ephes. 6.24. Such, as are not gilded, but golden Christians; not painted Sepulchres, not whited Walls; not men of an heart and an heart. Thus God to Abraham, Gen. 17. 1. Walk before me, and be thou perfect, or upright. Aarons indeed in this, that they carry Urim and Thummim, Light, and Perfection, or Uprightness, engraven on their breafts, Exod. 28. 30. on whose Tombs you may, with God's approbation and Testimonial, write an Asa's Epitaph, 2 Chron. 15. 17. Nevertheless, notwithstanding Asa his several slips, yet his heart was perfect with his God all his days.

5. In respect of degrees, to which nothing is wanting, nothing can be added to make it more compleat. When the Sun is not only risen, but got to its full Meridian and Zenith. Thus, when we see a Child that was born perfect as to parts, grown up to mans estate, so that he shall grow no taller, wax no stronger: this we call Perfection of degrees. And thus no Saint in this life, is or can be perfect, as to include all the * Peccatum est, degrees of holiness, and to exclude all, even the least taint of sin. * And, cum non est char if there be but the least gradual defect, the Law is not perfectly fulfilled.

ritas, que esse Now that no man is in this life so persect, &c. appears,

1. In this, That there is not one instance to be given of any one, even debet. Aug. de the most holy man that ever breathed on God's Earth, that was so holy and perfect as to be freed from having sin in him. O the blots that we find in the best of their Escucheons! Noah at once betrays his internal and external nakedness. Abraham, the Father of the faithful, equivocates more than once. Moses, that conversed with God mouth to mouth, the great Secretary of Heaven, is guilty of unbelief, and speaks unadvisedly with his lips. What shall I speak of David, Hezekiah, Josiah, those Stars of the highest Magnitude? As for Paul, even after he had been wrapt up into the third Heavens, hear his groans, his heart-piercing groans, Rom. 7. 24. O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me? and free confession of his imperfection, Phil. 3. 12, 13, 14. Not that I have already attained, or were already perfect, &c. As for Peter concerning his perfection, read, but with fear and trembling, Matth. 26. 69. to the end; and when thou hast mingled tears with him, draw a finger on his scar, and go, and ask His boly Successor, that most humble Servant of Servants the Pope, whether he, or any of the Scarlet Robe under him, dare compare with those truly golden ones for holiness, notwithstanding all their dross? and if not, what becomes of their proud dream of gradual Perfection?

perfectly holy in this life? Solomon gives us three, I King. 8. 46. There is no man that sinneth not. Eccles. 7.20. There is not a just man upon earth that doth good, and sinneth not: q. d. If you would look for a just one that doth good, and sinneth not, you must look for such an one in Heaven, and not upon Earth. The learned and judicious Dr. Man- Dr. Manton on ton hath an excellent Note on this Text, viz. The Wise-man doth not James, p.351. fay fimply, that finneth not, but, that doth good and finneth not; that is, that linneth not even whill he is doing good. Our very Wine is mixed with Water; our best Silver with Dross. Our softest Lawn hath its List, our sweetest Honey its Wax and sting. Farther yet, he throws down his Gantlet, and proclaims a Challenge to all the World, to enter the Lists with him, Prov. 20.9. Who can say, I have made my heart clean? Who can? why many can and do, Pharifees, Papilts, Quakers. True, many may fay so boldly, proudly, falily, but who can say Rom. 3 9, to so truly? I am pure from my sin. If we say that we have no sin, we de-21, & 23. ceive our selves, and the truth is not in us, I John 1.8, 10. If we say that we have not finned, we make him a lyar, and his Word is not in us. The Doctrine of the Catharists is a lying Doctrine. Even from this Scripture it plainly appears, that that man is not perfect, that faith he is perfect, for as much as it faith, that he, that faith so, is a lyar, and one that is so far from growth and perfection, that the Truth it self, the Root of the matter, is not in him. None in this life are absolutely freed and exempted from finning, Jam. 3. 2. In many things we offend all. All of us offend in many things, in some things at best. The bleffed Virgin her self had her slips, Luke 2. 49. John 2. 3, 4. for which she is taxed by Christ himself. We offend. We includes himself, though Euseb Eccl. an Apostle of such eminent holiness, that he was called the Just. Job 9. 2, 3, 20. How should man be just with God? or as Broughton reads the words, How can man be just before the Omnipotent? Just, i.e. by an inherent righteousness before God. If he will contend with him, he can- Job 15. 14, 15. not answer him one of a thousand. Man is not able to maintain his cause, and to hold his plea with an holy God. Hence it is, that that man after God's own heart, wholly waves God's Tribunal of Justice. O enter not into Judgment with thy Servant, Lord; he doth not fay, with an Enemy, a Rebel, a Traytor, an Impenitent Sinner; but with thy Servant, one that is devoted to thy fear, one that is consecrated to thy fervice, one that is really and indeed quantus; quantus est, totus trus. Psal. 143.2. q. d. Lord, if the holiest, purest, best of men should come and stand before thee in Judgment, or plead with thee, they must needs be cast in their cause; If thou, Lord, shouldst mark iniquity, alas, who shall stand? Psal. 130. 3. 3. It is utterly impossible in this life perfectly to keep the Commandments of God, because the best of Saints in this life are but imperfectly sanctitied. The principle of Grace within them, which is the Fountain, is but imperfect, and therefore the shreads of obedience can never rife lluu 2.

bigher than the Fountain. The Root is tainted, and the Sap and Branch. therefore the Fruit cannot be perfectly found. While the Tree is partly evil, the Fruit cannot be wholly good. As to the great Grace of Faith what great reason hath Christ to say to the best of Saints, as more than once to his Disciples, O ye of little Faith? Matth. 6.30. & 8.26. & 16.8. Where is the man of so much brass and impudence, that dares avouch he loves God with that degree of intenseness that he ought to do? that he loves God here with as raised, transcendent, superlative flame of heart, as ever he shall do, or can hope to do in Heaven? Love always attends on knowledge: I cannot possibly love that, which I do not know. 'Tis the eye that must affect the heart. Ignoti nulla cupido. Nor can the degree of my love exceed the degree of my knowledge. It may indeed fink beneath it, but never swells above it. Now our knowledge of God in this life is imperfect; We know but in part, we see through a Glass, and that darkly, I Cor. 13. 9, 12. and therefore cannot love with all the heart, foul, mind, strength. More than this, there are remnants of fin abiding in every part of Saints, and perpetual lustings of the flesh against the spirit, so that they cannot do the things that they would, Gal. 5.17. A Law in their members warring against the Law of their minds, and leads them captive to the Law of sin, Rom. 7. 18, 23. They have a Clog at their heels, fin that eafily befets them, Heb. 12.1. Lufts within them, that war against their souls, I Pet. 2.11. There is indeed * Habitat, sed in every man, even in the holiest living, a cursed root of * bitterness, which God doth indeed more and more mortifie, but not nullifie in this manet, sed non life. This like the Ivy in the Wall, cut off the Stump, Body, Boughs, dominatur, evulsum quodamme- Branches of it, yet some strings or other will sprout out again, till the do, fed non ex- Wall be pluckt down. This, this is that Colloquintida, that Death in pulsum; dejethe Pot, that Fly-blows all their Graces, leavens all their Comforts, taints prorsus ejectum and blends all their Duties. Hence proceed the iniquities of our holy things, Exod. 28. 38. This is that, that is able to turn the High Priests tamen. Bern. Robes into Rags, his Incense into a Stench. Hence came the humble, but true complaint of the Church, All our righteousness, in themselves, as ours, are as filthy rags, Isai. 64. 6. Mark, we do not say as the Papists fallly charge us, that all that a Believer doth is fin: but this we fay, a Believer fins, for the greatest part, in all he doth. The Work of God's Spirit upon us, and the Motions of his Grace within us, are pure and holy: but yet, as clean Water passing through an unclean Pipe, receives a tincture of that uncleanness; so sinfulness cleaves to our holiest Actions, we the Instruments being sinful. Needs must the Musick be inharmonious, when all the Strings of the Lute are out of Tune.

Serm. 10.

Is this a Truth? Is the Moral Law of God so perfect, spiritual, just, and good? Doth it indeed require and exact such personal, perfect, and perpetual Obedience? Must good, only good, all good, and that in the most intense and highest degree, be done, and that from a Divine Principle, the Spirit, Faith, Love, in a right manner, according to the Divine Word and Will, and to a Divine End, the Glory of God? And was there never a Saint yet in the World, that was meer man, that ever did or could exactly do what this Law requires, but fell far short of their duty? See here then the certain downfal of Dagon before the Ark. Behold here that arrogant Popish Doctrine of Supererogation, bowing, stooping, falling at the foot of the Truth and Word of God. Let him that hath an Ear, hear and judge. Tell me, if the best of God's Saints, doing their best, fall short of much which in duty they are bound to do, is it possible for a Popish Shavelling to Supererogate, i. e. to do, yea piously, acceptably, and preterpluperfectly to do, far more than God requires? They are not ashamed to tell the World, That 'tis not only possible, but facile and easie for a true Believer exactly to keep the whole Law of God, and not to fail a tittle. Alas, Paul was a man of low attaintments, when he whines out his Έυ ταλάπως 🕒 ερώ ἄνθεφπ 🖫 . And David a Dwarf Rom.7.24. to these Goliabs. He indeed stands wondring and trembling on the shore of the Ocean, and cries out, I have seen an end of all perfection, but thy Psal. 119.96. Commandment is exceeding broad: A great deep, an unsearchable gulf, an Ocean without bank or bottom. But as for them, with their very Spoon they'll lave it. Nay, 'tis not Heaven it felf, at least nothing less than the eleventh Orb of the Empyrean Heavens, can give a proportionable Treat to their aspiring Souls. 'Tis for poor penitent Publicans and Sinners, to please themselves in doing; through Christ's strength, what the Lord requires; nothing becomes these Worthies less, than doing more than ever entred into God's heart to command them. O the stupendious pride of Lucifer, and of hearts possessed by him. Well, my Brethren, I would not be thought to envy and pine at their triumphant Honour. Only give me leave to conclude this Use, with this Epiphonema: viz. Those that will perform an Obedience that God never commanded, what can they expetiles, than an Heaven, that God never created? But here the Papift acts the Parthian, and fights flying, viz. makes his Objections.

Object. 1. Doth God enjoin the Creature that which is impossible? That were unjust, and would highly intrench on God's goodness.

Sol. This Arrow was long fince taken out of Pelagius his Quiver. To which we reply as Austin did: What is simply and absolutely impossible in it self, God doth not impose upon the Creature. But what apostate Man himself hath made impossible to himself, voluntarily, and meerly by his own default, that the great Lawgiver may, and doth justly impose: And this impossibility no way impeacheth God's goodness, because the sinner hath milfully contracted and brought it on himself.

demand their due, although the Prodigal cannot pay? What though the Sinner hath lost his Power, fince this is done wilfully and wickedly? certainly God may justly demand his Right.

Object. 2. But did not Christ come in the flesh for this end, That we might be able fully to keep the Law in our own persons, that the righteous nels of the Law might be fulfilled in us?

Sol. Mark, The Scripture faith, In us, not by us. Christ came, Rom. 8.4. that the Righteousness of the Law should be fulfilled for us, and in us, i. e. imputatively, but not by us personally. The bleffed Jesus our Head and Representative, and Surety in his own Person whilst here on Earth. did fully obey the Law, perfectly conforming to it in all its holy Commands. Now this his most perfect Obedience is made over, reckoned and imputed to his Members, Rom. 5. 19. as if they themselves, in their own persons, had performed it. The Laws Righteousness is not ful-Rom. 10.5. filled in them formally, subjectively, inherently, or personally, but legally, and imputatively, they being in Christ as their Head and Surety, and so Christs Obedience becomes ours by imputation.

Object. 2. But we find divers Saints in Scripture recorded for perfect men; Noah, Fob, Caleb, &c.

Sol. But were they perfect with a finless perfection? If you prove not that, you do but beat the Air. We easily grant a Perfection of parts. we utterly deny Perfection of degrees, such as admits not the least taint of defect or fin. We fay, that men may be very eminent in Grace but yet even then not exactly conformable to the Law. An Evangelical Pertection we admit, 'tis no more than sincerity. A Legal Perfection we deny, that in this life is an impossibility.

Object. But the Romanists slee an bigher pitch, and not content with perfect performance of what is commanded, they tell us, they can, and do do more: Crying up their Evangelical Counsels, as they call them, for rare things indeed, and fuch as far transcend Moral, or Evangelical Precepts. He that gives ear to these Counsels, and follows these, is a Saint indeed, and doth indeed do more than God requires.

Chamier. Tom. de Confiliis.

Sol. But what are these Evangelical Counsels, that are distinct from 3.1 10. C. 20. Evangelical Precepts? Bellarmine, Alphonsus and Platus, concur in their Description of an Evangelical Counsel; and they thus decipher it: It is Christ's commending only, but not commanding a good work: which, if not done, doth not at all expose to condemnation; but if done, merits a greater degree of Glory; a Coronet at least in Heaven. A Counsel differs from a Precept in matter, subject, form, and end. The matter of a Precept is more facile, and easie: But that of a Counsel more bard, and difficult. Obedience to a Precept springs from a Principle of Nature; but Obedience, or listning to a Counsel owes it self to none, but a supernatural Principle. To obey a Precept is good, but to conform to a Counsel much better. But then for the subject. All are bound to obey Evangelical Precepts; but only some few choice select Privado's of Heaven ar' concerned with Evangelical Counsels. The form also differs. A Precept obliges by its own proper Power and Authority to Obedience; but a Counsel leaves it in the breast and liberty of the person to whom its given, whether he will follow it, yea or no. Lastly, they differ no less in their end. The end, or effect of a Precept is a remard to him that obeys, punishment to him that doth not: But the end of a Counsel is a greater reward to him that observes it, but not the least punishment or frown on him that neglects, and not observes it. But are there indeed any such Evangelical Counsels contra-distinct from Evangelical Precepts? Yes, fay the Papilts, and to that end charge us with these three Texts, which, they fay, do all prove that there are some Evangelical Counsels which fall not under a Command.

Object. 1. Mat. 13.8. But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an bundred fold, some fixty fold, some thirty fold. Here, faith Bellarmine, the Lord compares the Church to good ground, whereof one part brought forth an hundred, another fixty, another thirty fold, and he alleadgeth the Authority of Hieronymus, Cyprian, and Austin for this interpretation of this Parable: viz. That Christ doth here distinguish between the different merit of chaste Marriage, Widowbood, and Virginity; and that Virginity is a greater good, and more meritorious in the light of God, than either chafte Widowhood, or Conjugal Chastity. But this, saith Bellarmine, is an Evangelical Counsel. only, not a Command: for what God commands not, and yet commends, and prefers it before other things, he doth, without all doubt, counsel only, and advise.

Sol. 1. But what Reasons do those Fathers of the Church give for this interpretation? Here Bellarmine is filent.

2. Let their own Maldonate answer for us, and Truth. A Christo tantum propositum fuit, ut doceret omne semen, &c. Christ's intent here was only this, to teach us, that all feed which fell on good ground did fo multiply, that that which brought forth the least increase, produced thirty fold, even fo much, as none but the best and most cultivated ground was wont to bring forth: that which brought-forth most, an hundred; the middle good-ground, fixty; and if this be the genuine fense of the Text, what doth it make for Bellarmine in the least, seeing fruitfulness in hearing the Word, and enjoying of Ordinances, doth no 'less belong to Precepts, than Counsels?

Object. 2. Mit. 19.21. Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and fell that then hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in Heaven, and come and follow me. Here, saith Bellarmine, an Evangelical Counsel is plainly distinguisht from a Precept. The Precept we have in his answer to the young man's question, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? viz. Keep the Commandments; There's the Precept, Vers. 16.17. and to obey, that is sufficient for Salvation. But then he subjoins, If thou wilt be perfect, i. e. saith Bellarmine, if thou art not contented with bare Eternal Life, but dost aspire unto, and breathe after a more excellent degree in that Eternal Life, Then go, sell all, &c. Here's the Counsel.

Sol. 1. In these words Christ doth not give any Evangelical Counsel in the Papists sense. For

1. No greater reward than bare Eternal Life is proposed by Christ to him. Christ only saith to him, Thou shalt have treasure in Heaven; which phrase is common to all those, to whom the hope of Eternal Life is proposed: Matth. 6.20. Lay up for your selves treasures in Heaven. Now a bare Heaven, according to them, is not a sufficient reward for the Obedience of an Evangelical Counsel.

2. We utterly deny Bellarmine's Gloss on these words, If thou wilt be perfect, i. e. if thou aspire to an excellent degree in Eternal Life: but rather thus, If by the Observation of the Commandments here thou wouldst obtain Life Eternal hereafter, 'tis necessary that thou shouldst be perfect in thy Observation of them. But thou art not perfect, and therefore, in that way, thou canst not hope to obtain Eternal Life. Wast thou perfect, thou wouldst go and sell all thou hast, and give to the poor, but this thou wilt not do. The Perfection then that our Saviour intends, is a Perfection of Grace in this Life, not an higher degree of reward in the next. And that appears,

1. In our Saviour's answer to him, Mar. 10.21. One thing thou lackest: and Luke 18.22. Here our Saviour gives check to his vain boasting.

2. When he was gone away forrowful, mark what our Saviour adds, A rich man shall hardly enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, Vers. 23. He doth not say, Shall not obtain a Golden Coronet, or a greater degree of Glory; but plainly, He shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. Whence it follows, that this young man, because he did not follow our Saviour's counsel, was in danger of losing Eternal Life. Now the Papists affert, That he that resuseth to hearken to an Evangelical Counsel, thall incur no punishment; and let themselves be Judges, whether exclusion from Heaven be no punishment.

Object. 3. 1 Cor. 7. 25, 26. &c. Paul counsels, but doth not command Virginity and Continency to the Corintbians.

Sol. I. It doth not follow, that because Paul saith, I give my judgment, therefore he doth not command. Compare this with 2 Cor. 8. 10. Herein I give my advice, propular is respectively. This was concerning Almsdeeds; and do any Papitis number Exhortations to them among Evangelical Counsels? Or will they admit Marriage to be an Evangelical Counsel? and yet Paul adviseth to it, I Cor. 7. 2. To avoid Fornication, let every one have his own wife.

2. Evangelical Counsels have always a greater reward in Heaven proposed to the Observers of them. Read the whole Chapter, and see, whether Paul holds forth a more Glorious Crown to Virginity, yea, whether he doth so much as barely promise Eternal Life to it.

3. Evangelical Counsels are not backt with the intimations of Temporal Commodities, as these are here, Vers. 26, 28, 34.

Let this suffice for the first Conclusion. 1 proceed to the second.

2. Were it possible for the best of Saints perfectly to keep the Law of God, 2 Conclusion. vet even these supposed perfect ones cannot in the least oblige God, or merit any thing from the hand of his Justice. When we have done all those things which are commanded us, we are still unprofitable servants to our Sovereign Lord, we have done but that which was our duty to do. As to Merit, properly and strictly so called, it is the just desert of a voluntary action, whereunto a proportionable remard is due out of Justice, so that if it be not given, an injury is really committed, and he, to whom retribution properly appertaineth, should be really unjust if he did not exactly compensate. Some of the Papists soar very high in this point, Tapperus in and tell us roundly, that good Works do not only merit in respect of Explic. Artic. God's Gracious Covenant, but in regard of the worthiness of the Works art.9. themselves: And that God, for the greater honour of his Children, would have them to get Heaven by their Merit, which is more honourable to them than to receive it by God's free gift. 'Tis not for such bigh-born Souls as theirs humbly to expect and obtain Everlasting Happinels, as a Beggar doth his Alms; but to attaque Heaven by storm, to enter upon, and possess it, as the just reward of their Works, and to ride triumphantly through it as Conquerors. Others of the Papilts feem Bell. de just, more modelt, and they tell us, that the Saints do merit indeed, but then 1.5 c.16,17. their merits are subordinate to Christ's merits; nay, say they, they are derived from them, for Christ hath merited for us the power and grace of meriting: And therefore this Doctrine of Merit is far enough from obscuring the Glory of Christ's Merits: It rather argues the wonderful efficacy of them. 'Tis no blemish to the Sun, that the Moon and Stars thine with a borrowed Light from it. Fruitfulness of the Branches is no disparagement to the Vine. The dependent and subordinate efficacy of second Causes, is no detraction from the All-sufficiency and Omnipotency of the first. But for all these sugred words and fair pretences, we shall endeavour to make it evident, that such a fansied merit of pardon of sin, and eternal life, even by our best works, is an ungrounded, novel, unnecessary, impossible fiction.

1. Wholly ungrounded on the Scriptures. That Christ's Merit hath purchased for us Grace for the performance of good Works, we readily grant: but that he hath merited that we might merit, we utterly deny, as being a thing unheard of in the Writings of the Prophets and Apotiles.

2. Novel; 'tis a new upstart Opinion, so says that Malleus Jesuitarum, the incomparable Ulher. In former times of Popery, the ordinary Instruction appointed to be given to men on their Death-beds, was, That they should look to come to glory, not by their own Merits, but by the Virtue and Merits of Christ's Passion; and place their whole confidence in his Death only, and in no other thing, and interpose his Death between God and their fins. This made William of Wickham, Founder of New Colledge, profess, he trusted in Christ alone for Salvation; and Charles the Eighth did the like when he came to die; and Bellarmine bimself, when he was at the brink of Eternity, to profess, Tutissimum est, &c. give me a Christ, rather than all other pretended Merits what-

3. An unnecessary fiction. Hath Christ a fulness of Merit, and that of infinite value, to purchase Reconciliation and Acceptation both of our Persons and Services; together with an Everlasting Inheritance in the Kingdom of Heaven? Yea, or no? If it be denied, 'tis eafily proved out of Dan. 9. 24, 26. Col. 10. 19, 20. Fob. 17. 2. Heb. 9. 12, 15. If it be granted, that the Merit of Christ is of infinite value, and that Entia non funt by it he hath purchased in the behalf of his Members a full right unto Eternal Life and Happiness; if Christ hath merited for us perfection, and fulness of Grace and Glory, what necessity is there that we our selves should do this again?

> 4. 'Tis impossible. We cannot possibly by our best Works merit Eternal Life. We are faved by Mercy, not Merit, Rom. 3. 20. and Rom. 4. 2, 4, 6. by Grace, not of Works, Ephel. 2. 8, 9. Tit. 3. 5, 6, 7. and if by Grace, by Grace alone, not by Works, no blending of Grace and Works together, Rom. 11.6. To evidence this, let us but duly consider the necessary-Ingredients of Merit, and apply them to the best Works of the best of Saints. To render a Work properly and strictly meritorious of a reward, 'tis necessary that

1. There should be some equality, proportion, and suitableness between the Work and the Remard: But is there any equality betwixt the enjoyment of God in Heaven, and our imperfect Works on Earth? If I prefent my Prince with an Horse or Dog, and he requites me with a Lordship, will any man fay I have merited that Lordship? Of all Works none comparable to Martyrdom: but yet what compare between a Crown of Thorns here, and a Crown of Glory hereafter? 2 Cor. 4.17. not worthy to be named the same day, Rom. 8. 18.

2. That the Work done be profitable and advantageous to him of whom any thing is merited. But can a finful man be profitable unto God? Job 22.2, 3. and 35.7, 8. Can a man, he doth not mean an ordinary, fickly, weak, frail man, but a man at his best, a man in the flower and perfection, not only of his natural abilities, but in the richest Furniture and Array of his acquired and inspired Perfections. Take this man, a man of these Attainments and Accomplishments, and can be be profitable to God? can he bring any advantage, gain or profit unto God? Be he never so holy, never so righteous, doth the Lord receive any advantage by him, so as thereby God is his Debtor, and become beholden to him? No, no. The best of men cannot oblige God. The great FEHOVAH is perfect in himself, and therefore cannot receive any addition: he is Selffelf-sufficient, and therefore needs no addition. Holy David humbly acknowledges this, Pfal. 16. 2. My goodness extendeth not to thee: i.e. I am not able to do any good which reacheth to thy benefit, or increaseth thy happiness.

fure? and is there no profit in a treasure?

Sol. Yes. They are called his treasure, not because they profit him, but because he protects them, as a man would his treasure that is most dear to him.

Object. But is not the glorifying of God an advantage to him?

Sol. Our glorifying of God adds no more to him, than the reflecting Glass doth to the most beautiful Face. It only shews what God is, it doth not add to what God hath: Nay, at best 'tis but a dusty crackt Glass, Mat. 5. 16. A little Taper adds more Light to the Sun, than all men do or can to God.

3. That it be a Work that is not already due. Doth any man deserve an Estate for that Money whereby he discharges an old Debt. which is our duty to do, cannot possibly merit when 'tis done. We cannot oblige either God or man by performing our Obligation. All the Works we can do for God, are deserved by him. Hath not he created us? Doth he not every moment uphold our Souls in life? Hath he not redeem'd us, and so is infinitely before-hand with us every way? Dare any say, that God doth not deserve that they should do the utmost they can for his Service and Glory? If he doth, is it not Pride and Impudence to pretend merit from God? Thus our Saviour argues in the Text. where he proves, that, because the servant had done no more than was bis duty to do, therefore he did not merit in doing it: When yo have done all, say, We are unprofitable servants, we have done that which mas our duty to do. He that hath done all those things that are commanded him, is a man indeed, a man of worth, a man of men: but where to be found on Earth? But let it be granted; that he hath reacht to the utmost. line of the Command, he is yet an unprofitable servant, he hath done but bis duty. A man of worth he may be, a man of merit he is not, he cannot be. There neither is, nor can be any good Work acceptable to God, which God hath not commanded. Of all other Works whatever his Query is, Who bath required them at your hands? Isai. 1.12. and if it be commanded, then it is due to God; and if so, then by giving that to God which is his due, we do not merit, no not so much as thanks, Luke 17.9, 10. We are not our own, we are the Lord's. We are bought with a price, we owe our whole selves for our Creation and Redemption, 1 Cor. 6, 20. and therefore we ought to glorifie God in our Bodies and Souls, which are the Lord's. If we our Selves our Bodies and Spirits are the Lord's, much more are all our Services his. If the Perfon be anothers, all the work that is or can be done by him are his too.

4. That, what good Works we do, be our own. A man cannot merit by giving that to another, which he had from him to whom he gave it. A King's Almoner merits not by distributing his Sovereigns Alms. Now every good gift, and every perfect gift, is from above, 7am.1.17. What hath, or doth the best of Saints, that he hath not received? I Cor. 4. 7. Is it not the Lord that worketh in them, both to will and do? Phil. 2. 12, 13. Do not all Works that are good, as they are good, proceed from his Spirit? Are they not the Fruits that spring from that Divine Root? Gal. 5.20. Is not Repentance his gift? Acti. 11.18. and 5.31. Is it not given to us both to believe and to Suffer? Phil. 1.29. Without bim, can we, of our felves, do any thing? Joh. 15.5. Nav, can we so much as think a good thought of our selves? 2 Cor. 3.5. Is it not he that works all our works for us, and in us? Isai. 26.12. And therefore certainly by them God cannot be bound to bestow more upon us. Durand in 1.2. Hence Durandus, to the great regret of Merit-mongers, with much Sen. dist. 27. zeal and strength, impugns and contends against the merit of Con-

5. That it be not mixt and tainted with sin. That Action which needs a Pardon, cannot deserve a Remard. Can that, for which we deserve Hell, and Eternal Death, merit Heaven, and Eternal Life? Now as good Works are wrought by us, they are defiled and mixed with fo much weakness and impertection, that they cannot endure the severity of God's Judgment, Isai. 64. 6. Gal. 5. 17. Rom. 5. 17, 18. Pfal. 142.2. and 130.3. All our Graces are imperfect, all our Duties are polluted; and therefore stand in need of Favour, Grace and Acceptation: and where then is their merit?

Object. 1. But is not Eternal Life called a Reward? and doth not that strongly prove merit? Mat. 5. 12. Great is your Remard.

Sol. I. Compare Scripture with Scripture, and then judge. Is not Eternal Life said to be the Gift of God? Rom: 6. 23. Can a free Gift be deserved or merited? Again, is not Eternal Life called an Inheritance? Rom. 8. 17. Gal. 4. 7. Ephes. 1. 14, 18. Col. 1. 12. fame Estate be mine by Inheritance, and by Purchase?

Yes, fay the Papists. The Glory which Christ had, was his by Inberitance, for he was Heir of all things, Heb. 1.2. and yet 'twas his by Purchase too: He dearly paid for it, Phil. 2. 7, 8, 9, 10.

True, but this was in divers respects, because he had two Natures: As he was the Eternal Son of God, it was his Inheritance, and belonged to the Manhood only as united to the Godhead. As he was Man, he might, and did Purchase it by what he did, and suffered in the flesh. But in Saints there are not two Natures, nor any ground of pretence for Purchase.

2. Doth not the Scripture clearly speak of two kinds of Rewards, of Grace and of Debt? and withal affirms, that the Reward that God gives to good men, is meerly of Grace, not of Debt, Rom. 4. 4.

Bellarmine tells us it may be of both.

No; The Apostle utterly forbids that: If it be of Grace, then is it no more of works, Rom. i1.6 .-- 4. 4, 5.

Object. 2. But God gives this reward to men, for working in his Vinevard, Mat. 20. 8.

Sol. True, but still the reward appears to be of grace, else why should he that came in at the last hour, receive as much as they that had born the heat and burthen of the day? ver. 12.

Object. 3. But God is said to reward men according to their works; according to, i. e. according to the proportion of them, and that implies merit, Rev. 20. 13. 2 Cor. 11. 15.

Sol. I must demur to this gloss on these Texts, and that,

1. Because, since God is pleas'd to reward in us his own gifts and graces, not our Merits, as Bernard speaks, He may still keep a proportion, and to them to whom he gave more grace here, he may give more glory hereafter, and yet there is no more merit in this additional reward, than in the rest.

2. I may as well conclude, the blind men merited their fight, because Christ saith, Be it unto you according to your Faith, Mat. 9. 29. as we may gather Merit from this phrase, according to your works.

Object. 4. Good works mentioned, as the Causes, for which God gives eternal Life, Mat. 25.35. Come ye bleffed, &c. for I was bungry, and ye gave me meat, &c.

Sol. Paul did not think this a good Argument; for though he knew that it was faid of Abraham, Because thou hast done this thing, I will bless Gen. 12.16.17. thee: yet he flatly denies the merit of Abrahams works, Rom. 4.2, 6. Gal. 3.5. And, when he fays of himself, I obtained mercy, because I did it ignorantly, I Tim. 1.13. who can imagine that he means that his ignorance merited mercy. The King said, I forgive thee all thy debt, because thou desiredst me, Mat. 18. 32. Did his meer asking deserve it?

Object. 5. Good men own'd by God, as worthy of the Kingdom of God,

2 Theff. 1: 5. Rev. 3. 4.

Sol. These are said to be worthy, not as the Labourer is worthy of his Luke 10. 7. I Tim. 5. 17, bire, Mat. 10. 10.

1. But Comparatively, in respect of other men, that are most unworthy.

2. By Gods gracious acceptation of them, in, and through Christ, Acts 5. 41. Mat. 22. 8. But otherwise the boliest of Saints have ever judged themselves most unworthy of the least of God's mercies. So far have they been from proudly thinking themselves worthy of eternal life. Mat. 8. 8. alone that makes us thus meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the 2 Thes. 1. 5. Saints in light. 'Tis therefore no less than impudence to pretend to Col. 1, 12. men't from God by it: and if yet any will be so audacious as to boast of their own worth and merit, let them be pleased to answer the Apo-file's close, and cutting questions; I Cor. 4, 7. Who maketh thee to differ? and what hast thou, that thou didst not receive? now if thou didst receive it, why dost thou glory as if thou didst not receive it?

Use I.

Infer. 1. If then legal, sinless Perfection, and merit for our selves by our best works, notwithstanding all its plausible pretexts, stands convicted, and cast, what shall we think of works of Supererogation? what intollerable arrogance, boldly, and without a blush to assirt, that divers of the Saints have not only merit enough to purchase eternal life for them-selves, but a great deal to spare for the relief of others. This self-advancing, and heaven-daring Doctrine of works of Supererogation, what self-searching soul is there that looks not on it as the highest strain, two or three notes at least above Ela, indeed such a note, as not the holiest Teraphim, Seraphim, Arch-Angel, durst ever yet pretend to reach to, no not in their highest Halelujahs. Supererogation! both the word and thing point out to us the Top Round of the Popish Arrogancy. Or if you please, you may look upon it as the grand Bellows of the Popes Kitchin here, and of his comfortable importance, his most beneficial Laboratory, viz. Purgatory, hereafter.

The Papists jumble in this Doctrine among the croud of several other ungrounded, unscriptural, novel, and absurd opinions. And, that you may see that it is much beneath these grand Sophy's, vel delirare, vel insanire, nisi cum ratione, thus they erect their Babel. A Lanscape whereof is exactly drawn by the skilful pencil of the truly Reverend and Learned Davenant.

1. First then they readily acknowledg and declare, that God-man Christ Jesus did fully satisfie the Justice of God by his offering up of him-self a facrifice for sin, and that by that Sacrifice did fully expiate the sins of Believers. A truth this written with a Sun-beam. But then with the Text, you must take the Popish Comment too. This satisfaction and expiation, say they, is to be understood only in respect of their guilt of mortal sins, and of their eternal punishment due thereupon, but not at all in respect of their temporal punishment. As for this, they are wholly lest to themselves, either to sink or swim; and notwithstanding all that Christ hath done, suffered, purchased, promised, Believers are still liable to it, and that not only in the present World, but for some time, at least in the next, i, e. in Purgatory.

To follow them rala mosass step by step.

1. As to that pretty new-coin'd distinction between the full remission of the guilt of sin, and yet inflicting of the punishment after the pardon of the guilt. Tell me, what is guilt? is it not a liablents and being bound over to punishment? Is it any thing more or less: therefore if the guilt be taken away, of necessity, the punishment must be taken away also. All punishment results from guilt, and from guilt alone, and there-

therefore if there be a full expiation of that, the punishment must needs cease, let the kind of it be what it will. If a sin be remitted, pardoned, fergiven, it cannot in equity be punished. All punishment in order to satisfaction of justice is utterly inconsistent with the nature and tenor of remission of sin. 'Tis a great and known maxim, In sublata culpa, tollitur Exempto rea-& pana; and backt by the concurrent testimony of the Ancient. Or as if a Judge or King should cause an O yes to be made, and then proclaim a free and gracious pardon to a desperate malefactor, or rather to his own prodigal, rebellious Son; thus, Son, I do, before Men and Angels, and in the face of the whole World, freely forgive you all your debaucheries, rebellions, treasons, I frankly quit you from the guilt of all your bloody crimes, only I remember some little incogitancies, some slight slips of your youth; and these I must not, cannot pardon. 4. But tell me, Papists, suppose you laid your ear close to that fiery dungeon of Purgatory, and should there hear elected Believers, such for whom Christ hath eternal love, and particularly died, and such as are truly regenerated and adopted; (for none but such are there, according to your felves): Suppose, I say, you heard an Asa, an Hezekiah, a 7ebosaphat, a Mary Magdalen, nay one of your own most holy Popes, (who all have had their little flips, venial fins at least) yelling, howling, crying out with Dives, wo is us, wo is us, for we are tormented in this flame. And, though they cannot, dare not in the least murmur against, or impatiently complain of God, (that were a mortal fin, not committable in Purgatory) yet might they not without offence complain to God in fuch language as this: Ab dear Father, the Father of thy dearest Son our only Surety and Saviour, who now fits at thy right-hand, and where one day me shall sit near him; wert not thou be that didst most freely and faithfully promife us, when we were on earth, to blot out all our fins as a cloud, and our transgressions as a mist? Isa. 43.25. To cover them with the robes of thy Son's Righteousness? Pfal. 32. 1, 2. To cast all our sins into the depth of the Sea? Mic. 7. 18,19. Not to impute our trespasses? Rom. 4.8. Ah dear Father, were these indeed thy promises, and didst thou in our life-time, by thy Spirit, feal to our Consciences the faithful performance of them? and is this thy performance of them? Is this thy kindness to thy friend? as once Rebeccab, if it be so, why are we thus? Gen. 25. 22. Is all thy promised mercy come to this? O consider and see whether there be any forrow greater than our forrow, which is done unto us, wherewith the Lord himself, our Father, and not the Divel, hath afflicted us, in the day of bis fierce anger. True indeed, our mountains are buried in the depth of the Sea, but our molebills fink us; all our talent-debt's are paid, but we lie, and rot, and burn, and die, for some little fees. Tell me, Papists, if you heard such a complaint as this, would it not make your bowels to wamble? would you not be apt to bid 'em bulb, and be still, for fear, lest it should be nois'd in Gath, and blab'd abroad in the streets of Askelon; lest that on the other side of the wall, in Hell, (which, you say, stands but the next wall to Purgatory), a damned Caitiff should hear it, and say, Aha, aha, thus would we have it; thus, oh thus let all those be served, and saved, that, while they lived on earth, believed on, and were obedient to a crucified. Fesus. In one word, for God to elect, redeem, regenerate, justify, adopt, sanctify, accept, promise, swear, and to do yet much more for pardoned sinners on earth, and yet in a vindictive what is it less than the highest contradiction?

Object. 1. But we must not think the learned Bellarmine will be so ca- Bellarm. de fily muzzled: bark he will and must, though bite he cannot. If Christ, Purg. l. I. C. 10. faith he, satisfied for all the fault and punishment, why then do we suffer so many evils after the remission of guilt? Doth not God lay many evils on pardoned persons? Was not Moses pardoned as to his rash anger, but vet must die in Mount Nebo for his trespass? Deut. 32. 48. &c. The Israelites pardoned, but yet punished, Numb. 14. 20, 21, 22, 23. David pardoned, but yet the Child must die, and the Father stabb'd through the Child's loins, 2 King. 12. 14.

Sol. 1. These are not properly and strictly punishments. True, materially they look like such, and may be owned as such, but not formally. Fatherly Chastisements they are, Legal Punishments they are not: Medicinal, but not Penal: Rhubarb, not Poison: Lancets only, not Stilletto's: Ligaments, not Halters. They do not come from God's Vindictive Wrath, nor doth he in the least design them for the satisfaction of his Justice; but they proceed from other causes, and are designed for other ends. They are the Issues of his Paternal love and tenderness, Heb. 12. 5, 6. Rev. 3. 19. To make them more sensible of the evil of sin, Fer. 4. 18. To prove their Graces, Deut. 8. 16. To purge their Consciences, Isai. 27.9. Refine their Spirits, Zech. 13.9. I Pet. 1.6. and to save their Souls, 1 Cor. 11. 32. 2 Cor. 4. 17. For God thus to afflict and punish, may very well stand with pardoning Grace; but to punish under any notion of satisfaction, save only that of Christ, cannot.

Object. 2. Death is the wages of sin, Rom. 6.23. and yet the righteous, though all their fins are forgiven in Christ, are not delivered from death.

Sol. 1. At the last day they shall be delivered from death it self, I Cor. 15.26, 55.

2. In death, are delivered from the sting and curse of death, I Cor. 15.

56. Heb. 2.75.

3. In that they die, this is out of God's love, Isai. 57. 1, 2. 2 King. 22. 20. And that because,

1. It frees them perfectly from fin and mifery, Ephef. 5. 26, 27. Rev.

2. It makes them capable of further Communion with God in Glory, which they then enter upon, Luke 23. 43. Phil. 1. 23.

Thus much as to their first Assertion, we proceed to the second.

II. They tell us, That for the preventing or removing of these temporal punishments both here and in Purgatory, (notwithstanding the fulness of Christ's satisfaction and merit) there must be humane satisfactions made to God by Believers themselves, and that for themselves or others. hole creep in a world of Popish Vanities: Hence severe Penances, trequent Fastings, late Vigils, tedious Pilgrimages, bloody corporal Lash-

ings,

ings, voluntary Poverty. All these are Humane satisfactions before death. After death, Masses, Prayers, Dirges, Indulgences, Pardons, these for them that at their death are pinion'd up, and carried bound to Purgatory, and this only for venial sins, such as break no square at all betwixt God and Souls, such as do not deserve the loss of God's favour, nor exclusion from Heaven to Purgatory, I say, whose stames, and exquisite torments differ nothing from those of Hell but only in duration, the one being but for a time, the other everlassing.

As to this fine device of Humane satisfaction by Believers for themfelves or others, we demand,

1. In Christ's Humiliation, Was there a fulness, an all-fulness of satisfaction, to make an ample amends to God's enraged Justice, yea, or no? If it be denied, doubted, or disputed, by the Socinian, or Papist, we thus prove it. The fulness of Christ's satisfaction is.

1. Most clearly typisted in the Old Testament, in those three samous instances, the burning of the Sacrifices by fire from Heaven, Lev. 1. 9. Judg. 6. 17, 21. 2 Chron. 7. 1, 3. and made them ascend towards the place of God's glorious possession. The compleatness of the daily bloody Sacrifice, Exod. 29. 40. The sweetness of the things required in the Meat and Drink-Offering, Exod. 29. 40. Lev. 2. 2, 15. All these Types of the sulness of Christ's satisfaction.

2. Plainly afferted in the New Testament, Ephes. 5. 2. Christ hath given himself for us, an Offering and a Sacrifice to God for a sweet smelling savour. Wherein observe these two things:

1. The Sufficiency: An Offering and a Sacrifice to God.

2. The fragrancy and acceptableness unto God of the Offering and Sacrifice of Christ. Christ's Offering and Sacrifice of himself was as acceptable unto God, as the sweetest Odours are unto mens sense of simel-ling.

3. Really evidenced by Christ's Exaltation, as an evident sign or token thereof. Christ was thrown into the Prison of the Grave, as our Surety, for our fins, and no possibility of delivery of him thence, but by paying the utmost farthing we owed unto God's Justice. But now, as the Prophet saith, He was taken from Prison and Judgment, Isai. 53. 8. raised from the dead, taken up into Heaven, placed at God's right hand, I Cor. 15.4. Mark 16.19. there admitted into the glorious exercise of an Authoritative Intercession, Heb. 7. 25. A most convincing Argument that he hath paid off all our debt, given full recompence to God's displeased Holiness, sufficient satisfaction to his Justice provoked by our fins. Hereupon that of our Saviour, John 16.8, 10. The Comforter will convince the World of Righteousness, because I go to my Father: i. e. The Spirit shall convince the World, not only that Christ was righteous, or innocent in his own person, and therefore unjustly numbred among transgreffors; but that there mas Righteousness enough in him for the justification of the whole World of his Elect: and the Argument whereby he proves it, is, Because 1 go to my Father. Our sins and God's Justice would have kept Christ still in his Grave, and never admitted him into Heaven, till he had sulfilled all Righteousness: i. e. till he had performed all the Duties, and suffered the whole curse of the Law as touching the substance thereof, for those for whom he lived and died a Surety. On this it is that Paul firmly grounds his triumphing considence, and bids desiance to Sin, Law, Death and Devils, Rom. 8. 33, 34. with Rom. 4.25.

4. Plain, From the infinite Worthiness of his Person; and that whether you consider Christ's Humiliation under the notion of a Price, or Sacrifice.

1. As a Price which he paid for us, of great and inestimable value, by reason of the Worthiness of his Person. The precious Blood of Christ, 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19. the Blood of God, Act. 20. 28. A full, and sufficient Price of ransom, Psal. 130. 7, 8. From the guilt and dominion of sin, from the curse and rigor of the Law, all steps and degrees of Salvation, from all sins, all evil that is in sin, all the sad and miserable consequents and effects of sin. And a sufficient Price of Purchase to obtain love, kindness, life, righteousness, savour and acceptance, together with all the gracious and glorious fruits thereof.

2. As a Sacrifice, which he offered for us, an all-pleasing Sacrifice, by reason of the Infiniteness of his Person. By one Offering for ever perfected those that are sanctified, Heb. 10. 14. The great acceptableness of this Sacrifice unto God, proceeds from the Dignity of the Priest offering, the Eternal Son of God, in whom God was infinitely wellpleased, Mat. 3. 17. From the Sacrifice offered, the Blood shed was the Blood of God, Act. 20. 28. From the Altar on which 'twas offered, the Divine Nature, Heb. 9.14. Tell me then, is there in Christ's Humiliation an all-fulness of satisfaction to Divine Justice, yea, or no? If so, What need then in the least of this fig-leaf of Humane satisfaction? To what purpose do we light up a dim Taper, and a smoaky Candle, when we have before us the clear and full light of a mid-day Sun? If Christ's satisfaction be of infinite price, why may it not serve for the expiation of the guilt of Temporal, as well as Eternal punishment? If there be an all-sufficiency in Christ's satisfaction, what need the supplement of ours?

Object. 1. Did not Paul rejoice in his safferings for the Church, and fill up that which was behind of the afflictions of Christ in his flesh, for his Bodies sake which is the Church? Col. 1.24.

Sol. A great difference betwixt suffering for the good of others, and satisfying for the fault and guilt of others. A Paul may do the former, a Christ only can do the latter. And this was the sole cause of Paul's rejoycing, the great benefit that accrued to the Church by his suffering. True indeed, Paul is said to fill up, &c. not as if there were any thing lacking or defective in the sufferings of Christ, Heb. 10. 14.

and 7. 25. but by the sufferings of Christ our Spiritual means, not Christ personal, but Christ mystical, that is, the Body Christ, or true Believers. i. e. Christ in his Members, who are usually called Christ, Act. 9.4. 2 Cor. 1. 5. Heb. 11. 25. When Christ had done suffering in his Person, he left it as a Legacy to his Members, that they should suffer with him, and for him, Act. 9. 16. and 14. 22. 2 Tim. 3. 12. Well then, Paul suffers for the Church: but how? so as to satisfie God's Justice for them? Oh no. Paul rejects this sense with indignation, Was Paul crucified for you? I Cor. 1.13. But as he is said sometimes to suffer for Christ, 2 Cor. 12. 10. not surely to Satisfie for him, but to glorifie him; so he suffers for the Churches edification, and establishment, and so he elsewhere explains himself, Phil. 1. 12. 2 Tim. 2. 10. Hence it is, that 2 Tim. 2.9. he is faid to labour in the Word even unto bonds. Nor doth Paul think by his sufferings to redeem others from their suffering, but by his example to excite them to the same constancy: wherefore he faith, he suffered all things for the Elect, not that they should expect fatisfaction for their fins in the merit of his sufferings, but that they might obtain the Salvation that is in Christ.

Object. Here the Papists gravely reply upon us, Not to supply the wants or defects of Christ's satisfaction, but to apply it unto us. 'Tis one of the Instruments ordained by God, for the application of Christ's satisfaction.

faction to us in the taking away of Temporal punishment.

Sol. Quid verba audiam, shew us the least tittle of ground for this Harangue in the Book of God.

1. A new satisfaction no more required to apply the satisfaction of Christ, than a new Death, Redemption, Resurrection is, to apply the Death, Redemption, and Resurrection of Christ.

2. By their own limitation and restriction of the use of Christ's satisfaction. They limit the use of Christ's satisfaction, to the taking away the fault only, and that of mortal tins alone, and eternal punithment due for them; and how then can Humane satisfaction apply the satisfaction of Christ for the taking away of Temporal punishment?

3. These pretended Humane satisfactions are no Instruments of application of Christ's satisfaction: for such Instruments are all Ordinances of God, branches of his Worship, so are not the pains of Purgatory. Besides, all means of applying the satisfaction of Christ, proceed from the Grace, mercy and savour of God; pains of Purgatory from God's Justice, and are of a destructive nature.

3. These pretended Humane satisfactions are very injurious unto, and derogatory from Christ's satisfaction, in that

1. They make Christ's satisfaction to be imperfect, in that it adds there-unto a supply of Humane satisfaction.

Object. So far from derogating from the Dignity of Christ's satisfaction, as they rather make to the greater Honour thereof, because it deriveth all our power of satisfying from Christ's satisfaction. 'Tis no derogation from from God's Omnipotency, that he works by second Causes; that in working the greatest Miracles, he makes use of the meanest Servants. No impeachment, but rather an honour to Christ's Satisfaction, to have it advanced so far, as that by virtue thereof the Members of Christ are made in part Satisfiers of Divine Justice.

Sol. One tittle of Scripture-proof for this, or else the Protestant's Negation is as authentick as the Papilt's Affection.

2. It communicates to man power of satisfying, which is the peculiar and incommunicative Prerogative of Christ alone. This appears from two grand fruits of Christ's satisfaction, proper and peculiar thereunto, viz. Redemption, and Reconciliation.

1. Redemption. Christ alone hath redeemed us, Gal. 2.13. Now if Redemption be not communicated, ergo not satisfaction; for Redemption is founded on satisfaction. Now Papists themselves acknowledge no Mediator of Redemption besides him, Heb. 1. 3.

2. Full and perfect Reconciliation with God, Rom. 5. 10. Col.1.21,22. These and like places to be understood exclusive. Reconciled to God, 2 Cor.5.19: i.e. only by Christ's Blood and Death, Isai. 53. 5. No Chastisement Psal. 51.9. whatever, beside that of his, can pacifie God's wrath against us, or can Isai. 38.17. procure our peace with him. Papists acknowledge, that nothing which and 1.8, finful man can do or suffer, is able to purchase the return of God's favour and friendship: so then if mens best works and greatest sufferings cannot reconcile us unto God, neither can they satisfie the Justice of God, because Reconciliation of God to man follows satisfaction to his Justice; and if God be once fully and perfectly reconciled, no place for any other punishment, though but temporal, because the Friends of God, and Members of Christ cannot be condemned.

Object. But Humme sitisfactions are to us very considerable, Bonus odor Incri. The vast and sweet profits, the large Incoms and Revenues which these bring to the D spensers of them. This Fabula meritorum, (like that Fabula Christi, as one of their Popes said, and he spake like himfelf) is not eatily to be parted with. Methinks I hear their good Brother Demetrius, chapping them on the shoulder, and crying, Euge; Matte, Go on, Nible Souls, go on and prosper. Alas, Silver Shrines for the great Diana are in danger, yea her Holiness her self is in danger; and not the, or not so much she, as we, Our Craft is in danger to be set : at nought, Act. 19. 24 &c.

Sol. Pardon me, if here I make no reply, but ingenuously confess, with that Learned and Worthy Brother, in his late excellent and finery Dr. Jacomb, . Tract on Rom. 8. that I cannot answer it. But, this being taken away, Lassure my felf, saith he, this Controverse would soon be at an end. 'Tis the satisfying of corrupt men in their pride and avarice, and filthy lucre, rather than the satisfying of a punishing God, that is at the bottom of this Controversie.

Thus much as to the second Romish Position.

III. There have been, say the Papists, now are, and still will be in the Church some eminent and transcendent Saints, such as the Virgin Mary, John Baptist, St. Peter, St. Paul, Ignatius Loiola, St. Dominic, St. Francis, and many fignal Martyrs and Confessors, that, by the affishing Grace of God vouchfafed to them in this life, and the wife improvement of their own free-will, have been enabled perfecily, and personally, and perpetually to keep the whole Law of God; and by this, have merited Eternal Life for themselves, and greater degrees of Glory: Nay more, not only fo, not only done all the good which the Lord required, or only just fo much as the Law demanded; not only given the Lord good meafure. pressed down, and shaken together, but even running over, i. e. by lending an obedient ear to God's Evangelical Counsels, which are things of greater moment by far with Papists, than God's Moral Precepts, they have even done more than the Law demands, more than was needful to be done by them for the obtaining of Eternal Salvation, and have suffered more grievous torments than their fin deserved: and by both, have most plentitully merited for others. The vanity and rottenness of this third suggestion. I suppose I have sufficiently evidenced in the proof of my first and second Proposition, and therefore hasten to the next Affertion of the Papists, which is,

Concil. Trid. fec. 6. c. 18. Bell. de Justis. lib. 4. c. 10.

IV. These redundant and over-flowing meritorious actions and sufferings of eminent Saints, being mixed and jumbled together with the superabundant satisfaction of Christ, (concerning which Clement 6th tells us, that one drop of Christ's Blood was sufficient for the Redemption of all Mankind, as if all the rest might have been well spared) are, say they, deposited in the Churches hands as a common Stock and Irea-

Sury.

Fifthly and lastly, The Key of this Church-Treasury is committed by God to the whole and sole care and dispose of his Holiness the Pope himself, the whole Treasury to be disposed of by him and his Delegates, and to be applied to poor, penitent, and contrite sinners, that so by the Popes Bull and Indulgencies they may enjoy the benefit of those merits, and be delivered either from Church-Censures on Earth, or the pains of Purgatory, next door to Hell.

Luther.

To both these I shall briefly say but thus much, Et risum teneatis amici? or rather, Quis talia fando temperet a Lachrymis? This, this was the thing that first raised the Spirit of that German Elijah, to put his life into his hand, and in the strength of his God to go out against the Romish Goliah. Pope Leo had gratified his dear Sister Magdalene with a large Monopoly of German Pardons. Aremboldus her Factor was a little too covetous, and held the Market too high. The heighth of his overrated Ware, caused the Chapmen, and among the rest, Luther, a little more narrowly to inspect their worth, and they were soon sound to be, what indeed they are, a novel, and irrational vanity, an apstant Opinion; not known saith Cornelius Agrippa, Polidore Virgil, and Machiavel, to the Churches, till the year 1300. in Boniface the Eighth his days, who was the first that extended Indulgencies to Purgatory, and the first that devised the Jubilee, which is indeed the Mart or Market for the full uttering of them.

But to let pass the Novelty, do but seriously weigh the sinfulness of this Opinion. 'Tis grounded on a supposed merit in Saints. Now merit is that which purchaseth a thing de novo, which we had not before, and to make that due which one had not before, but may now lay just claim to. If so, how deeply derogatory is this opinion to the fulness of Saints merit, to purchase all reconciliation and acceptation both of our persons and fervices, together with an everlasting Inheritance in the Kingdom of Heaven, Dan. 9. 24, 25, 26. Col. 1. 19, 20. Joh. 17.2. Heb. 9.12, 15. If the merit of Christ be of infinite value, and that by it he hath purchafed in behalf of us his Members a full right unto eternal life and happiness, then their good works do not make the same newly due. they make it any way due, either in whole, or in part: If in whole, then Christ hath merited nothing for them; if in part, then something of eternal life there is, which Christ hath not merited: either way there is a manifest derogation from the merits of Christ.

As for that Ignis fatuus of Purgatory, I refer you to the learned Labours of my Reverend Brother, that in this Book professedly treats of that subject.

I have done with the felf-advancing Papist. A few words more to the felf-abborring Reformed Protestant, and I have done.

1. Be sincerely careful to maintain and practise good works, and that Use 2. Exwith all your might, even to the end of your days, Tit. 3.8. Dorcas hortation. was full of good works, Act. 9.36. Yea, provoke one another to love, and to good works, Heb. 10.24. Let not this thought, that you cannot, when you have done all, either merit, or supererogate by them, tempt you to neglect the holy, faithful, humble, constant performance of them. Do them then, but do them for necessary uses, for the noble ends by God prescribed. Not for this end, as if by them to merit or supererogate; leave that design to the Pharifaical Papist. But in all your Obedience, active, passive, aim directly,

1. At the evidencing of the truth, and liveliness of your faith, Jam. Opera non sunt 2.18, 22. To shew your faith by your works. Abraham's faith was causa, quod alimade perfect by his works. Not as if Abraham's faith received its worth, and Deum, sed value and perfection from his works, but made perfect, i. e. made potius funt maknown and discovered, as God's strength is said to be perfected in our nifestationes weakness. Or thus, his faith co-working with his obedience, was justitia. Aquin. made perfect, i. e. bettered and improved, as the inward vigour of your 2 Cor. 12. 9.

2. At the manifestation of your thankfulness. Thus David, Psal. 116. 12, 13. What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits towards me? I will take the Cup of Salvation, and call upon the Name of Pet. 2,9. Lord. To shew forth the praises of him, who hath called you ou 1 Pet. 1.5, to 11 darkness into his marvellous light.

3. At the strengthening of your assurances of God's special love towa you. Hereby ye shall know that you know him, if ye keep his Comma ments, that in you verily the love of God may be perfected, and t bereby you may know that you are in him, I Joh. 2.3,5.

4. At the edification of your Brethren, that your Zeal may provoke many, as that of the Brethren of Achaia did those of Macedonia, 209.2. Let your light so shine before men, not that they may magnyou, but gloriste your Father which is in Heaven, Mat. 5. 16.

5. At the adorning of your profession of the Gospel, and stopping the mouths of adversaries, Tit. 2. 5, 9, to 13. I Tim. 6. 1. 1

6. Chiefly and principally at the Glory of God, I Cor. 10. 31. your Conversation be so honest, that, whereas they speak against you evil doers, though their Corruptions accuse you, their Consciences racquit you, that they may by your good works which they shall behold, wisher God in the day of visitation, I Pet. 2. 12. Phil. 1. 11. Joh. 15 Gloriste God, I say, whose workmanship you are, created in Christ sunto good works, which God hath before ordained, that ye sho walk in them, Ephes. 2. 10. that so, having your fruit unto boliness, may have the end, or consequent, not the merit of your works, reternal life, Rom. 6. 22.

2. As, when you have done all, you are but an unprofitable ferver and therefore must not presume to come to God in the opinion of your worthiness, yet be not afraid to come to God because of your una thiness. The worst of men should not keep off from God because the are unprositable, since the best cannot profit him. If we have done must it is nothing to the Lord; and if we have done nothing, it is no base the Lord his doing much for us. God will not turn us back because bring him nothing; nay, he invites us to come without any thing.

55. 1. without money, or money-worth.

3. When you have done all, and are most fully laden with go works, beg earnestly of God to work and keep in you low and hum thoughts of your self, of all you do or suffer for him. They, of who God hath the highest thoughts, have the meanest thoughts of, and the lowest rate upon themselves. No man ever received a fairer Censicate from God than Job did, Job 1. 1, 8. SERMON XVII.

The Popish Doctrine, which forbiddeth to Marry, is a Devilish and Wicked Doctrine. The Thomas Vincent eth expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and dostrines of devils, speaking lyes in hypocrisie, having their consciences seared with a hot iron, Forbidding to Marry.

He Church of Rome hath been in her day as famous and truly worthy of Renown, as any Church which we read of, either in Scripture or Ecclefiastical History: I mean in the Primitive days of Christianity, whilst she retained her Primitive Faith and Purity. Her Fame was great and growing, even whilst the Apostle Paul was alive, who writing unto her, giveth thanks unto God for her, That her Faith was spoken of thorowout the whole World. Rom. 1.8. This Church had the advantage of being seated in the Mistress-City of the Earth, where the Court then was of the chief Empire; unto which refort being made from all parts of the World, the most of which at that time were subject and Tributary unto Rome; her Faith and Obedience unto the Gospel of Christ so openly professed, so generally known and taken notice of at home, was spread abroad, and carried far and near by strangers in their return from Rome into their own Countries. Then the Church of Rome was truly Apostolical, being built upon the Foundation of the Prophets and Apostles, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone, Ephes. 2.20. And so long as she kept this Foundation, her building was of Silver, Gold, precious Stones; fo long the did thine with true Lustre and Glory. But in process of time this so famous a Church did decline, and by degrees degenerate, so that at length she became an infamous Apostatical Church, and the seat of Antichrist himself, the greatest Enemy, next the Devil, which Christ hath in the World. When she lest her Foundation, her glorious Building of purer Metals and precious Stones, was changed into infirm and course Building of Wood, Hay and Stubble, which is under the curse, and whose end is to be consumed with Fire: Then her Golden Head fell off, and was strangely metamorphosed into Feet of Iron and Clay, which the Stone hewen out of the Mountain without hands will dash to pieces.

This Defection and Apostacy of the Church of Rome, was foreseen, and foretold by the Apostle Paul in this Epistle to Timothy, as also most plainly in his second Epistle to the Thessalonians. In the Text he that runneth may read a true Description of the Apostate Church of Rome: Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing Spirits, and Dostrines of Devils, speaking lyes in hypocrisie, having their Consciences seared with a bot Iron,

The Church of Rome doth assume to her self to be The House of God, the Church of the living God, the Pillar and Ground of Truth, spoken of Vers. 15. of the former Chapter. If it should be granted that she was fo at the first, and when the Apostle did write this Epistle, although he spake not of her in particular then, but of the Christian Church in the general, of which the was a part; methinks fince her Corruption and Apostalie, since her great Degeneration into Antichristianism, she might apply unto her felf (fure I am that others do with firm reason) what is afferted and foretold in the Text, which in every particular is very applicable unto her. Now the Spirit Speaketh exprestly. By the Spirit, we are to understand the Spirit of God, who speaketh expressly by the mouth of this Apostle, a man full of the Holy Ghost, whereby he was infallibly guided in what he here writeth and foretelleth. Or the Spirit speaketh expresly, that is, in some other place of Divine Writ, saith Learned Mr. Foseph Mede upon the place: and he instanceth in Dan. 11. 36,37,38,39. which he interpreteth and accommodateth to this Scripture, That in the latter times; The latter times is sometimes taken for the last Age of the World, which includeth all the times of the Gospel; but I rather think by the latter times we are to understand the latter Age of the Christian Church, which must be removed some considerable time from the times of the Apostle, and so is suitable to the Apostasie of the Roman Church. Some thall depart, &c. Hereby, faith Mr. Mede, we are not to understand a small number, but only the exception of some particulars: thus some is of the same import with many in Scripture ulage, 70h. 6. 60, 66, compared with 64. Rom. 11. 17. 1 Cor. 10. 7, 8, 9, 10. Some Shall depart from the Faith, that is, they shall depart from the Doctrine of Faith, and thus the Papists do most grossy, as in many other, so particularly in their Doctrine of Justification by works, To corrupt, and contrary unto the Doctrine which this same Apostle taught in his Epistle to the Romans. Or some shall depart from the Faith, that is, faith Mede, they shall break their Oath of Fidelity unto Christ, that in and through him alone they should approach and worship the Divine Majesty; and he interpreteth this Apostasie to signific no other than Idolatry, according to the ordinary acceptation of the word in the Scripture, which the Church of Rome above all Churches is guilty of. Giving heed to seducing Spirits, and Doctrines of Devils. By seducing Spirits, faith Calvin, is meant false Prophets and Doctors, who boast of the Spirit of God, but are acted by Satan, who is a lying Spirit' in their mouth, as I King. 22.22. By Doctrines of Devils, faith the same Author, is meant the Devilish Doctrines of these Hellishly inspired false Prophets. Prophetas aut Doctores intelligit, quos ideo sic nominat quia Spiritum jaciant. Satan aliquando Spiritus est mendax in ore pseudo-Prophetarium, (Doctrinis Demoniorum) quod perinde est acsi dixisset, attendentes pseudo-Prophetis & Diabolicis eorum dogmatibus. Calv. in locum. Thus the Papifts are under strong delusions, in their giving heed unto, and belief of those Lyes, and false Doctrines at first forged by the Devils in Hell, and vented afterward by the Mouths and Pens of of their Ministers upon Earth. Mr. Mede interpreteth the Magnahiae Januarian, to be Doctrines not of Devils, which they are the Authors of but of Damons, as the word fignifieth, or concerning Damons, as the inferiour Deified Powers were called by the Gentiles, whom they thought a middle fort of Divine Powers between the Sovereign and Heavenly gods, and mortal men; whose office was to be Agents and Mediators between the Heavenly gods and men, whose original was the Deified Souls of worthy men after death, and some of a higher degree that never were imprisoned in Bodies, unto whom they consecrated Images, Pillars and Temples, adoring them there and their Reliques: And he telleth us, that the Doctrine of Damons comprehends in most express manner the whole Idolatry of the Mystery of Iniquity, the Deifying and Invocating of Saints and Angels, (those middle Powers between God and mortal men) the bowing to Images, the worshipping of Crosses as new Idol-Columns, the adoring and templing of Reliques, the worshipping of any other visible thing upon supposal of any Divinity therein; what Copy, faith he, was ever so like the example, as all this to the Doctrine of Demons? And is not this now fulfilled which was foretold, Rev. 11. That the second and outmost Court of the Temple, (which is the second state of the Christian Church) together with the Holy City, should be trodden down, and over-trampled by the Gentiles (that is, overwhelmed with the Gentiles Idolatry) forty and two months? The Parallel may be read at large in that ingenuous piece of Mr. Mede's, called, The Apostacy of the latter times, upon this Text in Timothy; and I am very prone to think that he hath more fully expressed and explained the mind of the Holy Ghost in this place, than any that went before him.

The fecond and third Verses of this Chapter, do set forth the quality of the persons, and the means whereby this defection should enter. speaking lyes in hypocrifie, or through the hypocrific of Lyars, this the same Author applyeth to the Popish Doctrines, which hath obtained, 1. By Lyes of Miracles; 2. Fabulous Legends of the Acts of Saints, and sufferings of Martyrs; 3. Counterfeit Writings under the name of the first and best Antiquity. Having their Consciences seared with a hot Iron. And who, faith Mr. Mede, could have coined, or who could have believed such monstrous stuff as the Popish Legends are stuffed with, but such as were cauterized, past all feeling and tenderness both of Conscience and sense it self? Forbidding to marry. The applicableness of this to the Papists will appear in what I have now to say, and my Discourse must be confined to the latter clause of the Text, Forbidding to marry. From which the Question which I am to speak unto is this, Whether the Popish Docirine which forbiddeth to marry be a devilish and wicked Doctrine? This I affirm, and this, through God's help, I shall prove, and that my proceeding herein may be the more clear, I shall, 1. Show how far the Popish Doctrine doth forbid to marry: 2. Prove that their Doctrine which forbiddeth to marry, is a devilish wicked Doctrine: 3. Answer the Arguments which are brought for this Do-Ctrine: Fourthly and lastly, I shall shut up my Discourse with some Ulfes.

1. How far the Popish Doctrine forbiddeth to marry.

First Negatively, this Doctrine doth not forbid all Marriage; and yet this I may truly say, that Popish Writers speak so disgracefully and contemptuously of Marriage in their Argumentations against the Marriage of some, that if all were true which they affirm, it would be unlawful for any as they hope for Salvation to link themselves in the bonds.

of. Matrimony.

Secondly and Politively, the Popilh Doctrine forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, particularly of Bishops, Priests and Deacons, and of all that enter into Holy Orders: and not only of all those men who are employed in the service of the Church and Ministry, but also of all those Women and Virgins who have vowed Continency, and have entred themselves into Nunneries. Besides what is generally afferted by the Popish Doctors who write of this point, the Canon of the Council of Trent, which the Papists universally do subscribe unto, and own for infallible truth, is plainly this: Ex octava Sessione Trid. Con. Can. 9. Si quis dixerit, Clericos in sacris Ordinibus constitutos, vel Regulares Castitatem solenniter professos, posse Matrimonium contrabere, contractumque -validum esse, non obstante lege Ecclesiastica vel voto, & oppositum nil aliud esse quam damnare Matrimonium, posseque omnes contrabere Matrimonium, qui non sentiunt se castitatis (etiamsi eam voverint) babere Donum; Anathema sit; cum Deus id recte petentibus non deneget; nec patiatur nos Supra id quod possumus tentari. "If any say, that the Clergy, who have "received holy Orders, or Regulars who have folemnly professed Chafity, may contract Marriage, and that such contract (notwithstanding the Ecclesiastical Law and their own Vow) is valid; and that the contrary Assertion is no other than to condemn Marriage; and that all (although they have vowed Chassity) may contract Marriage that do not find they have the gift of Chassity. Let him be accursed; for as much as God will not deny this gift unto those who rightly seek it, neither will he suffer us to be tempted above what we are able.

The Popish Ecclesiastical Laws admit none into sacred Orders before they folemnly vow Chastity, or (as they interpret it) abstaining from Marriage: And it is required of Nuns that they folemnly vow to preferve and persevere unto death in their Virginity, or single estate, without any regard unto any unforeseen necessity for Marriage; and amongst all the Dispensations that are granted by the Pope, amongst all the Indulgencies which he makes fale of, to allow grofly moral evils, abfolutely forbidden by the Lord, no Dispensations or Indulgencies are granted by him for the Marriage of such as are under this Celibate Vow, although they are not able to contain, and although God doth command such to marry. I shall do the Papists no wrong in saying that they account it a greater crime for Ecclesiastical Persons to marry, than for them to commit Fornication or Sodomy. The learned Chamier doth give several instances of Popish Writers to this purpose, viz. Hosius, who doth defend the saying of Pighius as not only true, but pious, that a Priest through the instrmity of the flesh falling into the sin of Fornication. doth fin less than if he should marry; and telleth us, that although this Assertion seem foul, yet the Catholicks account it most bonest. Reprehenditur Pighius qui non vere magis, quam pie, scriptum reliquit, minus peccare Sacerdotem, qui ex infirmitate carnis in Fornicationem sit prolapsus; quam qui nuptias contraxit, Turpis videtur hec oratio, contra, Catholicis bonestissimum. Hosius Confessionis capite 56. Costerus, who doth assert that a Priest who doth fornicate or nourish a Concubine at home in his house, although he be guilty of great Sacriledge, yet he doth more beinously offend if he contract Matrimony. Sacerdos si fornicetur, aut domi Concubinam foveat, tametsi gravi Sacrilegio se obstringat; Gravius tamen peccat, si contrahat Matrimonium. Costerus de Lætib.Sacerd. Cardinal Campegio, who doth aver, that for Priests to become Husbands, is by far a more beinous crime than if they should keep many Whores in their houses. Quod Sacerdotes fiant mariti multo esse gravius peccatum, quam si plurimas domi meretrices alant. Cardin. Campeg. apud Sleidan. Commentar. Libro Quarto. Matthias Aquensis, who doth profess his opinion, that such who marry after their Vow of Continency, do offend more than such a one as through Humane frailty doth deviate, (as he terms it) which in plain English is, who through the power of burning lust is unclean with a bundred divers persons. Qui post continentia votum, devovet potestatem corporis cuivis mulieri magis offendit, quam iste qui humana fragilitate de-viaret cum censum diversis personis. Matthias Aquensis. Our Molinaus telleth us, that by the Rules of the Roman Church, a Sodomist may exercise the Priesthood, and by that abominable vice doth not run into irregularity; whereas Marriage is judged altogether incompatible with facred Orders: and he quotes Navarrus, faying, The crime of Sodomy is not comprehended amongst the crimes that bring irregularity, and giveth several reasons for it. Molin. Novelty of Popery, Book 7. Chap. 5. And no wonder, when John Casa Archbishop of Benevent, and Dean of the Apostolical Chamber, printed a Book at Venice in defence of Sodomy. Sleidan faith that hewrote a Sodomitical Book, than which nothing more foul could have been thought upon by man; neither did he blush to celebrate with praises that most filthy sin, too much known in Italy and Greece. Ille quem diximus, Archiepiscopus Beneventanus, libellum conscripsit plane Cinadum, & qui nihil fadius excogitari possit; nec enim puduit eum, scelus omnium longe turpissimum, sed per Italiam nimis notum, atque Graciam, celebrare landibus. Sleidan. Com. Lib. 11. p.652. This was that Casa by whom Francis Spira was seduced to revolt from his Profession, the cause of fuch hideous terrours of Confcience afterward, and so miserable an end. It is evident then that the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celebate Vow, is forbidden by the Popish Doctrine.

2. The fecond thing is, to prove that the Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, is a devilish wicked Doctrine; and this I shall do by several Arguments.

Arg. 1. That Doctrine which is a false Doctrine, and contrary unto the Word of God, is a devilish wicked Doctrine: But the Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, is a false Doctrine, and contrary unto the Word of God: Therefore it is devilish and wicked.

All such Doctrine as is false, is devilish, the Devil being the Father of Lyes, especially of lying false Doctrine, whereby he doth blind the eyes of them which believe not, and corrupt the minds of them who are his Children and followers; likewise that Doctrine which is contrary unto the Word of God, is of the Devil, who is the greatest Enemy which the Word of God hath, because of the great mischief which the Word of God hath done to his Cause, and the Interest of his Kingdom. And be sure that all such Doctrine as is devilish, is wicked; the Devil being such a foul and wicked Spirit; as is wholly void and empty of all moral good, and from whom nothing but wickedness doth proceed.

If there be any question, it will be of the minor Proposition, which is this, That the Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, is a false Doctrine, and contrary unto the Word of God. I need no other proof that it is false, than that it is contrary unto the Word of God; this Word proceeding from the Fountain of Light and Truth, I mean, from God who is all Light, and with whom dwelleth no Darkness at all, who is Truth it self, and with whom it is impossible any lye or mistake should be found. The chief thing then that is to be proved is this, That this Popish Doctrine is contrary unto the Word of God. And this will appear in that, I. This Doctrine forbiddeth that which the Word of God alloweth:

2. This Doctrine forbiddeth that which the Word of God in some case commandeth.

1. The Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, forbiddeth that which the Word of God alloweth. And this is evident in that,

1. The Word of God alloweth Marriage, and maketh no exception of the Clergy, or any under the Celibate Vow. That which God did at first institute and appoint, surely the Word of God doth allow: Marriage being God's Ordinance, none will deny that it hath God's allowance; and that the Word of God maketh no exception of the Clergy, or any under the Celibate Vow, is plain, because the Popish Writers can bring no Scripture in the whole Bible which maketh fuch exception; no Scripture that doth this directly, is urged by any of them: what firm Scripture-consequence they may plead, will be seen when we come to speak to their Arguments for this Doctrine. In the mean time it may be evident unto all, that the Scripture alloweth the Marriage of all, without such exceptions as the Papists make, by one clear Scripture which admitteth of no contradiction by any other, Heb. 13. 4. Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled; but Whoremongers and Adulterers God will judge. All that are unclean without Marriage, fuch as Whoremongers; all that defile the Marriage-bed, fuch as Adulterers, are guilty of a shameful and great God-provoking sin, for which God will judge them, (if they before do not make their peace with him, and forfake such wicked practices) and punish them everlastingly in Hell: But Marriage is honourable, and therefore lawful; and that not only in some, but in all without any exception.

2. The Word of God is so far from excepting the Marriage of the Clergy, that it doth plainly allow the Marriage of such persons.

1. In the Old Testament times the Prophets, Priests, Levites, and all those which attended more immediately the service of God, and at the Altar under the Law, were allowed to marry. Abraham, who was a Prophet and Priest in his own house, did not take Sarah to be his Wise without God's allowance, otherwise surely God would not have so signally owned his Marriage, as to make promise of the blessed unto him hereby. Rebecca was a Wise of God's chusing for Isaac. God never blamed Moses, that great Prophet, for marrying Zipporah; neither was Aaron saulty because he had his Wise and Children. Isaiah, that Evangelical Prophet, was married, and had Children too in the time of his Prophecy, which the Scripture in the recording of it doth not impute to him for any iniquity. The Priests and Levites generally did marry; and however some of them are reproved in Scripture for divers fins, yet Matrimony is never in the least charged upon them for any crime. If then fuch, whose office and employment under the Law was to administer about holy things, did marry, and might do it without any fin against God: by parity of reason, Ministers and all those of the Clergy, who administer about holy things in the times of the Gospel, have allowance and liberty without any offence to God to make use of Marriage. The reply of the Papills is frivolous, and scarce worth mentioning: the chief thing that they reply unto, is concerning the Marriage of the Priests and Levites, who, they say, had their courses to attend the service of the Temple and Altar, and that then they were to separate from their Wives, which was at that time as if they had none: whereas the Clergy now are to attend the service of God in their work continually, and therefore ought to abstain from Marriage altogether. But besides that they can never prove that the Priests and Levites did separate from their Wives in the time of their courses; what will they say unto the Marriage of those Priests and Levites, who continually and daily did administer at the Altar before the division of them into courses, namely, before the time of David?

2. In the New Testament times Ministers have a plain and express allowance to marry, as will appear by two or three places of Scrip-

The first Scripture which doth allow the Marriage of Ministers, is 1 Cor. 9. 5. Have we not power to lead about a Sister, a Wife, as well as other Apostles, and as the Brethren of the Lord, and Cephas? The words are written by the Apostle Paul, who himself was an unmarried man, as he telleth the Corinthians in the seventh Chapter of this Epille; yet in this Chapter and Verse he doth affert his power which he lawfully might have taken to lead about a Sifter, a Wife, which in another phrase is the same as if he had said, to marry: And he giveth instance in the use which others of his Function had made of their power, not only other Ministers, but other Apostles, yea and the chiefest of the Apostles, the Brethren of the Lord, and Cephas, that is, Peter himself, of whose Wife and Marriage the Scripture doth take notice of in more than one place. If then some of the Apostles did marry, and the other Apostles had power to do the like, then any Ministers of the Gospel have the same power and allowance to marry: this consequence is plain and undeniable, because the Apostles were Ministers of the Gospel; and what was lawful for them as Ministers, is lawful for any other Ministers; and it is as plain in this Scripture that some of the Apostles did marry, and that others had power to do the like. The great exception of the Papills against this Scripture, is, that this word translated Wife is ware, which they say signifieth a Woman, and therefore that the leading about a Woman doth not imply Marriage: and they interpret the meaning of this Aaaa place, that the Apostles had power to lead about Women to be helpers to them, as our Saviour had Women following of him, who did minifter unto him. But besides that the ordinary signification of this word is Wife, it may be evident to an unprejudiced mind, that it must lignifie Wife, and nothing else in this place, because of the word Sister used before it, of which the word will is exegetical, or explainatory: for all truly believing Women being Sisters, that the Apostle might be underflood what kind of Sister he speaketh of, he addeth waire, which cannot be interpreted with good sense Woman, unless there had been Sisters who were Men and not Women. How could the Sister whom the Apostle had power to lead about, be distinguished from other Sisters whom he did not lead about? were they not Women as well as she? Therefore the signification must needs be Wife, and hereby the Sister he had power to lead about is distinguished from all other Sisters whom he did not marry. If any thould further reply, that supposing the word water to fignifie Wife, the Apostle might speak not of taking a Wife himself. but of leading about the Wife of another to be his helper. 1 answer, That the Apostle speaketh of something wherein he had power, and which he did not make use of, and this in reference unto Women was Marriage: but as to other Women, he did lead fome about, and they were helpers unto him; as for instance, Priscilla, who with her Husband Aquila failed with Paul into Syria, Act. 18. 18. and he calleth them bis belpers in Christ, Rom. 16. 3. and in the second Verse of the same Chapter he commendeth Phebe to the Romans, because she had been the succourer of many, and of bimself also; and Verse 6. he greeteth Mary, who had bestowed much labour on him. The Apostle then frequently making use of the help of other Women, and here speaking of the power which he had to lead about a Sister, a Wife, which he did not make use of, it must be needs understood of his leading about a Wife of his own, or of his Marriage, when the Apostle saith, Have me not power to lead about a Sifter, a Wife? Two things are implyed: 1. That he did not. lead about a Sifter, a Wife; that is, that he did not marry, for he had Sifters to be his helpers as hath been shewn. 2. That he had power to lead about a Sister, a Wife, or that it was lawful for him to marry; this Interrogative implying a strong Assirmative; and this power which he had he proveth by the Marriage of other Apostles, and expresly of Peter: for if the great Apostle of the Jews, which was Peter, was married; then the great Apostle of the Gentiles, which was Paul, might marry too: and if the Apostles themselves, the most eminent Ministers, might marry; then it is lawful for any other Ministers to do it, who are their Successors in the Ministerial work.

Another Scripture which giveth allowance to the Marriage of Minifters, is Tit. 1. 6. If any be blamelefs, the Husband of one Wife, having faithful Children, not accused of riot or unruly. The Apostle is here speaking of the Elders or Ministers which were to be ordained in every City, as in the former Verse; and in this Verse he sheweth how such as are Ministers should be qualified, If any be blameless, the Husband of one Wise, having faithful Children: here the Qualification of blameless is used in Conjunction with the Husband of a Wise, and the Father of Children, in the person of a Minister. It is evident then that a married Minister may be blameless; and one that is a Spiritual Father, may be a Natural Father too without any offence unto God. Indeed if a Minister should have had at that time two Wives together, as the custom of the Jews was of old, this would have been offensive unto God; but to be the Husband of one Wise then, was, and still is inoffensive in Ministers.

City,

The third Scripture is like unto this, I Tim. 3. 2. A Bishop must be blameless, the Husband of one Wife, &c. Vers. 4,5. One that ruleth well his own House, having his Children in subjection with all gravity: (For if a man know not how to rule his own House, how shall be take care of the Church of God?) Vers. 11. Even so must their Wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things. Vers. 12. Let the Deacons be Husbands of one Wife, ruling their Children and their own Houses well. It was not without special Providence that Ministers should have this Qualification affixed once and again unto them in their Function, that they must be Husbands of one Wife; which is not so to be understood, as if they must of necessity be Husbands, or else they must not be Ministers; but that if they be Husbands it must be but of one Wife at one time: fo that though the Scripture doth not command all of them to marry, yet it doth not forbid any, but alloweth every Minister to marry, fo that he taketh not many, or more than one Wife at a time. The Papifts are forced to wink hard to keep out the light of these places, and they are greatly put to it to find out shifts for the evading the plain and clear truth, that Ministers have allowance by these Scriptures to marry. Some of them expound the meaning of the words, The Husband of one Wife, to fignifie the Pastoral charge of one Church, unto which a Minister hath relation as a Husband to his Wife: but this cannot be the meaning, because the Apostle doth here distinguish between the House of the Minister where he is the Husband of one Wife, from the Church of God; and the Children of the Minister by this one Wife which he is to rule over, cannot be understood of Spiritual Children, but of Natural Children, as is plain in the fourth and fifth Verses; One that ruleth well his own House, having his Children in Subjection with all gravity: (For if a man know not how to rule his own House, how shall be take care of the Church of God?) Others interpret the words, The Husband of one Wife, to be meant of what the Minister to be chosen was before he entereth into this facred Function, not that he hath liberty for one Wife after he engageth in the Ministry; and therefore the Papists, if they admit any married persons to this high Function, they force them to abandon their Wives. But this cannot be the meaning of the Apolile, Aaaa 2 because because he speaketh not of such who have been the Husbands of one Wife, but of those that are so: and as they must be blameless, vigilant, sober, and retain the other Qualifications there required after they are Ministers; so they may retain their Wives too, there being not the least hint given in this Scripture, or any else, that Ministers must put away their Wives when they become Ministers. Amongst the causes of Divorce in the Scripture, this be sure is none; and when God hath joined Ministers and their Wives together, what Humane power may lawfully put them afunder? Yea, on the contrary the Apostle suppofeth in this place that Ministers should live with their Wives, by his Directions, 1. In general, in reference to their own Houses, of which the Wife as well as the Children are a part, whom he would have to rule well. 2. In particular, in reference to their Wives, whose Qualifications he fets down, that they should be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things, that they might be the more meet helpers of their Husbands in their Work, and the better Examples to the Flock; and fure then this doth imply that Ministers may, yea ought to live with their Wives after they become Ministers. Thus the Popish Do-Ctrine forbiddeth that which the Word of God doth allow.

2. The Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and all under the Celibate Vow, forbiddeth that which the Word of God in some cases doth command. And the case is this: When single or unmarried persons, although they apprehend that they might bring most Glory unto God in their fingle estate, upon supposition that they had the gift of Continency; yet really do find themselves to be without this gift, after they have earneftly prayed unto God for it, after fasting, felf-denial, watchfulness, and diligent use of all means to keep under their body, and notwithstanding all this they do feel in themselves such burning lusts as do defile their minds, disturb them in the service of God, and endanger their commission of the sin of fornication as they have opportunity for it, and meet with any temptation unto it; in such a case it is the express command of God that such persons should marry. for the quenching of those burning lusts, and the preventing of that filthy and abominable fin of fornication. This is plain, I Cor. 7. 1, 2. It is good for a man not to touch a woman: Nevertheless to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own hufband. If the man be in danger of fornication, let him have his own wife; if the woman be in danger, let her have her own husband; and when is it that they are in danger? it is when they cannot contain, this supposeth the use of means, otherwise the word would not have been cannot contain, Vers. 8, 9. I say therefore unto the unmarried and widows. It is good for them if they abide even as I: But if they cannot contain, let them marry; for it is better to marry than to burn. Now this may be, and too too often is the case of some of the Clergy, and others under the Celibate Vow; all which persons, without the exception of this.

this case, the Popish Doctrine doth forbid to marry; therefore the Popish Doctrine is contrary unto the Word of God, in forbidding that which the Word of God commandeth. I know the Canon of the Council of Trent, to evade the force of this Scripture, doth affert, That God will not deny this gift of Continency unto those who rightly seek it; neither will be suffer us to be tempted above what we are able. Unto which I answer, That God will not deny any gift which he hath promised unto those that rightly feek it: But the Papisis will never prove, while their eyes are open, that God hath absolutely promised the gift of Continency unto all those that diligently and most rightly seek it. Whatever gifts are necessary unto Salvation, God hath absolutely promised unto those that rightly seek them: But this gift of Continency in a fingle estate is not numbred by the Scripture, and therefore ought not to be so by any amongst those gifts: for if so, then none could be saved that are without it; and hence it would follow, that all who are married should certainly be damned, which the Papists themselves will not affirm. This gift of Continency God doth bestow upon some of his Children, but not upon all his Children: when the Disciples say unto our Saviour, Matth. 19. 10. If the case of the man be so with his wife; it is not good to marry; our Saviour answereth, Vers. 11. All men cannot receive this saying, save they unto whom it is given. And the Apostle speaking of this gift, telleth us, I Cor. 7. 7. I would that all men were even as I my self, (that is, unmarried) but every man bath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that. By all men, which our Saviour speaketh of, and every man, which the Apostle Paul speaketh of, we are to understand not all and every one of the Children of the World, but all and every one of the Children of God; all those cannot receive the faying to be without Marriage. When God in Converfion doth work a change in their Souls, he doth not alter the Constitution of their Bodies; and there are some both Men and Women, although truly religious, yet are of such Constitution of Body that they cannot contain without Marriage, they cannot receive the faying to be without marrying, and withal without burning. Some of God's Children have a proper gift of God to live chaftly in a fingle estate, and others have a proper gift of God to live chaftly only in a married estate. If then the gift of Continency be not a gift which God hath in common promised unto all his Children that rightly feek it, as it is plain that it is not, then the Council of Trent doth affert a falshood, That God will not deny this gift unto all that rightly feek it, if they mean by rightly feeking, diligently feeking, for God often-time doth deny it unto fuch feekers: if they mean by rightly feeking, feeking in faith, I deny that any can feek this gift in faith absolutely, because there is no absolute promise of it; and so it is true, that God will not deny this gift to those that rightly feek it; and it is false, that any can seek it rightly, that is, in faith, absolutely. What What the Council doth further affert, That God will not suffer us to be tempted above what we are able, is true, because it is the express Word of God: but it is not rightly applyed here. God will not suffer his Children to be tempted above what they are able, by affliction; neither will he suffer them to be tempted above what they are able unto sin, no not to the sin of fornication; but then it must be understood upon supposition that they make use of all lawful means for the prevention of this sin, and one both lawful and commanded means is Marriage, without which some of them may be tempted above what they are able unto it, so as to be overtaken by it, and live in the practice of it.

I have done with the first Argument, which being the chiefest and most comprehensive, I have been the largest in the handling of; I shall be more brief in the rest.

Arg. 2. That Doctrine which under the shew of Piety doth lead unto much lewdness and villany, is a devilish wicked Doctrine: But the Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, under the shew of Piety doth lead unto much lewdness and villany: Therefore this Doctrine is a devilish and wicked Doctrine.

Whatever it be that leadeth unto much lewdness and villany, is devilish and wicked, I John 3.8. He that committeth sin is of the Devil, he is lead to it by the Devil: he is of the Devil, that is, he is a servant of the Devil, or a Child of the Devil, Joh. 8.44. Te are of your father the Devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. But when any are lead unto much lewdness and villany under the shew of piety, they are lead by the Devil hereunto more especially; therefore that Doctrine which under the shew of piety doth lead unto much lewdness and villany, must needs be a devilish wicked Doctrine. That such is the Popish Doctrine, is evident.

I. The Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, hath a shew in it of piety; the pretence of such prohibition is, that these persons forbidden to marry might be the more mortisted, chaste and holy, that they might be the more free from worldly cares, and more at liberty to addict themselves unto the service of the Lord without distraction. Here is a fair shew of piety, not in an ordinary, but in an eminent degree.

2. This Popish Doctrine doth lead unto much lewdness and villany, namely, unto Fornication, Adultery, Incest, Sodomy, Murder, and the like lewd practices, which have been the product of this prohibition to marry. But because I would not have this Argument swell bigger than the former, I shall reserve the proof of this to the Use of Information concerning the devilish wickedness of the Popish Church.

object. If it be said, That there are and have been many of the Popish Clergy eminent for their Chastity. That the uncleannesses of some

cannot be charged upon the generality. That whatever lewdness any of them have been guilty of, it is not the proper effect of this prohibition, but proceedeth from the wickedness of mans heart. I answer.

Answ. 1: Some may be eminent for Chastity in the esteem of men, that secretly are guilty of the basest filthiness in the sight of God; and such of them as really do ablain from grosser pollutions, some may thank their Constitution more than their Vow that they are restrained. But if it should be granted, that some sew of them do deny themselves, and keep under their bodies that they may possess their vessels in sanctification; yet this doth not invalidate the Argument drawn from the woful effect which this prohibition to marry hath upon so many others.

2. If we cannot charge the generality of the Popish Clergy with the grosser sins of Adultery, Fornication, Sodomy, and the like; yet why may we not without breach of Charity imagine that their own Consciences will charge them sufficiently herewith, 1. When the most of such sins which are committed by them are done in secret. 2. When so many of those sins are come to light, and their own Historians do accuse them thereof. 3. When so many of their Popes themselves, their Fathers and Examples, have been guilty so grossy. 4. When Indulgencies for Stews, for Sodomy, for Priess keeping Concubines, have been so generally granted. 5. When their Principles do encourage unto such sins. All which I shall make-evident in the Use.

3. It is true, that the lewdness of the Popish Clergy doth primarily proceed from the wickedness of their own hearts; and it is as true, that their prohibition to marry doth lead unto this lewdness. If a River have but two Chanels to run in, he that dammeth up and stoppeth the course of the River in one of these Chanels, may be said to lead the River into the other Chanel: Even so, when the Constitution of some mens bodies is such, that their burning desires will have their course and vent, and cannot be quenched except by Matrimony or by Adultery, either by their own Wives, or by strange Women; such as prohibit Marriage, and cut off the use of the only remedy in some persons against Adultery or Fornication, they do lead hereby unto the practice of these abominable sins, and others as abominable, which are the attendants or consequents of them.

Arg. 3. That Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of any, that hereby they may merit the Kingdom of Heaven, is a devilish wicked Doctrine: But the Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, forbiddeth the Marriage of such, that hereby they may merit the Kingdom of Heaven. This will appear by what Chemnitius doth affert and prove out of their own Writings: Pontisicia quando de causa finali Virginitatis, seu celibatus disputant, quo concilio, quo sine & propter quam causam suscipiendus vel servandus est calibatus, palam docent, Ideo suscipiendum & servandum esse calibatum quia sit satisfactio pro peccatis, & meritum salutis & vita aterna. Albertus Pighius in Controversia 14. de votis Monasticis exertis verbis dicit. Illa eligimus ea opinione & confidentia, quia existimamus illis Dei gratiam & benevolentiam promereri. Item Monastice assumitur a profitentibus quia creditur valere ad satisfactionem pro peccatis. Petrus a Soto in Confessione sua Catholica dicit. Virginitatem seu Calibatum. coram Dei tribunali magni meriti, quia sit satisfactio peccatorum maxima & meritum vita aterna. Chemnic. Exam. Conc. Trid. Sef. 8. cap. 1. In quibus Cas. &c. p.9,10. Item p.11. Fingunt Pontificii se per Calibatum supererogare; Ideo Conjugium vocant statum Imperfectionis. Cælibatum vero statum perfectionis, & propter illam persuasionem sui merita & supererogationis opera vendunt, communicant & applicant aliis qui funt in statu imperfectionis. Hinc Bernhardinus fingit Monachos & Sanctimoniales substantialibus suis votis non pro suis tantum peecatis. verum etiam pro fundatorum, & aliorum benefactorum peccatis satisfacere. The Papifts (faith he) when they dispute concerning the final cause of Virginity, or the Celibate Vow, for what end, and for what cause it should be taken and kept, they openly teach, That therefore this should be done. because it is satisfaction for sin, and doth merit Salvation and eternal life. And he citeth Pighius, saying, That Such Vows do merit God's grace and favour, that they are of force to Satisfie for sins. And Petrus a Soto in these words, That Virginity, or the Celibate state, is of great merit before God's Tribunal, because it is the greatest satisfaction for sins, and doth merit eternal life. And he telleth us, the Papifts feign by this Celibate state, that they supererogate, and that therefore they call the Conjugal state a state of imperfection, but the Celibate state a state of perfection, and their meritorious works they sell and apply to others. And he citeth Bernhardinus, who doth affirm, That Monks and others under this Celibate Vow, do satisfie hereby not only for their own fins, but also for the sins of their Founders and other Benefactors.

Now the Doctrine of Merit in man of eternal life, is devilish and wicked; which will necessarily infer that the Doctrine which introduceth this, and which propoundeth this as its chief motive and inducement, is devilish and wicked too.

That the Doctrine of Merit in man of eternal life, is devilish and wicked, I shall shew in three Propositions. 1. It is devilish and wicked to affert that any really good works which God hath commanded, are meritorious of eternal life. 2. It is much more devilish and wicked to say, that works of supererogation, such as the Papists make this Celibate Vow to be, are thus meritorious. 3. It is most of all devilish and wicked to affert the Celibate Vow (which really is, especially to some, a great sin) to be thus meritorious.

1. It is devilish and wicked to affert that any really good works which God commandeth are meritorious of eternal life; because, 1. This leadeth back unto the Covenant of Works. 2. This proceedeth from ignorance. 3. This leadeth unto pride and boafting. 4. This casteth a disparagement upon the Merits of the Lord Jesus Christ.

1. This leadeth back unto the Covenant of Works, the Tenour of which is, Do this and live. Such as hope for life for any really good works which they do, they fall off from the Covenant of Grace, and they fall back unto the Covenant of Works, which will prove altogether infufficient for life unto any in their lapfed estate, Gal. 3.21. If there had been a Law given which could have given life, verily righteous-ness should have been by the Law. Therefore such are bewitched by the Devil and his Instruments, who, forsaking the way of life which God hath appointed by the promises of Grace in the Gospel, do look for life by any of the works of the Law. And hence it is that the Apostle in the beginning of this Chapter doth blame the Galatians for their folly and sascination in their seeking righteousness and life by the merit of any works; and he proveth by several Arguments that this was attainable only by Faith.

2. This proceedeth from ignorance: fuch as hold really good works to be meritorious of eternal life, they are either ignorant of the imperfection of fuch works, or they are ignorant of God who requireth the most absolute and exact perfection in the works, for the sake of which he will give eternal life. Such as do not see the defects and imperfections of their best works, are unacquainted with themselves, and the strictness of God's Law; and they, who are without the Spirit to discern this, their works (whatever they may think of them) are so far from being perfect, that they are not really, spiritually and acceptably good in the fight of God: And fuch who imagine a meritoriousness in imperfectly good works, in works mingled with fin, (as the best works of the best men since the fall are) they are unacquainted with the infinite Holiness and Righteousness of God, which would engage him to punish the most holy men for the sins of their most holy performances, had they not interest in the perfect Righteousness of Christ by Faith. But the god of this World (namely, the Devil) hath so far blinded the eyes of his Children the Papists, as to keep them ignorant both of God and themselves too, in his perswading them that any of their works are meritorious of eternal life.

3. This leadeth unto pride and boasting, Rom. 3.27. Where is boasting? it is excluded. By what Law? of works? Nay, but by the Law of Faith. Chap. 4.2. For if Abraham were justified by works, he hath whereof to glory. Such as affert the meritoriousness of life in really good works, they affert Justification by such works, there being a Concatenation between the one and the other; and hence doth arise boasting, and the glorying of pride, which sin being the Condemnation of the Devil, he is the great Promoter of it, and Prompter unto it in his Subjects the Papits, by filling them with arrogant thoughts of the meritoriousness of their works, whereby they sacrifice to their own Nets, and rob God of the Glory which is due to his Name.

4. This casteth a disparagement upon the Merits of the Lord Jesus Christ, as if there were either no Merit, or but an imperfect Merit of eternal life in his Righteousness. If Christ's perfect Righteousness be alone meritorious of eternal life and happiness, (as the truth is) then there is no need of our Righteousness to merit this life; although there be need upon other accounts, namely, by way of gratitude to the Lord. by way of evidence to our selves of our sincerity, and to prepare us for eternal life. But if our Righteousnels or good works (however imperfect) are meritorious of eternal life, (as the Papists affirm) then there is no need of Christ's Merit and Righteousnels, and the Papists could well enough spare him, supposing they might be happy by the merit of their own good works. But I question whether Christ will spare them in another lense, when he cometh to reckon with them for the contumelies and disparagements which they have cast upon his Merits. by this devilish Doctrine concerning the meritoriousness of good works. whereby they gratifie the Devil (Christ's great Enemy) unto the ruine of their own Souls. And if it be devilish and wicked to affert the meritoriousness of really good works,

2. It is much more devilish and wicked to affert works of Supererogation to be meritorious. Works of Supererogation, according to the Papists, are such works which we have no precept for, but for which there are Evangelical Counsels, in order to the attainment of more than ordinary persection; and by these works the Papists affirm that a man or woman may merit not only for themselves, but also for others; and such a work they affert this of the Celibate Vow and state to be. The devilishness of this Assertion will appear in that,

1. There are no fuch works as works of Supererogation: for those works which the Papists so term, are either good or evil; if evil, they, are beneath those which are commanded; if they are good works, they are commanded, otherwise they could not be good works, their goodness arising from their conformity to the command. Whatever work transgresseth the command, is sin; whatever work transgresseth not the command, is duty, and so cannot be a work of Supererogation. Unto which Argument I may add another, That if all men fall short of their duty, they cannot do any work of Supererogation which is more than their duty: the former is so great a truth, that every truly humble Christian will acknowledge; and therefore the latter will follow, that there can be no works of Supererogation, which none but a proud Papist will affert. What the Papists plead as to Evangelical Counsels, when they have proved them to be more or other than Evangelical Commands, some question may be made of the firmness of my Argument; but this they will never do.

2. And if there be no such works of Supererogation, be fure there can be no merit in them, no not for themselves that do them, and much less for others: the Scripture is clear against the meritoriousness of all good works which are commanded, Luk, 17. 10. So likewise ve, when ve have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants, we have done that which was our duty to do. And if those works which are commanded be not meritorious, much less can those works be meritorious which are not commanded; and if the best works cannot be profitable to our felves by way of merit, much lefs can they be profitable by way of merit unto others. I have sometimes wondered that any of the Papilts that are learned should be so far befool'd and deluded by the Devil, as really to believe that there can be such works of Supercrogation, whereby men make God their Debtor for more than he doth or can pay to themselves, and therefore that he is obliged to pay it unto others upon their account; the Affertion being fo horribly Impious and abfurd, fo dithonourable unto God, and fo derogatory unto Tesus Christ.

3. But thirdly, It is of all most devilish and wicked to affert the Celibate Vow and state (which really is, especially to some, a great sin) to be meritorious of eternal life. I have already proved that it is a sin for any to vow and live in a Celibate state, who have not the gift; and yet the Papists, being taught by the Devil, do affert that this is meritorious. I grant indeed that it is meritorious of eternal Death and Damnation; but to say it is meritorious of eternal Life and Salvation, is as much as if they should say that the wages of sin is eternal life, which none but the Devil can put into the minds of any to imagine, when it is so contrary unto reason, and the express words of the Apostle.

Arg. 4. That Doctrine which is a Badge or Character of Antichrist, is a devilish wicked Doctrine: But the Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, is a Badge or Character of Antichrist: Therefore this Popish Doctrine is devilith and wicked.

The Badge and Character of Antichrist is devilish and wicked, Antichrist being called in the Scripture, the wicked one, the man of sin, the son of perdition, 2 Thess. 3. He stileth himself Christ's Vicar, but he is Christ's great Antagonist; and though he be called Holy Father, by such as are of the Romish Church, yet he is indeed the first-born son of the Devil: He is called in regard of his power the Beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit, and goeth into perdition, Rev. 17.8. and is described to be full of Names of Blasphemy, Verse 3. and his coming is said to be after Satan, with all power, and signs, and lying wonders, and with all deceiveableness of unrighteousness, 2 Thess. 2.9, 10. Antichrist then being inspired and acted by the Devil, and so fraught with wickedness, that Doctrine which is a Badge and Character of him, must needs be devilish and wicked. Now that this Popish Doctrine which sorbiddeth the Marriage of the Clergy, and of all under the Celibate Vow, is the Badge and Character of Antichrist, is evident in the Text. As the Scripture doth foretel that Antichrist should arise in the latter times, so it doth give several Characters whereby Antichrist might be known when he should make his appearance in the World, that the true Church of Christ might be aware of him: And as there are several plain Characters of Antichrist together in 2 Thess. 2. from the 3. Verse to the 13. Verse; so the same Apostle doth give several Characters of the same Antichrist in the Text, all which are applicable unto the Roman Papacy, or Church of Rome, as I have shewn in the explication of the Text, amongst which Characters this is one, That it forbiddeth to marry. The Reply of Popilh Writers unto this Text, is this, That the Probibition of Marriage here spoken of is the Prohibition of all Marriage, whereas they do not forbid all Marriage; and that the Apostle bath here a respect unto the Manichees, who condemned Marriage it self. For answer unto which, 1. There is no fuch thing in the Text as Prohibition of all Marriage; and it is certain that such who forbid the Marriage of some, do forbid to marry. 2. St. Austin telleth us, that the Manichees did not forbid the Marriage of all, they allowed the Marriage of them which they called Auditors although not the Marriage of them which they called Flett; therefore by all that the Papists can say, they cannot stave off this Character of Antichrist from the Roman Papacy.

This shall suffice for the proof, that the Popish Docarine which forbid-deth to marry, is devilish and wicked.

3. The third thing I am to do, is to answer the Popilh Arguments which they bring to prove the unlawfulness of the Marriage of the Clergy, and such who are under the Celibate Vow.

Arg. 1. Their first Argument is drawn from the uncleanness which they affirm to be contracted by Marriage, such as the Clergy, and all who are more immediately devoted unto God, must abstain from: This they endeavour to prove, 1. By the Levitical uncleanness, which we read of Lev. 15. and the speech of Abimelech unto David, 1. Sam. 21.4. 2. Such as are married, they say, are in the slesh, therefore unclean, and so cannot please God, Rom. 8.8. 3. They argue that if such as would give themselves to prayer and sasting, must abstain for a while, 1 Cor. 7.5. and that because of the uncleanness herein; then Ministers who give themselves wholly to the Ministry of the Word and unto Prayer, must abstain altogether, and therefore they ought not to marry, because of the uncleanness they will hereby contract, which is unbeseeming their sacred Function.

Answ. 1. There is no uncleanness or unholiness in Marriage it self, or in any use thereof, which is evident, because Marriage was instituted in Paradise, in the state of man's innocency; and Marriage being God's Ordinance, must needs be holy, because all God's Ordinances are so. Moreover, the Scripture calleth Marriage honourable in all, where the

Bed

Bed is undefiled by Adultery, Heb. 13.4. and if Marriage be honourable in all, then it is holy, (for every fin is dishonourable) and therefore it is not unbeseeming the most facred Function. When the Apostle doth exhort, I Thes.4.3, 4. that every one should know how to possess his vessel in fanctification and bonour, it is not by abstaining from Marriage, but by abitaining from Fornication. Adultery and Fornication indeed do both wound and stain the spirit, as well as pollute the body; but there is a real innocency, holiness and chastity in Marriage, and the use of it according unto God's Ordinance.

2. The Papifts will find it difficult to prove that there was ever any Levitical uncleanness by the use of Marriage, that Scripture in Lev. 15. speaking of something else, as will appear unto such as read, and serioully weigh the place. What they urge from Abimelech's speech unto David, will appear not to be uncleanness by the lawful use of Marriage, for then it would have been unlawful for the married Priests continually to eat of the hallowed bread, which who will say they were not allowed to do? but Abimelech's speech was either concerning the unlawful use of women, or of their coming near their wives in the time of their separation. But besides this, and more which might be said, did not modesty forbid, if the Papists could prove Levitical uncleanness to have been herein, which they cannot do; yet what can thence be argued, the Levitical Law being now abrogated? can they fay that which rendred the Jews in those days legally unclean, doth now render Christians morally unclean? May we not from hence argue for the Marriage of Ministers, rather than find any shew of Argument against their Marriage? For if the Priests, notwithstanding this Levitical uncleanness, which the Papists do here understand, did marry without sin; how much more may Ministers without fin now marry, when all Levitical uncleannesses are at an end?

3. It is a groß mis-interpretation of Rom. 8.8. to apply it unto married persons, as if they were the persons spoken of by the Apostle that are in the flesh, and cannot please God. Who will or can upon Scripturegrounds fay, that all married Christians, though never so holy and unblameable in their Conversation, are in the flesh? Can none please God that are married? Hence then it will follow, that no married perfons can be faved, because none in the flesh, none that do not please God, shall attain his Salvation. But surely the Papists will not damn all married persons; however they may deal with ours, surely they will spare their own.

4. As to their inference from I Cor. 7. 5. because such as would give themselves to fasting and prayer, must abstain for a while, therefore Ministers must abstain from Marriage altogether, is such a non sequitur, as the Schools will his at. 1. The Apostle maketh no such inference all along the Chapter against the Marriage of Ministers, but on the contrary prescribeth Marriage as the duty of all who cannot contain. 2. There is a great difference between the abstaining which the Apostle speaketh of, and the not marrying which the Papists plead for; although the Apostle exhorts married persons to separate themselves by consent for a time, that they might give themselves unto fasting and prayer, yet in the same Verse and breath he bids them to come soon together again, lest Satan should tempt them for their incontinency. And who can rationally infer hence the duty of Ministers to abstain from Marriage? - 3. The fasting and prayer here spoken of, which calls for married perfons abstaining, it is fasting and prayer upon some extraordinary occafion, either publick or private, when the Bridegroom is to come forth of his Chamber, and the Bride out of her Closet, as foel 2. 17. and not of ordinary prayer and seeking of God: And unless Ministers were always to be engaged in solemn fasting and prayer, there is no shew of reason why from this place they should be obliged not to marry. And why may not the Papists as well argue, because married persons are to abstain from eating, that they may give themselves to fasting and prayer; therefore there is uncleanness and evil in eating; and that Ministers who are to give themselves unto the Ministry of the Word and prayer, ought to abstain from eating altogether? for this will follow as well as the other.

Arg. 2. The second Popish Argument is drawn from 1 Cor. 7.1. It is good for a man not to touch a woman. And Vers. 8. I say therefore unto the unmarried and widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I. If it be good for the unmarried and widows to abide in a single estate like unto the Apostle, then say they, it is evil for such to marry; and therefore the Clergy should abitain from this evil.

Answ. 1. If it were an evil of fin for the unmarried and widows to marry, then it would not only be unlawful for the Clergy, and all under the Celibate Vow to marry, but it would be unlawful for any Christians whatsoever to marry, because all ought to abhor, refrain, and slee from that which is an evil of sin: And where is the concernment of Ministers more than others in this Scripture?

2. That may be good for some, which is evil for others: a single estate may be good and best for such as have the gift of continency, and are perswaded in their heart that in this estate they may most gloriste

God; whereas this estate may be evil for such as are without this gift, or in likelihood may most glorifie God in a married estate.

3. It may be good at some time not to marry, namely, in the time of the Churches persecution; and all that have the gift at such a time, should chuse the Celibate estate, that they might be the more ready both to do and suffer for Christ, and be the more free from temptations to Apostacy: and the most that can be said of the good here spoken of, is, that it is the good of conveniency, not the good of absolute duty; unto which is opposed the evil of inconveniency, not the evil of sin. Indeed it is an evil of inconveniency, and an aggravation of calamity to be married in times of persecution, for fuch, saith the Apostle, Vers. 8. of this Chapter, shall have trouble, that is, greater trouble than others, in the flesh: but it is the duty of all to make choice rather of this evil of greater trouble and inconveniency, than to expose themselves unto the evil of sin by uncleanness and incontinency.

4. The Apostle is so far from afferting it to be an evil of sin for any in the worst of times to marry, that he affertest the quite contrary when there is a necessity for it, Vers. 36. If need so require, let him do what he will, he sinneth not, let them marry. And Vers. 38. So then he that giveth her in marriage doth well. It is plain then by all to be seen, that the Popish Argument from this place is frivolous, and that it carrieth no shadow of good consequence in it against the Marriage of the Clergy.

Arg. 3. The third Popish Argument is drawn from I Cor. 7. 32, 33, 34. But I would have you without carefulnes: He that is unmarried careth for the things that belong to the Lord, how he may please the Lord: But he that is married careth for the things that are of the world, how he may please his wife. There is a difference also between a wife and a virgin: The unmarried woman careth for the things of the Lord, how the may be holy in body and fririt; but the that is married careth for the things of the world, how the may please her husband. The Argument from hence in reference unto Ministers is this: Ministers above all others are warned to take heed of entangling themselves with the affairs and cares of this life, 2 Tim. 2, 4, and being devoted unto the Lord more immediately by the Office of their Ministry, they ought always to care for the things which belong to the Lord, how they may please the Lord. And because Marriage doth engage in the former, and taketh off from the latter, as this Text doth intimate, therefore they ought to refrain Marriage.

Answ. 1. It is not universally true, that all who are unmarried do care for the things which belong to the Lord, how they may please the Lord, and that hereby they are taken off from minding and caring for the things of the world. As to the latter, who intermeddle more with fecular affairs than many of the Popish unmarried Clergy? Why do any of them exercise Temporal Jurisdiction, if their Celibate state be in order to free them from worldly cares and business? As to the former, if so be that Adultery, Fornication, Murder, Sodomitical uncleanness, and other vile practices be pleafing to the Lord, there are and have been many Popes and Popilh Bilhops, many Priests, Jesuites, Fryars, and other unmarried persons under the Celibate Vow among the Papists, that with great industry have cared for the things which belong unto the Lord, how they may please the Lord, as I shall make evident in the Use: But hereby they will be found to have taken care not only of the things of the world, but of the things of the flesh, how they may please the flesh, and the things of the Devil, how they may please the Devil, whose servants

2. Neither, secondly, is it universally true, that such as are married do care for the things of the world, chiefly, so as to neglect the things of God, as instance may be given in the holiness of many married persons, which the Scripture doth take notice of. It is faid, Gen. 5. 22. That Enoch walked with God, after he begat Methusalah, three hundred years, and begat sons and daughters. Abraham, who is called the Friend of God; Moses, unto whom the Lord spake face to face; Samuel, who was so highly in favour with God; David, who was a man after God's own heart; Isaiah, Ezekiel, and almost all the Prophets, were married persons: and we hardly read of any in the Old Testament that were famous for integrity and zeal for God, but they were fuch as were mar-I have also given instance already in the New Testament-times of married Apostles, and did not they care for the things that belonged to the Lord, how they might please the Lord? And how many Ministers are there now in the Conjugal state, as eminent as any others whatfoever for their holy and strict lives? Will not many of them fav, that their Wives have been so far from engaging and entangling them in worldly cares, that on the contrary they have proved real helpers of them, and have taken off in a great measure the burthen of those worldly cares, which lay more heavy upon them in their fingle estate?

3. It is granted that Marriage is often-times an occasion of more worldly care than a single estate; and that single persons, who really are endowed with the gift of continency, have ordinarily the advantage of most freedom from perplexing trouble, and thoughtfulness about the World, and for attending upon the Lord with the least distraction; yet such single persons as are without the gift are exposed unto more distraction, and that which is worse, unto so much sin, such burnings of lustful desires, that they cannot attend upon the Lord acceptably, without the use of the remedy which God hath provided against

4. Men may care for the things that belong unto the world moderately, and labour to please their wives in the Lord subordinately, and not transgress the bounds of their duty, yea to neglect this would be their fin; and yet at the same time they may care for the things_that belong to the Lord, how they may please the Lord chiefly: for if the one had been inconsistent with the other, the Apostle would have forbidden Marriage absolutely, it being the absolute indispensable duty of all, and necessary unto Salvation, that they labour chiefly to please the Lord: but the Apostle professeth the contrary, that concerning Virgins he had no command from the Lord, Vers. 25. that is, to forbid them from the Lord to marry; but in case of necessity he lets them know that Marriage was their duty. Yet because both men and women are more prone to exceed the bounds as to worldly cares and diffraction in God's service when married, especially when full of Children, and little in the world to provide for them, or in a time of perfecution, then in the fingle fingle estate, endowed with the gift; therefore he doth express himself thus as we read in the Scripture urged. But none can infer hence, that it is the will of the Lord that Ministers should not marry, who though they be devoted to the service of God more immediately, and ought always to care for the things that belong to the Lord, above all others to please him, may do this in a married estate, as hath been thewn; and if there be any Argument in it against Marriage, it is an Argument against the Marriage of all Christians, rather than against the Marriage particularly of Ministers, the persons the Apostle writing unto, and unto whom he gives the advice in this Chapter, being not Ministers, but ordinary Christians amongst the Corinthians. The uttermost that can be argued from this place in reference unto Ministers, is, that such of them as are unmarried, and have the gift of continency in the time of the Churches perfecution, or in such circumstances of their condition in the World, that by Marriage they are likely to be plunged and incumbered with more worldly cares and distraction, and to be less serviceable unto the Lord in a married estate, than they are in the single; that in fuch a case they ought to continue single, so long as God doth continue the gift unto them: but this is no Argument for the Popish forbidding the Marriage of the whole Clergy.

Arg. 4. The fourth Popish Argument is drawn from 1 Tim. 5.11, 12. But the younger widows refuse, for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry, having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith. Now the interpretation of, and the arguings of the Papists from this Scripture, may run thus: 1. That there was a society of Widows maintained by the Church, more immediately devoted unto God, who were to continue in supplications and prayers night and day, as Vers. 5. and that these Widows were under a vow to continue in their single estate unto their lives end, that they might be the more fit for their employment; and this vow was their first faith, spoken of Vers. 12. because they entered into this vow when they were first admitted into this society. 2. That such Widows as after this yow did marry, they waxed wanton hereby from Christ, and had damnation upon the account of their casting off this their first faith, or breaking their Celibate Vow. 3. That if Widows, then Virgins too might be gathered into focieties to fequester themselves from all worldly affairs, for the more immediate service of God, and enter into the same Celibate Vow, 4. That the Clergy of all ranks being by their Office devoted more immediately unto God, they ought to enter into the Celibate Vow, which they impose upon all in their admission into sacred Functions. 5. That all who have made this Celibate Vow, if afterward they attempt to marry, they incur the penalty not only of deprivation from men, but also of eternal damnation from God.

Answ. 1. We grant that there was in the Primitive times a number of Widows devoted more immediately unto the service of God, whom the Church did maintain, and who were to be qualified according to what the Apostle doth mention, Vers. 9, 10.

2. It is as easie for us to deny, as for them to affirm, that these Widows did enter into a Celibate Vow upon their first admission into this number, this Scripture making no mention of any such Vow, and therefore they can never prove it.

3. By the first faith here spoken of, it is more rational to understand it not of any Celibate Vow, but of their Vow in Baptism, (which is the first faith of Christians) whereby they were devoted unto the sear and service of the Lord all their days; and this, by their wantonness from Christ, or lascivious practices, and turning aside after Satan, spoken of

Vers. 15. they did cast off, and for this they had damnation.

4. We deny that the sin of these Widows lay in their marrying, but in their wantonness and breach of saith with Christ, otherwise the Apostle would not have given direction that these younger women (although received into this number) should marry, bear Children, guide the House, and give no occasion (through wantonness) to the Adversary to speak reproachfully, as he doth Vers. 14. That the Apostle speaketh of younger women of the number, it is evident, because he saith that some of them had waxen wanton from Christ, had cast off their first saith, had turned aside after Satan; and therefore he doth direct concerning the rest of the younger women, to prevent these evils, that they should marry; and surely he would not have directed them to this, had it been a sin, and had their Marriage it self been a casting off of their sirst saith.

5. If we should suppose (although we do not grant) that by the first faith is meant a Celibate Vow; yet it doth not follow from hence, that either Virgins or younger Widows have leave from God to enter into such a Vow: for the Apostle doth straightly charge that no Widow for the stuture should be admitted into this number under threescore years old, at which years there is no such danger of their falling into wanton practices, Vers. 9. and younger Widows he would have refused, Vers. 11. And what plea then can there be from hence for the society of Nuns, and their Celibate Vows, when most of them are young at their first admission?

6. And if there can be from this place no good plea for younger women to enter into Celibate Vows, much less can there be any hence for the Celibate Vows of the Clergy.

7. Therefore it is finful for any, especially younger men or women, to make Celibate Vows, when such Vows may not be in their own power to keep; and such who have rashly made them, it is a greater sin for them to keep, when they have not the gift of continency, than to break them by holy Wedlock, which they may do without the penalty of eternal damnation.

Arg. 5. The fifth and last Popish Argument is drawn from Authority. Bellarmine, after sufficient weakness betrayed in his Scripture-Proofs, doth annex, 1. The Testimony of divers Councils, Eastern, African, Italian, French, Spanish and German. 2. The Testimony of divers Popes or Bishops of Rome. 3. The Testimony of divers Fathers, both Greek and Latine. Should I repeat all which he maketh these to speak, I should weary both my self and the Reader; and how infirm his Argumentation is from hence, will appear in the Answer.

Answ. 1. It is well known by those that are vers'd in Councils, and have written on this subject, that the Councils of Ancyra, Nice, Gangra and Trull, (the most ancient which Bellarmine and other Papists do cite) do not really favour this Popish Doctrine. One Canon of the Council of Ancyra hath this passage in it, Dianoros oo or ractionallas, &c. All Deacons that are established in their Charges, if they have declared that they have need to marry, and cannot remain as they are, let them remain in their service after they are married: and let any judge whether this could be consistent with a general Prohibition of the Marriage of the Clergy. The Council of Nice indeed did decree, That no Bishop, Presbyter or Deacon, should have any women in their houses except Mother, Sifter, or Aunt; therefore they were prohibited, saith Bellarmine, the having Wives, and so ought not to marry: whereas it is evident unto all that are unbyaffed by prejudice, and make an impartial fearch into the Records of that Council, that this Prohibition did not shut out the Wives, but unmarried Affociates, from the Houses of Ecclesiasticks that were fingle, for the prevention of scandal by Fornication, which single persons living together, especially in their youth and privacy, might be tempted unto.

Let us see what Socrates in his Ecclesiastical History doth relate concerning the Transactions of this Council about this point; which we shall find to this purpose: Some would have brought in a new Law, to forbid the Clergy to cohabit with their Wives; but Paphnutius a Confessor, and although unmarried himself, stood up and vehemently cryed out. That Marriage was honourable, congress with the Wife chaste, and therefore did counsel them not to lay such a heavy yoke upon persons in holy Orders which they could not bear, and hereby give occasion both to them and their Wives to live incontinently: upon which speech of Paphnutius the Council did both approve, and praise his sentence, made no such Law, but left it to every mans liberty to do what he would in that point. Socr. Lib. I. Cap. 11. Sozom. Lib. 1. Cap. 23. Here we see that this Law (now established amongst the Papists) is called a new Law, it was never Enacted before, and it was only a Law which some would have brought in, and therefore was not Enacted then: it was called a heavy yoke, and not being found by that Council to be Christ's yoke, it was laid aside. Council of Gangra, (all whose Canons the Council of Irull doth approve of) hath this Canon: "Et no stanginosto, &c. If any make a difference of a married Priest, as if none ought to partake of the Oblation when hedoth the service, let him be Anathema. I might give other instances of passages in other Councils, which Bellarmine doth make mention of, to shew how he doth corrupt many of their sayings, in favour of this Doctrine; but I refer the learned Reader unto Chamier's answer, and to Junius's Animadversions upon Bellarmine's Controversies. It is most certain, (if History may be believed) that the most ancient and most authentick Councils, according to their most authentick Copies, did never (like the Papists) forbid the Marriage of the Clergy, whatever some of them may seem to do in the corrupt Translations of them, and false Glosses upon them by the Papists: the Canons of some particular Councils, or rather Popish Synods of latter date, are of no great signisi-cation in the proof of this point.

2. The Testimonies which Bellarmine bringeth of Popes, or the Bishops of Rome, carry no weight: It is acknowledged by the most, that Pope Syricius first did forbid the Marriage of the Clergy, but what he did was very unjust: hear what Junius doth say of it: Syricius contra Verbum Dei & Jus naturale ipsum voluit iftud calibatus jugum Ecclesiasticis imponere, & juris ignorantia, & superstitiosa cacozelia. Syricius against the Word of God, and the Law of Nature it self, would needs lav the Celibate Law upon Ecclefiasticks through ignorance and superstitious Zeal. I shall readily grant, That the Bishops of Rome, especially of latter years fince the Apostacy of that Church unto Heresie, Antichristianism and Idolatry, have been generally against the Marriage of the Clergy: but wherefore hath this been? Not out of true Zeal for Chaftity; and the purity of all in facred Orders, as is pretended; but out of carnal Policy, for the enriching of their Church hereby, and the preferving of its Revenues, which might be too profusely expended and alienated in the providing for Wife and Children.

3. The Testimonies which are brought out of ancient Fathers for the most part are either corrupted, or they do not militate against the Marriage, but against the incontinency of the Clergy; and the purity which the Fathers speak of, as requisite in persons of that Function, is as well consistent with a married, as with a single estate, and more ordinarily to be found in the former, than in the latter. But if some of the Fathers were against the Marriage of Ecclesiasticks, this doth not prove the unlawfulness of such Marriages, unless it could be proved to be so by the Word of God; and this the Papists can never prove unto such who do look into the Scriptures with an unprejudiced mind, when they are so plain and clear for the universal lawfulness of Marriage without any particular exceptions.

Use 1. Here you may see the devilish wickedness of the Church of Rome; it would both spend too much time, and carry me besides my purpose too sar, to set forth the wickedness of this Apostate Church in the full latitude thereof; I shall only speak of the wickedness which this

Doctrine that forbiddeth to marry, is the occasion of. There are three woful effects which this wicked devilish Doctrine hath produced:

1. Wicked Indulgencies of their Popes: 2. Wicked Principles of their Jesuites: 3. Wicked Practices both of their Popes and others under the Celibate Vow.

1. The Popes or Bishops of Rome, however severe against the Marriage of their Clergy, yet they have given Indulgencies for Whoredom, Sodomy, and such like most foul abominations. Hear the complaints as well as acknowledgments of Espencaus, a Writer of their own, Lib. 2. Cap. 7. De Continentia; his words are these: Pro puro mundoque colibatu successit impurus & immundus concubinatus, ut quod eleganter de persecutione, cap. 29. Conquerebatur D. Bernardus, latere, nec præ multitudine queat, nec præ impudentia quærat: bæc inquam tolerantia altius radices egit, permissis alicubi sub annuo censu clericis atque laicis cum suis concubinis cohabitare: Quod utinam falso & imerito extaret inter Gravamina Germania; adeoque etiam continentibus ad omnem censum persolvendum coactis, quo soluto iis liceret, vel continentibus vel incontinentibus esse. O rem execrandam! In stead of the pure and clean Celibate, there hath succeeded an impure and unclean Concubinate, which, as Bernard elegantly complaineth in his 29 Chapter concerning Persecution, neither can be concealed, it is so frequent, neither doth seek to be concealed, it is so impudent: this Toleration or Indulgence hath got firm footing, both the Clergy as well as Laity having permission given unto them to cohabit with their Concubines, upon the payment of a yearly sum of money. And I wish that these things were fally and undeservedly extant amongst the Grievances of Germany, who complain that even such as are continent are forced to pay the annual Rent; which being paid, they are at their own choice whether they will contain or not, whether they will have a Concubine, otherwise called a Whore, or not. O execrable wickedness! And the same Author in his Comment upon Titus, doth further acknowledge in these words: Episcopi, Archidiaconi & Officiales plerunque dum Diaceses & Paracias obequitant, non tam facinorosos & criminum reos panis & correctionibus a vitiis deterrent, quam pecunia emungunt & exugunt tum Clericos, tum laicos; & hos cum concubinis, pellicibus & meretriculis cohabitare, liberosque procreare sinunt, accepto abiis certo quotannis censu atque adeo alicubi accipiunt a continentibus; habeat (aiunt) si velit, & quoties enim quisque talis, (cum tales tamen tam multi sunt) hodie aliter punitur? Bishops, Archdeacons and Officials, do ride about their Diocesses and Parishes for the most part, not to deter the wicked by corre-Etions and punishments from their vice, but to draw out and defraud both Clergy and Laity of their Money, whom upon the payment of a yearly Revenue, they permit to cohabit with Concubines and Whores, and to procreate Children. And this Revenue they receive in some places of the Continent, for he may have a Concubine or Whore (say they) if he please. And bow often are such Priests as keep Whores (although so many) punished otherwise? There is a Book lately published by Anthony Egans, B.D. late Confessor-General of the Kingdom of Ireland, and now Minister of the Gospel according to the Reformed Religion. The Title of it is this. The Book of Rates now used in the Sin-Custom-House of the Church and Court of Rome, containing the Bulls, Dispensations and Pardons for all manner of villanies and wickedness, with the several sums of Moneys given and to be paid for them. Page 13. there are these Dispensations for Priests and others under the Celibate Vow: A Priest or Fryar baving lain, or carnally sinned with a Woman of whatsoever sort or degree, whether a Nun, or Kinswoman, or a Relation, or with any other whether married or single, whether within the Bounds or Cloifters of his Monastery, or elsewhere, whether the Absolution be made in the Name of the Clergy or no, it gives him power to exercise his Function, and to hold bis Livings, and that together with the Inhibitory Clause, he paying 36 l. 9 s. and 6 d. And if besides this there be an Absolution for Buggery, or for unnatural fin committed with bruit Beafts, a Dispensation, together with the Inhibitory Clause, will come to 90 l. 12 s. 1 d. A simple Absolution for the sin of Buggery, or the fin contrary to Nature, that is to say, with bruit Beafts, together with a Dispensation, and the Inhibitory Clause, is 361. 95. A Nun having played the Whore very often, aut intra aut extra septa Monasterii, within or without the bounds of the Monastery, is to be absolved and rehabilited to hold the Dignity of her Order for 36 1. 9 s. An Absolution for one that keeps a Whore at Bed and Board, with a Dispensation to hold a Benefice, is 41. 5 s. 6 d. Prideaux telleth us of Pope Sixtus the fourth. That he made a grant unto the Cardinal of Lucia to use unnatural lusts for three months in the year, namely, June, July, and August: but whether the Cardinal had the Dispensation gratis, or paid a sum of money for it, the Author doth not relate. This is that Pope who built a Stews at Rome of his own cost, and well might he do it, when the Popes do receive such Revenues from such base Houses. See Cornelius Agrippa de Vanitate Scientiarum, Cap. 64. Lycurgus and Solon (faith he) those Heathen Law-givers, erected publick Stems, but that is no marvel, for of late years Pope Sixtus the fourth builded a goodly Stews in Rome. The Corinthians, Cyprians, and Babylonians, did encrease their Revenue by the gain of Stews, which in Italy also at this day is no unusual matter; for Whores of Rome do pay weekly to the Pope a Julio, the whole Revenue whereof in the year doth often exceed twenty thousand Duckets. it is that one of their Poets doth complain, > Roma ipsa Lupanar Reddita; nunc facia est toto execrabilis orbs.

"That Rome was become a Brothel-House, and grown execrable throughout the whole World.

The Pope indeed will not allow of Marriage in his Clergy, but by his Indulgencies he doth make provision for their flesh, that they may fulfil their lusts by Fornications and all manner of uncleannesses, which may bring in filthy lucre into his Coffers. Thus concerning the wicked Indulgencies of the Pope.

2. The wicked Principles of the Jesuites is another effect of this Popish Doctrine which forbiddeth to marry. The Jesuitical Doctors pretend to more Sanctity, Learning and Subtilty than others; let us fee what some of their Principles be, and Positions in their stating of Cases of Conscience concerning uncleannesses. I shall refer the Reader only unto a Book called, The Mystery of Jesuitism, see Vol. 1. p. 147. Father Bauny hath this Affertion as it is cited out of his Theolog. Mor. trac.4. de poenit. p. 94. It is lawful for persons of all qualities and conditions to go into the places of common prostitution, there to convert sinful women, although it be very probable that they will commit the sin there themselves; nay haply though they have found by frequent experience that they are drawn into fin by the fight and infinuations of those women. Who feeth not that this Affertion doth give encouragement unto the unmarried Popish Clergy to run upon occasions, and manifest temptations unto the fin of filthy Fornication? For who are more fit, may they think, to convert those finful women, than Ecclesiastical persons? But for such to go into places of common prostitution to do it, is both scandalous for any, especially for Ministers, and dangerous lest themfelves be entangled and defiled hereby. But the Jesuite telleth us, they may venture into such places; although it be probable they will, and though they have been often drawn into that foul fin hereby; and what is it that they can plead for the lawfulness of such practice? it is only this, their directing their intention to convert finful women; and may they run into their embraces that they may convert them? may they venture upon a probability of being drawn by them unto this fin, that without any probability of fuccess they may draw them from it? and when they have been often enticed and overcome, may they put their foot again into the snare? are such like to perswade others to repentance and chaftity, who have been often unclean in fuch places themselves? But let us see further what other of their Doctors say: In the Additionale, pag. 96. Escobar doth affert, That a man who hath the reputation of being extreamly given to women, doth not commit any mortal fin in solliciting a woman to condescend unto his desires, when he doth not intend to put bis design in execution. This Doctor goeth a step further, the former giveth allowance to go into places of common profitution, fo that the intention be the conversion of finful women; and this telleth us that it is no mortal fin to follicite women to be naught, if a man can but hold? off his intention from the thing; but who is there that is extreamly addicted to women, and doth follicite, though he doth not actually intend the thing, till he knows the mind of the party, but if there be a compliance, compliance, that will forbear and withdraw himself, as Toseph from his Mistress? May lecherous Mass-Priests sollicite women to lewdness without mortal fin? Who can deny this to be devilish wicked Doctrine? But although the Jesuites Principles do lead their Clergy to Fornication and Adultery, yet they would have them cautious that such impure facts of theirs may not be known, si non caste, tamen caute. If they do not live chaftly, they would have them fin warily; and therefore they allow most horrid wickedness for the concealing such shame. P. 19. Caramuel afferteth in his Fund. Theolog. Fund. 55. Sect. 7. That it is doubtful whether a religious man having made use of a woman, may not kill her, if the offer to discover what passed between them. This Do-Ctor doth make a doubt whether it be not lawful for their Priess to commit Murder that they may conceal their Adultery. But what if the woman the Priest is naught withal, be a wife, and she reveal nothing, but her husband cometh unawares upon them, and discovereth the fact? see what Escobar saith in such a case, cited pag. 94. out of his Tract. Theol. Tract. 4. Exam. 6. Cap. 5. An Ecclesiastick surprized in Adultery, if he kill the womans husband whom he hath abused in his own defence, is not for that irregular. Here the Doctor doth favour not only the murder of the wife if the reveal, but also the murder of the husband if he relift; and although the Marriage of Ecclefiafticks doth make them irregular, yet their Adulteries and Murders do not fo, but they may according to these Principles continue in their Function, notwithstanding such horrid abominations. You see what provisions the Jesuites make for themselves and others of the Romish Clergy, for their encouragement, reputation and fafety in their practice of the fin of Adultery: but do they take no care for the poor forlorn Nuns, who are mewed up in Cloisters, and are under the same Celibate Vow with themselves? The great danger is, when the Priess and Jesuites come amongst them, of their proving with child, and so of their discovering their own shame: is there no provision in this case? Yes, these kind Fathers have a Principle which may be of use to such, to encourage them with a non obstante to this danger unto lewd embraces. See Addit. p. 19. Egidius Trullench. in Decal. Tom. 5. Lib. 5. Cap. 1. afferteth, That it is lawful to procure abortion before the child be quick in the womb, to fave a Maids life or reputation. I shall add but one Position more concerning the liberty which the Jesuites give unto the most. impure persons to communicate immediately upon their confession, pag. 88. Mascarennas Tract. 4. de Sacr. Encharist. Disp. 5. Cap. 7. doth affert, That either a secular person, or a Priest being fallen into any kind of impurity whatsoever, nay though such as are against Nature, may, without so much as the least venial sin, (nay, are to be commended for it if they do) communicate the very same day after they have made confession thereof. That the Confessor ought to advise his Penitent to receive the Eucharist the very same day that he is fallen into such crimes, and that the Vow or Resolution lution any one might have made not to come to the Lord's Table in that condition, were null. Thus if the Jesuites acknowledge that a wound and defilement is contracted by some groffer impieties and impurities; ver they can, according to their principles, quickly lick themselves whole by their Confessions, and wash themselves clean by their Communicating; and what is this but an abominable profaning and polluting of the holy Sacrament, and an opening a wide door to all manner of licentiousness? The Harlot could fay unto the young man, Prov. 7. 12. This day I have payed my vows, and so she was fitted for her wickedness. And if unmarried Ecclefiafticks by Confession and Communicating can so easily wipe off their guilt and filth, what encouragement must this needs give them to return presently again with the Dog to his vomit. and with the Sow that is wash'd to her wallowing in the mire? That the Jesuites are not belyed by the Author of the Mystery of Jesuitism. in these and other gross Principles and Assertions which they hold, may easily be known by such as will consult their Books in print, out of which they are extracted: I confess I have not consulted all of them, not having them by me; but having perused his Citations of Escobar, whom 1 have, and finding him faithful there, I doubt not but he is faithful in the reft.

3. The wicked practices both of Popes and others under the Celibate Vow, is another woful effect of this Popilh Doctrine which forbiddeth to marry. And here I may well premife, that many thousand lewdnesses and foul abominations are and have been committed by Popish Votaries so secretly, that they never saw the light, neither have come abroad unto the notice of the world, these works being works of darkness which fly the light, and shrowd themselves as close as may be in dark corners, those who are guilty endeavouring all they can to conceal their filthiness; which however at the last day of revelation both of mens fins and God's Judgments, will be made known and exposed to the view both of men and Angels, when the Lord will bring to light the hidden works of darkness, and make manifest all the counsels of the heart, I Cor. 4. 5. Yet the wickedness of some Popes and their Clergy in this kind, hath been so notorious, that their own Historians have not thought fit to be altogether silent herein; and, as was said before, their lewdness could not be concealed, it was so frequent; neither in many did it feek to be concealed, it was so impudent. It would spend more time than we have to be together, yea, although we should stay here on this long Summers day till dark night, to enumerate the instances that might be given of the uncleannesses of Ecclesiasticks in the Church of Rome. I shall mention only a few of the most remarkable amongst many other, and begin with the viciousness and filthiness of the Popes, whose Title of Holiness, and severity against Matrimony, and imposing the Celibate Vow upon others, one would think should oblige themselves unto more than ordinary mortification of fleshly lusts, and exemplary chastity: but we shall find by search into the History of the Popes lives, that they have generally been exceeding faulty as to women, and all forts of filthy lusts. Platina doth complain that Riches had made the Church wanton. and Vice had no restraint. Pope Sergius the Third had his Sweet-heart Marozia, that famous Strumpet, who was the Mistress of his affections. and had no small Government in the Church, of whom in wicked Adultery, as Luitprandus doth record, he begat John the Eleventh, who afterward by his Mothers means got the Popedom. Baronius doth acknowledge that in those days the power of Harlots did so far prevail. that they both removed Popes rightly appointed, and also thrust in violent and wicked men into their room at their pleasure. By this Marozia's means also it was that Ociavianus (Son to Albericus) obtained the Popedom, called John the Twelfth, who, as Baronius doth relate, amongst other wickednesses, was accused in a Synod for abusing the Widow of Rainerius, for his filthiness with Stephana his Fathers Concubine, with Anna a Widow and her Neice. This is that Pope who castrated divers of his Cardinals because they favoured Otho the great; but if himself had been so served before he was made Pope, possibly he might have been more chaste: and yet whatever liberty this Pope took himself to commit Fornication and Adultery, he would not give liberty for Marriage to his Clergy, which God doth allow, for he fends over an Inhibition against Priests Marriage into England, which at that time caused no small stir: At length the hand of God was remarkable in the cutting off this Pope; for being taken one night in Adultery with another mans wife, he received such a wound in his Temples, that within the space of eight days after he died of it. Pope Gregory the Seventh (saith Prideaux) had-his Minion Matilda, who left her own Husband to live with this holy Father. This is that Gregory who caused the Emperour Henry the Fourth, with his Empress, and Son, to come bare-footed in the cold Winter to his Castle at Cannucium, and there to wait three days fasting before he could have audience, which at length was obtained by the Mediation of Madam Matilda. Platina doth relate that in Pope Honorius the Second's time, one Arnulphus was put to death at Rome for his bitter invieghing against the pomp, luxury and lasciviousness of the Clergy, before whom he propounded the poverty. of Christ, and his integrity of life for their imitation. It was from this Pope that John Cremensis was sent over Legat into England, to dissolve the Priests Marriages, but in the great heat of his urging his Commisfion, he was found in bed with a Whore. Good man! he would have all to live chastly without Wives and Matrimony, and he came over from Rome to shew them an example. Pope Martin the Fourth kept the Concubine of his Predecessor Nicolas, and removed all Bears from his Palace, lest the beholding of them should cause his Sweet-heart to bring forth a Bear; fo fearful was he, that his bruitish-lust would produce a bruitish off-spring. Pope Benedict the Twelfth is recorded to have bought:

bought a beautiful young Woman of her Brother with a great sum of money, that he might make use of her. Pope Sixtus the Fourth beforementioned, who built the Stews at Rome, and allowed unnatural lusts to the Cardinal, would not wholly deny himself, especially in those lusts which are more natural, for he had his Concubine Tyresia, for whom he provided Shooes covered with Pearls. Pope Innocent the Eighth had many base Children, gave a great Dowry with his Daughter Theodorina: Mantuan hath these Verses on him:

The fignification of which is, that this Nocent (not Innocent) person, had begotten eight Boys, and as many Girls, and therefore deserved the name of a Father; but I suppose none, except the Papists, will say that he was a holy Father. Pope Alexander the Sixth did succeed him in the Papacy, and his History doth record that he exceeded him in lewdness and Adultery; on whose Daughter there are these Verses:

Hic jacet in tumulo Lucretia nomine, sed re Thais, Alexandri Filia, Sponsa, Nurus.

Lucrece by name here lies, but Thais in life, Pope Alexand's Child, Spouse, and Sons Wife.

This Pope had two Bastards, a Son, and this Daughter Lucretia, whom he married unto this Son, and afterwards abused her himself; and it is storied of him, that to compleat his other wickednesses, he gave himself unto the Devil. Pope Julius the Second was not much better, who abused two ingenuous Youths sent by the Queen of France to be bred in Italy. Pope Clement the Seventh was so infamous, that because of his own lewdness, and that of his Court, this Distick was written:

Roma vale, vidi, satis est vidisse, revertar Cum Leno, aut Meretrix, Scurra, Cinadus ero.

Vile Rome adieu, I did thee view, but hence no more will see, Till Pimp or Punck, or Fade or Spade, I do resolve to be.

Paul the Third profituted his Sister Julia Farnesia to Alexander the Sixth, that he might be made Cardinal; committed Incest with his own Daughter Constantia, poisoned her Husband that he might enjoy her the more freely; was naught with his own Sister, and taken in the Act by her Husband; and besides his Incest, he is recorded to have been a Necromancer, and from this Pope's piety came the Council of Trent-

Pope Julius the Third was not inferiour unto him, who gave his Cardinals Hat unto a Sodomitical Boy whom he had abused: This is that Pope who faid he would have his Pork (forbidden by his Physitian) in despight of God; and maintained he had more reason to be angry for the keeping back his cold Peacock Pye, than God had to cast Adam out of Paradife for eating an Apple: such a blasphemous as well as luxurious Wretch was he! Thus Prideaux. I shall add but two instances more, of two famous Women, one a Pope, and the other a Popess: The Woman-Pope was Pope Joan, who succeeded Leo the Fourth, sate in the Papacy two years and fix months, supposed to be a man, until at length being with Child, the fell in labour in the midst of a solemn procession, whereby her Sex and lewdness were discovered together: hereupon there was an Image of a Woman with Child fet up in the same place, where the Pope was delivered both of her Child and her Life: Ever fince the Popes when they go to the Laterane shun that Street, although the nearer way, in abhorrency of the fact, and memory thereof. There was moreover a Chair of Porphiry-stone kept in the Laterane, with a hole in the midst to try the Sex of the new-elected: No less than fifty Popith Writers testifie the truth of this History concerning Pope Joan. The other Woman was a Popels, as the Pope himself called her, namely, Donna Olympia, the Sister-in-law and Mistress of Pope Innocent the Tenth, who was perfectly at her devotion, not only in his younger years, and whilst he was Bishop and Cardinal, but also in his elder years when he was Pope, and so continued until the very last: the History we have at large, written in Italian by Gualdi, and translated into English; the Book is called, The Life of Donna Olympia Maldachini, who Governed the Church during the time of Innocent the Tenth. In the Preface of the Book there is this passage: By the great example laid before us, they must needs confess that the Church-men of the Roman Faith will do any thing with a Woman but marry her. I shall refer the Reader unto the Hiftory, which relateth the great familiarities between this Donna Olympia and the Pope, having been too long in relating the viciousness of his Predecessors, although I have passed by many persons and things which might without wrong be spoken concerning them. I must add something concerning the filthiness and uncleannesses of the Popish Clergy, and others under the Celibate Vow. Platina doth record, that in Pope Gregory the Great's time there were fix thousand Infants Skulls found in a Fish-pond at Rome; and what did this signifie. but the Whordoms and Murders which this Celibate Vow was the oceasion of? Nicholaus de Clemangis, a Popish Archdeacon, who lived and flourished in the year One thousand four hundred and seventeen, he wrote a Book, De corrupto statu Ecclesia, wherein he taketh notice of the viciousness of all fort of persons, besides the Pope, that were under this Celibate Vow. Cap. 12. Concerning the Cardinals, these are his words: Nec enumerare volo eorum adulteria, stupra, fornicationes quibus quibus Romanam Curiam infestant, nec referre obscanissimam illorum familie vitam, a dominorum tamen moribus nullatenus absonam. I will not relate the Adulteries, Rapes, Fornications, whereby these Cardinals do pollute the Court of Rome, nor set out the most filthy life of their Family. not at all dissonant from the Manners of their Masters. Cap. 19. Concerning the Prelates, he thus writes: Qui totos in aucupio, & venatu dies agunt, qui noctes in conviviis acuratissimis, & chorais cum puellis effæminati insomnes transeunt, qui suo turpi exemplo gregem per devia abducunt in pracipitium. The Prelates spend whole days in fowling and bunting; and being effeminate, they spend whole nights in dancing and sports with young women, and by their filthy example lead their Flock out of the right way upon a precipice. Cap. 20. He calls the Regulars Ebrios, incontinentissimos, utpote qui passim & inverecunde prolem ex Meretrice susceptam, & scortam vice conjugum domi tenent. Et hos Canonicos aliquis vocabit, qui sic ab omni Canone seu Regula sunt abalienati? Drunkards, and most incontinent persons, who ordinarily and shamelessly do keep Whores in stead of Wives and Children by them at home in their houses. And who will call them Regulars who walk by no Rule? Cap. 21. Of the Monks he saith, Quanto magis continentes, magis obedientes esse debebant minus vagabundi, & e Claustrorum septis rarius egredientes in publicum; tanto ab his omnibus rebus licet eos videre magis alienos: pro labore desidia, pro continentia & aquitate, libido & superbia invasere. By how much the more they ought to be continent and obedient, by how much the less they ought to mander about, and go forth into publick from the bounds of their Cloisters; by so much the more we may see in them a contrary carriage and course unto these things: in stead of labour, sloth; in stead of continence and justice, lust and pride bath invaded them. Cap.22. Of the Mendicants he writes, An non hi lupi rapaces sunt sub ovili imagine latitantes, qui more Sacerdotum Belis in suis penetralibus, oblata devorant mero & lautis epuils cum non suis uxoribus, licet sape cum suis parvulis, avide satiantes, cunciaque libidinibus, quarum torrentur ardore, polluentes? Are not these Mendicants ravening Wolves under the form of Sheep, who like the Priests of Bell do devour what is offered, with others Wives and their own little Ones, greedily satiating themselves in retired places with Wine and costly Banquets, and defiling all things by their filthy and burning lufts? Cap. 23. Concerning Nuns and their Monasteries, he thus expresseth himself: De his plura dicere verecundia prohibet, ne non de cœtu Virginum Deo dicatarum, sed magis de lupanaribus, de dolis & procacia meretricum, de stupris & investuosis operibus dandum sermonem prolixe trabamus. Nam quid obsecro aliud sunt hoc tempore puellarum Monasteria nisi quadam. Non dico Dei sanciuaria, sed Veneris pro-Ribula, sed lascivorum & impudicorum juvenum ad libidines explendas receptacula? ut idem hodie sit puellam velare, quod & publice ad scortandum exponere. Modesty doth forbid to speak more concerning these, lest in stead of setting forth a society of Virgins devoted unto God, me should de-Cribe scribe a Stews, and speak of the deceits and wantonness of Harlots, of Rapes and incestuous works. For what other are the Monasteries of young women in these times, than execrable Brothel-houses of Venus, than the Receptacles wherein immodest and lascivious young men do fulfil their lusts? and at this day it is the same thing to put a Maid into a Monastery, and publickly to prostitute her, or put her forth to be a Whore.

We see what kind of persons Celibate persons were formerly, how well they kept their Vow of Chastity, as one of themselves acknowledgeth; and have we reason to think they are grown better of later, years? We see what they have been in other Countries; let us also see what they were before the breaking off the Romish Yoke in our own Land. In King Henry the Eighth's time a fearch was made into Monasteries and Religious Houses concerning the Life and Manners of these Romish Votaries; and we shall find in Speed's History of Great Britain. a Catalogue of vicious Celibate persons there found out, their Names and Crimes. In Battle-Abby fifteen Sodomites. In Canterbury eight Sodomites, and one that kept three Whores. In Chichester two Sodomites, in the Cathedral Church one that kept thirteen Whores. In Windfor-Castle twenty five Whores were kept amongst them. In Shulbred-Monastery nineteen Whores were kept. In Bristol the Abbot kept four Whores. In Mayden-Bradly the Prior kept five Whores. In Bathe-Monastery one had seven Whores, and was a Sodomite. In Abingdon-Monastery the Abbot had three Whores, and two Children by his own Sister. In Bermondsey-Monastery John White Prior, called the Bull of Bermondsey, had twenty Whores. Fuller in his History of Abbies doth relate this flory: One Sir Henry Colt of Neither-Hall in Essex, much in favour with King Henry the Eighth for his merry conceits, suddenly took leave of the King late at night, promising to wait upon his Grace early the next morning. Hence he hastned to Waltham-Abby, being informed by his Letters that the Monks thereof would return in the night from Cheshunt-Nunery, where they had secretly quartered themselves; Sir Henry pitcht a Brick-stall (wherewith he used to take Deer in the Forrest) in the narrowest place of the Marsh, where they were to pass over, leaving Some of his Confederates to manage the Same. The Monks coming out of the Nunery, and hearing a noise made behind them, and suspecting to be discovered, put out the light which they had with them, whose feet without eyes could find the way home in so used a path; making more haste than good freed, they ran themselves all into the Net: The next morning Sir Henry Colt brought and presented them to King Henry, who often had seen sweeter, but never fatter Venison. I might add many more instances had I room and time; but I list not any longer to rake in this Dunghill, being wearied my felf in the fearch, I shall draw towards a conclusion, fearing lest I should trespass upon both the patience and modefly of my Reader. If my Subject did not naturally lead unto this discourse concerning the lewdness and wickedness of these Celibate perfons, and if I did not apprehend that such discourse might be of use. I would have passed by these things in silence.

Use 2. What hath been said concerning the wickedness of the Church of Rome, occasioned by this forbidding to marry, I hope may be a sufficient caution unto all of you to take heed, and move you to abhor both the principles and practices of this corrupt Church. Indeed if any of your hearts be fet upon filthy lusts, and the most abominable uncleanneffes, and your Consciences are ready under our Reformed Religion to molest and trouble you too much, so that you cannot without secret lashes and stings within prosecute your hearts desires, and gratifie your vile affections: If you have a mind like Swine to wallow in the mire. of the most nasty filthiness, and to get Indulgencies for such practices, I would advise you to turn Papists, I know no better way that you can take to fear and cauterize your Consciences, that you may sin with the least controul. And you of the Female Sex, if you delire more secretly to be naught, and to vail all with a Religious Cloak, you may acquaint your felves with the Priests and Fathers of this Church, who though they will not marry, yet they will strain hard but they will gratifie such an inclination in you; and to stop the mouth of your clamorous Consciences, they will give you forthwith an Absolution, yea and admit you unto the Communion. But if you would deny all ungodliness and worldly lusts; if you would live soberly, righteously and godly in the World, as the Word of God, and Grace of the Gospel doth teach; if you desire to be sanctified here, and saved hereafter, abhor Popery, come not near the Tents of this wicked Church, lest you perish with them in the ruine which the Lord will certainly bring upon them, Drink not of the Cup of Fornication which the Whore of Babylon would put into your hands; Receive not the Mark of this Beast upon your foreheads: Read and confider one Scripture, which speaketh of those which turn Papists, sufficient to affrighten all from admitting and embracing this Religion by the fearful consequences thereof; the place is, Rev. 14.9, 10, 11, 12. And the third Angel followed them, saying with a loud voice. If any man worship the Beast and his Image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, the same shall drink of the Wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the Cup of his Indignation, and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy Angels, and in the presence of the Lamb; And the smoak of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: And they have no rest day nor night who worship the Beast and his Image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his Name.

Use 3. Lastly, you that are married Ministers, and live with your Wives in holy Wedlock according to God's Ordinance; Value not the Popish Doctrine or Decrees which forbiddeth your Marriage: So long as God is for it, no matter who they be that are against it; so long as God's Word doth allow it, no matter though the Pope doth forbid it.

616 The Popish Dockrine, which forbiddeth to marry, &c. Serm. XVII.

Only let it be your endeavour to put to silence the ignorance and perverseness of foolish men, by being blameless, as well as each the Husbands of one Wife: Above all others, you that are Ministers, and have Wives, should be as if you had none in regard of all inordinacy of affection towards them; and let it appear unto all, that although married, you chiefly care for the things that belong to the Lord, how you may please the Lord. You need not care, or be concerned at the barkings of the impure Papists, like Dogs who bark at the Moon, so long as your Conversations do shine.

2. The persons exhorted, true Believers.

Veri. T. Vers. 2. Vers. 3. Vers. 4.

In which Exhortation, it will be very much to our purpose to confider: 1. The Person that gives the Exhortation: 2. The Persons to exhorting, Pe- whom it is given: 3. The Matter exhorted to: 4. The Motives inforcing. The Person that gives the Exhortation, is the Apostle Peter, one cminent, 1. For his frequent Temptations: 2. For his great falls by these Temptations: 3. For recovery after those falls. 1. Peter was a person subject to frequent and violent Temptations unto sin; at one time the Devil had so transformed himself into an Angel of light, that he had almost thereby transformed Peter into an Angel of darkness:

> Peter thought he acted the part of a Saint and Friend to diffwade Christ from going to ferusalem; but Christ intimates that Peter acted therein the part of a Devil, when he faid to him, Get thee behind me, Satan: at another time, the Devil defired to minnow Peter as wheat, and you know how he was fifted in the High Priest's Hall.

Peter was one that being tempted, had greatly miscarried, and faln falling by tem- into gross sin; for you do not only read of his diffembling, and of his too great complying with the superstitious Jews in their Ceremonies In this we deny and Worship, but appearing like a down-right Apostate renouncing of not but that the Christ, and forswearing any knowledge of him, Matth. 26. 24. He that shall consider the experience which Peter had of Satan's power and subtilty, and of his own impotency and meakness, (both which Considerations might afford Arguments against the possibility of Assurance) may at first wonder that Peter should ever attain to any Assurance himfelf; much more that he should be the Author of such an Exhortation 2 One recover- as this to others. But Peter (as he had experience of Satan's malice, of ed from tempera- his own insufficiency, so he) had experience, 1. Of the prevalency of tion by Christ's his Saviour's intercession: Christ had prayed that Peter's Faith might intercessen, and not fail in the habit, although it did sail in the act. 2. He had experience of the Spirit's efficacy in working true forrow and repentance for his great sin; and hence (in part) it is, that Peter is most fit of all men to encourage weak Believers against their despairing and desponding fears, and to put them upon endeavours after Assurance: moreover, Peter had received a Command from Christ, that when he should be converted, (i.e. recovered from his partial Apostacy) he should endeavour to strengthen his Brethren, and probably 'tis in obedience to this-Command of Christ that he is thus earnest in this Exhortation.

The Persons to whom the Exhortation is given, are called in the Text Brethren; by which Title is not only expressed every true Believers Dignity, who is a Brother to the very Apostles themselves, (which Fraternity is infinitely more defirable than that Bastard Nepotism which fome Romith Cardinals boast of) but also by this Compellation the truth of their Graces is declared. For the Aposile had before described them to be, 1. Such as had obtained like pretious Faith with himself. 2. Such as were indued with faving Knowledge. 3. Such to whom God had communicated all things pertaining to life and godliness. 4. Such. 4. Such as God had called to glory and virtue. 5. Such to whom God Verf. 5. had given exceeding great pretious promises. 6. Such as were made partakers of the Divine Nature. Lastly, Such as had cscaped the pollutions of the world through lust.

These are the persons who although they had obtained pretious Faith, vet had not attained certain knowledge of their own spiritual state, but were in a possibility, yea in a very great preparation thereunto.

It is an abominable falshood which Bellarmine boldly reports that we Bell, de Just. teach, that except men have Affurance, they are not true Believers, or lib. 3. cap. 3. shall they ever be faved: This is an impudent calumny: for if any particular persons abroad have thought that a special and full perswasion of pardon of their fin, was of the effence of Faith, let them answer for it; our Divines at home generally are of another Judgment: Bishop Davenant de Davenant and Bishop Prideaux, and others, have shewn the great dif- Cer. 37. ference between Fides and Fiducia, between Recumbence and Affu-Prideaux Cec. rance; and they all do account and call Affurance a Daughter, Fruit and Consequent of Faith; and the late learned Arrowsmith tells us, that God Tat. Sac. 1.2. feldom bestows Assurance upon Believers till they are grown in Grace; for (faith he) there is the same difference between Faith of Recumbence. and Faith of Assurance, as is between Reason and Learning. Reason is the Foundation of Learning, so as there can be no Learning if Reason be wanting, (as in Bealts) in like manner there can be no Assurance where there is no Faith of adherence. Again, as Reason well exercised in the study of Arts and Sciences arises to Learning; so Faith being well exercised on its proper Object, and by its proper Fruits, arises to Assurance. Further, as by negligence, non-attendance, or some violent Difease, Learning may be lost, while Reason doth abide; so by temptation, or by spiritual sloth, Assurance may be lost, while saving Faith may abide. Lastly, as all men are rational, but all men are not learned; fo all regenerate persons have Faith to comply savingly with the Gospel-method of Salvation, but all true Believers have not Assu-

The Believers in the Text were in a state of Salvation, but wanted Assurance: hence, 3. The Apostle puts them upon diligence to attain 3. The matter it; which acquaints us with the matter exhorted to: where observe, of Exhortation. 1. The matter ultimately intended, viz. The making of their calling and election fure. 2. The means subserviently directed to, viz. The giving diligence to attain it. 3. The order of directing their diligence, first, to make their calling, and secondly, their election sure; for no man knows anything of his election further than he is affured of his being effectually called.

4. The fourth and last part of the Text affords us the Motives by which 4. The Motives. the Exhortation is enforced, which are, 1. Either implyed in these 1. in you and abound, they make you that you shall not be barren or unfruitful in the knowledge of the Lord Fesus. 2. Ab incomodo, from a double danger, 1. Of growing more and more ignorant of Spiritual Truths. He that lacketh these things is blind, (the word signifies purblind) purblind persons do see, but they see only things near at hand: many true Believers are weak Believers; not fo strong-sighted as Abraham was that could see Christ's day afar off: unassured persons are not able to look steadily to those things that are to come. 2. There is danger of more frequent falling into actual fin: For although God will not fuffer them to fall into any habitual custom of sin; yet they are very apt to forget that they were purged from their old fin, and fo are so much the more ready to return with the Dog to the vomit, and the Swine that was washed to the wallowing in the mire: not that any truly regenerate person doth so; but, there is a moral tendency in spiritual sloth and laziness to procure such Apostacy; 2. which is farther also intimated in this 10 Verse. where you have the Motive expressed in the Text it self, If you do these

That it is a Believers duty to give all diligence to make his present calling, past election, and future perseverance sure.

The first general Proposition doth branch it self into three special Propositions.

1. That 'tis possible for a true Believer to make his calling sure: 2. 'Tis possible thereby to know he was elected. 3. And by both to become affured that he shall persevere unto Glory.

The first special Proposition.

I begin with the first special Proposition, That 'tis possible for a Believer to make his calling fure: Here 'tis necessary that two things be undertaken and performed: 1. Explication: 2. Probation.

Explication. I. What is an

Two things are to be opened: 1. What is understood by our calling:

effectual call. 2. What is meant by a sure calling.

Quest. 1. What is to be understood by our calling? Answ. Calling strictly taken is an act of a person declaring his desire of another persons approach and access to him: Thus the Centurion tells Christ, that he could say to one Servant, Come, and he cometh; Luke 7. 7. and thus Christ bids the Samaritan-woman call her Husband, and come John 4, 16. to him. But the word more largely taken, is used for any declaration of the will of one person to another, where compliance with that will is required. Thus'tis faid, that Jacob called his Son Joseph, when he de- Gen. 47. 29. clared his will to him faving Bury me not in Egypt, and he made him freear: and in this large sence God is said to call a Sinner, when he reveals his own will, and a Sinners duty; as when God calls him to repentance. to faith, to holiness, 'tis the work of God to make known his pleasure. and 'tis the duty of men to comply therewith.

The word here our calling, is nomen participiale, and 'tis taken not actively for our calling upon God, as when 'tis formetimes put for all that worship which we perform to God, as in that phrase, Then began men Gen. 4. 26. to call upon God: but 'tis taken passively for God's calling of us, the I Cor. I. 2. nature of which act is fully expressed, 2 Thess. 2. 13, 14. But we are bound to give thanks unto God always for you, Brethren, beloved of the Lord, because God hath chosen you from the beginning to Salvation through Sanctification of the Spirit, and belief of the truth whereunto you were called by our Gospel to the obtaining of the glory of the Lord Fesus. That which I would have you observe at present from hence, is this, that the preaching of the Gofpel, and the revelation of God's will therein, is God's call: so the Apostle saith, Ye were called by our Gospel, i.e. our preaching of the Gospel. But here we must distinguish that the call of God in the Gospel is two-fold: 1. In word only: 2. In word and God's Call of power conjoined; so Paul distinguishes in I Thest. 1.5. Our Gospel two kinds. came not unto you in word only, but also in power and in the holy Ghost, only, and in much affurance. Now according to the different means which 2. In word and God uses in calling, so there sollows a different fruit, success, or conse-power both. quent of God's calling.

Hence it comes to pass, that God's call sometimes is ineffectual, and Hince ineffectual, sometimes effectual; so the same Apostle plainly declares in 1 Thess. 2. 13. For this cause thank we God without ceasing, because when ve received the word of God, which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but (as it is in truth) the Word of God, which effectually morketb in you that believe. Observe hence, that 'tis the work of God's Spirit in the heart, superadded to the Word of the Gospel, as spoken by men, that makes any call effectual: without this inward work, God may call, Prov. 1.275. and the Soul will never answer. But when the Spirit co-operates with the Word, the Souls of the Elect become obedient unto God's call 3they so bear his voice as to live; there is then an enlivening, yea, a crea- Joh. 5,ting power appearing therein. I grant there is a fort of men ariling among us, that scoff at this great work of Regeneration, and deny the infusion of principles or habits of Grace; but we have not to do with these men (at this time), who have totally faln from the Faith, and are greater enemies to the Crofs of Christ than the Papists themselves. Sure I am, that Thomas Aguinas, that famous person whom the Church of Rome have Canonized for a Saint, tells us, that fince there are some men indued with such habits which cannot be attained by the power of Nature, (because by them some men are fitted for the end of Salvation) therefore 'tis necessary that God be owned as the immediate Infuser of these habits. And he further adds, that as God produces some natural effects without the help of second causes, (as health is sometimes bestowed without the help of Phylick) so God infuses habits of Grace without and beyond the power of Nature. And whereas this learned person forefaw that some men might here object, that God's infusion of these habits into some persons and not into others, doth plainly prove discriminating Grace; (which Doctrine of late hath been denied and derided by the Socinians and some others) therefore this Angelical Doctor 1.Q.12. Ar.4. makes his Confession plainly, that he for his part doth own descriminating Grace; and that he doth firmly believe, that God (agreeable to his own wisdom, and for reasons reserved to himself) bestows more bus praparat. Grace on some, than upon others: And that though it be most agreeable unto Man's nature, that habits should arise from frequent acis, and much exercise, yet God may, and doth work such habits of Grace in some Men, which Nature cannot work; and therefore he concludes that they are supernaturally produced. I have given you the opinion of this Author about an effectual call the more fully, because I am confident, that had some men (who oppose the infusion of habits) been old enough, or diligent enough to have perused the Writings of such a person as Thomas Aquinas, before they had divulged their own fond Notions and Opinions, they would (out of a kind of ambition to be accounted out of a kind of ambition to be accounted out of a kind of ambition to be accounted out of a kind of ambition to be accounted out of a kind of ambition to be accounted out of a kind of ambition to be accounted out of a kind of ambition to be accounted out of a kind of ambition to be accounted out of a kind of a ki like-minded with such learned men) not have made such an open scoff and derifion of discriminating and effectual Grace; wherein they do not only contradict the express words of holy Writ, but also oppose the Do-Ctrine of the most learned of the Fathers and Schoolmen, and that with a most bold, as well as blind confidence.

I must beg pardon for this short (but necessary) digression, because Catharinus and 'tis this effectual work of God's Spirit in regenerating the Soul by infufing of babits of Grace, which distinguishes an internal effectual call of God, from a meer external and ineffectual one; and this is the thing which is chiefly intended in the Text, to be made fure, viz.

That it might be known whether or no God hath so called thee by his Word, as that also he hath wrought in thee by his Spirit; whether God hath illuminated thy understanding, and inclined thy will, so as thou hast complyed with God's will, and hast answered his call; whether when God did draw thee, thou didit run after him; whether when God did knock at the door of thy heart, thou didit open to him; whether when God did intreat and persuade thee to be reconciled to him, thou didst confent; whether when he did woo thee, he did also win thee;

whether when he invited thee to the Wedding-Supper of his Son, thou Luk. 14.18. didst make no excuse or delay, but didst accept, and welcome, the offer of the Gospel with faith and love: all which if thou didst do, it did arise from the power of an inward call, being superadded to the outward call of the Word; the very effence of an effectual call confifting in the Spirit's regenerating the Soul, and giving a new heart, (which is 2 Pet. r.4) Scripture-Language) or in the Spirit's infuling of new principles and habits of Grace, (according to the phrase of the Schools) so that now by calling here in the Text, you must understand an inward effectual change wrought in the heart by God himself in the work of Conversion and Regeneration, or the Spirits infusing of habits of Grace into thy

Hence when Bellarmine would (from this Text) prove Justification by works, because in some Copies the words are read thus, Chameir Pare Give diligence to make your calling fure of zahar igur, by good works; firat Tom 3. the most learned Chamier answers him, That granting the words be Lib. 15 cap. 15:fo read, (Beza owning that he had seen such a Copy) yet 'tis very abfurd and illogical for Bellarmine to argue that mens persons are therefore justified:

justified by good works, In Foro Divino, (as the Jesuite doth contend) because (according to this Text) mens calling may be justified or made fure by good works In Foro Conscientia: for this there is no colour from these words, because when Vocation is faid here to be made sure by good works, 'tis (faith Chamier) to be understood primarily and properly of subjective certainty; ut constet esse efficacem, & ut ejus certitudo ostendatur signo proprio nempe bonis operibus, that it may appear to be effectual, and its certainty may be manifested by its proper signs, namely, by good works, and in that fense we also own that men may be justified. by works, i. e. declared so in Conscience: but by a sure calling in the Text, is chiefly to be understood a calling affuredly known by the subject to be an effectual and faving calling. Note 2. Some imperfect certainty is proper certainty.

Job 11. 7.

Now this subjective certainty is two-fold: 1. Perfect: 2. Imperfect. tainty is of 1200 Perfect subjective certainty is when a thing is so known, as it cannot be better known; or when the subject is so certain of the truth of a thing as that he cannot be more certain of it, because he hath not the least ignorance of the thing, or the least doubt concerning it: this is perfect certainty. But here are three things to be noted: Let it be confidered, 1. There is no fuch thing as this perfect subjective certainty in this no perfect cer- world, perfect certainty is only to be found in perfect men, and 'tis folly to say any men are perfect, or that there is any such thing as perfect knowledge in this world: The Apostle saith, We know but in part, and therefore it is impossible that we should be certain any more but in part, that is, imperfectly certain. 2. Another thing which I would have our Adversaries consider, is, that imperfect certainty, though imperfect, yet it may be true and proper certainty, and is in many cases to be accounted more than conjectural or meer opinionative knowledge. For instance, we are told by God himself, that no man can find out the Almighty to perfection; and the most holy men in the world have some Atheism remaining in them; yet I hope many men have a true and certain knowledge of God, although no man hath a perfect knowledge of him: so a man may have a true and certain knowledge that he is effectually called, although he hath not a perfect knowledge of it. 3. Let it be confidered, that the nature of imperfect subjective certainty, is always such a knowledge as hath these four properties: 1. 'Tis built upon, or drawn from most certain proofs and evidences; and therefore, 2. It is such as doth prevail against all irrational doubts; and, 3. It is accompanied or followed with proper fruits of undoubted certainty, (notwithstanding a mixture of ignorance, and some impressed or indiscoursive fears which may confift with it:) 4. 'Tis fuch as God doth own for true and proper assurance in holy Writ.

1. When knowledge is built upon rational affuring evidences, then it on assuring evi- cught to be accounted certain knowledge, notwithstanding some irrational and unaccountable doubts may arise. A man that walks upon the

Leads of a very high, but very strong well-built Tower, incompassed with Battlements, doth know rationally that he cannot fall; (and he is not rationally in any fear of falling) but yet when he looks from that heighth, he hath irrational fears impressed upon him; and yet such fears as these hinder not, but that he is still certain that he shall not fall. because he can rationally prove that he cannot fall: Thus a person assured of his affectual calling by good evidence, is really and properly certain; although possibly when he looks down from the heighth of future expected Glory, into the Bottomless-Pit of misery, (from whence he hath escaped) some indiscoursive or irrational sears and doubts may be impressed upon him, which may lessen, but not destroy assurance.

2. When affurance is actually stronger than distidence, and doth cer- 2. Prevailing tainly prevail against distracting fears, then it is to be accounted certain over all ration affurance, though it be still imperfest: the truth, and the degree of a nal doubts. Believers affurance, doth hold proportion to the truth and degree of his Grace; and by this proportion of one to the other, they do very much illustrate each other. Thus, first, there is an analogy between Grace and Affurance, in this, that as Grace may be true, although it be not perfect; so may Assurance be true Assurance when imperfect. Again. as where Sin reigns, there is no Grace; so where Doubting reigns, there is no Assurance: but as when Grace prevails, 'tis accounted true Grace; so when Assurance prevails over Doubts, 'tis to be reckoned true Assurance. Lastly, where Grace is perfect without Sin, (as in Heaven) there Assurance will be perfect without all doubt, and not till then.

3. When a true Believers imperfect assurance is accompanied with 3. Followed the proper fruits of true assurance, 'tis then true assurance. So that the Controversie between us and Rome is not,

6. with Rome in this point is about the proa Believer.

1. Whether perfect assurance be possible, but whether certain assurance be possible; that is, whether a well-grounded, prevalent and influper, not the per- ential assurance be not attainable. Bellarmine grants Believers may fett assurance of have a conjectural hope; we say true Believers may attain to proper assurance: Theirs grant an assurance of fancy; we contend for an assurance of faith: Theirs is an assurance of opinion; ours an assurance of knowledge. I confess the Philosophick Schools have divided all Argumentation into Demonstrative and Opinionative, and they divided all knowledge into perfect science, or meer conjecture; and hence arose two forts of Philosophers amongst them: 1. The Δογμάπιοι, Dogmatiffs, who thought themselves perfectly certain of every thing, and doubted of nothing, but were as infallible as the Pope in his Chair. 2. The Eximmen, a kind of feekers that did restrain their affent, and doubted of all things; like the Popish Laity that are kept in the dark, and are taught to be blind: but the Protestants are of an elective kind of Divines, who know a middle way between both extreams, and therefore we do maintain a possibility of certain knowledge, while we own an impersection also; there being various degrees of a Believers certainty, and of his asfurance, and yet the lowest of them is more than moral conjecture or In certitudine opinion. Bellarmine himself is forced to grant that there are three detres quafi gra- grees of certainty; and although he doth not admit a true Believers knowledge of his effectual call into any of those degrees: yet I shall Bellarm lib. de prove anon that a Believer may attain a very high degree of certainty therein.

Moral.cap.23.

2. But let it be observed in the second place, that our Controversie is wer see not about not about words or names of things: the Question is not, Whether a words or names. Believers affurance is to be called certitudo fidei, or certitudo fiducia, or Justi securitas certitudo scientia; whether an assurance of faith, or an assurance of confidence, or an affurance of sense or of knowledge, for indeed it is not contra fe In- properly any of these; but an affurance mixed, and arising partly from faith, partly from confidence, and partly from knowledge both of reaspicit, ad men- son and sense.

1. It may be called an assurance of confidence, in as much as the degree of an affured Believers faith and knowledge must be such as excumeos adver- cludes all rational and prevailing fears and doubts, according as I have fantes superet, already shewn.

2. It may be called an assurance of faith, from that special interest that that faith hath therein, in as much as no Believer can attain to affirrance of Salvation, that doth not first Fiducially and by way of Application believe those peculiar Declarations of God's Grace and will in the Gospel, which are the Foundation of a Believers Salvation and Assurance; more especially these three Fundamentals. 1. The way of Salvation by Christ. 2. The nature and properties of saving Faith. 3. The certain perseverance of true Believers to glory.

2. 'Tis called an affurance of Faith, in as much as there must be an actual complyance with the way of Salvation by an explicite exercise of faving Faith upon Christ Jesus; a Believer demeaning himself towards Christ, as towards the Mediator of the New Covenant.

3. It may be called an affurance of knowledge, in as much as every affured Believer must first know what are the signs of true Faith, and fecondly, must know assuredly that the signs of true Faith are in himfelf.

4. It may be called an affurance of fense, in as much as a Believer knows not only by way of rational proof, but also by way of spiritual, internal, and experimental fense, that the work of God's Spirit hath been effectual in a faving manner upon him: All which I shall verifie and make good by several Arguments, in the order and method following.

For proof of this first Proposition, I shall first argue from the Con- 2. Probation. cessions of our Adversaries, that is, from some special Articles of their 1. tain to affurance of his being effectually called.

The first Doctrine of theirs which we shall take notice of, is this; r. Popily Da-They grant and affirm that a Believer may be affured of the pardon of Etrine, that afhis fins, by extraordinary means, by some immediate revelation, i. e. surance is poseither by a voice from Heaven, or the Million of an Angel fent from fible in an exthence; but they deny it to be possible to know this by ordinary means, way, but not in i.e. by the revelation of God's will, and of man's duty in Scripture, ar orainary with reference to eternal life, although the Mind of man be favingly see Eell. 115.3: illuminated by the Spirit, and although Conscience be enabled thereby to Just. cap. 5. compare a Believers heart and life with the Rule of the Word. Now I would fain know how St. Anthony, St. Galla, or St. Francis, (who (Bellarmine faith) were extraordinarily affured) could be so well affured by a voice supposed to come from Heaven, (which may be subject to many delusions of phansie, and to divers cheats and impostures by Men or Devils, especially when heard by one simple person only) as by the voice of Christ Jesus, who was sent of God to reveal the Rule of life, and by the voice of a man's own Conscience, affisted by the Spirit enabling a Believer to discern his agreement with that Rule. I grant, that God gave testimony unto Christ Jesus by a voice from Heaven: but Ffff 2 observe, observe, 1. This voice was frequently repeated: 2. It was given in the hearing of multitudes: 3. God did speak nothing from Heaven immediately, but what he had tanta mount, spoken before in the Scripture: Hence it is that Christ appeals not to this voice, but bids men fearch the Scriptures, for they testified of him; and when Christ tells his followers again, that God had given testimony of him, he makes mention of the works that the Father had enabled him to do, but makes no mention of his voice.

And as for affurance given by Angels, it must needs fall short of the affurance given by the Spirit of God: for the Apostle supposes that an Angel from Heaven (i. e. Satan transforming himself into an Angel of light) may preach false Doctrine, and be accursed; which is blasphemy to suppose of the Holy Spirit. Hence also our Saviour intimates in the Parable of Dives, that the Writings of Moses and the Prophets in Scripture, are much more convincing and affuring, than the words of one arising from the dead, or one sent from Heaven. If men may then be affured in Bellarmine's extraordinary way, they may much better be affured by the ordinary way revealed in Scriptures.

> Popish Docir. may be affired of anothers Salof his own. Marcellinus Cervinus.

The second Popith Doctrine is this, They say that one man may be That one man affured of anothers Salvation, but that no man can be affured of his own: The Pope declares that he was fure of Bellarmine's Salvation when vation, but not be Canonized him for a Saint, but Bellarmine was not fure of his own Salvation himself when he died; for his own Nephew relates that he trembled at the thoughts of death; and that when some standing by defired him that he would pray for them in Heaven, he answered, That for his part he knew not (when he was just expiring) whether ever be should come there. Now of all forts of men the Church of Rome ought to grant affurance possible to Believers themselves, when as the Pope hath declared himself to be so infallibly sure of the Salvation of so many millions whom he hath Canonized.

3. They say that the Priest or Confessor can give assurance by his bare That the Priest word, but deny God's Word to be any good ground of affurance: Bellarmine faith, that after Confession, the Priest by the word of Absolution doth give such evidence of justifying Grace, as there can be no mistake cannot do it by therein; these are his very words: here he mentions Confession as a help to affurance; yet afterwards he makes affurance to depend wholly on Ab-Confessio poe Solution: for he saith it may often happen that a man may confess, few nitentis & ver- or none of his fins, and yet the Priest may affure him of pardon, and he Priest may give affirmed by his word, whether God cannot do it by his Cap.2. Priest may give assurance by his word, whether God cannot do it by his Word much more infallibly.

4. They say men may attain to perfection, and yet not to affurance: 4 Popish Doctr. the words of Soto are these: 'Tis possible for us so in this life to sulfil the Toey (ay men whole Law of God, and the Precept of Love, that we may avoid all fection, yet not and every mortal fin; (by mortal fin, he means (as Luidamus inter-affurance, prets) whatever may lessen or violate our friendship with God.) Now if men may be thus perfect, certainly then they may know that they are thus perfect, otherwise they could be perfect without perfection; it is therefore a contradiction to fay that men may be perfect, and not affured.

5. The Church of Rome fay that men may attain to works of merit 5 Popific Do Chr. and supererogation: I ask whether works done ignorantly and without Toey say men may merit, and knowledge of rule or end, can be meritorious? Whatever act is blindly yet not know and casually performed, is so far from being a meritorious act, as it is they are sinceres. not a moral act of obedience or service: If then men could perform any work of merit or supererogation, they must know first that they are sincere and accepted of God as upright, before they can imagine that their works shall be rewarded as meritorious. Yet our Adversaries teach. that men cannot be affured of acceptance, and yet they may not only be perfect, but may be more than perfect, (so supererogation implies) that is, that they be righteous over much, or they may be not only good, but too good, (which we will grant in the proverbial fense) they mean by it, that men may be so righteous and so good, as to purchase pardon for a thousand of other sinners, and yet may remain unassured of their own pardon. Is not this strange Doctrine? Would you then know the reason why the Church of Rome holds these absurd opinions, and feek to maintain that both parts of a contradiction are true as in our present case they do, (and I could evidence it by many more instances) to satisfie you about this spirit of contradiction, I shall at once open the whole mystery of iniquity, and give you a Golden Key whereby you may unlock their more hidden contrivances; a Key of more worth than any of those which the Pope holds in his hand, or wears at his girdle; by which he opens the Treasures of all his inflaved Vaffals at his pleasure: the print of our Key you have drawn by the A- Pietatem quare postle Paul, I Tim. 6.3, 4,5. whither I must remit you; only let me stum ducunt tell you, that the more you fearth into the Rominh Religion, the more illi, &c. liness, who think the Oracles of God are given to no other end but to serve their Avarice, and measure all Religion by their own profit. Calv. in 1 Tim. 6, 3, 4, 5.

you will find it calculated only for gain. Affurance is therefore denied by them to be ordinarily possible, because could the Laity attain to it without the extraordinary affiliance of the Priest, the price of Pardons. Indulgencies and Absolutions would exceedingly fall: but although with them the Scripture be an insufficient thing, yet Money assures all things; and at Rome you may buy (if you be rich enough) not only affurance, but perfection, and power of merit, and works of Supererogation, and what not? but no more of this.

2 Arg. From and End of the Holy Scripture, which are a

I. As to the matter of them, viz. The Grace of God in Christ.

My fecond Argument to prove that 'tis possible for a Believer to atthe Nature, use tain to a certain knowledge that he is effectually called, shall be from the Nature, Use and End of the Holy Scriptures: If Scripture be a good Foundation of assurance, then assurance is possible; but Scripture is a good Foundation of affurance upon a double account; 1. As the matter on of affarance. revealed; 2. As to the manner of revelation.

1. Scripture is a good Foundation of affurance, if you confider the matter of Scripture-revelation; the sum and substance of all Scripturerevelation, is the manifestation of God's Grace in Christ Jesus unto sinners; viz. that God so loved the world, as that he gave his only begotten Son, that who seever believes in him should not perish, but have everlasting life, 3 Joh. 16. or in fewer words, By Grace we are faved through faith. and that not of our selves, 'tis the gift of God, Ephel.2.8. or in one word, Grace is the chief matter of Scripture.

Now God's Grace, as it is revealed in Scripture, is a good Foundation of affurance upon two accounts: 1. As it is free Grace: 2. As it is engaged Grace.

1. Scripture rereals free Grace.

Jam. 2 10.

Rom. 6.14.

1. The Scriptures reveal the Grace of God in its freeness, and so it affords a good Foundation of assurance: were sinners to be justified by works, or by their own merits, affurance were impossible, but it is by Grace that we are saved, i. e. by the merits of our Mediator: God freely accepts of that expiation which Christ hath made by the sacrifice of his own bloud upon our account. The Papifts that hold Justification by works, must necessarily deny the possibility of assurance: for if Justification were by works, then if a Believer should keep the whole Law. and fail but of one particular, he were guilty of all; in that case therefore no man could attain to affurance, for in many things me offend all. But blessed be God, Believers are not under the Law, but under Grace: Now Grace accepts (for Christ's fake) sincere obedience, where no perfest obedience can be performed. Where-ever sin is neither deliberate or habitual, it cannot weaken a Believer's evidence; neither ought the imperfections of Believers to hinder their assurance, because the Grace of God in Christ is free, accepting satisfaction from Christ.

2. Scripture re-V.als Grace ingaged.

2. The Grace of God revealed in Scripture is a good Foundation of assurance as 'tis engaged Grace, that is, as it is Grace revealed in a Covenant or Promise: Grace as to any merit of ours is free, but as to the promise of God it is engaged; and as assurance were impossible were not

Grace

Grace free, i. e. were Believers still under a Covenant of works; so assurance were impossible still if Believers were under no Covenant-Dispensation at all. Believers could have no hold of Grace, (were it never so free in it self) had not God given us affurance of his Grace in the Covenant, and bound himself by promise. I know some men do highly magnifie the effential goodness and kindness of God as the ground of a natural faith. I grant that this Divine benignity and goodness doth afford some lesser hope or expectation of pardon, but it gives no solid ground of assurance. The essential bounty, goodness and mercy of God, is like a deep and wide Ocean, upon which the mind of man may (as a Veffel at Sea) bear it self up in a calm; but if a storm arise, every wife Pilot will make towards the shore, or to a safe Rock, because 'tis there only he can find good Anchor-hold: Grace in a Covenant, or in a conditional promise, may seem to be Grace bounded and limited; but vet bope even there hath better anchorage than it hath upon God's general Grace and Philanthropy, which may bear up the Soul in a calm, but afford little peace to an unquiet mind: 'Tis the Rock of our Salvation revealed in the promise, that only can stay that Soul which is once throughly awakened and convinced of guilt. Now the Scripture doth reveal God's Grace engaged by Covenant to accept for Christ's sake all those that do depend upon his Son's merits, and obey his Commands by an effectual faith.

3. And that is another thing revealed in the Word, viz. The na- 2. Scripture reture of that faith by which Believers do obtain an interest in God's veals the nature Grace through Christ; and upon this account the Scripture is a good of that faith when by a Be-Foundation of affurance, in as much as, 1. It reveals certainly and un-liever attains doubtedly that by faith in Christ we have an interest in God's most free an interest in and promised Grace. 2. That it reveals certain and undoubted marks Christ. of the nature of true faith in Christ. If then a Believer be by the Word 3 Joh. 16. informed that through faith in Christ he may certainly obtain par- I Tim I. don of fin; and if he be also sufficiently therein taught how to difcover unfeigned from feignice with by those certain xerifera or proveit mater which are laid down in the Word; what can hinder the possibility of a Believer's assurance? Especially if you shall consider in the second 2. 3. All things are abundantly affured to us to be of divine Authority, God having been pleased to set the Seal of Miracles to the Patent of every Ambassador sent by him, and have attested the Commission of every Pen-man of Scripture, as appears Heb. 2.3,4. But I do omit the full proof of the sufficiency, perspicuity and divine Authority of the Scripture, because it is so abundantly done by others in the Discourses annexed.

A fourth property of Scripture-revelation is this, that it was revealed to this very end that men might attain to affurance thereby; so we are frequently told by God himself, viz. That whatsoever things were written, were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope, Rom. 15.4. And lest any one should think that the Spirit of God by hope doth only understand a conjecture. Bellarm. lib.3. (as Bellarmine interprets the place) the Apostle John doth tell us, that the express design of his Epistle was, that those who believe might not only hope, but know they had eternal life, I Joh. 5. 12. and Christ himfelf tells Believers that he spoke all those things that they might have joy, and that their joy might be full, Joh. 15. 11. and the Author to the Hebrews gives us this very account, why God did not only make a Covenant of Grace, but did also confirm and ratifie it by an Oath, namely, That Believers might have strong consolation, or assured comfort. From all which 'tis evident Believers have a good Foundation of affurance in and

Word, so he hath given them sufficient help and power rightly and asfuredly to build upon that Foundation, in as much as he hath indued them with such faculties as are able to observe, discern and judge of their regular building upon that Foundation: that is, God hath enabled them to discern certainly whether their hearts and lives agree with the rule of faith and manners. If God had creat othe Sun, but had denied men eyes, no man could have known the path which he walks in, or have discerned the end which he aims at: but God hath given both light streaming forth from the Word, and he hath given the eye of Conscience, that by both these men might come assuredly to know that they are called out of darkness unto light, and that they walk in that narrow way that leads to life, because they always make Salvation the constant white and mark of their way. The Church of Rome perverts all true Religion at once, and destroyeth all rational obedience to God's command, as well as they do undermine all the best joys and comforts of a good man's life, while frame or complexion of his heart, or what is the tenour or course of his life and conversation; whereas there are few persons living that bear not about them in their own breasts a convincing Argument from the testimony of Conscience, how much the general Conversation of some men do depart from the Rule of the Word, and how near other men (in the tendency of their lives) do approach to it. The dictates of most men's Consciences do tell them, how great a discerning they have of good and evil, and also of the nature of their own actions: No man can be wholly ignorant of the Law of God which is written in his own heart; and few men who live under the preaching of the Gospel, but are conscious of the strivings of the Spirit of God with them, and they know in what instance they have complied with its motions, and against what calls thereof they have stopped their ears: How much more then may every true Believer certainly know the faving work of God upon him? If an unsanstified person cannot wholly be a stranger to himself, surely then the man that dwells much at home, that frequently descends into his own heart, that summons his own Soul to appear before him, and to come to trial, this man cannot easily be ignorant what agreement there is between the Rule of God's Word, and the method of his Conversation. Bellarmine doth much urge that Text of the Prophet, Fer. 17. 9. The heart of man is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked, who can know it? If no man can know his heart, (saith the Cardinal) then none can attain to assurance. But we answer:

1. That though an unregenerate heart which is desperately wicked be deceitful, and not to be known, yet so are not the hearts of true Believers.

2. The Question is propounded of one mans knowing the heart of another, but not of a mans knowing his own; so Peter Martyr and others upon the place.

There are three Offices of Conscience which it is able to discharge, and thereby it doth exceedingly promote a Believers affurance.

1. There is in Conscience our tiggious, by which power it is able to eve its Rule.

2. Durádnous, a power to compare man's actions with the Rule.

3. Keiru, a power to pass sentence or judgment either of condemnation, whereby it doth rampes, accuse; or of absolution, whereby it doth λπολογάν, excuse, as the Apostle speaks Kom. I.

Conscience is both a Judge, a Witness, and an Executioner upon the tryal of man's heart and life.

1. Conscience is a Judge; I will not say it is a King to give Law, 1. Conscience is but it is a Judge to try and to pass sentence according to Law: Hence ding to Law. the Apostle John doubts not to say that the voice of Conscience is one I Joh. 3.19,20,1 and the same with the voice of God; Hereby (faith he) we know me 21. are of him in truth; and shall assure our hearts before him; if our hearts condemn us, God is greater than our hearts, and knoweth all things; but if our hearts condemn us not, we have confidence (even) before God: that person that is acquitted at the Bar by a Judge, acting according to Law, needs not fear to appear before the King himself on the Ibrone.

2. Conscience a witness as to matter of fact.

2. Conscience discharges the Office of a Witness; St. Paul calls it a witness, Rom. 9. 1. I speak the truth in Christ, I lye not, my Conscience bearing witness; and St. John gives it the same title, I John 5. 10. He that believeth bath a witness in himself. Heathens could say, Conscien-. tia milie testes, Conscience is a thousand witnesses: but the Apostle speaks yet more, when he joins the Spirit of God as a co-witness with our spirits, Rom. 8.16. The Spirit it self beareth witness with our spirits. that we are the children of God.

2. Conscience is a remarder or punisher accorgiven. 2 Cor.1. 12.

3. Conscience is a Rewarder or Punisher according to the nature of the sentence which it pronounces: if Conscience doth accuse, no such ding to sentence Severe Torinentor as Conscience is, as is evident in the instances of Cain. and Judis, and Spira; if Conscience doth acquit, no such Comforter and Remarder; this (faith Paul) is our rejoycing, the testimony of our Conscience, &c. no such joy, no such feast, as the joy and feast of a good Conscience. Well may it be said, that a good man is satisfied from bimself: This bread is often eaten in secret; 'tis hidden Manna, and is so much the more pleasant: this is joy that a stranger meddles not withal, and is formuch the more secure; the new name and the white stone none know

4. Assurance is possible to be attained because it hath been attained. ab esse ad posse valet consequentia. 1. Fob declares his assurance in that he faith, He knew that his Redeemer did live; his, (emphatically his not anothers Redeemer) his Redeemer as to eternal as well as temporal concerns; so he describes him, He shall stand on the earth at the latter day, (the day of refurrection) after worms had devoured his skin and bis flesh, then should he see him owning and receiving of him into Glory, Job 19.25, 26. 2. David also was so assured of his interest in God, that he with affured confidence requires Salvation from God's Plal. 119. 130. hand; I am thine, (faith he) therefore fave me. 3. Another instance of affurance we have in Hezekiah, who could appeal to God on a deathbed, That he had walked before God in truth with a perfect heart, and had done that which was right in God's fight; and 'tis evident his affurance was good, for God accepts of the appeal, and declares it to be true. Isai. 38.3,4. But the most convincing instance is that of Paul, in the 8. Rom. 38. where he declares so great a Plerophory of assurance, that he was perswaded neither life, nor death, nor any other thing should separatebim from the love of God. The Romanists do variously excruciate themselves to evade the force of this Text, some of them say the Apostle speak. only of a conjectural perswasion, but Pareus proves that the Apostle ne ver useth the word жино на, I am persmaded, (with reference to his own. Salvation) but he intends full assurance by it: so in 2 Tim. 1. 12. I know whom I have believed, and am persmaded (that is, I am assured) that he is able to keep that thing I have committed to him unto the great day. God's power is not an object of conjecture, but of knowledge and affurance. Others of that Church fay, that although Paul was affured Salmero. that not any Creature could separate him from the love of God, yet he Pererius. was not fure but he might separate himself by the apostacy of his own will. Of these men the learned Chamier doth well demand, Whether Panstrat, Cathe Apostles Will were not a Creature; and also, Whether God cannot thol. Tom.3. by his own power keep our wills to himself, after he hath made us of Lib. 13. unwilling to be a willing people. For notwithstanding there may after conversion remain a natural power in men to alienate their hearts from God, yet by Christ's Mediationand the Spirit's superintendency in true Believers, there remains no moral power actually to do it. And further, fince no Creature can do any thing towards our separation from God but by our wills, 'tis folly (faith he) to think that the Apostle doth not include a Believers will, when he faith, No Creature shall separate a Believer from God. Bellarmine, to avoid the Text, runs to Lib. de Just 3. his old refuge, and grants that Paul was truly affured, but it was by an Cap. 5. extraordinary revelation, which no other Believer can ordinarily attain to: The folly of this evalion I have already in part detected; two things more I desire may here be considered. 1. That when any persons have declared (in the Scripture) their full affurance, they have spoken of it not as of a thing of extraordinary revelation, but as of a thing of evident probation. 2. That yet they have spoken of their assurance as of a thing of as great certainty as can be defired. For the proof of both these, I shall instance in the Apostle John, who often afferts his assurance: but, 1. He reckons it not grounded upon immediate revelation, but upon rational evidence and probation, his words are these, I John 2. 3. Hereby (i rétu) we know (faith he) that we know him, if we keep his Commandments: and again, 1 John 3. 19. Hereby (the same word is here used again) we know we are of him in truth, and shall assure our hearts before him: you see, in both places he speaks Argumentatively, not by way of Revelation; and yet observe, 2. That his affurance was full and strong, for it is expressed by words importing as great affurance 'Er Total great affur as can be expected, Τινώπαρορο επ ερνώπαρορο, scimus Quod novimus, We know κερορο επ του τ του τ του του κου κου και του και τ rance, and therefore 'tis possible.

'Tis possible to attain to assurance, because God hath designed our 6 Arg. Supper under the Gospel, than God's intending thereby the giving all necessary and useful belys and furtherance of subjective assurance. Hence it is that the Apostle Paul tells us, That the promise and the blessing was sure (in it self) to Abraham long before he was circumcised. It may then be enquired, to what end was Circumcifion instituted? The same Apostle tells the end was, that it might be a ground of greater assurance; for so he saith, Abraham received the sign of Circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of faith which he had being uncircumcised: Now unto this seal of Circumcifion under the Law, the feal of Baptism answers in the Gospel; and as the striking of the Blood of the Paschal Lamb on the door-posts of the Israelites, gave farther assurance (after the promise was made) that the destroying Angel should not smite the first-born of any Israelite; so the Inflitution of the Lord's Supper was intended for a begetting the greater affurance in the heart of a true Believer, that God will not destroy him for the fake of the Blood of his Son that is thereby represented; both Sacraments being intended as Seals of the Covenant of Grace more vifibly ratifying thereof to sense, and confirming Faith thereby. Moreover, God in the Sacraments doth confirm a Believer's Faith, in as much as he doth therein, by his Ministers, make a more particular and personal Offer and Application of his Grace to every true Believer. In the Sacraments there are to be confidered, 1. The Confirmation; and, 2. The more special Application of the benefits of the Covenant of Grace; and by both these a Believers Faith is strengthened, and his assurance is promoted. one Argument that Becanus the Papist useth against the possibility of assurance, viz. because God hath not by name declared to any person that his fins are forgiven, any where in Scripture: but this Cavil and Objection we have already obviated, and told you that all universal and general Propositions do include fingular and particulars: It is no where said, that Thomas or John shall not do any murther, or shall not steal; but the command is as binding as if they had been named; the case is the same in Promises as in Commands: but we might answer (sano sensu) farther with St. Bernard, That in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper there is an actual Exhibition and particular Application made of the Grace of God, whereby all true Bellevers are personally and actually invested into that Grace by a direct and immediate assurance given. Domino passi- Father explains himself thus: The Priest (saith he) in the Eucharist doth as it were invest the Receiver with an affurance of pardon, as some vestiri suos de men are invested into an Estate by a Rod or Staff, or as a Woman is invested into an actual interest in her Husband's Estate by her Husband's putting a Ring upon her Finger, or as a Canon is invested by a Book put into his hand, or as an Abbot is invested by a Staff. We do not fay with the Papilis, that the Sacraments do actually confer Grace by virtue of the external application: but we say that in the Sacrament there is an affured offer of Grace made to every Receiver, and unto all true Believers they do sign, seal and assure a certain and undoubted interest Assurance or Confidence doth always suppose sure Faith, or certain as- Prideaux fent, as the ground, root and foundation thereof. There may be Faith Lectio 7. where there is no Confidence, but there can be no Confidence where there is no Faith: He that therefore saith, That 'tis possible for a man to be assuredly consident of the pardon of his sin, doth contradict bim that faith, 'Tis not possible for any man to believe his fins are pardoned. Bellarmine by faying both these things doth plainly contradict himself. 2. But we shall wonder at this the less, because in the second place we may observe that he makes bold to contradict in most express terms his most holy Council of Trent; the words of which Council I quoted in the entrance of this Discourse; wherein they declare that Ccertitudo fiducia) assurance of Faith, or assurance of Confidence (translate it as you please) concerning pardon of sin is vain and impieus: but Bellarmine saith that many Believers have (and all ought after Absolution tohave) this (certitudinem fiducia) assurance of faith or confidence, call it by what name you will, yet the contradiction is direct: the same word being used by the Council and by the Jesuite. Now who can by any distinction reconcile these two contradicting Positions? and therefore I suppose none can free our poor Doctor from the Anathema passed upon him by the Council. For my part, I always thought a Council to be more infallible than the Pope, (though I will try before I will trust either of them) I am therefore confident the Pope did err when he made a Saint of this Cardinal, who we find accurfed by the Council.

3. But we Protestants ought to pardon and absolve the Jesuite from this Anathema, pronounced for his contradicting the pretended general Council, fince he doth not in this contradict the truth, but doth grant all Peccator in fe- that which we plead for, even almost in the very words and terms by which the Protestants them selves express it; for there is little or no difference between the very phrase which I have quoted out of Bellarmine's second fit certa fidu. Book of Penance, and the very words of his Adversary Chemnitius in his Examen, which are these, That a true Penitent, or one that acts true Faith on Christ, may by an assured considence determine that his sing are pardoned.

I shall conclude this Argument with this note, that if it be granted. that after the pretended Sacrament of Penance and Absolution by a Priest, a Believer may become affured of the pardon of his fin; he may much better conclude his sins to be pardoned after the right use of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, which was defigned to be a Seal and Confirmation to bis faith.

6 Arg. Because it is possible to attain to all assuring eviden-

The fixth Argument is this, 'Tis possible for a Believer to prove that he is effectually called, by all assuring evidences; and therefore 'tis postible for him to attain to a certain knowledge that he is effectually called. There are three, and but three forts of affuring evidences: 1. Demonstrative Argument: 2. Unerring sense: 3. Infallible Testimony. Now 'tis possible for a Believer to prove that he is effectually called by all these several sorts of evidences.

1. By Demonftra ive Aroument.

1. By Demonstrative Argument, that is a Demonstration which proves either the being and existence of a thing by its inseperable and distinguishing effects, or proves the nature and kind of a thing by the special and effential properties of it. Now a Believer may prove that he is effectually called, or that he is regenerated, and that the Spirit of God hath infused the habits of saving Grace into him,

1: From the proper effects of infused habits of Grace.

First, by peculiar, proper, and distinguishing effects of infused habits of faving Grace: the effects of all habits are their respective acts; and although all forts of gratious acts do not prove habits of true Grace, vet God hath declared in his Word that there are some acts, and some exercifes of Grace, which do demonstratively prove infused habits of Grace, and do evidence an effectual call; this is proved by I Theff. 1.3. compared with Verse 5. In the 5 Verse Paul tells the Theffalonians, That the Gospel came not to them in word only, but in power also, and in the Holy Ghoft, and much assurance: that is, he tells them they were effectually called: but how may this be proved? what evidence is it built upon? See Verse 3. he proves it by two things: 1. By the indwelling habits of Grace, viz. Faith, Love, and Hope: 2. By the distinguishing acts of those Graces, viz. working, labouring and patience; remembring (faith the Apostle) your work of faith, your labour of love, and patience of hope. Now in the same manner (as Paul doth) 'tis possible for many true Believers to prove Demonstratively also the truth of their Grace.

may prove the truth of their Faith by its work; the Apostle James saith, I. The work of that works do shew, or (as the words signifie) demonstrate the truth of Faith, deligne, Faith: all forts of works do not prove Faith to be faving, but some works do manifest it; and by them 'tis possible to prove an effectual call. will name (and I must but name) some works of Faith, which are all as so many Demonstrations of true Faith. 1. Prizing the Lord Jesus above all things, Phil. 3. 8. 2. Receiving him in all his Offices as offered in the Gospel, John 1.8. 3. Victory over the World, 1 Joh. 4.4. 4. Quenching of Satan's fiery darts, Ephel. 6. 16. 5. Purifying of the heart, All. 5.9. Where-ever these works or effects of Faith are, there

2. Love may be demonstrated by its labour, that is, by its exercise and 2. Labour of peculiar fruits and effects. The word labour of love, mentioned by the A- Love, postle, is used not to signific any irk somness or burthen that love feels, for I Thess. 1.3. nothing more delightful and pleasant than the work of love; but to intimate the diligence, constancy, and universality of loves exercise: where love to God is fincere, there love commands the heart; the interest of God in such fouls is superiour to all other Interests; hence God's Commands are not 1 Johns. grievous; and this is a property of love, that demonstratively proves it to be the work of the Spirit in an effectual call: if the Apostle John had any Logick in him, he thought this to be a Demonstration, That he that keepeth his Word, in him verily (i.e. certainly, undoubtedly) is the love 1 Joh. 2.5,of God perfected; that is, Evangelically compleat and fincere. The nature of true love is such, that it will make it self manifest; if men would design to conceal it from others, 'tis difficult to be hid; but for a man to hide it from himself it is impossible: the consideration of which forces Bellarmine to confess, that love to God, or charity, is a most cer- Bell. Lib. 4: tain note whereby alone the Children of God may be distinguished from Just. Cap. 17. the Children of Satan. Thus again while our Adversary opposes the sa sola certification. possibility of assurance, he doth contradict himself, and most fully grant ma nota, Quait to be possible, because there are confessedly some certain marks and filii Dei a silius figns of the Children of God; and by thefe fruits they may be known: Diaboli decerwe have instanced in two Graces of faith and love; we shall instance but. nuantur. in one other, viz.

Hope: this Grace may be demonstratively proved to be wrought by the 3. I do not say that either hope or patience, when separately taken, but only in conjunction one with the other, are certain signs of true Grace: there is a great deal of pre-Sumption or false bope in the World; but false bope is never followed: with self-denial, or with an intire resignation to the Will of God, so as to forfake all and to follow Christ. On the other hand, there may be

fome kind of patience which may be nothing but a Stoical apathy, and a censeless finder sufferings, or only a blind boldness to engage with difficulties. Now this often-times arises from pride, not from Evange-Our Adversaries lical hope, nor from a sense of interest in the love of Christ. Now erant a certainwe do not fay that such hope or patience when so divided are certain Arty of hope, and guments of Regeneration, but they are only so in conjunction; and we therefore must grant a certain- fay that patience, when 'tis a fruit of Gospel-hope, 'tis then an effect of the Spirit's work, who hath infused that bope as an habit of saving ty of Faith; Grace; and 'tis Demonstratively proved to be so, because this hope is of the same nature as saving faith, and it hath many evidences which certainly manifest it to be faving: 1. This hope purifies the heart, 1 Joh. Grace, and the 3. 3. 2. This hope rejoiceth the heart, Rom. 5. 2. 3. It affures the Hebrew word heart, Heb. 6. 11, 19. 4. It faves the foul, Rom. 8. 24. Every kind of life is indued with a sense proper to its nature; for there is a certain connexion between life and fense; and the more high and noble any principle of life is, the more clear and perspicuous are the sensations and perceptions of that principle. The ferfes of the animal life are evident, and the perceptions of the rational life are more discernable than they; but no sense so quick and clear as that of the divine life, because the principle thereof is more bigh and noble. Here politibly a half-witted Pretender to Keason, will cry out, That to discourse of spiritual senses and the perceptions of the divine life, is to speak nothing but Enthusiasm, and things which none understand. answer . Mounsieur des Cartes was far enough from Enthusiasm; vet Cartesius de that Master of Reason builds all his Philosophy upon a principle of in-Methodo. ward sense, viz. Cogito ergo sum, I know I think, therefore I know I am. And he farther tells us, That the Idea, or inward sense of a God, is the best Argument to prove there is one. Again, I ask were the Philofophers of old, Plato and Aristotle, Enthutiasis, who agreed in this, that all men are naturally endued with a double faculty of discerning? one they called, facultas survinum, a discourtive faculty; the other, facultas rotium, an intellective faculty; by the latter of which, some truths Aristot.lib. 2. (they faid) were intuitively and directly see suamakizs, not by augmenta- Post. cap. ult. tion, but by internal sense; and this all men know and acknowledge who are self-acquainted in any measure. And agreeable hereunto the Spirit of God is pleased to represent the perceptions of the divine life by expressions of sense, as of seeing the Just One, Acts 22. 14. of hearing, and learning of the Father, John 6.45. of smelling a savour and sweet odour in Gospel-revelations, 2 Corinth. 2. 14. of tasting that God is good, Pfalm 34. 48. of touching and handling the Word of Truth, I Joh. 1.1. Now as 'tis folly to strein Scripture-allusions too far, and to take its Metaphors in the literal and proper sense; so 'tis madness and gross ignorance on the other hand to think that by these expressions the Spirit of God did not intend to inform us, that every true Believer doth as truly discern spiritual objects by an internal sense, as any man doth discern material objects by his bodily senses.

I shall instance but in three acts of divine sense, whereby 'tis possible Three acts of for a Believer to prove sensibly that he is effectually called.

1. Many Believers do see such a light breaking in upon their under- know that he is standing, as doth manifestly declare it self to be the especial work of effectually God's own Spirit; for by two properties the teaching of God's Spirit called. may be distinguished from the common teachings of men, or from the 1. By discerning fole convictions of a natural Conscience: 1. By the clearness and fulness illuminating his of this light; when the Spirit co-operates with the Word, then a Be-understanding. liever in God's light sees light, as the Pfalmist phraseth it, he sees eye Pfal. 36.9. to eye, as the Prophet Isaiah expresses it, Isai. 51. 8. Divine light is full, and descends deep, and enters far into the minds of men; Wisdom exters the foul, Prov. 2. 4. God shines into the heart, 2 Pet. 1. 19. And hence truth is said to be wrote, Heb. 8. 10. to be engraven, 2 Cor. 3. 3. to be fealed, Job 33.16. on man's heart and foul. 2. By its influence on practice; no truly divine teaching is or can be detained in unrighteousness; and hereby 'tis distinguished from common teaching; Sun-light is distinguished from Moon-light by its brightness, and by its warmth also, a meer natural conviction is like a flash of lightning in the night, which makes a thort discovery of some objects, but vanishes before a man takes one step of his journey: but when the Spirit teaches by the Word, the Spirit makes the Word a light to a Believer's feet, and a lamp to his paths; that is, it becomes a practical light, and hereby 'tis also known to be effectual.

2. He feels a diving power prevailing upon bis will.

Pfal. 116.105.

2. A true Believer feels a divine power prevailing upon his will, which he proves to be supernatural both by the exceeding greatness of it in its principle, and also by the mighty working of it in its effects: The Apostle Paul desires of God that the Ephesians might know that they were effectually called, and that they might also know the hope thereof, in Ephes. 1.18. And in Verse 19. he declares how this might be obtained, namely, 1. by discerning the exceeding greatness of God's power towards them that believe, (that is in its principle:) 2. by difcerning the working of this mighty power in them that believe; that is, பு ம் செல்லவு in the effects thereof. God's power exercised upon, and towards Beperson is faid here in its felf to be great; nay more, 'tis greatness; farsugar res mosely. ther yet, 'tis greatness of power; higher yet, 'tis exceeding greatness of त्याः त्याच ने लेकिन pomer: Can this power be put forth upon man, and man be wholly inrear . To xed rus. fensible thereof? 'tis impossible; especially if you add the other consideration of the effects that are wrought by this power in Believers, such as these, the quickning of life-less Sinners, and the raising of them from Cap 4.v.23, 4 the dead; the renewing of the spirit of the mind; the putting on the new man, which is created after the image of God in Christ Jesus, in righteoufness and true boliness: these signal effects which a Believer cannot but feel, do as certainly prove an effectual call, as the work of the old Creation do prove the existence of a God; or the Miracles wrought by Christ, did prove him to be the Son of God.

3. He kath a spiritual tafte of the goodness of God, and his ways. Bellarmine's Objection from

Heb. 6.4,5. answered. Jeh.4.14.

3. A true Believer hath a spiritual taste of God's love and favour. and of the goodness of his ways, and by it he is able to prove that be is born of God, according to that of the Apostle, I Pet. 2. 1. But Bellarmine here doth object, That Hypocrites and Apostates are supposed in Heb. 6. to have a taste of the good Word of God. I answer, 1. An Hypocrite may have a taste of the Word, but 'tis but a taste; whereas a true Believer drinks so deep of these waters of life, that they become a well of living water fringing up to everlasting life. 2. Although a Hypocrite may have some taste of the sweetness of the Word; yet he always tastes a greater sweetness in the World: but 'tis contrary in Believers; David tasted the Word to be sweeter than Honey, and more pre-

Mat. 13. 20, 21. cious than much fine Gold. The stony ground received indeed the Word with with joy at first, but parted with it again, rather than undergo the forrow of persecution. 3. An Hypocrite may taste some sweetness in the promises and priviledges of the Word, and the gifts of the Spirit, but not in the precepts of the Word, or graces of the Spirit: Simon Magus Ad. 3.18,19. would part with the World, and give Money for the miraculous power of the Spirit; but he regarded not the sanctity of the Spirit, or obedience to its Laws; but a Believer thinks that in the very keeping of God's Pfal. 19.11. Commands there is great reward; and David professes his delight to do the will of God: fo that by these, and many other acts of sense, (which I must not name) a Believer is able to prove that he is effectually called, and

and that certainly, and without errour or mistake: For the Rule holds good in the due exercise of spiritual as well as bodily sense, That Sensus non fallitur circa proprium objectium; Sense cannot be deceived about its proper object: bodily sense is so certain, as that Christ himfelf appeals to it; in a proper case, Reason discerns that Spirits have neither flesh or bones, and Christ bids his Disciples to exercise their sense, and to feel that he had both. From the certainty of outward sense, we do most justly reject the Doctrine of Transubstantiation: The Receiver sees bread, feels bread, smells bread, tastes bread, and yet the senseless Priest would have men believe that 'tis flesh. But a Papist will tell you, Sense is a certain and unerring exidence, Luk. 24 34. The Papilts are of the opinion of Hieraclicus, Kamil μάρτυρες, άνθρώπων δεθαλικέ, Νο man must believe his eyes. Lige as the Philistins dealt with Santson, they would put out our eyes, that we might grind in their Mill. or bring grift to it: Like the Pharisees, Joh. 9.25. that would perswade the man born blind, that he mas so still, because they were unwilling to own Christ, the Author. of his sight.

that there may be disceptio visus, a mistake in sight and sense, both external and internal. I answer, The evidence of sense in general is certain and unerring, (although there may be some mistake in particular acts of sense) upon two accounts: First, Because the causes of particular errours may always be known to be, 1. either the ill disposition of the Organ, as in a Jaundice-eye; or, 2. the distance of the object, as the apparent smallness of heavenly bodies; or, 3. the different medium through which the object is beheld, as a staff half in water and half out feems crooked. Secondly, Because by much experience, observation and guidance of reason, men have been able to form and establish certain Rules whereby to rectifie all these mistakes. In like manner (by the Guidance of the Spirit) God hath given in his Word most certain Rules whereby men may know from whence the mistakes of internal sense do arise, and in what manner, and by what means they may be corrected. From all which I may fafely conclude, that as there are certain Sciences built upon the certainty of bodily fense, (as Opticks, and many other Mathematical Sciences) notwithstanding particular mistakes in some acts: so 'tis possible by experience and observation, together with the Guidance of the Word and Spirit, for a Believer to prove, 2 Pet. I. 19. that his spiritual sense doth not err, and consequently that he is effectually called.

3. By infallible the Spirit.

Heb. 6. 13.

In the last place, I say, 'tis possible for a Believer to prove that he is testimony of the effectually called, by infallible testimony of the Spirit: this sort of evidence, by Authority or Witness, Logicians call Argumentum artificiale, an artificial Argument; but in our case 'tis Argumentum certissimum, a most certain proof: for if God hath said, That in the mouth of two or three humane Witnesses every word is established, that is, made sure; how much more sure is the evidence that is given in by the Spirit of God. who cannot lve?

Now the testimony of the Spirit of God, is either written in the either written, Word, or real in its Works: How far the written testimony of the Spirit in Scripture (which is Octoredos (3) is a foundation of assurance. I. testimony is ii. have already declared: The real testimony of the Spirit is two-fold: 1. Material, mediate, and only objective, viz. When the Spirit of God by the work of fanctification wrought in a Believer, doth thereby afford to a Believer objectively (and mediately by the fruits of the Spirit) matter of proof or evidence, whereby he may evince by argument, that he is effectually called. This fort of evidence I have also already spoken to; therefore 'tis yet another kind of testimony of the Spirit that I would here more especially inlift upon; namely, the efficient, immediate, and formal testimony of the Spirit of God. Several Divines call it by several names, but they all understand one and the same thing, that there is a witnessing work of the Spirit, distinct from the regenerating work, and from the fanctifying work thereof, is evident by that plain. Text of the Apostle to the Romans, where he saith, That the Spirit it self beareth witness with our spirits, that we are the children of God: Where observe, I. The testes; 2. The testimonium; 3. The modus testificandi.

First, observe the Witnesses; these are two: 1. The Spirit of God: 2. Our own spirit: These are two distinct Witnesses, and we ought always to confider them as truly and properly distinct: For as the Spirit of God is really and personally distinguished from our spirits; so the act of the Spirit in witnessing is as truly distinct from the act of our own spirits. A Believers own spirit doth sometimes prove, and may witness actually and truly its effectual call; and yet the Spirit of God may at that time suspend its immediate testimony, pro bic, & nunc. Now all those things which can be really separated, are to be considered as dislinct, even then when they are conjoined; and that the testimony of the Spirit of God is distinct from the testimony of our spirits, is evident from the words themselves, being duly considered: for the Apostle faith, That the Spirit it self witnesseth with our spirits; but of this more, after we have considered,

2. The testimony, or the thing witnessed; which is this, That we: 2. The testimony or thing wit are the fons of God; which phrase comprehends, 1. A Believers Regeneration. 2. His relation, of an adopted fon of God. 3. His partaking; of the divine nature, or being conformed to the Image of Christ. 4. His obtaining.

obtaining of a right of co-inheritance with Christ. Now Regeneration. and an effectual call, (I have shewn) are one and the same thing: the matter of this testimony therefore, witnessed both by our spirits, and also by the Spirit of God, is this, That we are effectually called.

3. The manner of witnessing is expressed by the word Yumagrugii; 3. The manner the Spirit doth co-witness, which cannot be meant (as some would of witnessing, have it) only of the Spirit's using the faculties of our mind instrumentally, (as a Scribe useth a Pen as his Instrument to attest any Writing.) 'Tis true, that the Spirit of God doth bear witness with our spirits, that is, by our spirits; in as much as our own faculties are employed in receiving and discerning the testimony of God's Spirit; but jet we must be careful that we do not confound the act of God's Spirit with the acts of our own faculties in this testimony: for so we should also confound the distinction of the Witnesses themselves; and we should hardly escape confounding the distinction that is between the Spirit's objective or material testimony, and its efficient and formal testimony. For avoiding of which, and for opening of the manner of the Spirit's immediate wit- Opened in three nessing, I defire that these things may be considered.

1. That the Spirit of God when it is faid to witness with our spirits, operation, not is not to be supposed to give its testimony by any external voice or words, voice; spiritsbut it gives even its immediate testimony by some work or operation upon speak the lanthe mind of man. If created spirits can express themselves to whereby the spirits without words, much more may the Eternal Spirit reveal himself Angels and Spito the mind of man how or as he pleases. As all the Revelations of God's Spirit are harmonious, and confo- 22 Tis by ration nant one with another; so are all the Works of God's Spirit always nal convictions agreeable and concording, so as one work-thereof destroys not another work of the same Spirit; and thence it is, that God having endued men with faculties of judging and discerning of truth by its proper evidences, doth never cause the soul of man to believe any truth, but her gives them a ground or reason of its belief. I do not say that he gives: always a reason of the thing, but he gives a reason of our belief: the Supernatural works of the Spirit, do-not destroy, but restore and perfect Nature: Now the natural way of conviction of man's mind being by. evidencing the reason of things; hence, when the Spirit convinces many of any thing, he doth (as it were) by Argument. The Spirit of God convinces men of righteousness, and of pardon of sin, in the same manner that it convinces of sin, and its guilt, which is by way of Argument, as the word wife doth signifie, in Joh. 16. 8. Hence Faith also (which is wrought by the Spirit) is said to be interpret is shimewher, the Argumentative evidence of things not seen. I hope no man is so weak as think that the Spirit convinces by verbal expression of the terms of three Propositions of an Argument; but yet it doth something equivalent thereunto. For,

3. Tis by special Illumina-

3. The proper work of the Spirit in giving this testimony, is to illuminate the mind of man, both in a greater degree, and to another end than it did illuminate it in its first work of Conversion: In Conversion, the objects revealed are those, that, being once discovered, do engage the soul to put forth the direct act of faith; but in this witnessing work, the Spirit reveals those objects that by their discovery do enable the soul to exercise the rester act of saith; and withal the Spirit doth immediately assist the mind of man in its act of reslexion upon the work of sanctification formerly wrought by the Spirit.

You may understand both the nature and distinction of the Spirit's tessimony, how it is different from the testimony of our own spirits, by this similitude: Suppose a purblind person, reading a small print by the light of a farthing Candle, by which he knows, and is able to testifie truly what is written in that Book which he so reads; yet when he considers how apt he may be in those circumstances to mistake, he still doubts comparatively to what he knows: when a skilful Oculist hath repaired his sight, and hath by Glasses magnified the Characters of the Book, and hath let into the room the beams of the Sun, which were before withheld. Thus the work of the Spirit is to assist our faculties, and strengthen them; to irradiate and illustrate its own work of sanctification, and also to bring in a fuller light from the Word, making it speak more clear and full: by all which the Spirit of God may be said to give a different and distinct testimony from that which our unassisted faculties, or gradually unenlightened minds could give of themselves.

Quest. 1. Why is this called a co-wings?

1. If it be asked, Why this act of the Spirit of God is called a co-witnessing with our spirits? I answer, First, because the Spirit adds its special assistance to our spirits, in all and every exercise of our faculties, about their giving in their testimony. In particular, 1. It irradiates the mind; and, 2. It more emphatically reveals to the soul the truth of the promise, that every one that believes shall be saved; 3. It more fully makes known its own work, and shews to the soul by good evidences that it doth believe; 4. It assists the reason of man more convincingly to draw the conclusion, that therefore it shall be saved: And in this manner the Spirit witnesses to every Proposition of the assument. Secondly, and more especially, the Spirit is said to witness with our spirits, because the matter witnessed by the Spirit of God, is the same which is witnessed by our own spirits; and this properly speaks it to be a co-witness; for it witnesses not only in the same manner, but it also witnesseth the same matter which our spirits do witness.

Serm. XVIII.

2. If it be demanded, How a Believer may be affored that the Spirit Quest. 2. How doth certainly witness with our spirits? I answer, he may be affured is a Believ r by two things: 1. By that special distinguishing light that accompanies certain that the the testimony of the Spirit, which doth manifest it self so as to over-bear witness? all doubts and disputes both about our siritual estate, and about this testimony it self: just as the light of the Sun doth not only discover other things, and reveal them; but doth manifest it self by its self-evidencing property, which is able to convince every beholder. 2. By the harmony and agreement that is between the testimony of the Spirit of God, and our spirits; just as we know the testimony of our spirits to be certain and true by its agreement with the Word; except-all these three agree in one, there can be no full certainty: but a Believers affurance is always confirmed by the concurring testimony of these three: 1. Of the Word, 2. Of Conscience, and 3. Of the Spirit, all witnessing one and the Came thing. I. The Jure Word of God lavs down certain figns and marks of true Grace, and witnesses these signs to be good evidences. 2. Then Conscience, or our own spirit witnesses that these signs are found in a Believer. 3. Then God super-adds the witness of his own "Olar to Trespea Spirit, which enables us yet more fully to know the things which are min a up (60) (24) freely given us of God: And now what doubts can remain? 'Tis true, Chryloft in we are bid to try every spirit, and we have a may to try them by, viz. the agreement of their testimony with the testimony of Scripture and Conscience: although there may be such things as magenia, or Mock-Suns. and sometimes the Glory of the true Sun (which yet is a prodigiously rare instance) is not able to distinguish it self from its Apes; yet in this very case (by the Rules of Calculation) an Astronomer is able to distinguish the true Sun from the false, so that the Science of Astronomy is never a whit the less certain: 'Tis so as to the Spirit's testimony; 'tis certain that by the Word and Conscience a Believer may infallibly prove the testimony of the Spirit to be true, and not false, because there is and must be an universal agreement between all these three.

Our Adversaries have (many of them) endeavoured to enervate the fingle testimony of Scripture, because of the mysteriousness of Scripture. as they call it. Others feek to debilitate the testimony of Conscience, because men are apt to be partial. Others would weaken the testimony of the Spirit, because 'tis apt to be mistaken. But should we grant that none of those three Witnesses were separately sufficient, yet when they are conjoined, from thence there doth arife an undoubted affurance. Although the frength of one Pillar, or the foundness of the Foundation alone not prove a House to be well built; yet the strength of all the Pillars, and of the Foundation considered together, do fully prove it to be frong. What if one fingle Souldier be not sufficient to secure a Fort?

yet may not many Souldiers do it? How much then do our Adversaries trifle, while they feek to engage one fingle Combatant as no good Witness of assurance? but they dare not look our Army in the face: Behold, we are compassed about with a Cloud of Witnesses; let them dispel this Cloud if they can. Although no man can be made sure of the time of the day by a Dial that hath no Figures upon it; and although a blind man cannot know the hour when there are Figures upon the Dial; and although one that hath good eyes, and feeth the Figures. vet cannot know the time if the Sun shines not : yet from hence it doth not follow, but that if there be a concurrence of Lines and Figures, of Sight and Sun-shine together, and the Dial be made, and placed by infallible Rules of Art, it will then certainly evidence the time of the day. In like manner the Graces of God's Spirit imprinted on the heart. the eye of Conscience open in examination and observation, and the light of the Spirit as the Sun-shine, these three concurring together, and all of them agreeing with the Word, which is the standing Rule of judgment, by which all the other are regulated and ordered; I say, from hence ariseth a demonstrative, undoubted, and infallible certainty; and this concurrence being possible, 'tis therefore possible for a Believer to attain to an affured knowledge that he is effectually called.

I proceed to the proof of the second special Proposition, That 'tis ris possible for possible for a Believer who is sure of his effectual vocation in time, to be asone that is af sured also of his election in eternity. I shall need to be but brief in the fured of his cal- proof of this, having already in part proved that there is such a thing as ling, to be there special and discriminating Grace, whereby one call of God proves effe-Elual, another not. Now our Adversaries themselves grant, that if God election; proved doth exercise a discriminating Grace in special effectual vocation, 'tis nefrom the nature ceffary that he should eternally decree to exercise that special Grace upon of election, and those persons from eternity. The proof of this Proposition will depend upon these two Arguments.

If an effectual call doth depend upon God's eternal election, as upon Arg. 1. An of- its necessary cause, then be that knows that he is effectually called, may fectual call de- know he was eternally elected; (no man of reason will deny this Consequence, and therefore I need not prove it.) But an effectuall call doth depend upon God's eternal election, as upon its necessary cause; and therefore he that knows the one, may also know the other: this I shall prove from some plain and express Texts of Scripture; see Ephel. 1. in the beginning of which Chapter you have the nature of election opened in all its causes and properties, (which I must not particularly name) in brief, you may observe that according to the Apostle's description thereof, election is that decree of God, whereby out of the meer good pleasure of bis own will, he did eternally chuse some certain individual persons out of the corrupt mass of mankind, unto the infallible attainment of Grace here. and Glory hereafter. Now if this be the nature of election, viz. that Grace (or an effectual call) was thereby eternally decreed to be conferred and bestowed; it will then necessarily follow, that Grace, or an effe-Etual call, doth depend upon election as its cause: which is plainly expressed, Vers. 4. where Holiness and blamelessiness (which are insuperable properties of an effectual call) are faid to be the effects of God's election and choice. 'Tis a very good note of Thomas Aguinas, T. A. Sum.I. who observes that love and choice in God doth very much differ Par. Q23. from love and choice in men: for love in men (faith he) doth not cause loveliness in the beloved, but men first discern a loveliness, and this causes a love and choice; whereas God first exercised a free love in his eternal election, predestinating the way and means of farther manifestation of his love, and then in time he effects his own purpose, making the objects of his love to become lovely, by his renewing his own image upon them in an effectual call. Agreeable hereunto is that expression of the Coun- Tales nos amar cil of Orange, God loved us not as we are by our defert, but as he designed Futuri sumus, to make us by bis gift. He that would rightly understand the relation infins dono vocation in time, hath unto election in eternity, and he that would non quales suknow the dependance which that effect hath upon this cause, must first mus nostro confider, that although all the decrees of God are in themselves but one merito Conc. simple act of God's will; yet as to humane apprehension many men have conceived that there are three distinct acts of the Divine Will comprehended in his decree of election. I. Exxos, a choice, or a separating and singling out of some individual persons to be the objects of his love. 2. Peisens, a purpose, or an intention and design of bestowing saving Grace in effectual calling of those chosen ones. 3. Perfect pully, a Predestination, or a pre-determination of bringing those called and gracious persons unto Glory. I shall not here meddle with the Controversie which is agitated about the priority or precedency of these two last acts of the Divine Will; only you must consider, that as the decree of God, whereby he purposed to bestow both Grace and Glory, was truly in it felf but one eternal act of his Will, (and so there could be no priority of time amongst them) so we ought not in our Conceptions to distinguish Grase is Glory between Glory and Grace, as it one were defigned as the end, and the bigun, Glory is other as the means, (which is too common a mistake:) for in truth, Gracepusected, Grace and Glory differ only as leffer and greater measures of the same Cov. thing; and therefore we say, that God's absolute and inconditionate purpose effectually to call some persons, and to give them Grace, passing by others, doth declare the whole nature of God's decree of election, in as much as the selection of the objects of God's love, and also the nature both of the all and end of his love, are all comprehended in that one purpose of effectual calling, which the Salmurien Divines do shew more Thes. Salm. de fully in their explication of election: all which being duly confidered, do elect. Lib, 1. abundantly manifest that vocation in time, was a most affured effect of sec. 29.30. election in eternity, according to that of Rom. 8. 23. where almost in express words our calling is said to be the effect of God's purpose; and agreeable also is that of 2 Thess. 2. 13, 14. where sandification and faith Tiii wrought wrought in an effectual call, is declared to be the fruit of being chosen from the beginning: We are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, Brethren, beloved of the Lord, because God hath chosen you from the beginning to salvation, through sanctification and belief of the truth whereunto he called you by our Gespel, to the obtaining of the glory of the Lord Fesus Christ. Observe here, first, that God hath deligned to bestow Grace and Glory on some men: Secondly, that God actually accomplitheth his design by effectual calling of these persons; i.e. by working of faith, or a belief of the truth, and of fanctification in them: Thirdly, that the original and primitive ground or cause of an effectual call, is God's eternal election and choice of them. Therefore doth the Spirit bring the Elect into the state of Sons, because God hath predestinated them to the adoption of Sons. The Spirit is the immediate cause of Regeneration; but that the Spirit works otherwise in one perfon than it doth in another, is the effect of eternal election: And there is always so certain a dependance which an effectual call hath upon election, as that they are formetimes put for one and the fame thing, Rom.

Secondly, We prove that all those that know they are effectually 2 Arg. Vocation called, may know that they were eternally elected, because effectual calling depends upon God's eternal election as its rule or measure; that is, effectual calling (as to the persons called) is commensurate with the objective matter of God's eternal election: my meaning is this, that all those, and only those persons that were eternally elected, shall be effechally called; and therefore whoever knows that he is effectually called, may know he was eternally elected. The very effence of an effectual call confiles, as I have snewn, in the Spirit's working of saving faith in the swhom it doth call; but the Spirit works faving faith in all the elect. Ked School to and only in them, this is plainly manifest in Acts 13.48. As many as ou hour medule were ordained to eternal life believed; so many, and no more, as were ordained, or fore-determined: if the word be translated fore-diffosed, (as some would have it) it must be meant of God's disposing, not of man's disposing himself. Some men talk much of a tempus congruum. a fit season for Conversion; but the Decree of God depends not upon our predisposition, but upon God's election, as appears in the instance of Exer & canoling, Saint Paul, who being a chosen vessel, was converted when he was in the heighth of his perfecution. The working of faith depends fo much upon God's election, as that faving faith bears the name of the fuith of God's elect, Tit. 1.1. it being proper only to them. Moreover, itappears that only those that are elected shall be effectivally called, because only the elect thall be faved: it is expresly said, That all those whose tors called Pa- names are not written in the book of life, shall be cast into the lake that tres conscripti burns with fire and brimstone, Rev. 20. ult. It was the custom of old to write down the names of persons designed to places of Honour in Books or Registers; hence the Spirit of God compares God's election of perfons to Grace and Glory, to that known custom: in allusion unto which also St. Paul saith that the names of Euodius, and Syntiche, and Clement, Phil 4.3. were written in the book of life; and Christ bids his Disciples rejoice that Luk. 10.20. their names were written in Heaven; i.e. that they were elect: on the contrary, the non-elect are said not to have their names written in the Lamb's book of life, in Rev. 13. 8. and Rev. 17. 8. and the doom of all fuch is to be cast into the lake of fire, for these shall never be called effechually here, or faved eternally hereafter.

I know Socious and Crellius, and fome others, by the book of life, do understand the Scripture, wherein God hath declared that all peni- Episcop. tent believers shall be faved, and all impenitent and unbelievers shall be Vorstius, &c. damned; and confequently (fay they) all believers have their names written there; but unbelievers have not their names written in as much as they come not under the Qualifications written in the Word. But to this I answer: 1. That by the Book of life must be meant God's eternal decree, not any declaration made by him in time: for the non-elect are described, Jude 4. to be men, mana reogen expussion els retro sò neiva, of old ordained, or eternally decreed, to this condemnation, as Bishop Dav. He therefore that would make his election fure, may do it by making his calling fure; and that is the order he must proceed in: for although God at first chuses, and then calls; yet we must first know our calling, and then our election: God descends from love to choice, from chusing to calling, or to infusing of the principles of saving Grace, then to Sanctifying, or adding of greater measure of Grace; but in the trial of Rom. 8 29. our state, and in our evidencing of our interest in God's love, we must ascend from sanctification to vocation, and from vocation to election: Election is as the Spring-head of all consequent acts of Divine love; he

Weak eyes may better behold the beams of the light reflected, than by looking on the body of the Sun, which many having tantum inte- presumed to do, have lost their sight wholly: and so it comes to pass, rest, quod pra- when men search directly into the decree of election, without considering; that it is better and more easily manifested by an effectual call. It is not lawful for any man to look into this Ark, or to attempt to read the vero est ipsa Law of God's eternal purposes, as they are there locked up in his dedonatio, Aug. crees; 'tis sufficient that we may see the transcript of them written on de præd. cap. our own heart: Secret things belong to God, but revealed things to us and our Children. No man must enter into the Council Chamber, that. he may know the will of his Prince; but must wait for its discovery in the published Proclamation. Mordecai understood little of the King's. love to him, when Abasuerus consulted what should be done to the person whom the King delighted to honour; but he well knew that he was a favourite when he saw himself cloathed in Royal Robes, and beheld the King's Signet upon his hand: so when a Believer finds himself cloathed with the white linen of the Saints, and hath once received the Seal of God's Spirit, he may fafely conclude that God from eternity decreed to honour him here, and glorifie him hereafter.

Let me therefore for a close of this second Proposition, give all Believers the same counsel that Elibu gave to Fob, and Fob's friends, Desire not the night, (i.e. pry not into the dark secrets of God's decrees) but remember thou magnifie God's works which thy eyes do behold; i. e. the fruits and consequences of those decrees appearing in an effectual call: 'Tis boldness to break ope the Seal of a Decree, till thou hast read thy Name wrote in the Superscription; Election is Love under a Seal of fecresse, but an effectual call opens this most fully, and evidently makes known the purpose of God from eternity.

Third Special Proposition.

The third special Proposition, which remains to be proved, is this, That all true Believers that do affuredly know they are called, and were elecied, may also know they shall persevere unto glory. Many have been the Disputes concerning the possibility of a Believers falling from Grace; but most of the Arguments that are used with design to prove the possibility thereof, will fall to the ground if the Question be rightly stated. To which purpose I shall in the first place lay down some premises, and which may obviate the Arguments and Objections of our Adversaries; and then give you our Arguments to prove the Proposition. When we fay then that some Believers may assuredly know that they shall persevere, and that they shall not fall from Grace, we do premise, that,

First, We do distinguish between Grace actively taken for God's fa- 1 Premise vour to us, (Gratia gratis dans, as the Schools call it) and (Gratia Ragio & region gratis data) Grace passively taken, Grace wrought in us, (which is ficut causa & the effect of the former:) for it is not from the nature of Grace p.sf- effectus vel at fively taken, or from Grace inherent in Believers, that they do perse-were, and not fall away; but it is from the nature of that Grace (active-re, Eradward. ly taken) that dwells in God's boson; this is the ground that Believers de causa Der. persevere to Glory, as 'tis clearly expressed by Christ himself, Joh. 13.1. lib. 2. cap. 13. He having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them to the end.

Concerning this active Grace of God, we do distinguish between the 2 Premise. exercise of it, and the manifestation of that exercise: We deny not but God may feem to be angry; but yet we fay he never casts off his people, or forgets to be gracious. The Sun may be muflled for a time in a Cloud, yet some heat will be communicated during the time it is hid, Nebuchadnezand in due time the beams of light will break through, and disperse the zar toll posses. Cloud also. Christ may stand behind the Wall, yet then he will shew to his Crown. bimself through the Lattice, and in time the Wall of Separation also shall Cant. 2.9. be broken down. God may correct his Children, but will not difinherit them.

Concerning Grace in us, (passively taken) we do distinguish between 3 Premile, acts and babits of Grace. No man did ever fay, that a truly regenerate person cannot omit the persormance of some acts of Grace which formerly he performed, and is still bound to perform: but this we fay, Actio perverthat the habits of Grace are never lost, or wholly eradicated; and we titur fides nonfay that those acts of Grace which were interrupted, do abide in their evertitur, Bernard. de principle, and will again exert themselves when opportunity is afford- Gratia, & libe ed: 'tis one thing to fall in the way, another thing to deviate from the way: 'tis one thing, semel recedere a pietatis tramite, to take a step awry from the path of holiness, another thing, semper discedere a pietatis via, to forfake the ways of God wholly; a Believer may be guilty of the first, not the second.

Again, we distinguish between a shew of Grace, and true Grace: 4 Presiste. there are several instances in the Word of God of persons falling from a shew of Grace, Demas, Judas, Saul, Hymeneus, fell from hypocrisie into open prophaneness and impiety: but no fincere person ever sell from true Grace. 5 Premise.

Vide Aug. de cor. & Grat. cap.9.

As for those Texts that Bellarmine urges, that the Just do fall seven times a day, Prov. 24. 16. and that in many things we offend all, Jam. 3.2. the very words themselves carry a full answer to his Objections: for if the just fall seven times a day, 'tis supposed he rises as often; and if in many things we offend all, then 'tis in some but an offence or a stumble, not a final falling: there is difference between foils and falls, and there is difference between falling into sin, and lying in sin; there is difference between recession from Grace, and excision of Grace; the sirst is possible to happen for a time to a Believer, but God will never suffer the second to come upon him: for although a Believer may fall, yet he falls only as Cork salls into the water, which may for a time be immersed, but it will rise again, and get aloft; but an Hypocrite salls as Lead into the water, which sinks and rises no more. Having premised these things, I proceed to the Arguments, which evince the perseverance of all that are effectually called unto Glory.

Arg. From the immutability of God's Decree.

Rom. 11.29.

First Argument is from the immutability and unchangeableness of God's Purposes and Decrees. I have already proved that God did from before the foundation of the World decree to make some particular persons the objects of his love, and that these persons were fore-ordained of God to be effectually called in time, and to be glorified in eternity: Now the gifts and calling of God are (faith the Apostle) without repentance, austrapianta, such as God never can or will repent of. There is a necessary connexion between every Decree of God, and its full execution and performance: all the powers of Hell are not able to break by force. nor all the subtilty of the Fesuites of Rome able to dissolve or untie by skill, that strong and necessary connexion of all those links of that Golden Chain that is drawn forth in that fore-quoted Rom. 8. 29, 30. Foreknowledge, or Election, Vocation, Justification and Glorification, are inseparably conjoined; so that whoever hath hold of one of them, hath hold of all; and he that knoweth one, knoweth all. The Apostle in Rom. 9.11. doth fully affert that God did exercise Sovereign discriminating Grace in his eternal Decree of Election; and withal he declares the immutability and unchangeableness of that Decree: mark his words: The Children (saith he) not being yet born, neither having done good or evil. that the purpose of God might stand, not of bim that works, but of bim that calleth, it is said, The elder shall serve the younger, &c. God's purpose must stand, must remain steadfast, as Beza, or confirmed. as Castalio translates it: The Decrees of God are compared to Mountains of Brass, Zech. 6. 1. unremoveable, because situate in the eternal Will. Consider the expression used by Samuel, 1 Sam. 15.19. The Strength of Israel will not lye nor repent, for he is not as man that he should repent. God is sirength it self, and able to preserve all his Decrees made in eternity: the word TISI translated strength, may also be tranflated eternity or victory; intimating the victorious power that accompanies eternal Decrees. See Aug. Confess. Lib. 1. Cap. 6. God loves with with an everlasting love, Jer. 31.3. and he works with an invincible power, Isai. 14. 27.

Secondly, I argue from that special knowledge that God hath of all 2 Arg. God's those that he hath built favingly upon the right foundation, the Lord knowledge of Jesus Christ. God is no foolish Builder, to lay the Foundation, and the elettion a not carry on the Superstructure; and this is the Apostle's own Argu-ground of persement, for the perseverance of Saints, in 2 Tim. 2. 19. where the Apofile having observed the Apostacy of some non-elect persons, adds, Nevertheless the four tion of God stands sure, having this seal, The Lord knoweth who are his. Amongst many other uses of a Seal, this is one, that it gives ground of assurance: Now the Apostle therefore useth that expression of God's knowing of his, that from the consideration there- 2 Cor. 3. 11. of, Believers might have greater confidence, that they being God's Husbandry, and God's Building, God will never fuffer them to be removed, and that because he knows them; which phrase signifies these six things.

1. That God did fore-know them, fo the word is used, Act. 15.18. For God to Known unto God are all his ways from the beginning of the world; i. e. know, signifies God did from eternity fore-know and decree whatever should in time know, Ad. 15. come to pass: now this is a ground of the Saints perseverance, viz. That 18. God did fore-know the elect, or decree that all those that he should effectually call, should be justified, sanctified, and persevere unto Glory, as I have already shewn from Rom. 8.

2. To know, sometime signifies to own in a peculiar manner, so A- 2 Peculiarly to mos 3.2. God speaking to his people Ifrael, saith, That he knew them own, Amos 3 2above all the families on earth. God knew Egypt, and Babylon, and 7730 Moab, and Edom, but he did not know them to be his peculiar people Deut. 26. 240 above others; but so he did know Israel. Thus those that God hath elected, and effectually called, God knows them as his fegullab, his peculiar people, and this is a Seal that they shall persevere.

3. To know in Scripture, fometimes fignifies for God to approve of, 3. To approve and to delight in Pfal. 1. 6. The Lord knows the way of the righteous : of, and delight God knows the way of wicked men, but so as to curse it, it shall perish; but in, Psal. 1 6. God knows the way of the elect, and of those that are effectually called, fo as to approve of it, and delight in it; and this is a Seal, affuring them that they shall not perish, but persevere in their way to Glory.

4. To know, is to overfee and take care of, as a Shepherd knows his 4. To over fee Sheep, so Joh. 10. 27. My Sheep hear my voice, and I know them, that of, John 10. 27. is, I take care of them: Christ is such a Shepherd as he himself describes, that if he hath a hundred Sheep, and one of them go astray, he Luke 15 4,5. leaves the ninety and nine, and goes after the lost Sheep till be find it; And this is also a ground of a true Believers perseverance, that if through non-attendance, or inanimadversion, or through the violent persecution of roaring Lions or Wolves they stray from the Fold, yet Christ reduces them again.

5. To

5. To deliver cour and support in trials, affliptations, Pfal. 57.7. I Cor.10.12.

5. To know, is to deliver from, or at least to support and succour in from, or to suc- afflictions, trials and temptations, Pfal. 37. 7. I will be glad (faith David) and rejoice in thy mercy, for thou hast considered my soul in trouctions and tem- ble, and hast known my soul in adversity: that is, God did both support him in affliction, and deliver him from it in his own time. 'Tis an affuring Scal of the perseverance of Believers, that God will not suffer them to be tempted above what they are able: or else with the temptation will make a way to escape, that they may bear it.

Lastly, for God to know sometime, is as much as for God to teach instruct, to en- and enlighten; so the Apostle uses the phrase, Gal. 4.9. How is it, that after you have been known of God, ye turn again to weak and beggerly elements? The Galatians had been taught of God, but seducing Teachers would have brought them to join Jewish Ceremonies with Gospel-Worship; now the Apostle wonders at the very thought of such a thing, upimpossible to de- on this very account, viz. because they were known of God, i.e. savingly crive the elect, enlightened by him. 'Tis a most assuring Seal of perseverance, to have been rightly enlightened by the Spirit of God, which is here called, a being known of him: fo that you now see the Saints perseverance grounded, as in the first place upon God's election, so secondly upon his knowing of Believers in a special manner.

The third Ground of a true Believer's perseverance, is from the naverance ground- ture of God's Covenant. Perseverance is one Article of the New Covenant that God hath made with the elect, the terms of which are these: I will, saith God, make an everlasting Covenant with them, I will not turn away from them to do them good, but I will put my fear in their hearts. and they shall not depart away from me. God hath absolutely engaged God's covenant that elect Believers shall not depart from him, that is, not finally, beare both re sour cause in an effectual call he will put his fear into their hearts; they may wander, but not depart; they may in some acts deviate, but they shall not be backfliders in heart; and the reason is, because though there may Sept. translate be a tendency in them to turn away from God, yet God stands engaged not to turn away from them: hence that expression of God to the Prophet, They say, if a man put away his wife, and she go from him, shall he return to her again? shall not that Land be greatly polluted? but thou hast played the harlot with many lovers, yet return unto me, saith the Lord. God faith con- God will not permit that to be done by men, which he may do himself cerning his peo- in this case; and the reason is, because God can purge an adulterous ples sin, as he heart, which it is not in the power of man to do: rather than the Mar-I have feen his riage-Covenant between Christ and a Believer thall be dissolved, God fins, and I will will put forth his mighty power, to make and keep the hearts of Believers heal them, Isai faithful and loyal to him. What a clear and full promise of perseverance is that also revealed by Christ, in Fob. 10. 27. My sheep hear my voice, I know them, and they follow me; I will give to them eternal life, they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand? Both

unto life. Another express promise of perseverance we find in 1 Cor. 1.8.9. He shall confirm you to the end, that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus: God is faithful by whom ye were called unto the fellowship of his Son Fesus Christ our Lord. All those that are called have the promise of a most faithful God to preserve them blameless, even to the day of the Lord, and therefore they shall persevere.

A fourth Ground of their perseverance is the stability of the Cove- 4 Arg. From the nant of Redemption, or the certain performance of every promife made nature of the mutually between the Father and the Son, between the Lord of Hosts and Covenant of the Branch, when the Council of peace was betwixt them both, mentioned the mutual proin Zach. 6. 12, 13. When the Father and the Son agreed about the Re-miles made bedemption of faln man, there were many Articles of this Covenant and tween the Fa-Council of peace mutually confented unto, some of them relating to the ther and the work of Redemption it felf, others relating to the reward of the Redeemer, as you may read in Isai. 53. Now this was one promise which the Father made unto the Redeemer, viz. That he should not die in vain, but that he should see of the travail of his soul, and should be satisfied, Vers. 10. Now should true Believers finally fall, Christ Jesus should not attain that satisfaction which is bere promised. The Mother is not satisfied with an abortive birth; nor would the Hebrew women have been satisfied if their children had been murthered as soon as born; neither can Christ be willing that those for whom his foul was in agony should finally perish: The end of Christ's sufferings was not only to bring forth fons unto God, but also to bring those fons unto Glory: Now should Christ fall short in this latter work; first, he could not (according to the Author to the Hebrews) be a perfect Captain of Salvation: For it did become him for whom all things, and by whom all things are, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the Captain of Salvation perfect through sufferings, Heb. 2. 10. Secondly, Christ could not be able in the day of Judgment to say as it follows, Vers. 13. Behold, I and the children which God hath given me. But Christ is a perfect Saviour, and will at that great day say to God as he doth in John 17.6, 12. Thine they were, and thou gavest them me, and they have kept thy word: I have kept them, and none of them is lost but the son of perdition. In which words there is not only intimated a Covenant, and an Agreement between the Father and the Son about the Redemption of the elect, but there is also expressed in them the faithful discharge of the mutual agreement on both sides; so that not one of those that were God's by election, and intrusted in Christ's hand by donation, shall be lost: 'fudas was therefore a son of perdition, because given only externally, and not eternally into Christ's hand.

The fifth Argument I shall use is this, If Christ did pray while he was 5 Arg. Because on Earth, and doth now intercede in Heaven; that all the elect (who christ hath prayed that they are effectually called) may persevere; then they shall persevere: The might persevere. Ground of this Argument you have in John 11. 42. where Christ tells us, that the Father did hear him always: so that if I prove that Christ hath prayed for the perseverance of Believers, I shall thereby prove their certain perseverance. I beseech you therefore consider a few Verses of Coron Colleg. the 17 Chapter of John, and you will find that in Verse 9. Christ expresly tells us, that He did pray for all the elect, and for them only; and Verse 11. he tells us, that perseverance was the very matter of the petition which he put up, Holy Father, keep them through thy Name; and Verse 15. he explains how he would have them kept, namely, from the evil, or from all evil: And lest any one should say that this prayer was made only for some few that were then called, Christ adds, Vers. 20. that he prayed for all that should believe, or be effectivally called at any time after; and as perseverance was fundamentally petitioned for, so Christ (upon that Foundation) doth carry his petitions higher, for Verse 21. he prays for them that they might attain a higher degree of union with bimself; and Verse 22. that they might attain a likeness of glory with himself; and Verse 23. that they might attain to be loved, as he himself was loved of the Father. Now if all these petitions which Christ made for all the elect shall be infallibly granted, (as I have proved they shall from Christ's own-words) then it doth necessarily follow that all the elect shall persevere unto glory. And yet I shall add one thing more for a farther Confirmation of this Argument, viz. That as the perseverance of Believers is secured by the prayer which Christ made for them when he was on Earth, fo they are yet more fecured by the intercession. 'Els To Tartalise that Christ makes for them now in Heaven. The Author to the Hebrews doth most fully prove that Christ is able to save to the uttermost all that come to God by him, (which he should not be, if all true Beliefidem, sed pec-vers should not persevere to glory) by this strong Argument, Because he ever lives to make intercession for them: as he prayed on Earth, so he prays eius consessio in Heaven, and will ever live to pray for them. I conclude this Argu-Lap in Exod. ment thus: If Christ's prayer were effectual to keep Peter from final falling, and to raise him up when he had fallen foully; if it kept the babit of his faith from failing, when it failed in the act; upon the same account the faith of every Believer is certainly secured (as to its principle) by the prayer which Christ did make for him on Earth, and now makes for him in Heaven.

Petrus negans Christum non perdidit cavit centra nem. Cor. 32. V.5.

6. From the inhabitation and inoperation of the Spirit. 1 Cor. 3.16. 2 Cor.6.16.

My last Argument for the Saints perseverance shall be taken from the constant inhabitation, and powerful inoperation of the Spirit of God in and upon the hearts of true Believers: Believers are the Temples of the Holy Ghost, and God lives in them, and walks in them. The Spirit infuses Grace, and he also actuates Grace in them, and this preserves and keeps them from falling. Not the Grace wrought, but the Spirit working Grace, doth preserve Grace. Every prudent person will secure the place of Habitation; the Spirit of God dwelling in Believers, &c. doth Super-intend their minds by a constant inspection over them: Christ as-Joh. 14.16,17. fures Believers, That he would pray the Father, and he should give them

another Comforter that should abide with them, viz. even the Spirit of truth that should dwell in them. If the Spirit of God abides and dwells in Believers for ever, then they cannot finally fall: The work of the Spirit in Believers is an abiding work, or an abiding anointing; it See Gregorius abides in them, and it causes them to abide in God. In the great work de Valv. in of Regeneration, the Spirit doth infuse radicated and fixed habits of primam se-Grace, and it works such a principle as continues and abides for ever: 3. Hence it is called an incorruptible feed, I Pet. 1. 23. and a remaining feed, I John 3.9. Moreover, the Spirit of God is said to establish Believers unto Salvation, in as much as it is given as a feal, and earnest thereof into our hearts, according to 2 Cor. 1. 22, 23. Now he that efta- 'O Coeanochfuse blisheth us with you, and hath anointed us, is God, who hath sealed us, apalava no artiand given us of his Spirit in our hearts. Observe here, first, that all und 30 of rais true Believers are confirmed and established, and therefore they shall rassolves in post. persevere: secondly, that the way of God's establishing them is by God's pouring upon them a holy Unction, or the anointing of his Spirit: thirdly, that this anointing gives security in the nature of a Seal, and an earnest; Affacor est a Seal both obliges the Insurer, and also manifests the Assurance; an pars pratis earnest doth so much also, and more, for it implies also something gi-periol ta Beven in present possession: God working true Grace by his Spirit, secures za in loc. us of Heaven as he secured Israel of Canaan, by giving them Escol, some Clusters of Canaan's Vineyards in the wilderness, which was a kind of Livery and Seizon, as when possession of an Estate is given by a Twig or Rod. God's giving of his Spirit is called his giving of the first- Arrapylin to fruits, Rom. 8. 23. thereby indicating our affired full Harvest, whereof this is an actual part: all those must needs be assured of Glory, who have a possession of Grace; and this seems to be the Argument of the very Text, viz. If ye do these things ye shall never fall; why? because bereby an entrance shall be administred to you into the Everlasting King- 2 Pet. I. dom. gence to make his calling, election and perseverance sure, from a double necessity incumbent upon him.

Necessitate præcepti. Heb.6.11.

1. 'Tis a Believers duty from the necessity of the command: there can be no plainer or more express command than the words in the Texts and a parallel place with the Text is that of the Author to the Hebrews. We defire (i.e. in God's Name we require) that every one of you do shew the same diligence to the full assurance of hope unto the end. Brethren, I might have used it as a strong Argument for the possibility of attaining affurance, because God hath so strictly enjoined us to effect it: for nemo tenetur ad impossibile, that no man is bound to impossibilities, is a true Rule, taking it of natural impossibility. Now there is nothing more clear than that we are bound to endeavour after assurance; by virtue of God's precept, which is so full as that many other duties are therefore enjoined because they are necessary means for our attaining affurance. Thus we are commanded, 1. To fearch the Scriptures; 2. To fearch and try our ways; 3. To fearch and examine our hearts. The end of all this fearthing of the Word as the Rule, and of our hearts and lives, as the things to be regulated by the Word, is but that we might come to an affured knowledge of the agreement or disagreement that is between them.

2 Cor. 13.5.

2. Many duties are enjoined Believers, because 'tis supposed diligence hath been given, and affurance thereby attained. Such as these a Believer is commanded, 1. To come with boldness and humble confidence to the Throne of Grace. 2. To rejoice in the Lord always. give God glory by believing. 4. To tell others what great things God hath done for their fouls. 5. To comfort one another, and strengthen the faith of one another; all which duties are commanded, because the attaining of affurance is first commanded, and that first command is supposcd (by these other commands) to have been obeyed: for no man can come in the Spirit of adoption, and (with a filial confidence) cry, Abba, Father, who first knows not himself to be a son by the image he bears. No man can rejoice in the Lord as he ought to rejoice, till he knows his name be written in Heaven, because the Law of God is written in his heart. How can a Captive triumph, or a Man in Chains dance? How can an Hebrew-fong be fung in Babylon, in a strange Land? Again, when it is required that we should live in perpetual adoration of Divine Goodness, and in admiration of Free Grace, and that we praise, and bless, and magnifie the Name of God, giving him Glory by believing, this supposes that we do believe, and also that we know we do believe: For 'tis the joy of the Lord that gives us strength to do his Will, and doth enlarge our hearts to speak good of his Name.

2. Diligence is necessary, necessary fitate medii.

The fecond Argument, proving it the duty of Believers with diligence to endeavour after affurance, is, because this diligence is necessary necessitate medii, as a necessary means. Here I desire you to consider these two things: 1. That diligence is a necessary means for attaining affurance.

affurance. 2. That affurance is a necessary means for the effecting some ends which we are bound to accomplish; but are such as without a certain knowledge of our interest in God, they are not possibly attained.

1. Diligence is a most proper and necessary means for attaining affu- 1. Diligence a rance. Faith of adherence (as one fays) comes by hearing, but Faith means to gain of affurance comes not without doing. In God's giving first Grace, we affurance. are truly passive; but before God causes all Grace to be in us, and to abound, he makes us active and diligent: both in the direct act of Faith and also in the reflex act of it, it may be said, that acti agimus, we act being acted; yet there is some difference between our living, and moving, and having our being in God: for as the Child ows the first principle of its life wholly to God and its Parents, wherein 'tis wholly passive in itself, but (afterwards) the exercise of those principles depends upon God's enabling of the Child to put forth those acts that properly flow from a vital principle; so first-principles, or the habits of Grace are (as I have already shewn) infused by God alone, but the acts and exercise of Grace are from God's concurse with our faculties and powers. We are bidden to work out our Salvation with fear and 2 Pet. 2.13. trembling, notwithstanding it be most true that God works in us both to will and do of his own good pleasure. You see a just acknowledgment of God's Grace may be conjoined with a clear revelation of man's natural power before conversion, and of a Believer's moral power after regeneratim, and both of them enforcing and engaging unto the greatest diligence, even from their conjunction and concurrence: for these things are very harmonious in themselves; 'tis man's ignorance or peevishness that divides the things that God hath conjoined. Acknowledgment of Free Grace in its power, efficacy, and discriminating prerogative, when duly confidered, doth most effectually put us upon diligence. Men can ealily reconcile those two Texts, where in one place 'tis said, the band Prov. 10.1, . of the diligent makes rich; in the other, the blelling of God maketh Prov. 10 12. rich; men understand these things as they concur in natural things. I think they might as well be understood as relating to spiritual riches, Col.2 23 riches of assurance, diligence with God's blessing being a proper means for gaining affurance. 2. Assurance is a most proper means for the more speedy attaining 2. Assurance a nany excellent ends, which without it are most difficultly accomplished: proper means and here I might enumerate many particulars; for indeed there is attain more caree any one act of Grace that can be (in any measure or degree). So grace. well exercised by a person ignorant of his spiritual estate, as by him who Non expedit knows that relation which he stands in to God, neither is any duty so ut homines well performed before affurance, as after that God hath sealed to a Be-de grana proliever the pardon of his fin. But I must mention only some consequents pria ordinarie of assurance, so many as may stop the mouth of that Rabsheka, Bellar-Indicant. nient that men attain to assurance ordinarily of the truth of Grace in their hearts; and his reason is, because it tends to carelessiness and sloth. And Petrus a Soto saith, That it is not only most humble, but most safe to doubt of the Grace and favour of God. For Constitution hereof, I shall instance in three effects or consequents of true assurance, which are of great import, but are difficultly obtained by those that want assurance.

1. A more compleat Victory over the actings of remaining fin and corruption; this is much furthered by affurance. 'Tis with Believers as it was with the Israelites, they bowed down under the Oppression of Egypt folong, as they despaired of deliverance; but when God had assured them of his love and favour, and had given them a promise of bringing them forth from bondage; a new spirit immediately came upon them. and they fuddenly vindicated themselves from flavery: they cast off their Oppressors Yoke, and went forth to liberty, not leaving one hoof behind them. Thus defondent persons, (who nourish their own sears) like Isfachar may couch down between these two burthens, I. fight of guilt, 2. and fense of strong corruptions; but when Gospel-grace appears, and a fight of the souls interest in the strength and power of Christ is once manifest, presently the soul lifts up its head, and breaks this yoke off from its neck, and bids defiance to its old lusts, and goes forth conquering and to conquer. Our Adversaries do indeed speak evil of the things they know not, and because they want this experience, that assurance doth most effectually purifie the heart; and are ignorant that he that hath the most assured hope, does most industriously design to purifie himself as God is pure: therefore they blaspheme this most facred Truth; they deny Scripture; and (were it not for shame) would accuse Christ and his Apostles (Peter and Paul) for Libertines, as the Pharifees fometimes did. But was it not Christ's common method, first to fay to afflicted fouls, Your fins are forgiven, and then take up thy bed and walk? And again, did he not first say, Thou art made whole, and then faid, fin no more? Christ's opinion (or rather his certain knowledge) was this, that the sense of forgiveness was the most potent principle of love and obedience; Christ tells us, that Mary Magdalen therefore loved much, because much was forgiven her. If Paul understood any thing of Gospel-principles, it was his Doctrine, that the more clear the Grace of God doth appear, the more effectually it doth teach to deny all ungodliness and worldly lusts, and to live soberly, righteously, and holily in this present world. Our Adversaries forget that assurance is attainable by none but true Believers: now 'tis impossible that true Believers should turn the Grace of God into wantonness. We affirm, that this new name, and the white stone, is never given to any but those that are partakers of the new nature, to such as are regenerate. God first principles the heart with holiness, and then smiles upon it; and for a boly person to know that he is so, can be no occasion to disobedience. I ask, Who is more obliged, or who feels the obligation to observance most cogently? The Son who knows his near relation, and knows his Father loves him; or the Servant that hath great reason to doubt thereof? God's Spirit seals none but those it hath in measure sanctified; neither would God reveal his love, but that he knows the constraining power of it. Fear is a weak and impotent principle, in comparison of love: the Aposile faith, The Law was weak; the terrour of its curse weakened and infeebled Rom. 8.5. the hands of those that should have obeyed it: but the Gospel-Declaration of Grace is mighty and prevailing, because it comes in the power of love. Terrours may awaken, love enlivens: terrours may almost persmade, love over persmades. Felix may tremble, and remain unconverted: Zacheus hears of certain Salvation, and makes hafte to come down, metuant canand receives Christ gladly. Legal terrours may move affections, and not be divided. form the passions; but they make no change upon the will, and therefore there is no faving or through work effected; (as when a party of Souldiers only form the Out-works of a Garison, they are soon again repelled) but the Gospel takes the heart, the main Fort, upon friendly Articles, and voluntary surrender, and the foul becomes a most willing tributary and subject to its new Governour. Fear may force and offer violence, and commit a rape upon the heart, but can effect no Contract or Marriage-Covenant, for that is wrought only by love, and that in its clearest evidences and manifestations. Tis true, the Papisis (who are great enemies to Marriage) will here be ready to object, that oftentimes affections cool after Marriage, which were strong before; and so. it may happen after a Believer's knowledge of his interest in Christ.

I answer, that the Apostate Church of Rome (to which the Spirit of Amat ille non God gives the title of the great Whore, and of the Mother of Fornica-immerito qui tions and Adulteries both Spiritual and Civil) doth much delight to cast merito. all the blemishes (they can) upon the state of Marriage, civilly or sti- Amat fine fine ritually considered; but more innocent persons do know, that interest qui cognoscit did never lessen love, nor the knowledge of interest abate affection, but if e a princirather increase it: all persons find that relation hath a strange influence pio, Ber, ep. upon men's minds to endear those objects that might otherwise be but 107. little taking. Sure I am that a Believer's knowledge that his beloved is bis, and he is his beloveds, is found by experience to lay the most strong and cogent Obligation upon him to loyalty and faithfulness unto the the Lord Jesus: for, as to him that believes, Christ is precious; so, to him that knows he believes, to him Christ is so much the more precious,

2. As affurance furthers our love to Christ, (and so gives power over 2. Victory over fin) fo it gives strength to overcome the world, and all the ten ptations of temptations of it, of what kind soever, be they either, First, on the right hand, viz. the world. the smiles, flatteries, allurements and inticements of the world; Assu- hands rance of an interest in God very much facilitates our conquest over all these. joyments, they appear small, little, and very inconsiderable. Moses, after God had affured him of his love, and had caused his Glory to pass before him, how did he fcorn to be tempted with the bait of being reckoned and accounted the son of Pharaob's daughter? He refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, and chose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin that are but for a feason, esteeming the reproaches of Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt. Whence arose this braveness and true greatness of mind? The Text tells you, He had respect to the recompence of reward. He knewthe reward was great, and his title to it good. St. Augustine tells of Aug. lib. Conhimself, that after he had attained assurance of God's love and favour. he was fo ravished therewith, as he could not but cry out with a holy liciis hisce caexclamation, Oh how freet is it to be without the worlds sweets, since I enjoy all sweetness in God! Those things that once I was afraid to lose, I now let go, and want with joy, because hereby I enjoy thee the more.

ctions, because they are known to work a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. We read of true Believers that endured the spoiling of their goods with joy; to suffer with patience to some is very bard, but to others' tis joy, even when they fall into divers temptations; but who are these? the Spirit of God tells us, that they are those that know within themselves; mark, within themselves, (i. e. by inward evidences, and the testimony of the Spirit witnessing with their spirits) that they have a better and more enduring substance in Heaven; these can both forego and undergo cheerfully whatever God requires of them. Excellent is the faying of St. Cyprian; There lives in us, faith he, the strength and power of an immoveable faith; and hence it is that amongst all the mobilis virtus ruines of this tumbling and rolling world, our mind bears up, and our patience always triumphs, because our souls are sure and secure in reference to the eternal love of God.

this, earthly Tabirnarle mere diffolved, we of God, eternal to take possession thereof? As the least degree of true Faith takes away in the H. avens.

3. Assurance of our Salvation procures Victory over the fear of death. 3. Over the fear Old Simeon with Christ in his arms could pray for a dismission hence. that hath gotten good evidences in his bosom, and the Spirit's testimony of the pardon of his fin fealed upon his Conscience, will join with Simeon in this his petition. Until affurance be attained, 'tis impossible but that men should all their lives long be kept in bondage through the fear of death: but an affured person can wish for death, and say with Paul, See 2 Cor. 5.1. Cupio diffolvi, I defire to be diffolved. Affurance carries the foul to the I know that if top of Pisgah, and from thence a Believer (as he hath a general view of the whole Land of promise, so by the eye of an assuring Faith he) is able to espy his own lot and portion in Heaven and Glory; and can he. have a building be unwilling to go through Fordan (or the Chanel of the Grave) to the sting of death, because it takes away guilt; so Plerophory of Faith breaks the very teeth and jams of death, by taking away the fear and dread of it. When Evidences of an Estate are once scaled and attested. men are not afraid of that Turf and Clod, which (whilst it defiles their hands) gives them Livery and Seizon of large Revenues. When a true Believer knows his interest in those eternal Mansions of Glory to come, he is not troubled that his Cottage of Clay must first be pulled-down: The nature of death to a Believer is quite altered from what it was, and it feems to be another thing (in his present apprehension) differing much from what he once thought it to be. It once appeared only the mages of fin, but now it appears as the remard of patience: It was once thought the beginning of forrow, but now the end of sin, and the consummation of grace. To a despairing person death appears like a grim Sergeant haling to prison; to an affuring person it acts the part of a Master of Ceremonies, who introduces Foreigners into the presence of the great King. Death holds forth a Crown to an affured person; it holds forth an Ax to a despairing person; such a change doth assurance make. I shall therefore add no more but the words of Cyprian, who discoursing of Cyprian de death, hath these words: Beloved, saith he, the Kingdom of Heaven is begun already in us in joy and peace: there is no place left for fear, or doubting, or forrow: he only can fear death, that is unwilling to go to Christ; and none can be unwilling to go to him, that know they shall reign with him.

And thus I have abundantly shewn bow instrumental affurance is for the increase of sanctification, and obtaining a more compleat victory over Sin, the World, and the fear of Death; and I have thereby confuted Bellarmine's grand Argument against assurance, as if it tended to licentiousness. The rest of his Objections and Arguments I have also suffirciently obviated; so as I hope every considering person will be able (from what hath been spoken) to defend the truth, although the stile (of necessity) hath been more concise than might have been desired; yet I hope those that are intelligent will be satisfied with the matter of Argument therein contained, although I have been forced to abbreviate my Difcourse. I must make but little other Application, than, 1. To desire you to change the Arguments by which I have proved the necessity of diligence, into Motives to put you upon the practice: 2. I shall conclude with some necessary Directions for the better attaining to assurance.

1. Give diligence to make your calling more fure in it self, by adding in it self. unto faith, virtue; unto virtue, knowledge; unto knowledge, temperance, Vocario et fi and the rest of those Graces here mentioned by our Apostle. Although now your calling may be fure and faving, yet it may be more affured: the pementum Promises were sure before Christ's coming, yet he is said to confirm tamen adhuc them, and make them more fare, Rom. 15.8. A Believer, the more expediate. he grows in Grace, the more effectual is his calling made; and the more 3. lib. 13. cap. fure it is in it felf, the more eafily may he attain to his affurance of it. 15.

3. Labour for full affurance of hope. And this supposes two things: 3. Full affurance First, an actual explicite considering of the grounds of our hope, or a of hope, laying a good foundation: all faving hope is rational and well-built. Hopes Anchor (in a Believer) holds not by the strength of a Spider's Web, as the Hypocrites hope doth; but it holds by the firength of a three-fold Cord, not easily broken; it holds by the evidence of, 1. Testimony, 2. Sense, and 3. Reason. Bellarmine (fondly adhering to Duplex est the Philosophical definition of hope, and) departing from the Scrip- certitudo, al'a tural use and acceptation of the word hope, (which is the ground of many errours in the Church of Rome) denies that reason and hope can intellectus: & videtur non confift together; and consequently denies also that there is any such posse certifuthing as full assurance of hope, but when he is urged with that plain dinem intelle-Text, in Heb. 6. 11. where Believers are exhorted to give diligence for at- convenire, quia taining full assurance of hope, (which supposeth that a sull assured hope quod scimus is in the first place built upon good evidence and proof.) So Som: Of Indulgences. Annagley

Heb. X. 14.

For by one Offering he hath perfected for ever them that are functified.

THE Apostle gives the Reason, why Christ hath now no more Offering to make, no more Suffering to endure, For, i.e. because, by one Offering, i.e. one in specie, in opposition to the four kinds of Legal Oblations before mentioned; and one in numero, in opposition to the repeating of them every year. q.d. By Christs once offering of himself, he hath perfetted,] i. e. all things are consummate, there remains nothing to be done, for the satisfying Divine Justice, and our Reconciliation with God. Christ hath once satisfied, and that for ever, 7 i, e. to the end of the World, and that which shall be of value to Eternity; plainly, Christ by his Death hath compleatly done the work once for all, for them that are sanctified;] i.e. either those that are separated from the world in Gods Purpose and Decree, plainly, the Elect; or them that are santtified,] i.e. those that are renewed by Grace, and confecrated to be Veffels of Honour unto God. In short, Christ hath not so purchased Remission of sins, as to leave some Satisfaction to be made by themselves, or others; No, he hath perfectly satisfied for them, and perfectly expiated all their fins. Which if so, then from this, as well as from other Scriptures, fairly refults this Proposition: That,

Papal Indulgences are the worst of Cheats, and abominably injurious to Christ and Christians.

My work here, is to rake in the very Sink of Papal filthiness. There's no head of Divinity that is not mischievously hurt by this putrid Plaister. Twas not without Gods fingular Providence, that the detecting the Pageantry of that Flesh-pleasing Religion, began here; for herein their seeming tender mercies are real cruelties.

To evidence what I affert, I shall in my poor manner endeavour, I. Tofhew you what the Indulgences are which we justly condemn: 2. The unfound Hypotheses upon which they stand: 3. Demolish the main Thesis: And, 4. Raise some profitable Instructions above excepti-

b Bellarm. Disput.Lugd. 1599.Tom.3. de indulgen. e Id.c. 1.p. 9.

I. Let's begin with the Name and Definition of Indulgences, which (to pass by more than (a) thirty different Opinions among themselves.) I shall give you in Bellarmines own words; after he hath, like a wary Champion, attempted to reconcile, or excuse his own diffenting party; (b) in the close of his eighth Chapter, he gives us this entire Definition. viz. Indulgence is a judicial Absolution from the Guilt of Punishment, owing to God, in the penitentiary Court, given over and above the Sacralib.1.c.8.p. 24. ment, by the Application of the Satisfactions which are contained in the Treasure of the Church. He had before told us, (c) that the Church, and the Schools, call Indulgences the Remissions of Punishment, which often remain to be endured after the remission of faults, and Reconciliation obtained in the Sacrament of Penance; which Pardons the Popes use to grant, at certain times, and not without some just and reasonable cause, out of their Fatherly gentleness, and condescension towards their Children, pitying their infirmity. This is his, and I'le at present wave any interfering description. Let's then examine the Hypotheses of this profitable structure.

II. The unfound hypotheses (or suppositions,) upon which they build this profitable Structure, are such as these: I'le name four of them.

I. That when the fault is pardoned, the punishment is not pardoned. but there remains an Obligation to punishment, which is changed from Eternal to Temporal, for which God must be satisfied, either by patient bearing his strokes, or by undergoing the Penance injoyned by the Priest. or by laborious works freely undertaken, fuch as Prayers, Fasting, and Alms; or by Indulgences.

Now the Quagmire-Foundation of this Distinction may thus appear. both by Testimony, by Reason, and (which is more than both these) by Scripture: I need but touch upon each, it being done more largely by a betterhand; and therefore I will produce but one Testimony, and that is of the Archbishop of Spalatro: "In Pardon to distinguish (d) between Fault "and Punishment, so as to separate them, is a most vain thing, and not e Fran. Turret-" to be admitted, especially in respect of God.

For reasons, "Tis against the Nature (e) of the thing, that there " should be Punishment where there is no Fault, take away the Cause "and the Effect must cease. What Bellarmine saith, that the House will

But beyond all this, 'tis against the Practice of Christ; what "Temporal punishment did Christ lay upon (f) Mary Magdalen, upon fluk.7.48. "(g) the Paralytick, the (b) great Debtour.

2. A second false hypothesis is this: One (i) Righteous man may sa- h Mat. 18.24. tisfie for another, and there are some that need no satisfaction for them- i Voet. ibid.p. felves, and therefore theirs may go for others. e.g. If Peter fast for Paul, then Paul need not fast, but God pardons him the punishment, which he should have satisfied for by fasting, &c. The groundlesness of this Hypothesis may be thus evidenced.

Jesus Christ hath perfectly satisfied for our fins, and therefore men are not bound to satisfie in part for themselves; (k) Christ is the Pro- k1 Joh.2.2; pitiation, (1) our Redemption. (m) God was in Christ reconciling the 11Cor. 1.30. World unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them. I need name m 2 Cor. 5. 19. no other Text than that I am discoursing of: (n) By one Offering he hath nHeb. 10.14. perfested for ever them that are santtified. To say, Christ satisfied, that our Satisfactions might be accepted, and ours depends upon his, (o) this o Ant. Sadeel. is to illude Scripture, q.d. Christ once satisfied, that we might alwayes de ver. pec. fatisfie, Christ persectly satisfied For us, that he might impersectly satis- 97, &c. fie In us; Christ hath satisfied for Eternal punishments, but doth satisfie for Temporal when Believers themselves satisfie. O excellent way of answering! Again, if men must in part satisfie for their sins, then they are not freely pardoned; but how easie is it to multiply express Scriptures; (p) take notice but of one Epistle: Justified freely by his Grace. p Rom. 3. 24. To him that worketh, is the reward not reckoned of Grace but of Debt. If by Grace, then it is no more of Works. &c. Now if none can satisfie for themselves, then they cannot satisfie for others. (9) If thou be wise, thou q Prov. 9.12. shalt be wife for thy self; but if thou scornest, thou alone shalt bear it. But, should we suppose what can no way be granted, how can they speak of the Communication of mens good Works, while they explode the Imputation of Christs Righteousness, and scornfully call it a putatitious Justification? But more of this in the next. 3. A third absurd hypothesis is this, That the superfluous satisfactions of Christ, and eminent Saints, are laid up in a Treasury, to be laid out for those that want.

The absurdity of this is manifest more wayes than I have time to TXXX 2 men-mention, (r) beside the absurdity of Parcelling out the death of Christ. to apply one part of it to one use, and another part to another use: whereas all and every part of it is offered and applyed to every Believer; 'Tis further absurd to divide that which is sufficient, from that which is superfluous, when what is infinite is indivisible; and to say, that one drop of the Blood of Christ, is sufficient for the saving of a thousand Worlds, and to reckon all the rest superstudies, and not so much as one person saved by it, that would not have been saved without it, what can be more absurd and blasphemous? I would further enquire, whether under the Old Testament, Believers were bound to satisfie God for Temporal punishments? if they were, let them prove it; if they were not, then God dealt more mercifully with them under the Old Testament, than with Believers under the New; and the Satisfaction of Christnot exhibited, is more efficacious than fince his exhibition. Once more, if the Satisfaction of Christ be more than enough, what need the addition of Humane Satisfactions? they fay, lest they should be in vain. So then, 'tis no matter though Christs Satisfaction be in vain, Saints must not lofe their glory; 'tis no matter with them though Christ lose his. In their account, Christ and Saints must share the work of Redemption between them; Saints must be our Priests, our Sureties, we must believe in them, and place our hope in their Satisfactions; but before we do for tis adviseable, to solve this Doubt, Whether the Treasury of Saints superfluous Satisfactions be Infinite or Finite? if Infinite, then they are fufficient to redeem the World, which I think none hath impudence to affirm; if Finite, what security may we have, ere we part with our Money, that the Treasury is not exhausted, upon the large Grants already made? but they'l tell them the Bank is inexhaustible; In the next place therefore let's confult the Treasurer.

4. The fourth tottering hypothesis is this, That the Pope hath the chief power of dispensing this Treasury to those members that need or post line of

Though I might turn off this with that trite Maxim, That which hath no Being, hath no Accidents; if there be no fuch Treasury, there need be no controversie about the dispensing of it; and though I might bespeak them to agree among themselves, whether hath greater power, the Pope or a Council, before they quarrel with us about what themselves are not agreed: And though I may well suppose, that the Popes Supremacy is already confuted in this Exercise; but to let pass all this, (s) what a fair Divident do they make of the Satisfaction of Christy while they allow, every Priest to dispose of it for the pardon of faults, and of eternal punishments, but reserve the disposal of that part of it to the Pope, where by to pardon temporal punishments? How egregiously also do they trifle, while they diftinguist between Satisfultion, and the Payment of Satisfaction: Satisfaction they fay, was made by Christ and Saints; but the payment of it is by the Pope is that was done long fince, this is full in +Xxx+ 117611 sThef. Salm. ibid. p.81,&c. doing; as if the satisfaction of Christ-were like a summe of Money layd up in a Chest, to be layd out upon occasion: Whereas we know no other Gospel treasury, but what is dispensed by the Spirit of God, by the Word and Sacraments. (1) It is the Gospel that is the power of God: Rom. 1.15,17 unto Salvation, to every one that believeth, -- and Therein is the Righteous finess of God revealed. But I shall speak more to this in my next Attempt to overturn their main Thesis, which is this.

That the Pope through the fulness of Apostolical power, may grant a most full Pardon by Indulgences: This is express'd most fully by Clement the sixt, (u) who speaketh thus: "Of that infinite Treasure that u Decret. Grat." is obtained for the Church Militant, God would not have it to be laid Tom. 2. extupin a Napkin, or hid in a Field, but hath committed it to Peter, that trav.com.lib. bears the Keyes of Heaven, and to his Successor-Vicars on Earth, 5.c.2. p. 352. "to be wholsomely dispensed upon fit and reasonable Eauses, sometimes for the total, sometimes for the partial Remission of temporal Punishments, both generally and specially due for Sins, to be mercifully ap"plyed to the truely penitent, and confess'd.

In the Anatomy of this Thesis, I shall endeavour to discover these things, viz. 1. The falseness of it; 2. The Novelty of it; 3. The Contradictions in it; 4. The Cheats of it; 5. It's Injuriousness to Christ;

6. Its Mischief to Christians.

First, To convince you of the falseness of this Position, I shall first give you plain Scripture-proof, That there's no pardon of fin but by the Mercy of God, through the Blood of Christ, received by Faith. + In whom + Ephelis.7. we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his Grace. (x) Being justified by Faith, we have peace x Rom. 5. 13 with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. (y) Who shall lay any thing to y Rom. 8.33,34 the charge of Gods Elect? It is God that justifieth; who is he that condemneth? it is Christ that died; &c. Many more Texts might be alleadged; but I had rather fay onely what is enough, than all. But our Adversaries pretend also to Scripture-warrant, though Durand(z) con-z Durand.l.4fesseth, that concerning Indulgences there can but little be said upon certainty, because the Scripture doth not speak expressely of them; for that which is faid to Peter, Mat. 16. 18. I will give unto thee the Keyes of the Kingdom of Heaven, and what soever thou shalt binde, &c. is to be understood of the power given unto him in the Court of Pænance, and it is not clear that it ought to be understood of the granting Indulgences: But Bellarmine faith, (a) "Although Indulgences be not warrant, a de indulg. 1. "ed by particular Scripture, yet they are in general by the power of 2.c.10.p.,16, "the Keyes, --- and they may be warranted by Divine Authority, known, "by Tradition of the Apostles: (By the way, let me observe, I do not remember, that ever I read anything in their Authors about the Popes, power in any kind, but this Text is press'd into the service of their defign, though ordinarily, to as little purpose as any Text in the Bible, but Scriptures they bring, leits examine them a little. They argue from those

Of Indulgences. Serm. XIX. those words of the Apostle, (b) ---- ye ought rather to forgive him, and comfort him, &c. in short, The Apostle gave Indulgence, so may the the Pope. There's enough in the Text to answer their Allegation. e. g. 1. Paul never limited a time for his Repentance, that it must be so many dayes or years. 2. Paul took no price to pay his Debt out of the Corinthians Works of Supererogation. - 3. The Penitent gave no Money for his Indulgence. And, 4. Which is more than all the rest, he saith ver. 10. To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also. This is no way to e Chem. exam. be endured, (c) that the Pope hath no more power to forgive any thing conc. Trid. p. than other Priests; I doubt not, but rather than yield that, they'l let go that Text. Another Text they urge, is, (d) --- my sufferings for you, and fill up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ in my flesh, for his Bodyes sake, which is the Church. Upon which they say, that Paul satisfied for the sins of other Believers, and by this means did contribute to the enriching the Churches Treasury of Satisfactions, which the Pope disposeth of by Indulgences: But this is presupposing their Opinion, not proving of it. They grant our Exposition of the Text to be e Daille in loc. right. (e) 1. That Pauls Afflictions are the Afflictions of Christ, i.e. he fuffered them for Christ, for the Name of the Lord. 2. They made up the last part of the Apostles task, being the remainder of the Assistions he had to sustain. 3. They contain an illustrious Evidence of his gratitude towards the Lord, that as Christ had suffered for his Salvation, he fuffered in his order for the glory of his gracious Master. So that here's not a word of Satisfactions, or Treafury, or Indulgences. Another Text was rich and wanted Merit; take but the plain meaning of the Text, and that will rescue it from such an abuse: The Corinthians received the Gospel from some of the Jewish Church, and therefore they ought to relieve their Necessities. Besides their wresting of Scripture, they argue from that Article of the Creed, The Communion of Saints, therefore those that neither do, nor suffer what they ought for themselves, are to be supplyed out of what others have done and suffered more than they need. Is not this a Consequence of the largest size? may they not by fuch arguing prove every thing out of any thing? Briefly, the Church is called a Communion of Saints; because, 1. They are all Members of one Mystical Body. 2. All the Benefits of Christ are communicated to every Believer, they are all called, justified, fanctified, faved. 3. They are to do all Offices of Charity one for another, while in this world; but what's all this to works of Supererogation? Let this suffice for this they urge is, (f) that your abundance may be a supply for their want, that their abundance also may be a supply for your want, q.d. The Church of Ferusalem was poor, and abounded in Merit, the Church of Corinth

Secondly, Indulgences are a Novelty; the ancient Church neither knew nor practifed any fuch thing. That they may not fay we flander first particular, and the rather, because the proof of the rest will also prove this. Therefore, them, hear their own Authors. Cajetan who was employed both as Legat and Champion against Luther begins thus: (g) "If certainty could g Cajet. opusc. "be had concerning the beginning of Indulgences, 'twould help us to Tom. 1. Tract. "fearch out the truth; but because no written Authority, either of the 15.c.1.p.45. "holy Scripture, nor of the ancient Greek or Latine Doctors, hath "brought this to our knowledge; but this onely, from three hundred vears, 'tis written concerning the ancient Fathers, that bleffed Gregory "instituted the Stationary Indulgences, &c. Which should we grant, (though let them tell us where to find it in his Writings) 'twould not prove them very ancient. And Roffensis himself, as that Italian quotes. him, (for I have him not by me) acknowledgeth, (h) That till people h Polyd. To convince those of Novelty who slander us with it, I'le give you a brief Historical account of them, how they crept in, and to what a monstrous height they rose, till they were so top-heavy, that their fall broke off several branches of that Tree (i) which overspread the Western i Dan. 4.1.118cc. Churches.

The Discipline of the ancient Church was such, that they did neither lightly nor fuddenly re-admit unto Communion those that denyed the Faith, or facrificed to Idols in time of perfecution, or those that at any time fell into Herefie, or any other scandalous wickedness; till the Church was fatisfied in the truth of their Repentance, to evidence which, they required fuch publick, visible testimonies, such as they judged might most probably speak the grief of their heart for sin, the seriousness of their defire of Reconciliation, and their full purpose of amendment. The manner of their Repentance was thus, as (k) Nicephorus relates it: k Niceph. hills. "After twas look'd upon as burdensome for the Offender to confess his Eccles. lib. 12... "After twas look a upon as burdenione for the Onender to come to come of the Grant that was holy, c.28.p.279, fault publickly as upon a Theater, they chose a Minister that was holy, & feqq. or prudent, and fecret, to whom those that had offended might open their "case, and receive directions what to do, that their sin might be par-"doned. The Novatians took no care of this matter, for they refused "to communicate with those that denyed the Faith in the persecution of Decius; and 'tis said, This Rite was instituted for their sake, that they " might be restored upon their Repentance. There was a certain place "appointed for the Penitents, where they stood with a dejected counte-"nance, greatly bewailing their fin, till what they might not partake of, "was ended, and then they threw themselves at his feet that administred; "then he that was appointed to direct them, ran to them, and mourn-"ing with them, lay down upon the ground; and the whole multitude of "the Church stood about them, with many tears lamenting over them; "then the Minister rose up, and bade the Penitents to rise, and praying "for them as the matter required, dismissed them; then every one betook "himself to what was enjoyned him, to macerate themselves by Fastings, and Watchings, and frequent Prayers, and Abstinence from Delights; 66 which

And in those things that were imposed, (0) we are not so much to consider the Length of the Time, as the Depth of the Grief, o Juguit, Enchi fuch as may fatisfie the Church, (pray mark that, it is the Church, in the ridicap.65. (p) We are firmly to believe, that the purging away brev. resp. ad in- of sin is done by the Blood of Christ, through the greatness of Gods Mercy, and the multitude of his Compassions. But they were onely enormous finners, upon whom the ancient Church imposed severities, to evidence the truth of their Repentance; let Augustine speak for a Aug. de vtil- all, (q) who mentions a threefold Repentance: "The first before (r) Bap-"tism, which is Conversion, when a man repents of his former Course "of Life, and gives up himfelf to live in Newness of Life, and upon "these they imposed no Ecclesiastical Censures. The second was, (s) a "daily Repentance; and for fins of daily incursion, we are taught to "pray, Forgive us our Trespasses, &c. of these the Church took no no-"tice. But there's a (1) more grievous and mournfull Repentance, in the "managing of which, Offenders are properly call'd Penitents; this is a grievous thing, but that the Almighty Physician can cure such; but O my beloved (faith he) let no man propose this kind of Repentance "unto himself; if he have fallen, let him not despair, but let no man "venture upon fin in hopes of Repentance. So that you may fee, that whoever will be at the pains to compare the Satisfactions of the Papifts with the Satisfactions of the Ancients, they will find them far different. u Chem. Exam. Whereas the Papists now, as the degenerate Church of Israel formerly. + They eat up the + Hos. 4. 8. fin of my People, and they set their heart on their iniquity. The Patrons of In Julgences look at their gain; the Ancients, when they absolved their Penitents, exhorted them to fin no more, but to bring forth fruits worthy of amendment of Life, they put them upon the exercise of the contrary Vertues, but there's nothing of this in Papal Indulgences. In a word, the Ancients carryed on a delign of Heavenly Interest in their Severities, and the Papilts of Earthly in their Indulgences. But the Severities of the Ancients were by degrees mollified. Our learned Countrey man gives us the Canons of a Council, in the year 786. where in the last Canon 'tis decreed, (x) That if any one dyed without Penance x Sir Hen. Spel. and Confession, he should not be at all prayed for. (where then were In- Concil. Byite in dulgences as fince granted?) But he gives us the Canon of another Coun-conc. Is not this sair? But yet this comes not neer the later Markets. But I must not multiply particulars; when they had Churches to build, Hospitals to endow, Bridges to repair, or the like, then Indulgences were granted to fetch in Money: And even then while these good works were proposed, Gregory the 9th (a) decrees, That the Alms-gatherers appointed, be modest and discreet a Decret. grounds it upon a Report that great Indulgences were granted (though no body knows when nor where) to the Visitors of those Churches. Well, but though there never was any fuch thing before, yet now this easie way of Pardon is broach'd, 'tis pity the time should be so seldom; Clea ment the fixt (c) therefore in the year 1350. upon the prayers of the People of Rome, reduced the Jubile to every Fiftyeth year, and for fo doing, he doth not go upon Report, but founds it upon the Law of Mod Idem p.998. ses. (d) Urbane the fixt, reduced it to Thirty three years; and Paul e Bullar. mag. the second (e) gives the Reason of it, viz. he providently considered, Tom.1.p.401, men do not live fo long as formerly, and defired that very many more might receive benefit by them, &c. which when he hath done, as also how that Reduction was confirmed by Martin the fifth, and Nicholas the Fifth, he then expresseth his greater Kindness in reducing the Jubile to every 25th year; and Alexander the fixth, (f) in the year 1500. en-Pontif.p. 1343. larged the Jubile to those that could not, or neglected to come to Rome. And thus I have (though with omiting more than I have express'd) brought them down to Leo the 10th, (9) who exercised such an excessive power in this matter, that there is not (faith Ranchin) a good Catholick but is forry for it. Take the matter of fact from that excellent Historian (b) Thuanus, who wrote onely the History of his own time, and therefore might well be more exact. "In the year 1515. Leo the tenth, a man giving himself to all Licentiousness, by the instigation of Cardinal Lorenzo Puccio, a turbulent man, to whom he afcribed too much, that "he might from all parts scrape up Money for his vast Expences, he sent "his Bulls of Indulgences through all the Kingdoms of the (Papal) Chri-"flian World, wherein he promised the expiation of all sins, and Eter-"nal Life; and there was a price fet what every one should pay, ac-"cording to the grievousness of his Sin. To which end he appointed Colcolectors and Treasuries throughout the Provinces; adding to them, "Preachers to recommend to the People the greatness of the Benefit: "these by Sermons artificially composed, and by Pamphlets openly pub-6 lished, immoderately extolled the Efficacy of these Indulgences. These 66 Bulls were executed with too much Licenciousness in many places, but "especially in Germany; where those that farmed them from the Pope, "did lavish out their power of drawing Souls out of Purgatory, shame-"lefly spending it every day in Whore-houses and Taverns, at Dice, and "most filthy uses. I shall forbear to insist upon the abominable Expressions of those that preach'd up these Indulgences, such as this, viz. That there is no fin so great, but that if a man should (which is impossible) deflour the Mother of God, he might by Indulgences be pardoned both Fault and Punishment. Chemnitius (1) mentions several stories, to whom I referre you; and shall somewhat more largely aquaint you with the very words of some of the Hundred Grievances of the Princes of the Roman Empire, affembled at Novemberg, in the Years 1922, and 1923. of Papal Indulgences: (k) "Their third Grievance is about the Increase k Fasciculus of the intolerable burden of Indulgences, when under the shew of Piety, rerum experencefor the Building of Churches, or an Expedition against the Turks, the darum, fol. Popes fuck the Marrow of their Estates; and which heightens the Imposture, by their hireling Cryers and Preachers, Christian Piety is banish'd, while to advance their Market, they cry up their Wares, for the granting of wonderfull, unheard of, peremptory Pardons, not onely "of fins already committed, but of fins that shall be committed by those cothat are alive, and also the fins of the dead --- So that by the sale of "these wares, together with being spoyl'd of our Money, Christian piecety is extinguished; while any one may promise himself impunity, upon paying the rate that is fet upon the fin he hath a mind to commit: hence Whoredoms, Incests, Adulteries, Perjuries, Murders, Thests, &c. and "all manner of wickedness, have at once their Off-spring. What wickedness will mortal men be afraid to commit, when they may promise "themselves licence, and impunity of finning, while they live, and for a celittle more Money Indulgences may be purchased for them after they are dead? Especially the Germans, who are of a credulous temper, and easie to be perswaded by pretences of piety, and a shew of Reli-"gion. A Fourth Grievance was this, That the Indulgences were fold for Defence against the Barbarians, but the Mouey was laid out to "maintain the Luxury of Kindred, and to advance their Families .---The Fifth was this, That the Pope, and the rest of the Bishops and ce Pillars of the Roman Church have alwayes some Cases reserved, for which you must make a new Bargain, and pay more Money, or no Dispensation. The fixth was this, That if any one have wherewithall to pay, he may not onely be indulged the present transgression of these "Constitutions (about reserved Cases) but they may be permitted to ce transgress them for the future; whence those that are dispensed with, catake occasion to commit Perjuries, Murders, Adulteries, and such like wickedness, which all springs from the cursed Covetousness of some Ecclesiasticks. I might adde more out of their Seventh Grievance, about the Stationary Preachers of Indulgences, of whom the Princes complain, that they devour the very Blood and Marrow of the poor, "and themselves live in more than Sybaritical Luxury and Delights. But I'le transcribe no more of this; I would not indeed have transcrib'd fo much, but that the Book whence I have it, is but in few hands: And that what I have faid, may not be tedious. I le refresh you with a story. (1) A Noble-man told Tecelius (the chief Publican of Indulgences) that 1 Chemnit 16; he had a mind to commit a very heinous fin, and he defired prefent p.745? Pardon of that future sin: Tecelius for a great summe of money gives him the Indulgence, the Noble-man pays down the Money, and receives his Bull: Afterwards, the Noble-man took occasion in a certain Wood to rob Tecelius, and break open his Chests of Indulgences; and when Tecelius threatned him with all manner of Curses; the Noble-man TYVV2

shewed him his Bull of Indulgences, that he payd so dear for, and laugh. ing at him, told him, this was the Sin that he had a mind to commit, when he was fo fully absolved. Twould drive out this Discourse into too great a length, to (but particularly) mention the several Conferences, Disputations, Writings, Diets, that pass'd for above twenty years, ere the Council was affembled at Trent, and to mention what was done there at several times for above twenty years more, e're they so much as attempted to debate the business of Indulgences, and when twas attempted, how they durst (m) not meddle with that Fistula, but shuffled

The Punishment pardoned, is neither Natural, nor those that are inflicted in any outward Court that is contentious, whether Ecclefiaftical or Secular. Now do but observe some few (of many) gross Contradictions about all

Indulgence; when they had but then decreed, that the fole dispensing of thefe, e.g.

1. As to the Authority of granting Indulgences: He faith, that Christ in giving the Keyes to Peter and the rest of the Apostles, gave to them the Power of Order, and to Peter the Power of Jurisdiction; so that the Pope holds from Peter a peculiar Power of Jurisdiction; every ordinary Priest may pardon Sin, deliver the Soul from Hell, but he cannot discharge them from temporal Satisfactions. How many Contradictions there are in this, I cannot fay, but pray take notice of thefe.

First, The Keyes were given equally to all the Apostles, therefore not so to Peter; I question not but this hath been evidenced to you in a former Exercise.

Secondly, What a Contradiction is it to say, the Pope cannot pardon the Penance enjoyned by a Priest, and yet can pardon what is required by God? i.e. he cannot take off the fentence of an Inferiour Court, but he can take off the fentence of a Superiour: As if a man should fay among us. A Judice of the Peace cannot discharge a man from the Stocks, that is fet there by a Constable, but he can give a man a Pardon for his Life. that is condemned by the Judge. Whereas this is obvious to all, that noinferiour Judge can take off the Sentence of a Superiour. What will not these men dare do, that dare cry up the Pope to be Superiour to God himfelf?

2. As to Piety in the Cause. The pretended Causes are such as these: viz. The Building of Churches, the endowing of Hospitals, the making of Bridges, the Warring against Infidels or Hereticks, or some other Acts of Charity.

First, This contradicts the Scripture-Conditions for Pardon of Sins;

but what care they for Scripture?

Secondly, Where's Piety in the Cause, (9) when the Pope upon the q Moulin. Noday of his Coronation, fitting upon a Throne set upon the top of the velty of Popery, stairs of St. Peters Church, throws Indulgences among the people, as P.465. one would throw a handfull of Farthings among a Company of Beggars, to scramble for them, catch as catch can? But do they say, that piety is in the Cause? the real Cause is to get, Money. I know Bellarmine is very angry with us, for charging this upon them; but let them answer their own Authors in this matter. Matth. Paristens. tells us, that when feveral were drawn in, under Innocent the fourth, unto the Holy Warre, the Pope compell'd them to redeem their Vows: (r) Leo the tenth, r Review of gave out Indulgences for the repayring of St. Peters Church, whereas the Council of Julius his predecessor left an infinite Treasure to that end, and the Money Trent, p.91,92 gathered by Indulgences was laid out about the Palace of the Medici in Florence, much of it distributed among the Cardinals and his Minions; and the Indulgences of Saxony, (s) he gave unto his Sifter Magdalene, s Histor. of the wife unto Franceschetto Gibo Bastard Son of Innocent the 8th; by reason Counc. of Trent. of which Marriage this Leo was created Cardinal at the Age of Four- P. 5. teen years. But what need I mention particulars? See but the Taxa Cancellaria Apostolica, and there you have the several summes set upon the feveral fins; I'le name some few, (t) viz. For the carnal knowledge t Taxa Cancel. of his Mother, Sifter, or other Kinswoman by Blood or Marriage, or Apost. fol. 36,. his God mother, five Groffu's (Groffus is neer about a- Groat of our 37,38,41. Money, but I'le reckon it high enough) five Six, pences. For the deflowring of a Virgin (6 grof.) fix Sixpenses. For Perjury, (6 gr.) fix Six-pences. For a Woman that drinks any Potion, or doth any other act to destroy her live-child within her, (5 gr.) five Six-pences. For him. that kills his Father, Mother, Brother, Sifter, Wife, (D.I. carl. 5.) one Crown and five Groats. And in the Table for dispensing about Marriages, when the Rates are stated for the first and second degree, there is: added, Note diligently, that Favours, and Dispensations of this kind. are not to be granted to the Poor; and the Reason is given, because they are not (i.e. not capable of paying for them) therefore they cannot be u Voet. Selec. comforted. Voetius (u) tells us, That the Papifts he convers'd with, de-Disp. part. 2. P. ny that ever there was any fuch thing, or any fuch Book, and say, we + Espencaus in slander them: Whereas Espenceus + tells us, that it was openly sold, Titum.c. I. digr. and he tells us so with this Remarque: 'Tis a wonder, that at this time, in this Schisme, that such an infamous Index of such filthy and to be abhorred wickedness is not suppress'd, ('twas printed at Paris, in the year 1520.) there's neither in Germany, Switzerland, nor in any other place where there's a Defection from the Roman See, a Book more to their Reproach; and yet (faith he) it is not supress'd by the Favourers of the Church of Rome, it teacheth and encourageth to such wickedness, as we may be afraid to hear named, and a price is set to all Buyers. Is not this enough to shew the piety of them?

3. The third requisite is, The Receiver of Indulgence must be in the State of Grace. 'Tis ordinarily said, they must be confess'd, and contrite, though others deny the necessity of it; every way here's a swarm of Contradictions. I'le name one or two.

First, They deny, that any one can know, whether he be in a state of Grace or not: pray unriddle me this; The Decree about Indulgences faith, that Indulgences are very profitable to Christian people, and * Concil. Gene- damns those that fay otherwise: And the same (x) Council damns those rald Provin- that shall so far own their Christianity as to affirm their Faith to be cercertainly faving. But I'le quit this, and request you to consider the cial Bin. Edit. Tom.9.p. 362: conc. Trid. Sel.6.can.15, 16,23.&C.

Secondly, Whether is there any infallible Evidence of a Persons not being in a state of Grace? if there be, what is it? Will the living and dying in all manner of mortal fins, fuch as Blasphemy, Witchcrast, Murder, Incest, Adultery, Perjury, reckon up all the wickedness that you can in the World, will these speak a man to be Graceless? Indulgences provide for a full pardon of all these sins: The stationary Indulgences of the City of Rome, that is, the Indulgences annexed to every Church, granted to those that visit them, amount to a Million of Years, (to gratifie Bellarmine for telling me why they grant fo many, I will not make any Observations upon Gregories Dedication of the Church of Lateran, (y) when he gave as many dayes of Indulgence, as there fall drops of Rain, when it rains without ceasing for the space of three Dayes and three Nights; and when Gregory feared, lest the Treasury of Grace would be emptyed by that profuseness, Christ appeared unto him, and told him, He was willing he should grant more Indulgences, for the people had need of them; but I will take Bellarmine's word, that he hath not read this in any Author he likes, and for the reason beforesaid I'le let it goe.) I might reckon up an innumerable company more in feveral places: But now why fo many years? a man can do Penance in this World no longer than he lives, and their Purgatory they fay lasts no longer than the Day of Judgement; what use is there then of so many millions

millions of years of Indulgence? Bellarmine (I thank him) tells me, (2) "We cannot deny, but that some are bound by the Penitential Ca- z Bell.de Innons to some thousands of years penance; for if to every deadly sin dulg.l.1.c.9. "there be due by the Canons so many years Penance, as to some three, P.25. to some seven, &c. then he that hath accustomed himself to Periury "and Blasphemy almost every moment, and most frequently commits "Murders, Thests, Sacriledges, Adulteries, without doubt the Popes had respect to such as these, when they gave Indulgences for ten or twenty thousand years. So then, if they commit all the sins before mentioned so often, that the Penance due for them would amount to millions of years, yet they need fear nothing, they are provided of Indulgences, they shall go to Heaven as fure as the Pope has the Key of it. Well, let's lay these things a little together: He tells us, Those that receive benefit by Indulgences, must be in the state of Grace; and he also tells us, that without doubt the Pope had respect (great kindness certainly) for those that accultome themselves to Perjury and Blasphemy almost every moment, and most frequently commit Murders, Thests, Sacriledges, Adulteries, &c. Now then, either Indulgences profit those that are not in a state of Grace, or these Belialists pass for Saints with their infallible. Judge; either of which is an abominable contradiction.

4. As to what is pardoned by Indulgences. He faith, the Fault is never. pardoned, but the temporary Punishment. Here I have two Questions.

to ask, and one Story to tell, and all from themselves.

First, What mean those Clauses usual in Indulgences, of pardon of Fault and Punishment?

Secondly, What fay they to Venial fins, they are Faults, and there they grant both Fault and Punishment, are pardoned. But to let these pass, I le give a story that simells rank, out of St. Francis his Conformities, (a Folio stuffed with as prodigious Lies as ever Paper was stained. with,) among other Whiskers take this about Indulgences : (a) " While a Liber confor. "bleffed Francis stood in his Cell at St. Mary's de Portiuncula, and vit. B. & Se-"most fervently prayed to God for Sinners, there appeared an Angel raph. Pat.

"of the Lord unto him, who bade him go to the Church, for there Christ, Francisci ad vitam I.C.D. "and bleffed Mary, with a great multitude of Angels expected him; N. impr. Bonons, "he prefently went, who when he faw Christ with his Mother standing 1590. p. 1985. "at his right hand, and a great multitude of Angels, he fell upon his 199. "face for Fear and Reverence, and then our Lord Jesus Christ said to "him, as he lay prostrate before him and his Mother, Francis, thou "and thy Companions are much folicitous for the falvation of Souls; Ask "what thou wilt about the Salvation of Nations, and the Comfort of "Souls, and the Honour and Reverence of God, because thou art given: " for a Light to the Nations, and a Reparation of the Church: And he "lay a while as rapt up in the fight of God, but at length when he "came to himself, he begg'd Indulgence for all and every one that cameto that place, that entered into that Church, of all their fins universally 66 andi

"and generally of all their fins, of which they had made Confession to "the Priest, and received his Command; and he befought his blessed "Mother the Advocate of Mankind, to intercede for the Grant of this: "The most blessed and most humble Queen of Heaven being moved "with the Prayers of bleffed Francis, presently began to supplicate her "Son, telling him, it became him to have regard unto the Prayers of " bleffed Francis his Servant. His Divine Majesty, presently said, It is "a very great thing thou hast asked, but Brother Francis thou art wor-"thy of greater things, and thou shalt have greater things, but I will "that thou go to my Vicar, to whom I have given power of binding "and loofing in Heaven and in Earth, and from me, ask of him this In-"dulgence. Whereupon he took his Companion Brother Massey, and went to Pope Honorius, and told him, that he had repaired a Church "to the Honour of the bleffed Virgin, and he defired that he would "grant Indulgence there, without Offerings, who answered, that can-"not conveniently be done, for he that receives Indulgence, must put to " his belping hand; but tell me, (faith he) how many years Indulgence "wouldst thou have? He answered, I will, that whosoever comes to "this Church, confess'd, and contrite, and absolved by the Priest as he "ought, that he be absolved from Fault and Punishment from the day of "his Baptism, unto the day and hour of his entring into the Church afore-" faid, and I ask it in the behalf of Christ who sent me to thee: The "Pope faid three times publickly, It pleafeth me that thou have it, -----"So bleffed Francis bowed his head, and went out; which when the "Pope faw, he called, O Simpleton, whither goest thou? what dost "thou carry away of this Indulgence? Francis answered, your word is " enough --- I'le have no other Instrument, let Blessed Mary be the Paper, "Christ the Notary, and Angels the witnesses, &c .--- Miracles are related by the Dozen to confirm this Indulgence, I'le mention but one: "Upon the day of Indulgence, (the first of August) Brother Corradus " faw the Bleffed Virgin with her Child in her Arms, and the sweet Babe,

* Is he a child 66 * did without intermission, with his own hands bless all the People Bill? "that were out of Devotion present, and imparted to them his Grace. Well, you fee here, both Fault and Punishment pardoned by Indulgences, and yet Indulgences can onely pardon the Punishment: Reconcile

5. A fifth (and the last thing) I shall name, of what is fruitfull of Contradictions is, the kind of Punishments that are pardoned by Indulgences; Bellarmine faith, they are neither Natural, nor those that are inflicted by any contentious Court, whether Civil or Ecclefiastical.

b Thef. Salm. Alixc.

If this be so, then there's nothing forgiven, for (b) what sufferings p.ur. 2.p. 77. n. more are there to be pardoned, but those that are Natural or imposed? If any more were due for fins, without doubt God would inflict them upon the Damned; But God inflicts no other upon them, Therefore, &c. But Bellarmine tells us, they are those Punishments that are inflicted in the Penitentiary Court, which we voluntarily fulfill, to which we are no way compelled, but by the Fear of God, and the stingings of our Conscience. Pray who gives the Priest power to inflict any punishment upon those whose sins are pardoned? But if we are bound in Conscience, and in the Fear of God to perform them, how dare the Pope release them? But pray let's again consider, what are the Punishments usually inflicted? They are Prayers, and Alms, and Fasting. Must not that be a famous Church think you, where Fasting and Prayer are Punishments, and as it were layd in the ballance with the pains of Purgatory, which pains are as grievous as the torments of Hell, bating the Duration? Let them never boast more of their Devotion nor Charity; they are with them Penalties, with us Priviledges; we are so far from giving any thing to be excused these Duties, that we would not be hired out of the performance of them: Should any of our Ministers but preach such Dispensations, we should account them the Devils Apostles, (c) de-c2 Cor. 11.13. ceitfull workers. What! teach men how to fell themselves to work wickedness, and then how to purchase Heaven with their wages of unrighteoutness! O my Soul enter not into their secret. But in short, we under-Hand neither the Grammar nor the Divinity of pardoning, (a) of Re-d chamier. Pants. pentance, who think there's nothing but Sin or Punishment that needs a sea.15. Pardon. And thus I have shewed you some of their Contradictions. The next thing I promised to speak to, was their Cheats, and I may well be briefer here, for what is all that hath been spoken of but a grand Cheat?

Fourthly, The Cheats of Indulgences will be Notorious, bring them but forth into the Light, and every one may discern them. I need pro-ducé but a pattern, for they are all of a piece.

How shall a man be sure he is not cheated of his Money, when he cannot know what he buyes? And how can a man know what he buyes, when they are not agreed among themselves what they sell? (e) e.g. e Eell, de Indulg, They are not yet agreed, whether an Indulgence be a Judiciary absolu-1.1.c.5.5.19. tion, or a payment of the Debt by way of Compensation of Punishment out of the Treasury, or both, (I may adde, or neither, e're I have done with this particular;) Could they get over this, here's another difficulty in the way, viz. What Bond is loofed by Indulgence, i. e. what fins, what Punishments are we any way freed from? though Bellarmine (as you have heard) fay, Without doubt the Popes had respect to the worst of men, yet he himself elsewhere saith, (f) That we are neither ab-f Idem c.7.p.21; folv'd nor folv'd from the Guilt of any fault whether Mortal or Venial; by Indulgences. Among several Reasons given, (g) I'le name but one : g Raynerii Pan-As a dead member receives not Influence from the other Members of the theolog. Tom. 1. Body that are living, so he that is in mortal sin, is as a dead Member, P.1146, and receives not Indulgence from the Merits of living Members. I know Bellarmine faith, (b) The Saints cannot merit for others, but they may h Bell. de Ind. satisfie for others, there being in the Altions of the Righteons a double 1.1.c.2 Value, namely, of Merit and Satisfaction; (though the Distinction is every way a Nullity, there being neither Merit nor Satisfaction, but let that pass for the present;) Without controverse (saith he,) one mans Merit cannot be applyed to another: yet by his favour, Hadrian, though he speaks less than Bellarmine in other things, he speaks more in this: for he faith, (i) He that is in mortal fin himself, may merit for another, &c. He calls paying for the Indulgence, meriting of it; and I think well he may, for his Money is well worth it. I might adde, they are not yet agreed what is meant by (k) a Years Pardon, whether 360 dayes of Penance, or onely all the Fasting dayes in the Year. If the former, what s meant by that usual Clause in Indulgences for so many Years, and so many Quarentines, or Forty dayes of Penance, besides those that are contained in the general account of the Year? They are not yet agreed about the Value and Efficacy of Indulgences, whether they are worth what they pretend, or not: Some do not stick to say, their holy Father may do by his Children, as a mother by hers, that promifeth her Child an Apple if he will do fuch a thing, but when he hath done it, she doth not give it. Neither are they yet agreed, whether they may not be effectual, though the Condition of them be not performed. But why do I enquire into those things that will not bear a Scrutiny? I have faid enough to evidence, that neither Seller nor Buyer understand the Ware of their Market; and these two things more may be enough to prove them 3 Cheat.

1 Bel'arm, de Indulg, l.1, c.12, p. 28, 29.

I. When Bellarmine (1) faith, They are all agreed, that an Indulgence is not valid, unless the Cause be Just; and he names several things must concurre to make it just; but concludes, it belongs not to the Popes Subjects to judge, whether the Cause be just or unjust; they ought simply to account it just: And instanceth, how the Pope may grant the greatest Indulgences, upon the lightest Cause: e.g. When a plenary Indulgence is granted to all those that stand before the Doors of St. Peters Church, while the Pope upon Easter-day solemnly blesseth the People. We count this Condition ridiculous: O no (saith he essewhere) they thereby show their obedience to the Pope. Is that it? Mark this I pray you: By this Doctrine, a man may live in Disobedience and Rebellion against God all his dayes, and at last so far obey the Pope, as to go see a fine Shew, without parting with any one sin, and he shall be saved. Who but those that are given (m) up to strong delusions to believe a lye, can believe this?

m a Thef. 3.11.

II. Neither those that grant, nor those that receive, nor those that plead for Indulgences, dare themselves trust to them; witness the solution Services performed for them after their death, yea for the Pope himself. Now those that plead for the validity of plenary Indulgences, when they are ask'd. What need then of Funeral Obsequies? they answer, Some sins may be forgotten, &c. What! and yet the deceased hath had their full, their plenary, and their most full Indulgences! What these mean, take from one of their infallible Oracles, Hadrian the sixth, in his Book that was printed at Rome in the very time of his Papacy, and so this is as it were out of the Chair: He (n) tells us, that a Full In-

dulgence respects Penance injoyned for mortal sins; a Plenary Indulgence respects Penance injoyned for mortal and venial sins; and a Most Full Indulgence respects the Penance that might have been injoyned for mortal and venial fins. Tollet almost a hundred years after, gives us a little more light into that gradation of Indulgences, and tells us, (v) That o Toller, Inflower a Full Indulgence respects the Remission of the Punishment injoyned; a Sacerd, lib. 6. Fuller Indu'gence respects that Punishment that might have been injoyned according to the Canons; the Fullest respects that Punishment which may be required by the Divine Judgement. Now then, if Indulgences pardon all manner of fins, mortal and venial, all manner of Repentance that God or Man can require, and all manner of Punishment that God or Man can inflict, and yet those that receive these Indulgences, when they are dead, need the faine means for Pardon, that those do that never had any Indulgences; doth not this evidence, that the chief Patrons of Indulgences do in their own Consciences believe them to be a Cheat? I shall next shew you how they are injurious to Christ.

Fifthly, Indulgences are injurious to Christ, and which is to me confiderable, they are most injurious to Christ, where they seem most to honour him; what they speak of Christ with the greatest reverence, is at the bottom full of fallhood, injustice, and blasphemy. e.g. They say, One drop of the Blood of Christ was enough to redeem the World : Doth not this Affertion put an inestimable value upon the Blood of Christ? Examine it a little, and you will find, that Judas-like, they betray him with a Kiss: For,

1. This takes (p) away the Necessity of Christs Death, which the Scrip- P Thef. Salm. ture doth fo often inculcate. What need the Son of God undergo fuch a painfull, ignominious, and curfed a Death, if one drop of his Blood was fufficient? How can we believe that the Father, who delighteth not in the death of a finner, would delight in the cruel and curfed Death of his most innocent, onely begotten Son, if it were not necessary for our Redemption? Can we think that God, who will not punish his damned Enemies beyond what they deserve, would exact a punishment of his Son so much more than there was need? Is the Death of Christ superfluous? I dare not fay of the Captain of our Salvation, as David faid of the Captain of the Holt of Israel, Dyed Abner as a Fool died? No, Death was the Debt, and fuch a Debt must be the Payment, as may pay the Debt, and that by the Sinn r, or (through Grace) by his Surety.

2. If one drop of the Blood of Christ be sufficient, and all the rest to be layd up in a Treasury, and the Satisfactions of Saints likewise added: then there needs more to redeem us from Temporal Punishments, than from Eternal wrath, and Christis not a compleat Saviour; than which nothing is more abfurd in it felf, nor more reproachfull to Christ: To prove this, 'tis easie to multiply Scriptures, but to produce their own Authors, at present I'le name but one, who expressely tells us (9) That a Cerfor. Tom. is onely Christ, with the Father, and the Holy Chost, that can with dulg fel. 191. plenary Ambority grant all manner of Indulgence from Fault and Pus confid. 5.8.

nishment .--- and it is Christ alone that can grant so many thousand thous Sand years of Pardon, as we find in some Popes Grants; for no Temporal Punishment can endure the thousandth part of that time.

12. c.8. p.655.

p.240.

Sixthly, Indulgences are abominably injurious to Souls: They came r Forbs Inftrua. in upon the declining of piety, and they (r) are the product of the later Histor, theol. lib. and worser times. The plain truth is, Indulgences do in the Nature of the thing promote wickedness, for 'tis onely wicked men that need Indulgences; those that they account Saints, do so much more than they need, that their superfluous good Works constitute a Treasury for others: Sure then we may reckon, that their midling fort, though they have no Satisfactions to spare, yet they have so many, they need not be beholding to others; fo that 'tis onely the worst of men that need Indulgence, and what can (s) "More oblige them to redouble their Crimes, s Review. lib.5. and misdemeanours, to abandon themselves to all manner of vice and "lewdness, than to be fure, that all the fins they can commit shall be for-"given them? yea, to have them pardoned before-hand, in having In-"dulgences for fins already committed, and to be committed; with this "express Clause [be they never so heynous,]? Marcus Antonius de e de Rep. Ec-cles.1,5.c.8.n.13. Dominis may (t) well fay, That Indulgences are one of the great Secrets of the Papacy, they are famous Gold-mines, out of which a great power of Gold bath been digged for the Apostolical See,--- but they have utterly banished true Repentance from the Popish Churches. Navarrus goeth further, (if I may credit P. D. Mou'in's (u) quot tion of him, I having not the Book by me,) for although he was the Popes Penitentiary, yet when he writ for Indulgences, he could not abstain from faying, The Grant of them is odious, because the Collectors seek not the good of Souls, but the Profit of Money, &c. In short, what wicked man is there that gives any credit to their Doctrine of Indulgences, but will gratifie his Lufts, that he may have the pleasures of both Worlds? For according to that Doctrine, There's none but Fools and Friendless can miss of Heaven. But enough, enough, and more than enough, of this mischievous Doctrine.

n Novelty of Popery, lib.y.c. 2. p.467.

Let's therefore in the last place, trye whether it is possible to make any good Use of so bad a Doctrine.

Use 1. Let them henceforth be ashamed of their absurd Reproaches of the Reformed Churches, as if they were not pure enough, or frill enough for them: What Doctrines have we, that the Devil himself can charge us with, like theirs of Indulgences? Those dayes are past with them, wherein twas harder for a * rich man to enter into the Kingdome of Heaven, than for a Camel to go through the eye of a Needle; for now those need never doubt of Salvation: 'tis for such dull Souls as x Pf. 49.6.7.8. We are, to harp upon fuch harsh strings as these; (x) They that trust in & Mat. 16. 26. their wealth, and boast themselves in the multitude of their riches; none of them can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ransome for him; for the redemption of their Soul is precious; and it ceaseth for ever, &c. And that other word of Christ, What is a man profited, if he (hal!

shall gain the whole World, and lofe his own Soul? or what shall a man vive in exchange for his Soul? We dare not answer these Scriptures with that Interpretation of Prov. 13.8. which he doth that gloffeth upon Gerson, in the forecited place. The ransom of a mans life are his riches: as if a man need do no more but purchase an Indulgence, and all is well. We like the Apostles counsel better, (y) Let every man prove his own y Gal. 6.4.5. work, and then shall be have rejoycing in himself, and not in another; and that for the very reason which the Apostle gives, For every man shall bear his own burden. We are neither to be proud of being better than others, nor trust to there Benefits with those that are better than use (z) The Wife Virgins had no Oyl to spare, when the Foolish had their z Mat. 25.8.9. Such honour may they meet with wherever they come,

Use 2. I'le no longer forbear acquainting you with that by way of Use, which you might well expect in the opening of the Doctrine, viz. To state, how far God may be faid to punish fin after he hath pardoned it. We deny not but those whose sins are pardoned, meet with many bitter Calamities in this world, but the question between the Papists and us is, Whether they are punishments of fin (e) properly so called; we grant they are e Dallem de materially Punishments, but not formally; i.e. the same things when suf-pank satisfaction fered by wicked men are punishments, but to them they are onely fatherly as sequ. chastisements, not judicial punishments; wholsom Medicines, not Penal Exe. spatim. cutions, e.g. A Malefactor hath his hand cut off for striking in a Court of Iudicature, that's properly a punishment; an innocent Person hath his hand cut off, because 'tis gangren'd, that's not a punishment but a kindness. Plainly, a punishment is properly to satisfie Revenging Justice, a Judge (as such) hath no respect to the Offenders repentance; but God alwayes (f) chasti-f Heb. 12. 102

Whether God in punishing his Children do it to satisfie his Justice with another satisfaction besides that he hath received by the death of his Son. The shortest and the plainest Answer to this Question, will be to clear up those Scriptures which they b 2 Sam. 12.14 press into their service. They urge David's case, (b) Because by this deed thou halt given great occasion to the enemies of the Lord to blaspheme, the child--- shall surely dye. We grant, that because of Davids sin, his Child dyed, but we deny 'twas properly a Punishment. Nathan makes a plain difference between the punishment due to David for the sin which is pardoned, (the Lord hath put away thy sin, thou shalt not die,) and the Discipline, whereby he would take off the scandal of wicked men; God as it were put off the person of a Judge, and assumed the person of a Father. Whereas they say, David prayed against it, and therefore 'twas a Punishment; the answer is easie: The sick man begs of his Physitian, that he may have no more naufeous physick, no more corroding Plaisters, &c., are his Medicines therefore punishments? God would cure David, and prevent others from taking encouragement to fin by his Example; to this end God makes use of dreadfull Physick, yet 'tis but physick. The like may be said

k Numb. 12.14 to Miriams case, who was struck with Leprosie, k God would have her to be ashamed, and repent of her molesting his Servants in the discharge of their duty. But there are other instances of pardoned persons, struck with Death for their Offences, of whom they jeeringly ask us, Did God frike them dead that they might mend their Lives? e.g. Moses and Aaron, to

I Numb, 20,21, whom God faid, Ye find not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Israel, because ye have rebelled against my Word, &c. I answer, their death was not properly a Punishment, but matter of Instruction to other Believers; There's a fingular Mystery in Moses his death, to teach, that the Law brings not into the Heavenly Canaan, that must be done by Christ: That of the O'd Prophet, to whom the very person that deceived him said from God, " Forasmuch as thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the Lord---- thy Carkafe (hall not come unto the Schulchre of thy Fathers; and > Threatning brought him to Repentance, and by his Death warns us to take heed how we swerve, though never so little, from his Command: There was his own Amendment to Salvation, and the Profit of the Church by so memorable a Monument of Gods severity. But what need I spend time in particular Instances, while the Scripture speaks of Believers in general, that Death is to them a Priviledge, not a Punishment? And Death it felf is * inventoryed among their Treasures, that whenever or however it seizeth upon them, 'twill be their Gain, † and matter of Triumph. + In

3. Thirdly,

3. Thirdly, let's bless God for being delivered from the devilish Delufions of that Religion. Religion did I call it? how do they forfeit the the very Name, while they industriously strive to make men Asheists, that they may make them Papifts? and what bait can be more alluring, than that they can afford them indulgence at so cheap a rate? Their Seraphical Doctor tells us of some "Indulgences granted to help to build some " Bonavent, in Church, or the like, those that gave a peny towards it, should be pardon- Sent. Venet. Edit. So that he may be discharged from the troublesom work of Repentance; this the Seraphical Doctor thinks to be false and ridiculous, and therefore he thus resolves the value of Indulgences: In respect of him that grants them, they are of as much value as he fayes they are; but in respect of him that receives them, they are of more or less value, according as he is disposed: So then, if they are fit for none, they are worth nothing. Angles † reckons up fix other Opinions, but all such as will rather torment than † Angles in satisfie an awakened Conscience. Oh! what a miserable plunge must that quartum I before. Soul be in, that trusting to Indulgences, commits Sin with greediness, and Indulgences, and Indulgences, and Indulgences, and Indulgences. never confidering till he comes to die, he findes too late, that the largest Indulgences are onely valuable according to the disposition of the Receiver, and so he that most needs them, shall have least benefit by them. Some of the very Popes themselves have been ashamed of these Cheats, and would have recalled them, but his Kindred opposed it, with the same Argument of Platina de vic. that Demetrius did Paul, P By this Crast we have our wealth. In short, B misac.9.p. 275. though they tell us, that Pope Gregory delivered Trajan out of Hell, yet P Ad. 19.25. we dare trust to none but Christ, to deliver us from the wrath to come, and we bless God that we have no other to trust to. We had rather now cry to God for Mercy, than too late cry out in our Misery, 9 Good God upon a Mar Ant. de what a frail Spiders Web doth hang the vast weight of Papal Omnipoten_ Don ibid.p.245. or! Now we feel with a vengeance the Pope is not infallible. But I'le close all with what may be more profitable, than fuch fruitless complaints.

4ly. In the last place therefore, I would seriously caution you against that Mock-Religion, which is little else than an Engine of carnal Interest. As you love your Souls, take heed of all finfull tendencies, of either Head, Heart or Life, towards those pernicious. Doctrines, of which this is one of the chief. I freely confess, I fee no cause of fear, (the Lord keep us from all confidence in any strength of our own.) that ever that Religion shall reign in the Consciences of those that have been once delivered from it; but 'tis an case matter to perswade those that are of no Religion, to be of that Religion. How many are there that walk in darkness in this Noon-day light? and 'tis an easie process from Ignorance to Errour, and to be devout too in that Religion where Ignorance is the Mother of it. How many are there, that will rather part with Heaven than with their Lusts? an easie temptation must needs proselyte them to that Religion that promiletha miseth infallibly to secure both. In short, Indulgences are the softest Arguments for delicate finners, and the Inquisition the most cogent Argument for the refractory: To prevent therefore the Charms of the one, and to establish against the knocking Argument of the other, I shall only commend these two things to you.

First, Do not make light of Sin, and you can never be a Friend to Indulgences; + Augustine speaks like himself, when he saith, 'Tis most difficult to find out, and most dangerous to define what fins they are for which we may have Indulgence by the Merits of the Saints our Friends; he professeth, He could not by his search come to the knowledge of them; and the Lesson he would learn and teach from it, was this, To avoyd all sin, and not at all to trust to the Merits of others. We may cry out concerning this Doctrine, Without controversie great is the Mystery of Ungodliness! I grant there is a great controversie betwen them and us about it, but yet when I consider, that I do not find two of them of a mind, but that they every one charge one another with something faulty in their particular Sentiments about them; and their darling Council, before they made the Decree about them, r censured all the Money-gatherers upon them, to be Incorrigible, and that they had no hopes of their amendment; I need not fear to fay, Without controversie great is the Mystery of Ungodliness. There are But two Sacraments under the New Testament.

Mathew Sylvester

Prov. 30. 6.

Adde thou not unto his words, lest he reprove thee: and thou be found a lyar.

HE independency of Proverbs informs us, that we may spare the labour of reflections upon the Context; seeing every Proverb is big with its own sence, and fully comprehends its own design and reach.

The words now read unto you as the Ground and Measure of this Morning Exercise, are weighty as to their Charge and Arguments.

1. The Charge is here imperative, born of Authority, and brought into the fight, to bound the daring Usurpations of aspiring fools. The throne of God ought not to be invaded by the Sons of men; nor must-a Peerage in his Empire be usurped or claimed by distant mortals, whose policy and fafety 'tis to be Auditors and Scholars, and not Dictators in the matters of Gods Kingdom. The best man is only Surausos 78 and ลังสม, and อุบัตย 88 มอร, as Aristotle speaks, and therefore (as he faid, Bex รอง vivoue Da mpos rès deès Badicoles. Plutarch wei Sundain. So mgos for deor Badilar Billisos in respect to God, whose absolute Property, and unlimited Prerogative by any thing but the bleffed harmony of his own infinite Perfections, together with his own Omnipotence, Omniscience, Holiness, and Allsufficiency, being both matchless and incommunicable, do speak him so fitly and undoubtedly our Owner, Governour and Father, as that observance and obsequiousness must unavoidably more become us than bold pretences to his Throne and Scepter. Gods words are like himself, such glorious Emanations of his own Majesty and Excellence, as will neither fuit nor bear the mean additions of aspiring Man. Aaaa

All men are Subjects, and must act by their derived Authority and Commission. Gods words are like the Sun moving in a distinct and proper Sphere, and scorning the accessions of our more dim and languid Lamps. All that put in their claims for Legislation in Church or State, are under Law for what they impose and speak, and are to be presented to the Barre of God, in answer to this universal summon, viz. Give an account of thy Stewardship, for thou wast but a Steward, and must be no longer so. Adde thou not therefore to his words, lest he reprove thee.

Quere 1. What are those additions that are not forbidden to us here? Is every thing a sinfull Addition that is not found expressely in the Words of God?

1. Words that explain the sence, and sorce, and usefulness of God's words, are not forbidden here, Nth. 8.8. Letters, syllables and words, are not the mind of God, farther than their signification reaches. Words are the vehicles of sence; the Indices of the heart. Till they are known and opened, we are but Barbarians unto others, 1 Cor. 14. 11. There is no Commandment transgress'd by a true Explication of those words, whereby God signifies his mind. And to acquaint men with the proofs and characters, whereby it may be manifest, that this is God's mind, is none of those additions which God forbids to make unto his words.

2. Express determinations of times and places in particular, for the discharge of such incumbent duties, as must be done in general, and cannot be discharged in particular, without the fixing of time and place. How can Assemblies meet together, or publick Worship be discharged, till a particular time and place be both stated and known?

3. Pertinent and distinct Applications of general Rules unto particular Cases, and consequently such express Reasons and Arguments, as shall prove them pertinent and improveable, as to the case in hand. Fastings and Feastings, Prayers and Praises, Almes, Forbearance, Silence and Speaking, are in the general attended with Lawes imposed upon all; but quod hie on nunc, the cases and circumstances of emergent Providences must state and six the Case, and shew the Duty in its Seaton.

4. The Modes of Worship may vary in their frame and use, and may be under circumstances order'd so to doe; and yet the Precept of my Text observed. I may be bound to preach, or praise, or pray; but yet the subject, length or method, and the peculiar words and phrases may be variously determined by present choyce and order.

5. The use of natural or accessory Helps, no wayes destructive, but subservient to our stated work, may be determined to be used, and yet this Law remain inviolated. I may use or forbear my Notes, use all those helps that are at hand, and find out words acceptable.

6. Whatever may commodiously preserve, promote and quicken due Purity, Truth and Order, and is no wayes inconsistent with Gods Laws, and and the true interest, ends, credit and harmony of Christian Godliness, in all its Exercises, comes not within the censure of my Text.

What is it that we must not adde unto these words of God? I answer, Quere 2, these things.

r. Nothing as God's which is not His: As Articles of Faith, new points of Doctrine, Promises, Threatnings, Prophecies, Revelations, Traditions or Miracles, pretended to be of God, that are not so, either as to God's Errand or Operation.

2. Nothing to vye with God's revealed Truths or Lawes, as to Authority or importance. For this is to usurp the Throne of God, and claim a Peerage with absolute Supremacy.

3. Nothing that favours of fuch additional Supplements, as feem to argue God of Ignorance, Imprudence or Negligence. For this is to turn Accusers or Upbraiders of the Holy One, as guilty of defects, miscarriages and mistakes.

4. Nothing that does destroy the End, or contradicts the Errand, or tends to weaken the awfull and successefull Insluences of the Words of God. For this referres to nothing but disappointment and disturbance of the noble Ends and proper Course of Lawes and Government.

5. Nothing that builds what God destroyes, or ruines what God destigns expressely and resolves to build. The wise and righteous Governour of the World is most impatient of such contradictions. When God takes down a Ceremonial frame of Worship, to clear his way to better dispensations; then to cloud his Heavens with Pompous Institutions, is to disturb and vex the Eyes of spiritual Worshippers, even with the dust and rubbish of what was taken down and thrown aside. Thus also the Commands of God must not be render'd void, through Mens Traditions, Mat. 15. 2--9.

6. Nothing that makes a wrong Construction of God's words. Fasse Glosses, and corrupt Interpretations of the Truths of God, are vain and bold Additions. Can we imagine that those words can signific God's mind, which have no sence in them nor stated import, before the Pope and Councels have set their stamp and seal upon them? Are they bound to construe right, or are they at persect liberty to make the same Expression true and false at pleasure?

7. In one word: Nothing that supersedes, or is co-ordinate with, or derogatory to God's words, in Doctrine, Government and Worship; or prejudicial, burthensome, or unprofitable unto the purity, peace, and order, Edification or needfull Harmony and consolation of Souls and Churches, strong or weak.

What are those Reasons that are produced in my Text as Disswasive Quere 3. from these Additions?

1. The Case must be debated; the word used in the Text comes A 2 a 2 2 from from 72' that fignifies to dispute the Case, and debate the matter by Argument. God pondereth all the wayes of man. All claims shall be enquired into. Bold Usurpations and Aspirings must be reflected on with a Quo jure hoc feciftis. God will never prodigally diffuse his own Prerogative. Others must act by deputation and deriv'd Authority; and both their Commissions and Discharge must be produced and canvased in open Court. He that will bring every thing into open Court, will not forocar enquiries after those that so audaciously usurp his Crown and Scepter, and storm his Throne. Therefore we must carry as within the Prospect of that great Tribunal, where our precarious Allegations must abide the test.

2. The Guilty will then be exposed in open Court. God will be Conquerour in Judgement, and it will appear a Crime unanswerable, to have the Broad Seal counterfeited. Wo to all the bold pretenders to the infallible Chair, whose Claims are larger than their Right and Warrant. If Aaron and Miriam found it so costly to challenge Moses or a Peerage with him, what will become of those who will not fuffer God to abide Greatest and undisturbed in the Throne; when Majesty appears to vindicate Supream Authority from all those bold invasions which the usurping Tyrant of Gods Church hath made? It's vigorous lustre will make his bold pretences like a thin Exhalation, to melt away and vanish. Supremacy is a tender thing, and to build Stubble, Wood and Hay upon the best Foundation, will be found no mans Gain. What's the Chasse to the Wheat? The Word of God is tryed, and may be trusted to; but he that leans upon the Reeds of Egypt, will make his confident Recumbencies at least affuredly preparatory unto his most shamefull Fall. He that's found a Lyar at the Barre of God, cannot escape the smartest cenfures, and most severe reflections that ever yet astonished and amazed Delinquents. God will not patronize the lyes and forgeries of any fwelling or aspiring bubbles. Creatures must know their distance and the Truth. 'Tis here our Reputation is the most tendered thing; and he that is found a Lyar here, as speaking from God, that which is not of him, and that as for God, which really is against him, must then expect a very round discharge from God. Hence then let us take occasion to enquire, Quere 4.

Whether Baptisme and the Lords Supper be the only Sacraments of the Covenant of Grace under the New Testament?

I. We shall pass over now the Consideration of those words in Greek and Hebrew which Bellarmine layes fo great a weight upon, as מלואים, בות and אות, and אות, a sign, Gen. 17.11. rendered by onusor, openis, Rom. 4. 11. avrirumor, I Pet. 3. 21. voods Jua, Heb. 8.5. 9.23. uushew, · Latine mysterium quod alind existit, alind significat, from whence it is also called σύμβολον. All which words being of larger or more restrained fignification, may be applyed to more or fewer things at pleasure. 2. Nor

2. Nor need we dwell upon the Covenant of Grace, seeing it is agreed on all hands to be a Contract betwixt God and Man, through the Mediation of Jesus Christ, for the Return and Reconcilement of sinners to God; and so their Justification, Adoption, Sanctification and Glorisication. And by our speaking of the Sacraments of this Covenant, we prescind the thoughts of Sacraments in Innocence. And as in our Gospeltimes, this Covenant is published in its last and best Edition and Impression, and hath been sealed and ratisfied with the blood of sprinkling, and as the Testament of our dying Friend, exhibited to the World by the Lord himself, and those commissionated by him, Hebr. 2. 3, 4. And held forth plainly, powerfully and successfully, without the vail and burthens of its former Dispensations under the Legal Occonomy: So are we to consider here what Saraments and Seals are annexed to and fixt upon it, waving all former Sacraments as to their Frame or Number.

3. Therefore the Term Sacraments well opened and applyed, must clear and end the Controversie in this Article. And here we must premise, that the term is unscriptural, not written in it, but derived elsewhere. And so we must enquire after such things as these. I. How many things in Authors are signified by the Term. 2. How far it may be applicable to more than these affigned in the Question, and so how far the Controversie lies more in words than things. 3. Wherein it is only applicable to these two. 4. What are the Arguments and Reasons of the Papitls, whereby they prove the number of them to be seven; and so give them their Answer. 5. Why the Protestants affert but two. Which when they are well dispatched, may better shew the truth and measures of the Case in hand before us.

First; As to the various u f e and acceptation of the word; I find the word : Sucrament used in these several sences.

- 1. It's taken for that Pledge, Pawn or pignus which they that fought did leave in the hands of their cheif Priest during their fight, when the fight was ended, the Conquerour took his own, and the other, in panam injusta litigationis, lost his, and it was devoted to the Treasury. Varro. Lib. 4. de Ling. Lat. And this Pledge was called a Sacrament.
- 2. It's taken for that Oath quo quis sacris interpositis obligatur. And this Oath or Obligation was Sacramentum, in that it was obligatio Numinis & Religionis interventu confirmata; and hence, Sacramentum militare, for such as were listed by Oath, and bound to continue till the War was done. So Veget lib. 2. de re militari. Thus also Jerom calls the Oath of Hippocrates upon his Disciples Sacramentum, Tom. 1. Epist. ad Nepot. de vit. Cleric. & Sacerdot. and Juvenal in his Sat. 15. calls the very milites, Sacramento rogatos, Sacraments themselves.

Pramia nunc alia atg; emolumenta notemus.

likar.

3. Hence probably it is, that our Votum Baptismale was called Sacraa ferom. Tom. mentum: (a) As Recordare tyrocinii tui diem, quo Christo in Baptismate

1. Epist. 1. ad consepultus in Sacramenti verba jurasti. Heliodor. de

4. Sometimes it is taken for no more than a meer arcanum or Secret. Thus the Sacrament of Incarnation, and often in this fence have you Sacramentum in the Vulg. Latin. Dan. 2. 18, 30. 4.6. Eph. 1.9. 3.5. Col. 1.27. I Tim. 3.16. Thus any thing of occult and facred fignification, as Parables, Types, in things or Persons, &c. they may be called Sacraments, as Jerom ubi suprà. And then our Number may exceed a Septenary.

5. Sometimes it is taken for the Sign, the thing fignified, and the Action, inward and outward, and the word it felf, whereby God commands the Signum propter rem signatam.

6. Sometimes it is taken for any facra rei signum. And thus there may be as many Sacraments, as there can be Signs of holy matters by words or things.

7. Most to our purpose it imports our Dedication of our selves to God, by Vow, express'd by solemn Ceremony, signifying a mutual Covenant betwixt God and us, and his reception of us.

Secondly, As to it's Application to the Case in hand. Let us enquire, How far it may be accommodated to more than two; and then, How far only to these two, Baptisme, and the Lords Supper. Which take as followes.

1. If it be true what Bellarmine afferts, that it suffices as to the Nature of a Sacrament, that it is a fensible Sign, let the fense be what it will; then I confess, there are more Sacraments than two; for every Word and Thing may be a Sacrament, that may be feen, or felt, or heard, or tasted. Then can neither of these two be a single Sacrament, but each hath many Sacraments in one. Then Penance, Matrimony, Orders, Confirmation, &c. are truely Sacraments. Then Books and Sermons will be Sacraments. Yea, our very Words and Actions in all our joynt Approaches unto God, will mutually be Sacraments from each to other: . But did not all the Sacraments of the Old Testament confist of visible Signs? Is there no difference betwixt the Preached Word and Sacraments as such? Did Christ administer the Sacrament to all he preach'd or spake unto? How is it that St. Austin makes the Word and Elements to constitute a Sacrament? And do not Sacraments require a Consecration? If not, what makes the Elements a Sacrament? If they doe, then what must consecrate the words of Consecration? and so in infinitum. And lastly, Did the Councel of Florence determine aright or not, when in their Definition of a Sacrament they did distinguish the Matter and Form each from other? If they did, Then a fensible Sign barely as such is not a Sacrament: For if it were, then could it not derive its Sacramental Use and Nature from Christs Institution: For, its own aptitude, if men had pleased to use it, and determine it, had been sufficiently productive of its Sacramental Use and Nature: If they did not, what confidence can we put in Councils that have mistaken in such weighty Cases? The truth is, at this rate of speech they have secured their seven, and made sufficient room for twenty thousand more.

2. If Sacrament only import a Secret, then Babylon it felf becomes a Sacrament. Then Types and Parables, and all the Intrigues of Church and State are Sacraments, and so whatever needs Interpretation.

3. If by a Sacrament they mean the shadowing forth by signs of any thing of a sacred Nature, then there are more than seven. Then all the Furniture of the Tabernacle and Temple, and all the instituted Rites of Moses must have been Sacraments, and pariratione all Gospel-Ordinances, Institutions and Transactions.

4. If by a Sacrament they mean all dedicating Signs, then there may be more than two. All Signs of Dedications unto Office and Relations, as well as all intire Christianity, may be called fo. Thus if I lift my Hands or Eyes to God, or folemnly subscribe an Instrument whereby I give my self to God in any service, I make a Sacrament and receive it.

5. If by a Sacrament they mean, the Signification of a Vow or Promise in any kind to God: Thus Orders, Confirmation, & c. may be called Sacraments, and the signification of every thing I undertake for God, as Master, Servant, Subjects or Soveraign, may be called so; nor shall we say there are no more than two.

6. If by a Sacrament they mean fomething of Divine Institution, as expressive of some sacrament than two. Thus Matrimony, Orders, Confirmation, Penance, and extreme Unction too, as stated and intended under those circumstances in Jam. 5. are Sacraments.

7. If by a Sacrament they mean fomething in fome respects of the same nature, use and ends, with Baptisme and the Supper of the Lord, It shall grant there are more Sacraments than two. All Offices and Relations bind to respective Faithfulness. Confirmation is the fresh owning of the same Obligations which Baptisme laid upon us. I am called to regular Penance by both these Sacraments. I may remember Christ by reading, speaking, &c. I may signific my owning of my Covenant, and may renew it by Fasting, Praying, and Professing many wayes.

8. If by a Sacrament be meant some significations of the Grace of Godto me, both Relative and Real, so there may be more Sacraments than two. Thus every Ordinance, Providence, and thing, expressive of Gods Grace to me, may bear the Name of Sacrament. All helps, encouragements and advantages for Heaven and Holiness, do clearly signific Gods Care and Kindness to me. Thus the Apostles Ministry may be a Sacrament, as a clear indication of Gods kindness to him.

9. There are some Sacraments of Order that may be truely such, as. Holy Orders, Matrimony; and of Office, Civil, Oeconomical and Eccle-staffical, whose root may be the Covenant of Grace. But Sacraments of Christianity import something more.

Thirdly,

Thirdly, As to its more restrained and intended use, a Sacrament is a stated Ceremony ordained by Christ, made up of visible Signs; whereby our hearty dedication, and full consent to all the terms and tenders of the Covenant of Grace, and Gods acceptance of us thereunto, is signified, solemnized and ratisfied by God and us, according to the Propositions and Injunctions of the New Testament. Which when it is proved, will make it manifest, that either their afferting of Seven is a most shamefull and abusive noise, both of provoking and dividing Words, or else of deep and dangerous mistake in Things, and too weak to bear their Tridentine Anathema. Now if we view the whole description in its parts, we must consider these things, to state and clear the Case in hand.

1. Whether the whole was not intended in the first use and accommodation of the word Sacrament, to the concerns of Christianity?

2. Whether all this be not included in Baptisme and the Eucharist?

3. Whether it can be possibly included in any of the five Sacraments beside?

1. Therefore, as to the first Use and Application of it, to the Case in hand, 'tis clear it was thus used by Tertullian, and by him applyed to Baptism: For speaking ad Martyres, about their solemn Abrenunciation which was made in Baptism, and about other Interrogations proposed at the same time; Vocatis (saith he) ad militiam in Sacramenti verba respondimus, &c. And thence (saith he) did the whole action receive its Name. And so adversus Praxeam, Fides in Patrem, Filium & Spiritum fanttum secundum Christianorum Sacramentum, &c. Which must at least oblige us to, and influence all suitableness of spirit and practice to the facred Trinity, according to their several gives and Relations to us, according to Rom. 6. 3. --- 6. And on the same account the Greeks called our two Sacraments Mysteria, and the Church generally understood the word in this sence, in opposition to the Heathens initiation of their Disciples into their Idolatrous Religions; and thus the Ancients write of only two Sacraments, as Tertullian, Justin, Irenaus, &c. Though Tertullian mention indeed Unction, and Imposition of hands, de Resur. Carn. yet doth he not relate them as distinct, but as appendent Ceremonies to Baptism. Thus also Cyril of Ferusalem intends the same of Chrisme. The time would fail, to speak of Dionysius, Ambrose, &c. And it is manifest, that the Doctrines of the seven Sacraments were not started, till broached by Hugo and Peter Lombard, from whom the Papists at first suck'd it, and terribly have they improved it, to bring about their most mischievous Ends.

2. As to the second, that this description doth suit the Eucharist and Baptism, is no dispute. Whence Bellarmine himself reslecting upon Chemnitius, who afferted eight things as constitutive of a Sacrament, in that sence that Baptism and the Eucharist are such: As, I. A visible material Element or Sign. 2. A Divine Institution of it. 3. And that Command in the New Testament, and instituted there. 4. And this to the End of the World. 5. Attended with a Promise of Grace. 6. And

this annexed to the Sacramental Sign, and cloathed therewith even by divine Ordination. 7. And this Promise comprehending all the benefits of our Redemption in close and full Relation to eternal Life. 8. And all this signed, sealed, offered and applyed virtue Dei, to all that entertain these Sacraments by Faith. Hence Bellarmine instead of denying the truth and full Propriety of this Application, attempts to prove them applicable unto Penance, and thence would argue it to be a Sacrament.

3. As to the third, whether the other five can be as truely and fully called Sacraments with equal correspondence to these eight particulars, this must be tryed by an equal ballance, and true examination of all particularly: And therefore the five Sacraments which must be brought unto the test, are these. 1. Confirmation. 2. Extrens Unstitudents. 3. Matrimony. 4. Orders. 5. Penance, which is transferred unto the last, to introduce the residue of my Work.

1. As to Confirmation. What Elements are made the visible and proper signs? By what Institution is it ordained? and by what Promise of Grace, with respect to Pardon and Eternal Glory, is it encouraged and annexed? Or wherein will they fix its common and adequate relation and proportion to the two great Sacraments? What is their Confirmation (by Chrisme on Insants) for the receiving of the Holy Ghost, but an audacious Apish imitation of miraculous Operations by the Apostles hands? Nor can their equivocal juggles about the Promise of the Spirit relieve them in the Case, if the gift thereof as sanctifying and comforting, of equal necessity and extent to all times and Christians, be distinguished from its miraculous and extraordinary Operations and Dispensings, which was to be appropriated to that sealing Age, both as to Christians, and extraordinary Officers and Circumstances.

2. As to Extreme Unction, grounded upon Mar. 8. Jam. 5. when they can prove that these things are to be referred to ordinary and perpetual Ceremonies in the Church throughout all Ages, and not to the extraordinary circumstances and Ceremonies of a Sealing day, wherein 'tis necessary that the Gospel be sealed and proved by Miracles at its first introduction into the world, they are more like to win the day, and prove their Unction Sacramental. But do not their own Waldensis, Alphonfus è Castro, and famous Estius himself conclude, that James and Mark speak of Miraculous Cures? Were not the parties to be anounted, stricken and held with great Diseases, partly contracted and deserved by grievous Provocations, and partly inflicted to illustrate that miraculous Power which was then on foot. What though there be somewhat of analogy betwixt bodily diseases, and sin it self, yet certainly Oyl had been more proper to the vitium than the reatus of their fins: An analogy is requisite in a Sacrament, and the Promise 7am. 5. is of Remission, and Oyl that may have some Analogy to wounds, bears little or none to spots, or guilt of punishment.

3. As to Matrimony, who made it a Sacrament under the New Testament? Or what is there in the Ordinance to make it answerable to the thing? and if it be a Sacrament, yet 'tis but œconomical, and it is no more divine than as it is an instituted Relative state by God; and so is the Covenant betwixt Masters and Servants: And thus the Inauguration of a King may be a Civil Sacrament. But a Sacrament of the Covenant of Grace is made compatible to all Believers: But this is not so, but the Priest must be barred from this Sacrament, lest it impair his Purity. But they alleadge, it is called a Mystery, Eph. 5. 31. and have not the Woman and the Beast the same Name? Rev. 17. 1. yea, doth not Cajetan affirm this place no argument that Matrimony is a Sacrament? Aware 'tis like he was of that which followes closely in the Text, viz. I speak of Christ, &c. What trifling subtleties do they (the Papists) use to amuse the World, as if they did design to be more studious to walk in darkness, than to prevent or heal the wounds and breaches of the Church.

4. As to Orders. Though this may be a Sacrament of Order, and truely so, yet is not that commensurate with a Sacrament of Christianity. All are not Ministers that may be posses'd of present Grace, and have a title to Remission of sins and everlasting Glory. And it seems something odde, that one Sacrament of the same Covenant, should make men uncapable of another. As also that two different Sacraments inconsistent on the one hand, should have the same sign. And it is yet more strange, that this should be equal to Baptism and the Eucharist, and yet should want a visible Element for its sign.

5. And as for Penance, (as far as God requires it, and states its use and nature) doth not Baptism relate and bind us to it? Is it not Baptism of Repentance for the Remission of sins? What is the external Right? And where is the accession of the Word unto the Sign whereby it must be made a Sacrament? What is there in this Penance commensurate with Baptism.

Fourthly, As to their many Reasons amongst the Schoolmen for their Septenary number, let them name any thing substantial, that is not reducible to these two Sacraments. Their septenary number of different Conditions, or Vertues, or Distempers; these two Sacraments will comprehend them all: for they contain what is fully suitable to every state, urges to every vertue, and tends to cure our spiritual distempers; and what need we Seven of theirs, when Christ hath instituted Two to do the work? But let us consider what they say. We will insist upon the Reasons therefore, whereon they would establish the Septenary number of their Sacraments, and answer them.

1. They tell us, that the Number feven is famous, and of frequent use and strict importance in the Scriptures; as Aarons Garments put on by his Sons seven dayes, the Attonement for the Altar seven dayes, Blood sprinkled seven times, Naaman washing seven times: Thus tis a number samous in Expiations, and otherwise; hence now Eliphaz must take feven Bullocks, and feven Rams, and go to Job, ch. 42. v. 8. Seven Gifts of the Spirit, and thus seven of the Apocalyptical Seals, Trumpets, * Since the Starres, &c. To which I answer. 'Tis wonderfull, they took no to no writing of this tice of this too, that the number of feven commenced from the com. Head I have pleat finishing of Nature as to its Order and Existence, and Gods resting Papills insist from his Labours; all which was done within a Septenary of dayes, ma- on this very king the first week as it was in the beginning.

2. Were this digested into an Argument, thus it would run: Whatever Number is of famous use and mention in the Scripture, must be the Number of Sacraments, under the New Testament, of the Covenant of Grace. But seven is such a Number, &c. Ergo ____ 'Tis the Number of Sacraments, and confequently, there are feven. And what if the major Proposition be denyed, will they not be forely exercised to prove it? what if we charge the Number in the Minor, and fay, that One is the Number of famous use and frequent mention, will it not then be found, that whatfoever answers this Medium for One, will do their work for feven? I mean to answer it. How many Ones are used and mentioned Eph. 4. 4, 6? One God, Christ, Faith, Baptism, Church, Spirit, Hope, Heaven, &c. What do they think of two Lights or Luminaries, two Tables of the Law, two Cherubims, two Covenants, two Commandements? What do they think of Twelve Patriarchs, twelve Tribes, twelve Apostles, twelve thousand sealed, twelve Gates, etc.? Are these therefore Twelve Sacraments? and so of other Numbers. Now if this Argument be followed close, they must be brought to this, That either this is no Argument for their Number of Sacraments, or that their Number must rise and fall according to what Number we shall pitch upon, and so there may be one, or two, or seven, or twelve Sacraments, &c. and fo in what fence, and why fo many and no more. And further, thus the Reason would press as hard for seven Sacraments under the Law as Gospel: and as to Expiations and Consecration, do not two Rams, two Goats, two Turtle-doves, or two young Pidgeons, bid as fair for only two Sacraments, as feven of other things can bid for feven Sacraments? And thus much for this Argument fetcht from the congruence or apt agreement of Numbers.

2ly, Let us take notice of those Arguments which Aquinas brings for the proof of seven Sacraments. Part. 3. Quest. 65. Art. 1.

1. The Analogy or Proportion betwixt Natural and Spiritual Life. And here 'tis worth enquiry, whether all they fay be not intended in these two. I. For the Effe per generationem: This is defignedly in our Baptism, which is the Laver of Regeneration, considered relatively, as we are baptized into new Relations, to which our cordial acceptance in capable subjects (I mean the adult) is absolutely necessary before God; and a Profession thereof (probably serious) before the Church. And whether this be Grace or no, let it be considered for the doubting under its proper head. And as for those that talk of inward, real, subjective Bbbb 2 Grace, Grace, by the Application of the outward Elements, and that this Grace is in the Elements, they must affert this to be wrought at the rate of a Miracle; which, when 'tis proved to be wrought by proper, necessary, instituted Resultancy from the Sacraments, shall be affented to. And I believe they will find it hard to prove subjective Grace wrought by the Sacraments themselves, otherwise than by moral objective Influence. And whatever else is wrought, is done by some distinct Operations of the Spirit, even as 'tis done when the Word of God is made to work effectually. And as for the rest, the same answer will serve them all. As Increase in Confirmation, Nourishment in the Eucharit, medicinal reparations of the lapfed by Penance, removal of the reliques of Difeases. by Exercise and Diet, to which they make Extreme Unction to be analogous; Orders in relation to publick Exercise, to compleat vital Perfection; and Matrimony for the propagation of an holy feed. For these I would fain know, whether the two Sacraments which we plead for and they own, do not referre to all these things, in that they bind us to, and in their kind help us in all that is pretended as defigned by the other five? And as for Confirmation, doth it bind us to, or feal to us any thing new, diffinct materially from Baptism? Or is it not rather (orderly dispensed) the renewal of the Baptismal Covenant.

2. As for what is alleadged by way of remedy, against distempers, or in relation to those distinct Graces and Vertues wherein we are concerned. Both are confidered, and abundant Provisions against the one, and for the other, are made in these two Sacraments, so far as they are proper to Christianity as such. And so speak all Christians as such, to be concerned in them. And if any thing falls out to some that is not incident to all, 'tis fit that it be referred to its proper head, in Order, or Prudence, or the like. And if they will contend about the name of Sacrament, let them have it, provided that in things they will distinguish (and let us understand they do so) betwixt what is a Sacrament of Order, and what is a Sacrament of entire Christianity. And that they will explain their own Tridentine words, Caranz. Epit. Cone.in Conc. Trid. Seff. 7. cap. 3. de Sacram. in gener. See Rainolds against Hart, in his Confer. chap. 8.

And having now dispatch d the point of the seven Sacraments (about which I could have spoken more, but that I care not for those Controverfies that are made so intricate by a resolved espousing of words and phrases, whose sence is arbitrary and undetermined) amongst which, Penance was transferred unto the last, it will not be amiss to make some short reflections upon the Popish Doctrines of Humane Satisfactions. which they make a branch of Penance, and with Contrition and Confession to be constitutive of it.

The Councel of Trent afferts it false and alien from the Word of God, Self 14. Cap. 8, to fay, That the fault is never remitted by God, but the whole Punish-9. Rom. Carech. ment is pardoned too. And so the Trent Doctors striking harmony with . the the Roman Catechism affert, That when God forgives a Sinner, he yet forgives not all the Punishment, but leaves the party by his own works [cannot now freak to this to satisfie till it be wash daway; and these works are all good Actions head or part of inward or outward, proceeding from Vertue, as Confessions, Almes, Fast-factions largely, ings, Prayers, Sufferings in this Life, or in Purgatory: and the things but I shall conthat we satisfie God for by our good works, are 1. Temporal Punish-tent with ments. 2. The Reliques of sin. 3. The fault it self. 4. The same Pu-some brief nishment wherewith the Damned are afflicted, Eternity only being ab-flections therestracted from them. And here we must consider, 1. How they diftin-upon. For this quilb, 2. What they conclude, and so how far they come to us, and sim & membrawherein we part.

First, For the Distinctions; they are upon three Heads principally.

(1.) They diffinguish upon Sin: and they tell us, that it is considered this Exercise, here, as 1. Either before Baptisin; or 2. After Baptisin. 1. That before Baptism is either Original or Actual: and 2. That after Baptism is considerable either in (1) Relation to its Object most immediately concerned, which is either 1. God, or 2. Man; (though in the general notion every fin against Man is against God too, whose Lawes are broken by our Irregularities as to our felves, or one another;) and then as in relation to its (2) Quality or Aggravation, 'tis either venial or mortal: And here you must consider, 1. The Fault, 2. The Stain, and then 3. The Punishment; which we transferre to be considered as the next Head of Dilinctions: where we shall consider it; and to the other part, 'tis thus

1. Sin is considerable in the general Notion as a transgression of the Law of God. Now the Law is transgress'd in reference to either our Hearts or Actions. Sin in the Heart is considerable as to (1) Its Derivation into the Heart or Nature of Man, by Original transinission to all the children of apostate Adam: Or, (2) its Interest and in-dwellings in the Heart, and corrupting prevalent influences upon it. And so here we must diffinguish betwixt, 1. What God doth as an offended righteous Ruler in a course of Punishment, making severe and just reflections upon our Nature because of the violation of the Law of our Creation: And, 2. What is done by Man as under the circumstance of his Primitive Forfeiture and Disease, which our Parents first miscarriage brought into the world. And then we fay, (1) God justly might and did withdraw that Spirit of Holiness from Adam which he by finning thrust away, and left him in that ataxy and disorder which man so willingly threw himself into, so as that he had no Holiness and Rectitude to transmitt to his Posterity. And, (2) Apostate, and thereupon corrupted Adam could not communicate a better Nature to Polterity than he had himself. Nor, (3) Was God bound in Governing Justice to fet his Seed under fuch comfortable Circumstances as he did set himself: And (4) the rather because the Miseries of all his Seed was part of the Punishment which was due tohim; even as their Holine's and Felicity ought to have been a powerfullmatter is divitim more closely and fully handled by others in motive, and should have been a sure reward to his Obedience, and continuance in his due Integrity. Now 2ly, As to its in-dwellings and interest in the heart, and dreadfull Influences upon it, they still abide in fome measure, and are owned and acknowledged in our Baptismal Covenant, wherein we do accept of the Spirit as our Sanctifier, which he could not be unless we were defiled, and acknowledged our felves to be so. Nor can we any more conclude the perfection of the Sanctification of our Natures, by our being baptized into the Holy Ghost, than we can conclude our perfect Glorification and Salvation by being baptized into the Eather and the Son; all being to be wrought and perfected in a way of gradual motions, proficiently, answerably to those healing Rules and Remedies that are before and with us, to be observed and improved by us. And as to finfull actions, they are the products of our finfull hearts; and we promise to prevent them (as much as in us lies) for time to come, even as we do profess and exercise Repentance for what is past and gone. And here our Covenant-closures, and answerable Conversations afterwards, are no further satisfactory unto God, than as they answer his commanding will, as our Obedience to him, and as the performed Conditions of our Salvation which God hath made fuch.

2. Sin in relation to its Object, is either against God or Man; confifting either in doing what we ought not, or not doing what we ought, and as we ought to doe, with reference to all those circumstances and relations in which and under which we stand as to God and Man, either our felves or others; and on both these we should or do reflect with an answerable frame of spirit thereunto, as far as our miscarriages have been and are known to have been committed against God or Man, or both. And here [by God,] I mean the facred Trinity, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost: and thus our fins before and after Baptism are the same as to their formal Nature, (viz. they are transgressions of the Law of God whenever they are committed) although by some accessary circumstances they may differ in degree: And thus 'tis true, that to break the Laws of God after the solemn Vow of Baptism to the contrary, is worse than to do it before, and may require some smarter Discipline and Repentance, in that the Obligation of a Vow that is made (and fuch a folemn Vow is Baptism) doth greatly aggravate the sin; and hence, 'tis likely, did arife that primitive Penance imposed upon Professors lapsed after Baptism into Heathenism, or other scandalous miscarriages, in order to their own Recovery and Establishment, the satisfaction of the Church about the usefull truth of their Repentance, with reference to their restauration; the vindication of the Purity of Christianity, against the Calumnies of others; and the prevention of the Revolts of others; and fo the quickning of all to regular Care and Watchfulness about their perfeverance and proficiency in Christian Growth and Godliness; that fo thereby it might be manifest in the eyes of all about them, how much the Rules and Discipline of Christianity did secure, promote and quicken

3. Sin in relation to the strength and measures of its Malignity, and as it referres to the Quality of our state, is either consistent or inconfiftent with the state of faving Grace. And here it is not so much to be confidered what is lawfull or unlawfull, as what is possible or impossible to be in a truely Regenerate Heart. 'Tis possible, a good Heart may not do every thing that is required of him, and yet it is unlawfull to let the least thing be by him neglected. I have yet met with none that dare declare and stand to it, That there hath never been the least remisness or neglect that by their utmost possible care could be prevented, fince they were first converted unto God; but all, in everything they do with God, and for God, dread to be dealt with according to their best performances in exact proportion to their merit. We do depend upon Christs Merits. and Intercession, and use his Name to beg our pardon for Irregularities. even in our holiest performances; and certainly the serious Heart will dread to complement with its God. And therefore when the Papists talk of venial and mortal fins, and tell us that Mortal fins can have no fatisfaction but from Christ, but Venial sins may be satisfied for by our selves; let them but freely tell us what they mean. I. Is any fin so venial as that it cannot merit the Wrath of God hereafter, by any Law which he hath made? Is not the transgression of Gods Law the formal Nature of fin? doth not that very Law pronounce every delinquent worthy of Death? is not Death the indication and execution of divine displeasure? Is not Death comprehensive of all Miseries, as it was stated in the sanction of the first Law? Are not fins dignified from their Object? a gentle stroke when given in Anger, though in its nature it be but little, yet if given to a Prince, receives another stamp and character; and as to God, if the matter be great, there is no dispute but the sin is great, as Blasphemy, &c. if it be small, the sin is great, because the great God is denyed his will; although his claims were mean and easie as to the matter of them. Did God bid us do some great thing, would we not do it? how much more when he commands what is but small for us to do, would not the neglect favour of great contempt even in a small affair? 2. Do they by venial fins mean fuch as do not prove our full revolt from God, because 'tis possible such a sin may be committed by one that yet doth hold to God as his great and only End and Rest? why then We own as well as They, that every fault and flip proves not a person to be forthwith Graceless. 3. Do they by vental sins intend such sins as do or may be pardoned upon Repentance, Faith, and New Obedience? if fo, it will put them forely to it to mention any fin, though never fo hainous in its nature (the fin against the Holy Ghost excepted) which a right hearty, practical Repentance and Faith in the Lord Jesus, &c. may not obtain the pardon of; and in this sence no sins are mortal but those which unavoidably bring the Soul to Hell at last, and that through final Infidelity and that through final Infidelity and Impenitence: and hence we shall the better understand what can be meant by these sins being to be satisfied for by us, and in what sence they may be so. For if they mean, that the Blood of Jesus was not needfull to make them pardonable upon those terms, proposals and conditions of their pardon, which God hath tendred in the Gospel; Christ is apparently contemned and undervalued: But if they mean, that the pardon will not be had unless the Conditions be performed by us, it is most true; and if they mean something else, they must declare and prove it to us.

(2.) As for the Things for which our Satisfactions must be made, they tell us, they are, I. Temporal punishments; as (1) All the Miseries of this Life in relation to our Bodies, Goods or Name. (2) Death it self. (3) The pains of Purgatory, which are loss and pain, the same with Hell it self in Kind and Nature, though different in Duration, and it may be something in Degree. For as to the Eternity of pains in Hell, 'tis but an Accident thereof; and for Substance we must satisfie: For the Eternity thereof Christ is responsible, who hath made them temporal that they might be removed by our satisfactions. And then we must satisfie 2. For the Reliques of sin: 3. For the Fault it self: And 4. For the Punishment of the Damned in Hell, if the Eternity thereof be but abstance of the same and satisfactions.

stracted from it. To which I answer,

1. Whoever is concerned to make Satisfaction, is confidered either in relation to Property as a Debtor, &c. or in relation to Law as a Malefactour. Now as to the case in hand, as Sinners are looked upon as Debtors, fo they relate to God as their Proprietary and absolute Lord of his own; and fo they may be look'd upon as having taken, or detained from God fomething that is not theirs but his, which yet he might have parted with, and yet do himself no hurt; or else something which they have neither right unto, nor can God part withall without his prejudice or dammage. If in their former sence the thing be taken, 1. Then Satisfaction demanded from our felves, or from another, rather refulted from Gods Will than from his Wisdom. For it had been no incongruity for God to have retreated from his Right, where neither his Truth nor Wisdom is concerned to forbidit; for who can blame a Creditor for want of Goodness, (when there wants nothing else) in that he doth forgive a Debtor? 2. Then there was no need of Satisfaction in the Cafe. God's fingle Power could have recovered his own again. 3. For God to have his own again was all that he could look for. In that he had no prejudice but the meer alienation of his own again, and that not fo much from his Property as his Possession: For no mans Apostalie from God could rob God of his title unto the Man, for that is too fast and absolute to be changed, And if God be only concerned as to his Possession; when his Goods are come again into his own hands, no greater Satisfaction can be made. 4. When God hath all his own again, there can be nothing left to make him Satisfaction with, feeing God hath a right to all that that we can do as our Proprietary, and ever had, and could never justly be denved it. But secondly, if you take the matter in the latter sence as fomething is taken or detained, unto Gods real prejudice and dammage. r. Then also Gods Omnipotence could have repaired his loss. But. 2. Nothing can possibly impoverish God, whose absolute and infinite Happiness and Riches are nothing but himself, whose Property is absolute, and his Omnipotence its full fecurity. But now, if our fins speak a relation to a violated Law, and fo God be considered as a Ruler, then we must mean, that we must compensate that injury which in the course of Government we have already done to God, by the dishonour we have done him in contradicting Gods righteous Will, breaking his Laws, and disturbing or dissolving his fixed course in Government; or we must do something else that shall as well secure the Governours Honour, anfwer his Ends and Will in Government, as our destruction for our folly can amount to; and what that is, we possibly may understand hereafter, as the Papists do interpret and intend it.

2. As to the things for which these humane Satisfactions are required, they are it seems, (1) Temporal Punishments. But, 1. Is it not strange, the Punishment should be born in our own Persons, and in its kind too, and yet that fatisfaction should be made at the same time too? Is it good sence to say, that there must be, Redditio ejusdem, the payment or restoring of the same thing exacted, which is the bearing of the Penalty, and yet at the same time doing or bearing aquivalentis, something proportionable and in lieu thereof. 2. As for the Pains of Purgatory, I shall leave that to a better Pen, that is concerned in that head; and thither I referre the Reader. 3. As to Death it felf, are voluntariness, and Patience fatisfactory here? if fo, for what? Is it the stroke of Death? why is it not then dispensed with, and so we made immortal, to scape that dreadfull blow? and further, why may not fuch a frame of patience and Submissiveness prevent the stroke? what makes them satisfactory? is it because they are pleasing unto God? then Enoch satisfied for his death, and therefore scaped it, Heb. 11.5. and yet another doth as truely satisfie for death, that bears it, as he that bears it not. 4. As to those other Punishments in this Life, the holiest man may have them all, and ofttimes feels them more than he that never was folicitous to pleafe his Maker, or make him fatisfaction. It is not at the choyce of any, whether the punishments that God inflicts shall be born or no; and Nature teaches men to choose the gentlest strokes; and if the sufferings of this Life be not voluntary, undue, æquivalent, they make not compensatory satisfaction. 7. As to those Reliques of sin, what satisfaction are they capable of, distinct from their being purged away bythe Grace of God in the due use of proper Means, and from our Release as to their binding of us over to the wrath of God, and the due sentence of his Law? 6. As to the Fault it felf, how, and in what sence is it capable of our satisfaction? Can any thing make it true, that I was never guilty of the fact I did? Cccc That

That a Sinner hath been a Sinner is an eternal Truth, after delinquencies and faults committed. Can any thing make it true, I ought to have done what I have done amis? can any thing make it true, that what was done amis never deserved the wrath of God? or that it was not just and fit, that he who broke the Law of God should dye? Can any thing make it warrantable, that I should break the Law of God, or safe for me to do it, when God faith it is not? And when you have confidered in Sin, the fact and faultiness, and the chargeableness of both upon the Sinner, and the truth of all, and have prescinded these in the consideration of its being fat sfied for by us; you will find it can in no sence be capable of satisfaction, but as to our being purged from its commanding, or released from its condemning power. And can I do any thing for God that can be as gratefull to God, as it would have been to him that I had never fin'd against him? or can any thing be done by me that can do equal service to my Rulers will and honour, and the due Ends of Government, with my perfect Innocence and Obedience? or can I do any thing for God. that in strict proportion of defert can merit any being cleansed from the stain and blemish which a fault hath left upon me? If not, then let the Papists tell me in what sence a fault can be capable of our satisfactions, that shall keep it from connoting, either 1. Punishment, and so it is no further pardoned than the Punishment is remitted, or 2. Purgation, and then it doth import no more than being fanctified or reformed: From whence it follows, that their fundamental Maxim is a precarious though confident Affertion and Conclusion, or an ambiguous Cheat, viz. That they that fay, That the Fault is never remitted by God, but the whole Punishment is pardoned too; speak that which is false, and in no wife owned by the Word of God. For, 1. Tis evident, that nothing can make an Act that was finfull when committed, clear from the charge and censure of having been a fault; and in this sence, sinfull Actions are incapable of Remission, and therefore forreign to the case in hand. 2. If they mean hereby, (I mean by a Fault remitted) the extirpation of a finfull Principle, and prevention of the fame finfull Action or miscarriage in kind; and so that this may be in many who are not excused from the just inflictions of miseries of Life, and pains of Death. that the best men alive are not unjustly dealt with, if they be visited with the Punishments of Life and Death, because of the Garden-quarrel, and those corrupted Natures which were derived thereby, together with our personal delinquencies. 3. But if they mean, by the Remission of a fault. God's taking off those Punishments, and discharging from the sentence of the Law, whereto the Fault had bound me, the remission of the Fault and punishment are of the same extent.

(3) They distinguish upon satisfaction, and say that satisfaction either doth relate to rigorous Justice, or to gratuitous acceptance. (1.) The former cannot be made by any thing but, 1. What is our own; 2. What is undue; 3. What is of equal dignity and value. And these things say they) cannot be attributed to any but Christ himself, who alone can Deo paria reddere. But then (2) the latter Satisfaction is by Gratuitous Acceptance, and fo, by the favourable Condescension of the offended Ruler, men may satisfie as far as God will give them affilting and accept ng Grace; and thus what with the Spirits help by inward Grace, and the tin Aure of the Blood of Jesus by Gods Grace upon our works to make them fatisfie, we being one with Christ our Head, and communicating of his fatisfaction for us, derive that merit from him into our works, which make them fatisfactory; which works being the works of the Spirit, and coming thence, derive a certain infinity and equality, whereupon enfues the Grace of Evangelical Councels, whereby we are exhorted and perswaded to what we are not commanded, and thereupon it followes, that we have fomething that is our own, and undue to God, and therefore satisfactory, and the more easily satisfactory because of the third Grace of Remission, which removes the Eternity from the Punishment, and makes it temporal, that so our satisfaction for it may be more possible and easie. So then, that may be done by Grace for satisfaction, which in strict Justice is impossible; and then do but consider what 1. God enjoyns you to; as vehement and intense Contrition, and this will do your work for Death and Purgatory, outward laborious works. as Fastings, Prayer, &c. as also Almesdeeds. 2. Consider what may be enjoyned by others, as the Priests enjoyning the visitings of Shrines of Saints, fo many Ave's and Pater Noster's, and other Penance. And 3. What you may do your felves, by voluntary Pilgrimages, Fastings, Scourgings, Sackcloth, Weepings, Prayers in fuch Numbers and Meafures, and all other feverities by felf-punishment; and fet upon these with an intent to fatisfie, and the punishment of your Sins will be revers'd; because these things are more than you are bound to do, or God required of you. I pretermit the points of Indulgences, Purgatory, and other mens Satisfactions, for they are the Business and Employment of better Heads and Pens, engaged in this Morning Exercise. And as for Treasuries, and the Popes power to dispense them, I think if he can do it, he is bound to pardon all on Earth, and release those in Purgatory; and lives in mortal fin if he love not his Neighbour as himself: And I believe, were he in Purgatory, he would thank those kindly that would release him quickly; and then the Precept binds him to do as he would be done by. But on the other part, these Reflexions may suffice which follow.

1. Satisfaction is defined by the School-men, by a voluntary Reddi-Alteinst. in tion of something equivalent, otherwise undue; (for so the word satis Lexico Gabr. doth import, and satisfaction signifies something that is sufficient) and dist. ib. qu. 2. Sufficiency imports an equal correspondence of that which is returned, to Scoto in dist. 3. that for which it is returned, and that both in Beneficius & Panis, in qu. 1. lib. 4. Benefits and Punishments: And hence it followes, that he who returns less for sin than Divine Justice doth exact, doth not satisfie, although he doe to the full what is enjoyned him by his Confessour. Though yet he doe aliquam panam peccato suo debitam solvere, soluturus in futuro qued And the same minus injunctum est, & solutum in prasenti; yet even here they are not agreed in the Case. For though those mentioned in the Margent affert this after, That the Doctrine, yet others say, that Satisfaction is not to be made by some-Priest can im- thing otherwise undue; as Durand. d. 15. qu. 1. Cajet. Trast. de Saponere pro sa- tisfact. q. 1. and Angles. in flores Quest. part. prim. Quest. de Satisfact. p. tisfactione pec- (mihi) 253. concludes, That works otherwise due ratione Pracepti, as commanded, if they be done in Grace, are fatisfactory for the Pains of and for their Purgatory; and Martyrdome is his instance, and he tells us, that he is injurious that prayes for a Martyr to him; and this he makes to be the of this Doctrin fence of Cajetan and Durand. But to address our selves unto the Case of Satisfact. fee in hand: Satisfaction being the doing of something that is sufficient, hath a relation to either, 1. Commutative Justice, relating as to personal Debts or Injuries; and here the ground of his demanding Satisfaction that is wronged, or Creditor, is his own personal just Interest and title to what he claims, and the just Measures of our Satisfaction are to be fetch'd from both the just intrinsecal value and worth of what we are to make him fatisfaction for, and also its relative worth to him whose loss by the absence of his own proper Goods, and all the dammage that accrues to him thereby, must have its equal compensation from him that is Debtor or Injurious, unless some other accidents (as the Debtors inability, or Creditors distance, or the like,) make it impossible to make this fatisfaction; and then, nemo tenetur ad impossibile. Or, 2. It relates to Distributive Justice, as the wrong which doth require our fatisfaction may relate to Law and Government; and here the Rulers Honour and the Ends of Government, must give and state the Measures of our Satisfaction; for in the whole, our Satisfaction, if truely fuch, must bear proportion hereunto; and then whitever (upon the whole) doth exceed the bounds and claims of Gods Propriety, Excellence, Authority and Beneficence, and all that merit which doth and must result herefrom, cannot be called undue, and therefore amount to fatisfaction in the strict sence. But in a comprehensive and large sence, God may be said to be satisfied in feveral fences. 1. As his Will is pleased by doing what is demanded of us under our present or supposed Circumstances, and thus we fatisfie his will as far as we doe what he commands us. 2. By Reparation of the Governing wrong and injury that is done him; and thus that fatisfaction which must answer the wrong that is already done by our Apostafie from God, is and can be only made by Christ. But that injury which would enfue from the Impunity of Delinquents, (here I mean fuch Delinquents as finally reject the Remedy that God hath given them by Christ) must be compensated by their own bearing of their deserved and entailed Penalty; and thus God is fatisfied against their wills by their effectual transmission to their deserved wracks and tortures. Or, 3. By perfect innocent Obedience to the whole Law; and they that challenge, let them maintain, possess and prove it, or 4. By a full answering of Gods vindictive vindictive Justice, by suffering here what is equivalent to the sull latitude and importance of their deserved punishments in Hell; and where is that self-austerity and discipline here in exercise, or possibly to be met with, that is equivalent to God's revenging strokes and wrath in Hell? Who hath an Arm like God, to strike like him? Or who would if he could, afflict himself at the proportionable rate of Gods omnipotent revenge, whenas the prospect of Christ's approaching Cup had such impressions on his Heart and Countenance? But we pass on to the next Head.

- 2. Satisfaction is here spoken of under a double Notion and Relation, and so divided into, (1) That which referres to strict and rigorous Justice, or (2) To Gratuitous Acceptance. In the former Christ only is concerned, as only capable of making it; because what Christ did, and was to do as satisfactory, was I. His own, 2. Undue, 3. And of equal value and dignity. But in the latter, our capacity is large and good. And here we have, 1. The matter of our possible Satisfaction. Some things voluntary; Pilgrimages, Fastings, &c. Some things enjoyned (1) By God, as vehement and intense Contrition, laborious works and Almes-deeds, &c. And (2) By the Priest, as the visiting of Shrines of Saints, so many Ave's and Pater-Nosters, with other Penance. And then we have, 2. The Grounds and Means whereby our voluntary and enjoyned works are ripened into fuch Dignity and Value as shall make them satisfactory: Namely, (1) God's condescending and accepting Grace. (2) The tincture of the Blood of Christ, our Union to him, and communicating of his Satisfaction, from whence our Works derive their Merit. And, (3) The inward workings and affilting Grace of the Spirit, by which our works proceed from inward vertue, and so derive a certain Infinity and Equality. So that now the door is widely open to Evangelical Counsels, to which you are exhorted and perswaded, but not commanded.
- I. Then let us hence consider, How far Christs Satisfaction doth extend it felf, and see what room there is left for Humane Satisfactions, that so we may the better find and fix them, and so consider them more exactly in their proper Place and Office. And (1) They here acknowledge, that the Matter of Christ's Satisfaction (besides its being undue, and his own) is of equal dignity and value; but then I ask, with what is it of equal Dignity and Value? Is it not with the injury which he as Governour received by the Apostasie of his Creatures? Or with that Rectoral gain, which he would otherwise get from their destruction, or both? What injury could God be capable of, but contradicting his governing Will, ecclipfing of his governing Honour, and preventing or obstructing his noble Ends in Government, whereby it was made and rendred unbecoming God, to place his heart upon, and distribute his choycest Bleffings to the Sons of men, in fuch methods, and upon fuch terms, as might make his Subjects justly think, he was grown regardless of his Honour,

Honour, Laws and Government. Revolted man must either be destroyed or faved; if he be ruined, the glorious explications of Gods incomprehenfible Love and Wifdom, by pardoning Grace and Mercy, in fuch consistency with his Truth and Holiness, had been prevented, together with fuch wife supplantings of Sathans Projects, Hopes and Triumphs, as Now he is effecting in his Gospel-methods; and the Revivals of Religion in an Apostate Tribe. Had man been saved immediately, without the execution of Gods violated Law upon him, and any equivalent confideration in the Case, the glorious Effects and proper Demonstrations, and so all suitable and usefull apprehensions of governing Justice, Wisdom, Holiness and Truth, so dear and proper to the Ruler, had been prevented; and both their Honour and effential Existence had been exposed unto the jealousies and suspicions of his Subjects; the Trust and Title of a Ruler had not been answered by its due administrations and discharge; Hopes of Impunity had been started, notwithstanding after miscarriages, to the great prejudice of Laws and Government, and fuitable Obedience thereunto. And hereupon, nothing amounts to fatisfaction that brings not things unto this Isfue, That finfull and Apostate Mans Salvation shall as much secure, promote, and speak the Harmony and Honour, of Gods whole Name as Governour, and all his Ends in Government; as mans destruction. (2) They must acknowledge, that Christ hath only and effectually satisfied his Father thus far, by what he did and suffered, as that Repentance, Faith and New Obedience, are by the Covenant of Grace made the Conditions of our full Recovery and Salvation, so as that they who fulfill the Conditions of the Gospel shall reap the Blessings of it. (3) Nor are they able or ready to deny, that all affifting and accepting Grace, and all the Means of Grace subfervient thereunto, only refult and iffue from Christs satisfaction. Nor (4) Will they fay, that any thing in Man without respect to the Redeemers Satisfaction, and the Fathers arbitrary, compassionate and condescending Grace, could have deserved of God to be accepted as a sufficient ground for readmission to his favour, or a sufficient compensation of our demerits. For, what Christ did was needless, if the great Ends thereof could have been answered and attained by us without it. They dare not fay, that God was bound in Justice to accept of that without. which now is made acceptable by Christs Satisfaction. (5) Therefore the Meritoriousness and availableness of their supposed or afferted Humane Satisfactions, must (in their judgements) be derivative from Christ, and that affifting and accepting Grace that comes, must be upon the reckoning of Christs Satisfaction. (6) Whatever is commanded by God in Christ upon the penalty of otherwise forseiting all the Benefits of Christs Satisfaction, and our Eternal Happiness thereupon, can be no further called Satisfaction, than as our stated Doing of what is commanded as our Duty, and as the Condition of our Salvation performed by us; which can no further merit our Impunity, than as God hath promifed promised and entailed that to and upon what is required of us.

2ly, Let us consider, what this Satisfaction by gratuitous Acceptation doth amount unto, and in what things we are to fix it. And, (1) Whatever is accepted or acceptable, is either fo from its own intrinsecal value, and then as fuch it cannot be acceptable beyond its worth; or from its Usefulness and Aptitude unto its Ends. I know a little in another sence may be accepted as a testimony of thankfull resentments of favours, or an acknowledgement of distance, duty, subjection, &c. but this is not to the Case in hand, is [acceptable] but as expressive of the temper and purpose of the Heart, were but the ability answerable to the heart? And then we mult consider the Nature and Degree of its mediate usefulness; as also its consistency with other means at hand, or instituted; for if it cannot be used, but some better Means, and more gratefull to him that is most concerned in the End that must be prosecuted and attained unto, must be neglected, it cannot be acceptable. And hereupon itisworth considering, how far their voluntary or imposed Satisfactions justle out those needfull Exercises and Duties that in Society must be done, and all those exemplary and Encouraging Influences which we are bound to give to others by our own chearfulness, praise and joy in the possession and improvement of what we doe and may enjoy with God, and for him: Or it must be judged acceptable from some clear and grounded Testimonies and assurances from God, either mediate or immediate, that he will accept our voluntary Offerings as Satisfaction; and under the discovered Notion and respects in which the Ruler tells usthey shall be accepted, we must use and offer them. Now it is plain, that whatever God exacts from us, is to be referred to either his Authority, and so it must be done as Duty; or to his Wisdom, and so it: must be done by vertue of that proper tendency it hath unto its End, and then the End must give the just proportion to the Action, and also Duty cannot be avoyded in the Cafe. For should Gods Councels beneglected, we make reflections upon his Wisdom, and tell him, Thatthough he hath advised us to such a way or course, yet we have discovered another course as good; and if we quit Gods councel and espouse: our own, we practically tell him, that our way is better; and then that: will prove strange Satisfaction, and humane with a witness, that hathcontempt of God and his Advice inviscerated in it, or wrapt up in its. bowels: Or it must be referred unto his Holiness, and so it must be expressive of his Image upon our Hearts. And what Relation the matter of meer Humane Satisfactions have hereto, (besides that shew, Col.2.23.) it will be hard to prove: Or it must relate unto his Covenant, Compassions, Grace and Love, and fo be performed as its Condition, and then that doth import Command, and fomething more. And therefore, (2) Gratuitous Acceptation doth hold out something in the very Name: and Notion, that might most justly be refuseable even as Satisfaction, and speaks a retreat in God from what he justly might demand, though Satisfaction:

Satisfaction were admitted and concluded on; which they themselves allow, by their distinguishing it from that Satisfaction which hath respect to rigorous Justice. (3) Many things are excluded from being Satisfaction, from the confideration of their being commanded, as things that must be done, as ever we hope for Life and Glory. As 1. Whatever hath a true and proper reference to Gods Glory, 1 Cor. 10.31. And 2. Whatever doth promote, become, and is expressive of our universal powerful Love to God and Man, Mat. 22. 37, 40. And 3. Whatever as to the Matter of it is true or honest, just or pure, lovely, or of good report, and that hath either prayse or vertue, Phil. 4. 8, 9, it is a comprehensive claim. 4. Whatever is proportionable or suitable in Measure and Circumstances, to our Abilities, Places, Gifts, and Offices, I Cor. 7. 17. 1 Pet. 4. 10, 11. And thus to Fear God, and keep his Commandments, is the whole of Man, and in these things must be be tryed for Life or Death at last, Eccles. 12.13. And now when these things are discharged, there will be little left for Satisfaction-work; and I believe it will put them forely to it, for to name any thing under present circumstances, that is materially worthy of a Man or Christian, that can escape the Claim and Discipline of these Commandments, especially if you take in that comprehensive Text, Tit. 2. 12. and well consider the special indispensible Duties of every Relation, in Families, Church, and State, and also what we are bound to doe to credit Christianity, and to promote its interest, influences, and repute, to the Recovery and Salvation of all about us. These things shall be accepted by Gods favourable Condescenfion, in order to our everlasting Happiness on the account of Christ, as readily, heartily and effectually; as if we had never finn'd, or fatisfied. for our fins our felves, notwithstanding all former Laws, and provocations to the contrary. Duty discharged is gratefull to God, and Gods commanding Will is fatisfied, as far as things commanded are performed. And the fulfilling of fæderal Conditions do fatisfie and are available to the enstating of us in Covenant Rights and Priviledges, as far as the Covenant of Grace hath made them forcible and pleadable to these ends. No works of Ours could joyn able to procure this Covenant of Grace, and make the mercifull, mowith this that Christ did un. derate, gracious conditions thereof required of us, to be performed by And no other satisfactions can be, in whole or in part, necessary and availdertake and doo us, so pleadable and effectual to their Ends in our Recovery and Salvafor his Satisfa 21. 13, to pleadable and effectivate their Elias in our Recovery and Satva-on is of it felf tion, as Christ hath made them. And they, if they would leave their entire, compleat Clouds, and face us in the open light, might fee, that Satisfaction, if Humane, which they talk of fo much, cannot be found in fence, if any thing be meant thereby, fave pleafing God in doing his Will, and anfivering those Proposals, and fulfilling those Conditions on which we may attain and reap the Benefits of Christs Satisfaction; which Conditions would not have done our work, had not Christ by vertue of his Satisfaction deserved and obtained of God to give us Life upon such low and. gracious terms; and how then can they find another sence or place for Satis-

Satisfaction by their works? let them but freely tell us where it lies. that any works of ours can be fatisfactory, and for what they can be fo: As to the first, wherein their value for Satisfaction lies, let them deal freely with us. Is it by fomething derived from Christ or not? if not. they had been as available as now they are, if Christ had never dved for us: for the substance of eternal Punishments may now be done away, and their Eternity had been nothing without their Substance; for the Eternity of that which is not, is but a meer Chimæra: And as to Death, that univerfally and unavoidably entailed stroke on all, Patience and Voluntariness would have satisfied, but for what? not for the stroke, for that is born, and who would fatisfie for what he cannot escape by Satisfaction? is it not hard to pay something equivalent, and bear the stroke withall? for Satisfaction is not ejusdem but aquivalentis; and if it be some worse punishment, he that destroyes the Substance of the Punishment, need never fear the Eternity thereof, although there should be no Satisfaction: but this will need no further confutation. If then the value of our works for Satisfaction be derived from Christ, it is either done by his Allowance, or by his Ordination, or by meer Advice; if by meer Allowance, this is no more than Lawfulness by bare permission; and if this be enough to make a Satisfaction, then every thing neither commanded nor forbidden will do the work: And this abfurdity needs no loads, it being unable to bear it felf; but if it be by Ordination from Christ, where is the Order? what is the place and quality thereof? is it instrumentally causal? then let them shew wherein. Is it as a Condition constituted in a Covenantway? where then is the Covenant that can make it fo, and hath entailed this Promise on it? Is it by meer and bare Advice? if so, all councel doth refult from skill, and wisdom, and kindness too, in either reality or pretence: If therefore such works be inexpedient means, there is no Friendthip nor Wisdom in the Case; for nothing can be advised by Wisdom that is not adviseable in the case; for this must be resolved into Will, not Wisdom: Sic volo, sic jubeo; and then it ceases to be at our liberty, because it is commanded: And if it be expedient in the Case, 'tis either so by absolute Order, and then Neglect is finfull; or proper Tendency, and then God hath made it fo; and Christs advice is the discovery of his Fathers will, and then Gods Authority makes it Duty, and our great and absolute Concernment makes it necessary; and thus, arbitrary can it no longer be. For I am bound to take the most proper and expedient course and way to bring about my best Concernments and Designs, as far as they are laid within the compass of my utmost possible Knowledge. And therefore, here I am under Duty and Commandment fill; and if I can ferve God better by Vows of Poverty, Chastity, &c. or any other Evangelical Counsels, than otherwise: the Male of the Flock ought to be offered up to God; and given him; and 'tis a strange course for Satisfaction, to take a meaner and more improper course, when other waves are made my Duty. I cannot be allowed to fatisfie for Punishment by the Dddd neglect neglect of Duty, or by remisness in it. Nor can it be imagined by me, what references the imposed visiting of the Shrines of Saints, or such a Number of Ave's or Pater Nosters, can have to compensate my faults to God, seeing Apostate and depraved Man had rather travel far, and fay a many Prayers (as being truely and apparently a more easie task. and in the eyes of wicked men readily taken fo to be) than to leave fins and fall to thorow duty here, or bear the flames of Hell for ever, yea or in Purgatory, were there such a state and place. Nor are these courses likely to prevail on others for timely, univerfal and effectual Reformation and Conversion. And for the second, for what they can satisfie: this will bring us to confider the fecond general head.

Secondly, What they conclude either by Concession or Denyal, And here they grant that Christ hath satisfied for sins before Baptism, Original and Actual; for mortal fins after Baptism, for the Eternity of Punishment, for our former incapacity of making Satisfaction, which is deducible from this, in that they make fuch grace so necessary to our capacity of making Satisfaction, as could not come upon us unless Christ had fatisfied before, namely, 1. The Grace of Justification, whereby the Spirit dwells in us, makes one with Christ, and interested in his Satisfaction, from whence that merit is derived into our works, that makes them to be Satisfactions too, though in relation to another head, viz. Gratuitous Acceptation. 2. The Grace of Evangelical Counfels, whereby fomething is rendred undue from us to God as being not commanded. 3. The grace of Remission, making eternal punishments temporal, to make our Satisfaction easie, and then 'tis plain, our venial fins and temporal Punishments may be satisfied for together, and with ease and great success by us.

To this I answer: All this hath been confidered before, and answered. and therefore my weary thoughts and Pen shall close with some Reflections upon temporal Punishments and Satisfactions for them; and therefore (passing by Purgatory, as considered by another) temporal Punishments are either such absolutely, are entailed I Upon all, as Death, and that is considerable as to its stroke or sting: Or, 2. only upon some, and that as either consequent upon their own miscarriage in a natural or legal fence, or meerly resulting from the wife but arbitrary Providence of God: And thus my replyes are thefe. (1) Nothing that Christ hath done, or Man can doe, can make us hope, conclude or think, the stroke of Death can be avoyded, Rom. 5.12. Heb. 9.27. Job 30.23. For God hath no where promised that. (2) As to the Sting of Death, Covenant grace and Eaithfulness, through Christ, can only pluck out that Reflections upon Grace and Faithfulness at a dying hour, can only make our Souls triumph over their forrowes, fears and jealousies, through the Apprehensions of our approaching Judgement and Retributions in an eternal State. Nor can I think that any will find relief at last from Pilgrimages, Shrines and Scourges, &c. if this Grace and Faithfulness be wanting. (3) As to ubb a Esign

Strokes consequent upon our own miscarriages, through our intemperance or imprudence, or misdemeanours in reference to the Lawes of of God or Man. Our Temperance, Providence and Innocence through Gods good hand upon us, may prevent them as to their strokes, and full Repentance, Faith and Holiness may possibly allay, if not remove their bitterness and strokes. (4) As to the Strokes that come by the arbitrary Providence of God, as the best men may not scape them, so Covenant-Faithfulness shall not lose by them.

And thus you fee by what is faid already, the sence and grounds of what is controverted betwixt the Church of Rome and Us about this head of Humane Satisfaltion, and thence you may gather what to say to what this Controversie may be summed up in: The summe whereof lies in these following things, which they affert. As,

1. That all those Afflictions and Temporal Chastnings which God inflicts on men with reference to their Graces, Sins, and exemplary usefulness, are true Expiations of, and Satisfactions for their sins past to Divine Justice. To which 'tis answered, 1. God satisfies himself in what he doth, in that his ftrokes are grounded, proper, and successfull to his Ends, to shew his Name, to execute his Laws, and so prevent all inconveniencies to his Name and Government. 2. They that endure these Strokes, and make a right improvement of them, do so far satisfie God, as fatisfaction may fignifie their pleafing God, and answering his Ends in Discipline. 3. As far as this Improvement and regular bearing of Gods Discipline is a Condition of our escaping that smarter wrath which former fins deserved, so far the fulfilling hereof shall satisfie God, that is, answer his commanding and covenanting will so farre. But, 4. It is Christs Satisfaction only, and not any proper Merit in our sufferings, as antecedent thereto, or abstractedly considered therefrom, that makes our fufferings of all kinds, and our carriage under them, available to these comfortable Ends and Issues of being pardoned and accepted.

2. That good Works, expressive of Repentance, Piety and Gratitude, and tending to promote Religion, Mortification, Self-denyal, &c. or preventive of further strokes and Judgements, are truely satisfactory to God for sin. Answ. No further than as they, 1. Please God's ruling, his commanding and covenanting will (in which sence God is satisfied but only as he is pleased:) And, 2. As Christ is considered in the case, to make them acceptable and available to obtain our Pardon and Recovery, and final Bliss, by what he hath done and suffered and obtained for us.

3. That Penance imposed by primitive Christians upon the scandalous or Apostate, in order to their Cure and Readmission to the Church with their consent, and to their satisfaction, and other Christian Ends, is now made a Satisfaction for their sins to Justice. Answ. God in Christ, and for his sake, is so satisfact, (that is pleased) with our Rependent

Dddd 2 tance

tance, as our Obedience to his Command, our complyance with his Covenant-terms, our qualification in state and temper for his further Image, Favour and Presence, and all the Favours that conduce thereto, and result therefrom, and as our disgustings and bemoaning what hath been done amiss, and preventing the lamentable Consequences, of Impenitence, to both the Church and unbelieving World, as that where it is duely exercised and express'd towards God and Man, in such works as ordinarily and in special Cases and Circumstances, become Repentance, as that it shall suffice on their parts under Christ for their restoring to what their Scandals and Apostasie bereaved them of. But it is only Christ that hath deserved that our Repentance through Grace, and only Grace, should reach these Ends and Benefits.

The summe of all is this, when we have abstracted the Humane Satisfactions of the Papists from what God hath made our Duty, and the Condition of our Salvation, or from what is due to the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, from us as Creatures, Subjects, and delivered Sinners by Price and Power, to be trained up according to the Methods and Assistances of Gospel Laws and Grace; and so from what I am bound to do to satisfie my injured and endammaged Neighbour, offended Governour, and the Church of Christ, according to the Institutions, and for the necessary, and by God and Christ enjoyned Ends and Interest of the Gospel; how narrow and useless will Humane Satisfactions appear to be?

And thus I have gone through this Task, as throughly, as Gods breaches on my Family, my manifold Diversions, great Distractions, mean Abilities, and slender Furniture, and other Hinderances would admit of; and with my closing words, and to my last gasp (if fensible so long) must I bewail the miserable state of Church and World, that must be scandalized, disturbed, and divided, by wanton Fancies, prurient Wits, proud hearts, and sinisfer designs, in having Doctrines clouded or sophisticated

SERMON XXI.

There is no Transubstantiation in the Lords Supper.

1 Cor. XI. 23, 24, 25.

For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, that the Lord Jesus, the same Night in which he was betrayed, took Bread.

And when he had given thanks he broke it, and said, Take, eat, this is my Body, which is broken for you; this do in remembrance of me.

After the same manner also he took the Cup when he had supped, saying, This Cup is the New Testament in my Blood, this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

OD hath exalted Man above all Creatures of the visible World, in giving him a Being capable of Religion, and thereby of Eternal Life and Happiness in the enjoyment of himself. And to the end that God may make himself glorious, in making lost Man happy, he hath in infinite Wisdom and Grace given us his written Word, to a In his quae be a perfect Rule of that Christian Religion, (a) by which we may obtain aperte posita. Eternal Life and Happiness in God by Christ; in which Word he hath sunt in Scrip. not only revealed this glorious Happiness to us, and brought Life and tura, invenimnous a title unto, and fits us for, and the way that leads unto the full positioem, more squee fession of it.

And therefore what tongue can express the desperate madness and folly de Doctrina Christiana. of those men, who forsake the good Word of the Grace of God, (c) for a lib. 2. cap. 9. Religion that hath no other Foundation than the words of lying men. b 2 Tim. 1.9. And such is the Popish-Religion, which as it is Popish, is devised only c Act. 20. 322.

by Devils and Men, to feed lufts, and to ferve a carnal and worldly Interest, and tends to the Damnation of millions of Sou's.

Their Doctrine of Transubstantiation in the Lords Supper, which I am now called to bear witness against, is one of the chief Articles of this Religion; and if this salls, their Idolatrous worshipping their Host, their most abhorred propitiatory Sacrificing Christ in their Mass, their Sacrilegious robbing the People of the Cup, and a great part of their Religion must fall with it; and yet by the Grace of God, I shall in this ensuing Discourse make it appear; that Transubstantiation is such an hideous Error, that the very nature and clear Consequences of it do crye a Psal. 137.7. of the true Christian Religion, as they cryed of Jerusalem, (a) Rase it, rase it, even to the foundation thereof.

I shall therefore fall immediately to my work, which is to prove two things:

I. That there is no Transubstantiation in the Eucharist or Lords Supper; and take notice, that I do not question but the name Eucharist hath been anciently, and may be still fitly given to this Sacrament, but I shall choose to call it according to Scripture, the Lords Supper, it being better known among us by that Name.

2. That it is Idulatry in the Papists to worship the consecrated Bread, though they think it is turn'd into the Body of Christ.

Now because in these words (with those in the three Evangelists, Matth. 26. 26, 27, 28. Mar. 14. 22, 23, 24. Luk. 22. 19, 20, which I would be understood to take into my Text) the Institution of the Lords Supper is fully and clearly delivered from Christ to his Church, and because these words do carry us in a right line to the Author, and Nature, and Use, and Ends of this Ordinance; and are the true Standard by which we must try all Doctrines, and Opinions, and Practices touching the Lords Supper: and also because our Adversaries pretend to receive their Doctrine of Transsubstantiation from Christ in these words: I have therefore chosen them for the most proper Subject of this Discourse.

And herein I shall proceed in this method.

1. I shall briefly acquaint you with the true Doctrine of the Lords Supper, taught by Christ in these words.

-2. Acquaint you with the Doctrine of Transubstantiation, which the Papilts pretend to receive from Christ in these words.

3. Prove that there is no Transubstantiation in the Lords Supper.

4. I shall make Application, and therein prove the second Proposition, viz. That it is Idolatry in the Papists to worship the consecrated Bread, though they think it be turned into the Body of Christ.

First, I shall give you a brief and plain account of the Doctrine of the Lords Supper, taught us in these word, in six particulars, which I shall further improve in the following Discourse.

1. Jesus

1. Jesus Christ hath in infinite Wisdom and Love appointed Bread and Wine for this Sacrament; this is evident by those words, Jesus took Bread, and he took the Cup, wherein was the Fruit of the Vine: Our dying Lord being about to infitute and administer the Lords Supper, in Order thereunto he solemnly took Bread and Wine.

2. It is the Will of Jesus Christ that Bread and Wine be blessed and consecrated by the Ministers of the Gospel, this Bread and Wine must be changed from that common use, which they had before Consecration, by being blessed to a holy and spiritual and Sacramental use: This appears by our Saviours practice recorded in the Text, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and he took the Cup and gave thanks: The word evaryious, translated blessed, and evasyious translated gave thanks, do here significe the same thing, and do assure us, that Christ blessed the Bread and Wine, which obligeth all Ministers in this Case to do the same; and therefore saith the Apostle, 2 Cor. 10 16. The Cup of Blessing which we bless, and the Bread which we break, --- meaning the Bread of blessing, which we bless and break; for both were blessed by our Saviour, and are to be blessed by his Ministers, and are thereby made blessed Bread, and blessed Wine.

3. It is the will of Jesus Christ, that this blessed Bread be broken by his Ministers; this was a holy Rite, or Action of Christ, recorded by the three Evangelists, and by St. Paul in the Text, which tells us, be blessed the Bread, and brake it; from which Sacred Rite, Expositors conceive, that this Sacrament is cal'd breaking of Bread, Act. 20.6. and it is clear, that our Saviour made this Bread, as thus broken, to signific the Body of Christ, which is broken for us; and therefore saith the Apostle, It is broken Bread that is the Communion of the Body of Christ, I Cor. 10. 16. And though I cannot stay to quarrel with the Papilts for lighter matters, yet take notice of their bold Superstition in affronting Christ herein, by making their Bread into little round Wasers, and not breaking it, but putting it whole into the mouths of the Communicants.

4. Jefus Christ hath appointed that this bleffed Bread, and bleffed Wine, be administred to Believers; this is clear by our Saviours example mentioned in the Text, which tells us, that the Bread which he took, and bleffed, and brake, he gave to his Disciples; and the Cap which he took, and bleffed, he gave to them. Jefus Christ administred the bleffed Bread and bleffed Wine in this Sacrament.

5. It is the command of Jesus Christ, that Believers do take, and eat, and drink, this blessed Bread, and blessed Wine; for Christ gave and administred them with a command to take, and eat, and drink them; the words are clear, Take, eat, drink ye all of it; which Command the Disciples obeyed, and did take, and eat and drink the blessed Bread and Wine which Christ gave them; and so we see this blessed Bread and Wine passing from Christ to his Disciples in the Lords Supper, and eaten and drunk by them: And therefore Christians be sure to hold fast these two things in the Lords Supper.

(1.) Never yield to part with the Bread and Wine out of the Lords Supper, for they are blessed, destroy them not, for a blessing is in them; all the Blessings that come from the infinite Love of God in Christ by the Covenant of Grace, for the Salvation of Believers, are in this blessed Bread, and blessed Wine, and if ye lose the Bread and Wine, ye lose those blessings as conveyed by them.

(2.) Take and eat, and drink this Bread and Wine as the Bread of Blessing, and as the Cup of Blessing, take the Blessing that is offered with them, for it is the Blessing that makes this glorious Feast of the Lords Supper.

6. Jesus Christ hath declared the use, which this Bread and Wine are blessed, and consecrated unto; in these words, This is my Body, or this is my Body which is given, or broken for you. This Cup is my Blood of the New Testament, which is shed for many, &c. or, this Cup is the New Testament in my Blood.

These words declare two main Uses, whereunto this Bread and Wine are bleffed and confecrated.

(1.) To be Sacramental Signs, to fignific and represent to us Jesus Christ crucified, and all the Benefits of his Death; for the words do clearly speak of Christ crucified, and that with respect to us. This is my Body which is broken for you; this Cup is the New Testament in my Blood which is shed for you. And by Faith, whereby the Heart doth assent to the truth of these words, we do in this Ordinance discern the Lords Body broken for us, and his Blood shed for us, and have our Souls filled, and suitably affected with the holy knowledge and remembrance, and contemplation of Christ crucified for us.

(2.) To be a Seal to confirm the New Teastament or Covenant of Grace, whereby Christ and all the Benefits of his Death are conveyed to Believers; this appears by these words, This Cup is the New Testament, &c. and by the Apostles Explication of the words, This is my Body, -- this Cup is my Blood. I Cor. 10. 16. The Cup of Bleffing which we bless, is it not the Communion of the Blood of Christ? and the Bread which we break, is it not the Communion of the Body of Christ? Teaching us plainly, that by this bleffed Bread and Wine, there is a Communication of the Body and Blood of Christ, and of all the Benefits of his Death, which Believers are made partakers of in the Lords Supper; and therefore we are commanded to take, and eat, and drink this bleffed Bread and Wine, for this use also; which we do, not only by seeing Christ crucified as here represented to us, but also by accepting, and receiving, and feeding upon him by Faith as he is here offered to us, to be the most glorious Feast of our Souls. And although it is the great Duty of Believers to fee and feed on Christ crucified, as revealed and offered to us in his Word, and by other Ordinances, yet this is proper and and peculiar to this Ordinance; for Believers to fee and feed upon him. as he is represented and offered, and given in the appointed use of Bread and Wine.

And thus I have given you a plain and brief account of the Doffring of the Lords Supper taught us by Christ in these words; and for your confirmation in the truth thereof, I shall commend three things to your ferious confideration.

1. That for the Matter of this Feast, the Papilts cannot with their Transubstantiation declare it to be greater, or more, or better than we do without it: For we fay, Here is Christ and all that is purchased by his Blood; here is all that is revealed and conveyed to us from the infinite Love of God, by the Covenant of Grace; here is God the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost in Covenant with us, to pardon our fins, and to bring us through Holiness unto Eternal Life and Happiness in Heaven.

2. For the Guests, or Communicants, we declare them to be the holy Society of true Believers, who are in Union with Christ as his blessed Bride, and Spouse, and Members.

3. We further declare, that all the glorious things of this Feast, are fo far really present with these Guests, that their Souls do truely feed upon them, and are feasted with them, but there is no necessity of a local presence of the Objects of the Soul with the Faculties, to make up this Feast; but Believers are here feasted by the remembrance of Christs Death, which is above 1600 years past, and by their hopes of Glory in Heaven, and at the Day of Judgement, which is to come; and in seeing by Faith the crucified and glorified Body of Christ in that place and Order which the Scriptures reveal it to them, though his bleffed Pody be at a local distance from them. And so according to this Doctrine you fee fufficient reason in all thankfulness to acknowledge, that the Lords Supper is fuch a Feast as is for the honour of the great Jehovah, to entertain his beloved Children and Friends withall on Earth, till he call them to feast for ever with him in Heaven, without the Use of Bread and Wine.

Secondly, I proceed to acquaint you with the Popish Doctrine of Transubstantiation, which the Papists pretend to receive from Christ in these words: This Transubstantiation is declared in the Councel of Trent thus. (a) That by the consecration of the Bread and Wine, there is made a Concil. Tria Conversion of the whole substance of the Bread, into the substance of dent. Sess. 13. the Body of Christ, and a conversion of the whole substance of the Wine (ap. 4. can. 2. into the substance of his Blood, which conversion the catholick Church doth fitly and properly call Transubstantiation. And if any shall say, that in the Sacrament of the Eucharist, the substance of the Bread and Wine do remain, and shall deny this wonderfull and singular conversion of the whole substance of the Breadinto the Body, and of the whole substance of the Wine into the Blood of Christ, the species of the Bread and Wine Eeee only remaining, which conversion the catholick. Church doth very fitly call Transubstantiation: Let him be accursed.

But, saith Solomon, Prov. 26. 2. As the bird by wandring, and as the Swallow by slying, so the curse causeless shall not come; And therefore let them curse, but Lord bless thou, Psal. 109. 28. For in defiance of their brutish Execrations, I do with detestation deny this monstrous, and blasphemous Doctrine; and do therefore proceed to the Third particular, to prove, That there is no Transubstantiation in the Lords Supper, which I shall prove by these following Arguments.

First Argument. The Scripture is not for Transubstantiation in the Lords Supper, but is fully against it, and condemns it; we have only the words of Papists for it, but there is not one tittle of the good Word of God for it; but although there is no Ordinance of Worship more fully and plainly delivered from Christ in the Scriptures, than this of the Lords Supper, yet therein is not the least Foundation for Transubstantiation, but God saith in effect of it as he did of that abomination of the Jews, Jerem. 7. 31. --which I commanded not, neither came it into my heart; and if it came not into Gods heart, God sorbid that it should ever come into our hearts.

That the Scripture is not for, but against Transubstantiation, will appear by examining those Scriptures, which our Adversaries alleadge for it; and they are principally these two, viz. The words in the Text, This is my body, this cup is my blood: and Joh. 6. where our Saviour hath a large Discourse of eating his sless, and drinking his blood: Now I shall vindicate both these Scriptures from the sence of the Papists, and make it appear, that there is not in them the least warrant for Transubstantiation.

I shall begin with the first, which they chiefly insist upon; and here take notice that their whole Doctrine of Transubstantiation is contained in these seven particulars, all which they pretend to prove from these words, This is my body, this cup is my blood.

1. They fay that consecration of the Bread and Wine is made by these words only. (a)

chaffum confectation.

2. That by vertue of these words, the substance of the Bread and Wine are turned into the Body and Blood of Christ; and this is their bis. Hoc est

3. That after these words are pronounced by the Priest, there is no substance of the Bread and Wine remaining in the Lords Supper.

4. That the species or Accidents only of the Bread and Wine do remain in the Lords Supper, and these do significe the spiritual Feast, and are effential to this Sacrament. (b)

5. That by vertue of these words, the very material Body and Blood of Christ are locally and corporally present in the Lords Supper, and are contained under these species or Accidents of Bread and Wine. (e)

6. That with these species or Accidents of the Bread and Wines the true, material Body and Blood of Christ are taken into the Mouths and Stomachs of the Communicants, and corporally eaten and drunk by them. (d)

Ult. That the plain and necessary sence of these words. This is my Euchar, lib. 1. body, is this, viz. This Substance contained under the Accidents of Bread c Bellarm, de

and Wine, is my Body. (e)

Now I shall make it appear, that all these are Popish Inventions, con-cap. 11. trary to the mind of Christ in the words, and for that end I shall speak briefly in confutation of each of them.

(1.) To the first I say, that Consecration of the Bread and Wine is not made by these words, This is my body, this cup is my blood: but it is made by the Bleffing of the Bread and Wine by Christ and his Minifters.

1. That Confectation is not made by these words is evident, because these words do speak of Bread and Wine already consecrated, or else they cannot be true; for it cannot be faid truely of any Bread and Wine in the World, this is the Body, and this is the Blood of Christ, but only of bleffed and confecrated Bread and Wine.

- 2. That confecration is made by the bleffing of the Bread and Wine is also manifest; for it is by the Blessing that they are made blessed Bread. and bleffed Wine, or elfe the Bleffing was in vain, and Christ and his Ministers were not heard in the Prayers and Thanksgivings which they offered to God for a Bleffing on those Elements; but if men would be concluded by Scripture, the Apostle doth fully decide this controversie. I Cor. 10. 16. The cup of bleffing which we blefs, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? &c, where we see plainly that it is the bleffing of the Bread and VVine which makes them the Communion of the Body and Blood of Christ.
- (2.) They fay, that by vertue of these words, This is my body, this cup is my blood, the substance of the Bread and VVine are turned into the Body and Blood of Christ, which conversion they call Transubstantiation.

I referre you to all my Arguments against Transubstantiation, to convince you of the falshood and odiousness of this sence, only here take notice, that this cannot be the meaning of the words, for the words declare what the Bread and VVine are, viz. what they fignifie, and not what they shall be when these words are pronounced, for it is not said, Let this Bread and VVine be turned into the Body and Blood of Christ, but This is my body, this cup is my blood; which words being an affirmation of a Truth, do affirm and report that which was a truth before the words are spoken, and not that which by the speaking of the words must be made true.

(3.) They fay, that after these words are pronounced by the Priest, there remains no substance of the Bread and V.Vine in the Lords Supper.

This is such a prodigious Errour, that they may as well say, that God would have all men turn Insidels and mad men, and go out of their senses to become Christians: but I shall here only give you three Reasons against this Opinion, whereunto I shall adde more in the sollowing Discourse.

I If these words destroy the substance of the Bread and VVine out of the Lords Supper, then Jesus Christ did by these words frustrate and make voyd his own bleffing of the Bread and VVine; and so did cross his own will in praying for the Blessing, and his Fathers will in granting his prayer, for according to this Opinion, when Jesus Christ by Prayer and Thanksgiving had blessed the Bread and VVine, he presently utters words which makes them neither Bread and VVine, nor blessed; and thus they make Christ curse his own bleffing.

2. That Bread and VVine are in the Lords Supper, appears, because Jesus Christ himself did in this Ordinance administer Bread and VVine to his Disciples, and that with a command to them, to take, and eat, and drink Bread and VVine; which command the Disciples obeyed, and did accordingly take, and eat, and drink them: for proof of this, weigh the words: Jesus took Bread, and blessed, and brake, and gave to his Disciples, and said, Take, eat, this is my body: In like manner he took the cap and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it, for this is my blood, &c. Now Bellarmine (a) himself saith, "That it "cannot be doubted, but all these words, He took Bread, he blessed and "brake, and gave to his Disciples; referre to the same matter of bread which was in his hands. Seeing then that in our Saviours administration of the Lords Supper to his Disciples, which is the standing Rule and Pattern to all Ministers and Christians to the end of the world, we find Christ himself administring bread and wine, and see bread and wine passing in this Ordinance from Christ to his Disciples, and Christ commanding them to eat and drink them; for what he gave, he commanded them to take and eat and drink; and they did accordingly take and eat the Bread; and take and drink the Wine. What prodigious folly and wickedness is this, to deny that Bread and Wine are in the Lords Supper?

3. The Apostle Paul himself doth no less than three times call it Bread after consecration, and likewise tells us, that the Communicants do eat the bread, and drink the cup. See v. 26, 27, 28. For as oft as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ---- Whosever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, --- Let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup. See Christians how the Papists do contradict and quarrel with the blessed Apostle: Paul saith, that the Communicants do oft eat this Bread, and drink this Wine in the Lords Supper: The Papists say, that they never eat bread, nor drink wine. Paul saith, Whosever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup: The Papists say, No man doth ever eat this bread, nor drink this cup. Paul saith, a Bellarm.de Euchar.lib. 1. cap. 11. Let him eat this bread, and drink this cup: The Papil's say, Let him not eat this bread, nor drink this cup. See, I say, the difference tetwixt God and the Apostle on the one hand, and the Pope and Papil's on the other hand; and choose whether ye will believe, for if God be to be believed before the Papil's, there is bread and wine in the Lords Supper.

There are feveral Objections which the Papists make again't this last after Môses his Rod was turn'd into a Serpent, it is still called a Rod, Exod. 7: 12. and after the water was turn'd into wine, yet it is still called water, Job. 2.9. So say they, after this bread is turned into the body of Christ it is still called bread, because it was bread before this conversion was made.

Answ. The Scripture calls the Serpent a Rod, because that which was then a Serpent was before a Rod; and the Wine is called Water, because that which was then wine was water a little before; but Christs body never was bread, and therefore there is not the like Reason to call it bread.

'2 Object. The Scripture often calls things not from their Nature, but from their outward Appearance to us. So the Angels that appeared to Abraham in the Likeness of Men are called Men, Geness. 18. and so because this hath the outward appearance of bread, therefore the Scripture calls it bread: This is Bellarmines Objection. (a)

is fo, and hath the true Nature and Properties of bread, fo it calls it cap. 14-bread after confecration, not because it is like bread, but because it is bread; for confecration doth bless the thing confecrated, but never destroyes it: and therefore this Objection is vain, because these Angels never were Men, nor had the beings of men, but only appeared in the likeness of Men; but this had the true substance of bread before confecration, as our Adversaries grant, and hath the true substance of bread after confecration, as we have proved, and for that Reason both before and after the Scripture calls it bread.

(4.) They fay, that the species or Accidents only of the bread and wine remain in the Lords Supper, and these do significate body and blood of Christ, and are essential to this Sacrament: by species or Accidents is meant the colour, simell, sweetness, length, breadth, moysture, &c. of the bread and wine, and these, say they, ye see, taste, feel, smell, cat and drink, but ye do not see, nor taste, nor smell, nor touch, nor eat, nor drink Bread and Wine:

- I shall only at present say two things against this Opinion :.

1. This as our Divines well argue, is a plain contradiction, for the effence and being of Accidents is to be inherent in the Subjects which they are Accidents of; or elfethey subsist by themselves, and so are not Accidents.

Accidents but Substances; to instance in the present case: If there be whiteness, and redness, and length, and breadth, and heaviness, there must be some substance that is white, and red, and long, and broad, and heavy; or else the communicants must in the Lords Supper solemnly eat, and drink white, and red, and long, and broad, and heavy nothing.

2. There is the same Reason to deny that the accidents of Bread and Wine do remain in the Lords Supper, as to deny that the substance of them do remain there, for if these words, This is my body, this cup is my blood, do destroy the substance, certainly they must destroy the accidents too, for they are pronounced over the whole bleffed bread and wine, and make no distinction between the substance and accidents, but speak the fame of both together. And therefore I shall here expostulate this case with our Adversaries thus: when our Lord Jesus blessed the brea dand wine, did he bless the substance with one kind of blessing, and the accidents with another? did his bleffing on the Substance destroy it, and the fame bleffing on the Accidents preserve them? Or when Christ said, This is my body, this cup is my blood, can they perswade themselves, that he therein said one thing of the substance, and another thing quite contrary of the accidents? So that by vertue of these words, the Substance of bread and wine is turned into the body and blood of Christ, and the Accidents of bread and wine are preserved without the substance, and appointed to fignifie his body and blood; or if by vertue of these words the substance be destroyed, by vertue of what words are the accidents preserved, and consecrated to a use quite contrary to the use of the Substance? If they fay, Their senses tell them, the Accidents remain there, we fay and shall make it appear, that their senses and ours also tell us and them, that the substance with the accidents remain there also, and if Faith must conclude against the senses in the case of the substance, why must it not also conclude against the senses in the case of the accidents? but if again t Scripture, and Reason, and Sense, the Papilts will usurpa Power to keep and destroy what they please in this Sacrament, let us keep our Lords Supper, and let them take their Popes Supper.

(5.) They fay, that by vertue of these words, the very material body and blood of Christ are locally and corporally present in the Lords Supper, and are contained under the Accidents of Bread and Wine.

I might plead many Arguments against this, but I must remember that I am limited in my work, and shall therefore give you onely one Argument to convince you of the falseness and madness of this Opinion, and that is this.

Arg. If these words, This is my body, this cup is my blood, & c. do make the body and blood of Christ to be locally and corporally present in the Lords Supper, then his Body crucified and dead upon the cross, and his Blood there shed out of his veins, are locally and corporally present in the Lords Supper. Observe Christians where these mens Principles lead them; I know our Adversaries do consess, that the body of Christ is no where where found dead fince his Refurrection, and therefore faith Bellarmine. (a) God doth not cause, nor ever will cause to all Eternity, that the Body a Deus non facie, of Christ be any where found dead; yet I say, it doth necessarily follow necessary, us this Doctrine, that his body is found dead upon the Cross, and his blood Christicorius there shed in the Lords Supper; for if these words do make his body and at mortin m. blood locally and corporally prefent under the species of bread and wine Bellarm. de as they affirm, then it must be his body and blood as these words do expressely declare, this is my body broken for you, this cup is my blood thed for the Remission of the sins of many; which words do clearly speak of his body crucified, and dead, and of his blood shed upon the Cross: and therefore the Apostle doth teach us, that in this Ordinance we do thew forth the Lords death; fo that nothing can be more clear, than that by this Doctrine the bread and wine are turned into the dead body of Christ, and into his blood shed upon the Cross, and that his body crucified and dead upon the Cross, with his blood there shed, are locally and corporally present under the Accidents of bread and wine: And so by this Doctrine, Christs body was really and actually dead upon the Cross, and so present under the Accidents of bread and wine, when at the first Intitution and Administration of the Lords Supper, he faid, This is my body given, or broken for you; and this is my blood shed, &c. And also in despite of the Apostle, that saith, Rom. 6.9. Christ being raised from the dead, dieth no more; his body must be dead upon the Cross; and as fo dead, must be locally and corporally present in the Lords Supper, under the Accidents of bread and wine, whenfoever or wherefoever this Sacrament hath been, or shall be administred since his Resurrection to his coming to Judgement. And moreover, it must also follow from this Doctrine, that the very material Cross on which Christ was crucified, and all the Instruments of his Death, must be locally and corporally prefent at the Lords Supper, and the very Souldier that pierced him must be there present, piercing his side with a Spear; yea, the very hour of his Death, though fo many years past, and the place of his death, so many miles distant, must be present in every time and place the Lords Supper is administred. Christians, these consequences are not forced, but these, and an hundred more such wild contradictions do necessarily follow this Doctrine, as appears to any who will but grant, that which cannot be denyed, viz. That these words, This is my body which is broken for you, this cup is my blood shed for many, do directly point at the body of Christ crucified and dead upon the Cross, with the manner, and all the instruments and circumstances of his death, as recorded by the Evangelists in the History of his Passion.

(6.) They fay, that with these species or Accidents of bread and wine, the true material body and blood of Christ are taken into the mouths and stomachs of the Communicants, and corporally eaten and drunk by them.

I have three things to fay against this odious and barbarous Do-Ctrine.

1. It afferts that which is impossible.

2. That which is unprofitable both to Soul and Body.

3. That which is impious and flagitious.

First, This Opinion afferts a multitude of impossibilities and contradictions, and that in a very great and weighty point of Religion; now that ye may understand the strength of these kind of Arguments, take notice, That when two things are affirmed that are altogether inconsistent, so that one of them fully destroyes the truth of the other; and if one be true, the other must necessarily be false; this is an impossibility, or contradiction; as to affirm, that the same man is dead and alive at the same time, is a contradiction, because he cannot be dead of a natural death, and live a natural life at the same time. Now I say in this Opinion of corporal eating the body, and drinking the blood of Jesus Christ, is a multitude of most horrid contradictions, which are found in three cases.

1. In the case of Jesus Christ, his eating and drinking the Lords Supper, for our Adversaries agree with us, that Jesus Christ did eat and drink the Lords Supper.

2. In the case of the Disciples, at the first Administration of this Ordinance.

3. In the case of all Communicants ever after.

(1.) In the case of fesus Christ, his eating and drinking the Lords Supper; I shall here onely instance in three plain and grosse contradictions.

1. That Jesus Christ, did with his body eat his own whole body, and yet his body continue as it was before whole and uneaten, and so the same body was eaten and not eaten at the same time, and the Eater and that which is eaten is every way the same, and that which was eaten did eat the body, which was the Eater of it, in the same Action, and at the same time.

2. That the same facred body of Jesus Christ was in all its dimenfions and proportions, sitting at the Table in the view of his Disciples, and yet was at the same time in his own mouth and stomack, and so either this one body of Christ was multiplyed into two, viz. one within the other; or else the same whole body, and sless, and bones, was inclosed in a little part of his own body.

3. That Jesus Christ did drink his own precious blood, and that the same material blood of Christ-was shed, and was in the cup, and did pass out of the cup into the mouth and stomach of our Lord, and yet at the same time his blood not shed, neither did move out of his veins. These are most filthy, odious, and hideous contradictions.

(2.) There are many contradictions in the case of the Disciples, who by this Doctrine are said corporally to eat and drink the material Body and Blood of Christ, at the Institution and first Administration of the Lords Supper: For either they did eat and drink his body and blood, as he was then alive, before his death; or as dead and crucified with his blood shed on the Cross; or as gloristed in Heaven, or as all these together. Now in every one of these there are many horrid contradictions.

1. If they fay, that they did eat and drink his body and blood as he was alive before his death, then there are these two contradictions therein.

First, That his whole body was sitting at the Table with his Disciples, and also in the Mouths and Stomachs of his Disciples at the same time, and so every Disciple had the same whole body in his Stomach, which they all saw sitting before them at the Table.

Secondly, That his Blood was shed out of his body, and taken into the mouths and stomachs of his Disciples, and yet not shed but continued within his own body at the same time.

2. If they did eat his body dead and crucified upon the Cross, and and corporally drink his blood there shed; then his body was dead and crucified on the Cross, and dead in their Stomachs, and alive at the Table at the same time.

3. If they did corporally eat his glorified body, and drink the blood of his glorified body; then his body was glorified in Heaven after his death, and as such was in the Disciples Stomachs, and yet at the same time was upon Earth in the state of his Humiliation before his death.

4. If they did eat his body and drink his blood as alive, and dead and glorified, and so considered altogether; then his body was really alive before his death, and dead upon the Cross, and glorified in Heaven, and in all these cases, in the Mouths and Stomachs of his Disciples at the same time. These and many such blasphemous Contradictions are in the Disciples corporally eating the body, and drinking the blood of Jesus Christ.

(3.) There are also many plain and horrid contradictions in the case of all Communicants eating and drinking the body and blood of Christ, under the species of Bread and Wine, since the Institution and first Administration of this Ordinance. I shall only instance in this one.

That one and the same body of Christ which is a finite being, should be wholly in Heaven, and at the same time wholly under the Accidents of Bread and Wine in the Lords Supper, wheresoever it is administred, and no where else in the World, and that this one body in Heaven should be wholly present with these Accidents, in all the Mouths of the many thousand Communicants in Rome, Spain, France, England, and in all other parts of the World where this Sacrament is administred; doth speak as many Contradictions as there are communicants in the world, and all as impossible, as it is for the same particular man to be preaching in a Pulpit at Rome, and at the same time to be preaching the same Sermon in all the Pulpits of the World. And thus I have shewed you, that this corporal eating the Body, and drinking the Blood of Jesus Christ with the species or Accidents of bread and Wine, is impossible.

Secondly, It is unprofitable, and doth neither good to Soul nor Body. This appears by our Saviours words, Joh. 6. 63 .--- The flesh profiteth nothing .-- That is, the corporal eating the flesh of Christ profiteth nothing; and that this is our Saviours meaning, is evident; because it is the design of our Saviour in the foregoing words, to shew the Necessity, and the great Profit and Advantage of eating and drinking the body and blood of Christ spiritually by Faith; the Necessity hereof is expressed, Vers. 53. Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no Life in you; and this (faith Christ) is Profitable, as the Means of our Union with him, Verf. 56. He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him; and is also profitable to Eternal Life; and Happiness, Vers. 54. Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath Eternal Life, and I will raise him up at the last day. Now the Jews were startled at his words, understanding that he meant a corporal eating of his fielh, and therefore fay they, Vers. 52. How can this man give us his flesh to eat? This was such a Mistake as that of Nicodemus, 70h. 3. 3, 4. who when our Saviour spake of the Necessity of being born again, he wondered, and faid, How can un old man be born? can he enter the second time into his Mothers womb, and be born? And the Disciples themselves understanding our Saviour in that gross and carnal fence of corporal eating his flesh, were offended, and said, v. 6. This is an hard saying, who can hear it? And therefore Christ explains his words, v. 63. It is the Spirit that quickeneth, the Flesh profiteth nothing; the words that I speak unto you are spirit, and are life: That is, my words as you mistake them for a corporal eating my flesh, and drinking my blood, are not true; for the eating my flesh so profiteth nothing, but that eating my flesh, and drinking my blood by Faith in a spiritual manner, will make you bleffed for ever; and fo my words which I speak of this matter, are Spirit, and they are Life; and hereby it is manifest to all but fuch who fludy to corrupt and pervert the Scriptures, that our Saviour himself tells us, that corporal eating his flesh, and drinking his blood, is altogether unprofitable. And I say it neither doth good to Body nor Soul.

1. It doth no good to the body, for it doth neither gratifie the Palate, nor allay or fatisfie hunger or thirst, nor turns into any bodily nourishment, and so hath no use or property of bodily food.

2. It doth no good to the Souls, either of the Wicked, or of the Godly.

(1) It doth no good to the Souls of the Wicked, as our Adversaries themselves confess; and yet they will have this glorious body and precious blood, of Christ to be taken corporally into the blasphemous mouths; and into the open Sepulchres of the throats of Swearers, and into the beastly

beaffly mawes or ftomachs of Drunkards and Gluttons; and within the rotten bodies of Whoremongers and Harlots, and there to lodge till the Accidents of bread and wine be digested, and then to remove no body knowes whither, leaving the curfed Inhabitants no better than he found

(2) Neither doth this corporal eating the flesh, or drinking the blood of Christ do any good to the Souls of the Godly, it kills no Sin, begets or quickens no Grace, yields no comfort, and indeed is not defireable to any wife and holy Christian, who never hungers and thirsts to have the body and blood of Christ in his mouth and stomach: Neither is it Christs way by entering into the mouths, and going down into the stomachs of his People to feed and feast their Souls; but Christ is spiritually formed in their hearts, Gal. 4. 19. and the Spirit doth glorifie Christ in them, 70h. 16. 14. and by the word and Sacraments their fouls are feasted with the remembrance of his death, and with seeing him by faith crowned with bonour and glory in heaven, Heb. 2.9. and in their joyfull expectation of all the benefits of his death and refurrection, and intercession in the holy and blessed world; but the bodies of believers shall never meet the body of Christ till they meet the Lord in the air, and so to be for ever with the Lord, 1 Thef. 4.17. but for this doctrine of the corporal presence of Christ in the mouths and stomachs of men which the frantick Papilts would make us believe, it is a doctrine fitter to make our hairs stand an end, than to feed our souls, and is good for nothing, but to make the Popish Religion odious to all wife, and sober Christians.

Thirdly, I have this further to charge on this doctrine, that it teacheth a practice most horribly impious and flagitious: for to feed on mans flesh, and to drink mans blood was ever accounted a most barbarous transgreffion of all the rules of piety and humanity, and therefore this mult be the height of that kind of impiety, to eat the facred flesh, and to drink the precious blood of Christ in a corporal manner, which the Popish Can nibals teach men to practife; and which they pretend to prove both from the Text, and from Joh. 6. Against which odious sence, holy Austin pleads the same Argument, which I now use, saying, (a) " If there be a a August, de Do-"Precept forbidding Sin, and commanding Good, it is not then a figu-dina Chilla-rative speech, but if it seem to command a horrible wickedness, or 15, 16. "forbid that which is profitable, then it is a figurative speech; and he "gives this Example in Joh. 6. 53. Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man --- This (faith he) feems to command a most heinous wickedness, and therefore it is a figurative speech, commanding us to communicate "with the sufferings of our Lord, and sweetly and profitably to lay up this in our memories, that his flesh was crucified, and wounded for us.

But the Papists proceed in their Blasphemy, and are not ashamed to tell us that if Dogs, or Mice, or Rats, or Worms, do eat the confecrated Host, they do therewith eat the body of Christ; and therefore according Can. 39. glosa ing to their Wisdom they have provided in their Missal, (b) That if Rats, confectations.

or Worms, do eat the body of Christ, they must be burned; what for Hereticks? because their senses took it only for Bread? but if their Host be not God, why do they worship him with Divine Worship? and if he be God, why will they cast their God into the fire?

And Tho. Aquinas their Angelical Doctor, as they call him, (and of whom they tell us this tale, that his Doctrine of the Sacrament was confirmed by this Miracle; a Wooden Crucifix miraculously saluted him with these words, Ben'e scripssti de me Thoma, Thou hast written well of me Thomas) doth affert and plead for this dirty Ribauldry, saying, (c) That it doth no more detract from the Dignity of Christ to be eaten by Dogs and Mice, than his being willing to be crucified for our Sins. A goodly Argument for such an acute Schoolman; as if because Jesus Christ in the state of his Humiliation was willing to be crucified for our fins, therefore in the state of his Exaltation, he is willing that his gloristed body in Heaven should be eaten by Dogs and Mice: but thus they talk, as if their Doctors had sate in the Council with Devils in the Gates of Hell, to debauch the Faith of Christians, and to disgrace the body of Christ.

Lastly, They say, that the plain and necessary sence of these words, This is my Body, is this, this substance contained under the Accidents.

of Bread is my Body. The line a work of the

What I have already spoken to the former particulars doth fully conclude against this sence; and yet I shall here adde two things against it.

1. That this fence is inconsistent with their own Doctrine.

2. That it is repugnant to the true, and plain, and necessary sence

(1.) That this sence is inconsistent with their own Doctrine, appears in two particulars.

1. In their forcing two different, and both false sences on these words, This is my body, viz. this substance contained under the Accidents of bread is my body, and these Accidents of Bread do signific my body; and so the word This must both mean, this substance, viz. Christs body, and also these Accidents of Bread, and the word is must both be is properly and essentially my body, and is significatively the Signof.

I know Bellarmine (d) sometimes grants, that it is truly most absurd, to say that by the word This, is meant these Accidents: yet the same Bellarmine tells, (e). "That the Accidents of Bread and Wine do signifie the spiritual Feast, meaning as he explains himself, the body and blood of Christ, and that the Accidents of bread and wine, as well as the body and blood of Christ, do pertain to the essence of this Sacrament: Now that they force this sence on these words, is clear, because all their pretended Miracles in the Lords Supper, whereof the preserving the Accidents without the Substance is one, are with them essected by vertue of these

d Bellarm. de Euchar, lib 1. eap, 11. eDe Euchar, lib. 4, cap. 5. these words, and also because Consecration, one Effect whereof must be to confecrate the Accidents of bread, to fignifie the Body of Christ, is in their fence made by these words: So that it is evident, that they distort these words, This is my body, to both these sences, this Substance contained under the Accidents of bread is my body; and these Accidents of bread do fignifie my body; which are fo inconfiftent, that all the Rope of Popes, can never be able to tie them together.

2. This fence is inconfistent with their Doctrine, which teacheth, that the subfrance of the bread is turned into the body of Christ by vertue of these words: And saith Bellarmine, (f) in the last moment when all these f De Euchar. words are spoken, then this Conversion is made; now to say, that the Conversion of the Bread into the body of Christ is not made till all these words are spoken, and yet to say, that the first word this doth demonstrate Christs body, are plainly inconsistent.

(2.) I proceed to prove, that this sence is repugnant to the true and plain, and necessary sence of Christ in the words: for which purpose observe that excellent Rule of holy Augustine, (9) "It is as manifest an g August, de "Errour in the explication of Scripture to take figurative words proper- Drania Christiana lib. 3. "ly, as to wrest those words which are properly spoken, into a Tropical or figurative sence: By both which wayes of perverting the holy Scriptures, multitudes of Herefies have troubled the Church of God. And this Doctrine of Transubstatiation, with all the mischiefs in Doctrine. Worship and Practice, which attend it, proceed from the Papists interpreting these words, This is my body, in a literal and proper sence, which must be understood in a figurative sence: The hinge of the present controversie is turned upon these two words, this is; now I shall make it appear, that by the word this is meant this Bread, and that by the word is. must be meant, is a Sign, or doth fignifie, and so that the true sence of our Saviour in the words is this, viz. This bread is a sign of my body, or this bread doth signifie or represent my body.

That by the word this, is meant this bread, appears by three Rea-

fons.

1. By the Order and Course of the words, by which it is plain, that of that bread, which Jesus took, and blessed, and brake, and commanded his Disciples to cat, he said, This is my body.

2. Because Jesus Christ saith expressely of the Cup which he took, and bleffed, and gave and commanded them to Drink, This Cup is the New Testament. So say Luke and Paul in the Text; therefore we must conclude, that of the bread, which he took, and bleffed, and brake, and gave, &c. he faith in effect, This bread is my body.

3. St. Pauls Interpretation of the words may fully convince all, that the word this doth demonstrate the Bread, I Cor. 10. 16. The cup of blessing which we biefs, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? the bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? which speak the same thing though in other words, as this bread is the body body of Christ, this Cup is the blood of Christ; so that it is clear, that by the word this, is meant this bread.

Secondly, Hence it followes, that the word is, cannot be taken properly, but must mean, is a sign, or doth signifie or represent; it cannot be taken properly, for bread and the body of Christ are two Substances effentially different, and therefore it cannot be properly faid, that bread a Disparatum de is effentially Christs body. (a) But this is a sure Rule, that when the proprie prædiword is stands between the sign and the thing signified, then it must mean is a fign, or fignifieth, or representeth. And this is the present case, the bleffed bread is a fign of Christs Body, and therefore the meaning of Christ must be, This bread signifieth or representeth my Body, according to that known saying of Augustine: (b) Christ doubted not to say, This Marich. lib. 12. is my body, when he gave the sign of his body.

b August. contra Adamant. Non dubitant dicere, Hoc eft corpus meum, cum fignumdarer Corporis fui.

Observe yet further, That whereas there is no Example in all the Scripture, of a Sign being turned into the thing fignified, yet it is very ordinary in Scripture-similitudes, to give a thing the Name of that whereunto it is likened; I am the Rose of Sharon, and the Lilly of the Valleys, Cant. 2. I am the living bread, Job. 6. I am the door, Joh. 10. I am the true Vine, Joh. 15. All these faith Christ of himself, but is he therefore turned into a Rose or Lilly, or Bread, or Door, or Vine; no, the words taken literally and properly, are blasphemy; but the meaning is?

he is like these, as to the particular cases whereof he speaks.

So the Scripture ordinarily gives to Signs the Names of the things fignified, Genes. 40. 12. The three branches are three dayes, v. 18. The three baskets are three dayes; and of fuch things we have a multitude of Examples. And thus the Holy Ghost gives to Sacramental signs, the names of the things fignified by them. Circumcifion is cal'd the Covenant, whereof it was a Sign and Seal, Gen. 17.13. the Lamb is cal'd the Passeover, Exod. 12, 11, and so in the Text the bread is call Christs body, and the wine his blood, because they are Signs, and a Seal to fignifie and convey Christ, with the benefits of his body broken, and of his blood shed for us. And thus I have proved, that this Scripture is not for, but against Transubstantiation, in all the branches of it.

The other Scripture which they alleadge for Transubstantiation, is our Saviours discourse of eating his flesh, and drinking his blood, in Joh. 6. And Bellarmine (c) pretends to prove that Doctrine from v. 51. of that chapter, almost to the end of the Chapter.

To this I say, that I do readily grant, that the flesh and blood of Christ here spoken of, which include the benefits of his death, is the spiritual matter of the Feast of the Lords Supper; and that Believers are here required to feast their Souls by Faith on the body and blood of Christ, and on all the benefits of his death, in all those wayes which God is pleased to offer it to them: And therefore though the Lords Supper be fince instituted, yet they are bound by this Scripture to feed on the body and blood of Christ in that Ordinance, in the appointed use of bread and wine.

e Bellarm. de Enchar, lib. 1. cap. 5,6.

wine. But yet this Scripture also is fully against Transubstantiation, and the corporal presence of the body and blood of Christ, under the Accidents of Bread and Wine, and the Communicants eating and drinking the same; and this appears by these three Reasons.

I. Because as I have proved, our Saviour tels us, that his flesh, viz. the corporal eating his flesh profiteth nothing ver. 63.

II. Because the eating the sless and drinking the blood of Christ here spoken of, is of absolute necessity to salvation, v.53. Except ye eat the sless of the son of man, and drink his blood ye have no life in you, but though none can be happy who do not eat the sless and drink the blood of Christ in the sence of this Scripture, yet our adversaries do not deny, but many have eternal life who never eat and drank the Lords Supper.

III. Because Eternal life is certainly setled and entail'd on all those who do eat the slesh and drink the blood of Christ in the sence of this Scripture, ver. 54. Whose eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day; and yet the Papists tell us that wicked men may corporally eat the slesh and drink the blood of Christ; so that the Popish eating the slesh and drinking the blood of Christ, and that eating his slesh and drinking his blood, which our Saviour here speaks of, are as farre different as heaven and hell.

2. Argument. It is impossible that this Transubstantiation should be in the Lords Supper, this is evident by the nature of the thing: for who so understands the nature of this act of Transubstantiation, and the terms thereof, viz. the bread and wine, which are the things that are turned, and the body and blood of Christinto which this bread and wine are turned, must clearly see that as hereby the bread and wine must be taken away, fo the body and blood of Christ must be hereby made and produc'd: and therefore in their Letany of the Sacrament they doe invocate it thus; panis omnipotenti à Dei caro faltus miserere nobis: O Bread which by the Almighty power of God art made flesh have mercy upon us, implying that the flesh and body of Christ is made by this Transubstantiation, and thus by this blasphemous contradiction they make the substance of the glorious body of Christ, so long since born of the Virgin, to be the birth of this prodigious monster of Transubstantiation; now I say it is impoflible to make that which was made before, to do that by an act which was done before the act, its impossible for the effect to be before the eause, and its impossible for bread of a few hours old to be turn'd into the substance of the body of Christ, which was continually of the same substance for above a 1000 years before.

And therefore though these blasphemers seem devoutly to adore the Almighty power of God, which by this conversion hath wrought supendum supra omnia miraculum, the most stupendious of all miracles, as they invocate it in the same Lettany of the Sacrament; yet all in effect that they can say is this, that the great God out of his infinite love to his Church hath in this blessed ordinance of the Lords Supper by many astonishing miracles done just nothing, and thus they most pro-

phanely abuse the fearfull name of God in ascribing a work to his dreadfull omnipotency, which is beneath the power of his meanest creature. viz. to make that which was made before, which indeed cannot be a work of any power at all. I know some learned men of the Church of Rome do undertake to decline this impossibility and contradiction, and yet to defend this doctrine of Transubstantiation as defin'd in the Council of Trent, and therefore Bellarmine with many of his brethrenthe lefuites to avoid the aforesaid impossibility; explaines this action of Tran. fubstantiation thus, that the conversion of the bread into the body of Christ, non esse productivam sed adductivam, that it is not such a conver-"fion that produceth the body of Christ, for that was extant before, " but it is such a conversion, whereby the body of Christ which was be-"fore in heaven, is now (yet without any local motion from heaven) "made present under the accidents of bread in the Lords Supper. whilst their champion by another contradiction (in making the same body of Christ, which is in heaven to be under the accidents of bread on earth, and yet without receiving any new being or moving from heaven to earth) pleads for Transubstantiation, he destoyes both the name, and nature of it: He destroys the name of it, for that conversion, which he speaks of, may be cald a Desubstantiation or destruction of the bread, and a translocation, or transposition of the body of Christ, whereby it is placed where it was not before, but can by no means bear the name of Transubstantiation, which (faith the Council of Trent) the Catholick Church doth very fitly and properly give it.

Again he destroyes the nature of Transubstantiation, for in every substantial conversion, whereby one substance is turned into another, the latter is alwaies produc'd, and receives being upon the destruction of the former, as when Moses his rod was turned into a serpent, Exod.4. had God only destroy'd the substance of the rod, and set a Serpent, that was extant before in the place of it, this had not been a turning the rod into a Serpent. So when at the marriage feast, John 2. Christ turn'd water into wine, had God only destroyed the substance of the water, and fet wine that was extant before in some wine-fellar, and plac'd it in the water-pots, this had not been a turning water into wine; but the true substance of the serpent, and the true substance of the wine were by those miraculous conversions made and produc'd, and so if the true substance of the bread and wine be miraculously turn'd into the substance of the body and blood of Christ, as the Council of Trent will have it. upon the destruction of the substance of the bread and wine, there must necessarily be produc'd the substance of the body and blood of Christ, as the effect and product of that conversion: and notwithstanding all the noise which our adversaries make in the Christian world, about this matter, they must either affert this monstrous impossibility, and contradiction, or disclaim their own doctrine of Transubstantiation.

3 Argument. This doctrine of Transubstantiation destroyes the Lords Supper, my reason is, because this doctrine takes away those facred signs of bread and wine, which God hath appointed to be of absolute necessity to the being of this Sacrament, and if these be taken away there is no fuch thing as the Lords Supper in the world.

Our Adversaries grant, that its necessary to the being of a Sacrament, that there be a fensible, and facred fign, and that must fignifie a facred and a Thom. paraz.

holy thing, and this fign must be of Gods institution.(a)

Now the fign or figns in this Sacrament of the Lords Supper, must be qu.60. art.1.2. one of these three things.

1. It must be either the body and blood of Christ. 2. Or it must be the accidents of bread and wine.

3. Or it must be true bread and wine.

I. It cannot be the body and blood of Christ, for these are not sensible, and they are the things fignified, and therefore they cannot be the figns.

II. It cannot be the Accidents of bread and wine, though Bellarmin, as I have shewed, makes these to signific the body and blood of Christ, and so to be essential to this Sacrament; but this cannot be, for two Rea-

1. Because, as I have proved, the accidents without the substance are nothing, and so can signific nothing, and therefore can be no signes.

- 2. Every Sacramental fign must be (as our adversaries confess) of Gods institution, now God never ordained the accidents of bread and wine without the substance to signific the body and blood of Christ; if he did, either they must be consecrated to this use by virtue of these words, this is my body, this cup is my blood, &c. or these words must declare them to be of this use, but our adversaries dare not stand to either of these, for then they must yield, that the meaning of these words is, these accidents of bread and wine are fignes of, or do fignifie the body and blood of Christ, but that by the word this is meant these accidents, Bellarmin as I have shewed, denies, and that the word is, doth denote is a fign or doth fignifie, they will by no means admit, because it doth justifie our fence of that word, as speaking of the bread and wine; and overthrowes all their Disputations to prove that the word is, must not be taken in a figurative but proper sence, and indeed overthrowes their whole Do-Arine of Transubstantiation. So that it's manifest, that neither Christ's body and blood, nor the Accidents of bread and wine can be the Signs in this Sacrament.
- 3. It remains therefore, that the true bread and wine, must be the only facred and appointed Signs of the body and blood of Christ in the Lords Supper; and that therefore the Papilts in destroying the bread and wine, do utterly destroy this bleffed Sacrament, and tear off this facred Seal from the Covenant of Grace, and rob the Church of God, of the body and blood of Christ, and of all the benefits of his Death, as signified and conveyed to them by this Ordinance.

4 Argament. Those Miracles which the Papills affirm to be wrought. Gggg.

by Transubstantiation in the Lords Supper, are all salse and seigned. In pursuance of this Argument, I shall

First, Repeat some of those Miracles which are said to be wrought by this Act of Transubstantiation.

Secondly, Prove them to be false and feigned.

(1.) I shall only repeat Four of their pretended Miracles.

1. That the Substance of the bread and wine is turned into the body and blood of Christ, and yet his body and blood were extant above a thousand years before the bread and wine were in being.

2. That the Substance of the bread and wine is destroyed, and the Accidents made to remain without the substance, and yet no sensible difference made between the natural Properties of this blessed and wine, and all other bread and wine in the world, wherein the Substance continues with the Accidents.

3. That at the first Administration of this Sacrament, the Body of Christs should be in all its compleat parts, head, arms, limbs, and all his sless and bones at the Table, and there seen and to be felt, and yet the same body, at the same time in the mouths and stomachs of his Disciples, and they not have the least sence of it.

4. That the fame body of Christ should be gloristed in Heaven, and at the same time, be in the mouths and stomachs of all the Communicants in the world, and be with those Accidents of bread, wheresoever they are, and no where else, and yet not move from Heaven to Earth, nor from one place of the Earth to another, and still be one and the same body.

(2.) I say, these and all such are seigned and false Miracles, as appears by these six Reasons.

1. Because, Though they are pretended to be the stupendious and miraculous works of the Almighty power of God, yet are they no Miracles at all, but impossibilities and contradictions, as I have proved, and so are nothing, and are not works of so much power as for a Worm to creep, and a Grashopper to leap.

2. Because, No Miracles were ever wrought upon sensible Creatures, but the change made by them was discerned, or at least discernible by the senses of men, for whose sake they were wrought: The Serpent which Moses his Rod was turn'd into, the Wine which the Water was turn'd into, and all the Miracles wrought by Moses in Egypt, with all other such Miracles recorded in Scripture, not one excepted, were perceived by the senses; and so if one sensible Creature be turn'd into another sensible Creature, that which the former is turn'd into must be made sensible, or if a sensible Creature be turn'd into an insensible, that which is so turned must pass out of the reach of the senses, and become insensible. And therefore there is no such Miracle wrought as is here pretended, because here is sensible bread and wine, and the senses of men do see, and handle, and taste as plain bread and wine, as there is any in the world.

3. Because God never settled such a Power on any order of men, for every one in that Order, to have in all Ages a constant power to work Miracles, and yet by this Doctrine of Transubstantiation, every Priest doth carry about him a power to work more and greater Miracles than ever were wrought by Christ and his Apostles.

4. Because God never set up any stated Ordinance in the Church for the working of Miracles, nor bound himself upon any mens using any Scripture words, alwayes to work Miracles; and yet the Papists will have God alwayes bound to work Miracles, upon every Priests rightly pronouncing in the Lords Supper these words, This is my body.

5. God never gave men a power to work Miracles on the glorified body of Christ: Moses had power to divide the waters of the Red Sea, Exod. 14.21. and Joshua had once power to say to the Sun and Moon, Sun stand thou still upon mount Gibeon, and thou Moon in the valley of Ajelon, Josh. 10.12. and the Disciples had power to cast out Devils, Matth. 10.8. and Christ tells his Disciples, Math. 17.20. If ye have Faith as a grain of Mustard-seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence into yonder place, and it shall remove: but for every dirty Priest to practise such a miraculous power upon the glorified body of Christ, as upon the using of these words, This is my body, to call it to be locally and corporally present in all the mouths and stomachs of all the Communicants at the Lords Supper; is such a Popish Dream, as exceeds all the fanatick Enthusiasmes in the world, but can never be reckoned in the number of any true Divine Miracles.

6. All these pretended Miracles are of no use, and to no purpose, as to the ends of this Ordinance; but without them we have the body and blood of Christ, with all the benefits of his Death represented, and communicated to us, and so do attain all the ends of this Sacrament in the appointed use of this bleffed bread and wine.

5 Argument. The Doctrine of Transubstantiation is false, because all the senses of all men in the world do testifie, that bread and wine remain in the Lords Supper after Consecration, and this testimony is true: That all the senses of all men in the world, who are in their senses, and know what bread and wine are, and have them so placed that the senses may perceive them, do testisse that this is bread and wine, is not denyed; but that which is denyed, and I am to prove, is, that this Testimony of the Senses is true, and that I prove by these four Reasons.

1. Because by this testimony a man hath the same evidence, that bread and wine remain in the Lords Supper after consecration, as he hath that there are any visible or sensible Creatures in the world; for if when a man sees, and toucheth, and tasts, and simells bread and wine, and hears the wine poured out, he cannot truely know, and upon his knowledge by his senses, truely say, that what he so sees, and tastes, and toucheth, and finells, and hears, is bread and wine; he cannot upon his knowledge by his fenses truely say, that there is a Sun, or Moon, or Starres, or Men, or Birds, or Beasts, or Trees, or Stones, or Earth, or Water, or any bread and wine in the world; for the senses cannot give him a more full and sure evidence of the being of any of these Creatures, than they do of the being of bread and wine in the Lords Supper.

2. Because, if the testimony of the senses be not true, then all that Religion which is founded on Gods manifesting himself by the Creatures, to the Understandings of men, in the use of their Senses, is not a true Religion, but is quite extinguished out of the world, and so there is no Law of Nature binding men truely to know, and love, and prayse God, as he is manifested in the Creatures; and then it is no sin at all for men to take no notice of the glory of God, which the Heavens, and Earth, and Day, and Night, declare to them, Pfal. 19. And then the Apostles words are not true, in telling us, That the eternal Power and Godhead are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, Rom. 1.20. For if by the use of our senses we cannot know, that these things are true, then we neither can, nor are bound to know and honour, and love the Wisdom, and Power, and Goodness of God in them.

3. If the testimony of the Senses be not true, we have no certainty of the Christian Religion; for we cannot know there is a Bible, or letters, or words in it; or that there is a Church, or any such Society of Believers, or that there are Ministers, or Sermons, or Sacraments in the world, for all these are perceived by our senses.

4. If our Saviours Argument was good, to prove that by his flesh and bones, perceived by the senses, he was no Spirit, Luk, 24. 39. Behold my hands and my feet, handle me and see. Then this Argument is also good, behold, handle, taste and sinell, and thereby judge if there be not a sensible Substance, and this particular Substance of bread and wine in the Lords Supper.

There are two main Objections which the Papilts make against this Argument, which I shall answer, and so proceed.

i Object. Senses do not indeed erre in their testimony of their own-Objects; but Accidents only, and not Substances, are the Objects of the Senses, and therefore the testimony of the senses concerning Substances is not to be trusted.

Answ. If so, then we can judge of no Substance in the world by our senses, and we cannot know but we are only in a world of Accidents, viz. of Colours, and Smells and Sounds, &c. and our understandings cannot perceive by them, that there are any Substances in the world, much less discern betwixt one substance and another, but every man by the use of his senses perceives sensible substances by means of the accidents inherent in them, or else no man can swear in judgement any thing concerning any Man, or Beast, or House, or Lands, or Goods, neither can there be any civil converse among men in the world.

2 Objett. Sense must yield to be corrected and over-ruled by Faith, and Gods Word must be believed before our Senses.

Answ. 1. This is but a Popish trick, to hide the truth of God; for it is not our present question, whether we must believe God or our Senses, but whether we must believe the words of a company of cheating Papists, or believe God speaking to our understandings by Scripture, by Reason, by the Creatures, and by our Senses, and by all those things which are witnesses of his Truth to our Souls.

2. We do in this matter give Faith its due place in our Hearts; for our Understandings do here perceive by that use of our Senses, which God hath made them for, that here is Bread and Wine; but that this Bread and Wine are blessed to signifie, and convey to us the Body and Blood of Christ, this we affent unto by Faith; and by Faith we do discern the Lords body, and blood, in the use of that Bread and Wine which we discern by our Senses: And thus we own both the Truths of God, viz. That there is Bread and Wine in the Lords Supper, and that Christ crucified is therein presented to our Souls in the use of them, and so we give both Faith and Sense their due place and use in us.

3. We believe, that the Truths revealed to our understandings by the visible Creatures, in the use of our Senses, are as the Apostle speaks, the Truths of Cod, Rom. 1.25. And that it is a Truth of God, that the Creatures we speak of, are Bread and Wine, because we understand by our senses, that they have the nature, and all the Properties of Bread and Wine, and we know that the God that cannot lie, cannot speak a Truth to our understandings, by the Creatures, and by our Senses, and then deny and contradict it by his Word to our Faith.

It may now be expected, that I should here give you an account of the Doctrine of the Ancients in this matter, but to this I shall only say these three things.

I. That this is undertaken, and I doubt not, is effectually performed by a Reverend Brother, whose work assigned him is to prove the Novelty of Popery, both in this their great Article of Transubstantiation, and also in other Popish Doctrines, to whose Discourse I referre you for satisfaction herein.

2. That I do profess to honour the ancient Fathers in the Church of God, who have in their several Ages been faithfull witnesses to this, and other Truths of God reveal d in the Scriptures; and I do rejoyce in my hopes of being in the same blessed Body of Christ with them: but I have chosen to insist on these Arguments, which I hope to defend, knowing that all that the Scripture, Reason, and Senses do speak, God speaketh by them; but I cannot say of all that Justin Martyr, Tertullian, Cyprian, Ambrose, Austin, Hierom, &c. do speak, that God speaketh by them; and if it had hapned, that any of these men had contradicted Scripture, Reason and Sense (could their Opinions have been as old as the Devil in Hell) I would say with the Apostle, Gal. 2. 6. Whatever they were,

it, maketh no matter to me, God accepteth no mans Person, for God and his Truth must not be tryed by the Judgements of fallible men.

3. That the same Doctrine which I have delivered, had its beginning from Christ, and hath passed from him by the Scriptures, through all true Antiquity, is fully proved by Bishop Jewel, Bishop Morton, Crakenthorp, Molin, and Albertinus, and many others, who have said more in this case than I have either time or ability to speak, or than would be sit for this Discourse; and it is as manifest that the Judgement of the ancient Fathers is against Transubstantiation, as it is that there were such persons, and that their writings are extant in the world; insomuch, that had they lived under Popish persecutions, they would have burnt those very men on Earth, and cursed them to Hell, whom they canonize for Saints, and vainly and impiously crave their Intercession in Heaven.

I shall yet answer two Objections, and then conclude with a brief Application.

I Object. The Pope and his Council have determined that Transubstan-tiation is in the Lords Supper, and we must believe them.

exam. Concil. Trident. b Bellarm. de Euchar. lib.3. cap. 23.

a Chemnitius

Answ. Chemnitius (a) hath told them, that it is the Confession of Scotus, Cameracensis and others, that neither Scripture, nor the Opinion of the Ancients, compell us to believe the Doctrine of Transubstantiation; and Bellarmine (b) confesseth, that what Scotus faith, is not improbable, viz. That there is no express place of Scripture compells us to admit Transubstantiation without the declaration of the Church. And so after all their Disputations and Curses, and blood-shed, and deluding so many Souls; we must believe this Doctrine of Transubstantiation, because the Pope and his Council have faid it. But how shall we be infallibly affur'd, that God doth transmit his mind and will to us by the Pope and his Council? or where doth God command us to go to this infallible Oracle the Bishop of Rome, either singly, or conjunctly with his Council, to be concluded by him or them, in matters of Faith? But alas! what a dreadfull case is this, that a whole world of precious Souls must have no better a Foundation for their Religion and Salvation than this. viz. That we must all believe the Papists, and that we must believe them for this Reason, because they tell us we must believe them; but if they will damn their Souls in believing one another, let us labour to fave ours by believing the God of Truth, speaking to us by his Word.

2 Object. These words, This is my Body, &c. are the words of our dying Lord, and to his Disciples, to whom he would not speak darkly in Figures; and they are the words of a Testament, and of a Law; and expressed in intire Propositions, all which require Plainness, and to be spoken properly, and not in dark figures: Do not these seem plausible Objections, and cunningly devised to trepan poor Souls into Errour? Why these are Bellarmines Objections. (c)

Euchar. lib. 1.

Answir. They themselves are forced to confess, that the words, This sep is my blood, &c. which are the words of our dying Lord, and to his Disciples, and words of a Testament, and of a Law, and an entire Propolition; are yet spoken in a figurative sence, which overthrowes all their pretended Reasons for a proper or literal sence of the words.

2. Words are not therefore dark, because they are figurative, for figures often do explain, and not darken the fence of words; I confess a Trope, a Figure, a Metonymy, a Synechdoche, &c. are hard words to vulgar ears, but you mult know that these are words of Art, which Learned men have wifely invented, but they are grounded on the natural way of mens expressing themselves, in their ordinary and familiar language: and therefore even Children, and unlearned men that cannot read, do ordinarily speak, and understand the Language that is spoken. in Tropes and Figures, though they know not what Trope or Figure to reduce such expressions unto; for Example, Is a man say, drink off this Cup or Glass; or as he looks on the Signs in the Streets, saith, This is a Swan, and this is a Lyon; or faith of Pictures in a Chamber, This is Alexander, or Cafar; or faith of a written Parchment wherein he hath fignified his Will, in bequeathing his Estate, This is my Will; all this is plain and case, and familiar language, and yet few understand the Tropes in these Expressions: And so the words, This is my body, this cup is my blood, are plain and intelligible words, though few understand the Names of those Tropes or figures, which they are spoken in:

3. Whereas the Papilts pretend to give a proper or literal sence of these words, yet their sence to justifie their Transubstantiation is so full of monstrous and blasphemous contradictions, and so dark, that neither they themselves, nor others understand them: Sometimes the word this must fignifie these accidents; sometimes this substance contained under these Accidents: But this substance must neither be the Bread nor Christs Body, but an individuum vagum, and though the word this applyed to a substance doth alwayes determine and demonstrate the said substance, yet here they make it to fignifie fuch a vagrant, that all the world knowes not where to finde it. And in like manner they rack the word is, which must fometimes mean is properly and essentially, when it speaks of the Accidents, sometimes is made, sometimes is transubstantiated, and one (a) will have it to denote all these: And thus they tor a Cornelius ture this plain Scripture, to serve their odious Doctrine of Transubstan- a Lapide, in a Cor. 11. tiation; and when they have done all, they have nothing but the word; of a blasphemous Pope, and factious Council for it.

Uses. Six Inferences.

1 Inf. That it is Idolatry in the Papills to worship the consecrated Bread though they think it is turned into the Body of Christ.

I should here speak to two things.

fhould here speak to two things.

1. That their worshipping the consecrated Bread, is Idolatry.

2. That:

2. That their thinking it to be the Body of Christ, doth not excuse them from Idolatry.

(1.) For the first, I shall briefly speak to three things.

1. Acquaint you with their Dollrine herein.

2. Acquaint you with their Practice.

3. Prove that their practiling this Doctrine is Idolatry.

1. Their Doctrine is declared in the Council of Trent thus. (a) That it is an undoubted Truth, that all Christians ought to give the same Worship to the Sacrament of the Eucharist, which they give to God himself, and that if any deny this, let him be accurfed.

Can. 6. Si quis dixerit in sancto Eucharistie Sacramento Christum unigenitum Dei filium, non esse cultu latriz etiam externo adorandum, venerandum: neque in processionibus, secundum laudabilem, & universalem Ecclesia sancta ritum, & consuetudinem, & solceniter circumgestandum, vel nen publicè ut adoretur populo proponendum, & ejus adoratores esse ldolatras, Anathema sit.

itaque dubitandi locus relinquitur, cun

omnes Christi fideles, pro more in Catholica Ecclesia semper recepto, latria cultum, qui vero Deo debetur, hunc sanctissimo Sacramento in veneratione

2. They practife this Doctrine, for in their Roman Missal, the Priests are taught to lift up the Host, and to worship it themselves, thrice striking their breasts, and saying, O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the World, have mercy upon us. And among many instances that may be given of their Idolatrous practice herein, I shall only give you this: "In the year 1666. at Lyons in France, it was in"stituted, that a company of devout persons taking "their turns, should perpetually day and night adore

"the holy Sacrament, some of them alwayes kneeling before it in a cer"tain Church chosen by them: And in a large place more spacious than "Lincolns-Inne Fields, Landon, cal'd Belle Cour, the Sacrament was "exposed on a rich and magnifick Altar, (set on a high Scassold) to be "adored by all the Town together; and there were about threescore
"thousand people on their knees together, worshipping it; the most glo"rious Triumph that ever was seen, (saith a fessive in his late description "of this City.) And thus do these poor deluded wretches solemnly give that Worship to Wasers which is only due to God himself.

3. That this practice is Idolatry, appears,

First, By all that I have said against Transubstantiation; for seeing the substance of the Bread remains, as I have prov'd, the Papist's worshipping this Bread, must needs be gross Idolatry: For the Council of Trent makes Transubstantiation to be the ground and reason of this solemn Adoration. (b) And its a known saying of their own Costerus to this purpose, That if by Transubstantiation the Bread be not turned into the Body of Christ, their worshipping the Host is the greatest Idolatry in the world.

Secondly, It is gross Idolatry to give that Worship to a Creature which is only due to God; and yet these men-fall down unto, and worship, and call upon this Bread; as all Believers sall down unto, and worship and call upon God: Their practice herein is much like their Idolatry in worshipping their graven Images, mentioned Isa. 44. 16. 17. He burneth part thereof in the fire, with part thereof he eateth sless, he rosteth

rosteth the rest, and is satisfied, yea he warmeth bimself, and saith, Aha, I am warm, I have seen the fire, and the residue thereof he maketh a God, even his graven Image, he falleth down unto it, and worshippeth it, and prayeth unto it, and saith, Deliver me, for thou art my God; in like manner do the Idolatrous Papists by this Bread, part thereof they take into their mouths, and grind with their teeth, and eat it, and part of it (as in the case of the Rats and Worms eating the consecrated Bread,) they cast into the fire and burn it, and part thereof they reserve for their God, and carry it about, and fall down to it, and worship it, and pray to it, as to their Saviour, to save them from their sins.

(2.) I proceed to prove, that the Papists thinking this Bread to be the Body of Christ, doth not excuse them from Idolatry: This is evident, for God's Law being sufficiently reveal'd, mans wilful ignorance thereof cannot extinguish the Obligation of it, nor alter the nature of that sin which is a breach of that Law; the Heathens worshipping the Sun is Idolatry, though they think it to be God; so the Papists worshipping the Waser is Idolatry, though they think it to be the Body of Christ with his Soul and God-head; as to kill the Saints of God, is murder and perfecution, though the enemies may think they do therein God service,

70h. 16.2.

2 Inference. Hence see under what Characters we are to look upon the Papists: We are told what Names some of their Flatterers have given to some of their Popes. In the Council of Lateran, it's said of the Pope: All Power in Heaven and Earth is given to thee; and Panormitan saith, the Pope can do all things that God can do. The Ambassadours of Sicily cry'd to one Pope, Thou that takest away the sins of the World, have mercy upon us; and saith a Bishop in a prophane quibble of Pope Leo, Behold the Lyon of the Tribe of Judah, we have waited for thee (O most blessed Leo) to be our Saviour. See Brightman on Revel. 13.3. and we know his Holiness is the Name given him by the Papists; and the Romish Church doth arrogate the Name of the only Holy Catholick Church. But if we will give the Papists a Name from their Religion and Practice, we must give them three characters.

First, They are an Idolatrous People, as appears by what I have now faid, and as is made known to you by more Arguments from other hands; and therefore we need not envy their Grandeur, and Kingdom upon Earth, seeing the Apostle assures us, I Cor. 6. 9, 10. That no Idolaters have any Inheritance in the Kingdom of God.

Secondly, They are a most uncharitable and cruel people; and though their School-men do ingeniously plead, that Charity or Love is the most excellent of all Graces, and measure the worth of other Graces, and the evil of all fins by Charity; yet are they a most inhumane and barbarous People: and this is not only evident, by all the blood of the Saints, that lies crying at their doors for vengeance, but also that they will have all men cursed and damned, who will not in defiance of God, and Scripture, H h h h and Reason, and Sense, say that Bread is no Bread, and who will not believe that the God of Truth doth speak all the hideous contradictions intheir Doctrine of Transubstantiation; as if having usurp'd the keyes of Hell and Death, they had decreed that all Believers shall be damned, and that none but Atheists and Infidels shall be faved.

Thirdly, A perjured people, in that they impose, and many of them take this Oath. "I N. N. do fwear, that this conversion, which the Catholick Church doth call Transubstantiation, is made in the Eu-"charift, without the Belief of which no man can be faved. What horrid Perjury is this, to fwear that Bread is no Bread, and Wine is no Wine, and that all the contradictions in the Doctrine of Transubstantiation are true, and that all are damned who do not believe the

3 Inference. Hence we see, that there is no Communion to be had with the Church of Rome; for except we will all renounce our present Christianity, and profess that we are no Members of the Church of God, till we are in union with the Pope, and so proclaim our selves. and all Christians in the world, who are not Papists, to be a generat on of dissembling Knaves, and except we first turn Atheists, and believe that God speaks lies and contradictions we cannot turn Papists.

4 Inference. Hence fee what a dreadfull flavery it is to be the fervants and flaves to the Devil, who engageth his fervants to debauch their Consciences, and rack their wits, and to spend their precious time, and parts, and Learning, to spread and defend Nonsence and Lies. BellarbEjift. Sexto 5. mine (b) faith, he spent fifteen years about Controversies in Religion: A fearfull thing, that a man of so great Learning and parts should waste a great part of his Age, and much of it in contradicting God; and the Truth, and himself; but though I will not judge any one that is gone into the Eternal World, yet I would warn all to take heed especially how they venture to fin in print, left their Books should be speaking for the Devil on Earth, when they themselves are tormented with the Devil in Hell.

5 Inference. Be faithfull to the Truths of God, and let them not be held in unrighteousness in your judgements, but let them rule in your Hearts and Lives; if Truth prevail to make you holy, then though Seducers may make Merchandize of your Estates, yet they shall never make Merchandize of your Souls; but if you will not love the Truth. and walk in the Truth, all our Arguments cannot fecure you from the Temptations of the Devil and Seducers, nor keep God from being angry with you, and from giving you up to strong delusions to believe-lies.

Ulr. Bless God for your Religion, that your Religion comes from the Grace of God by his Word, to make you holy here, and happy hereafter, and not from the Devil and Pope, to feed your Lusts, and damn your Souls, and to make you goe ignorantly and quietly to Hell; and bless God that you have in this Nation the true Doctrine of the Sacrament of the Lords Supper, which as I said in the beginning of this Discourse, so I say again in the Conclusion, is clearly and fully delivered from the mind of Christ in these words, and which hath been sealed by the blood of those blessed Martyrs in our own Land, who have been sacrificed to death for the service of your Faith, whose Blood was of more value than all the Popes that ever usurped Supremacy over the Church and Body of Christ.

Hhhh 2 SERMON

SERMON XXII.

The Right of every Believer to the blessed Cup in the Lords Supper.

Matth. XXVI. 27, 28.

And he took the Cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them,
- saying, Drink ye all of it. For this is my Blood of the New Testament, which is shed for many, for the Remission of sins.

HE declared Will of God being the most certain and happy Rule of mans practice, especially in those Duties which have no Foundation save in Divine Revelation; it is the greatest Arrogance and Affront to the Wisdom and Will of our Law-giver to contradict him therein: But when our blessed Redeemer hath in his Institutions plainly consulted our Benesit and Comfort, when he hath stooped so low, to raise us up so high; to cross and correct him therein, is the strangest folly and ingratitude that is imaginable.

Yet hereof we have a fad Instance in the present Church of Rome in the business of the Lords Supper; where nothing can be more plain than our Saviours Institution on the one side, nor more palpable than their Corruption of it on the other: wherein is evident the lamentable Degeneracy of the Humane Nature, together with the power of Prejudice, and the mischief of a wilfull Obstinacy, especially when accompanyed with the worldly Interest of Profit or Honour.

It hath been indeed the more ordinary humour of that Church, to invent and adde burthensome superfluities to other of Gods Ordinances, but they whose Consciences will permit them to adde, will easily adventure also to diminish when it serves their turn; as appears in their denying to Gods people the one half of the Lords Supper, to wit, the facred

Cup, against the stream of Scripture, and all Antiquity.

The vindicating of this bleffed Ordinance of God is my present work, and I cannot have a better ground to build upon, than the words of the holy Evangelist which are before you.

Wherein you may please to consider,

1. The Connexion [And] i. e. having immediately before taken bread, bleffedit, and delivered to his Disciples, in like manner he now takes the Cup.

2. The Narration, (1) Of what our Saviour did. The ordinary Actions of Princes are observed; with what carefull Reverence then should we ponder this Extraordinary Action of the King of Heaven, especially when he was at Death's door? Three things he did, 1. He took the Cup. 2. He gave thanks. 3. He gave it to them. It was the Practice of the Jews, unto which certainly Our Saviour had regard herein, at the end of their Feafts, for the Master thereof to take a Cup of P. Fag. in Deut. 8. 10. Wine, and after a short Thanksgiving to drink a little thereof, and so ex Rabbin. the Cup passed round the Table, and this they termed, a Cup of Thanks- בום הולף giving. This Use he was pleased to translate and sanctifie to be a sacred Rite at the Lords Supper to the end of the World: As he did adopt their washing of their Proselytes in the institution of Baptism.

Cant. 5. 13.

Dutch.

(2) Here is an account of what Our Saviour said; when, if ever, his. lips were like Lillies dropping sweet-smelling Myrhe. Where there is

First, A Command, [Drink ye all of it] wherein you have,

1. The thing commanded, [Drink of it,] that is, (by an usual figure) of the Wine contained in this Cup: or, as some Translations read Drink out of it.

2. The Persons intended, [ye all] that is, all ye my Disciples in the first place; who upon occasion of celebrating the Passeover (they being our Saviours ordinary Family) were then alone with him at the Table. But forasmuch as he commanded them to do this in remembrance of him, that is, when he was dead, and the Apostle Paul declares, that this Sacramental Action must continue untill be come, and that by all that are I Cor 1.2 with functified in Christ Jesus, that are able to examine themselves, therefore 1 Cor. 11.28. the [All] in the Text must neither be confined to the Persons of the Apostles, nor to them that succeed them in any particular Office, but concludes all that are adult Disciples of Jesus Christ to the end of the world.

Secondly, A Reason, or Argument to urge the due participation thereof, drawn from the Sacramental Nature of that Cup. For this (to wit, the Wine contained in this Cup) is my blood of the New Testament: Or, (as the Evangelist Luke, ch. 22.20. delivereth it) This Cup is the New Testament in my blood, that is, the New Covenant sealed with my blood. For neither the Cup, nor the Wine in it, nor the blood of Christ is properly the New Covenant or Testament; but by this that is contained in this Cup, the Dasnin is most comand so most properly in this place as the Epithet New which is adjoyned, evinceth.

Heb. 9.22.

Maldonat. in

loc.

New Covenant which is fealed and confirmed by the Blood of Christ is kept in remembrance. He faith in effect, As Covenants used to be con-+ So the word firmed by the shedding of blood, so do I by my Blood seal to you a New † Covenant, far better than the Old, which demanded perfect Obedience. monly taken: and denounced the Curse for defect thereof; but this promiseth Remission on of fins; and a Covenant far clearer, than when it was administred under the shadowes of the Law, which hereby are abrogated. And therefore drink ye all of this, that have an interest in that Covenant, and that have need of this blood.

And this Blood is illustrated, (1) By a necessary Adjunct to it, namely, this Cup doth represent my blood [which is shed;] which cannot be exemplified by eating the blood with the body, but as shed out of the veins; for without shedding of blood there was no remission. And this Our Saviour expresseth in the present tense [is shed] to assure his Disciples then, that it would certainly and fuddenly be done, and to affure all true Believers now of the reality of it, though it be past, as if it were now in doing.

(2) By the Finis cui, or the Persons for whom it is shed [for many] fo this Evangelist, and the next, that doth epitomize him: To shew, 1. That he dyed not for himself, but for others; Or perhaps 2. By this restrain'd Expression to exclude Judas; Or rather, 3. This Blood is not only shed for you Apostles, but for abundance more. Which the Evangelist Luke, and Paul after him, express in other terms, and say, my blood [hed [for you] that each of them might apply it to themselves. So that all Believers for whom this precious Blood was shed, have an undoubted Right to drink of it.

(3) By the Finis cujus, or the End for which this Blood is shed, and that is expressely [for the remission of Sins] This Lamb of God came, and lived and died to take away the fins of the World. For though Sin was satisfied for by Jesus Christ, and so we are said to be redeemed; yet because no satisfaction was made by w, therefore we are said to be remitted. So then whosoever can triumph in the benefit of Remission of Sins, hath a just right to drink of this Cup, which seals the New covenant, and the forgiveness of sins.

From these words thus explain'd I lay down this Affertion or Doltrine:

Doct. That every adult Believer hath an undenyable Right to the Blessed Cup in the Lords Supper.

In the handling of which Truth, I shall briefly,

- 1. State the Question.
- 2. Prove the Position.
- 3. Refute the Objections.
- 4. Make Application.

For the right stating of the Question you may observe,

1. That our business is not, to debate, Whether a man may or may not receive Christ, and all his benefits under one Element in the Lords Supper; for we acknowledge, that this may be done by the Spirit of God working Faith in the heart, as with, so without either of them.

2. We undertake not to prove, that To partake of both Bread and Wine in the Lords Supper is absolutely necessary, and that to salvation. We affirm, that the spiritual eating of Christs body and blood is absolutely necessary; but there is not the same necessity of feeding upon them Sacran entally; and accordingly, that it is the wilfull neglect, not the inevitable defect thereof, that is damnable. The Divine command doth indeed impose a Necessary of Observance in all cases, where his Providence doth not supersede the same; and therefore they that unwillingly are deprived of this intire Ordinance may escape Hell, but they that willingly neglect it, cannot escape guilt. We onely conclude, that there is the same necessary of communicating in the one Element, as in the other.

3. Our afferting the Believers Right to the Sacred Cup, doth not urge Jura confliction obligation upon such as are naturally or irremediably disabled from enda essential participation thereof. If in an Infant there be an incapacity to discern que to the Lords Body; If there be an incurable Antipathy to the taste of Wine; Theisen acciliater receiving that sacred Bread, Death come between the Cup and dunt, non que the Lip, or the like; as our Doctrine obligeth not to Impossibilities, so exingtinato nee all Laws that do intend a general Obligation, yet do admit of some ex-institution pertraordinary and particulars exceptions, especially when the Law-giver sonas sed generalimisels (as in such case he doth) creates the hindrances. Thus many have raliter constitution rightfull Interest (Fus ad rem) in things, whereof they never have risconsult.

4. Our Doctrine is, That both parts of the Lords Sacrament, by Artic.30. Christs Ordinance and Commandment ought to be ministred to all Christian men alike. That Christs Ministers ought to take and break the cap. 29. bread, to take the cup, and to give both to the Communicants. That Believers do receive what is given to them by the Lords Minister, and do c. 21. eat the bread of the Lord, and drink the Cup of the Lord; That Both Angust. Confess. parts of the Sacrament are given to the Laity in the Lords Supper, be-So the Saxon, cause the Sacrament was instituted, not onely for some part of the Church, Gr.

to wit, the Priests.

5. We affirm, That no man can justly infringe this Right, or deny to adult Believers this blessed Cup. That the Cup of the Lord is not to confess. Angle be denyed to the Lay-people. That the denyal of the Cup to the People is c. 29. contrary to the Institution of Christ. That they are disallowed that with-bold the One kind, to wit, the cup of the Lord from the faithfull; yea, they Confess. Helvet. August. thority ought to forbid the Appointment of Christ, and the most received custom of the ancient Church.

One would wonder, how so clear an Institution should ever come into question; some few Superstitious persons, and some Hereticks did long agoe choose to communicate in one kind, but they were still cor-

And afterwards, out of fear of shedding the blood of Christ, there were fone that being loth to lose either Element, did use to dip the consecrated Bread in the Wine; and this some Councels did allow to persons that were infirm. Cup, not onely to the People, but to the Priests also; except to him onely that for the time officiates. They at Constance fay, Though Christ did administer this venerable Sacrament to his Disciples under both the kinds of Bread and Wine, yet notwithstanding this, the custom of communicating under one kind only is now to be taken for a Law. Again, Though in the Primitive Church this Sacrament was received by the faithfull under both kinds; yet notwithstanding this, the custom that is introduced of communicating under one kind onely for the Laity, is now to be taken for a Law. They at Bafil not many years after being warned by a Learned man, who was imployed to put a better face on fo foul a matter, left out those strange and presumptuous Notwithstandings, and thus made their Canons or Decrees, That the Laity, as also the Clergy' who do not confecrate, are not bound by the Lords command to receive both kinds. Again, The Church hath power to order how the Sacrament shall be ministred; and, so that people do communicate according to the appointment of the Church, whether under one or both kinds, it is sufficient for the Salvation of the worthy Receiver. Then come they at Trent, and notwithstanding all the instances of Christian Princes, and the Arguments of great Divines there to the contrary, They declare, That the Laity and Clergy that do not consecrate are bound by no divine Precept to receive the Eucharist under both kinds; and do Accurse all those that affirm the contrary. Again they declare, That though at the beginning of Christianity both kinds were frequently received, yet that custom (for good Reasons) being altered, the Church now approves of Communion in one kind, which custom no man can lawfully change, without the Authority of the Church; and do Accurse all such as do affirm, that they do erre herein. And this is the true state of this matter, and thus we fall at Variance:

And now you you shall see the Proof of our Dollrine and Position, which is the Second thing incumbent on me, and that will be sufficiently done by these Arguments.

Arg. t. From the Institution of this Sacrament, and our Saviours Command annexed thereunto. For Sacraments depend meetly upon their

Institution;

Institution; hence doth their Being result, and upon this their matter and fignification do depend. The Institution with the Element makes the Sa- vid. Cyrian ep. crament, and so the only Rule and Balance for them must needs be their 63. ad Carl. Institution. This being the Ground of this Ordinance, no Man or Angel may violate under a fearfull Curse. And indeed, if mens will or wif-Gal. 1. 8. dom might alter and change the Revelation of God, nothing would abide firm in Religion. 'Tis true, the Laws of Men may be corrected or annulled, because they foresee not their Inconveniences; but Our Saviour (certainly) when he appointed this Ordinance, well knew what was neceffary and usefull for his Church to the end of the World. And for this Reason the Apostle Paul, when some disorders were broken into the Ind gaum est Church of Corinth in the use of the Lords Supper, he recalls them to the Domino, qui Institution, and endeavours by that straight Rule to rectifie their Irregu- aliter mysterilarities, I Cor. 11.23. For I have received of the Lord, &c. By which quamab eo tra place it is evident, that there is no fuch way to obviate any mistake which ditum est. Non in after-times creeps upon Gods own Ordinance, as by going back to votus effe qui the Spring, by confidering the Institution: Insomuch as the same Apostle quam datum est for their violating Christs Institution in their administration of this Or. ab Authore. dinance, faith, I Cor. II. 20. This is not to eat the Lords Supper,

Now you may plainly see Our Saviours Institution in this Text, Mat. 26.27. And he took the Cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, faying, &c. And in Luk. 22. 20. the Evangelist comes with a likewise. Likewise also the cup after Supper, &c. that is, As he gave the Bread, in like manner he gave the Cup. They have an equal ground in their first Institution; and so ought to be given to, and received by the Faithful, the one as well as the other. What Christ bath joyned together, no man ought to put asunder.

I shall give the substance of the Opposition which is made to this Branch Bellarm. de of this Argument. To the Antecedent, One faith, That Christ did insti- Euchar. 1. 4. tute many things in the Church, but not with a design to oblige every man c. 25. to the use of them; it being sufficient, that some in the Church co one Estius in 1. 4 thing, and some another. That God in instituting of Marriage, aid not dist. 11. s. 8. intend to oblige every one to marry.

To this I answer, That the Design of our Saviour is best known by the command which did accompany the Institution, which is, Drink ye all of it; and by the Use the Cup was expressely designed unto in the Sacrament, which was to keep in remembrance his Death, and his bloodshedding therein; both which relating to all Believers alike, do make it plain, that the intent of the Institution was to oblige all Believers.

Others do say, That though Christ did institute this Sacrament in both kinds, yet the Church hath power to alter his Institution; alleadging, that Reffers in re-the like was done in the case of Baptisme, which being appointed to be adfut. art. 16. ministred in the Name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, was after-Lutheri. wards done onely in the Name of the Lord Jesus, Act. 19.5.

To which I answer, That the Holy Ghost doth not in the place specified, describe the manner how Baptism was celebrated, but sheweth that they there were baptized in the Name (that is, according to the Doctrine and Appointment) of the Lord Jesus. It no more intends, that they were baptized onely in Christs Name, than St. Pauls stiling himself the Servant of Fesus Christ, excludes the Father and the Holy Ghost. And thus it is understood not onely by the Ancients, but by divers of the learnedst of the Roman Church themselves.

To make fure the consequent, That our Saviour did institute this Sacrament in both kinds for all Believers, I adde hereunto the command of our Saviour at the Institution of it, Matt. 26. 27. Drink ye all of it. I Cor. 11. 25. This do ye as oft as ye dink it. The Institution is Dogmatical, layes down the Law; but this is preceptive, and charges the Execution of it. Which Command could not be term nated in those prefent Apostles, but extendeth to all Believers to the End of the World; for so saith the Apostle, by so doing, ye do shew the Lords death till he come. And without doubt, if one of the Elements be sequestred from Believers, then must by the same reason the other also; for the Apostle saith, After the same manner also he took the cup, and delivered it, and commanded the same use of it, just as he had done before of the Bread.

I shall not stand upon that Observation of the express mentioning of Ail when the Cup was given; the like not added when the Bread was delivered: as if our Saviour had on set purpose added that word, to consute the Sacriledge which he foresaw would be committed about it. It is sufficient, that here is a plain Command to all that had eaten the Bread, to drink in like manner of the Cup. And if this do not indispensibly oblige both the Apostles there present, and also all Believers after them till Christ come again; there is no ground for the administring of either Element to any whomsoever at this day, which is directly contrary to the Apostles Inference from hence, and to all mens sentiment, that have not quit both their Religion and Reason.

Jac. a S. Ma- And yet behold what Subterfuges they that would be mad with Rearia, fer. 7. de fon have found out to avoid our Lords Command. First, they say, This solen. corp. onely, imports a liberty given hereby, such as that, Increase and multiply, which layes no Obligation upon every one to marry for the increase of the Suarez. Disp. World. Or as others, This is onely an Invitation, such as that, Receive

71. de Sacr. ye the Holy Ghost, but no command.

Which Comments do not onely deprive the People of the bleffed Cup, but do release both Ministers and People from both Elements; for (the Fate of both being just the same) where there is no Command, or Law, there is no transgression. And were it but an invitation, yet as they manage it, it is not very civil: For the Priest saith, Drink ye all of it, and when he hath so said, he drinks it all himself. If it be said, That all others did drink in and by the Apostles; and now do drink in and by the Priest: It must needs follow, that in their eating, all others do eat, and then there is no need of either.

Obj. 2. They say, That this command did onely concern them that were Bellarm. de present, or at furthest, that it onely concluded with the Apostles their Euchar. lib. 4.

Successors.

Anf. A poor Refuge. For then [take, eat] onely concerned them also; and so they give the other Element to the people without any warrant. And so also will they exclude even their Priests themselves that do not administer, from the Cup; whereas for all that, they pretend to be Successors to the Apostles; for the Apostles at that time did not administer, and so did rather represent the People, or Non-officiating Ministers, than any else. But we affirm, whoever succeeds the Apostles in their Faith, though they succeed them not in their Office, have a Right to the blood of Christ in the Sacrament; for sumuch as they all have a right in the New Covenant or Testament, whereof that Cup is a Seal, and are all commanded to drink it in Remembrance of his Death, till he come.

Obj. 3. They say, That this is an Affirmative Precept, and therefore Cajetan in terbinds not alwayes, but when there is a necessity; but in the Church of tiam Tho. q.800 of Rome there is no such necessity, for there they are all content without art. 12. it.

Ans. But to this we answer. The Command for consecrating the bread and wine is also affirmative, which yet to omit, they hold a crime; so also is the Precept of receiving the Bread affirmative; yet by this Rule there would lie no Obligation from the Precept on any, in either of these cases. Affirmative Commands do alwayes binde, though not to the performance of them at all times: and it were a strange way to evade them by making a Law on Earth, that none should desire to sulfill the Laws of Heaven.

Obj. 4. They alleadge, That our Saviour said not at the giving of the Estims 1.4. dist. cup, Do this; nor the Apostle Paul, But as oft as ye drink it; that is, 11.5.7. when ye do drink it, do it in remembrance of me: and this they triumph Bellarm. de Euchar. 1.4.

in, as a wonderfu'l Providence of Godin so describing it.

Ans. But the answer is easie, 1. This word (as oft as) is also applyed to the Bread, as well, and in the same manner as to the Cup; As oft as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup. 2. The Command of Doing this is clearly implyed in saying [as oft as ye do it]: for he that commands to do it worthily, doth imply a Command to do it. And, 3. If Do this were not included in (as oft as ye do it) there would be no ground to administer the Cup to any Person at all in the Church.

It remains then, that by vertue of our Saviours Institution a Right accrues, and by vertue of his Command an Obligation lies upon Believers to partake of the bleffed Cup in the Lords Supper.

Arg. 2. The second Argument is taken from the Example and Appointment of the Apostles. Their Example is plain, Mark 14.23. And they all drank of it. Though the Blood of Christ was yet in his Body, yet they plainly followed the Institution, and stood not upon the Notion of concomitance. And lest any should say, that their drinking of that Cup gives no Right or Ground for us to do the like, I adde conjunctly therewith, the direction and appointment of the great Apostle of the Gentiles; 1 Cor. 11.25. This do ye as oft as ye drink it, &c. where drinking of the Cup is joyn'd with eating the Bread five or fix times in five Verses together.

. And this Order is considerable, if we mark I. From what hand the Apostle received it, which you may see Vers. 23. For I have received of the Lord, that which also I have delivered unto you. Could he have had it from a better and furer hand? This he received of the Lord, let others consider of whom they have received the contrary: yea, this came from the Lord Jesus when he was in Heaven; they that bring another, Doctrine, furely had it delivered from Hell. 2. Mark unto whom this Order is directed; and these were, the Body of the Church of Corinth, not the Ministers onely: yea and not onely to that Church, but to all that in every place call upon the Name of Jesus Christ our Lord, as you may fee 1 Cor. 1.2. And though every thing in that Epiftle was not intended for every one, yet this must needs be intended to regulate all those that were guilty of that disorder, or in danger to be corrupted by it; and those were the ordinary Members of that Church, and others after them. And He was no Novice that thus argues from the 28th Verf. He that is bound to examine himself, is bound also to drink of that Cup; but not the Ministers onely, but the People are bound to examine themfelves; they therefore are bound to drink of it. And, 3. Mark, to what End the Institution is here described and urged, which though it was not to prove this point in question, yet it was to regulate another disorder, which was grown among the Corinthians; and this he doth by reducing them to the first Standard; and therefore cannot be imagined to be either defective or superfluous in his Description. It is but weakly said, that the Euchar, 14,025 Apostle did not command this Practice, but delivered it; whereas he delivered the command of our Saviour Christ, and that is enough.

Piv : Cathol. Orth. p. 119.

Bellarm, de

I find but two Objections worth the naming against this Argument.

Obj. 1. That the Apostle doth leave the Cup in some indifference, for Mins in 1.4. asmuch as he saith once, vers. 17. Whosoever shall eat this bread [or] d. 11. f. 7.

(for so it is in the Greek) drink this cup of the Lord unworthily.

Ans. But it is most evident that this (or) is used here in a copulative sence; onely that word was fitter here, not to untie the two Elements, which the Apostle had bound together by so many Copulatives in the Text, but to shew that an equal care and reverence should be shewed in both. It is as if he had faid, If a man do either eat the Bread or drink Matth. 18,8. 6c. the Cup unworthily, he is guilty. And of this genuine acception a multitude of Instances may be given in the Scripture.

Obj. 2. Others do grant, that it was the custom at Corinth, to ce-Salmero tom. 9. lebrate this Sacrament in both kinds, but they say, that this prescribes not to others; for that the Church may abrogate such a custom upon Sufficient Reasons, her Power being not inferiour to the Apostles.

Ans. But to this we fay, That this was the Rule that St. Paul received from Jesus Christ, and which he left for the Direction of the Church of God untill Christ shall come. And this was then the Practice of the Universal Church: and themselves grant, that no man can dispense Aquin Quodle 1. In the Lawes of Nature, nor 2. In Articles of Faith, nor 3. In the 4. art. 13. Sacraments of the New Testament.

It remains then, that according to the Example and appointment of the Apostles, who were guided by the holy Ghost himself, the Sacred Cup was:

as plainly intended for all Christian men as the holy Bread.

Arg. 3. The Third Argument is taken from the proper End of this. Ordinance of the Lords Supper; which is to keep up the remembrance, or to shew the Lords Death till be come, I Cor. 11. 25, 26. They who are bound to the End, are also bound to the Means. Every adult Believer is bound to shew the Lords death, which is the End; therefore every adult Believer is bound to partake of the Cup in the Lords Supper, which is the Means to that End. For so the Apostle saith expressely, vers. 25. This do ye as oft as ye drink it in remembrance of me, and vers. 26. as oft as ye----- drink this Cup, ye doe shew the Lords Death till he come.

Now although our Saviours choice of this Means for this End, be fufficient to evince the Necessity and Fitness thereof, where it may be had; yet ex abundanti it is easie to shew the same from the thing it self. For the Death of our Redeemer coming with the pouring out of his Blood, how can that Death be shewed sufficiently without drinking that Cup poured out in the Sacrament? For the breaking of the Bread doth in no wife represent the effusion of the Blood; that must be done by communicating in the Cup.

I finde but two Pleas entred against this Argument, and they are these.

Obj. 1. They fay, That [Do this] referres not to the Peoples drink- cajetan, ubi ing of the Cup, but to the Ministers consecrating it, whereby Christs Cupia. Pight contr. Death is sufficiently showed. Or as others, These words did consecrate Rail J. 7.

them to be Priests, and so enable to celebrate this Ordinance.

Ans. That the words [Do this] are a sufficient ground for the Ministers confecrating and distributing both the Elements, is very true; but that hereby they were constituted in that Office, is wholly groundless. This being another business Our Saviour was now about, and there being more plain and formal passages otherwhere in the New Testament Matth, 18. 19. for that purpose. And then, as to the other conceit, that this onely obli- Job. 20, 21, geth the Minister to confecrate both Elements; it neither stands with reason nor construction of speech, to make that Interpretation of it. Not with Reason of the thing; for how shall the People who are here directed, shew the Lords death by the Priests consecrating the Cup? Not with good construction; for the bleffing and delivering being mentioned or supposed before, [Do this] must needs referre to both; or if but to the one, rather to the latter, than the former. And if the Minister must deliver both, the People then are bound to receive them.

Estius in 1: 4. d. 11. f. 8.

Obj. 2. They say again, That either of the Elements are sufficient to commemorate the Death of Christ; inasmuch as it is said of either of them apart, ye do hereby hew the Lords death.

Ans. It is easily granted, that we may commemorate the Death of Christ by either of them, yea without either of them: but we urge, that they were both instituted to this end, and therefore that it cannot be sufficiently shewed by one of them. He that saith meat is designed for the maintaining of life, denyes not drink also to be requisite to the same end: Yea though we should grant, that the blood might be received in the Bread; yet by such receiving, the Death of Christ by the effusion of his blood for us, could in no wife be shewed forth: which being the principal End of the Sacrament, it is the Peoples Duty as well as the Minifters to do it, and that till our Saviour come again.

Arg. 4. The Fourth Argument is taken from the Peoples Right in the Thing signified by the sacred cup in the Lords Supper. And this is us'd by our Saviour himself, Mat. 26. 27, 28. Drink ye all of this [For] this is my blood, &c. So that look what benefit a man would be robbed of, in being deprived of Christs blood; that comfort he is robbed of, that is deprived of this Cup. And that a Right to the thing signified, creates a Right to the Sign, is so great a Truth, that the Apostle Peter grounds his Practice upon it, where there was no express Rule. Can any man forbid water to these that have received the Holy Ghost, &c. It is true, where there lies a present incapacity to receive the outward Ordinance, for want of a requisite Condition that is annexed thereunto (as there is in Infants, and fuch like, that cannot yet discern the Lords Body, nor examine themselves,) in that case, their Right is suspended: but no mortal man can lawfully forbid to those that have an interest in that which the Cup signifies, the liberty of Drinking of it.

Now what is fignified and exhibited by the Sacred Cup? the Apostle faith, I Cor. 10. 16. The cup of bleffing which we blefs, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? And every Believer, that hath a right to the Body of Christ, hath also a right to the Blood of Christ: They that have Union with Christ by Faith, have a clear right to the Communion of his Blocd. Again, in the Institution, Luk. 22. 20. This cup is the si quotiescunque New Testament in my blood, which is shed for you. For whom the Blood effunditur sanguis Christi, in is shed, to them the Cup must be given; and the rather, in that it was appointed to affure a poor Believer thereof; who may fay, Doth the remissionem peccatorum effunditur, debeo Covenant of Grace belong to me? was his blood shed for such a poor illum semper sinner as I am? Now Fesus Christ comes in this Ordinance to seal and sumere, ut semper peccata apply to every particular Soul the general Promise and Mercy; and in mihi demictan-chr Gratian de effect saith, Behold sinner, this Blood was shed for thee, for the remission tonsecr. dift. 2. of thy fin.

Cui signatum ei signum.

Act. 10. 47.

There

There are but two, and they very weak Objections found against this Argument.

Obj. 1. They say, That Absternious persons that can drink no Wine, Bellarm. de that Infants within the Church, year that all men have a title to Christs Enchar. 1.4. blood, in that he shed it for all men; and yet these may not partake of c. 25.

the Cup in the Lords Supper.

Anf. This Objection was prevented before, by observing, that in the cases of Infants and abstemious Persons, God himself hath by his Providence at present hindred them from participation hereof, and that by a natural incapacity: And for any others out of the Church, as they can pretend no right to his Blood, till they acknowledge his Person, so they cannot discern the Lords Body or Blood, or examine themselves.

Obj. 2. They tell us, That they who have the thing signified, need not Bell.trm. de to strive so much about the sign; he that bath the Money promised by the Euchar. 1. 4.

Bond, is not solicitous at all for the Bond.

Ans. This inded is the ready way to cast off all Sacraments and Ordinances at once; but our Saviour, that knew our weakness of Faith and Love, did institute both these external Elements to strengthen and comfort us. We are made partakers of Christ by Baptisme, by the Word, by Faith; but infinite Wisdom and Love did concurre to appoint this method for the Churches good; and who are we to correct our Blessed Saviour, or to intimate that his Institutions are needless?

Seeing therefore that to all true Believers doth belong the thing fignified by the Cup in the Sacrament, and that by Gods Ordinance; no man can or ought to forbid them the Sign or Seal thereof.

I might easily multiply Arguments, from the facred Nature of Testaments, especially of this New Testament, which was sealed with the Blood of the Testator. For though it be but a mans Covenant, yet if it be consirmed, no man disamulleth or addeth thereto, Gal. 3.15. that is, no man can do it without the greatest injury and sacriledge: how much greater is the injury, that is offered to our Saviour, who said, This is the Cup of the New Testament in my Blood, which is shed for you; and who did bequeath both the sign and the thing signified?

As also from the unwarrantable Mutilation, that they who withhold the Cup, do make in the Sacrament. For it is not an intire Sacrament, when one integral part is wanting; no more than a man is a perfect man, when one Arm or Eye is defective; Nature alwayes ordaining those parts to be double, though both serving to the same use; and implying thereby, that their Operation is more compleat in both, than it can be in one onely: And with the like Wisdom (no doubt) our Blessed Redeemer appointed these two Elements of Bread and Wine for the intire refreshment of the Soul. But especially when one Essential part (as the Cup is, being part of the matter) is taken away, one may truely say, This is not to eat the Lords Supper. And besides, nothing is more plain than Christs intention to appoint a refestion to the Soul like that of the Body: all men know, that this is by drink as well as by meat; the one whereof quenches thirst, and the other repells hunger, and therefore both these must be used to fignifie a perfect Feast or refreshment, such as our Saviour provides for his People.

I had also thought to have spread before you the universal and uncontrouled Practice of the Church of God from the Apostles time for 1200 years and more downwards, for the use of the blessed Cup by all true Believers in the Lords Supper; And not onely of their use thereof, but of their arguments for its use. At least I intended to have produced one undoubted Testimony in each Century of years to have witnessed hereunto; but onely, that this would fwell this Difcourfe beyond the precribed limits, and that it is done already by many learned men. Thus much shall suffice for the second Thing, to wit, the proof of our Doctrine or Polition.

Chemnit. Chamier. de Euchar. 1.8. C. 9.

Artic, 22.

Before I come to answer the Objections made against this Doctrine, I should have set before you the Confessions of the Adverse Party; where very many learned men do acknowledge, both the first Institution and primitive Practice to be in both Kinds; but having heard already the verdict brought in for us herein by one of their own Councels, I shall onely adde the Observation of a most sober and learned Person, that lived and died in the Communion of the Church of Rome, who writes to this purpose. "Concerning the Administra-

Caffard. Confult. "tion of the Holy Sacrament of the Eucharift, it is fufficiently known, "that the Universal Church hath to this day, and the Western or Ro-"man Church for above a thousand years after Christ (especially in their "folemn and ordinary dispensing of this Sacrament) given both Bread "and Wine to all the Members of Christs Church, a thing that is manifest by innumerable testimonies both of the Greek and Latine Anci-"ents. And they were induced so to doe, first by the Institution and Example of Christ, who gave this Sacrament of his Body and Blood "to his Disciples, then representing the Persons of Believers, &c. And after, "Wherefore it is not without cause, that the best and most learned "Catholicks do most earnestly defire and contend, that they may receive "the Sacrament of Christs Blood together with his Body, according to "the ancient Custom continued in the Universal Church for many " Ages.

> Behold here an acknowledgement fo plain and full, that I wonder with what countenance men can refist so manifest a Truth, and withhold it in unrighteousness. And yet here they muster up the best strength they have, and will not yield an inch of what they have once established, be it right or wrong. We shall reduce their Objections that are either alleadged in their Councels, or produced by their Writers to these Four heads, which is the next thing to be done.

In lac.

1. Pretence of Scripture.

2. Pretence of Reason.

3. Pretence of Reverence.

4. Pretence of Authority.

The Scriptures which they produce for Communion under one kind, Object. I. are fuch as these.

(1) The Types and Figures of the Eucharist in the Old Testament, Bellarm. de signific eating under one Kind; As the Tree of Life in Paradife, The Euchar. 1.4. Paschal Lamb; The Manna; The Shew-broad; The Sacrifices, where 6. 24.

the flesh was to be eaten, but the blood was not drunk.

Ans. The weakness of this Objection would be obvious, if it were put into an Argument; but it is not worth that trouble. It is sufficient to answer, 1. That none of these were Types or Figures of the Lords Supper, and so their whole force is lost in reference unto that. For Types are shadowes to represent the substance, but it is uncouth Divinity, to make one Figure the Type of another. And our Saviour is plainly cald the Paschal Lamb, and calls himself the Mannah that came down from Heaven, &c.

And, 2. If there were some Types that onely intimated eating, yet there were others that doe imply drinking also. Was there a tree of Life in Paradise? so are there Rivers of Paradise. Was there Bread from Heaven? so were there Waters flowing from the Rock. And divers of the Fathers will produce a clearer figure of both, than any of these, and that was of Melchizedek, who brought forth both Bread and Wine to feast faithful Abraham. And the Apostle tells us; As they did 1 Cor. To. 2,31 all eat the same spiritual meat, so they all drank the same spiritual drink; and Chrysostom saith upon it, As thou eatest the Body of our Lord, so they did eat Manna; and as thou drinkest the Blood of our Lord, so they drank the Water of the Rock. To them he gave Manna and Water, to thee he gives his Body and Blood.

(2) The second Pretence of Scripture is from Joh. 6. where Christ Bellarm. de faith, vers. 41. I am the Bread which came down from Heaven. And Euchd. 4.c. 24. vers. 50. This is the Bread which came down from Heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not dye. And verf. 51. If a man eat of this Bread, he shall live for ever. By all which passages he teacheth one kind to be sufficient to salvation, especially when in the same chapter vers. II. our Saviour multiplyed the Bread, but not the Drink.

Ans. 1. Though divers of the Ancients did apply this Scripture to the business of the Sacrament, yet properly it cannot intend that; the Sacrament not being instituted till above a year after this discourse of his: but plainly enough by Bread he means himself: It was He, not the Sacramental Bread that came down from Heaven. 'Tis a spiritual feeding on him by Faith, not meerly partaking of Bread in the Sacrament, that will make a man live for ever. And he speaketh so often of Bread, onely in pursuance of the Manna which he had begun to speak of; as in Joh. 4. he purfues the fame thing under another shadow, to wit, of water, to the Woman of Samaria.

2. But if this place were meant of the Lords Supper, we cannot have a stronger Argument for the necessity of the cup therein, than from vers. 53. where Christ faith, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of God, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you; the like vers. 54,56. And then for the Miracle, as there is no ground to affirm, that that Miracle had any mystical reference in it to the Lords Supper; so if it had, we might inferre as well, that his multiplying the Wine, Joh. 2. in Cana, doth as strongly prove, and both alike, that we must communicate in Wine onely.

Bellarm. de Euchar. 14. c. 24.

(3) The Third pretence of Scripture is from Luk. 24.30, 31. Where it is said, that Our Saviour as he sate at meat, took Bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave if to them. And their eyes were opened, and they knew him, and he vanished out of their fight. Here, say they, was the Sacrament; here was onely breaking of Bread; here could be no partaking of the Cup, for that he vanished immediately out of their sight.

Estius in lib 4. d. 8. s. 11.

Vid. Suarez.

Ans. 1. Here is no direct proof of the Sacrament: No saying, This is my Body; Do this in remembrance of me, which they grant to be neceffary to a Sacrament. In other Scriptures, as Mat. 14. 19. & 15. 36.

where there was no thought of a Sacrament, Our Saviour took Bread, and gave thanks, and gave it. Nay, here is great probability to the cond.fp.71. de Sacr. trary; for this was in an Inne, their meeting and eating there not at all intended Sacramentally, no Wine confecrated (which the Opponents fay, is necessary.) That their eyes were opened, and they knew him in the breaking of bread, is no proof that it was the Sacrament; but rather, that then they did more stedfastly look upon h m; and that breaking of Bread noteth the time when, not the cause by which they knew him; or possibly by his usual manner of Giving thanks, and breaking of the Bread, they differend who he was. And according to the fence of this Answer, do

2. Though it should be granted, that here the Lords Supper was administred, yet it is apparent by the former answer, that here is no full description of the Celebration of it: So that the Cup might as well be given though not express'd, as that those Disciples did drink at their meal, though no fuch thing be there mention'd. Neither is the Relation of an Example in an extraordinary case, sufficient to cancel a direct Precept and cleer Example with it. The found use of the Notion of concomitance would here do well, to wit, that if this Phrase do denote the Lords Supper, then both kinds (by an usual Synechdoche) are meant, when onely one is mention'd.

(4) The Fourth Pretence of Scripture is from Act. 2.42, 46. & 20.7. where it is said, The Disciples continued in the Apostles Doctrine, and Fellowship, and breaking of Bread---- And that they were daily breaking Bread from house to house. And that they met on the first day of the week, to break Bread. In which places the Lords. Supper is described only by breaking of Bread, not a word of the Cup.

Ans. 1. It is not certain that under these expressions is meant the Celebration of the Lords Supper, (the more inconsiderate they who affect to term the Lords Supper nothing but breaking of Bread, when the Scripture hath given it a more specifical and honourable Name) for some of of the Learned understand several of those places, of distributing their Cajetan in loc. provision to those that were in want, or of their common resection together; Their communion (faith Chrysoft.) was with the Apostles not In lec. Serm. 6. only in Prayers, but also in Doltrine and civil Conversation; Or else of their Agapa or Love-feasts, which were frequently held at the end of their Assemblies.

2. But if any of those places do point out the Lords Supper, we anfiver, that by a common Synechdoche, the one kind is put for both; nothing being more usual in Scripture, than to denote a compleat sustenance by eating of Bread, IJa. 58. 6, 7. Luk. 14. 1. which may the rather convince our Opponents, in that their Councel of Constance, as they urged none of these places to this purpose, so they expressely yield, that this Sacrament was both instituted and used in the Primitive Church in both kinds: and it must be a clear and certain evidence, that must cross the Institution. Some few more Scriptures are pretended, but being wholly inconsiderable to this purpose, I think not worth the answering.

The Second Plea that is brought for Communion in one Kind, is from Object. 2. a Pretence of Reason. For, say they, the whole Essence of a Sacrament Bellarm, de Euis comprized in one Kind; and whole Christ, who is the Fountain of all char.l.4.c. 22. Grace (both his Divinity and Humanity being now inseparably united together) is by way of Concomitance, his blood being now in his Body, 1.4 c. 21. exhibited in one Kind; so that there is no spiritual Fruit to be reaped by 1d. c. 23. both, that is not to be received by participating of one kind; and therefore there is no need of both.

Ans. 1. We deny that the whole Essence of the Lords Supper is comprized under one Kind; for there is neither the whole Sign, the Cup being wanting, which fignifies Christs Blood; nor the whole thing fig-Bonavent. in lib. nified, which is such an intire refreshment of Soul, as Bread and Wine 4. d. 11. p. 2. are of the Body. The Lords Supper is the Sacrament of Christs Body and Blood; but Bread is not the Sacrament of Christs Body and Blood; therefore Bread alone is not the Lords Supper.

2. The Doctrine of natural concomitance presupposeth Christs Natural Body to be contained carnally under the form of Bread, which will not only be denyed, but plainly disproved. Where Christs natural humane body is, there we grant, his Blood, and Soul, and Divinity also are, but that Body is now only in Heaven.

3. They who urge this Conceit, yet do grant, that by versue of the Kkkk 2

So Vasquez.

Aquin.p.3. 9.76. Sacramental words, only Christs Body is contained under the form of Bread; and then we conclude, that whole Christ is not therein Sacramentally. Christ's body is not Sacramentally signified by the Wine; neither is the Communion of Christs Blood in this Sacrament, a work of Na-Sanguis facra- ture, but depends meerly on the Institution and Promise of Christ, and to be measured thereby.

4. Though his Body be now accompanyed with blood in Heaven matur Christus, yet this Sacrament was instituted to shew the Passion of Christ when he was on Earth, which was with the pouring out of his blood; and blood poured out of the veins cannot be faid to accompany or be conjoyned bur Alex. Alens, to the body. Our Saviour would represent himself here not as a Lamb, but a Lamb sacrificed, and therefore the blood is severed from the body: As the Money is not a Prisoners Ransome, while it lies in the Chest. but when it is paid; for the blood of Christ as shed, is our Ransome. And though now his bliffed body and blood cannot be fevered afunder, yet the Signs of them are by his own appointment severed, and no man can drink the blood of Christ in eating of the bread. The bread we break is Illa tamen, que the communion of his body, and the cup we bleffe, is still the communion of his blood. And themselves affirm, that their Efficacy is but commenfurate to their Significancy, and it is manifest, that the bread doth only ne augmentatio fignifie the body of Christ, the wine only his blood.

5. Though no more profit were to be received by partaking of one kind, than of both (which yet some of their own deny, who say, that: more Devotion is raised, more Faith exercised, and a more compleat re-115. Alex. Hilens. fresument obtain'd by both than by one) yet more humble obedience is expressed to the will of the Law-giver, who appointed both, and thereby shewed the use and need of both.

The Third Objection that is made against the peoples use of the Sacred Cup, is Pretence of Reverence to the Blood of Christ, which by the promiscuous use of the Cup, might easily be spilt; especially where there is but one Dispenser of the Sacrament, and many Communicants; that it would be lost on the long Beards of the Laity; that being kept long, it would grow musty; and that to impropriate it to the Clergy, would at the same time preserve a great Reverence both to it and to Them also in the eyes of the Vulgar.

Ans. 1. God forbid that any of us should conceive, or express any thing irreverently of our dear Redeemers Blood; no nor of the outward fign thereof. But doth not this Objection reflect upon the Author of this Sacrament, that did so institute it, and upon all the Ancient Church that so used it, and yet such danger in it? yea, who communicated, and that in great numbers, at the least, every Lords Day? And may not the sacred Bread fall down and perish in like manner? But this pretence many of the Fathers in their own Trent-Councel smiled at; well knowing that the Church for above, a thousand years in her greatest straits and persecutions, kept up a due reverence together with the constant use of this Sacred Cup.

2. But the second part of the Objection is not so easily answered; namely, that by this restraint, the honour of the Clergy, who are one time or other partakers of it, may more shine forth. For it is easier to answer ten arguments, than one corrupt affection. But this is the wrong way of contracting Reverence and Respect; for men thus to feek their own Glory, is not Glory; nor can any man expect, that God will blefs those methods, that do fo plainly cross his will. And indeed this very thing, the Clergies bonour and that proud fear of being thought fallible in any thing, lest Truth should get further ground, together with their ill-naturedness, that therefore will deny a thing, because others desire it, are the greatest reasons of the present Church of Rome for this their Sacriledge.

The Fourth Pretence they have, is of Authority. They fay, That the Object. 4custom of communicating under one kind, being rationally introduced, and long observed; the Church having now a greater liberty, than the Church 1.4. c. 28. had under the Law, though she have no power to alter things of a Moral, but only such as are of a Positive nature, bath fixed it as a Law in several Councils, and therefore it is to be so received and obeyed. And in case of disobedience, the secular Arm is to be called in, which one of them confesses in this case to be the most necessary Argument.

Ans. 1. That fuch a custom of communicating under one kind is crept into some part of the Church, is certainly true; but that it was rationally introduced, or hath been anciently used, is certainly false. For how can that be usher'd in with any reason, which is directly against Christs command? whenas also every succeeding Councel is ashamed of the grounds their Predecessors went upon; and one might referre it to any man that is not drunk with prejudice, whether there be one good Rea- Vid. Catechs. fon for this alteration among all the number. And that it hath been for a Rom. p. 2. long time used, is so false, that Authentick Writers in every age of the Church stand ready at a call to evince, that the ordinary and publick celebration of this Sacrament was still in both Kinds. The Roman cause being most indefensible in this point, even by their own usual Weapons.

2. The Universal Church of God hath no Authority to prohibit what God commands. In alterable circumstances, she may wisely and modeftly use her power; but to change the Testamentary Institution of Christ her Lord and Husband, she will not dare. What the Master commands, the good Servant will not forbid. St. Paul faith, the Church is subject to Christ; and therefore may not oppose her self to Christ: for that (as Aug.) he alwaye's determines aright, but Ecclesiastical Judges, as Contr. Crescon, men, are often mistaken. The Ministers of Christ are indeed the Dispen- 1.2. c. 21. fers of the Mysteries of God, but not Lords to dispense with them and. alter them at their pleasure, but must dispense them according to Christs Institution.

Gersons

Institution. And then for the Churches liberty, it consists in having fewer and more easie Ordinances than under the Law, and Grace to make her members willing to perform them; but it consists not in an uncontrolled power to adde, alter, or diminish the Institutions of Christ. He that breaketh the least command, and teacheth so, hath no place in the Kingdom of Heaven. The Roman Priest may not alter or omit one Ceremony in the Mass, and must they adventure to omit this facred Symbol of Christ's appointment?

3. The Determination of the Church of Rome is nothing to the Universal Church; being not a fourth part thereof, nor having any Juris-Conc. Nic. Cal-diction over other Churches by any Law of God. These pretended Councils that have so boldly determined against the plain Word of God, have also herein opposed former Councils; in which case Themselves tell us, that if Councils are at odds with one another, and their Definitions irreconcileable, we ought to take part with the ancient against the latter. And as for that at Constance, which first determined this case, it was neither a General Council, no Bishop from the Eastern Church being there, nor wholly approved by the Romanists themselves, who do some of them protess, That it did decree against the Order of Nature, manifest Scriptures, and all Antiquity, in other Cases, and who then would heed them in this? The like may justly be faid of that at Alb. Pighius. + Basil; fave onely, that they were more kind than their Successors were. in granting upon some Conditions the Cup to the Bohemians.

I now proceed to the Fourth thing promised, and that is some Appli-· IV. cation of all this to our felves.

U/e I. See here the Abundance of our Saviours Love and Care towards his Church. He was not content onely to dye for us, but he ordained for our comfort this thankfull Memorial of his Death; and that on purpose to help our Faith and Comfort; and to this end appointed not onely his flesh, but his blood to be given, that if one kind did not sufficiently quicken and strengthen us, the other should be presently applyed to perfect that good work in us. For he knew that we were dull of Apprehenhon, and hard to be wrought upon. To fee his Body bruised for a poor Sinner, that may work compunction, and erect a staggering Faith; but to fee again his Blood, wherein is a mans life, poured out; and to drink this also as an affuring Pledge that he dyed in the sinners flead, how will this fill the believing Soul with joy and comfort! The Blood of God, that will furely explate the fin of Man. To support a poor Beggar with a piece of Bread, that's kindness; but to quench his thirst also that's double Mercy. This is the Mercy of our Redeemer. He calls, Come, eat of my Bread, and then drink of the Wine that I bave mingled. Not onely, Eat O Friends, but, faith he, Drinke, yea drink abundantly, O beloved. O Love without comparison! the same Hands that have been lift up against him, the same Mouth that hath dishonoured him, shall yet taste that Blood, one drop whereof is of more value than Heaven and Earth. When Alexander the Great was married to Statira the Daughter of Darius, he had fix thousand Guests, and gave to each of them a Cup of Gold; but here are more Guests to be served, and richer Gifts that are bestowed. Here our dear Redeemer opens a wide Fountain for a world of finners; and 'tis onely Wash and be clean. That bleffed Truth is unquestionably here confirmed, 1 Joh. 1. 7. The Blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin. Thus he hath chosen by Two things, wherein it is impossible to lye, to exhibit a bleeding Saviour to cure a bloody Sinner.

See here the presumptuous Sacriledge and Injustice of the Church of Rome. To corrupt Christs last Will, and to serve his Family by the halves. To darken fo clear an Institution, and defeat so plain a Command. How will our dear Saviour refent fo great a wrong? He fo free in shedding his Blood, they so cruel in refusing it. He so carefull to make and feal his bleffed Testament, they so studious to deface it. The Master of the House appoints such provision for his Children, the Steward withholds the one half, and then thinks to appeale their Appetites with Distinctions. He that takes so kindly a cup of cold water given to a Disciple, must needs take it unkindly when his own Cup of Blessing is denyed them. What Article of Religion can be fafe in fuch hands? what intelligent man will imbark himself in such company, that will overturn all Scripture and Antiquity to establish their Conceits? that will privily tax Christ himself of weakness, and openly wrong his whole Church at a blow.

Indeed if this Device had had any tendency to promote Love to God or true Piety; if it had been bred and born in the Church time out of mind, their zeal and fondness for it might the sooner be forgiven: But to struggle so hard for a Tenet that can no way pretend to promote true Religion, a Tenet that was never publickly own'd in any Church for 1400 years; to deny the Wine in the Sacrament to the People, and yet the very Vessels still extant in some of their Vestries, by which they conveyed it to the Peoples Mouths: To make fuch a bare-fac'd Error tantamount to an Article of Faith, and then to Accurse them from Christ, that shall endeavour after his Blood; what shall we say to these things? yea to say, as one of their Cardinals did in the Col- Card. S. Angel. ledge, that to yield the Cup to the Laity, was to offer them Poyfon Trid. p.516. instead of Physick, (he had not forgotten that wretched Monk that Bernard. poyson'd a Christian Emperour with the Cup at the Sacrament); to de-Henr. 6, clare, that to ask the Cup favoured of Herefie, and was in short a mortal sin, as some of them said in the meeting at Trent. These things do raise their Guilt to a very great height, and would inforce all confidering men to blefs themselves from such a Society.

The usual Refuge of these men, when they are baffled by the Scriptures, is to shelter themselves in Tradition, under Councils, or among the Fathers; but in this point the more ingenuous of them do confess that all are against them, and the more impudent make but feeble Defences from them. Divers of their own Bishops in the very Councel of Trent, argued and voted for the Truth. Several Princes of that Religion interceded for it, and afforded the Cup to their Subjects; and a D. of Bavaria. great Prelate, when no good would be done therein, writes to Casar, that no relief was there to be expected, where Voices were alwayes num-Dudithius Ep. ber'd, never weighed. And is not the force of Truth very great, when it Quing Ep. ad extorts an Approbation, even from the Party that opposeth it? And it is not long fince a Concession of both Kinds was fignified to this very Nation, Cambden Eliz. on condition that we would come over to them: Thus God himself shall not have his will, unless withall they may have theirs.

> And yet this is that Church which fo many extoll; that is fet out by fuch alluring Beauty, and wherein fo many blind Soulds are hearded: A fit Religion for those that resolve to have none; and for such Children who will renounce a true Father to obey a false and cruel Mother.

See here the Folly of such among us, who deprive themselves, both of the Sacred Bread and Cup in this Ordinance. While we are vindicating one part of this Sacrament how many are fleighting the whole?

I. Some do live in this fin of Omission out of an Atheistical and profane Principle, having no sence of Duty, or Conscience of Religion at all. The Table of the Lord is contemptible to them. Thus many hundreds and thousands of Adult persons never did once taste of these Gospel-dainties. Jesus Christ saith, Take, eat, this is my Body; Drink ye all of this Cup of Blessing; but they flatly refuse their Redeemers Command. Alas poor Souls! will ye never have any need of him? Can you fatisfie the Justice of an offended God, by your own imperfeet Righteousness? with what face can you crave Attonement by that Blood which you have despised? how can you be ever cleansed by that Blood which you have refused to drink? Bethink your selves, the Blood you contemn is nobler than any that runs in your veins. It is the Blood of the Son of God, to whom the stoutest of you must see first or last: and if you now turn the deaf ear to his gracious calls, how justly may he refuse your cries in the day of your misery. Be wife therefore, and kifs the Sonne, left he be anory, and ye perish in the way. 2. Others

2. Others neglect this Ordinance out of a supine Negligence, nei. ther knowing their Duty, nor caring for any of these things. One would wonder how stupidly men do hear their Duty press'd upon them in this particular; not at all concern'd. They hold their Estates and Credits by another Tenure. Lands and Houses pass not by the Covenant of Grace, nor are fealed with the Seals thereof. They imagine that to prepare for, and partake hereof, will somewhat dif-ease them, and oblige them to the difficult and dreaded work of Self-examination and Godly Sorrow; and so they sleep quietly in this notorious disobedience. Hunger will haste to Meat, Guilt to Pardon, Pain to Ease, Sorrow to Comfort: but where there is no sence of the former, there is no haste to the latter. O that such would read and consider that fearfull sentence in a like case, Numb. 9. 13. The man that is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbeareth to keep the Passeover, even the same Soul shall be cut off from his People, because he brought not the Offering of the Lord in his appointed season, that man shall bear his Sin. And never imagine that Grace or Comfort will be found in Christ, without the use of his own Ordinances, nor the End attain'd without the Means.

3. Others do frequently deprive themselves of the Lords Supper for the sake of some sin or other, (if the truth were known) which they are loth to leave. Thus Stomachs that are clogg'd with noysome humours, quite take away the Appetite. If anger, malice, envy, unruly passions; if sensual delights be cherished within, or be not heartily hated and mortified, there will be no room for the Blood or Grace of Fesus Christ. But (Sirs) do you mean to live, and consequently dve in these sins? what then will become of you? If you do desire to leave and conquer them, why do you avoyd the means? will any of these sins excuse your present Omissions? not at all. One sin can never excuse another. What Child or Servant will be excused from coming to meat when you call them, by faying, their hands are unclean, and they have no mind to wash them? Do you conceit that there is more real sweetness in your sins, than in Christ? in the filth and dregs of the world, than in the Maker and Glory of the World? Taste and see how good the Lord is, and let the Love of Christ constrain you to your undoubted Duty.

4. Others again do deprive themselves of the Lords Supper out of a superstitious Fear of approaching to it; the rather, because the Scripture saith, that the unworthy Receiver becomes guilty of the Body and Blood of the Lord, and withall eateth and drinketh his own damnation. Now a Religious Fear there ought to be, which should not onely oblige a man to prepare himself for this Ordinance, but for every other. If it were a well-governed Conscience that ruled them, it would make them as carefull of Praying and Hearing, as of Communicating; and it is most certain, that whoso cannot rightly partake, can neither rightly pray nor hear. And the Danger of miscarriage is much the same in the one as in the other: for, to have the Word become a savour of death, and a mans Prayers to become sin, differs nothing in effect from being guilty of Christs death, or of eating judgement (which that word doth properly import) that is, deserving Gods Anger, and the effects of it to a mans self.

A grievous fin, this unworthy Receiving, (no doubt) but not unpardonable, nor fuch as should discourage the weakest child of God from fincere Endeavours, and then a chearfull Communicating. For this Sacrament was never intended to feal our Perfection, but to help our Imperfection. If a Wife were lovingly invited to feast with her Husband, or a Child by a Father; would it not lay an imputation of an unfufferable feverity in the Husband or Father, or else of fecret guilt, ignorance, or want of love in the Wife or Child, to refuse to come, lest they should not be duely qualified? Even so in this case, Our Blessed Redeemer most lovingly calls us to his Supper; what other construction can be made of our refusal, but that either he is rigorous, or we faulty. In this case we cannot do better than like wise Abigail, 1 Sam. 25. 41. 42. when David sent to take her to him to wife, she arose and bowed her self on her face to the Earth, and said, Behold, let thy handmaid be a servant, to wash the feet of the servants of my Lord. Here is a due sence of her own unworthiness. But in the next Verse; She hasted and arose, and went after his messengers, and became his Wife. Keep up a due sence of your own unworthiness, but let not that hinder you from going, when he calleth you. If you perish, yet perish in a way of Duty. How many do we meet with, on their Deathbeds grievously troubled in Conscience for their neglect herein? If you are unfit for the Lords Supper, you are unfit to dye; and how dare you live in a condition altogether unfit to die? O remember, that stinging Scripture, Jam. 2. 10. If a man keep the whole Law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all.

Lastly, Let us all take care to improve this Legacy, the blessed Cup of Christs blood. That this point lye not, like grounds long in suit, barren and unprofitable. While there is such slickling for the Sign, let us strive after the thing signified. Shall we contend so earnestly for this Jewel, and then not wear it? shall we venture so hardly for this water of Bethlehem, and then pour it out when we have done? O no, let us squeeze all possible vertue out of this Sacred Cup; let us go up by the stream, to the Spring; having opened the Shell, let us feed upon the Kernel. Let us remember Christs bitter Death and Passion for us. Is thy Heart impenitent? steep it in the blood of this Scape-goat. Is thy Faith weak and fainting? Here's Sense to help thy Faith. Apply the mouth of thy Faith to his wounds, and be not faithless but believing. Is thy Conscience unquiet? bring it to be there sprinkled with the merit of his Blood. Are thy fins as many as the fands? his blood is as large as the Ocean, to overflow them all. When this bleffed Cup is poured out, let thy eyes pour down a flood of tears mixed of grief and joy; To see such a Person pouring out his life by thy procurement, this should melt thee with grief: To see the Price paid by that Blood for thee, should lift thee up into a trance of joy. When thou takest that Cup of Salvation, think, What shall I render to the Lord for this his benefit to me? Who is this that comes with died Garments from Bozrah? how glorious is be in his Apparel! How bitter was his Paffion! how sweet his compassion to poor sinners! Be ye lift up, O my everlasting doors, and let the King of Clory come in. Bring him into thy Soul, and there feed upon him by Faith, and let his fruit be savoury to thy taste. Inward Communion is the Crown of an Ordinance. It is the Cup of the New Testament in Christs blood, which was shed for you; receive it with Reverence, receive it with Thankfulness, receive it with Application, remember his Death, remember his Love more than Wine.

Let us not onely defend the Truth, but improve it. If we feel no vertue or comfort in the blood of Christ, we shall be tempted to throw away the Cup as well as others. When we find no marrow in the Bone, we throw it away. He that profits by Ordinances will best value them; he that is refresh'd by Wine, will never cry down the Vine; but a formal partaker will easily be weaned; and when the Children do but play with the drink, the Father may justly take away the Cup from them.

SERMON XXIII.

Christ crucified, the onely proper Gospel Sacrifice. Mr Momas Wadoworth

Hebrews X. 12.

But this man after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sate down at the right hand of God.

HE design of the Apostle in this Verse, with the Verse foregoing, is to set forth the Excellency and Persection of our Saviours Priesthood, and his one Sacrifice, above the Levitical Priesthood, and the Plurality of Sacrifices by them offered under the Law.

This he doth by comparing them together, and by shewing wherein they agree, and wherein they differ, that so he might clearly illustrate the preheminence of the one above the other.

Their agreement consisted, (1) In their Office, they were both Priests: (2) In the Administration of their Office, they both did sa-crisice.

Their disagreement consisted in these things following:

First, The Levitical Priesthood consisted of a Plurality of Persons, therefore vers. 11. called Priests, which, by reason of death, had many Successors. But the Evangelical Priesthood consisted but of one single Person, our Lord Jesus, called in the Text, this man.

Secondly, As the Levitical Priesthood consisted of a Plurality, so did their Sacrifices; for they were also very many, and therefore called (vers. 11.) Sacrifices. Now you must understand the Apostle there speaking not only of a Plurality as to the Number of them, but likewise as to then

their feveral Kindes, for they offered not onely feveral forts of Beasts, as Bulls, Lambs, Goats, but of Birds also, as of Turtle-doves and young Pigeons, &c. But the Sacrifice which Christ offered, was but one as to the Kind, which was that Body which was prepared, Heb. 10.5.

Thirdly, The Levitical Sacrifices were oftentimes offered, (verf. 11.)

but the Sacrifice of Christ was but once offered.

Fourthly, The Levitical Sacrifices could never take away fin, verf. 11. but Christ by his one Sacrifice, once offered, took away fins for ever; that is, took away fins fully and everlastingly; and herein it is, that the transcendent Glory of the Gospel Sacrifice, out-shines all the Legal Sacrifices, as much as the Sun doth all the Stars in their greatest lustre: for all those Sacrifices could never take away sin, which this one hath done persectly.

From the words thus opened, I shall gather these four Propositions.

1 Prop. That Christ crucisied is the onely divine and proper Sacrifice of the Gospel.

2 Prop. That the Sacrifice of Christ is but of one Kind. 3 Prop. That this one Sacrifice of Christ was but once offered.

4 Prop. That this Sacrifice of Christ once offered, was so compleatly efficacious, as that it took away sins fully and for ever.

The first Proposition opened.

That Christ crucified is the onely divine and proper Sacrifice of the Gospel.

Here I shall explain, First, Why I say it is divine: Secondly, Why a proper Sacrifice: Thirdly, Why the onely proper Sacrifice of the Gofpel.

First, I call it a divine Sacrifice, because its Institution and Appointment is of God: Let the matter of a Sacrifice be never so excellent and precious in the Eyes of Men, yet except God hath legitimated and fanctified it by his Appointment, it would prove but an Abomination in the Eyes of God. As suppose one should offer up the Fruit of his Body for the fin of his Soul, which is a kind of Sacrifice, than the which there is nothing a man can more highly value, and more hardly part with, which yet Abraham was ready to have done in his Isaac at Gods Command, whereby he did wonderfully fignalize his Faith, and obtained favour with God. But when apostatized Israel essayed to give a like testimony of Honour to a mistaken Deity, the Lord by his Prophet Feremiah doth not onely charge them with Idolatry, but likewise with the Kind of Sacrifice that they offered, which was of their Sons and Daughters, of which he faith, which I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind, that they should do this abomination. So that every Sacrifice that hath not the stamp of Divine Authority to legitimate it, is not to be accounted of as Divine, or of any worth or acceptance with God. But now I fay, that this Sacrifice of Christ crucified, is of Divine appointment, and so a Divine Sacrifice: This is clearly afferted by the Apostle, Heb. 10. 5, 6, 7. Psal. 40. 6. Wherefore, when he cometh into the World, be saith, Sacrifice and Offering thou wouldest not, but a Body hast thou prepared me. v.6. In Burnt-offerings and Sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure: Then faid I, Lo, I come, (in the Volume of the Book it is written of me) to do thy will, O God. Mark that; Christ took up a Body, in order to be facrificed, instead of all Legal Sacrifices, and this in complyance to the Will of God, which he farther explaineth verf. 10. By which Will we are santtified, through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. The fumme of what the Apostle faith is this, That God would be fatisfied with no Sacrifice but that of his Son, and that with this Sacrifice he would be pleafed, and therein would accept of all that should believe. The Conclusion is this, That because Christ was crucified at the appointment of God, (as I have proved) therefore I call Christ crucified a Divine Sacrifice.

Secondly, I say further, that Christ crucified, is not onely a divine but likewise a proper Sacrifice, and that for this Reason: Because the most essential Properties of the most perfect Sacrifices under the Law, which were those that were Expiatory, I say the Properties of such kind of Sacrifices agree to this of Christ crucified.

There are Four Properties of an Expiatory Sacrifice, all of which, I shall shew you, do agree with this of our Christ crucified.

1. The first Property of such a Sacrifice is, that it be of some living Creature flain and its blood shed, and offered up unto God; this is so. evident to any that hath but any knowledge in the Laws of God concerning the Nature of his Sacrifices that it will feem a needless matter to adde any thing for the illustration or proof thereof. Certain it is, that the Holy Scriptures, both in the Hebrew and in the Greek, use such words for a Sacrifice as do include a flaughter in them; the one being 1721 the other Suria: and the Apostle throughout this Epistle, speaking of Sacrifices, whether they were of Bulls, Goats, or Lambs, he all along maketh mention of their Blood shed, which cannot be but with their flaughter: fo that there is nothing more evident, than that flaying and shedding of blood is the Property of an Expiatory Sacrifice. Now it is as clear, that our Christ crucified had this property, for he was nailed Hands and feet to the Cross, and through those wounds bled to death; besides, when dead, the remainder of his Blood issued from his side, pierced with a Souldiers Spear: this blood thus shed, the Apostle Peter calls precious blood, and withall calls it the blood of a Lamb without blemish, therein alluding to the facrificed Lamb under the Law; of which shadow Christ the Lamb of God sacrificed under the Gospel is the substance. From what hath been said, it is evident that this first property of an Expiatory Sacrifice, dothfully comport with the death of Christ.

2. The

2. The fecond property of a Sacrifice, is that it was offered to God for the Expiation of Sin: This was the End of the Levitical expiatory Sacrifices, as the Apostle tells us, Hebr. 9.7. when he faith, Into the second Tabernacle went the High-priest alone, once a year, not without blood, which he offered for himself and Errors of the People; which is as much as if he had faid, That the blood of those Beasts he had facrificed, he took with him into the Tabernacle, and there offered it to God for his own and the peoples fins. Now though he tells us, Heb. 10.4. that it is not possible for the blood of Bulls and Goats to take away sin: which feems at first fight very harsh, that those Sacrifices that were appointed to be offered for fin, and yet that they could not, when offered, possibly take sin away. But let the Apostle answer for himself, as he is best able, which he doth Heb. 9. 9. compared with the 13th verf. In the ninth verse, he tells you in what sence they could not take away sin: There were offered (faith he) gifts and sacrifices, that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the Conscience. The meaning of which words I shall rather give you in the Paraphrase of Learned Dr. Hammond, than in my own; which are brief, full and plain. "Thereby, (faith he) is meant, That all these Legal Performances will "not be able to give any man confidence to pray unto God, to bring "him to Heaven, or to obtain for him the pardon of any wilfull or pre-"fumptuous fin in the fight of God, or free him from any fin that hath " wasted his Conscience, or give him grace to purge himself from such ifin. In all these respects those Legal Sacrifices could not possibly take away sin. But you will say, In what sence did they take away sin? The Apostle will tell you, vers. 13. If the blood of Bulls and Goats sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh. He had told you before, that they could not make perfect as pertaining to the Conscience; but now he faith, as to the flesh, those Sacrifices did purifie, and so in a fort did take away sin. By flesh is here meant, the Outward man considered in his External priviledges as to his Judaical Church-state, of which Priviledges this is the fumme, viz. Communion with that Church in External Ordinances of Worship, from which upon every Ceremonial Uncleanness the Jew was excluded, but upon offering up of a Sacrifice for his cleanfing, his fault was pass'd by, and he was re-admitted to his former Communion; and these were the Errors of the Priests and the People, from which upon their offering of Sacrifices they were cleared. And now you see the Objection removed, and yet the Property of an Expiatory Sacrifice cleared; and that is, that it was offered for the taking away of fin. And now let us apply this Property of a Sacrifice to Christ crucified, and see whether it doth not thereto agree.

I say therefore, that answerably Christ was as a Sacrifice crucified, and therein offered up to God for the Expiation of sin. This is fully afferted by the Apostle, Heb. 9. 14. How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the Eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your Conscience from dead works, to serve the living God: That is, if the Sacrifices of the Law so far availed as to the purifying of the slesh, the Sacrifice of Christ shall much more avail to purifie the Conscience; that is, so perfectly to settle and quiet the Conscience from the sears of the wrath of God for sins committed (which are the dead works the Apostle speaketh of) to this end among the rest, that the sinner thus quieted, might serve the living God, not slavishly, for sear of Wrath, but from Love, as becometh a gracious Child, whom his mercifull Father hath so freely pardoned through the Sacrifice of his own Son. The consideration of this Verse, with that of the Text I am speaking from, is abundantly sufficient to clear up the second Property of an Expiatory Sacrifice to belong to Christ crucified, which is this, That every such Sacrifice was offered for the taking away of sin.

3. A Third property of an Expiatory Sacrifice is, that it was to be offered up by a Priest ordained of God to that end. To this very end (faith the Apostle Heb. 8.3.) was the High-priest (under the Law) ordained, to offer gifts and facrifices. So that hence it is evident, that no Sacrifice was to be offered but by a Priest thus ordained: And was it not for Sauls presumption in this Kind, that lost him his Kingdom, I Sam.

Well then, if every Expiatory Sacrifice must have a Priest to offer it, so had our Christ crucified; for it was a Sacrifice offered up to God by himself our onely High-priest, being appointed to that Office by God. That Christ was appointed by God to this Office, is manifest from Psal. 110.4. The Lord hath sworn, and will not repent, thou art a Priest for ever after the Order of Melchizedek. That this is meant of Christ's being by God defigned to this Office, is clear from Heb. 7. 17. where the Apostle applyes this Prophesie to Jesus Christ. But farther, as from what hath been faid, it doth appear, that Christ is a Priest ordained of God, fo likewife it doth further appear, that this our High-Priest was he that did offer up himself as a Sacrifice to God, if you consider John 6. 51. The Bread (faith Christ) that I will give, is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world. Now this flesh was given in his Death, which was given by himself when he voluntarily offered it up unto God in that most holy Sacrifice. So in Heb. 7. 27. it is faid, Christ offered up himself; Christ was not onely the Sacrifice, but the Sacrificer. So Heb. 9.26 Now once in the end of the World, bath he appeared to put away Sin by the Sacrifice of himfelf. Nothing more plain, than that Christ in these places is to be understood both as Priest and Sacrifice.

But it may be objected, How can Christ be said to sacrifice himself, whenas he did not kill himself, or shed his own blood; for he was apprehended by Order from the High-priest, sed away as a Prisoner, arraigned and condemned unjustly, and in a violent cruel manner crucified by his malicious Enemies: He did not slay himself, but was slain by the Fews.

Lanswer,

I answer, Though he did not flay himself, (for that had been Self-murder, which had been a fin that had not become this spotless Lamb; but) vet this is evident, that he did offer up himself to be flayn by them, in complyance with the Councel of his Father, and in complyance with all the Prophecies of the Old Testament, that foretold, he must be cut off for the People. O fools (faith Christ to his doubting Disciples,) and flow of heart, to believe all that the Prophets have spoken: Ought not Carife to have suffered these things? Ought he not? That is, was it not his Duty, in complyance with his Fathers will, who had designed him thereto, and foretold this his defignation by his Prophets. But from the History of the Manner of his Death, it is very clear, that Christ did very readily offer up himself as a Villim to be slain for the sins of his people. For first, he knew when he went his last Journey to Ferusalem, that his hour was come, and yet he went up, John 12. 23. Then he knew also, that Judas at that time designed to betray him, but he was so far from feeking to prevent it, that he rather feems to haften it, when he fayes to Judas, What thou doeft, doe quickly. Then again, when his Enemies came to apprehend him, he fought not to escape them, but going forth, Joh. 18.4. saith, If ye feek Jesus of Nazareth, I am he. And when he was in their hands, he could, (as he tells them) but pray to his Father, and of him obtain an Army of Angels to his rescue, but would not; for having received a Body for to facrifice, and the hour of offering it up being come, he most willingly surrendred himself to his Enemies for the flaughter: And this is agreeable to what he fayes, 70h. 10.15.18. I lay down my life for the sheep, no man taketh it from me; that is, not against my will, but I lay it down of my felf. And thus it became our High-priest to doe, wh had the Sacrifice of himself to offer by himself. And thus I have shewn, how the Third Property of an Expiatory Sacrifice belongs to Christ crucified, It was to be offered by a Priest ordained by God, and such an ordained Priest was Christ, who at Gods appointment offered up himself.

4. The Fourth Property of an Expiatory Sacrifice regularly offered, is, that it was of a sweet savour unto God; that is, it was highly pleasing, and graciously accepted of by him. This is evident from what God himself hath said, concerning such Sacrifices, Levit. 1.9. The Priest shall burn all on the Altar, to be a Burnt-offering of a sweet savour unto the Lord. This is repeated again and again, vers. 13. 17. Now that this Sacrifice of Christ crucified might in no case fall short of those Legal Sacrifices, the Apostle, Epbes. 3. 2. doth apply the very same Property to this Sacrifice of Christ, in these words, Walk in love, as Christ also bath loved us, and bath given himself for us, an Offering, and a Sacrifice to God, for a sweet-smelling savour. And certainly, there was never any thing in this World acted to a greater Satisfaction to the most High God, than this of Christs dying for sinners, of which God hath given this testimony, that he hath so highly exalted him, as a Reward of these M m m m his Sufferings, according to the Apostle, Philip. 2.8,9. Being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the Cros: wherefore God bath highly exalted him, and given him a Name which is above every Name, that at the Name of Jesus every knee should bow, &c. And what signifies this Honour God hath heaped on him for his Sufferings, but that this his fuffering death was highly pleafing, and of a fweet favour to him. Thus have I in Four things shewn you how evident it is, that Christ crucified is a proper Expiatory Sacrifice, as having all the effentially necessary Properties of such a Sacrifice; which was the second point in the first Proposition to be cleared.

There is one thing more in the first Proposition to be cleared up and proved, which is, That Christ crucified is the Onely proper Gospel Sacri-

I fay, it is the onely proper Sacrifice of the Gospel,

First, That I might exclude all Judaical Sacrifices, which till Christ. were of God, both commanded and accepted, but fince his coming, and fince he hath offered up himself, all those Sacrifices are now abolished; God taking no longer any pleasure therein, Hebr. 10.6. In Burnt-offerings and Sacrifices for fin thou hadst no pleasure: Then said I, (that is Christ) I come to do thy Will, O God; that is, to facrifice my self: In this latter he hath pleasure, but not in the former, which are therefore taken away.

Secondly, I call Christ crucified the onely proper Sacrifice, to exclude the Romish Masse, which those pretended Catholicks would fain have us believe to be a proper Sacrifice, and the very same with that of Christ crucified, but how groundlesly I shall shew afterward.

Thirdly, I call it the onely proper Sacrifice, to distinguish it from several other improper Sacrifices under the Gospel, as that of doing good and communicating, of which the Apostle faith, With such Sacrifices God is well-pleased, Heb. 13.16. Such is that of devoting ones body to the Service of God, called Rom. 12. 1. a living Sacrifice; so is that of offering Praise, Hebr. 13.15. These I acknowledge have the name of Sacrifices under the Gospel, but there is no man doubteth, that they are improperly and onely by way of Allusion so called: For as a Sacrifice is a Holy thing offered up to the Lord, fo is doing Good, devoting ones felf to Gods Service, and offering Praise to God, holy things also, and fo metaphorically called Sacrifices; but in these Performances, there is no flaying, or shedding of Blood; or making Attonement for fin, which were necessary to speak them proper Sacrifices. Thus much shall suffice for the clearing up of the third and last part of the first Proposition, which now I conceive I have sufficiently proved, That Christ crucified, is the onely divine and proper Sacrifice of the Gospel. . it is grid A land to the land of the control of the land of the l

The Second Proposition.

That this Sacrifice is but of one kind.

Such is part of the meaning of the Apostle in the Text, when he saith, But this man when he had effered one Sacrifice; he means not one only in number, but as to the kind; of this latter I shall now speak.

It is well known that the Sacrifices of the Law were of divers kinds of Beasts, as Bulls, Goats, Lambs; and of Birds, as Turtle doves and young Pidgeons. But the Sacrifice of the Gospel is but of one kind, which is the Blood of Jesus, which through the Eternal Spirit was offered up to God.

But it may be asked, Why the Sacrifices of the Law were of divers forts, fince they were to shadow forth the Gospel Sacrifice, which was to be but of one fort or kind?

I answer, It might be for this Reason: Because that the Gospel Sacrifice was to be of that absolute Perfection, both as to its Matter as well as Ends, that no one kind of Legal Sacrifice could fully represent; and therefore it was, that several forts of Creatures that had very different qualities, were elected and appointed by God, to typifie out by parts, what was fummarily comprehended in that one Sacrifice of Christ. As when God appointed the Bull for the Sacrifice, fince that Creature hath an excellency of strength superiour to any other Beast of the Field, it might be to shadow forth the very great ability of our Lord Jesus for this undertaking. Then again, there was choyce made of another fort of Creature, which had not that eminency of Strength as the Bull, but was superiour in Meekness and Innocency; such was the Lamb, to set forth that remarkable Meekness and Innocency of our Saviour in the sacrificing of himself, of whom the Prophet saith, He was led like a Lamb, to the flaughter, and as a Sheep before the shearers was be dumb, he opened not his mouth. So also was the Goat called out for a Sacrifice, not so much to fignifie any Quality of Christs own Person, but rather the Nature and Qualities of those Persons in whose stead he dyed, which were Sinners; for as the Goat is noted to be a Beast of a very lustfull nature, and of as ill a favour, fuch also are finners, full of strong and loathsome lusts, of a very ill savour in the Nostrils of the Holy God. Now Christ being to represent the Persons of such in whose stead he dyed, was therefore typified forth by this Sacrifice of a Goat. To adde to these, there was also facrificed Turtle-doves and young Pidgeons; now this is observable of this fort of Birds, that there are no Birds superiour to them in Love and Faithfulness to their Mates; by which might be shadowed forth the incomparable Love and Faithfulness of Jesus Christ to his Church, whom he loved, and bought with his own Blood: Never was Turtle-dove so tender of, and faithfull to his Mate; as Christ hath been and is to his Church. So that all the qualities of those feveral forts of Mmmm 2 Legal יפה וודר

Legal Sacrifices meeting in our one Sacrifice of Christ, they were sit in conjunction to be his Type, and did more compleatly display the Nature of his Sacrifice, than if but any one of them had been appointed for that use. And this I conceive is the Reason why the Sacrifices of the Law were of divers forts, and yet they were all but the Type of one single Sacrifice of the Gospel. Thus have I briefly illustrated the second Proposition.

The Third Proposition:

That this one Sacrifice of Christ was but once offered.

This is clear to them that consult these following Scriptures: Rom. 6. 10. He dyed unto sin once. Hebr. 7. 27. He needeth not to offer up sacrifices, first for his own sins, and then for the Peoples; but this he did once, when he offered up himself. Heb. 9. 26. But now once in the end of the world hath he appeared, to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. Vers. 28. So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many. Heb. 10. 10. By the which will we are santisfied, through the offering of the Body of Christ, once for all. I Pet. 3. 18. For Christ hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust. Now certainly, the Holy Ghost would never have layd such an Emphasis upon the singularity or Oneness of Christs Sacrifice, as apparently he doth in those Scriptures now named, were it not for very good and very great Reason, and what is that but to signifie, that this one Sacrifice, once offered, was every way compleat, and sufficient for the full obtaining of all the Ends of a Sacrifice.

That this Sacrifice once offered, was sufficient, I prove these three wayes.

First, Because it was as often as God required. This commandment (faith our Lord) have I received of my Father, that I should lay down my life for my sheep, and take it again, Joh. 10. 15, 18. Hence it is certain, that his Father would have him lay it down once, and then to take it again: But was it his intent he should take it again to lay it down again? not so; for then, fince he hath not yet come to die again, it would be our duty to expect him a fecond time to die for us; but this we expect not, indeed he will come a fecond time, but (as the Apostle faith) without fin; that is, not to bear again the punishment of fin, as he did in his once dying: but then he will come to salvation; that is, to perfect that falvation to his Saints, for whom he purchased it by his once dying. But our Saviour puts us out of doubt in this particular, inafmuch as he hath told us, he will die no more, Rev. 1. 18. I was dead, but I am now he that liveth, and behold I live for evermore; which he could not have faid, but that he knows, that his Father requires no more deaths at his hand than what he eath already payd.

Secondly, This once was sufficient, because it was as much as the Law required.

required. The Law was to Adam, That if thou eatest of the forbidder. Tree, thou shalt die the death threatned, was but once to be executed; and therefore Christ being the sinners Surcty, could not be bound to pay more than the sinners debt, this is clearly and fully afferted by the Apostle, Heb. 9. 27. As it is appointed (that is, by the Law) unto men, once to die, and after this to judgement; so Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; that is, Christ was once sacrificed to take off that Curse of once dying, that by the Law was threatned to the sinner. The Law being thus compleatly satisfied by Christs thus once dying, it was a very needless matter upon this account for Christ to die a second time.

Thirdly, Christs dying once was sufficient, because it was as much as the Sinner needed.

This will be best understood, if we take an Account of the sinners.

(1) It is evident, that by fin the Holy God was provoked to Anger; and therefore the finner wanted a Reconciliation, which this one Sacrifice once offered hath procured, Ephef. 2. 16. Christ hath reconciled both (that is, Jew and Gentile) unto God in one body, by the Cross; that is; he (by his once offering up himself in Sacrifice to God) hath made the believing finners peace with God, whether he be few or Gentile: "

(2) Again, the finner hath forfeited his Life to the Justice of God, by fin; answerably, Christ by his once dying hath discharged the Law of Death, and procured for the Believer a glorious Resurrection to an Eternal Life. It alway a gardent the

(3) Again, fin had blinded and hardned the finners Mind and Confeience, as to the things of God, so that he became so utterly unable to help himself, that he neither knew the Law of God, or if he had known it, he was not able to submit himself to that Law, being at enmity there to. But Christ by his one Sacrifice once offered, procured a new, gracious and everlasting Covenant, one of the principal Promises whereof is, That God will put his Laws in their Minds, and write them in their Hearts, Heb. 8. 9. that is, he will so enlighten their minds, and sanctifies their hearts, as that they shall not onely know, but readily obey him in whatever he commandeth: Now this Governant and this Promise, is the Purchase of this one Sacrifice once offered.

(4) Lastly, Sin had got into the sinners Conscience, and so fired it with the stashes of Guilt; and allarum'd it with the Threatnings of the Law, and so affrighted it with the wrath of God, that the poor sinner could find no ease or quiet: But this once offered Sacrifice hath so purged the Conscience from dead works, (Heb. 9.14.) that the Soul finds it self at ease, that it can serve the Lord without distraction: For being fully perswaded (that sin being pardoned, and God at peace through this blood) that it shall never sall under Condemnation, it hears no more of the boysterous storms of the Law and Conscience, but enjoyes a great Calm all its dayes.

Now if Christs once offered Sacrifice hath both satisfied God, answered the Law, and every way supplyed the sinners lacks, it cannot be imagined, what room should be left for a repetition of the same Sacrifice. And therefore, being we are affured, that Christ was to do nothing impertinent and in vain, we are upon the same ground assured. That he was to be sacrificed but once; which is the third Proposition. Star co in in in 2011 and stant

The Fourth Proposition.

That this Sacrifice of Christ once offered, was so perfectly efficacious, as to take away sins fully and for ever.

This Proposition is clearly contained in the Text: For when it is said, This man after he had offered one Sacrifice for sins for ever, the words [for ever] are certainly to be referred to the Efficacy of this one Sacrifice once offered; for it there stands opposed to the inefficacy of the Legal Sacrifices, of which he had said verf. It they can never take away fin; the meaning is, That what all the forts of Sacrifices often offered under the Law, could never doe, that this one Sacrifice of Christ once offered under the Gospel, hath done perfectly to the Believer; that is, hath not left one fin unpardoned, but hath taken away every fin ever-

TO as a selection of the second to the second 1. I fay first, it was so efficacious as to take away all sins to the true Believer, fully and compleatly; nor can the Apostle, Rom. 8, 33, 34. mean any thing less, when he faith, Who shall lay any thing to the charge of Gods Elect? It is God that justifieth, who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that dyed. Certainly, if there is no Judge to be found in Heaven or Earth that can justly condemn the Believer, then there is no Sin that the Believer stands guilty of; but all must be pardoned: For was there but one fin unpardoned, there would be found Judges enow to condemn him. But whence is it that the Believer becomes fo fecure? The Apostle tells you the Reason, and that is, Christ bath dyed. Again, this may farther be confirmed from Acts 12. 38, 39. Be it known unto you therefore, Brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins, and by him all that believe, are justified from all things (that is all fins) from which ye could not be justified by the Law of Moses: The meaning is, That through the Death of Christis preached the Remission of all sins, from which ye could not be freed by all the Sacrifices of the Law of Mofes; what those Sacrifices could not doe, that the one Sacrifice of Christ once offered, hath done fully.

And not onely fo, for as his one Sacrifice once offered, took away or procured the pardon of all fins to the Believer, fo it took them away for ever. This it hath done by procuring the second Covenant which hath this Promise, Heb. 8. 12. I will be mercifull to their unrighteous ness, and their fins and iniquities I will remember no more : To remember them no more, is as much as if it had been faid, They shall be ever-

lastingly forgiven, so that not one of them shall ever rise up to the Condemnation of the Believer. The Conclusion is this, That if all sins are eternally pardoned to the Believer, upon the Merit of this one Sacrifice once offered, then is this Sacrifice a most compleat and efficacious Sacrifice, nor doth the Believer stand in need of any other Sacrifice, no nor of the repetition of this very same Sacrifice, which is the fourth Proposition, and is now (I conceive) fully proved.

Having thus cleerly and briefly confirmed the Protestant Doctrine concerning that great Article of the proper Gospel Expiatory Sacrifice, which doth highly concern every Sinner to understand, without which it is impossible for him to know how or which way he may attain to the Remission of his Sins, and the Salvation of his Soul: I come now at length to take a view of the Romish Doctrine, concerning their vain, impertinent, blasphemous and idolatrous Sacrifice of the Mass. I'call it vain and impertinent, because by the one Sacrifice of Christ once offered on the Cross, God is sufficiently satisfied, and the Sinner sufficiently secured: To what end then ferves their pretended Sacrifice of the Mass? I call it blasphemous, because so derogatory to the Sacrifice of Christ, as if Christs Death on the Cross was not sufficient without the Auxiliary of the Mass to make an Attonement for fin, and fave the finner. I call it Idolatrons, because they have made it a meer Idol, not onely worshipping and adoring Sacramental Bread and Wine as their true Saviour, but in trufting therein for falvation as in Christ hunfelf, than the which there was never any thing invented by the Devil himself, that was more Idolatrous.

But before I shall give you my Arguments against this Popish Do-Ctrine of the Mass's being a proper Sacrifice, since I write principally for the information and establishment of our weaker Brethren, I shall first tell you what is meant by the Mass, the Doctrine whereof those cruel bloody Papists have formerly endeavoured to impose on the Faith of your Fore-fathers, with Racks, Prisons, Iron Fetters, cruel Mockings, Faggots and Fire, and which assuredly they would by the same methods of savageness, instead of Arguments, endeavour to impose on you, if ever the Lord should be pleased to give you up into their hands for tryal, which the good Lord in mercy prevent.

Know then, that what we Protestants call (according to Scripture) the Lords Supper, that the Papists (according to the Tradition of men) call the Mass.

But this is not all, for we differ from them not onely in the Name, but in the Explication of the Nature of the thing it felf. as thus:

We Protestants hold, that in the Lords Supper after Confectation, there remains real Bread, and real Wine. But the Papists believe, that after the Consecration, or after the Priest hath pronounced these words, This is my Body, and This is the New Testament in my Blood, &c. that the Bread and Wine are by a certain Miracle transubstantiated into the very same slesh and blood wherein Christ suffered on the Cross.

Again, we Protestants believe, that this Sacramental Supper of Bread and Wine, is a figure of the real Sacrifice of Christ crucified, appointed by Christ for the remembrance thereof, and so we doubt not to call it a figurative Metaphorical Sacrifice. But this will not fatisfie the Papifts, for they believe, that this Bread and Wine is so changed into the very same Body of Christ which was nailed to the Cross, and into that very Blood that he there shed, and that consequently it is a real proper and true Expiatory Sacrifice for our fins, as that of Christ crucified on the Cross: which is certainly the meaning of the Conncil of Trent, in those words of the Decree concerning this point. Speaking of the Mass, say they, Cujous Ob'atione Deum effe placatum, & panitentia donum concedere, & peccata omnia demittere: i.e. That upon the offering of the Mass, God is pacified. and Repentance, and Remission of sins given. And what can be said more of the Vertue and Efficacy of Christ himself-crucified?

In the next place, we Protestants believe, that in the receiving this Supper; as with our Bodies we eat real Bread, and drink real Wine, for our Souls by Faith do feed upon the real Body and Blood of Christ, that was once offered in Sacrifice for the reconciling us to God, for the Remission of fins, and the Salvation of our Souls, which benefits we by Faith apply to our felves, for which we blefs and praife Ood, who hath graciously bestowed them on us, for the merits sake of that one Sacrifice of Christ once offered. But the Papists believe, that not onely their Souls by Faith, but likewise the mouths of their Bodies, do eat and drink in the Mass, the very Body and Blood of Christ, as really as if they had eat him off from the Cross, or drunk in his Blood as it issued out of his pierced hands, feet and fide. In a word, the Papists have turned the Lords Supper into an abominable Idol, and take the Bread and Wine to be the true and real Redeemer of the World, and do as devoutly worship and adore it, as we do the God-man Jesus now at the right hand of the Majesty on high; which is Idolatry with a witness.

Having now shewed you what the Romish Mass is, I now come to lay down those Arguments which I shall draw from the precedent discourse, by which I will prove, that this Mass is no proper Gospel Expiatory Sacrifice, which the Romish Church believes it to be.

The general Argument is this:

If the one Sacrifice of Christ crucified, once offered on the Cross, is the onely divine and proper Sacrifice of the Gospel, as I have proved, then the Mass is no divine proper Gospel Sacrifice.

The Reason of the consequence is this, because the Mass is another thing, of a very different nature from that of Christ crucified; and therefore being not the very fame thing, it cannot be the very fame Sacrifice; and if it be not the very same, it cannot be a proper Gospel Sacrifice, because that onely (as I have proved) is the onely proper Gospel Sa-This is so evident, that I see no possibility of evading the force of its Reason.

That

That then which remains to be proved, is this, That the Mass is not the very same thing, and of the same nature with that of Christ crucified, and therefore cannot be the same Sacrifice.

In this very point lies the very heart and life of the Controversie betwixt us and them, as is evident from the words of the Decree of the Trent-Council, which are these: Idem ille Christus in hoc Missa Sacri-Lib.6. pa. 455: ficio incruente immolatur, qui in ara crucis cruente sese obtulit, una Histor. Concil. eadémque existente hostia, eo qui nune Sacerdotum ministerio offert, esqui seipsum tunc in cruce obtulit, sola offerendi diversa. The meaning whereof in short is this: That there is no real difference betwixt the Sacrifice of Christ on the Cross, and Christin the Mass; it is the very fame in both, onely differing in the Reason of Offering; for in the Cross he offered himself immediately, in the Mass he offers himself by the Ministry of his under-Priests.

So then, fince the whole controversie lies on this one point, all my Arguments shall be level'd against this their strong hold.

This then I shall prove, That the Mass is not properly the very self-same Sacrifice with that of Christ crucified on the Cross.

I Arg. The Mass cannot be the same Sacrifice with that of Christ on the Cross, because Christ crucified was a Sacrifice of Gods appointment, and so Divine, which I proved in the first Proposition; but so is not the Mass, for God never appointed it for a Sacrifice, therefore it cannot be the very same: for were it the very same sacrifice, and yet never appointed of God to be a facrifice, as Christ crucified was, then one and the same Sacrifice might be appointed of God, and yet not appointed of God, which is a contradiction. That the Mass, which we call the Lords Supper, was appointed by the Lord Jesus, for the remembrance of that one Sacrifice once offered on the Cross, I deny not. Nor do I deny, that the Mass is a proper Sacrifice by the Authority of Humane Tradition; a like Authority to that of the Pharifees, by which they would not eat except they washed, or by which they thought it lawfull to be cruel to their Parents, in not relieving their wants, under pretext of their Corban: But I deny it to be a Sacrifice by any Authority from God, or his Son Jesus: This was ingenuously confessed by Ataides Lusitanus one of the Trent-Council, who yet was stout enough in his belief of its being a Sacrifice by Apostolical Tradition, as he sayes, Pro certo concludendum, Doltrinam eam Apostolicam esse Traditionem; this I mention to shew he was a Papist. "But (faith he) whoever goes about Lib.6. pa.444. "to prove it fuch from Scripture, doth but as it were goe about to build Hist. Concili.
"Cailles in the Aire His words are Warrant and Call to build Trident. "Caitles in the Aire. So far he. I know hereby he disgusted the Council, but that's nothing to me, fo long as he fpeaks words of foberness, I value him not a jot the less, nor his testimony. But have they any Scripture wherein the Massis directly called a Sacrifice? No; they pretend not thereto: but they say there are many places of Scripture from whence it may be directly gathered, the examination whereof I shall referre to the conclusion, for it were too long a business to speak to them all in this place. At present I conclude, that if they have no ground from Scripture to conclude it a Sacrifice, that then they have no ground to believe it such by Divine Authority; but such ground we have to believe that of Christ crucified to be a Sacrifice, therefore they are not the very same Sacrifice; at least they have no ground to believe so: But as I said, for the proof of its having no Divine Authority for its being a Sacrifice, I referre to the close.

2 Arg. The Mass cannot be the same Sacrifice with that of Christ crucified at Jerusalem, because Christ there crucified was a proper Sacrifice, as I have proved in the first Proposition; but the Mass cannot be a proper facrifice, therefore it is not the same, and so no Gospel facrifice; the reason of the consequence is this, that if the Mass is an improper sacrifice, and Christ crucified a proper facrifice, and yet the Mass and Christ crucified were one and the same facrifice, then the one and the same facrifice of the Gospel would be both a proper and an improper facrifice, which is a contradiction. That the Mass (if it be a Sacrifice) is not a proper facrifice, I prove by these four following Arguments.

(Arg. 1.) A proper Expiatory Sacrifice hath this property, it confifts of some living creature slain, and its blood shed and offered up unto God. But the Mass considers of no living creature slain, and its blood shed and offered up to God. The former I have proved in the first Proposition: The latter I prove from the Papists own confession. For they say not, that Christ is slain, and his blood shed in the Mass: and therefore in the forequoted Article of the Council of Trent, they fay, that in the Mass, Chri-Itus incruente immolatur, that is, they acknowledge the Mass is a facrifice without blood. Which is abfurd in the nature of the thing; for we may as well conceive of a Fire without heat, as a facrifice without blood. for as heat is of the Essence of fire, so is blood of an Expiatory Sacrifice: Befide, it is flatly contradictory to that faying of the Apostle, applyed by him both to the Expiatory facrifices of the Law, and that also of the Gospel; of both which he saith, Without shedding of blood there is no remission, Heb. 9. 22. Yea, say the Papists, but there is, in contradiction to the Apostle, for the Mass is a facrifice Expiatory of sin; and yet therein there is no Remission. This is the first.

(Arg. 2.) The Mass can be no proper Expiatory facrifice, because it wants the second Property of such a facrifice, which is this, that every such facrifice takes away sin, and if it be a proper Gospel sacrifice, it takes away sin by vertue of its merit. But the Mass is no such facrifice that takes away sin: The former I have proved in the first Proposition. The latter I thus prove: The Mass is not a Gospel sacrifice expiatory of fin, because, if Christ hath by his one facrifice, once offered, taken away sin fully and everlastingly (as I have proved;) then is there no fin remaining for the Mass to expiate. Sin as to the Curse is the sinners Debt, Christ hath payd that debt, in his being once offered, to the utmost farthing; for thereby, as I have proved, God was satisfied, the Law discharged, and the sinner perfectly relieved: so then, if there is no fin lest for the Mass to expiate, it's impossible that God (that appoints nothing in vain) should appoint the Mass as a sacrifice to no purpose. And therefore I say, it is no proper facrifice.

(Arg. 3.) The Mass can be no proper Gospel sacrifice, because it hath no Priest assigned of God to offer it. The reason of this consequence is, because as I have proved in the first Proposition, that both the Legal and also the Evangelical sacrifice was by Gods special appointment to be offered by a Priest and none else. But the Mass hath no Divinely appointed Priest to offer it as a facrifice; which is thus proved. If the Mass hath any Priest appointed of God to offer it as a proper sacrifice, this Priest must either be the High priest, which is onely Jesus Christ, or some other inferiour Priests, delegated by Jesus Christ as his substitutes: But the Lord Jesus doth not offer the Mass in facrifice here on Earth, in his own person, for he is in Heaven, and the Mass is offered on Earth; nor indeed do the Papists say so much; for their belief is, that Christ offers himself now in the Mass, Sacerdotum Ministerio, by the delegatition of his Priests on Earth. But this cannot be true, for these Reasons.

First, Because there is not so much as the name of Priest throughout the New Testament, given to any such subordinate Officer of Christs Church. We read indeed of Apostles, Evangelists, Pastors, Teachers, Elders, Presbyters, but not of Priests: and this indeed the Jesuite Lorinus confesseth, in Asts 14. 22. de Sacerdote. Ab hoc abstinct Novum Testamentum, ut magis proprio antiqui Legis Sacrificii, concedo. i. e. I grant, the New Testament abstains from the word Priest, as more proper to the ancient Sacrifice of the Law. Indeed the Apostle Peter calls the body of the Church a holy Priesthood, to offer up spiritual Sacrifices, as prayers and prayses, and themselves unto God, which are all improper Sacrifices, and so is their Priesthood improper also; but of any proper inseriour Priest, we read not so much as of the Name (as I said) in the New Testament.

Secondly, Christ hath appointed no such inferiour Priest to offer him up as a proper Sacrifice in the Mass, because there is no such thing given in Commission by Jesus Christ to any Officers on Earth, to offer up a proper Sacrifice. Indeed we read, Christ sent them to teach and baptize, to feed the slock, and to rule and govern them in the Lord, &c. but not a word of offering up any proper facrifice. Some indeed of the Papists urge, Hoc facite, Do this in remembrance of me, for to warrant them herein, but others of them are assumed of such an Interpretation, as I shall shew afterwards. But if (hoc facite,) Do this, is as much as, Sacrifice this in remembrance of me, then all to whom Christ said Do this, must be understood to lie under the Command of facrificing this, and so instead of making some Priests, we should make the whole Church proper Priests, for they are all bound to eat and drink the Sacramental Body and Blood of Christ, in remembrance of him: but I know they are not willing to make their Priesthood so common.

But yet again, there can be no inferiour proper Priests designed by God to offer up a proper Sacrifice under the Gospel; for if there be, they must be either after the Order of Levi, or of Melchisedec. Not after the Order of Levi, for that is no Evangelical, but the Legal Priesthood; nor after the Order of Melchisedec, for that only is appropriate to the person of our Lord Jesus, Heb. 7.3. And if any inferiour Church Officers shall presume to assume to themselves a Priesthood after that Order, it is but reasonable (upon demand) that they should shew us, that they have the qualifications of that Order, which are reckoned there by the Apostle, as he must be such an one who is a King as well as Priest, vers. 1. then he must be without Father, without Mother, without descent, having neither beginning of dayes, nor end of life, made like unto the Son of God, and who abideth a Priest continually: Such a one indeed is Jesus Christ, but shew us such another on Earth, and we will believe him to be of this Order; but untill then, we will be excused from believing any such inferiour Priests after that Order; and if there be none fuch, then is there no fuch proper Gospel Priest; and if there be no fuch proper Gospel Priest, then is there no proper Gospel Sacrifice for fuch to offer.

The Papists much deceive themselves, to think that the Gospel Ministers execute this our Melchisedec's Priesthood on earth; for as Melchisedec the Type had no successor or delegate to officiate in his room, so neither hath Christ in this great Act of his Priesthood, which lies in offering up of a proper facrifice. And indeed, to what purpose should he have any successor in this act of his Office; since his one facrifice once offered, hath been sufficient to pardon the sins of the whole world, upon their Repentance, and Faith in him; and since he is now ever living in the Holy of Holies, as our High-priest, to make intercession through that same blood for us?

From what hath been faid, it is evident, that under the Gospel Dispensation there is no man or men whatever, appointed by Christ as proper Priests, therefore there is no proper facrifice on Earth to be offered, and consequently the Mass is no such facrifice; for certainly, if he hadordained such a facrifice, he would not have been unmindfull of ordaining a proper Priest for its Oblation.

(Arg. 4.) The Mass can be no proper Sacrifice Expiatory of sin, because it is not of a sweet-smelling savour unto God, which (I have proved) is a property of every facrifice rightly offered.

That

That the Mass is not of a sweet-smelling savour unto God, I prove, Finst, Because it derogates from the All-sufficiency and Perfection of Christ's one Sacrifice once offered on the Cross, as if that without the Mass could not expiate sin, and save the believing sinner; such a Derogation as this is blasphemy against the Sacrifice of the Son of God, making it less perfect and efficacious than indeed it is: But a blasphemous facrifice is not of a sweet savour unto God, therefore the Mass is no proper facrifice.

Secondly, The Mass is an Idolatrous sacrifice, therefore no proper sacrifice of Gods appointing, as being not of a sweet-simelling savour unto God. That it is Idolatrous, is evident; for what else is making a piece of Bread and a Cup of Winethe Redeemer of the World, and relying upon the Oblation thereof unto God, as upon the Redeemer of the World, for Life and Salvation. Such Idolatry as this is so far from being of a sweet savour unto God, that it is as all other Idolatry an abomination to him.

I know their reply is, But if this Bread and Wine be truely the Son of God, then is it no Idolatry: which is as good an Answer as if the Heath en condemned for worshipping a Stock or a Stone, should reply, But if this Stock or Stone be really and truely God, then are we no Idolaters. But say the Papists, their Cause and ours is different; for when they suppose their Stock or Stone to be truely God, they have no Revelation for what they say; but when we say this piece of Bread is turned into God-man, we have a Revelation. Well; and what is this Revelation? Why this: Hove of corpus meum, This is my Body. But how if you are mistaken, (as we considently believe you are) in taking a Figurative Expression for a proper Expression? Then you are Idolaters without doubt. But what a sad condition are these poor men in, in the mean time, that have nothing to secure them from damnable Idolatry, but the Interpretation of a very ambiguous Text, and I am consident therein, that they are mistaken.

Thus I have finished Four Arguments, to prove the Mass is no proper Gospel Sacrifice.

I return now to fuch fort of farther Arguments, with which I began, to prove that the Mass is not the same Sacrifice with that of Christ crucified, which is the only proper Gospel Sacrifice, and that therefore the Mass is no proper Gospel Sacrifice.

3 Arg. The Mass is not a Sacrifice of the same fort or Kind with that of Christ crucified, and therefore it cannot be the same sacrifice, and if it cannot be the same, it cannot be a proper sacrifice of the Gospel; for the proper Gospel Sacrifice is but one, or of one kind, as I have proved in the second Proposition.

That the Mass (if it be a Sacrifice, as the Papists say it is) is a facrifice of a different nature or kind from Christ crucified, I prove thus:

First,

First, Because the Sacrifice of Christ on the Cross, was the Sacrifice of that very Body that was born of a Virgin (and not of a piece of Bread) by the overshadowing of the Holy Ghost; but the Mass (by the Papists own Consession) is the Body of Christ made of a piece of Bread, not born of a Virgin, by the consecrating words of a Priest, and not by the overshadowing of the Holy Ghost: Now is it possible that one and the same body can be born of a Virgin, and not made of a piece of Bread, and yet be made of a piece of Bread, and not born of a Virgin; or that one and the same body can be begotten by the the overshadowing of the Holy Ghost, without any consecrating words of a Priest, and yet be produced by the consecrating words of a Priest, and without that same overshadowing of the Holy Ghost, by which he sirst received his body? Is it not a contradiction?

Again, The Body of Christ facrificed on the Cross had blood, and blood which was shed; but the body of Christ in the Masse sheds no blood, by the Papists own Consession: For they say the Mass is Sacrificium incruentum, an unbloody Sacrifice; now can a bloody Sacrifice and an un-bloody Sacrifice be the very fame, or of the very fame kind?

Once more, The Body of Christ sacrificed on the Cross, had the shape and proportion of a Man, it was a Body that had head, hands, sides, feet, at their due distances as other humane bodies have. But in the Masse there is no fuch Body of Christ, in a like shape and proportion; for the Masse is a Waser about the bigness of a shilling, that is not capable of any fuch dimensions, shape or proportion, that belong to an humane body. This doth fo puzzle them, that it is a wonder to fee into what confusions they run, when they are put upon explaining how the body of Christ, with his humane dimensions and proportions, can be contained in so small a thing as a Wafer. Some fay, it is there with distinction of parts as it hung on the Cross: Others think, that is not likely, but they conceive Christs Body is in the Wafer as the Soul in the Body, that is, Tota in toto, & tota in qualibet parte, that is, the whole Body of Christ in the whole Wafer, and the whole body of Christ in every minute part of the Wafer: and what is this but to make Christs Body as a Soul, a meer Spirit, or else to make as many bodies of Christ in every Wafer, as it is divisible into parts, which will be almost if not altogether infinite. Others, to mend the matter, fay, that Christs Body is in the Wafer after the nature of other Bodies; that is, it is aliquid quantum, but yet this quantum is fine modo quantitativo, which is as absurd as the rest; for these will have Christs body there, to be some long, broad, deep thing; but yet that it is long without length, and broad without breadth, and deep without depth; and if this is not to put on a brazen face and to talk Non sence impudently, I know not what is. If any shall consider these three differences (to mention no more) betwixt Chriss Body on the Cross, and Christs Body in the Mass (as the Papists hold it to be) and yet will believe it is one and the felf fame body, and the very felf-fame facrifacrifice, without any real difference; I fee not why they may not be lieve the veryest Impossibilities, and grossest Figments that the Vincot

But certainly, those three differences are sufficient to men in their wire to speak the Sacrifice of the Mass (if it be a Sacrifice, as they would have it,) to be of a very different kind from that of Christ on the Cross. and confequently to be no true, proper Gospel Sacrifice; because (as I have proved) the true proper Gospel Sacrifice is but of one kind. I would clear up this by a supposition of a like case. Suppose some perfons pretending to some great and infallible knowledge in the Mysteries of Nature, should shew us a little, white, round thing like an half-peny Ball (for I will put that instead of the little round Popish Wafer) and should with as great confidence endeavour to impose upon our Underffandings, as the Papifts do on our Faith, that this little round white thing is a Man and that it hath flesh, blood and bones, with all the diflinct members of a Man. Upon this, we examining the thing as far as our Senses and Reason can judge, we find it looks like a Ball, the cover upon the touch feels like Leather, the infide feems to our feeling, as if it were stuft with hair or saw-dust; withall, it hath the lightness and every other quality of a Ball. Certainly, if these Impostors should be able by their confidence fo far to prevail, as to perswade us that it is a man, vet furely, we should say, if it be a man, it is another kind of man than we are. So fay I, suppose we should grant, that the Popish little Wafer is the Body of Christ, and a Sacrifice; yet certainly it is another kind of Body, and a Sacrifice, than that which was offered on the Cross: And (as I faid) if it be but admitted to be a Body and a Sacrifice, but of another kind, it is certain it cannot be the proper Gospel Sacrifice, which I have proved already to be but of one kind, in the second Propofition.

4 Arg. The Mass cannot be the same proper Gospel Sacrifice with that of Christ on the Cross; because Christ on the Cross was facrificed but once, but the Mass hath been (by the Papists own consession) offered as a Sacrifice above a Myriad of times.

That Christ the true proper Gospel Sacrifice was offered but once, I have proved in the third Proposition. That the Mass hath been, and is offered a numberless number of times, the Papists will not deny. Now see what a contradiction follows: If Christ crucified, the onely proper Gospel facrifice, was and ought to be offered but-once, and the Mass is the very same Gospel proper Sacrifice that is and ought to be offered infinite times; then may one and the self-same Gospel facrifice be offered but one time, and yet infinite times; which is as much as to say, it is but once offered, and it is not but once offered.

Nor can they shift off this contradiction, by telling us, that Christs Sacrifice was but once offered with the shedding of his Blood, but it may be often offered without shedding of blood; I say this will not serve them. First, Because a bloody facrifice and an unbloody facrifice cannot be the same: Nay, Secondly, I say, that an unbloody facrifice is a contradiction in terminis, for there can be no proper facrifice without shedding of blood. Lastly, I say it is a distinction without any grounded difference, for the Scriptures do own a facrifice of Christ with the shedding of blood, but owns no facrifice of Christ without shedding of blood.

7 Arg. The Mass cannot be the same Sacrifice with that of Christ crucified, because Christ crucified was a facrifice that expiated fin fully, and took it away for ever, as I proved in the fourth Proposition. But the Mass is not a sacrifice of that efficacy, therefore it cannot be really the fame with that of Christ crucified. This latter I prove thus: First, Because the Mass takes away no sin as a Sacrifice; for if Christ on the Cross took away all fin from the Believer everlaftingly, (as I have proved in the fourth Proposition, that it hath) then is there no sin left for the facrifice of the Mass to expiate. Secondly, The Mass doth not take away fin fully and for ever; for if it did, why is it so often repeated as it is by the Mass-priests, who like the Priests of Levi stand daily ministring; which (as the Apostle saith) was an Argument that those Levitical Sacrifices were weak, and could never take away fin, and by a parity of Reafon, so must be the Mass; if it be a Sacrifice, it must be a very weak one that cannot remove fin, and therefore is fo often repeated by them. I conclude therefore, that the Mass is not really the same sacrifice with that of Christ crucified, and therefore no proper Gospel Expiatory Sacrifice. And thus I close up my Arguments against the Masses being a proper Sacrifice, all of them drawn from Heb. 10. 12. whence I took the rife of my Arguments, and with which I shall shut them up. But this man, after he had offered one Sacrifice for sin, for ever, sate down at the right hand of God.

The Popish Arguments for the Masses being a proper Gospel Expiatory Sacrifice, proposed and answered.

Let us now see what they can say for themselves, in the vindication of the Masses being a proper Expiatory Sacrifice.

Arg. 1. Their first Argument is this: Melchisedec was a Type of Christ, but the Bread and Wine Melchisedec brought forth (when he came out of Sodem to meet Abraham) was a real proper Sacrifice, therefore the Bread and Wine in the Mass, or (as we say) in the Lords Supper, is a proper facrifice.

Ans. This is wonderfull far fetch'd, but as it is, let us consider it.

I say then, First, It is but begg'd, when they say, that the Bread and Wine that Melchisedec brought forth, was a proper Sacrifice, for First, the Text calls it not so, nor was it of a nature capable of being a proper Expiatory

Gen. 14.11.

Expiatory Sacrifice, for that Bread and Wine had neither life to lofe, nor blood to shed, which had been necessary to constitute it such a facrifice. It is said indeed Melchisedec brought forth Bread and Wine, but it is not said he offered them up or facrificed them: And certainly, to bring forth Bread and Wine is a phrase more suited to an Entertainment, and such most likely this was, if we consider the Occasion of his bringing them forth, which was in his meeting of Abraham returning from the spoyl of the spoylers of Sodom, it's likely he brought them forth for the refreshment of the tired Victors.

Again, If there had been any such mystery in this Bread and Wine of Melchisedec, as to typise out the continuation of our Heavenly Melchisedecs Sacrifice in the Mass, is it likely that the Apostle in his Epistle to the Hebrews, when he is designedly unfolding the Old Testaments Types of Christ and his Sacrifice, and then also when he singles out Melchisedec as an eminent Type thereof, and sayes much concerning the Priesthood of that Melchisedec, and of its likeness to that of Christs, as he doth Heb. 7. I say, is it likely in that place he would have said nothing of this Bread and Wine, if it had been such a considerable Type as the Papists would make it to be? And yet whoever consults that place, will not find one iota in it, nor in the whole Epistle, relating to this same Bread and Wine; nor doth Augustine take any notice thereof in his Comment on that Text. I conclude therefore, that this Text serves them but as a wooden Legge to a lame Cause, which they use for want of a better.

Arg. 2. There is another Argument they urge to prove the Mass is a proper Sacrifice, and it is from Malach. 1. 11. The words are: From the rising of the Sun, to the going down of the same, my Name shall be great among the Gentiles, and in every place Incense (they read, but falsly, a Sacrifice) shall be offered unto my Name for a pure Offering. Now, say they, this being a Prophesic of Gospel times, there must needs remain some Sacrifice with the Christian Church, that may be offered up in every place, which Sacrifice can be onely understood of the Mass, for there is no re another Sacrifice under the Gospel that can stand in competition therewith.

Ans. The Answer to this is as easie as the burning of Hay and Stubble; for the force of their Argument depends on a false reading of the Text; for it is certain, that the word which they translate Sacrifice, signifies not Sacrifice but Incense, as it is in our English Translation. Now see the weakness of their Argument; Incense shall be offered every where, therefore the Sacrifice of the Mass shall be offered every where, now who knowes not that Incense is no Sacrifice?

But if you ask, what may the Prophet mean by these words? I answer, That by Incense he means the Prayers and other spiritual Oblations of the Christian Church, but especially Prayers, according to that of Revel. 5. 8. The four and twenty Elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them Harps and golden Vials, full of Odeurs, which are the Prayers of the Saints: By Odours is to be understood Incense, which is odoriferous; thereby fignifying how sweet and acceptable the Prayers of the Saints are to God. Now wherever Christ hath a Church, there he hath these praying Saints; so that this Prophesie is exactly fulfilled therein, without the Masses being a Sacrifice.

Arg. 3. Their other Argument is this: The Types and Shadowes of Christs Sacrifice, under the Law, were proper Sacrifices, as those of Bulls and Goats, &c. Therefore the Sacrament at the Lords Supper (or the Mass as they say) must needs be a proper Sacrifice, else the Legal. Types will be more excellent than the Evangelical Type or Sacra.

Anf. I answer, this Argument halts down-right, both in its Antecedent, Consequence, and in the Reason of the Consequence.

(1.) As to the Antecedent, which ought to have been Universal, which it is not; for all the Old Testament types of Christs Death, were not proper Sacrifices, for the Brazen Serpent lift up on a Pole in the Wilderness, was a Type of Christ crucified, and so applyed by Christ himself, Joh. 3. 14. But the Brazen Serpent was no proper Sacrifice, which had no more Life to lay down nor Blood to shed than a Brass Nail hath, and therefore utterly uncapable of being a proper Sacrifice. Now (say I) if but this one Type of the Law might represent Christ sacrificed, and yet it felf be no proper Sacrifice, by a parity of Reason may the Bread and Wine in the Lords Supper be a Shadow of Christ sacrificed, and yet neither the Bread or Wine be a proper Sacrifice.

(2.) Then for the Consequence, it is as unsound as its fellow, for it follows not, that because the Types of the Law were proper Sacrifices, representing the proper Sacrifice of Christ crucified, therefore the Sacraments of the Gospel, shadowing forth the same Christ facrificed, must be proper Sacrifices also; because that Baptism is a Gospel Sacrament as well as the Lords Supper, and may typise Christ washing us from our sins in his blood, and so be a shadow of a Sacrifice; and yet I know none that fay that Baptism is a proper Sacrifice.

(3.) As for the Reason of the Consequence, that is very weak also, which is this, that if the Lords Supper be not a proper Sacrifice as well as the Legal Types, that then there is a greater Excellency in the Legal Types than in the Gospel Sacraments; and why so? Because, say they, proper Sacrifices are more excellent than meer commemorative Signs.

To this I say, the Legal Types compared with the Gospel Sacraments fall under a three-fold confideration.

r. If you consider them absolutely, as to the Nature of the things of which they consist: The principal Legal Types of Christ consisted of the Flesh and Blood of slain Beasts; under the Gospel, the Sacraments that shadow forth Christs Death, and our Benesits thereby, consist of Bread, Wine and Water. Under this consideration, there is no greater Excellency cellency in these Types one above the other, than there is in the Nature of Bread, Wine and Water, above the Flesh and Blood of slain Beasts.

- 2. They may be considered with respect to the Sacrifice of Christ crucified, whom they all shadow forth; and in this respect they are equal, for they all were representative of the very same Christ crucified.
- 3. Lastly, they may be considered with respect to the different times, with the different advantages or disadvantages that respect their different Administrations; as the Law-types being before Christ was crucified, or the Gospel clearly or fully preached, by reason whereof those Types did more faintly and obscurely shadow forth this glorious Sacrifice of Christ crucified, which the Gospel Sacraments do more perspicuously perform, by reason of that clear Gospel Light that accompanies them; and it is upon this account that there is a transcendent Excellency in the. Gospel Sacraments above those Legal Types, because hereby is more fully represented the incomparable Love of God to finners in giving his Son to die for us, and thereby to purchase for us that full Remission of fins, and that glorious Eternal Life, with all other Gospel Priviledges: So that Gospel Sacraments cannot but influence our Minds and Hearts with more Light and Heat, and inravish our Souls with more Joyes, than possibly the dark Types of the Law could doe. I say therefore, upon this account it is that the Sacraments of the Gospel transcend the Sacrifices of the Law, and not as the Papifts idly dream, because the Sacrament of the Gospel is a more excellent proper Sacrifice than all the Sacrifices of the Law. And thus much for answer to their third Argument.

Arg. 4. They have not done yet, in the next place they argue for the Masses being a proper Sacrifice from 1 Corinth. 5. 7. The words are these. Purge out the Old Leaven, that ye may be a New Lump, for even Christ our Passeover is sacrificed for us; therefore let us keep the Feast not with Old Leaven. Hence, say they, if the Apostle in this place speaks of the Feast of the Mass, and withall sayes, that therein Christ our Passeover is sacrificed for us, then is the Masse a proper Sacrifice.

Anf. To this I reply, First, It cannot be proved clearly, that the Apostle in this Chapter, or these Verses, is speaking of the Lords Supper, or Masse, as the Papists call it. Or Secondly, if that could be proved, it follows not, that therefore the Masse is a proper Sacrifice.

First, It is not certain that the Apostle speaks any thing in this place of the Lords Supper. For though he mentions a Feast, yet it is very doubtfull what kind of Feast he here means, for it may be onely a metaphorical Feast; and so Param and Dr. Hammond seem to understand it; that is, the continual Jubilee of a Christians Life, which consists of the Delicacies of Sincerity, without all Leaven of Hypocrisie, and of the Peace and Joy that thence do arife, than the which there are no Feafts fo delicious. Or Secondly, whether by Feast here he means the Love-Feast, (that carries that title in Scripture, and so doth not (as I remember) the Lords Supper, throughout the New Testament) which I think probable; for I find the Apostle Jude taking notice of this Love-feast, upon a very like Occasion to that of the Apostle in this place to the Corinthians, as in Jude 12. The Apostle there is complaining of a fort of men that had crept into the Church, and thereby were admitted to the Churches Love-feasts, who made no other use thereof than to satisfie their Luxury, feeding themselves (as he faith) without fear: Of which persons, and of which practice, he saith, These are spots in your Feasts of Charity; answerably the Apostle Paul is in this Chapter to the Corinthians, (speaking of the incestuous Corinthian) exhorting the Church to cast him out as old Leaven; and one Reason is, that they may be able to keep the Feast without such old Leaven as this Corinthian, who by his presence was likely to leaven others, by a secret Infusion of that Principle, that fuch kind of Incest (of which he was guilty) was very lawfull, and thereby might endanger others.

Having faid thus much, to shew how very doubtfull it is to understand of what Feast the Apostle there speaks. Let us now grant, that by Feast is here meant the Lords Supper, yet it follows not that therefore the Mass is a proper Sacrifice, for the meaning of the Apostle will be only this, that fince Christ our Passeover hath been sacrificed for us, erson, and thereby hath (according to Ephef. 5.25, 27.) fanctified a Church to himself, that he might present it glorious, not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing, that it might be holy and blameless; therefore (saith he) for this cause I exhort you to cast out this incestuous Corinthian from among you, and with him all other Leaven of Malice and Hoocrifie, that thereby as becoming a Church fanctified by Christs Sacrifice, ye may keep the Feast of the Lords Supper in a pure and sincere manner, answerable to these holy ends of his being sacrificed for you. And what now I pray, is in all this to prove this Feast a Sacrifice? for the Text sayes not, that this Feast is our Passeover sacrificed for us, but that Christ is our Passeover that hath been sacrificed for us, as the Greek word for us, should be rendred, of which this Feast can be but the Commemoration, according to the Institution, where Christ saith, doe this in remembrance of me, and thus much for answer to their fourth Argument.

Arg. 5. In the next place let us consider their Argument for the Masses being a proper Sacrifice, drawn from the words of the Institution. As first they say, when Christ said in the Institution, Do this in remembrance of me, he meant, Sacrifice this: Bellarmine thinks he hath found out a demonstration of the point in the words (Doe this) Certum est, (saith he) probari Sacrificium Missa his verbis (hoc facite). And why fo I pray? They tell us, because in some places the words doe and make are used to fignifie Sacrifice: As Levit. 15. and 1 Kings 18.23.

Lib. I. de Milla cap. 12.

Anf.

Ans. But how weak and vain a Reason is this, to build a demonstration upon? That because that in some places of Scripture where the Context speaks expressely of facrificing, and the Priests are commanded to doe or make the Sacrifice réady; that therefore in this place, (where the Context speaks not any thing of a Sacrifice, to which (Doe this) in this place is to be referred) it should fignifie Sacrifice this, is a consequence (I had almost faid) ridiculous. For if Doe this in this place mast be taken for Sacrifice this, because Doe this in some places signifies fo much, why must not the same words in every place where they be found fignifie the fame, and then fee what abfurdities will follow: As when Gideon destroyed the Altar of Baal, the men of the City said, Judges 6,29. Who hath done this? The meaning must be, Who hath sacrificed this, and so the pulling down of Baals Altar must be the same with facrificing on it. Again when Christ faith to Judgs, What then doeft doe quickly, Christ must thereby mean, Judas, goe sacrifice quickly; as if Judas his betraying of his Master, and selling him for thirty pence, was a facrificing Act? what can be more abfurd? But what should I fay any more thereto, this Interpretation is rejected by some of their great ones. Estius the Jesuite saith, by Doe this, the Scripture means not Sacrifice this; his words are, Quod verbum (Facere) sit idem quod sacrificare quomodo nonnulli interpretati sunt, prater mentem Scriptura. And fayes their learned Maldonate, Non quod contendum illud Verbum (Facite) illo loco idem significare quod Sacrificare; as much as if he had faid, I believe Doe this, fignifies no fuch matter as Sacrifice this. If then some of their own acknowledge the weakness of this Argument, no wonder then, if we reject it.

Arg. 6. But they have another Argument from the words of the Institution, which is this. When Christ sayes of the Bread, This is my Body broken for you; and of the Cup, This is the New Testament in my blood, shed for Remission of sins; they thence argue, Where there is a Body broken, and Blood shed for remission of sins, there is a proper Sacrifice; But in the Mass or Lords Supper there is the breaking of Christs. Body, and the shedding of his Blood for the remission of fins: There-

Ans. The Papists themselves will save us the labour of answering this Argument, being rightly stated, as thus: Where there is a proper breaking of a Body, and a proper shedding of Blood for remission of sins, there is a proper Sacrifice; this is ttue: But in the Mass there is a proper breaking of bread, and shedding of blood: This should be the Asfumption, which they themselves deny; for Suarez the Jesuite denies any proper breaking of the Body in the Mass; For, (saith he) breaking in the proper and strict Acceptation, signifies a dividing of the body into parts, but there is no fuch division of parts in the Mass. Besides, the Church of Rome hath left out of her Mass the word (broken) used in the Institution; and Jansenius a Papist gives the Reason why it is left out,

Ne effet locus absurda intelligentia, quà quis existimare possit verè frangi corpus Christi; that is, least any should absurdly think, that Christs body could be truely broken. And as to any proper shedding of blood in the Eucharist, Bellarmine himself disowns it, saith he, Sanguis Christi in Missa non reipsa egreditur de corpore. So the Jesuite Coster: The true essusion of blood (saith he) which is by seperating it from the Body, was onely on the Cross, in Cap. 9. de Sacrificio. And this is as much as any Protestant can say, in dissolving this Argument; for if breaking, and shedding of blood in the Supper, is to be taken improperly, then is the Supper but an improper Figurative Sacrifice, representative of the true proper facrifice, which we Protestants grant.

Arg. 7. The last Argument that (I shall take notice of,) they urge for the Mass its being a proper Sacrifice, is from 1 Corinth. 10.21. where, say they, the Apostle is comparing the Table of the Lord with the Altar of Devils, and the Supper of the Lord with the facrifices of Jewes and Gentiles; now, say they, if the Table of the Lord is as the Altars of Jews and Gentiles, and the Supper of the Lord or Mass is as the facrifices of Jews and Gentiles, then is the Mass a proper facrifice, because the facrifices of Jews and Gentiles were proper facrifices.

Ans. First, whereas it is said, that the Apostle here compares the Table of the Lord with the Altar of Devils, that is salse; for the comparison is made betwixt the Table of the Lord and the Table of Devils; now who knowes not that there is a great difference betwixt a Table and an Altar, for on the Table the Worshippers did eat, on the A'tar they did facrifice; and who ever said that Eating was a sacrificing Act? nay the Papists themselves will not dare to say, that Eating of the Mass is a proper facrificing Act, except they have a mind to consecrate all the people Priests, for they all eat of the Mass, and yet none may lawfully facrifice but Priests.

Again, whereas they fay, that the Apostle doth here compare the Lords Supper to the Sacrifices of Jews and Gentiles; this also is false. if you consider the Sacrifices of either Jew or Gentile in the most proper and strict acceptation thereof: for the Sacrifices of both the one and the other strictly taken, was that part of the Beast that was offered up unto God or Devils on the Altar, and not that part which either the Priests or Offering people did feed on upon their Tables; though by an improper way of speaking, those parts that were eaten may be called Sacrifices, because they were parts of those Beasts, some parts whereof were truely and properly facrificed on an Altar. That the meaning therefore of the Apostle in this place may be cleared, I shall give you the plain sence of the Text, and not in my own, but in a Paraphrase of Ataides Lusitanus, one of the Council of Trent. Quod Paulus dicit de participando Sacrificio Judgorum & de mensa Damoniorum, si uccipiantur ritus à Deo per Moysen instituti, & qui ab Ethnicis inter sacrisicandum adhibiti, non inde effice Encharistiam esse Sacrificium. Notum esse apud Moysen in sacrificiis votivis, totam vistimam suise exhibitam Deo, atque unam partem ejus igni absumptum, qua erat Sacrificium: ex eo quod erat reliquum, partem fuisse Sacerdotis, & alterum partem efferentis, ut: umque partem suam comedisfe quicum ipsi collibitum effet; neque id vocatum sacrificare, sed sacrificatum participare: Idipsum Ethnicos imitatos, etiam partem cam, qua in Altari noti absumebatur à nonnullis vendi solitam, atque banc esse mensam, que non est altare. Perspicuum ergo Pauli sensum bunc esse, Sicut Hebrai partem eammanducantes, qua ad offerentem speltabat nempe sacrificii reliquias participes frunt altaris, & Ethnici ad eundem modum, it a nos comedentes Eucharistiam participare sacrificium crucis. In English thus: When Paul speaks of partaking of the Sacrifice of the Jews, and of the Table of Devils, if those Rites (as they are instituted of God by Moses, and accommodated by the Gentiles to their Sacrifices) be rightly considered, it will not thence follow, that the Eucharist is a Sacrifice: For it is to be noted, that when Moses speaks of such Sacrifices that belonged to Vows, he declares, that the whole Viltim or Beast was to be brought before the Lord, one part of which was confumed by Fire, which was the Sacrifice; of the other parts that were left, they were divided betwixt the Priest and the person that offered, both of which did cat their several parts as it best pleased them; but that eating was not called facrificing. but partaking of that which was facrificed. This very custom the Gentiles imitated, for that part of the Viltim that was not consumed on the Altar, by some was wont to be fold, and is that which Paul calls the Table, which is not an Altar. The perspicuous meaning of Paul is, That as the Jews eating of that part which belonged to the Offerers, they , thereby became partakers of the Altar; fo we eating of the Eucharist, do thereby partake of Christ crucified. Thus he: The summe whereof is this, that the Apostle doth in this Discourse of his to the Corinthians, prove, that he that did eat at the Table of Devils, did thereby declare, that he religiously owned and worshipped those Devils as Gods, to whom part of that Beast of which they did eat, was sacrificed, and that therefore he advised them as all Christians, from a participation of those Feafts, which he fayes is inconfiftent with our Eating of the Lords Table, which fignifies that we own that God to be our God, to whom (not what we eat is facrificed, but) to whom Christ was facrificed for us, a remembrance whereof is by Christs appointment to be had in his Church in this Supper; but this doth not at all prove the Supper to be a proper Sacrifice, any more than that what the Jews or Gentiles did eat at their Tables were proper Sacrifices. And thus I have answered their most material Arguments the Papists have for the proof of the Masses being a Proper Sacrifice.

From the whole Discourse, let us make this improvement:

First, Let us be awakened hereby to observe what the Apostle John hath hath cautioned us, when he faith, Little children, keep your felves from Idols; For certainly, there hath not been a more abominable Idol ever invented than this Popish Mass, wherein, to the dishonour of our Lord Jerus, a piece of Bread is made the Saviour of the World, and a proper Sacrifice for the pardoning of the fins both of the Living and the Dead. And that which aggravates this kind of Idolatry is, that they make Jesus Christ the Institutor thereof, and the Holy God to be the Former and Fashioner thereof, by the miracle of Transubstantiation.

Secondly, Let us hereby be awakened into Resolutions to keep close to Jesus Christ our great High priest, our only Sacrifice, and Intercessor at the Right Hand of God; from whom so many thousand Souls have gone a whoring under the great Apostasie, after this silthy Idol. Christ sacrificed on the Cross we know, and Christ at the Right Hand of God we know, but Christ made of a piece of Bread, and again sacrificed in the Mass we know not. You are certain Christ was once crucified, and that that once was enough to make your Peace, and save you; look not after any other Sacrifice, for doubtless, as the Apostle sayes, there remains no more Sacrifice for sins.

Thirdly, Bless God night and day that hath kept you from this Apoftasie, and pray God night and day still to keep you, especially in these times, when there are so many Seducers come abroad, to withdraw you from Jesus Christ to this dumb Idol.

Many other things I might have added, but it is high time to make an End.

1 Cor. III. 15.

But he himself shall be saved, yet so as by Fire.

His Text, sayes Bellarmine, is one of the most difficult, and yet Lib. 1. c. 5. de most profitable of the whole Scripture, in that from hence the Purg. Catholicks conclude two great points against Hereticks, that of Purgatory and Venial fins.

But as hard as the Apostles Text is, this sort of Catholicks in drawing such profound Notions from it, seem hard enough for the Apostle and his Text too; and I am much mistaken, if Paul would not have been alike puzzled to have understood Them, as they are at a loss to spell out the meaning of Him; it is not every one, nor may be, any one of that simple Age was aware of such a thing as Pugatory or Venial sin.

Austin it seems was of Bellarmines mind, as in the same place he quotes him, that this was one of the hard sayings that Peter probably observed in Pauls writings, which we should take heed of wresting to our own destruction. Austin belike was wary, but others have ventured to bring it to the wrack, and made it speak according to their mind, as reserved and close as it was, they will teach Paul to speak plain, plain Popery ere they have done. And it is strange to consider how many hard Texts even in this obscure matter they pretend to have for them, though in our Controversies with them, we must wholly consine to plain ones: But these Magicians, in imitation as it were of Moses, that eminent Man of God, are altogether for bringing water out of the

Pppp

Rocks ;

Rocks; if a place be hard in it felf, they think it will be too hard for us, and like a Mill-stone they cast it upon us, urging us to give an evident fence, or admit theirs; and while we are heaving to extricate our felves, they hope for this advantage over us, leifurely to retreat from us, and before we overtake them agen, to prepare fresh work of the like kind for us; but it is a dastardly Enemy that declines the open Field, and fights only for the Hedges and holes of Rocks, that it is greater difficulty to follow, than overcome them. To proceed:

An hard Text this is confessed to be, whereon we crave liberty to fuspect they may be mistaken, and to suspend our Faith till we have made

But however a very profitable Text it is, if it affords such Doctrines as forementioned, worth many thousands by the year, I'le warrant you; for however some dissemble the matter, on these suppositions it is, that Masses and Indulgences go off at the rate they doe: if Souls went forthwith to Heaven, they would not care a pin for them; if forthwith to Hell, they would despair of Benefit by them: But the Opinion of Purgatory Bell. lib. 2.c.2. makes them precious, especially fince, as is said, That Souls there are defective in merit, and cannot further merit in that state themselves; they must needs, on this supposition, reckon themselves more beholding to them that will impart of their Oyl to them; and in hope to partake of their Spirituals, can do no less than leave them a good share of their Temporals.

Aqu. Suppl.qu. 71. art. 2.

Suppl. qu. 71. Art. 12.

And to make them the more willingly give down their milk, Aquinas tells them, That the Priests Prayers, Masses, &c. profit them when dead, by vertue of what they did themselves while alive; you may guess his meaning, The Priest should profit him when dead, as his Purse had profited the Priest when alive; and elsewhere he addes, That Prayers are more effectual for us if we are particularly remembred, than if we are more generally recommended; well, it is but meet that the Priest should be particularly remembred, that particularly remembers us, and that fomething should be done, to rub up his memory of us in particular when we are gone: If gain be godliness, as some have supposed, certainly, this Doctrine of Purgatory is a prime Article of Religion; for all Experience as well as Reason teaches us, that it is a very profitable Doctrine.

The Saints in Heaven are high and flout, they will give us nothing; the Damned in Hell are a poor or furly Rout; the one do's not need our prayers, the other does despise our prayers; we must threaten men with this prison of Purgatory, or they will never pay their debts to us, but rather than lye and rot there, we may eafily conclude, they will compound with us here.

But for clearer procedure, it will be necessary to shew,

1. What the Papists do mean by Purgatory.

2. Whether any such thing is probably meant in this Text.

3. Whether

3. Whether the Word of God does any where give ground for such a conceit, with that cogency especially, as that we should receive it for an Article of Faith.

4. I shall briefly consider (as they deserve) their Supplementary Arguments.

5. Shew what ground there is from Scripture to disbelieve any such thing.

6. What evil consequences there are of the Receipt of it.

7. And lastly, I shall give you the genuine sence of the place, and improve it.

(1) What do the Papists mean by their Purgatory?

Ans. That there is a purgation of our Souls preparatory to their im- Protestante mediate enjoyment of God, we freely grant to them, and that both in Purgatory. respect of Guilt and Filth; and many wayes we assign whereby this is done; eminently by the Blood and Spirit of Christ, hereby filthy wretches indeed are said to be cleansed, I Cor. 6. 9, 10, 11. Christ was thought to-have done this work effectually, what one way, and what another, Heb. 1.3. and he reckoned so himself, as appears by his sitting down; his coming therefore was foretold, as with Fire and Water, that are the great cleanfers amongst us, Mal. 3.2, 3. Moreover, as Instruments that are effectual through him, this purging work is ascribed, sometimes and in some part to the Word, Joh. 15. 3. Parifie them by thy Truth, thy Word is Truth; at other times, and in another respect to Faith, Acts 15.9. Purifying their hearts by Faith; fometimes to Afflictions, whence is that comparison Psal. 66. 12. we went through fire and water; so Afflictions are called, as being frequently used for our purging and cleanfing: fuch a Purgatory we Protestants allow of; and are free to tell. that the place of it is this World; and that the Remainder of Sin, which sticks to the best of us while alive, is concluded in death; whereby the Body is incapacitated, and all its moral as well as vital Actions terminated; and wherein the Soul is perfected by the immediate Vision of God and Christ, into whose Image it is hereby changed, according to present Experience, 2 Cor. 3. 18. and after Hope, 1 Joh. 3. 2. We shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is.

But this will not ferve our Adversaries turn, let us then hear and examine their Notion of Purgatory.

Bellarmine tells us in general, That it is a certain place, wherein as Lib.2.de Purg. in a prison, Souls are purged after this Life, that were not fully purged c.6. here, to the intent they may enter pure into Heaven.

Let us inquire of him a little more particularly,

1. Where this place is?

He tells us, that the Church has not defined it, and that there are eight several Opinions about it; Fancy you see is fruitfull; here is ee'n every one his tale, but such variety cannot but much please our company, yea and the Customers too; for if they like not one, they may take the Lib.2. de Purg. other. But the generality of the Schoolmen will have it in the bornels of the Earth, on the borders of Hell; but be it where it will, I hope I shall never come thither; and, as I suppose they that thus inform us, had not been there; but all things are within the ken of the sagacious Schoolmen.

2. Who are to goe thither?

Bell, lib. 2. de Purg. c. 1. Eight Opinions also are reckoned up about this: Some thought all men, good and bad; others, both Men and Devils; others all and only Catholicks, (alas poor Hereticks) and so he goes on to the full number, charging one or more Fathers with each of them; and yet all but the last were out, as he concludes in the close of that Chapter; whereby I understand, that the Fathers are of no Authority, except when they speak for one; and so we as well as they will be content to be determined by them.

But what at length is the true Opinion?

Id. ibid.

Lib. I. c. 11. de Purz. That Purgatory is onely for them that die with Venial Sins, or that depart, Cum reatu pana, culpis suis remissis. This is crabbed Lattine, you will pardon me, if I cannot streight English it, I was almost stumbled before at Venial sins, but my Author helps me to understand what he means by them; such as are worthy onely of a Temporal punishment. These are petty kind of sins, but that Notion I pass over, as like to be examined by a much better hand: That which do's most puzzle me is this Reatus Pana, This guilt of Punishment that remains when the fault is pardoned; and this Difficulty I think not easie to get over: For what is Guilt without respect to a Fault? and what place has punishment after Pardon?

But this is the best account we are like to have of what is to be purged in This Purgatory; some pitifull little sins, or such that were pardoned before; in effect I perceive, that persons that goe thither need only to be a little polish'd over. They are detained in that Prison for some few Farthings, that Christ when he payd their debts left on the score (alas for him, he was so poor) and for this they and their Friends must make a purse, and so they may go out; if they have good helpers, that will go Pilgrimages, say Masses, or procure Indulgences for them, they may go out so much the sooner, but if all lyes upon themselves, they must tarry longer; and thank themselves that by their Bounty they obliged no body they left behind them to merit a speedy Release for them; ('tis likely by this to go very hard with poor Folks and Churls) and to fright persons into a readyer complyance with them, the Grievousness of the punishment is set before them, Fire is the best that can be expected by them, and therein they may lye frying till the Resurrection, in some thousand years searce making an Expiation.

And it is specially remarkable, that persons are not judged thither, that the Fomes of sin may be washed, nor for any evil habits, that they may:

may be amended, but purely that their leffer debts (that Christ it feems had forgot, or was not able to discharge) may by their personal Punishment, and their living Friends Piety and Prayers, be fully payed.

And thus much for their Notion of Purgatory, as to its Place and Purpofes.

(2) The Second thing to be inquired into is, Whether it is this Popilly.

Purgatory, that Paul means by the Fire in our Text?

For my part I can hardly think it is, in that I find Paul fuch a stranger in all his Writings to their Notion of it; Venial sins, Punishment after Pardon, Humane Satisfactions by translation of ones works to another, (when indeed no one has half enough for himself) Prayers for the Dead, and the like, which are Perquisites of their Purgatory, he (good man) seeming utterly unacquainted with.

But he talks of Fire; and there is Fire in their Purgatory; what then? Are there not many Notions of Fire in Scripture? is not the Word, the Spirit, Afflictions, frequently fet out by it? This they will not deny; there is no necessity then of interpreting this Fire by that of Purgatory;

yea there is a great probability of the contrary:

1. In that it is certain, that the whole of Paul's Discourse here is a Metaphor, and it is likely that it is metaphorical Fire, that this metaphorical Stubble and metaphorical Builder is in danger of.

2. Whereas Fire is twice used before, it is evident, that it is not there to be understood of Purgatory-Fire, and must be so confessed by themfelves; and therefore it is unlikely having other Fire at hand, he should run to Purgatory to setch Fire, unless he had been a Disciple of Ignating, that can never kindle Fire enough.

For instance, of the Fire v. 13. it is said, that it shall try every mans work; whereas Papists will yield, Purgatory is not for tryal of mens Works, they are tryed and found slight before any one comes thither; not agen, is Purgatory according to them, for every one, the very good and the very bad come not thither; therefore this cannot be understood of Purgatory-Fire.

Agen, the Fire which in the beginning of our Text is said to burn some mens works, is the same with the Fire that tryed them, for therein some are expresly said to abide, and others to burn.

Moreover, their Purgatory Fire acts on Persons, this on Works, and such works as we cannot imagine how a material Fire should touch, unless it can, as they say, comedere secundas notiones; for these works, as is clear by the Context, are corrupt Doctrines.

And what reason is there in this last clause to alter the Notion of Fire?

One would easily conceive, that the Fire which the Builder escaped, was the same with that which burnt his Works, for we hear of no other that he was in danger by.

And if any Fire here spoke of, might be supposed to be understood metametaphorically, much more this last, in that it is brought in with such fignal notes of comparison, & Two ws, yet so as by Fire.

You see then, that this Text that looks fairest for their purpose of any in all the Book of God, is so far from a Cogency, that there is not so much as a probability of its meaning any fuch thing: Hitherto then we must be excused from receiving this Doctrine as an Article of Faith to be believed on pain of Damnation, as Bellarmine urges it; for we fee no tolerable grounds to take it up for an Opinion. There is fuch a deal of force to be used to these words, to make them speak to the Popish purpose, that we may perceive them loth to own it; and for my part, if they speak no plainer, they shall stand by a while, till we have examined other witnesses.

(3) Let us enquire, Whether the Word of God does any where give ground for such a Conceit, with that cogency especially, as that we should require it as an Article of Faith?

The principal Texts they use either directly or indirectly, as tending to this purpose, I shall briefly examine.

The first I am sure they can think on, (and that you will say is far fetched,) is Gen. 3. 24. where God is faid to have placed a flaming (word to keep the way of the tree of Life; this flaming Sword, say some of them. was a witness to sinners, that they must pass through Purgatory into Paradise.

Ans. If we mind the scope of the words, that Text rather seems to have fignified, That by the old way of Works there was no entrance into Paradife; for this Sword is faid to be placed to keep the way of the tree of Life, least man by eating of it should live for ever; and so makes rather against Purgatory, that seems a part or an Appurtenance of the old way of Works.

But a flaming Sword feemed a good Weapon, and they were willing to take it into their hands: and indeed their great Argument for all their peculiar Articles, has been Fire and Sword.

But to leave this Sword in the Cherubims hand, let us make a leap to 2 Maccab. 12. which is the alone place Bellarmine pitches upon in the Old Testament, as convincing in this matter; of all others he speaks very flightly, however Fathers have made use of them, as if they were such, qua folum probabiliter suadent, and hereabout I shall have no controverfie with him, I think he has given them their full due.

The place then to be considered, is 2 Maccab. 12.43, &c. where Juda: Maccabaus, (as Bellarmine quotes him) is said to have gathered twelve thousand drams of Silver, and sent them to Ferusalem, to be laid out in Sacrifices for the dead; and the gloss of the Author, he addes, That it is a pious and a wholsom thought to pray for the dead, that they may be loosed from their sins.

Whence he inferres, 1. That the dead may be loofed from their fins,

Lib. I. c. 15. de Purg.

Gen. 3.24.

2 Macc. 12.

Lib.I. c.3. de Purg.

Ibid.

and therefore there is a Purgatory: 2. That Prayers and Sacrifices doe profit the dead. Three other Inferences he draws, the least of which is, That Purgatory and Prayers for the dead must needs be an Article of

This text is their Hercules Club, that knocks all dead: other texts render it but probable, this it feems makes it clear and necessary to be believed, that there is a Purgatory.

Ans. To this we reply a great many things.

1. As to the matter of fact that is recorded of Judas, that he did raise a cirtain summe of money (though not 12000, but 200 drams, as the Greek Copy reads it) and fent it to Ferusalem to buy Sacrifices, I will not dispute against it, he might doe it, probably did it, and in his circumstances had good reason for it; but that he did it pro mortuis, or for the Relief of the Dead, that is Bellarmines forgery: the text fayes onely, pro peccato, for the sin, viz. lest being a notorious sin, the Living should be plagued for it; and that this was his case, appears by v. 42. They prayed that the sin might be blotted out, and Judas exhorted the multitude to keep themselves avauagnizes, free from the sin, seeing the punishment of them that had committed it; and this is an Interpretation of his fact, that agrees to the letter of the Text, and the Analogy of

2. As for the Authors gloss (what a piece of piety it is to pray for the dead) we are not much concerned in it; for whoever was the Author of it, whether Jason or his Abbreviator, (as may seem 2 Maccab. 2, 24.) and however good an Historian he was, we own him for no Prophet; nor did the Church of the Jews ever look upon his Writings as Canonical, as Papists themselves confess; though Bellarmine sayes the Chrilib. 1. c. 3. stian Church did, he gives slender proof of it: Austin indeed sayes, It was received of the Church not unprofitably, provided it was soberly read; where he feems to caution against some dangerous passages in it, by which unwary Readers might be prejudiced, as much as the more wife profited.

But the Author himself acquits us from any veneration of him, by his courting his Readers favour ever and anon, and desires their pardon at 2 Macc. 2: 26; least, if any thing had been said amiss, which are condescensions below 2 Macc. 2.25;

the Spirit of God, or any Author inspired by it.

3. If this Author had been good, and the Jews there had prayed for the Dead, the Papists Inference of Purgatory, according to their own principles is weak: For it feems also by their Faith, that people may be prayed out of Hell; though this they will not grant for ordinary, lest it should spoyl their Purgatory; yet two Instances they very considently give of it, which speaks a possibility: One of Trajan a bloody persecutor, upon the Prayers of Gregory; of which Damascen sayes, the whole East and West were witnesses: And the other of Falconilla a Pagan Woman, by the prayers of St. Thecla. And if there was need of

any more such stuff, the Scull of a certain Gentile Priest told Macarius, that its owner was delivered out of Hell by his Prayers; and here is as good Authority, as our Adversaries will bring by and by for their Purgatory: Though I must consess, these Instances, as going against the hair, do not over-cleaverly go down; for though they hugely advance Prayer, they quite race Purgatory; to make up therefore differences between the combatants on each party, Aquinas tells us, (and he seems to moderate well, like an Angelical Doctor,) That they were not finally sent to Hell, but according to their present merit; and that probably they were first raised to life, and so repented ere they were translated to Heaven, and also that this was not by common Law, but special priviledge, an Act as it were of Chancery. But however it was, if one late Penitent, though but one, is thought sufficient to prevent every ones despair, two such instances of damned persons recovered to grace, are ground enough to encourage Prayer for all the rest.

And if Fathers would make these santastick arguments Authentick, it was easie to give many that speak probably, as if they half believed such a thing, as the possibility of a deliverance from Hell. Origen goes a great way beyond us; let us hear what Austin sayes, that they would make their great man for Purgatory; Aquinas denyes not, but that it was his saying, That Suffrages did profit the dead either for a full abfolution, or more tolerable damnation: Both which must referre to their state in Hell; there is no proper Damnation in Purgatory, and Remission is said to be granted before they go to Purgatory; onely an imaginary guilt remains there, that may be properly enough purged in an imaginary place, by an imaginary Fire, such as (for ought we yet hear of Purgatory) that feems to be.

And thus I conceive the force of this Text is fully enervated, the fact being shewen to have been misconstrued, the gloss not duely authorized, and the Inference not firmly grounded.

We must now pass into the New Testament, and there the most likely Match. 12. 22. Texts seem to be Match. 12. 22. where it is said of the Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, that it shall never be forgiven, neither in this World, nor that which is to come; hence conclude they, that some sins are forgiven in the other world, and therefore a Purgatory.

Ans. 1. I deny the Consequence, for according to their Opinion; as you have foreheard, Purgatory is for persons whose sins are already forgiven.

2. The Original is, έτε ἐν τέτω ἀιῶνι, neither in this Age, nor the Age to come; where the present Age may signifie the Judaick state, wherein Grace was streighter; and the future that of Christs Kingdom, wherein it was expected larger. Thus age to come is often took, as probably Heb. 6.5. and according to some readings, Ifa. 9.6. Christ is called in stead of twertasting Father, παθής το μέλλονδος ἀιῶνος, the Father of the Age to come.

Sup. qu. 71.

But if this will not be admitted,

3. Let Matthew interpret himself by what he sayes in the sommer verse, where he tells them without this Exaggeration, that it shall not be forgiven; and to omit Fathers, let me only referre them to his Brother Mark, Mark 3. 29. where it is simply rendred, that he hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of, or obnoxious to Eternal Damnition, we down Exe is the different both the former Ages are here wrapt up in the one of Eternity, as it were to correct the Popish nicety.

Another Text they make use of, is Mat. 5.25, 26. where we are ad-Mat. 5.25, 26. vised, to agree with our adversary quickly, while in the way, less the Adversary deliver us to the Judge, and the Judge to the Officer, and we be cast into Prison, for we shall by no means come out thence, till we have payd the utmost farthing.

Here also Papists do see, Venial sins in the Farthings, Humane Satisfactions in the Pay, Purgatory in the Prison.

But that no fuch things can with any Congruity be hence inferred, you may observe,

1. That it is questionable, whether this is any Parable, or looks any further than the Civil differences between us and our Brother, which we should speedily take up among our selves, by the common Rule of Equity, and not suffer needlesly to come before the forensick Judges, where we may expect utmost severity; the Context inclines to this, and so this Text is expounded by Chrysostom, Theophylast and Hierom.

2. If a Parable; on that account, by the common Rule of the Schools it is not Argumentative, especially in an Article of Faith.

3. Its Scope must be intended, and not every particular word wracked, and that seems to be only this, That we should make our Peace with God in this Life, and as soon as we can, in that here we may expect Mercy; whereas, if we put off matters till we come before Gods Tribunal, we shall be dealt with in all severity, God will not abate us an Ace then, he will exact the utmost farthing; he will not then hear of Remission, or Composition, that we are like to go to eternal perdition; the Prison is Hell, and there is no relief from the [untill;] for the impossibility of the Condition makes that but a bare Supposition, and it is all one with never: as to which Resolution of the matter, we have Abettors, some of the most considerable of the Popish Doctors, Maldon. in loc. Tolet. in Luc. 12. Jansen. Concord. Evang.

A further Text Bellarmine layes great stress upon, is 1 Cor. 15.29. 1 Cor. 15.29. What shall they doe that are baptized for the dead? if the deadrise not at all, why are they then baptized for the dead.

This we must confess is a difficult place indeed, and has wrested many great wits; but Papists think, that by way of requital as it were, they may wrest it, and by Baptisme understand all their voluntary services for the dead, supposing hence that they may thereby prosit the dead, and consequently, that there is a Purgatory, wherein they are detained, till by these means they are relieved.

Ans. 1. Their Notion of Baptisin is perfectly new coyned, for though Afflictions which in the Old Testament are frequently set out by Waters, are sometimes in the Gospel couched under this Name of Baptisin, Mat. 20. 22. yet Prayers, Alms, Sacrifices, and such like voluntary services were never so expressed, nor with any pretence of Reason can be thereby understood.

2. If this was granted, Purgatory could not be hence inferred, for this Baptisin whatever it was, referred to the Resurrection of the Body, as a typical representation of that, whereon it is made use of, for Confirmation of the Faith of that; whereas Purgatory according to them is onely for the Relief of the Soul; that were we wholly at a loss for the positive meaning of the Text, or should we be out in our guess at it, they could reasonably take no advantage of it; for to whatever it serves, it serves not to their purpose, the Body and its Resurrection, and not the Soul and its Purgation being concerned in it, as by the Context clearly appears.

But however, to take Occasion to explain that very puzzling Text:

1. Some referre it to a corrupt Custom took up by the Cerinthians and Marcionites, of Baptizing a living person instead of his Friend which was dead, which Paul makes use of to their Conviction, without his own approbation. Let this have what weight it will with others, I must profess it little swayes with me.

2. Others think this Baptism referres to the washings that were used about the dead, which shewed hope of their Resurrection, otherwise why should they make such a doe about the Bodies of them: Of this Currom we hear something Asts 9. 37. but then we must take Baptism here in the middle Voyce, and read the Text, Why do they baptize, or use Washings about the dead. Let this Notion go as far as it will, I know no hurt in it.

3. According to others, Baptism may be here took for Sufferings, and so this Clause may be much the same with what sollows in the next Verse, Why stand we in jeopardy? Why do we thus expose our Bodies, if they shall never be restored to Life?

Let me adde a Fourth Notion, that takes Baptisin in a literal Sence, and supposes an Ordinary Figure of one Number for another, where there is speech of the dead; and that the meaning is, If the Dead rise not, what shall become of us and our Baptism, that are baptized into Fession who is dead, for if the dead rise not, as he there sayes, Christ is not risen, and consequently our Gospel and hope is vain; and thus by a small dispensation with Grammar, which the Apostle does not exactly tye himself to, we have a plain and safe meaning of this difficult Text; however in regard of its difficulty, I should judge it very improper, to make it the Basis of any new uncouth Article; I would rather use it for confirmation firmation of one that was otherwise sufficiently bottomed, and would keep to the Apostles scope in the Application of it, till I had its fuller and surer interpretation; and that certainly is, to confirm us from something in use among us, of the suture Resurrection.

The last Text I shall mention, that is of any probability, is 1 Pet. 3.19. 1 Pet. 3.19.

where Christ is said by the Spirit to have gone and preached to the Spirits in Prison, that were sometimes disobedient in the dayes of Noah.

This Prison they dream is Purgatory, and it seems that there is preaching in it too, but to what purpose, if there be no repenting or changing of Estate, as every where Papists consess there is not in Purgatory? and I suppose while the Scripture speaks of the so great wickedness of the world before the Flood, they will not think that the men of that Age went generally to Purgatory, and therefore Christ might have had but sew Auditors, if he had gone thither to have preached to them.

The plain meaning of that Text is, that Christ by his Spirit in Noah did once preach unto that Generation, whose Spirits are now in hold as Criminals for their then disobedience, of which preaching of Noah, and the strivings of this Spirit, we hear, 2 Pet. 2.5. Gen. 6.3.

But to suppose Christs personal going into those dark Regions, to preach the Gospel to Spirits so long departed, is a ridiculous Fable, and destructive even of their own Notion of Purgatory; that reckons the present Life the Way, the Race, and that hereafter is no opportunity to obtain Grace, but satisfie Justice.

Such shifts then they are put to, that right or wrong will take upon them to defend a bad cause; and yet as little as these Scriptures I have quoted make for them, and as much as in truth they make against them, they are their chief Weapons: If I should mention several others, I could propose no other design than to shame them; but it may be they will say, Doe that if I can; I shall however forbear, in that it may be an harder task than I am aware, for some folks have Whores Foreheads, and will not be assumed.

- (4) Let us now briefly consider their Supplementary Arguments; which ordinarily are from these heads.
 - 1. Reasons.
 - 2. Fathers.
 - 3. Councils.
 - 4. Consent of Nations.
 - 5. Revelations.
- I. Let us hear their strong Reasons for a Purgatory, and the first I Reasons. find to be this:

First, In that some sins are Venial, and onely worthy of a temporal Pu-Bell. de Purg. nishment, and it is possible a man may depart out of this Life onely with c.11.1.1.

these

these, Therefore it is necessary that they should be purged, and expiated in another.

Reason.

Rev. 3. 19.

Secondly, When Sinners are reconciled to God, the whole Temporal Punishment is not alwayes remitted with the Sin, and a man may die before he has discharged it, and therefore in the other World he must make it up; and hereon a Purgatory seems necessary.

And these are all the Reasons Bellarmine gives us, but adde what I shall consider under the following distinct heads; and by this you'l see upon what lame legges this great Doctrine stands: For,

1. We utterly deny any Sin, to be in this sence Venial, having learn'd out of the Scriptures, that the wages of sin, one as well as another, is death, Rom. 6.23.

2. Though we allow of Fatherly Chastisements that God layes on his people here, for others example, and their own amendment, as a fruit of Love rather than Justice; we understand nothing of a proper punishment by way of personal Satisfaction that is required of us, when God has pardoned us; having learnt, that God does Abundantly pardon where he pardons, Isa. 55.7. and having confidence that Christ has fully fatisfied, where he has undertook to satisfie, by one Sacrifice Perfecting for Ever'them that are sanctified, Heb. 10. 4. and that there is No condemnation to them that are in Christ, Rom. 8. 1. And we reckon it abfurd, that we should be loosed in respect of our Greater sins, by the fufferings of another, and held for our flighter Peccadillo's to make fatisfaction in our own perfons; we cannot conceive why Christ that payd the pounds, should grudge the pence; after he has payd our Debt, he should suffer us to lye for Fees. If there was a meetness we should finart for any of our fins, one would expect it rather for our great ones; but the Goodness that passes over them, will not disparage it self to take notice of little things; but we assure our selves where it sets on Forgiveness, it will make clear work, forgiving iniquity, transgression and sin, that all Glory may be to God.

3. We suppose the wise Providence of God do's so far subserve his Covenant, that no surprizal shall happen to them interested in it, to cut them short of the sull benesit of it, and that God will continue them in this Life, till he has sitted them for a better; otherwise David was out in his Notion of Gods Covenant, that reckoned it ordered in all Things and sure, 2 Sam. 23. 5. and we are abused in what we hear of his exact and accurate Providence, Matth. 10. 29, 30. If this be all Bellarmines Reason for a Purgatory, to catch those of God's people that shall drop out of his providential hand, that they may not quite sall into Hell, he may content himself, God is not so careless of his own matters, or People, as he would make him; his Fruit drops not off the Tree of its own accord, that there should be danger of its salling before it was ripe; but he gathers it in convenient season, so that there is no need of a Purgatory, wherein it should be mellowing. You see by what we have

replyed in these three particulars, how streightened they are for Reafons, that they must extenuate the Desert of Sin, lessen the Merit of Christ, and reslect on the wise Providence of God, to have any shew of one; and I must profess, had I has stated at the Doctrine of Purgatory before, such Reasons as these for it, would have confirmed me in the disbelief of it; 'Tis time to desert that Faith, where I cannot be a Believer, without being also a Blasphemer.

II. Their Second Argument is from Fathers: As to which I briefly reply, that upon Examination I find some false Fathers imposed, others falsly quoted, others falsly applyed to what they never intended, as was easie to give instances, were they not from other hands so abundantly mi-nistred.

And further I find, (as is faid of a certain people) that they fell powder to Friend and Foe, whereby a great noyfe is made, and a great finoak is raifed, in which a man may foon lofe his Religion, but I pity the poor man that is to feek it among them.

And herein I acknowledge God very good to his Church, discouraging her by this Humane uncertainty from pinning her Faith on Man, and directing her to his infallible Word, on which alone the can fafely and reasonably settle; and such an Observation I conceive put the Spouse on that particular Inquisition after Christ himself, Cant. 1.7. Tell me, (O thou whom my Soul loveth,) where thou feedest, where thou makest thy flock to rest at Noon; for why sould I be as one that turneth aside (or litteth Vailed after the manner of Harlots) by the flocks of thy Companions? That Church that would keep it felf chaste, must be aware of wanton Shepheards, how it fits down by them, or dallyes with them, and keep close to Christ, that it may be delivered from them; and that Church or Society of men is a Strumpet, that draws a Veyl over its own Eyes, not caring to diffinguish between Christ and his Companions: that listens to every ones Voyce, and receives every ones Embrace; Christs sheep know his Voyce, and follow him, and a stranger they will not follow, but will flee from him, for they know not the Voyce of strangers, Joh. 10.4,5. And a Stranger he is, and a strange voyce he has, that speaks not according to what is written, and so he should be looked on by you, Gal. 1. 6, 7, 8, 9.

I speak not this to disparage the true Fathers, but I sear, as by the Deut. 34. 6. body of Moses, (if he could have found it, or Michael would have de-Jud. 9. livered it,) the Devil had a design of imposing upon Israel; so under the name of divers upright and eminent Fathers, the Deceiver of the Nations, and his Prophets, have obtruded upon the World many gross Superstitions and corrupt Doctrines, whereof it is but needfull we should take caution, especially if there appears to us the Ghost of an ancient Father, long dead, and hid from former Ages, and raised by we know not what Inchantments of later Impostors, speaking things dissonant to the Analogy of Faith; as is the case in respect of divers of those Fathers the Papists

urge us with, as Dyonisius, Clemens, Ephrem, &c. But universally it is a good Rule, to beware of Men, and have your eye to the Word of God, which is able to instruct you to every good work.

2 Tim. 3. 17. Councils.

Pont. lib. 4.

c. 14.

III. They pretend also Councils in the Case.

To which pretence I reply, that we find none of Antiquity or Univerfality to move us in the matter; nor for ought appears, was it ever industriously handled till the Council of Florence, not much upward of Bell. de Rom. two hundred years, as Bellarmine himself seems to grant; on occasion of Pope John the 22th. being impeached of Heresie, as believing the fleep of all Souls till the general Refurrection, he plainly tells us; that he believed so, while it was lawfull for him so to doe without danger of Herefie, for the Church had not then defined what in that case was to be believed. And consequently the division of our dead Saints into those in Heaven and in Purgatory, even according to him, was not determined in any antecedent Council; and we are not moved by an Article of Faith that is so novel; our Creed was compleated 1000 years fince, whereas it feems this great Article of Purgatory is not of 300 years standing; for before then we might safely have believed all Souls quiet enough. And the truth of it is, this Opinion did prevail, as an Opinion, among feveral of the Ancients, and was probably the true foundation of those Footsteps of Superstition that we find among them in reference to the Dead; yet though this Foundation by the Popish Church it felf is raced, the Popish purgatory, upon the Superstructure of straw that the Ancients laid thereon, is principally founded; as in all their Treatifes of that Subject may be observed.

Consent of Nations.

IV. The Fourth Argument is, from general Consent of Nations; and here Bellarmine reckons up the Hebrews, the Mahumetans, and the

Lib. 4. de purg. Heathens. c. II.

I had expected he would have brought in the Greeks also; and it may be supposed he took that for granted, in regard he had quoted so many of the Greek Fathers in the former Chapter, that for ought I perceive spake good Greek, if that would end a controversie; or however, say our Neotericks, the Greeks differed in this point heretofore, they agreed to it in the Council of Florence; where the Greek Emperour Paleologus, and Joseph the Patriarch of Constantinople, with divers Greek Bishops were present, and gave their consent in the disputed point of Purga-

In answer to this, I reply only two things, (for I am loth to lose the Greeks, I must confess, being so considerable a Body of Christians.)

1. That Bellarmine does yield the Greeks to be suspected at least of Herefie in this business, and the Armenians also, and brings in Aquinas as of his mind; and yet further feeds his suspition from the proceeding of the very Council of Florence, whence later Writers would perfwade us of their being right for the business.

2. Whatever was done by the Greek Bishops in that Synod, the rest of the Greek Churches disowned when they came home, and interdicted them all Christian Burial for their pains; and a fatal Council this is noted every way to have been to the Greeks, for in it the Patriarch dyes. presently after the Emperour, and within fourteen years after, Constantinople is took by the Turks, the Emperours Brother flain, the Greek Empire dissolved, the Christians of those parts inflaved, and gave thereby to find their Purgatory in this world.

As to their pretension to the Hebrews as being for Purgatory, they have shewed their proof, 2 Mac, and it is needless further to disprove

For the Heathen, especially the Poets, I think we may grant several of them, as Abetters, and I suppose Fathers of this profound Notion.

As to the Mahumetans also I will not much dispute, nor wonder if I find Purgatory in their Alcoran, fince Sergius the Monk was one of the Authors of it.

And on recollection of the whole, this specious Argument of Confent of Nations refults, in the sweet Harmony of Turks, Papists, and Heathen Poets; and like enough, if we would trace them, they agree in more points than this, and herein let them glory on, while we comfort our selves in our redemption from our vain Conversation received by Tra- 1 Pet. 1. 13. dition from our Fathers.

V. The Fifth and last Argument is from Apparitions; and here I might Apparitions.

tell you abundance of pretty storyes, were it worth the while.

But as to these I must frankly say, that if they had been true, (whereas the generality of them smell of fiction,) and if there had been ten, where we hear onely of one, it would have made this Doctrine more fuspicious; it seems hereby the interest of Hell to promote such Fancies; These Phantasins, Ghosts, or what else you will call them, were never, as I find, allowed Preachers, nor do any of the Monks record that they shewed them their Orders, and it is observable, they came with different stories, some describing a Popish Purgatory, and others as it were a Turkish Paradise; but God has directed us to Moses and the Prophets, Luk. 16. 29. and upbraided inquiring for the Living, of the Dead. So that I look on Isa. 8.19. all of this Nature as diabolical Delusion, and the heeding of such things as a great declenfion from God, and the very precipice unto all superstition. And now let Papists further brag, that they have not onely Turks and Heathens, but even Hell it self of their mind:

But we have followed them too far in their Fopperies, let us briefly inquire,

(5) What ground there is from Scripture to disbelieve any such thing

1. The Scriptures mention onely a two-fold State of Persons depart- Scripture ed this Life, placing some in Heaven, and others in Hell; and according believe no ly allure the Good by the Hopes of one, and fright the Bad with the Purgatory. Threats

Threats of the other, never fetting before us for Encouragement or Discouragement any Third state after this Life; Mat. 16. 16. He that believeth and is baptized, shall be faved, and he that believeth not, shall be damned: and least Sophisters should except, that he sayes not he shall presently be saved, but by the intermediation of Purgatory, we find it elsewhere, even in words of the present expressed, Joh. 3. 36. He that believeth on the Son, hath everlasting Life; and on the contrary, the wrath of God is said to abide on him that doth not.

2. The Scripture makes onely a two-fold division of Saints, in respect of place, dividing the whole Family into them on Earth, and them in Heaven, Eph. 3.15. Therefore none that are under his Fatherly Love and Care, can well be supposed elsewhere.

3. The Saints that undoubtedly knew the mind of God, have not onely been affured themselves, but have affured one another, that on their bodily death, they should goe forthwith to Blis: whence is that, to me to dye is gain, I desire to depart, and to be with Christ, Phil. 1.21. And agen, 2 Cor. 5.8. We are confident I say, and willing rather to be absent from the Body, and present with the Lord; so the converted Thief expected and was affured, (when he had no time to make personal satisfaction, as the Papilts require) This day shalt thou be with me in Paradise, not Purgatory; there to be sure Christis not; and where he is, there you may all along observe, they expect to be, and that immediately; Lazarus is no sooner dead, but he is seen in Abrahams bosom, which fure was a place of Rest; and in general, they are pronounced blessed that dye in the Lord, as resting from their labours, Rev. 14. 13. And lest this should be restrained to Martyrs, and the former to eminent Saints, (such as the Thief for instance) we hear it, that good men, without exception, are taken hence in pity, that they may be freed from present evil, and go to rest after their hard labours; which certainly implyes not, their being cast into Purgatory-fire, if it be so fierce especially, as it is painted.

4. The Scripture speaks of Christ as having fully satisfied, and of Believers as being intirely sanctified, and thereon at peace with God, and as rejoycing in hope of the Glory of God, looking on all the Afflictions that remain as stea-bitings, little momentany things, which they would not certainly have spoke so contemptibly of, if they had thought they might have layn some thousand years in Purgatory-slames: No, they reckoned onely of the Sufferings of the present time, not dreaming of any afterwards, but on their Justification by Faith concluded of their Peace with God. And agen, they are spoken of Joying in God through their Lord Jesus Christ, by whom they had Now received the Attonement; they did certainly expect that God had no after reckoning for them; their smiling look on God, spoke evidently they thought not of further Severities from him.

5. The Scripture speaks of God as throughly pardoning upon our repenting;

Isa. 57.1,2.

Rom. 8. 18. Rom. 5. 1. V. 11. repenting; Ezek. 18. 22. All his Transgressions that he hath committed, they shall not be mentioned unto him. Heb. 8. 12. I will be mercifull unto their unrighteousness, and their sins and iniquities I will remember no more; whereas he would remember them with a witness, if he should throw them into that dark Prison, till they had made in their own persons an Expiation, by such sufferings as are not to be parallel'd on Earth.

6. The Scripture speaks expressly of this Life as our Way and onely working-time, and that in the night of Death no man can work; and Joh. 9. 4. moreover, that every man shall receive according to what he hath done in the Body, 2 Cor. 5. 10. He and not another, Done and not suffered; in the Body, while Soul and Body were together, and not what the Soul should doe apart; and indeed, what is done out of the Body, is not the act of the man, and so can tend neither to his good or hurt, and consequently, what the Soul is supposed to suffer in Purgatory, can no wayes be imagined Expiatory for what was done in the Body, as Papists themselves in effect grant, (in denying that there is any Merit) and thereby yield their Purgatory a fantastical and infignificant thing.

7. And lastly, if there was such a distress incident to the Souls of Believers after death, no doubt but God would have appointed fomething for their relief; but no Sacrifice do we find under the Law that referres to the dead, or any one Office appointed or performed by any Ancient Saint under that dispensation, that can probably be applyed to such a purpose; whereas every Minute case was respected, and from All uncleanness care was taken we might be purged; but the Dead, God seems willing should be deferted, not only by his passing them over, but charging us, as it were, to make as little adoe as may be about them, we defile our selves by touching of them, and are discharged those poenances that natural Superstition had ingaged the Nations in in reference to them: Deut. 14. 1. You shall not cut your selves, nor make any baldness between your eyes for the dead; and to the same purpose more fully, Lev. 19. 27, 28. This care we find taken to prevent much Ceremonie, such especially as carryed a shew of severity, and seemed likelyest (according to the Popish Notion) to have profited the dead; but nothing in its stead does appear instituted for their relief; which silence speaks. That perfons removed into the other world, are either happy above our Help, or miserable beyond it: The Seventh day under the Law, was the day that Numb. 19, 12; perfected their cleanling, and what was not clean then, we hear not when it should be clean; by which probably was typified, that the time of Life was the time of Hope, and what was neglected in that term, was not to be repaired unto Eternity.

Thus much for Scriptural Arguments against this Doctrine of Purgatory.

But I foresee a shrewd Cavil, which yet I am ashamed to concern my self about, it has so little in it; but on the same account I might have let all alone. Let us then hear it: Why,

Rrrr

We

Cavil.

E. W. Prot. without princi; les, p. 459.

We have brought never a positive Scripture, that sayes, There is no fuch place as Purgatory; and an huge Out-cry is on fuch Occasions taken up against our Negative way of arguing against a Doctrine that they positively profess.

Ans. 1. This old Father had faid something, if he had told us, they had positively proved it; but positive Profession without proof (methinks) should not priviledge any one from anothers as-positive Negation, if I may fo phrase it. And truely on their part it lyes to have given us positive and express Scripture for Purgatory, that would impose it on us as a positive Article of Faith to be believed on pain of Damnation, which how they have quitted themselves in, may be observed in the obscure and impertinent Allegations before instanced in.

2. It feems abundantly fufficient for a suspension of Faith, (which is our case,) that we see, and are able to shew, that there is no Foundation for it, which is that I think he calls our Negative way of Arguing.

3. It feems abfurd to provoke to politive express Scripture against every particular Chimæra that may come into mens heads, a thousand years after the Scriptures were writ; for so, if any man should affert, (especially if many should agree to it) that Mahomet is a true Prophet, or that the Moon was a Milstone, or whatever else can be supposed more unlikely; I am bound to subscribe to it, except I can bring particular, politive, express Scripture against it. It has alwayes been the prudence of Law-givers to direct their particular Laws against Faults in being, lest in forbidding all that might be, they might teach some, that never else would have been; God has walked in the fame wisdom he infused into them, and it has sufficed him particularly to condemn what was particularly practifed against Faith and good Manners, leaving general Rules for the Tryal of after Emergencies. Yet,

4. In the Scriptures we have quoted, there is that positively afferted, that gives us good Foundation politively to conclude, that there is no fuch place as Purgatory.

For if Christ has fully satisfied, and God fully pardoned, and gave hopes to his people, that on their departure hence, they shall be immediately glorified, (all which has been fully by positive Scriptures proved) we may politively conclude, that other Satisfactions are not required, the Saints shall not be so severely punished, nor their Expectations at that rate delayed, as in the Doctrine of Purgatory is afferted. And thus we have done with our Doltrine positive.

has every where given them of himself, and his design of insinuating into the good Opinion of them, as one mainly tender over them: God would make them believe, that he was affected in all their Affections, and angry with them that layd an hard blow, or continued an heavy hand upon them, though it was but for seventy years. But in this Doctrine of Purgatory he is represented as of a far other temper; and that when men have done their worst with them, they shall not scape so, but hew ill have his pennyworths out of them, and a thousand years exquisite Forments shall not suffice some of them; which is to dash the good Opinion his Saints (on his Sons Report) had conceived of him.

2. Hereby the Fulness of Christs satisfaction is denyed, and Faith in him much discouraged. What confidence indeed can be put in him, if he should leave us thus in the lurch, and force us to seek other Friends, when we have most need of him.

3. Hereby the horrid Nature of Sin is lessened, in that any thing that we can suffer in a little time, or our Friends can doe over and above their own Duty, is reputed a just satisfaction for it, or any the least Remainders of it.

4. Hereon Humane works and helps are over advanced, and many a piece of Superstition and Will-worship introduced, and a pack of deceitfull Priests diverted from their proper work with the Living, and Eccl. 9. 6. vainly occupyed about the Dead, that have no more a portion for ever in any thing that is done under the Sun.

5. Hence Bad men are less carefull to prepare for Death, since a great part of their business may be done by other hands when they are gone.

6. Hereon Good men are e'en afraid to dye, for it seems a terrible thing to enter into this Purgatory, where especially their coming out depends so much on mans Sincerity, whom it is hard to trust when one is gone, and his Reward is come. They that know the difficulty of Believing in Christ, must needs be more streightened to place any comfortable considence in a Priests prayers and Masses, that (if he be faithfull while he live,) lives not for ever to make Intercession, or make up his Satisfaction for him.

From all which I conclude,

That the Doctrine of Purgatory and Prayers for the Dead, as if General Conthereby their afflicted, tormented Souls could be relieved, is a Corclusion. ruption of lamentable consequence to the Church, and a pernitious snare to Souls.

But fince there is no fuch Thing as a Purgatory after this Life,

1. Let us purge and prepare our felves as much as we can in this Life, making use of Christs Blood, Spirit and Word to that purpose, and freely submitting to, and complying with present Afflictions in their design this way, considering, That Christ gave himself for us, that he Rrrr 2 might redeem us from all iniquity, and purifie unto himself a peculiar people zealous of good works. Let the fire of holy zeal burn in your breasts, since the Fire of an after-Purgatory, is not like to kindle on your persons.

2. Let this cut off all vain hopes after death from them that have neglected Salvation-work in life, considering that there is no relief for them hereafter, but to Hell God will immediately send them, Pfal. 9. 17. Consider this ye that forget God, and unpreparedly expose your selves to his hand, for he will tear you in pieces, and there shall be none to deliver you; or yet further to speak to you in the Pfalmists words, Pf. 49. 6,7,8. They that trust in their wealth, and boast themselves in the multitude of their Riches, none of them can by any means redeem his Brother, nor give to God a Ransom for him; For the Redemption of their Soul is precious, and it ceaseth for ever.

3. Let this chase away needless Fears from good people at the point of Death, for when they have drunk that Cup, they shall taste no more bitter to all Eternity, Sorrow and sighing shall fly away, and everlasting

For shall be upon their heads.

4. Let what has been faid commend the Protestant Doctrine in denying Purgatory, as a usefull wholsome Doctrine, while we live, and alike comfortable to them that have lived well, and learn'd to rely on Christ, when they come to dye.

(7) Lastly, let me give the genuine sence of this place, and improve it, and this will force a more particular respect to the Context.

1. The Builders are generally understood, (in a way of Eminency at least) of the Doctors of the Church; though I will not contend, if any shall comprehend also their Disciples that shall build their Faith upon the Doctrine which they have delivered.

2. The Foundation that is built on by both Builders is supposed the same, The Lord Jesus Christ, such as own him, are as to the main Christian; they on all hands are yielded to broach damnable destrines indeed, that deny the Lord that bought them, 2 Pet. 2. I.

3. As to the Materials that are superstructed on this Foundation, though some of our Adversaries are contentious about them, and will (against all sence) suppose by Gold and Silver to be meant good Works, and by Hayand Stubble Venial sins, (which is a perversion of the very scope of the Text) yet hereabout we are pretty generally agreed, that at least properly and firstly, the Apostle speaks of Doctrines, and by Gold, Silver, and precious Stones, are meant a Superstructure suitable to, and worthy of the Foundation, like precious Faith, that in the whole Building there may be a proportion: And by Wood, Hay and Stubble, (as Alapide phrases it) we understand, Dostrina incerta, frivola, pamposa, phalerata, curiosa, inutilis; an uncertain, frivolous, pompous Doctrine, that has more shew than substance; that is of a base, earthy, rotten, moulding, perishing perishing Nature, that is a blemish to the Foundation, and destroys the Uniformity of Christian Religion; and makes a meer Nebuchadnezzars Image of it, part Gold, and part Clay; that can never cement or hold long together: And by these last Builders, or rather Dawbers, I understand eminently the Popish Doctors; Christ they seem content should lye for the Foundation, though some will tell them, it is but a Nominal Christ that they lay there neither, for the stress of their Building is layd on other things, while they make use of his Name; and we must be beholding to our selves, and I know not what Saints, for our Salvation, though He bears the Title of cur Saviour. Yet grant it, that they make Christ their Foundation, what incongruity is there between that and their superstruction? To instance:

Christ is King; this they pretend to own, a golden foundation: But Psil. 2. 6. They must raign. This in effect they inferre; a wooden, dirty, dungy Superstruction. If you ask wherein they do so? I answer, (1) In dispensing with Christs Laws, which they do at pleasure. (2) In making New Laws equally obliging Conscience under pain of Damnation; this they have done with that Arrogance, that we may finde Ten of theirs to One of Christs, as will appear by comparing their Voluminous Decretals with his Gospels, and his Servants Epistles. And lastly, in taking upon them to Authorize as it were and inforce his Laws, as if they had their binding power, not so much from Christs Institution, as the Popes Declaration: nor in this can they pretend Substitution, unless they could shew us his Commission, walked by his Directions, or expressed more Subjection. That Scripture, in regard of the Popes Arrogance, both in respect of Christ and his People, may well be applyed (as undoubtedly it belongs) to him; that as God, he sitteth in the Temple of God, shewing himself that he is God, 2 Thess. 2.4.

Agen, Chritis Prophet; a good Foundation: But we must ultimately hear and heed the Pope; a strawy superstruction, and a persect degrading of Christ by implication; see whether we bring against them a wrongfull accusation: Things are not to be believed because Christ said them, but because the Church of Rome avouches them; the very Scriptures themselves, and every particular Article of Faith, according to them, have their Credibility, not from any character that Christ has put upon them, or Seal that he has fet to them, but as the Church votes them, fo we must believe of them: This is more notorious than that we should need to bring in particular Authors of theirs; and what is the meaning of this, but while they give Christ the Name, to usurp to themselves the Office of instructing and inlightening the world; it may be no Heresie to disbelieve what Christ has said, as was fore-noted in the instance of Pope John 22th; but he that suspends Faith to anything, or dares think contrary to what the Pope (forfooth) and his Council have instamped with their Authority, he is an intolerable Heretick, and fit onely for Hell.

Heb. 10. 14.

Once more, They will not stand with us about Christs being Priest, wherein they seem to own the Foundation; but streight joyn with him such a frye of their Sacrificuli, as if they much doubted his sufficiency: hence also we are taught by them to multiply Sacrifices as well as Priests, as if he had not by that one he offered, for ever perfected them that believe; we are put on personal Satisfactions, directed to others Intercessions, all wayes are devised to affront him in this Office, while they pretend to own him.

And by what in these particulars has been instanced, is evidenced what it is to rear a strawy Superstruction on this golden Foundation, wherein the Papists of all men are notoriously guilty.

4. By the Day that shall declare every mans work, the Papilts will have meant, as in their Translation is read, the Day of the Lord; by which some of them understand the Day of the general Judgement; though others will admit a more particular Judgement, and with good Reason; for if good and bad works were not declared till the day of the universal Indgement, and the fiery Tribulation of that day, the Fire of Purgatory would go quite out, for there would be no place for that: But it is confessed on all hands, that the generality of Greek Copyes, read onely the Day, not the Day of the Lord; and that it is not exercise in hunger as that great Day is wont to be expressed, but onely, in hunger; Therefore hereby I am inclined to understand some brighter season of the Gospel, and day, in respect of its Light, to distinguish it from the former times, which were a kind of Night, wherein those Mysts had arose, that the Light and Heat of this Day should scatter and chase; according as was foretold, 2 Theff. 2.8. That this wicked one should be revealed, and that the Lord should consume him with the Spirit of his Mouth, and destroy him with the brightness of his coming; which word we find has been regarded, and that wicked one and his Works (however by the advantage of former darkness he and they were concealed) have begun to be revealed, confumed, and we hope, as the day grows brighter, to fee utterly destroyed. For as the Day growes in Light, we may expect it to increase in Heat, that it shall be tormenting, through its violent scorching, to them that for their evil and odious works have alwayes affected darkness and shade, Rev. 16.8,9.

5. We are hereby lead further into the understanding of the Fire after mentioned, as a Concomitant of this day, wherein every mans work, that is, Words and Faith, should be tryed, all adulterate works confumed, and such like workers damaged and greatly endangered; and this Fire I understand partly of the Word of God, which I find so expressed, Fer. 23. 29. Is not my Word like Fire? and so acting, Fer. 20. 9. His Word in my heart was as a burning Fire, shut up in my Bones; partly I understand it of the Spirit, that shall blow up this Word, and actuate it unto a greater vigour, making it to burn shereer, as Bellowes doe inrage our ordinary sire, to which there seems an allusion, Isa. 30. 33. the breath breath of the Lord like a stream of Brimstone doth kindle it; and in regard of the inflamations that are made in the Heart by the Spirits enforcing the Word, it may be called a Spirit of Burning, Isa. 4. 4. And yet further I conceive, great and grievous Tribulations may be a third ingredient of this fire, and all to make it yet fiercer and fiercer, that it may be effective for the various purposes for which it is sent, probation, purgation, or consumption, according to the plyableness or obstinacy of the Objects it meets with.

When this fire shall be kindled, and at this rate quickened, true and false Doctrine shall be distinguished, the one cleared, and the other condemned; and so each mans works manifested.

This premised, what remains is easily explained.

His Work may be faid to abide, whose Doctrine shall be approved, and he shall receive a reward; present, in the surther satisfaction of mind he shall receive by the Spirits confirmation and consolation of him, as to what he has preached, professed, or believed; and suture, in the peculiar Glory he may expect, as having sound Grace to be faithfull in all times: This John exhorts the Elect Lady to look to, that both he and the might receive a full reward, 2 John 8.

7. His Works are faid to be burnt, that yields to the burning Light of that day, that submits to the Convictions of the Spirit, and quits his former Errours; so Christ is said to come to destroy the works of the Devil, by the manifestation of himself, 1 Joh. 3.8. That is, to burn them, as here, with the brightness of his coming; and so the Sons of Levi were Mal. 3. 2, 3. purified; by his burning up their dross, and leaving them thereby a pure mass; it is, I'm sure, no uncouth Notion we give you, when we interpret this burning of their works, by a purification that shall pass upon the Builders, in their separation and consumption, through the Spirits efficacious and clear Conviction. But,

8. How is the Builder hereon said to suffer loss? It may feem his Gain.

Ans. Yea, and it will prove so, as Losses often doe, even as the Mariner accounts it, when by the loss of his Lumber he saves his Treasure, by the loss of his Goods he saves his Ship, by the loss of his Ship he saves his Life; But whatever he does gain, Loss still he is reckoned to sustain. So in the present Case, he that on the Spirits Conviction quits his former Errours, gets the knowledge of the Truth, gets Favour with God, which are far better things than what he has parted with. Yet inasmuch as these things might have been easier and cheaper had, than (it may be) he comes by them, and in that by a kind of force, as in a Fire or Shipwrack, to save himself he parts with them; they may bear the Name of a Loss, as Paul reckons the parting with his Rightcousness, though it was in order to the winning of Christ, Phil. 3.7, 8. Those things that were gain to me, I counted loss, yea doubtless, I count all loss, I have suffered the lass of all things, &c.

And !

Rom. 1. 18.

And in the present case, whenever these resusers are burnt, we may reckon up some Loss, as (may be) the loss of Time, the loss of Labour, the loss of Reputation, the loss of Preserment, the loss of Lise; so some have found in quitting their corrupt Opinions, but the promise is, He that loseth his Life for my Name, shall find it, Matth.

9. From hence naturally refults the interpretation of our Text, [But he himself shall be saved, yet so as by Fire,] that is, by yielding to these Convictions, and quitting his false Opinions, even as when a mans House is on fire, if he leaves his Goods, leaps out of the Window, and hastes away, he may save his own person with the loss of the Rest; but if he obstinately result the fire, in zeal to save his Substance, he may perish himself: In like manner, if when this Spiritual Fire do's fall from Heaven upon our spiritual Hay and Stubble, we suffer it to prey thereupon, and content our felves to escape with our own Lives, giving up these Idols of our Hearts, and inclining our selves to embrace Gods Revealed Truths, we may fave our Souls with fome little fcorching. But if we go about to quench this Fire, and suppress its Light, with resolution to fave this pitifull stuff; we may possibly preserve that, but more than hazard the everlasting burning of our own Souls by it. For the wrath of God is revealed from Heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the Truth in unrighteousness; and to them that are contentious, and obey not the Truth, but obey Unrighteousness, indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish will God repay on every Soul of them.

And this I suppose is the genuine meaning of the place.

Obj. But our Adversaries will be asking, What Pope, what Council sayes so? by what Authority will we inforce their receiving of this sence?

Ans. To which I answer in two particulars:

1. I note the Commentaries of Popes and Councils, however good they be at it, are very rare things, and come not to every ones hands; one may guess them choyse Jewels, that they keep them so close; though they are a spightfull fort of Folks, if they onely know the Mind of God, that they so rarely apply themselves to open the Word of God.

2. Is suppose there is Authority in the Text sufficient to bow our Minds to read it with meekness, and without prejudice; and being consident of this, I am less solicitous for the Authority of the Comment. For in our giving the sence of Scripture, we pretend not to have dominion over any ones Faith, that we should come with Serjeants and Bailiss to arrest any ones consent without his due conviction to it; but it suffices us to propose with Fidelity, what on our best search and most serious prayer, seems likelyest to be the mind of God, and commend our selves and sence to every mans Conscience in the sight of God; and he that hath an Eye to see, let him see; but he that will slutter out all the light that is brought brought to him, because it is not set on a Candle-stick that likes him. let him lie in darkness, if he affects it; but let him think of the blackness of darkness that may be referved for him, as a just punishment of his Sic. de dy. despight of Light. This has been thought a meet Recompence for such & mina). Errour.

Briefly then, as I promifed, to improve this genuine sence,

1. By way of Exposition of Protestants Charity, wherein Papists much men. glory: Even We, fay they, hold that they may be faved; We doe: but observe in what Cases: 1. In case of invincible Ignorance; and thus we hope well of many a devout Soul that dyed in their Communion, in the night of Popery, and had not Means or Opportunityes to know better; their walking in all known Duty, and Repenting even of unknown iniquity, might commend them to Gods infinite mercy; but still this is onely our Charity, a Relyance on which, except we had better Judgements than they think we have, makes not for their fafety. 2. In case of their Reformation in complyance with after conviction; and thus we have like hope of Turks and Pagans, and this I am apt to think is almost generally expected, fince the day of Gospel Light has begun to dawn, and much more as it grows brighter and brighter, and its beams dart hotter and hotter upon their Consciences: Let the Learned of them especially look to it, for however it goe with the simpler fort, that are so of Necessity, they will hardly escape, Persons and Works too; but if they abide together, now the day of the Lord is begun, and his Fire goes forth, they are like to be burnt up, and perish together. And it is not our Charity, nor (may be) Gods Mercy, that will relieve them, while Christs Merit, in despight of all the Convictions of his Spirit, is thus slighted by them.

2. By way of Call to ingenuous Papists, to close with this way that is discovered for their Salvation, by quitting their strawy and wooden Superstructions, and giving up all their vain Inventions to their first Conviction; I would not have them prevent it, nor delay upon it; it is dangerous abiding in Babylon, when it is day, retaining the works of darkness, when it is light; when you do hear Gods Call, (and hearken for it) Come out from amongst them, lest ye partake of their Plagues: or to ap- Rev. 18.4 ply what was faid to Lot, Gen. 19. 17. Escape for your life, look not behind you, neither stay in all the plain, escape to the Mountains, lest you be consumed.

3. By way of Caution to unwary Protestants, that (may be) hold the Foundation; look also to the Superstruction, take heed of strange and uncouth Opinions, and when you have imbibed them, be not over-tenacious of them, but give them up streight to Conviction, and stand not on the loss of Reputation, the quitting them may be the onely means of thy Salvation. For though there may feem no great evil in thy Opinion, thy obstinacy in adhering to it, when sufficient Light is given to see the SIII folly folly of it, may in continuance become the Sin against the Holy Ghost, that will never be forgiven.

Conclusion.

To conclude, I read, Act. 19. 19, 20. Of many that had used curious Arts, which brought their Books together, and burnt them before all men, and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of Silver, so mightily grew the Word of God, and prevailed. A remarkable instance indeed of the power of the Word: That Scholars should be wrought on to burn their Books, their Books of curious Arts, that got them probably their Credit; their Books of fuch a value. And the truth on't is, to accommodate our present case hereto; mens own Notions and Fancies are dear to them, when no outward advantage follows them, [Qui velit ingenio cedere rarus erit,] but much more when their Interests are twisted with them: Yet methinks, their Souls should be much more precious; and for their fakes, I befeech all concerned in the former charge of foolish Builders, that they cast away their Idols of Silver and of Gold, to the Bats and to the Moles; and I befeech God in the behalf of Rome, and all that partake with it in its unmeet and unworthy Superfiructions, though on the common Foundation; that on the warm Application of the Word, they may separate from their works, left as the fire grows hotter, they be confumed with them. A bleffed Bonfire it would be, to fee their Works all burning, and therein bleffed, as it would tend to their Souls faving. But oh! my heart mifgives me; if Gods Word fo far prevail for their Conviction, what means that crackling Noyse I hear, of Fire and Brimstone prepared for their Destruction? Rev. 17. 16. & ch. 18. v. 8.

Cease frighting one another with your Purgatory flames, that are but imaginary; and fly the Fire of Gods Wrath, kindled at his Jealousie, that is like to prey upon you unto all Eternity.

SERMON XXV.

The Visibility of the True Church.

Matth, XVI, 18.

And I say also unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this Rock I will build my Church, and the Gates of Hell Shall not prevail against it.

UR Bleffed Lord being within the Territories of Cafarea Philippi (neer Lebanon and the Fountains of Fordan, where Philip the Tetrarch of Ituraa and Trachonitis had his Royal Seat or Throne) was pleased to put two Questions to his Disciples; 1. Whom did men commonly suppose him to be? 2. Whom more especially did they judge and acknowledge him? To this demand, Peter in the (a) a Petrus ex name of the rest (for our Lord propounded the question to them all) re-persona omnium plies and confesses him to be the true Messiah, the Son of the living Apostolorum, God. loc. Tom. 9. p. 30.

Upon this glorious Confession, our Lord and Saviour,

I. Pronounces a heavenly bleffing to Peter, v. 17. 2. Acquaints him and the rest present, that upon himself whom he had confessed to be the Son of the living God, not only Peter, but his whole Church should be firmly built, v. 18. 3. He makes a Promise to him and the rest, of Ministerial power, v. 19. which he performed unto all, when he breathed on them the Holy Ghost, 7ch. 20. 22, 23.

In the 18th verse, belides the Preface [And I say also unto thee,] we have three principal parts.

I. Encomium Petri, or a Laudatory Testimony, bestowed upon Peter, and in him, upon all, of whom he had demanded answer; Thou are Sfff 2 Peter, Gen. 17.5. 32. 28.

Glass. Rhet. Trad. 2. Cup. 2.

Peter, &c. In which our Lord does not now first give him that Name. for that was done before, Joh. 1.42. where our Lord told him, that thenceforth he should be called Cephas or Peter (which is by Interpretation a stone) as God of Old had declared concerning the name of Abraham and Israel; and as Elizabeth about the Name of her Son 70hn. In this denomination of Peter, there is a manifest allusion to the following words, by an elegant Paranomasia or magaonusicous: Thou art Peter. whom I have formerly called by the name of a Stone, to note thy being built upon that Foundation-stone, that Rock of Ages whom the Father hath layd in Zion.

II. A Declaration of our Lord concerning his Church, which he compares to a House, Palace, or City, wherein observe,

1. The Foundation of this Building, On this Rock, representing him whom thou hast confess'd.

2. The Architect, I will build.

3. The Edifice, My Church. Not any particular Church exclusive to others; but the whole Church Catholick. This Text affigns no diploma or Priviledge to the Church of Jerusalem, Antioch, Constantinople, Carthage, or ancient Rome, or any other particular Church, otherwise than as parts and parcels of the whole Church; or as there may have been found in them, such as by lively Faith and sound Doctrine were built upon Christ, the onely true and living Rock, the fure and precious Foundation of his Church. As to the timeing of the Verb: I will build, that no way excludes the ancient Fathers before our Lords Incarnation, who all dyed in Faith, and without whom we are not made perfect; but notes the continuation of this divine work in building up the Church, till the Top-stone be laid in the end of the World, with Acclamations of Grace. It pre-fignifies the enlargement of the Church among the Gentiles, by the Ministerial Edification of the Apostles, according to that famous Ich. 6.12,15. Prophecy in Zechary, of the latter times, when they that are afar off, shall come and build in the Temple of the Lord, consonant to the tenor of the whole New Testament.

III. The Perennity or Perpetuity of the Church. Our Lord addes a Promise as strong as the Foundation it felf, for the Mouth of the Lord hath spoken it: That his Church shall be monumentum are perennius. more durable than Heaven and Earth: for they shall pass away with great Noyse, the Elements melt, the Earth, and the works therein shall be burnt up: The Foundations of the Earthly Mountains may be fet on fire: Ætna, Vesuvius and Hecla may vomit out their burning bowels. The Channels of the Sea may appear, and the inmost Caverns of the World be discovered; nay the foundations of Heaven may be moved, and shake, and its Pillars tremble, when God is wroth: But the Church of God shall perfist and endure against all affaults, against all oppositions imaginable. For tis his Church, again, whom all created power is but weakness, their machinations and contrivements a thousand times more frail than the most delicate and tender Web of a Spider. The waves that foam against this Rock, dash themselves in pieces, and (as Hos. 10. 7. the Prophet elegantly,) they are cut off as Foam upon the Water, as Bubbles (pufft up with swelling Pride and Animosity against the Church) fuddenly subside, and shrink into the bosome of their primitive water. The Gates of Hell shall never prevail against it. The glorious Building of the Church, affaulted it may be and shall be, but prevailed upon or demolisht, never. Like Mount Zion she shall never be moved; nay, Pfal. 125. 1. the cannot be moved, for the Highest himself hath establish'd her, there's Plat. 87. 5. her inward stability: And as to the repelling of all external force and fury, as the Mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round Ff. 125, 2. about his people for ever. The Church shall never be extirpated out of the World. The Rain may descend, the Floods rush, and the Winds roar and beat upon this House; but it stands inviolable against all weathers Mat. 7. 25. and storms, for it is founded upon the Rock. Enemies may fret awhile, fume and boyle in the brine of their own Anger, and (like Bodies molested with sharp and corrosive humours) become self-tormenters, at last are emacerated, wasted and dissolved. Tis Wisdom it self, having hewn Prov. 9.1. out her feven Pillars hath built this House, truely deferving the honourable name of S. Sophia, (more than that magnificent Structure at Constantinople) the Temple of Sacred Wisdom.

The farther Explication of the words may be referred to the handling

That the Lord Jesus Christ, the Eternal Son of the living God, is the onely Foundation of his Church, and the preserver of its duration in some measure visibly throughout all Ages.

of this Polition or main point deducible out of the bowels of this Text:

Observ.

Wherein three things are to be discussed, in such a method as a Textual Sermon may admit.

1. We are to treat of the Church of Christ, what it is, and whereof

2. Of the Foundation of the Church, that it is Christ, and Christ onely.

3. Of the Duration and Continuance of the Church upon this glorious and strong Foundation, in some state of Visibility through all Ages. Though fometimes it may appear more conspicuous, and sometimes less. As the Sun may be fometimes Ecclipfed, and that totally to some places in the Terrestrial Globe, though in it self never extinguisht, nor its radiant beams wholly withdrawn from all parts of the Hemisphere at the precise time of the compleat interposure of the Moons body. Sometimes he may be mantled in a Sable Cloud, and that for many dayes together; fometimes he may have driven his Chariot to visit our Antipodes; sometimes his visible Diameter is larger, and sometimes lesser; sometimes he warms our Zenith, and sometimes comforts the Antartick Pole. Neither is the Queen of the Night a lefs fit refemblance, being much more variable in her Phases and Appearances. Such hath been the Fate of the Church of God: Now direfully Ecclipsed by bloody Persecutions, Then shining out the more illustriously; Now clouded with thick vails of Error and Heresie, Then vigorously conquering by the bright Rayes of Truth. Now dim and dusky by the thick Foggs and Mists of Superstitious Ceremonies, Then more beautifull and Orient in her naked simplicity, and Apostolical Lustre; being cloathed with the Sun, and a Crown of Twelve Stars upon her head.

(I) As to the first, What the Church of Christ is? We find it here compared to a House, to a stately Palace, or Princes Mansion, or Castle of Defence, built upon an impregnable Rock: Nay, 'tis the House of the Living God, typed by that ancient fumptuous Temple of Solomon. Sometimes 'tis refembled to a City, to the City of David, founded and built upon the renowned Mountain of Zion, which shadowes forth both its Duration and Visibility. But the Metaphor, as a Vail or a Glass, being laid aside; as under the Notion of a quick Rock, we contemplate the onely begotten Son of the Living God, so by the Regular and wellpolish'd Materials of the super-imposed building, we are to understand the lively Stones mentioned in Peter, which coming to him by Faith, are built up into a Spiritual House. Such as compose the Structure of the Church are the adopted Children of God. The learned of the Reformed Churches have a little varied in Expressions, but agree in the Substance. That the Church of God is a company of Holy Persons, chosen of God from Eternity, in Christ, unto Eternal Life. The Church consists of Men. not of Angels, and therefore must be Visible: They are Holy ones, not Hypocrites or profane persons, who may sometimes thrust into the Communion of the External Visible Church. They are such, who in Gods due time are called out of the World, by the Ministry of the Word, and the inward Efficacious Grace of his Spirit. Let's fumme up these particulars in that Declaration which the Church of England hath exhibited

Upon the particular Branches of this Description, I must not enlarge, onely acquaint you at present, that I shall here treat of some peculiar points, referring to that true real Church of Christ whereof our Lord speaks in this Text: Such, as being sounded upon him by Faith, cemented to him by Love, worships him in Spirit and Truth; against which all the Powers of Darkness shall never prevail; but shall continue successively ceffively throughout all Ages here upon Earth; fometimes shining more clearly, otherwhiles more obscurely, yet alwayes in some measure vifible and discernible by the marks of true Doctrine, Worship and Discipline; and at length shall be wholly translated to Eternal Communion with Christ their most glorious head in the highest Heavens.

(2) As to the Foundation of this Church, we affert that Jesus Christ is the Rock, the folid and onely Foundation whereupon 'tis built, which may be demonstrated, 1. Negatively or Exclusively as to all others.

2. Positively as to Christ himself.

I. Exclusively. No other is, or can be admitted for the Rock or Foundation of the Church. En raum Til merea On this single, individual Rock will I build my Church. No other can communicate in this high and fupereminent Honour.

Obj. But some may say, Does not the Pronoun in the Text relate most properly to the next Antecedent, Peter; and not to Christ. Is it not more genuine?

Anf. 1. This Grammaticisme will not conclude. For, 1. 'Tis commonly otherwise in many other places of Scripture, as Gen. 10. 12. Job. Glass. Gram. 8.44. Heb. 12.17. Alt. 19.5. and particularly, Mat. 26.26. If in Sacr. 13. Traft. that Enunciation [This is my Body,] This should be referred to bread, the immediate Antecedent, then (as the learned observe) there's an end of their Doctrine of Transubstantiation: If they will press such a Grammatical Nicety upon that as upon this Text. But 2dly, Though the Name of Peter be found neerest in words, yet its also observed, that the Perfon of Christ in most proper sence and relation stands nighest to the Rock upon whom Peter was built, and who had received that Denomination from his Confession of the true and living Rock, the Son of God, the Christ, v. 20.

A. 2. But laying aside that Grammatical contest, let's shew, That Peter was not, could not be the Rock whereon the Church is built.

For, 1. Peter was but a Man. Now no meer man can fustain the wrath of an infinite God, or Redeem the Church by his Blood. The Apostle determines him to be God, who hath purchased the Church by Adi 20. 28. his own blood; and the Author to the Hebrews declares, that the same Person who had by himself purged our fins, is set down on the right hand Heb. 1. 3. of the Majesty on high; the same to whom the Father speaks, Thy verse 8. throne O God is for ever and ever, that High-priest who is entred within that Son of God, who is passed into the Heavens. Such a one Ch. 4. 14. became us, who is made higher than the Heavens. Christ the Head of Ch. 7. 25. the Church, who is also the Saviour of his Body, and gave himself for it; Eph. 5. 23.25 who loved us, and washed us from our sins in his Blood.

2. Peter was a Frail mortal man. But God had his Church, and that built upon this Rock, before ever Peter was born, and continued after his Death and Funeral. God the Father had laid this Foundation, מרסר מרסר, Fundamentum fundatum, this strong Foundation, long Isa. 28. 26.

The Prophets of Old, as well as the Apostles, built upon this Foundation. Besides, when Peter came upon the Stage, he goes off again; and when Peter dyes, must the Church perish? The Foundation being gone, the Building must needs tumble, neither does our Lord any where speak of, or promise to any Successors so great a Priviledge to step into his room, to lye in the Foundation, and to be the supposed Atlas of his Church; and were it so, then Peter personal must be dismiss'd.

Nay more than so, Peter erred in Faith about the Death and Resurrection of Christ, and our Lord rebuked him sharply, as being under a tentation of Satan; nay, he thrice denyed our Lord. But because some would apply the Promise in the Text, to a Performance after the Resurrection, the Holy Scripture (as if on purpose to obviate these futilous Objections) sets it down that even then he did not og Domo Ser, not walk uprightly in the Gospel, and Paul withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed. Shall we then think, that the Church was founded upon a finfull man? fince fuch a High-priest becomes the Church, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, and separate from sinners; a Lamb without blemish and

> 4. Peter determines the Point himself, and expounds the Prophecy in Efay of Christ, and he himself doctrinally layer down Christ for the true and onely Foundation in the Zion of the Church; disallowed indeed by Pharifees and the proud builders of Babel, but approved of God, and folemnly preach'd by Peter at Jerusalem, and unanimously attested by all the Apostles, and recognized for the onely true Foundation of the Church. s. Peter as meer Peter, could never victoriously grapple with the Affaults of Satan; he had been finally and fatally foiled, had not Christ prayed, had not this Rock sustained him. The Church must have a Foundation against which all the Gates of Hell can never prevail, and which infuses Vertue and invincible confistency into the Building it self; as if a quick and living Rock should inspire and breathe into the stones of a Palace fixt upon it, some of those Mineral Eradiations wherewith it self is endued, to preferve it from mouldering and turning into dust. The Church must have a vital and quickening Foundation, that it may not only stand against impetuous windes, but be a growing Temple, and in-

The Church hath such potent, subtle, Col. 2, 19. and furious Enemies, that she needs thrength from the mighty God of Gen. 49, 24, Faceb, the Shepherd, the Stone of Israel; one that is stronger than that Luk, 11,21,22. infernal strong man armed; a Lion of the Tribe of Fudab, that can tear Rev. 5. 5. that Lion of Hell in pieces.

And that this was the sence of the ancient Church, I might abundantly prove; let it suffice to recite but two or three testimonies.

Obj. Some have replyed, That though Peter be not the main, principal and effential Foundation of the Church, yet he may be admitted as a Secondary, a Vicarian, a Ministerial Foundation, without detriment to the Honour of Christ.

A. I. I answer, this Secondary Foundation, is an absurd distinction, Viruv. l. I. C. 2. & 5. & 1. 3. C. 3.

and contrary to the very Nature of a Foundation. Whatever is laid upon the Foundation, is a Superstructure or part of the Building. Vitruvius, the grand Master of Roman Architecture, taught his Romanists no such fond language, when he mentions Foundations in three feveral places; nor Barbarus upon him, nor Palladius. Let's pass then from Artificial to the Metaphorical or Spiritual Buildings, for whose support Scripture fupplies us with no fuch Additions, or Coagmentations with the main Foundation. If any should urge out of Paul, that the Ephelians were built upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets; it must be understood of a Doctrinal foundation, not an Essential: for Christ himself is expressely there termed the Corner-stone, the aldos areogoviais, the grand Massie stone, that fills up the whole area, and reaches to all four Corners, on whom folely all the Building, mion, the whole Building is fitly framed together. The Apostles indeed did lay this foundation and no other, and the Ephelian Saints were built upon this foundation of the Apostles, i.e. which the Apostles did lay, and so 'tis call'd their foundatión, architectonice, or by a Metonymie. They preaching the Doctrine · of Faith in Christ, did lay down for the sole Rock this great and fundamental point (though rejected of the Jewish Builders) that there is no other Name given under Heaven among men, whereby we must be

2. Again, This their fecondary Foundation, (which we fay is Doctrinal onely) must be co-extended to all the Apostles and Prophets, by the Plumb-line of the same Text; and therefore their laying of Peter for the onely foundation, though but Secondary, will fink as in the Moorish ground by Tyber, and will prove no single foundation at all; for all the other Apostles are joynt-heirs of the same preheminence. Holy Paul, (speaking of such a Doctrinal foundation,) sayes, that he preach'd the Gospel where Christ was not named, lest he should build on another mans

Taved.

3. Hence it appears, that the preaching of the Gospel of Christ, is all the Foundation that the Apostle pretends to, viz. to a Doctrinal laying of Christ, as the true foundation of his Church. Paul was but a workman, a Labourer dexterously handling his Evangelical Instruments, and Peter was no other: Nay, Paul testifies, that he laboured abundantly, more than they all, in laying this foundation, and building upon it: for so (sayes he) we preach'd, and so ye believed. No other Foundation can any man lay; he speaks it snows & doniphintes, both expressely and exclusively, and to resulver, preser quod jactum vel positium est. No other besides it. 4. Again, If Peter had been any fuch Secondary Foundation, furely Paul, who received the Gospel by the Revelation of Fesm Christ, would, nay,

Act. 4.10,11.

If Peter then be not the Essential and Personal Foundation of the Church, (which were Blasphemy to affert;) if the Secondary Foundation be a Nullity, Then down falls all the pretended Successors of Peter, whether at Casarea in Palestine, or Antioch in Syria, or any of the Cities of Pontus and leffer Afia; much more their wooden Seat at Rome (as Baronius shapes it) A. 45. n. 11. as the furthest, so the weakest pretenders to succeed the Apostle of the Circumcision. ædifie the Church of God. Being rooted and built up in him, and stablished in the Faith. To this, the Apostle Peter brings in his clear evidence, To whom, as the Foundation laid of God, ye coming as living stones, are built up a spiritual House. Parallel to this of a Foundation, is that other Metaphor of a Head, taken from the Natural Body; In which respect Christ is every where declared to be this glorious Head of the Church. He is the head of the Church, and Saviour of the Body. As the Head is ftrictly conjoyned to the living Body; fo between Christ and the Church there is a Sacred and intimate Union. As the Head by the feveral con-Col. i. 18, 24. jugations of the Nerves, propagated from the Brain and spinal Marrow, derives those curious volatile and vital influences, for the actuating of the feveral fenses, and for the Rule and Government of the whole Body in all its motions: So doth Christ vivifie and quicken the spiritual senses. instruct, guide and govern every member of his spiritual Body the Church. To confirm this a little, and pass to the third branch of the Text.

1. God the Father gave, Christ to be head over all to the Church, and exalted Him far above all Principalities, and hath put all things under His feet. God laid Him in Zien for a Foundation, and no other: The Church is the City of God, and he hath establish'd it for ever. It's built upon his Foundation in the holy Mountains, and the Highest himself will establish her. The head-stone of the corner fixt in Zion is of the Lords doing. And as the Foundation, so the whole Ædifice of the Church is oinosoun Des, the building of God. 2. Christ in the Text builds his Church upon no other than himself. да тийти, on this Rock will I build my Church; and Christ being the Son of God, is more Honourable than Moses, because he builds this House

3. The Spirit of God fits no other for a Habitation of God, but This Church built upon This Foundation; he increases no other with divine and heavenly growth but This.

4. Such a Foundation must be laid, against which the gates of Hell' shall never prevail; but Christ onely is such a Foundation. Because he lives, the Church lives also. No meer man can perform this function. Peter falls not finally, because Christ prayes prevalently; Paul stands stoutly against the buffets of Satan in the Sufficiency of Christs Grace and Power. And all the Saints are victorious and triumphant, and more than conquerours through him who loveth them, and fing that driving, in his Name, and wave the Imperial Standard, the flag of Triumph, like that of Constantine, Sub hoc vinces; in the Sacred words of Paul, Thanks be to God, who giveth us the Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Since then God the Father hath laid no other Foundation, and Christ builds upon no other, and the Spirit Influences and quickens no other; fince no other can support and defend the Church: Let's pronounce them bleffed whom God hath joyned, and let none dare to impose or conjoyn another, at their Eternal peril. 'Tis an Idol-foundation of their foolish brains; our glorious Lord will not give his Honour to another.

(3.) We are now in view of the Third and last Branch of the Text: The Duration of the Church of Christ, in some state of Visibility throughout all Ages; fortified by the Promife of Christ, that the Gates of Hell shall be successeles in their Attempts against it.

The Church as it is built on Christ, as far as it coheres and sticks close to this Foundation, by that virtue communicated to it from the intimate connexion with, and union to Christ, can never be disfolved and perish. Neither can external adverse Power demolish it, or secret Subtlety undermine it, so as to render it altogether invisible; and therefore it must and shall so persist, throughout all Ages.

We have here three parts considerable,

I. The Churches Opposites; Mulau "As's The Gates of Hell, or of Death and Hell. I shall not dwell upon the Niceties of these terms: Let it fuffice, that they fignifie the infernal Powers of Darkness, and all that are animated or inspired by them with subtle counsels, and irritated into cruel Machinations, and warlike Agitations against the Church. Not onely open Persecutors, but cunning Hereticks do build the Gates of Hell, and discharge their Artillery against the City of God. As Origen Origin in Matth. spake of Marcion, Basilides, and Valentinus, those ancient Hereticks, 1668, p. 277. "As's mixtur winosbunous, that they built several Gates in the City of Babylon; fo may we say of Nero, Trajan, and Dioclesian, the ancient Perfecutors, they mounted their battering Rammes, and managed the ballifte fulminales, they shot their enraged Arrowes against the Church of God, and their followers have been no less sedulous, though as unfucceffefull to this very day.

2. The orandia Molimina; their great Undertakings They shall put forth all their strength and policy; whatever the Lion and Serpent canentwine together; what a cunning Julian could contrive, or a fierce Maximinus execute against the Church; whatever the wit, malice and power of Earth and Hell, could with most inflamed rage either enterprize or atchieve, but he been carrived on to the utmost, but all in vain. They imagine a vain thing against the Lord and his Anointed. The Psal. 2. 1, 2. Church like her glorious Head shall never see corruption, though all the puissance of the adverse City, march into the Field against her. The Egyptian City of Destruction (to allude to that in Esay) shall attempt, Isa. 19. 18. but all shall prove ineffectual, for the Name of this City is Jehovah- Ezek. 48.35. Shammah, the Lord is there. The Church hath been affaulted vi & arte, by open force and secret fraud; but no Weapon formed again & Isa. 54. 17.

3. The Churches Duration; the must and shall continue till all the Enemies Arrowes are spent, their courage daunted, and their City ruined and laid in ashes. For the Lord will miserably destroy those wic- Mat. 21, 41, 42. ked men, and our bleffed Saviour proves it out of the 118th Pfalm. Pfal. 118, 22-Zion shall finally prosper.

Fon

Zech. 12. 3. 3.9.

For the Stone which the Builders refused, is become the head of the corner. Whosoever falls upon this stone shall be broken, and on whomsoever it falls, it shall grinde him to powder. This is that burdensome stone in Zechary. This is the Stone with Seven Eyes engraven upon it: The Stone cut out of the Mountain, that shall fill the whole Earth. Dan. 2. 34,35.

For the handling this Third part of the Position, the Churches Duration in all Ages, it's necessary to know this Church by those Notes and TEXUMERA that have appeared as notable Characters of the true Church in all Ages, against which the Gates of Hell have set their principal Batteries, and thereby to evidence and prove its continual Duration and Visibility.

Since then, the Church is built upon Christ, the Rock of Ages: fince Christ is the onely Head and Bridegroom of the Church, he the onely chief Shepherd, and fince that which makes the intimate Union between Christ and the Church, is Faith wrought in the Hearts of all the true members by the Spirit of Christ: This may be one Note:

I. That wherever this Doctrine of Justification by Faith in Christ Note I. has been maintain'd and sincerely defended, there buth been visibly the True Church of Christ. And it might be amply evinced, that this Heavenly Doctrine hath been conferved in all Ages, against all the furious Assaults of its Enemies.

2. Since Fesus Christ, the onely Head of the Church, is her glorious Note 2. Lord, the Son of the Living God, he ought to be worshipt by her. He is thy Lord, and worship thou him; and this Worship must be perform-Pfal. 45. 11.

ed in Spirit and Truthes But here, because all the three persons in the Divine Essence, are one God, I shall consider this Worship, as terminated Objectively in God Essential; and since that this most Holy and Glorious God, abhorres Idolatry, and worshipping of him by Idols, Images, Pictures, or any other Symbol to represent him, or by which, (as helps to Devotion) to accend and inflame the Heart in Worship; this may be fet down as another Note of the true Church, which keeps the Commandments of God in point of Worship mentioned before, v. o. And indeed, in respect to worshipping of God by Images, consists the very Essence and Formality of the Second-Commandment. The First being de Objecto cultus; That God is the true and onely Object of Religious Worship, the Second is, de modo es medis cultus: That God who is exceeding Jealous of his own Glory, detells and abhorres to be worship'd by the Intervention of Idols, and to present any Adoration before them, though men may excuse it, and profess that God is the ultimate term of their Worship. But these things I must leave to be more amply infifted upon by fuch whose peculiar Province it is to handle them more distinctly: But fo far tis necessary here to use and improve them as critical marks and never of the true Church; the one in point of Doctrine the other in point of Worship, The true Church of Christ hath in all times according to the holy Scriptures, born a Testimony to these two gran

I. For the Point of Justification by Faith.

This particular is best worded in Scripture Language, to which all must adhere. Though mens sentiments may vary in the Explication, yet I think it most fit to lay it down in the words of holy Paul, indited by the Spirit of God.

That a man is justified by Faith, without the Works of the Law: Rom. 3.28. They have no Ingrediency into our Justification before God. If they had, it were not by Grace, and if by Grace, then it is no more of Works; and Rom. 11.6. this Work of free Grace proceeds on to Salvation it felf. For by Grace Eph. 2. 8,9. are ye saved through Faith, and that not of your selves, it is the Gift of God. Not of Works, lest any man should boast. Not by Works of Righte- Tit. 3. 5, 7. ousness which we have done, &c. Being justified by his Grace. That which the Apostle had set down privatively before, here he sets it down negatively, as in that to the Galatians. A man is not justified by the Gal. 2. 15. Works of the Law, but by the Faith of Jesus Christ, &c. Now whereas their Cardinal and others, would have Paul to exclude the Works of l. i.c. 25. the Ceremonial Law, not the Works of the Moral Law, or the Gospel; that cannot stand; for then we should still be justified by Works: But the Apostle puts Works and Faith in a Diametrical Opposition; and after that he himself was in a Regenerate Estate, desired to be found Phil. 3. 9. in Christ, not having his own Righteousness, which is of the Law, but that which is through the Faith of Christ, the Righteousness which is of God by Faith; and that though he were conscious of nothing by himfelf, yet herein he was not justified. Yea that Works done with Faith, r Cor. 4.4. Ex Ratione Operum, upon the account of Works, do not justifie, as the River Controve. Apostle amplifies it in the case of Abraham; no nor Faith it self as a Trast. 4. 9. 10. They are necessary to Salvation, though they have not a formal Ingrediency into our Justification. The holy Apostle professes, that Gal. 2. 20. by this Faith in the Son of God he did live, and in this Faith he would dye: desiring to be found in no other at the appearing of Christ. This was Phil. 2.9, &c. the ancient Faith of the Primitive Apostolical Church of Christ, and the good Old Way of the ancient Roman. On this Rock Christ hath built his Church, sc. on himself by Faith. This is Articulus stantis atque cadentis Ecclesia, The grand Article, which being maintained, the Church flourishes; being rejected, she perishes.

I might here, out of every Age of the Church fince our Lord, produce clear Evidences for this Doctrine of Paul, dictated by the Spirit of God.: I-might shew its preservation by the ancient Fathers, and how attested by some of the Councels; by whom it may appear in what Countries this Apostolical Doctrine was taught and embraced. By Hillary in France, Ambrose in Lombardy, Chrysostom in Syria and Thrace, Ferom in Palestine, Austin in Africa, Basil in lesser Asia, and many more. But not to fwell the Discourse too largely, I shall onely exhibit two or three Testimonies in distant Ages, of Clement, Ambrose or his Contemporary, and Bernard; after whom this Truth glittered forth in the Confessions of the Waldenses, in the Doctrine of Wickliffe, and shined forth most gloriously more and more till the great Reformation appeared.

Let's begin with Clement, who was ovyxesvos, &c. contemporary Epiphanii panar. with Peter and Paul, (as Epiphanius accounts in his Discourse of the Herefie of the Carpocrasians). He in his first Epistle to the Corinihians. speaks disertly to this point, [& d' éauth smakueda est sia t inverteas Clemed Corinth coolay, in our sews. in sure Beius. in segur, wir rutelegaraus du con contant rue dias, and δια τ πίσεως δι' ης παντας τες από αιώνος ο παντοκρατωρ θεος εδικαίωσεν. Ε έςω οδξα eis τès ἀιώνας τ ἀιώνων. Αμήν.] We are not justified by our selves, nor by our Wisdom, Understanding, Piety, or Works which we have wrought in Holiness of Heart; but by Faith, by which God Omnipotent hath justified all from the beginning (of the World;) unto whom be Glory for ever and ever. Amen.

Let Ambrose succeed, who flourish'd at Millane, or whoever was Author of those Commentaries, he was coæval to Damasu, and was much of the same Age with Ambrose; Bellarmin judges him to be, Hilar. Diac. de Script. Eccl. p. 98. And he declares this expressely on that Text, Being justified freely by his Grace: Quia nihil Operantes, nec vicem reddentes, sola fide justificati sunt, dono Dei. They are said to be freely justified, because working nothing, nor rendring any Duty or Service, are justified by Faith alone; it is the gift of God: And this by Faith alone, he four times repeats in his Exposition upon the fourth Chapter. Nay Gratian in the third part of the Decretum cites him thus. Gratia de Consecr. c.95. Dei in Baptismate non requirit gemitum, non planstum vel opus aliquod, Edit. Rome, col. sed solam fidem, & omnia gratis condonat. The Grace of God in Bapwe fee Ambrose tism requires not Mourning or Lamentation, or any work but Faith alone, and he freely forgives all. Where the new Gloss indeed fet forthby Greg. 13. fayes, that Gratian took this citation out of the Ordinary Gloss, not out of Ambrose himself, whose words on the 11th to the Romans are, Nisi solam ex corde professionem, Except a Profession onely from the Heart. Which is true; but it feems hereby, that both Strabus the Author of the Gloss, and Gratian, took the mind of Ambrose more clearly than these new Glossators. For before, Ambrose speaks of the Jews, their returning to Faith, and after uses these words, Hoc decrevit ut solam fidem poneret per quam omnia peccata abolerentur. God decreed this, that he might appoint Faith alone, through which all sins might be abolished. So that now we have Ambrose and Strabus, and their own Gratian, all agreeing in this Doctrine of Faith alone. Here, though these Commentaries by some are not judg'd to be genuine to Ambrose. yet since they are cited by Strabus, and the Synod of Paris, A. 825. pag. 655. and Gratian, and urg'd by Romanists in their own Cause, they ought not to reject them. However we may put Hillary in his room, in Can. 8. in Matth. expressely. Fides sola justificat, That Faith alone justifies, Ed. Basil. 1523.

The next shall be the Testimony of Bernard, of France, who dyed in Bern. in Carthe year 1153. who expresses himself thus: Tam validus ad justifican-tic. Sect. 22. dum, quam multus ad ignoscendum. Quamobrem quisquis pro peccatis f. 130. b. compunctus esurit & sitit justitiam, credat in te qui justificas impium, & folam justificatus per fidein pacem habebit ad Deum. "under compunction for his Sins, hungers and thirsts after Righteous-" nefs, let him believe in thee who justifiest the ungodly, and being justi-"fied by Faith alone, he shall have peace with God. And then he proceeds to exhort to Holiness by eying and following of Christ. And otherwhere, Credens sola fide hominem posse salvari, cum desiderio per- Epist. 77. f. cipiendi Sacramentum, &c. I shall not expend more time with further Allegations of the Ancients, or any particular discussion of these, or of that famous Canon of the An. 412. Justel-Council of Carthage, or that other of Orange, c. s. & 6. under Leo 1. li Cod. Can. neither shall I recite the Testimony of learned † Bradwardine, or the Eccl. And again: That Faith alone justifieth, by this speech we never meant to exclude either Hope or Charity from being alwayes joyn'd, as inseparable Mates with Faith in the Manthat is justified; or Works from being added as necessary Dutyes required at the hands of every justified man; but to shew that Faith is the onely hand which putteth on Christ to Justification. Which agrees with that known faying: Fides fola justificat, fed non folitaria, Faith stands alone in the Work of Justification, but is alwayes attended with the fanctifying Fruits and Effects of the Spirit of God. And thus Austin reconciles Paul and James. August. lib. de diversis quastionibus.

Now to conclude: What fayes the Convention at Trent (as Henry Trid.1.4.p.369. 2d of France term'd it) to this Scriptural and Apostolical Doctrine of the Reformed Churches. Truely, they proceed no higher, than to curfe fuch as fay, men are Formally justified by the Righteousness of Christ. i. e. Effentially, purely, and exclusively; which they explain in the very next Canon, and curse them again, who shall say, that men are justified by the sole imputation of Christs Righteousness, &c. And they curse them again Can. 12. that shall say, that justifying Faith is nothing else, than a trufting of the Divine Mercy, forgiving fins for Christs fake, etc. Nay, they tell us, "It becomes the Divine Clemency not to forgive "us our fins, without any Satisfaction; i.e. of Ours. To which they annex a curfing Canon against such as affirm, "That the whole Penalty is alwayes remitted of God together with the Sin, and that there is no "other Satisfaction of Penitents (required) than Faith, by which they apprehend Christ to have satisfied for them. By these and the foresaid Testimonies, all may see what is the Doctrine of Holy Scripture, of the Primitive times, and the succeeding Ages of the Church, (which might be abundantly amplified in Testimonies,) and what is the Doctrine of the Reformed Churches, and of ours in particular, and what is the Doftrine of the Romanifes; how opposite, how contradictory. But let us descend, to a second inquiry, and that is about a great point of Worship. II. ConII. Concerning the Worship of God by Images.

Let us now thew, that the Church of God, confonant to the Holy Scriptures, hath in all Ages given notable testimonies against Idolatry, and the Worship of Images, or of God by Images, as being flatly against the Second Commandment. As Faith is that Bond and Ligament which unites the true Church and every living Member thereof, to Christ their Head; so pure Worship is the Honour, and Reverence, and Obedience which the Spoule of Christ renders to her Lord and Husband, who will Ifa. 42. 8. not communicate his Glory to graven Images. Idolatry is compared to Whoredom in Scripture, that dissolves the knot of Marriage. God sent 18a. 50. 1. a Bill of Divorce for this cause to the ancient external Church of the Jer. 3. 8. Fews, and expressely upon this account denounces against her, that she Hos. 2.2. was not his Wife; and will God (think you) spare any particular Gentile Church, guilty of fo fearfull a Crime; having annexed that high Argument of his Jealousie, against such as violate the Second Commandment. and reputing them as haters of him, and whom he will judicially visit with great detestation?

For the Exhibition of this point, how the true Church of God hath in all Ages held close to the Institutions of chaste and holy Worship, in Spirit and Truth: I might transcribe testimonies out of all the Ancients. that were the Luminaries and Columns of the Primitive Church, down along till Gregory the Great, and after his time also many notable and pregnant instances through the very depth of Popery, both of Emperours and Church-men, that did stoutly resist that growing Abomination in the world. I shall, (to avoid prolixity) mention some of the Councils.

that have determined against this point, and draw to an Issue.

That of Elvira neer Granada in Spain, celebrated An. 305. (as Ba-Concil. Eliberironius thinks) is peremptory in the case, and I shall desire to cite it out num, Can. 36. of Agobardus, because of that his ancient testimony about the year 830. & 41. to the truth of this Canon, which runs thus: Ab orthodoxis patribus Baron. "the Walls, which is to be worshipt and adored. It were vain to spend time, to shew how Albaspinaus and others, shift and shuffle about this Canon. Let that good old Bishop of Lyons, Agobardus, living so many hundred years nearer the time, give his sence upon it: "Let's keep P. 251, 252, "the Kings High-way; the Apoilles, the Masters (or Teachers) of the "Church, they have taught it, &c. Let God be adored, worshipt, reve-"renced; let us facrifice to him alone, either in the Sacrament of the "Body and Blood, or of a contrite Heart, &c. Let's look upon a Picture "as a Picture, without Life, Sense and Reason. So likewise, if we see "winged Angels painted, or the Apostles preaching, or the Martyrs " fuffering torments, we can hope for no help, &c. Wherefore, to avoid "this Superstition, the Orthodox Fathers, did rightly determine, &c.] Иппп 2

"(i.e. by the Images) for God cries out, I will not give my glory to "another, nor my praise to graven Images, &c. Nay further, so strict were the good Fathers of that Synod aforefaid, that they would not fuffer any Idols in their Houses. To conclude, the Authenticalness of this Synod must not be question'd, since several of its Decrees are recited by As Trithemius Gratian, whose whole work is confirmed by Engenius the 3d, and by others fucceeding, canoniz'd for Church-Law, and the Government of Ecclefiaffical Courts.

But let their confirmation be how it will, it is a notable testimony 13. in his Ro- against them, even in that Age; and however Sixtus Senensis and Albaspinaus would evade, as if it were decreed against the Heathens Images and Pictures, as in the 11th Canon of the 12th Council of Toledo, that's but a weak shift: for, was it ever known, that the Christians brought the Pictures or Statues of the Heathen Gods into their Churches? No. no; the Fear was of a New kind of Imagery, and of Worshipping of God, and our Lord, and Saints, and Angels, by Representations and Pictures; which at length obtained dreadfully, to the high dishonour of God, contempt of his Commandements, the ruine of the Eastern Empire, and fearfull Judgements on the Western.

haften to fome Inferences or Conclusions flowing from this Text and Point, of Christ being the onely Foundation of his Church, enduring throughout all Ages, united to him by their most holy Faith, and adhering to him by holy and pure Wor hip.

I. From what has been hitherto treated of, we may learn which is the true Church of Christ, and where it hath subsisted and been preserved in all Ages, and how to differn and know it, and the true Members thereto belonging, viz. By its being built upon Christ alone, the firm Rock and Basis of its Constitution. Such are to be owned for Living Members, who acknowledge Christ, the Son of the Living God, to be the true and onely Head of the Church; fuch as are built upon Christ, and the Eph. 2, 23 Doctrine of the holy Apostles and Prophets; Such as adhere to the Scriptures, and receive and refuse things as they are proved or rejected by Scripture: to whom both Peter, and Paul, and James, and all the Apostles writings are equally precious: that dare not advance Humane Traditions, into a parity of Honour with the Divine Writings of Scripture, dictated by the Spirit of God; which teaches by what Notes and Characters to discern the true Church of God: (Not like those abominable Wretches, who finding Paul so directly level'd against them, Sir Edw. Sands thought of censuring his Epistle as savouring of Heresie, and the Author Survey of the for a hot-headed person:) That tremble at such Devices, and dare not Religion in the West, p. 116. try the Church by glorious and pompous Visibility, Universality, and Edit. Lond. continual fuccession of Bishops in one place; looking upon them as false 1637. and counterfeit Notes: But by pure Scripture Doctrine, by Sacraments rightly administred, by Adherence to Christ alone for Righteousness and Inflification in the fight of God, by Spiritual and Scriptural Worship, and fuch like. We deny not, but firmly hold, that the true Church of Christ hath been alwayes in some measure Visible. Visibilis, licet non omnibus visa. Capable of being seen and known by such whose Eyes are anounted by Scripture Eye-salve. Indeed if that were true which we find in the Roman Catechisme set forth by the Authority of Trent, con- Catechisms. cerning that Article in the Creed about the Church: Præcipuè in boc Rom. p. 79. articulo, Ecclesia bonorum simul & malorum multitudinem, &c. significat. That the Church in this Article doth principally fignifie the multitude both of good and evil: Then indeed there might be some tolerable Plea for the Splendor and Perspicuity of the Church in most Ages. But when we confider the sharp Perfecutions raised against the Apostles and the Primitive Church by the Jews, and against their Successors by the Gentile Pagan Empire, so fierce and terrible, that Dioclesian doubted not to erect Columns of Triumph over Christianity, among the Arevaca in Occanes Nu-Spain; which some take to be remembred in Arevacco neer Madrid, mism. 40. ad with these Inscriptions, Nomine Christianorum deleto; and in another, Heracl. when we reflect upon the Apiquaria, the Violence of the Arians against the fincere Embracers of the holy Doctrine of Peter, That Christ was the Eternal Son of the Living God, and so notably determined by the first Council of Nice: Or when we call to mind the astonishing Tragedies, afted by the Papal Power for about 1200 years, against such as have kept close to the same Apostolical Faith and Purity of Worship; We may well take up the Threnodia, or Lamentations of the Apostle. concerning the Church under the Syrian Princes: They wandred about in Sheep-skins, and Goat-skins, &c. of whom the world was not worthy:

They wandred in Defarts and Mountains, in Dens and Caves of the Hilarius contr. Earth. True is that of Hillary; That the Church did meet with the Apostles, intra canacula & secreta, in chambers and secret places: Who afterwards fighing out his complaints against the Arians; Male Ecclesiam Dei in Tettis Edificisque reveramini: You do ill to reverence the Church of God in stately Buildings, &c. Montes mihi & Sylva & Lacus sunt tutiores: I count the Mountains, Woods and Marshes to be more fafe: And as the Gloss cites him, Potius in Cavernis Ecclesiam delitescere, quam in primariis sedibus eminere. That the Church is rather to be found lying hid in fecret Caverns, than to be eminently conspicuous in principal Sees.

But not to heap up witnesses; the testimony of the Church of England, in that notable Homily against the Peril of Idolatry, may suffice once for all, out of Eusebius and Austin. "That when Christian Re-6 ligion was most pure, and indeed golden, Christians had but low and "poor Conventicles, and simple Oratories, and Caves under ground " called crypta; where they (for fear of Persecution) assembled secretly "together. And so it hath continued more or less during the Papal Dominion, according to the Prophecy, That the Woman, i.e. the Church, Rev. 12. 6, 14. should recede into a Wilderness-state for 1260 years from the taking up of Constantine into Heaven:

The true Church of Christ, consisting of all its Members, (the greater part whereof is Triumphant in Heaven, and the rest Militant upon Earth, Bp. of Cov. & on which account onely is it to be genuinely called Catholick) cannot Lieb. Grand properly be flyled Visible to the Eye of Sense, but (according to our ancient Creed) to the Eye of Faith. We believe there is such a Church, all whose true Members are certainly and onely known to God. For what Eagle-fighted Angel can fearch the Heart, and politively determine the truth of Faith in that fealed Fountain, whereby the Heart flowes out in streams of Love unto Christ? Against such a Soul, against a Society composed of such heavenly Members, against such a Church, the Gates of Hell shall never prevail. But against a catholick, external, visibly glorious Church, the Gates of Hell have so far prevailed in many Ages, that she hath been reduced into a very low and gloomy Estate; as she was in the Vision of Zechary, when the Man riding upon a red Horse, stood still among the Myrtle-trees that were in the bottome, by night.

Zech. 1. 8.

Our Lord promises the Churches Existency, and its perennial Duration, throughout all Ages, and his own presence among his Myrtle-trees, in a dark bottome, and his walking among his golden Candle-sticks in the deep Night of Adversity, but not its Glory and and Perspicuity; not Triple Crowns, and Eminencies. Peter never came forth shining with precious Stones, and glistering in Silks, and overlaid with Gold, and prancing on a white Palfry, guarded with Switzers, and hemm'd in with a crowd and Bern. de Cons. Noyse of Servants; as Bernard accosts Eugenius the 4th, telling him, In ad Eug. 1-4-these he succeeded the Imperial Constantine, and not Peter. Our Lord never promised such Glory and Splendor; those sine things become ano-Rev. 18.16. there kind of Creature in the Revelations.

The true Church hath usually been as indigent of Silver and Gold as Act. 2, 5, the true Peter; yet hath been preserved in all Ages from Extremity and Ruine. Some particular Churches, some members of the true and invisible catholick Church, whereof Christ is the Head, have been alwayes marching along the howling Wilderness of this World toward Canaan The Church hath been most while in a troublous and desert Estate, few Elims of Palm-trees to fit under, or Fountains in which to wash her sacred Eyes; yet as to Purity of Worship, and the Food of Heavenly Manna, she hath alwayes enjoy'd some Moses's, some Pastors to feed Rev. 12.6. 11.3. her in the Wilderness, such as have Prophesied to her all along. Her Faith in Christ, and chaste Love to him, hath been clearly discerned by none but his holy Eye; especially in times of general defection from the Truths of God, when as to her fecret Communion in Ordinances, none but fuch whose Eyes are clarified in the Chrystal streams of holy Scripture, have been able to discern her. But there have been some few times, when very Balaams having climbed up into the Mountain of Con-Numb. 24, 1, templation, and stood upon a Prophetical Rock, and looking toward this 5,60 Wilderness, have cried out in an Extasie, upon a sight of the glorious beauty of the Church, How goodly are thy Tents, O Jacob, and thy Tabernacles, O Israel! as Gardens by the Rivers side, as the Trees of Lign-aloes, which the Lord hath planted, as Cedar-trees besides the Waters. The Church hath been alwayes visible in se; God hath left no Age without a witness of the pure Word dispens'd, of the two Sacraments duely administred, and of Spiritual Worship and Order managed in a comely Apostolical manner, without the garish dresses of Humane Fancies, and Institutions; which are the onely proper Notes, Marks and Characters, where the true Church hath been and is, and where the faithfull Paftors are to be found, who stand in the Counsel of God. But Jer. 23. 22. who can help, if blind men cry out, they fee her not; or fuch as want the Optick glass of Scriptures, and call for a gay, splendid, sensual Appearance of glittering and costly. Ceremonies? whose Ears fill'd with Temple Musick, their Eyes ravish'd with stately Pictures and Babylo-Ezek. 23. 14. nian Images pourtrayed with Vermilion, and their Nostrils perfumed with the rich Odours of Arabia, cry out Templum Domini, The Temple of the Lord is here.

Toh. 16. 33. Act. 14. 22.

Was not Nebuchadnezzars Image dedicated with great glory, fet off with Conforts of Mulick, and attended with numerous Worlhippers? Alas, this universal consent, grand Acclamations, copious Assemblies, uninterrupted Successions in mitred Habits, Splendour, and Pomp, and Grandeur, are not the tokens of his Kingdom which cometh not with Observation, or as Agrippa and Bernice, usra nonnins parraoias, with stately and splendid Presence. Heathenisme and Turcisme may plead for a Suffrage in fuch cases. Christs Flock is a little Flock; In this World ye shall have tribulation, sayes our Lord; and in many tribulations we must enter into the Kingdom of God.

Now here I might, out of feveral ancient Records and Monuments, shew the Succession of some parts of the true Church of Christ in France, in the Alpine Valleys, and in Britain, and elsewhere in the East; where true Doctrine, (and for the main, true Discipline and Worship) hath been preserved all along, though secretly for the most part, and not with External Glory and Splendor: But that would infringe upon the dispatch of the remaining Corollaries.

2 Corollary. II. This Text, and Doctrine thence deduced, discovers all false pretending Churches, from the true: fuch as lay any other Foundation than Christ the Son of God; such as hold not the Head; such as build not upon the Doctrinal Foundation of the holy Apostles and Prophets, cannot be true Churches of Christ. Let good Hilary be Judge: Quisquis Auxent. p.282. Christum, qualis ab Apostolis est pradicatus, negavit, Antichristus est. He is the Antichrist whoever denies Christ, qualis such as he is preached by the Apostles. Then such as are departed from the Doctrine of the Apostles in Fundamental Points, are counted by Hilary, Antichristian Societies. To him we may adjoyn holy Austin: Mendax est Antichristus, qui ore profitetur Jesum effe Christum, & factis negat. Opera loquuntur, & verbarequirimus? Ideo mendax quia aliud loquitur, aliud agit. Quis enim malus non benè vult loqui? Antichrist is a Lyar, who professes Jesus to be the Christ with his mouth, and denies him in deeds. therefore a Lyar, because he speaks one thing and does another. The Works speak, and do we require Words? For what evil man will not speak well. And again: Quare ab Arianis, Eunomianis, Macedonianis, confitentur Jesum Christum in carne venisse, &c. Quid ergo facimus? unde discernimus, &c? Nec nos negamus, nec illi negant, &c. invenimus factis negare: Ask of Arians, Eunomians, Macedonians; they confess Jesus Christ to be come in the flesh, &c. what shall we do then? how shall we discern him? neither we nor they deny it; we finde that they deny him in deeds: As the Apostle saith of such, They profess to know God, but in works they deny him. Quaramus in factis, non in lin. guis. Let's feek it in their works, and not in their tongues. If we examine their Creeds, they profess to believe all the Articles, and more too; but yet in all his three Offices they evacuate the truth of their pretended Credence, as the | learned have abundantly evinced: Which being

For by their traditions they have made the commandments of God of Mat. 15, 6. none effect. So true is that which Ambrose, or some Ancient under his Ambros. in name, thunders against such; Quicquid non ab Apostolis traditum est, 1 Cor. 4. col. sceleribus plenum est: Whatever is not delivered by the Apostles, is full of wickednesses. But before we enter the particulars of this Enquiry, we must conclude, that the question in hand ought not to be determined by particular Doctors of this or that Communion. It is not what an Erafmus, or a Cassander, or an Espencaus, or Ferus, do teach; nor what a Bellarmine, a Stapleton, a Scioppius, a Pighius, nor what the Spanish Divines in some cases at Trent, or the French Divines in point of Supremacy, and defence of the Pragmatical Santtion; nor wherein the Thomists and Scotists, the Dominicans and Jesuites, do conflict: That were an incongruous method, either to discern their minds by, or to accommodate any Syncretismes, or fallacious Unims: These are but personal Opinions, they'l stand to none of their Doctors. But what Councils and Authorized Assemblies, what Confessions and Catechismes, composed by their direction and warranty, have determined; there lyes the Rule of Enquiry, and therefore I shall here touch upon no Authorities or Citations, but such as are found in the Canon-Law, the Council and Catechism of Trent, their Missals, Bulls, and Determinations from the Chair. As for others, but obiter & per transennam, as collateral proofs, or confirm'd by Papal Edicts; or fuch Authors as have pass'd the tryal of their Purging Indexes, fet out by their own Authority. Let's then proceed to fome Enquiries in this Affair.

(1.) Is that a true Church of Christ that determines Fundamental Doctrines contrary to Christ and his Apostles, that builds upon another Foundation than Christ? That they have assumed Peter for the onely Head of the Militant Church, might be abundantly proved: Infomuch, that if Princes and Emperours doe but perform their duty as keepers of both Tables, how greatly are they offended? As when Charles 5. took to himself some Spiritual Jurisdiction, how does Baronius exclaim, Baron, ad Ann. as if he set up another Head of the Church, pro monstro & ostento, as a 1097. n. 28. portentuous Monster; which might with much more truth be retorted upon themselves in respect to our Lord, whom they rob of his Glory when they ascribe it to Peter. Let but Peter be imprisoned by Agrippa, how does the same Baronius cry out, Magno sand terramotu Ecclesia Ann. 44. n.3. Christi tunc concuti visa est, cum ipsa Petra in Ecclesia fundamento locata, tanta agitatione quassari conspiceretur: The Church of Christ truely then feem'd to be shaken with a great Earth-quake, when the very Rock placed in the Foundation of the Church, was feen to be fo forely shaken. It seems Peter was the Rock placed by Christ for the Foundation of the Church; But let's look a little further. Clemens in his first Epistle to James the Brother of our Lord, written to him after the Apostle was dead, (as the learned Crakanthorp hath proved,) which is Connects p. 422. fet forth at Basil, and by Turrian and others, and is extant in the first Tome of the Councils, and ratified by the Canon Law, which speaks thus: Simon Petrus, &c. vera Fidei merito, & integra Pradicationis obtentu, fundamentum esse Ecc esia definitus est: Simon Peter by the q. i.c.s. & cauf. merit of his true Faith, and having obtained it by his fincere preaching, is defined to be the Foundation of the Church. The Divinity transcends the Latin in Barbarisme; But it seems by the Forger, that it was our Lords doing, consonant to after Popes afferting the same, "That he com-"mitted to Peter, the bleffed Key-keeper of Eternal Life, the Laws "both of the Earthly and Heavenly Empire. And again, treating of 110. Edit. Rom. Peter: Hunc in consortium individua unitatis assumptum, id quod iple erat voluit nominari, dicendo, Tu es Petrus, &c. ut aterni adificatio Templi, mirabili munere gratia Dei in Petri soliditate consisteret: This perfon being taken into fellowship of individual Unity, (O fearful!) he would have him called that which he was, faying, Thou art Peter, &c. that the building of the Eternal Temple might consist in the solidity of Peter, by the wonderfull gift of the Grace of God. This needs no Gloss. But the learned Glossators upon the common Extravagants, after they have expounded Cephas to signifie a Head, they proceed: Si. cut in corpore materiali est ponere caput unum, in quo sunt omnes sensus sen plenitudo sentiendi: Sic in Ecclesia militante (ne sit tanquam corpus monstruosum, si duo baberet capita) est tantum ponere unum caput, viz. Rom. Pontificem, in quo est plenitudo potestatis, & auctoritatis, &c. As in a material Body there is but one Head placed, in which are all the Senses, or a fulness of Sensation; so in the Church militant, (lest it should be like a monstrous Body, if it have two heads) there is but one Head placed, viz. the Roman Bishop; in whom is the Fulness of Power and Authority. And Boniface 8th, in Extrav. Comm. l. I. c. I. de Majorit. Igitur Ecclesia unius & unica, unum corpus, unum caput, non duo capita, quafi monstrum, Christus, viz. & Christi Vicarius, Petrus, Petrique Successor, &c. Therefore, of the one onely Church, one Body, one Head, not two Heads, like a Monster, so. Christ and Peter, Christ's Vicar and Peters. Succeffors. By these Doctrines we are now clearly illuminated, that as to the influence and Government of the militant Church, Christ hath excluded himself from Headship, lest the Body should be monstrous, with two Heads. Such fearfull and tremendous points are taught South of the Mountains. But the truth is, they speak of themselves, and seek their own Glory; and not Christs, whose Commandments they have annulled and evacuated by their many Additions to and Substractions from his. They would seem indeed to retain all, onely adde some; but whosoever addes as well as detracts, is lyable to the Curfe of God; for hereby they stain the Glory of the Divine Law, as insuffic insufficient and imperfect, and more especially when they adde Fundamental Points upon peril of Damnation; when they frame new Articles of Faith, as Pope Pius the 4th hath done. Articles are Principles, and therefore indemonstrable, except by Scripture: Now when new ones are added, de fide, extraneous to the holy Scriptures, nay repugnant in fuch mighty and weighty matters, can any man alive, that is not deep in the golden Cup; fedately believe the true Church of Christ to be there; When, I. They require firm Faith in the Traditions, Observations, and Constitutions of the Church of Rome: And, 2. Tye all Churches to their formal relients fence of the Scriptures: And, 3. To hold Seven Sacraments to be in-professions stituted by Christ: And, 4. The Trent Doctrine about Justification: 5. The Propitiatory Sacrifice in the Mass: 6. Transubstantiation: 7. Purgatory: 8. Invocation of Saints: 9. Adoration of Images: 10. Indulgences: 11. The Roman Church to be Mistress of all Churches, and the Bishop thereof Christs Vicar: 12. And all things in the Canons and Councils, but especially of Trent; and in the conclusion, Hanc veram catholicam fider, extra quam nemo salvus esse potest, &c. profiteor & veraciter teneo, &c. You must profess and truely hold this to be the true catholick Faith, without which none can be faved.

But for the eafing of mens Minds in these and the like particulars, they cry up the Immensity of their Power, and Priviledge, to dispense with Scripture and Apostolical Doctrine. Indeed there's great need that should be well proved; and the Canon-Law has done the deed. For in the first place, It is pronounced ex Cathedra, from the very Chair of Peter; Subesse Romano Pontifici omnem humanam creaturam, declara- Extrav. Sentence: "We declare, affirm, determine, and pronounce, that it is ed fib furnment "altogether necessary to Salvation, that every humane creature be fub- Pontifice. 16. "ject to the Pope of Rome. Is not this Doctrine wonderfull clear in Holy Scriptures, and obvious in every Page? But lest we should mistake the places, we shall be help'd out with some dispensations as to Scripture.

I might shew it in the case of Oaths and Vows, and feveral others, as, If a Priest commit Fornication, though by the Canons of the Apostles he ought to be deposed, yet by the Authority of Sylvester, let him doe Penance for ten years, &c. But enough of

> Let's proceed to shew their Power in the point of Subtractions, in fome particulars.

First, As to the Holy Scriptures, let's observe several points.

I. They substitute the Vulgar Latin Translation to be the Authentick Word of God, instead of the Original Hebrew and Greek: Of which an Author of their own attests, That the Roman Church permits not the Scriptures but in Lattin. But we need no further witness than the Sanction of Trent, which appoints and declares, That the Old Vulgar Edition, &c. should be used for the Authentical, in publick Lectures, Disputes. Preachings, and Expositions, and that none dare or presume to reject it upon any pretenfe.

2. The Common People are not to read them. Indeed Pius 4th, in the fourth Rule for the managing of the purging Indexes of Books prohibited according to the appointment of Trent, grants to read them, if translated by catho ick Authors, and leave had from the Priest or Confessor, else not. Since as they say, Si passim sine discrimine permittantur, plus inde ob hominum temeritatem detrimenti quam utilitatis oriri. If they be commonly permitted without distinction, more detriment rifes than profit, through the rashness of men. But in Clement the 8th, Obs. in Reg. 4. his observation ion that fourth Rule, this facu'ty or license of read-Rhorun. 1640. ing or retaining vulgar Bibles, is wholly taken away, and concludes, ad calcem Con- Quod quidem inviolate servandum est, Which is to be kept invio-

3. They must be received and understood according to the sence of the Roman Church: Cujus est judicare de vero sensu & interpretatione Scripturarum sanctarum; In whose Authority it is, to judge of the sence and interpretation of the Holy Scriptures. It's faid of Avecroes, that he anounted Avicens Books with Poylon, in design upon him; and what cause we have to fear the like from their Commentaries, let the Learned judge. But besides, since the Lateran Decree of the Popes Superiority to a Council, we are in the dark what their Church is; but Paul the Platinin Paul Second expounded it to poor Platina, as himself relates. Torvis oculis me aspiciens, &c. ac si nescires omnia jura in Scrinio pettoris nostri co!lecata esse, sie stat sententia; loco cedant omnes, eant quo volunt, nihil eos

Thirdly, Though our bleffed Lord and his Apostles, commend Marriage as the Institution of God, and honourable among all, and the forbidding of it repulsed, as the Doctrine of Devils; yet there's sounder Advice it seems to be found in the Canon-Law: "Priests Marriage is "not forbid by the Authority of Law or Gospel, or of the Aporles, Ec-"clesiastica tamen lege penitus interdicitur, yet by Ecclesiatical Law it "is utterly forbidden. And they may commit Fornication, and not be deposed, and their gloss gives this satisfying Reason, Quia hodie fragi-Caul. 31.9.1.c. liora sunt corpora nostra quam olim crant; Because our Bodies are now adayes more frail than they were of old: And though, to take a fecond Wife, Secundum praceptum Apostoli est, That's but according to the Præcept of the Apostle, Secundum veritatis autem rationem vere Fornicatio est; Yet according to the account of Truth, verily it is Fornication: Sed dum permittente Deo publice et licenter committuur, fit honesta Fornicatio; But when it is publickly + committed, and with license, by the permission of God, it becomes honest fornication. And for Adultery it's counted among the iesser crimes. De adulteriis verò et aliis criminibus, qua sunt minora. A Bishop may dispense with his Clerks. More Decretal, 1. 2. de of the like stuffe may be read in Pelagius his Rescript to the Bishop of Florence, and Reason rendred, Quia corpora ipsa hominum defecerunt; Because the very Bodies of men are grown weak. And if a Clerk embrace a Woman, it s to be expounded to bless her, cauf. 11.9.3.0.14. col. 1223. But for these and the like cases, the Tax of the Apostolical Chancery gives the richest Reasons, where any thing is dispens'd with for Money: A Book wherein (faith Espenceus) thou may'it learn more wickedness than in all the Summiss and Summaries of all Vices; set forth in the dayes of Pope Leo the 10th, who made that infamous Reply to Cardinal Benbus, Quantum nobis ac nostro catui profuit ea de Christo fabula, satis est saculis omnibus notum: It's known well enough to all Ages, how much that Fable of Christ hath benefited us and our Society. Valera, of the Well might the Abbot of Ursberg cry out, Gaude mater no stra Roma, &c. Fourthly, For Prohibition of Meats. Whereas the Apostle tells us, Whatever is fold in the Shambles, that eat, asking no question for Con-I.Cor. 10.25. science sake; and let no man judge you in meat or drink. For God hath Col. 2. 16. 1 Tim. 4.3,4 created them to be received with thanksgiving, of them which believe, and know the truth, and nothing to be refused. Such as believe in God, and are acquainted with the truth of his holy Word, make no scruple, as those who speak Lies in Hypocrisie, and are seducing Spirits. But the 1 Tim. 4.1.2. Canon-Law commands Fastings, as a tenth part of time consecrated to Decr. 3 part, de God out of the whole year, and against our eating of Flesh, assigns a confect, oil. s. pregnant citation out of the Apostle; Bonum est Uinum non bibere & District Carnes non comedere: It's good not to drink Wine, nor to cat Flesh. But col. 231. the connext words are left out, which referre to Offence in the Primitive times. But I shall not further touch this point: their Precepts and Practices stand opposite to the Holy Scriptures; but how whosfom to the Body to appoint their grand Faits, and abstinence from Flesh, in the Fuebs, Instite, Spring, let Fuchsius a learned Physician be Judge, out of Soranus and Medicin lib. Hippocrates. Quod verno tempere minime sit jejunandum: We ought lea. 2. cap. 9. least of all to fast in the Spring-time. And after he hath urg'd his Argument, he closes; Romanum Pontificem non solum effe Antichristum, &c. That the Roman Bishop is not onely Antichrist, in stating a Doctrine contrary to Christ, but A tiatrum, contrary to Physicians; to appoint a Fait then, and forbid flesh; when they have unanimously taught, we ought to eat more largely, and abstain from Fish. But it became the Man of Perdition, not onely to destroy our Souls but our Bodies also, by his Decrees, and our Purses also, (imitating Peter in fishing for Money at the Sea of Galilee, Matt. 17.27.) we must buy of him leave at that. time to eat Milk, and the like Viands.

But to finish this Paragraph; of such a Society as adde to, subtract from, dispense with, and over-rule the Laws of God; what should all the fober and pious judge, but what the Scripture hath Prophetically decipher'd them to be, and what the Church of England hath determined the Church of concerning them; that fince they have forfaken, and daily doe forfake England, in the Commandments of God, to erect and fet up their own Constitutions, the 2d part of we may well conclude, according to the Rule of Augustine, that the the Sermon for Whit-Sun-Bishops of Rome, and their adherents, are not the true Church of Christ, day, 4to. 6. 229. much less then to be taken as chief Heads and Rulers of the same, Whofoever, faith he, do diffent from the Scriptures concerning the Head, although they be found in all places, where the Church is appointed, yet are they not in the Church. A plain place, concluding directly against the Church of Rome.

God by Idolatry? Why is this Sin fo often called whoredom in Scripture? Does not Whoredom dissolve the bonds of Marriage, by our Lords own 2 Cor. 5. 15. determination? Did not the Lord give up the ancient Israel and Judah, and disavow them from being his Spouse, under the name of two notable Ezek. 23.4. Whores, Abolah and Abolibah: and if we rightly consider the Revelations, we find also this to be the very cause, why the Name of Where is: branded upon the forehead of a certain Congregation that was to appear in the World after the diffolution of Rome Imperial; and therefore God?

Idols, &c. This is that Generation which layes stumbling-blocks, both before Turks, Fews and Heathens. For haste, I le instance but in a few. Among the Four great Offences and Scandals, which the Grand Seignior Count Serini's told the German Ambassadour he took at the Roman Religion, one was, that they made their God in the Church; another, that they eat him in the Eucharist. What would he have said, had he heard of the Emperour Henry the 7th, his being poyloned out of the Sacrament Cup, by a Guelph of the Popes Faction, or as Dr. Donne expresses it more earnestly, To poyson their God, that they might poyson their Emperour? But how greatly the Turks are incensed against Idols, the Alcoran almost every where discovers, and Hottinger, Sands, and others. As for the Jews, how greatly they are scandalized, we may observe even in Hottinger, the Elder times, when the Second Council of Nice was fain to give a folemn though a forry answer to them, [οντως φοβερος ο λογος ο εντελάμβο τω Iogana, &c.] Verily, it was a terrible word, giving command to Israel, Not to make any carved Image, &c. and yet afterward to command Moses to make Cherubims, yet not as Gods, but for Rememoration onely, &c. Not to observe at present how they shift off the Second Commandement, as if belonging to Ifrael onely; nor what they further reply about the framing of Images, not to be ultimate Objects of Worship, but onely commemorative helps of Devotion: That which I would principally take notice of, is, that even then at the first folemn and Judicial publication of Image-doctrine, how greatly the Fews were provoked and offended; who were fo exact in the abhorrency of Images, Hottinger. jur. that they counted it unlawfull to look up to an Image in Civil use; and forbad the very Art of Painters and Statuaries: Nay, so nice and curious, that they scruple to pluck out a Thorn out of their feet, or gather up Money casually fallen, lest they should seem to stoop down in respect to any Image in fuch a place; and as to the present indelible continuance of the same hatred, Sir Edw. Sands hath given a large account; and how they call Popish Churches, because of the worship of Images in them. דרר התרפת, The Houses of Idolatry, or filthinesses, with some re-Hornbeck cont. markable Observations out of their Authors, may be seen in the Learned Judeos, proleg. As to the Pagans or Heathens, I might enlarge, but I shall onely referre to a story of the Americans, who being vex'd at the burning their Roman Cultûs wooden God, by Mr. Gage; replyed, That they knew it was a piece of Nullitas, p. 15. wood, and of it felf could not speak, but seeing it had spoken (as they Gage, Survey were all witnesses) this was a Miracle whereby they ought to be guided, and they did verily believe that God was in that piece of wood, which (fince the speech made by it) was more than ordinary wood, having God himself in it, and therefore deserved more Offerings and Adorations than those Saints (i.e. of the Spaniards) in the Church; who did never speak unto people. And to this may be annex'd, fince it touches upon Saint-Worship,) what Santta Clara infinuates, as a Reason why there's no Precept under the Gospel for Invocation of Saints, sc. Least the converted Gentiles should believe, that they were again reduced to the Suntia clara Worship of Men, (terrigenarum) and according to their old custome, Grania p. 323. should adore Saints not as Patrons but as Gods. To conclude this point, de invoc, Sand. fince God hath so severely forbidden the Worshipping of his Divine Majesty by Statues, Pictures, Sculptures or Images, and in all Ages given ample Evidences of his wrath against such Worshippers: Since the true Christian Religion by means of such titular and nominal pretenders to it. is greatly vilified and obstructed in its progress, as to the sincere Conversion both of Turks, Jews and Heathens; we may easily discern where that dangerous Society relides, that commit Fornication with Stocks and Stones, termed by the Church of England, in her excellent and zealous Homilies against Idolatry, "A foul, filthy, old withered Harlot, &c. that Homily of the "understanding her lack of natural and true beauty, and great loathsom-Church of Engl. (3.) Is that the true Church of Christ, that out of her own Invention, intermixt with Jewish and Heathenish Customs (as might be specified out of Blondus, Polydore Virgil, and others) hath patch'd up a pompous Worship, and bottom'd now upon that grand Fundamental of the Popes Authority, which (as 'tis faid of Feroboams,) is devised of their own 1 King. 1:233. hearts, and in comparison to the Institutions of Christ, and Scriptural, Apostolical, Primitive practice, is as it were but a Novelty, and of Yesterday. As to which, the History of the Church in most things gives us a precise account of their particular Rise and Genealogy; in the rest, we may evidently prove by the primitive Administrations, that then they were not, and afterward find, when they were in use and practice: though the exact moment of their intrusion be not determinable: Since they did, sensim sine sensu, secretly creep in, by the subtle artifice of fome, and the fequacious temper of others; and likewife, that the barbarous times of the Goths and Vandals, making fearfull havock of Learning, and the rare Monuments of Antiquity, hath destroyed many Records. But however, there are great heaps of Rubbish and Soil, that might eafily be fented up to their original Stable: Let's but instance in a few. The use of fine Linnen, Prayers in odd Numbers, Sanctuaries, Wax-candles, Worship towards the East, Ember-dayes, Consecrations, and the Bacchanalia, and other Feasts turned into the present Festivi-polyd. virgit. ties; their Origine, and multitudes of others, may be observed out of Bast. 1532. Whereas, one of Hist, Caridinals, their own could boldly and freely affert, "That though the Catholicks "accuse them of pinning their Faith upon Luther and Calvin, which is "false: for neither Luther nor Calvin instituted any new Religion. When they ask, Where was ours? we answer, Where theirs is not; Co. Instituted by our blessed Lord, preached by the holy Apostles, set forth in the facred Scriptures, and practifed by the Primitive Churches, and preferved all along by some notable Confessors of the Truth in every Age, to our present times. But theirs indeed, as it now stands, built upon the Lateran and Trent-Councils, in their main Fundamental, is but a meer Novelty, started up in the very dayes of Luther; and in other things wherein they diffent from us, is but of later invention, in comparison with the Primitive Apostolical times. And in how many grand and weighty particulars (befides their accessory and gaudy Ceremonies) they diffent from Scriptures, forfake the Apostles, run contrary to the Sanctions of ancient Councils, might be at large educed out of Authentick Records, aud demonstrated to be but a Novelty.

But as to the grand Fundamental points, we unanimously agree; we lay no other Foundation than the Rock Christ Jesus, and seriously profess the Scriptures to be our perfect Rule; and if any will teach us wherein we swerve, we are ready to yield Obedience to the Laws of Christ. Sothat (as the learned Crakanthorp determines) those persons, as Irenews, Justin Martyr, and Cy- Council, place pryan, &c. though in some things they might erre, yet because they thought those things to be taught in Scripture, which they made their Guide, and were ready to reform upon Eviction out of the Holy Scriptures, they no doubt dyed in the Faith: But he teaches the contrary of those that hold the Popes infallible Judgement in Causes of Faith, for that's none of God's Foundation, whereupon to ground our Belief or practice.

Truth is alwayes Homogeneal, confiltent and invariable. But here's Pope against Pope, Council against Council, one Society, Order and Fraternity against another: where shall a poor Christian (fistere pedem) fix his Resolution? If the sormer be true, the latter are undenyably false; if the latter be true, in what a case were the Fore-fathers of Old? in what state did they leave the world? how might this amaze the drowfie and inchanted world, did it but lawaken to muse seriously on this point onely? Have not Popes from the Chair determined against each other, and that in matters of Faith, and other weighty cases? How Sylverius and Vivilius clash'd and conflicted, in that grand point of the three Chapters agitated in the fifth general Council, is at large fet forth by the Learned Crakanthorp. Did not Pope Agatho determine quite contrary to Pope cat. Coursels Vigilius in the same case, as may be observed in comparing the Actions 2. 471. & althi. of the fifth and fixth Council. The Council of Constance determines thus: Est de necessitate salutis, Epistola Syno- credere Generale Concilium babere supremam Autoritatem in Ecclesia: It is of Necessity to Salvation, to believe that a General Council hath supreme Authority in the Church; yea over the Pope himself: And this is ratified by Pope Martin the 5th, as the Fathers of Basil set it forth to all the world; and yet you have seen before, how that the Lateran Council hath determined the quite contrarry, stating it in those very words, That it is necessary to Salvation, that all Christs Faithfull ones should be subject to the Roman Bishop, and in that very point, as having Authority over all Councils.

The Council of Orange, in many Canons, and that of Milevis, or Melci in Numidia, neer Algier, and the African Council (commonly so called) determine against Free-will. The Council of Gangra (now Congria) by the River Halys, determines Anathema to such as refuse to communicate with a married Priest. But these things are contradicted by Trent. The like might be shewn about Romes Jurisdiction, and communicating the Cup to the People, the Conception of the Bleffed Virgin, and feveral other Points, which would swell too large: Neither will time admit the several varieties and Confessions to be recited out of Augustin of Tarracena, found in Gratian; nor the private Oppositions of their Doctors, in numerous cases, collected by a Reverend person. I shall conclude this Section with an Observation about the Holy Bible it self; whose former Editions not fatisfying Sixtus 5. set forth a new one, ratified by his Edict, An. 1589. Then comes Clement 8. A. 1592. with another Breve, commanding another new Edition to be received with equal Veneration, and the contemners of it exposed to new Imprecations and Curses; and yet these two Editions of the holy Bible, differ in two two thousand places, and some so material, that they arise to flat contradictions, which is made evident by Dr. James, in his Bellum Papale, and the Edicts themselves, (because the Sixtine Bibles are hard to come by) are at large fet forth by the learned Amama. count, because they teach, profess and maintain the holy Doctrine and pure VVorship, which was left by our bleffed Lord and his Apostles, in the holy Scriptures? And this is not an accidental thing, falling out now and then when cruel ones fit in power, for 'tis by Principle: To so no higher than Trent, what great points of Primitive Christianity are smitten with terrible Anathema's? Nay, what smaller differences are made obnoxious to the same indignation? as to say Marriage is no Sacrament, and that it does not conferr Grace; or to fay the Church cannot dispense with the degrees of Consanguinity, or Affinity in Leviticus; or to fav that Matrimonial Causes belong not to Ecclesiastical Judges, &c. or if we enquire all the Causes that state men guilty of Heresie; what guilt would millions be involved in at that Tribunal? To deny the Supremacy of Rome, is absolute Herefie; and Pius the second has determined it to be Treason and Heresie to appeal to a future Council. In what a case stands the Gallican Church? Now in these and all other points they will be Judges in their own Cause; though sometimes they have afferted, That what touches all, ought to be approved by all, and Nicholas I. and Calestine 3. profess'd, that even Reason it self teaches, that our Enemies must not be our Judges; and the Canon-Law expressely, That the Pope himself must not judge in his own Cause: Yet they proceeded at Trent, though the Clergy of several Provinces were absent, and some Christian Princes disavowed it. Now what becomes of persons thus determined against and excommunicated? why the Canon-Law dispatches the matter speedily: Non arbitramur, &c. We do not esteem them for Murderers, who burning with zeal of the Catholick Mother-Church, should happen to kill any that are excommunicated; and belides, Hereticks are reckoned in fo black a Catalogue, that Faith is not to be kept with them; and although Molanus and others feem to differ, that's but a private Opinion, they but plow upon the Ocean, and write upon the Sea-fands, fo long as it stands in force in the Canon-Law. Absolutos se noverint, &c. Tit. 7 c. 16. col. Let them know that they are absolved from the Obligation of Fealty, Homage and all Duty, whoever were held bound by any Covenant, strengthened by whatsoever band, to such as are manifestly lapsed into Herefie: and the Council of Constance hath defined, That the safe conduct of Princes granted to such, ought to be no barre to Ecclesiastical Procedures; Quocunque vinculo se astrinxerint; By whatever Band they have obliged themselves. And then let's observe a ruled Case laid down in the same Canon-Law: Frustra sibi sidem quis postulat, &c. In vain does any man require Faith to be kept to himself by him, to whom he refuseth to keep the Faith plighted by himself. Now what brave work would these things make in the world, since all the Reformed Churches lie prostrate under the Thunderbolts of the Roman Capitol? First censured for Hereticks, and then no punishment is severe enough: What will become of Christian or of Humane Society, if any Church differ from their Sentiments? And what fad Havock has been made in the Earth.

the red lines in the Annals and Martyrologies of most Churches, doe abundantly testifie; even for such things as are consonant to the holy Scriptures. How unmanly and brutish, to use Blowes instead of Reasons! yea, how devilish, to persecute men for keeping the Commandments of God! They are of the feed of the red Dragon, Rev. 12, 17. How vain, to think to conquer mens spirits by Croziers turn'd into Swords, and Keyes into Guns! Persecution indeed may turn some, but 'tis into Hypocrites; that man's never gain'd, but exasperated. That's a declining Cause that can't support it self by the same means by which it was at first propagated. Did the Apostles so, whose lines ran to the ends of the Earth, and conquered so great a part of the Roman World to Christ by Eph. 6. the Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God? Good Bernard said once to Eugenius, what do you use a Sword for, you are commanded to ad Eugen, to Theath it, (as Peter) do the work of an Evangelilt, and feed the Sheep? 1426. Our Lord did not bid Peter feed his Sheep with Iron and Steel, or his Lambs with twifted Wire; though Baronius faid, Peter's Ministery hath two parts, To feed, and to kill. The more Israel was afflicted in Egypt, the more they multiplyed and grew, Exod. 1. 12. Rome never lost ground so fast, as since they used the silly Engine of Persecution to gain it. Mankind is not devoid of Humanity, and Christianity has Nobler Maxims than Phalaris; such as flow from that Pal. 45, 3. Prince of Might, Elect, who bids the world learn of him, for he is meek and lowly; who rebuked the Apostles for desiring that fire might descend upon the Samaritans, Luk. 9. 54. and so is his bleffed Church a flight of Doves, and a flock of Sheep, who by the generous power of the Spirit of God in Conversion, doe Ponere id bruti, lay down the brutish Tyger at the foot of the Prince of Peace, and, of ferocious and favage by Nature, become mild, meek and peaceable, forgiving and forbearing one Eph. 4. 32. another, because God for Christs sake hath forgiven them.

But how unhappy are they that leave the Posts of Wisdom, and take Sanctuary at the Gates of Hell, and adde this Note, (belides Purity of Doctrine, VVorship and Discipline) whereby the Church may be known, Viz. Its perilous and troublesome state, and shew to be of the world: As our Lord foretold, In the World ye shall have tribulation, Joh. 15. but in me ye shall have peace. Let's then briefly recapitulate and conclude, That fince there are to be found fuch as in fundamental Doctrines determine contrary to Christ and the bleffed Apostles, such as by Idolatry have broken Covenant with God, and give even the VVorship of Latria to Creatures, due to him alone; can fuch without Repentance and Reformation enter into the Rev. 14. 10, 11. Kingdom of Heaven? fuch as form a VV or ship to God out of their own Inventions and Novelties, fuch as contradict themselves in very material and important matters of Salvation; fuch as blasphemously derogate from the Glory and Honour of Jesus Christ; such as pesecute them who profess and endeavour to follow onely the Apostolical Rules, and the confonant practice of the primitive Churches? Though they may pretend to a Unity and Uniformity, yet does it not refult into a League and Conspiracy against the Truth? The Ship of the Church is in danger to split against such a Rock as this: Can we judge such Societies and Communions to be true Churches of Christ; and not rather consent with the Determination of the Church of England, to the contrary? 2d part,

> If Charles the Great, Alcuinus, Agobardus, Bertram, Bernard, Abbot Joachim, Peter de Vinets, Marsilius, Dantes, Bradwardin, Petrarch, Mantuan, Gerson, Clemongis, Theodoricus de Nyem, and the compiler of Fasciculus rerum expetendarum, and many others down along the darker times, might bring in their suffrages in various points; It might be justly feared, that the late Abbot Gualdi would be acquitted from rashness in concluding that, "Amongst all the Churches since the Beginning of the "World, there has not been found that unconstancy and confusion as in "the Church of Rome, so many Antipopes, Schismes, Heresies, Contro-"versies, Confusions, Suspensions, Persecutions, so many false Opinions, "Scandals, Tyrannies, and intestine Quarrels, as there. But we will rather turn these complaints into unfaigned prayer for their Salvation, and wish them no more hurt than to our own Souls, that the great God would give them Repentance to the acknowledging of the Truth.

III. Since those are true marks of the Church of God, which the 2 Corollary. Church of Fngland hath exhibited, and have been in some measure infifted upon; we may conclude, that the people of God in Britain (bleffed be his holy Name) are in the happy possession of the true Apostolical Doctrine and Worship, according to the holy Scriptures, and consonant to what the true Church of God hath held in all Ages, fince the Lord Jesus, the Apostle and High-priest of our Profession, hath left this Heavenly Commission of the Father with his Church.

If this be true, the Britains receiving the Gospel An. 37. must then anticipate Peters coming to Rome, seven years, and erecting his Seat, and ordering a Church there, eight years. Again, Marianus Scotus brings him to Rome, An. 47. and then Britains Converfion antedates theirs by ten years. But all this and much more that might be urged, lies upon the Supposition of Peters being there at all, which many of the Learned greatly question. For Marsilius of Padua argues, that Peter was not there, and that Paul was the first Bilhop of Rome. But these things impeach not ou Cause at all, forasimuch as all the Apostles had the same Commission with parity of Honour and Pow-

If then the British Church were planted before ever Peter came to Rome, let's call to mind that ancient Rule, Omnes Ecclesia huic subjecta manent à quo institute sunt: All Churches remain subject to him, (i.e. in his Successors) by whom they were instituted. And this is not so much a private, as a publick Sanction of the general Council of Ephefus, in the case of the Cypriots; who having received the Faith from Barnabas, yet were much molested by the Bishops of Antioch; Concerning whom the Ephesine Fathers made a Decree, and extended it to all Churches: Nullus Episcoporum, &c. aliam Provinciam que non antea & ab initio fuit sua, sub suam, &c. manum trahat: "Let no Bishop "bring under his power another Province, which was not his before, and "from the beginning.] This is yet more insisted upon by Zonaras, in his Comment upon the 8th Canon of that Council, and by Balfamon in his Scholea; and what is there spoken of Cyprus, some have applyed also to Creet upon the same ground: but it's not time to discuss that, or of other Provinces. Suffice this Canon to our case; That since Britain received the first glorious Light of true Faith from other Disciples of our Lord, and not from Peter, and was converted some years before ever the common Tradition of Peters coming to Rome can be cleared: This Rule totally exempts us from all Jurisdiction pretended by them; since we are (upon these grounds) evidently reducible to some of the Asian or Greek Churches, in respect to the ancient Rites of Worship, conseally corp, n2. cording with theirs, and oppugnant to Rome. This was the Quarrel between the British Bishops, and Austin the Monk, as Venerable Bede relates, in multis, in many things, but especially in the celebration of Easter, and Ministration of Baptism. This troubled the North British Churches; about which very thing the Synod at Whithy was called, spelm. Concil.p. An. 664. and there Hilda and her affociates averred their customs from John, Philip, Polycarp, &c. of the Eastern Communion. Neither were these matters wholly silenced as to the Welsh Britains, till the year 762. More might be faid also about Lucius and Ethelberts times, that the last especially was but an attempt to yoke the British Churches under the Dominion of Rome, which they stoutly refisted. And it might be evidenced, that Christian Religion was initiated among the Saxons before

But fay, 1. We received our Light first from Rome, (which is false;) and grant, 2. The Dominion of Peter to be Universal; and yield, 3. The Bishop of Rome to be his undoubted Successor; and that, 4. There are no flawes in the Old Chair; and that, 5. This Bishop is invested by Christ with all the Priviledges of an Apostle; which are all precarious and begg'd: Yet, if they apostatize from the Doctrine and Faith of Peter, must all other Churches be censured for separating from them who separate from Christ, from Peter and from Paul? We profess to hold unfeignedly with Old Rome, whatever it held according to Pauls 1 Pet. 5. 13. Epistle to the Romans, nay and with the Church in Babylon, (possibly in Basunder. neer Memphis,) in whatever they retained of Peters Doctrine: When they are return'd to Peter and Paul's Doctrine, &c. then let them treat with us; but else, if any depart, that old Maxim should be refresh'd, Causa, non Separatio Schismaticum facit: 'Tis not Separation, but the Cause that determines Schisme. But to draw to an end: How greatly ought we to resound his Praises, who hath in all Ages, through the depth of the darkelt times, conserved the true Faith and Doctrine all along, and of his great Mercy conveyed to us authentick Testimonies and Evidences, notwithstanding the Barbarism and Violence of several Ages against the Truth. Nay, it might be shewn, that God hath not left us without a Lamp of Testimony to the most material Points, even here in Britain; but that it would arise to a little Chronicle, not proper for this Place and Time, but obvious to be observed, in the several Hints and Reslections upon what they called Errours, in several publick Synods in this Island, even till the time of Wickliff, when the Truth broke out more gloriously, and still shineth in great Lustre, blessed be his most holy Name.

IV. Hath Almighty God, of his infinite goodness, so graciously hitherto preserved his Church, and bestowed upon the Reformed Countreys. his most holy Bible, translated with great care and diligence out of the Sacred Originals into our Mother-tongues, and poured out that Grace to endeavour to Reform, according to his Heavenly Directions thereinrecorded; let us give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip, and hold fast that which we have received from Heaven, that no man take away our Crown. Let's take heed of Wantonness, of resisting or abusing the blessed Gospel. or any way walking unworthy of it, left God provoked by our Unholiness, should remove the Golden Candlestick into Corners, or to other: Nations. Let's take great heed of creeping corruptions, and of those Communions that erre in Faith, departing from the Head, from the Scriptures, from the Doctrine of the Apostles, from Purity of Worship, lest if we partake of their Sins, we be involved also in their Plagues. Come out of her, my people, fayes the Lord; and having been obedient to the Heavenly Vision, let us keep our Garments unspotted, that men fee not our shame, as we love the Salvation of our Souls, and the Glory of the Son of the Living God, the onely true Basis and Rock of his Church. 6 Corallary. VI. In the fixt and last place. All the true living Members of the holy Church of Christ, may be greatly comforted from this Text and Do-Étrine; for though the Church will never be fully quiet and at rest, while the Gates of Hell stand undemolisht, but will be still exposed to surious Affaults, to boysterous waves, tempestuous storms, direfull persecutions, and fecret undermining Herefies, to their Molimina and Blandimenta: Sometimes to fierce Oppositions and flattering Inticements, and sometimes to both together, yet herein stands the Faith and Patience of the Saints. Therefore all gracious Christians must be content, and resolved to exercise themselves in this spiritual Warfare, and by fervent Prayer call down Auxiliary help from Heaven, whereby the invincible and omnipotent God is humbly implored, and Legions of holy Angels fent in for affistance. Yet,

(1) Let holy Souls be comforted in this, that no Weapon formed against Mount Zion shall finally prosper. The Virgin Daughter of Zion , 37.22. hath despised them, and laughed them to scorn, the Daughter of Ferusalem hath shaken her bead at them. For as the Golden-mouth'd Preacher Chrysoft. The Church of God, though she be not alwayes so openly visible, as that all the World shall cry Hosanna to her splendor and glory, yet she growes more numerous, holy and stable, by her troubles: Her Enemies may feem for a time iguer, valere, but shall not rangoly, pravalere, as 'tis promis'd in the Text; to be potent and strong, but shall

They shall lick the dust like a scrpent, and move out of their holes like worms of the earth: they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and fear because of him. There is a time, and it hastens, that this Rock shall dash them in pieces, and they shall become like the chaffe of the Summer-threshing-stoores, and the wind shall carry them away, and no place be found for them.
